Fair's a Comin'.

Best in Northern Michigan Sept. 26, 27, 28.

Just a week from next Tuesday and the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society will open their gates to their grounds here for the Twenty-first Annual Exhibit. As the time draws nearer the indications are more and more that this year's Fair will be the best ever given in Northern Michigan. A number of exhibits have already been entered, and each day brings in more. Crops on a whole have never been quite as good in this section of the state as they are this year and it's a safe guess that the produce exhibits will surpass anything ever seen.

As to the horse races—and a Fair isn't a Fair without good contests—we are assured of the very best. All track men concede we have the best and fastest half-mile track north of Grand Rapids—and that's quite a feature. They say there is a certain "springiness" in the turf which makes excellent racing. A number have already signified their intentions of being here. Three horses from Gaylord, owned by Messrs. Niles and Demorest, are promised; three from Traverse, owned by Charles Germaine and two others—the Germaine horse being "Little Duke"; Will Miller of Charlevoix will have "A. J." in the races; Frank Anderson and Mr. Juyenville of Boyne City bring horses, the latter bringing "Tornado"; Mr. Siffert of Petoskey will bring three new ones he has recently purchased. A number of others will enter their horses the coming week. Several horses will be on the grounds this week, where they will be tried out.

The races will be held on all three days, as follows:

Tuesday, Sept. 26th:—Pony Race, all horses under 300 lbs., Purse, $15.00; Horse driving nearest to three minutes, Purse $15.00.

Wednesday, Sept. 27th:—2:45 Class, Trot or pace, purse $100.00; 2:18 Class, Trot or pace, purse $150.00; Farmers' Race, purse $25.00; Three-mile Automobile Race, purse $100.00.

Thursday, Sept. 28th:—2:30 Class, Trot or pace, purse $100.00; Free-for-all, purse $150.00; Novelty Race; 1 mile walk; 1/2 mile trot; 1/4 mile go-as-you-please, Purse $15.00.

The Premium Lists, published by The Herald, are now pretty thoroughly distributed. Those who have not received one can obtain same either of Secretary LeRoy Sherman or by applying at this office. Through an error, part of Division I was omitted from part of the books. Those who have books not containing an errata slip can obtain same of above parties. Elsewhere we publish the part omitted.

Other excellent attractions will be given, among them being the Band music, furnished all three days by the East Jordan Military Band.

THE COUNTRY FAIR.

When the harvest days are over
And the crops are stored away, When there's rest from irksome labor
And a little time for play;
It is then the rural dwellers,
With their mind relieved from care, Don their "Sunday-go-to-meetin's"
And attend the country fair
It is there the sturdy farmer And his bustling better half Gaze upon the famed milk-giver
And the sleek and pretty calf, There they join in admiration Of the tenants of the sty, Where the porkers, big and little,
Are creating much surprise.
It is there the happy rustic At each pleasure takes a whirl,
And to gingerbread and cider Oft he treats his smiling girl,
And 'tis there the girlless fellow And the girl without a beau Cast sheep's-eyes, become acquainted, Then around the fair they go.
There are many sights worth seeing,
And a lot of things to charm;
There are horses, sheep and cattle,
And the products of the farm,
There are fakirs after "suckers"
To engage in games of chance,
And there now is seen a midway With its hoochie-koochie dance.
Every year brings new attractions To these rural gatherings, Which so long were all devoted To the farmers' offerings.
And there's joy among the grangers
As they rush from everywhere,
When the harvest days are over,
To attend the country fair.

Croup is quickly relieved, and Whooping Cough will not "run its course" if you use the original Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar. This Cough Syrup is different from all others because it acts on the bowels. You can not cure Croup and Whooping Cough until you rid the system of all congestion, by working off the cold through a copious action of the bowels. Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar does this, and cures all Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. No opiates. Sold by Warner's Pharmacy.

Sick Headache

When your head aches, there is a storm in the nervous system, centering in the brain.

This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting.

This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc.

Alay this stormy, irritated, aching condition by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

They stop the pain by soothing, strengthening and relieving the tension upon the nerves—not by paralyzing them, as do most headache remedies.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do not contain opium, morphine, chloral, cocaine or similar drugs.

"Sick headache is hereditary in my family. My father suffered a great deal, and for many years I have had spells that were so severe that I was unable to attend to my business affairs for a day or so at a time. During a very severe attack of headache, I took Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they relieved me almost immediately. Since then I take them when I feel the spell coming on and it stops it at once."

Hints for Building and Improvements

Plan of Grain Barn. The above cut shows the plan of a barn, which combines capacity with cheapness. Ventilating a Damp Basement. C. B.—I have a barn 40x56 feet, with underground stables, which are very damp. Three feet of the wall are of concrete, with five and one-half feet of wooden work, which reaches the ceiling. How could this basement be ventilated?

