D. & C. Headquarters to be Established at South Arm.

Willis Ward, president of the Detroit & Charlevoix R'y, has ordered the general offices of that company to be transferred from Deward to the terminal of the railway at South Arm. Contractor Harry Price has already begun work on same and it is expected that the offices will be established here about the first of September. They will be built just north of the depot. The change will add several miles to East Jordan. Clark Haire, general manager of the railway, will occupy the E. C. Plank residence, the latter gentleman taking possession of his newly built home. W. C. Haire, auditor for the company will occupy the Wm Harrington residence. Mr. Harrington removing to his house in South Arm. The removal of the offices here has been under contemplation for some time, and it is expected that the railways business will be conducted much easier at this end of the line than at its present place.

"A Royal Slave"

Opens The Season

It would be hard to find a better attraction to open the Fall business with than "A Royal Slave" which comes to Loveday Opera House Thursday night Aug 4th. As with their advertising, so it is with the quality of the actors, scenery, wardrobe and other equipments, the very best is none too good or expensive for Gordon and Bennett and by giving their patrons the best they can find they have been and continue to be rewarded by receiving excellent patronage wherever they go. This season they launch two companies in a new spectacular production. "The Holy City" which promises to be one of the greatest scenic productions ever attempted. Seats for "A Royal Slave" will be on sale at Boosinger Bros. Store next Monday morning. Prices 25, 35, 50 and 75 cents.

Special Prices in the I. C. S.

The summer is the ideal time of the year for study. Before and after work you have long hours of daylight, you can study in the broad open air. In the winter you have to study in close hot rooms by artificial light, the children have to stay in and their noise disturbs you. In the summer you have none of these annoyances and in an hours study you can accomplish more and understand more than in a whole evenings work in the winter time beside a hot stove. The training given by the I. C. S. is different than any other school gives, for all the instructors are experts in their various lines and they give you in a few months time the training that has cost them years of labor, experiment and triumph over failure.

NEW BRIDGE AT TRAVERSE.

Traverse City Record.—John Monroe of East Jordan has a force of men building a scow on the river bank in the vicinity of West Front street bridge preparatory to building the concrete bridge at this point. Mr. Monroe has received the piling for the work, there being nine carloads of this material already on hand. He is building a scow 40x18 feet upon which he will place his pile driving machinery and engine. The scow is being built substantially as he will leave it in the river permanently. He stated to the Record that he would put the best kind of machinery he could buy on it. His machinery is already on the road and he has been looking for it for over a week and cannot account for the delay. As soon as the scow is completed work will commence on the bridge.

Begin At Once.

Are you ambitious to enter a better paid calling than the one you are in? Enroll now in the I. C. S. course adapted to your advancement. Do not wait for "better times." If you are working long hours at a low salary isn't that the strongest of reasons for you to prepare for something better? What hundreds of thousands of others have done, you can do if you are willing to study part of your spare time. If you do this and apply the pointers given you by experts you can not help but succeed. A year from today you can be earning from $100 to $1000 per month. We have over 1000 ex-students earning more than $10,000 a year.

Kalkaska Air Ship

Is It a Dream or In Fact a Reality?

Kalkaska to St. Louis on the wings of the wind. A thousand miles in twenty hours by airship!

A dream maybe—but yet a dream which to the mind of a shrewd, kindly faced old man of that village is no dream but a plain fact, needing only time to bring it to fulfillment.

For nearly a year W. C. Freeman of Kalkaska, stirred by the offer of a reward of $100,000 for the speediest dirigible airship, to be shown at the St. Louis exposition by September 1 of this year, has spent his time in a little red shop on the outskirts of the town while he and a corps of half dozen assistants have worked away on the machine which Mr. Freeman firmly believes will revolutionize transportation methods. Six weeks more will see it finished and ready for trial and then: Ho, for St. Louis and the capital prize.

Mr. Freeman's invention is an airship pure and simple, driven by wings and propelled by steam. Cutting entirely away from Langley and his inclined planes, from Santos Dumont and his balloons, from a dozen others whose theories have failed when put to the practical test, the Kalkaska man has hit upon what he believes is a new principle, and so confident is he of success that he is willing to stake not only his whole large fortune but his life itself on the result.

A visitor to the Freeman shop is apt on the first place to be somewhat impressed by the secrecy which shrouds every movement of the inventor and his assistants in the shop where the work is done. All doors are locked and the windows fitted with shutters, and though occasionally a man gains entrance who has no plausible business there, he usually stays only long enough to get out.

The visitor finds himself in a long, high room, crowded at one end with whirring steel drills and rasping saws and filled with the odor of stale lubricating oil and sawdust, while at the other end, raised on blocks and supported by frames, rests a little squat cigar-shaped structure with two long arms reaching out from its body on either side as in readiness to grasp the first thing touched. Each pair of these arms is joined at its extremities. Rising from the joints to a height of six feet are vertical steel shafts, and other vertical shafts are set midway between the ends of the arms and the squat body. These four shafts, when the machine is completed, are to carry the horizontal wings, and each shaft will be driven by an engine built into the arm on which it rests.

The wings themselves at first sight remind one of nothing so much as windmill blades, set horizontally instead of vertically and divided into series one above the other on the vertical shaft, six blades in a series and four series on the shaft, each blade in a series being parallel with the others.

The engines, which Mr. Freeman has himself built are marvelous little compound affairs of brass and steel, so small that you could almost slip one of them in a side pocket. But each is capable of developing five horse-power, and with three cylinders set at the corners of an equilateral triangle there is no dead center possible. The boilers, of which there are two, also built of Crescent steel by Mr. Freeman himself, are of six horse-power capacity each, but the wonderful efficiency of the little engines is expected to develop more than that. The airship when completed will be forty-eight feet over all, the end wing ten feet in diameter and the others twelve and the cigar shaped car nearly sixteen feet long, three feet in diameter and four feet high. All of the frame work is of seasoned white basswood.

Whether the inventor's theories will stand the test of trial remains to be seen, his purpose being, as soon as the machine is finished to give it private and public trials here and then, if it works satisfactorily, to attempt the aerial journey to St. Louis. Certain it is, that nothing in the world is more sure than Mr. Freeman's confidence in his own success.

"Why, I've had this idea in my head for forty years," he said. "Of course my machine will fly."

To study for forty years on one project implies that the man who does it must be getting along in years. Mr. Freeman is nearly 74. He looks 60, but he is today capable of doing as much in a day as the majority of his employes of 20 or 30. He has been a patron of the patent office all his life. As the head of the Freeman Manufacturing company, the principal industry in that village, he employs 300 men in the manufacture of wooden-ware novelties. Many of the machines used in his plant are of his own invention, while at the Chicago world's fair he was given a gold medal for having produced one of the forty inventions, which, in the opinion of the fair committee had worked the greatest revolution in mechanical methods in recent years. Mr. Freeman's invention was a machine for cutting potato mashers and wooden spoons and in his factory today it does in ten hours the work which required one man a month to do before.

Naturally, the inventor is well-to-do. "I've put about $4,000 into my airship thus far," he says, "and I'm just well started."

He means to build it, and if, after that he reaches the coveted goal, his name will go into history. If he fails he will at least have the satisfaction of proving his theories groundless.

An Illinois Peach Orchard. (Farmers' Review.)

