Maccabees Next Tuesday

Big Rally at Loveday Opera House. Initiation.

The disciples of Judas Maccabeus and their ladies, under direction of North Star Tent No. 130, will hold a big fraternal rally and initiation in our village next Tuesday evening. An excursion will bring in the Charlevoix and Ironton Knights and Ladies and other excursions are being planned by neighboring towns.

An open meeting will be held at Loveday Opera House, beginning at 8:30, to which the public are cordially invited to attend. The speakers for this event are Hon. Perry F. Powers of Cadillac—one of the best orators in Northern Michigan—and Lt. Lieut. Com. Mistress Annie Holte of Muskegon. The addresses will be limited to one-half hour each.

At ten o'clock the audience will be dismissed, the visiting ladies going to the Maccabee Hall where they will be entertained by the local Hive. The Knights will then initiate a class of over thirty candidates into the secret work of the order. Following the initiation a banquet will be given at their hall.

Remarkable Thrift.

New England Coachman Saves Money From Small Earnings.

How much of your last pay day's money is there left? It looked pretty good when you got it, even if there were some $1 bills, perhaps. Some went for living expenses, and some for debts (or maybe you let the debts go again), and a little for this and a little more for that, and then perhaps you were with some of the boys Saturday night, and now you are waiting for the next pay day, remarks an exchange. You haven't saved a cent. Honestly, now don't you think you are several different kinds of a fool? Ootay Girard, a New England Coachman, is now 72 years old. His average wage has been $1 a day. He married young, and has raised a family of thirteen children. He learned to save when he was a boy—because he had the inclination of a miser, but because he wanted to be independent in his old age. He has saved $10,000 in real money.

My wife helped me," he says. "I've never always been well clothed, and we've had plenty to eat."

How did he do it, you ask? First of all: He formed the habit of saving, and then he laid down these rules for himself, and followed them:

"Steady work at low wages rather than intermittent work at larger wages."

"Do not increase your expenses as your wages increase."

"Marry young, and don't marry a doll-faced woman."

"Let liquor alone."

"Own your own home."

"Have you ever tried to save? As a matter of fact it is not a hard thing to do. Every man who spends any part of his income on pleasure can save something, and there's a deal of wisdom in the old saw about 'the rainy day.'"

"If you have never said you don't know the satisfactor, it brings, the independence, the sense of freedom, and the confidence with which you can look the future in the face. Don't be a piece of driftwood, tossed here and there all your life, with no means of your own and always dependent on another man's favor. Be a man and have means of your own. This is a good week to start."

With a $29,000,000 fine confronting it, the Standard Oil Co. is probably wondering whether to raise the price of oil now or wait until the blow falls.

The proposed bill requiring that all passengers on railroads in Michigan shall have purchased tickets before boarding any train, and that ten cents extra can be charged all passengers who fail to buy tickets, this amount to be returned to the passenger at any ticket office, is not an unreasonable requirement and should become a law. Michigan railroads are entitled to as much consideration in the direction suggested as are given to railroads in other states, especially when no cost or loss to the state or its people are in any way included.

Opportunities in the Civil Service

Uncle Sam Now Employs Several Hundred Thousand People at Good Salaries.

The growth of the national Civil Service System is well illustrated by a statement recently published, showing that since Theodore Roosevelt became President 72,009 additional government employes have been put in the classified service—that is, their successors must be appointed under the competitive examination system. Practically the only large group of government appointees outside the classified service is that made up of the fourth-class postmasters.

During the last three years, for which statistics are available, 108,578 persons have received appointments and the number of appointments this year seems likely to be greater than that of any previous year.

The rural free delivery service is spreading rapidly. The number of routes in operation March 1, 1906, was 35,031; there were then 3,424 pending petitions for new routes, of which 294 had been assigned for establishment.

The liberal pay and vacation, and sick leave privileges, together with the easy hours of government service and the splendid opportunities presented for advancement, have made the Civil Service very attractive; and more and more people are taking the examinations every year.

The remarkable rise in Civil Service of such men as George B. Cortelou, who starting as a stenographer is now Postmaster-General; M. O. Chance who has advanced from the position of messenger to that of chief clerk of the great Post Office Department; Richard Perry Covert, formerly a stenographer, now chief of the appointment division of the Post Office Department; William Loeb, Jr. Secretary to President Roosevelt; Jasper Wilson, Secretary to the Secretary of Agriculture; Frederick I. Allen, Commissioner of Patents; Oscar J. Ricketts, foreman of the Government Printing Office; and many others, has been an inspiration.

The large number of competitors means, of course, a somewhat higher passing average is now necessary in order to be certain of an appointment. Those who receive appointments are usually those who have spent months in preparing for the examination.

The preparation for a Civil Service Examination is of a special nature, and many of those who have passed and received appointments would not have been able to do so but for the training afforded by the International Correspondence Schools, of Scranton, Pa. These great Schools have had fifteen years experience in teaching of men and have spent more than one million dollars in preparing home study text books. While most their own, their instruction is so clear that any one able to read and write can understand it.

The International Correspondence Schools are represented in East Jordan by Mr. W. M. Fowler, whose address is Traverse City. Mr. Fowler is always glad to give full information regarding Civil Service Courses or any other courses or home study to persons desiring to turn their spare time into dollars.

EMERY-BROS' line of Dressing Cases are really worth spending a little time to look at them over. All kinds and prices. Say nothing about them.

The bill now receiving consideration at Lansing to provide a minimum salary rate for school teachers possesses more value for Michigan than may at once be apparent. Such a provision is on the statute books of Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and many other states. Its direct and indirect purpose is to require efficiency and to secure good work to all our schools. Michigan is unusually fortunate in the large school fund it secures from state sources, and the state should be insistent that the best possible use be made of this fund. Cheap teachers are usually poor teachers, and money spent for poor teaching is almost worse than wasted. Many school officers forget the interest of the state in their provision for teachers, but the state should not be similarly indifferent or forgetful. Other states have not been and Michigan should not continue to be.

County Normal Notes.

In the training room, Bessie Straw is teaching second grade music, Mamie Williams fourth grade music, Anna Ingalls second grade reading and Georgia Crowell fifth grade reading.

Remember the entertainment on May 3rd. The normal class will give a part of Shakespeare's play, "As You Like It." The cast of the play will be as follows: Rosalind, Anna Ingalls; Celia, Merle Chase; Orlando, Elizabeth Tysler; Duke Ferdinand, Bessie Straw; Touchstone, Lela Crites; Silvius, Mamie Williams; Phebe, Bessie Hanshaw; Oliver, Olivo Skerman; Jacques, Georgia Crowell; 1st Lord, Julia Bancroft; Corin, Ethel Caine; Duke Senior, Ruth Ekstrom; Hymen, Anna Green. The children of the training room will give "Little Men," as the remainder of the program. Please remember and come to the high school room to the evening of May 3rd.

The normal class sent letters to our Representative and to our Senator on Tuesday of last week asking for the journals of both Houses during the present session of the Legislature, and they were received very promptly.

The News—No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure is—and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package. For this reason mothers and others should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and note in the medicine else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those who know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and see. No goldon marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure; simply refuse to accept any other. Sold by Warner's Pharmacy.

BOOSINGER BROS.

On the authority of the census of 1900 there were then in the United States 1,217,124 persons born in Italy or of Italian parentage. The Italian Chamber of Commerce of New York city took a census for itself in 1904 and found that the Italians in New York state numbered 486,176. According to George C. Spiranza there was in New York city savings banks at that time $15,000,000 of the saved money of Italian immigrants, and 4,000 of them owned real estate worth $20,000,000. There were 10,000 stores kept by Italians worth $7,000,000 more, and a wholesale business in their hands worth $7,500,000. The property of the Italian colony in New York city is calculated at $60,000,000, and according to a newspaper report before me this is much below the valuation of their holdings in St. Louis, San Francisco, Chicago and Boston. I know, as all know, says Baron Mayor des Planches in Appleton's Magazine, that the only criminality of the Italian is the crime of quick anger, unprovoked and open, which is inherent in the blood and breed, but which is never committed except under strong provocation. This is not written to prove the Italians a nation of model men. Our one fault is our own; we are sons of Adam like the rest, but our weakness is not of the crawling, skulking, or conspiring kind. Bad it is and deplorable it is, but we hope to overcome it and to live it down.

Statistics from the great educational institutions of the country are significant as indicating the extent to which America is enlightening the world in this way. There is hardly a university or college which does not number among its students some from other countries, and in several instances the number of foreigners is notable, says Troy Times. Columbia, for instance, reports that it has 150 men representing 30 countries other than the United States. Canada contributes 31, while Japan is a good second, with 24. China, Persia, far-off New Zealand and other remote districts figure in the exhibit, which also includes young men from every one of the leading countries of Europe, the West Indies and Central and South America. And there are other institutions with similar showing American education is leaving the world's intelligence.

There used to be told a comical story about a judge who occasionally, when off the bench, yielded to temptation and imbibed too freely for his own good. The tale went on to tell that on one occasion the worthy man having dissipated to an extent regarded by the judge as scandalous, the offender arraigned himself at the bar, where a plea of guilty was entered and the jurist imposed an exemplary fine upon himself. There seems to have been a similar working of conscience down in Mississippi, where a grand jury indicted every one of its own members for violating the Sunday law, with the result that the culprits were arraigned in court and were fined $10 apiece. That grand jury certainly furnished proof of sincerity when it "gave up" so readily.

