EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1906.

And "Yes" It Is. Bonding Proposition Almost Unanimous.

By a vote of 174 to 8 the citizens of East Jordan declared themselves in favor of bonding for $6000 for Park purposes, at the Annual Election Monday. With this we are assured of having not only the Seed Warehouse but a number of other industries which may require a bonus or site. There was only one ticket in the field and our new Village Officials were elected as follows:

President, John Shapton, 188.
Clerk, Charles A. Hudson, 188.
Trustee, Daniel E. Goodman, 186.
Trustee, Harry Curkendall, 184.
Trustee, Moses A. Lemieux, 183.
Treasurer, James Gidley, 185.
Assessor, Wm. A. Pickard, 183.

Band Concert Soon.

The members of the East Jordan Military Band are arranging for one of their excellent concerts to take place at Loveday Opera House latter part of this month. Besides the excellent music for which that organization is noted—several specialties will be given, among them being the "Irish Justice." Full particulars in next week's issue.

Saint Patrick.

Saint Patrick was a distinguished Missionary of the fifth century commonly known as the Apostle of Ireland. There is some uncertainty as to the date of his birth. Of the place it is only known for certain from his confession, that his father had a small farm near Banaven Tabernal. In his sixteenth year he was seized while at his father's farm by a band of pirates, and with a number of others, were carried to Ireland and sold to a petty chief, in whose service he remained six years, after which he succeeded in effecting his escape and probably after a second captivity, went to France where he became a monk, first at Tours and afterward in the celebrated Monastery Loriais. In the year 431 he went to Rome, where he was sent by the Pope of the day, Celestine, to preach in Ireland. His mission was eminently successful. He founded 300 churches and baptized with his own hands twelve thousand persons. He is said to have ordained a vast number of priests, and to have blessed very many monks and nuns. The only certain authentic literary remain of Saint Patrick are his confessions and a letter both of very rude latinity, but of much historical interest. Saint Patrick is said to have used some of that species of trefoil, to which in Ireland is given the name of Shamrock, in explaining the doctrines of the trinity to the pagan Irish. And it is not known if there was any other reason for the adoption of that plant as a national emblem. Saint Patrick died at a place called Saul near Downpatrick and his relics were preserved at that place down to the reformation. The place is still venerated by the people. The date of his death, as his birth, is much disputed. Dr. Todd's biographer, opinion was in 493 in which case Patrick would have been one hundred and twenty-six years old.

Increased attention has been attracted to the approaching enrollment of voters, Monday, April 2, through Governor Warner's action in sending out 250,000 enrollment blanks at his own expense. These slips can be filled out by the voters themselves and handed to the enrollment clerk with the least possible loss of time. Attorney General Bird has ruled that it will be the duty of the enrolling clerk to receive this blank from the voter, to see that all the questions it provides for have been answered, and to complete the enrollment in the order in which the blanks are received. This enrollment is a feature of the new primary law that will not need to be repeated so long as the voter remains in the election precinct in which he first enrolled. All further participation in the privileges of the primary election law depends upon enrollment. It is the best and most important feature and should not be neglected or forgotten.

Two Good Plays.

At Loveday Opera House Next Week.

Theatre goers are promised something good at Loveday Opera House next Wednesday and Thursday, March 21 and 22. The first night will be presented Shakespeare's immortal tragedy of love and passion—"ROMEO AND JULIET," and Thursday evening will be given the XV Century Morality play, "EVERYMAN." Regular house prices will prevail, and seats will be on sale Monday for the first number at the usual place.

Below we give a brief synopsis of the second evening's production—EVERYMAN.

THE ARGUMENT.

After an announcement by Messenger, the Voice of God is heard declaring that, as men are so drowned in sin and cumbered with riches that they have forgotten Him, He has decided to do justice on them and "have a reckoning of every man's person." He bids "Death," His "mighty messenger," tell "Everyman" to prepare for his last pilgrimage. On hearing the unwelcome message Everyman tries by pleadings and bribes to obtain a respite, but only gets permission to take companions, if he can find any hardy enough to accompany him. "Fellowship" enters and not long Everyman's grief asks its cause, vowing his readiness to die for him. But when he hears his friend's request he flatly refuses to go a foot with him. Appeals to "Kindred" and "Cousin" are no more successful, and the dearly loved "Goods and Riches" simply packs at Everyman's disservice. At last in despair Everyman seeks his long neglected friend, "Good Deeds," who though lying weak and cold on the ground, so bound by his sins that she cannot stir, readily consents to do all she can for him. She introduces him to her sister "Knowledge" (the discreet and urged advice which religion has at her service), and she offers to be his guide. She brings him before "Confession," from whom he receives the joyful "penance, voider of adversity." The ardor of his supplications and the severity of this penance force Good Deeds to strengthen her that she can go with him on his journey. Having received the sacrament, Everyman sets forth in the garment "contrition" accompanied by "Beauty," "Strength," "Discretion" and "Five Wits." But Beauty refuses to go down into the open grave through which the priest leads—strength disappears, Discretion follows strength, and Five Wits bids him farewell. In despair he cries, "O Jesus! help! all hath forsaken me!" But Good Deeds is steadfast, and Knowledge explains that, though she cannot accompany him, it is "for no manner of danger." With the words "Into Thy hands, O God, do I commend my spirit" Everyman, sinks into the grave. Knowledge announces that what he hath suffered we all shall endure. Angels are heard singing his welcome to Heaven and the "Doctor" brings the play to a close by pointing to its moral.

Michigan Crop Report.

Lansing, Mich., March 10, 1906.

The temperature during February, according to the Michigan State Weather Bureau was two degrees above the normal. The departure for the upper peninsula was 1.4 degrees above the average; Northern Counties 2.3; Central Counties 3.3 and Southern Counties 1.4. The precipitation was below the normal, the departure for the State being 0.46 of an inch below the average.

In answer to the question, "Has wheat during February suffered injury from any cause?" 359 correspondents in the southern counties answer "yes" and 73 "no."

The average depth of snow on Feb'y 15th was, in the southern counties 0.05 of an inch, in the central counties 0.87 of an inch, in the northern counties 4.46 inches and in the State 0.79 of an inch.

Conditions during February were very unfavorable for wheat. In the southern and central counties there was comparatively no snow on the ground and wheat has suffered considerably from shading and freezing. In the northern counties crop correspondents are about equally divided as to the damage to wheat. Judging from remarks of crop correspondents throughout the State, the outlook for the wheat crop is not very flattering.

Correspondents report hog cholera in Cass, Ingham, Kalamazoo, Leawee and Van Buren counties.

The average condition of horses and sheep in the State is 97, of cattle and swine 96.

Ladies' Literary Club.

