Township Election.

A Quiet Affair—Only One Ticket in the Field.

For a fortnight or so past the opposition (?) to Sup'r Graff's re-election has been furnishing considerable amusement to the voters of this township, but on Monday it resolved itself into a howling farce-comedy. The opposition (?) in their caucus couldn't find a candidate, couldn't find one afterward, and so on election day proceeded to nominate a candidate for supervisor without consulting the gentleman himself. Ransom Jones, Sr., was the one decided upon to be offered on the sacrificial altar of politics, but Mr. Jones is too square a republican to allow anything like that, so immediately issued a circular to the voters notifying them that he positively refused to have anything to do with the matter—even if elected. Previous to this a scurrilous article was circulated, reflecting on the official work of Sup'r. Graff. This article had neither signature or imprint and only influenced voters all the more to vote for Mr. Graff. When the ballots were counted only on three, out of the total number cast, was the Supervisor's name crossed out. Think of it! A campaign by the Anti-Graff newspaper for several months past productive of three votes. As a rule newspaper advertising days but it evidently didn't in this case. The proposed amendment carried in this township by about 2 to 1. About 242 names were enrolled in the party registration book. Below are the gentleman elected on the Republican ticket:

For Supervisor, Jacob H. Graff, 222.
For Clerk, Wm. A. Pickard, 230.
For Treasurer, Richard F. Stoffes, 229.
For Highway Con'r, Josiah St. John, 225.
For Justices of the Peace, H. I. McMillan, 225.
For School Inspector, Charles A. Hudson, 224.
For Member Board of Review, Jacob E. Chew, 228.
For Constable, Wm. Johnson, 222.
For Constable, John Howell, 218.
For Constable, Daniel Catton, 215.

In Memoriam.

Again we have been called to mourn because of the passing into another room, and from sight of mortal eyes, our young friend and brother Howard Gage, whose funeral was held at the M. E. Church Thursday morning, April 5th, 1906. The church was filled with sympathizing friends. A special choir of the Misses Hoyt, Shapton, More and Mrs. Wm. Palmier, Messrs. Cole and Shapton sang "Lead Kindly Light," "Looking This Way," and "Abide With Me." The two first were of Howard's selecting. Mrs. A. J. Saffern assisted at the organ. Prayer by Rev. J. A. McKee. Rev. George Allan gave a very impressive sermon, and spoke in high praise of the young man, closing with a loving farewell and with a hope of meeting again in the beyond. Beautiful tributes of flowers covered the casket. Six young men—Harry McHale, George Spencer, Fred Gilbert, Mark Chaplin, Clifton Rowley and Oscar Walstad acted as pall-bearers. The interment was made in East Jordan Cemetery.

The tar that is contained in Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar is harmless. It is not coal tar, but it is obtained from the pine trees of our own native forests. Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar is the best remedy for colds because it acts on the bowels—thus expelling all poisons from the system. Bee's is the original Laxative Honey and Tar, and is best for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, lung and bronchial affections. Sold by Warne's Pharmacy.

The management of the East Jordan Creamery announces that they will begin operations, Monday, April 16th. This is indeed good news and we trust that the farmers of this locality will begin planing at once to furnish either milk or cream as soon as the season opens. The management have found that they can operate the plant a trifle cheaper this coming season than last and will give their patrons the benefit; charging them only two cents per pound less for making than the prevailing high market price, which is the standard; last year they charged the general price, three cents. All will be governed by the Babcock list. Keo Murphy, who was apprenticed last year, will have charge of the plant. Any one wishing to look up the matter can obtain information of any of the gentlemen who are directors, viz:—C. H. Whittington, W. P. Porter, Horace Hipp, A. Murphey, Charles Knop.

A dose of Pine-ules at bed time will usually relieve backache, before morning. These beautiful little globules are soft gelatine coated and when moistened and placed in the mouth you can't keep from swallowing them. Pine-ules contain neither sugar nor alcohol—just gums and resins obtained from our own native pine forests, combined with other well known bladder, kidney, blood and backache remedies. Sold by Warne's Pharmacy.

MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN.

MRS. WALTER FARWELL OF CHICAGO AND WASHINGTON IS HOLDING THE HONOR.

Is Daughter of the Wife of Stephen A. Douglass, Herself a Famous Belle—Husband's Father Began Life a Poor Boy.

Who is the most beautiful woman in America? This was the question recently propounded in connection with the preparation of a Beauty Book which was designed to sell at something like twenty-five dollars per copy. It was intended to present in the expensive volume portraits of the handsomest women in each of the principal American cities but one member of the fair sex was to be selected as preeminently the most beautiful creature in Miss Columbia's domain.

Naturally there was great rivalry for the honor and the persons who sat in judgment upon the photographs of beautiful women which were submitted in the contest had a rather difficult time to reach a decision. Finally, the choice fell upon Mrs. Walter Farwell of Washington, D. C. and Chicago who was a bride of but a few months when the mooted question was decided in her favor. In arriving at a decision the judges studied the features of each subject critically just as a per-

Miss Mildred Williams was a great belle from the very day that she made her first formal bow to the social world. To be sure she had no dowry but her own marvelous beauty but she made what the gossips pronounced a "great catch" when she married Walter Farwell of Chicago, one of the most prominent young millionaires of the Windy City.

Started with $10 Capital.

Young Farwell is the son of ex-Senator Farwell who started in life as a poor boy at Painted Post, New York, later removing to Illinois and eventually going to Chicago on a load of wheat with but $10 in his pocket. He secured employment in the county clerk's office; later became teller of a bank and finally established with his brother the great dry goods business which to this day causes the name of Farwell to be well known in mercantile circles. In 1887 the Farwell brothers built the Texas State Capitol receiving in payment therefor more than 3,000,000 acres of land. Much of this land they sold but considerable holdings of it went to form a gigantic ranch which was stocked with 150,000 cattle and helped materially to swell the Farwell fortune.

Both of Ex-Senator Farwell's daughters married men well known to the public so that the beautiful Mrs. Walter Farwell has two very prominent sisters-in-law. One is Mrs. Reginald De Koven, wife of the well known com-

FAIRBANKS IS ACTIVE.

WORKING TO SECURE PLEDGES FOR THE PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION IN 1908.

Is Sure of Indiana Delegation—Is Also Counting on Illinois, and Thinks Chances Good in Ohio—At Work in South.

Vice-President Fairbanks is 6 feet, 3 inches in height, the tallest man in the Senate. He is also looming up pretty tall as a presidential candidate for 1908.

Unless other candidates bestir themselves, Mr. Fairbanks will at no distant day have a sufficient number of delegates pledged to make him the most formidable candidate for the nomination.

Mr. Fairbanks has had the Presidential bee in his bonnet for many years. He was a great favorite of President McKinley, and many persons believe that Mr. McKinley desired to see Mr. Fairbanks succeed him in the Presidential chair.

There have recently been long conferences between Indiana politicians, Mr. Fairbanks, and his friends, and there is good reason to believe that a great deal has been accomplished in the way of perfecting the organization formed for the purpose of securing the Republican nomination for Indiana's son two years hence.

Beveridge is in Line.

Everything is said to be lovely for Mr. Fairbanks in Indiana. He has cleaned up the opposing faction in the Republican party there, headed by the youthful Senator Beveridge, who is understood to have responded so readily to the treatment applied that he now gives three cheers every time the name of Fairbanks is mentioned in his presence. Senator Beveridge is no longer in a position to hamper the progress of the Fairbanks' boom in Indiana. In the factional fight over the State chairmanship, Mr. Beveridge suffered an ignominious rout, and even if he does not train with Mr. Fairbanks in the future, he will not actively oppose him.