A good way to ventilate your stable is to place four or six inch tiles underneath your wall, in the shape of a U, having the end outside the wall high enough so that no dirt or drainage can get in. Cover it with a screen. Have the end on the inside of the wall reach a few inches above the floor.

Material for Cement Blocks. J. R. F.—I intend to build a house of concrete blocks. How much cement will be required to be mixed with each cubic yard of sand in making the concrete? 2. If the wall has an air space in the center it is necessary to lath and plaster on the inside to prevent dampness?

Determining Power of an Engine. W. B.—Please publish a rule to figure out the power of a steam or gasoline engine by the brake test.

The formula for estimating the horse power of an engine by the brake test is as follows: The diameter of the wheel to which the brake is applied, multiplied by 3.14 to give the circumference; this multiplied by the number of revolutions per minute during the test; this again by the difference between the weight hung to the free end of the rope below the fly-wheel and that indicated by the spring balance at the other end of the rope above the fly-wheel; this continued product divided by 33,000 will give the horse power.

The Western Wife

She walked behind the lagging mules
That drew the breaker through the soil; Hers were the early rising tides Hers were the eyes of wifely toil.

The smitten prairie blossoms fair,
The sod-home faded from the scene;
Firm gables met the whirling air, Deep porches lent repose serene.

But with ring brow and snowy tress Bespeak the early days of strife;
And there's the deeper woe that impress—
The untold pathos of the wife.

O western mother! in thy praise No artist paints, nor poet sings, But from the rosary of days God's angels shape immortal wings!

THE INVULNERABILITY OF PRESTON

BY NELLIE CRAVEY GILLMORE

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

When Jack Preston once said to his wife that nothing in the world could possibly shake his faith in her, he believed, conscientiously, that it was the truth. That not the slightest thing had ever happened, either before their marriage or after it, to interfere with this conviction, may have had a great deal to do with its firmness. But Preston's opinion seemed, to himself, to be based upon his own fine fidelity in his wife's integrity; upon a conception that was too liberal to descend to pettiness.

On this same subject, Mrs. Preston entertained her own separate views—not unmingled with considerable doubt. And the doubt rankled. Finally, it assumed such proportions, that she set about evolving a means of experiment whereby she could ascertain a solution that would be entirely satisfactory. In doing this, there were a great many things she failed to consider at all—as offset by the one passion to discover whether her husband was really so invulnerable as he imagined himself.

One morning, she went into her study with a determined plan in view. She tore up half a dozen sheets of paper before she finally managed a letter to her satisfaction. It ran as follows:

Mr. J. H. Preston, New York City.
"Dear Sir:—Heed a friend's disinterested and well-meant advice and keep a sharp eye on your wife. A great many more things than this might be said, but a word to the wise, etc."

"Observer."
She made a careful type copy of the above, sealed and clicked off the address to her husband's postoffice box. Then she locked her desk, planned on her hat and went hurriedly out into the street, walking with a sort of guilty, nervous haste till she reached a mail box. Dropping it in quickly, she reversed her steps with more of leisure and returned at once to her sitting-room and study.

When Preston came in, half an hour later, his wife was industriously engaged upon her correspondence.

"Care about going out to the races this afternoon?" he asked after a little, idly fingering the pages of a magazine.

Mrs. Preston hesitated a moment. It took a good deal of will power to resist, but she made up her mind and must play the part she had set herself.

"I am very sorry," she replied, studiously, "but some friends have invited me to go automobiling, and—" she paused.

"Some friends?"
"Yes; the Kelbys, you know."
"I know, of course. But—"
"Well?"

"Well, it seems that you always have something else on hand when I ask you to go anywhere."

"Purely a coincidence. Experience should teach you that I'd far rather go with you."

"Then break this engagement and come with me," he pleaded.

"Impossible. It would spoil the party, and I couldn't take such a responsibility on my shoulders."

Preston colored, crossing his knees tone, "Isn't there anything that could make you jealous about me. Don't you love me enough?" she added wistfully.

"I love you too much, that is it," he responded swiftly.
"Of course we've argued all this before—and always with the self-same result. But I had commenced to hope—"

"Yes?"
"That possibly you had grown more human."

"I hope I have not grown more narrow."

There is Money in Growing Ginseng!