The Literary Club met with Mrs. John Boosinger, March 15th. The program was varied. Mrs. E. A. Ashley, a paper on "Roosevelt and his Home Life." Mrs. Wm. Stone, paper on "Musical Composers—Athebert Nevan and Greenville Wilson." Miss Blanche Robertson told of McDowell and Dudley Buck. Vocal music was rendered by Mrs. Wm. Palmer—two selections, Miss Blanche Robertson—two numbers. Mrs. W. J. Smith paid an esteemed tribute to the late Susan E. Anthony. Among other things, she said: "Dost remember the Indian legend about the fountain, the waters of which had the power to keep one young? Susan E. Anthony though eighty years old, was still young and active in her life-work for women. She has done such work as none other did to bring women to a more liberal and free life. She has scattered flowers along life's pathway that will never fade, but live on and on, and many will rise and call her blessed. I have the happy recollection of seeing her and hearing her encouraging words to women. But God's finger touched her and she has passed away." Mrs. Smith closed with the beautiful lines of James Whitcomb Riley:

"I cannot say, I will not say
She is dead, just passed away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
She has wandered into an unknown land;
And she left us a dreaming, how very fair,
It needs but be since she lingers there.
Think of her still, as the same I say
She is not dead, she has just passed away."

Mrs. Dunham read of the birthday party given at Hotel Astor, New York City, it being Miss Anthony's last birthday—one thousand women gathered at the banquet. Recitations followed by Miss A. Kneale and Mrs. E. Dunham. A message from our Vice President, Mrs. D. C. Loveday, sojourning in Cuba, was read. Roll call was responded to with incidents in the life of Roosevelt. Club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Wm. Stone, March 22nd.

Knew What Buffaloes Liked.

Secretary Shaw and Senator Tom Carter of Montana were swapping stories the other day when the secretary of the treasury told a good one about a man out in an Iowa town who was never known to disagree with a statement of another, no matter how improbable it might be.

"One day a group of fellows determined to see if they couldn't get Smith—I'll call him Smith," said Secretary Shaw, "to express a dissenting opinion. So when Smith came along one of the boys said:

"I had a most remarkable experience the other day, Smith. As I was coming into town through the hills yonder I saw a buffalo up a tree eating grapes, so shot him. Did you ever see a buffalo up a tree, Smith?"

"Well, I can't say that I have," returned Smith regretfully.

"What?" persisted the story teller. "Never saw a buffalo up a tree eating grapes?"

"Well, no, I never saw a buffalo up a tree, but," said Smith, brightening up, "I know they are very fond of grapes." —Brooklyn Eagle.

Swordsmanship in one or other of its forms is making marked progress in England. New salles d'armes are being opened and fresh clubs formed year by year in London and the provinces, and international matches have been arranged in which the English teams have at least borne themselves well.

The Manchester Union wenders when in the last half century that city has had the number of people within its limits that attended the agricultural fair in 1851. The drawing card of the fair was Daniel Webster, and over 50,000 people were on hand to welcome the great statesman when he arose to make his address.

The store of Tewksbury & Raymond, at Randolph, Vt., is adorned with a rather unusual relic in the sign line. The sign was sent from Boston to Randolph seventy-six years ago by Amos Tewksbury and was once the common thing among a class of traders long since passed away. The sign reads, "Cash and Barter Store."

Lying neglected and broken amid the bushes and brambles at the edge of the farm of Moses E. Goodwin in Elliot, Me., is a slate slab which bears this inscription: "Here lye ye Remains of Simon Frost Esq'r late first Justice of ye Court of Common Pleas and Register of Probate for ye County of York. He departed this life ye 3d day of Febr'y. 1760, age 60."

E. R. Payne, a well to do resident of Williamsport, Pa., was on a visit to New York with his daughter Florence, who is not yet out of her teens. A fellow guest at the Waldorf-Astoria gave Miss Payne a hint as to the stock market. She acted promptly, invested her own fortune on the information and returned home richer by $80,000, all made inside of a week.

The first apple trees that were grafted in Dover, N. H., were in orchards on Dover neck. The work was done in 1741 by Major Samuel Hale, who was then a schoolteacher. The major graduated from Harvard college in 1740 and went there to teach in the fall of that year. The following winter he cut scions from choice fruit trees in Boston and in the spring grafted them into trees.

Often the Japanese imitator produces laughable labels that are worthy of noting as specimens of "English" as she is Japanese. Take, for instance, a label on a bottle of wine produced at a native hotel in southern Japan. The label on the bottle he brought read, "Fogren County Wines Little Seal St Julien bottled by Bordeaux." A label placed on some alleged English beer declared: "The efficacy of this Beer is to give the health and especially the strength for stomach. The flavor is so sweet and simple that not injure for much drink."

"SAVED MY LIFE

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

YOUNG DIPLOMATS.

CHILDREN OF AMBASSADORS AND MINISTERS AT THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

They constitute quite a foreign colony. Representative types from the Courts and Governments of all Nations.

The city of Washington has among its inhabitants a colony of foreign children who bring to our Republic the manners and customs of many far-off lands. They are the sons and daughters of the officials known as diplomats—men sent by the various governments of the world to act as their agents at the headquarters of Uncle Sam. Quite a number of these children of foreign parents have been born in this country and a few years

CHILDREN OF MINISTER FROM PARAGUAY.

A Chinese baby opened its eyes in our capital city on the Fourth of July, and was named Washington.

Another youngster who is a native of the United States is the little son of Senator Quesada, the Minister or Envoy from the Republic of Cuba. Senator Quesada and his wife have two children, both strikingly handsome with large dark eyes and the olive complexion of the Latin-American. Their cousin, a young girl whose home is in the city of Havana Cuba, spends her vacations with them and they never fail to give a great children's party in her honor every time she visits Washington.

From the Antipodes.

An exceedingly pretty little girl is Frau Matilda Bussche, the daughter of that blonde giant Baron Bussche, Secretary of the German Embassy and his dark-complexioned South American wife whom he married while stationed in the Argentine Republic at the other end of our continent. Little Miss Bussche has a striking combination of dark eyes and flaxen hair and despite her tender years she speaks two different languages.

Other South American children in this odd community in Washington are the two sons of Senator Baez, the Minister from the little known Republic of Paraguay. The new Mexican Ambassador and Senora Casaus have seven children; Hector, aged eighteen; Evangelina, fifteen; Horacio, fourteen; Margarita, thirteen; Mario, eleven; Leon, nine and Jorge, seven. At the home of the Envoy from Costa Rica there are half a dozen children; the Minister from Haiti has two dark-complexioned sons; there are several young people in the household of the first Minister from the new Republic of Panama; and five attractive youngsters enliven things at the residence of the new Ambassador from Brazil—the first Ambassador (a diplomat of higher rank than a Minister) to come to the United States from any South American country. These young people from Brazil speak the Portuguese language whereas the junior citizens from all other Pan-American countries speak Spanish.

