

Charlevoix County Herald.

Vol. 9

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, SATURDAY, MARCH 4, 1905.

No 9

Dunbars Next Monday.

The Dunbar Company which holds forth at Loveday Opera House next Monday evening under auspices of the High School Lecture Course Ass'n is certainly the most novel and versatile company of musical artists now before the public. Their tour the past season has been transcontinental, and everywhere successful. They opened September 13th, and without a day's rest continued until June 1st, and the bureau had to refuse applications, for there were not nights enough to meet the demand. They were first to open and last to close and hold all records as a lyceum attraction. The company consists of The Male Quartette, as good as the best, a complete concert organization, The Bell Ringers stand unequalled. They use a magnificent peal of more than one hundred musical hand bells, cast by England's greatest bell founder, especially for this company.

What Others Think Of Them.

The Auditorium was crowded and the company made a great hit and was encored again and again.—St. Louis (Mo) Chronicle.

The Dunbar Company's bell ringing was easily the superior of anything of the kind ever heard in this city before. The bells themselves possessed rich tones and they were manipulated with consummate skill that won instant favor with the audience. The entertainment as a whole was one of the best ever given in this city.—Galesburg (Ill.) Daily Mail.

An immense audience greeted the Dunbars at Y. M. C. A. last night, and such a greeting as it was. If encores are the criterion, it was the most popular of the season. The singing of Harry Dunbar was responded to by a perfect storm of applause and the quartet was compelled by universal approbation to respond at least five times in succession. Jolly fellows these Dunbars. They came to entertain us and they did, not stiffly and professionally but naturally.—Daily Sentinel, Winston, Salem, N. C.

E. J. Literary Club.

The East Jordan Literary Club changed its tactics a little and instead of the regular meeting took a little respite and held an evening of pleasure, meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Loveday. The program opened with a few words of welcome by the president, Mrs. E. J. Crossman, to the invited guests (the gentlemen) who assisted very pleasantly in the entertainment. Following Mrs. D. C. Loveday gave a recitation accompanied by Mrs. W. Palmer on the piano. Instrumental Duet by W. Webster, Violin; A. Cole, Piano. Mrs. C. Haire, and Mrs. D. L. Rogers sang a duet accompanied by Miss E. Stone; G. H. Frost sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. G. H. Frost; Mrs. W. J. Smith, recited; Violin Solo, W. Webster; Mrs. D. L. Rogers read a humorous selection. A lively discussion followed on the topic, Resolved that the whipping post for wife beaters would be beneficial. It brought out some very good points and made much merriment. It was estimated that the ducking stool for scolds would follow in line with the former. Mrs. George Brown opened the discussion with a well prepared paper which showed decidedly her opinion. Following were impromptu talks by Messrs F. Boosinger, C. Haire, D. C. Loveday, G. Frost, E. J. Crossman, G. Brown and Dr. H. W. Dicken, Madames W. Palmer, D. L. Rogers, W. Stone, W. J. Smith, J. A. McKee and Miss Jennie Boosinger. A book contest was then enjoyed; most of the persons were some article suggesting a book. Mrs. E. A. Ashley and Dr. H. W. Dicken both guessing the same number in the drawing for the prize. The gentleman was the lucky one. Fine Apple Ice and cake was served, and the audience numbered fifty-five.

Teachers' Examination.

The regular Teachers' Examination will be held in the McKinley High School building in the village of Charlevoix, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 9th, 10th and 11th, 1905, beginning at 8:30 a. m. standard time.

The examination in reading will be based on Silas Marner.

Certificates of all grades will be issued at this examination.

J. H. MILFORD, Com.

Ladies should call on Maddaugh the Tailor for the finest Spring Suits obtainable in this city.

End Of The Myth.

The delusion that American farmers can somehow do better in Canada than they can in their own country is dying. From a tabular statement of the land sales along its line given by the Canadian Pacific railway company for November, 1904, it appears that the number of acres and the prices paid for them diminished in that month compared with the same month in 1903. In all the the four provinces of Canada covered by this exhibit except in Assiniboia, the sales fell off largely in that month. The decline was so great that the totals, after allowing for the increase in Assiniboia, were much lower than they were a year earlier.

Nobody need be surprised at this change. Canada is a big and thinly settled country. Necessarily it has many thousands of square miles of vacant lands. These were offered at low prices by the Canadian government. In some cases the terms appeared almost as favorable as the United States offered in its homestead act of 1862. As a consequence, when the Canadian railways began to extend their lines through the wild country, and when they advertised the region profusely and gave very favorable terms to settlers, there was an influx into it from the United States. Tens of thousands of farmers sold their holdings in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, the Dakotas and other states and flocked into Canada, where they got larger farms for a third or a fourth the money they received from their holdings on this side of the line.

But the tide is beginning to ebb as everybody had a right to suppose it would, quickly. On the average the Canadian lands are poorer than are those of the United States; the climate is far more rigorous; the facilities for getting their produce to the market are poorer and the general environment is in every way less desirable. These truths are becoming known on this side of the line, and the emigration from the United States is diminishing. These American farmers were a very desirable addition to the Canadian population, but the accessions from this source will be less hereafter than they have been for the past few years. No other part of the globe offers such inducements for agriculturists as the United States presents.—St. Louis Globe Democrat

Pleasantly Surprised.

Mrs. A. Poustle and her daughter Mrs. J. Hankin who are about to leave East Jordan, to make a new home and cultivate new acquaintances in California where their husbands preceded them, were given a very pleasant surprise Saturday evening. They being invited to spend the evening with Mrs. C. B. Crowell at her home, found on their arrival forty-five ladies present who had come laden with good things to please the taste and bring out their social natures, which were served after an entertainment of games, two recitations by Mrs. W. J. Smith, several songs by O. H. Moyer accompanied by the Banjo, all of which were heartily enjoyed. In appreciation of the bond of friendship and esteem, the two honored guests were presented a souvenir, Mrs. Poustle received a beautiful gold lined silver berry spoon, Mr. Hankin in the same design a cream ladle and on them was engraved "From East Jordan friends." Many hearty handshakes and words of good cheer were the parting testimonies as the company departed for their several homes.—Pointeclatta.

BATUSCHKA.

From yonder gilded minaret— Beside the steel blue Nevada set I faintly catch, from time to time, The sweet, aerial midnight chime, "God save the czar!"

Above the ravellins and the moats Of the white citadel floats; And men in dungeons far beneath Listen, and pray, and gnash their teeth— "God save the czar!"

The soft reiterations sweep Across the horror of their sleep, As if some demon in his glee Were mocking at their misery— "God save the czar!"

In his red palace over there, Wakeful, he needs must hear the prayer, How can it draw the broken orles Wrung from his children's agonies? "God save the czar!"

Father they called him from of old— Batuschka!—how his heart is cold! Wait till a million scourged men Rise in their awful might, and then— "God save the czar!"

The State Legislature.

For the first time in many years the Michigan legislature has remained in session through the week of February 22. The legal holiday was observed in each house by an appropriate patriotic program, the leading feature in the house being an address by State Superintendent Keiley, and in the senate short addresses by Justice Ostrander and various senators. Both programs were liberally embellished with musical numbers, in which the band and the choir of the Industrial School for Boys, the band and orchestra of the Industrial School for Girls at Adrian, and the orchestra and a quartet of the Michigan School for the Blind, were conspicuous features. These words of the state never fail of a generous reception in their public appearances, and every thoughtful citizen feels a personal interest in their welfare, and a pride in our state, for so freely and faithfully providing for them. In the case of the blind pupils, the common pity for their sad deprivation enters as a powerful element, and their plaintive songs appeal irresistibly to the listeners, and we feel glad for all that the state has done in their behalf, and ready to endorse much more than it may do. It has been estimated that the enrollment at the state school for the blind in Lansing might be doubled by the compulsory attendance of blind children who are being permitted by their parents to remain in their homes and grow up uneducated and this should be provided for, that the institution here and the new one at Saginaw for the industrial training and employment of the blind might reach their completest beneficence.

Except the legal holiday, the legislature put in a good solid week of work. The house in committee of the whole spent considerable time upon the dairy and food bill and reported it to the house with some amendments regarding expenditures, and the bill was passed and goes to the senate without material modification. It authorizes the appointment by the dairy and food commissioner of eight inspectors at salaries of one thousand dollars a year, and peels inspectors at three dollars a day not to exceed six thousand dollars a year in all, the inspection of dairy and food products and conditions throughout the state, in protection of the sanitary interests of the public, and especially to secure uniform and standard quality of dairy products. The house did not seem to share the fear of some that this would be the creation of a dangerous "machine," and it may be that the changes were rung upon the machine-bogy last year to the extent that it has become innocuous, so that it can neither imperil nor scare anybody any more.

The house elections committee has material for many days' work in the three general primary bills now in the committee's hands. The first one, the Dickinson bill, file number 13, provides for the direct nomination of governor, lieutenant governor, state senators and representatives, and of county officers on the option of the counties. It provides separate party ballots and secures a piece on the ticket by petition. Plurality vote nominates, and nominating conventions prior to the primaries are forbidden. Lufen D. Dickinson, the author of this bill, is a farmer of Eaton county, and a member of the elections committee.

The second is the Stone bill, file number 22, which applies to all regular elections of all officers except of city, village, town and school district, including United States senators. A blanket ballot is provided, bearing the various party tickets and a non-partisan ticket for names not presented as candidates of any party. Place on the ticket is secured by a "nomination paper," a notification having the same effect as a petition and similarly signed. The voter after marking his party ticket must separate it from the blanket ballot, and deposit the two in separate boxes. The voter also writes upon his ticket the names of his choice for precinct committeemen, and city, representative district and county committees are constituted of the chairmen of the precinct committees, senate district committees of the chairmen of representative district committees, congressional district committees of the chairmen of senate district committees, and the state and legislative candidates in election convene at the capital and frame platform and elect the state committee. The act is to become effective upon ratification at the April election. A. Van G. Stone, the author of this bill, is a farmer of Lenawee county and chairman of the elections committee, and served in the last two legislatures. (Continued on 4th page.)

Annual Tax Sales.

The Annual Tax Sales for Charlevoix County for the year 1902 and previous years are being published in a Supplement form which is a part of this paper. Examine it carefully and see if any of your lands are among those advertised.

Kansas evidently thinks that John D. Robafellar is "oil wrong" in his treatment of the Sunflower State.

Furniture Carpets
Window Shades and Toilet Sets

Whittington's

THE OLD STAND

Embalming and Funeral
Directing A Specialty.

Phone No. 66; calls answered night or day.

At Sherman's
Market and Grocery.

Western Corn Fed Beef
Fresh Oysters every week.
Olives of all kinds and sizes
New Oranges and Lemons.

New line of Fresh Cookies, Nabiscoes,
Cheese-straws and Coffee Crackers.
Anona Brand Tea with prizes.

Sherman & Son.

Boosinger Bros.' March Letter.

The most striking change in fashion is, no doubt, in fabric, and not only in the fabrics themselves but in the combination of materials. Pongee was worn considerably last year. This season it is a decided favorite. Beautiful golden brown, blue and tan, in coarse weaves, are serviceable and dressy. New Crepe de Chene is now in, all in beautiful weaves. These are made in beautiful Old Dresden designs and are for Very Good gowns. The Suitings for Walking Skirts should have a page all to themselves. Panama, Mohair, and such kindred weaves; serviceable, firm, shed the dust and are the proper thing. Madras will be worn a great deal; it comes in pretty designs and colors. Odd Shirt Waist Goods—to be worn with tailored suits—are in great variety; these are made up with tiny chiffon bands with a suggestion of heavy lace. We have many beautiful and suggestive features in Trimmings, Ribbons and Belts. We have taken special care to select an overwhelming array of Wash Goods in tasty and attractive designs.

Our beautiful Suiting Goods range in price from 50c to $1.75 per yard and our handsome Wash Goods at from 10c to 40c per yard. We are sole agents for the justly reliable Standard Fashions; if you use this kind you never go wrong for fit.

New Collars, Shopping Bags, Shoes, and all things that the stylish dressers are calling for.

Quality First of All.
Our Motto.

BOOSINGER BROS.

It is almost a sin to mention it, but Patti will be 62 next month.

Dr. Patton says men quit hard work too young. But some of 'em begin too old.

The mad search for gold is once more far out at sea—this time in conservative Albion.

To Uncle Sam's newest, speediest cruiser the whole nation sings "Maryland, My Maryland."

Thoughtless editors are trying to egg Alfred Austin into writing a poem on the Russian situation.

Why express surprise that a Georgia woman's mouth was frozen open? Now, if it had been frozen shut—

An English court has decided that a school teacher is not a gentleman. That's why we like to hold her little hand.

"What are the rich in America doing to-day?" asks the Boston Globe. We do not think it necessary to reveal our plans.

Rudyard Kipling thus far has successfully resisted the inclination to write another poem on his old friend Adam Zad, Esq.

After all is said and done, any salute to the flag that does not come from the heart—whether by man or woman—is of no value.

A South Dakota legislator has a bill to provide for the protection of jack rabbits. It will have to travel fast to keep up with its beneficiaries.

If those girls in London who are asking for licenses to run motor cars get them, life in the great metropolis will be more perilous than ever.

Lucky Marconi! Not only is he going to be married, but he is going to marry a pretty daughter of the oldest family in all the Irish peerage.

It was real sweet of Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish to patronize the chorus girls of the "Lady Teazle" company and try to give them a taste of high life, but

A New Jersey postmistress has resigned because the salary of the office is only $14.75 a year. She ought to have incorporated it and watered the stock.

Many people strongly believe that more than one efficient flying machine will be brought out next summer, but Uncle Russell Sage isn't investing any money in 'em.

A good many people are wholly unable to understand the Dodge-Morse divorce case, and from all accounts it appears to be a good thing not to be able to understand.

So sorry that you have got to wait for your automobile, because the demand is greater than the supply and the manufacturers in consequence are far behind their orders.

Edward Geneay, a naval gunner who shot and killed a prize fighter who assaulted him in Honolulu, was fined $1 and warmly thanked by the citizens for abating a public nuisance.

Bertie Stopford, of London, the present lion of Gotham's 400, is as yet unable to say whether he likes Americans or not. Meanwhile the country is broiling on the coals of suspense.

Secret service officials are telling us how to detect a new counterfeit ten-dollar bill. What most of us need are pointers on how to detect and capture genuine bills of any old denomination.

When a San Francisco magazine prints an article with the caption, "Another Go-West Period," the presumption is that it is booming Hawaii and the Philippines—not to mention Guam.

The teacher in a little hamlet in Leeds county, N. Y., who has been keeping school with only one pupil, since the beginning of the year must feel more or less like a hen with one chicken.

Lack of proper food or an insufficient amount of food may be one of the causes of truancy, but many a gray head can recall how he played hooky on a full and perfectly satisfied stomach.

A Philadelphia citizen of Italian birth has sued a doctor for charging him $50 for not curing him. It is evident that the immigrant hasn't yet become thoroughly familiar with American institutions.

Kouropatkin reports that many of his soldiers are declining to fight because they can't understand what there is to fight for. Heavens! If that doctrine is permitted to spread, what will become of the world's great armies?

In a debate in a village in Oregon on the question, "Resolved, That a hypocrite is more despicable than a liar," it was decided that the liar was the more honorable. This may be because a hypocrite is always a liar, and something more besides.

FABLES OF FASHION

Pretty and Serviceable.

A pretty red cloth-coat that comes from Paris, for a child, might be duplicated in any other color, and made of a lightweight cloth with an interlining would serve through the spring if the interlining were removed.

The garment is loose-fitting, with two very scant bias ruffles at the edge bottom. At least one of these ruffles should be used, for if a child grows quickly the coat may be lengthened by dropping the ruffle that at first should be set upon the hem.

The shoulder cape is put on in a graduating line and the top edge is finished by a band of stitching which continues down both sides of the front in double-breasted effect. Two rows of buttons are used. The sleeves are full and the cuffs are made of the same velvet that edges the cape and makes the flat collar. A fur tippet should be worn in cold weather.

A Jewelry Fad.

One of the novelties in jewelry is the miniature scarf pin, containing the tiny portrait in oils upon porcelain of the wearer's favorite horse. Favorite terriers and potted cats have also posed for these miniatures, which are set in a gold brooch or lace pin for the ornamentation of their fond mistresses.

The work of painting these animal miniatures is difficult, requiring three weeks and having to be done entirely under a microscope. A portrait painter of note has been obliged to put aside his legitimate work to cater to this fad.

Scented Hair.

There is a new powder, straight from Paris, made for scenting the hair. It is nothing more nor less than a finely powdered sachet, and comes in tins to match any shade of hair. It is dusted into the pompadour and over the bun by means of a powder puff, and imparts to the tresses the faintest and most fascinating odor imaginable.

Scented tresses are as much the fashion to-day as they were in the time of our grandmothers. Spraying them with ordinary perfume is not effective, but sacheting them leaves a lasting and delicate odor.

Evening Slippers.

