Indians Were Winners.

Last Saturday afternoon the town laid off and went up to the base ball park to see an exhibition of the National game. They did. It was snappy from beginning to end, and the Indians had the best end of the snap. In the sixth inning our boys got after Tobey (who was pitching good ball) and the Indians called time to put Snow in the box. Now this Snow has a variety of deliveries that are puzzlers and as a result the hits after that were well scattered. The East Jordan team was nervous in the first two innings, four runs being chalked against them. After that however, they settled down and played like veterans. But the lead the Indians got was too great to overcome. When it was all over the score was 5 to 3 in favor of the fastest bunch of players that have tackled our boys this season. Some of the features of the game were a home run by Stevens, Newcomb's throwing to the plate twice, cutting off base runners, and the superb team work of the Indians. This latter was noticeable throughout the game score:

Julia Gray.

Among those most recently to attract serious critical comment in theatrical stellar ranks is Julia Gray—Unlike many of her sisters—her time of novitiate has not been long, nor filled with unpleasant vicissitudes and monotonous drudgery; things which leave their inevitable imprint, and which prevent many of our most famous actresses from longer creating the youthful illusion so necessary to heroines of stage romance. She has, indeed, leaped at almost a single bound into the charmed circle where one's title to greatness is proclaimed at the top of programmes and emblazoned in capitals on the bill boards. Given the necessary talent it usually takes years of careful training and the prodigal expenditures of money and brains to make possible and insure the success of the modern star. Miss Gray has committed the unpardonable sin of having violated all these established theatrical canons. And in this, her initial starring tour, has broken down all barriers of carping criticism customarily placed in the path of new and untried aspirants. The five or six years in preparation for her present essay were spent in study abroad, chiefly in England, where under a nom de theatre, she gained invaluable experience in support of several of the more noted London actor-managers. She comes to her present work with all the enthusiasm of youth, and the added charm of a brilliant and fascinating beauty. She is doubly fortunate in that her career as a star is being launched under the astute and watchful eye of Lincoln J. Carter one of the most experienced and successful of American managers. In a play from his own pen "Her Only Sin" he has provided her with a vehicle which has already been pronounced as one of the strongest emotional plays of the decade.

Miss Gray will appear Friday Sept. 2, at the Loveday Opera House supported by a carefully selected company of players.

County Normal School.

The second year's work of the Charlevoix County Normal Training Class begins on Monday, Sept. 5, and will continue nine months, closing one week earlier than the regular public school year. This lengthening of the normal year to nine months will be uniform throughout the State; but in some other respects the Charlevoix Normal Class will have important advantages over those just starting this year. The regular teacher, Miss Claribel Milliman, has had special work in manual training during the summer in Chicago, and gave instruction in this subject during the recent county institute at East Jordan. The future graduates of the normal course will carry the benefits of this work and also of elementary agriculture to their own schools besides the regular normal training given in the class.

This year the practical work of the normal class will be under the personal direction of Mrs. B. I. Stead as "critic teacher." Mrs. Stead is a graduate of the Central Normal School, and has had five years successful experience in the primary grades of the public schools of Jackson, Mich., and four years in the schools of Mt. Pleasant. She will give the class instruction in psychology and pedagogy and have charge of regular work in a room of fifth and sixth grade pupils. This room will constitute a model training school in which each normal student will have continuous practice throughout the year with occasional visits to other grades and neighboring rural schools.

This arrangement gives a much larger amount of attention to the personal needs of each member of the normal class than is or can be given in the state normal schools.

The local quarters of the Charlevoix County Normal School have been transferred to a large new room in the High School building, furnished with adjustable desks, first-class blackboards, a full teachers' library, and with plenty of room, light, and equipment for nature study and manual training adopted to the rural schools. The room itself is an inspiration to enjoyable work, and from one its doors and elevated walk leads directly to the primary grades of the Central School. Pupils from these grades will be frequently brought before the class for illustrative model lessons in reading and other subjects. Visitors, parents, and school officers from any district in the county will be welcomed here throughout the school year.

Candidates for this year's normal class in the Charlevoix County Training School are asked to send in their applications of once to the undersigned. A complete circular of information from the State Department of Education, stating all the conditions of admission, will be mailed to any one requesting it. There is no tuition fee. Any questions will be cheerfully answered. Address questions or request for circular to

Supt. F. W. Howe,

He Got His Insurance.

Att'y F. E. Boosinger recently settled a case for Fred Crowell of Dwight, which had an amusing as well as serious side to it. Mr. Crowell was unfortunate enough to receive a broken leg some time ago and was laid up for some three months with it. He held an accident insurance policy in one of the many companies and when he was able to get around again, he presented them a bill for $75.00 which they refused to pay either wholly or in part. Then the fun began. Mr. Crowell saw Att'y Boosinger and the latter began an effort to collect. After considerable parleying they agreed to settle for $25.00. Since then the Company has gradually increased their offer until they reached $62.50. Then Mr. Boosinger threatened to begin proceedings against them if the bill wasn't paid in full, and the Company promptly sent along a check for $75.00 the original amount claimed, considering the time spent in correspondence as well as postage, the Company would have been far ahead had they paid up at the outset.

The East Jordan Creamery, J. J. Pfender Prop, will pay on the 31st of this month for all milk and cream delivered to that date, and afterward on the 15th and last day of each month for the balance of the season. Milk and Cream are coming in quite plentifully and the prospects are very encouraging.

The North Has My Heart.

"The land that lies eastward, the land that lies west,
The northland, the southland, which I lovest thou best?"
"To eastward, to westward, to southward I stray,
But the North has my heart at the end of the way."

"Like a pearl is the East when the morn is begun,
And the West is a rose at the set of the sun,
And winsome the South is and golden all day,
But the North has my heart at the end of the way."

"The East has her streams, and the West her white foam,
And the South her bland welcome to Spring tripping home—
But the North has her mountains, and dearest are they,
And the North has my heart, to the end of the way."

A Hat for Summer. An excellent way to utilize a last year's lace collar (the collar which came about to the shoulder seam) is to use it as a trimming for one of your summer hats. With a wreath of flowers and a last year's lace collar the prettiest sort of a hat can be made. Use a frame without much crown, and face it with shirred or plaited chiffon in some becoming shade. Gather the neck of the collar until it forms a tiny crown. Place on the frame, allowing about one and one-half inches to hang over. Tack securely, but loosely. Join the back as invisibly as possible. Surround the crown with a wreath of roses, forget-me-nots or any flower preferred, which will add width to the crown. Arrange the wreath so as to allow a spray of leaves to droop a trifle over the back of the hat, to conceal the joining of the collar.

Any of the soft sash-ribbons which are so charming this season will make a very dainty crown for a hat. The pompadour ribbons scattered with flowers are the prettiest for this purpose. The crown may be in the form of a tam-o'-shanter, or the ribbon may be put over a rather high-frame crown and shirred a trifle at the top. The trim may be of lace, or of tulle or chiffon matching the color of the flower seen in the ribbon.—July Women's Home Companion.

Recommended for Cook. Back of the pantry door hang a long white apron, white oversleeves and a white cap, not the pretty coquettish cap worn at cooking school, but a cap of large proportions, fitted with an elastic tape which holds it close around the face. Under this cap not a hair can escape, which precludes any possibility of hairs in the food when one is cooking. The apron and sleeves cover the gown perfectly, so that it is unnecessary to change one's dress when it is time to prepare dinner. If one is careful it is possible to cook without allowing a drop to fall, and having on a good gown teaches one to be careful. The apron and sleeves, as well as the cap, are of white linen—a cheap quality of table linen. They wear for years and are easily washed, besides looking clean at all times. At least when they are soiled one can see it at a glance, and this does away with any chance of cooking with a soiled apron. We insist on our trained nurses wearing white aprons in order to have everything clean about the sickroom. There will come a time when we will realize that it is as important to be surgically clean in the kitchen when people are well in order to keep them so, as it is to be thus clean in the sickroom, in order to cure them when they are ill.

Box Coat. Box coats of linen, taffeta and pongee make the smartest of all the season's wraps and are as comfortable as they are fashionable. This one is made of natural colored linen with pipings of red and matches the skirt, but white and all colors are used and silk and veiling are greatly in vogue for odd wraps as well as for costumes. When liked the collar can be omitted and the neck finished with a facing only. The coat is made with fronts and backs, and is fitted by means of shoulder, under-arm and center-back seams. The sleeves are in regulation coat style, with roll-over cuffs, and a pocket is inserted in each front. As illustrated the closing is made invisible by means of buttons, and buttonholes worked in a 85. The quantity of material required for the medium size is 3 3/4 yards 27 inches wide, 2 3/4 yards 44 inches or 2 yards 52 inches wide.

Girl's Blouse Costume. No style of frock suits little girls better than this simple one, which consists of blouse and box plaited skirt. The model is made of white linen trimmed with banding of blue and white, and is charmingly dainty and attractive; but natural colored linen and all the simpler washable fabrics of the season are equally appropriate for immediate wear and flannel and serge for the cooler days. The costume consists of the skirt, body lining and blouse. The skirt is box plaited, each plait being stitched at its edges to yoke depth, and is joined to the body lining, the two being closed at the centre back. The blouse is made with fronts and back, and is finished with a box plait at the centre front beneath which the closing is made. At the neck is a big sailor collar and the sleeves are full, laid in box plaits above the elbows and forming puffs below. The quantity of material required for the medium size (10 years) is 3 yards 27 inches wide, 6 3/4 yards 22 inches wide or 4 3/4 yards 44 inches wide, with 2 3/4 yards of banding to trim as illustrated.

Of Silk Handkerchiefs. A writer in the current number of Good Housekeeping tells how she made a concert waist-out of four large silk handkerchiefs. She was soprano in a glee club and had gone out of town for a concert. On opening her suit case at the theater she found that the bodice of her gown was missing. Consternation reigned, for there could be no concert without a soprano, and in half an hour the curtain was to go up. But the sister of the soprano was an ingenious person, and, dashing to the men's dressing room, she demanded all the white silk handkerchiefs she possessed. The handkerchiefs were produced—four of them. One made the back of the bodice and the other two, and the other two did duty as sleeves. Some spanned tulle, stripped from the skirt, hid the pinned sleeves, and a bunch of chrysanthemums covered up the peculiarities of the waist line. Even at the reception which followed the concert no one detected the impromptu character of this garment and some one remarked: "What a pretty little waist that soprano has on."