Chinese Children.

Conspicuous among the juveniles of all nations gathered in Washington are those from China. The present Minister from the Celestial Empire, Sir Chentung Liang-Cheng is a widower who has a large family but only three of them accompanied him to this country—a daughter aged about seventeen who is famous in Washington for her superb jewels and two sons one of whom is not yet twelve years of age while the other is still younger. In the same household are four half-American children, the little sons and daughters of Yung Kwai, a Chinaman who acts as interpreter at the Legation whose wife is an American formerly living in Springfield, Mass.

The daughter of the Minister is known even to her intimate friends as Miss Liang. Like other Celestial women of high station she has a given name but the Chinese are a very formal people and the Minister's daughter is seldom addressed by her first name even by her father. Minister Liang's two sons who now speak English almost as fluently as their father adopted American dress from the day they took up their residence in Washington but the daughter of the Envoy still clings to her native dress consisting of loose blouse and trousers. Chinese fashions have not changed in centuries but Miss Liang's costumes are made by a Chinese tailor connected with the Legation. Her costumes are of the richest silks and satins, black and white being her favorite colors. The quaint Chinese shoes that she wears cause this young lady to walk in what appears to American eyes, a rather awkward fashion but she has not the small, deformed feet such as have prevented some of her predecessors at the Chinese Legation from walking without assistance.

Young Chilean Ladies.

Two young people who have made many American friends during a long term of residence in the United States are the daughters of Senator Don Joaquin Walker-Martinez, the Minister from Chile. These young ladies have been living under the Stars and Stripes for nearly five years and have attended American schools. They have the clear, olive complexion, dark hair and eyes and rich coloring typical of the Latin Races.

As has been mentioned above there are many young people in the households of the envoys from South and Central America and the West Indies. At the Legation of Haiti, are the Misses Bourke, popular young relatives of Minister Legay who by the way is one of the veteran diplomats at Washington, having resided in this country continuously for ten years.

MISS MATILDA BUSSCHE, Daughter of Secretary of German Embassy.

The agent of the Republic of Bolivia at Uncle Sam's seat of Government has a very pretty daughter, Elena Calderon by name, and there are several girls in the large family of Senator Calvo, the Minister from Costa Rica.

Son A West Pointer.

Minister Calvo, by the way has a son who is a cadet at West Point and is rendering a most excellent account of himself, standing well toward the head in all his classes.

The new Russian Ambassador to the United States has a decidedly pretty daughter, Baroness Elizabeth Rosen and the only daughter of the British Ambassador constitutes another important member of the foreign colony. The last-mentioned young lady, Miss Josephine Durand, is one of the particular chums of President Roosevelt's eldest daughter, just married. The Turkish Minister Chekb Bey has two young sons who wear American dress and speak the English language.

A Lapland Birthday Present.

As soon as a Lapp baby is born a reindeer is presented to him. This reindeer is literally his start in life, for not only that deer, but all its young, and as they grow up, all their young deer, belong to the child. When he is of age he has quite a herd of his own.

This custom is of much greater use to him than if every aunt, uncle and cousin he had in the world presented him with the heaviest silver spoon to be found.

GULF STREAM SWIMMERS.

THEY ENCOUNTER MANY UNKNOWN AND SINGULAR DENIZENS OF THE DEEP.

Starting Experience of a Moonlight Swim in the Great Ocean Current Accomplished by Shark—Scared Big Fish Away.

The wharf rats of New York and other large cities who seem willing to brave the wrath of the officers of the law are but the making of many of the most fearless swimmers of the world. A commercial traveler who journeys, not only all over the precincts of the United States, but in foreign lands as well, in speaking of his happy boyhood days when he associated with the daring swimming population of the Metropolis, said that, however pleasant and enjoyable his youthful excursions, they were not to compare with a swim in the Gulf Stream—the Gulf Steam, teeming with life, that only one whose nerves are in absolute consonance with the ocean can escape. Wriggling and darting things grip unarm at the swimmer's breast and arms. Silvery flashes before his face tell of fish turning their glittering sides sharply as they leap away at his approach. Big and little, rising out of enormous depths to sink again half seen, all conspire to make that sunlight splendor a place of sudden terrors to any except the fearless.

Moonlight Swim in the Tropics.

"One evening," said the man of commerce, "after I had been in Jamaica, having a week of the joys of swimming this stream, I proposed to a couple of my friends that we break the monotony by taking a dip in the water by moonlight. One of them consented and we were soon disporting ourselves in the clear moonlight water."

"We were going along easily and enjoying the swim immensely. Rarely have I seen the water so phosphorescent. Every stroke made fire whirl light swim here again after that, eh?" said one of his hearers.

"Oh, we were kind of scared, all right," was the reply, "but it wasn't that bad. Only I will confess that we sat around for nearly an hour getting our nerves straightened out before we swam back."

GREAT CULEBRA CUT.

Biggest Piece of Digging Ever Under taken—A Huge Mexican Drainage Cut.

The huge excavations for the Panama Canal across the Culebra divide will be by far the greatest furrow in the earth's surface ever made by human agency. This statement is made by the Engineering News, in a comprehensive discussion of the great excavation projects of the world. The big Panama cut is so large that the mind fails to grasp its real magnitude, and it can only be appreciated by comparison with some familiar object. A question of considerable interest recently raised by a correspondent relates to the largest existing artificial excavation which is at all comparable with the Culebra cut. Great amounts of excavation were done, of course, on such works as the North Sea Canal, the Manchester Canal and the Suez Canal; but all these were built through comparatively level country.

So far as it has been able to discover, the only deep cut at all comparable with that to be made through the Culebra divide is the great Nochistongo cut through the hills which surround the Valley of Mexico. This huge excavation was begun in 1640, for the purpose of affording an outlet to the flood waters which had inundated the City of Mexico and destroyed a great part of the city and its inhabitants. For more than a hundred and forty years labor on this great work was the chief task of the Mexican nation, and it was not until the year 1783 that it was finally completed. The total length of the Nochistongo cut is twelve and one-half miles. Its greatest depth is 197 feet, and its greatest width is 361 feet. The total amount of material excavated was about 64,000,000 cubic yards. In comparison with this cut at Culebra will have a considerably greater maximum depth and width, even for the project with the eighty-five-foot summit level. The total cube of excavation at the Culebra divide was estimated by Engineer Wallace as 136,000,000 cubic yards for the sea-level canal and 111,000,000 cubic yards for a canal with a sixty-foot summit level.