As I have a little leisure, I think I will give the readers of the Farmers' Review a sketch of our peach orchard of thirteen acres. Not that peaches pay very largely except to improve our health by keeping us out of doors. But when we do get a crop, oh, my, how we do enjoy them! How we do long to fill up our jars, cans and crocks with the luscious fruit, to be used in the years to come. Crawford peaches do not do well with us, as they are shy bearers. However, the trees generally bear a few each year. Some of them are large and fine, but the rest are medium to small and are one-sided. The Elberta is also a shy bearer here, but forty miles away is said to bear well. The tree seems more hardy than any other kind, and the fruit needs no thinning. The fruit, when fully developed, is beautiful, being long and yellow. But ours were of a different yellow than those shipped from the south, and we purchased our stock from three different nurseries, showing that climate makes the difference in color. Possibly if we had got our stock from the same locality in the south where light-colored Elbertas are being grown, the trees would bear light and bright-colored yellow peaches here. Our Triumph peaches did well and the people that bought them said they were good enough for them, but the trees have fruited for only two years. I see that some people say they do not do so well every year, but are sometimes very disappointing. The years that our trees bore, the fruit was very large and fine and bright reddish-yellow in color. The young trees were just as full as they need be and the fruit had to be thinned. They do not rot easily after being picked. They may also be left hanging on the trees for several days after being ripe and still will hold their texture. When fully ripe people like them very much for canning, as they do not adhere to the pit.

Alexander peaches do well with us, but they rot easily and must be picked as soon as ripe. As they are clingy, they are not so good to can as are the freestone, though the clings are ahead of almost any other kind, as to quality. In canning, the Alexanders seem to lose some of their richness in cooking. But they are very rich and choice and are best eaten out of hand. When ripe we think they are even ahead of the beautiful Greensboro, which ripens at about the same time. The latter will delight anyone that is an enthusiast over peaches. But the birds like the Greensboro peaches so much that they have to be picked as soon as ripe, or the birds will mutilate them. After a bird has picked a peach, the bees get at it and make a large hole in a short time.

The Champion is our ideal for a white peach, as it is very rich and luscious. It is perhaps not so attractive to the eye as some, because, not so highly colored. But our Champion peaches are not all alike. On some of the trees the peaches will all be large, with red cheeks, while on other trees the peaches are only of medium size. On the old trees the Champion peaches are the smallest of all. Our Champion trees come from different nurseries, which, I think, is the cause of their not being alike. Budding from the best is what we are now doing, since our first orchard was destroyed. We think every orchardist should learn how to bud his own trees, if he wants the best. We mark our best while they are in fruiting, and when budding time comes, take our buds from them. The Champion is a very fine peach for canning. The juice is very thick and rich, and the peach does not fall to pieces as much as some others. The Crosby is a fine peach when handled right, but it needs much thinning or it will be small. But it bears when any other tree bears, and on that account is a tree that should be largely planted. The Crosbys are not all alike and differ very much in the quality of their fruit. Birds never work on Crosby peaches because they are so woolly, and also because the fruit is late, ripening about the middle of September.

As peaches often fail, we should try to grow only the ones that generally succeed in our locality, and this takes a good many years to find out. In our first orchard only about one-half of the 1,600 trees bore enough to pay. Some of the peaches were little and scattering; others were large but few on a tree. Others ripened up all at once and could hardly be gotten from the tree before half rotten; others fell from the tree almost as soon as ripe. These would usually rot so quickly that they could hardly be marketed before being rotten, especially in a rainy time.

To make peaches pay, we find it quite essential to make a study of them, and also of their culture. Our first orchard was very much bothered with borers, but since the hard freeze that killed so many trees we have seen nothing of the borers, and are wondering if the freeze did not kill the borers, too. We find the best way to deal with borers is to mound up the trees in spring, and also once or twice each spring and fall go to each tree and look for borers, which may quickly be found by the lumps of wax at the bases of the trees. These are filled with little dark spots the size of the head of a pin, or smaller. Dig them out with a sharp-pointed pocket knife. Most of the borers are found at the collar of the tree just below the ground. Generally they eat their way under the bark and go to one side or down the tree, which trench we must dig open to find the borer. The forks and sides of the tree need also to be looked over, and the borers dug out if much wax is exuding, as a borer in the forks will destroy the bark and cause the tree to split down. The wounds made by the borers and by digging them out should be healed over by a wax made of rosin and old beeswax.

Warren Co., Ill.—Mrs. L. C. Artell.

The Spraying of Plants.
Less than forty years ago the spraying of plants with insecticides or fungicides was unknown, and, if even thought of, were not seriously contemplated as being a part of good husbandry, says Professor F. M. Webster. A spraying machine in those days would have excited almost as much curiosity as would a telephone or a modern typewriter. There was, indeed, less need for such a machine west of the Allegheny Mountains at least. The need of insecticides and fungicides, and the machinery necessary for their application, has come to us with the advance of civilization and followed the destruction of the forests, the prairie flora, the wild animals and the dusky aborigine. They are the outcome, either direct or indirect, of our more intense civilization and must not only be adopted by the successful fruit grower or farmer, as a part of his business, but he must improve upon them, precisely as he improves upon the varieties of his fruits and the breeds of his domestic animals, and for the same reasons. He must produce, continually, more perfect fruit, more desirable vegetables, more tender and juicy beef, and better horses, else he cannot dispose of them profitably to his fellow man, who needs them and is able to pay for whatever he needs.

The Composition of Wood.
Wood is made up chiefly of carbon, oxygen, and hydrogen. When perfectly dry, about half its weight is carbon, and half oxygen and hydrogen, in almost the same proportion as in water. It contains also about 1 part in 100, by weight, of earthy constituents, and nitrogen to the same amount. When wood is burned, all these materials disappear into the air except the earthy constituents. Now, the nitrogen and water taken up by the roots were originally in the air before they reached the ground. It is true; therefore, that when wood is burned those parts of it which came from the air go back into it in the form of gas, while those which came from the soil remain behind in the form of ashes.—Gifford Pinchot.

The Silo Profitable.
Last week one of the subscribers of the Farmers' Review, Mr. C. I. Casey of Lake county, Illinois, brought into the office a sample of excellent silage. It was neither too acid nor too dry, and showed that it had been cut at just the right time. This shows the difference between the silo now and fifteen years ago. Then, the man that built a silo knew so little about the time when the silage corn should be cut that he generally made a mistake the first time and cut too early or too late. His too-early cut corn made a very sour silage, and his corn cut too late resulted in the silage that heated. It generally took him some years to learn just when to cut his corn to get good silage. Before learning how, by experience, a good many men got discouraged and gave up the silo. But that condition exists no longer. The agricultural world is now full of knowledge of how to build silos and fill them. The beginner can thoroughly inform himself as to time when the corn should be cut, and make no mistake. He need not therefore experiment for years before being able to get a good quality of silage.

The silo referred to above was built this last fall and was completed just in time to save the corn crop, which had been caught by the frost. The silo is of the stave variety, 16 feet in diameter, 22 feet high and will hold about 100 tons of silage. Mr. Casey tells us that his silo is set 15 inches in the ground and has a cement foundation and floor. The cost was about as follows: lumber, $80; hoops, $24.50, cement, $5; labor, $10; total, $119.50.—Farmers' Review.

Cattle Feeding in Tennessee.
Prof. Andrew M. Soule, director of the Tennessee Experiment Station, says: "The feeding of cattle has not been engaged in as extensively in the middle south as the natural conditions would warrant owing to the frequent ill-founded belief that the winter feeding of cattle could not be made a profitable industry because of the limited supply of corn available for feeding purposes. There is no reason why much more corn should not be grown without increasing the present area by improving the culture now given the land, though if the present corn crop were properly supplemented by the judicious use of cotton seed meal, it would already suffice to feed many thousand head of cattle that are now shipped out as store cattle. The soil and climate of the state are peculiarly well adapted to the production of winter cereals, such as barley, oats, wheat and rye."

Nests should be made so that they can be taken out and cleaned in any way. The litter in them should be frequently renewed.

The business of poultry raising is a very large one, and the annual aggregate production of eggs and poultry meat is enormous.

Magnificent Art Collection Donated to French Museum.
Who is the Parisian who does not know M. Daisteau? Who is the lover of art, of the beautiful and the curious in craftsmanship of the past who would not know M. Daisteau?
M. Daisteau has just made a wonderful present to the Louvre. Instead of procrastinating and making a will some day by which he would donate some of his beautiful things to the Key of Remarkable Style and Workmanship.

