EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1906.

No 23-

Election Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the Primary Electors of the Township of South Arm, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, to be held in the Town Hall of South Arm Township, on June 12th, 1906, the nomination of candidates in each of the political parties for the offices of Governor and Lieutenant Governor shall be made, there shall also be elected by each political party twelve (12) delegates to the County Convention thereafter to be held by said political party June 18th.

You are also notified that on the date above mentioned, the question of nominating candidates for the offices of Governor and Lieutenant Governor by direct vote, shall be submitted to the enrolled voters of each political party; also the question of nominating, by direct vote, candidates of the political party indicated and for the office hereinafter named.

POLITICAL PARTY. OFFICE.
Republican Rep. in Congress.
Republican State Senator.

WM. A. PICKARD,
Township Clerk.

The fair trial which Michigan republicans are everywhere inclined to give to the primary nominating system can not be given if the primary election duties of next Tuesday, June 12, are neglected or forgotten. Decisions must be made next Tuesday, by ballot, for or against nomination of state and county and district candidates at primary elections. Every voter's opinion and desire should be expressed on this question.

Industrial prosperity in Michigan, steady growth of manufactures and a growing demand for Michigan-made products, are conditions referred to under extra headlines in a recent issue of the Detroit Free Press. And in that same issue the paper's editorial writer, who has evidently no access to passing events or the movements of the day, refers to republican favor for the present tariff and for conditions as they are, as a party fetish.

When you want a good job of printing done just take your copy to a printer and tell him to do you a good job, and he will. If you think you know more about the business than he does and select your paper and instruct him what type to use and all the little details, you will get a better job. A printer working under instructions from one who knows nothing about the business, no matter if he is an expert, cannot get out a neat job.

Those of our readers who have relatives and friends in foreign countries, and most of us have, will be pleased to know that reclassification of mail to foreign countries has been established whereby articles may be sent to these countries at the rate of twelve cents per pound. The weight of the package must not exceed four pounds or the value fifty dollars. It has formerly cost $1.00 to mail a four-pound package which we can now send for forty-eight cents.

There is not a business man in Michigan who would listen for a moment to suggestions involving changes and experiments in connection with a line of trade or in the movement of an industrial enterprise which was at that very time exceeding his highest expectations. There is not a working man in Michigan who would willingly accept risk and anxiety in connection with his personal affairs when both could be avoided. The application of every day common sense and ordinary judgment will determine the action and position of merchants and farmers and manufacturers and workmen of Michigan on all the important issues of the coming campaign.

During recent years New York has been as greatly troubled as has Michigan to find a solution of the mortgage tax question that would be satisfactory to the greater number of the people of that state and which would be permitted to remain on the statute books undisturbed. Gov. Higgins last week through his signature completed the enactment of a new mortgage tax law for his state, which provides for a tax of one half of one per cent on the amount involved in the mortgage, to be paid when the instrument is presented for record and not again during the term for which the mortgage is given. This solution of the problem gives promise of proving satisfactory in New York, but the Michigan opponents of this state's present mortgage tax requirement would probably be glad to make a more generous compromise than the payment of one half of one per cent for the entire life of the mortgage.

Reception and Commencement.

It has been stated last week was a busy week with our High School Graduates and Teachers. It was a week filled with pleasure to all who participated. On Thursday evening following the Class Day exercises on Tuesday a reception at L. A. Hoyt's given by the Juniors in honor of the Seniors was a delightful affair in all its details. Those in the receiving line were the graduates, Prof. H. H. Fuller and Wm. Malpass, president school board. Violin and piano filled the rooms with select music during the receiving hours, from eight to ten. The Misses Mildred Sweet and Bertha Shier the first hour, Misses Emily Malpass and Verschel Lorraine the second. The dining room was decorated with the class colors, yellow and blue, festoons of cloth from center of ceiling and reached to each corner of room. The dainty refreshments were of the yellow hue. Pretty costumes, smiling faces, frequent outburst of wit, congratulations, together with music combined to make the evening a happy one.

On the following evening came the final when the Commencement Joint Exercises of the Seniors and Eighth Grade was held at Lovelady Opera House. Here also the class colors were in evidence and the class motto, "Be Your A in Sel" hung above the stage on which was forty-eight, Eighth Graders, five Graduates, Prof. H. H. Fuller and Wm. Malpass, Pres. School Board. Mover's Orchestra of seven pieces and the traps opened the program with the selection, "Land of the Midnight Sun." The Misses Flora Porter and Fay Nicholas followed with a piano duet. Invocation, Rev. George Allan. Miss Nell Maddaugh gave a short address of welcome, closing with an appreciation of the work of the teachers and school board in behalf of the Seniors. Miss Ethel Crowell represented the Eighth Grade with similar remarks. Atty J. J. Sterling of Benton Harbor gave an excellent address. Miss Blanche Robertson and B. A. Dole rendered a vocal duet, accompanied by Mrs. A. J. Suffer. Presentation of Diplomas by Wm. Malpass was a pleasing feature of the evening. Supt. H. H. Fuller's talk to the parents was full of good things and should be heeded, closing with a farewell to the Graduates in a very effective manner. The Orchestra played "A Whispered Thought" and a week of literary and music feasting closed and has passed into history as a memory of the class of 1906.

If you want to ruin your boy just take his side of every question and dispute he has with his teacher or your neighbors' children. Just let him know you are with him, right or wrong, in all his disputes. This will give him a good start on the downward path.