Evening slippers were never more beautiful with their fine embroidery of beads and cut designs filled with lace stitches. They are dainty and eminently ladylike, in the blacks, the browns, and the delicate grays. In one style the slipper is cut very low, little more than a band of leather to hold it over the toe, made to show the beautiful embroidery of the hosiery. With these pretty things without bow or buckle are other slippers each with a big, fluffy rosette of chiffon on the toe. If not as good style in themselves they have the advantage of apparently diminishing the size of the foot.

Endive Salad.

Arrange a head of washed endive in a salad bowl, adding five radishes that have been pared and cut into dice, and four hard-boiled eggs that have been cut lengthwise into quarters. Just before serving mix half a teaspoon of salt, a half teaspoon of paprika and six tablespoons of olive oil; when thoroughly blended add a flavoring of vinegar; pour over the salad and toss lightly with a silver fork.

Savory Rice.

Boil one cupful of rice in three pints of boiling salted water until the grains are large and soft and slightly forked at one end. Drain, rinse with cold water and drain again thoroughly. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan, brown a sliced onion in this. Remove onion, put in the rice and stir with a fork until slightly browned. Have hot in another saucepan one cupful of tomato pulp, rubbed smooth and seasoned with a saltspoonful of salt and a good dash each of paprika and white pepper. Stir this into the browned rice, sprinkle with two table-spoonfuls of grated cheese and turn into a hot vegetable dish. Fine for a course at luncheon.

Yorkshire puddings are much lighter when basted with the meat drippings.

Never allow lettuce to stand in water; it wilts the leaves.

In making soft custard add the milk to the eggs, not eggs to the milk; use an agate milk boiler for making the custards.

Add a little hot water to what is left of yesterday's tomato soup, and the macaroni sauce is made.

All crusts and bits of bread should always be saved. Brown them in the oven, then roll very fine.

For the creamed potatoes use those that are left from breakfast.

Escalloped oysters taste and look better when the cracker crumbs are moistened in melted butter.

Cut the braised beef into small pieces before warming.

Low Shoes for House.

Most bewitching are the low shoes shown for indoor wear. The workmanship is admirable, whether they are made to order to match different gowns, or belong to the ready-to-wear sort. The dress colors are light shades of gray, an ochre and a brown shade of tan, light fawns, pale greens, as well as pastel blues and rose pinks. Finely finished kids and suedes are the materials principally used. Velvets, satins and heavy silks are the materials used for evening slippers.

A Good Golf Suit.

Tweed, in a small brown and white check, just ankle length in the skirt, made with a plain brown cloth coat, banded and slightly falling over the waist in front, the revers of the coat faced with the material of which the skirt is made, a turnover collar of linen and silk tie, with a white flannel blouse, which, when the coat is on, is hardly visible.

A rough suiting suggests both canvas and homespun.

All the new lines of silk come very strong in browns.

Suede shoes with mammoth bows are conspicuous on the street.

Messaline, the newest of soft silks, is employed for everything from the smart shirt-waist dress to the most elaborate evening gowns.

The rich brocades—used principally

EFFECTIVE TOUCHES IN WHITE.

The popularity of the thin blouse of silk or lingerie has made the underslip a necessary addition to the toilet, for although furs and warm wraps may make the wearer comfortable out of doors, few houses are so uniformly warm as to allow a prudent woman to risk a thin blouse without a lining underneath as some little protection against draughts.

These slips may be of any pale shade to suit the taste of the wearer, and many people have several, in order to change in harmony with the rest of the costume, but on the whole the white underslip is the most satisfactory, especially under a fine lingerie blouse. The white appears to preserve and even to enhance the transparency of the blouse itself, and gives it a more expensive appearance.

Speaking of white over white recalls a frock worn by a young girl not long ago. The writer is not partial to point d'esprit, nor has that material been as popular as usual this winter. But it was made over a white taffeta slip, and the round-necked bodice and skirt were shirred on cords at intervals of about six inches. The skirt was gathered in to the waistband, and below the fourth cord fell an immensely full accordion plaited ruffle to the floor.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Two Effective Hats. In the first illustration is a large red chiffon hat of a garnet shade, made on a Gainsborough frame, laid in clusters of folds; two large ostrich plumes are caught in the center with pleated maline, thus giving the high effect. This makes an excellent dress hat and can be duplicated in any shade.

For our tailor-made girl we have a smart novel shade made of corn color all-over braid, faced in light blue shirred chiffon, with loops of pale blue velvet drawn to one side, and caught in the back with a gilt buckle which fastens three large box-pleats. This gives a very stylish and nobby effect, and the model is admirably adapted as an accompaniment of a tailored gown.

A simple but effective mode of trimming a fur hat is the Spanish rosette. Extremely rich laces are employed in these rosettes when combined with sable. A striking effect was produced by a tulle rosette fastened on a squirrel skin hat. The rosette was built of white tulle, and instead of the jeweled ornament in the center there was a rosette of accordion plaited gold ribbon.

Powder That Won't Come Off. The newest thing is liquid powder. It is put on with a sponge or brush and warranted to defy wind and weather. With liquid powder securely spread over her face one may face the hardest downpour and go shopping all day long without feeling that her forehead has become a shining light and her nose a beacon.

Sweet Peas

HERE is a lawyer in this town who shall answer to the name of Wellinger for the purposes of this story. He employs an office boy who is fond of detailing the important positions he held before becoming Wellinger's able assistant. He had just finished one of these tales to the young woman stenographer the other day when his employer called him.

"James," Wellinger said, "go and buy some sweet peas. They are out of season, but you ought to be able to pick some up if you look around. Don't come without them, and, remember, I want them before noon."

This request might have told James a story had he been sharp enough—a story corroborated by Wellinger's new necktie and general air of spruceness.

Some time later, while the lawyer was in consultation with important clients, James knocked softly at the private door and, entering, deposited a large bag on the desk.

"What's this?" asked Wellinger.

"Peas. I had to go to three different stores before I could get them. These are the nicest I could find."

Wellinger touched the bag gingerly and out rolled three quarts of shelled peas before the astonished gaze of the lawyer and his clients.

James felt much aggrieved when he was compelled to return the purchase and bring back the flowers. "There was no reason for exchanging them," he said. "There was only a cent's difference in the price."

Still, Wellinger has forgiven the boy his stupidity. It so happens that the young woman for whom the sweet peas were bought is a suburbanite, who came to town the day this incident occurred to take luncheon with Wellinger. Now, while no one in his office could be made to believe it, Wellinger is extremely bashful. He had been trying for some time to get up courage to ask this young woman a certain momentous question. Truth to say, the girl has helped him a trifle, but till this time the tender question remained unasked and, necessarily, unanswered.

The recipient pinned the sweet peas, pink and delightfully fragrant, upon her white waist. Wellinger looked his admiration, but only his looks were eloquent.

THE ONE VERSE SHE KNEW.

Question Whether It Was Appropriate to the Occasion.

It is not often that a girl of fourteen years can disturb the equilibrium of two sedate ministers, several Sunday school teachers, and a couple of hundred Sunday school children, but Miss Caroline Y— succeeded in doing that the Sunday before last in a way that is destined to make her immortal in a well known religious institution on the West Side. The whole Sunday school, from the infant class to the advanced Bible class, occupied the large assembly hall, where an address was being given by the superintendent. It was customary on such an occasion to have representative students in each class recite verses from the scriptures at the close of the session. Things went very well until it came Miss Caroline's turn.

THOUGHT SHE SAW THREE.

Story of a Woman Who Thought She Told the Truth.

"If you ask me whether we lawyers ever encourage, aid and abet untruthfulness," said an elderly attorney at a dinner recently, "I can only ask as a reply, 'Does anyone know what truth is? Does any man really know when he is telling it? I had a rather curious case once a few years ago. I won't say whether it was a murder or a divorce, but the clearing of my client, the defendant, depended entirely on his ability to prove that when he walked down a certain corridor of a certain summer hotel he was accompanied by two persons.' It happened that he was seen by the housekeeper of the hotel, a woman of more than ordinary intelligence, and she insisted that there were three in the party and not simply two, as the prosecution claimed. It was impossible to shake her testimony, and we carried the day. The housekeeper died a year or so later. I heard of it through her priest. He commented on the fact that she had always taken great satisfaction in the thought that her testimony cleared my client. She was, he said, and he spoke from a confessor's knowledge, one of the most truthful persons he had ever met. I told my client what the priest said, the next time we met. He smiled.

"She was lying all the while," he said. "She didn't see three of us, because there were only two."

A HINT FOR TRAVELERS.

One Way by Which Privacy May Be Secured.

A bright young man, making a hurried and important business trip from London to Paris, last summer, was exceedingly anxious to obtain the quiet of a private compartment on reaching Calais.

The channel had been rough, and his brain required uninterrupted rest. He offered to fee the guard for a carriage for himself and secretary, but without success. The train was crowded, and each compartment must be filled. He determined to have one, however.

Taking possession of one of the unoccupied coaches as they reached Calais, he threw himself on the seat, put a newspaper over his face and awaited intruders. Seeing a couple about to enter, he whispered to the secretary: "Prepare yourself!" and thrusting his hands into his disheveled hair gesticulated wildly, as he tore the paper into shreds, uttering groans and moans. His companion, taking the cue, made violent efforts to restrain his maniac patient, and with warning glances motioned the frightened travelers out.

The scene was enacted twice. Then the train went on its way, and Paris was reached without further intrusion.—Exchange.

Sensation of Motion in Airship.

"It is a singular fact," says A. Roy Knabenshue, "that when one is going as much as 15 or 20 miles an hour in an airship one has no sensation of moving whatever. The air beats in your face as you move along, but it only creates the impression that one is standing still in a strong breeze."

"There are no objects flying past you as when you are traveling on the surface of the earth, and as you must keep your eyes looking ahead of you you observe only distant objects, so distant because of your high point of view that you approach them apparently so slowly you do not seem to move at all. I consider this one of the queerest sensations in a trip through the air, and the impression of scarcely moving or of not moving at all is so strong, even on the most experienced aeronaut, that it is probably due to this so many of them push their motor to the extreme limit and it 'dies' in consequence. When a speed gauge is invented for an airship it will cause fewer breakdowns of motors due to crowding power."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WASHINGTON IN YOUTH

In the year 1729 Rev. James Marye, a Huguenot refugee, and his bride landed on Virginia soil. This man was destined to fill a position of great trust and importance. He was to be the spiritual guide and adviser of Mary, the mother of Washington, and her family. After years of research it has lately been proved that it was he that gave to the young George those famous "Rules of Civility and Decent Behavior in Company and Conversation," which bore fruit in the production of that most consummate flower of American manhood, George Washington. That these "rules" played a most important part in the formation of Washington's character has been acknowledged by all of his biographers; in fact, the wisest and noblest of these "rules" are familiar in nearly every home in the country, but whence they came; whether they were the product of Washington's own brain, or whether they came from some outside and unknown source, and what this source was, has been for over a century a matter of dispute and conjecture.

This learned clergyman, Rev. James Marye, belonged to a prominent Catholic family of Rouen, France, and was educated for the priesthood in the Jesuit college of that city. In 1726 he renounced the Catholic faith, went to England and was ordained in the Church of England by the bishop of their studies at some of the great universities. Washington's two elder brothers received this advantage, but the death of his father made a change in the family affairs. A large property was left to them, but there was little ready money and there were several children to educate and provide for. Hence the education of Washington, to his lifelong regret, was limited. It was under the care of this Huguenot that our great statesman received his most valued instruction.

Rev. Jonathan Boucher, teacher of Mrs. George Washington's son, John Curtis, says that George Washington had for his first teacher "a convict servant whom his father had bought for a schoolmaster." This convict was most probably one of a shipload of convicts brought by Augustine Washington (George Washington's father) from England in 1737. After the death of his father (April 12, 1743), George, who was then 11 years old, was sent to live with his half-brother at the old homestead of Wakefield, in Westmoreland county, where he was born. Two years later he returned to live with his mother opposite Fredericksburg. It was then he became a pupil of Rev. James Marye.

John Fiske, in his "Old Virginia and Her Neighbors," states that at this time Washington attended an excellent academy in Fredericksburg, of which Rev. James Marye was master. Paul Leicester Ford, in his "The True George Washington," page 63, gives the following interesting account: "On the death of his father, Washington went to live with his brother Augustine, in order, it is presumed, that he might take advantage of a good school near Wakefield, kept by one Williams, but after a time he returned to his mother and attended the school kept by Rev. James Marye, in Fredericksburg. It has been universally asserted by his biographers that he studied no foreign language, but direct proof to the contrary exists in a copy of Patrick's Latin translation of Homer, printed in 1742, the flyleaf of which bears in a schoolboy hand the inscription: "Hunc mihi quæso (bove Vir) Libellum "Redde, si forsau tenues reperitum "Ut Sælas qui sum sine fraude scriptum "Est mihi nomen "George Washington."

But these "Rules of Civility," as they are generally called, have been ascribed by the biographers to an absolutely apocryphal source. Washington Irving, Chief Justice Marshall and Henry Cabot Lodge knew not whence they came.

One of the latest of his biographers, Henry Cabot Lodge, has the following to say: "It was reserved for the storms of war to reveal the source of the 'rules.' A little volume was found in a Virginia library." On the flyleaf, he says, was the name of George Washington, written in a boyish hand. It was entitled "Young Man's Companion." It contained general truths and precepts, which, together with Hale's "Contemplations," so he says, may have furnished the basis of the "rules." This "Young Man's Companion" was by W. Mather, written in a plain and easy style, and was printed in 1742, and seemed to contain much varied and useful information, such as lessons in arithmetic, surveying, the drawing up of legal documents, measuring land and lumber, gardening, etc.

But Mr. Lodge is in error. Moncure D. Conway has recently brought to light the true history of the "Rules of Civility." Mr. Conway, after an investigation extending through years, with the aid of Dr. Garnett, of the British museum, found in that great

HER TURN HAD COME.

Woman Got Even for Unkind Remark of Long Ago.

"When you know that a woman is sensitive about any personal peculiarity," said Mrs. Snippy, "just duck whenever mention of it comes your way. Smart sayings that wound other persons' feelings are very amusing sometimes. But you never know when they are coming back at you. Once, at an evening party, I was indiscreet enough to win a laugh by a joke about Mamie Makeup's long nose. It was a sight, you know. Mamie cried, and never answered when I told her I was sorry. But she did not come to my wedding, and I lost sight of her for ten years. Then I heard that she was married to the manager of a prominent theater. She gives 'Sunday evenings' during the winter, where you may meet all the top-liners on theater programmes. In summer she invites the girls of our normal school class to her Seabright cottage for a week-end. When they write to her for matinee-tickets she sends them. The other day I met her in Broadway. I had been told she was stouter, and that her face had filled out. But I was scarcely prepared for such a change.

"Why, how do you do, Mame," I said, extending my hand, 'why haven't you been to see me? We must visit. How stout you have become.'

"She did not see my hand. She saw me reach for my card case, but she made no move toward hers. She gave me a stare that was icy enough to call for the red ball, and remarked, as she passed on: "Thank you. I have been growing up to my nose."

OYSTER EXCELS AS A FOOD.

Easily Digestible and Highly Beneficial to the Nerves.

Recent experiments show the great digestibility of the oyster. When the oyster was crushed and placed in cold water about half of the solid matter was dissolved. When the oyster was placed uncrushed in the same medium one-fourth of its solid matter was dissolved. It is believed that if the oyster be chewed more than half of it is dissolved in the mouth. Cold water appears to be the best thing to drink with oysters. But chablis is good, dissolving 38 per cent of the solid matter of the oyster.

What are the solids of the oyster? They are the proteids corresponding to the lean of meat or the white of an egg, fat, starchy matters and glycogen. This last means the substance which the liver manufactures for future use. It is very like sugar, and when wanted for use is changed into sugar. It is the substance which makes the oyster sweet in the mouth. But there are other valuable constituents of the oyster—what are called the glycerophosphoric compounds. Medical men prescribe these for improving the nervous system, so that a diet of oysters is unquestionably good for the nerves. They also contain common salt, a little copper and several phosphates. And taking the whole contents of the oyster shell, one finds almost everything necessary for the food of the body.

In Common Things.
Seek not afar for beauty. For it glows
In dew-wet grasses all about thy feet;
In birds in sunshine, childish faces sweet,
In stars and mountain summits topped
With snows.
Go not abroad for happiness. For, see!
It is a flower that blossoms by thy feet.
Bring love and justice home; and then no more
Thou'lt wonder in what dwelling joy may be.

Dream not of noble service elsewhere wrought;
The simple duty that awaits thy hand
Is God's voice uttering a divine command:
Life's common deeds build all that saints have thought.

In wonder-workings, or some bush affame,
Men look for God—and fancy Him concealed.
But in earth's common things—He stands revealed.
While seas and flowers and stars spell out His name.

The paradise in a seek the city bright
That gleams beyond the stars for longing eyes.
Is only human goodness in the skies.
Earth's deeds, well done, glow into heavenly light. —Minot J. Savage.