Belonged to Charles IX. His motto appears in the handle.
Louvre, he has cheerfully separated himself from a part of his treasures during his lifetime to make the art-loving world happier.

The great key shown belonged to Charles IX. You may see his motto on the banderole. It is of curious workmanship and is an historical piece of the highest interest and of remarkable style.
Notice the heavy and yet graceful intertwining of the banderole and the other twisted sections of the handle on its stanch supports that when the key is upright take on the appearance of substantial foundations, and the elaboration of the intricacies of the key-blade.—New York Sun.

A Gibraltar Discovery.
An interesting relic has just been fished up from the bottom of Gibraltar Harbor, having been accidentally discovered by a diver in the course of some operations. It is a gun about nine feet in length, and, owing to the fine quality of the gun metal, it is in an excellent state of preservation. It must have been quite a "Long Tom" in its day. It is reasonable to suppose that the gun was used against the Rock during the great siege (1779-83), and that the ship from which it was fired was sunk by the fire from the fortress. After lying for 120 years at the bottom of the sea, the gun is brought to the surface, to reveal its nationality, name and age. It bears, besides the arms of Spain, beautifully embossed, the following inscriptions: "El Telegone. Violati Fulmina Regis. Philip V. Hispaniar. Rex. Elisab. Farn. Hispan. Regis. Vole-Fabet Fecit, Sevilla. Anno D 1726."

A thin slice of chalk, greatly magnified.

The Arabic Day.
The Arabic day begins at sunset, and the particular one which begins any month is that on which the new moon is first seen after sunset. Apart from the cloudiness of the sky there may be and generally is considerable difficulty in seeing the crescent, just as it must always be in the radiance of the set sun and consequently there is always uncertainty for some time after sunset whether the day just begun is to be reckoned with the last month or as the first of a new month.

Given Fair Warning.
The other day the East Monkton, Vt., correspondence of the Burlington Free Press contained this grim notice: "The Man Who stole the kerosene Oil from the Thomas saw mill and put Water in its place, can settle it by leaving town, by Jan. 13, 1904. Other Ways, there Will be, another Method, used."

Winter and Summer Air.
The air contracts when cold, so that in one breath of 20 below atmosphere one gets much more oxygen than one can imbibe with the same amount of lung effort when the thermometer shows 90 in the shade.

Horse's Hind Legs Frozen.
A horse broke through ice in Waterbury, Conn. When he was drawn out of the water it was found that both his hind legs had been frozen together.

RELY ON PE-RU-NA TO FIGHT CATARRH, COUGHS, COLDS, GRIP

Peruna for coughs and colds in children.

SISTERS OF ST. JOSEPH

Use Pe-ru-na for La Grippe and Winter Catarrh.

IN EVERY country of the civilized world the Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of the charges committed to their care, but they also minister to their bodily needs.

Whenever coughs, or colds, la grippe or pneumonia make their appearance among the children these Sisters are not disconcerted, but know exactly the remedies to apply.

With so many children to take care of and to protect from climate and disease, these wise and prudent Sisters have found Peruna a never-failing safeguard.

medicines, and gives me no pleasure to add my praise to that of thousands who have used it. For years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, all remedies proving valueless for relief. Last spring I went to Colorado, hoping to be benefited by a change of climate and while there a friend advised me to try Peruna. After using two bottles I found myself much improved. The remains of my old disease being now so slight, I consider myself cured, yet for a while I intend to continue the use of Peruna. I am now treating another patient with your medicine. She has been sick with malaria and troubled with leucorrhoea. I have no doubt that a cure will be speedily effected.

Sisters of St. Joseph, of the Deaf Mute Institute, 1840 Cass Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes:
"We appreciate Peruna very much. It certainly does good work with catarrh and also with colds and la grippe. We have faith in Peruna and have inspired many others with the same. We do not like to be without it. It has certainly kept us from being very sick. It did a world of good last winter for our little ones. Thanking you for your kindness to us and our afflicted ones, we remain, yours gratefully,
SISTERS OF ST. JOSEPH."

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters from all over the United States. A recommendation recently received from a Catholic institution in Detroit, Mich., reads as follows:
Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:
"Dear Sir—'The young girl who used the Peruna was suffering from laryngitis, and loss of voice. The result of the treatment was most satisfactory. She found great relief, and after further use of the medicine we hope to be able to say she is entirely cured.'—Sisters of Charity."

This young girl was under the care of the Sisters of Charity and used Peruna for catarrh of the throat, with good results as the above letter testifies.
From a Catholic institution in Central Ohio comes the following recommendation from the Sister Superior:
"Some years ago a friend of our institution recommended to us Dr. Hartman's Peruna as an excellent remedy for the influenza of which we then had several cases which threatened to be of a serious character.
"We began to use it and experienced such wonderful results that since then Peruna has become our favorite medicine for influenza, catarrh, cold, cough and bronchitis."

Another recommendation from a Catholic institution of one of the Central States written by the Sister Superior reads as follows:

"A number of years ago our attention was called to Dr. Hartman's Peruna, and since then we have used it with wonderful results for grip, coughs, colds and catarrhal diseases of the head and stomach.
"For grip and winter catarrh especially it has been of great service to the inmates of this institution."

One-half of the diseases which afflict mankind are due to some catarrhal degeneration of the mucous membrane lining some organ or passage of the body.

A remedy that would act immediately upon the congested mucous membrane restoring it to its normal state, would consequently cure all these diseases. Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, whether it be in the head, throat, lungs, stomach, kidneys or pelvic organs. A remedy that will cure it in one location will cure it in all locations. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Thompson, of Lillydale, N.Y., Grand Worthy Wise Templar, and Member of W.C.T.U., tells how she recovered by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am one of the many of your grateful friends who have been cured through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and who can today thank you for the fine health I enjoy. When I was thirty-five years old, I suffered severe backache and frequent bearing-down pains; in fact, I had womb trouble. I was very anxious to get well, and reading of the cures your Compound had made, I decided to try it. I took only six bottles, but it built me up and cured me entirely of my troubles. My family and relatives were naturally as gratified as I was. My niece had heart trouble and nervous prostration, and was considered incurable. She took your Vegetable Compound and it cured her in a short time, and she became well and strong, and her home to her great joy and her husband's delight was blessed with a baby. I know of a number of others who have been cured of different kinds of female trouble, and am satisfied that your Compound is the best medicine for sick women."—MRS. ELIZABETH H. THOMPSON, Box 105, Lillydale, N.Y. $5000 for full original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

DOLLARS AND CENTS.

It's dollars and cents that rule the world With greed as the ruling big-brother. But there's a banner that's still unfurled With hearts as the fountain head— The banner of love for a fellow man And hope for a zeal intense To keep humanity in the van And discount dollars and cents.

For dollars and cents won't always win And wield such a potent sway; There's something else that is coming in And love will avail some day. Old clubs are trumps at the present time In all the different marts, But coming sure is the world a rhyme, And the trumps will all be hearts.

For there's nothing else in life, my boy, That nature's art so deftly, Can bring you sunshine, hope, and joy, Like the throb-beat on your left; It's all there is in the world of strife With trials and griefs—triumphs— You can take some love at the close of life. But you can't take dollars and cents. Henry B. Chester, in "Chicago Inter Ocean."

THE STORY THAT TOLD AND SOLD

By O. E. ULNESS

Copyrighted, 1903, by The Authors Publishing Company

Dear Miss Stanley—In case please find check for your story, "The Price of Fame." We will gladly consider anything else that you may care to submit. Yours truly,

The Arcadian.

The recipient of this letter could hardly believe her eyes. It was the first remuneration she had received for her work during long years of struggle. Her successful effort was the story of a woman who had sacrificed love to win fame in her chosen profession, in which she succeeded. She reaped wealth, fame and honor, but her heart was not satisfied. The man whom she had rejected, but still loved, was now bound to another. She had paid "the price of fame."