Some time ago a young married woman of our town, whose name we omit, made a curious blunder. She put some eggs on to boil soon after breakfast one morning. They were still on when he came home at dinner time. Upon her husband asking what was in the sautepan, she answered: "Eggs for your dinner. They have been on since soon after breakfast. I have tried them with a fork and they are not boiled yet." His astonishment may rather be better imagined than described. And the mere mention of eggs now brings a rosy blush to her face.

The editor of this paper would be the last man on earth to knowingly say a word to hurt the feelings of any of its subscribers or citizens, especially at a time when the dark winged messenger of death has brought sorrows to the home, but from the best of motives we desire to call the attention of our readers to the custom of publishing "cards of thanks." It is a custom that has outgrown its purpose, if it ever had one. When sickness and death comes to your home it is only natural that your friends and neighbors should do what they could to assist you. They would be heartened if they did not. They know from the expression of your face that you are thankful and deeply appreciate all they do, and it is not necessary to rush into print and tell the world that your neighbors were kind when you were in trouble. The reading public are becoming tired of the old stereotyped "card of thanks." You can express your friends, by a look or word your thankfulness in a more impressive manner than you can in a column of cold type.

NEW SHORT STORIES

An Effective Retort.

Judge Emory Speer, who presides over the United States circuit and district courts for the southern district of Georgia, is the possessor of a nimble and facile wit, says the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Shortly after reconstruction he ran against Allen D. Candler for congress. Speer was a Republican, and his politics sufficed to bring him unpopularity among a large majority of the white population.

On one occasion when the young candidate was addressing a very Demo-

"SIR, YOU ARE A DEMAGOGUE!" cratic and hostile audience a brawny countryman was observed fighting his way through the crowd to the speaker's rostrum. It was evident that he had spent the preceding night with John Barleycorn, for his clothes were rumpled, his hair disheveled and his face a fiery red that rivaled the noonday sun in brilliancy.

The Domestic's Mare.

Senator Deboe of Kentucky tells an interesting story concerning a school-teacher in his state who was also a preacher, says the Pittsburg Dispatch.

"Now, boys, I suppose you all know that there will be some horse racing tomorrow. Now, don't you go to the races. The track is no place for boys.

"And the mare won too. She was the old preacher-schoolteacher's thoroughbred under another name.

MRS. NANNIE SHAW, SISTER-IN-LAW OF ARTIST, BRIDE OF WALDORF ASTOR.

One of the Five Virginia Beauties.—A Daring Horse Woman and Fond of Exercise.—Five Million Dollar English Estate a Wedding Present.

A "Gibson Girl" is the talk of all England, for she has married a young man of that country who is heir to an estate of more than $400,000,000. The bride is none other than Mrs. Waldorf Astor, and a sister-in-law of Charles Dana Gibson, the celebrated American artist.

Mrs. Astor is one of five sisters, all natives of Virginia and belonging to a family numbered among the F.F.V.s., standing high in the aristocracy of the South. She was a Miss Nannie Langhorne and later the wife of Bobby Shaw, from whom she was divorced. All of the Langhorne sisters are remarkable beauties, paying particular attention to every detail of face and figure. A Virginia lady who knew them in their girlhood days stated that their rules of living were something like this: "Breakfast early and exercise briskly for an hour or two. Have a luncheon and exercise again, this time riding. Luncheon again and then a long, vigorous tramp or a cross country ride to hounds, just for the pleasure of it, then a hearty supper, then a long walk in the southern twilight, and then bed."

SPLENDID WOMAN RIDER.

With a strong horse beneath her, and the pack in full cry, to see Nannie Langhorne riding to hounds was a sight for men and gods. In the days of her girlhood, at the Deep Run, in Virginia, she was Diana stirred, and it is no stretching of facts when one avows that men came from far afield just to see her, with her pink cheeks aglow and her hair blown loose to the breeze, pound the sod in a madcap abandon for the brush. Nothing daunted this young Virginian in the way of ditch or fence, hill or hollow, and at 10 she was famed as the most intrepid and brilliant horsewoman in her native State.

Two things won for Mrs. Langhorne Shaw the heart of William Waldorf Astor: the beauty of her being, when on horseback, and her bubbling irrepressible Americanism. Young Astor, when he beheld her in her glory caught his breath, just as Bobby Shaw, her divorced husband, had done several years ago in Old Virginia. And this was not strange. Waldorf Astor, always breathing in the compressed air of his father's house, timid, retiring, and studious by nature, had not much opportunity for young girls' society, and almost never that of American girls. To him Mrs. Nannie Shaw was a revelation. For seven months he wooed her, and at the end of that time he was three-fourths American and four-fourths in love. Glowing, he followed her across the Atlantic.

It is only fair to young Astor to say that he has never been so aggressively British as his father, who spurns at most everything American, or his younger brother, John Jacob, who is an out-and-out Englishman.

EXCLUSIVE WEDDING SERVICE.

