"What Shall We Eat."

Every day the same old question, "What shall we eat for breakfast, for luncheon, for dinner?" assails with monotonous regularity the patient housewife who seeks to provide good living for the family of agreeable variety at a moderate cost. The Chicago Record Herald has far toward solving the problem by devoting space to three departments on this all important topic in its various issues. "Meals For a Day," which appears daily, gives the daily menu and the necessary recipes. Housewives everywhere are invited to participate in the contest and weekly prizes are offered for the best menus. "Marion Harland's Sunday page gives weekly a list of selected recipes which if clipped and pasted in a scrap-book make a most valuable collection. "Martha's Management," which appears on Monday, is filled with good advice and helpful hints to the housewife.

Electric Cooking at Sea.

On one of the largest and modern of the trans-Atlantic steamers, cooking is done entirely by electricity, so that there are none of the fumes and odors of wood, coal and petroleum clinging to the food when it is served—a fact sure to be appreciated by travelers inclined to sea sickness.

In the kitchen of this boat the little electric stoves are arranged in rows in a manner somewhat resembling the keyboard of a typewriter. Each stove cooks a certain meat, fish, vegetable, soup, dessert, etc. The most curious device is the arrangement for boiling eggs. An ingenious mechanism automatically pushes the eggs out of the water as soon as they are boiled. The success of this application of electricity to culinary convenience and facility to say nothing of its cleanliness, should be a hint to restaurant and hotel proprietors.

"There will be no stagnation or halt in prosperity on account of the presidential election next year." This statement is made in the Manufacturers' Record by Henry H. Rogers; and is receiving favorable attention in business circles. Mr. Rogers is an influential factor in business affairs and his opinion in the direction indicated is valuable. It is evidently based on the assumption that the coming presidential campaign will be accompanied by no probability of a political change. If a change is seriously threatened there will be a season of business waiting and business fear. The present prosperity of this country is not an accident or an act of special providence. It is the legitimate result of an effort to secure it and to maintain it. Suspend the effort of reverse it, and different results will be produced. Repeal of the Dingley bill, or any important move in the direction advocated by the opponents of the protective tariff, would be such a change as would very promptly dispose of Mr. Rogers' very pleasing prophecy.

Just Help Yourself.

How can any man who chews tobacco, married or single, ask a woman to kiss him.—Chicago American.

Out upon him sordid, chump, who does or doesn't chew, that man deserves no sugar lump who asks a woman to kiss him. Just stolen fruits are fruits worth while, and coral lips that cling—by George, it does stir up our bile to ask that sort of thing! Why we have kissed from north to south; and over the Mississippi; and seen fair woman purse her mouth and pucker up her lip and have kissed till quite fagged out, till we were most insane, and then we've turned us round about and kissed them all again, and never asked for such a thing, nor made a blunder buss; if we had asked red lips that cling had never been for us. Man trifles with his chance, for kisses and does the lass misuse. To ask a woman for a kiss, that's like the chump that chews.—Empire Journal.

The Music of Man and Birds.

If the discovery of independent evolutions of human music all tending in the same direction indicates the existence of an ideal standard toward which progress leads, how much stronger is the evidence afforded by the fact that bird music is developing along the same lines? It seems a far cry from a Beethoven symphony or a Wagnerian opera to the simple lay of a sparrow, but as we trace the course of the mighty river of music back toward its source, the stream becomes narrower and narrower, until it is contracted to a point where it is no broader than the little rill of bird music, says Henry Oldys in Harper's Magazine. Nor does the decrease stop there; for, remarkable as it may seem, there was a time when the music from which ours has been evolved was inferior to some of that which floats to our ears from the woods of spring. This is not to say merely that the songs of certain of the birds involve more intervals and greater variety, but that they are of a higher order judged by their own modern standards.

The Automobile and Better Roads.

Automobile has given the good roads movement a great impetus. It has brought into it men from the cities who were never far from a paved street until they began to travel around in their autos. They are now the backbone of the movement. The farmers have learned a lot on the subject and they are joining hands with the men who once had their most cordial enmity. They are not only with them on the road question, but they are even recognizing the fact that the automobile is a very useful vehicle. With good roads connecting the markets and the farms there is no reason why automobile transportation for the produce of the land may not soon follow, says Pittsburg Leader. Auto-trucks are in use in all large cities for heavy hauling and if farmers have roads with bottoms to them they will soon begin to take advantage of that very efficient means of transportation.

In the 15 years since the interstate commerce commission began the collection of facts about accidents, nearly 6,000 passengers, over 48,000 employees and nearly 90,000 other persons have been killed on American railroads, and nearly 1,000,000 more have been crippled or maimed, scalded or crushed, disfigured or invalidated, and we still make no protest. For a country that has pride in itself and its "progress" (this seems to be a humiliating situation, observes Carl Snyder in Everybody's. But the still more humiliating fact is that conditions grow worse year by year. In 1905 it was twice as dangerous to travel on a railway train or to work for a railway company in the United States as it was in 1895.

A short time ago there was organized in Nebraska a society composed of women who pledged themselves not to marry men who were without willies. Now another society composed of Nebraska girls has adopted resolutions in which the members pledge themselves not to receive Sunday evening visits from men who are unshaved. It looks as if the men of Nebraska were going to be caught either coming or going.

A woman in a typewriting contest in Paris recently won a victory over more than 170 competitors by writing 16,500 words in four hours. A man wrote 17,000 words, but he made so many mistakes that he was ruled out. An American woman has surpassed the Frenchwoman's record, for in the ordinary course of business she once wrote 16,500 words in two and a half hours, and made three copies as she went along.

Connecticut fruit-growers assert that the peach crop in that vicinity has been ruined, owing to the unusually severe winter, and figure out a loss of $1,000,000 as a result. Returns from Jersey and Delaware are lacking, but no doubt a tale of woe will come from that direction. Those who predicted a warm and open winter are not likely to be in high favor with peach raisers just now.

If people do not suddenly become truly good in Montana it will be the fault of the legislature. A bill has been passed by that body, says Baltimore American, forbidding gambling in any shape and form, and holding responsible for the violation of this law everybody in sight.

WAS WILLIAM CHARBENEAU RAILROADED TO PRISON? IS NOW ASKED BY MONROE.

WILL SEEK A NEW TRIAL.

Some Features of the Case That Are Favorable to the Convicted Man Are Brought Out.

Mrs. Lagodine's Letter.

There is a feeling in Monroe that Wm. Charbeneau was railroaded to prison. He was convicted of a felony against Mrs. Saphronia Lagodine, who was found in a swamp near Rockwood nearly dead and who told a pathetic story of ill-treatment. Charbeneau was arrested on suspicion and he confessed that he had been with the woman, but denied that her story was true in some of its worst features. They had been drinking together and were in each other's company nearly two days and he started her towards Newport, when she was ready to leave him. That in brief was his story.

Charbeneau is an ignorant fellow and knew none of the usages of the law and told his story without hesitation. That he did not know the nature of the charge of "statutory assault," to which he was required to plead, is the quite general opinion of his acquaintances and of the lawyers. It is said that sentiment was made against him by sensational newspaper stories. But this, it is agreed, was no excuse for the man being sentenced to three to ten years imprisonment without an attorney being heard in his behalf.

An effort will be made to have the case retried before Judge Lockwood in an endeavor to have the sentence reduced. Public sentiment is almost undivided in favor of a new trial. Had a trial been ordered, in spite of the plea, as is the custom in similar cases in Wayne county, it would have appeared that the alleged victim is a slightly demented woman, whose word is not to be believed implicitly, and that the facts were, probably, somewhat different from those alleged in the complaint.

There is strong doubt if there was a "criminal" assault at all in the case. The "aggrieved" woman, at any rate, has written a letter to young Charbeneau thanking him for his kind treatment.

Business Injured.

The Sault Ste. Marie Commercial club has begun a battle for lower railroad fares and express rates. Members of the legislature will be bombarded with telegrams and letters from their constituents demanding that northern Michigan roads be placed on the same basis as the roads below the straits.

During the past few days an investigation of the existing conditions has been going on. Figures obtained from Railroad Commissioner Glasgow show that, although some of the upper peninsula roads have been crying poverty, they are making enormous profits.

A campaign is also to be inaugurated against express companies which charge extortionate rates north of the straits and the matter may be taken up with the interstate commerce commission. It is charged that business is being materially injured thereby and the development of northern Michigan retarded.

Electrocuted the Fish.

Learning that three men were carrying loads of freshly caught fish to Detroit markets, and that these fish showed no signs of either hook or spear, coupled with another story that three men were daily observed acting in a suspicious manner at Pine Lake, Deputy Game Warden A. E. McClintock got busy.

He arrested Frank Sharrow, aged 28 years; Lew Smith, aged 30, and Henry Cuelike, aged 40, all of Detroit, charging them with catching fish by unlawful means.

