Republicans + Harmonious County Nominating Convention a Joy-Fest. Strong Ticket Placed in the Field,

The Representative rebublicans of Charlevoix County met in East Jordan last Saturday and placed such a strong ticket in the field that our."Independent" brothern will never know they were in the field. It was probably the most harmonious convention ever held in the county, and particulariv so because of the welcoming back of some of the children who wandered into the wilderness of "Independents" two years ago.

The Convention was called to order at 2:00 p. m. by Chm. Wm. Pearson, Sec'y Kenyon reading the call. Judge FBANK A. KENYON, Secretary Republican Co. Committee.

J. M. Harris was elected temporary chairman, and took the position with an interesting talk on the position of the 'regular-only republican organization in this county," and stated that the men elected two years ago had passed through office with clean hands. On motion, R. E. Newville was elected temporary chairmen. The following committees were ap pointed;

Credentials-Win. Pearson of Charlevoix, Edmund Pratt of St. James and Dr. A. J. Swinton of Charlevoix.

Permanent Organization' and Order of Business-L. F. Knowles of Evangeline, Fred Wagner of Boyne Valley, Thomas Shapton of Marion.

Resolutions-J. F. Moore of Evangeline, H. E Hutton of Hudson, Wm. Bashaw of South Arm.

A recess of ten minutes was taken for the committees to prepare their reports. Upon reasembling the Committee of Permaneut Organization and Order of Business reported and recom-mended A. L. Coulter as permanent gentleman than to get him to make a chairman. On motion Mr. Coulter speech. He was finally forced to the was elected to that office. -The report of the credential committee was next given, after v. hich the chair appointed L. F. Knowles- and Thomas Shepard tellers. After swearing in the convention officers, the matter of nominations was taken up. Judge Harris placed in nomination Alonzo J. Stroud to succeed himself as member of the state legislature. There being no other cannidates, the gules were suspended and Clerk Newville cast the ballot for the Convention. Next came the office of Sheriff. Judge Harris as chairman of the Evangeline delegation, placed in nomination Frank McWain of that township.

placing his name before the couvention. For Register of Deeds, Romeo A.

Emery of Charlevolx was placed in nomination by an eulogistic attorney from that burg by the name of A. L. Fitch. After the convention recovered from the flight of oratory, it decided that Mr. Emery nad the proper qualifications and was their unanimous choice.

The office of County Treasurer came next and Att'y Clink placed in nomination Daniel S. Payton of Eveline to succeed himself. And right herecame a surprise, Win. Mears of Boyne Fails seconded the nomination and in doing so, stated that he had opposed' Mr Payton's candidacy two years ago, but since had become convinced that he was in error and took this opportunity to show his good will. The comination of Mr. Payton was unanimous,

For Prosecuting Attorney, Elisha N. Clink of South Arm, was placed in numination by Samuel Rogers- The Convention was in line for the nomination and he was made, their candidate.

For Surveyor, F. A. - Robinson of Boyne Valley was placed before the Convention by Att'y Knowles. There being no opposition he was made their nominee.

For Circuit Court Com'r, A. G. Urquhart was chosen as the Convention's nominee.

For Coroners, Dr. W. H. Marshal of Boyne City and Levi Lewis of Charlevoix were nominated.

The matter of a candidate for Commissioner of Schools, to be voted upon next Spring was then taken up. Wm. F. Bashaw placed in nomination J. Harvey Milford of South Arm to succeed himself. Mr. Milford has filled his office well and, being entitled to a nomination, was made the Convention's unanimous choice.

The organization of the republicans n the county was then taken up. Folowing were the gentlemen elected as chairmen of their respective townships: Bay, Jas, Dilworth; Charlevoix, first ward, R. A. Emery; second ward, Alonzo A. Hanshaw; third ward. Archie L.Olcott; Charlevoix Township, E.W. Coulter; Norwood, W.L. Cohen; South Arm, Herbert -L. Olney; Boyne Val-I-v. W. J. Carson: Chandler, Frank H. Atkins; Melrose, Chas. Mizer: Pealne, Hugh Boyle: Marion. Thomas Shapton; Evangeline, J. M. Harris; Evaline M. J. Staley; Hayes, Fred Smith; Hudson, W. H Glasgow; St. James, W. J. Gallagher: Wilson. Thomas Shepard.

The election of the Chairman and Secretary of the county committee then taken up. W. J. Pearson was reelected anid cheers for the "old war Horse" and responded with a little speech which had the ring of true republicanism in every line. Frank A. Kenyon the working mate of Mr. Pearson was elected secretary of the organization with a whoop. In fact it was . The Jew and Others. Many observers have noted the large number of Jews in the colleges and professional schools of America, and have prophesied that in time a large proportion of the members of the learned professions will be men of Jewish descent. Sometimes they have talked about the superiority of the Jewish intellect. One of the most noted Jews in America has lately denied that the men of his race are superior to the men of other races. He says that every one desires the things that are withheld, and that the way to make the family live is to confront it with hardships and persecutions The hardships develop the powers and the withholding of opportunity makes opportunity highly prized. The development of the Jews in America proves the truth of these generalizations. The race has suffered persecution and is hardy. It has not enjoyed freedom of opportunity in the old world: When it comes here it rushes for the free schools: the law and the medical books, as a thirsty animal plunges into a stream and revels in the cooling waters. Sent Away by Grandma

. A prettily, but thinly dressed little girl, giving her name as Gertrude Aldrich, was found shivering from the cold and wandering along the streets in Kalamazoo at a late hour and taken to the police station.