Prof. W. L. Howard of the Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits may be realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown." A recent bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College in part says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is continually diminishing and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand for the drug in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future. The market for our cultivated root will exist as long as the Chinamen exist." Counsel General W. A. Rublee of Hong Kong says in the U. S. Consular reports: "The sale of Ginseng root grown in America is very large here and the demand is so great that much more could be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indispensable to the 400,000,000 Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat and cotton. The present market price varies from $3.00 to $8.00 per pound according to quality, while the cost of production does not exceed $1.50. There is room in an ordinary garden to grow several hundred dollars' worth each year. The plant is hardy and thrives in all parts of the United States and Canada, except in the arid regions. We are successful growers and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. You can get a good start in the business for a small outlay, and soon have a comfortable income. We have several thousand choice roots for sale for fall delivery. The planting season begins in August and continues till the ground is frozen. Write us today for further particulars.

Vocal Duett, "Beautiful Dreams" Mesdames Sherman and Palmer. Miss Robertson favored the Club with several beautiful vocal selections. After opinions on the benefits of the State Fair were expressed a hymn was sung by the Club. Mrs. C. A. Sweet will entertain the Club next Thursday. Roll call "Our Pet Superstition."

At the Methodist parsonage, Wednesday, Elder R. E. Yost united in marriage George Jacquways and Miss Ethel Ross. Both are well-known residents of this vicinity. They commenced housekeeping on the farm owned by Mr. Jacquways six miles east of this village.

About 600 people were present Sunday evening to the farewell meeting of the Adventist Conference here, the tent being crowded to its utmost capacity. Elder R. C. Russell preached the evening's sermon, his subject being "Religious Liberty." During their meet here a number have been converted, and some 26 souls baptized into the faith.

W. P. Squires had an experience last week he won't forget for a while. On Monday evening he went to the boat house to get some camping truck he had left. He was not feeling well, and while at the boat house he was taken with a lameness of the back which prevented his getting home and he was compelled to utilize a mattress, quilt and pillow and spend the night on anything but a downy couch and amid surroundings which made his previous camping experiences look like a bed of roses. In the morning he could hardly move when discovered by some of the Adventist campers, who took him home. He spent a week in bed and is now out and in the grind once more.

STORIES FOR THE CHILDREN

Mother's Doughnuts.
If you think there's no use trying To do anything of worth;
If you think you're but a cipher
In the multitudes of earth;
Just remember mother's doughnuts
And press onward to the goal.
Finest doughnuts in creation,
They were made around a hole.

If the patch is on your garment Where it never was before,
If your pocketbook is empty
Of its hoarded little store,
Just remember mother's doughnuts
When the clouds of trouble roll—Sweetest doughnuts manufactured, All were built around a hole.

If you think your next door neighbor Had a better start than you;
If perhaps you made a failure
And success is hard to woo, Set your teeth the way you used to,
Lay the comfort to your soul—Recollect the grand perfection
That was circled round a hole.

A Novel "Twirler."
In some experiments you may need A "twirler," which is an arrangement used for spinning objects rapidly, and, as you might like to add one to your "home made laboratory," a description of it follows:

It consists usually of two wheels fixed on a stand, and so connected by means of a band that by turning, a handle on the larger wheel the smaller one may be made to revolve rapidly.
The object to be twirled is fixed to this second wheel.

This twirler can be bought, of course, from a dealer in scientific supplies, but the wheels of an ordinary toy cart can sometimes be utilized.
Turn the cart upside down, and tack or pin the object to be twirled to one side of the wheel, and spin it from the other side by the forefinger.

But if the object is to be twirled in a horizontal position, as a pail, for instance, the cart must be placed on

Two Kinds of Twirlers.

its side on a table, with the wheel projecting over the edge. The cart must be weighted to keep it in place and the string to support the pail must be tacked as near the center of the hub as possible. By twirling the wheel from above you may make the pail, with water, or whatever it may contain, spin around and around.

An excellent twirler, however, can be made, if you have no cart, with merely a piece of board, a hook, and a piece of twine. Get a piece of board about two feet long by twelve inches wide, and place it over the top of a door—slightly ajar, tilting it so that one end of it may rest under the top of the door frame and so be held in place. Over the other end slip a loop of cord that will hang down within two feet of the floor, and to this end fasten a hook. The board must be far enough under the top of the door frame to hold firm when the string is pulled on.

The loop of cord should now be twisted tightly, and then the object to be twirled should be hung on the hook. As the cord untwists the object will be twirled and it will twirl more rapidly if a stick be pressed down just above the twist.

Flat pieces of cork may be strung on the cord, being held in place by knots.

Alphabet Trips.
A game that requires no material and no preparation, but may be played off-hand, is sometimes just the thing to know, particularly at a party.
Here is one that the older boys and girls would enjoy. Let us call it "Alphabet Trips."