The wedding, which occurred at London in May, was a very quiet affair, only 17 invitations being sent out for the ceremony. The bride made the loveliest picture, standing, as it appeared, in a bed of lilies and roses near the chancel. A work of art, indeed, was her wedding gown, for it was made of the most expensive silk obtainable, adorned with rare old lace. Among the many wedding presents, the most notable was the Sancy diamond, given by Mr. Astor to his daughter-in-law, which later on is to be reset and worn on her presentation at court. This historic gem belonged to Charles the Bold, the Duke of Burgundy, and fetched $100,000 at the sale of the Demidoff collection in 1865. It was secured by Mr. Astor some years ago from a millionaire parsee, Sir C. Jejeebhoy, for $170,000. Mr. Astor also gave one of the finest tiaras in London, (which cost more than $100,000), as well as the title deeds to Cliveden mansion and estates, with the many treasures he has added thereto, including a magnificent suite of old Chippendale furniture, and some wonderful French china, originally from Versailles, and once the property of Empress Eugenie. The value of this latter gift probably exceeds $5,000,000.

It is understood that the young people plan to make their home at Cliveden. In 1893 Mr. Astor purchased the beautiful country house from the Duke of Westminster and paid $1,250,000 for it. Cliveden is situated in the heart of the boating and picnicking region of the Upper Thames.

OFFENDED THE POPULACE.

After acquiring it, Astor had an opportunity to show himself more exclusive than the Duke of Westminster. That potentate and all previous owners of the estate had allowed the common people to picnic and to walk through that part of the property lying along the river. The American millionaire threw them out and threatened them with the utmost rigors of the law. Now that he has settled the estate on his son, the inhabitants of Cookham and Maidenhead on the Thames—surrounding hamlets are delighted, for they believe that young Astor will at once give orders for the cancellation of the many strict orders against trespassing made by his father—orders which turned all the riverside folk into bitter enemies of the American millionaire.

Great walls surmounted with broken glass to protect the Astor vegetable garden spill lovely views from the public road, and anybody daring to picnic in the Cliveden woods, as in the older days, is at once threatened by a keeper with imprisonment.

It is believed that young Mr. Astor, who is very popular with rowing men, will abolish these feudal and distasteful regulations.

An Expert Opinion.

"Will alcohol dissolve sugar?" "It will," replied Oalde Soaque; "it will dissolve gold, brick houses, and horses, and happiness, and love, and everything else worth having."

"FIGHTING BOB" EVAN'S SHIPS ORDERED TO LEAVE NEW YORK HARBOR.

United States Battleships and Cruisers Obstructions to Navigation—Thousands of Gallons of Oil Released by Fouled Anchor.

New York City in its hurry and rush of business did not seem to stop for patriotic reasons to enjoy the sight of a dozen United States warships anchored in her harbor. The American fleet riding majestically at anchor in the North River, attracting the attention of thousands of sight-seers, was requested to "move on."

The stalwart battleships and armored cruisers with their great length and in command of no less a personage than

Rear Admiral "Fighting Bob" Evans, were found to be in the way. Dispatches from the metropolis say that the superintendent of the harbor of New York called on Admiral Evans and served a formal notice on him that the ships were taking up too much room in the river, and were seriously interfering with navigation. While it was admitted on the United States vessels that they were well out in the usual channel taken by steamers, they could not anchor, further inshore, on account of the shallowness of the water.

There is probably no place in the world where the great white and buff ships of the American navy show off to better advantage than in the North River. The dozen warriors strung along at anchor at intervals of about 100 yards, stretching from the foot of Riverside Drive at 72nd Street to Grant's Tomb at 125th Street and beyond. When Prince Louis of Battenberg had his British armored flyers in the New York port they were given berths in the North River and only a few weeks ago the Paul Jones French fleet was in the stream. The New York people could not be inhospitable to these fleets on account of the international aspects of things, but when the American ships arrived, waiting their turn to go to the repair docks, and give the tug boats and scows engaged in the Hudson River trade a chance to pass.

During the short stay of the fleet in New York the battleship Illinois in dragging at anchor suddenly ripped open a Standard oil pipe-line laid across the bed of the river. This line it seems was not charted and no one in authority seemed to know just how or when it got there, but nevertheless the Standard Oil Company had been pumping thousands of gallons into New York City through it every day for years. When the Illinois fouled the pipe-line the officers on board the ship could not imagine what the anchor had taken hold of until the surface of the river became a shining mass, bright with the hues of petroleum. Before the pipe-line could be repaired more than 85,000 gallons of good Standard oil went skimming down the Hudson into the ocean. There appears to be no way in which the oil company can collect for the petroleum thus wasted, as there is no official chart showing the location of the line in the river bed.

will be devoted especially to touring parties throughout the West. The cars will be run either separately or in trains. In the latter case one car can easily be fitted up as a combination observation dining car. Later on equipments for transforming the cars into palace sleepers will be installed.

Traversing Russia on Roller Skates

A caravan which recently arrived at Beirut from Bagdad reported having passed near the city of Unah about 100 miles east from there an American named Arthur Crawford, who left that port early last month with the intention of proceeding through Asia Minor and India on instruments which he called roller skates. The leader of the caravan says Crawford was in good health and good spirits.

While Mr. Crawford was in Beirut American missionaries attempted to dissuade him from entering on the trip, and pointed out to him the great danger of the undertaking. He was firm in his resolve, however, and left on January 9th.

Before departing the skater left his itinerary with Dr. Williams, an American dentist, whose guest he was temporarily. Crawford's intention was to strike out over the hard road to Bagdad, which is about 600 miles from Beirut. Thence he intends going southeast 300 miles to Bassorah, at the mouth of the Euphrates and near the Persian coast. He was undecided whether he would travel by land or sea over the 1,200 miles to Beloochistan.

His plans included many excursions through Beloochistan, a journey across the Gulf to India, and a year or more in that country. He purposes to accomplish all this on money he may earn along the way.