Won Each Time.

About thirty years ago a remarkable bet was made between Capt. M., a racing celebrity, and another officer who was noted for his activity.

Capt. M.—bet $50 that his fellow officer would not hop up a certain flight of stairs "two at a time."

The offer was taken, but, as there were forty-one steps in the flight, he found, after taking twenty hops, that he was left only one step to negotiate and had lost. He accused Capt. M. of sharp practice, but the latter replied:

"Well, I'll wager you another $50 I do it."

The officer, thinking to get back his money, again accepted.

Capt. M. then hopped up forty steps in twenty hops, and—hopping back one, finished by going up the last two steps, and won.

A Cure for Eloquence.

Former Attorney General Griggs of New Jersey was in attendance at a public meeting where the chief orator of the evening was a long-winded individual who was quite deaf. He wore out the patience of everybody in the hall, and it seemed as if he would really never conclude his remarks. In the midst of it one committee member turned to the other and said:

"He really thinks that he is a splendid orator."

"It's a pity he's deaf," promptly rejoined the other; "if he could hear himself talk it would very quickly cure him of that hallucination."—Baltimore Herald.

Relics Worth Much Money.

Relics of Lord Nelson are worth a small fortune. An enameled gold telescope, once in the possession of the great admiral, was sold recently for £40; the wine flagon of Admiral Bruce, taken by Nelson, fetched 50 guineas; but a letter written by the gallant hero to Lady Hamilton just before he died realized the huge sum of £1,030.

For Mutual Admiration.

"In general, we only praise heartily those who admire us." Just what was said the other day about the mutual admiration society of literary folk who write "Appreciations" of other literary folk. Moral: If you want Jones to give you a good word be kind your back, give him a good word when he is standing just behind you.

ORGANIZE TO FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS

Committee of International Congress Plans Thorough Educational Campaign.

Early in October there was held in St. Louis, at the Hall of Congresses, in connection with the World's Fair, the American International Congress of Tuberculosis, which consisted of representatives gathered from all parts of the American continent, to discuss the best means of preventing and curing this dreadful disease. Special attention was given to the subject of prevention. The congress was in session three days. Many important questions were discussed and committees were appointed for the purpose of carrying forward an active campaign against this most terrible of all the foes of human life. The committee of publicity was charged with the duty of organizing a proper educational campaign in connection with Chautauquas, conventions, associations and fraternities of various sorts, for the purpose of placing in the hands of the public information relating to the best means of preventing and combatting this scourge. Those who are especially interested in this phase of the question should address for further information the American Congress on Tuberculosis, Committee on Publicity, 28 Thirty-Third Place, Chicago, Ill.

Movement to Suppress Tuberculosis.

Science has demonstrated beyond question that pulmonary tuberculosis or consumption of the lungs is both a preventable and a curable disease. This disease is produced by germs which find their way into the body through abrasions of the skin, through the mucous membrane of the mouth or the intestines, and through the lungs. The germs of the disease are found in the sputum of persons suffering from tuberculosis. The germs are also found in the flesh and milk of animals suffering from the disease. The germs are found nearly everywhere. These germs cannot live in the tissues of a thoroughly healthy person, as the cells of the body are capable of destroying the germs, but when the body is weakened by indigestion, by the habits of breathing foul or bad air, by anything which impairs the health, the tissues lose their power to destroy germs so that when they enter the body they find lodgment, grow and develop and tuberculosis of the lungs, bowels or of some other part is the result.

Statistics show that at least 150,000 persons die of this disease in this country annually. Four or five times that number of persons are sick all the time with this disease. Tuberculosis kills more than any other malady. Experience has shown that the disease is not incurable, as has been generally supposed, but is a very curable malady if taken in time, and if the right treatment is applied. Not less than one hundred thousand lives could be saved every year by the application of proper means for preventing and curing this terrible disease.

Danger in Alcohol in Cold Weather.

When the skin is warm it is red or pink in color. The cold air of winter causes the skin to become whiter in color. This is due to the contraction of the blood vessels of the skin. The amount of blood passing through the skin is decreased, and the amount of heat thrown off into the cold air is likewise decreased. If a glass of wine or brandy is taken the skin becomes red. The sensation of warmth produced is delusive. The victim imagines himself warmer. Indeed, the skin is warmer, but at the same time a great increase is observed in the heat thrown off from the skin. The result is an enormous loss of heat to the inside of the body.

Dr. Parkes, the eminent English sanitarian, says: "All observers condemn the use of spirits, and even of wine or beer, as a preventive against cold." The names of Dr. King, Dr. Kane, Capt. Kennedy and Dr. Hayes may also be cited as holding to this opinion. In the last expedition in search of Sir John Franklin the whole crew were teetotallers.

Prof. Miller states that the Russian military authorities "interdict its use absolutely in the army when troops are about to move under extreme cold, part of the duty of the corporals being to smell carefully the breath of each man on the morning parade, and to turn back from the march those who have indulged in spirits, it having been found that such men are peculiarly subject to be frostbitten and otherwise injured."

Dr. Carpenter is authority for the statement that the Hudson Bay company has, for many years, entirely excluded spirits from the fur countries of the north, over which they have exclusive control, "to the great improvement," as Sir John Richardson observed, "of the health and morals of their Canadian servants and of the Indian tribes."

Health By Training.

Health-getting, for the chronic invalid, is simply a matter of training, of health culture under favorable conditions, which include the discarding of all disease-producing habits, such as the use of tobacco, tea, coffee and all irritating, indigestible and disease-producing foods.

The free use of flesh foods is no doubt a cause of liver and kidney disease, as well as of stomach disorders. The uric acid of flesh food is also a cause of rheumatism and gout, as well as of nervousness and calcules.

For substantial and permanent recovery, the best method is training. Weak muscles must be trained to act with energy. Weak nerves must be toned up and steadied. The weak stomach must be trained to normal activity and the whole body must be brought in harmony with the forces which make for health.

Buttermilk for Consumptives.

Buttermilk is an excellent food for tubercular patients. It may be taken in the quantity of one to three quarts a day, according to the amount of other food taken. The patient may take two meals, three meals, or four meals a day, according to the quantity of food taken at each meal, and the kind of food. A safe rule is never to allow a consumptive to go hungry. He should eat whenever he has appetite, so that the full digestive power of the stomach may be utilized in furnishing the body with constructive material.

Wanted—An Appetite.

Don't be without one. Why go to the dining room under protest. Don't try to buy appetite at a dollar a bottle. Earn it. One should enjoy eating and he will, if he has a natural appetite, such as comes to one who works for it.

The outdoor life creates appetite, and a cold morning bath awakens the brain, lungs, heart, liver, stomach and the appetite. An ice bag over the stomach for half an hour before meals is a good natural appetizer for a bed-ridden invalid.

Another method is a hot application over the abdomen for five minutes, followed by an ice rub over the same parts for one or two minutes. This not only produces an appetite but stimulates the flow of the digestive juices and thus furnishes the ability to digest.

Diet for Tuberculosis.

The tubercular patient needs preteids, or tissue-building foods, but only to the amount which can be assimilated and utilized by the body. Any excess must be treated like poisons, and hence must be a burden to both liver and kidneys, and a waste of vital energy.

Proteids must be taken, not only in moderate quantity, but in the purest form possible. The vegetable kingdom presents proteids in combination with fats in great abundance, and in nuts, which can be made easily digestible by thorough chewing or by proper preparation.

The yolks of eggs afford also a combination of fats and proteids which is admirably suited to the tubercular patient. Milk, especially rich milk, is another food adapted to this class of patients when it does not produce "biliousness" through indigestion. Many tubercular patients have dilatation of the stomach. Such cases must avoid milk. Nearly all can take nuts if the right kind is selected and great care is taken with the mastication. Pecans, hickory nuts, almonds and filberts, pinons, or pine nuts are the best varieties. Half a pound of nuts may be taken daily by the consumptive, not only without harm, but with great benefit, if combined with other foods. A diet consisting of nuts, well-toasted bread and fruits is a perfect dietary for the tubercular patient. The yolks of a dozen eggs may be used in place of nuts.

WHOLESCOME RECIPES.

Lentil and Nut Leaf.—To one pint of rather dry lentil pulp add one cup of grated Brazil nuts and sufficient stale breadcrumbs to make a stiff mixture. Season with salt and sage if desired. Press into a bread tin and bake in a slow oven one hour or longer.

Fruit Soup.—Into one cup of warm water put one rounding tablespoonful of sago and cook in a double boiler one-half hour. Then add two or three whole cooked prunes, one-fourth cup stewed raisins, two tablespoonfuls stewed cranberries, one teaspoonful lemon juice and sugar to suit the taste. Allow it to heat until the fruit is hot, and serve. Vermicelli or pearl barley may be substituted for sago, and dried cherries, with strawberry and lemon juice, used in place of the fruits mentioned.

Snowballs with Prunes.—Steam rice one hour or until tender, then form into balls, with one large or two small prunes in the center. Serve with a hot sauce made by warming for a few minutes one-half cup of melrose, to which the juice of one lemon has been added and a little prune juice to make it of a consistency to pour easily.

Banana and Nut Salad.—Peel three bananas and slice thin; add one-half cupful broken (not chopped) walnut meats. Pour over this two-thirds cup of the dressing and mix well. Serve on platters garnished with lettuce leaves.

Peas Croquettes.—Boil until thoroughly done two cupfuls of Scotch peas. Rub through a colander and add two well-beaten eggs, a little minced parsley, a small grated onion, salt to taste and dry bread crumbs enough to make quite stiff. Form into croquettes, roll in beaten eggs and breadcrumbs and bake in oven about ten minutes. A cup of chopped walnuts will improve the croquettes.

Savory Lentils.—Cook two cupfuls of lentils until well done. Rub through a colander and add salt and sage to taste. To serve, heap in the center of the dish and pour tomato sauce around it.

London. There, in 1728, he married Letitia Maria Anna Stalge, a sister of Rev. Theodosius Stalge, a famous minister in the early days of Virginia, and who was at that very time rector of a church in St. George's parish, a few miles from Fredericksburg.

On first coming to Virginia Rev. James Marye became the minister of a settlement of Huguenots at Manacan, or Manakinton, in Goochland (now Powhatan county), on the James river, above Richmond, and so excellent was his reputation that the good people of Fredericksburg desired him for a rector. Accordingly, in 1735, as shown by the early vestry book, the churchwardens asked leave of Gov. Gooch, as was the colonial custom, to call Rev. James Marye to their pulp. This request was granted, and in October of the same year he assumed charge of St. George's parish, the principal church of which was in Fredericksburg, succeeding Rev. Patrick Henry, uncle of the famous orator of that name. Thus began the long and eventful pastorate of the Marye family over this historic church; the first Rev. James Marye serving for thirty-four years, and being followed by his son, Rev. James Marye, Jr., who ministered until his death, in 1780. As was the custom of clergymen in those days, the first Rev. James Marye conducted an academy in connection with his church. It was this academy that Washington attended.

Except the tutors in families, the educational advantages in Virginia in 1745 were extremely limited. It was the custom of the wealthier families to send their sons to England to finish

East Jordan Lumber Company

SPRING GOODS

Are NOW BEING OPENED UP.

Clothing Department.

In ten-days' time we will show the most complete line of

Men's Spring Suits Spring Overcoats

Cravenette Coats

Boys and Children's Clothing

Ever shown in our store.

They will consist of the most beautiful selection of dainty and exclusive fabrics imaginable.

Hat Department

We already have in a part of our spring line of Hats. We have all the new styles and colors that are shown in the large cities.

Shoe Department

We already have in a part of our new spring line of Shoes, consisting of Patent Leathers, Patent Leather Oxfords, Vics, Velours and Kangaroo.

Our big spring line of QUEEN QUALITY Shoes will soon be in wa it for them.

New Spring Shirts and Neckwear

will be opened to your inspection in a few days.

Dry Goods Department

New Dress Goods

New Gingham

New Prints

and in fact everything new is being opened up in the way of Dress Goods and Notions.

Groceries and Hardware Dept

Our stock in these lines are always complete.

Another carload Washburn & rosby Flour just unloaded. Carload of Nails just unloaded bought before the advance. Carload of Wire just unloaded bought before the advance.

Everything in the way of Hay, Grain and Feed, always on hand.

YOURS FOR GOOD GOODS,

East Jordan Lumber Company

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY HERALD

G. A. Lisk, Publisher

ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR

Entered at the postoffice at East Jordan, Michigan, as second class mail matter.

VILLAGE CAUCUS.

Notice is hereby given that a Village Caucus will be held in the Village Hall (Hose House) in said village, on SATURDAY, March 4, 1905, at 7:30 p. m. standard time for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for Village Officers for the ensuing term for the Village of East Jordan, county of Charlevoix, Michigan and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before it.

By order of Board of Election Inspectors. DAVID F. CLEMENT, Village Clerk. Dated Feb. 23, 1905.

VILLAGE ELECTION NOTICE.

To the Electors of the Village of East Jordan, County of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan:

Notice is hereby given that the next election for said Village will be held at the Town Hall in said village on MONDAY, March 13, 1905.

at which election the following officers are to be chosen, viz: One Village President, one Village Clerk, one Village Treasurer, three Trustees for two years, one Assessor.

The polls of said election will be open at 7:00 o'clock a. m. and will remain open until 6:00 o'clock p. m. of said day of election.

By order of the Board of Election Inspectors of said Village.

Dated this 23rd day of February, A. D. 1905. DAVID F. CLEMENT, Village Clerk.

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

To the Electors of the Village of East Jordan, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan:

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the Board of Registration of the Village above named, will be held at the Hose House within said village, on SATURDAY, March 11, 1905, for the purpose of registering the names of all such persons who shall be possessed of the necessary qualifications of electors and who may apply for that purpose, and that the said Board of Registration will be in session on the day and at the place aforesaid, from 9:00 o'clock a. m. until 5:00 o'clock p. m. for the purpose aforesaid.

Dated this 23rd day of February, A. D. 1905. By order of the Village Board of Registration. DAVID F. CLEMENT, Village Clerk.

List of Advertised Letters.

Following is a list of the letters remaining unclaimed for in the East Jordan postoffice for the week ending Feb'y 27th 1905:

- Coatta, Mr. Frank
- Stephenson, Mr. J. G.
- Sweet, Mrs. Claude
- Sessoms, Mr. John
- Kidder, Miss Eva
- Kaley, Mrs. Armena
- Newman, Mr. Louis
- Noble, Mr. G. L.
- Benefield, Mr. Vern
- Nixon, Mr. Clayton
- Shomin, Wm.
- Banc. oft, Fred

FRANK A. KENYON, P. M.

LaGrippe and Pneumonia.

Pneumonia often follows La Grippe but never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar. It cures la grippe coughs and prevents pneumonia and consumption. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered. Mr. G. Vacher, of 157 Osgood St., Chicago, writes "My wife had a severe case of la grippe three years ago, and it left her with a terrible cough. She tried a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar and it gave immediate relief. A 50 cent bottle cured her cough entirely." Refuse substitutes. Sold by L. C. Madison.

New Line of Samples at Vadsdagh's. Call and look them over.

Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar is an improvement over all Cough, Lung and Bronchial remedies. It acts on the bowels—drives the cold out of the system, cures Croup, Whooping Cough, wards off Pneumonia and strengthens the lungs. Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar is the best cough Syrup for children. Pastes good. Sold by L. C. Madison.

WATERMAN'S absolute cure by using "Hornet's Salve." Price 25 cents. All drug stores. Book free. Hornet's Salve Co., Chicago, Ill.

The State Legislature.

(Continued from first page.)

The third measure is the Waters bill, file number 37, which applies to senators and representative both national and state, and to governor and lieutenant governor, and optionally to county and city officers. It has the same provisions for "nomination papers" as the Stone bill, but provides separate party ballots and ballot boxes, and other separate ballots for delegates to county conventions, the highest of which is chairman of his precinct delegation and also delegates to the state convention. An elector is only entitled to vote for candidates of the party with which he is affiliated at the last election. The parties hold their county conventions on successive days of the third week in September. In the order of greatest number of votes, and the state conventions similarly in the succeeding week. County conventions nominate county officers where not named by primary ballot, appoint county committee, and certify the state delegates after adjusting the number to the county's quota. The state conventions nominate the remaining state officers, decide on and fill vacancies, and promulgate a platform, of which the nominee for governor has veto power over any provision, subject to an overriding three-fourths vote. The obligation of members of the legislature to vote for the nominee of their party for United States senator is declared to be the same as that of presidential electors. The author of this bill, Arthur J. Waters, is a lawyer of Manchester, Washtenaw county, elected last fall to his first term.

Ladies should call on Maddugh the Tailor for the finest Spring Suits obtainable in this city.

When you need a pill it is always best to buy the best, Dade's Little Liver Pills are the best. Try them. They have a way of their own. Sold by Warner's Pharmacy.