Gertrude had been put off a train by the conductor, she said, because she could not pay her fare. She was bound for Decatur, Ind, but the police do not know where she came from. This is the story the little maid told the police:

"Grandma said she couldn't keep me any longer, because she had too many to look after, so she put me on a train and teld the conductor to put me off at Decatur, and I would meet Cora Smith there. Papa is dead and mamma is up north " is up north.

Letters found on Gertrude's person confirmed part of the story. She was taken in charge by County Agent Merrell and spent the night in the Y. W. G. A. rooms. An investigation is being made.

GOOD CROPS.

The Upper Peninsular Raises Great Quantity Of Barley.

With every year the acreage of barley planted in the upper peninsula, 1s' increased. The territory is especially well fitted by nature to produce this grain to perfection. The superior malting, qualities of Michigan barley have long been recognized by the brew-ers of the country, and in consequence the highest market prices are paid for the barley grown in this region.

All Menominee county records were eclipsed this fall by the crop of Peter Anderson, a farmer living near Wallace. Anderson, according to the certi-fied statement of the thrashing crew, thrashed the remarkable amount of $1 1-2 bushels of barley from one and one-quarter acres of land, which had been seeded with ony two bushels of the grain. This is an extraordinary recgrain. ord, and is taken to indicate that the upper peninsula will be the principal barley-producing region of the United States in the future, Barley forms an important part in the rotation of crops of the sugar beet grower. It reaches its highest perfection after a crop of sugar beets, and will serve as a nurse crop for clover, which in the second year should be plowed under, making an excellent fertilizer and fitting the soil for corn or sugar beets.

New York .- The saddest place in | cradle, went quietly out of the door the city. Do you know where it is?

Do you think that some time, perhaps, in your life you have found it?

Can you shut your eyes to the pres-New York man or woman, and look back to that day when you found some one you loved down in the silent morgue, and say, yes, you know the place well-the saddest place in New York? Or remember one corner in some green cemetery where all your love lies buried, and say, no, the place is here? Or look at some deserted home, where ghosts of a lost faith walk always, and say, no, this is the saddest place of all, for here there is no hope?

But it is not so. The saddest place in all New York is not a spot determined by the personal, individual loss of mere life or love or faith. If it. ere, every grave would claim the title and every broken heart dispute

It is one little room in a large building up on Sixty-eighth street. - Two. sweeping rows of broad stone steps lead from the street to the wide doors of the main entrance. These doors are always locked. But under the stone staircase, right in the center, opening directly on the street, is a little low door that is always open, and it is the entrance to the saddest place in New York.

It is framed in clinging ivy vines, the little low door. Above it, on each side of the stone steps, droop weeping willow trees. Higher still there stands in a niche the statue of a woman holding a child close to her breast. And every woman who seeks the litlow door under the ivy vines holds and left it ready for the next one. "Sometimes we have several in a day," she said. "And other days, none at all. But every year from a thousand to fifteen hundred are left with us. We always leave the baby in the cradie for a few minutes, because some of the mothers change their minds. They will wait for hours, trying to decide, sometimes, holding their babies, nursing them, and crying over them. And at last they will leave them, as this one did, and go away. But sometimes, before they get as far as the corner they will come running back and catch the baby up out of the cradle and hurry away with it. As long as the baby is still in the cradle it is not too late." "Too Late."

There is one family, one of the wealthiest and best known socially in New York, whose oldest son and heir is a waif from the Foundlings' No, I cannot give the name: It years ago. One winter night the fam ily physician sent here for a baby. He only wanted the loan of it for a few weeks as the wife had given birth to her first child and it had died. She was dangerously ill and delirious, and they were afraid unless she had a child to nurse and love the shock would kill her. So we picked out the littlest baby of all, a pretty boy hardly a week old, and he was taken away in a carriage to one of the handsomest homes uptown. Even for a loaned baby it must have been a pleasant experience.

three or four weeks he was treated just exactly as the baby would have been that died, and the mother knew no difference. Then, when she was strong enough, they told her the truth. But the borrowed baby never came back. In those weeks of suffering, when the clasp of its little hands and the touch of its yearning tips had been all that had held her from death, she had grown to love it as her own, and she kept it. He is a boy at college now, and will never know that he was a foundling waif." There was a step in the little room and the sister glanced out. A-plump, mother has come back by stealth to rosy-cheeked girl of about 19 stood

EXPORT DISCOUNTS.

GOODS SOLD CHEAPER ABROAD THAN AT HOME.

Only About One Three-Thousandeth of Our Total Production of Manufactured Goods to Send Foreigners at Lower Than Current Prices in America.

In Maine Speaker Cannon lurged the reelection of a stalwart protectionist as representative in Congress, because, said he, Illinois is equally in terested with Maine in maintaining protection.

In Maine Secretary Taft declared that there was urgent need of revising the abuses out of the Dingley tariff. He did not say what these abuses are, but presumably his reason for demanding immediate revision is to be found in the fact that a few American exports are sold abroad at lower prices than at home.

doubt. must have Wherefrom a arisen as to the real attitude of the administration, with the weight of probability on the urgent revision side, for the urgent revisionist was naturally assumed to be voicing the views of the head of the official family. Such an inference would be quite certain to prove unfortunate for the Republican-cause.