Any number of persons may take part in the game. The first thing to do is to choose a leader, who stands in the middle of the room, with the players seated around him. Their task is to tell him that they are going on a trip somewhere, and must announce to him, in turn, where they are going and what they intend to do when they get there.

Now, the oddity of this game consists in the fact that every word in each individual answer must begin with the same letter. If a player, for example, says that he is going to a place, the name of which begins with G, every additional word in his answer must begin with G. The game is really a trial of wits for the better the answer, and the more quickly it is given, the more credit a player deserves.

A prize may or may not be offered, to be awarded by the leader, or by a vote of the players, to the one who makes the best and readiest answer.

The leader begins the game by the announcement just given, and then asks the first player where he is going.
For the sake of illustration, we will give a few answers in alphabetical order. The player answers, therefore, that he is going to Athens, and when the leader asks him what he is going to do there, the player says, "Advertise athletics."

B goes to Boston to buy baked beans; C to Cincinnati to collect curiosities; D to Denver to defy dentists; E to England to entertain Edward;
F to France to fry frogs; G to Glasgow to gather guineas; H to Halifax to hold horses; I to India to introduce idols; J to Jericho to jostle Jersey-men; K to Kentucky to keep kindling; L to Louisiana to lie low; M to Montana to make money; N to New York to negotiate notes; O to Oklahoma to open oysters; P to Philadelphia to pilfer pennies; Q to Quebec to quote quinces; R to Rome to read ritual; S to Savannah to sell saucers; T to Turkey to tell tales; U to Utah to use umbrellas; V to Vermont to vend ver-million; W to Washington to waste wages; Y to Yagoo to yell "Yekels"; Z to Zanzibar to zouch zebras.

Tricks of Animals.
There are a surprising number of Quaker animals—animals whose regular method of self-protection is to offer no resistance to their enemies. The "possum's trick of 'shamming dead'" is an old story. The hedgehog and some of the armadillos refuse to fight, but they are protected by sharp spines or armor. Among marine animals is a starfish, often called the "brittle star," which is the despair of collectors.
It seems to make it a point that none of its family shall be shown in a bottle or on a museum shelf. When taken from the water this starfish throws off its legs and also its stomachs.
The story is told of one collector who thought he had succeeded in coaxing a specimen into a pail, only to see it dismember itself at the last moment. W. H. Hudson describes the death-feigning habits of a small South African fox common on the pampas. If caught in a trap or overtaken it collapses as if dead, and to all appearances is dead. Some kinds of beetles, many of the woolly caterpillars which have poisonous hairs on their backs, and numerous spiders adopt the same trick. Perhaps the commonest instance of passive resistance is the land tortoise, which draws up its front piece and pulls in its head and legs and defies its foes by locking them out.

A Few Don'ts.
Don't write on soiled or torn sheets of paper.
Don't write letters with a lead pencil. It is very bad form—not to say unpardonable breach of correct letter-writing.
Don't seal a letter of introduction.
The person to whom it is given is supposed to inform himself of its contents.
Don't fail to inclose a stamp to carry an answering letter to a letter of business.
Don't write carelessly. Spell correctly and be painstaking about your punctuation and the language in which you express your thoughts.
Don't send a letter bearing blots or scratches. Make a new copy if necessary.

A Problem in Arithmetic.
Jack had two apples; Fred had three; Alice and Bertha, between them, had seven. The girls being unselfish put their fruit in the lunch basket and told the boys to help themselves while they went to gather May flowers. They walked a mile and eight furlongs to a field, which the boys said was full of flowers, but there were none. Then Bertha bit her lip and said something to Alice, and the two ran back as fast as they could, arriving at thirteen minutes past three.
Opening the basket, how many apples did they find? The answer is concealed in the above paragraph.

Peace Problem.
The quarrel began simply enough.
Nellie wanted to help Dorothy cut out a doll's dress, but they couldn't agree how it was to be done. Finally they began tugging at the scissors, and when Dorothy saw she was going to lose them she promptly boxed Nellie's ears. Nellie let go of the scissors, but retaliated by pulling Dorothy's hair.

After that they quieted down somewhat, but the instant the doll's dress was mentioned the dispute was renewed as to how they should make it. Up stairs papa, who heard the noise, decided to end the quarrel and appeared promptly on the scene. The dress, he said, was of secondary consideration, so he would take it and the scissors to his study. Then he gave them some advice about the quarrel, but you must find this out for yourselves.
It is concealed somewhere in the above paragraph.

Game of Bird Sellers.
The game of bird sellers is played as follows: The children stand in a row, leaving two outside. These two represent the bird dealers. Each child represents a bird—one being a crow, another a crane, another a canary, and so on. One bird dealer says to the other:

"I wish to buy a bird."
"What kind of a bird?" asks the second dealer.
"A bird that can fly fast," says the first dealer.
"Very well," answers the other dealer, "take what you wish."
"Then," says the first dealer, "I will take a robin."