Honey bees are generally credited with instinctive skill in making the cells of the comb hexagonal in shape, but it is probable that this construction is merely the ordinary result of mechanical laws. Solitary bees at ways make circular cells, and the bees in a hive no doubt make them circular also, but mechanical pressure forces them into a hexagonal form. A well-known naturalist, in speaking of the matter, says that all cylinders made of soft, pliable substances become hexagonal under such circumstances.

In England interest has been shown of late by the army and navy authorities in a new method of preserving flour by means of compression. With hydraulic pressure apparatus the flour is squeezed into the form of bricks, and experiments are reported to have shown that the pressure destroys all forms of larval life, thus preserving the flour from the ravages of insects, while it is equally secure from mold. Three hundred pounds of compressed flour occupy the same space as 100 pounds of flour in the ordinary state.

The National Co-Operative declared that there would be more Rockefeller in the world if the young men would devote as much time to money-making as they do to "rocking." Perhaps, but is anybody clamoring for any more Rockefeller?

Former President Loubet of France complains that the people of his country have forgotten him. It is evident that he finds it impossible to get any of the magazines to publish his articles on fishing.

A BILL TO STOP THE BREAKING OF SCHOOL TEACHERS' CONTRACTS.

STATE STONE BREAKING

Matters of Note and Comment Gathered Here and There About the State.
Teachers Must Stick.
The next pretty schoolmarm who violates her contract will get into trouble. So many complaints have come in to the department of public instruction because of teachers who make a contract with one school board and then jump to another, that the department is now offering more pay, somewhere else, than Rep. Perry, of Osceola, introduced a drastic bill which has been reported by the committee on education. The bill provides that any contract made by a teacher covering a term for any part of which he or she is already under contract, shall be void, and no school money shall be paid on one contract made in violation of another. The department of public instruction is given authority to suspend or revoke the certificate of any teacher who has violated his or her contract.

Make Prisoners Crush Stone.
Senator Moriarty, of Crystal Falls, and Representative Stannard, of Iron, in whose district Keweenaw county is located, introduced Highway Commissioner Earle's bill for a trap-rock-crushing prison in Keweenaw county. The sum of $200,000 may be spent in building the prison, which shall be known as the state penitentiary, and shall confine the more dangerous class of criminal. The prison shall be built by the labor of 100 prisoners from Marquette, Jackson and Ionia, and when built the work of rock crushing for road purposes shall begin. The state will pay freight on rock delivered; the localities shall pay demurrage.

Allison Wants a Parole.
Mrs. John Allison, wife of John Allison, who escaped from Jackson prison after he had been convicted of the Richmond bank robbery, and went to Wabash, where he married, is in Kalamazoo in her husband's interests. Allison claims, and so does his wife, that he has been a model man since his escape, and that he should be paroled. She has a 2-year-old daughter, born to her and Allison, and for whom Allison is said to be grieving his heart out. Mrs. Allison has a petition signed by 400 residents of Moline, Ill., testifying to Allison's ideal conduct while in that city.

Twenty-eight Children.
The ancient Mother Goose nursery rhyme of "There was an old woman who lived in a shoe," familiar to every generation and all nationalities, is amply illustrated in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Tatro, of Standish. The twenty-eight edition has arrived, and revealed just as warm a welcome as did the first. If an ordinary dining-room was used, breakfast would reach into the supper time, while one squad were waiting for the others to eat, so an extra large room is used, and it costs $10 a sitting to fill all the hungry mouths. At least, this is the statistical view of the matter.

Allegan County Quilty.
One of the oddest methods of disposing of a case of drunkenness on record in Allegan county was used by Justice Milton Chase, of Otsego. He let a prisoner off on suspended sentence on his agreeing in writing to acknowledge himself a liar in any court in Michigan, and be prepared to take the punishment for perjury if he ever drinks anything containing a particle of alcohol or buys the same for others while in this state. The name of the prisoner has been suppressed.

Adverse Possession.
Senator Traver succeeded by quietness in passing a bill of great importance, which was signed by Gov. Warner. It prevents any person from obtaining title to any part of public property in adverse possession. Any one encroaching on a street can be moved off at any time in the future. In one of the lower townships of Wayne a street can be straightened only at an expense of $25,000, because encroaching property owners have adverse possession.

The Rapids Dissatisfied.
Citizens of Grand Rapids do not feel that the United States army engineers sent there to study flood conditions fully appreciate the importance or greatness of the problem presented to them. Without saying good-bye to board of trade, citizens committee or mayor they returned to their stations, Col. Lydacker and Maj. Keller going to Detroit and Col. Townsend to Cleveland. They were in the city just 24 hours.

In passing through a gate the hammer of a gun carried by O. R. Stone, of Smith's Creek, struck a post, exploding, the charge and sending it through his brain.

While Clement Randall was acting as substitute for Albert Barber, rural mail carrier near Bay City, he was stricken with paralysis, falling out of his rig and was found in the mud and water beside the road nearly dead several hours later. He was given the best medical attendance, but died shortly after. He was 59 years old and leaves a widow, two daughters and one son.

A sleek looking brindle bulldog, evidently of refined tastes, as he wore a stand-up collar and altogether had quite a prepossessing appearance, is treating Hemlock to a select dish of mad dog scalp.

KENT CITY.
Business Section and Twenty Homes Destroyed by Fire.

Sparks from a Pere Marquette locomotive started a fire which, fanned by a strong north wind, swept through the town, totally destroying every business place, ten in number, laying waste twenty homes, including the best residences, razed the town hall, depot, First M. E. church and post-office. Flames eating into O. A. Fuller's furniture store were discovered at 9 o'clock. Before the flames could be quenched other buildings in the vicinity had caught, and in a twinkling the fire was raging through the whole business district. Both sides of Main and Church streets were aflame by 10 o'clock, and Grand Rapids was appealed to for aid. Steamers came on a special train.

The fire fighting apparatus was of no assistance, as the fire had gotten beyond control. The Kent City hotel was soon in flames and in a few minutes totally burned. By 11 o'clock it was seen that to fight the blaze was useless, and the people, panic-stricken, fled to their homes in an effort to save their furniture. The streets are piled high with household goods, the most of which is ruined by water and the intense heat. These are the homes destroyed: Residences of C. F. Parks, W. W. Butler, M. D. Gardner, A. H. Smith and fifteen others.

The business places which are gone are: J. P. Burham's drug store, R. A. Sid's millinery store, Fuller's furniture store, Anderson's blacksmith shop, Keller's wagon factory, Elmer Romer's general store, H. S. Power's general store, Squire's drug store and other minor stores. The town hall is also destroyed.

The Bryant Disappearance.
Double disappearance—this may be the development in the case of Lora A. Bryant, the State Normal student who dropped out of sight on Monday morning of last week. Saturday her father, George Bryant, of Dowling, was missing. Mr. Bryant left Ypsilanti for Battle Creek Friday afternoon to interview a mail clerk at Battle Creek relative to his statement that he sat at the same table at a restaurant with a girl of Miss Bryant's description. Not a word has been heard from Mr. Bryant since.

It is known that Mr. Bryant was on the verge of nervous prostration when he left there for Battle Creek. It was his intention to go on to his home at Dowling from Battle Creek. Efforts to communicate with his home today were futile.

Voice of Absent Son.
Alex. Shirras, of Scotland, who has been chief engineer in Cape Town, Africa, for some years, has been visiting his brother, James Shirras, of Muir. They had not seen each other for twenty years. When Alex left for Scotland, where he is to return to Africa, he carried with him several song-records of the Edison phonograph, which the brothers sang into the machine. The old folks at home will hear the actual voices of the brothers, one of whom they have not seen for twenty years, and also that of his American wife, whom they have never seen.

Church Burned.
Fire destroyed the Methodist Episcopal church in Menominee and two firemen were severely injured in the collapse of the steeple. The loss is $10,000. A strong wind was blowing and large embers were carried for blocks. The Baptist church and the home of Dr. Benj. T. Phillips were set on fire, and the fire department of Marquette was called upon to help, thus saving both of these structures. Firemen Sam Claffoss and Charles Cornely are in a critical condition in the hospital.

Mysterious Cave.
The mysterious action of two Syrians, who two years ago bought the Hassing farm, three miles from Samaria village, aroused the suspicions of the neighboring farmers, and they investigated. They found that during the winter the men dug a cave, entrance to which was gained through a tunnel starting under a chicken coop. The underground room was a large one, and was carefully boarded up, to prevent eaving in. When the men found out their cave had been discovered they fled and cannot be found.

The Minnehaha Lost.
It is believed in Ludington that the mystery of the wreckage sighted by several steamers off Little Point Sable last week is solved and that the little schooner, Minnehaha, of Muskegon, has gone down. The Minnehaha left Ludington for Muskegon with a cargo of lumber on April 13 and has not since been heard from. Considerable lumber was floating among the wreckage. The boat was owned by Capt. Hans Michelson, of North Muskegon, and carried a small crew.

Lie Was Useless.
Fred Clark, a young man accused of raising a pay check, informed Judge West when he pleaded guilty that it was his first offense. The judge was inclined to leniency, appointing an officer to report on the advisability of placing him on probation. Clark's statement proved untrue, however, if being found that he was wanted in Ottawa county. He was sentenced to Ionia reformatory for from five to fourteen years.