"The fish had been electrocuted," says McClintock. "The men attached a wire, 800 feet long, to a D. U. R. feed line. This they stretched to the lake. Here 100 feet more were added and circled about in deep parts of the lake. With thousands of volts of current along this wire the fish were helpless. When they swam within a short distance of it they were stunned and floated to the surface, where they were scooped in by the bushel."

The Detroit trio pleaded guilty before Justice Snowden, who fined them $11.45 each.

Shot the Cat.

Mrs. C. M. Lattison left her babe peacefully asleep in its crib and went from the house about 15 minutes, and upon returning found the large pet cat with her nose in the baby's mouth, fast sucking out the little one's life. The animal had to be beaten off. Energetic work saved the child's life, and the father shot the cat.

According to some twenty counties received at the secretary of state's office, all the amendments to the constitution carried at the recent election.

Albert Ferrage is dead from lead poisoning resulting from constant work in the paint shop of a Flint factory.

Joseph Tasher, aged 40, a farmer, was thrown from his rig when his horse became frightened in Jackson at an automobile, and his back was broken, but the doctors say he has a chance to live.

Mina Bourkens, a young married woman and a mother, is said to have confessed to throwing her infant in a pond in the old stone quarry in Grand Rapids. His remains were found later. Warrants for her and her husband Anthony's arrest are out.

STOP IMPROVEMENTS.

An official of the Detroit & Mackinac railway says that because of the passage of the two-cent fare bill they will not expend any money for improvements for some time, and says that the Michigan Central and other roads will also adopt the same policy. The D. & M. is not affected directly by the two-cent fare bill but, this official says, because the Michigan Central will have to carry passengers from Bay City to Cheboygan the D. & M. will have to meet the price and as it has longer mileage between the two points it will have to carry passengers for 1 1/2 cents per mile.

"We are now paying about 8 per cent of our earnings to the state in taxes," says the official, "and, in addition, are assessed for taxes on about $345,000 elevator property. As a matter of fact, we haven't an elevator along the line. It is this policy that puts a stop to improvements along our road."

Making Binder Twine.

That the governor's proposed binder twine plant would be a paying proposition to the state is the opinion of Warden A. N. Armstrong, of Jackson prison, who adds that the legislature should make provision to pay prisoners making the twine for overtime, as do private contractors in the case of prison labor.

"There are a thousand ways in which the prisoners could slight their work," says Warden Armstrong, "and if a prisoner's heart is not in his work the result is the same as a man on the outside. The contractors pay by the piece on overtime. Many workers earn as high as $15 a month, and it makes them feel as though they were of some account. A great deal of this money goes to help support wives, children and parents outside. The effect is good. The success of the binder twine plant depends on running it on business principles."

Kill the Pups.

Increase in the population of wolves in the upper peninsula is assuming proportions which is attracting even government notice at Washington. Vernon Bailey, expert on the wolf question, of which he made a study for years, member of the U. S. biological survey, says the only successful way to fight the increase of wolves is through their young. He has no faith in hunting with hounds. Litters run from eight to thirteen, and a knowledge of their habits make exterminating a simple matter, from his point of view.

Tried to Kill Carnegie.

An armed anarchist was arrested while trying to force his way into the apartments of Andrew Carnegie in Pittsburg.

He was carrying an open pocket knife, partly concealed under his cuff, and was trying to gain access to the main lobby of the Schenley where Carnegie was, when Policeman John Kennedy seized him.

He told Kennedy he was Frederick Slagel, 33, of Los Angeles, and begged to be allowed to enter the hotel, as he wished to speak with Andrew Carnegie in regard to the sale of a patent for milking cows. Kennedy hurried his prisoner to the station. When searched Slagel was found to have $261 on his person.

Slagel was locked up charged with being a suspicious person. The arrest caused a very close watch to be kept on every person to guard against possible assassination or injury to any of the notables.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

About $5,000 was spent by Pontiac last year in cement walks.

The Charlotte Interior Finish Co. will remove its factory to Lansing next fall.

A fall of 100 feet at the Cliff shaft at Ishpeming, killed William Ready, a miner.

James N. Cox, assistant adjutant general, is at his desk again after 10 weeks in Florida.

A colt kicked E. N. Fairchild, a prominent farmer of Dale, over his heart and broke three ribs, and injuring him internally.

Four horses, five hogs, twelve cows and calves were burned when fire devastated Aaron Conklin's barn near Bath. Origin of fire unknown.

Owing to a defective chimney, Roy Smith, of Leoni, lost his farmhouse by fire. Only a few articles of furniture were saved. Loss $3,000; insured.

It is claimed that rats are so numerous in Midland that they are undermining the $65,000 school building. Often the students' lunches are stolen by the rodents.

Joseph Hamill, of Houghton, will be committed to the asylum for criminal insane at Ionia. He recently killed his mother by beating her head to a mass with a stick of stove wood.

Leaving a note asking that no post-mortem be held as he had taken morphine, and directing his wife as to the disposal of his body and his business, Dr. J. E. Moor, of Orland, Md., committed suicide in the hotel at Bronson.

The unusual warm weather in March and the extreme cold of the past week is said by experts to have killed frogs by thousands, and to have ruined the spawn from which next year's crop of frog legs would have been derived.

Mrs. Frances Tepley was within eleven days of 100 years old when she died in the home of her daughter, Mrs. David Pifer, in Ogden. She retained her mental faculties to the last. The remains will be taken to her old home at Orwell, Ont., for burial.

The corpse found on the G. T. R. tracks at Stone Jug, near Battle Creek, has been identified as Glen Daniels, an employe of the Arlington hotel, Lansing. Saws and files found in his pocket were identified as hotel property, but a gun he carried cannot be accounted for.

"The violent attacks by E. H. Harriman and his crowd" upon President Roosevelt were condemned by a resolution adopted by the Minnesota house of representatives on Wednesday. The president was commended for his heroic efforts to regulate railroad traffic and "suppress the lawlessness with which it abounds."

MICHIGAN EVENTS NOTED

PREVENTED FROM MARRYING HIS STEP DAUGHTER BY RELATIVES.

THE CHEBOYGAN CRUISER

Bits of News Gathered Here and There About the State Briefly Sketched.

Is Sent to Sanitarium.

A wedding prevented by the interference of relatives of the groom-to-be is said to have caused the serious illness of the willing bride, Mrs. J. Douglass, of Grand Rapids. Many years ago Isaac Rundo married the mother of Mrs. Douglass. Mrs. Rundo died 12 years ago and Rundo's affections then became centered on the daughter. The love was returned and recently preparations were made for their wedding on March 26. Cards were out, carriages secured and even the minister was engaged. But through efforts of Rundo's brothers, the would-be groom was confined in a sanitarium at Brattleboro, Vt. for treatment for aberration of the mind.

Rundo was first persuaded, on the advice of physicians, to go to Reed's Lake sanitarium, where he was kept until shortly before the hour set for his wedding, when he was taken east. Mrs. Douglass has heard nothing from him and is nearly heart-broken. She says the action of the brothers was taken to get possession of Rundo's property. Her mother, at the time of her death, was possessed of considerable property in her own right, but left a joint deed by which such property went to the survivor. Mr. Rundo is well known in Grand Rapids as a furniture man.

A Long Cruise.

James Barclay, "cruiser," as the laudbooker is known, has returned to Cheboygan from a "cruise" that reached to within a day and a half's tramp of the south arm of Hudson's bay. Hundreds of miles were traversed by the woodsman in his quest for tracts of timber that is still to be cut and converted into lumber. The trip lasted for months, over a large tract that contains billions of feet of timber.

Mr. Barclay is an old "cruiser." For the first time in his long experience he was frostbitten while in upper Canada. The party were crossing Onaping lake, a trip of about sixty miles, and were caught in a big snow storm. All but one man was frozen to some extent. Barclay was touched on both cheeks.

When the "cruiser" left the northern country for the return trip to his home he left behind him four feet of snow, and that was on the level. Barclay says the northern country is filled with good timber, but railroads must be built before the logs can be gotten over the divide and into rivers large enough to float them.

Farmer Soldier.

Although Capt. Bert J. Fiske works hard all day tilling the soil, he is not so tired at night but that he can come to Coldwater, a distance of a mile and a half, and drill with the boys who wear the blue. Fiske has been a member of the Michigan National guard only six years; yet, in January, he was elected captain of Company A, Second Infantry. Fiske has served under three captains since enlisting in 1901. Fiske was a private until April, 1903, when he was appointed corporal. In that year he was a member of the crack Michigan rifle team which went to San Juan, N. M. in July, 1905, he was appointed sergeant. On December 12, 1904, he was elected second lieutenant, and on January 2, 1905, advanced to first lieutenant.

Judgment Against Page.