Following Senator Hanna's Methods.

In his campaign to secure delegates for William McKinley in 1896, Marcus A. Hanna began his operations in the South. He had securely nailed down that section before the representatives of other candidates had begun to work. Mr. Hanna enlisted in the cause a number of young men, who went out looking for delegates and got them. Mr. Fairbanks knows something about the methods of Mr. Hanna, and his representatives are now treating with leading party men in the South. While the Republican party in the South is short on votes on election day, it is long on delegates in the national convention. This fact is keenly appreciated by Mr. Fairbanks.

Chances in Illinois.

The Vice-President is certain of Indiana's delegates, and he is counting upon Illinois. His fortunes in that State are in the hands of Charles G. Dawes, former Comptroller of the Currency, one of Mr. Hanna's "young men" in the pre-convention campaign made in the interest of the candidacy of Mr. McKinley. Fairbanks had strong and influential friends in Illinois and his chances of securing the delegation from that State are probably better than those of any other man who has been mentioned for the Presidential nomination, with the exception of Speaker Cannon. Mr. Dawes is understood to be the western manager of the Fairbanks boom. At least, such a report was circulated recently, and it has never been denied.

The Vice-President and his friends profess to believe the next standard bearer of the Republican party will be a western man. Ohio has two favorite sons in the persons of Secretary Taft and Senator Foraker. Both are very strong in Ohio and both are widely and favorably known throughout the country. The Fairbanks men believe that the rivalry of Taft and Foraker will prevent either of them securing the united support of Ohio's delegation to the next convention. Therefore, Fairbanks is ignoring the Buckeye state. Some of the Hoosier's friends are very enthusiastic, and to hear them one would think that the formalities of nominating convention and an election might just as well be dispensed with.

Of course if Mr. Roosevelt should run for reelection, as it is being prominently argued that he will, notwithstanding his publicly expressed attitude against another term, it is admitted that he would be the practically unanimous choice for nomination and the work of the Fairbanks party would have been in vain.

INDIA'S RICHEST POTENTATE.

He Owns a Carpet Made of Precious Gems and Diamonds and Rubies by the Bushel.

During the stay of the Prince and Princess of Wales in India they will doubtless meet and be entertained by a personage who has every reason to be regarded as the richest man in the Orient, if not in the whole world. This is the Galkwar (or Rajah) of Baroda, a potentate who well illustrates Milton's famous line concerning the "Barbaric pearl and gold" which the "gorgeous East" showers on its kings. No doubt, in point of annual income, there are richer men—Mr. John D. Rockefeller, for instance—but, from the standpoint of personal possessions, the Galkwar probably has no rival in the world.

When he came to the throne some twenty-five years ago the present ruler of Baroda found stored in the vaults of his palace wealth so colossal that a description of it outdoes the "Arabian Nights" itself. Certainly Aladdin never thought of a carpet of jewels, such as the Galkwar possesses. To say that there is nothing like it in the world is only feebly to describe its glories, which can be better indicated by the statement that it is about four yards square and composed of ropes of rubies, diamonds, pearls, woven into a regular carpet well-defined pattern and border. Thousands of dollars' worth of jewels, every one of the finest quality, went to make up this wondrous carpet, the product of three years work by skilled artists and jewel setters.

Now, if the Galkwar of Baroda were only moderately wealthy, this monarch of carpets would doubtless occupy the place of honor in his palace. But as he possesses jewels enough to set up a dozen ordinary monarchs the jeweled tapestry occupies an odd corner, and is shown to visitors as merely but one of the treasures of the palace. Less of a curiosity, but far more valuable, is the Galkwar's diamond necklace, a trinket the value of which several times make a man a millionaire. This necklace is the most magnificent in existence. And even the honor of possessing the second finest is denied to the rest of the world, for that also is amongst the Galkwar's family jewels, being worn by his wife, who is, besides, dowered with brooches, bracelets, rings and other ornaments, the value of which is computed in millions of dollars.

Another notable ornament worn by the Galkwar is a collarette made of five hundred diamonds of the purest water, which includes in its glittering rows the famous "Star of the South," the fourth largest diamond in the world.

Such a dazzling collection—such a "welter" of jewels—was, needless to say, not made in a single life-time. For centuries the Galkwar's ancestors have been accumulating their treasures, until to-day the jewels alone could be measured in bushels. As for the rest, there are pictures in bronzes and statuary to the value of several millions of money.

A royal procession in Baroda is worth going many miles to see. Horses and elephants, all splendidly caparisoned and blazing with gems, lead the way; but the cynosura of all eyes is the Galkwar, not merely because of his person, but also by reason of the stupendous wealth represented by the jewels with which he adorns himself.

He is, perhaps, the one man in the world who could wear that mammoth amongst gems, the great Premier Diamond, without incongruity.

Sleeping Car Acquaintances.

Representative Smith of Maryland is the subject of a good story these days. When he hears it he merely smiles and looks wise. Mr. Smith, the little narrative says, was standing a few days ago in front of the White House talking to two Secret Service men, when a boy came dashing out of the Executive Mansion.

"Who's that?" queried the Congressman.

"That's Archibald Roosevelt," he was informed.

A moment later another youngster appeared through the same door and Mr. Smith repeated his question.

"That's Kermit," said one of the guards.

Just then a third boy came swishing along on roller skates.

"I guess that's another one of the Roosevelts," suggested the man from Maryland.

"Yes," was the answer, "That's Quentin."

"By gum," commented Mr. Smith, "they've all got names like sleeping cars. I feel just as if I were standing on the station platform at home watching the limited express shoot by."

A DARKY CHRISTENING.

WEIRD SCENE AMONG THE SOUTHERN COLORED BAPTISTS—FEET WASHING.

Third Letter of Account of Trip into the Sunny Southland.—Interesting Visits to Jacksonville, Savannah and Richmond.

The first Sunday we spent in Eustis we drove to Lake Gracie, just in the rear of the hotel grounds, to witness the Baptist colored immersion. It was a perfect June morning, with settings of pure gold. It did not seem possible that it was windy March at home. The orange groves reached down to the very edge of the lake, which lay placed, like a mirror. Several of the guests roved across from the hotel to witness the ceremony. Presently the preacher, followed by his candidates and flock, came through the woods singing one of their wild refrains. A few words from the Good Book, a prayer, all kneeling, and then an exhortation delivered with much vigor. The baptism was quietly performed, with the exception of the case of one of the sister candidates who felt so happy that two men were obliged to carry her out of the water. In the evening we all drove to Egypt, the colored settlement, and I never in my life attended such a service. It was the first Sunday in March, which is a high day in the church—"The Primitive Baptist." The church building is a little wooden structure with bare benches along each side and a rough table in front of a box of a pulpit. When we entered, a prayer meeting was being held. As many of the native congregation cannot read, the hymns are lined, two lines at a time—and such strange music I never heard. They don't seem to sing the words; it is just a loud monotonous refrain, and was perfectly deafening in that small building. The prayers were mostly ejaculations to the Lord, accompanied with clapping of hands and loud expressions from all the brothers and sisters. The sermon was the most rambling discourse imaginable, beginning with Genesis and ending in Revelations, accompanied with vigorous pantomime of face, arms and legs. Then the darkies screamed and yelled at the top of their voices and during all of which one of the sisters got "happy" and surged over into another seat, screaming and jumping up and down. Several buxom sisters held her until she became quiet. Then the collection was taken up, each one going up to the table and laying his money on was attired in a white and gray cotton mother Hubbard gown tied around the waist with a white apron; around her neck she wore a black fur collar and on her head a very broad brimmed black hat turned up on one side in a jaunty manner. This colored lady, weighing 285 pounds, as I was told, proceeded to set the communion table. From his chair in the pulpit, the minister called out, "Let us know, sister, when you are ready, and we'll begin business." "All right," responded Aunt Savannah cheerfully, "I'm ready." Then right in the midst of the service another woman became happy, jumping over in the seat back of her directly among the women and babies, and I don't know why the babies were not killed. Such a scattering I never saw before. Parthenonism reigned, but all the time the plate of bread was being passed.