Tom Donovan, for years a leading undertaker of Charlotte, and a brother of ex-Mayor Donovan, is in a precarious condition from a stroke of paralysis he suffered when he heard that his life-long friend, Alvin Cole, was dead. Cole was proprietor of the Thornapple lake resort.

Roy Eastman, Tip Queer, Guy Lutz and Artie Stropogie, aged from 10 to 13 years, all of Sturgis, skipped from school, caught a freight and started for the wild west. Al La Grange the sheriff got after them, and they returned. Their combined capital, when they started, was four cents.

SIDE LIGHTS ON MICHIGAN

TWO EATON COUNTY FARMERS NEARLY 70 YEARS OLD TO BE TRIED.

MURDER OF JOHN BOUTS.

Levi and Charles Tubbs, Father and Uncle of George Tubbs, to Stand Trial for Conspiracy to Kill.

History of the Case.
The first criminal case to be tried in circuit court, Charlotte, will be the murder charge against Levi and Charles Tubbs, father and uncle respectively of George Tubbs, now serving a life sentence for the killing of Contractor John Bouts in November, 1904. Both men are nearly 70 years old. Before the Bouts shooting the family were rich, but the trial of the son made it necessary to put a mortgage on the farm, which is one of the finest in the county.

The prosecution will attempt to prove that the trio entered into a conspiracy and that the old men are equally guilty with the boy who fired the fatal shot. The defense will contend that the old men did not know that George had a weapon and that the belief that shooting was necessary was the product of his own mind. On the trial of the young man he swore that he shot to protect his aged father, whom Bouts threatened to strike with an uplifted club. George bought the revolver in Nashville the day before the murder, which occurred on a Sunday morning, and the prosecution will try to prove that the weapon was purchased with the understanding that it would be used the next day to prevent Bouts and his men from working on Sunday.

After the shot was fired Powers and Bigley, Bouts' workmen, picked up the wounded man and lifted him into the wagon and drove away. He died before the men reached the road. The defendants dragged the tools of the ditcher out in the road and put back the rail fence and started for the house, where George was arrested a couple of hours later. The two elder Tubbs were taken into custody a few days later, but were afterward released on bail.

George will be brought from Jackson to testify for his father and Uncle Charles and in all probability tell the jury that the old gentlemen knew nothing about the weapon, which he claims he bought to shoot a troublesome dog. There is considerable local sentiment against trying the old men, but in Kalamazoo, where the Tubbs farm is located, the sentiment is against the old men, it being the general belief in that section that the father and the uncle are really more to blame than George, who mentally is a weakling and who has been a quiet and peaceful man all his life.

"Uncle Charley" is a bachelor and has a reputation for being quarrelsome, and many lay the present trouble to his aggressiveness. Levi has more friends than Charley and George has more sympathizers than both his father and uncle combined. In view of the wide publicity given the case both at the time of the tragedy and the trial of the young man, considerable trouble will undoubtedly be experienced in getting a jury.

The Short Curtain.
White Pigeon's short curtain sensation had an echo recently when Rev. C. H. Anderson was granted a decree of divorce and was given the custody of his children on the grounds alleged. Rev. Mr. Anderson engaged Evangelist Leo E. Allen in December, 1904, to conduct evangelistic services at White Pigeon, the evangelist being a guest at the preacher's home while in that town. One night he said he peeked under a short curtain and saw his wife and Allen in a compromising position. He went and got two of his church members to look so that they might be witnesses. Rev. Mr. Allen was acquitted of any wrongdoing at a church trial in Gratiot county. Mrs. Anderson always denied the story. Both were present during the divorce proceedings but neither testified.

Ex-Congressman Stephenson.
A friend of ex-Congressman Sam Stephenson, of Menominee, brings word to Lansing that the old Republican war horse and millionaire lumber operator is nearly at the end of his days. It is a case of old age slowly but surely sapping his vitality. Michigan never sent a more picturesque character to congress than Sam Stephenson or one who in his bluff, hearty way could get more things for his district. He was elected four times.

The Board Quit.
The Big Rapids board of public works has quit. The members feel they were snubbed by Mayor Wright, the council and city attorney. The board of public works suggested that bonds be issued for $5,000 for pumping station improvements. The city attorney says the city has gone the charter limit in appropriations.

The mad dog scare of a couple of weeks ago in Dundee was proven to be genuine when a cow, owned by Clarence Stowell, was taken with convulsions as it was being led to water. It showed all the signs of hydrophobia and had to be killed. Rep. Dennis Murray is proprietor of the Keeley Institute in Grand Rapids. He has introduced a bill raising the salaries of the aldermen and police judge of Grand Rapids. A new Michigan law permits sending drunks to a jail, and the question now is, where will the local police judge send the drunks that are arrested.

THREE DEAD.

Mother Returns Home to Find Children Burned to Death.

While Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hicks, of Port Huron, were down town on a shopping tour Saturday night their three children were burned to death, presumably through the explosion of a can of gasoline. The charred and blackened remains were found by the mother upon her return. Hicks, when he arrived at the house, found his wife unconscious beside the dead children, with the 15-months-old baby moaning in its death agony.

The parents locked and bolted the door of the kitchen when they started down town. The eldest child was a girl, Ethel, 11 years old, then came Joseph, a boy of 9, and Ralph, the baby boy.

Just how the accident occurred is a mystery. A can of gasoline was in the house and it is believed that the children placed it upon the stove and touched a match to it to see the blaze. Hicks called the neighbors, Carrners Falk and Schwikert and Under-sheriff Davidson were summoned. After looking into the case the officers decided it was an accident and will not hold an inquest.

Hicks is a molder employed at the Malleable Iron works. He is heart-broken over the tragedy and his wife is in a serious condition.

Died in Battle.
Mrs. Thieme, a well known resident of St. Joseph, has been notified that her son John, was among the slain in a recent battle between the troops of Honduras and Nicaragua. Johnnie Thieme left St. Joe several years ago, and knocked about the world, wherever there appeared to be a chance of adventure. He wrote home occasionally, but for the past year no one knew where he was. In the course of his wanderings he arrived in Central America about the time the war broke out, and he immediately became a soldier. The news of his death was sent by a chum of Thieme's. The remains were given a decent burial by the natives, who have a wholesome respect for Americans.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

Dutch dialect monologues and songs are interwoven between dry campaign speeches by Gerrit Diekema, Republican candidate for congress. Jackson physicians fear Clifford Stuttler, aged 14 years, may lose the sight of one or both his eyes as a result of a piece of a dynamite cap which the lad exploded hitting him in the face.

Neither the undertakers of Inland or at Honor had a casket large enough to hold the remains of Mrs. Luther, and a casket factory of Traverse City had to build one of extra large dimensions for her. Thirteen Sunday schools have united in an organization known as the Saginaw City Sunday School association, and will work to extend Sunday school work throughout the city, regardless of denomination.

Rev. J. Murray Taylor, pastor of Christ church, Saginaw, who is being sued for damages by Mrs. M. C. Eastman, denies ever attempting to kiss or hug the complainant, who is a former member of his flock. Samuel Robinson, statistician of the Michigan State Firemen's association, is sending out circulars calling the attention of Michigan firemen to the thirty-third annual convention to be held in Detroit June 7, 8 and 9. Guy Northrup, of Detroit, is chairman of the entertainment committee.

Fred A. Jelley, of Alpena county, is back home and relates his unpleasant experience of being detained at Ellis Island by United States government officials, on his return from England, on the charge that he was not a resident of this country. Congressman Loud straightened matters out for Jelley.

Some of the farmer members of the house are kicking about the binder twine bill. They claim it is drawn in the interests of the retail dealers of the state, and does not give the farmer any preference in buying his twine from the prison. An attempt will be made to iron out the proposition when the bill reaches the senate. Word has just been received from Omaha, Neb., that a private tourist car filled with passengers, many from Elmira, is side-tracked in the railroad yards there, and quarantined. Diphtheria has attacked three passengers and the railroad company refuses to carry the car on to California, and the hospitals won't admit the sick.

Grieving over a disappointment of an adverse law suit, Mrs. Lucinda Smith, aged 70 years, a resident of Kalamazoo for more than half a century, is dead. Mrs. Smith had deeded her home to a local man and wife, and was to receive in return $1,000 cash and a home for life. She alleged she never received the money. She had been living with friends. Alpena's "Carrie Nation," Mrs. Anna Orban, is again on the warpath. She went into John Smoock's saloon, attempted to drive the bartender out with a big hammer, was herself ejected and then broke the window in the door with her fist. A warrant has been issued for Mrs. Orban on the charge of maliciously destroying property. Mrs. Orban, last September, went into the same saloon, ousted everybody in the place, and with two friends, held the saloon and restaurant in the basement four days before the sheriff could gain possession.

Charles Welmar, a Newton township farmer, became unconscious after having had a big molar tooth extracted. The physicians say he suffered concussion of the brain from the shock. Allegan high school boys caught a rat, tied the school colors to it, and turned it loose in the school. They had great sport watching the girls do skirt dances on their desks. Jerome Bauerle, a well known man of Kalamazoo, is suing the Michigan Central railroad for $25,000 for the loss of one of his limbs, which was severed from his body when he was run over by a Michigan Central train some time ago. He alleges that...