As soon as the word is out of his mouth the "robin" must leap from the row and run around to escape. If the dealer catches the bird he puts it into a cage, where it must stay till all the other birds are caught.

Nine Men's Morris.
This game was played by William Shakespeare when he was a boy. At any rate, he spoke of it in one of his dramas, "Midsummer Night's Dream." It can be played in the house by preparing a board with holes, as in the diagram here pictured, but is more fun played out on the turf, just as "mumbletypeg" and so many other games are played.

Two persons play the game. If they are inside the house, using a board, they use nine checkmen, or pegs, apiece, differently colored or shaped.
If out of doors, marbles or pebbles may be used.
The players lay down their pieces, whatever they are, in the holes, one at a time, alternately, and it is each player's business to prevent the other one from placing three of his pieces so as to form a row of three without any of the opponent's pieces between them.

Whenever either one succeeds in forming a row, he may then take up and remove any one of the other player's pieces he pleases, except from a complete row already formed. When all the pieces are laid down, they are played backward and forward in whatever direction each line runs, but a piece can be moved only from one spot to another at a time.

It is still the object of each player to keep the other from getting three men down in an unbroken row. Whenever one succeeds in forming a row, he removes any one of his opponent's men he pleases. The player who finally takes off all his opponent's pieces wins the game.

Novelties in Skirts.
Skirts of eyelet-worked lawn or linen, somewhat tailorlike in make and worn with long-fitted coats of cloth, are among the novelties. The open-work lingerie skirt may match the cloth in color or may be in white made over a foundation in the color of the coat.

Puzzle of the Poor Men

Here is an amazing puzzle which looks awfully easy—after it is solved.
Once upon a time four poor men settled around the banks of a very small but very beautiful lake. The white squares represent their four the property around the lake and around each poor man's land.

After which the rich men erected a "dual pile," as shown by the black squares in figure 2.
Then the rich men, being stronger houses, as shown in figure 1. Now it seems that four rich men coveted the lake. They tried to buy the four poor men out at first, but these people refused to sell. Then the rich men, knowing just how much land each of the poor men owned (which was hardly more than that covered by the poor men's houses), bought every foot of and more influential than their poor neighbors, decided to exclude them entirely from the use of the lake. To do this they had to build a high stone wall. What shape was the wall?

Before looking at figure 3, which is the solution, see if you can trace the correct shape of this very peculiar wall on figure 2.

Harvesting Soy Beans

The harvesting of soy beans is sometimes a difficult matter, for the reason that soy beans, when nearly ripe, readily disintegrate, the leaves falling off. This has been the discouraging part in the raising of the soy bean plant for hay. When they are to be used for hay, the harvesting must be done quite early, before the stems of the leaves have ripened enough to cause them to detach themselves from the vines. The time for harvesting for hay should be when the pods are well formed. The plants should be mown and allowed to lie long enough in the windrow to wilt.
They should not, however, be permitted to become dry. As soon as they have withered, they should be gathered into small heaps, but not packed down so that the air cannot penetrate them. If they are permitted to lie about quite loosely they will cure with little handling.

When they are to be placed in a silo, which is probably the best use to make of them, they must be allowed to mature more than when they are cut for hay. In any case the harvesting should be before the plant becomes woody. It should be harvested at that point where the cows will readily eat it. The pods should be well formed, and the beans in them well formed, but not hard. At this stage they would dry up too much to hold together. But in using them in the silo, they should be cut after the dew is off, and may be hauled to the silo at once, as no withering or curing is of advantage, but is rather a detriment to the silage. If the owner of the soy beans has also a field of corn to be ensiled, the two crops may be mixed together in the proportion of one-third soy beans and two-thirds corn. This gives a well balanced ration in feeding.