Washing Their Feet.

Then came the "foot washing." Two ten-cent basins were placed on the table; the men and women took off their shoes and stockings; the preacher washed the first elder's feet, wiping them with the towel which was girdled around his waist; then passed the basin and towel to the elder, who washed the next one's feet, and so on until all were done. Aunt Savannah then began a like ceremony on the sister's side of the church; and all the time the dreadful singing, shouting, clapping of hands, stamping of washed and unwashed feet continued in a deafening racket. Finally the table was takwhile all the time this dreadful singing continued without a break or interruption.

MRS. WALTER FARWELL.

AWARDED FIRST PRIZE AS THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN IN AMERICA.

son might judge the good qualities of a picture and the award was made to Mrs. Farwell as the possessor of the greatest degree of perfection in every attribute of womanly beauty.

For the benefit of any person who might be disposed to find fault with the decision of the committee it may be said in simple truth that none of Mrs. Farwell's likenesses do her justice. She is a tall, surpassingly graceful woman of the type so often referred to as the "Gibson girl," with slender but perfect figure; a marvellously clear complexion; hair that is tinged with gold; and a very animated manner. She has been famous ever since she first entered society for being one of the best, or rather one of the most artistically gowned women in the public eye.

Mother Was a Famous Beauty.

Mrs. Farwell comes by her beauty as a rightful heritage from her mother who was the most famous beauty of her day. Before her marriage Mrs. Farwell was Miss Mildred Williams. Perhaps this name does not suggest aught unusual to the older generation of our readers but the hidden significance will be disclosed when it is explained that Mrs. Williams, the mother of this stately beauty of the present day was in earlier years Mrs. Stephen A. Douglass, wife of one of the foremost men of his day and herself famous as the greatest beauty of the period.

Some time after the death of Stephen A. Douglass his widow married Gen. Williams of the United States Army. For a time the couple lived in Washington but Gen. Williams who was a man of some note became so incensed at hearing himself referred to only as the husband of the former Mrs. Stephen A. Douglass that he secured a transfer to a Western army post and remained in the wilds of western America for many years, not returning to the capital city until his wife's beauty was less conspicuous than formerly and he was himself less sensitive on the score of personal vanity.

poser of Robin Hood and other operas, and the other is Mrs. Hobart Chatfield Taylor, who has gained fame and fortune as a writer of novels. Mrs. Farwell's home is in the beautiful family mansion in Chicago but she spends much of her time at the capital of the nation where she formerly resided and where her sister-in-law, Mrs. De Koven, has a handsome home.

Origin of Easter.

Easter is so called from the Saxon goddess, Easter, or as others think, from the Saxon, Oster, to rise. In the East the day is known as the "Bright Day," and in Bohemia as the "Great Night."

The Russian Easter.

Easter Day is set apart for visiting in Russia. The men go to each other's houses in the morning and introduce themselves by saying, "Jesus Christ is risen." The answer is, "Yes, He is risen." The people then embrace, give each other eggs, and drink a great deal. They present a colored red egg to the priest of the parish on Easter morning. The common people carry one of these red eggs in their hands upon Easter Day, and three or four days after. They use it in token of the Resurrection, whereof they rejoice.

Oriental Egg Gamblers.

Hyde in his description of Oriental sports, tells of one with eggs among the Christians of Mesopotamia on Easter Day, and forty days afterward; "The sport consists in striking their eggs one against another, and the egg that first breaks is won by the owner of the one that struck it. Immediately another egg is pitted against the winning egg, and so on till the last egg wins all the others, which their respective owners shall before have won."

hands and going through a thousand genuflections, until we left at eleven o'clock, and they kept up the performance until midnight. What an emotional people!

I revelled in the most exquisite roses during all of our stay in Bustis, our hostess keeping our room filled with the choicest varieties, so marvelous in color, so rich in perfume, as to almost intoxicate us with their beauty.

Where Winter Strawberries Grow.

March 15th we took the train for Ocala, the next day reached Lawtie, a quiet little town settled by northerners devoted to strawberry culture. Here we spent a week driving, walking, sitting on the broad piazza of the hotel in the sun, getting tanned and fat. Nothing here is cultivated—but acres and acres of strawberries, little tiny plants; but raise the leaves and you can pick nearly a quart from one vine. The number of quarts shipped north during the season is fabulous, but occasional freezes do damage.

The mornings and evenings were always cold, so we had a wood fire in the big fire-place in our room, of fat pitch pine wood, and it was very fascinating to watch the fire light, as it flickered here and there, lighting the room so that we needed no lamp. All through the South the mocking birds were singing, calling and answering each other day and night. Returning to Jacksonville we devoted the few hours we had to visiting the shops and the Exposition building. Here in the Alligator Enal we saw a number of the uncanny looking beasts, the largest of which was ten feet long, so utterly hideous and ugly that he was most fascinating to me. Our next stop was at Savannah, where we drove all over the city and out on the beautiful shell road to the old cemetery, called "Bonaventure" (Beautiful Way), where the trees, great live oaks, covered with gray moss, are a hundred years old.

Great Natural Arches.

Roads have been cut through the woods and the effect is indescribable; it is like driving through great cathedral arches, so sombre and solemn, and so grand withal, a fitting place for the dead. Savannah is a beautiful old city, with many parks and squares planted with palms and palmettos, right in its heart. The magnolias seem the favorite tree, and they grow to a great height. The houses are large and broad, with verandas all around the two stories, and they must be needed in the hot summer. We had a very full day, and at seven o'clock took the sleeper for Richmond. We rode all the next day, reaching our destination in the evening, and drove to Ford's Hotel, where we had stopped thirty-five years ago on our wedding trip. But the hotel had changed, the city has grown, and nothing looked natural except Sunset Park and the old Capitol Park. The grass was turning green and the numerous gray squirrels were so tame they came and ate from my hand. We drove all the morning, visiting the beautiful statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee—a bronze equestrian on an immense granite pedestal. In the afternoon we drove to the park and hunted up Mr. Pollard, the Virginian who captured my husband during the war. It was their first meeting since that memorial time when they were mere boys, one wearing the blue and the other the gray, and they had a most interesting "war talk."

The next morning we took our train for Washington exactly five weeks from the day we left. It has been truly a delightful trip, beneficial in health and education, perfectly charming in every way, whose memory will go with me through life. C. G. G.

PRINCE WHO LIKES HORSES.

Brother of Heir to German Crown a Rough Rider.

