The Reason

Why L. F. Knowles of Boyne City, Should be Elected Delegate to Con. Con.

The selection of delegates to the State Constitutional Convention, is one that involves great responsibility upon the electors of the state, as well as great responsibility upon the delegates when chosen; upon the electors that they exercise the best judgment in selecting men for delegates; and upon the delegates to the performance of their duties when elected.

The Convention should represent, as near as may be, not only the several interests of the state, should be composed of men representing, what may be termed, the conservative element of society, and of wide experience in public affairs. Another element of our citizenship should be represented.

ATTY L. F. KNOWLES.

That element of young progressive citizenship which is active in the state and nation in our business, professional and political life, and the highest type of which are represented by such of these as have equipped themselves for their various occupations by a thorough educational training. These men represent the aggressive business and political activities, and if we would frame and adopt an improved constitution, representing the new thoughts and the new activities of the state, we will get it through the representation in this convention, of this element.

Charlevoix offers, as a candidate for delegate from the 27th senatorial district, such a man in the person of L. F. Knowles of Boyne City. A graduate from a literary course, supplemented by a professional course from the State University, and trained by eight years of active business and professional life since finishing his college course. More than ordinarily successful in both clean, competent, honorable, and an energetic and painstaking worker, with an active and brilliant mind, thoroughly familiar with professional, business and social affairs, an ardent republican in principle, but unhampered by any past political affiliations. The friends of Mr. Knowles urge his nomination as a delegate because he is young, educated, energetic, competent, and because he represents this element of the inhabitants of the state from which emanates new thought, fresh energy and good citizenship.

Our Old Kentucky Home.

The public is always willing to patronize any good attraction and in this day of quick spreading news it is no easy matter to paint off an inferior play expecting the capacity of the theatre to be tested, and rob the people of their money. In order to take away the least shadow of a doubt the management of "Our Old Kentucky Home" offer this guarantee, to anyone, that after seeing two acts of the play the privilege to have their money refunded if not satisfied. We test the capacity of theatres by honest dealing and by giving the people their money's worth. You will enjoy the play; the music, the specialties. All at the Loveland Opera House Saturday night, August 3rd. Seats on sale Wednesday.

Under The White Tents.

Thousands of artistic posters and other attractive advertising literature throughout this section of the country make the long anticipated and happy announcement, that the ever popular and mighty Sun Brothers' Famous Shows will exhibit in East Jordan on the afternoon and evening of next Thursday Aug. 1st. This year every department of this already big amusement carnival has been enormously augmented. The number of performers employed doubles that of last season and the programme is now one of ultra-meritorious character. There is not an act presented in the entire performance to give the faintest semblance of a blush to the cheek of the most fastidious. The Sun Brothers' Shows have always been the acme of chastity. In the mammoth Zoological department are exhibited typical specimens of every species of animal life extant. A tour of this department is of vastly more educational value than a trip through many of America's best known zoological gardens. "Music is the sunshine of the soul;" this poetic quotation has been born in mind by the management, and the musical portion of the programme has not been neglected. A fine concert band of twenty men with four special soloists will give concerts, one hour previous to the beginning of the regular "big show" entertainment and this same organization will also render the harmony for the regular performances. As an introduction to the good things to be offered at the afternoon and evening performances in East Jordan a series of magnificent free exhibitions will be given on the show grounds at 11:30 a. m. These free out of door fetes will be worth witnessing and will include aerialistic "thrillers," novel comedy acts, band concerts, daylight fire-works, etc. The Messrs. Sun cordially invite the public to come and see these brilliant free spectacles, even if they cannot attend the performance.

The Ward Timber.

Last Tract of White Pine to be Opened Up.

Two Billion, Five Hundred Million Feet on Tract.

(The below article was published in the Detroit Journal in its issue of July 19th. While some parts of it are incorrect, we give it to our readers for what it is worth.—Ed.)

More important than the mere purchase by the Michigan Central of the David Ward estate's Detroit & Charlevoix railroad of 44 miles are the developments probable in consequence of the Michigan Central taking the road into its system. It is most likely that the white pine forests through which it passes and still larger forests of hardwoods will be purchased from the Ward estate by a syndicate of wealthy Bay City lumber operators at a price of $5,000,000 or upwards, more saw mills put in; and first the pine and then the hardwood felled, sawed into lumber and sent to market on a wholesale scale.