Half-Used Pastures

As I have traveled over the country east and west, I have been forced to notice the large number of pastures that are only partly used. Some of them have evidently been in full use at some time, but gradually the shrubs and small vines have grown up in them. Many of these growths are hardhack, briars, blackberry bushes, hazel bushes and various other kinds of shrubs. These growths have developed so gradually that the owner has hardly noticed their development. He has been too busy to look after them properly. I have seen large pastures, half the ground of which was covered with hardhack. Most of our farmers do not apparently realize the fact that all the plant food that goes into these weedy growths is taken away from the succulent grasses, and the food producing area of the pasture is decreased by that much. The pasture is too valuable a piece of land to be rendered idle by any cause. Many of these growths have taken place when the pasture was but partly used. Some farmers have told me that they have kept down this growth by heavily stocking the pasture. Doubtless this can be done in this way, but heavily stocking the pasture means over-stocking it in most cases. Pastures that are thus rendered foul by the presence of many kinds of hardy growth are exceedingly difficult to clean. Some advise the use of goats, but that is not possible in most of our pastures because the fences are not strong enough to hold them, and besides, goat raising is an industry in itself that requires thought and expenditure of money for success. The man that is raising horses, cattle and sheep does not care always to increase his cares by adding a flock of goats to his live stock. Burning over the bushes has not proven successful, as they sprouted again from the roots. Mowing them has resulted in the same thing. There seems to be only one way of cleaning the pastures, and that is by grubbing out these growths one by one, and seeding down so thoroughly with grasses that new seeds of bushy growths cannot again find a resting place there.—John E. Ross, Berrien Co., Mich., in Farmers' Review.

Liming Dug Potatoes

The practice has become general in some parts of the country of sprinkling lime on the potatoes after they are dug, the belief being that the lime destroys any spores of rot existing in the potatoes. The theory is so plausible that it has been passed from man to man, and little investigation has been made to find out whether it is effective. So common is this practice in New England that the Vermont station determined to make an investigation to learn whether or not it was really of any value. A number of rows of potatoes that had been affected by blight were dug, and one-half of each row was sprinkled with about one-fourth of a pound of lime to a bushel of potatoes. These were then stored in a cellar with the untreated lots. The times of digging varied from August 31 to September 21. The test was made on the 28th of September as to what effect the liming had had on the potatoes. It was found that the percent of decay in the limed potatoes was 25, and the per cent of decay in the untreated potatoes was 27. It is thus seen that what little difference there was, was in favor of the non-treatment, but as this was but a single experiment, it may fairly be assumed that the liming did not affect the potatoes one way or the other. In any two lots that might be chosen for tests there would be some difference of percentage of potatoes affected by rot. This is in accordance with our theory of potato rot. Spores that affect the potatoes begin their work before they are dug, probably by falling on the ground from the potato tops and being washed down to the tubers, where they find the moist conditions that aid their germination. In this germination they penetrate the tuber, and the mycelium is already inside the potato when it is dug.

Roughage for Cows

When it is remembered that a cow's paunch all of the time contains some two hundred pounds of partially masticated food, when she is fed naturally the open, the six or seven pounds of concentrates fed daily by the dairyman seem of but slight importance. Yet it is the grain ration that costs most money in the average dairy and especially if the owner has got it into his head that protein-rich food must be bought in large quantities. To us it appears certain that the supplying of large quantities of nutritious roughage for dairy cows is of supreme importance and the cheerful adequate supply of such food can be furnished at each season of the year the better will it be for the dairyman and his cattle. Roughage, according to many a thoughtful dairyman is always easy to supply for with him straw, coarse timothy hay and weathered corn stover and fodder are considered good enough to fill the bill.
But they are not. They supply plenty of bulk to be sure but while the cow's stomachs should be distended with coarse food to get the best results from feeding the roughage should be nutritious and fairly digestible. The dryness of fodder commonly used to fill cattle is its chief objection perhaps but even when fed wet or steamed it does not supply much nutriment to the cow hence its effect is largely mechanical and that does not mean perfect results in feeding. Grass is the best possible bulky food for cattle in general and cows do wonderfully well upon it as all of us are well aware. Next to grass should come succulent food that is cut and hauled into the yards for cows to eat as a soiling crop. After these come the dry fodders and all of them should be nutritious so that when wetted or when eaten and mixed with copious fluids in the stomachs of the cow they may furnish not bulkiness merely, but a large amount of nutriment. Despite these facts the average dairyman is most exercised as to the few pounds of concentrates he must supply to his cows. He figures laboriously as to the nutritive ratio of a grain and meal combination of which he will give his cows six or seven pounds a day, but pays no attention whatever to the roughage which cows will take in great quantities daily either to good advantage or as a detriment to the body and hindrance to the assimilation of the nutriment of the few pounds of concentrates fed. The grain ration is only three or four percent of the food found in a cow's stomach and should not therefore be considered the chief factor in the profitable feeding of dairy cows.—A. S. Alexander in Farmers' Review.