"Machine for Magnifying Time." A machine for magnifying time" is the misleading name given to a new electrical invention which makes it possible to observe rapidly moving wheels and other parts of machines more clearly. By its means one may watch the stitch of a sewing machine and see exactly how it is made, or observe the flying spokes of a bicycle wheel, which to the naked eye would appear but a flimsy spider web, and note exactly the vibrations and strains. The machine that produces this result is simple once the principle is clearly understood. By means of electric sparks fired at rapid intervals the machine is illuminated. If the flashes coincide exactly with the revolutions of the machine they will show it always in one position, and the machine will seem at rest. By slightly retarding the flashes so that they lag behind their time the machine under observation will seem to move slowly. This is because at each revolution the machine is shown at a slightly later stage. The machine is called the stroboscope, and will prove of great use in studying the effects of rapid motion.

Not for Rude Boreas. "Twentieth century fashions," sighed a dame, "forgot there were such things as winds. These plaited skirts we wear are veritable wind traps. These large hats draped in lace, with broad, floppy brims, are like so many balloons for catching the wind and flying up from their moorings unless we grab them and hold them firmly down. Our coats and our spotes, how they rise up and hit us in the face or wind themselves round and round our neck like a hangman's noose! These fashions were devised for wear in a country where it is always afternoon, not in blowy, blustering, wind-swept America."

And Now It's Wicker! The newest thing in parasol handles is the wicker finish. The knob or crook end is used, and a bow of ribbon matches the color prevailing in the cover. These wicker handles are especially effective with pongee parasols.

The Curtain Veil. Among the recent importations are lace veils, 52 inches square, which are just now the rage on foreign race tracks. They are draped over the entire hat and permitted to fall over the face like a curtain.

AN EXCITING SNAKE HUNT.

Half-Raising Experience of a Sportsman in India.

Tales of tiger shooting in India are common enough, but one does not hear much about king cobra hunting. A Mervyn Smith tells how, accompanied by two natives, he went to a spot where a pair of king cobras were known to be. On arrival at the place he was made to get under a basket, the meshes of which were too small for a king cobra to put its head through. While he was beneath this basket one of the snakes came out and was shot with arrows by natives. The other cobra then appeared and endeavored to overturn the coop. Describing the incident, the writer says: "The terror of that moment I cannot express. What if it should overturn the basket! The strength of thirteen feet of muscle must be enormous, and if used in the right direction would soon overcome my pull at the cord. What would then happen? Certain death for me, I felt sure. Again the whizz of an arrow and I saw a gaping wound along the neck of the fierce brute as it quitted its hold to look for this new foe. Fixing my knee on the cord, I now placed the muzzle of my gun just through one of the square openings in the basket, and, aiming at the hood, fired both barrels in rapid succession, and had the satisfaction of seeing the horrid brute fling up the leaves and dust in its death throes."

A Surprise Visit. A Pittsburg man told H. C. Frick the other day that on his vacation he and his entire family would surprise a brother in Slouss City with a two weeks' visit.

"Don't do it," said Mr. Frick. "Send your brother word first. These surprises are not always welcome. I remember a West Overton man who planned just such a surprise as you are contemplating, and the result left him pretty dubious."

"This man sent his three children on a surprise visit to a cousin in Altoona. The children stayed a week, instead of the month that had been counted on. On their return their father said to them:

"Well, were cousin Harold and his wife glad to see you?" "Rather!" replied the oldest boy. "They asked why didn't we bring you and mother and the cook and the dog and the canary bird, too?"

Boy Was in Luck. Police Commissioner McAduo relates some amusing incidents which occur in a police court, relieving the general dreariness of the day's doings. Recently a "white wings" and a messenger boy were arrested for fighting over the possession of a bill. "White wings" charged the boy with having snatched it up from the street when he dropped it from his pocket. "What is the denomination of the bill you dropped?" inquired the justice. "One dollar, your honor," answered the man, on a venture. The messenger boy's grin reached from ear to ear as he unfolded in his dirty hand a greenback much the worse for its possession. It was a ten-dollar bill. The case was dismissed and the boy, turning to the policeman, said: "I'm glad yer took me in, fer I offered to divide wid him. See?"—New York Times.

Had Been Neutralized. J. Adam Bode of Minnesota has discovered a new description of the process a foreigner undergoes in attaining citizenship rights in this country. He says he was out in the West not long ago. He met a group of men who were talking of their different nationalities. Among them were representatives of a half dozen different countries. Among them were a Scotchman, a German, an Italian, a Swede, a Frenchman, and finally, says Bode, one fellow sighed for his skin in the mountains of the Nordland and announced that he was a Norwegian, but had been "neutralized!"

Story of Real Hard Luck. Perhaps the most pathetic experience reported by any of the Chicago delegates is that of the tall Missourian who complained: "Here I've paid a fare and one-third for the round trip, put up $1 apiece for meals in a dining car that I didn't want and that nearly foundered me, and dragged my satchel around town for two hours looking for a bed. Finally I got permission to sleep in a bathtub for $5 a night, and the first night a fellow across the hall came in in the dark to get a drink, turned on the water and nearly drowned me."

Sousa's Many Decorations. John Philip Sousa, the conductor, has received notice of his promotion from Officer de l'Academie Francaise to "Officier de l'Instruction Publique" of France. The new distinction gives Mr. Sousa the golden palms and rosette of the French academy. He is the only American who has received this decoration. He is also a member of the Royal Victorian order of England, having been decorated by King Edward VII. three years ago.

Japs Were in Earnest. When the war broke out, the libraries on the Japanese ships were cleared of all fiction and illustrated papers, only technical treatises being allowed to remain. This is in significant contrast to the Russian ships at Port Arthur, which were provided with ping-pong tables.

King's Mounting Ladder. Emperor William mounts his horse by means of a carpet-covered step-ladder.

WHISTLER'S PEACOCK ROOM

It Has Been Moved from the Late F. R. Leyland's House and is Exhibited in a London Gallery

From time to time many people have wondered what would be the ultimate fate of Whistler's "Peacock Room," one of the best known and least known of his works. Everybody has heard of it, but few have seen it. Its present fate is to be in the market.

The "Peacock Room" was, of course, designed for, and to some extent in spite of, the late Frederick Richard Leyland. It developed out of the dining room in his house in Prince's Gate.

A large part of this house had been decorated by Norman Shaw, with the assistance of another architect, named Jeckyll, and of Murray Marks. The dining room was entirely Jeckyll's work. He designed a wooden ceiling, with pendent lamps, and on the walls an elaborate shelving for the display of Mr. Leyland's fine collection of oriental china. This shelving was carried out in walnut wood, and the panels were fitted with brown Spanish leather decorated with small flowers. The leather alone cost £1,000.

When Mr. Leyland bought Whistler's "La Princesse du Pays de la Porcelaine," which occupied a position of honor in the memorial exhibition at Boston, he placed it in a recess above the mantelpiece of his dining room; and here, so Whistler thought, the surroundings were not quite suitable to the picture.

The leather was too dark and the flowers were too red. The interferred with the delicacy of his own tints. They were as vulgar fellows in a gracious presence.

So, with the owner's consent, the

FAMOUS PANEL OF THE QUARRELSOME PEACOCKS.

It refers to the quarrel between Whistler and F. R. Leyland. The circular spots of silver and gold symbolize the Almighty Dollar. Whistler also designed the sideboard.

artist set about lightening the one and reducing the other with touches of yellow, but at first only in a tentative way. Apparently it was during the owner's absence from home that a complete scheme of decoration presented itself to the mind of the artist, and characteristically enough he did not seek the owner's consent before beginning the new work.

Nearly thirty years have gone by since it all happened. Artist and owner are dead, and it is difficult to know just what each said to the other when they next met. Much gossip may be read about the matter in the Whistler books.

It is certain that there were disagreements. It is certain that as a consequence of these Whistler introduced into his decoration a symbolic representation of the Almighty Dollar, for there it is to be seen to-day. All the decorations seem to have been carried out by Whistler with only one assistant, and to have been completed in little more than six

Women as Witnesses.

The curious case heard before Judge Smyly last week, in which two middle-aged women of evident intelligence swore to two directly opposite stories, suggests the question whether women make reliable witnesses. The late Lord Chief Justice Russell declared once that where no question of prejudice was concerned a woman's evidence was more valuable than a man's. There is no doubt that in noticing small matters of detail women are much quicker than men and have a much better memory; but they are strongly apt to be influenced by prejudice. During the trial of Canham Reed, the South End murderer, one of the witnesses, an old woman of more than sixty, swore to the identity of the prisoner, although she admitted that she had only seen him once in her life—six months previous—when he passed her hurriedly on a country road at 10 o'clock on a November evening. She declared that she recognized him by the flash of his eye. Such minute evidence as this no man living would venture to give, even in a civil action, much less when a human being's life was at stake.—Tatler, London, Eng.

FREED FROM ENGLISH PRISON AFTER FOURTEEN LONG YEARS

MRS. FLORENCE MAYBRICK

Mrs. Florence Maybrick is free. She left Truro, Cornwall, July 20, on her way to France.

Mrs. Maybrick's imprisonment was not terminated with the clang of doors, the last sound which remains in the ears of so many of her fellow prisoners who preceded her to liberty from Aylesbury, where she spent more than fourteen years of her life. It closed at the arched doorway of the white convent of the Sisterhood of the Epiphany in the little town of Truro, Cornwall, with the black-robed sisters uttering their blessings and good wishes for her future. With two companions, Mrs. Maybrick entered the carriage of Miss Dairymple, secretary to the sisterhood, and was driven to Staustell, a small station fourteen miles away, where she boarded a train and started on her journey to France. She will not come to America until her presence is considered necessary.