It is said that the Bay City lumber men have been ready for a long time to take the timber, either the whole as a syndicate, or in parcels by individuals, but would not touch it unless the Michigan Central would take the small railroad and guarantee the new spurs and siding and equipment necessary to the large scale handling of the product.

The Ward timber lands in Crawford, Antrim and Charlevoix counties, but chiefly in Antrim county, total 78,000 acres, and include large tracts of cork pine—the straight, tall trees without a branch, the famous Michigan white pine. It is estimated that there are 300,000,000 feet of white pine lumber in these trees, and from 1,700,000,000 to 2,000,000,000 feet of hardwoods.

If the Bay City lumbermen get at this timber once again and for the first time will Michigan have a genuine lumber camp, with its gangs of tree choppers in gay flannel coats and toques, ready to break once in a while for the nearest town for a wild old spree as a relief from the weeks of monotony in the woods.

The Detroit & Charlevoix railroad was characteristically a David Ward proposition. He wouldn't tie up with either the Michigan Central or the G. R. & I. railroad, the lines on either side of his lands and built the Detroit & Charlevoix from South Arm on the

G. R. & I., to Frederic on the Michigan Central, so he could see-saw with them. The Wards have not cut the timber rapidly, although they have a large sawmill and settlement at De-ward, a town of their own in the woods, but if the Bay City people get at it they will make things hum.

The Michigan Central pays $500,000 for the 44 miles of railroad, considered a very cheap price when the years of traffic in lumber and timber products that attach are considered. The Michigan Central agrees to construct branches and switches wherever necessary through the woods and the Wards agree to ship a minimum of 20,000,000 feet of lumber annually.

The Michigan Central will build six miles of new track to turn the line from Frederic to Grayling, where there are railroad shops and yards, and will make Grayling the main connecting point.

One ground for belief that the timber will be sold is that the entire estate must be divided among the heirs before the end of 1912. The Ward estate trustees are Willis C. Ward of Pontiac, George K. Root of New York, Frank W. Ward of Bay City.

A Hearing Ear.

A busy doctor who had engaged a young assistant was asked if he really intended to entrust him with his life. "Oh, no," he replied. "He will listen to the patients, look sympathetic, and report to me in the fewest possible words. A sick woman has to talk just so much, and I haven't time to listen." The minister, the lawyer, the teacher might follow the doctor's example, and employ a listening "double" to their great relief, remarks the Youth's Companion. In fact, if you usually find that the most helpful person in the town is the one who can listen best to the complaints of perplexities of the women-folk, the expression is as necessary for the welfare of most women as food and drink. The very talkative woman has a silent husband—not simply because he does not give him time to speak, it because she was attracted to him the first place by his genius for listening. However, there may be something more than mere self-indulgence in the habit of "talking things out" with some appreciative listener. The wisest of women know that they get light on their own perplexities by the act of putting them into words. Another is often her own best adviser to the training of her child, when she has once formulated his needs. The remedy for the fault appears when the fault is fairly described. So a recourse to the listening ear is only to be entirely denied. It is only when continual talk breaks down the proper barriers of reserve that the talking woman becomes a nuisance to her friends and a menace to her family. It is pitiful to see the condition of silent misery to which a family is reduced when one woman in it is a chronic chatterer. "What were your last words?" asked a sympathetic neighbor of a little boy just reaved. "He didn't have any," he replied. "Mother was with him all the time!"

Anti-Typhoid Inoculation.

Gen. Lord Kitchener is said to be favorably impressed with the value of anti-typhoid inoculation in the British army. The evidence as to its effectiveness in checking enteric fever, as presented in the Journal of the Royal Army Medical Corps is, indeed, very strong. The method of inoculation, which was advocated in 1897 by Sir E. Wright, was first tested on a large scale in India and Egypt, with encouraging results. It was also shown that during an epidemic at aidstone not one of the 84 nurses and attendants who had been inoculated was attacked, whereas there were 16 cases of typhoid among 120 nurses who had not been inoculated. Experiments are being continued in India, to which country 15,000 doses of the inoculating material were, up to date, been sent. It has been found that a second inoculation increases the degree of immunity. Gen. Luxmoore reports that during a Meerut epidemic in the Seventh Lancers, 61 of the 63 cases occurred in soldiers who had not been inoculated, the other two being men who refused to submit to a second inoculation. The Lapeet holds that inoculation for typhoid fever must hereafter be held as necessary for the protection of soldiers as vaccination is against smallpox. The observations add to the fact that the Meerut epidemic also emphasize the fact that sanitarians have fixed their attention too much on water as a source of infection. More recently, the fatal activity of flies has been given some notice, but there is a third way in which the germs are altered—broadcast—by means of dust—which has heretofore been incidentally studied.