The same day on which Agatha Stanley received payment for her story, she read in the society column of a daily paper the following:

Mr. Reginald Lorimer, the newly appointed editor of the Arcadian, is said to be worshipping at the shrine of Miss Florence Lippincot, a prominent society belle of the city in which he lives.

A mingled expression of surprise and pain came into Miss Stanley's eyes. "I never dreamed that he was the editor who accepted my story." She soliloquized. "Did it merit publication, or did he act from personal motives, I wonder? Could he read the author's heart between the lines? If so, how he must mock it. Am I to suffer a like fate with my heroine? It can only be in degree, however, not in kind; for, is not mine the price of fame?"

Reginald Lorimer and Agatha Stanley had been playmates, schoolmates and friends. As they grew to manhood and womanhood their friendship had developed into love. When Agatha was nineteen, her father died, leaving a large family in poor circumstances, and it fell to her to look to the welfare of the family. Some time after Mr. Stanley's death Lorimer declared his love and asked Agatha to become his wife. Feeling that her duty was at home, and although it nearly broke her heart, she rejected his offer. She gave him no hope for the future, and so they parted.

Time passed rapidly. Lorimer had gone to a distant city and entering the field of journalism had made rapid strides.

Miss Stanley had taken up literature as her life work, but her journey was long and disheartening. At length however, her persistency was rewarded. One manuscript placed seemed to clear the way and her subsequent efforts were accepted with requests for more. Still, with success standing brightly before her, there was an aching void in her heart.

One beautiful morning in early June Agatha was sitting by an open window, writing. She seemed unable to concentrate her thoughts, from her work to the grand scene outside, and then to the feelings of her own heart. As she sat dreaming of the old days, her attention was attracted to a man coming up the walk toward the house. He rang the bell, and as Agatha opened the door an exclamation of surprise escaped her lips. For there, before her, stood Reginald Lorimer. It was the first time they had met in three years. "Miss Stanley, allow me to congratulate you on your success. It is certainly merited."

By an open window.

"Thanks; but, Mr. Lorimer, higher praise is due to you because of your rapid advancement. I sincerely wish you happiness."

"I am truly grateful, but for your praise, which is flattering, and for your sentiments of friendship; but I would ask you, can success, alone, make us happy?"

Miss Stanley colored slightly, and answered: "It depends on what one is successful in. Happiness, itself, is the greatest of achievements, but its acquirement is dependent upon success in various directions."

Mr. Lorimer laughingly replied: "Possibly I have earned the good will of some budding genius by sending a welcome check. Rather a slim source

"I should think that a certain Miss Lippincot ought to have first place."

"Of happiness, though I'm afraid, unless—it should be you, Miss Stanley."

"Why me, more than others you have helped, Mr. Lorimer? I should think that a certain Miss Lippincot ought to have first place."

"Miss Lippincot! I do not know that I have done anything to merit her good graces."

"Haven't you? This would seem to contradict you," she said, handing him the paper in which she had read the item concerning him.

When he had read his mirth was uncontrollable. Finally regaining composure, he said:

"Well, well! That is news to me. Whoever wrote that notice must have been under some strong mental hallucination. The idea of associating my name with that of Miss Lippincot, whom I have met but a few times. No frivolous creature like her for a staid chap like myself. A sensible woman is what I want."

Agatha—Miss Stanley, do you know why I have come here to-day? Simply to tell you that I have waited patiently for a different answer to the question I asked you. The outward obstacles thrown in the way are now removed. You are on the road to independence, is there any other barrier? Have I waited in vain—and must I, too, pay the price of fame?"

The story that sold has also told.

A New Enemy of Whisky. The Shawnee News gives a novel remedy for the "drink habit" or "sworn off" to remain "on the water cart." It consists of ice water drizzled through a raw potato. Peel the potato and cut down one side of it until it can be easily inserted in the mouth; dip the potato in water and suck it every time a craving for strong drink comes on. It is claimed that this treatment will effect an absolute cure. The why and wherefore are not stated, but the process is such a simple one that there can be no harm in trying it if one is afflicted with a thirst which he really desires to lose.—Kansas City Journal.

"Condensed Eggs." Condensed eggs are being largely exported to South Africa and are meeting with a ready sale. Fresh eggs are from 85 cents to $1.80 a dozen in Johannesburg, so that the substitute is welcomed. It is prepared by depriving the ordinary fresh egg of its superfluous water and by adding sugar. The mixture is then inclosed in tightly sealed canisters, fifteen eggs to a pound. When unsealed the compound with a little added water is whisked rapidly and, according to a British consular report, cannot be told from the fresh egg.

OLD CLOCK A WONDER.

Ancient Timepiece Furnishes Minister on Sunday Mornings.

The old-fashioned grandfather's clock is becoming a rarity, and only now and then one of them is offered at a public sale in the country districts. Then they bring big prices, one recently selling for $265, when the competition between descendants of the original owner was lively.

Recently C. C. Moyer of Orwigsburg, Pa., bought one of these antiquated timepieces, and as a result of his reconstruction the clock, instead of merely striking the hour, now shows the date, day of the week and strikes different bells for the hour and the half-hour. Then on Sunday mornings, at precisely 8:30, the clock's church chimes ring, a small door opens above the dial, and the figure of a man appears, book in hand. This figure remains above the dial all day Sunday, disappearing late on that day, and not appearing till the following Sunday.

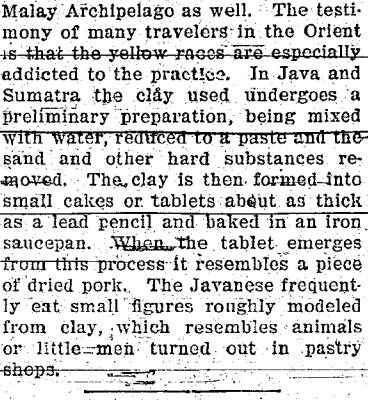

Young Moyer, who is 24 years old, is noted for his ingenuity. At an early age he became interested in the construction of odd machines. The old clock adorns his home and is a much-admired piece of furniture.

Malay Clay Eaters.

Consumption of earth as food is common not only in China, New Caledonia and New Guinea, but in the Malay Archipelago as well. The testimony of many travelers in the Orient is that the yellow races are especially addicted to the practice. In Java and Sumatra the clay used undergoes a preliminary preparation, being mixed with water, reduced to a paste and the sand and other hard substances removed. The clay is then formed into small cakes or tablets about as thick as a lead pencil and baked in an iron saucpan. When the tablet emerges from this process it resembles a piece of dried pork. The Javaneses frequently eat small figures roughly modeled from clay, which resembles animals or little men turned out in pastry shops.

Navaho Wrestler.

Wrestling as a form of athletic exercise seems to be common to all nations and throughout all history. Curiously the tribes in the interior of Africa have been found to be skillful wrestlers, as are the natives of India and the Indians of America. A photograph of a Navajo wrestler is represented herewith, which shows the native athlete in the costume of his profession. The rules governing wrestling matches among the Navajos, singularly enough, are very similar to those recognized among civilized people for centuries.

A Wonderful Canyon.

In preparing for the construction of a tunnel to irrigate the Uncompahgre valley in western Colorado, it became necessary to make a topographic survey of the bottom of the grand canyon of the Gunnison river for a distance of about 1,500 feet. But the walls of this canyon, approximately 2,000 feet in height, are sheer precipices, and it is impossible to go through in boats. A descent to the bottom was effected by means of a narrow fissure eroded in the granite cliffs, but in order to reach the opposite side of the river, with the aid of a similar fissure, the surveying party had to make a detour of about 150 miles. In all, four extremely perilous descents were made to the bottom of the canyon. In places it was necessary to let the men down over cliffs several hundred feet by means of ropes.

Eugene Field's Bank Account.

Bankbook No. 13 of the Windham county savings bank at Newfane, Vt., is in the name of the late Eugene Field. It contains a deposit of $5 made by his grandmother, Esther Field, with the proviso "not to be paid until said Eugene is 21 years of age." The book has never been taken to the bank since its issue, and the amount now due to the estate of Eugene Field of Chicago is $62.85.