Mrs. Maybrick, who was Miss Florence Elizabeth Chandler, a member of a well-known and prosperous southern family, was married July 27, 1881, in St. James' church, Piccadilly, to James Maybrick of Liverpool. She was then 18 years old. Her husband was over 40 years of age.

In the spring of 1889 Mr. Maybrick became ill and in a few days he died. His brothers investigated his death and charged Mrs. Maybrick with the murder of her husband. A long trial followed, and a number of doctors swore that the decedent died of arsenical poisoning. The defense proved that for twenty years Mr. Maybrick had been a confirmed user of arsenic and that he daily took doses large enough to have killed a dozen ordinary men.

Mrs. Maybrick was eventually sentenced to death by the judge, Sir James Stephen, who spoke for two days in charging the jury. He said it was impossible for them not to find her guilty in the fact of the medical evidence. The judge died some time later in a madhouse.

From the time of Mrs. Maybrick's conviction her mother, the Baroness de Roques, was unremitting in her efforts in behalf of the prisoner. She succeeded in having the death sentence commuted to penal servitude for life and finally has obtained the freedom of her daughter, to whose release from prison she had devoted her life. The baroness was aided by influential friends on both sides of the Atlantic.

In 1900, after the death of Lord Russell of Killowen, chief justice of England, a letter, which he had written to Mrs. Maybrick in 1895 was discovered. It showed he was convinced that she ought never to have been convicted and it has been generally understood that all the recent American ambassadors to the court of St. James have done everything possible to obtain Mrs. Maybrick's pardon.

The fact of her probable release was used at a season for securing the postponement of a trial last year of lawsuits bearing on Mrs. Maybrick's interest in land in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia until she was able personally to testify. If she was not able to testify in these suits Mrs. Maybrick and her mother would have lost all title and interest in the many thousands of acres of land involved in the case.

LIPTON MAY RACE AGAIN.

Significance in Fact That Shamrock III. Is Not for Sale.

It may or may not be significant of Sir Thomas J. Lipton's intentions regarding a fourth challenge for the America's cup that Shamrock III. has been withdrawn from the market. When the first and second Shamrocks were sold last November it was generally understood that the third Shamrock was for sale also. About ten days ago a yacht broker made an inquiry concerning the Shamrock of J. Keithly Crowther, Sir Thomas' manager in this country, and was unhesitatingly informed that she was not for sale. Mr. Crowther succeeded Mr. Davis as the Lipton agent shortly after the conclusion of the last match for the America's cup. Sir Thomas is expected in the first week of September.

To Fight for Suffrage.

Dr. John F. Reyburn, one of the oldest physicians in Washington and noted as one of those who attended President Garfield the summer he died, has begun to agitate the issue of suffrage for the people of the District of Columbia. Dr. Reyburn was a delegate to the Chicago convention and has decided to use the authority of his position as the official leader of the Republicans of Washington to make headway, if possible, for the suffrage movement. Dr. Reyburn says he intends to lead a vigorous movement before the next congress.

CONSUL IN SERIOUS TROUBLE.

Ambion W. Tourgee Accused of Making False Reports.

Ambion W. Tourgee, familiar to readers of post-rebellion literature as the author of "The Fool's Errand" and other works dealing with the reconstruction period, has recently got into trouble with the wine shippers of Bordeaux, France, where he is the consul for the United States. They claim that Tourgee has made false reports to his government regarding the blending of Bordeaux wines with those of Bilbao, Spain, and the sale of the product as pure French wine. The association of wine growers at the French center of this industry condemn Mr. Tourgee roundly and refer to him with fine Gallic sarcasm as a romantic novelist not in keeping with his duties as a government representative.

Effect of Political Honors.

Among those who crowded around Senator Fairbanks after the nomination at the Chicago convention was an old Indiana lawyer who somewhat embarrassed the vice presidential candidate by piping out: "Ah, Charlie, I knew you'd get to be a big man one of these days." "Seems to me, judge," replied the senator, "that I was pretty big when you used to teach me law." "Yes, Charlie, you were a tall lad," cried the old man in a high voice. "Nature has set your head pretty high, but this nomination will fill you out about the chest."

HUNTING IN AFRICA.

EXCITEMENT ATTENDANT ON THE SPORT.

Shooting of Antelope Brought Undesirable Company to Share the Spoils—Campaign of Revenge Prevented by Untoward Circumstance.

A hunter of big game in Central Africa tells the following story of what happened one day after he shot an antelope: "Leaving the boy who was with me to cut off the buck's head and follow me, I tracked the wounded bull. Its spoor took me in the direction of camp and presently turned into a patch of fresh green grass about breast deep. I went through this for a bit and then stepped on a high tuft of old grass to look for my boy. As I glanced around I saw the head of a lion about forty yards away. Only two cartridges remained in my pouch. However, I raised my rifle to fire at the head, when up popped another, then another, until I counted no fewer than six lions. While following the spoor I had been going round in a half circle and just beyond the lions I could see my boy coming toward me straight for them. They were all watching me by this time and I signaled to him to go back, but he did not understand me, and still came on until about thirty yards from them. He was carrying the lechwe (antelope) head on his shoulders and immediately he saw the lions he stopped dead and I heard him ejaculate 'Hoh!' As they turned their heads at his and one of them grunted something also resembling 'Hoh!' As they turned I had a splendid opportunity for a shot at the head of the biggest, but with the ammunition I had and the position of myself and the native in the long grass I thought it rather risky.

"I shouted to the boy to make a detour and come alongside me, which he did, the lions watching him all the time. We tried to drive them out of the grass into the open beyond, where I would have felt safe in firing, but they were feeding on the lechwe which I had wounded and as we approached a lioness put her tail in the air and growled. So considering discretion the better part of valor, and as dusk was coming on, we beat a orderly retreat. We were near the head of the channel which I had crossed previously, and to get round the top end where it was shallow, to cross, we had to walk within sight of the lions for 200 or 300 yards and then wade across knee deep. When I got to the other side I looked back and against the skyline; they had followed us to the water's edge.

"There was not light enough to risk a shot and as I had hopes of meeting them on the morrow when better prepared I did not disturb them, but made my way back to camp, where I arrived after dark. The others had each bagged a lechwe and I was informed that the cook and another boy had seen two lions not far from where I met them. We prepared bullets that night and next morning at daybreak went out after them. We found the remains of the lechwe and followed the lions' spoor till we came to where they had crossed a wide and deep channel during the night. Without a canoe we could not cross this and had to give up the hunt."

Childish Curiosity.

Little Florence, aged six, had been spending the afternoon with a neighbor who had just lost a near relative, and who was working very hard to get some mourning gowns made.

Florence had been very good and asked no questions, but when she returned home her inquisitiveness asserted itself. Her mother explained as clearly as she could, and for a few moments Florence sat in deep silence. Then:

"Are all her gowns going to be black, mother?"
"Yes, dear."
"And is she going to wear black nightgowns?"
"No, dear."

"Well, doesn't she feel just as bad in the night as she does in the day?"
—Montreal Herald.

At Bedtime.

Sing him a song of a downy bed,
Of a pillow white as snow,
Of a blanket, quiver, curly hair,
A nodding to and fro;
Of a voyage afar
To a twinkling star
Where the dream-folk are, you know,
All resting soft on woolly white clouds—
Make haste, he's ready to go!
Then sing him a song of the old Sand-man,
Such a funny old beggar he!
Who sprinkles the eyes with the silver
Who said:
From the shores of the Noddy Sea,
Sing eyes that wink
And eyes that blink
Till they seem to shrink to wee;
The drooping lids and the drowsy eyes,
Of the land where the dream-folk be.
Sing "Bye-bye," the lullaby
The zephyr breezes bear
From the drowsy dreamland of the
Why
Whither the lad goes fare,
Sing soft and slow
Till sweet and low
The touch his brow with a feather,
Then tuck his pillow in a feather,
Night kiss,
And tuck down the stair.

Plan Up-Hill Ditch.

Surveys are being made for a ditch which will cause the waters of the Grand river, in Colorado, to flow over the Continental Divide into the Cache la Poudre river. The canal will run for 10,000 feet up the mountain side, and is expected to divert 300,000 feet of water daily, for irrigation purposes.

Oxford History Professor.

King Edward has approved the appointment of Charles Harding Pirth, M. A., LL. D., to be regius professor of modern history in the University of Oxford in succession to the late Frederick Yorke Powell.

AND THE TRAMP FLED.

Love's Rhapsodies Too Much for Knight of the Road.

The tramp awoke after his long sleep. The afternoon had been hot, and he had stretched himself on the grass behind one of the park benches to doze away the time. It was now night. The sound of voices was in his ear. He peered cautiously through the darkness, and saw that two indistinct forms occupied the seat.

"Wonder what they're up to?" he murmured. "I'll just listen. P'raps I'll hear something to me advantage."

Suddenly, from the direction of the seat, came a rippling, silvery laugh, and then a voice.

"My ownest pettest!"
"Is me 'oos-owhest 'ittle goosiest goosie?" (Kiss-kiss-kiss!) "Oh, Doodle, why is 'oo so dreedy?"
"Why, my pettest, because me loves 'oo more than thousand's of worlds, my tweetest, diamond-studded, radium angel!" (Kiss-kiss-kiss!)

With a wild shriek the tramp fled into the vast, lonely night.—London Answers.

Dr. Parkhurst Guided the Guide.

The Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst goes to Switzerland every year for his summer holidays and climbs the Alps. He has many friends among the Swiss guides, whom he warmly admires.

"Only once did I know one of these men fail in his duty," he said to a friend the other day. "I took him to guide me on an ascent, and was much surprised that he did not insist on my carrying a big flask of brandy for the party, as the guides usually do."

"But I soon found out the reason. He was hopelessly drunk already, and after he had staggered half a mile up the slope he sat down on a rock, looking utterly bewildered, and confessed that he didn't know where he was or where to lead me. He had been over the ground a thousand times, but I had to guide the guide home."

Raise Lemons in Colorado.

The raising of lemons is a new industry being carried on successfully in Florence, Colo. The lemons grown in that city are said to surpass in excellence those shipped from the southern states, as well as those received in this country from Spain.