In the circuit court at Kalamazoo judgment was given for $10,000 against Elbert L. Page, former president of the Vicksburg Exchange bank, which failed two years ago. The judgment is in favor of S. B. Monroe, receiver of the bank. The whereabouts of Mr. Page are not known. Immediately after the bank failure, he was admitted to the insane asylum where he remained until last October. For a time after his departure he was in the northern part of the state, but later went south.

A settlement of the affairs of the bank is almost completed. It is believed within another year that the last dividend will be paid and the depositors will have secured 80 per cent of the sum they had deposited.

Made It Sure.

Tying the trigger of a shotgun to his foot, Oscar Barker, of Menominee, placed the muzzle to his head and gave a kick. His head was nearly severed from his body. Barker was a bachelor and was 57 years old. He ended his life in his home at Stephenson. Because Alonzo Barker, a brother of deceased, had given signs of insanity of late, threatening to kill his neighbors, the authorities thought at first that it was a case of murder. Alonzo Barker is a wealthy mill owner at Ingalls.

Alonzo P. Richardson, a farmer who had just moved from Elk, was crushed to death by a heavy trunk, which fell on him in Denver, Col.

Flint officers claim that John Bradley, sentenced to from six months to 15 years for breaking in Thomas Doyle's saloon, is the most troublesome and uncleanly prisoner ever behind local bars. While being taken to Ionia he made a break for liberty and nearly made good.

Otto Powe, of the Soo, a member of the board of control of Newberry insane asylum, says insane people are being sent to this country from Europe. He says two have been recently deported from Newberry asylum, one of whom had been taken from an insane asylum in Finland, and sent here.

THE NAY VOTE.

How the Vote Stood on the Two-Cent Fare Bill.

By the surprising vote of 92 to 1—Rep. David A. L'Esperance, of Detroit, being the only nay—the Wetmore two-cent fare bill was passed by the house under suspension of the rules, as had been urged by Gov. Warner, and the progressive members. The debate lasted but two hours and Rep. James D. Jerome, of Detroit, presided during the consideration in committee of the whole. The vote of Mr. L'Esperance was the feature of the performance.

The air is full of rumors of litigation "back and forth" on the bill, but the bill contains a clause taxing a penalty of $500 a day for any railroad that does not comply with the provisions, and this penalty makes it difficult to see how a road will risk this penalty for the sake of fares.

Brother Wants the Money.

With the body of John Kingston lying in a grave in the national cemetery at Nashville, Tenn., his brother, Wm. Kingston, of Dunmanaway county, Cork, Ireland, is making an effort to secure possession of money said to have been deposited in some bank in Michigan in 1864, when John Kingston was serving in the army. A letter from Ireland says that John Kingston in 1864 placed to his brother's credit in a Michigan bank the sum of $1,000. The name of the bank was not specified. Investigation of records at Lansing shows that John Kingston emigrated from Mundy, this county, January 18, 1864, in Co. E, First Michigan light artillery, was taken sick at Nashville; died in the hospital August 8, 1864, at the age of 20. The sum of money he is said to have deposited will have accumulated during the 43 years to a snug fortune for the Irish brother in Dunmanaway.

Buried Together.

Louis Drago and Henry King married sisters and for years lived as neighbors and grew old together in Bay City. Drago was confined to his home for weeks suffering from dropsy and was daily visited by King. Last week King was stricken with pneumonia and he died on Tuesday. A few hours after the announcement of the death of his friend Drago passed away. On Thursday a double funeral was held at St. Joseph's church and the two life-long companions went the way of all flesh, side by side, and in their final resting places lie as they lived—neighbors.

Tribute to Alger.

The state of Michigan paid tribute to Hon. Russell A. Alger Wednesday evening, memorial exercises being held in representative hall in the capitol. The governor and his staff, the supreme court, state officials, members of the legislature and Michigan members of congress attended, and the members of the late senator's family were present. Lieut. Gov. Kelley presided. Features of the decoration effects in the hall were the battle flags which led the forces of Gen. Alger into battle during the civil war. Regrets were read from President Roosevelt, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Secretary of War Bonaparte, Secretary of the Navy Metcalf, and Senator William Alden Smith, who is in California.

The eulogy was delivered by Hon. Don M. Dickinson.

Detroit Man on Thaw Jury.

When the Thaw jury retired for lunch Thursday, after 21 hours' deliberation, to outward appearance it seemed to stand 11 to 1 in favor of Harney. No. 6, formerly of Detroit, seemed to be at loggerheads with the other jurors, as frequently they would turn to him, and those nearest to him would hold whispered conversations with him. One juror collapsed this morning. All were much fatigued, but apparently endeavoring as best they might to reach some sort of an agreement.

Harney frequently made notes on the back of an envelope as the testimony of the several witnesses was read.

Crops Look Fine.

Correspondents of the secretary of state quite generally report favorably on the condition of wheat, notwithstanding the late sowing on account of the drouth, the consequent small growth before entering the winter and lack of protection by snow.

Reports concerning fruit are not flattering, correspondents in nearly all parts of the state complaining of San Jose scale, leaf blight, black knot, and the disastrous freeze of October, 1905. As compared with an average condition of the fruits is given at between 59 for peaches and 79 for small fruit.

A Merit Camp.

Supt. R. F. Emery, of the Mackinac Island park, has proposed to military officers a merit camp at the island for the Michigan National guard. Barracks there will provide for 50 men and several officers. For proficiency two men could be sent there from each company and receive instruction from U. S. army officers during a one or two months' camp. The islanders would like to have the soldiers there and the park commission might arrange for part of the expense.

John W. Hantoon, who recently returned to his old home in Muskegon after living in Washington eight years, is dead. He was taken ill and returned to visit the old scene before he died.

Albert Britton, aged 37, died of lockjaw in Battle Creek, following the loss of a finger in a machine on March 19.

Imagining that four dusky figures, armed to the teeth, prowling about the streets of Newport in the night were burglars, Justice Martin raised a posse and surrounded the suspects. They proved to be duck hunters.

Stricken with tuberculosis while 3,000 miles away from home and relatives, John Willis Hantoon, who went to Ballard, Wash., eight years ago, hurried home to die on the old farm, where his father lives in Muskegon county. He visited his old haunts and friends and died in two days.

THAW JURY DISAGREED

SEVEN WERE FOR CONVICTION WHILE FIVE WANTED TO ACQUIT.

STORIES FROM THE JURY

Trial Lasted Eleven Weeks and Was A Continual Dramatic Scene Till the End Came.

New Trial in the Fall.

After having struggled for nearly two days to reach a verdict, the Thaw jury reported a disagreement late Friday afternoon and was immediately discharged. The final ballot stood seven for conviction of murder in the first degree and five for acquittal on the ground of insanity.

On the final ballot the jurors who voted for conviction were Foreman Denning B. Smith, George Pfaff, Chas. H. Fecke, Harry C. Brearley, Chas. D. Newton, Joseph H. Bolton and Bernard Gerstman.

The five who hung out for acquittal were Oscar A. Pink, Henry C. Harney, Malcolm J. Fraser, John S. Dennee and Wilbur F. Steele.

Thaw was at once taken back to the Tombs. District Attorney Jerome announced immediately after the jury's discharge that Thaw would be tried again, though not for several months.

Attorney Delmas, of California, who conducted Thaw's case in court, and who, in making his summing up address to the jury appealed almost directly to the "unwritten law" or "dementia Americana" as he termed it, was not in court when the jury made its report.

When the votes cast on the first ballot were counted it proved that eight of the jurors voted to convict Thaw of murder in the first degree, the other four voting to acquit on the ground of insanity. The original four who stood for acquittal were Jurors Pink, Harney, Fraser and Steele.

From this time on the contest was one between these two extreme wings. There never was much hope of reconciling them. The four who originally were for acquittal never voted for anything else, while seven of the eight for murder in the first degree, remained of the same opinion, although some of them were willing to compromise if the champions of acquittal could be induced to meet them half way.

This, however, was not possible, and before the twelve men finally gave it up, the forces that fought for acquittal had won over Juror Dennee to their side.

Juror Joseph Bolton said: "There was no question of the unwritten law or of 'dementia Americana' in our deliberations. We considered the case from a purely legal standpoint. We were not swayed by emotion."

"The jury when considering the case took no stock in 'brain storms,'" said Juror George H. Fecke. "We did not pay any undue amount of attention to the testimony of the alienists, either." Mr. Fecke said, "It was after Mr. Dennee had read some of Thaw's letters that the latter decided there was a reasonable doubt as to Thaw's sanity. Dennee then joined the four men who stood for acquittal on the grounds of insanity."

District Attorney Jerome, as soon as the jury had been discharged, went upstairs to his office. When he got there several of the jurors were inside waiting for him. The jurors were Fecke, Pink, Dennee and Foreman Smith. A little later Juror Bolton came in, carrying a little satchel. The door was locked and Mr. Jerome listened to the jurors for about twenty minutes.