In North Carolina Secretary Shaw was demonstrating the entirely sound proposition that tariff reduction was not called for because of the relatively small quantity of domestic manufac tures exported at lower than home prices, this being, in his judgment, much better than to reduce our tariff so as to enable foreigners to flood our market with their cut-priced exports. Again divided counsels. If Secre tary Taft, was in harmony with the ad ministration, then Secretary Shaw is at variance with the administration. I Mr. Taft was right in urging immedi ate tariff revision downward in order to check the evil of selling abroad each year a few million's worth of our manufactures at less than domestic prices, then Mr. Shaw is wrong in de fending the practice which keeps American mills and factories running full time all the year round and keeps American labor employed without a break either in time or in wages. Both cannot be right; or, at least, both cannot be in full harmony with the ad-

TARIFF MARKED UP?

Rates Not Made Needlessly High for Purposes of Reciprocity.

If, as the free traders and tariff revisionists are so fond of asserting, the schedules of the Dingley tariff were made needlessly high in order that reductions might thereafter be made in the interest of reciprocity, why should the life of that section (4) of the law have been limited to the two years ending June 24, 1899? The answer is that there was no such purpose in fixing the Dingley duty rates.

The intention of Nelson Dingley and the men who cooperated with him in framing the bill was to provide ade quate protection. They had no thought of installing partial free trade through reciprocity in competitive products.

Positive proof of this is found in the fact that in the bill as it passed the house section 4 did not appear. That section was added in the senate. The plan was purely tentative and experimental. It was not meant to be permanent, as the two years' limitation clearly proves, It died, as it deserved to die, with the bundle of foolish treaties negotiated by Mr. Kasson and afterwards left to rot in senate pigeonholes. That was the end of wide open reciprocity. It died before it was

The treaty negotiated with France served as an object lesson, as it demonstrated the utter impossibility of reciprocity in competing articles without destroying protection. For examthe proposed French treaty provided for a rediction of 20 per cent. in the duties on hosiery and knit goods. Such a reduction would have closed 75 per cent. of the hosiery and knit goods factories of the United States and deprived 75,000 people of employment and wages. A similar treaty with Germany would have been compulsory and that would have wrecked the remaining factories.

Reciprocity in competing articles vas never sanctioned by Blaine, nor by McKinley, nor by Dingley, nor Reed, nor by any of the great champlons of protection. To allege that Dingley purposely marked up the tariff rates in order that they might be marked down in reciprocity treaties is to reflect upon the intelligence of that master tariff maker.

It is to suppose that Mr. Dingley intended to deal in gold . bricks. He knew. what so many of the reciprocity advocates of to-day seem unable to comprehend, that to reduce a needlessly high tariff down to the line separating adequate protection from no protection would not work. If the tariff, after having been reduced, still remained protective, the foreign competitor would get no advantage. That would not be reciprocity. It would be a swindle and a rather transparent swindle at that. Nelson Dingley was not-a-confidence operator. He did not believe in reciprocity of the competitive kind, and only consented to the incornoration of section 4 with the two years' limitation clause attached. So strong and able and consistent a protectionist he was that if he were alive to-day nothing would be heard of his having marked up the duties for the purposes of marking them down in reciprocity dickers. No one would dare to make such an assertion.

KING OF SAFE-BREAKERS.

Marvelous Delicacy of Hearing Possessed by Milner James.

"Milner James was the most artistic safe-breaker in the business," said Lecoca the detective. "He is dead now. He opened in his time over 700 safes without tools or gunpowder solely by working out the combination with his delicate and patient fingers. "'It took me a year,' he once said, 'to learn the trick of picking combinations. I, studied all the locks there were and I had three safes of different makes to practice on. The ear is themost important factor in my method and it must be held tight against the safe door on a line with the tumblers. When the knob of the lock is turned slowly and one of the tumblers reaches the notch corresponding to the first number of the combination the tumbler will fall with a little click. Care must be taken not to displace this come. You stand in a small, square There is no carpet on the room. floor, no pictures on the walls. Two settees stand, one on each side of the room. And between them is a little white cradle. It is very dainty and inviting, that cradle. The tiny blanket and coverlet are soft and spotless, the little baby pillow has a laceedged case, and there is a pretty muslin canopy draped above it in bas sinct fashion.

But the room is not empty. Pacing up and down the floor is a woman, hardly past girlhood. She does not look very strong. Her long brown chiffon veil is thrown back from her face. It is a sweet face, the features well cut and refined, but white and wet with tears. Close in her arms, so close that the little face is pressed next her cheek, she holds a baby, hushing it to sleep.

Last Look at Her Child.

After awhile she lays it down gently in the little white cradle and stops to listen, but there is no sound, and the door still stands open. She may come or go as she pleases. And, standing minute over the sleeping baby, she looks into its face for the last time. It is her baby. She has given it birth and nurtured it. Its little body is healthy and flushed with the rose tint of palpitant life. It is not as though death had given her no choice in the matter. She has absolute choice. Either she may take the baby again to her breast and face the world with it, or else she may go through the little low door and leave it forever behind her.