Forest of Oaks.

A pretty ornament for decorative purposes may be made by placing a number of acorns in damp moss at the bottom of a shallow dish. They soon form a diminutive forest.

The French Academy, founded by Richelieu in 1635, was abolished in 1793, revived and made a useful body by Napoleon in 1803. Membership to it is the highest literary honor in the world. The members receive a salary of $300 a year and a fee of $3.37 for every meeting they attend.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

To Prove what Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney Remedy, Will Do for YOU, Every Reader of this paper May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immediate effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

14 EAST 12th St., NEW YORK CITY.

Oct. 15th, 1903.

DEAR SIR: I had been suffering severely from kidney trouble. All symptoms were on hand; my former strength and power had left me; I could hardly drag myself along. Even my mental capacity was giving out, and often I wished to die. It was then I saw an advertisement of yours in a New York paper, but would not have paid any attention to it had it not promised a sworn guarantee with every bottle of your medicine, assuring that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable, and does not contain any harmful drugs. I am seventy years and four months old, and with a good conscience I can recommend Swamp-Root to all sufferers from kidney troubles. Four members of my family have been using Swamp-Root for four different kidney diseases, with the same good results.

With many thanks to you, I remain, Very truly yours, ROBERT BERNER.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale at drug stores the world over in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty cents and one dollar. Remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

You may have a sample bottle of this famous kidney remedy, Swamp-Root, sent free by mail, postpaid, by which you may test its virtues for such disorders as kidney, bladder and uric acid diseases, poor digestion, being obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brick dust or sediment in the urine, headaches, backache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, worn-out feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settles or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is the great discovery of Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist. Hospitals use it with wonderful success in both slight and severe cases. Doctors recommend it to their patients and use it in their own families, because they recognize in Swamp-Root the greatest and most successful remedy.

VALUE OF MORAL TRAINING.

Most Important Point in Bringing Up of Children.

In bringing up our children, we have learned that in regard to religious matters, the sacred needs to be diluted with the secular. In other words, religious instruction in the abstract is not nearly so efficacious in character building as the making a few principles of righteousness a vital part of life. Practice is better than precept, says Good Housekeeping. My boy quickly learned the Bible's injunctions as to kindness and generosity, but when he gave ten-cents of hard earned money to help a poor woman, the act made a greater impression upon his nature than all his Sunday schooling. Most of us parents need to realize that actions speak louder than words—that a good example and right deeds by parents, during the week have more effect upon the child than church going alone.

The world will not be convinced of the sweetness of your faith by the soundness of your face.

POISONED

CAPSICUM VASELINE

(PUT UP IN COLLAPSEABLE TUBES)

A substitute for and superior to mustard or any other plaster, and will not blister the most delicate skin. The pain-relieving and curative qualities of this ointment are wonderful. It will stop the toothache at once, and relieve headache and sciatica. We recommend it as the best and safest external counter-irritant known, also as an external remedy for pains in the chest and stomach and all rheumatic, neuralgic and gouty complaints. A trial will prove what we claim for it, and it will be found to be invaluable in the household. Many people say it is the best of all your preparations. Price 15c. per tube. All druggists, other dealers, or by sending this amount to us in postage stamps we will send you a tube by mail. ### Probate Order.

STATE OF MICHIGAN. The Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix.

At a session of the Probate Court for said County, held at the Probate office in said county on Monday the eleventh day of July in the year one thousand nine hundred and four.

Present, John M. Harris, Judge of Probate.

In the Matter of the Estate of J. M. Burk, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition duly verified of Wealthy McCallum praying among other things that her final account as executrix of said estate under the will shall be allowed and that she and her other bondsmen may be discharged.

The same is ordered, that Monday the eighth day of August next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the examining and allowing such account and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be held in the Probate Office in the Village of Charlevoix and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice of the pendency of said account, and the hearing thereon, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the CHARLEVOIX COUNTY HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JOHN M. HARRIS, Judge of Probate.

Mr. Brown's business kept him so occupied during the daytime that he had little opportunity to enjoy the society of his own children. When some national holiday gave him a day of leisure his young son was usually his chosen companion. One day, however, Mr. Brown, reproached by the wistful eyes of his seven-year-old daughter, reversed the order of things and invited the little girl to go with him for a long walk.
She was a shy, silent, small person, and during the two hours' stroll not a single word could Mr. Brown induce the little maid to speak, but her shining eyes attested that she appreciated his efforts to amuse her—indeed, she fairly glowed with suppressed happiness.
Just before they reached home, however, the child managed, but only after a tremendous struggle with her inherent timidity, to find words to express her gratitude.
"Papa, what flower do you like best?" she asked.
"Why, I don't know, my dear—sunflowers, I guess."
"Then," cried the little girl, beaming with gratitude, "that's what I'll plant on your grave!"—Woman's Home Companion.

No Green Cheese Moon For Her.
The little girl was on a visit to her grandfather, a clergyman who is celebrated in the city for his logical powers.
"Oh, my! Only think, grandpa, what Uncle Robert says!"
"What does he say, my dear?"
"Why, he says the moon is made of green cheese. It isn't at all, is it?"
"Well, child, suppose you find out yourself."
"How can I, grandpa?"
"Open the Bible on the table and see what it says."
"Where shall I begin?"
"Begin at the beginning."
The child sat down to read the Bible. Before she was half through the second chapter of Genesis and had read about the creation of the stars and animals she turned to her grandfather, her eyes bright with the excitement of discovery, and said:
"I've found it, grandpa. It isn't true, for God made the moon before he made any cows."

His "Better Half."
A newly married man told us a tale of woe the other day which happens to every newly married man. When he got married his wife gave him half the clothes cupboard, but in only three weeks all his clothes were hanging on nails driven into the wall.—Exchange.

What to Do in Rheumatism.
A professor at one of the allopathic colleges is reported to have said:
"There are two things to be done in rheumatism—grin and bear it or bear it and not grin."—Homeopathic Envoy.

His Query.
She—Do I really love you, Chotly? Why, I'd sooner be miserable with you than happy with some other fellow.
He—But are you sure you won't find some other chap that you'd sooner be miserable with?—Puck.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Halre were in town first of the week.
L. A. Hoyt returned first of the week from a brief visit at Chicago.
Miss Kate Henderson is recovering from a serious attack of appendicitis.
Will Taylor and family have moved into their house, recently occupied by Mr. Hillman.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed St. John of Cheboygan are here guest of the lady's mother, Mrs. John Cummings.
Geo. C. Brown has returned from his outing much improved in health. He was accompanied by his family on the trip to the Soo.

The E. J. & S. will run a $1.50 round trip excursion to Traverse City, Aug. 12th, on account of the Maccabee celebration at that place. Train leaves here at 7:00 a. m. returning in the the evening.
Rural Free Mail Delivery route No 5 is a probability. Rural Agent Machen was here Tuesday and went over the proposed route with Postmaster Harington. The route will run up one side of the Jordan river to Chestonia and down the opposite side. It will be a good thing for the farmers along that line.

A couple of Catholic Sisters were here from St. Paul this week selling books, the profits of which will go toward building a Young Ladies' School and Home for homeless girls.
Mrs. S. E. Landrum entertained her mother, Mrs. W. C. Freeman of Kalkaska, a couple of days this week. The ladies are wife and daughter of the celebrated air ship inventor of that place, and concerning whom an article appears on the first page of this issue.
Miss Mabel Munroe left last week for a two-months' visit with relatives in New York. She went to Detroit where she spent several days with an aunt and from there went to Buffalo and Batavia, where Mrs. Munroe's parents reside. Miss Mabel has been confined to her studies for the past five years and it is needless to say is much enjoying her present outing.