Women Students in Colleges.

There are 15,000 girls at colleges in the United States studying and preparing for careers in exactly the same way as the men students at these institutions. There are 335 colleges where men and women are educated together, Princeton being the only great university where women are not admitted to part or all of the course. There are 150 colleges for women alone, the chief of which are Vassar, Barnard, Bryn Mawr, Radcliff, Wellesley and Smith. There are, besides, 22,000 girls studying at professional schools throughout the country.

Maudlin and Magdalen.

"Maudlin and Magdalen are one and the same word," said a philologist. "Magdalen, in England, is pronounced as though it were spelled 'Maudlin.' If you have ever been to Oxford, you will have heard high praises there of 'Maudlin' College; but, though they say 'Maudlin,' they write 'Magdalen.' Magdalen, in fact, is the college name—'Magdalen,' pronounced 'Maudlin.'"

One of the "Six Hundred."

Alexander Sutherland, the man who led the charge of the famous "Light Brigade" at Balaklava, is living in the city of Denver, Colo. He is 94 years of age, but has expressed a desire to attend the Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis, in response to an invitation received from the school children of that city. As the bugler of the brigade, Mr. Sutherland led the charge at the command of the earl of Cardigan, and was one of the 150 heroes who returned from the field of carnage.

Justice Brown Renews His Youth.

Justice Henry B. Brown of the United States supreme court, who astonished his colleagues and friends by quietly getting married a few days ago, is in Atlantic City with his bride. The justice, who is verging on three score and ten, appeared on the boardwalk the other day clad in cream-colored flannel coat and trousers, canvas shoes, negligee shirt and blazing red necktie, the outfit giving him a decidedly youthful air.

Revenue from Public Houses.

Last year there were 99,465 licenses granted to publicans, beerhouses and hotel keepers in England and Wales, from which the revenue was $6,947,860. London alone had 7,136, the amount received being $1,261,305.

Up to the Bride.

"If you ever marry," said Wedderly to his friend Singleton, "will you go abroad on your wedding tour?"
"I certainly will if my bride can afford it," answered Singleton.

His Experience.

Singleton—Do you believe that marriage is a failure?
Wedderly—No; merely an assignment in which the wife is a preferred creditor.

TICKLE GRASS
BY BYRON WILLIAMS

The Apple Bloom.
Dainty Miss Apple Bloom,
Bathed in thy sweet perfume,
Why do you bushy
Blossom with beauties blent,
Aura most redolent,
Whyfore thy flush?

Is there some lover nigh,
Beaming with tender eye,
Earnest but meek?
Is it the wind that fans
Or yet the sun that tans,
Red on thy cheek?

"Ah, no!" the blossom said,
Shaking her pretty head,
'Tis not for him!
But once a courtier, true,
Stopped here his love to sue,
Under this limb!

"I stole my lady's blush,
Phoedra her plighting flush
From 'twig above!
Now when men look at me,
They in my petals see
Blushes of love!"

The poet tells us that pride is in every man's heart. This may or may not be true, but we know pride is in the heart of Marx Spinkler—because a Nebraska exchange says so, like this: "Mark Spinkler is the proud possessor of a new cultivator which he will use on his farm in Riverside addition."

Pitiable individuals who annually suffer from that catarrhal affection of the mucous membrane of the eyes and air passages, known as hay fever, hay asthma and hay bacillus, will be interested in knowing the source of this baffling disease. Those who for years have nervously and painfully endured the itching, the sneezing and the weeping attendant upon hay fever will be much gratified to locate the seat of the trouble which, according to a country exchange is as follows: "Ten carloads of hay are shipped from Fever station every week! Would an injunction bring us relief?"

Hildreth (Neb.) Telescope—Our old friend, John Quadhammen drank some "tea" last Saturday that was too hot even for him. John got thirsty that day and as he has cut out everything stronger than tea, he went to the stove, took up the teapot and commenced to drink. A short time previous, John's daughters had poured out all the tea and substituted pure lye with the intention of cleaning the utensil, but John didn't know this and got a good swig before he had time to realize what was up, or rather down. He says it went down slick but was infernally hot and didn't taste as good as some liquids he has swallowed. We will bet our old hat the next time John takes a drink he will investigate a little closer.

Faith.

"Where are you going, Oh, little stream,
Tumbling along with your endless song?
What is your mission? What harbor
Do you bound?
Stay on, ye prattler, your journey
long!"

"Hinder me not, oh, you boulder gray:
I'm in a hurry! Don't interfere!
God made this song for my rills to sing;
He knows the way and I have no fear!"

Telling along, with your lead apace,
This is the answer, my friend, for you!
God made the path for your feet to tread,
He knows the way and will see you through!"

The country editor has a plethora of fun. He says: "Dr. Smith is getting ready to celebrate. He has a wooden cannon in front of his office. If Doc would load 'er with pills he might, wing a few new patients July 4th." The next time "Doc" sees the editor he grins, buys him a five-cent cigar and allows its "about time he got down there to settle his subscription account. The editor scoffs at the need of money, says any old time will do, and they separate with smiles in their hearts for each other. Joyful is the lot of the rural scribe!"

Fine Business.

Society in New Hampshire is "fine business" if this from an exchange is dependable: "The entire evening was replete with the choicest events, which make a social gathering perfect from the arrival of the guests, when they were escorted to the punch bowl and served by the delightful hostess to that queen of liquors, to the finish of the entertainment, was there a moment's secession of pleasure abounding."

Just to prove that they are no longer taking turnips and hooked nose squash in payment for their papers, many country editors run items like this one: "Cash subscription No. 3 rolled into this office last Thursday evening. The editor's old time friend, Dr. Hinckley, brought in the cash, together with his blessing. Both were promptly accepted."

Sentimentalists will find sweet joy

in this from an Indian Territory newspaper: "We understand that Clarence Robb started for Kansas the other day and got as far as Mr. Britton's, where he had a talk with Miss Maude, and now he says that he will never leave Mills county." 'Rah for Clarence!"

There is something wrong with an Iowa country editor who says: "Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barney are rejoicing over the arrival of a nine-pound baby boy. Both mother and child are doing nicely." And forgets to add, "but the old man is sick a-bed!"

From Kansas comes the news that William Winters has shipped a consignment of cats to an Amarillo produce house. George had undoubtedly read of the unprecedented shortage of the supply of fiddlestrings now agitating the metropolises.

Ucud Philosophy In Fishing.

Herbert Spencer once won a curious holiday in the house of Sir Francis Powell, the president of the Scottish academy, and while angling for trout he happened to drop his eye glasses into a deep pool of the river. In the evening he related his misadventure to his host and the guests, and said that he was prepared to bet that he would recover the pincenes from the bottom of the pool. His friends declared that this was an impossible feat, but Herbert Spencer still offered to make the bet. His challenge was accepted by one of the visitors. Upon the following morning Spencer returned to the house with the missing eye-glasses. He had fastened a strong magnet on the end of his fishing line and fished for the glasses until it came into contact with their steel rims.

Pump Water by Electricity.

Electricity carried overland by wire some distance is being used in Oregon to pump water in irrigating farms. If the experiment proves successful, the system will be developed further.

Proved Beyond a Doubt.

Middlesex, N. Y., July 25.—(Special.)—That Rheumatism can be cured has been proved beyond a doubt by Mrs. Betsey A. Clawson, well known here. That Mrs. Clawson had Rheumatism and had it bad, all her acquaintances know. They also know she is now cured. DODD'S Kidney Pills did it. Mrs. Clawson tells the story of her cure as follows:

"I was an invalid for most five years caused by Inflammatory Rheumatism, helpless two-thirds of the time. The first year I could not do as much as a baby could do; then I rallied a little bit and then a relapse. Then a year ago the gout set in my hands and feet. I suffered untold agony and in August, 1903, when my husband died I could not ride to the grave.

"I only took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and in two weeks I could wait on myself and saw my own wood. I dug my own potatoes and gathered my own garden last fall. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills put the kidneys in shape to take all the uric acid out of the blood.

A Queer Question.

Prof. Leopold Barisen is in charge of the great X-ray machine in the Educational building at the St. Louis fair, and, naturally, in this position, he is called upon to answer innumerable strange questions.

Prof. Barisen recounted the other afternoon the old queries about X rays that some boys had put to him in the morning.

"I was rather in the position," he said, "of a Harvard instructor who was lecturing on oxygen. 'Is oxygen,' the instructor said, 'is essential to all animal existence; there could be no life without it, and yet, strange to say, it was discovered only a century ago.'"

"What did they do, then," a student asked, "before it was discovered, sir?"

Rail Rate Oddity.

It costs nearly $2 more to go on an excursion train from Berlin to Basle, Switzerland, than from Basle to Berlin. The difference is due to the fact that in one direction the baggage is free, but not in the other; wherefore a reduction is made in the latter case in the price of the ticket.

Lion and Unicorn.

The lion is the emblem of England and the unicorn of Scotland. On the union of Scotland and England in 1603, one of the lions was removed from the British coat of arms, and the unicorn substituted.

RACE DONE?

Not a Bit of It.

A man who thought his race was run made a food find that brought him back to perfect health.

"One year ago I was unable to perform any labor and in fact I was told by my physicians that they could do nothing further for me. I was fast sinking away, for an attack of grip had left my stomach so weak it could not digest any food sufficient to keep me alive.

"There I was just wasting away, growing thinner every day and weaker, really being snuffed out simply because I could not get any nourishment from food.

"Then my sister got after me to try Grape-Nuts food which had done much good for her and she finally persuaded be and although no other food had done me the least bit of good my stomach handled the Grape-Nuts from the first and this food supplied the nourishment I had needed. In three months I was so strong I moved from Albany to San Francisco and now on my three meals of Grape-Nuts and cream every day I am strong and vigorous and do fifteen hours' work.

"I believe the sickest person in the world could do as I do, eat three meals of nothing but Grape-Nuts and cream and soon be on their feet again in the flush of best health like me.

"Not only am I in perfect physical health again but my brain is stronger and clearer than it ever was on the old diet. I hope you will write to the names I send you about Grape-Nuts for I want to see my friends well and strong.