MOTHERHOOD IN DISTRESS

MRS. THAW AND MRS. HOLMAN ARE TO MEET IN INTEREST OF HARRY.

EVELYN MAY ASSIST.

Coming Together.
Drawn to each other by the subtle instinct of motherhood—a distress Mrs. Wm. Thaw plans a reconciliation with Mrs. Charles J. Holman, mother of Mrs. Harry K. Thaw, according to statements made to friends by Mrs. Thaw since her arrival in Pittsburgh.

The importance and significance of such a move on future developments in the case of Harry K. Thaw, who is waiting in the Tombs for his second trial, are great, and friends of the prisoner hope for the very best results from it. In brief, after Mrs. William Thaw goes to her summer home, in Creston, Mrs. Holman will be invited to go there and have a friendly talk with her hostess. There is every reason to believe that Mrs. Holman will be a valuable adjunct to the forces of the defense in the next trial of young Thaw.

Friends of Mrs. Thaw hope for even more. They believe Mrs. Holman can be induced to take the stand in behalf of her son-in-law; that information of inestimable value may be secured from her. Mrs. Holman's statement, given out last Tuesday, is the primary cause for this sudden change in the situation. It is said, and awakened a response in Mrs. Thaw's breast. Mrs. William Thaw now realizes that she thought too harshly of Mrs. Holman.

Now that Mrs. Holman has shown herself ready to take her daughter into her own home and to aid her in every way possible, the young Mrs. Thaw may be called to Creston to aid in the adjustment of the situation. Mrs. William Thaw's daughter, the countess of Yarmouth, will have assigned to her the delicate task of making the first overtures to Mrs. Holman, according to the present plans.

FAMOUS CHURCH.

Mexico City's Grand Cathedral Damaged by Quake.
It has been discovered that the Cathedral of Mexico City, one of the largest and most famous churches in the world, was cracked from top to bottom by the recent earthquake. The fissure is an eighth of an inch wide. An engineer has been appointed to examine the building.

The cathedral is centuries old. It is built on the old site of the Aztec temple, and is the largest and most sumptuous church in America. It towers above the other public buildings grouped about the central plaza of the city. It faces the north side of the plaza. This edifice, founded by the Spaniards in 1573, and finished in 1657, cost $2,000,000 for the walls alone. It is built in the form of a Greek cross, 426 feet long by 203 feet wide. There are two great naves, three aisles and 24 side chapels. The magnificent high altar is supported by marble columns, and is surrounded by a tumbago balustrade with 62 statues of the same rich gold, silver and copper alloy serving as candlesticks.

The elaborately carved choir is enclosed in tumbago railings weighing 20 tons, and valued at $1,500,000. The interior of the cathedral is in Doric style, the exterior in Renaissance. The structure is adorned with a fine dome and two open towers, 218 feet high. At the foot of the left tower is placed the famous calendar stone, the most interesting relic of Aztec culture.

Jamestown Exposition.
From the standpoint of location, beauty of surroundings and historic interest, the Jamestown Ter-Centennial exposition, at which Michigan may be represented by a structure of her own, will easily surpass all previous efforts of the kind, causing the exposition at Chicago and St. Louis to, in some respects, pale into insignificance by comparison.

The great show will be opened at noon Friday, President Roosevelt officiating in the inauguration ceremony, and will close November 30, at midnight. Located in the heart of a region teeming with wartime memories, and more than ordinarily attractive from a scenic standpoint, the exposition is expected to draw millions of persons to the shores of Hampton Roads. It is held to commemorate the landing of the first permanent English settlers in America.

Enormous Death Rate.

There were 5,000 deaths from the plague in India during the week ending April 13. Seventy thousand of these occurred in Bengal, the United Provinces and the Punjab. The epidemic began in the Punjab in October, 1897, since when nearly a million and a half of deaths have occurred.

Royal Mudge, of Charlotte, has been tendered the appointment from the district to the naval academy at Annapolis and will accept. Mudge was second in the competitive examination for admission to West Point at the recent examination held at Albion and his showing at that time prompted Congressman Gardner to offer him the place, which is open through a vacancy.

Fire totally destroyed the farm house of John Gordon, a farmer living near Wilcox. The fire originated from a defective chimney. Loss estimated at $1,500.

CHANCERY ORDER - State of Michigan Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, in Chancery.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in Chancery and captioned as follows: A. D. 1907. Margaret A. Schopf, Complainant, vs. John Jacob Schopf, Defendant. In this case it appearing from the affidavit on file that the defendant John Jacob Schopf is not a resident of this State, and after diligent search his residence cannot be ascertained, on motion of the complainant's solicitor, it is ordered that the appearance of said non-resident defendant, John Jacob Schopf, be entered hereto, within five months of the date of this order; and in case of his appearance he cause his answer to the bill of complaint to be filed, and a copy thereof to be served on the complainant's solicitor, within fifteen days after service on him of a copy of said bill of complaint and notice of order; and in default thereof, said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-resident defendant. And it is further ordered that within twenty days the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix County Herald, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said County and that said publication be continued therein, once in each week, for six weeks in succession, or that she cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendant at least twenty days before the above prescribed for his appearance.

 A farewell party was given Mrs. E.
 F. Steffes by the lady Maccabees and a number of guests, at their Hall Monday evening, April 22nd, the occasion being her early departure for Washington state, where her husband has preceded her. Efficiencies spent the evening very pleasantly with progressive fitch and euche, prizes being won by Mrs. Kime, Mrs. Whittington, Bertha Shier and May Miles. A delicious luncheon was served to add to the social feature. Mrs. L. C. Maderson in behalf of the company presented the honored guest with a souvenir of esteem. Mrs. Steffes has lived here since a girl and has a great number of friends who will miss her genial company. The L. O. T. M. M. of which she is an honored member will have one more vacant chair.

Arthur Graves purchased a new

 Mrs. James Stackus of Boyne City visited at Chas. Haddock's a few days last week.
 Misses Stella and Mabel Shepard visited at their home in Wilson a few

 Mr. Brown, who purchased Joel Sutton's farm, has just arrived in Wilson, driving through from the southern part of the state.
 A large number of Wilson Grangers attended the Pomona meeting held with South Arm Grange last Thursday and Friday. They report a large attendance and a good meeting.
 Mrs. Godfrey held a party at her home Saturday evening in honor of her son Reuben. Not a large crowd, but a pleasant time was enjoyed by all present.
 Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Smith were so unfortunate as to lose their house and contents by fire last Tuesday evening.
 The fire, which was supposed to have caught from a short chimney in the kitchen, spread so rapidly that little was saved but the piano, cupboard and a few other articles. Mr. Smith, who was working in East Jordan, arrived too late to be of any assistance. The loss is total, there being no insurance.

The Evolution of Household Remedies.

The modern patent medicine business is the natural outgrowth of the old-time household remedies. In the early history of this country, EVERY FAMILY HAD ITS HOME-MADE MEDICINES. Herb-teas, bitters, laxatives and tonics, were to be found in almost every house, compounded by the housewife, sometimes assisted by the apothecary or the family doctor. Such remedies as picra, which was aloes and quassia, dissolved in apple brandy. Sometimes a hop tonic, made of whiskey, hops and bitter barks. A score or more of popular, home-made remedies were thus compounded, the formulas for which were passed along from house to house, sometimes written, sometimes verbally communicated.

The patent medicine business is a natural outgrowth from this wholesome, old-time custom. In the beginning, some enterprising doctor, impressed by the usefulness of one of these home-made remedies, would take it up, improve it in many ways, manufacture it on a large scale, advertise it mainly through almanacs for the home, and thus it would become used over a large area. LATTERLY THE HOUSEHOLD REMEDY BUSINESS TOOK A MORE EXACT AND SCIENTIFIC FORM.

Peruna was originally one of these old-time remedies. It was used by the Menonites, of Pennsylvania, before it was offered to the public for sale. Dr. Hartman, THE ORIGINAL COMPOUNDER OF PERUNA, is of Menonite origin. First, he prescribed it for his neighbors and his patients. The sale of it increased, and at last he established a manufactory and furnished it to the general drug trade. Peruna is useful in a great many climatic ailments, such as coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, and catarrhal diseases generally. THOUSANDS OF FAMILIES HAVE LEARNED THE USE OF PERUNA and its value in the treatment of these ailments. They have learned to trust and believe in Dr. Hartman's judgment, and to rely on his remedy, Peruna.

GONE FOREVER.

Ten years ago a farmer put his initials on a dollar bill. The next day he went to the nearest town and spent it with a merchant. Before the year was out he got the dollar back. Four times in six years the dollar came back to him for produce and three times he heard of it in the pocket of his neighbors.

The last time he got it back four years ago. He sent it to a small order house. He never has seen that dollar since, and never will. That dollar bill will never pay any more school or road tax for him, will never build or brighten any of the homes of the community. He sent it entirely out of the circle of his usefulness to himself and his neighbors.

Patrons of our local merchant who helps you to pay your taxes, support your schools and churches, and leads a helpful hand in times of sickness and trouble.

Great Stunt by Geronimo.
In a single day Geronimo, when in his prime, ran 49 miles on foot, rode 500 miles on one stretch, as fast as he could change horses, and so completely wore out the column which finally captured him that tens of thousands of officers were needed to finish the chase, and not more than one-third of the troops who started were in at the finish, says a writer in Outlook.