Lime on Orchard Soils.
There are numerous orchards that have made a good growth of trees, and yet have never borne good crops. This is generally due to some deficiency of fertility in the soil. Very frequently this deficiency is the nitrogen content, and the nitrogen content is low because the soil is acidic, which condition prevents the growth of leguminous crops. Nature's way of putting nitrogen into the soil has been by the use of large numbers of varieties of plants bearing pods, all of which have the power of taking the free nitrogen of the air and fixing it in soluble form in the soil. The instruments for this transformation have been plants of a fungus nature known generally as bacteria. These cannot exist in a soil which has too much acid, but acid can be easily neutralized by an application of lime, either in a caustic form, which is the burnt lime of commerce, or in a slowly soluble form, which we get in ground lime rock. This latter is the more desirable form to use, and is cheaper than the burnt lime, as it can be obtained at about $1 per ton at the quarries where it is ground. There are very many orchards in Southern Illinois on the kind of ground described, and it is fair to assume that much of the land in Southern Indiana is also too acidic for the growing of ordinary cover crops.

This is a good time of the year to "size up" the farm—to see where we have neglected some important thing, to find out whether we have put all our year's work to best account. Take a walk out over the corn fields. If they are "spotted" find out the cause.
See that these places are built up.
They detract from the value of the field, and will continue to be unprofitable until they are brought up by application of manure. It may be that these places are sour; that they need drainage and sweetening up. Farm land is too expensive to remain long unproductive. Get it to work again.

FOR THE PLAIN GIRL.

Possible to Cultivate Beauty of the Finest Sort.
A good many girls are considered pretty, and plain girls, cast a somewhat envious glance at them, and each murmurs inwardly, "Oh, dear, how I wish I were pretty!" Cheer up, poor little plain girls, for you can be victorious over your prettier sisters. Remember that the face should be the true index of the heart and soul.

By cultivating amiable emotions and noble desires the countenance which does not possess outward loveliness will in time have a beauty of a finer and more appealing nature than was ever attained by perfect features and a rose-leaf complexion.

When one meets a plain girl who is a heartfelt Christian, trying to walk in the straight road, unselfish, loving and pure-minded, her plain face becomes a sort of revelation of the heavenly soul hidden through the surface of plainness, just as the most priceless jewels are discovered in the most unlovely localities.

Remember, plain girls, what the great poet Spencer wrote, "For of the soul the body form doth take."—Boston Globe.

Lesson for Women.
Jersey Shore, Pa., Aug. 28th (Special).—"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done worlds of good for me." That's what Mrs. C. B. Earnest of this place has to say of the Great American Kidney Remedy.

"I was laid up sick," Mrs. Earnest continues, "and had not been out of bed for five weeks. Then I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and now I am so I can work and go to town without suffering any. I would not be without Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have good reason to praise them everywhere."

Women who suffer should learn a lesson from this, and that lesson is "cure the kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills and your suffering will cease." Woman's health depends almost entirely on her kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills have never yet failed to make healthy kidneys.

How Wine is Colored.
Most people think white grapes make white wine and dark grapes make red wine; it is a popular error.
Red wine is made by fermenting grape juice and grape skins together, and white wine is made by fermenting grape juice alone. The juice of white and dark grapes does not differ in hue.
In each sort of grape the juice is almost as colorless as weak lemonade.
Champagne is made of a grape so dark as to be nearly black, but the juice of that nearly black grape is quite as pale as that of the ordinary white grape.—London Tatler.

STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER
THE ALL-
IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are considering your private ills to a woman—
a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years.

You can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate your private troubles to a man—besides, a man does not understand simply because he is a man.
Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.
Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.
If you are ill, do not hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice.
When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women, you cannot well say, without trying, "I do not believe it will help me."

WASHINGTON LETTER
[Special Correspondence.]
The death of Secretary Hay will be felt in one of the enterprises of Washington about which little has been known and which has a distinctly philanthropic aspect.

Mr. Hay was one of the moving spirits in the organization of the Washington Housing association, which had for its business the building of comfortable, spacious and modern tenements suited for the crowded sections of the city, where the working classes and those of moderate means have for many years been at the mercy of hard conditions in the peculiar landlord system in vogue in the capital.

The society was started by a number of men prominent in official life three years ago. The District government lent its aid to the movement by forbidding the use of alley property for tenements.

This served to increase rather than lower rents for the poorer class of people. Then Secretary Hay and several of his friends came into the organization and gave it an impetus by the investment of large sums, which has resulted in the construction in all parts of the city of hundreds of houses planned on the flat system, but with only two stories.

The rents are based on a 3 per cent return to the stockholders. This brings the rentals down to about half those charged by real-estate agents generally throughout the city. The tenant who takes approved care of the premises receives at the end of every year one month's rent free.

Mr. Hay invested upward of $1,000,000 in this philanthropic enterprise. He kept his connection with it quiet if not secret, and few knew that it was his money that the success of the association was in large measure due.