The State Teacher's Institute which is to be held here the first eight days in August will bring to our village a large number of teachers and others. All persons who can accommodate any of these teachers during their stay here will confer a favor on our County Com. of Schools, J. M. Tice by informing him either by letter or person, of the fact.

The ball game between the East and West side business men on Tuesday, was won by the East side by a score of 11 to 8. All sorts of games are the order of the day. It is expected that the Band Boys and Firemen will play in the near future. The Mill boys are having quite a time. Mill A seem ng to have the best end of the deal until the Lath Mill boys got after them Wednesday evening and indulged in a little trimming.

B. F. Hall of Traverse City is here this week in the interest of his concern, the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton Pa. This is an age where brains count and to the busy man this school has some fine things to offer along educational lines. Their teachings comprise everything under the sun, and each and every department is thorough. The editor of this paper has some knowledge of the workings of The International Correspondence Schools and can recommend them most heartily.

We wish to call attention to the wonderful combination offer as advertised in this issue. There are no more popular papers in their line than those we offer, and the price is so low as to appear almost incredulous. The Michigan Farmer of Detroit, is as most of our readers know, all that a high grade farm paper can be; it is in every way up to date and popular with its readers. The poultry paper and the family magazine are both first class. Call or send us your order at once.

Our base ball boys are having a "tour of triumph" on their southern trip. Their first game, at Thompsonville, was called at the end of the third inning on account of rain with both sides blank. Saturday the Mt. Pleasant team was defeated by a score of 6 to 2. Sunday, at Lansing, the Oldsmobile team went down by a score of 11 to 3. Monday, at Marshall, was the game of the series so far, it taking eleven innings to decide our boys were winners by 6 to 4. Tuesday the Howell team was defeated 5 to 3. Wednesday, at Plymouth, that team was defeated by our boys 6 to 3. Thursday our boys played Ann Arbor and were up against a husky bunch of professionals, but although they lost the game they made a good showing; losing to Ann Arbor by a score of 10 to 6. Games to be played are as follows: Sunday and Monday, July 31st and August 1st, at Mt. Clemens. Tuesday and Wednesday, at West Branch. Thursday, at Grayling. Friday at East Jordan vs Harbor Springs.

The Creamery project is progressing nicely and will be under way by at least August 10th. Mr. Pfender has been busy this week, part of the time seeing farmers and the remainder of the time overhauling and putting in shape the machinery of the plant. In his visits among the farmers he has met with utmost success and has already secured pledges for over 4,000 pounds of milk per day. From now on the Creamery will be open and those desiring to investigate the merits of this undertaking are invited to call and see Mr. Pfender at his place of business. The gentleman's wife who also is an expert in dairy work arrives here Monday evening and will assist her husband in the work.

Two of East Jordan's former business men Messrs W. S. Johnson and Mr. Hitchcock are prospering nicely in their new venture at Detour, Chippewa County. They are operating a big sawmill at that place. The mill includes one circular and one band saw, three shingle machines and a lathe mill—all under one roof and with a capacity of 70 M per day. Detour is on the banks of Lake Huron, at the mouth of St. Mary's river, and has abundance of hardwood standing timber of first-rate quality. The shipping facilities are unexcelled, being on the line of passage between the great lakes. The gentlemen are lucky in securing such a business prospect and the citizens of Detour are likewise fortunate in securing such a pair of bustling business men.

A NERVOUS WEEK—A HAPPY LIFE.
T. E. Emerson was a Narrow Escape. Youthful diseases weakened me physically and mentally. Family doctors said I was going into "decline" (Consumption). Finally "The Golden Monitor" edited by Drs. Kennedy & Kergan, fell into my hands. I learned the truth and cause. Excesses had sapped my vitality. I took the New Method Treatment and was cured. My friends think I was cured of Consumption. I have sent them many patients, all of whom were cured. Their New Method Treatment supplies vigor, vitality and manhood.

WOMEN'S WONDERFUL WORK

"What is there of interest at Aguas Calientes?" the Capitalist asked languidly, as the train sped through a country of mesquite and desert.

The Girl shot a glance at the Strenuous Tourist. "There's the smelter at Aguas—the largest lead and copper smelter in Mexico and there are the famous hot springs. And then there's the drawn work made on linen. Aguas is the center of this industry. The nuns of Spain first brought over the art and taught it in their convents and it's now a part of the curriculum in the national schools. The small Mexican girls learn to make drawn work just as surely as they learn that north of the Rio Grande lies Los Estados Unidos. Drawn work is made everywhere, but Aguas is the center of the industry and the best is made there, so the Mother and I are going to have a perfect orgie of shopping. We want to buy all sorts of lovely lacey things and then besides we are anxious to try the baths—such lovely baths of tepid water."

"Are you quite sure there is a smelter?" the Strenuous one asked. He had never before found the Girl so nimbly handing out information, and it roused some suspicion in his mind.

"Ask the conductor," the Girl replied. And sure enough, that official declared that he could show them the chimneys and smoke of the smelter as the train approached Aguas from the north.

It was evening when they alighted at the Hotel Washington, so named as a delicate bait for the patriotism of the Great American Tourist.

To enter the Washington at night is like stepping into a small corner of paradise. Around the outer patio is a corridor whose white columns are half drowned in the purple luxury of the Mexican clematis. The patio itself is carpeted with vivid grass, with here and there a splash of geraniums that are like heaps of rubies thrown on green velvet. Statues gleam pale in the light of an arc lamp hung high in the center as a substitute for a sometime unobfiscating moon and above is a glimpse of dusky sky set with the brilliant stars of the south. It's like a glimpse of Fairyland.

However, if one goes to bed in Fairyland the breakfast next morning is warranted to bring one back to earth with a sudden jolt. The coffee that is served at the Washington is guaranteed to speedily kill any germs of poetry that may have grown over night.

After that meal the Girl bore down on the Capitalist just in time to prevent him from buying an infant's cap made of lace wheels. She also freed the Strenuous Tourist from the clutches of an ancient woman who was beguiling him into the purchase of tray cloth. The Girl shouted: "Fuera—fuera!" and the vendors smiled and melted into the shadows of the corridor, not at all angry at being separated from their prey.

"Now, let us go to the smelter and then to the hot baths," the Tourist said, after his rescue.

"No, we must look at drawn work and buy some first," the Girl said, as they filed out into the hot sunlight and turned toward the main plaza. Here they found shops where the Mother and the Girl bought the two lunch cloths shown in the illustrations. Then piloted them up a quiet side street to the house of a woman who took apprentices in the art of drawn work and the making of lace wheels and who also had a school in summer for infant-learners.

The Senora herself answered their knock on her heavy outer door that opened on a gloomy stone paved patio. She led the way to a large, bare room at the front of the house, with three barred windows, giving on the street. Here in the cool glow of the whitewashed chamber were gathered the regular workers in drawn work, and the small girls who came there for summer instruction in the art of pulling and weaving threads in fanciful patterns. In the middle of the room, seated about a large frame, like an old-fashioned quilt frame on legs, sat half a dozen apprentices, all working on a large cloth stretched taut. In a small low chair near by sat tiny Manuela, her clumsy little fingers drawing threads from a coarse bit of cotton. She was the least scholar and was just learning to pull threads and to hem stitch—the very first-stage of the art. Close to her were Paz and Guadelupa, both setting round lace wheels into the center of a lunch cloth with many fine stitches. Juana, with a strong Indian profile and the hands and feet of a lost princess, was the most proficient of the older girls. She was engaged in making the "redas" or lace wheels that set together with various stitches, make the most beautiful specimens of the Mexican handicraft. She worked so rapidly that her hand was like a brown bird hovering over her work. She held in her left hand a little circle of tin about the size of a napkin ring. About the upper edge of this ring was a series of points turned outward like hooks. Over these she looped thread until she had made a wheel with spokes radiating from the center to every one of the hooks. Then in and out, over and under, these spokes of thread she wove with her needle a design of vine leaves. She finished the wheel by putting a double rim near the outer edge to hold the spokes together, just as an iron tire holds a wagon wheel together. This done she slipped the loops of thread from off the hooks and in her dusky hand lay a wheel of lace that looked as if it might have fallen from the chariot of a frost fairy.