Small boys will no doubt continue to eat green fruit with no discrimination as to kind or quantity or manner of consumption. For the benefit of these adventuresome adults, the department of agriculture informs us that adequate mastication will prevent disastrous results from eating unripe fruit, and that the danger is less than commonly supposed, especially in gooseberries, plums, apples and pears. This is in accord with the assertion of the poet that it was a little green peach that made the trouble. In ripe consideration, the Youth's Companion feels constrained to advise everybody of whatever age to eschew all green fruit—eschew it!

THIRTY-ONE DEAD IN MICHIGAN WRECK

SHOCKING COLLISION BETWEEN EXCURSION TRAIN AND A FREIGHT—CREW OF LATTER FORGOT THEIR ORDERS—LITTLE CITY OF IONIA FULL OF MOURNING FAMILIES.

Detroit, Mich.—The death list as a result of Saturday's collision near Salem between an excursion train and a freight train stands now at 31, but among the 100 injured in this city and Ionia, eight are reported to be in a serious condition and not out of danger.

There are 61 injured people at their homes in Ionia and 42 were brought to the hospitals in this city for treatment. Of the long list of suffering persons at Ionia but one, Mrs. H. Durling, whose husband and son were killed, is reported to be in a dangerous condition. Seven of the injured in the local hospitals are not yet out of danger. These are: Banner Huggins, Mrs. Catherine Selbach, John B. Andersson, Abraham Eddy, William Beals, Mrs. Nellie Daisson and Mrs. Catherine Smith. All are residents of Ionia.

Terrible Blow to Ionia. Sunday was a day of grief and mourning in the little city of Ionia, which is 130 miles west of Detroit. Mayor John N. Bible says he estimates that one in every 50 of the city's inhabitants was either killed or injured in the wreck. All of Saturday night members of a citizens' committee, which was appointed when the extent of the catastrophe was realized, were at work visiting the homes of the dead and injured and arranging for medical attention and assistance where it was necessary. All of the city's normal activities have practically been suspended and every one is devoting attention to the wreck victims.

One of the most pathetic cases of suffering is the Hass family, which lost its father and two sons. They were the breadwinners, and a widow and six children are left nearly destitute by the death of Charles, Herman and Paul Hass.

Not until Sunday was the identity of all the dead positively established, and an accurate list made up. All but five victims whose names are on the death roll lived in Ionia.

Victims Were on Excursion. The passenger train, of 11 cars, was bringing the Pere Marquette shop employes of Ionia and their families to Detroit for their annual excursion. It was running at high speed down a grade when it met the freight train head-on.

The locomotives were smashed and behind them six cars of the passenger train lay piled in a hopeless wreck. Four of the passenger coaches remained on the track undamaged and were used to convey the dead and injured to Ionia. One coach was undamaged, with only its forward truck off the rails. These were the rear five cars. The two coaches next ahead of these were telescoped. One of these was the smoker, where most of the victims were riding.

The freight train was moving slowly up the grade in the cut when the excursion flyer bore down on it. L. B. Alvord, engineer of the passenger, saw the crash was inevitable, and after setting the air brake jumped, with his fireman, Knowles. Alvord escaped.

Stevens Railway Vice President.

New Haven, Conn.—It was announced Friday by President Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company that John F. Stevens, former chief engineer of the Panama canal, had been appointed a vice president of the road.

McPherson Succeeds Swift.

Kansas City, Mo.—Thomas B. McPherson, of Omaha, was elected Friday president of the National Live-stock Exchange association to succeed James C. Swift, of Kansas City.

LATEST NEWS OF MICHIGAN

MRS. WASHBURN NOW TELLS NEW STORY OF THE MURDER OF REYNOLDS.