New Naval Regulations.
The wearing of swords aboard ship on ordinary occasions has been practically abolished by the new wording of the regulations respecting their use, a woven service revolver belt and revolver taking the place of the sword. It is explained by the department that a sword is an unhandsome weapon under modern conditions on board ship or in boats and that it serves no useful purpose on occasions other than those of ceremony. The sword will be worn, however, at ceremonies and at infantry and artillery drills on shore.

Navy's Ban on Foreigners.
The regulations governing visitors going aboard vessels under construction have been revised so as to give such permission only to those known to the senior officer present as American citizens of good standing and repute. Visitors representing foreign governments of known to be other than American citizens, it is provided, shall not be permitted to go aboard such vessels except by permission of the navy department and then shall be accompanied by a naval officer on duty at the navy yard or works where the vessel is building.

New Medal of Honor.
Acting Secretary of War Oliver has issued a description of the new medal of honor. It is a five pointed star made of silver, heavily electroplated in gold, and has as its central figure the head of Minerva, symbolizing "wisdom and righteous war." An open laurel wreath enameled in green encircles the star, and the oak leaves at the bases of the prongs of the star are likewise enameled in green. The medal is suspended by a blue silk ribbon spangled with thirteen white stars, representing the original states, and this ribbon is attached to an argyle supported upon a horizontal bar. Upon the bar appears the word "Valor."

The reverse side of the medal is engraved with the name of the person honored and the place and date of the service for which awarded.

Printing Office Furniture.
Visitors to the government printing office frequently comment on the large amount of massive oak furniture scattered through the various branches of the plant, the natural wood finish and neat and serviceable appearance of the pieces attracting particular attention. It is said that no printing office in the world is so completely furnished with working conveniences as the big United States institution in this city, what is termed the "carpenter shop" being largely responsible for this state of affairs.

What was once a plain everyday carpenter shop has been gradually transformed into a modern manufactory, expert cabinetmakers, finishers, painters, woodworkers and laborers being represented in the establishment under Superintendent A. A. Bundy. Modern machinery is in use, and the best grades of wood in stock enable them to turn out any article which may be desired in the office in that line. All work is turned out of the rough lumber.

Uncle Sam's Money.
Uncle Sam for the first time in eight years began to count his money on July 1, a job made necessary by the recent change in treasurers. The gold, silver, currency and bonds approximate $1,300,000,000, and it will take three or four months to complete the task.

About 5,000 tons of coin will be counted. There are $150,000,000 in standard silver dollars, $8,000,000 in gold coin, $100,000,000 in United States notes held as reserve to replace those now in circulation when they become unfit for further use, $25,000,000 in gold certificates held in reserve, $75,000,000 in silver certificates held in reserve, $550,000,000 in bonds held as security for national bank circulation and other minor items, aggregating between $1,200,000,000 and $1,300,000,000. The count eight years ago showed $3,300,000,000 in the vaults. In the count the coin will be tested by weighing rather than by actual count.

VARICOCELE NERVOUS DEBILITY CURED

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Youthful ignorance, later excesses and nervous diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At an early age I was the victim of youthful complaints. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and still had no success. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The weakness ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my physical system vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommend him from the bottom of my heart."

We Treat and Cure Blood Diseases, Varicocele, Stricture, Nervous Debility, Kidney and Bladder Diseases.

KIDNEY DISEASES CAUSE ONE-THIRD OF THE TOTAL DEATHS.

When the Kidneys fail to perform their functions properly by not straining out the poisonous waste matter from the blood as it passes through them, the poisons are carried by the circulation to every part of the body, deranging the different organs. This causes heart trouble, stomach trouble, sluggish liver and a host of other ills, all due to deranged Kidneys.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE
corrects irregularities and cures Kidney and Bladder diseases in every form, tones up the whole system, and the diseases that have resulted from disordered Kidneys disappear, because the cause has been removed. Commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at the first sign of danger. Do not risk having Bright's Disease or Diabetes.

CURED OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.
Mr. Robert G. Burke, Elmora, Saratoga Co., N. Y., writes:—I am glad to have an opportunity of telling what magnificent results I have had from using FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE after having tried other advertised medicines and several physicians. Before I began it had to get up from 12 to 20 times each night to relieve my bladder. I was all-bittered-up with dropsy and my eyesight was so impaired that I could scarcely see one of my family across the room. In fact, I was so badly used up that I had given up hope of living when I was urged by a friend to try FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE. One 50-cent bottle worked wonders, and before I had taken the third bottle the superfluous flesh had gone, as well as all other symptoms of Kidney trouble. My friends were surprised that I was cured, as they all thought I was going to die. Every few days some one comes from miles away to learn the name of the wonderful medicine that cured me of Bright's Disease, and not one that has tried it has failed to be benefited.