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food. Fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is easily digested and assimilated as

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

It will nourish and strengthen the body when milk and cream fail to do it. Scott's Emulsion is always the same; always palatable and always beneficial, where the body is wasting from any cause, either in children or adults.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

SCOTT & BOWNE CHEMISTS 409 Pearl St., New York 50c. and $1.00. All Druggists.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

Prevents Serious Results From a Cold.

Remember the name Foley's Honey and Tar. Insist upon having the genuine.

Three sizes 25c, 50c, $1.00 Prepared only by Foley & Company, Chicago.

EGGERS the most hopeless cases cured with "Hornet's Salve," guaranteed. All drug stores, 75 and 50c. Book free. Hornet's Salve Co., Chicago.

WATERMAN'S absolute cure by using "Hornet's Salve." Price 25 cents. All drug stores. Book free. Hornet's Salve Co., Chicago, Ill.

A new kind of Gasoline Lamp has been installed by Frank Zitka, in his place of business on State St. which gives an excellent light and is likewise economical. The lamp shown gives a 100 candle-power light and uses only a quart of gasoline in fifteen hours. The mechanism is simple and there is absolutely no danger in handling. Mr. Zitka is agent here for same and will be glad to show the working of the light, the different kinds manufactured and quote prices on same. They are known as the "Canton Hydro-Carbon Lamps," and are made to give from 100 to 200 c.p.

A safe, agreeable and mild remedy for constipation, biliousness and indigestion. California Prune Wafers, 100 for 25 cents. Ask your Druggist. For sale at Warner's Pharmacy.

WANTED.—10 men in each state to travel, tack signs and distribute samples and circulars of our goods. Salary $75.00 per month. $3.00 per day for expenses. KUHLMAN CO., Dep. S Atlas Building, Chicago.

They act on the contents of the bowels, cleansing them thoroughly with soothing effect. California Prune Wafers, 100 for 25 cents. Ask your Druggist. For sale at Warner's Pharmacy.

California Prune Wafers, nature's cure for all bowel troubles. Act promptly without pain or inconvenience. 100 for 25 cents. Ask your Druggist. For sale at Warner's Pharmacy.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Gray's signature is on each box. 25c.

RANCH FOOD FOR STOCK

If your stock is not doing just as well as you would like, there is undoubtedly a cause which can be easily remedied by RANCH FOOD. There is no season of the year when the condition of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs can not be improved by a tonic like RANCH FOOD, which tones up the animal system throughout, cleanses the blood and prevents disease. RANCH FOOD is almost infallible for the cure of the general diseases of domestic animals, including Distemper and Colic in horses; Indigestion in cattle; Catarrhal Troubles in sheep and Hog Cholera. RANCH FOOD is not like the common stock foods on the market; it is made from roots, herbs, herbs and seeds and is nature's own product scientifically compounded.

"RANCH FOOD is superior as a general conditioner and grain saver to anything I have ever used." — Ed. McVay, Chicago, Ill.

Sold on a guarantee in 25 pound pails at $3.00. In Packages at 25 and 50 cents.

MANUFACTURED ONLY BY H.G. HARTER & CO. TOLEDO, OHIO.

For sale by ST. OEBEL BROS., East Jordan.

Closing out of CUTTERS

We have in stock two Cutters, all that remains of the carload shipped us last fall which we do not wish to carry over another season. They are first-class in every particular and will be sold regardless of cost. If you wish to purchase a Cutter at a bargain call on

The East Jordan Harness Co.

When In Need of Building Material

of any description such as Sash Doors Mouldings Turned Work and Scroll Sawing

Be Sure and Call at the Factory of Waterman & Price Contractors and Builders EAST JORDAN, MICH.

Received some our new GRASS AND CLOVER SEEDS

Fresh, Clean, Absolutely Pure.

QUALITY our only motto. Prices right.

Also a limited quantity of

Select, Home-grown
SEED CORN.

STROEBEL BROS.

JOS. O. GLENN, President. W. L. FRENCH, Vice President.

GEO. G. GLENN, Cashier.

State Bank of East Jordan.

CAPITAL, $20,000.00 SURPLUS $1,500.00.

Money to Loan on Short Time.

Deposits of $1.00 and upward received and interest allowed if left on deposit three months or longer.

Bank Money Orders sold at lowest Rates.

Fire Insurance Written - we have seven good companies.

Private Deposit Boxes to Rent at $2.00 per year.

DIRECTORS - JOS. O. GLENN. W. L. FRENCH. WM. P. PORTER.
M. H. ROBERTSON. GEO. G. GLENN.

Briefs of the Week

Villagecaucus this Saturday eve. The latest Songs and Sheet Music at Mack's Jewelry Store.

Our Band is giving us Friday evening concerts now - first prophecy of spring.

There were twelve deaths in Charlevoix County during the month of January.

If the Russian soldiers were as good marksmen as the bomb throwers, the Japs might fare worse.

Take your Watch, Clock and Jewelry repairing to Mack, the Jeweler. All work guaranteed and promptly done.

A son of David Gaunt received a severe scalp wound one day this week while indulging in that society game called "Shinny."

Mr. Albert Supernaw of near Essex, who is here guest in the family of her brother-in-law Richard Supernaw, is suffering a severe attack of grip.

Ex-senator Philip B. Wachtel of Petoskey was here this week in the interest of the Queen Insurance Co. He went from here to Boyne Falls.

A handsome arc light is about to be installed by Electrician Plank in Warne's Pharmacy. It is simple of construction, gives a 2000 c. p. light and costs only about a fifth what incandescences of that candle power would run same.

"A Hidden Crime" played to a good-sized audience at Loveday Opera House last Tuesday evening. The play was a first-class drama and was appreciated by all who enjoy that nature of a play. Pauline Fletcher, who portrayed the character of Rose Adair - a flower among weeds - is an artist.

This is the time of the year when Honey should be used freely. Did you know that Honey is one of the chief ingredients of cough and cold remedies? Well it is and is also a very reliable food product. Try a package of Bartlett's candied Honey, melt it and serve it warm with hot biscuits and butter. Your merchant will supply you, 10c and 25c sizes.

The Dunbar, one of the most noted Musical Companies on the road, will be at East Jordan, next Monday, March 6th, under the auspices of the East Jordan High School Lecture Course. Although this is the highest priced number in the course, the tickets usually selling for 75c, the price has been placed at 50c for any seat down stairs except the box seats, which will be 50c. General admission 25c. Usual prices for children. Let everyone avail themselves of this opportunity and assist the High School.

The Beaver Island cable is now a certainty, the bill passing without an amendment. The cable will start from the beach just south of the south pier at Charlevoix and terminate near the south side of the entrance to Beaver harbor. For the landing a wire will be stretched across the fields to the church lot, and an 80-ft. tower will be erected near the residence of Rev. Fr. Zugelder, who will be the weather bureau official. The telephone service will also be connected with McCann's store at the harbor. The tolls for telephone service between Charlevoix and Beaver harbor will not exceed 25 cents. The appropriation will not become available until July 1st but it is expected that the cable will be in operation by October 1st.

New Sheet Music at Mack's Jewelry Store.

Elmer Richards is here from Marquette.

George G. Brown is among the grip victims.

Colon McDermott is very ill with appendicitis.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Otto Holliday a son, Monday last.

Dr. C. A. Sweet was a Charlevoix visitor on Wednesday.

The latest Novelties in Jewelry at Mack's Jewelry Store.

Miss Anna Light is studying stenography in E. N. Clark's law office.

Mrs. J. J. Pfender with daughter Elmer is guest of Charlevoix friends over Sunday.

Judge of Probate J. M. Harris and Atty L. F. Knowl's were here from Boyne City, Saturday.

Attorney A. B. Nicholas was at end to business matters in Antrim County Circuit first of the week.

Milton Ross and wife are the possessors of a fine baby boy which arrived at their home Tuesday morning.

G. L. Sherman was painfully injured Monday, by stepping on a nail. He is now walking with a limp.

Taylor C. H. Maddaugh was a Deward business visitor first of the week. He had considerable success on his trip.

Mrs. Andrew Kime and children returned Thursday from Clarksville where she has been for several weeks guest of relatives.

Atty P. N. Clink hears occasionally from his son, A. D., who is now in the grocery business at Roseburg, Oregon. He is having considerable success.

The M. E. Ladies' Aid Society will serve a 10c supper at the home of James Howard next Wednesday evening, March 8th. A program will also be given.

The High School Alumni will hold a meeting at High School House this Friday evening, March 4th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

Mrs. Andrew Poustie and daughter, Mrs. J. Hankin left Wednesday morning for Los Angeles, Cal., where they join their husbands and make that place their future homes.

Mrs. Albert Churchill died at her home near here last Friday, aged 40 years. Funeral services were held Tuesday from the Methodist Episcopal church her pastor, Rev. Yost, conducting same. Deceased has been a sufferer from cancer for about fourteen years and a third of that time confined to her bed. A husband and four children survive. Mrs. A. Esterbrook of Allegany, Wm. Churchill of Lake City and Andrew Newcomb of Elk Rapids, were here from out of town to attend the obsequies.

Another winter's afternoon was pleasantly spent with Mrs. C. H. Whittington and Mrs. Wm. Stone as entertainers; sixty ladies with silver threads in their locks gathered at Mrs. Whittington's on Tuesday. When they all got to visiting it was like music on the desert air. A guessing contest of trees, plants and flowers formed the Educational part. Mrs. F. Boosinger and Mrs. W. Haire being the winners. The prize going to the former lady. Dainty refreshments were served.

Pay your sub.

C. C. Mack, the Jeweler.

Jas. Gidley Sr. is among the sick.

Epworth League meet with Archie Misenar next Tuesday evening.

Go to Lewis' New Grocery for your Onions.

Wm. Harrington is home from Lansing a few days this week.

Parker Fountain Pen at Mack's Jewelry Store. Everyone guaranteed.

Mrs. Henry Roy is out again, after a two weeks' seige with bronchial troubles.

Get Mack's prices on Watches, Watch Cases, Chains, etc. Everyone guaranteed.

The best bargains ever in Ladies' and Gents' Fine Tailored Clothing at Maddaugh's.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Squires and son are now nicely domiciled in the Eber Burdick dwelling.

Atty J. E. Converse is packing up his law office furnishings preparator to moving to Boyne City.

E. A. Lewis, the New Grocer, has just received a fine lot of Oranges, Lemons and Confectionery.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglass C. Loveday entertain a number of friends at progressive euchre this Friday evening.

J. H. Milford read the Electric Light Meters this month. Electrician E. C. Plank being laid up with a cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gotham are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. George Hallenbeck of Pellston.

Mrs. Albert Miles, living west of here, is quite ill and confined to her bed. Dr. Foster is attending.

Miss Margaret Bowman and La Verne Crossman gave a little party in honor of Atty J. Ernest Converse, Thursday evening. A pleasant evening was spent.

The Russian bomb throwers consider it a waste of ammunition to blow up the poor little Czar, but when they blew up Grand Duke Sergius they elevated a big chunk of imperial power.

Advice givers of the country should find other employment besides trying to lead the President. Mr. Roosevelt knows his duty and he is going to do it by the people, as the trusts are now willing to testify.

Miss Eleanor Bell left Monday for Oberlin, Ohio, to enjoy a month's visit with her parents. During her absence Miss Emma Zouick fills her place as stenographer for the East Jordan Cooperaage Co.

Indian Territory and Oklahoma will be the biggest "baby" ever born into Uncle Sam's family, weight, nearly a million population. Uncle Sam will undoubtedly feel proud of this youngster as soon as a suitable "room" is found for him in the mansion of senators.

At the Spring election, which takes place on Monday, April 3, the following state officers are to be voted for: One Justice of the Supreme Court, two Regents of the University of Michigan, one Member of the State Board of Education (to fill vacancy) and one Circuit Judge for the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit comprising the Counties of Charlevoix, Antrim, Grand Traverse and Leelanau.

The Presbyterian Missionary Society held their annual praise meeting at the church Sunday evening in place of the regular church service. The program opened with a song by the choir. Mrs. J. Jamison, President, conducted the responsive reading; Mrs. Lorraine read a chapter from the Bible. Mrs. Lewis, offered prayer; Mrs. Frank Foster, Secretary, called the roll each member responding with a scripture verse; Readings on the work Mrs. H. Thompson and Miss A. Porter. An interesting talk by Mrs. J. A. McKee on "Cora"; Mrs. Bush sang a solo accompanied by W. Webster, on Violin; an instrumental duet by W. Webster, Violin; W. Malpass, Clarinet. The choir sang several selections with Miss Emma Stone organ accompanist for the evening.

Now is the time to get your old carpets together and plan for to have them made into beautiful "sanitary" rugs by the Petoskey Rug Mfg. Carpet Co. Ltd. Remember, they have no agents representing anyone approaching you as an agent should be turned down as a fraud. Write for their free booklet which will be mailed you. Once a customer of theirs, always one.

From the report of the Magazine editor, we can safely accept it as a fact that Tom Lawson feels another terrible spell coming on him.

These cold waves may accomplish some good after all if they freeze out the spring poets.

Wander what excuse the ice-man will have for high prices next summer?

Take one California Fruit Water after each meal and you will know dyspepsia, or constipation, for 25 cents. Ask your Druggist. For sale at Warne's Pharmacy.

School Notes.

Lyceum Program. - Minutes of last meeting read and approved; Inst. Solo, Clarke Haire; Essay, Nellie Bowers; Debate, Resolved that corn is more beneficial to the human race than wheat; A. F. Glen, Roy, Claude Bowen, and Harry Sufferin; Neg. Lily Sheehy, Marlon Malpass; and Emily Malpass; Quartette, E. J. H. S. Girls; Recitation, Ida Erice; Essay, Florence Carr; Recitation, Chlo. McKee; Song, By School.

Extemporaneous Program. - Michigan, Ray Clink; Our Country, Loy Bennett; Resources of the South and West, Grace Gregory; Great Fairs and Expositions, Howard Porter; Heroes and Hero Worship, Nell Maddaugh; Jails, Coral Misenar; Some Solutions for the Saloon Problem, Bessie Greenwood; The Value of Scientific Research, Clayton Shapton; History of Japan, Chlo. McKee; Village Improvement Societies, Madge Nicholas; Freedom, Dan Seymour.

An open Lyceum has been planned for March 31st.

E. J. Literary Club

Art and Literature day was observed at the Ladies Literary Club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robertson. The following papers were given: Reading, "Inauguration Ceremonies" Mrs. Clark Haire, "Composition and Perspective" written by Mrs. J. W. Boosinger and read by Mrs. Asher, "Current Events" Mrs. Waterman. Delightful music was furnished by Mrs. Sweet and daughter Mildred. Mrs. Thompson will entertain the Club, March 2nd. Quotations from Mrs. Browning.

WILSON.

Lovely spring weather. March came in like a lamb. About $17 was realized at the Grange Dance last Wednesday evening.

Miss Grace Nowland has gone to Boyne City to work at the Cushman House.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hudkins visited at Martin Kubling's on Sunday last.

A good attendance at Wilson Grange last Saturday evening. Five candidates were initiated in the 1st and 2nd degrees of the order.

J. W. Isaman and daughter Beryl of Munroe Creek visited relatives in Afton first of the week.

There will be an old fashioned Donation at the Grange Hall this Saturday evening, March 4th for the Benefit of Elder Yost. Supper will be served for which 15c will be charged. Everyone come and bring something for the support of the preacher.

Miss Eva Graves is the proud possessor of a fine Kimball Organ recently purchased of W. H. Lanway of East Jordan.

Deputy U. S. Internal Revenue Collector A. L. Coulter was in our city, Friday, on business connected with his office.

It now seems quite probable that the state of Kansas will enter up a the experiment of pumping and refining its own kerosene oil. The people of that state have been practically forced to this procedure through the exasperating efforts of the Standard Oil Company to obtain possession and control of the recently discovered Kansas oil fields. It has long been the expectation of intelligent observers of modern industrial movements that sooner or later state ownership and state control would be utilized to meet and compete with industrial combines and commercial monopolies. The Standard Oil Company's course in Kansas has thus hastened the beginning of a contest which may lead to a long era of demoralizing loss and waste before the problem involved is satisfactorily solved.

New Goods Arriving.

Our line of New Goods for the coming season are already beginning to arrive and include the very complete line of Dress Goods in the most desirable shades and fabrics, Laces, Trimmings, Etc.

We carry a general and carefully selected stock of just what customers need in every department of Dry Goods.

Our styles are right; our prices are right.

J. L. WIESMAN

LEADER OF LOW PRICES.

Loveday Block, East Jordan.

E. A. LEWIS

Flour Feed Canned Goods

and Everything in the line of GROCERIES

Our Teas and Coffees a Specialty. A carefully selected stock of Fine Candy and Nuts. Phone No. 168. Goods Delivered.

THE NEW SAMPLES.

The New Samples are now on display at MADDAUGH'S TAILOR SHOP.

He is sole agent for The Royal Tailors and the Detmer Woolen Co., both of whose lines are the finest ever handled in this city.