While in mere size of excavation the cut through the Panama divide is by far the larger, the fact that the Nochistongo cut was made with absolutely no aid from machinery or mechanical power, but wholly with human muscle, makes our task on the isthmus seem like mere child's play in comparison with that accomplished by those patient toilers under the torrid sun of Mexico two centuries ago. When one recalls that this deep, artificial valley, more than twelve miles long, was all dug by the labor of Indians, who excavated the material with the crudest hand tools and carried it in baskets on their heads to the place of final deposit, the great cut of the Pyramids of Egypt, among the world's greatest wonders.

What Governs Price of Dogs.

The price paid for a dog seems to be governed not so much by the value of the animal as the sentiment of the purchaser in the vast majority of cases, and, as a rule, the sporting dog brings the lowest figure. Doubtless this is due to the fact that the man who wants a gun dog is a practical person, while the seeker after the "show dog" pays for running the "show." It is granted right here that many a good gun dog also shows well, but the highest prices go for the show animal, pure and simple.

At a recent sale of pointers and setters at Birmingham, England, one of the most important sales in years, the entire lot—two score or more—sold for $3,025. The highest price paid was $325, for the famous female pointer, Coronation (four and a half years) the winner of many championships; while among the setters the choice was Lightfield Bang (four and a half years), a great field trial winner, who brought only $185. American purchasers would have thought these dogs cheap at $1,000 apiece.

In contrast with these prices, the bull terrier Woodcote Wonder sold in New Haven for $5,000 to a San Francisco purchaser. Richard Croker, Jr., paid $3,000 for his Champion Rodney Stone, and Frank Gould paid as high as $5,000 for a St. Bernard. These are real prices—unlike many of the amounts running up into the thousands tagged on to hench spaces of not a few 30-cent dogs, exhibited at some of the kennel shows, where it is believed necessary to have something attractive.

Highest Salaried Woman.

Miss Kate Holliday Claghorn, of Brooklyn, has been appointed to be registrar of the tenement house department of the city and is the highest paid woman in the civil service of New York State, her salary being $3,000 a year. At a competitive examination, the only other person to pass was George Hale, a veteran in the department, whose average was a little less than that made by his successful rival. Miss Claghorn is a very pretty young woman of modest and unassuming manner.

RESOURCES OF THE SOUTH.

THEY ARE MAGNIFICENT: BUT DEVELOPMENT HAS ONLY JUST COMMENCED.

No Section of the United States Offers Productive Land So Cheap. Opportunities for Many Millions of Rural Homes.

BY WILLIAM E. SMYTHE.

It is a comfort to us to look forward to the day when our children and our grandchildren will be fulfilled citizens of the Republic? Will they have the same chance or an equally good chance with us, or the chances that our fathers and our grandfathers had to enjoy the blessings of our free institutions? Will they have the chance that we have to make of secure, each, a home of his own?

It has been said that the true test of statesmanship is the provision which is made for the comfort of posterity. The present population of the United States is 80,000,000. A generation more, at the present rate of increase, and if will be 120,000,000 or 130,000,000. A century hence, it will be 500,000,000. The children of some of us, anyway our grandchildren, will live to see that date. Will the United States then be able to sustain such a population? No, nor half that number, even with every arable acre cultivated according to present methods. It is estimated that with every such acre cultivated after the present manner, the country could produce only enough to sustain 144,000,000 people. What about the remaining 356,000,000 souls of which our children or grandchildren will be a part?

Do we ever stop to think that the matter for organizing rural settlements throughout the United States—of "Building the Unfinished Republic," if you please—is not merely a matter of increasing material prosperity, or even a matter of making homes for the homeless, but something which is absolutely vital to the very existence of the Nation in times to come, and to come very shortly?

Somebody must look ahead; somebody must take account of the needs of the future. This is a portentous question which the future must answer, and which the future simply cannot answer unless the present generation begins to organize its forces for the systematic and scientific development of our entire fund of natural wealth, nor even then unless methods are devised to prevent waste and to increase efficiency in every direction.

The Prophecy of Malthus.

A century ago, one Malthus, started the world by depicting the horrors which would come day after day from over-population. His theory was that the number of human beings increased much faster than the means of subsistence; hence, that disaster must come in the natural course of events. It was not given him to foresee how vast the means of subsistence would be increased through the invention of labor-saving machinery, the discovery of new crops and methods of cultivation, and the improvement of the means of distribution.

So that many of the present-time writers, having in mind the advance of science, speak in no little derogation of the teaching of Malthus as narrow and grounded upon ignorance of the vast, ever-unfolding resources of the world. Nevertheless Malthus's warnings were not entirely unjustified, and as applied to ourselves it must be conceded that the thoughtful people of the United States have no more urgent business than to make broad outlets for surplus population, to make the soil and to train the rising generation so that it will know how to make the best possible use of natural resources now wastefully employed or altogether neglected. Necessity, the prolific mother of invention, will doubtless continue to place in our hands new tools which will multiply our power of production; but if we would escape grave trials and hardships we must do thoroughly and well the work which needs to be done in organizing prosperity for our people by means of rural settlement.

The rural settlement, and all that this term involves in its broadest application—the division of land into smaller farm homes, sufficient for the support of a family, the soil, the diversification of crops, and their utmost cultivation and the improvement and breeding up of plants so that they will yield their greatest product, the utilization of every waste and unproductive acre—in short, the settling of the entire country into small rural homes—so that each family shall own a piece of land from which he may secure a living for himself and his family—this is the work that which there is no more important question before the country to-day.

The Empire of the South.

Now all this is merely introductory to a discussion of the opportunities for domestic expansion in various parts of our great country, and of the need of private and public enterprise in making these opportunities available for the masses of men. First of all, let us look at that great empire which lies between Mason and Dixon's line and the Gulf of Mexico, and, for the most part, east of the Mississippi River.

A native of New England and a citizen of the Pacific Coast, I never fully grasped the truth about the South until through travel, I saw and came to know things as they are. I once thought of the South as an old country, vastly interesting because of its historic associations, running back to the earliest English settlements on this continent, but practically developed to the limit of its normal growth and possessing resources inferior to some other portions of the Union, especially to those of the Far West.

The truth is something very different. In an economic sense, the South is a new country, with immense reis not an improvement on the old style lamp, but an entirely NEW METHOD of burning oil which has made common kerosene (or coal oil) the most satisfactory of all illuminants.