Wrinkled and crafty and cruel is his swarthy face today, but the fire of his infernal energy has died and he is no more than a relic of the Geronimo of whom Gen. Miles said after their first meeting:

"He rode into our camp and dismounted a prisoner. He was one of the brightest, most resolute, determined men I ever met, with the sharpest, clearest dark eye. Every movement showed power and energy."

Spent $330 on Doctors and Remedies but Got No Relief—Cuticura Cures in a Week.

"Upon my limbs and between the toes my skin was rough and sore, and also sore under the arms, and I had to stay at home several times because of this affliction. Up to a week or so ago I had tried many other remedies and several doctors, and spent about three hundred dollars, without any success, but this is to-day the seventh day that I have been using the Cuticura Remedies (costing a dollar and a half), which have cured me completely, so that I can again attend to my business. I went to work again to-night. I had been suffering for eight years and have now been cured by the Cuticura Remedies within a week. Fritz Hirschblatt, 24 Columbus Ave., New York, N. Y., March 23 and April 6, 1906."

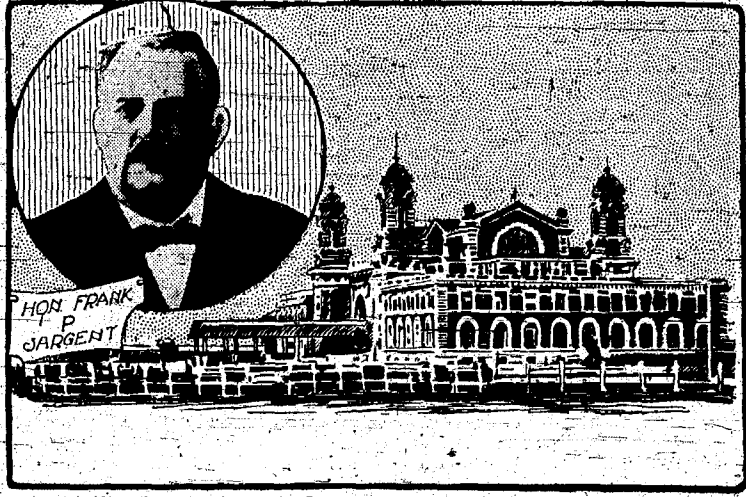

Custom Strict in Japan.

Society is very strict in Japan about the little matters of hairdressing, and would hold the woman who would neglect to abide by the prevailing custom. Not alone in the better classes, but among the poorer people as well, the eligible young woman, the widow who wishes to marry again, and the widow who doesn't, may always be distinguished by the way in which they dress their hair.—Modern Society.

BROADCASTING

The IMMIGRANT

IMMIGRANT STATION AT ELLIS ISLAND, NEW YORK.

If there is one place the newly-arrived immigrant is not needed it is in the large cities where a large portion of the incoming horde has shown a tendency to herd. Especially is this true of New York, where over eight-tenths of the immigration to this country is landed. This concentration of the multitudes from every nation and clime in the already congested portion of the city is a disease-breeding and crime-encouraging condition, and is doing more to delay the healthy assimilation of the immigrant and hinder his development into a useful American citizen than any other circumstance. Concentration of the newly-arrived foreign element in the large cities of the country is a real menace to the future of those cities and the country at large. The federal government has long realized this and has at last determined on steps looking to a correction of this tendency. Instead of concentration we are to have dissemination. Instead of letting them take root in the cities to grow up a foreign plant in American soil, the effort is to be made to broadcast them over the sections of the country where better living can be had for them and where their Americanization will be made more easy and certain.

The plan devised under the direction of Frank P. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration, is to establish a division of information under the immigration bureau, whose purpose shall be to place the immigrant coming to this country in the place where he is needed and wanted. It is expected that this new department will be ready to begin work by the first of July, and already useful information regarding the resources, products and physical characteristics of each state and territory is being gathered and tabulated, preparatory to being published in different languages so that it may be placed in the hands of the incoming aliens as soon as they land and may aid them in choosing a place and a destiny in the wonderful promised land to which they have come with such expectant hope.

As a further means of bringing states that want immigrants, and immigrants that want homes into touch with each other, the plan further provides that the states and territories will be permitted to send to the immigrant stations agents who shall be given access to all newly admitted aliens. These official promoters will point out to the newcomers the special inducements for settlement offered by their respective states.

Some of the states, particularly those of the south, already maintain immigration bureaus, and these will appoint the agents sent to the immigrant stations. Other states desiring immigrants are expected to organize such bureaus before July 1. Practically the whole of this educational campaign will be waged at the Ellis Island station, New York. Through its portals passed last year 880,000 of the 1,057,000 aliens admitted to this land of ours.

How very badly immigrants are wanted in many sections of the south and west, is disclosed in the urgent appeals which Mr. Sargent has been receiving. These come especially from agriculturists, mine owners, manufacturers and railroad officials. A majority of our immigrants are pouring into the sections where they are least wanted and where the least chance of work awaits them, while they are avoiding the sections where they would be welcomed with open arms and given remunerative employment.

Just how this is will be seen by the figures for last year. Over seven-tenths of those passing through the immigrant stations said they were going to settle in already thickly populated centers, and all of this while the clamor for immigrants was coming from thinly populated districts. Over one-third of these aliens said they were going to make their abodes in New York state; more than one-sixth in Pennsylvania, and one-twelfth in Illinois. Almost as many declare themselves bound for Massachusetts, and next ranked New Jersey.

The south in particular wants immigration now. Formerly it fostered nothing less. Its change of sentiment on this subject has been both recent and marked. It offers a broad field for the newcomer with drawn and energy. It has millions of acres of cotton, cane, rice and tobacco lands that have never been cultivated. Indeed, Louisiana alone has 19,000,000 acres of vacant land out of a total of 26,000,000, and it is estimated that not more than one-eighth of the cotton lands of the whole south is under cultivation. In Louisiana there are more than a hundred immigration societies and in Maryland there are still more. But, neither these nor the similar organizations in other southern states are looking for the Hungarians and Russians now flocking into the north in superabundance. The south has been calling for the good old Teutonic and Celtic stock, which, getting the country in its first days—the English, Irish, Welsh, Scotch and Germans, in particular. Yet, climatically speaking, the Italians are, of all our immigrants, those best suited to the south, and moreover they now constitute the largest class of our immigrants. The supply of these far exceeds the demand in the north. They have proved to be successful farmers where they have so far settled in the southern cotton and sugar plantations. The great lumbering companies of the south are also employing them and it is estimated that more than 100,000 are working in the southern Mississippi valley. They have begun to purchase little farms, to build good homes and to put money in the banks. They are found to be prompt in paying debts, and to have improved morally as well as financially since arriving. The founder of these Italians do not wish to return to Italy, which desire has caused their race to be generally disliked in America.

It would seem as though the cream of the old world's peasantry is now nearly skimmed off. Lately there has been a significant increase of persons who under the old law have had to be passed by the immigration surgeons, but who have been marked as "poor physique." This marking has implied that the subject has been undernourished or poorly developed, has feeble heart action, arteries below the standard size, etc. In other words, as one of the surgeons explains, that he has been physically degenerate.

It is to keep these degenerate out that the law gives the examiners far greater scope than ever before for refusing entrance. The degenerate himself is not only unlikely to become a desirable citizen, but it is very likely that he will transmit his undesirable qualities to his offspring. By admitting such aliens we vastly increase our number of public charges. "That the physical and mental quality of the aliens we are now receiving is much below that of those who have come in former years is evident," says Commissioner General Sargent. He recently instituted an investigation of the charitable institutions of the country, and actually found 30,000 alien paupers, including lunatics. In our public institutions besides 5,000 of them supported at public expense. In addition he found in these institutions about 65,000 naturalized foreigners. But the most striking fact gathered by the commissioner general was that while in the United States there are 75 citizens to each alien there are in our insane asylums and poorhouses only six citizens to each alien.

The Music of Man and Birds.

If the discovery of independent evolutions of human music all tending, in the same direction indicates the existence of an ideal standard toward which progress leads, how much stronger is the evidence afforded by the fact that bird music is developing along the same lines! It seems a far cry from a Beethoven symphony or a Wagnerian opera to the simple law of a sparrow, but as we trace the course of the mighty river of music back toward its source the stream becomes narrower and narrower, until it is contracted to a point where it is no broader than the little rill of bird music, writes Henry Oldy in Harper's. Nor does the decrease stop there; for, remarkable as it may seem, there was a time when the music from which ours has been evolved was inferior to some of that which floats to our ears from the woods of spring. This is not to say merely that the songs of certain birds involve more intervals and greater variety, but that they are of a higher order, judged by our own modern standards.

TOWNS BUILT IN A DAY.

When 500 Houses Were Erected Between Sunrise and Sunset.

There recently died in London a gentleman who was concerned in perhaps the most notable instance of rapid town creation. This was George Chesterton Cornwell, one of the early pioneers of Australian colonization in Victoria. It was half a century ago that he went out to the colonies to try his luck. He was there at the time of the great gold rush in Victoria, and took an active part in the laying out of Canvas town, at Emerald Hill. This town was literally built in a day. Incredible as it may seem, ample accommodation for 80,000 persons was provided in the space of 20 hours.