They explained to him their recollection of everything that went on in the jury room. Mr. Jerome was much pleased to get an accurate account of what happened, though he refused to say anything about what the jurors had told him. They all went away after shaking hands with the district attorney.

The district attorney's manner indicated that he was not much put out over the outcome. He was asked about what he had to say as to the result.

"There is nothing that I can with propriety say about the trial," he said. "From what went on in the jury room and the way the jurors stood, it appears certain that there should be a second trial. As to the date of that trial, there is no telling now. There are fifteen prisoners in the Tombs awaiting trial on the charge of murder in the first degree, and their cases will have to be disposed of in the regular course of events before we can get to Thaw again. It certainly will not be before fall."

"As to bail, an application will, of course, be made, but I shall vigorously oppose the release of Thaw. Taking into consideration the number of jurors who voted to convict the defendant of murder in the first degree, I think it extremely unlikely that any judge would allow the application."

Maj. Francis P. Fremont, of the Fifth U. S. infantry, and a son of the late Gen. John C. Fremont, is being tried by court-martial at New York. He is charged with borrowing money on false representation as to his financial standing. Fremont is alleged to have borrowed several sums on his representation that he owned property in San Francisco, and had $5,000 in a Havana bank.

One person was killed and about 15 injured in a wreck on the St. Johnsburg & Lake Champlain railroad near Hardwick, Vt.

Richard M. Waite, assistant to the president of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, died at Denver.

Dr. Paul Hettis, professor of Greek and Latin in the Central Holiness University of Oskaloosa, Ia., is preaching a new crusade and branded his forehead with a cross.

State Senator David Campbell, of Illinois was appointed postmaster of Chicago to succeed Mayor Fred Busse.

CHAPTER XXXIII.—Continued. I issued a clear statement of the situation; I showed in minute detail how the people standing together under the leadership of the honest men of property could easily force the big bandits to consent to an honest, just, rock-founded, iron-bullied reconstruction. My statement appeared in all the morning papers throughout the land. Turn back to it, read it. You will say that I was right. Well—

Toward two o'clock Inspector Crawford came into my private office, escorted by Joe. I saw in Joe's seamed green-gray face that some new danger had arisen. "You've got to get out of this," said he. "The mob in front of our place fills the three streets. It's made up of crowds turned away from the suspended banks."

I remembered the sudden faces and the blases as I entered the office that morning earlier than usual. My windows were closed to keep out the street noises, but now that my mind was up from the work in which I had been absorbed, I could hear the sounds of many voices, even through the thick plate glass.

"We've got 200 policemen here," said the inspector. "Five hundred more are on the way. But—really, Mr. Blacklock, unless we can get you away, there'll be serious trouble. Those damn newspapers! Every one of them denounced you this morning, and the people are in a fury against you."

I went toward the door. "Hold on, Matt," cried Joe, springing at me and seizing me. "Where are you going?"

"To tell them what I think of them," replied I, sweeping him aside. For my blood was up, and I was enraged against the poor cowardly fools.

"For God's sake don't show yourself," he begged. "If you don't care for your own life, think of the rest of us. We've fixed a route through buildings and under streets up to Broadway. Your electric is waiting for you there."

"It won't do," I said. "I'll face 'em—it's the only way."

I went to the window, and was about to throw up one of the sashblinds for a look at them; Crawford stopped me. "They'll stone the building and then stonify," said he. "You must go out once by the route we've arranged."

"Even if you tell them I'm gone, they won't believe it," replied I. "We can look out for that," said Joe, eager to save me, and caring nothing about consequences to himself. But I had unsettled the inspector, and for my electric to come down here, said I. "I'll go out alone and get it and drive away."

"That'll never do!" cried Joe. "You're right, Mr. Blacklock. It's a bare chance. You may take 'em by surprise. Again, some fellow may yell and throw a stone and—" He did not need to finish.

Joe looked wildly at me. "You mustn't do it, Matt!" he exclaimed. "You'll precipitate a riot, Crawford, if you permit this."

But the inspector was telephoning for my electric. Then he went into the adjoining room, where he commanded a view of the entrance. Silence between Joe and me until he returned.

"The electric is coming down the street," said he. "Good," said I. "I'm ready."

"Wait until the other police get here," advised Crawford. "If the mob is in the temper you describe," said I, "the less that's done to irritate it the better. I must go out as if I hadn't a suspicion of danger."

The inspector eyed me with an expression that was highly flattering to my vanity. "I'll go with you," said Joe, starting up from his stool. "No," I replied. "You and the other fellows can take the underground route, if it's necessary."

to than ever, and a vast and more expensive and more luxurious army of their parasites. The people had risen for financial and industrial freedom; they had paid its fearful price; then, in senseless panic and terror, they flung it away. I have read that one of the inscriptions on Apollo's temple at Delphi was: "Man, the fool of the farce." Truly, the gods must have created us for their amusement; and when Olympus falls, they ring up the curtain on some such screaming comedy as was that. It "makes the fancy chuckle, whilst the heart doth ache."

CHAPTER XXXIV. "BLACK MATT'S" TRIUMPH. My enemies caused it to be widely believed that "Wild Week" was my deliberate contrivance for the sole purpose of enriching myself. Thus they got me a reputation for almost superhuman daring, for satanic astuteness at cold-blooded calculation. I do not deserve the admiration and respect that my success-worshipping fellow countrymen lay at my feet. True, I did greatly enrich myself; but not until the Monday after Wild Week.

Not until I had pondered on men and events with the assistance of the newspapers my detective protectors and jailers permitted to be brought aboard—not until the last hope of turning Wild Week to the immediate public advantage had sputtered out like a lost man's last match, did I think of benefiting myself, of seizing the opportunity to strengthen myself for the future. On Monday morning I said to Sgt. Mulholland: "I want to go ashore at once and send some telegrams."

The sergeant is one of the detective bureau's "dress-suit men." He is by nature pragmatic and cynical. His experience has put over that a veneer of weary politeness. We had become great friends during our enforced inseparable companionship. For Joe, who looked on me somewhat as a mother looks on a brilliant but erratic son, had, as I soon discovered, elaborated a wonderful programme for me. I called to him to slow down. He paid not the slightest attention. I learned from the window and looked up at him. It was not my chauffeur; it was a man who had the unmistakable but indescribable marks of the plain-clothes policeman.

"Where are you going?" I shouted. "You'll find out when we arrive," he shouted back, grinning. I settled myself and waited—what else was there to do? Soon I guessed we were headed for the pier off which my yacht was anchored. As we dashed on to it, I saw that it was filled with police, both in uniform and in plain clothes. I descended. A detective sergeant stepped up to me. "We're here to help you to your yacht," he explained. "You wouldn't be safe anywhere in New York—no more haste, I got into my machine. I calmly met the gaze of those thousands, quiet as so many barrels of gunpowder before the explosion. The chauffeur turned the machine. "Go slow," I called to him. "You might hurt somebody."

But he had his orders from the Inspector. He suddenly darted ahead at full speed. The mob scattered in every direction, and we were in Broadway, bound up town full-tilt, before I or the mob realized what he was about.

GIVEN FOR BRAVERY

HOW THE MEDAL OF HONOR IS AWARDED.

Decoration in American Army Corresponds to Victoria Cross of England and Famous Iron Cross of Germany.

While the American people have their flag and boast of their army being second to none, it is a strange fact that few of them know of the medal of honor, the greatest decoration that can be bestowed upon a soldier in the United States army. Every British subject knows the meaning of wearing the Victoria cross; every German knows what it is for a soldier in the Kaiser's army to possess the Iron cross, and while both of these decorations represent bravery; they do not necessarily mean as much as does the possession of the medal of honor.

Regarding the granting of the medal of honor the Army Register says: "In order that the medal of honor may be awarded, officers and enlisted men must perform in action deeds of most distinguished personal bravery or self-sacrifice above and beyond the call of duty, so conspicuous as clearly to distinguish them for gallantry and intrepidity above their comrades, involving risk of life or the performance of more than ordinarily hazardous service, and the omission of which would not justly subject the person to censure as for shortcoming or failure in the performance of his duty. The recommendation for the medal will be judged by this standard of extraordinary merit, and incontestable proof of the performance of the service will be exacted."

At the present time there are only 64 officers and enlisted men in our army who possess the congressional medal. When it is taken into consideration that the maximum strength of the army is 66,385, it shows how hard it is to win the medal of honor. Less than one in every 1,000 possess it. Of those who have been awarded the decoration, 46 are now officers of the active list, out of 3,869 in the service. There are now on both the active and retired lists 150 whose deeds of gallantry have been recognized by the granting of the medal. The awarding of these covers a period of 45 years, including days of the civil war, Indian campaigns, the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection, and the Boxer trouble in China. During the numerous engagements hundreds of gallant deeds, which would have brought the medal of bravery in foreign armies, went entirely unnoticed. Unlike the foreigner, the American soldier does not do an act of bravery simply to try and win the medal. Hundreds of British soldiers have lost their lives in a vain effort to obtain the Victoria cross. Such no doubt was the case when Lord Roberts' son was killed in South Africa in an effort to save a battery.