HAD SEVEN HUSBANDS. She Becomes Sullen and Says Very Little—Opinion of the Authorities in the Matter.

Mrs. William Washburn, who in her 59 years has been the wife of seven different men, is now going back on her story that No. 6 husband, Alkali Bill Shimmel, murdered No. 5, who was Ira Reynolds. A few days ago in the Kent county jail she told in detail a story of how one night Shimmel called Reynolds to the door of their house near Grand Haven and killed him with a club, then took the body away in a bob sled.

Now Mrs. Washburn says that she is not sure whether Shimmel was the murderer or not. "It might have been some other man. It's so long ago I can't remember clearly," is the way she expressed it.

The prosecuting authorities have long had a suspicion that Shimmel killed Reynolds. Mrs. Shimmel talked freely when brought to the jail. Now she is sullen and saying little. It is not clear now how reliance can be put in anything she tells from now on.

Storm Freaks.

The severest electrical and rain storms that ever visited Traverse City occurred Friday night. The small fruit crop is considerably damaged. At Buckley the house of Frank Rapric was struck and the chimney knocked off, bed clothes on the upper floor were torn to pieces and a partition between the dining room and kitchen was broken to splinters. The family dog was killed instantly. Rapric, with his baby in his arms, his wife and two children were seated near the door, and the babe was thrown to the floor heavily, but was not injured. Lightning struck a cherry tree on the B. J. Morgan farm, tearing a ladder to pieces. Mrs. Michael Knoll was picked up apparently dead, but was revived.

Owosso Unfortunates.

Two peculiar accidents happened in Owosso Friday, seriously injuring Richard King and John Cook. King was bitten on the shoulder by a vicious horse, a large chunk of flesh being rent out. Some of the tendons were cut and it is feared the arm will be permanently stiffened. Cook, who is circulator of the Daily Press-American, was carrying the form for the first page of the paper, when he stubbed his toe and dove head first into a brick wall. The accident rendered him unconscious and the page was piled, delaying the paper three hours.

Bay City Troubles.

The bureau of public safety, provided by the last legislature to take over from the Bay City council the control of the fire and police departments, has begun mandamus proceedings in the circuit court to compel Mayor Hine and the council to turn over the books, records, etc., of the two departments. The mayor and council are contesting on the grounds that the appointment of the board by Gov. Warner is unconstitutional. Arguments will be heard and the case will go to the supreme court as soon as possible.

Gasoline Famine.

Because the Standard Oil Co. will not ship any gasoline to the Soo, the city faces a famine in the liquid fuel line. The last drop in the city was sold Saturday and all gasoline boats, automobiles and stoves are going out of commission. The tanks of the trust are empty, although a supply was ordered a month ago and it is claimed that the company's office that letters sent to headquarters regarding the trouble have not been answered. Housewives are sweltering over wood fires as a result.

Victim Walked Off.

While automobiling in Battle Creek, Prof. Malcomb Watson felt a chug under his machine, but he rode on. Some one yelled "That was a man you hit," and Watson stopped. Seeing that the victim was prostrate in the road, he hurried to a telephone and called the police. When they arrived the man was gone. Neighbors say he walked away sweating at "that street car."

Many Violent Deaths.

There were 204 deaths by violence in Michigan, in June, according to the health reports, leading pulmonary tuberculosis deaths by 9. There were 424 deaths of infants under 1 year and 806 deaths of elderly persons. Of the violent deaths drowning caused 43 and lightning 3, and three died from sunstroke. There were 3,679 births, a decrease of 440 from June of last year.

The High School Building in Coldwater was struck by lightning, during a storm and caught fire. Prompt work saved the building. The loss is covered by insurance.

A premature explosion at the West

Republic mine instantly killed Severo Martinson, a young miner, whose body was blown to pieces. A blast that had missed fire was struck by a drill at the Great Western mine, and the explosion killed Reuben Gimblek, an Austrian, and destroyed one eye of Charles Lind, a Finn.

Gov. Warner has named as members of the commission to secure and place a monument to Gen. Geo. A. Custer in Monroe, the following: Col. George C. Briggs, Grand Rapids; Gen. J. M. Kidd, Ionia; and Lieut. F. A. Nims, Monroe. All were friends and served with Gen. Custer.