NEW RAIL AUTOMOBILES.

Each Machine Runs Independently by Its Own Motor.

The craze of autoists to build palace touring cars for pleasure trips has caused railroad corporations to dabble in the novelty of motor vehicle transportation. Some of the unique cars that patents have been applied for are certainly freak products.

A car that resembles a huge steel battering ram has been completed at the shops of the Union Pacific railroad, at Omaha, Neb. It is a big steel structure especially designed for climbing grades and run by its own gasoline motor, over standard gauge rails. On its trial trip it developed a speed of forty miles an hour, climbing, it is said, a grade of 20 per cent.

RACED THE STEAM CARS.

It was given its first long-distance trial on April 14th, when it left Omaha as the second section of train No. 1, known as the Overland Limited. The motor car gained on No. 1 to such extent that at Fremont, 46 miles from Omaha, the motor car was held on the block six minutes. Owing to a heavy wind and meeting trains from this time on, No. 1's schedule was not maintained; however, the total time of the motor car from Omaha to Grand Island, 153.0 miles, was 5 hours and 12 minutes, with delays amounting to 40 minutes on account of orders, meeting trains, etc. The actual running time for the 153.0 miles was 4 hours 22 minutes, or 94 miles per hour. There was no delay whatever on account of the motor car, and the machinery was in almost constant motion from Omaha to Grand Island. On the return trip April 15 the actual running time was 4 hours 10 minutes, or 96.3 miles per hour. From Elkhorn to South Omaha, a distance of 24.3 miles was covered in 30 minutes, or 48 miles per hour. A maximum speed of 53 miles per hour was attained on this trip.

Railroad officials witnessing the machine's trial trip expressed much gratification. Some of the officials go even so far as to predict that the gasoline motor will ultimately revolutionize interurban railroad transportation.

SCHEME OF VENTILATION.

This machine has several new arrangements, the most conspicuous of which is the ventilation of the cars. The windows are round, similar to port-holes on steamships, and are air, water and dust-proof. The cars have entrance in the middle instead of at the end.

The new method of ventilation fairly well avoids the close and sometimes foul atmospheric conditions so often encountered in electric and other transportation cars, sufficiently so as to predict complete success in this direction. The vibration and noise of the engine were largely eliminated and mechanism of the car worked splendidly on this trial run.

The cars will accommodate sixty passengers each, with comfort. They have every modern convenience, and

SHERLOCK HOLMES. CREATION OF MOST WONDERFUL AND PUZZLING OF DETECTIVE CHARACTERS.

Sketch of Discouragements of Conan Doyle to Break into the Field of Literature—Manuscript, Regularly Returned.

The author of "The White Company," "Sir Nigel," "Study in Scarlet," and other Sherlock Holmes stories—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle—was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on Mar. 22, 1859. He comes of an artistic family, and is the grandson of John Doyle, the famous political caricaturist, whose pictorial sketches appeared for more than thirty years under the initials of "H. B.," without disclosure of the artist's identity. Many of these were so famous in their day that they were frequently purchased at large prices by the British Museum. John Doyle had four sons, who also became artists. His eldest son, Charles Doyle, was the father of the novelist, and another son was Richard Doyle, who came by his nickname of "Dick," for in his first story Sherlock Holmes made his first appearance. It was published later in a book form, and went forth as his first novel, and immediately began to attract attention. Under these favoring circumstances he undertook the writing of "Micalb Clarke." It was completed after a year's reading and five months' writing, and represented the most ambitious and hopeful work the author had yet accomplished. But it came back to him from one publishing house after another, until he began to despair of its acceptance. "I remember," he says, "smoking over my dog-eared manuscript when it returned for a whirl of country air, and wondering blended into one about the time when the tiger met the man. I was a realist in the age of the romanticists. I described at some length, both verbally and pictorially, the untimely end of that wayfaring man. But when the tiger had absorbed him, I found myself slightly embarrassed as to how my story was to go on. It is very easy to get people into scrapes and very hard to get them out again," was my sage comment on the difficulty; and I have often had cause to repeat this precocious aphorism of my childhood. Upon this occasion the situation was beyond me, and my book, like my man, was engulfed in my tiger."

At Stonyhurst, and also at Feldkirch, in Germany, Doyle's literary inclination was shown in the editorship of school magazines. In 1876 he returned to Edinburgh and took up the study of medicine at the university there, where he remained until he obtained his diploma, five years later.

In 1880 Dr. Doyle left the university to make a seven-months' trip to the Arctic seas as unqualified surgeon on board a whaler. There was very little demand for surgery aboard the Hope, and he has described his chief occupation during the voyage as being employed in keeping the captain in cut tobacco, working in the boats after fish, and teaching the crew to box. He utilized his experience later in his story, "The Captain of the Polestar."

Two years later, in 1882, after a four-months' voyage to the west coast of Africa, he settled down as a medical practitioner at Southsea, in England, where he remained until 1890. Those were arduous and trying years, in which he came to regard the calls of the profession he had adopted as interruptions in the real work of his life, and found that the writing of stories was a very slender prop upon which to lean for a livelihood. "Fifty little cylinders of manuscript," he says, "did I send out during eight years, which described a regular orbit among publishers, and usually came back, like paper boomerangs, to the place that they had started from."

All this time he was writing anonymously, and during the ten years of his literary apprenticeship, he states that, in spite of unceasing and untiring literary effort, he never in any one year earned fifty pounds by his pen.