This year a Specialty will be made of Ladies' Suits and the ladies, as well as the gentlemen, are invited to call and inspect same UNIFORMS. BASE BALL SUITS. MACKINTOSH ES.

An Emporium of Good Things.

We aim to make the name Warne's Pharmacy stand for everything that is Best, Most Desirable and Never-Faillingly Reliable in the Drug Line. Prescriptions compounded with only the purest Drugs and with scientific care.

We invite your calls.

Warne's Pharmacy

We have a Large Stock of Galvanized and Black Barbed Wire

Smooth Twisted Wire

Plain Cable Wire

and Nails of all kinds and sizes. Also Poultry Netting and the genuine DeKalb woven wire fence - good for rough ground and mean hogs. Be sure and get our prices before buying. SPECIAL NEXT WEEK - A No. 9 Tin Copper Bottomed Tea Kettle - regular 60-cent value - at 30 cents.

The W. E. Malpass Hardware Co.

EARN $10,000 A YEAR. WHY NOT?

THE International Correspondence Schools WILL START YOU.

MICH. ENROLLMENT OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY. B. F. HALL, 220 Front-st.

A. K. AGENT TO CALL

A MATTER OF HEALTH

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure
HAS NO SUBSTITUTE

LAFFITE of LOUISIANA

BY MARY DEVEREUX
WITH ILLUSTRATIONS BY DON C. WILSON
(Copyright, 1902, by Little, Brown, and Company)
(All Rights Reserved)

CHAPTER XIX.

Before the week had ended the "Black Petrel" filled her sails for Barataria, with Grelolre's parting words of advice repeating themselves in Laffite's ears:—

"Wind up your affairs in Louisiana, mon ami, and do as the emperor desires—return to France, and assume your own name and rank."

So back to Louisiana he sailed, with his mind in a turmoil that gave unwonted austerity to his manner, and awed his crew into much speculation.

The fever of his first impulse having now abated, he began to upbraid himself for having left Pierre, and wondered if anything evil might have befallen his foster-brother. Day by day, as the "Black Petrel" drew nearer to Barataria, he kept himself busy by querying as to what, if any, changes would be found there, and as to what progress the war had made.

Louisiana, and especially New Orleans, must, in his judgment, be destined to bear a share in the conflict even though this might not be until the eleventh hour; for the possession of the Mississippi and its valley had, for many years, been a dream of Great Britain's ambition.

Night and day, thinking matters over, he resolved that his next step would be to gather what he might of men and shipping and wealth, and, in the hope of wiping all stigma from his name, offer these to the Governor of Louisiana, for use in warring against the English. And the possibility of this opportunity being afforded him, with its reward—a pardon for himself and men, covering all past offenses—the rehabilitation of himself before his world, made his blood tingle.

This accomplished, he would return to France, assume his father's name and rank, and stand ready to serve the emperor.

And the Island Rose,—how had she been faring all this time, and what, amid the changed conditions he was "Missed thee! Aye, in every way, as I ever do when we are apart. But somehow it was a taste worse this time, perhaps because thou wert away in France, where, as thou hast said, I am growing homesick to go."

"And, as I have also said, we will go together, and soon. We will return to Languedoc, thou and I, Pierre, and see the old gardens, and roam in the park, and try to be boys once more." The words ended with a joyous laugh.

"And read of De Soto, and Pizarro, and the tales of Louisiana?" added Pierre interrogatively; a curious sadness touching his voice.

"Nay indeed not," replied Jean, sobering at once. "We have lived too many practical chapters of a like sort, my Pierre, to ever again enjoy the old book."

"And the emperor," said Pierre irrelevantly; "to think of his keeping the little box of papers for thee!"

"Yet it was like him to do such a thing," asserted Jean, with vibrant tone and glowing face. "Ah, if but he were back in France, and free from those cursed English!"

"Aye," Pierre affirmed, a growl sounding in his voice. "The English there on Elba, their power behind the throne of France, and their ships sneaking in here to snatch at Louisiana and the Mississippi. Cursed English, say I."

From what Pierre told him that night, Jean Laffite knew, as clearly as though he had remained at Barataria, all that had transpired since his departure.

This had been shortly after Gen. Andrew Jackson defeated the Creek Indians at the battle called "Tohopekah,"—a disaster that broke their power, and compelled the English to cease reckoning upon them as allies. And after this signal victory Gen. Jackson had been given command of the Seventh military district, which included the State of Louisiana.

It was now very evident that New leans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl.

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

Jean laughed as he knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Thou hast a poor opinion of the fair ones, my Pierre."

"Have I? If so, it was thyself taught me the lesson."

The laughing face sobered at once, and a troubled look came into the eyes fixed upon Pierre's half-mocking ones.

"Say you, Pierre, that I taught you any such lesson?"

"Aye, that you have, with your scorn of women and their ways. Seeing through your eyes, I long ago learned to look upon women as but snares, to love whom brings mischief and the ruin of a man's heart."

Pierre wondered at the gentleness of the tone that answered: "If ever I taught you such a thing, I taught, unknowingly, something I never believed myself; for I think a true woman is a thing to reverence as the saints, and that love in a man's life is like—" He stopped short, and his dark face took a dreaming look as he gazed into the fire.

After a short silence he continued, "The lack of love in a man's life is like a world without sunshine, or a lamp without oil—without light. And to live always in darkness would make life little worth the living."

Pierre had been staring at him, and as he stared his slumbering wits awakened.

In a groping but certain way, he began to rightly suspect the possible cause of a hitherto puzzling change he had noticed in his foster-brother, and, satisfied as to this, he now blurted out, "Jean, my brother, tell me—who is she you love?"

Jean started, and his brows contracted into a frown.

"Thou art not angry with me, that I asked?"

"Angry!" The word was repeated with a soft laugh, as if the supposition were too absurd to call for refutation.

"And she loves thee in return?"

Pierre ventured, encouraged by the laugh.

Jean shook his head, and a bitter sadness touched the still smiling lips. "Not love thee!" exclaimed Pierre, incredulously. "Then she must be blind, or a fool," he added, in sudden wrath.

"Neither the one nor the other, my Pierre," Jean answered, as he rose from his chair. "I had never thought to ask her love, nor knew that I loved her, when, by accident, she discovered that I was the terrible pirate, Laffite, and struck from me as if I had been plague, or death itself. That was long ago, and I have not since laid eyes on her."

There was a world of suppressed passion sounding underneath the ring of mockery in his voice, and Pierre saw his hand tremble as he laid his arm against the stone support of the chimney and looked down into the embers.

Pierre now rose and tossed his cigar into the fireplace, appearing to think there was nothing more to be said. But he turned, quickly to Jean as the latter, laying a hand upon his foster-brother's shoulder, added, "You know my secret, Pierre; for the present let it rest where it is, and give no heed as to who she is. I may yet win her; and I may not. If I do, then you shall know her, and you will love her; of that I feel assured."

"Well you may, my Jean, if she is dear to thee; for that she must now be to me."

"Aye; and God bless thee for a true other self," said Jean, grasping the other's hand. "That I could know, without the telling. Still it is pleasant to hear thee say it. I will clear my name, Pierre—thine and mine; that must be first. After that—we shall see."

(To be continued.)

Orleans was to be attacked as soon as the English could concentrate a sufficient force for that purpose; and Gov. Claiborne had called a session of the legislature, besides taking all other measures in his power toward raising means for defense. But the legislators were slow to co-operate with him; and the same malcontents whose scheming had already wrought such harm to Louisiana were using all possible means to neutralize the governor's efforts.

As Laffite listened to all this, he congratulated himself anew that the "Black Petrel" lay anchored safely before Grande Terre. He felt also that no time could have been more auspicious for making the offer he proposed to lay before the governor,—an offer of service by himself and his followers, in consideration of pardon for all past misdeeds, whether actual or alleged.

When he voiced these thoughts and plans to Pierre, the latter agreed unreservedly; and both men were confident of their ability to obtain the acquiescence of their followers.

"But think you, Jean," inquired the more cautious Pierre, "there is not reason to doubt if Gov. Claiborne accept our offer? I do not wish to dampen thy ardor; but we must remember the threats he has made against the Baratarians."

"He surely will not make the mistake of refusing our services in such an emergency—at a time when every man able to bear a gun will be sorely needed in New Orleans," was Jean's confident reply; and Pierre raised no more doubts that night.

Among the other items of information he had given (and which, although of slight interest to himself, were otherwise to his listener), was that Count de Cazeneau had, at La Roche's invitation, closed his house in New Orleans, and gone with his granddaughter for a visit to the former's plantation, La Tete des Eaux, near the head of Bayou Bienvenue; also that La Roche had taken this occasion to persuade his ward, the Senorita Lazalle, to join his house party.

"He is now a general in the state militia," Pierre added; "and—with a laugh—"It is common talk in New Orleans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl."

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

Jean laughed as he knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Thou hast a poor opinion of the fair ones, my Pierre."

"Have I? If so, it was thyself taught me the lesson."

The laughing face sobered at once, and a troubled look came into the eyes fixed upon Pierre's half-mocking ones.

"Say you, Pierre, that I taught you any such lesson?"

"Aye, that you have, with your scorn of women and their ways. Seeing through your eyes, I long ago learned to look upon women as but snares, to love whom brings mischief and the ruin of a man's heart."

Pierre wondered at the gentleness of the tone that answered: "If ever I taught you such a thing, I taught, unknowingly, something I never believed myself; for I think a true woman is a thing to reverence as the saints, and that love in a man's life is like—" He stopped short, and his dark face took a dreaming look as he gazed into the fire.

After a short silence he continued, "The lack of love in a man's life is like a world without sunshine, or a lamp without oil—without light. And to live always in darkness would make life little worth the living."

Pierre had been staring at him, and as he stared his slumbering wits awakened.

In a groping but certain way, he began to rightly suspect the possible cause of a hitherto puzzling change he had noticed in his foster-brother, and, satisfied as to this, he now blurted out, "Jean, my brother, tell me—who is she you love?"

Jean started, and his brows contracted into a frown.

"Thou art not angry with me, that I asked?"

"Angry!" The word was repeated with a soft laugh, as if the supposition were too absurd to call for refutation.

"And she loves thee in return?"

Pierre ventured, encouraged by the laugh.

Jean shook his head, and a bitter sadness touched the still smiling lips. "Not love thee!" exclaimed Pierre, incredulously. "Then she must be blind, or a fool," he added, in sudden wrath.

"Neither the one nor the other, my Pierre," Jean answered, as he rose from his chair. "I had never thought to ask her love, nor knew that I loved her, when, by accident, she discovered that I was the terrible pirate, Laffite, and struck from me as if I had been plague, or death itself. That was long ago, and I have not since laid eyes on her."

There was a world of suppressed passion sounding underneath the ring of mockery in his voice, and Pierre saw his hand tremble as he laid his arm against the stone support of the chimney and looked down into the embers.

Pierre now rose and tossed his cigar into the fireplace, appearing to think there was nothing more to be said. But he turned, quickly to Jean as the latter, laying a hand upon his foster-brother's shoulder, added, "You know my secret, Pierre; for the present let it rest where it is, and give no heed as to who she is. I may yet win her; and I may not. If I do, then you shall know her, and you will love her; of that I feel assured."

"Well you may, my Jean, if she is dear to thee; for that she must now be to me."

"Aye; and God bless thee for a true other self," said Jean, grasping the other's hand. "That I could know, without the telling. Still it is pleasant to hear thee say it. I will clear my name, Pierre—thine and mine; that must be first. After that—we shall see."

(To be continued.)

leans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl."

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

Jean laughed as he knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Thou hast a poor opinion of the fair ones, my Pierre."

"Have I? If so, it was thyself taught me the lesson."

The laughing face sobered at once, and a troubled look came into the eyes fixed upon Pierre's half-mocking ones.

"Say you, Pierre, that I taught you any such lesson?"

"Aye, that you have, with your scorn of women and their ways. Seeing through your eyes, I long ago learned to look upon women as but snares, to love whom brings mischief and the ruin of a man's heart."

Pierre wondered at the gentleness of the tone that answered: "If ever I taught you such a thing, I taught, unknowingly, something I never believed myself; for I think a true woman is a thing to reverence as the saints, and that love in a man's life is like—" He stopped short, and his dark face took a dreaming look as he gazed into the fire.

After a short silence he continued, "The lack of love in a man's life is like a world without sunshine, or a lamp without oil—without light. And to live always in darkness would make life little worth the living."

Pierre had been staring at him, and as he stared his slumbering wits awakened.

In a groping but certain way, he began to rightly suspect the possible cause of a hitherto puzzling change he had noticed in his foster-brother, and, satisfied as to this, he now blurted out, "Jean, my brother, tell me—who is she you love?"

Jean started, and his brows contracted into a frown.

"Thou art not angry with me, that I asked?"

"Angry!" The word was repeated with a soft laugh, as if the supposition were too absurd to call for refutation.

"And she loves thee in return?"

Pierre ventured, encouraged by the laugh.

Jean shook his head, and a bitter sadness touched the still smiling lips. "Not love thee!" exclaimed Pierre, incredulously. "Then she must be blind, or a fool," he added, in sudden wrath.

"Neither the one nor the other, my Pierre," Jean answered, as he rose from his chair. "I had never thought to ask her love, nor knew that I loved her, when, by accident, she discovered that I was the terrible pirate, Laffite, and struck from me as if I had been plague, or death itself. That was long ago, and I have not since laid eyes on her."

There was a world of suppressed passion sounding underneath the ring of mockery in his voice, and Pierre saw his hand tremble as he laid his arm against the stone support of the chimney and looked down into the embers.

Pierre now rose and tossed his cigar into the fireplace, appearing to think there was nothing more to be said. But he turned, quickly to Jean as the latter, laying a hand upon his foster-brother's shoulder, added, "You know my secret, Pierre; for the present let it rest where it is, and give no heed as to who she is. I may yet win her; and I may not. If I do, then you shall know her, and you will love her; of that I feel assured."

"Well you may, my Jean, if she is dear to thee; for that she must now be to me."

"Aye; and God bless thee for a true other self," said Jean, grasping the other's hand. "That I could know, without the telling. Still it is pleasant to hear thee say it. I will clear my name, Pierre—thine and mine; that must be first. After that—we shall see."

(To be continued.)

leans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl."

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

Jean laughed as he knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Thou hast a poor opinion of the fair ones, my Pierre."

"Have I? If so, it was thyself taught me the lesson."

The laughing face sobered at once, and a troubled look came into the eyes fixed upon Pierre's half-mocking ones.

"Say you, Pierre, that I taught you any such lesson?"

"Aye, that you have, with your scorn of women and their ways. Seeing through your eyes, I long ago learned to look upon women as but snares, to love whom brings mischief and the ruin of a man's heart."

Pierre wondered at the gentleness of the tone that answered: "If ever I taught you such a thing, I taught, unknowingly, something I never believed myself; for I think a true woman is a thing to reverence as the saints, and that love in a man's life is like—" He stopped short, and his dark face took a dreaming look as he gazed into the fire.

After a short silence he continued, "The lack of love in a man's life is like a world without sunshine, or a lamp without oil—without light. And to live always in darkness would make life little worth the living."

Pierre had been staring at him, and as he stared his slumbering wits awakened.

In a groping but certain way, he began to rightly suspect the possible cause of a hitherto puzzling change he had noticed in his foster-brother, and, satisfied as to this, he now blurted out, "Jean, my brother, tell me—who is she you love?"

Jean started, and his brows contracted into a frown.

"Thou art not angry with me, that I asked?"

"Angry!" The word was repeated with a soft laugh, as if the supposition were too absurd to call for refutation.

"And she loves thee in return?"

Pierre ventured, encouraged by the laugh.

Jean shook his head, and a bitter sadness touched the still smiling lips. "Not love thee!" exclaimed Pierre, incredulously. "Then she must be blind, or a fool," he added, in sudden wrath.

"Neither the one nor the other, my Pierre," Jean answered, as he rose from his chair. "I had never thought to ask her love, nor knew that I loved her, when, by accident, she discovered that I was the terrible pirate, Laffite, and struck from me as if I had been plague, or death itself. That was long ago, and I have not since laid eyes on her."

There was a world of suppressed passion sounding underneath the ring of mockery in his voice, and Pierre saw his hand tremble as he laid his arm against the stone support of the chimney and looked down into the embers.

Pierre now rose and tossed his cigar into the fireplace, appearing to think there was nothing more to be said. But he turned, quickly to Jean as the latter, laying a hand upon his foster-brother's shoulder, added, "You know my secret, Pierre; for the present let it rest where it is, and give no heed as to who she is. I may yet win her; and I may not. If I do, then you shall know her, and you will love her; of that I feel assured."

"Well you may, my Jean, if she is dear to thee; for that she must now be to me."

"Aye; and God bless thee for a true other self," said Jean, grasping the other's hand. "That I could know, without the telling. Still it is pleasant to hear thee say it. I will clear my name, Pierre—thine and mine; that must be first. After that—we shall see."

(To be continued.)

leans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl."

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

Jean laughed as he knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Thou hast a poor opinion of the fair ones, my Pierre."