TWO MORE DEAD.

The P. M. Wreck and the Parties Responsible.

The Pere Marquette railroad insists that the crew of the freight train is solely responsible for Saturday's wreck near Salem.

An investigation was conducted all day Monday by Attorney F. W. Stevens and Gen. Supt. Trump, in which Operator Cassidy and others were examined.

A statement was given out by Mr. Stevens in which he as general counsel for the railroad, definitely set forth the reasons for blaming the freight crew for the wreck.

The prosecutors of Wayne and Ionia are conducting investigations. The probable cause of the delay of the freight which led to the wreck was the unloading of a car of gravel a mile east of the scene of the wreck.

The conductor and engineer should not have gone toward Salem on the excursion train's time, says Mr. Stevens. "The brakemen should not have permitted it. If the freight was delayed it should have been stopped and flagmen should have been sent out to warn all other approaching trains."

An inquest will be held in Northville. Coroner Parker may hold another inquest in Detroit. A third inquest will be held in Ionia.

There have been a total of 32 deaths.

Special Session.

Gov. Warner will call a special session of the legislature to provide funds for the Central Normal school at Mt. Pleasant unless the board of state auditors can in some way supply funds which were lost by a defect in the appropriation act passed by the legislature.

A snake, which is believed may be the Carter reptile of Hastings fame, was discovered on the tracks near Marshall by Motorman George Hoyt, who says it was fully 30 feet long. Hoyt at first thought it was an obstruction, but as the car drew near he saw it move and when the car was close the snake coiled up ready to spring, but suddenly crawled off to the fields. Many passengers corroborate Hoyt's story.

Thirty years ago a Masonic ring fell from the finger of Ambrose Atwood, of Belding, and was lost in some shrubbery. Atwood died shortly afterward and the place has since changed owners a number of times, but when Mrs. Henrietta Andrews, a relative of Atwood, visited the place the ring was restored by the residents, who found it a few days ago.

When the ear of former Ald. Harmon Yon came in contact with a high tension wire at the Bay City railway power house, it was burned off, as was a finger. A gold ring on a finger was melted by the high voltage, but Yon will survive.

ABDICATES.

The Japs Now Have Korea Where They Can Rule.

The emperor of Korea abdicated in favor of the crown prince Friday morning. The crown prince is an imbecile and the Japanese will be able to do as they please. The next step will be the calling of a convention which will so limit the power of the new emperor that he will be a mere figurehead, and can take no official step that is not indorsed by the Japanese resident general.

Deserted by his cabinet and left alone in his palace to worry for four days the emperor tried vainly to find a way out of his difficulties without abdicating. His last endeavor was in summoning Marquis Ito, the Japanese resident-general, whom he hoped would help him out.

The emperor appealed imploringly to Ito to help save Korea, in a manner satisfactory to Japan and not injurious to the Korean court. Ito carefully avoided committing himself and conferred with Viscount Hayashi, who had just arrived from Tokyo. The inevitable result followed. Enraged crowds assembled early in the evening at various points throughout the city and inflammatory documents against the Japanese are being freely distributed, giving rise to a forlorn hope that some active opposition is about to begin. Serious collisions, it is believed, will take place between the police and rioters.

The Koreans fear the emperor will be murdered and the report of the sudden death of one of the delegates to The Hague also causes a fear that there will be an epidemic of suicide in sympathy with the emperor. The trip there of Foreign Minister Hayashi of Japan is believed to have been prompted mainly by a desire to get Japanese attention centered on Korea, so that the anti-American agitation will die out.

Horse Ran Away.

Mrs. William Kelly and son, Herbert of Midland, were driving a young colt when it became unmanageable and ran away, throwing both occupants out of the buggy into a barbed wire fence. John D. Rockefeller, the richest man in the world, is dunning Uncle Sam for the $2,200 he earned as witness in the Standard Oil case before Judge K. M. Landis, in Chicago. He sent a messenger to the federal building to learn just what he had to do in order to collect the fee.

Cannelville, O., a town of about 300 inhabitants, was almost wiped off the map by a flood Friday. During the noon hour there was a cloudburst above the village and a raging torrent made its way down the narrow valley, the inhabitants barely having time to escape to the hills.

From the State Capital

Information and Gossip Furnished by Special Correspondent at Lansing.