Then, in 1887, appeared in Beeton's Christmas Annual a story from his pen called "A Study in Scarlet." It is a significant point in the author's career, for in this story Sherlock Holmes made his first appearance. It was published later in a book form, and went forth as his first novel, and immediately began to attract attention. Under these favoring circumstances he undertook the writing of "Micalb Clarke." It was completed after a year's reading and five months' writing, and represented the most ambitious and hopeful work the author had yet accomplished. But it came back to him from one publishing house after another, until he began to despair of its acceptance. THIS remarkably interesting and stimulating book has been everywhere welcomed as a most valuable contribution to the thought of the present day.

THERE IS IN IT THE INSPIRATION OF HIGH AND PATRIOTIC IDEALS

It sheds a new light, bright, clear and convincing, in its common-sense optimism, upon the conditions that confront the nation to-day. Everyone who reads it will go forward with a clearer vision of the future of our country and with renewed courage and faith in the CAUSE OF THE PEOPLE.

Theodore C. Williams, late Master of the Hackley School, New York, in a San Francisco paper, declares that "it gives the profoundest thought with a transparent simplicity and charm that make it universally readable. It speaks as a friend to a friend. It has the rare eloquence of perfect ease and clearness."

The London Spectator calls it "a healthy and virile essay."

The Bradford (England) Observer, speaking of its reality and reasonableness, says it is "a very revelation."

These are only a few from hundreds of eulogiums commending the book for its timeliness.

TWO-BITS AND A NICKEL.

By H. WALTER BURR.

"Oh, this is grand!" exclaimed George Casey, as he paused for a few moments to enjoy the embracing air and scenery. All about him the mountains lay in tangled heaps, farther away the foothills sloped gracefully downward, and still farther down in the valley and out over the milking camp he could see the old trail that stretched away to the westward. He was new to these scenes, having recently come to Wyoming from his home in Boston, and he was drinking in the atmosphere of the new life to the fullest.

"Y-a-a," drawled the girl as she looked over her shoulder, "but I'm a thimble as how we better get on. It's a quarter of ten now, and we're some twelve miles from town. We can't much more than get there by dark."

"Two-bits," said George, tauntingly, "I believe you're a coward. Here you were born and raised in this country, and you're scared about being out in the hills after dark. Now I'm a tenderfoot, and you'd 'woudn't be afraid to wander all over these hills from now until morning."

George Casey had a "tenderfoot," but this was not the worst of his fallings. Raised in a wealthy family, he had been given everything he wished, and had ruled his father's house in the most important portion of the family, he did not for a moment doubt, and it was his greatest desire that others should share with him the things that he had. When he found that he was to spend the summer in Wyoming looking after some mining interests, he determined that of all other things he would show the people there that here was one tenderfoot that was not so tender after all. The few friends who had been made on that first trip to the springs, and soon heard of his friends ways and the only one who cared to accompany him on his various journeys over the hills was Two-bits, followed him around like a faithful dog.

Nobody could tell where Two-bits got her name. She was a tough, uncouth girl of fourteen years, born in the so-called mountains to her birthplace. The high cheek bones and swarthy features told of Indian blood—a fact of which she was proud.

The two boys had possibly have been more opposite than those of George Casey and Two-bits. She had always been accustomed to associating with rougher, less educated, brown-skinned, bow-legged cowboys, who treated her like one of their own kind, and sometimes enjoyed teasing her for the amusement of the gang. An admirer of the smooth-shaven, well-dressed, polite young gentleman who had come from the land of which she had heard such wonderful stories. She had dreamed of such individuals but had never seen one before. He appreciated the fact that she admired him, and since no one else in that immediate vicinity seemed to share the feeling, he gladly allowed her the monopoly of it.

So the two had formed a sort of social system of their own, with just two classes—master and assal.

"N-a-w," she drawled, "I ain't no coward, neither. But I tell you, we can't go back the way we came, for it's too long round. We got to go straight back toward the Springs, an' it's a good four hours' walk. Mebbe yer don't know that them there hills jest above the camp has got five or six miles of 'em later the first mile."

"Ho, ho, ho!" laughed the tenderfoot, such a ghost story. Now Miss, he added, "do you see that big pile of rocks yonder?"

"Well, that's the highest place there is around here, an' I'm going to go there."

"Huh!" muttered Two-bits, "yer kint neither." While back yer thought this was the highest—her yer are, an' that's the highest. It'll be the same way yer get that; the highest will be just beyond. I tell yer, it's time to go home, an' we'll under."

"Go home, then, if you want to, and are afraid. I'm going on. It isn't more than a mile farther."

"It's all of five miles!" she declared, but the master started along, and the faithful slave followed obediently. If he were going, there was nothing for it but that she must accompany him. They trudged along in silence for half an hour, and still the peak seemed as far away as ever.

"Confound it!" said George, at last. "If we had not stopped so long to talk about it, we could have been there before this. I suppose it's too late to go any farther."

Had Two-bits been more cunning, and learned, it is likely she would have said, "I told you so." But she only turned as strained his eyes to catch sight of the rest of the party, but thought with a bitter anguish of the jokes that would be enjoyed at his expense by the fellows in the camp. He knew that he had tried to lord it over them, and now they would have a chance to even. He could imagine Two-bits, as she ran into the "Last Chance," and in great hilarity told the boys how she had left the tenderfoot from Boston out on the edge of a chasm on Burning Hills. He could almost hear their loud laughter as they prepared to come in search of him.