It is nearly always the young officer who performs the gallant deed. Out of 112 officers who have won the medal for bravery 71 of them were under the rank of captain at the time of performing the act of gallantry which won them the decoration. Nearly all of the others were young captains, although now and then a name appears on the list showing the possessor was a field or staff officer, but in nearly every case he belonged to the volunteers and held a high rank at a young age.

The youngest officer who was ever awarded the decoration is now the senior officer of the army, Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur. For bravery when he was 18 years of age, he won the coveted medal. It was at the time he was a boy adjutant of the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin infantry when his regiment was charging up Missionary Ridge. The color sergeant became exhausted and went down, when MacArthur picked up the flag, ran to the head of the regiment and amid a storm of bullets which swept down the hill led his regiment up.

Brains and Scientists. Famous brains are of four sorts. The lowest group contains the minds that are stimulated greatly by alcohol, tea and other drugs, and by impressions derived from the senses; the second group contains the infant prodigies, whose intellectual powers were in middle age; the third group contains the pathological cases, usually terminating in insanity; the fourth and highest group is that of true geniuses, whose powers remain unimpaired until old age. This is Haeussler's classification.

Spitzka has come to the conclusion that men eminent in exact sciences like astronomy and mathematics have the greatest average brain weight. Next come the men of action, including statesmen and artists, and after these come the biologists, geologists and other representatives of the descriptive sciences.

The "Invalid Crawl." Alas! Somebody in England with nothing better to do has invented a new walk and it is being taken up here, says the Philadelphia Telegraph. At the start of practice a girl must tie weights to the bottom of her skirt. In walking she must appear to be so weary that she scarcely can drag one foot after another. Her steps must be long and creepy, without the slightest hint of energy. Thus walks Queen Alexandra, who adds a slight limp, as she has been lame since infancy. It is hinted that languid movements were designed to hide that defect. Gowns must be of stuff that gives a clinging effect; then the slow, long step, with a bending of the neck at every stride, will be the most effective.

FOUND GUILTY.

Standard Oil Fines Amounted to Twenty-nine Millions.

The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, which has been on trial for six weeks before Judge K. M. Landis of the United States district court, was found guilty on 1,463 counts of receiving rebates from the Chicago & Alton railroads on shipments of oil from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis, Ill.

There were originally 1,903 counts in the indictments, 340 counts falling on errors. If the verdict is sustained the oil company is liable to a maximum fine of $20,280,000, as the Elkins law, which the indictment charged the company violated, provides a fine of $1,000 to $20,000 for each offense. Pending a new trial, which chief counsel for the defense announced would be made immediately, no penalty will be fixed by the court. Each count related to a carload shipment.

The Thaw. The real reason for Harry K. Thaw's desire to be admitted to bail immediately pending his retrial aside from his natural craving for freedom, is that he fears his wife may utterly collapse unless he can get her away from New York at once.

Evelyn looks a wreck. The greatest worry of the whole Thaw family is for Evelyn's health. "Since last July," said a friend, "Mrs. Evelyn Thaw has wasted away 50 per cent. She is only a shadow of herself. If she should catch cold and it settled on her lungs, in her present condition, it would mean almost certain death."

His wife's condition furnishes the real motive for the demand Thaw will make for his release under $250,000 bail. Evelyn refuses to leave New York without her husband.

Persons who do not look kindly on Thaw's defense are inclined to find in his anxiety regarding his wife, and especially interest suddenly shown in her by his relatives, a selfish motive. They point out that the only thing which gave Thaw the ghost of a chance in his recent trial was Evelyn's appearance on the stand. If she should die or should fall so that she would be unable to go on the stand and repeat her story opinions generally agree that it would take far less than 47 hours for a jury to agree and that it would probably be the death chair for Harry.

Although Evelyn Thaw will not leave New York without her husband, his other relatives are not so devoted. Already they are planning trips for themselves to various resorts. All of them feel the need of a rest, and will recuperate in some quiet place.

High School Notes.

Mr. Menie, formerly a "proviser" at the "Lycens" of France, gave us a very interesting talk on French high schools Wednesday morning. He afterward showed a very unique invention with which he is travelling. Miss Hattie Gussolius returned to school Thursday, after ten days absence on account of La Grippe. Miss Reta Carr returned Monday after two weeks absence, during which time she was confined to her bed with pneumonia.

The senior class commenced "Paradise Lost" Tuesday. Just now they daily think Paradise is lost but hope it will be regained in the near future.

CHADDOCK DISTRICT.

Welcome Spring. (very) The farmers are getting their seed peas from the warehouse. Samuel Persons and family moved to town this week. Mr. Persons is engaged in mill work, and will be more convenient for him. The children will remain and finish out the school here. Thomas Trimble's has been remodeling the interior of their dwelling making a larger kitchen. Fred Winkler is lathing for Mr. McKenny. Mr. McKenny is finishing the interior of his fine new dwelling. A Grand Rapids paper has the barge Nessel "couling down the Jordan river from East Jordan and sunk opposite South Arm in the river." If the captain had turned up Green River he might eventually get across the country dry shod. What was a serious accident happened at Mr. McKenny's farm Tuesday afternoon, when Ed Gurner lost his right hand by reaching under a wood buzz saw for a stick of wood. His hand was so mangled that Drs. Sweet and Warner amputated the hand above the wrist. Ed is an industrious young man and this accident will be quite a hindrance as he was the main stay doing the farm work.

DIED A BEGGAR.

The Pathetic Career of John Stow, the English Antiquary. John Stow, the celebrated English antiquary, was a remarkable man. He was born of poor parents about 1525 and brought up to the tailor's trade. For forty years his life was passed among needles and thread, but in the few leisure hours which his trade allowed him he had always been a fond reader of legends, chronicles, histories and all that told of the times that were past. By such reading he grew to be so attached to old memoirs that when about forty years of age he threw down his needle, devoted himself to collecting them and followed his new profession with the faith and enthusiasm of an apostle. Short of means, he made long journeys afoot to hunt over and ransack colleges and monasteries, and, no matter how worn and torn might be the rags of old papers which he found, he kept all, reviewing, connecting, copying, comparing, annotating with truly wonderful ability and good sense. Arrived at fourscore years and no longer capable of earning a livelihood, he applied to the king, and James I., consenting to his petition, granted to the man who had saved treasures of memoirs for English history the favor of wearing a beggar's garb and asking alms at church doors. In this abject state, forgotten and despised, he died two years later.

Cadillac has a minister who preaches 15-minute sermons and is becoming popular.

If you think you would like a Phonograph, go to MAOK'S JEWELRY STORE and see what the cub offer you.

When a man and his wife start to go anywhere, says an exchange, he tells her to get out his good suit, fix the buttons in his shirt, get his cuffs, good shoes, tie his necktie, brush his hat, perfume his handkerchief and a few other little jobs. Then he puts on his hat and says "Great Scott! Ain't you ready yet?" Northport Leader.

A certain Alma lady suspected her husband of kissing the hired girl and resolved to detect him in the act. One evening she saw him pass quietly into the kitchen. The hired girl was out, the kitchen was dark. The jealous wife took a few matches in her hand and hastily throwing a shawl over her head as the hired girl often did, entered the back door and immediately she was seized and kissed in an ardent manner. With heart almost bursting the wife prepared to administer a rebuke to the faithful spouse and tearing from his embrace, struck the match, and she was face to face with the hired man. St. Louis Independent.

Standing and Sitting. David Slowpay—I shall bring you back those dark trousers to be resented, Mrs. Sulp. You know I sit a good deal. Mr. Sulp (talks)—All right and if you'll bring the bill I sent you six months ago I will be pleased to receipt that also. You know I've stood a good deal.—London Tit-Bits.

Properly Situated. "They may say what they like against him," said the convicted one's defender, "but his heart is in the right place." "Yes," assented the other, "and so is the rest of him for a few years."

Practical. "What did she say when she heard he was dead in love with her?" "She wanted to know if he carried any life insurance."—New York Times.

You read a great deal in the funny papers about fathers going down stairs and kissing young men out for remaining too late with their daughters, but no such thing ever happened. At a father does under such circumstances, is to grumble to his wife.

A large party of people, fourteen in all, stopped over in this city yesterday and last night on their way to the west. They came in from Central Lake, leaving this morning on the early train for the west coast, ten of them bound for Spokane, Wash., and four to Alberta, Can. They were all in high spirits over their prospects in that part of the country, and all expected to make good there.—Petoskey Record.