Elitel Frederick, prince of Prussia, and younger brother of the crown prince of Germany, is considered one of the finest horsemen of Europe. The German people love him greatly for this, along with his kindness to his animals, a quality sometimes wanting when great daring is possessed by boys.

When the prince was sixteen he was given the freedom of the royal stables and told that he could select one of the finest Arabian ponies for his own use. He asked if he could look after him just as boys in lesser stations in life do with their ponies, and his father's reply was:

"I want my boys to know how to work and care for everything that belongs to them."

Elitel did care for his pony and spent many moments learning all about the needs and nature of horses. He discovered that his Arabian could jump and, riding him one day he cleared a four-barred fence, which greatly delighted the emperor, who was riding with him.

A short time after this his father gave him a powerful hunting horse. The boy looked like a midget on him, but would not ride him for three or four days.

"A horse needs to know you," he gravely said, "before he makes up his mind whether you will be kind and reasonable with him, or harsh."

After boy and horse had become acquainted he invited his father to take a ride in his company. The two set out for a gallop through the forests. Emperor William is regarded as a splendid horseman, but he told a circle of friends after this ride, that Elitel had given him a ride for his life. He leaped ditches and hedges, took the roughest roads, held his horse under perfect control and won the greatest praise.

It is told of this boy that he cannot go into the royal stables without every horse in the stalls turning his head and whinnying a glad welcome.

GREAT CHIEF JOSEPH.

A NOBLE AND BELOVED AMERICAN INDIAN WHO DIED OF A WOUNDED HEART.

Pathetic Tale of Government's Broken Promises.—His Ancestors Welcomed Lewis and Clark in Their Western Explorations.

C. J. BLANCHARD.

The most picturesque character of the western frontier passed away last year when Chief Joseph of the Nez Perces, or, as they knew him, In-mut-too-yah-lat-lat (Thunder traveling over the mountains), folded his blanket about him and passed beyond the Great Divide. The members of his tribe, all of whom were singularly devoted to him, and the privileged few of the white race who knew him intimately, believe that this great leader, perhaps the greatest Indian leader of the period, died of homesickness and heart-ache.

To know Chief Joseph was to have revealed to you a glimpse into a vanished past. There was a loftiness and dignity mingled with a charming naiveté in his manner, and a tender pathos in his speech, that made you forget the Indian and recall the old Hebrew prophets of the days of the Captivity.

CHIEF JOSEPH AND MONUMENT UNVEILED BY WARRIORS OF HIS TRIBE.

As the chief and historian of his tribe, Joseph's plea for the Nez Perces has often been heard in Washington. In its deep sense of eternal righteousness and of the deadly wrong suffered at the hands of the white man; in its smothered faith and in its hopeful longing for the coming of justice and better times for the tribe, it was the most powerful and pathetic appeal ever made by an Indian.

From the viewpoint of close association with the red man, his faults are magnified and his virtues forgotten. From the viewpoint of the reader of Cooper and other romantic writers on Indian topics, his vices are obscured, and his virtues unduly exaggerated. Judged from the impartial standpoint of a rather long acquaintance, which contains meetings in camp and city, in the writer's opinion, Chief Joseph was the finest type of the red man this country will ever know.

He died of homesickness, and that statement will provoke no sceptical smile from one who knows the Indian character. The earth that contains the ashes of an Indian's dead is sacred and hallowed. The longing in an Indian's heart for the land of his birth is as strong as that which turns our wandering footsteps back to the old home. When Fate in the shape of an unkind Government forcibly wrests from him the land of his fathers, his grief, though repressed and concealed, is as poignant as our own would be, if we were so treated.

Loved Home of the Tribe.

I recall one expression of Joseph's in this connection. "My father is buried in Wallowa Valley. I love that land more than all the rest of the world. A man who would not love his father's grave is worse than a wild animal."

Have you ever been in Wallowa, that beautiful valley of Winding Waters? It is America's Switzerland. Its lofty mountains rear their heads so high that a snow mantle rests there all the year round. Their feet are in lakes which rival Luzerne. Down the steep slopes, through narrow walled canyons which the sunlight never enters, the streams come rushing like cataracts. In their cold ripples the gamey trout lurks expectant eager to give battle for his life when the angler tempts him to the hook. In the autumn the salmon, in countless numbers, leap the waterfalls, and are caught and dried by the Indians for winter food. On the forested slopes, in shadowy ravines, and over the rolling hills, the deer and elk, the caribou, the grizzly and the cinnamon, and the wary mountain sheep abound. It is a game paradise, with rich pastures for ponies.

It was in this valley that the grandfather of Chief Joseph welcomed the daring explorers, Lewis and Clark. Speaking of them, Joseph said: "They talked straight, and our people made them a great feast. All the Nez Perces made friends with Lewis and Clark, and agreed to let them pass through the country, and never to make war on white men. And this promise the Nez Perces have never broken. No white man can accuse them of bad faith, and speak with a straight tongue. It has always been the pride of the Nez Perces that they were the friends of the white men."

Encroachments of the White Men.

It was not to be expected that the Indian would be allowed to remain forever unmolested in the possession of this beautiful valley. When the western fever broke out, settlers came at first in small numbers, and the valley being large, all lived in peace. But it could not last. There came a day when by means of presents and fair promises a portion of the band signed a treaty dividing their lands. Joseph's father refused to sign away his birth-right, and withdrew his band from the council. In 1863, another council was held. A chief, named Lawyer, with authority of a part of the tribe, sold nearly all of the Nez Perces country, including the Wallowa Valley. The latter was the particular property of Joseph's own people; its boundaries, for years, had been marked by poles; had never been disputed. The old chief said: "Inside is the home of my people—the white man may take the land outside. Inside the boundary, all our people were born. It circles around the graves of our fathers, and we never give up their graves to any man."

In spite of the treaty, the Indians remained in unmolested possession for eight years, when the white men began to encroach upon the boundaries. The conditions threatened to become serious, and the Government asked for a treaty council. Joseph, owing to his father's age and blindness, represented his people. He refused to remove to the Lapwai agency in Idaho and give up the valley, so the council came to naught.

From that time on, the white settlers gave constant offense to the Indians. They stole their horses, drove off their cattle and branded the calves, and then claimed them. It speaks well for the strong hand Joseph held over his people, and for his desire for peace, that the Indians were patient so long. Finally, Joseph was notified by General

Roosevelt's inauguration, last March, the whole body of Rough Riders from Minnesota called on Secretary Taft in the magnificent State, War, and Navy Building. Accompanied by their brass band of some fifty or sixty pieces they lined up before the Secretary's office and with rapt music serenaded the Secretary. Upon hearing the music the superintendent of the building at once asked the leader to refrain from playing any more in the building as there was a tendency to weaken the building's foundations. In fact, in this instance, the vibrations set forth were plainly perceptible, not only to those in the vicinity of the band but to clerks on other floors of the building.

Remarkable Effect of Vibrations.

From time to time scientists advance new theories of the cause of some of the miracles mentioned in the Bible, and now the miraculous fall of the walls of Jericho is said by men of learning to have been caused by the fact that the tone pitch of the trumpets of the followers of Joshua was exactly in harmony with the sensitive fone of the walls. When the trumpets were blown they set the walls of the biblical town to vibrating and in a short time their foundations were so weakened that the entire mass fell to the ground.