Around the big piece of linen in the center of the room each girl worked on a certain bit of territory that was her own from the time the design was begun until it was completed. Each had cut and pulled threads and was now busy weaving with fine thread the "cross and crown" design, one of the most intricate of the patterns brought so long ago from Spain. At intervals the Senora passed around the room, scrutinizing each bit of linen or lace wheel, just as a master-painter goes about amongst his pupils. And it is the same with these workers in thread as among artists. Some there are, who have heavy fingers and lack of taste who never get beyond mediocrity in their work. They can never be employed on the delicate cobwebby handkerchiefs nor can they set together the wheels into collars, dollies or other pieces that require a delicate touch. These workers in thread have need, too, of the keenest eyesight and after forty few women can weave together the more delicate threads. Many tales are told of women who have gone blind while working over some exquisitely fine bit, sacrificing their sight for a few dollars. But these are mostly the fables of tourists who see the ravages of ophthalmia and mistake them for the results of the fine needlework.

They were bumping along the streets to their train when the Mother looked toward the Girl. "You've got an awfully dirty face," she said. The Capitalist was but just preparing to throw into the night some malformed lace wheels that he had bought in the last hour from a decrepit billiard market, while the Tourist was pondering on the malign destiny that had caused him to buy seventeen women's handkerchiefs from an aged carter, but both looked across at the Girl. Her face was not a suc—"Your bath was not a suc—" the Capitalist began.

The Girl gave him a wild look. "We forgot the baths!" she cried. "And the water that comes up through the golden sand like warm champagne—do you mean to say you forgot all that?" the Capitalist jeered.

The Girl could only exchange a shame-faced smile with the Mother, while the Capitalist took the opportunity, undetected, to hurl far into the blackness of night his bundle of deformed lace wheels, while the Strenuous Tourist breathed a sigh of relief as he buried, unseen, seventeen women's handkerchiefs in his suit case.

His Prudence.

"You seem to have no ambition," asserted the strenuous one. "But I have," said the indolent man; "I intend to be rich." "Then why don't you work—like Brown, for instance?" "Ah," said the indolent man, "I've had my eye on him for some time. Good-fellow, Brown. I like to see him piling wealth up. He's working for me." "Working for you?" "Yes; he's killing himself making a fortune, and I plan to get it by marrying his widow."

In Praise of Pie

Why is it no one ever tries To eat who 'twas invented pie? What woman, beautiful and just, First rolled, and pinched, and cut the crust, And, to alleviate distress, Fluted it with pungent happiness? First, there is juicy apple pie— For this old Father Adam sigh, It was no apples—yet and sweet— That led astray his halting feet— It must have been an apple pie That o'ered before his longing eye, Such pie—such crumb pie, forsooth, As folks remember from their youth— A pie with prinked and crumpled edge, Each slice of which would make a wedge— To each one's good intent—spears— From any clutch on mind or heart; It is no wonder, after all, That Adam was inclined to fall.

And currant and gooseberry pie, Blackberry, prune and cherry pie, Peach, plum and sweet potato pie— Say, ever eat tomato pie? Tomato pie! Almost unknown, Our hearts in gladness to immerse, For when it glows aright we see The purple robe of royalty; And, oh, the taste and tang of it When by a hungry human bit! Such stuff as dreams, aye, dreams like these: That comets are the bits of cheese And all the planets in the sky, And little stars are luscious pie; Our hearts in gladness to immerse, By eating through the universe! Oh, one should never criticize The sober souls who scoff at pies, Whose views of pie are dark and grim, For they leave so much pie for him! Come, build a tablet; set it high: 'Tis Him or Her Who First Made Pie. O' Pie, O' my!

QUEER CUSTOMS IN JAPAN.

Use the Things They Sell Without Knowing the Reason Why. Japanese ladies have been known to do without stockings to maintain the harmony between beautiful French slippers and magnificent French evening dresses. I have been served by a Japanese hostess who did without everything he did not supply himself—he had a shirt, a collar and tie and scarf pin and studs, but no trousers. And the effect of their absence was heightened by his wearing braces because he sold them.

The Japanese do not kiss. If a Japanese girl knows how to kiss, it shows the work of a foreign instructor; she does it as an accomplishment, not as an enjoyment. The Japanese have no pens and ink, but they make a very good shift with a painting brush. The Japanese houses have no chimneys and you are never warm enough until the house catches fire. The Japanese have beef and no mutton; the Chinese have mutton and no beef. Japanese bells, like Japanese belles, have no tongues; Japanese snakes have no poison; Japanese music has no harmony. The Japanese alphabet is not an alphabet, but a selection of seventy useful ideograms to dispense with the 30,000 in ordinary use by the Chinese.—Queer Things About Japan.

HOW MEN MAY LIVE LONG. Goldwin Smith Tells the Secret of His Youthfulness and Vigor. Goldwin Smith, the famous historian, educator, journalist and essayist, who is the literary life of Canada, has brought out a good deal of comment on the problem of old age, with mental and physical soundness, by his own opinion of the influences which have helped him celebrate his 80th birthday in good health and able to do brilliant and valuable work in his chosen field of labor.

Prof. Smith thinks that he owes much to his freedom from hard tasks, in school or otherwise, when a boy. He was a sickly child and his chance of even average length of days seemed poor. But he was allowed much freedom in boyhood, to roam the fields and play instead of sticking closely to books or taxing his mind severely. It is hardly necessary to say that Goldwin Smith was still a young lad, however, when he began to work zealously in school, and at Eton and in the university he was a brilliant student. Another point he makes much of is his lifelong habit of working in the early morning rather than late at night, and getting sleep in the hours of darkness, nature's time for rest. He also testifies to his constant care as to outdoor exercise and his moderation in eating and drinking.

Used Ink as a Pain-Killer. When an ambulance surgeon in responding to a hurry call finds his patient to be suffering from burns or scalds he is apt to use anything, from molasses to flour, to cover the wounds and prevent the air from reaching them. This practice was followed by a woman in a railway station the other day when a small child who was playing around the waiting room accidentally sat down on a hot steam pipe. The little one was so frightened that in trying to stand up she slipped and fell back again, this time becoming wedged between the wall and the hot pipe. The child's screams brought the mother to the scene at once. Picking the little girl up, she turned her across her lap, loosened her clothes, and then, taking a bottle of writing fluid from her satchel, emptied it over the scorched flesh. In a moment the child stopped screaming and soon was playing around as lively as ever.

The writing fluid in itself was not a curative. It simply prevented the air from getting at the burns. The whole thing was interesting as an illustration of the woman's presence of mind.—New York Press.

"Rapping" a Snorer. Representative Frank E. Shober of New York city says he has learned of a sure way to stop an obnoxious snorer. Going to Washington recently on the night train everybody was annoyed by a man who had a snore like a foghorn.

"Get a clothespin!" "Muzzle him!" and other cries came now and then from sufferers. Mr. Shober was about to ask the porter to suppress the snorer when the man in the opposite berth said:

"Wait a moment. I'll fix him." He reached under the berth and pulled out a shoe. With it he gave two sharp raps on the wall of the car.

The snorer rolled over, yawned and became quiet.

"Never knew it to fail," said the stranger as he put back the shoe and drew the curtains of his berth.

OLD, BUT EVER NEW.

VENERABLE JOKE TALKS OF REINCARNATION.

Nothing New in the Theory as Far as This Laughter-Inducer Was Concerned—On Earth in Many Disguises and at Many Times.

"Metempsychosis?" said the Old Joke, as he deftly placed another pill in his pipe. "Why, of course! Old story to me, I assure you. Transmigration of souls an everyday occurrence. And as for reincarnation—why, bless you, my boy, I have been coming back to earth for many centuries, and in as many different forms as those of the animals that Noah—no! old Noah, from my point of view, believe me!—had in his ark.