Standing in the corridor beyond the little room. I watched this mother. She stood rocking the cradle for about five minutes. Her sobbing ceased. Once she stooped and kissed the little face on the pillow. Then, suddenly over her face and, turning from the too young to be left. So, if they are | were a little narrow, unmarked grave.

Sauth State Stat

But most of them never come back It is not cruelty nor hardness of heart. It is bitter necessity and the way of the world that lead most of them to that door. Sometimes it is cowardice. When the baby wears dainty, costly garments, when the name pinned on its breast is written in a hand showing education and breeding, and a roll of bills is found also in the cradle then the woman who left her child as a foundling is a-coward. It is not the cry of the wolf that drove her there. It is only the cry of the world he feared.

Now and then a strange figure comes to the little room, a lone, troubled figure. Out of place and incongruous, the figure will not bother over the appeal of the cradle, but will go straight to the sister in the office and hand over the burden it carries to her. These are the lathers. And the most helpless object in the world is a man with a week-old baby in his arms, trying to find out what it wants. They rarely want to give up all claim. to the babies, the fathers. It is only because the mother is dead, or has run away from home, that they come to the Foundlins' at all. All they want is for some one to take the weak, fumbling, crying blind kitten bundle out of their arms and care for it, so they can go to work.

But most of the mothers are of that other great class, the "unwedded," as the sisters call them.

When a woman walks into the little room and lays a child in cradle without a tear or the least hesitancy and goes hurriedly away the sister smiles and shakes her head.

"That was not the mother. ΓA. mother always lingers. Sometimes when they stay too long and the struggle is a hard one we talk with them. The great trouble to an unmarried girl with a child is that she cannot she let the brown, chiffon yeil fall obtain employment, and the baby is hope to the real mother as though it

Secretary Shaw finds a very satisfactory offset to that $1 worth in $3, 000 worth in two facts: First, that American labor is kept at work all the time; and, second, that the American workman is not required to accept reduced wages while producing the commodifies that go abroad at reduced prices. Mr. Shaw sums up the whole question logically and effectively when he says that he is willing to pay a slightly higher price than a few for eigners pay if thereby our own labor can be kept fully employed at an undiminished rate of wages.

Speaker Cannon, Secretary Shaw sobbing hysterically, she went out of and the congressional committee are agreed that there is nothing in the present situation that calls for downward revision or for any disturbance of the tariff. They do not regard ex port discounts as a sufficient cause for inaugurating a period of tariff instability and business uncertainty. Yet i upon this limited and inconsequential volume of cut-priced sales abroad that fully nine-tenths of what Mr. Taft calls the "growing sentiment" for immediate revision is based.

Looks a Little So.

Some of the Democrats who shouted the loudest for Bryan before he re turned from Europe are now in a position to realize the full force of the homely saying anent buying a pig in a poke .--- Cleveland Leader.

It Would Be Folly Intelligent perception of the truth regarding reciprocity in competing articles is shown in the following extract from the address of President James R. MacColl, at the fall convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers at Lake Champlain: "The wave of tariff revision and reciprocity is subsiding. Under the present law there is marvelous prosperity in which all classes of the people are sharing. Common sense says, 'Let well enough alone.' Reciprocity is found upon investigation to mean the sacrifice of one section of the country or one industry, that another section or industry may grow more rapidly.

In nine years under the present tariff the national exports have increased from $1,032,000,000 to $1,717,000,000. which places the United States in this respect in the first rank among the nations of the world. With labor and capital fully employed and unable to meet the demand, it would surely be folly to reduce duties and buy more foreign goods, in order to increase our exports by an equal amount. The chances are we should accomplish the former but not the latter." Mr. MacColl is evidently a man with orains reenforcing business capacity of a high order. He has thought out the question for himself, and he finds that to secure an increase of exports at the cost of diminished home production is an economic folly and a commercial blunder. Morally reciprocity is a fraud and a wrong. Commercially to a nation such as the United States it must book, "The Road to Wellville," in inevitably prove a loss and an injury. pkgs. A Man of 70 After Finding Coffee Hurt Him, Stopped Short,

When a man has lived to be 70 years old with a 40-year-old habit grown to him like a knot on a tree, chances are he'll stick to the habit till he dies.

But occasionally the spirit of youth and determination remains in some men to the last day of their lives. When such men do find any habit of. life has been doing them harm, they surprise the Oslerites by a degree of will power that is supposed to belong to men under 40 only.

"I had been a user of coffee until three years ago-a period of 40 years -and am now 70," writes a N. Dak. man. "I was extremely nervous and debilitated, and saw plainly that I must make a change

"I am thankful to say I had the nerve to quit coffee at once and take on Postum without any dawdling, and experienced no ill effects. On the contrary, I commenced to gain, losing my nervousness within two months. also gaining strength and health otherwise "For a man of my age, I am very well and hearty. Unfortunately for the spying purnose, the shades were drawn behind the two great windows and the glass door, but the starlight sufficed to show the watcher a shadowy Miss Virginia standing motionless on the side which gave her an outlook down the canyon. leaning out, it might be, to anticipate the uncoming of some one from the construction camp below.