"Have I? If so, it was thyself taught me the lesson."

The laughing face sobered at once, and a troubled look came into the eyes fixed upon Pierre's half-mocking ones.

"Say you, Pierre, that I taught you any such lesson?"

"Aye, that you have, with your scorn of women and their ways. Seeing through your eyes, I long ago learned to look upon women as but snares, to love whom brings mischief and the ruin of a man's heart."

Pierre wondered at the gentleness of the tone that answered: "If ever I taught you such a thing, I taught, unknowingly, something I never believed myself; for I think a true woman is a thing to reverence as the saints, and that love in a man's life is like—" He stopped short, and his dark face took a dreaming look as he gazed into the fire.

After a short silence he continued, "The lack of love in a man's life is like a world without sunshine, or a lamp without oil—without light. And to live always in darkness would make life little worth the living."

Pierre had been staring at him, and as he stared his slumbering wits awakened.

In a groping but certain way, he began to rightly suspect the possible cause of a hitherto puzzling change he had noticed in his foster-brother, and, satisfied as to this, he now blurted out, "Jean, my brother, tell me—who is she you love?"

Jean started, and his brows contracted into a frown.

"Thou art not angry with me, that I asked?"

"Angry!" The word was repeated with a soft laugh, as if the supposition were too absurd to call for refutation.

"And she loves thee in return?"

Pierre ventured, encouraged by the laugh.

Jean shook his head, and a bitter sadness touched the still smiling lips. "Not love thee!" exclaimed Pierre, incredulously. "Then she must be blind, or a fool," he added, in sudden wrath.

"Neither the one nor the other, my Pierre," Jean answered, as he rose from his chair. "I had never thought to ask her love, nor knew that I loved her, when, by accident, she discovered that I was the terrible pirate, Laffite, and struck from me as if I had been plague, or death itself. That was long ago, and I have not since laid eyes on her."

There was a world of suppressed passion sounding underneath the ring of mockery in his voice, and Pierre saw his hand tremble as he laid his arm against the stone support of the chimney and looked down into the embers.

Pierre now rose and tossed his cigar into the fireplace, appearing to think there was nothing more to be said. But he turned, quickly to Jean as the latter, laying a hand upon his foster-brother's shoulder, added, "You know my secret, Pierre; for the present let it rest where it is, and give no heed as to who she is. I may yet win her; and I may not. If I do, then you shall know her, and you will love her; of that I feel assured."

"Well you may, my Jean, if she is dear to thee; for that she must now be to me."

"Aye; and God bless thee for a true other self," said Jean, grasping the other's hand. "That I could know, without the telling. Still it is pleasant to hear thee say it. I will clear my name, Pierre—thine and mine; that must be first. After that—we shall see."

(To be continued.)

leans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl."

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

Jean laughed as he knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Thou hast a poor opinion of the fair ones, my Pierre."

"Have I? If so, it was thyself taught me the lesson."

The laughing face sobered at once, and a troubled look came into the eyes fixed upon Pierre's half-mocking ones.

"Say you, Pierre, that I taught you any such lesson?"

"Aye, that you have, with your scorn of women and their ways. Seeing through your eyes, I long ago learned to look upon women as but snares, to love whom brings mischief and the ruin of a man's heart."

Pierre wondered at the gentleness of the tone that answered: "If ever I taught you such a thing, I taught, unknowingly, something I never believed myself; for I think a true woman is a thing to reverence as the saints, and that love in a man's life is like—" He stopped short, and his dark face took a dreaming look as he gazed into the fire.

After a short silence he continued, "The lack of love in a man's life is like a world without sunshine, or a lamp without oil—without light. And to live always in darkness would make life little worth the living."

Pierre had been staring at him, and as he stared his slumbering wits awakened.

In a groping but certain way, he began to rightly suspect the possible cause of a hitherto puzzling change he had noticed in his foster-brother, and, satisfied as to this, he now blurted out, "Jean, my brother, tell me—who is she you love?"

Jean started, and his brows contracted into a frown.

"Thou art not angry with me, that I asked?"

"Angry!" The word was repeated with a soft laugh, as if the supposition were too absurd to call for refutation.

"And she loves thee in return?"

Pierre ventured, encouraged by the laugh.

Jean shook his head, and a bitter sadness touched the still smiling lips. "Not love thee!" exclaimed Pierre, incredulously. "Then she must be blind, or a fool," he added, in sudden wrath.

"Neither the one nor the other, my Pierre," Jean answered, as he rose from his chair. "I had never thought to ask her love, nor knew that I loved her, when, by accident, she discovered that I was the terrible pirate, Laffite, and struck from me as if I had been plague, or death itself. That was long ago, and I have not since laid eyes on her."

There was a world of suppressed passion sounding underneath the ring of mockery in his voice, and Pierre saw his hand tremble as he laid his arm against the stone support of the chimney and looked down into the embers.

Pierre now rose and tossed his cigar into the fireplace, appearing to think there was nothing more to be said. But he turned, quickly to Jean as the latter, laying a hand upon his foster-brother's shoulder, added, "You know my secret, Pierre; for the present let it rest where it is, and give no heed as to who she is. I may yet win her; and I may not. If I do, then you shall know her, and you will love her; of that I feel assured."

"Well you may, my Jean, if she is dear to thee; for that she must now be to me."

"Aye; and God bless thee for a true other self," said Jean, grasping the other's hand. "That I could know, without the telling. Still it is pleasant to hear thee say it. I will clear my name, Pierre—thine and mine; that must be first. After that—we shall see."

(To be continued.)

leans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl."

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

Jean laughed as he knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Thou hast a poor opinion of the fair ones, my Pierre."

"Have I? If so, it was thyself taught me the lesson."

The laughing face sobered at once, and a troubled look came into the eyes fixed upon Pierre's half-mocking ones.

"Say you, Pierre, that I taught you any such lesson?"

"Aye, that you have, with your scorn of women and their ways. Seeing through your eyes, I long ago learned to look upon women as but snares, to love whom brings mischief and the ruin of a man's heart."

Pierre wondered at the gentleness of the tone that answered: "If ever I taught you such a thing, I taught, unknowingly, something I never believed myself; for I think a true woman is a thing to reverence as the saints, and that love in a man's life is like—" He stopped short, and his dark face took a dreaming look as he gazed into the fire.

After a short silence he continued, "The lack of love in a man's life is like a world without sunshine, or a lamp without oil—without light. And to live always in darkness would make life little worth the living."

Pierre had been staring at him, and as he stared his slumbering wits awakened.

In a groping but certain way, he began to rightly suspect the possible cause of a hitherto puzzling change he had noticed in his foster-brother, and, satisfied as to this, he now blurted out, "Jean, my brother, tell me—who is she you love?"

Jean started, and his brows contracted into a frown.

"Thou art not angry with me, that I asked?"

"Angry!" The word was repeated with a soft laugh, as if the supposition were too absurd to call for refutation.

"And she loves thee in return?"

Pierre ventured, encouraged by the laugh.

Jean shook his head, and a bitter sadness touched the still smiling lips. "Not love thee!" exclaimed Pierre, incredulously. "Then she must be blind, or a fool," he added, in sudden wrath.

"Neither the one nor the other, my Pierre," Jean answered, as he rose from his chair. "I had never thought to ask her love, nor knew that I loved her, when, by accident, she discovered that I was the terrible pirate, Laffite, and struck from me as if I had been plague, or death itself. That was long ago, and I have not since laid eyes on her."

There was a world of suppressed passion sounding underneath the ring of mockery in his voice, and Pierre saw his hand tremble as he laid his arm against the stone support of the chimney and looked down into the embers.

Pierre now rose and tossed his cigar into the fireplace, appearing to think there was nothing more to be said. But he turned, quickly to Jean as the latter, laying a hand upon his foster-brother's shoulder, added, "You know my secret, Pierre; for the present let it rest where it is, and give no heed as to who she is. I may yet win her; and I may not. If I do, then you shall know her, and you will love her; of that I feel assured."

"Well you may, my Jean, if she is dear to thee; for that she must now be to me."

"Aye; and God bless thee for a true other self," said Jean, grasping the other's hand. "That I could know, without the telling. Still it is pleasant to hear thee say it. I will clear my name, Pierre—thine and mine; that must be first. After that—we shall see."

(To be continued.)

leans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl."

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

Jean laughed as he knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Thou hast a poor opinion of the fair ones, my Pierre."

"Have I? If so, it was thyself taught me the lesson."

The laughing face sobered at once, and a troubled look came into the eyes fixed upon Pierre's half-mocking ones.

"Say you, Pierre, that I taught you any such lesson?"

"Aye, that you have, with your scorn of women and their ways. Seeing through your eyes, I long ago learned to look upon women as but snares, to love whom brings mischief and the ruin of a man's heart."

Pierre wondered at the gentleness of the tone that answered: "If ever I taught you such a thing, I taught, unknowingly, something I never believed myself; for I think a true woman is a thing to reverence as the saints, and that love in a man's life is like—" He stopped short, and his dark face took a dreaming look as he gazed into the fire.

After a short silence he continued, "The lack of love in a man's life is like a world without sunshine, or a lamp without oil—without light. And to live always in darkness would make life little worth the living."

Pierre had been staring at him, and as he stared his slumbering wits awakened.

In a groping but certain way, he began to rightly suspect the possible cause of a hitherto puzzling change he had noticed in his foster-brother, and, satisfied as to this, he now blurted out, "Jean, my brother, tell me—who is she you love?"

Jean started, and his brows contracted into a frown.

"Thou art not angry with me, that I asked?"

"Angry!" The word was repeated with a soft laugh, as if the supposition were too absurd to call for refutation.

"And she loves thee in return?"

Pierre ventured, encouraged by the laugh.

Jean shook his head, and a bitter sadness touched the still smiling lips. "Not love thee!" exclaimed Pierre, incredulously. "Then she must be blind, or a fool," he added, in sudden wrath.

"Neither the one nor the other, my Pierre," Jean answered, as he rose from his chair. "I had never thought to ask her love, nor knew that I loved her, when, by accident, she discovered that I was the terrible pirate, Laffite, and struck from me as if I had been plague, or death itself. That was long ago, and I have not since laid eyes on her."

There was a world of suppressed passion sounding underneath the ring of mockery in his voice, and Pierre saw his hand tremble as he laid his arm against the stone support of the chimney and looked down into the embers.

Pierre now rose and tossed his cigar into the fireplace, appearing to think there was nothing more to be said. But he turned, quickly to Jean as the latter, laying a hand upon his foster-brother's shoulder, added, "You know my secret, Pierre; for the present let it rest where it is, and give no heed as to who she is. I may yet win her; and I may not. If I do, then you shall know her, and you will love her; of that I feel assured."

"Well you may, my Jean, if she is dear to thee; for that she must now be to me."

"Aye; and God bless thee for a true other self," said Jean, grasping the other's hand. "That I could know, without the telling. Still it is pleasant to hear thee say it. I will clear my name, Pierre—thine and mine; that must be first. After that—we shall see."

(To be continued.)

leans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl."

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

Jean laughed as he knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Thou hast a poor opinion of the fair ones, my Pierre."

"Have I? If so, it was thyself taught me the lesson."

The laughing face sobered at once, and a troubled look came into the eyes fixed upon Pierre's half-mocking ones.

"Say you, Pierre, that I taught you any such lesson?"

"Aye, that you have, with your scorn of women and their ways. Seeing through your eyes, I long ago learned to look upon women as but snares, to love whom brings mischief and the ruin of a man's heart."

Pierre wondered at the gentleness of the tone that answered: "If ever I taught you such a thing, I taught, unknowingly, something I never believed myself; for I think a true woman is a thing to reverence as the saints, and that love in a man's life is like—" He stopped short, and his dark face took a dreaming look as he gazed into the fire.

After a short silence he continued, "The lack of love in a man's life is like a world without sunshine, or a lamp without oil—without light. And to live always in darkness would make life little worth the living."

Pierre had been staring at him, and as he stared his slumbering wits awakened.

In a groping but certain way, he began to rightly suspect the possible cause of a hitherto puzzling change he had noticed in his foster-brother, and, satisfied as to this, he now blurted out, "Jean, my brother, tell me—who is she you love?"

Jean started, and his brows contracted into a frown.

"Thou art not angry with me, that I asked?"

"Angry!" The word was repeated with a soft laugh, as if the supposition were too absurd to call for refutation.

"And she loves thee in return?"

Pierre ventured, encouraged by the laugh.

Jean shook his head, and a bitter sadness touched the still smiling lips. "Not love thee!" exclaimed Pierre, incredulously. "Then she must be blind, or a fool," he added, in sudden wrath.

"Neither the one nor the other, my Pierre," Jean answered, as he rose from his chair. "I had never thought to ask her love, nor knew that I loved her, when, by accident, she discovered that I was the terrible pirate, Laffite, and struck from me as if I had been plague, or death itself. That was long ago, and I have not since laid eyes on her."

There was a world of suppressed passion sounding underneath the ring of mockery in his voice, and Pierre saw his hand tremble as he laid his arm against the stone support of the chimney and looked down into the embers.

Pierre now rose and tossed his cigar into the fireplace, appearing to think there was nothing more to be said. But he turned, quickly to Jean as the latter, laying a hand upon his foster-brother's shoulder, added, "You know my secret, Pierre; for the present let it rest where it is, and give no heed as to who she is. I may yet win her; and I may not. If I do, then you shall know her, and you will love her; of that I feel assured."

"Well you may, my Jean, if she is dear to thee; for that she must now be to me."

"Aye; and God bless thee for a true other self," said Jean, grasping the other's hand. "That I could know, without the telling. Still it is pleasant to hear thee say it. I will clear my name, Pierre—thine and mine; that must be first. After that—we shall see."

(To be continued.)

leans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl."

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

Jean laughed as he knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Thou hast a poor opinion of the fair ones, my Pierre."

"Have I? If so, it was thyself taught me the lesson."

The laughing face sobered at once, and a troubled look came into the eyes fixed upon Pierre's half-mocking ones.

"Say you, Pierre, that I taught you any such lesson?"

"Aye, that you have, with your scorn of women and their ways. Seeing through your eyes, I long ago learned to look upon women as but snares, to love whom brings mischief and the ruin of a man's heart."

Pierre wondered at the gentleness of the tone that answered: "If ever I taught you such a thing, I taught, unknowingly, something I never believed myself; for I think a true woman is a thing to reverence as the saints, and that love in a man's life is like—" He stopped short, and his dark face took a dreaming look as he gazed into the fire.

After a short silence he continued, "The lack of love in a man's life is like a world without sunshine, or a lamp without oil—without light. And to live always in darkness would make life little worth the living."

Pierre had been staring at him, and as he stared his slumbering wits awakened.

In a groping but certain way, he began to rightly suspect the possible cause of a hitherto puzzling change he had noticed in his foster-brother, and, satisfied as to this, he now blurted out, "Jean, my brother, tell me—who is she you love?"

Jean started, and his brows contracted into a frown.

"Thou art not angry with me, that I asked?"

"Angry!" The word was repeated with a soft laugh, as if the supposition were too absurd to call for refutation.

"And she loves thee in return?"

Pierre ventured, encouraged by the laugh.

Jean shook his head, and a bitter sadness touched the still smiling lips. "Not love thee!" exclaimed Pierre, incredulously. "Then she must be blind, or a fool," he added, in sudden wrath.

"Neither the one nor the other, my Pierre," Jean answered, as he rose from his chair. "I had never thought to ask her love, nor knew that I loved her, when, by accident, she discovered that I was the terrible pirate, Laffite, and struck from me as if I had been plague, or death itself. That was long ago, and I have not since laid eyes on her."

There was a world of suppressed passion sounding underneath the ring of mockery in his voice, and Pierre saw his hand tremble as he laid his arm against the stone support of the chimney and looked down into the embers.

Pierre now rose and tossed his cigar into the fireplace, appearing to think there was nothing more to be said. But he turned, quickly to Jean as the latter, laying a hand upon his foster-brother's shoulder, added, "You know my secret, Pierre; for the present let it rest where it is, and give no heed as to who she is. I may yet win her; and I may not. If I do, then you shall know her, and you will love her; of that I feel assured."

"Well you may, my Jean, if she is dear to thee; for that she must now be to me."

"Aye; and God bless thee for a true other self," said Jean, grasping the other's hand. "That I could know, without the telling. Still it is pleasant to hear thee say it. I will clear my name, Pierre—thine and mine; that must be first. After that—we shall see."

(To be continued.)

leans that he is mad for love of the Spanish girl."

"And she?" inquired Jean carelessly, as he patted the head of a hound crouched by his chair.

"Pierre shrugged his broad shoulders. "She is a woman; who, therefore, may say what she thinks, or will do—or not do?"

WOMEN WHO CHARM

HEALTH IS THE FIRST ESSENTIAL

It Helps Women to Win and Hold Men's Admiration, Respect and Love

Woman's greatest gift is the power to inspire admiration, respect, and love. There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature.