"Just think that a year ago I was dying but to-day, although I am over 55 years of age most people take me to be less than 40, and I feel just as young as I look." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason.

Under above call Charlevoix County is entitled to six delegates.

Smell and Taste.
The sense of smell is most nearly allied to that of taste. Hearing and seeing depend upon nerve responses to vibrations in the air and in the ether. In order to taste a substance it has to be wholly or partially dissolved; in order to smell a substance it must encounter the olfactory organs as a vapor, an emanation, a cloud of particles arising from odoriferous matter.

Burial.
"How much better I like the word 'burial' than 'funeral.' The burial is just the fulfillment of our latest prayers. 'None of self and all of thee.' The poor pettiness of that which is not living and loving and so glorified in him, all buried away, and nothing precious in his sight, and so in ours, can be buried there."—Letters of Emeline Russell Gurney.

Sporting Blood.
Blizzer—I heard that Bilgewater jumped out of his yacht and was drowned.

Blizzer—Oh, no! He was racing and did it to lighten his boat and thereby win the race.

A Mean Trick.
"That's the meanest man I ever ran across," said the book agent.
"What has he done?"
"Kept me calling day after day, and finally said he didn't care anything about reading, but he enjoyed hearing me talk."

His "Better Half."
A newly married man told us a tale of woe the other day which happens to every newly married man. When he got married his wife gave him half the clothes cupboard, but in only three weeks all his clothes were hanging on nails driven into the wall.—Exchange.

What to Do in Rheumatism.
A professor at one of the allopathic colleges is reported to have said: "There are two things to be done in rheumatism—grin and bear it or bear it and not grin."—Homeopathic Envoy.

MISS JOHNSON SEVERELY BURNED

Miss Ethel Johnson burned her hand very severely and applied Banner Salve which stopped the pain and healed the burn quickly. Miss Johnson lives at Algonquin Terrace, Rochester, N. Y. Banner salve cures cuts, burns sores, and is the best cure.

Edam Cheeses in History.

The famous Edam cheeses which grace the table of every well kept hotel and restaurant in the country, said a prominent grocery man, "are often a subject of inquiry as to what they are and whence they come. Their round shape, with that peculiar reddish purple tinge, is a marked contrast with all other cheese productions of the world. There is nothing new fashioned about them, for if colonial tradition is true Mynheer Peter Heyvis of Edam, Holland, who brought a lot in the hold of his Dutch ship in 1631 to the Delaware river, so tickled the fancy of the Indians with these odd looking articles that he bought a large tract of land, afterward named the Valley of the Swans, from the Redskins with a barrel of his Edam cheeses. After the cheese had been devoured the gentle aborigines repented themselves of their rash speculation and a month later massacred the entire Dutch colony."

Irish Wit.

I must admit that Irish wit is often of the most mordant and even sardonic kind. Was there ever a more sardonic stroke of description than that O'Connell gave of Peel's bloodlessness? "His smile was like the silver plate on a coffin."

Of another and lower quality, but good of its kind, is the following fishwife's sarcasm: A friend of mine was waiting his turn to be served in a fish shop while a little weazened old gentleman priced every fish in the shop. "How much is this—and this—and this—and this?" etc. till the exasperated shopwoman exclaimed: "Ah! Go on out of that wick ye! It isn't fish ye want, but information!"—London Answers.

Babies' Cry.

The instant a child is born it cries. This is a providential expansion of the lungs and not, as many supposed, an indication of suffering or pain. Well developed, well formed and healthy babies cry lustily at birth, while the weak child has a feeble little cry. For the first few months the cry is tearless, and it is not till the second year that lachrymal or tear ducts are fully developed. After that there is a copious shedding, and a very slight cause will lead to crying.

Definition of a Baby.

"What is a baby?" is asked, and then the following complicated definition is given: The prince of walls, a dweller in Lapland, the morning caller, noonday crawler, midnight brawler, only possession that never excites envy, a key that opens the hearts of all classes, the rich and the poor alike, in all countries; a stranger with suspicious cheek that enters the house without a stitch to his back and is received with open arms by all.

Measuring Hides.

The ancient tanner paid an expert high wages to guess at the contents of his hides when sold by measure. Today an unskilled workman hands the irregular shaped pieces to a little machine that looks something like a table with a double top which, quicker than the mind of the expert can guess it, reckons with exactness the square contents in both the metric and standard systems.

Hair Vigor

Why is it that Ayer's Hair Vigor does so many remarkable things? Because it is a hair food. It feeds the hair, puts new life into it. The hair cannot keep from growing. And gradually all the dark, rich color of early life comes back to gray hair.

"When I first used Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was about all gray. But now it is a rich black and as thick as I could wish."

Quite a crowd from here attended the Farmers' Friendly Picnic at Norwood, Thursday. The big lake was too rough and the steamers which left here with passengers did not venture out and as a result a number came back from Charlevoix. The crowd drove up to Norwood in any old kind of a vehicle available. The picnic itself was a success—it could not be otherwise with George H. Van Pelt pushing it. The East Jordan Military Band was there and much in evidence. Hon. Fred M. Warner and Patrick Henry Kelley were present as scheduled and each gave a good talk. The ball game between East Jordan and Petoskey was a fudge. Petoskey sent one of her pitchers and a pick-up team. # AN EXPLODED THEORY

BY CLAS FOREST McLEAN

Copyright, 1901, by The Storytory Pub. Co. (All rights reserved.)

They had all heard great stories of greater trout taken from Howe's pool, a pond formed by the widening of a little stream which partially drained the range of hills near Phillips' ranch, then a half-day's ride from Seattle. Morse, now a mining monarch, was merely a prospector in those days, and one Sunday evening he and Milman, the city attorney, and Barnes, the general storekeeper, were sitting in the little hotel office, discussing a proposed outing of a couple of days, when in came the fourth of their coterie, the rotund and genial Biller, puffing and blowing, but with elation in his eyes.

"Boys," he exclaimed, "I have the idea of a lifetime—and inspiration of genius! Let's spend our Friday and Saturday at Howe's Pool, fishing." Biller's suggestion was hailed with acclaim and unanimously adopted without the formality of a vote. The few days intervening before their departure were filled with fish talk and active preparation, and those unacquainted with the destination of the party might have thought it was going around the world. Thursday evening found them in Phillips' rough but cozy sitting room, talking over the anticipated sport of the morrow. Everything so far had gone according to schedule, the only deviations from the program having been made by Morse, who surreptitiously slipped into one of his many pockets two long-fused dynamite "U. V. Waterproof" cartridges from the mine house, and Tips, Biller's water spaniel, who at the last moment insisted upon accompanying his master.

A deliciously exhilarating morning found the anglers and their host engrossed in endeavors to lure from its dark depths the famous denizens of Howe's Pool, but the day slipped by without even a single "strike." Phillips apologetically admitted that the fishing was poor—"the day a bit too bright," and one or two other conditions not just perfect—to which his guests deferentially agreed, but with repressed displeasure. When the second day had almost passed with no better results, everybody was cross, even Tips refusing to indulge in the distracting amusement of barking and hunting shore birds.

It was then that Morse resolved upon the heroic measure for which he had come prepared. Assembling his fellow-followers of old Isaac, he cautiously broached his scheme for making sure of some fish—if there were any in the pool—even if they wouldn't bite. Its awful illegality—and perhaps the presence of the city attorney—brought forth a volley of objections, but eventually the thought of returning with overflowing creels, to turn the jeers of a scoffing crowd to envy and admiration, overcame the scruples of the most conservative.

Acting under Morse's instructions, all retired from the banks of the pool to positions from which they could just see its surface. A moment later a "long-timed" dynamite cartridge flew from his hand and, describing a graceful parabola, splashed fairly into the center of the pond, where it floated, rocking gently upon the widening circles of ripples it had caused.

But while the fishermen watched with indrawn breath, they heard another and louder splash. It was Tips, faithful to the instincts of a long line retrieving ancestors, paddling as if for life, toward the floating infernal machine, while Biller, a hundred feet from the bank, alternately called his net and raved and swore!

As Tips reached the cartridge, Morse was mentally calculating the number of seconds that would elapse before there would be no more dog, and it was not till the faithful animal, grasping the shell firmly between his teeth, turned suddenly shoreward, that the real horror of the situation flashed upon him and his companions. Then, with a united yell of dismay, they turned and very literally took to the woods, each man looking for the woodiest portion. As they dashed for cover, each hoped that, whatever the dog might do, it would not follow him. Tips had gained the bank, and as they later they could plainly hear the pattering feet of the animated bombshell and the deep breathing and snorting of poor Biller, who lumbered along in the rear, like a slow freight train over a rough track.

Almost simultaneously the thought came to the pursued that a dog always follows his master, and the others rejoiced that they did not own a dog, while they realized that the retriever was certainly following Biller, and so, looking backward to note his whereabouts, they crouched behind trees out of the line of his retreat and gazed fascinated upon the dreadful spectacle.

Emitted a hoarse shriek of hopeless terror.

On wallowed Biller, in a frenzy of fear, the dog rapidly closing upon the hundred yards intervening. Would the cartridge never explode? Could it be possible that the water or the dog's bite had rendered it harmless. Soon the question would be answered. On they rushed, the ponderous fugitive panting spasmodically as his pace flagged, too terrified to pick his steps and too breathless to cry aloud. "But as he tripped over a fallen log and beheld Tips bounding toward him with wagging tail, he involuntarily emitted a hoarse shriek of hopeless terror. Just as he dropped safely behind the prostrate tree trunk there was a frightful detonation. Tips had vanished.

She Took His Advice.
"I am so very unhappy, Mr. Brief," said the fair petitioner for a divorce to her lawyer.

"Is there anything in particular wrong?" the legal gentleman asked sympathetically.

"No, nothing in particular," sighed the fair petitioner. "I am simply miserably blue and depressed. But I suppose that is something for which you cannot advise."

"Well, madam," said the lawyer, swinging around in his chair, "I will say frankly that if you were a man I should advise you to go out and drink three or four cocktails. But, as it is, I am afraid I am not competent to deal with the situation."