And when we say satisfactory we mean satisfactory—not an illuminant that merely gives a brilliant light, but one that combines brilliancy with soft, restful, pleasing quality that is convenient as gas, safe as a tallow candle, and yet so economical to burn that in a few months—

IT ACTUALLY PAYS FOR ITSELF

The ordinary lamp with the round wick, generally considered the cheapest of all lighting methods, burns but about 6 hours on a quart of oil, while The Angle Lamp burns 12 to 16 hours on the same quantity. This is true wherever it is used—some amounts to more than its entire original cost. But in another way it saves as much—perhaps more. Ordinary lamps must always be relit at full height, although an average of two hours a night—all that is really needed is a dim light ready to be turned up full when wanted. A gallon of oil a week absolutely wasted, simply because your lamp cannot be turned low without unbearable odor. All this is saved in The Angle Lamp, for whether burned at full height or turned low, it gives not the slightest trace of odor or smoke. You should know more about the lamp, which for its convenience and soft, restful light, might be considered a luxury were it not for the wonderful economy which makes it an actual necessity. Write for our catalogue "10" fully explaining this new principle of oil lighting, and for our proposition to prove these statements by sources which are but in the infancy of their development. There is no other part of the Republic which makes a stronger appeal to enterprising men, whether they have large or small capital. It is a beautiful country, a healthy country and a country which holds out every promise of social satisfaction for those who go there to make their homes.

The most amazing thing about the South is the cheapness of its fertile agricultural lands, though one hears on every hand that prices have gone up considerably during the past few years. They must have been giving land away before, for after years of national prosperity and wonderful strides in local settlement and development, one can still buy fine farming land at prices ranging from $5 an acre upward.

People regard $25 an acre as a pretty stiff price for lands which would be considered very reasonable at three or four times as much under the same conditions in Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Washington, or California. True, the Far Western lands are irrigated, and irrigation is a sort of miracle which, among other things, gives extraordinary value to land. But we can compare these fertile Southern lands with the agricultural districts of Illinois, Iowa, and other prairie States, and still they are literally "dirt cheap." There is no way to account for it except that the process of readjustment which has been going on since the War, has not yet brought Southern land up to the level of prices prevailing in other parts of the United States.

With regard to markets. In the West, we are accustomed to long distances. When we start on a journey, we do not expect to arrive anywhere

We should store the floods and regulate the flow of streams throughout the land. We should adopt policies which will everywhere facilitate the subdivision of the soil into small holdings, and the growth of independent homes upon these holdings. Even in those sections which are most densely peopled, and, perhaps, least favored in natural advantages—New England, for example—there is much to be done in improving natural conditions and opening new opportunities for successful rural settlement.

But it is not enough to make the land ready for its highest uses; the people must also be made ready to utilize the land. Every boy and girl should leave the public schools prepared to make a living, and to collect it from mother earth herself, when they desire to do so. This is distinctly in line with our great need of increasing economic efficiency, and thus enabling the country to meet the demands of increasing population. The South is beautiful and promising as it is, but how much more beautiful and promising it would become with the adoption of public policies which would make the utmost of its natural advantages and which would train the rising generation so that they could realize the best results from the opportunities thus opened to them!

I reached Atlanta on a winter morning and killed time before breakfast by visiting a statue which loomed through the growing light. It was the memorial erected in honor of Henry W. Grady by his appreciative fellow-citizens. And there I found two inscriptions which may well inspire all the friends of national development, and, especially, those who believe that our future security rests chiefly in the

CARVING BY MACHINERY.

BATTLEFIELD MEMORIES OF GETTYSBURG FASHIONED BY COMPRESSED AIR.

Historic Spots of the Conflict Marked by Memorials of Artistic Design—Expense and Time Saved by Yankee Ingenuity.

The field of Gettysburg and the other scenes of strife in our great Civil War are rapidly being filled with memorials in granite, marble and bronze, which will greatly enhance the interest of these national parks for all visitors and particularly for those of future generations who cannot have the aid of any veteran of the great conflict to guide them to the points of interest.

The tablets, statues, monuments and other memorials which are finding place in rapidly increasing numbers upon these historic battlefields have been erected in some instances by the Congress of the United States, but in a majority of cases the expense has been defrayed by States or by veteran or patriotic organizations. Some of the memorials are mute testimonials to the bravery of fallen comrades, while others are tributes to the commanders conspicuous in this engagement or that. However, the matter does not stop here and of late many commemorative masterpieces of sculpture have been installed to mark in each instance the exact spot rendered memorable by some notable assault or defense or some other unusual event in the great drama of the War for the Union.

The production of great numbers of these battlefield memorials has resulted in another Yankee scheme for saving time and labor, namely, the introduction of sculpture by machinery. Formerly all the statues carved from marble or granite had to be slowly and laboriously chiseled by hand. Under the new order of things all this is changed and mechanically operated tools cut away the hard material and carve, in the stone, representations of human figures, lettering, etc., in a fraction of the time that would be required for the same work under the old methods.

Many ingenious Tools. The tools which are instrumental in performing this ingenious sculpture by machinery are what are known as pneumatic tools, that is, they are operated by compressed air instead of steam or electricity. The type most commonly used might be described as a combination hammer and chisel, and how much more speedily such can work than could a workman with the old-fashioned chisel and hammer may be appreciated when it is stated that by means of the compressed air hammer is made to strike hundreds of blows per minute.

In this mechanical chiseling the pneumatic tool, which is a portable piece of apparatus, is held in the hand of a workman and by him guided back and forth on the stone surface wherever cutting is to be done. The compressed air is led to the tool through a rubber hose, and the operator can with the utmost ease and at a moment's notice regulate the force of the hammer blows according to the depth of the cutting required.

Moreover different styles of pneumatic tools are provided for the various classes of work to be performed in producing a statue or other monument. For instance, there is one tool for light carving, tracing and lettering on granite, and a different one for heavy carving and large raised letters. The tools require from five to seven cubic feet of free air per minute to operate them. In the battlefield memo-

In Old Ireland.

In connection with what is known as the "Irish revival," an interesting work has been started by Irish ladies in a village close by Dublin.

Three industries were selected, namely, the printing of books, embroidering on Irish linen and the weaving of tapestry and carpets; and some exquisite work has been produced.

One of the leading ideas of the promoters has been to produce things which will be recognized as Irish both in style and design. In the carpets, for example, all ordinary patterns are discarded in favor of those recognizably Irish.

Many of the workers are Irish peasant girls, who, by patient training, have acquired rare skill in their artistic pursuits. As a means of keeping the Irish people at home, and winning back their old prosperity, everyone will wish the scheme to be a success.

Why We are Right-Handed.

Why do we use the right hand in preference to the left?

An anatomist, who has studied the question very closely, says that it is largely a matter of heredity. The early races of men must have used the right hand in fighting, reserving the left to cover the left side of the body, where wounds—as their experience showed them—were the more dangerous. This more frequent use of the right hand would react upon the brain, bringing about a special development of that part which controls the right hand.

THE GRADY MONUMENT AT ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

in particular in less than two or three days. Our markets are a long way off and the burden of transportation is necessarily heavy.

Close to Fine Markets.

But the Southern truck-gardener and fruit-grower can reach great cities in every direction in twelve, twenty-four, and thirty-six hours. He is surrounded by mining and manufacturing centers and has quick access to the big cities of the North. He is favored, of course, by the latitude, which enables him to produce both the necessities and luxuries of Northern tables while Jack Frost still holds the earth in his grip above Mason and Dixon's line.