The secretary, shivering in the knifelike wind slinning down from the bald peaks, had not long to wait. By the time his eyes were fitted to the darkness he heard a man coming crunching up the track, the snow frostily under his steady stride. Jastrow ducked under the platform and gained a view point on the other side of the car. The crunching foot-falls had ceased, and a man was swinging himself up to the forward slep of the Rosemary. At the instant a voice just above the spy's head called softly: "Mr. Winton!" and the newcomer dropped back into the snow and came tramping to the rear.

The secretary saw him take hand and heard her exclamation, half indignant, wholly reproachful:

You had my note. I told you not to come!"

"En you did, and yet you were ex pecting me." he assorted. He was still holding her hand, and she could not -or did not-withdraw it.

"Was I, indeed!" There was touch of the old-time raillery in the. words, but it was gone when she added: "Oh, why will you keep on coming and coming when you know so well what it means to you and Jastrow held his breath, hope dying within him and sullen ferocity crouching for the spring it her answer should sic it on. But when she spoke the secretary's anger cooled and he breathed again.

"No; a thousand times. No," she inerst out passionately; and Winton staggered as if the suddenly freed hand had dealt him a blow.

Cuba's New Governor.

Secretary of State Bacon, President Roosevelt's peace commissioners, completed their labors in Cuba Saturday and departed for the United States on board the battleship Louisiana. The principal event of the day preceding the departure of Messrs. Taft and Bacon was the taking over of the govern-ment by Charles E. Magoon, which was done by the issuance of a proclama-tion declaring that he had entered upon and would discharge the functions of government as directed by President Roosevelt, by virtue of the authority of the Platt amendment. This was precisely in line with President Roosevelt's appointment of Mr. Magoon, which states that it was made by virtue of the authority conferred upon me by the appendix to the constitution of Cuba and by act of congress March- 2, 1901."

He went to Seneca from Abbeville several years ago, and, it is said, has made himself objectionable to the white people. He advised the negroes not to work for the white people. A letter of warning was sent him several weeks ago advising him to leave Seneca, but he ignored it.

More Trouble On.

The insurrection in Santo Domingo, which was believed to have ended, has broken out afresh. The navy depart-ment received the following cablegram. from Southerland, the senior American naval officer at Monte Christi: "I regret to inform you that the revolution-ary leaders at the last moment refuse to stand by articles of agreement for the surrender. Revolutionary leaders have massed forces of about 500 men at a distance of 15 miles and demand the most impossible terms. The presi-dent of Santo Domingo has' directed the renewal of hostilities.'

Currency Reform.

Senator Beveridge does not believe currency legislation in any important form is possible at the coming session of congress. It is understood the president does not aggressively press the subject in his message to congress which he has already written but delivered until Do chich will no cember. He does, however, mention it. "No comprehensible plan of cur rency reform is possible at the next session of congress," said Senator Beveridge. "In the first place, there is not time for adequate discussion and consideration, and in the next place, there is no popular demand for such egislation.

"Reform of our currency laws must come ultimately, but when they do come there must be careful and thorough discussion and the people must be interested in what is being done."

Brushed Scales from Face Like Powder-Under Physicians Grew Worse --- Cuticura Works Wonders.

"I suffered with eczema six months. I had tried three doctors, but did not get any better. It was on my body and on my feet so thick that I could hardly put a pin on me without touching eczema. My face was covered, my eyebrows came out, and then it got in my eye. I then went to another doctor. He asked me what I was taking for it, and I told him Cuticura. He said that was a very good thing but that he thought my face would be marked for life. But Cuticura did its work, and my face is now just as clear as it ever was. I told Secretary of War Taft and Assistant all my friends about my remarkable cure. I feel so thankful I want evervbody far and wide to know what Cuticura can do. It is a sure cure for eczema. Mrs. Emma White, 641 Cherrier Place, Camden, N. J., April 25, 1905.

LITTLE THINGS AND BIG.

Differentiate Between the Essential and the Non-Essential.

Little things are often of great importance; but when they are so they are not little. The pinion of a watch wheel, for example, in one sense is little, in another sense it is not so at all; for when it is not perfectly adjusted, the watch is worthless for timekeeping. It is not size that makes a thing little or great, but its relation tothe end for which a number of things.

Because so many of the people-who are always preaching the importance of little things fail to discriminate between the little and the their own and other people's affairs, Theoretically, if every factor that contributes to a result is perfect, the result will, be perfect; but practically, for want of time, strength and oppor tunity, the efficient man is compelled to neglect some things for the sake of others: and, in order to do this and yet secure the main end, he has to discriminate between the essential and the non-essential. The one who is thoroughly imbued with the false doctrine of the importance of little things. spends his strength without discrimination, and usually succeeds in missing the main chance .- The Watchman

"Any advice for sale, Larry? Cheap? | burglars, carried the trunk out of Mrs. Then come along with me, for I am in a dickens of a fix!" cried Ross Courtney, collaring his chum and leading. him off per force to the boarding house he called home.

"It's a case of excess baggage," he continued, as the two went up the broad stairs two steps at a jump.

"You see, Percy Miles and 1 happened into the railroad office where they were auctioning off old, uncalled for luggage, and just for fun each of us hid in a trunk. I selected a small, mannish looking one, and, here we are! Come and view the burden of my woes."