In the midst of these thoughts he spied a light in the distance, it wavered, was lost, and appeared again. Yes, it was a lantern, and it was bearing toward him, should he stand and allow them where he was. Now that would only add pleasure to their huge joke. He would remain quiet, even at the risk of having them miss him.

"If Two-bits only had sense enough to tell them some yarn about getting hurt, or something of that kind," he said.

Then he remembered that she had not been in the best humor, and decided that she would probably enjoy the sport as much as any of the others.

"Hello!" it was the voice of Two-bits, and it was a sweet music in his ear.

"Right up this way," he answered.

"Have you brought help?"

"She came to the other side of the gulf, and thrusting a stout plank out toward him she drawled:

"Y-a-a. That's er help. Did yer think I was a-goin' ter give yer away ter the bad? Yer would never hear'd the last of it."

"Well," drawled Two-bits, "as she here, then, making sure the plank was resting secure on either side, she ordered, 'Now, git up, an' don't waste no time. Hop across, I tell yer!'

As they came to the last crevice where the board was necessary, George paused.

"Two-bits," said George, "as she waited, with arms akimbo, 'this is the last one. Yer goin' to give up now? If yer do, I'll leave yer fer good, dead sure.'

"Two-bits," said George, "as there was considerable pathos in his voice; 'Two-bits,' he repeated, 'will you forgive me for calling you a coward? You are the bravest girl I ever knew, an' you've been real kind to me to-night. Will you forgive me?'

"A-w, come along with yer," said the girl, greatly embarrassed. "You are the bravest girl I ever knew, an' you've been real kind to me to-night. Will you forgive me?'

TO ENTERTAIN LONGWORTHS.

Ambassador Reid and Wife will Present Young Couple to England's Court.

The Longworths will be guests, while in London, of the American Ambassador and his charming wife.

room of the season, to be held May 25, at which she will present many American women, some of whom will be her guests.

Naturally, the presentation most important to the American colony in London this season will be that of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, President Roosevelt's daughter. During their stay in London, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth will be the guests of the Reids at Dorchester House, where the suite occupied by the ambassador and his wife will be at the disposal of the Longworths. To add to the attractiveness of these rooms, some choice boudoir furniture has recently arrived from France to lend a fresher, bridal beauty to them.

Exiled Queen Ranavaloa.

Among the members of the ruling families of the world, most of whom have known many sorrows, there are few figures so pathetic as that of Ranavaloa, the ex-Queen of Madagascar, who is now on a visit to Paris, and who since 1897 has been a queen without a throne, living in Algiers on the charity, somewhat grudgingly vouchsafed her by the French Government.

Ranavaloa is now forty-four, and, although her complexion inclines to a dusky shade, she is by no means unattractive. She possesses a distinctly good figure, dresses with much taste, and wears her clothes with distinction. She ruled over Madagascar for fourteen years, and, like the two queens who preceded her, became the wife of the Prime Minister. When she began her reign the country was at war with France.

Chinchillas Becoming Scarce.

The chinchilla, the little rat-like animal which produces the popular fur, is in danger of extinction.

The chinchillas were formerly found in great numbers in the high ranges of the Andes in Bolivia and Chili, but owing to the demand for their skins they have been ruthlessly hunted in season and out of season, and the Chilean Government finds it almost impossible to enforce a law which has been passed for their protection.

The exports from Coquimbo, the principal port for this trade, amounted last year to twelve thousand dozen skins, and the prices paid were almost double those of the previous year.

The Newest Wearing Apparel.

The Princess gown occupies the centre of fashion's stage for spring and summer, and will doubtless "go to mill and to meeting" during the coming months. It appears in all sorts of gowns from the exquisite creations for evening to the walking skirt and its accompanying bolero, but there are those who cannot and will not wear this style of garment, and for these there are very pretty skirts, cut circular, and flaring widely about the lower edge. These skirts are constructed from all sorts of materials, even to the thinnest of summer fabric, and if properly made they will not necessarily give much trouble by sagging. However, for the skirt of washing stuff, the gored models are much more satisfactory and patterns for these can be obtained with the modish flare about the bottom.

The vogue of the circular skirt has led to the fashion for flat skirt trims. These sometimes take the form of stitched bands of the material or silk—while braids of one or several kinds are often interlaced in design about the bottom. Another mode of skirt trimming much used is consecutive rows of shaped flounces, one overlapping the other and extending at each side of the front panel.

One might almost say that the front panel in unbroken length from waistband to hem prevails in the majority of gowns.

When bands of the same fabric as the skirt are put on as trimming they are usually piped with a contrasting color; the tunic and flounce being often suggested by the manner in which these are applied.

As for coats, the bolero is in high fashion this year, and figures in all varieties of wear from the ornamental to the useful. As an ornament it appears in the negligee of the morning as well as upon the evening toilette. The little lace and embroidered boleros are to be much worn with soft silk and summer gowns and will prove very fetching adjuncts to the toilette.

Every woman and girl will do well to provide herself with several lingerie waists for nice wear. These little blouses are very important in the wardrobe, no matter how meagre or sumptuous it be. They can be had in a great variety of styles and in all of the sheer summer fabrics. Those embroidered, or inset with lace, are very dainty and considered quite suitable for any occasion where one needs to look well. On cool days they can be worn over a slip of pink, blue or lavender and be very pretty and becoming. Many of these waists are made with the long sleeves—and some of the newest imported blouses are made with sleeves which end in a long point over the hand.