In the matter of transportation, the new settler in the South is fortunate. Compared with newer sections of the country, the South is gridironed with railroads. Not only so, but it enjoys important natural advantages in the way of navigation, both interior and exterior. It is manifestly good railroad policy to facilitate the settlement of tributary railroad territory by making rates which encourage colonization and enable the settler to prosper. Railroad earnings and values increase rapidly with population and development.

The opportunities of the South constitute an open invitation to all men who desire to improve their conditions of living by getting an independence from the soil. The man who wants to avail himself of these opportunities may do so at once, with a small outlay of capital, without waiting for the adoption of new public policies of any sort. But it is impossible to travel through the Southern States without thinking of the obligation which rests upon the Nation to do certain things which must be done before the largest economic results can be achieved.

I have been interested for many years in the promotion of a government irrigation policy and in scientific forestry and systematic colonization, which are inseparably associated with it. But these are only a part of the great work of internal improvements which the government must set its hand. They are but a portion of the bigger problem of Building the Unfinished Republic and "finishing the world in partnership with God."

To Uphold the Nation.

The United States should drain the Southern swamps for precisely the same reason that it stores the waste flood water to irrigate the Western deserts in order that we may widen the foundations of our national life, enhance the common prosperity, and give men more room in which to build their habitations. We should preserve and extend the forests on all the watersheds of the United States and not merely in the mountains of the West.

hope of establishing millions of new homes on the soil. Here are the words:

Give us the broad and perfect loyalty that loves and trusts Georgia alike with Massachusetts—that knows no South, no East, no West, but endears with equal and patriotic love every foot of our soil, every State in our Union.

The citizen standing in the doorway of his home—contented on his threshold—his family gathered about his hearthstone—while the evening of a well-spent day closes in scenes and sounds that are dearest—He shall save the Republic when the drumbeat is futile and the barracks are exhausted.

31 Boxes of Gold

300 Boxes of Greenbacks

For the most words made up from these letters

Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts

331 people will earn these prizes.

Around the fireside or about the well-lighted family reading table during the winter evenings the children and grown-ups can play with their wits and see how many words can be made.

20 people making the greatest number of words will each receive a little box containing a $10.00 gold piece.

10 persons will each win one box containing a $5.00 gold piece.

300 people will each win a box containing $1.00 in paper money; and one person who makes the highest number of words over all contestants will receive a box containing $100.00 in gold.

It is really a most fascinating bit of fun to take up the list evening after evening and see how many words can be added.

A few rules are necessary for absolute fair play. Any word authorized by Webster's Dictionary will be counted, but no name of person. Both the singular and plural can be used, as for instance "grape" and "grapes."

The letters in "Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts" may be repeated in the same word.

Geographical names authorized by Webster will be counted.

Arrange the words in alphabetical classes, all those beginning with A together and those beginning with E to come under E, etc.

When you are writing down the words leave some spaces, in the A, E, and other columns to fill in later as new words come to you, for they will spring into mind every evening.

It is almost certain that some contestants will tie with others. In such cases a prize identical in value and character with that offered in that class shall be awarded to each. Each one will be requested to send with the list of words a plainly written letter describing the advantages of Grape-Nuts, but the contestant is not required to purchase a pkg. These letters are not to contain poetry, or fancy flourishes, but simple, truthful statements of facts. For illustration: A person may have experienced some incipient or chronic ails traceable to unwise selection of food that failed to give the body and brain the energy, health and power desired. Seeking better conditions a change in food is made and Grape-Nuts and cream used in place of the former diet. Suppose one quits the meat, fried potatoes, starchy, sticky messes of half-cooked oats or wheat and cuts out the coffee. Try, say, for breakfast a bit of fruit, a dish of Grape-Nuts and Cream, two soft boiled eggs, a slice of hard toast and a cup of Postum Food Coffee. Some amateur says: "A man would faint away on that," but my dear friend we will put dollars to your pennies that the noon hour will find a man on our breakfast-huskier and with a stronger heart-beat and clearer working-brain than he ever had on the old diet.

Suppose, if you have never really made a move for absolutely clean health that pushes you along each day with a spring in your step and a reserve vigor in muscle and brain that makes the doing of things a pleasure; you join the army of "plain old common sense" and start it now. Then after you have been two or three weeks on the Grape-Nuts training you write a statement of how you used to be and how you are now. The simple facts will interest others and surprise yourself. We never publish names except on permission, but often tell the facts in the newspapers and when requested give the names by private letter.

There is plenty of time to get personal experience with Grape-Nuts and write a sensible, truthful letter to be sent in with the list of words, as the contest does not close until April 30th, 1906. So start in as soon as you like to building words, and start in using Grape-Nuts. Cut this statement out and keep the letters Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts before you and when you write your letter you will have some reason to write on the subject "Why I Owe Grape-Nuts."

Remember 331 persons will win prizes, which will be awarded in an exact and just manner as soon as the list can be counted after April 30, 1906. Every contestant will be sent a printed list of names and addresses of winners on application, in order to have proof that the prizes are sent as agreed. The company is well known all over the world for absolute fidelity to its agreements, and every single one of the 331 winners may depend on receiving the prize won.

Many persons might feel it useless to contest, but when one remembers the great number of prizes—(331)—the curiosity of seeing how many words can really be made up evening after evening and the good, natural fun and education in the competition, it seems worth the trial; there is no cost, nothing to lose and a fine opportunity to win one of the many boxes of gold or greenbacks.

We make the prediction that some who win a prize of gold or greenbacks, will also win back health and strength worth more to them than a wagon full of money prizes.

There are no preliminaries, cut out this statement and go to it, and send in the list and letter before April 30th, 1906, to Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., and let your name and address be plainly written.

KILLING FEVER TICKS.

Promising Experiments Undertaken by the Agricultural Department.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

To stamp out Texas cattle fever, this is the hope of the Department of Agriculture. The Department has been working on the problem for some time, and it has almost been proved to the satisfaction of officials that the tick which causes the fever can be eradicated from a pasture simply by keeping cattle out of that pasture. The tick is not a herbivorous insect, and it will die out if the pasture is kept free of cattle. It is believed that if one pasture on a farm is always kept free of cattle over what might be termed the life period of the tick, it will furnish perfectly safe pasturage for uninfected animals in case fever breaks out in the rest of the herd.

Of course, the Department of Agriculture has no right to go into a State and enforce the free pasturage policy, and the matter cannot be, or at least is not, always dealt with satisfactorily by State officials. But in cases where the Department is officially invited to come into a State and take charge of cleaning it up, it is quite ready to do so. Tentative arrangements have already been made for this work with the authorities in some States, and it is believed that it will be quite possible to stamp out the fever and allow the free interstate transportation that they will produce a fever-resisting strain that will be a valuable acquisition to the cattle men of the South-west. These two experiments of Uncle Sam's farm department hold out a promise of very great importance to the live-stock industry, and consequently to all meat consumers.