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study. At the first indication of ill-health, painful or irregular menstruation, headache or backache, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin its use.

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown, Vice-President Mothers' Club, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"For nine years I dragged through a miserable existence, suffering with inflammation and falling of the womb, and worn with pain and weariness. I once noticed a statement by a woman suffering as I was, but who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I determined to try it. At the end of three months I was a different woman. Every one remarked about it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound built up my entire system, cured the womb trouble, and I felt like a new woman. I am sure it will make every suffering woman strong, well and happy, as it has me."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulences), leucorrhoea, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, or nervous prostration may be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lord Bacon or Tall Men.

When King James asked Lord Keeper Bacon one day what he thought of the new French ambassador Bacon answered evasively that he was a tall and handsome man. "Yes," continued James, "but what do you think of the headpiece?" "Sire," was the answer, "tall men are like high houses, wherein commonly the uppermost rooms are worst furnished."

Resented Assistance.

A friendly fire brigade recently perceiving that a neighboring town was being swept by a big fire, hurried over and immediately began to assist in the attempt to stop the fury of the flames. Whereupon the local fire chief came up and haughtily asked the chief of the assisting brigade: "Come, now; is this your fire or is it ours?"

Irish Inscription.

In the old churchyard at Kilkree, Ireland, is a tombstone with the following inscription: "Here lie the remains of Thomas Nichols, who died in Philadelphia, March, 1753. Had he lived he would have been buried here."

WAS CURED RAPIDLY

RHEUMATISM IN TWO SEVERE CASES MASTERED IN FEW WEEKS.

The Remedy Used by Mr. Schroepel and by Captain J. Balfour in Great Demand in Vicinity of Their Homes.

In the winter of 1903-4 Mr. Schroepel was confined to his bed by a severe attack of rheumatism. His doctor's treatment proved unsuccessful, but he subsequently regained his health by means which he describes with great enthusiasm.

"After five or six weeks of helplessness and pain," said he, "during which I was receiving regular visits from the doctor, I felt as bad as ever. Just then my mother, a woman eighty years of age, paid me a visit. She had received great benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and she was confident they would help me. At her solicitation I gave up the doctor's treatment and took the pills in its place."

"And were you cured as the result of taking her advice?"

"Yes, quickly and thoroughly. Before the second box was finished I felt very manifest improvement, and within two weeks I was able to leave my bed and take up my neglected farm work. I continued to use the pills, however, until eight boxes had been taken, although long before that I felt that every vestige of the disease had been eradicated."

"Are there no traces left?"

"Absolutely none. For a year and three months there has never been the slightest return of the old trouble. For this happy result I and my family freely praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Within the bounds of China township, St. Clair county, Mich., there is no better known farmer than Mr. Henry Schroepel. His cure has therefore naturally attracted a great deal of attention. One of Mr. Schroepel's neighbors, Captain George Balfour, after hearing of the salutary results in Mr. Schroepel's case, decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for an attack of rheumatism from which he was himself suffering. He took eight or ten boxes and now declares himself free from the painful ailment.

It is little wonder that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are much in favor in the community where Mr. Schroepel and Captain Balfour are so well and favorably known. They are sold by all druggists and are equally successful in curing neuralgia, sciatica and partial paralysis.

THE LAMENT

By PERCY BYSSHE SHELLEY

Swifter far than summer's flight,
Swifter far than youth's delight,
Swifter far than happy night,
Art thou come and gone;
As the earth when leaves are dead,
As the night when sleep is sped,
As the heart when joy is fled,
I am left alone, alone.

The swallow, Summer, comes again;
The owl, Night, resumes her reign;
But the wild swan, Youth, is fair
To fly with thee, false as thou.
My heart each day desires the morrow;
Sleep itself is turned to sorrow;
Vainly would my Winter borrow
Sunny leaves from any bough.

Lilies for a bridal bed,
Roses for a matron's head,
Violets for a maiden dead—
Pansies let my flowers be;
On the living grave I bear,
Scatter them without a tear,
Let no friend, however dear,
Waste one hope, one fear for me.

OLD BOSTON WHIPPING POST

Instrument of Punishment Had Permanent Position Near Famous State House

Fresh impetus has been given to the discussion of President Roosevelt's recommendation of the establishment of a whipping post in the District of Columbia by the report of the Washington grand jury endorsing the president's recommendation, and in the action of prominent citizens of Boston favoring the re-establishment in that city of its famous whipping post.

The Boston whipping post used to stand near the present site of the old state house, not far from Thomas W.

"The ordinary forms of punishment, like imprisonment or fines, do not take hold of certain wifebeaters," declares Mr. Paine, "and where boys in pure devilry are guilty of malicious mischief, the courts should have discretion to whip them."

Judge Fallon of the South Boston District court; Max Mitchell, president of the Boston Federated Hebrew charities, and a number of other prominent citizens heartily endorse Mr. Paine's sentiments.

Boston's first whipping post was Cross Indicates Location of Original Whipping Post.

Lawson's office. It might come in handy in spoiling such encounters as it was feared might take place between Boston's copper magnate and the redoubtable Col. "Bill" Greene, should there ever be a renewal of hostilities.

Robert Treat Paine, an eminent citizen of Boston, says that not only wifebeaters, but mischievous boys, should be given a taste of the medicine so freely administered in the time of their great-great-grandparents.

erected in 1637 by Edward Palmer, who built the first pillory and the stocks. To the lasting joy of the wicked, he himself was the first to sit in the stocks, languishing in them, for turning in a bill which the authorities deemed excessive.

The whipping post stood in front of the First Baptist church, and was generally flanked by the pillory and stocks; but these could easily be removed from place to place, while the post was stationary.

LEARNED LESSON TOO WELL.

Customer of Book Agent Had Read Up on Etiquette.

Henry James, the novelist, who after an absence of twenty years, has returned to the United States, tells of a book agent driving many miles to a farmhouse where on a previous occasion he had sold a book. He found the daughter at home and discoursed fluently and impressively on the merits of his book. For each chapter he had a word of commendation. The pictures received detailed explanations. When he had concluded his argument and stated the financial proposition, the girl opened her mouth reluctantly and said: "Papa brought that book home with him the day before yesterday." After the agent had exhausted his supply of polite yet emphatic words and condemned the girl for letting him discourse when his time was so valuable, the daughter ventured the following explanation: "Sir, last year you sold me a book on etiquette. That book says that the art of being agreeable consists in knowing how to be a good listener. I did not wish to be discourteous."

The Woman and the Dog.

If the average Belgian farmer were deprived of the services of his wife and dog he would soon succumb. The women and dogs do very nearly a full half of all the work done on the farm. Here on chill days when an overcoat and gloves are very highly appreciated by a pedestrian taking a brisk walk, on all sides are seen women working like beavers in the fields, weeding turnip fields, hoeing out potatoes, doing all sorts of work. In some instances, the man is by her side, but she is generally alone, excepting for the companionship of from one to four or five little "tots," boys or girls, who gather up the potatoes or pile up the weeds.

JOIN FOR MUTUAL DEFENSE.

Stratford Girls Will Stand No More of Yale Flirting.

Tired of the frivolous attentions of Yale students who are "rusticated" to their town, Stratford's young and pretty society girls have banded together in an organization known as the Bachelor Girls' club.

The chief object of the club, according to its president, Miss Dora Rogersen, is to repel the flirtatious advances of Yale students who come to their town. In college life students who fail to make satisfactory progress in their studies are "rusticated" to places outside of New Haven.

Milford and Stratford get most of the students who are subjected to this form of discipline, but instead of trying to catch up with their studies the students have been trying to win the hearts of Stratford's pretty girls. When they return to college, however, the students quickly forget their rural acquaintances.

It will now be an offense punishable by a fine for a member of the Bachelor Girls' club to be seen in the company of a Yale man.—New York World.

Not Information to Her.

Senator Nelson W. Aldrich was traveling from Providence to his summer place at Warwick a while ago, and as the train was somewhat crowded he sat down beside a bright little girl of about eight years who went to and from school on the line five times a week. She was a pretty blue-eyed, fair-haired little thing and the senator, by way of pleasant conversation, remarked: "What pretty eyes you have."

The small damsel looked at him calmly and responded, "So I've been told before." The conversation stopped right there.—New York Times.

BLOWEST OF ALL ANIMALS.

Scientists Unanimously Award Palm to the Loris.

Scientists say that the slowest-moving mammal in existence is the slow-paced loris, an animal more or less closely allied to the monkeys. Its technical name is "Nycticebus tardigradus," the last part of which might be translated "lazy-footed." One of them, when timed, took exactly thirty-two minutes and three seconds in moving across a space of four feet toward a roach that it was endeavoring to capture. The animal belonged to an Asiatic genus that extends from Java and Sumatra through Borneo and quite possibly some of the Philippine Islands, through parts of Hindustan. When its progress was timed, it advanced "within ten or twelve inches of its quarry, rested upon its hands, drew its hind feet gradually forward until almost under its breast, very slowly and cautiously raised itself upright into a standing position, balancing awkwardly with uplifted arms, and then threw itself bodily—not upon the insect, which was off like an arrow from a Tartar's bow, but upon the spot the roach had occupied half a second before."

Strengthening the Nerves.

Self-control or nerve force is the great lesson of health, and, therefore, of life itself. To understand how to relax is to understand how to strengthen nerves. Hearty laughter is a source of relaxation, as are also all high thoughts, as those of hope, beauty, trust or love. Relaxation is found in diversion. An occasional outing or holiday is necessary. As there are conscious and unconscious thoughts there are conscious and unconscious nerve tension. Women, when shopping, do not know the very tight grip they give their parcels until, on reaching home, their hands fall relaxed in their laps and they say they are so tired.—Health Culture.

Did She Still Approve?

A handsome English girl, recently returned from Spain, was recounting her experiences to a circle of friends, among whom was a Spaniard, says the London Chronicle. "The thing that delighted me most," she said, "was that charming practice they have in Spain of offering you instantly what you may chance to admire." "Do you approve of the custom?" asked the Spanish friend. "Oh, yes!" was the reply. "Senorita, you have very beautiful lips," exclaimed the impulsive Andalusian.

RA.W ITCHING ECZEMA

Blotches on Hands, Ears, and Ankles For Three Years—Instant Relief and Speedy Cure by Cuticura.

"Thanks to Cuticura I am now rid of that fearful pest, weeping eczema, for the first time in three years. It first appeared on my hand, a little pimple, growing into several blotches, and then on my ears and ankles. They were exceedingly painful, itching, and always raw. After the first day's treatment with Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, there was very little of the burning and itching, and the cure now seems to be complete. (signed) S. B. Hege, Passenger Agent B. & O. R. R., Washington, D. C."

Charges for Confetti Throwing.

The vicar of Burgess Hill, England, announces that when confetti is thrown on the occasion of weddings at his church an addition of $125 will be made to the usual wedding fee, to pay for the trouble of cleaning the paper away.

Twice-Told Tales.

Some tales never lose in the telling, and the tale of good that Dr. Caldwell's (laxative) Syrup Pepsin will, and does so, to all poor, dyspeptic, bilious sufferers, is one of them. It positively relieves and cures all forms of indigestion, starts up the languid liver, regulates the constipated bowels, and restores the entire system to a perfect condition of health. Try it. Sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.

Color and Sensibility.

Color and sensibility are closely allied, and one inattentive to clashing combinations is likely to be also a little blunt to the finer moral and intellectual distinctions, a little impervious to the more delicate tastes and acuter pains.—Harper's Weekly.

Maple-Flake

An ideal diet for all who have trouble finding food they can digest.

Ask your grocer.

Free Book

ON DEFORMITIES AND PARALYSIS

will be sent free, postpaid, upon request. This book is of a hundred pages, handsomely illustrated throughout, and tells of an experience of over thirty years in the treatment of Crooked Feet, Spinal Deformities, Infantile Paralysis, Hip Disease, Deformed Limbs and Joints, Etc. It tells of the only thoroughly equipped Sanitarium in this country devoted exclusively to the treatment of these conditions and how they may be cured without surgical operations, plaster Paris or other severe treatment. Send for this book, and if directly interested, mention character of the ailment and special facts will be sent with the book.

The L. C. McLain Orthopedic Sanitarium, 3104 Pine St., St. Louis.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors silk, wool and cotton equally well and is guaranteed to give perfect results. Ask dealer or we will send post paid at 10c a package. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. 200-202 N. 3rd St., Chicago, Ill.

DANGERS TO BE AVOIDED IN FEBRUARY.

Intense Cold Breeds Catarrh.

WINTER SCENE IN THE NORTH

Sudden Changes Breed Catarrh.

WINTER SCENE IN THE SOUTH

February is a month of severe storms and intense cold.

Even in the South where the prevailing temperature is much above wintry latitudes, February brings sudden changes of temperature.

Mercury sometimes drops 20 degrees in a single night.

Therefore, the following health hints are applicable to the whole of North America:

Ventilation.

The sleeping rooms should be well ventilated, but so as to avoid direct currents of air.

Bathing.

Those in vigorous health should take a cold water towel bath every morning before breakfast. Those in feeble health should take a brisk dry-towel rub every morning.

Diet.

The diet should be a generous one, including meat, and occasionally fresh vegetables.

Sunshine.

The nights being long and the days short, as much sunshine as possible should be let into the house during the day.

Clothing.

The head should be kept cool at all times. The feet should be kept warm and dry, day and night.

Precaution.

When unavoidably exposed to cold or wet, a few doses of Peruna will avert bad consequences.

Important to Mothers.

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over 30 Years.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

The Creator's most serious mistake was made in the neglect to provide that women's cheeks might always be red and their noses never.

WANTED—One person in every community to represent old well-known house. Good income. Send address, Donohue Co., 425 Dearborn St., Chicago.

There are few women so perfect that their husbands do not sometimes resent their choice.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Your druggist will refund money if PAIN OINTMENT fails to cure you in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

Blue windows to the soul turn the milk of human kindness into clabber.

For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, always pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

Old age can dye its whiskers, but old age can't look young.

I am sure Pile's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—MRS. THEO. ROBBINS, Maple Street, Norwich, N. Y., Feb. 17, 1900.

Many a man is in advance of his age, many a woman is several years behind hers.

Catarrh of Head.

Mr. Frank Cobb, 175 Summit Street, Deering, Me., writes:

"I was troubled with catarrh in my head. I wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice and he prescribed Peruna."

"I took it and am happy to say it helped me at once. I feel better than I have for years."

Bronchial Trouble.

Mr. J. Ed. O'Brien, Pres. American Pilot Ass'n, Pensacola, Fla., writes:

"I heartily give my endorsement to Peruna as an effective cure for catarrh and bronchial trouble."

Throat and Lungs.

Frank Battle, Jr., 111 N. Market St., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"Peruna has cured me of chronic bronchitis."

"It is the grandest discovery of the age for the throat and lungs."

Pneumonia.

Mr. A. C. Danforth, St. Joseph, Mich., writes:

"I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I was threatened with pneumonia."

"Peruna gave me relief within a couple of days. Three bottles saved me a large doctor bill and a great deal of suffering."

Thousands of Testimonials.

"We have on file thousands of testimonials like the above. We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements Dr. Hartman is constantly receiving."

Address Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

DO YOU COUGH

DON'T DELAY TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in its first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

CELESTINE KING

Feel Well Then

Don't expect to feel well if the stomach of the liver and bowels are not doing their work right. Don't try to set them right with castor-oil, but get the tonic-laxative, Celestine King. 25c at druggists.

10,000 Plants for 16c.

More gardens and farms are planted to Salzer's Seeds than any other in America.—Theodore Salzer, Seed and Plant Dealer.

We own over 5,000 acres for the production of our guaranteed seeds. In order to induce you to try them, we will make you the following unprecedented offer:

For 16 Cents Postpaid

1,000 Early, Medium and Late Cabbages,
1,000 Fine Lettuce Plants,
1,000 Headed Celery,
1,000 High Bush Beans,
1,000 Spinald Beans,
1,000 Kale Luscious Varieties,
1,000 Short-stemmed Peas.

Above seven packages contain enough seed to grow 100 plants. Our planting baskets of 100 plants, flowers and top and lots of choice school and church, excellent marketing facilities. Apply for information to Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to authorized Canadian Government Agent—Mr. W. McInnes, 6 Avenue Theatre Block, Detroit, Michigan; C. A. Laurier, Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan.

Please say where you saw this advertisement.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS

Washington, D. C.

Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in civil war, 15 adjudicated claims, 415 awards.

FARMS FOR SALE

Six desirable 40-acre farms, rich clay loam, near town. Cheap at a selling to get a good home. Apply to IRA BENTLEY, Bentley, Mich.

W. N. U.—DETROIT—No. 7—1905

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors silk, wool and cotton equally well and is guaranteed to give perfect results. Ask dealer or we will send post paid at 10c a package. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. 200-202 N. 3rd St., Chicago, Ill.

How Is Your Heart?

Is your pulse weak, too slow, too fast, or does it skip a beat?