In materials, no one will go astray in purchasing voile and linen for her spring and summer gowns. Where airlines of all kinds from the sheer handkerchief qualities to the fine unbleached linens. Then there are soft cashmires, raw silks, mohairs and collonnes—as well as the immortal serge. White is promised much vogue for summer, and mixed with black it is very smart for the new suits. These suitings are mostly in small checks, or stripes.

Was a "Nonymous" Letter.

A certain Congressman from Virginia has long retained in his employ a colored man by the name of Ezekiel. One morning the master started for the Capitol, leaving behind him a letter he had forgotten. Sometime in the afternoon he remembered the communication, and, as it was of some importance, he hastened back home only to find that the letter was nowhere to be seen in his library. He had a distinct recollection that it had been left on the table. He summoned Ezekiel and asked if he had seen it.

"Yassah, yo' left it on yo' table!"

"Then where is it now?"

"I mailed it, sah."

"You mailed it! Why, Zeke, I had not put the name and address on the envelope!"

"Jes' so, sah! I thought it was one of dem nonymous communicationshuns."

An Agricultural Education.

GUY ELLIOTT-MITCHELL.

The following interesting account of the life work of Edgar J. Hollister is sketched by Mrs. Grannis, who has had the opportunity of personally observing some of the results of his wonderful activity.

Hollister proceeded upon the theory that, climatic conditions being equal, certain crops are adapted to certain soils, and that planting those which will bring the greatest revenue will enhance the value of the land.

Through Toll to Traimph.

It is a far cry from a Canadian farmer boy in the sixties to the Dean of Agriculture to-day in a rising institution in the West, yet by the application of science has been wrought by Edgar J. Hollister, a soil expert of wide reputation.

DEAN E. J. HOLLISTER.

No agricultural college opened its friendly doors to this young pioneer, nor was the Canadian government so deeply interested at that time as now, in its farming population.

He taught the economical use of water and the method of creating a favorable environment for plants. A visit was made to Maryland, where experiments with soil and plant life added still further to the experimenter's fund of knowledge.

After some further years of study and preparation Mr. Hollister became interested in the organization of a company for the development of a large tract of swampy land.

Some instances five years is the period allowed for the reclamation of land by the slow process of nature after the drainage has been obtained. Even then these lands may fail to produce paying crops.

A crop of corn sown broadcast. The corn was plowed down in the fall and the sand lot planted in rye. It will be seen that in this process nature was being assisted by moisture and sunlight to change sand into rye and corn stalks.

The work of this interesting man attracted the attention of many people pursuing scientific agriculture, among whom was H. J. Heinz, the pickle manufacturer—57 kinds—who is interested not only in the culture of the vegetable kingdom but in the 'real' growth of boys.

EDUCATING FOR SMALL FARMS.

A plan is now taking tangible form, which will lead to the establishment of small farms, comprising five to twenty acres each.

Mr. Hollister is also directing a work of reclamation of a large tract of salt meadow on the Connecticut coast which, when reclaimed, will be used for the purpose of intensive farming.

Value of Alfalfa to Farm Animals.

The Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture has recently published a study by I. D. Graham of the use of alfalfa for the growing and fattening of animals in the Great Plains region.

hay for pigs, it is considered better to cut it early, so that a larger proportion of leaves may be saved and consequently a larger proportion of protein conserved.

The Irish Potato.

A rich, sandy loam is best suited to the production of Irish potatoes, and the fertilizers employed should contain high percentage of potash.

In a recent bulletin on farm vegetables, the department of Agriculture recommends that for late potatoes, the rows should be 2 1/2 to 3 feet apart.

As soon as the plants appear above the ground and the rows can be followed, the surface soil should be well stirred by means of one of the harrow-toothed cultivators.

Next week we will commence the publication of Conan Doyle's great story, "The White Company." This is a sequel to Sir Nigel, the story for which Doyle received $25,000.  Cadillac has had a serious time fixing the date of the meeting of the Northern Michigan Maccabees association; but it is now officially announced as taking place on Friday, August 10. It was desired to have the meeting during the last week in July, the same time as the races, but the Great Tent and five officers were unable to be present, hence the change. Detailed information is not yet given out yet but will be announced as soon as possible. Cadillac never does things by halves and it is safe to say the celebration will be a big one.

Miss Ina Barber had a very close call Wednesday night of last week. In company with J.  D. F. Meech last week resigned as county clerk, after appointing Richard Lewis, of Wilson township, as chief assistant. Under the law, when the county clerk resigns, his chief deputy becomes clerk, and so, as soon as Governor Warner accepts the resignation of Mr. Meech, Mr. Lewis will become county clerk. "Dick" Lewis has been supervisor of his town for many terms, and he is a man universally respected both in his home town and throughout the county. Absolutely honest, true to his friends, he is a man among men, and his selection will be received by the people generally with the utmost satisfaction. Mr. Meech will help about the office until after the meeting of the board, and the next term of court, to give the new incumbent an opportunity to learn the ropes.—Charlevoix Courier.

The revised law provides that the proceedings and financial statement of every graded school district be published in a newspaper before the first Monday of each year. The failure to do so makes each member of the school board liable to a payment of $10. Don't forget it.—Exchange.