He led the way into a pleasant room pointed solemnly at a little leather-covered trunk in the middle of the floor, threw himself lazily upon a couch, and exclaimed:

"Open the confounded thing! It's full of a woman's stuff. Percy got a fine overcoat in his, and some new ties and things. But what can this unincumbered man do with that togery?

"Keep-it till you're married," suggested Larry.

"Married! The girl I'd marry wouldn't touch second-hand clothes! Besides, I daren't keep it here. Mrs. Landlady is too carious. No I'll just dumn it in the lake some dark night and make a mystery for the police."

"And incidentally get yourself into more trouble. But why such cruel waste? These things cost moneylots of it. I imagine-and you paid a dot in the bargain. Suppose you give it to some grown-up orphan asylum, or-no, I say, Ross, go through it systematically and find out the owner's name and address-it is surely on something-then write to her, offering to sell the whole thing back for a trifle."

"Good! Do an act of charity and turn an honest penny by it! Scotch you surely are! But there's the dinner gong! Won't-you go down with me?

"No; had mine. I'll stay here and rummage for you, if you like." Wish you would. Only lock Mrs. McGaffey out."

Courtney disappeared, the door was bolted, and Larry turned back to the hattered little trunk with a look of plty on his handsome face. Had it been lost in one of the awful catas. my life to a fireman. See my scar? trophes he had read about; its owner killed and her body, like the baggage, unidentified? How else would a val uable trunk remain unclaimed? They were girlish things, dainty veils, rib bons, ginghams, silks and piles _ of snowy linen. He lingered over a pair of half-worn slippers, thinking of Cinderella and her prince.

"But not the sign of a clew!" he murmured. "Perhaps there are letters in this box."

Its catch was bent; he wrenched it open, and out flew-his photograph! He sat down plump upon a lace hat and stared. On the back of it were his initials in his own handwriting, and a date he had put upon but one photograph. Beneath the picture were all the letters and scraps of notes he had ever sent Nell Burr; also me comical pencil sketches he had made of one never-to-be-forgotten picnicing day, and some little trinkets he had given her.

Only one bit of paper bore other handwriting than his own. Unfolding he read:

"O to call back the days that are not! Mine eyes were blinded, your words were few. Will you know the truth this side of love letters at auction!"

McGaffey's domain, up the street, and into the Cowan home

"Don't breathe only every other time," whispered Larry. "I don't want the folks to know-that is, until tomorrow. Here! Let's put it under this old covered table.'

All night he tossed upon his bed, upbraiding himself for the days that are guided by scent rather than by were gone and mourning hitterly for the girl he loved. About midnight it suddenly occurred to him that the attic was the only safe place for the trunk. His sisters delighted in "cleaning up his den" the moment he left home.

It was no easy task, but he succeeded in getting it up the steep stairs and stored away among the dusty currants, the lime, the planetree, the boxes and barrels. On descending he found the whole house in an uproar. Burghars! Everyone, even to the sleepy Bridget had heard them, and there was wild running to and fro. Yes, he, too, had heard a noise and was looking in the stairway, he explained, brushing a suspicious cobweb from his mustache. If took fully an hour or more to quiet his mother and sisters and to this day they include that night among the family scares

The next day, with the announcement that he had business in the city, Larry took a hasty departure. Any thing was better than this horrible uncertainty. He must know whether Nell Burr was living or dead.

Arriving at his destination, he walked quickly to a familiar house in the suburbs, rang the bell, and inouired in as matter-of-fact a way for Miss Burr as if it had been two days instead of two years since he had stood there. But there was no trace of surprise on the maid's face. She simply said:

"Come in. But she may not be able to see you."

Presently she glided into the room mere wisp of a girl, with flushed cheeks and a look of intense surprise on her face. Her hand trembled as he clasped them and her voice was unsteady as she greeted him and added:

"Pardon my limpness. I ani just convalescing from a severe illnessan accident, rather. You heard I was caught in a hotel fire? Yes. I owe and she pushed back the soft hair upon her forehead.

He questioned her about the accident until she finally said: ""I lost everything I had taken with me for my trunk was left at the station; the check lost with my pocketbook. None of us thought of it until I was out of anger, and now we can get no trace You see, I have been ill for of it. months from the shock. But there was nothing of much value in the trunk, only clothing and some-some keepsakes.'

For one delicious moment he watch ed the flush deepen on her cheeks; then, losing all interest in the battered trunk, he plunged into the theme that had brought him there, the foolish misunderstanding of two summers ago. He plead manfully, taking all the blame upon himself, never hinting of the bit of paper that lent such courage to his wooing.

It was only when their baggage caught up with them on the wedding tour that she first saw the little brown trunk. To get even, she cried, teasingly

"Poor Larry! How cheap you must have felt to have bid in your own

WHAT WE OWE TO INSECTS.

They Are of the Greatest Benefit to Growing Flowers.

Prof. Darwin said that if it had not een for insects we should never have had any more imposing or attractive flowers than those of the elm, the hop and the nettle. Lord Avebury com pares the work of the insect to that of the florist. He considers that just as the florist has by selection produced the elegant blossoms of the garden, so the insects, by selecting the largest and brightest blossoms for fertiliza tion, have produced the gay flowers of the field. Prof. Plateau of Ghent, has carried out a series of remarkable ex periments on the ways of insects visitcolor, and in the connection he is at variance with certain British naturalists. Whatever may be the attraction in flowers to insects-as yet, it ap pears undefined-it is certain that the latter visit freely all blossoms alike making no distinction between the large, bright-colored ones and the less conspicuous blossoms like those of the nettle and the willow.