This statement was brought out at a private social gathering the other evening in Philadelphia where music was the feature. During the course of the evening a cello performer was called on for so many encores of weird pieces with minor chords running through them, that he had to stop to tune up several times. Just previous to one of these a picture which was suspended at the far end of the room came tumbling down without warning. Many of the superstitious turned white with fear, but a scientific man in the room went to some length to explain that the fall of the picture had been caused by a vibration of the wire set up by a note of a particular pitch made by the cello. He stated that every stretched string has some particular musical pitch which will set it vibrating. To emphasize his argument he asked the performer to strike different tones and in a short time other pictures in the room were set vibrating so violently as to make the movement perceptible to the eye.

The celloist also succeeded in setting up vibrations on a piece of glassware on the mantel, which caused it to give out a musical note.

Affected Building Foundations.

A couple of days after President Roosevelt's inauguration, last March, the whole body of Rough Riders from Minnesota called on Secretary Taft in the magnificent State, War, and Navy Building. Accompanied by their brass band of some fifty or sixty pieces they lined up before the Secretary's office and with rapt music serenaded the Secretary. Upon hearing the music the superintendent of the building at once asked the leader to refrain from playing any more in the building as there was a tendency to weaken the building's foundations. In fact, in this instance, the vibrations set forth were plainly perceptible, not only to those in the vicinity of the band but to clerks on other floors of the building.

MARKET GARDEN TYPE.

New Style of Auto Suitable for Carrying Farm Produce.

One of the first cable pictorial descriptions of the useful war automobile, as shown in the illustration, has just come to hand. This is a special farmer's type. It can be constructed in any small power, for jogging along purposes, from 30 to 120 horse. A special feature of interest to market gardeners is the ability of the wagon to run for twenty minutes after having the tires riddled with bullets, which makes it thoroughly practical. It is entirely bomb-proof when beyond the range of the enemy's guns. A "starting crank" is fitted in front, but "the machine can be started automatically from the driver's seat," where the principal crank is supposed to be located. "On the top of the rear portion of the box" the specifications read, "is a turret from which projects a Hotchkiss gun which can be trained in any direction"—upon competing market gardeners. A special quality of steel has been employed for armor. At 300 yards, lead bullets fail to pierce, but glance off, thus insuring adequate protection to loads of eggs, live shoats and other tender vegetables.

"The machine carries two steel rails, which can be quickly unshipped and placed across a ditch." This feature is of great import to the average tiller of soil, as it means that if the machine becomes frightened or unmanageable due to the sudden appearance of horsemen or the flight of birds, and jumps ditches or fences, it can be quickly gotten back into the road, and sped along for the early morning market. The cost of this little delivery wagon is only $16,000; which of course places it within the reach of any farmer and every editor of a paper—that is if he happens to be close enough so that he can touch it. It is estimated that if all the garden and farm produce could be marketed by means of this simple and inexpensive device the cost to the city consumer would not be increased over 200% at the most.

Great Chief Joseph.

In the war which followed, Joseph led his little band, as only a great general could lead them, but; the Nez Perces never had a chance to win. Joseph surrendered to General Miles, and for years the tribe was moved back and forth over the country regardless of promises made when they surrendered. After one of Joseph's visits to Washington, where he met the President, the Cabinet officers, and numerous Congressmen, he remarked: "They all say they are my friends, and that I shall have justice; but while their mouths all talk right, I do not understand why nothing is done for my people. I have heard talk and talk, but nothing is done. Words do not pay for my country overrun by white men. It makes my heart sick when I remember all the good words and all the broken promises. You might as well expect the river to run backward, as that any man who was born free should be contented, when penned up and denied liberty, to go where he pleases."

Pathetic Plea for Freedom.

"Oh let me be a free man! free to travel, free to stop, free to work, free to trade where I chose, free to choose my own teachers, free to follow the religion of my fathers, free to think and talk and act for myself—and I will obey every law or submit to the penalty."

Gradually as the years passed away, Joseph grew to understand the hopelessness of achieving his heart's desire—a return to Wallowa, though he never ceased to make his plea for justice. When the end came a year ago, he was surrounded by the remnant of his band, who stood beside his deathbed in silent grief.

On the 20th of September last, these same devoted members of the tribe stood around the grave of Joseph and listened to the funeral address delivered by his successor and friend. On this occasion a monument was unveiled—a most unusual Indian ceremony.

The Lilies of the Chancel

An Easter Story

By Elizabeth Vore

From Sunset

A stretch of azure sky, changing to the opal tints of evening; a smiling expanse of sea, with a long line of curling breakers lashing the sandy beach—that is what Rosa might have seen as she stood by the calla lily hedge, with the faint breeze stirring the magnolia blossoms.

Yet it is doubtful if she saw anything. Her eyes held a dreamy far-away look, and the waving green branches outlined like lacework against the evening sky, the wind-ruffled stretch of sea and the scent of the wilderness of bloom were lost upon her.

In her arms was a profusion of lilies, spray upon spray, almost more than her slender arms could carry, for the morrow was Easter day. Tall and stately as a lily herself, Rosa stood, lost in meditation, her face scarcely less fair and pure than the waxen blossoms, and as colorless, save for the scarlet mouth with its haughty curves. A pure, proud face was hers, and cold as the white mist that, like a dim squadron, was stealthily marching in from the sea.

On the still, languorous air, suddenly a clear, sweet note rang out—the chimes of the old mission bells. The sacred music reached Rosa's ears, arousing her from her reverie. Disengaging one slender hand she made the sign of the cross; her lips moved silently.

There was a sound near at hand of slow, halting footsteps. A man, young, but of haggard countenance, was approaching under the shadow of the acacias.

But Rosa only heard the vesper chimes.

Nearer the man drew until he stood humbly before her, his head bared, his shabby hat in his trembling hand. He raised his eyes, full of dumb wistfulness to her face. The passionate love and despair of a tortured soul was in them. He stood motionless, as on awaiting his sentence.

Sweet and high the chimes of the bells arose and fell. Something like a sob escaped the man's lips; his thin, brown fingers worked convulsively.

"IN HER ARMS WAS A PROFUSION OF LILIES."

As if from a dream, Rosa started and turned her sombre eyes upon him. A swift crimson flooded her face and suddenly receded, leaving it as white as the lilies upon her heaving bosom.

"Diego!"

The name fell involuntarily from her unwillful lips.

"It is I, Rosa mia," faltered the man, huskily.

She raised her head proudly and stepped back a pace; her beautiful mouth hardened.

He lifted his hand with a swift motion of pain and arrested the unspoken words upon her lips.

"Nay, spare me, I beseech thee, carita; it is not to trouble thee that I am here. Only the desire to see thee face to face and ask thy forgiveness before I go away forever hath led me here. I cannot live near thee and know that I have lost thee. Tell me, adorado, by the love thy dust once bore me, that thou wilt forgive me, unworthy though I am."

"Thou," she cried in cold scorn. "Thou hast dared to come to me after all thy dishonor and crime. Know I not—is it not known to all the town—that only thy uncle's name and money saved thee from just punishment in prison? And once I plighted my troth—I once believed that I loved such a one as thou."

The man bowed his head on his hands and groaned aloud.

"Dios," he muttered, "it is more than I can bear. I know that I have been adjudged guilty of theft, yet, it was for the outcast, the despised, the heart-broken?

Suddenly his eyes caught the white gleam of waxen blossoms upon his breast; a great awe entered his face.

"Jesus Maria," he murmured. "The lilies of the chancel!"