Lansing.—When Lieut. Gov. Kelly voted for concurrent resolution submitting to a vote of the people certain proposed amendments to the primary election law he acted without constitutional authority, in the opinion of the eight judges comprising the Michigan supreme court. The court denied the writ of mandamus asked for by the lieutenant governor, and compel the secretary of state to give notice of the submission of the proposed amendments, holding that the concurrent resolution was legislation and therefore required the votes of a majority of the senators elect. The case was decided two days after it was submitted to the supreme court and the justices say that they were able thus quickly to decide the issue because the question was not difficult to determine. The court quotes the constitutional provision that "no bill or joint resolution shall become a law without the concurrence of a majority of the members elected to each house," and says that as a majority of the senate did not vote for the resolution it is not of legal effect, unless it is not a bill or joint resolution within the meaning of the constitutional provision, or the lieutenant governor may give the casting vote in the senate.

Error Is Most Serious.

The defects in the new binder twine act are more serious than was at first supposed. The omission of the word "thousand" from the body of the act appropriating $175,000 for the plant was at first supposed to have been made by the legislature and could, therefore, be held to be a clerical error. It develops, however, that the word was in the bill as passed by the legislature, but as engrossed and enrolled and presented to the governor the word was missing. The result of the error is that the bill signed by the governor was not the bill as passed by the legislature, and in the opinion of the legal department of the state there is grave doubt as to its legality.

Plan to Trace Money.

Several ex-commissioners of schools have been employed by the department of public instruction to check over the books of the school districts of the state and ascertain whether primary school money has been diverted from the purpose for which it is appropriated. This is discovered by checking over the amount paid for teachers' wages and comparing it with the amount of primary money apportioned to the district. The difference between the two amounts should show the amount of primary school money on hand. If the money is not in the district treasury—the state department of public instruction will ask why.

One Democrat Files Papers.

Twelve candidates for delegate to the constitutional convention have filed petitions with the secretary of state. The latest received are those of Charles D. Thompson, Bad Axe; Leonard F. Knowles, Boyne City; Frank D. McKenzie, Concord; Clark E. Baldwin, Adrian. All are Republicans. W. H. S. Wood of Howell is the only Democrat who has filed papers.

Capitol Commission Dead.

It is believed that the supreme court decision in the Keeley mandamus case knocks out the intended capitol commission which the governor was expected to appoint under a concurrent resolution. The resolution is said to have passed in the same manner the primary submission resolution was and the belief is that it should have had a majority of votes in the legislature.

Representative Resigns Seat.

Representative Stanley D. Montgomery, of the first district of Ingham county, has resigned. City Clerk Myles F. Gray, the leading candidate for the position, has asked the governor to call the election on the day set for electing delegates to the constitutional convention. Montgomery is practicing law in Grand Rapids.

New Custar Commission.

Gov. Warner has named the following commission to secure a monument for George A. Custar, which is to be erected in his honor at Monroe: Col. George O. Briggs, Grand Rapids; Gen. J. H. Kidd, Ionia; Lieut. Fred A. Nims, Monroe. All three served with Custar.

Collect Inheritance Tax.

Inheritance taxes may be collected by the state on the property of non-residents which may not be taxable under the general tax law. This is the opinion of the supreme court in the case of Hosea Rogers, deceased, of New York, whose investments in Livingston were heavy. The supreme court once held that his personal property was not taxable, but now holds that the inheritance tax on his notes and mortgages on Michigan property can be collected in this state.

Embalmers' Licenses Issued.