"I tell you, my boy, these Theosophists have got the right idea about it. We die but to live again. We make our little brief appearance on the stage of life and then we vanish, only to return in some new guise—our astral body the same, our terrestrial form the only thing changed about us. And sometimes that is not changed as much as might be wished. I have worn many guises in my day. Heigh, ho! It wears me to begin to think of them all. There was the time when Adam cracked his sides with laughter. He had sprung me upon his better half, and Eve—well, Eve was a woman of exceeding politeness (as evidence her courtesy to the Serpent), and she did her very best to smile at me, although I am fully convinced she did not see my point at all.

"The next time I remember to have come to earth was in the Land of Nod. That was about nine thousand years ago, as nearly as I can recollect. It caused a great sensation among the simple Noddites when I was suddenly sprung upon them as a New Thing. If I recollect aright, I was printed then in the newspapers of the time, and the reporters were kind enough to write 'Laughter' in brackets after me—as to make sure that the inhabitants would appreciate me at my chachinatory worth.

"Life is too short for me to attempt to rehearse my various reincarnations since then. I have appeared in comic opera and tragedy; have graced the minstrel stage, and appeared singly in the pulpit as a Racy Bon Mot. I have traveled all over the civilized world as a Newspaper Joke. I have been illustrated and set to music; have helped to make the fortunes of several comedians and the reputations of numerous after dinner speakers. And last night—will you believe it?—one of the best known and most original—

"Hello!" said the Old Joke sadly. "My pipe has gone out and I have not another pill in the box. I shall die if I cannot get a smoke—I know I shall. But never mind! I shall soon come back again in some new form, and the suffering public will accept me as the latest and newest-thing in Jokes!"—New York Herald.

She Knew Them.

"Girls are certainly past all understanding," said the big athletic fellow to his pretty companion. "How you make all sorts of a fuss over tobacco, while other girls of my acquaintance request me to blow smoke into their hair. Yes, they do; but goodness knows what for. They say they like to have the odor of tobacco clinging in their tresses. I must say I can't agree with them. A good fresh cigar is one thing, but the odor of stale tobacco smoke is another. Sometimes I've thought that maybe the tobacco did something to the hair, gave it life, put a glint of gold into it, made it more luxuriant, or something. Otherwise why should they insist that I puff a lot of smoke on them?"

"The pretty girl smiled knowingly. 'Did you ever think,' she asked, 'that the odor of stale tobacco about a woman might lead her friends to believe that she had many masculine caters?'

The athletic fellow looked at her admiringly. "It takes a woman to understand a woman," he said.

What He Wanted.

He entered the lawyer's office after the manner of the meek and mild. His eyes were cast to the floor, his mien was bashful.

"Are you the lawyer?" he asked of—call him Smith.

"I am," said Smith.

"I want advice," said the wanderer. "I am in love with a certain young woman. I love her very much, and mean to marry her. She is engaged to me. But I am afraid she thinks more of another man. I want to call on her the other evening, and disturb her as this other man was kissing her."

"That's rather an interesting state of things," suggested Smith. "But what can I do for you? I cannot advise you in any respect regarding this man. Judging by what you tell me, your marriage with this young woman is something that will not happen."

"Couldn't I—couldn't you—can't it possible for me to have an injunction served against this man?"

Smith tried to figure it out.—New York Times.

The Kiss in the Cup.

There is no gladness in the glass Unless thou pour for me; But taste it first before it pass And I will drink with thee; For if those lovely lips of thine Have breathed upon the form I swear that I will drain the wine, Although it reach the rim.

Oh, who could bear to sip thee nay, When thou hast kissed the cup? Or who would turn the other way When thou'st best filled it up? For, oh, the cup has kept the kiss And carries me a share, To show me all the wasted bliss Thy lips have lavished there.

Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.
I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Maudie Bush

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

Co. School Com's Column

The State Teachers Institute for Charlevoix County will be held in East Jordan, beginning August 1st and continuing eight days. The Institute will be conducted by Supt. J. W. Simmons, of Owosso, assisted by Miss Charibel Millman, of the Charlevoix County Normal, and Commissioner J. M. Tice.

Special work will be given in manual training and domestic science. Teachers are requested to bring their copies of the State Manual, as the work will be presented along the lines contained therein.

A credit of one per cent, for each day's attendance will be given in the Teacher's Examinations which follow.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION.

A Teachers' Examination will be held in the McKinley High School in the village of Charlevoix, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 11th, 12th and 13th, beginning at 8:30 a. m., standard time. At this time teachers may take examination for any grade of county certificate.

Examinations will also be given at this time for students wishing to attend the Michigan Agricultural College.

Julius Caesar will be taken as the basis for the examination in Reading. J. M. TICE, School Commissioner.

A THOUSAND DOLLARS THROWN AWAY.

Mr. W. W. Baker of Plainview, Neb., writes: "My wife had lung trouble for over fifteen years. We tried a number of doctors and spent over a thousand dollars without any relief. She was very low and I lost all hope, when a friend suggested trying Foley's Honey and Tar, which I did; and thanks be to this great remedy, it saved her life. She is stronger and enjoys better health than she has ever known in ten years. We shall never without Foley's Honey and Tar and would ask those afflicted to try it." Sold by L. C. Madison.

THE RETURN OF MR. DOOLEY.

With the issue of Sunday, July 10, The Free Press began the publication of a new series of the famous Dooley sketches. Nearly two years ago, owing to other engagements, Mr. F. P. Dunne, the author of the sketches, discontinued them. During the years in which they had been published they won a higher degree of popularity than any other newspaper or magazine feature; and ever since their stoppage Mr. Dunne has been persistently urged to revive the sayings of the genial humorist-philosopher. This he has at last consented to do, and The Free Press has to be chosen as the medium for their dissemination in Michigan. It is the intention of Mr. Dunne to keep in pretty close touch with current events, and his admirers may expect to be entertained every Sunday, for an indefinite period, by his inimitable humor and keen satire, upon subjects of living interest.

Vocal Music Lessons.

Mrs. Jessie Dicken Reed, of the faculty of the Ann Arbor U. of M. School of Music is prepared to give private lessons in voice culture. The lady's time is limited here so those contemplating taking a course should see her at once. Her residence is with Dr. H. W. Dicken and family.

YOUR KIDNEYS ARE THEY WELL?

Unless they are, good health is impossible.

Every drop of blood in the body passes through and is filtered by healthy kidneys every three minutes. Sound kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood, diseased kidneys do not, hence you are sick. FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE makes the kidneys well so they will eliminate the poisons from the blood. It removes the cause of the many diseases resulting from disordered kidneys which have allowed your whole system to become poisoned. Rheumatism, Bad Blood, Gout, Gravel, Dropsy, Inflammation of the Bladder, Diabetes and Bright's Disease, and many others, are all due to disordered Kidneys. A simple test for Kidney disease is to set aside your urine in a bottle or glass for twenty-four hours. If there is a sediment or a cloudy appearance, it indicates that your kidneys are diseased, and unless something is done they become more and more affected until Bright's Disease or Diabetes develops.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is the only preparation which will positively cure all forms of Kidney and Bladder troubles, and cure you permanently. It is a safe remedy and certain in results.

If You are a sufferer, take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once. It will make you well.

Some Pronounced Incurable
Mr. G. A. Stillson, a merchant of Tampico, Ill., writes: "FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is meeting with wonderful success. It has cured some cases here that physicians pronounced incurable. I myself am able to testify to its merits. My face today is a living picture of health and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE has made it such."

Had Lumbago and Kidney Trouble
Edward Huss, a well known business man of Salisbury, Mo., writes: "I wish to say for the benefit of others, that I was a sufferer from lumbago and kidney trouble, and all the remedies I took gave me no relief. I began to take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE, and after the use of three bottles I am cured."