Some newspaper men are terrible wars. In writing of a cyclone out west one of them said it turned a well inside out, a cellar upside down, moved a township line, blew the stakes out of a whiskey barrel and left nothing but a hving hole, changed the day of the week, blew a mortgage off a farm, blew all the cracks out of a fence and knocked the wind out of a politician.

Charlevoix has been severely criticized in this part of the state during the last few days since the report became circulated that the regular sessions of the public schools were held on Memorial day. In the minds of many citizens in Charlevoix and elsewhere, such a thing is considered a sacrilege—little short of Sabbath desecration. The reason assigned for the unusual occurrence is that a day was lost recently on account of athletics and had to be made up.

Circuit Court Proceedings.

(From Charlevoix Courier.)

Circuit Court was adjourned last week to June 25th. In the criminal cases, the following were disposed of: Otto Briggs, East Jordan, keeping saloon open Sunday, convicted, and fined $50 and costs.

A. J. Smith, after changing his plea several times, finally decided to admit his guilt, and was sentenced by Judge Mayne to Ionia to serve from one to five years.
 Frank Griffin, charged with rape, was convicted, the jury being unanimous for conviction, but hanging out several hours as to the degree of crime. Sentenced to Jackson from one to ten years.

The Judge denied the motion for a change of venue in the Mattland case; but the attorney for the defendant is to submit further evidence to the court. If tried in this county, Mattland will be before the court on trial for murdering Hamilton, at the September term.

WILSON.

Eddie Graves was down from Clarion over Sunday.
 Mrs. Eugene Raymond is convalescing from her recent illness.
 Six dollars and fifty cents was realized from the Soc. held in Afton last Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Todd made a business trip to Petoskey one day last week.
 Afton school closed this week with an entertainment on Friday evening and a picnic at the grove on Saturday.
 The funeral of Jasper Warden's little son was held at Afton last Friday at 10 o'clock. Rev. Geo. E. Ahan taking charge of the services. Their many friends and neighbors sympathize sincerely with the bereaved family in their affliction.

Richard Lewis, our present Supervisor, has been appointed County Clerk to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Meech's resignation. If Mr. Lewis discharges his duties in Charlevoix as faithfully as he has his duties in Wilson the past few years we are confident he will give satisfaction to all concerned. He goes to Charlevoix the first of July.

Mrs. Olin Smith, accompanied by Miss Mamie Shepard, visited her sister, Mrs. J. R. Vance and family in Mitchell a few days last week. In response to invitation, they also attended the Promotion Exercises of the Eighth Grade in Central Lake High School Thursday afternoon, and the Graduating exercises in the evening, both of which were very interesting. Mrs. Smith's niece, Miss Ruth Vance, a former Afton pupil, having passed the eighth grade examination was granted diploma to enter the High School department next term.

Horse Hoe and Cultivator is the best for the following reasons.

The frame is high and long, therefore runs steady and with excellent clearance of trash. The Horse Hoe Standards carry the Cultivator Teeth as shown in below cut instead of using an extra pair of Cultivator Standards.

The Horse Hoe Standards are made of heavy solid steel and are attached to the bars by means of malleable non-ratchet castings, thus making a very firm connection and capable of standing severe shocks.

By means of the ratchets the hoes and teeth can be adjusted to any angle and sidewise. This permits of the hoes being reversed for hoeing or covering purposes. Call and see them before buying.

A government survey boat is at work on Pine Lake, making a survey and taking soundings for the use of the government officials in making the necessary charts. The commerce on Pine Lake has reached such proportions that a more accurate chart than now exists is deemed necessary. This boat has anchored bouys along each shore, on every point and in every bay and inlet, and is taking measurements in every direction and at every angle. It is intricate to the uninitiated but the skillful engineers it is very plain. The boat arrived at East Jordan Friday and is now working on the waters here.

D. F. Meech has received the five silver medal, which was sent to him as county clerk, and was awarded by the St. Louis exposition officials to Charlevoix county, for the finest collection of apples at the world's exposition. The collection was made by F. J. Meech, and it is a prize well worth the winning. The medal will be turned over to the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society, and will doubtless be displayed at the annual fairs given by the society. Charlevoix can beat the world on apples, and for that matter on many other things.—Charlevoix Courier.

The duties of that day are of the very highest importance and should everywhere be given the time and attention they deserve.

DRIFTING TOWARDS BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Many people who are neglecting symptoms of kidney trouble, hoping "it will wear away," are drifting towards Bright's Disease, which is kidney trouble in one of its worst forms.

stops irregularities, strengthens the urinary organs and builds up the worn-out tissues of the kidneys so they will perform their functions properly. Healthy kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood as it passes through them. Diseased kidneys do not, and the poisonous waste matter is carried by the circulation to every part of the body, causing dizziness, backache, stomach trouble, sluggish liver, irregular heart action, etc.

If you have any signs of Kidney or Bladder Trouble commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once, as it will cure a slight disorder in a few days and prevent a fatal malady. It is pleasant to take and enlightens the whole system.

How to Find Out. You can easily determine if your kidneys are out of order by setting aside for 24 hours a bottle of the urine passed upon arising. If upon examination it is cloudy or milky or has a brick-dust sediment or small particles float about in it, your kidneys are diseased, and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE should be taken at once.

G. B. Burhans Testifies After Four Years. G. B. Burhans of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of 'Foley's Kidney Cure.' It entirely stopped the brick-dust sediment and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed, and I am evidently cured to my mind, and heartily recommend 'Foley's Kidney Cure' to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble."