Do you have shortness of breath, weak or hungry spells, fainting, smothering or choking spells, palpitation, fluttering, pains around the heart, in side and shoulder; or hurt when lying on left side?

If you have any of these symptoms your heart is weak or diseased, and cannot get better without assistance.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure strengthens weak hearts, and rarely ever fails to cure heart disease. Try it, and see how quickly you will find relief.

"About January 1st, 1902, I took down with weakness and dizziness, and gradually grew worse. I was told by my family physician that my case was hopeless. My neighbors and family had given me up to die. My limbs and body were swollen to one-third larger than normal size, and water had collected around my heart. For at least three months I had to sit propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I sent for five bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and by the time I had taken them all I was entirely cured. I feel better than I have for twenty years, and I am able to do any kind of work on my farm. My attending physician told me that if it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I would now be in my grave."

L. T. CURD, Wilmore, Ky.
Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Rugs FROM OLD CARPETS

It will pay you to investigate before you place your orders for rugs. We are a responsible incorporated concern with a capital of fifteen thousand dollars and have factories at Petoskey, Michigan Soo, Canadian Soo, Ontario. We are the originators of "Sanitary Rugs," trade mark, from old carpets, all others are imitations. Write for a booklet. We have no agents canvassing. We pay the freight. All work guaranteed.
Petoskey Rug Mfg. Carpet Co., Ltd.
53-57 Mitchell street. 481f

For a Good Home Meal

Go To Chew's Restaurant

Meals Served at Seasonable Hours Always Welcome.
MRS. J. E. CHEW, Manager.
State-st., East Jordan.
Candy, Cigars, Etc.

Frank Phillips

Tonsorial Artist.
When in need of anything in my line call in and see me.
LaLonde Building. East Jordan

JOHN KENNY, GENERAL DRYMAN

Moves household goods, baggage and merchandise of all descriptions.
Stove wood and lumber delivered.
EAST JORDAN. MICH.

LIPPINCOTT'S MONTHLY MAGAZINE

A FAMILY LIBRARY
The Best in Current Literature
12 COMPLETE NOVELS YEARLY
MANY SHORT STORIES AND PAPERS ON TIMELY TOPICS
$2.50 PER YEAR; 25 CTS. A COPY
NO CONTINUED STORIES
EVERY NUMBER COMPLETE IN ITSELF

Moses Lemieux

Practical Horseshoeing and General Blacksmith
All kinds of wood repair work done promptly.
Last Shop East end of State-st

PATENTS

Promptly obtained or no fee. Write for our CONFIDENTIAL LETTER before applying for patent. It is worth money. We obtain PATENTS THAT PAY, and help inventors succeed. Send model, photo or sketch, and we send IMMEDIATE FREE REPORT ON PATENTABILITY. 20 years' practice. Registered Patent Lawyers. Write or come to us at 505-507, 7th St., WASHINGTON, D. C.

D SWIFT & CO

Good Medicine.

Imagination Relieved, Case of Grip For Albion Man.

When an Albion gentleman awoke the other morning, all snuffed up, he was aware at once that he had been balloted for and accepted as a grip candidate. For this disease he had always taken quinine with the very best results and would take some on this occasion assuring his being perfectly well in a day or two. He said nobody who was threatened with the grip need have it if quinine was promptly taken immediately the symptoms of the malady became manifest. He arose out of bed and going to the medicine case took three two-grain capsules and in an hour was feeling better. In the afternoon three more capsules followed the morning rites and by night he was feeling fine. The next morning very few signs of grip were hovering around his pillow, and these few he declared he would scatter with another dose. On this occasion it struck him that the capsules seemed light and he was minded to investigate. Yanking off the cover of one it was found to be void of medicinal contents. He tried another with like results and then the truth crept all over him that he bought a bottle of bulk quinine and a quantity of films intending to fill 'em, but had neglected to do so and had been swallowing empty shells. Yet his grip was completely knocked out of him. As we said before essentials are good things to start with but after that the most that is needed is the appearance. The day will yet come when the scholar in mental philosophy may be cured of an ill by looking at a bottle and a boozer and get "drunk as a lord" without breaking his New Year's pledge.—Detroit Tribune.

HERALD NOTES.

MOUNTING BOARD.—For the convenience of a number of our patrons who wish to use mounting board for Kodak work we have put in a supply to retail at 10c per sheet, size of sheet 22 by 28 inches.—The Herald.

Removes the microbes which impoverish the blood and circulation. Stops all trouble that interferes with nutrition. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will do: 35 cents. Tea or tablet form. At F. O. Warner's.

WANTED—TRUSTWORTHY MAN OR WOMAN to manage business in this county and adjoining territory for well established house of solid financial standing. $20.00 straight cash salary with all necessary expenses paid weekly by check from headquarters. Money advanced for expenses. Position permanent; previous experience not essential. No investment required. We furnish everything. Enclose self-addressed envelope. Address, Manager, 810 Como Block, Chicago, Ill.

"Throw Physic to the Dogs" California Prune Wafers are nature's own remedy for constipation and biliousness. 100 for 25 cents. Ask your Druggist. For sale at warne's Pharmacy.
As a remedy for poor appetite, indigestion, weak stomach and constipation. California Prune wafers are unequalled. 100 for 25 cents. Ask your Druggist. For sale at warne's Pharmacy.

EXCURSIONS VIA THE ### Detroit & Charlevoix and Grand Rapids & Indiana Railways.

LOW RATES TO THE WEST.

Commencing March 1st, one-way settlers tickets will be sold daily until May 15th, to California and North Pacific Coast points at very low rates.
SPECIAL HOMESEKERS EXCURSION.
Tickets will be sold to points in Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Indian Territory and Texas on Feb'y 21st, March 7th and 21st, good 21 days for return, at very low rates.
NEW ORLEANS, MOBILE, ALABAMA, AND PENSACOLA, FLORIDA.

Tickets will be sold to above points at rate of one fare plus $2.25 for round trip March 1st-10th, return limit March 11th, subject to extension until March 25th.

WASHINGTON D. C.

One fare plus 25 cents for round trip March 1st, 2nd and 3rd, return limit March 6th, subject to extension until March 13th.

BATTLE CREEK MICH.

For Democratic State Convention and State Farmer's tickets will be sold at one fare plus 25 cts for round trip Feb'y 27th to March 1st, return 1-8 March 1st, and 4th.

M. F. Quaintance, D. P. A. Petoskey.
E. A. Ashley, Local Agent.

Pirating Foley's Honey And Tar.

Foley and Co., Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a throat and lung remedy, and on account of the great merit and popularity of Foley's Honey and Tar many imitations are offered for the genuine. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered as no other preparation will give the same satisfaction. It is mild, laxative. It contains no opiates and is safe for children and delicate persons. Sold by L. O. Madison.

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN

If you are nervous and tired out continually you could have no clearer warning of the approach of serious female trouble.

Do not wait until you suffer unbearable pain before you seek treatment. You need Wine of Cardui now just as much as if the troubles were more developed and the torturing pains of disordered menstruation, bearing down pains, leucorrhoea, backache and headache were driving you to the unfading relief that Wine of Cardui has brought hundreds of thousands of women and will bring you.

Wine of Cardui will drive out all traces of weakness and banish nervous spells, headache and backache and prevent the symptoms from quickly developing into dangerous troubles that will be hard to check. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui today. If your dealer does not keep it, send the money to the Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., and the medicine will be sent you.

WINE of CARDUI

One of Ring's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating even if you can eat but little, will direct the little you do eat, and cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Belching, and Weak Heart. Sold by warne's Pharmacy.

Manzan is the Pile Remedy that reaches the spot and stops all pile pain instantly. If you suffer with Blind, Bleeding, Itching or Protruding Piles and want to be cured it is only necessary to use Manzan, the Great Pile Cure. Sold by warne's Pharmacy.

It is surprising how quick California Prune Wafers act. They wake up the sluggish liver. No grip, no pain. 100 for 25 cents. Ask your Druggist. For sale at warne's Pharmacy.

For cracked hands, chapped lips, and rough skin, Pinesalve is the nicest, quickest, best cure. One application in one night proves it. Sold by warne's Pharmacy.

If you haven't time to prepare Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, it is now made in tablet form also. Get a package already to use. Makes you well; keeps you well. 35 cents. At F. O. Warner's.

Look out for Coughs, Croup and Whooping Cough. They are dangerous at this season of the year. They lead to pneumonia or consumption. You can prevent or cure all such complaints with Be's Laxative Honey and Tar—an improvement over all cough, lung and bronchial remedies, and the best Cough Syrup. Sold by warne's Pharmacy.

BEE'S Laxative

HONEY AND TAR

An improvement over all Cough, Lung and Bronchial Remedies. Cures Coughs, Strengthens the Lungs and Gently Moves the Bowels. Pleasant to the taste and good alike for Young and Old.

PREPARED BY Pinesale Medicine Co., Chicago, U. S. A. Sold by F. O. WARNER

Detroit & Charlevoix R. R.

Time Schedule in effect Sunday, Jan'y 1st, 1905.

Going East	Stations	Going West
A. M.	Leave	P. M.
9 00	South Arm	6 45
9 20	Wards	6 15
9 25	Jordan River	6 10
9 30	Graves' Camp	6 05
9 40	Green River	5 50
10 30	Alba	5 30
11 40	Deward	4 40
12 15	Frederic	4 10

CLARK HAIRE, General Manager.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

In Effect, Sept. 25, 1904.

Trains Depart from Petoskey: Going South—9:25 a. m. daily; 2:50 p. m., except Sunday; 11:20 p. m., except Saturday.
Going North—2:55 p. m., daily; 9:35 p. m., except Sunday; 6:03 a. m., except Monday.

Trains Depart from Alba: Going South—10:44 a. m. daily; 4:59 p. m., except Sunday; 12:36 a. m., except Sunday.
Going North—1:38 p. m. daily; 8:18 p. m., except Monday; 4:48 a. m., except Sunday.

M. F. Quaintance, C. L. Lockwood, Asst. Petoskey, Mich. G. R. T. A.

East Jordan & Southern R. R.

TIME TABLE (In effect Dec. 1, 1904)

LEAVE EAST JORDAN at 7:30 a. m. and 2:15 p. m.; Arriving at Bellaire at 8:40 a. m. and 3:15 p. m.

LEAVE BELLAIRE at 10:00 a. m. and 4:00 p. m.; Arriving at East Jordan at 11:00 a. m. and 5:00 p. m.

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run by central standard time.

W. P. PORTER, E. J. CROSSMAN, Gen. Manager Traffic Mgr.

PERE MARQUETTE

In effect Dec. 4, 1904.

Trains leave Bellaire as follows: For Traverse City, 9:58 a. m. 3:28 p. m.
For Grand Rapids, Chicago and West 9:58 a. m. and 3:28 p. m.
For Saginaw and Detroit:—9:58 a. m. 3:28 p. m.

For Charlevoix and Petoskey:—8:53 a. m. and 8:05 p. m.
H. F. MOELLER, General Passenger Agent.
F. N. STEWART, Agent, Bellaire.

EXCURSIONS VIA THE PERE MARQUETTE

LOW RATES WEST.

One way, second class colonist fare to the West, Northwest and California. On March 1, 1905, extremely low one-way rates will be offered to points in the West, Northwest and to California. Tickets will be on sale every day through the month of March.

Ask Agents for particulars or write H. J. Gray, D. P. A., Grand Rapids.

LOW RATES SOUTH.

Mardi Gras at New Orleans, March 6-8, 1905.

On account of the Mardi Gras Festival at New Orleans on above date, the Pere Marquette will sell tickets at rate of One Fare for the Round Trip plus $2.25. Good going March 1 to 6, inclusive; good returning not later than March 11.

PILES

In any form are dangerous, health-diminishing, death-dealing 25 cents, insures your life. A trial jar of "Hermi" Salve will prove its infallibility. 25 & 50c. All druggists. Hermit Remedy Co., Chicago.

HOLLISTER'S Rocky Mountain Tea Nuggets

A Busy Medicines for Busy People. Brings Golden Health and Renewed Vigor. A specific for Constipation, Indigestion, Liver and Kidney Troubles, Pimples, Eczema, Impure Blood, Bad Breath, Sluggish Bowels, Headache and Backache. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea in tablet form, 35 cents a box. Genuine made by HOLLISTER DRUG COMPANY, Madison, Wis.

GOLDEN-NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

The NEW BOOKLOVERS MAGAZINE

THE BOOKLOVERS MAGAZINE is new every month. It has no made-in-advance program; no traditions to live up to; no example to model after. The current number now on the newsstands is the very newest magazine in the field. It isn't like any other and it isn't meant to be. Even its advertising pages are a little more attractive than in most magazines. It is the best 25c worth in the magazine world. You will enjoy the exquisite color pictures, the profuse general illustrations, the clever stories, and the up-to-date, informing articles. Three Dollars a year—twenty five cents a single number.

THE BOOKLOVERS MAGAZINES
1323 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

CUTTERS AT YOUR OWN PRICE.

I have a few Cutters on hand which I wish to dispose of before the season is over. To do this I will sell them Regardless of Cost

J. W. COATES BLACKSMITH and WOODWORKER.

Repairing Promptly Attended To.

I have the most complete line of everything you can possibly want in and shall be glad to supply your wants at lowest possible prices.

GROCERIES

We solicit a share of your patronage.

WILL RICHARDSON.

BURPEE'S SEEDS GROW AND WIN MORE PRIZES

Burpee's Seeds are the product of any other brand! Besides several Gold Medals, they won a Grand prize for vegetables at the St. Louis Exposition. If you intend to try Burpee's Seeds, we will mail you our Complete Catalogue of 175 pages, with beautiful colored plates and illustrations from photographs taken at our famous FORDHOOK FARMS, the largest trial grounds in America. Write TO-DAY!

W. ATLEE BURPEE & CO., SEED-GROWERS, PHILADELPHIA

JAS. L. HACKETT

Will write your Fire Insurance in FIRE TRIED companies. Will give prompt and efficient service in making all kinds of Deeds, Mortgages, Contracts, Leases, Bonds, etc., for which we carry a complete line of legal forms.

Will loan money on first class improved farms at 7 per cent. interest, in sums of $100 to $5000 for from one to six years.

SOLDIERS AND PENSIONERS! Are you receiving the amount of pension to which you are entitled under the Age Order of the Commissioner of Pensions, approved March 15, 1904? If not, perhaps we can assist you in getting an increase.

NOTARY PUBLIC—WITH SEAL.

K&K K&K K&K K&K K&K K&K

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgressions against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects.

The weakness must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the PHYSICAL SYSTEM must be vitalized, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active; the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral and physical systems are invigorated—no more waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. We invite all the afflicted to call and consult us confidentially and free of charge. Cures Guaranteed or no Pay. We treat and cure: Varicose Blood Diseases, Skin Diseases, Stricture, Nervous Debility, Kidney and Bladder Diseases.

CONSULTATION FREE. BOOKS FREE. If unable to call, write for a QUESTION BLANK for Home Treatment.

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN,

149 BELLEVUE ST., DETROIT, MICH.

K&K K&K K&K K&K K&K K&K

Stubborn Coughs and Colds

Obstinate racking coughs that settle on the lungs and may develop into Pneumonia over night are quickly cured by

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

It soothes and heals the inflamed air passages, stops the cough, heals and strengthens the lungs. FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, and is safest for children and delicate people. Remember the name—FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR—and insist upon having the genuine, as no other remedy is so safe or as certain in results.

Given Up to Die With Croup. Mrs. P. I. Cordier, of Mannington, Ky., writes: "My three-year old girl had a severe case of croup; the doctor said she could not live and I gave her up to die. I went to the store and got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. The first dose gave quick relief and saved her life."

Editor Cured of Lung Trouble. W. L. Straub, Editor of St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times, writes: "When coming across the bay from Port Tampa I got wet and caught a cold that affected my throat and lungs. I neglected it, thinking I would soon recover, but I kept getting worse, until I bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, and it cured me completely."

Three sizes—25c, 50c, $1.00. The 50 cent size contains two and one-half times as much as the small size and the $1.00 bottle almost six times as much. Refuse Substitutes.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS

Table with columns: Description, Amount of Taxes (Dollars, Cents), Interest, Collection Fee, Charges, Total. Contains multiple rows of land parcels with detailed descriptions and tax amounts.

Table with columns: Description, Amount of Taxes (Dollars, Cents), Interest, Collection Fee, Charges, Total. Contains multiple rows of land parcels with detailed descriptions and tax amounts.

Table with columns: Description, Amount of Taxes (Dollars, Cents), Interest, Collection Fee, Charges, Total. Contains multiple rows of land parcels with detailed descriptions and tax amounts.

Table with columns: Description, Amount of Taxes (Dollars, Cents), Interest, Collection Fee, Charges, Total. Contains multiple rows of land parcels with detailed descriptions and tax amounts.

Table with columns: Description, Amount of Taxes (Dollars, Cents), Interest, Collection Fee, Charges, Total. Contains multiple rows of land parcels with detailed descriptions and tax amounts.