Latest Fad in "Society."

The latest fad in certain eastern so ciety circles is to be glum and cross One phase of this more than usually absurd affectation takes the form of ignoring letters of introduction and this lack of consideration has-roused family feuds in several cases. One wealthy young Italian, who is a memher of one of the best Roman families went to Newport this summer with many letters from prominent persons. But he has found it impossible to present them. "It is foolish to expect anything from social leaders these days and the stranger who asks to be received by letter has a hard time of it," said a young man whose letter to a society matron was ignored

INTERESTING CONTEST.

Heavy Cost of Unpaid Postage.

One of the most curious contests ever before the public was conducted by many thousand persons under the offer of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., of Battle Creek, Mich., for prizes of S1 boxes of gold and 300 greenbacks to those making the most words out of the letters Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts.

The contest was started in Febru ary, 1906, and it was arranged to have the prizes awarded on Apr. 30, 1906. When the public announcement appeared many persons began to form the words from these letters, some times the whole family being occupied evenings, a combination of amusement and education.

After a while the lists began to come in to the Postum Office and before long the volume grew until it required wagons to carry the mail Many of the contestants were thoughtss enough to send their lists with insufficient postage and for a period it cost the Company from twenty-five to fifty-eight and sixty dollars a day to pay the unpaid postage.

Young ladies, generally those who had graduated from the high school. were employed to examine these lists and count the correct words. Web ster's Dictionary was the standard and each-list was very carefully corrected except those which fell below 8000 for it soon became clear that nothing below that could win. Some of the lists required the work of a young lady for a solid week on each individual list. The work was done very carefully and accurately but the Company had no idea, at the time the offer was made, that the people would respond so generally and they were compelled to hill every available in the offices with these young lady examiners, and notwithstanding they

Larry! Larry! Tender and true!"

He bent his head upon the brown trunk and groaned aloud: "And now you are dead, dead! Oh, Nell!" How the old love song 'Douglas, Douglas, tender and true" brought back the happy days they had spent together! And now its revised words revealed her heart and showed him-how sadly he had misunderstood her. And she was dead, dead! Courtney's heavy tread on the stair aronsed him from stupor to quick acon. The photo and letters were crammed back into the little box which he hastily hid under his shape less old Panama; then; unlocking the door, he met his old friend with a stolld sort of a smile, exclaiming:

"You're right! There's not a thing in it to tell whose it is. But I tell you what- Sell it to me to give to that poor little cousin of mine who is working her way through normal school."

"Bless your benevolent old boots But surely there's a clew somewhere in it! It would be so romantic to hunt her up. She's young, and I'll bet she's pretty, judging by all this flummery. Let me take a whirl at it!" and the jolly fellow threw open the lid with a bang that struck a chill to Larry's heart.

Filled with terror lest Ross should find her name and address upon some thing, he hovered over, watching the ruthless handling of the precious garments, and listening dumbly to hominable comments. It was joking over her coffin to the tortured Larry. But he had sufficient presence of mind sooram the box into his pocket while Ross investigated the bottom of the Fortunately no full name coupled with an address could be found. so at last Larry succeeded in wheedling the owner out of his "bargain." SANITATION IN THE HOUSE.

Some Things the Country Resident Should Bear in Mind.

The general problem of good water and safe sewage appeals to every owner of a country house, says a writer in the Atlantic. The best soil for these purposes is a sandy one, and wherever a rocky or clayey soil gives possibility of a fissure which might connect water and drainage, expert examination should be called in. The individual plant for sewage disposal may often be a well and a cesspool, the cesspool, once a bogy to sanitation, being now justified by the septic tank and the sand filter, both of which principles are employed in its construction. Two points must be recognized here. Such a covering of. the well that the grave danger of surface pollution may be avoided, for it is most essential that no pollution should be washed through covering boards. Also the direction of drainage, which is generally toward the nearest water course, must be, such that the water supply may be below the point of the sewage disposal. With se simple precautions of sofl, covering of well and proper location of water and drainage, the isolated country house owner may feel secure. Blind Pastor's Good Work.

By the death of the Rev. Dr. Mathe-son, late of St. Bernard's, Edinburgh, a unique personality disappears from the Scottish pulpit. For the greater part of his life, Dr. Matheson was blind, yet this great physical handicap seemed to be no impediment to the performance of the onerous duties attaching to the ministry of a large city to complete the examination until Sept. 29, over six months after the prizes should have been awarded.

This delay caused a great many inquiries and naturally created some dissatisfaction. It has been thought best to make this report in practically all of the newspapers in the United States and many of the magazines in order to make clear to the people the conditions of the contest.

Many lists contained enormous umbers of words which, under the rules, had to be eliminated "Pegger' would count "Peggers" would not lists contained over 50,000 Some words, the great majority of which were cut out. The largest lists were checked over two and in some cases three times to insure accuracy.

The $100.00 gold prize was won by L. D. Reese, 1227-15th St., Denver, Colo., with 9941 correct words. The highest $10.00 gold prize went to'S. K. Fraser, Lincoln, Pa., with 9921 correct words.

A complete list of the 331 winners with their home addresses will be sent to any contestant enquiring on a postal card.