Robert Stewart, 17 years old, of Bellaire is missing, and last Thursday night his cap and bundle of clothes were found afloat on the shore of Clam Lake. The week before he crossed the lake to go to his home, two miles beyond; for these clothes, and was to return that night. The next morning a boat was found which had drifted ashore, but the boy had talked of going to an uncle's in southern Michigan and no extended search was made. The finding of the articles proves his drowning and the lake is being dragged for the body.

The pastor will preach at the first Methodist church Sabbath morning, subject "The Road that Leads Home." We pass this way but once, and when we come to the end of the road we will wish that we had found our way to the home of God more often. We urge all members of the church to be present. Of course all non members are more than welcome. In the evening the young people's choir will give another of their excellent song services. We trust that a large, and even a larger congregation will be present as was at the last—about two hundred being present—still there is room. Pastor will preach a short sermon of about twenty five minutes in length. All are welcome.

Buying a Silk Dress

Indays gone by was an event of a lifetime. Fashion did not change so often as they do now-a-days, and silks lasted longer than most merchandise would care to promise to-day for what they call "more silk."

Manufacturers at that time made the production of good silks a matter of honor. Among the few who through the years have adhered to this policy, are the makers of our

This will be followed by a supper in their Hall.

A town that never has anything to do in a public way is on the road to the cemetery. Any citizen who will do nothing for his town is helping to dig the grave. A man that curses the town furnishes the coffin. The man who is so selfish as to have no time from his business to give to village affairs is making the shroud. The man who will not advertise is driving the hearse. The man who is always pulling back from any public enterprise throws bouquets on the grave. The man who is stingy and always howling hard times, preaches the funeral and sings the doxology. Thus many a town, that with a little united effort might have been something has been buried beyond hope of resurrection.

There will be a change in time table of the Pere Marquette trains in the near future, the exact particulars of which are not known as yet. It is said that the early morning train will leave Bellaire about 9:58 instead of 8:18 o'clock, as has been the case for the past several months, while the afternoon train leaving here at 3:15 o'clock will leave about 4:45. The trains coming from the south will arrive about the same time that has been the custom. This will make the service better for the long trips, but will not improve the local train service between here and Traverse City.—Bellaire Independent.

ILL FROM OVERWORK

NERVOUS PROSTRATION CURED BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

By Toning up the Blood and Nerves Patient Recovered Weight, Strength and Good Spirits.

When the nervous system is broken down from overwork, or whatever cause, life loses its joys. Not only is the nervous system a sufferer himself but he is usually a trial to the whole family. Nervous breakdown is often gradual, appearing at first to be merely a usual fretfulness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills tone up the nerves in the most direct way and not only cure minor troubles but serious disorders as well.

Mr. W. M. Munroe, of 16 Hazel Park, Everett, Mass., says: "About four years ago this September I became all run down from overwork and from confinement to work during warm weather. For two months I grew steadily worse. I lost in weight and strength and had no appetite. My memory failed me quite rapidly and I became in a very low state, both physically and mentally. I took no interest in life, neither in business nor recreation. In my position, as foreman in a large manufacturing chemist's establishment in Boston, a good memory is absolutely essential to success because of the immense amount of detail that must be carried in the head.

"I grew very despairing, could not bear to have people meet me and my friends remarked on my condition. About the middle of December a friend told me one day that he had tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and found them reliable. I commenced taking them and at the end of two weeks the change for the better was remarked by friends. I continued using the pills until I was thoroughly recovered. I regard them as a fine remedy and make this statement voluntarily in gratitude for the benefit received from them."

These pills actually make new blood and have cured such diseases as rheumatism, nervous and general debility, indigestion, nervous headache, neuralgia and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia. As a tonic for the blood and nerves they are unequalled.

If you are a sufferer from any disorder of the blood and nerves write for proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have accomplished in cases similar to yours. Every testimonial used by this company is carefully investigated before being published and is authentic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or direct by mail, postpaid, on receipt of five cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Binnerson's Secor Reformation

By GEORGE BRETT.

Uncontrollable sobs shook John Binnerson's frame as he gazed at the yet girlish face of the one who had been wife, counselor, and comrade to him for five short years.

The dying woman stirred restlessly on the bed, then opened her eyes. Seeing his plight, they filled with such compassion as a mother bestows on her child in pain. "Don't cry, Dave," she urged. "Stupid, I'm not worth it. Bring Ed. I don't think I'll last long."

Death was beyond the comprehension of Ed, and he little understood the farewell words or kiss. He noticed more particularly the grief which shook the stalwart frame of his father. Farewell words spoken to the child the woman summoned all the powers of her mind for a last talk with her weeping husband. "She asked him to look well after Ed, and then urged him to beware of gambling, drinking, and evil companions. She argued and implored with him to remain steadfast to the leading of a clean and manly life. He hung on her words, occasionally mutely nodding assent to the logic of her counsel. She had the clearer brain, the stronger will, the ability to protect her husband from himself. He had not realized the fact, but thought this reformation was due to himself.

"Don't leave me," he cried. "I can't exist without you. I owe everything to you."

The face of the little woman lit up with pleasure at his acknowledgment. She strove to articulate a last blessing on the standing pair, but fell back.

Although, until his wife's death, Binnerson had failed to understand the value of his wife as a protector from himself, his old-time friends well had appreciated why he had become a reformed character. They looked back to Binnerson and within a few weeks had him. Soon he began to drink heavily and foolishly, trying to forget his sorrow in the excitement of gambling and scenes of dissipation. The memory of the death scene gradually became dim, and in three months' time he showed every evidence of shortly becoming a worthless man.

Then an incident happened that changed the current of his life's events—a thing so slight, impalpable, and shadowy that for the life of him Binnerson could never afterwards satisfactorily explain how it really happened. He hurried to his place of business one afternoon, and ran up the flight of steps, at the top of which was his private office. He was about to enter his room quickly when something made him give pause. Controlled by an indefinable impulse, he opened the door softly. In his chair sat Ed, but he was not merely sitting there waiting. About his little square there hung a look of dejection, of woe, and sorrow. He had his head on his hands, and apparently was thinking deeply.

Into the drink-sodden brain of Binnerson came sudden remorse for his conduct. "Poor little beggar," he reflected. "In his childish way he's trying to think-out things. He's wondering why he's not so happy as he was a few months ago. Maybe he's figuring out what he'll become. A hard life this is with the best of training. What chance will he have with me for a father and guardian? Suppose he copies my example? He's her boy as well as mine."

Perhaps for three minutes Binnerson had hold of the knob of the door. Suddenly he let go of it, but before doing so a heroic resolution had taken possession of him. His mind made him stride heavily across the floor and greeted the boy with the remark: "Hello, Ed; how'd you manage to come down all by yourself?"

The boy started from his reverie and explained how his nurse had brought him, and would be back in half an hour. His question, however, showed what he had been thinking about. "Won't you stay home to-night, papa? It's so lonely without you—how mamma's gone."

Then the telephone bell rang. Three times Binnerson said "No" to something, and then he grew angry. "You and the whole bunch can go for all I care," he shouted into the mouthpiece of the phone. "I'm going to look after my youngster, home and business better in the future."

Origin of Some Fads.

Most fads have an odd origin. This is true of the present vogue for wearing a narrow band of black velvet about the throat, either tied in a little bow in the back or crossed, and fastened with a brooch in front. Late last summer an impertinent mosquito bit the throat of a beautiful woman in Newport. The bite became hideously inflamed, defying all efforts of mistress and maid to conceal it. Then the sight of a lovely old miniature brooch framed in pearls suggested a happy thought and that night the belle appeared with a inch-wide band of black velvet about her white throat, pinned in front with the miniature. And the effect was so lovely that this becoming little fad came in, at once, and has stayed all winter.

Copper In Great Demand.

Not less than 370,000,000 pounds of copper wire were in use on the telephone lines in America last year. This year there is expected an increase of 55,000,000 pounds. Considerable quantities of copper are used in the manufacture of brass for telephone instruments.

ANOTHER WESTERN CANADA RECORD.

The Way in Which a Swan River Farmer Became Wealthy.

Swan River, Manitoba, Nov. 21, 1906. Two weeks ago we gave an account of the prosperity of a farmer in Western Canada, and this week we reproduce another.

"I have been asked regarding this year's work on my farm, and I here-with willingly submit the following statement:

"Three years ago I purchased an improved farm of 186 acres on Section 9, Township 36, Range 27 west of the First Meridian—two miles from the town of Swan River.

I plowed and cropped 122 1/2 acres of land during this year (1906), 80 acres in wheat, 30 acres in oats, and 12 1/2 acres in barley.

The cost of putting in and taking off this crop this season is as follows: Cash paid for blue stone, $150. Cash paid for binder twine, $39.00. Cash paid for hired help, $125.00. Cash paid for threshing, $175.00.