"Nay, but thine own, Diego mio," sobbed Rosa, brokenly. Her arms were about him, her tears were upon his face. "Thine own, adorado," she whispered tremulously. "All thine—the lilies of Diego. I have robbed the altar for thy dear sake."

"This is the day of resurrection," said the Padre, solemnly.

"Madre de Christo," the people muttered. "It is a miracle."

And it was—a miracle of love.

EASTER AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Time Honored Practice of Letting the Children of Washington Roll Eggs on President's Grounds.

Easter Monday in Washington is an event in the lives of the children which is ahead of any other day in the year excepting Christmas and Fourth of July.

Why? Because Easter Monday means egg-rolling. For many years the little ones of Washington have congregated by the hundreds and thousands to roll eggs Easter Monday in the beautiful grounds surrounding the home of the President of the nation. There is no sign to keep off the grass and there are no restrictions. The children own the place. The green-grass of the White House lawns is covered with children, children innumerable, rolling eggs on the grassy slopes.

If the day is pleasant it is a sight to be remembered. The children have been looking forward to the festival for days and weeks and great has been their anticipation. But genuine is the sorrow and many the tears among the little ones if Easter Sunday should be cold and rainy with promise of a bad Monday. Yet no weather has ever been so bad as to keep everyone away from the White House grounds on egg-rolling day. There are many hardy little spirits who will not be daunted by snow or cold or rain when it comes rolling eggs.

If the day is pleasant and the air balmy and the turf warm and green, what a time the children have. Such games as they invent to play with their eggs—games of infinite variation containing infinite amusement. The grounds look more like a juvenile fair than anything else—an egg fair and the biddy hens around Washington must needs have been very diligent for many days before. If the day is fair, too, the glorious Marine Band, the finest band in the country, plays sweet music, and the children dance and gambol to its strains. Truly it is children's day in Washington.

Wonderfully Colored Eggs.

By 9 o'clock in the morning the grounds are actually taken possession of by the youngsters, little kids with wicker baskets and vari-colored eggs, wonderful eggs of green and blue and red and purple and gold and then eggs of lovely combination, and with beautiful figures, such as would make a wise hen cock her head on one side and wonder greatly what happened to her plain white eggs.

All sorts and conditions of children find their way to the President's grounds to enjoy Easter Monday. Some of the children are beautifully dressed in silks and laces and have French nurses to watch over them and carry their eggs for them, while other little ones are dressed in very shabby garments with elbows out and toes peeping from their little shoes. They perhaps have only three or four plain white colored eggs boiled in a piece of purple or red calico. No French nurses accompany them, carrying eggs with gilt pictures, but they can roll their eggs and themselves on the green grass and soil their frocks and trousers to their heart's content, and they will enjoy the holiday perhaps more than their more fortunate companions. Usually—the mothers of these little men and women come with them, tired-faced women often, looking as though it had been a long day since they had enjoyed such a time. Here and there are little groups of mothers and older sisters, talking together pleasantly, but keeping watchful eyes to see that the little ones do not get lost in the crowd or stray too far away.

Not Afraid of the Policeman.

It is a good natured crowd. The big policeman standing around possess no terror for the little ones on egg-rolling day. They know that all that big policeman are for on Easter, is to keep grown up people from interfering with the little ones who are rolling eggs. And when the little people get lost now and then, the big policeman are there to take them in charge and tell them not to cry until their mothers and sisters find them again. Then there are great rivalries among the children. Some of them are regular little gamblers. One little fellow gets hold of a very hard egg and he goes around picking eggs with his acquaintances or acquaintances he finds, and wins their eggs from them until finally he strikes some other little fellow who has a harder egg than his, and then he loses a lot of eggs.

And some of the little rascals gamble on what is a "sure thing," with a china egg, sized and painted to resemble a genuine egg, or with a hen's egg run full of plaster of paris they will go around, and of course win all the eggs they contest for, until some sharp little fellow finds out the game they are playing. As the day advances and the children get hungry, the peanut man and the popcorn man and the candy man at the gates do a thriving business, while, at noon, many are the little groups under the trees, sitting around on blankets and shawls and eating lunches, for they are making a regular picnic of it and staying all day.

The Children of Presidents.

President Harrison's two grand children witnessed, with great enjoyment, the egg-rolling from the porch of the White House facing toward the Washington monument and looking past and across the Potomac to Arlington, the former home of General Lee, but where now are spread the silent tents of a vast host of the Union army who have passed across to the great beyond.

President Cleveland's two little girls, Ruth and Esther, were real little democrats. They took their own eggs and went out among the crowd of happy children, and they rolled eggs with the other children, as common clay as their associates, not the children of the President of the United States, but the children of an American citizen. Perhaps a little extra watch was kept over them, but they didn't know it and they thought that Easter Monday was the happiest day in their little lives.

The Roosevelt children are past the age of egg-rolling; but they enjoy with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, watching the gay throng of youngsters who romp over the White House grounds on Easter Mondays.

There was a time however, when the children of Washington did not roll eggs on the President's grounds. Not that they have always rolled eggs on Easter Monday. But they used to roll them in the Capitol grounds, down the steep terrace which was on the west front of the Capitol. Then there came a time when the Capitol grounds were changed and a big flight of steps built where the terrace used to be, and some dyspeptic in Congress objected to the children romping on the smooth grass of the big ward and rolling their eggs.

General Hayes was President then, and he heard of it, and how disappointed the children were because they had no place to roll their eggs that year, and the kindly man said: "Why let them roll their eggs on the White House grounds and enjoy themselves." And thus it has been ever since, from year to year.

Braved Death Valley.

Nevada Woman Penetrated Fastness for Wealth—Was Accompanied by Only Half Breed.

The weird Funeral Mountain of Death Valley, Nevada, are to yield rich offerings of copper and gold ores as a result of the successful prospecting of Miss Lillian Malcolm, who it is stated, discovered these deposits on a ridge that towers three thousand feet in the air. In making this find she was accompanied only by an Indian half-breed.

Once Lillian Malcolm, according to her story, crossed the Chilcoot in Alaska, alone, in her search for gold. The railroad had not been built that has since minimized the difficulties of Alaskan travel in the Chilcoot region. Miss Malcolm declares that the tour of the Funeral Mountains however was more hazardous than her lonely journey through the Chilcoot, years ago.

"No white person has ever visited the spot where I viewed the great copper deposit until I made my way there," she said in a recent interview. "I have never before seen such ruggedness in mountains as the Funeral Range presents. To climb up almost perpendicular grades means to slide down before the objective point can be reached. I have been a prospector for ten years and have passed much of my time in the mountains of Alaska, Colorado and other places where there is gold. The Funeral Range is the worst of any. I made up my mind that I would search for gold and copper in the foothills of the Funeral Mountains. I was compelled to cross the range to get where I wished to go, and although I had no fear, there were minutes when, in climbing, I did not dare to look back, but only kept right on."

"There were many places where a misstep meant sure death. All there was to do was to go head. Once started, there was no way to stop without confessing defeat. Finally I found what I was looking for. At first I could hardly believe my eyes. I had reached a point about twenty-five miles from the line of the Clark road and sixteen miles from the line of the Borax Smith road, when the ledge loomed up immensely.

"Then I was happy. I have studied mineralogy, geology, and other lines leading to mining, and I have done assessments of work with my own hands in deep shafts. In short, my experience has been such that I believe that I am competent to know whether my mineral discoveries are valuable."