Three or four days later the fair petitioner again called at the office of her lawyer. This time she was all smiles.

"And, oh, Mr. Brief!" she said, when she arose to go at the end of the conference. "I want to thank you very much for your advice as to how to get rid of the blues. Like all your other advice, it was excellent."

"You—you—" gasped the lawyer.

"Yes," said the lady, "I took it."

Senator Hoar's Record Outdone.
Senator Hoar still carries a pocket-knife which he took with him to Washington in 1860. The venerable Massachusetts statesman has rather prided himself on the record thus made, but has just learned that another citizen of the bay state, Joshua Crane of Dedham, has one which he bought in Australia in 1869.

WHY ICE DOES NOT SINK.

Writer Explains That Water Alone Is Expanded by Cold.

It is one of the most extraordinary things in this extraordinary world, writes Henry Martyn Hart in a magazine, that water should be the sole exception to the otherwise universal law that all cooling bodies contract and therefore increase in density.

Water contracts as its temperature falls and therefore becomes heavier, and sinks until it reaches 39 degrees. At this temperature water is the heaviest; this is the point of its maximum density. From this point it begins to expand. Therefore in winter, although the surface may be freezing at a temperature of 32 degrees, the water at the bottom of the pool is 6 or 7 degrees warmer.

Suppose that water, like everything else, had gone on contracting as it cooled until it reached the freezing point; the heaviest water would have sunk to the lowest place and there become ice. Although it is true that eight pints of water become nine pints of ice, and therefore icebergs float, showing above the surface an eighth of their bulk, still, had the water when at the bottom turned into ice, the stones would have locked it in their interstices and hold it there, and before winter was over the whole pool would become solid ice and all the poor fish would be entombed in clear, beautiful crystal.

Davy Crockett Popular.

Davy Crockett when he was first elected to congress is described as a "finely proportioned man, about six feet high, 45 years of age, of very frank, pleasing and open countenance." He was dressed in homespun and wore a black fur cap on his head when seen by a traveler who called at his house. Going thus into public life, he began to show "an unusual strength of mind and a memory almost miraculous." Uncultured, ignorant, terribly handicapped by lack of training and opportunity, he overcame it all. In Washington he won national popularity. "We see in the Crockett of 1834," says Hough, "a figure not approached by any other American statesman so nearly as by that other rugged westerner, Abraham Lincoln."

Popular Mexican Official.

The recent election of Felix Romero to the office of president of the supreme court of the republic of Mexico has given widespread pleasure, particularly in judicial circles and among the leading politicians of the country. Mr. Romero, like the late President Benito Juarez and President Porfirio Diaz, is a native of Oaxaca and was a schoolfellow of President Diaz, both attending the Councilor's seminary of that city. When the constitution was framed in 1857 he was one of the signers. Of all the others who signed the document there are besides himself but three living—Ignacio Mariscal, minister of foreign relations; Justino Fernandez, minister of justice, and Senator Benito Gomez Farias.

"Last Leaves" Celebrate.

A unique celebration, which will be repeated next year, has been held in McGinnis' park, Christiana, Pa. It was called, "Last Leaves," because of its being a reunion of sixteen men of the neighborhood whose ages are over the allotted three score years and ten. Their united years are 1,264. The oldest man was Brisher Spiler, now in his eighty-eighth year, who is also the oldest fox hunter in Lancaster county and still follows the hounds on horseback. The exercises consisted of a literary and musical programme, fully 500 people being present.

Come Redressed.

"A facetious parson lately preached to his congregation, among which are to be seen some of our most fashionable fair ones, from the text of St. Paul, 'Let the women be covered.' But this pleasantry having occasioned a vacancy in some of the best pews of his chapel-of-ease, he has written a circular apology, in which, after confessing the offense he has given his lovely auditors, he declares he wishes only to see them redressed."—London Times, June 7, 1800.

High Rent for Apartments.

Miss Faith Moore, daughter and heiress of a millionaire, has broken all records by renting an apartment of fifteen rooms in the building at 787 Fifth avenue, New York, at an annual charge of $15,000. The rooms are all unusually large, several being twenty-six feet long by fourteen feet wide. The highest price hitherto known was $12,000 paid for an apartment not far from that to be occupied by Miss Moore.

Electric Line in Denmark.

"An electric line, 100 kilometers in length, is to be constructed between Frederikssund and Nestved, in Denmark. It will cross a part of the island of Zealand, and is to be completed, after the model of the Lake Como railway, by 1905. It is said that this is the first electric line in Denmark."

DAIRY

Dairying in Holland.

In an address to Indiana dairymen, Prof. G. L. McKay said: "No country is more interesting to a traveler who is interested in dairying than little Holland. The country is peculiarly adapted for dairying, owing to its cool, moist climate. The northern part of Holland presents a very unique picture to the traveler, with its small, green fields dotted here and there with numerous windmills and the large herds of Holstein-Friesian cows quietly grazing. The monstrous long-armed windmills, resembling an old lighthouse above the sea, are used for various kinds of work. They grind grain, pulverize rock and manufacture paper, but their most important duty is to pump out the water from the marshes into canals so it may find an exit to the sea, submerged. The lowland would be submerged. Excepting Greece and Great Britain, no country has so many inlets as Holland. The Hollanders, as a people, might be termed a little slow, but the government is certainly not slow in appreciating the benefits that the country derives from dairying, as eight instructors are employed, largely aided by the government, whose duty it is to give free instruction wherever it is required.

Everything pertaining to dairying is kept scrupulously clean, even the cows in many cases being washed before they are milked. I have never seen a place where the old adage, 'Cleanliness is next to Godliness,' comes in better, and I believe that the fine flavor of the Holland cheese is largely due to their cleanliness. The slow, quiet customs of the people seem also to have been transmitted to the cows.

Good grass land or land in the dairy section brings a much higher price than that in any other part of the agricultural district. In the dairy belt of Holland, dairying is the chief occupation of the farmer, hence every care is given to the production of milk and the care of milk. The farmer, as a rule, does not try to follow any scientific method in feeding. Roots, hay and oil meal are fed. The oil meal is used only in the winter when cows are on dry feed. They have no set rule as regards the proportion of feed. This, they maintain, depends upon the judgment of the feeder and the cows he is feeding.

Legal Enactments Regarding Milk.

In every state the legal enactments regarding milk should be very stringent. There is no class of food that should be better protected than milk. The people that most need a pure food are those that depend most on milk. To give impure milk to an invalid or to an infant is often to destroy it. This is hardly true of any other food. No other food is so liable to adulteration as is milk. We do not believe that legal enactments will do all the work. It is only one of the ways of improving the supply. In saying this we are advocating a reform that is both in favor of the consumer and the producer. The purer the milk the more of it will be used, and the more of it is used the better will be the price—that is paid for it and the smaller the amount of the unused surplus left on the hands of the milk producer. In most of our states the laws are too lax regarding the adulteration of milk and sale of dirty milk. In states where the laws are quite stringent they are generally badly enforced, though there has been considerable improvement in this regard during the past few years. State laws are good, but city and village laws are probably more effective, because more likely to be enforced.

Improving the Milk Supply.

To improve the milk supply it is necessary to reach the producer, and he cannot be easily influenced. Our city friends are continually demanding cleaner milk, but little is done by them to secure it. It is certain that pure milk could be obtained in a very short time if the city people went to work in an energetic manner to get it. The producer cares little for public opinion so long as it does not touch him. But let an inspector come to his place and demand to see his cows and his sheds and say to him that if these are not satisfactory, his milk will not be received in such and such a place, he will begin to pay respectful heed to the desires of the inspector. The most influential inspector is the one that stands between the milk producer and his customers. This kind of an inspector needs no legal power. He needs only the power that comes from the consumers of milk. We believe that this is the way the milk situation is to be finally improved. It amounts to a boycott on the dairyman that will not keep his cows and his milkers and his milk clean.

When Color Is Used.

The use of color is not a thing that can be done entirely by rule, as the cow varies the amount of color she puts into the cream. Thus in the winter the cream is largely white, while in the summer months and when there is an abundance of grass, the color is deep yellow. June color has become proverbial. At this time of year the butter is frequently colored too highly on account of the rapid increase of color when the cows go onto grass. The buttermaker on the farm continues to put in the same amount that was added in the winter and the butter that goes onto the market has sometimes so much color in it that it is regarded by the best customers as undesirable.

Canada's Attractions.

The Dominion Exhibition is one that attracts hundreds of thousands each year. This year it will be held in Winnipeg, Manitoba (Canada), and with the material assistance given it by the Dominion Government, it will be one of the most successful ever held. Besides the number of special attractions that will be offered, there will be brought together an exhibit of the Agricultural and Industrial resources of Canada such as is rarely attempted by any country. Visitors will be there in large numbers from the United States, owing to the low rates offered by railroads, connecting with the Canadian roads. It is expected that Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, will be there on the opening day to declare the exhibition open. A splendid opportunity will be afforded by this exhibition to meet friends. Hotel accommodations will be quite ample.

Tells Profession by Profile.

Little Tommy was paying a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, old friends of his parents. The young man required a good deal of amusing, and his host and hostess were somewhat at a loss till the latter bethought her of the portrait album, which they went through together with much industry and attention to detail as to the past, present and probable future lives of the persons represented. Toward the end of the book were two of those astounding profiles, cut out of black paper, in which our forefathers—strange people—delighted.

"Those," said Mrs. Franklin, "are my father and mother." "Oh!" said Tommy. Then he hesitated, and scrutinized them more thoroughly. "I s'pose," he said, "they was chimney-sweeps, wasn't they?"

Wears Large Shoes.

There is a New York barber who wears a number 12 shoe. He was a sergeant in the German army, noted for his stability. He has a brother in the old country whose foot is so big that no ready-made shoe can be found to fit him. When he needs a new pair of shoes he buys a side of leather and sends for a shoemaker, who fashions his footwear at home. His foot is the largest in all Germany, about number 17 in size.