The town of Custer, named after a United States general in Colorado, came into existence in a single day. It consists of some 500 wooden houses, all of which were constructed between sunrise and sunset. Material was shipped in from factories in the state, whole sections of wooden walls, beams, joists and roofs in two pieces having been made from carefully prepared plans and exact specifications.

Each piece of each building was numbered and laid in order near the site it was to occupy, so that it could be the more readily handled. As in the building of King Solomon's temple, all the pieces were made to fit each other, the work of construction being, therefore, only a matter of fitting the pieces together and driving a few spikes. The site had all been cleared and leveled in advance, and 2,000 men in addition to the settlers, were engaged in the building of the town. The largest of the houses was a boarding house, which was two stories high, and shops were erected for bakers, butchers and other tradesmen.

In Oklahoma more than one town sprang up in a day. Thomas City was a case in point. Indeed, according to report, it came into being in a single afternoon. Within a few hours 3,000 persons were comfortably settled and business was set in motion. A newspaper was likewise printed and circulated among the new community, and a big birthday celebration was held the following day.

Another Oklahoma "boom town" which "ran up like magic" is Snyder. It was born on a Friday. In anticipation of that interesting event thousands of people flocked to the place, among whom were shop keepers, land agents and many others who were anxious to secure the best sites on the natal day.

Until then nobody was allowed to enter the town area. At sunset on the Thursday Snyder was nothing but a name, for it was minus houses, railway and inhabitants. But soon after sunrise next morning fully 10,000 persons were on the spot. The town was rapidly mapped out, the erection of buildings was in progress, trains were running; a railway station had been erected; while two hotels, three banks and a number of shops were each doing quite a brisk business.

Pity the Poor Millionaire.

The multi-millionaire looked sad. To the body of men who had approached him for a large donation he said: "I am sorry to refuse, gentlemen, but even I feel unconsciously poor to-night."

"Doubtless," said the spokesman, "we have come too late, you have already given away vast sums to some other charity."

"No," said the multi-millionaire, and this time real tears stood in his eyes; "not that. My wife has been buying a new hat."—Judge.

The Wily Partridge.

Every creature has a wonderful faculty for determining at what distance a man, or anything else, is able to strike, its capacities in this direction being far more marked than many care to acknowledge.

For instance, as firearms have been improved, the keener has become the watchfulness of partridges. They have not been slow to recognize the advantages which the modern chokebore affords the modern gunner.

Delights of Rhodesian Life.

Mr. Trollip's farm, near Ft. Gibbs, has been visited by two rhinoceroses lately. They are very truculent in their behavior and are doing heavy damage to his crops, besides being a source of danger to all on the farm. Mrs. Trollip was also surprised by a crocodile when fishing on the farm. The reptile plunged into the water from the opposite bank, and made straight toward her.—Rhodesia Herald.

For Better American Coinage.

The American Numismatic and Archaeological society advocates an expenditure of $100,000 by the United States in obtaining new designs for coinage. According to the society, $10,000 should be appropriated for each of the ten denominations, of which awards of $1,000 each should be given to the six best designers for each coin and an award of $4,000 to the winner of the six in each class.

Indians Need No Sympathy.

Of the 183,000 Indians outside of Indian territory, 116,000 wear civilized dress, 70,000 speak the language, and 38,000 are members of regularly established churches. They have $35,000,000 in the United States treasury, on which they get $1,725,000 interest every year, and under treaties the government pays them annually $750,000 more.

A MISSOURI WOMAN

Tells a Story of Awful Suffering and Wonderful Relief.

Mrs. J. D. Johnson, of 603 West Hickman St., Columbia, Mo., says: "Following an operation two years ago, dropsy set in, and my left side was so swollen the doctor said he would have to tap out the water. There was constant pain and a gurgling sensation around my heart, and I could not raise my arm above my head. The kidney action was disordered and passages of the secretions too frequent. On the advice of my husband I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Since using two boxes my trouble has not reappeared. This is wonderful, after suffering two years."

AGE TOLD BY THE PULSE.

From Birth to Death the Beats Have a Steady Decrease.

How old are you? Ask your pulse. The human pulse has a wide range, even in perfectly healthy persons. The female pulse always beats faster than the male, and from birth to death the pulse beats steadily decrease. It has been said by great authorities that the age and sex of a person could be ascertained by the rate of the pulse alone. Babies at birth have a pulse beat of 160 times a minute in case of a girl and 150 in the case of boys. At the age of four or five the pulse beats will have fallen respectively to 110 and 100. Males and youths' pulses average 95 and 90. Mature men and women average 80 and 75. Elderly men and women have an average of 60 and 50. An old woman's pulse rarely, if ever, sinks below 50, but among men a pulse beat below 50 is quite common. There are, however, great variations consistent with health. Napoleon's pulse is said to have beaten only 44 times a minute.

BLOOD GETS SOUR.

Gives Advice and Tells of Simple Home Mixture.

At this time of year, says a well-known authority, the kidneys become weak, clogged and inactive, failing to filter out the poisons and acids, which sour the blood, causing not only facial and bodily eruptions, but the worst forms of Rheumatism, Nervous and Stomach troubles, Backache and painful, annoying Urinary affections.

It is worth anyone's time now to get from some good prescription pharmacy the following ingredients: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after your meals and at bedtime.

This simple home-made mixture will force the kidneys to normal, healthy action, so they will filter and strain all uric acid and poisonous waste matter from the blood, and expel this in the urine, at the same time restoring the "full blood count"—that is, 95 per cent. red blood corpuscles—which is absolutely indispensable to perfect health.

HOW CLASSIC WAS WRITTEN.

Bret Harte's Great Poem Result of an Inspiration.

The war correspondent, Frederic Villiers, has recorded a talk with Bret Harte apropos of the poem, "Dickens in Camp." "We all felt his loss most keenly in the States," said Harte.

"On hearing of his death (I sat down about three in the afternoon to write an editorial on the great author. I wrote one and then tore it up. Then another, after much pains, was written. This did not please me, so I tore it up. I wrote yet another and threw it into the waste paper basket; it would not do. It was getting late, and I was now keeping the paper waiting for press. I was drumming on my desk, absolutely without another thought in my head; I had run dry. Suddenly I mechanically began to write and the result was the thing you seem to like so much. Well, Mr. Villiers, you are not far out. I like it, too."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by the Eustachian Tube, when this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or tin-tinged hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be got out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammation of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sent for circulars.

WEIGHT AND HEALTH

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED THE TONIC TREATMENT.

This Woman Took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, Gained Thirty Pounds and Has Been Well Ever Since.

How many women—and men too—are suffering from a general decline in health which the ordinary remedies seem unable to check! How many husbands see their wives wasting away, steadily losing health and beauty, and are powerless to help! Consumption and other germ diseases find in these debilitated systems easy prey, for the lowered vitality is unequal to the task of fighting off the infection of these diseases to which most of us are almost daily exposed.

The symptoms indicating the decline which may have results so fatal could scarcely be better described than in the statement of Mrs. William Manley, of 92 Court street, Utica, N. Y. Her case is a typical one. She says:

"For six months after the birth of my baby, I suffered from sick, dizzy headaches, which seemed like a rush of blood to my forehead, just back of my eyes. Some days they twitched so I could hardly see and black spots floated before them. The least exertion brought on this sickness. My appetite was poor and I was often sick to my stomach. If I tried to work my feet soon became swollen, paining me terribly. I had sinking spells and grew pale and nervous. I was so thin that I weighed only 85 pounds."

"One day when at the drug store to get headache powders I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills instead. I soon noticed that my headache was disappearing and my nerves gradually grew stronger. The pills gave me a hearty appetite and I now weigh over 130 pounds. I believe the pills to be the best tonic and builder a woman can take, as they certainly helped me when my condition was critical and I have never been seriously ill since."

The great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills lies in the fact that they actually make new blood and this carries health and strength to every portion of the body. The stomach is toned up, the nerves are strengthened, every organ is stimulated to do its work.

If you are ill and the treatment you are taking does not cure you, write for proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done in similar cases.

Your druggist sells them if they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

The bishop's reply was marvelously concise. It said:

"Could you bury yourself?"

Discretion or Indiscretion

At the little station an exceptionally large number of Plainville citizens were assembled in honor of the departing bride and groom nervously waiting the arrival of the east-bound limited. Special directions had been telegraphed to the porter to suitably decorate two chairs in the parlor car and upon the arrival of the train at Plainville to give the newly-married couple marked attention. The novelty of this arrangement was highly interesting and furnished the whispered conversation for groups and pairs who fairly roared with laughter in anticipation of the embarrassment in store for the unsuspecting couple.

"All aboard!" rang out the vibrant voice of the conductor, hardly waiting for the train to come to a stop.

With a mad rush for the platform of the train the passengers jostled and stumbled in heedless disregard, and in the midst of a shower of rice and a volley of verbal well-wishes the last passengers took their share of the ill-directed missiles good-naturedly, and disappeared inside of the coaches.

Inadvertently the bride and groom followed close in the wake of a young man and woman who were entering the parlor car. The grinning face of the porter as the door opened met with a speedy retreat, and the bride wheeled about and entered the second coach, leaving the perplexed husband with no choice but to follow. Hurried instructions followed which resulted in the man occupying a seat in one end of the coach and his wife in the other, thus entirely eluding the public respecting their newly acquired relationship.