"The ledge stands up clearly from fifty to seventy-five feet, with both gold and copper in it—but more copper than gold. Millions maybe there in easy reach—a quantity that I believe is almost beyond ordinary computation. If I am not mistaken the discovery is valuable not only for its richness but also because it opens up knowledge of an entirely new copper belt in the Death Valley."

"Picturesqueness is added to Miss Malcolm's trip by the fact that the Indian halfbreed that she took into the desert where so many strong men have died is 'Bill Koe,' who is 'Scotty's' friend. This Indian is a good guide."

The next step that Lillian Malcolm contemplates is that of informing the railroad builders, now constructing lines into the mineralized regions of Nevada, of the topographical features of the country to be crossed in order to bring her copper and gold discoveries reasonably within transportation facilities, and the place that formerly required weeks for her to reach, will soon be made accessible, when the present railroading surveys are carried out in rails. There is plenty of timber in the Funeral Mountains that can be utilized for mining purposes, and the rest of the steam whistle may yet be heard in the fearful fastnesses of desolation that have so long appalled stout-hearted men, only to be conquered finally by a woman in search of precious metals.

POMPEII, THE VALIANT.

Story of the Hero of a Hundred Bad Runaways.

Pompeii, of the New York mounted police squad, and one of the most intelligent members of the force, was retired from active service the other day. When the stroke of the auctioneer's hammer put the big bay out of service, he was saved from the ragman's cart and night hawk cab by the devotion of his fifteen-year friend and comrade, Mounted Policeman Redmond P. Kersey, of the West 152d street police station.

Pompeii had spent nearly twenty years in the service and knew the rules of the department better than many a roundsman. He was the show horse of the force. Catching runaways was his business, but mathematics was his diversion. He could add, subtract, divide and multiply, and for years had been a source of delight to the school children along Seventh Avenue, where he was on duty between 110th and 153d streets.

The children would gather around Pompeii in the afternoons and talk to him.

Good at Mental Arithmetic.

When a sum in arithmetic was given him Pompeii would listen attentively to the figures, ponder over them for a moment, and then announce the answer by striking the ground with his left forefoot. If the answer was the half of something Pompeii indicated it by holding up his foreleg at the knee and holding it for a moment. His friends insist that he could tell time by looking at a watch and announcing the hour and half hour in the same way as he did his sums.

Playing with the children was by no means the best part of Pompeii's service. The records show that he and his master have stopped more than a hundred runaways in the last fifteen years. In several instances lives were saved. Policeman Kersey and Pompeii have been inseparable ever since the latter joined the force. Again and again the comrades were parted for a short time when Kersey was transferred from one precinct to another, but each time the policeman managed to have his favorite sent after him.

Hurt While Stopping Runaway.

A short time before the arrival of Prince Henry in New York, Pompeii was badly hurt while stopping a runaway at Seventh Avenue and 125th Street. Two days later, while acting as a guide for the Prince some dirt got in the wound and blood poisoning set in. Kersey managed to get placed on reserve duty and gave all his time to nursing Pompeii back to health. The police veterinary condemned the horse as unfit for duty, but Kersey managed to evade the decision for a few days. Then Pompeii made a spectacular run along the avenue and stopped a bad runaway in such style that nothing more was said about retirement.

The fatal day was only put off, however, and last month the big bay was sold at auction at the stables of the West 152d street station. Kersey was on hand with $400, all the ready money he could scrape together, determined not to be separated from his old friend.

Hurt While Stopping Runaway.

Kersey himself bears some scars gained in the fierce rushes he has made with Pompeii. Five years ago his right leg was broken in two places, and two years ago his neck was wrenched and his skull nearly smashed in. Both injuries were received while with Pompeii's aid he was stopping dangerous runaways.

Only one man had the heart to bid against Kersey so he ransomed his old friend for $50, about twice what he was worth said the veterinary.

Then Kersey started on a vacation. When last heard from he was spending it on a bit of a farm; he has at Rye, N. Y., and with him went Pompeii, happy in his last transfer.

EASTER LILY GROWING TO BECOME AN AMERICAN INDUSTRY GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

The general policy of the Department of Agriculture has been to endeavor to produce at home such plants as are grown abroad and shipped into the United States.

Experiments have demonstrated that bulbs of the Easter lily can be carried over a season in cold storage, with a result that they are benefited very materially as it subjects them to a condition approaching that existing in Japan, the native country of the species.

On the Blue Bermuda Islands, lily growing on the Bermuda Islands is an exceedingly profitable industry. Practically all the land available for the production of bulbs is utilized for this purpose.

plants can be grown which are entirely free from disease, and most important of all, that the seedlings give an opportunity to select better types than exist at the present time.

The very best of these seedlings, some of which will undoubtedly show superiority in several ways over the parents, can be retained for seeds, and by keeping up the system of selection there will develop in a very few years strains from seed which will be proven of great value.

George W. Oliver, the plant propagator of the Department of Agriculture has been working on this particular line for a number of years, with every indication of success.

In order to further this class of work, the Department of Agriculture has obtained plots of land in California and Oregon, where it is believed the Easter lily can be grown as profitably if not more so, than it is in either Bermuda or Japan.

A point greatly in favor of raising the Easter lily from seed, to constitute the crop of marketable bulbs, is that from one to two years' time is saved in the operation over the scale method.

secret methods of selection and cultivation, would undoubtedly be eventually a good policy for the growers to pursue, yet, except in the case of the more progressive growers, there is little likelihood of this being done, as it would materially decrease the revenue from lily farming for the time being.

years to develop a flowering bulb from the seed. A noted authority who was believed to be an authority on lily growing, stated that "in three or four years at most, flowering bulbs will be produced from seed if the young plants are properly treated."

Hybrid Philippine Lily. The Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture last year took up the problem of shortening the time of growing, as any shortening in the time of growth represents so much gain to the cultivator.

The American Method. Investigations made by the Department of Agriculture have shown that by the use of seeds instead of scales, larger bulbs can be secured in a much shorter time than can be produced by the scale method.

Men's Trials. See a pin and pick it up—and you can bet your wife'll ask you for it before you get a chance to use it.

Orchard Notes.

Soon is the time when the apple borer will emerge from the trunk of the tree in the shape of a fly and look about for crevices in the tree trunks in which to deposit her eggs.

May will be a good time to walk rapidly through the orchard and rub off the new shoots, or water sprouts, on the trunks of the trees.

This Magnificent Bouquet was Grown from Seed in Fourteen Months.

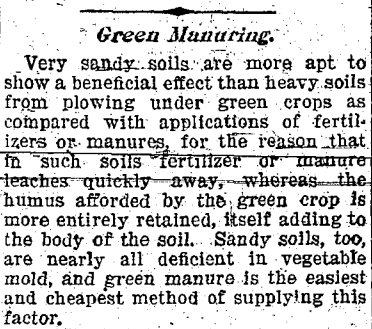

If any top grafting has been done and the grafts have taken, all sprouts below the grafts should be rubbed off clean, allowing the full vigor to go into the graft.

For the best results fruit and other trees should be cultivated early and often during the spring and early summer, as that is the time when most growth is made.

Caring for Transplanted Trees. It is well the first year a large tree is transplanted to put a tile at its base or a square box five or six inches in diameter, in an upright position, and stimulate the tree by pouring down soap suds or other water.

Green Manuring. Very sandy soils are more apt to show a beneficial effect than heavy soils from plowing under green crops as compared with applications of fertilizers or manures.