The Rock Island System has done and is doing notably good work in encouraging immigration to the Southwest. The agricultural and industrial opportunities of that section of country have been persistently and systematically set forth, as a result of which the number of people who have settled in Oklahoma, Indian Territory and Arkansas this spring has been greater than in years. On three days in February and March, over six thousand homeseekers took advantage of the low rates to the Southwest and removed themselves and their belongings to the "Land of Opportunity."

No life overflows with joy that has room only for its own care.

I am sure Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—Miss Tins, Bonny, Maple Street, Norwich, N. Y., Feb. 17, 1900.

Good wives and loving ones are synonymous.

Women who work, whether in the house, store, office or factory, very rarely have the ability to stand the strain. The case of Miss Frankie Orser, of Boston, Mass., is interesting to all women, and adds further proof that woman's great friend in need is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered misery for several years. My back ached and I had bearing down pains, and frequent headaches. I would often wake from a restless sleep in such pain and misery that it would be hours before I could close my eyes again. I dreaded the long nights and weary days. I could do no work. I consulted different physicians hoping to get relief, but finding that their medicines did not cure me, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was highly recommended to me. I am glad that I did so, for I soon found that it was the medicine for my case. Very soon I was rid of every ache and pain and restored to perfect health. I feel splendid, have a fine appetite, and have gained in weight a lot."—MISS FRANKIE ORSER, 14 Warren Street, Boston, Mass.

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak, sick and discouraged, and exhausted with each day's work. Some derangement of the feminine organs is responsible for this exhaustion, following any kind of work or effort. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as it has thousands of other women.

The case of Mrs. Lennox, which follows, proves this.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Last winter I broke down suddenly and had to seek the advice of a doctor. I felt sore all over, with a pounding in my head, and a dizziness which I had never experienced before. I had a miserable appetite, nothing tasted good, and gradually my health broke down completely. The doctor said I had female weakness, but, although I took his medicine faithfully, I found no relief.

"After two months I decided to try what a change would do for me, and as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was strongly recommended to me I decided to try it. Within three days I felt better, my appetite returned, and I could sleep. In another week I was able to sit up part of the day, and in ten days more I was well. My strength had returned, I gained fourteen pounds, and felt better and stronger than I had for years. I gratefully acknowledge its merits. Very sincerely yours, Mrs. BERT E. LENNOX, 120 East 4th St., Dixon, Ill."

The moment for action had arrived for James Blake. He compressed his lips, strode through the room and a moment later entered John's office. In the final struggle passion was triumphant, and he nerved himself as best he could for the ordeal.

John Burt looked up. The haggard expression on Blake's face alarmed him.

"What's happened, Jim? You're pale as a ghost!"

"It's a toothy," said Blake, rubbing his hand tenderly over his face. "I'm all right now, but it gave me a bad night. The dentist drew it this morning. I dined with General Carden. I suppose—"

"Has Jessie returned? Did you see her, Jim?"

"Miss Carden has not returned, but she is expected to sail next Tuesday," said Blake, nervously lighting a cigar. "I had hoped to bring you better news, John, but this is the best I can do. I thought it would be indefinite to ask General Carden for her address, since nothing but a cablegram could reach her before the sailing date."

A shade of disappointment passed over John Burt's face when Blake spoke, but a smile chased it away when he mentioned the time of her departure.

"You did right, Jim," he exclaimed. "Let's see: Tuesday is the thirteenth. I'm glad Jessie isn't superstitious. That should bring her to New York on the twentieth. That's thirteen days from now."

Blake turned ashen when the second thirteen was announced, but John's eyes were fixed on the innocent calendar, his thoughts were four thousand miles across a heaving ocean, and he didn't notice the superstitious agony imprinted on the other's face.

John Burt leaned back in his chair, and half closed his eyes.

Heaved, as has been stated, that every man has his price, and was willing to pay it, provided it promised returns.

Ambitious to pose as a Wall Street leader, Arthur Morris had assumed an enormous load of stocks, and the success of his ventures had given him the following which ever attends the leader in a rising market. In addition to this speculative risk, Morris had secured several valuable franchises, and was confidently in expectation of others at the hands of the city officials.

It will be sufficiently accurate to designate the Morris enterprise by the name of "The Cosmopolitan Improvement Company," and to state that its assets consisted in its acquired and prospective franchises. While purporting to afford relief from existing monopolies, it was in fact nothing more nor less than a well-planned attempt to acquire competitors. In the parlance of finance it was a "sand-bag."

Arthur Morris took up the work so auspiciously begun by his father—the wrecking of the L. & O. railroad company. In this campaign, General Carden and many others had lost their fortunes. Morris held control of the boards, and looked forward to the day when the stock would be wiped out and this splendid property fall into his hands. It was an open secret in railway circles that the L. & O. would then be absorbed by one of the two powerful companies which intersected its lines.

John Burt detected a flaw in this conspiracy. He set aside three battalions of a million dollars each, and held them in reserve against the entrenched wealth in the Morris vaults.

Then he again scanned the field of action, and with unerring judgment placed his finger on the weakest point in the Morris defenses. The Cosmopolitan Improvement Company was a rampart on paper. John Burt proposed to enfilade it. The highest

John! Heou are ye, John Burt! I'm blumb tickled ter death ter see ye! Well, well, well!

His honest eyes glistened as he threw his hat to the floor and grasped John's hands with a grip which have made the average man wince.

"And I'm glad to see you, Sam! It seems like coming back to life to meet you. Sit down and tell me all about yourself and Rocky Woods."

"The last time I saw ye, John," he said, "was under them maple trees in front of the Bishop house. I reckon you ain't forgot that night. You galloped away in the dark on my horse an' I ain't seen ye since. Now you begin at the place like in them stories: which run in the Fireside Companion where it says 'to be continued in our next,' and keep right on up to the present time."

John laughed and gave Sam a hurried sketch of his career. He told of his voyage around Cape Horn, his arrival in San Francisco, the search for the mine described by the lying sailor, his meeting with Jim Blake, the discovery of the gold mine, his association with John Hawkins and the incidents which led to the formation of the firm of James Blake & Company. John said nothing to lead Sam to think that Blake was only a representative, but the shrewd Yankee guessed the truth.

"I swan, John, this is tew good tew be true!" he gasped, shaking hands again. "You ain't told me half the truth, an' ye don't have tew. I can guess the rest. You're James Blake & Company. You're the man who's taught these Wall Street chaps a lesson! I'm proud of ye, John! Didn't I allers say somethin' like this would happen? An' you can't have too much good fortune to suit me, John, an' I don't want a thing from ye. I just like tew see ye win, because well, because ye orter win."

"Thank you, Sam."

"Don't it beat thunder how things turn out?" observed Sam. "I saw Jim when he was down tew Rocky Woods a few months ago, an' when he told me that he was the Jim Blake, you could a' knocked him down with a willow switch. I said tew myself then, that had it been John Burt wouldn't been surprised. An' now, by thunder, it was John Burt, who did it after all. But how about Jim Blake, John? If you're James Blake & Company, who'n the dickens is Jim?"

"I am not James Blake & Company," said John with a smile. "I am the Company. Jim has a substantial interest in the firm, and has done much towards its success."

"I'm mighty glad tew hear it," declared Sam, "but I reckon I can guess who does the thinkin'. Jim's a fine feller, but he alters was reckless an' careless, though maybe he's out-grown it. Where is he? Send fer him, John, an' we'll all talk it over together, like we did in the old days back in Rocky Woods."

John pressed a button and an attendant responded.

"If Mr. Blake is not busy, say that I should like to see him," he said.

"There's one thing you haven't told me about," said Sam, shifting his feet awkwardly. "I don't want tew pry into your private affairs, John, but have you seen her yet—I mean Miss Carden?"

The door opened softly and James Blake entered so silently that neither heard him.

"I have not seen Miss Carden," replied John. "She is not in the city."

"Yes she is," asserted Sam eagerly. "I saw her yesterday ridin' down Fifth avenue."

Dangerous Mexican Weed to Smoke.
Manuel Guerrero and Florencio Pino had the "marijuana" habit, and for the last few weeks had been smoking big cigarettes in which tobacco was mixed with the dangerous weed.

Tuesday afternoon the two men smoked cigarettes composed of tobacco in smaller proportion than marijuana, and after a few minutes ran amuck.

They went out into the street shouting, vociferating and attacking everybody. First they marched hand-in-hand, declaring that they were the bravest men on earth and would kill anybody who dared to say a word to the contrary, but at last Pino declared that he was still braver than his friend, and a fight followed, the two receiving dangerous wounds.

They were captured and sent to the hospital, where they had to be put into straightjackets. It is feared that the two men, if they recover from their wounds, will lose their minds permanently, as is often the case with marijuana smokers.—Mexican Herald.

Reading the Bible.
It was the meeting of the Christian Endeavor society. Near the close the leader suggested that each one should tell what part of the Bible he read the most, and give the reason.

The last one to speak was a man, who said with a little hesitation that he read the first chapter of Genesis more than any others.

A look of surprise and curiosity was manifest in all the listeners, as he went on to give his reason: "You see, I always resolve every New Year that I will begin and read the Bible through, but I never get very far and, of course, I always have to make a new beginning."—New York Tribune.

Franklin's View of Life.
When I reflect, as I frequently do, upon the felicity I have enjoyed, I sometimes say to myself, that were the offer made me, I would engage to run again, from beginning to end, the same career of life. All I would ask, should be the privilege of an author, to correct in a second edition, certain errors of the first.—Franklin.

WHAT THE BOY WANTED.

Odd Question Put to Chief Justice Shaw by an Audacious Boy.

Chief Justice Shaw, though very rough in his manner, was exceedingly considerate of the rights of poor and friendless persons. Sometimes persons unacquainted with the ways of the world would desire to make their own arguments or would in some way interrupt the business of the court. The chief justice commonly treated them with great consideration.

One amusing incident happened quite late in his life.

A rather dissipated lawyer who had a case approaching on the docket one day told his office boy to "go over to the supreme court and see what in hell they are doing." The court was hearing a very important case in which Mr. Choate was on one side and Mr. Curtis on the other. The bar and the courtroom were crowded with listeners. As Mr. Curtis was in the midst of his argument the eye of the chief justice caught sight of the young urchin, 10 or 11 years old, with yellow trousers stuffed in his boots and with his cap on one side of his head, gazing intently up at him.