Be sure and give name and address clearly.

This contest has cost the Co. many thousand dollars, and probably has not been a profitable advertisement nevertheless perhaps some who had never before tried Grape-Nuts food have been interested in the contest, and from trial of the food have been shown its wonderful rebuilding pow ers.

It-teaches in a practicable manner that scientifically gathered food elements can be selected from the field grains, which nature will use for rebuilding the nerve centres and brain in a way that' is unmistakable to users of Grape-Nuts.

THE WINNING STROKE

If more than ordinary skill in playing brings the honors of the game to the winning player, so exceptional merit in a remedy ensures the commendation of the well informed, and as a reasonable amount of outdoor life and recreation is conducive to the health and strength, so does a perfect laxative tend to one's improvement in cases of constipation, biliousness, headaches, etc. It is all important, however, in selecting a laxative; to choose one of known quality and excellence, like the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the Galifornia Fig Syrup Co., a laxative which sweetens and cleanses the system effectually, when a laxafive is needed, without any unpleasant after effects, as it acts naturally and gently on the internal organs, simply assisting nature when nature needs assistance, without griping, irritating or debilitating the internal organs in any way, as it contains nothing of an objectionable or injurious nature. As the plants which are combined with the figs in the manufacture of Syrup of Figs are known to physicians to act most beneficially upon the system, the remedy has met with their general approval as a family laxative, a fact well worth considering in making purchases

It is because of the fact that SYRUP OF FIGS is a remedy of known quality and excellence, and approved by physicians that has led to its use by so many millions of well informed people, who would not use any remedy of uncertain quality or inferior reputation. Every family should have a bottle of the genuine on hand at all times, to use when a laxative remedy is required. Please to remember that the genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale in bottles of one size only, by all reputable druggists, and that full name of the company-California Fig Syrup Co., is plainly printed on the front of every package. Regular price, 50c per bottle.

hoaxed. If New York is the richest and Boston the most dignified city, Chicago is certainly the most fly, or as she would put it, the most "flip." Yet even Chicago once was Nevre sickness making else, " It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop hoaxed, unmistakably, irredeemably, irrevocably hoaxed.

The heartrending occurrence in question took, place when Matthew Arnold was visiting the United States. He had just returned to New York from a lecture tour to Chicago, where he was made the honored guest of some of the richest pork and beef millionaires of wired back to Chicago an article from the New York Tribune by Mr. Arnold, in which he spoke with the Lakeside City. On his return utmost scorn of Chicago's social and literary shortcomings. What most moved his scorn was the fact, as he said, that one evening at a Chicago dinner party he spoke of "Ober-mann," but his neighbor did not know who or what "Obermann" was. When he explained that it was the work of De Senancour, "To my amazement and disgust," he added, "not a single person in that assemblage man or woman, had ever heard of 'Obermann' or had ever heard of De Senancour."

The grief and rage with which this philippic was received in Chicago could not be told in words. For several days the journals of that city were filled with letters denouncing Mr. Arnold and his "abuse of hospitality." Another curious manifestation of the Chicagoese resentment of foreign depreciation, together with their thirst for knowledge, was shown by the fact that the libraries of that great city were inundated by hordes of persons seek-ing for copies of "Obermann" and information about De Senancour. It goes without saying that they were mostly ladies.

About the fourth day the ag-grieved Mr. Arnold pricked the bub-ble with his pen. It seems that the article in the Tribune was a clever

SENATOR FOR ONE NIGHT.

Colonel Peck Took the Job to Save the Old Governor's Life.

"Coburn of Kansas wasn't the only citizen of the Sunflower State who declined the senatorial toga," said a graybeard in Kansas politics. "There was Peck.

"A vacancy was created in the senate by the death of Preston B. Plumb, colleague of iridescent In-The legislature was not in galls. session and it was up to old Governor Humphrey to make an appointment.

"The activity of the politicians on this occasion made lowa and Indiana look as if they were hitched to a gravestone. It was almost impossible for a stranger to get a bed or a bite to cat in Topeka unless he was a candidate for Plumb's shoes.

"Poor old Humphrey didn't get a wink of sleep for a week. Finally, after all the buttons had been pulled off the governor's coat, he jumped in a carriage late at night and told the driver to land him at the home of George R. Peck, who at the time was general counsel of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system. Peck was in bed, but the governor pounded on the door until the attorney stuck his head out of the window in a snowstorm and wanted to know who was there.

"The governor quickly told. Without waiting to put on his party clothes Peek hurried downstairs to receive his visitor.

"The governor was a plain man, honest and bluff. The intercourse was not short handed, but I have it from mighty good authority that it was as follows: "The Governor - George, for heaven's sake, take this senatorship so I can get some sleep. There are forty men at the Copeland who are after it and I want somebody to take it who hasn't asked for it.' "Colonel Peck-But, governor, I don't want the job.'

"The Governor-'I know you don't, George, and that's why I want you to take it.-You're probably the only man in Kansas who isn't after it.' "Colonel Peck-'I can't take it, governor. I'm a busy man, and the interests of the company I represent'-"Governor-'Hang the company.

Take it for tonight-anyhow. Will you do that?' "Colonel Peck-If it will help you, governor, I will think it over until morning, so you can get some sleep and save your life.'