As the warmth of spring approaches the system craves some fresh acid, and nothing is more grateful than rhubarb. A most satisfactory practice is to cover a couple of thrifty stools of rhubarb with an old half-barrel, inverted, and pile around it green manure.

THE PHILIPPINE LILY.

Planting overgrown nursery stock because it can be secured cheaper than young stock is a serious mistake. In the first place the handling is much greater, and again, such trees will never make the sturdy and vigorous growth of the younger ones.

THE COMING FARMBOY.

The Educated Farmer Becoming a Power in State and Nation.

The time is fast coming, it is indeed, it is not already here, when the intelligent, industrious and energetic farmer will occupy a far more prominent place in the affairs of State and Nation than ever before.

More important still, there is also a most promising future for the farm-boy who takes up agriculture as an occupation. Farming is no longer more drudgery and muscular exertion, in which man occupies about the same place as the beasts of burden.

If the farm-boy can be made to understand that the cultivation of the soil and the feeding of stock are based upon principles as clearly defined as those underlying any mechanical or mercantile pursuit.

In order to obtain these results, it is necessary that the farm lad be fitted for the work as thoroughly as persons are fitted for other professions.

It requires time, hard study and some money to acquire this knowledge, but not so much as is required to prepare for other occupations.

Further experience with primary elections more and more prove the wisdom of the requirement that voters who desire to take part in the making of party nominations shall be members of the party they thus assist in controlling. Primary elections without this requirement can be utilized to defeat all the better purposes which those who have most favored them had in mind. Added experience with the new nominating method will probably suggest a number of changes and improvements, but it is not at all probable that any changes will be permitted through which the power to make party nominations will not be reserved to the members of the party the nominees are selected to represent.

The work of completing petitions will now be in order as the next move preliminary to the selection of candidates by direct vote. The primary election law requires that a certain percentage of voters shall petition for the direct nomination of city and county and legislative candidates. Only voters who were enrolled last Monday can sign such petitions. Petitions can be started and circulated by anyone willing to give the matter time and attention.

The chairman of the republican state central committee has fixed upon June 18, as the date for holding all the county conventions in the state, at which delegates to the republican state convention will be chosen. The state convention will nominate all state officers except Governor and Lieutenant Governor, these to be nominated by primary vote, direct, as heretofore explained in these columns. In case the primary system is not decided upon at the vote in June, then the governor and lieutenant-governor will also be nominated in the state convention. The democratic county conventions will all be held on the 19th of June, for the same purpose as outlined above.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Bugs Cost $785,000,000.

We have the word of the statisticians that the chinch bug annually destroys crops valued at $90,000,000; that the grasshopper eats up $50,000,000 worth, the Hessian fly $40,000,000, the corn root worm, the corn ear worm, the cotton boll weevil and the codling moth of apple each $20,000,000; the army worm $15,000,000, the cotton boll worm $12,000,000, the grain weevil and San Jose scale $10,000,000 each, the cotton leaf worm and the potato bug $8,000,000 each and the cabbage worm $5,000,000. This makes a total of $298,000,000 worth of products that might have been expected to but never do get to market because of the ravages of these most numerous insects. And this is not the only loss charged to their account. Shortage of crops affects various industries and increases prices, and a deal of money is spent in fighting the pests. Taking into account all these things, the annual loss in this country from insect pests, distributed among the various products, is estimated as follows: Cereals, $200,000,000; animal products, $175,000,000; forest and forest products, $111,000,000; truck crops and hay and forage, $55,000,000; cotton, $50,000,000; fruits, $27,000,000; tobacco, $5,800,000; sugars, $5,000,000; miscellaneous crops, $5,800,000, and products in storage, $100,000,000, making a total of $785,000,000.—New Bedford Standard.

Knew What Buffaloes Liked.

Secretary Shaw and Senator Tom Carter of Montana were swapping stories the other day when the secretary of the treasury told a good one about a man out in an Iowa town who was never known to disagree with a statement of another, no matter how improbable it might be. "One day a group of fellows determined to see if they couldn't get Smith. 'I'll call him Smith,' said Secretary Shaw, 'to express a dissenting opinion. So when Smith came along one of the boys said: "I had a most remarkable experience the other day, Smith. As I was coming into town through the hills yonder I saw a buffalo up a tree eating grapes, so shot him. Did you never see a buffalo up a tree, Smith?" "Well, I can't say that I have," returned Smith regretfully. "What?" persisted the story teller. "Never saw a buffalo up a tree eating grapes?" "Well, no, I never saw a buffalo up a tree, but," said Smith, brightening up, "I know they are very fond of grapes."—Brooklyn Eagle.

NEW SHORT STORIES

An Effective Retort.
Judge Emory Speer, who presides over the United States circuit and district courts for the southern district of Georgia, is the possessor of a nimble and facile wit, says the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post. In earlier days, before he had attained the eminence, Judge Speer was a politician and a power on the stump.

Shortly after reconstruction he ran against Allen D. Candler for congress. Speer was a Republican, and his politics sufficed to bring him unpopularity among a large majority of the white population. It was his wit, his good humor and his unflinching courage that carried him through the campaign without a serious difference and finally brought him to victory.

On one occasion when the young candidate was addressing a very Democratic and hostile audience a brawny countryman was observed fighting his way through the crowd to the speaker's rostrum. It was evident that he had spent the preceding night with John Barleycorn, for his clothes were rumpled, his hair disheveled and his face of a fiery red that rivalled the noonday sun in brilliancy. Shaking a belligerent fist under the nose of the orator, he exclaimed:

"Sir, you are a demagogue!"

The crowd howled, but Speer was not disturbed. He waited for the noise to subside and then, with a smile and in a tone of entire good humor, rejoined:

"And you, sir, if you would wrap a few wisps of straw about you, would be a demijohn."

ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup

Pleasant to take and does not gripe or nauseate

Cures Chronic Constipation, Stomach and Liver Trouble

Stimulation Without Irritation.
ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup is a new laxative syrup combined with the delicious flavor of fruits, and is very pleasant to take. It will not gripe or sicken. It is much more pleasant and effective than Pills, Tablets and Saline Waters, as it does not derange the Stomach, or irritate the Kidneys, Liver or Bowels.

Constipation.
ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup will positively cure chronic constipation as it restores the natural action of the intestinal tract. Ordinary cathartics may give temporary relief but the stomach is upset and the bowels are irritated without any permanent benefit having been derived.

The condition of the patient remains unchanged. The Stomach, Liver and Bowels have not been stimulated and in a few days a stronger purgative may have to be taken. This is why Pills and Aperient Waters never give permanent relief. Their violent action results in an unnatural movement of the bowels and it is necessary to keep taking them indefinitely.

Why ORINO is different.
ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup is the only preparation that really acts upon all of the digestive organs. Other preparations act upon the lower bowel only and do not touch the Liver. It can very readily be seen that a preparation that does not act upon all of the digestive organs can not cure Chronic Constipation, Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, etc.

For Biliousness and Sick Headache.
Take ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup. It sweetens the stomach, aids digestion and acts as a gentle stimulant on the liver and bowels without irritating these organs.

Clears the Complexion.
ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup stimulates the liver and thoroughly cleanses the system and clears the complexion of pimples and blotches. It is the best laxative for women and children as it is mild and pleasant, and does not gripe or sicken. Refuse substitutes.

OUR GUARANTEE Take ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Prepared only by FOLEY & CO., Chicago, Ill.