Total, $340.00. Receipts for the year as follows: 80 acres of wheat (yielded 20 bushels per acre)—Total, 2,400 bu. 30 acres of oats (yielded 46 bushels per acre)—Total, 1,200 " 12 1/2 acres of barley (48 bu. per acre) 600 "

Crop potatoes, 300 " Hay, tons, 15 "

Sold: 1,168 bu. wheat at 62c, $724.16. 1,232 bu. wheat in granary at 62c, 763.84. 300 bu. barley at 35c, 105.00. 300 bu. barley in granary at 35c, 105.00. 1,200 bu. oats in granary at 25c, 300.00. 100 bu. potatoes at 30c, 30.00. 200 bu. potatoes in root house at 30c, 60.00. 1 stack of oats in sheaf for feed, 50.00. 15 tons of hay at $3.00, 45.00. Garden roots and vegetables, 30.00.

Total, $2,213.00. Cost of above, besides my own labor, 340.50.

Balance, $1,872.50. I have in all 125 acres ready for crop next year, including 10 acres cleared and broken this season.

Total Assets. 186 acres land, with house, stable and outbuildings, etc., $5,000.00. Implements, 500.00. 4 head of horses, and harness, 800.00. 15 head of cattle, 375.00. 20 pigs, 200.00. Receipts of this season's crop, 1,872.00.

Total, $8,747.50. Liabilities are 1,000.00.

Total assets, $7,747.50. I have made the above amount by farming in Manitoba. I think it has paid. This is my standing today. I am a single man, a Canadian, and 26 years of age.

Rich Prize for Historical Work.

One million five hundred thousand dollars is offered as a prize for a literary composition, the biggest prize of its kind on record. The award will be made at St. Petersburg on December 1, 1925, to the writer of the best history of Alexander I. of Russia. Arakhtchev, founder of the military colonies of Novgorod, left a fortune of 50,000 gold rubles ($25,750) to provide for this unique prize. The prize-giving day is the centenary of the Czar Alexander's death, by which time the money will, it is estimated, have increased to $2,000,000. One-fourth of it will be used to defray the cost of publishing the work which wins the prize.

BACKACHE AND DESPONDENCY

Are both symptoms of organic derangement, and nature's warning to women of a trouble which will sooner or later declare itself.

"How often do we hear women say, 'It seems as though my back would break.' Yet they continue to drag along and suffer with aches in the small of the back, pain low down in the side, dragging sensations, nervousness, and no ambition.

"They do not realize that the back is the main-spring of woman's organization and quickly indicates by aching a diseased condition of the feminine organs or kidneys, and that aches and pains will continue until the cause is removed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs has been for many years the most successful remedy in such cases. No other medicine has such a record of cures of feminine ills.

Miss Lena Nagel, of 117 Morgan St., Buffalo, N. Y., writes:—"I was completely worn out and on the verge of nervous prostration. My back ached all the time. I had dreadful periods of pain, was subject to fits of crying and extreme nervousness, and was always weak and tired. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures Female Complaints, such as Backache, Paining and Displacements, and all Organic Diseases. Dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage. It strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache and Indigestion and invigorates the whole feminine system.

WE WILL CURE YOUR PILES

AND TRUST TO YOUR HONOR TO PAY WHEN YOU ARE CURED

WE cure Piles, Fistula and all other diseases of the rectum, by a new PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD, which is our own discovery, no other person using it or knowing what it is. No hazardous operation of any kind is employed, and no knife or chloroform used. Many bad cases are cured in one painless treatment and few cases require more than two weeks for a complete cure.

Mrs. Milton Velzey, Grandville, says:

I will cheerfully give in detail to any one what I suffered for years with one of the worst cases of piles it is possible to have and how perfect and painless the cure.

Rev. A. N. Cooper, Muir, Mich., says:

I have known of your work for years. My father suffered with piles for many years. His was an aggravated case of long standing and you cured him in two treatments. My case was not so severe and you cured me more easily.

Rev. Father Krakowski, Pastor Sacred Heart Church, Grand Rapids, says:

Having had personal experience with your new painless method of curing piles, I feel it a duty to suffering humanity to spread the news of your great work and I never lose an opportunity to do so.

Write us a full description of your case as you understand it and we will tell you just what we can do for you and how much it will cost you when you are cured. Remember you pay nothing until you are cured. We have cured over 4,000 cases without a single failure. We have a booklet explaining our treatment fully and containing letters from hundreds of people from all parts of Michigan whom we have cured, with all names and addresses given plainly so you can write direct to them and find out all about it. What we have done for others we can certainly do for you. Send for our free booklet to-day as you may never see our advertisement again.

A SOCIAL LEADER OF KANSAS CITY

Attributes Her Excellent Health to Peruna.

MRS. W. H. SIMMONS.

MRS. W. H. SIMMONS, 1119 E. 8th St., Kansas City, Mo., member of the National Annuity Association, writes:

"My health was excellent until about a year ago, when I had a complete collapse from overdoing socially, not getting the proper rest, and too many late suppers. My stomach was in a dreadful condition, and my nerves all unstrung."

"I was advised by a friend to try Peruna, and eventually I bought a bottle. I took it and then another, and kept using it for three months. "At the end of that time my health was restored, my nerves no longer troubled me, and I felt myself once more able to assume my social position. I certainly feel that Peruna is deserving of praise."

There are many reasons why society women break down, why their nervous systems fail, why they have systemic or pelvic catarrh. Indeed, they are especially liable to these ailments. No wonder they require the protection of Peruna. It is their shield and safeguard.

A $40,000 TREASURY ROBBERY.

Clever Work of Detective Revealed the Thief.

The robbery of the treasury in Chicago recalls the fact that the treasury department in Washington was the victim of a $40,000 theft about 30 years ago. At first, although no reasonable explanation of how the thing could have been done by an outsider could be given, it was assumed that it was the work of some one unconnected with the office in which the robbery occurred. It was not long, however, before a clever detective became acquainted with the fact that one of the clerks who might have had access to the bundle of bills was acquainted with a professional gambler of shady antecedents. That discovery solved the problem. A little patient watching resulted in catching the gambler with the stolen notes, and the rest was easy. The clerk was arrested, and, while in confinement, was given to understand that he was betrayed, whereupon he confessed the robbery, which was accomplished by showing the package of notes, all of large denominations, into a position where they could be "snaked up" with a cane provided with a hook.

TO TEMPT INVALID

SOME DAINY DISHES FOR A WEAK APPETITE.

Arrowroot Water Jelly Properly Made, is Delicious—Old-Fashioned Panada a Favorite with the Children—Chicken Jelly.

Arrowroot Water Jelly.—Imprimis.—Do not let yourself be deluded into buying any but the best Bermuda arrowroot. I get mine from a responsible druggist, and in small packages. Keep it in a dry place. Stir two tablespoonfuls into two tablespoonfuls of cold water until it is smooth. Have ready over the fire a cupful of boiling water in which you have dissolved two teaspoonfuls of white sugar and a pinch of salt. Add the dissolved arrowroot and continue to stir until it is clear, keeping the water at a boil all the time. Add a teaspoonful of strained lemon juice and take directly from the fire. Turn into small molds wet with cold water, and when cold, set on ice. To prepare for eating, empty mold, upon a saucer; strew with fine sugar and drench with cream. Should the invalid like the flavor of rosewater, season delicately with it. It will be allowed by the physician, you may substitute a small glass of it for the rosewater. In this case, heap the teaspoon with dry arrowroot, in measuring, as the liquid will make the jelly less consistent. Both of these preparations are delicious and nourishing.

Arrowroot Custard.—This is a heavier preparation than the jelly and blanc mange, but nourishing and palatable. Wet three tablespoonfuls of arrowroot with four of cold milk, and stir smooth. Heat a pint of milk to scalding, adding a pinch of soda; stir in the arrowroot and cook three minutes after the boil begins anew. Turn into a bowl. Beat in an egg which has been whipped light with two tablespoonfuls of white sugar. Set the bowl in a sauceman of boiling water, put back on the fire and stir for two minutes after the water in the sauceman begins to boil again. Form in small molds. Serve alone, or with cream, as desired. Forbear to make any of these light foods too sweet, or the patient will take a dislike to them.

Old-Fashioned Panada.—Get six of the "square" old-fashioned Boston crackers our babies used to cut their teeth upon. Split them and lay in a deep bowl, sprinkling salt scantily and sugar rather bountifully among the layers. Cover with water that is freshly boiled. Our mothers and nurses laid stress upon this last condition. The water must cover the crackers two inches deep. Fit a close cover on the bowl and set in a sauceman of boiling water on the range. At the end of an hour you should have a bowlful of a jellied cereal. It should be eaten from the bowl with more sugar and a very little mace or nutmeg dusted over the panada. Convalescent children are usually very fond of this dish, if it is properly made. It is very good for mothers of babies under a month old. They generally like it, too. Always provided it is panada, and not mush. Not a cracker should be disintegrated.