He said: "Stop a moment, Mr. Curtis."

Mr. Curtis stopped and there was a profound silence as the audience saw the audacious little fellow standing entirely unconcerned.

"What do you want, my boy?" said the chief justice.

"Mr. P. told me to come over here and see what in hell you was up to," was the reply.

There was a dive at the unhappy youth by three or four of the deputies in attendance and a roar of laughter from the audience. The boy was ejected. But the gravity of the old chief justice was not disturbed.—Senator Hoar's autobiography.

BEATS A CONFIDENCE MAN.

Cook on Atlantic Liner Neatly Folds Alleged American Millionaire.

The classical confidence trick has been neatly played on a would-be swindler in Paris by his intended victim. The latter, a cook on a trans-Atlantic liner, had been done himself before and was too old a bird to be caught again. He struck up an acquaintance with an engaging but obviously sham American millionaire in the train to Paris, confiding to him that he had 40,000 francs in his bag and meant to amuse himself on the boulevards. "Well met, indeed," said the millionaire; "I have also made my pile and intend seeing the merry side of life in gay Paris."

They started the evening with an expensive dinner, paid for by the American millionaire. At coffee the latter exclaimed: "Hullo, I have not any cigars; suppose you go and buy some. You can leave your bag here, where it will be quite safe. But, as you might be suspicious here's my pocketbook. Keep it till you join me again."

As soon as the cook's back was turned the American millionaire, of course, bolted with the bag, but the latter only contained old newspapers and the cook's card, with the words: "I have been had before; you have met your match this time." In the would-be swindler's pocketbook was a sum of £24 in French notes, which the cook took to the police station, asking the officer to whom he told his tale with understandable relish to give the money to the poor.

Men as Projectiles.

A Sinhalese newspaper published in Colombo, Ceylon, is tired of the paucity of news about the war, and in order to regale its readers it now and then manufactures some, of which the following is a sample—a translation by the Ceylon Times:

"The sultan was communicated with regarding an approaching conflict, and, being a great friend of the Japanese monarch, he sent a specially trained company of swordsmen, each of whom with a sword in his hand is shot away from the mouth of a gun at the enemy just as ordinary shrapnel would be. On arrival among the enemy he makes short work of them by his sword play. These swordsmen are now fighting for Japan and gaining victories."

Small wonder that Kin-chow and Nan-Shan fell!—New York Commercial.

Pen Portrait of Andrew Lang.

In a new volume by a woman artist of London appears this description of Andrew Lang: "He struck me as being rather superciliously despondent; perhaps he feels that he has not done justice to himself; also deep down in him is evidently the belief that mankind is divided into two categories—those who have been to Oxford and those who have not. He is very hard some, indeed striking, with his dark eyes and snowy hair. Mr. Lang looks languidly sorry for nine-tenths of the human race."

"I took Peruna last summer when I was ill, run down, and had a headache and backache, and no ambition for anything. I now feel as well as I ever did in all my life, and all thanks to you for your excellent Peruna."
—Bess F. Healy.

The symptoms of summer catarrh are quite unlike in different cases, but the most common ones are general lassitude, played-out, tired-out, used-up, run-down feelings, combined with more or less heavy, stupid, listless, mental condition. Relief for food and the ability to digest food seems to be lost.

Skin eruptions, sallow complexion, biliousness, coated tongue, fitful, irregular sleep, help to complete the picture which is so common at this season.

Peruna so exactly meets all these conditions that the demand is so great for this remedy at this season of the year that it is nearly impossible to supply it.

Per-na Contains No Nuxetics.
One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring the drug habit.

Thousands of women suffer from pelvic catarrh and catarrhal nervousness and don't know it. If you feel lagged out, begin at once taking Dr. Hartman's Peruna. It will relieve your catarrhal affliction and all your organs will be restored to health. Buy a bottle to-day, as it will immediately alleviate your case.

GAVE COLOR TO GEMS.
Jeweler's Trick Not One Easily to Be Detected.
"There are tricks in all trades." In a town in Virginia there dwells a man who sells semi-precious stones, which are much admired because they are unusually brilliant.
A few days ago a customer asked to see some specimens of yellow topaz. "Ah!" he said, holding one up to the light, "this shows more remarkable coloring than any I have seen. How much do you want for this stone?"
The lapidary held it up to the light and told the price.
"I'll take it," said the customer. "I have never seen a yellow topaz which showed such remarkable colorings of red and blue."
Then the customer observed that the windows which faced the sunlight were set with a border of small panes of blue and red glass, and the light coming through them was reflected in the facets of the stone.
Afterwards he took the gem out into the cold light of the street and found that it was a plain yellow topaz. The blue and red lights were missing. They had been produced by the stained-glass windows.

"WHAT SHALL I DO, WHAT CAN I DO? I CANNOT GIVE HER UP! BY—ILL NOT GIVE HER UP FOR ANY MAN, NOT EVEN FOR JOHN BURT!"

"Two weeks, lacking a day," he mused aloud. "There is a long-standing account I should like to settle before Jessie returns," he said, turning to Blake, who had partly regained his composure.

"What is it?" asked Blake, with a lively show of interest.

"The elder Morris ruined General Carden as deliberately as ever one man did another," declared John Burt, his deep gray eyes flashing a menace as he brought his hand to the desk with a blow which made it rattle. "The proceeds of that villainy have been turned over to his son. Two weeks from to-day Arthur Morris shall have made restitution to the man his father wronged. The certainty of this reconciles me to her longer absence. I shall win this campaign, Jim, and it's my last one. When did Hawkins wire that he would be here?"

"Thursday," answered Blake.

"I shall not wait for Hawkins," said John Burt, abruptly. "He owns a bloc of this L. & O. stock and I shall assume that I have his co-operation. I shall have control of L. & O. before he reaches New York. How did it close last night?"

"Twenty-eight and a half," replied Blake.

"It opens to-day at a quarter," said John Burt, standing over the ticker. "Take all offerings up to thirty, but do not force matters. You understand, Jim? Watch it closely and keep me advised."

"I understand," said Blake, as he arose to go.

"Wait a minute," called John, as the other stood by the door. "Sam Rounds was in to see you yesterday, was he not?"

"Yes."

"Send for him at once. Tell him it's something important. That's all."

Blake entered his own office and flung himself into a chair. He felt as if he had aged years in the hour that had passed.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Measuring Lances.
When Randolph Morris retired in favor of his son he transferred no small burden of responsibility to the shoulders of the latter. Arthur Morris inherited his father's money and his ambitions, but not his masterly grasp of affairs. Arthur Morris had little sympathy with that fine old conservatism which stops short of direct participation in corruption. He be-

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THE FORD'S BLACK DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Theford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Theford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Theford's Black-Draught.

Coming Next Friday.

Julia Gray, whom Lincoln J. Carter will present at Loveday Opera House on Friday Sept. 2, has possibly elicited more critical comment than any of the younger stars before the theater going public. Beauty of face, and grace and symmetry of figure always attract a certain amount of attention, a least among the more unthinking and easily pleased. And it is to these gifts of nature alone that many of our self-styled stars owe their sole reason for success. These attributes of physical pulchritude possessed in a high degree by Miss Gray, constitute but a minor claim to her eminence in her chosen profession, and are a fitting setting to her talent. A prominent San Francisco critic has penned, in a terse line or two, a characteristic summing up of her art, as follows: "Gifted with a certain elusive quality of manner, and a striking personality, which for want of a better term, we call magnetism, Miss Gray at once attracts the attention of the spectator. When added to this is a feminine grace in every movement and gesture, a facial elocution of wide variety, and also a voice of extreme flexibility, attuned to the expression of every emotion, and controlled by an intelligence of a high order, we are face to face with a young woman who must be reckoned with in the future history of our theater."

September Metropolitan.

The Metropolitan Magazine for September presents a capital new "soldier" story by Rudyard Kipling, entitled "Mrs. Bathurst." In this new tale all of the author's earlier strength and fancy, and all of his later skill and mastery of narrative are happily combined to make a piece of short fiction unsurpassed by any of the recent achievements of the foremost story-tellers in the English tongue. This virile new story will prove of unusual charm to every one who loves a good story well told. The September number of the Metropolitan is, unquestionably, one of the most artistic and readable numbers of any periodical issued during the present season. As an achievement in color reproduction it is remarkable. The cover, designed by Urquart Wilcox, the double frontispiece and the sixteen pages in full color, all help to realize the promise that this number would be the greatest September issue of any magazine ever published.

YOUR KIDNEYS ARE THEY WELL?

Unless they are, good health is impossible.

Every drop of blood in the body passes through and is filtered by healthy kidneys every three minutes. Sound kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood, diseased kidneys do not, hence you are sick. FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE makes the kidneys well so they will eliminate the poisons from the blood. It removes the cause of the many diseases resulting from disordered kidneys which have allowed your whole system to become poisoned. Rheumatism, Bad Blood, Gout, Gravel, Dropsy, Inflammation of the Bladder, Diabetes and Bright's Disease, and many others, are all due to disordered Kidneys. A simple test for Kidney disease is to set aside your urine in a bottle or glass for twenty-four hours. If there is a sediment or a cloudy appearance, it indicates that your kidneys are diseased, and unless something is done they become more and more affected until Bright's Disease or Diabetes develops.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is the only preparation which will positively cure all forms of Kidney and Bladder troubles, and cure you permanently. It is a safe remedy and certain in results.

If You are a sufferer, take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once. It will make you well.

Some Pronounced Incurable Had Lumbago and Kidney Trouble

Mr. G. A. Stillson, a merchant of Tampico, Ill., writes: "FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is meeting with wonderful success. It has cured some cases here that physicians pronounced incurable. I myself am able to testify to its merits. My face today is a living picture of health and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE has made it such."

Edward Huss, a well-known business man of Salisbury, Mo., writes: "I wish to say for the benefit of others, that I was a sufferer from lumbago and kidney trouble, and all the remedies I took gave me no relief. I began to take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE, and after the use of three bottles I am cured."