The Manure Pit.

Where is the wise farmer who would sell to his neighbor a load of his finest corn or a load of some green crop for a dollar bill. Yet there are thousands of agriculturists all over the country who are doing practically this very thing when they dispose of their barnyard manure for $1 a load. Others are wasting the most valuable constituents of the manure they save. The manure produced on the farm is its most valuable asset.

There are in the United States, in round numbers, 17,000,000 horses, 61,000,000 cattle, 47,000,000 hogs and 45,000,000 sheep. Experiments have shown that if these animals were kept in stalls or pens throughout the year and the manure, both liquid and solid, carefully saved, the approximate value of the manure produced by each horse into practice the new idea that the manure should be as carefully preserved from unnecessary loss, as should any other farm product, after he has for twenty years stored the farmyard manure under the eaves upon the slope which forms one corner of the running brook.

Experiments made by various Government experiment stations show that the construction of sheds or covered yards for the protection of manure is well worth while. The manure from the horse and cattle stables and the sheep and calf pens should be spread out evenly over these yards, covered with coarse litter, and the whole kept firmly packed by allowing animals to run over it, thus preventing injurious fermentation.

To Save All the Fertility.

A more elaborate and expensive style of covered yard, a plan for which is furnished by the Department of Agriculture, provides not only for the required protection of both animals and manure, but also affords an excellent grain chamber where feed can be stored for convenient use. Under the side roofs is also afforded a chance for the storing of small tools and a great variety of articles that are continually in the way when lying about the farm buildings. It also provides splendid protection to animals when housed at night during the summer, this roof protecting them from heavy showers in the night and affording good chance for exercise in the winter, as all the sides, except that toward the south, can be protected against cold winds through temporary boarding.

Many stables are so situated that by adding a cheap lean-to, a manure "pit" is easily produced. The outside boarding of the lean-to should be, for a part of the way at least, put horizontally and hung in the form of flat doors, so that the manure can be easily loaded on a wagon standing on the outside of the building.

A great number of farmers who have adopted manure sheds and covered Rattlesnake Den.

We were lumbering in central Pennsylvania during the summer of 1870; our portable steam mill standing in a piece of woodland, near a small stream and within a short half mile of a rocky ledge, known as "Rattlesnake Den."

During the hot days, rattlers were constantly met, and "Harry," who drove the daily stage through the "Narrows," had won quite a local reputation from having killed more than a score since the melting of the snows. The pretty young wife of our engineer had charge of the boarding house, and after the noon meal was served, the dishes cleared away and the house put in order, she was accustomed to bring her sewing into the shade near our Planer, which was the cleanest and coolest part of the mill, and sit for an hour or two before commencing the preparation of the supper.

She was a sweet, attractive sight that hot afternoon of which I speak, her beautiful arms and neck rivaling the whiteness of her simple frock, the only female in our camp of rough, brawny men, but one whom any of us would have defended from all harm at any risk.

Some of the men were rolling up the logs on the skid, some sawing them into boards, others carrying the boards to the yard, while my partner, Manuel Motz, was personally tending to the more skillful work at the planer, in yards have obtained unsatisfactory results, but the Department of Agriculture believes that this is probably due to the fact that these structures have generally been loosely put together, allowing a free circulation of air, which has dried out the manure. On this account barn cellars, so common in New England, possess decided advantages as receptacles for manure. The common practice of allowing swine to "work over" the manure in these cellars is a wise one, since it mixes the manure and keeps it well packed and moist. In fact, if these cellars are provided with impervious bottoms to hold the liquid manure, this system of storage is probably the most perfect practiced.

Manure the Best Fertilizer.

Barnyard manure is the most effective means at the disposal of the average farmer to permanently improve his soil. No other fertilizer possesses to that great a degree the power of restoring worn out soils to productivity and giving them lasting fertility. It provides actual fertilizing constituents; it improves the physical properties of the soil, increasing the amount of humus, which is generally deficient in worn soils, bettering its texture and increasing its water-absorbing and water-holding power. Experiments have shown that the influence of manure may be perceptible twenty years after application. It directly represents fertility drawn from the soil and must be returned to it if productivity is to be maintained. In many cases it has been demon-

front of which and facing it, May sat. I was just then acting as engineer and freeman, and as I happened to look in their direction, to my horror, saw an immense rattler, coiled within a foot or less of May's back, his body swaying to and fro, and his angry eyes shining like sparks of fire. I was literally paralyzed with terror, for though but twenty feet away, it seemed as if the blow would be struck before I could take even the first step. Motz must have seen the snake at the same moment, for I heard his voice clear and sharp above the roar of all the machinery. "May, there's a rattlesnake that will strike if you move; sit perfectly still." As he spoke he grabbed from a beam the bull whip, which we used for our ox team, and with the slightest movement of his powerful wrist snapped it at the reptile, as if striking at a fly. I remember I thought what a fool action that was, why didn't he dash forward and at least attract its attention! But I looked again and the body lay quivering and twisting, but with a broken neck.

"Pretty close call, May," he said cheerily, "but its easy when you know the trick."

May had been perfectly cool and obedient till the danger was past, and then, womanlike, she quietly swanned away, and for a day or two we did our own cooking.

CATTLE INFECTED WITH TEXAS FEVER.

of cattle, which is now prohibited. The saving in money and the convenience to shippers of this arrangement can easily be understood.

To Introduce Cattle from India.

While this quarantine and expiration work is going on, a similar experiment on different lines directed to the same end will soon be under way. There have been imported to some of the Texas ranges specimens of the Indian sacred cattle, and it has been found that they were immune to the Texas fever. Apparently there is an oil in the skin that is repugnant to the tick. At any rate they will not harbor the parasite. The half-bloods and even animals containing but one-sixteenth part Indian blood have been found immune, and they make just as good beef cattle as can be found.

There are very stringent laws against the importation of foreign stock into this country without thorough examination and quarantine; therefore it is risky to import stock from so far away as India without special provisions for its examination. Mr. A. S. Borden of Pierce, Tex., has arranged, however, with the Agricultural Department to make a large importation of the immune Indian cattle, and has already left for British India to pick them out. The Department of Agriculture will send a special veterinary after him, and the first shipment of about 100 head will be annually would be $27, by each head of cattle $19, by each hog $12 and by each sheep $2. The fertilizing value of all the manure produced would, therefore, be for horses, $459,000,000; cattle, $1,159,000; hogs, $564,000,000; and sheep, $90,000,000, or a total of $2,272,000,000.