The face of the porter broadened with a radiant smile as he ostentatiously ushered the entering couple into the decorated chairs bearing unmistakable evidence of premeditated design.

The young woman's preoccupation in struggling with a rebellious veil prevented her from noting the decorations, while the man, eager for novelty, was ready to play the game.

"An unusually thoughtful lot of passengers to-night," commented the woman, surveying the aggregation individually and collectively.

Her eyes caught the ends of a ribbon dangling from a poorly made bow pinned to the back of her companion's chair.

"Mr. Reed!" alarmingly, her face flushed scarlet, "what can we do? They are—that is—they think we are the bride and groom."

"But we are not, are we?" replied the man, indifferently.

"But Mr. —"

"Call me Don," he interrupted, as he leaned forward touched by her appeal, "we can do but one thing."

"What?"

"Play the game. Look like a blushing bride, act well your part, I will mine." His enthusiasm increased as he continued. Her questioning look was met by the unanswerable argument: "To make explanations would only accentuate our embarrassment, besides, who would believe us? The bride and groom are undoubtedly in the rear coach happy in their reasonable act and reveling in the thought of our embarrassment," he concluded, secretly pleased with the arrangement.

"But, Mr. —"

"Married people call each other by their given names, I believe," he interrupted dryly.

"Oh, this is horrid!" she exclaimed. Minerva decided that to reconcile her predicament with the proper maintenance of her dignity, her only course was to play the model bride.

"Do you know," he began, pulling out his watch and replacing it again without looking at it, "whence the custom of rice throwing originated?"

"In China, I suppose, among the heathen," then added: "Is the game too strenuous?"

"No, not too strenuous," he explained. "I was wishing our destination was New York, and not Evanston."

"Why not Japan, Don, or Rome," she laughed coquettishly, her bright eyes flashing with interest.

"Or a trip around the world," he added.

"On two hours' acquaintance?"

"I have known you several years," he ventured, looking into her eyes.

"My memory fails me on that point," she replied, "my first recollection of meeting dates back less than two hours; I believe we were introduced at Mrs. Moulton's dinner party to-day. As you see, Mr. Don, I must quarrel with you on that point."

"I did not mean to quarrel with you, a bride and groom should not quarrel, at least not till their honeymoon is over. You are original, and that is refreshing."

"You are clever," he almost threw at her.

"Don," she spoke the name naturally, "tell me something about yourself."

"Some other time when we are not playing," he answered.

"But," she objected, "there may be no other time."

"There will be," with confidence, "now that I have found you, I am not going to surrender you so easily."

"I am living in Evanston," she volunteered.

"So am I," he answered.

"My friends, what will they think of me to find me escorted by a stranger?"

No, Don, you must leave me in the car; our game ends here.

"Hang your friends!" almost impulsively. "I beg your pardon, my home is in Evanston."

"Of course, I have no objections to your going to your home and if you wish to call to-morrow evening I will introduce you to my people."

"Evanston," was the muffled sound heard from the other end of the coach, and several passengers moved towards the door passing the bride and groom apparent with a curious smile.

"Then to-morrow," she smiled, as she offered her hand which he held for a moment. Donald caught the truth which he read in the glance she gave him, his heart stopped beating, and he felt an irresistible desire to take her in his arms and shower her face and lips with the burning kisses of his passionate love.

The young man waited at a respectful distance in a safe retreat to see his companion's friends carry her away.

No one claimed her, and as the last passenger, after gazing into her face, passed on, Donald hurried to her side with a deep sense of satisfaction.

"Your friends didn't come, Minerva," he said.

"So I see," she replied, almost coldly. "You forget the game is over. I am no longer Minerva."

"May I call a cab?" he questioned, disregarding her rebuke.

"That will not be necessary; my home is only two squares away. I prefer to walk. You may carry my suitcase if you will."

They had reached the house, and were standing near a rosebush where vines were wound around the columns of the veranda. The night was perfect. Peculiar thrills shot through him as his eyes quickly met in mutual understanding. The psychological moment was at hand.

"Minerva, will you listen to me?" caressingly.

"I seem to have no choice," she replied almost timidly.

"Minerva," and he took both her hands in his. "I love you. I have loved you ever since you and my sister were at Radcliff. I wanted to meet you then, but my sister would not let me. Why, I never knew that it was four years ago. Now I am back home again to remain. I had little hopes of finding you here. Then, fervently, and almost reverently: "I love you more than I can tell in words; will you give me a chance?"

He felt her hands trembling in his. She laughed nervously with a quiver in her voice, and looked up into his eyes as he drew her to him.

"Do you know why your sister would not let us meet four years ago?" she questioned. "Well, I will tell you. I saw you often on the campus at Harvard. I saw you at Radcliff when you visited your sister—I was in love with you then—infatuation, your sister called it—she would not let us meet. She said you would never care for me. She was older and wiser, so I reluctantly obeyed."

He held her in his arms now, her face close to his, looking deep into her eyes as they sparkled with the kindling fire of love.

"When do we have our honeymoon?" he whispered.

"When we are both ready," she answered, then added cautiously: "Discretion, you know, is the better part of indiscretion."

MAKING IT EASY FOR HIM.

Hibernian Had Much Consideration for His Creditor.

"One of the queerest bits of Irish wit I ever heard," said a real estate agent, "was perpetrated by a Hibernian friend of mine some years ago.

"He owed one of my clients $400, had been owing it for a long time. The man at last got tired waiting and insisted on having his money. The two met in my office, and, after talking over the matter until my book-keeper bit his cigar in two and was ready to tear out his hair by the roots, the Irishman finally proposed to settle the matter, as he said, by giving a note, and, after many objections, the creditor finally agreed.

"They asked one of my clerks to draw up the note, but when he started to do so the debtor insisted that instead of one note for $400 at 90 days, four notes for $100 each should be made out, at 30, 60, 90 and 120 days.

"The creditor kicked again, but the Irishman was determined, and finally the notes were made out and signed, the creditor put them in his pocketbook and went away.

"After he had gone, I said to the man, whom I know very well: 'Tim, why did you want to give that man four notes instead of one for the $400? You know you had no idea of paying that money, anyhow.'

"Wasn't it out of consideration for him I did it?" said Tim. "Sure, it would be a good deal easier and come lighter on him to lose $100 at a time than to lose $400 at once!" and Tim marched out congratulating himself on his consideration."

DON'T GRUMBLE AT TRIFLES.

Twenty-five Bushels Wheat and Forty-five Bushels Oats Per Acre Are in Western Canada.

Saltcoats, Sask., 8th December, 1906.

To the Editor: Dear Sir, I willingly give you the result of my four and a half years' experience in the District of Saltcoats.

Previous to coming here I farmed in Baldwin, St. Croix County, Wisconsin, and as I have heard a great deal about the Canadian North-West, I decided to take a trip there and see the country for myself. I was so impressed with the richness of the soil that I bought half a section of land about five miles from the town of Saltcoats. I moved on to the land the following June and that year broke 90 acres, which I cropped in 1904, and had 39 bushels wheat per acre. In 1905, with an acreage of 160 acres, I had 24 bushels wheat and 35 bushels of oats per acre. In 1906, with 175 acres under crop, I had 25 bushels wheat and 45 bushels of oats per acre.

From the above mentioned yields you can readily understand that I am very well pleased with the Canadian West. Of course, I have had to work hard, but I don't mind that when I get such a good return for my labor.

To anyone thinking about coming to this country I can truthfully say that if they are prepared to work and not grumble at trifles, they are bound to get on. Some things I would like different, but take the country all round, I don't know where to go to get a better.

Yours truly, (Signed) O. B. OLSON.

HENS KNEW THEIR BUSINESS.

Never Would They Lay Anything but the Freshest of Eggs.

There is a German dairyman and farmer, whose place is not far from Philadelphia, who greatly plumes himself upon the absolute superiority of his products above all others in the vicinity.

On one occasion he personally applied to a Germantown housekeeper for a transfer of her custom to himself. "I hears dot you haf a lot of drouble with dot dairyman of yours," he said. "Yust you gif me your custom and der will be no drouble."

"Are your eggs always fresh?" asked the woman.

"Fresh!" repeated the German, in an indignant tone. "Let me tell you, madam, dot my hens refer, refer lay anything but fresh eggs!"

Queen's Most Prized Decoration.

One of the decorations of which the queen of Portugal is proudest is the medal of the British Lymene society, which she was asked to accept after she had leaped into the harbor at Lisbon and saved a drowning man. On all great occasions this decoration is to be seen pinned on her dress. Her majesty, who is a sister of the Duchess of Aosta, recently visiting us, is another special favorite of the royal family, and, like her sister, was born at York House, Twickenham. Queen Amelia was one of the very first women to qualify herself as an M. D. She laughingly tells her friends that her most trying patient is King Carlos, whom for years she has tried to cure for "too young men, hit-bits."

French Sailors Use Drugs.

The extent to which the narcotic habit prevails in the French navy was illustrated a few days ago by the proceedings of a court-martial at Brest. The defendants were half a dozen seamen of ordinary rating, who were charged with a considerable number of robberies. All the men were victims of opium or the ether habit, or both combined, and were in the habit of bemuddling themselves daily with these drugs and the robberies had been committed to gratify their passion. Severe sentences were passed.

APPENDICITIS.

Not at All Necessary to Operate in Many Cases.