Chicken Jelly.—Clean a tender chicken, wash well and split down the back as for boiling. Set one-half away to be boiled another day. Pound the other half with a wooden mallet, cracking every bone and reducing the flesh to a paste. Put into a sauceman with a close cover and cover with a quart of cold water for two pounds of the chicken. Set where it will not come to the boil in less than an hour. Then let it simmer—never actually boiling—for three hours more. It must be so closely covered that the steam will not escape. Do not uncover until it has been off the fire so long as to be quite cold. Then strain, pressing hard, through a cheesecloth bag, getting out every drop of nourishment. Season the liquid to taste, return to the fire, bring to a quick boil to throw up the scum and drop in the white of a raw egg. Boil one minute, strain again and set away to cool. Then leave in ice until you are ready to serve. Eaten with unleavened wafers or with thin bread and butter it is very good and full of nourishment.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

A good dish-cloth is made of several thicknesses of cheese cloth neatly finished.

A good dessert for luncheon is warm gingerbread served with whipped cream. Cut the gingerbread in generous pieces and put a spoonful of the whipped cream on each piece served on a fancy plate.

A pretty way to serve fresh fruit for dessert is to cut fine oranges, bananas and grapes, sweeten and serve in half a banana skin. The large red bananas make the best "fruit-boats."

Keep the following articles in the kitchen, either hung on the wall or on a low shelf: Clock, scissors, needle-book with large needles for trussing, small for making bags, etc., ball of white cotton yarn, string-ball and string-bag, pin cushion.

Pleasant Perfume.

A pleasant perfume for clothes is made by mixing one ounce each of cloves, nutmeg, mace, cinnamon, and Tonquin beans, ground or beaten to a powder. Put this mixture in a number of little bags, and place them among the woolen clothes that are put away for the summer. It is said to be an excellent moth-preventive also.

THOUGHT HIM A LUNATIC.

Man's Queer Jumble of Words, Warranted the Inference.

Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale recently told this story at New Haven's chamber of commerce banquet: A hard drinker was told by his doctor that he would be cured if every time he felt that he must have a drink he would immediately take something to eat instead.

The man followed the advice and was cured, but the habit of asking for food had become so fixed with him that once he was nearly locked up as a lunatic. He was stopping at a hotel and, hearing a great commotion in the room next to his, he peeped over the transom to see what the matter was. He saw, and rushed madly down to the office and shouted to the clerk: "The man in 153 has shot himself! Ham and egg sandwich please!"—Lippincott's.

SPLendid-APRIL TONIC.

Easily Prepared at Home and Harmless to Use.

This is known as "Blood-Cleaning Time," especially among the older folks, who always take something during this month to clean the blood of impurities and build it up.

The following is the recipe as given by a well-known authority, and any one can prepare it at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces.

Get these simple ingredients from any good pharmacy and mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Everybody should take something to help the blood, which becomes impoverished and almost sour after the winter season, especially those who are subject to Rheumatism, Catarrh, Kidney and Bladder trouble.

It is said that one week's use of this mixture will clear the skin of sores, pimples or boils.

This is sound, healthy advice, which will be appreciated by many readers.

HAD NERVE, BUT NO MONEY.

Unlucky—Man's Modest Request for Pecuniary Assistance.

Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, while in New Orleans a few months ago, took the opportunity of going to the races. During the afternoon he cashed several tickets, the result of good guesses. He was feeling happy after the last race, and started for the automobile which was to convey him back to his hotel. As he was about to climb into the machine he felt a hand on his arm, and a man shouted in his ear:

"Hello, Hitchcock, how are you? Hear you put a crimp in the bookies today?"

Hitchcock blushed and shook hands sheepishly, not recognizing the man, and not wishing to show it.

"Say, I want to speak to you confidentially," said the stranger.

"All right; what is it?" asked the comedian.

"Well, I am up against some hard luck today. They cleaned me and I want to get home. Now, don't let any one of these people see you, but slip me enough for car fare, will you?"

"Sure," said Hitchcock, placing his hand in his pocket. Then he paused and queried: "Where do you live?"

"Vancouver," was the answer. Hitchcock took a flying leap for his machine, and unless the visitors at New Orleans are more glibbie, the impetuous one is still looking for car fare.—Harper's Weekly.

It's easy to laugh at misfortune—when it visits the other fellow.

ROMANTIC DEVONSHIRE.

The Land Made Famous by Philipotts' Novels.

Philipotts has made us familiar with romantic Devonshire, in his fascinating novels, "The River," "Children of the Mist," etc. The characters are very human; the people there drink coffee with the same results as elsewhere. A writer at Rock House, Orchard Hill, Bideford, North Devon, states:

"For 30 years I drank coffee for breakfast and dinner but some 5 years ago I found that it was producing indigestion and heart-burn, and was making me restless at night. These symptoms were followed by brain fag and a sluggish mental condition.

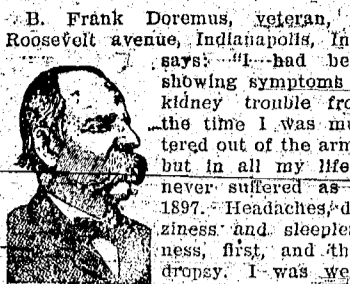

"When I realized this, I made up my mind to quit drinking coffee and having read of Postum, I concluded to try it. I had it carefully made, according to directions, and found to my agreeable surprise at the end of a week, that I no longer suffered from either indigestion, heart-burn, or brain fag, and that I could drink it at night and secure restful and refreshing sleep.

"Since that time we have entirely discontinued the use of the old kind of coffee, growing tender and tender of Postum as time goes on. My digestive organs certainly do their work much better now than before, a result due to Postum Food Coffee, I am satisfied.

"As a table beverage we find for all the members of my family use it; that when properly made it is most refreshing and agreeable, of delicious flavor and aroma. Vigilance is, however, necessary to secure this, for unless the servants are watched they are likely to neglect the thorough boiling which it must have in order to extract the goodness from the cereal." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

How a Veteran Was Saved the Amputation of a Limb.

B. Frank Doremus, veteran, of Roosevelt avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., says: "I had been showing symptoms of kidney trouble from the time I was mustered out of the army, but in all my life I never suffered as in 1897. Headaches, dizziness, and sleeplessness, first, and then dropsy. I was weak and helpless, having run down from 180 to 125 pounds. I was having terrible pain in the kidneys, and the secretions passed almost involuntarily. My left leg swelled until it was 34 inches around, and the doctor tapped it night and morning until I could no longer stand it, and then he advised amputation. I refused, and began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The swelling subsided gradually, the urine became natural, and all my pains and aches disappeared. I have been well now for nine years since using Doan's Kidney Pills. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y."

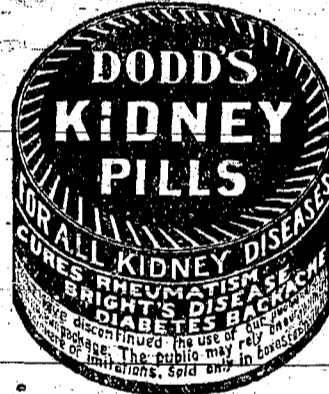

POPULAR APPROVAL OF THEFT.

English Writer Sees Significance in Glorification of Robbers.

The idea of private property has never been fully accepted by the masses of the people, and never had their cordial approval as an institution, says a writer in the London News. The most popular songs and ballads of our nation in all ages, it may be noted, have been those which described sympathetically attacks on private property, from the Robin Hood cycle to the broadsheets in which Turpin and Sheppard were made heroes.

Even nowadays the literature that really touches the people, the literature that the educated classes seldom so much as see exposed for sale, the literature that is sold in the small "general" shop in the back street, and costs fewer pennies than the novel we know costs shillings, still very largely deals with the romantic exploits of the robber. He is never a villain; he is noble and generous to a fault; but he is convinced of the impropriety of persons having too much money.

Our distinctions do not lie in the places which we occupy, but in the grace and dignity with which we fill them.—Emerson.

W. N. U., DETROIT, NO. 16, 1907.

True to the sex. On swept the ambitious. Suddenly the long line of female warriors halted on the brink of battle. "What are they waiting for?" asked the war correspondent. "Powder!" replied the commander laconically. "Ah, they are about to put some powder in their gussets." "No; they are here to put some powder on their noses. Just because they are warriors is no reason why they should be any different from other women." And then there was a moving-picture scene of animated puffs and flashing hand mirrors.

BABY WASTED TO SKELETON.

In Torments with Terrible Sores on Face and Body—Tore at Flesh—Cured by Cuticura.

"My little son, when about a year and a half old began to have sores come out on his face. They began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton and was hardly able to walk. I sent to the drug store and got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since, and only for the Cuticura Remedies my precious child would have died from these terrible sores. I used only one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D. No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 22, 1905."

Consider the good or evil in another, if you will, but in doing so, remember, it is yourself upon whom you pass judgment; all that we see and know are but reflections of what is within us.—Secker.