These estimates are based on the values usually assigned to phosphoric acid, potash and nitrogen in commercial fertilizers, and are possibly somewhat too high from a practical standpoint. On the other hand, no account is here taken of the value of manure for improving the mechanical condition and drainage of soils which is almost as important a consideration as its direct fertilizing value. It is generally conceded that at least one-third of the value of manure is lost by present wasteful management or a total loss to the country of over $750,000,000.

Return Full Value to the Soil.

If a farmer desires to maintain the productivity of his land, it is essential that the amount of potash, phosphoric acid and nitrogen removed through the selling of meat, milk, grain, hay, fruits, vegetables, etc., should be restored through an intelligent conservation of the barnyard manure.

It seems to be a hard matter to induce the average farmer to abandon the time-honored practice of piling examined before they are shipped, and then quarantined on one of the small islands off the gulf coast till it is determined that there is no danger of their bringing into this country some strange bovine affliction even worse perhaps than Texas fever.

After the animals have been thoroughly proven, they will be introduced among the Texas herds, and it is hoped

In speaking of the "Queen Esther" rendition at Bellaire, the Independent has the following regarding East Jordanites:
 B. A. Dole, our own Bert, who is working in the bank at East Jordan, was King, and as actor and singer he yields the candle to none. Mrs. S. A. Bush was an admirable Queen Esther, taking the part in a manner to bring out the best qualities of the beautiful cantata. Dr. H. W. Dixon of East Jordan was Haman to perfection, while Thos. Lalonde, who carried the part of Mordecai, deserves special attention from the fact that on account of the serious illness of the man originally taking the part, he took it up and carried it through successfully on but four day's study. The other star parts were Zeresh, Haman's wife, Mrs. Clark Haire; Mordecai's sister, Mrs. D. L. Rogers; Hegal, Robert Sheldon. * * * Mrs. Blanche Robertson of East Jordan, who had charge of the same cantata given at that place a week before the one here, gave a contrast solo between the acts which was very pleasing and responded with an encore yet more pleasing. The orchestra from East Jordan furnished fine music, and their coming absolutely free—except as they were afterwards pressed to allow their railroad fare to be paid—shows the very neighborly feeling existing between the people of East Jordan and Bellaire.

 Ira G. Mosher is after the scalps of six of Charlevoix's leading business men because they deliberately "conspired, combined, confederated and agreed together to injure, prejudice, grieve and damnify the plaintiff in his profession and business." The case grows out of a petition of Charlevoix citizens to the Board of Supervisors asking that an unbiased accountant be engaged to audit the county books. Just why some of East Jordan's citizens—who signed a like petition—shouldn't wear a martyr's crown with the six is a question.

County Treasurer Payton has settled with the last of the township treasurers. He reports that taxes have been paid very close this year two treasurers reporting over ninety per cent of taxes paid at 1 cent per cent collection. This would seem to indicate a fairly prosperous lot of tax payers.—Charlevoix Courier.

There is very little in the present political situation in Michigan to give even the most optimistic democrat an excuse for useless expenditure of time and money in another hopeless state campaign. Not the slightest attention has been given to Prof. Ferris' requirement that the democrats shall organize throughout the state if they wish him to be a candidate again. The Cassopolis Democrat says the democrat party is in the hands of a lot of political pirates; the democrat factions of the city of Detroit are at war with each other, and the democrat mayor of Grand Rapids has left the organization and will oppose his party as an independent candidate. Not one of the issues of the state campaign of two years ago can be utilized again for democrat purposes, and it is hardly probable that a new series of democrat issues would receive more than formal consideration.

The Solution.

There's a remedy that home dealers could apply to peddlers and others, a remedy that is simple and effective. The Cadillac News sizes up the situation as follows: "Thank goodness the steel range peddlers have left Wexford county, but that is about all they did leave, and are now over the line in Grand Traverse with their mule teams. These range peddlers and their mules have been in Wexford county several months and, according to a correspondent have disposed of about a carload of their wares. Just why it is that a man will accept verbatim the statements and claims of a swindling stranger against the assertions of a home dealer, who is compelled to the truth for business reasons, if for no other, is beyond the capacity of the common mind. Wexford county is full of hardware dealers who are honest and reliable, and who do not and will not misrepresent, and whose prices are low. But they are discarded and the stranger, with a one-sided contract and an interior range, is accepted and swallowed whole. It is passing strange darned if it ain't, but there is nothing left but to advertise. That's what will save us, your hardware men, advertise. Whoop it up all along the line, get out after the peddlers. Your prices are lower, your contracts are easier, and your ranges superior. Tell the folks about yourselves and what you'll do, and tell them through your newspapers. If that won't work it's all off for good."

Boyer City Journal.—A man named Eugene Grandy, living in town, undertook to swindle the Boyne City State Bank by a forged check, so it is alleged, and is now in the county jail as a result. On Tuesday he applied to the bank for a loan of $25, and offered to get W. C. Grandy, the well known farmer of Horton bay as an endorser. He was given a note properly filled out and went away, ostensibly to secure the signature of the endorser. He then, it is alleged, signed his own name to the note and called upon a merchant in town, telling him that he was W. O. Grandy but could not write his name and asked the merchant to write the name for him. This was done, and after waiting what would have been considered sufficient time for a trip to have been made to Horton's Bay he again presented himself to the bank but failed to secure the cash. Meanwhile the aforesaid merchant had apprised the bank of the transaction so far as he knew of it. The bankers quizzed the fellow who maintained that the signature of W. C. Grandy was genuine and that he had been to Horton's Bay and secured it. While the bank did not lose by the transaction, the man's intent was just as criminal and the officials thought best to punish him, not only on his own account but also as a warning to others. He was accordingly arrested, and upon waiving examination was bound over to the next term of the circuit court and in default of $300 bonds was taken to Charlevoix yesterday by officer McWain. We learn that the man is about 50 years of age and has a wife.

Eight thousand square feet of room is occupied by Empey Bros. Emporium, and still to make room for their spring stock, they will sell for the next 30 days at greatly reduced rates.

ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup

Pleasant to take and does not gripe or nauseate. Cures Chronic Constipation, Stomach and Liver Trouble

Stimulation Without Irritation. ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup is a new laxative syrup combined with the delicious flavor of fruits, and is very pleasant to take. It will not gripe or sicken. It is much more pleasant and effective than Pills, Tablets and Saline Waters, as it does not derange the Stomach, or irritate the Kidneys, Liver or Bowels.

Constipation. ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup will positively cure chronic constipation as it restores the natural action of the intestinal tract. Ordinary cathartics may give temporary relief but the stomach is upset and the bowels are irritated without any permanent benefit having been derived.

Why ORINO is different. ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup is the only preparation that really acts upon all of the digestive organs. Other preparations act upon the lower bowel only and do not touch the Liver. It can very readily be seen that a preparation that does not act upon all of the digestive organs