Automobiles and Appendicitis scare some people before they are hit.

Appendicitis is often caused by too much starch in the bowels. Starch is hard to digest and clogs up the digestive machinery—also tends to form cakes in the cecum. (That's the blind pouch at entrance to the appendix.)

A N. H. girl had appendicitis, but lived on milk for awhile—then Grape-Nuts and got well without an operation.

She says: "Five years ago while at school, I suffered terribly with constipation and indigestion. (Too much starch, white bread, potatoes, etc., which she did not digest.)

"Soon after I left school I had an attack of appendicitis and for thirteen weeks lived on milk and water. When I recovered enough to eat solid food there was nothing that would agree with me, until a friend recommended Grape-Nuts.

"When I began to eat Grape-Nuts I weighed 98 lbs., but I soon grew to 115 lbs. The distress after eating left me entirely and now I am like a new person."

(A little Grape-Nuts dissolved in hot water or milk would have been much better for this case than milk alone, for the starchy part of the wheat and barley is changed into a form of digestible sugar in making Grape-Nuts.)

THE CHANGE OF LIFE

Sensible Advice to Women from Mrs. Henry Lee, Mrs. Fred Certia and Mrs. Pinkham.

MRS. HENRY LEE

MRS. FRED CERTIA

Owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying, and sometimes painful symptoms.

This is the most critical period of her whole existence, and every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active and with a host of nervous irritations make life a burden.

At this time also cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, melancholia, dizziness, irregularities, constipation and dizziness are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period of life when this great change may be expected.

Mrs. Fred Certia, 1014 So. Lafayette Street, So. Bend, Ind., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the ideal medicine for women who are passing through Change of Life. For several months I suffered from hot flashes, extreme nervousness, headache and sleeplessness. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I had made up my mind there was no help for me until I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, my bad symptoms ceased, and it brought me safely through the danger period, built up my system and I am in excellent health. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound unsurpassed for women during this trying period of life."

Mrs. Henry Lee, 60 Winter Street, New Haven, Conn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"After suffering untold misery for three years during Change of Life I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I wrote you of my condition, and began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and followed your advice, and to-day I am well and happy. I can now walk anywhere and work as well as anyone, and for years previous I had tried but could not get around without help. I consider your medicine a sovereign balm for suffering women."

Women passing through this critical period should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If there is anything about your case you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It is free and has guided thousands to health.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health, actually thousands of women, you cannot well say without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." It is your duty to yourself and family to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Don't Neglect It

It is a serious mistake to neglect a weak heart. It is such a short step to chronic heart disease. When you notice irregularity of action, occasional short breath, palpitation, fluttering pain in chest or difficulty in lying on left side, your heart needs help—a strengthening tonic. There is no better remedy than Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Its strengthening influence is felt almost at once.

"I have used 10 bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and can truthfully say it has done me more good than anything I have ever used, and I have tried nearly everything that I know of. The doctor who attended me asked me what I was taking and I told him Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, he said it was just going to do me any good, but it did. I have not taken any for a year now, and while there is occasionally a slight symptom of the old trouble, it is not enough for me to continue the use of the medicine. If I should get worse I would know what to do. Take Dr. Miles' Heart Cure as I did before. I consider myself practically cured of my heart trouble."

Are Book Reviews News.

There seems to be a difference of opinion among editors as to whether the appearance of an important new book is an event deserving of any mention in a crowded newspaper. Is the review of a good novel or a great history a matter of real public interest? The Chicago Record-Herald is one of the comparatively few newspapers that answers this question in the affirmative by printing reviews and the news of the latest books every day in the week. It believes that its readers are intelligent men and women who wish to keep up with the world's literary events, as well as with other important news. Its literary department, under the editorship of Edwin L. Sturman, is generally acknowledged to be the most ably conducted in the West. Mr. Sturman's reviews are sought and quoted all over the country, and so are those of his brilliant corps of assistants. Walter Littlefield's news letters from New York every Saturday keeps the Record-Herald's readers informed of all the forthcoming books of importance, and a cable dispatch from London every Sunday gives the latest book news of the English capital. Thus by covering the literary events of the world as thoroughly as those of every other field the Record-Herald has become the leading authority in that line west of New York. It is not strange that people of literary taste prefer it.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The kidneys, like the heart and the stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is scanty, or is dark and staining, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing, or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month. Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommended and sold.

A SOURCE OF DISEASE.

Beware the Man Who Blows Smoke Through His Nostrils.

A popular practice of many smokers consists in discharging the smoke inhaled, especially from cigarettes, through the nostrils. This is even considered by some to be essential to the full enjoyment of the flavor of the tobacco.

The London Lancet, while acknowledging that perhaps under ordinary circumstances no harm is done to the smoker save to his sense of smell, has sounded a note of warning against the habit as a possible disseminator of disease. Hay-fever and other annoying complaints have been spread through unsuspecting households by the unthinking visitor who habitually blew smoke through his nose.

The surface traversed by the tobacco smoke before issuing from the nose, it is remarked by the Lancet, is moistened with the natural secretion of the mucous membrane lining it, and this secretion is mingled with the fluid discharged from the conjunctival sac protecting the eyes. It therefore contains numerous micro-organisms, which, floating in the air, have become attached to the moist and sticky surface of the conjunctiva, as well as those which pass over the surface of the nasal membrane. As Tyndall long ago showed, germs are completely filtered off from the air inhaled by the extensive and irregular surfaces presented by the turbinal bones. These germs are carried into the air by the man who blows smoke through his nostrils.

A SENSE OF DIRECTION.

The Prime Requisite For Making a True Woodsman.

A sense of direction I should name as the prime requisite for him who would become a true woodsman, depending on himself rather than on guides. The faculty is largely developed of course by much practice, but it must be inborn. Some men possess it; others do not—just as some men have a mathematical bent, while to others figures are always a despair. It is a sort of extra, having nothing to do with criteria of intelligence or mental development, like the repeater movement in a watch. A highly educated, cultured man may lack it; the roughest possess it. Some who have never been in the woods or mountains acquire in the space of a vacation a fair facility at placing a way, and I have met a few who have spent their lives on the prospect trail and who were still and always would be as helpless as the newest city dweller. It is a gift, a talent. If you have its tiniest germ you can become a traveler of the wide and lonely places. If you have it not you may as well resign yourself to guides.—Stewart Edward White in Outing Magazine.

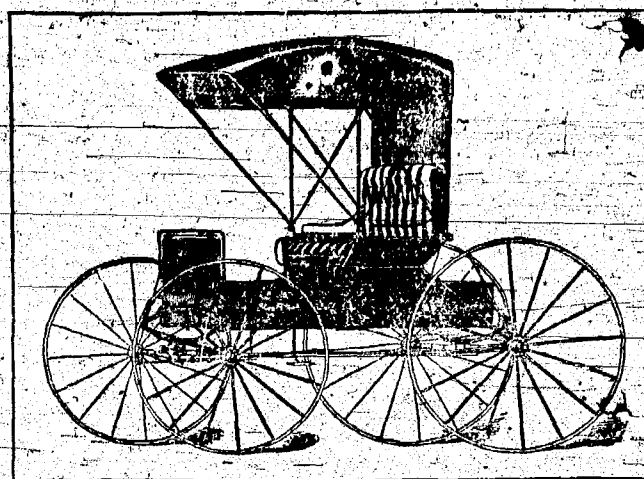

Science and Morality.
The true student of the professional or technical school becomes heir to a comprehension and clear understanding of his duties and responsibilities in his relations to his fellow men and to the community. Those duties and responsibilities present themselves to his trained mind in their real proportion. He is neither undeveloped nor maldesigned in his judgment of affairs. His university training, especially in the technical school, has taught him accuracy and penetration in the analysis of any proposition confronting him and that truth and knowledge must be sought with the directness of a plumb line. Science yields nothing but confusion to the shifty, devious and dishonest inquirer. The fundamentals of morality are the very stepping stones to technical success or professional attainment.—Scientific American.

The Hellbender.
"There's no reason why the hellbender shouldn't be good to eat," said a scientist. "Its principal food is the crayfish, the same as the principal food for bass. The hellbender belongs to the same family of amphibians as the frog and is very closely related. Both are hatched from the egg, and both pass through the tadpole stage before reaching maturity. The hellbender is a mighty fine fish, as any one can prove to himself if he will conquer his natural aversion." The hellbender is found principally in streams about the foothills of the Allegheny mountains.

The Saddle.
Early Greeks and Romans rode horses bareback. They regarded it as effeminate to ride in a saddle. The modern saddle, with pommel, crupper and stirrups, was unknown to the ancients. Nero gave out fancy coverings to his cavalry, and the bareback riders of the German forests used to laugh at them. Saddles with trees came into use in the fourth century, stirrups three centuries later.

From the Bountiful East.
A small proportion of the flora is indigenous. The majority came from the east. Like all the great ideas on which our culture is founded, and were developed and improved on this classic soil. Italy received the lemon and the orange from the Semites, who in their turn had obtained them from India. The olive, the fig, the vine and the palm were grown by the Semites long before their cultivation penetrated to the west. The laurel and myrtle indeed are indigenous in Italy, but their use for ceremonial purposes came across the Mediterranean from the east. The home of the cypress is not in Italy, but in the Greek Archipelago, northern Persia, Cilicia and Lebanon.