Embalmers' licenses have been granted by the state board of health to the following: Charles M. Sumption, Kalamazoo; Earl James Dunn, Grand Rapids; Walter L. Winchell, Ionia; W. Earl Brown, Battle Creek; Herbert G. Whitehead, Byron; Harvey J. Tibbitts, Ravenna; John Wesley Allen, Three-Oaks; Lee L. Patterson, Manton; Schuyler W. Sprague, Mishawaka, Ind.; J. Ernst Wallace, Hillman; William Francis Hackett, 634 Dix avenue, Detroit; Emil P. Schiele, Orion; Charles L. Messick, Hickory Corners; Verner M. Spaulding, Buchanan; Herman C. Meyer, Boyne Falls; George H. Murch, Mattawan; Orin John Bury, Ann Arbor; Frank W. Gordon, 428 Lincoln avenue, Detroit; Albert Ostrom, Orion; Charles Edward Berttram, Battle Creek; Gordon J. Hildreth, Grandville; Eleanor Gogorad, Grand Rapids; Clara Moran, 2280 Fort street west, Detroit; Cornelius F. Sullivan, 56 Harrison avenue, Detroit; Claus A. Anderson, Tustin; Dewitt C. Davis, Pontiac; Robert S. Beattie, Ionia; William Sullivan, Royal Oak; Fred Van Halst, Kalamazoo; Frank S. Pullen, Bellevue; Luke Schick, Orion; Fred D. Schrader, Plymouth; Ignatz F. Karasinski, Grand Rapids; Anton Deisler, Saginaw; Wilber D. James, Elk Rapids. Reciprocal licenses have been issued to J. Edward Redmond, Charlevoix, and W. D. James, Elk Rapids.

M. A. C. Is "Stumped."

R. H. Pettit, entomologist, of Michigan Agricultural college experiment station, says of the "green bug": "From all parts of the state complaints are coming with respect to the condition of the oat crop. The last week has seen a notable change in the outlook. The young oats in a large part of the state have suddenly become as if stricken with blight, the outer leaves turning yellow and afterwards reddish until, after a little time, the field appears as if badly rusted. A closer examination shows there are few if any rust pustules. Careful examination with the aid of a powerful lens shows the culprit to be a minute green insect called a thrips, very small and very quick in its movements, jumping like a flea when disturbed and disappearing completely. These little creatures have narrow wings with fringes of long hairs instead of the ordinary form of wings. They scrape the surfaces of the oat leaves and cause them to become withered and to turn yellow and die. This little creature has never before been seen in numbers by the writer and it is very difficult to judge just what will be the outcome of the infestation."

Triplets Have Famous Names.

A mother writes to Gov. Warner from the northern part of the state, that she has been presented with triplets and wants to know if she is not entitled to "something from the government." She says that her husband is a hard-working mill employe who has lost several fingers at his work and any help the governor believes them entitled to will be gratefully received. The little ones look so near alike that they have to wear ribbons of different colors to identify them. "We call them Teddy, Freddy and Eddy," writes the mother, "after the president, the governor and the king of England."

Land Receipts Are Lower.

According to preliminary figures given out the receipts of the state land department for the fiscal year ending June 30, were $278,799.95, which is nearly $25,000 less than the receipts of the previous year. Sales of tax homestead land during the year aggregated $224,539.91, and of this sum about 73 per cent. was returned to the counties. Swamp lands were sold during the year for $12,473.03; agricultural college lands, $6,318; primary school lands, $21,440. There was received for trespass collections, $5,685, and for fees, plats, etc., $2,534.

Court Grants Mandamus.

It was held by the supreme court that the special drain law for the county of Ionia passed in 1905 does not repeal the provisions of the general drain law in that county as applied to the construction of a proposed county drain in Gratiot, Clinton and Ionia counties. A mandamus is granted compelling the probate judge of Ionia county to appoint commissioners for the proposed drain.

Will Improve Train Service.

The receiver of the Traverse City, Leelanau & Manistiquette railroad has advised Railroad Commissioner Glasgow that the road will hereafter run a passenger train each way daily. Complaint was made by citizens of Suttons Bay that the company was not complying with the law in this respect, the only train for passengers being an accommodation freight and passenger train. Commissioner Glasgow took up the matter and as a result the service will be improved.

TRAGEDY IN MICHIGAN

CRAZED FARMER SLAYS HIS SON, WIFE AND FATHER-IN-LAW.

TRIES TO KILL HIMSELF

Finally Is Shot Dead by Neighbor Whom He Threatened for Interfering in His Bloody Work.

Nunica, Mich.—Henry Scutcheon, a farmer about 50 years old, who lived near this village, ran amuck Sunday with an ax, killing his invalid son, his wife and her foster father. Scutcheon was later shot by Henry McClellan, a neighbor, whom the crazed murderer also had attacked. The dead are: Henry Scutcheon, Polly Scutcheon, his wife; Frank Scutcheon, his 18-year-old son, and George Anning, Mrs. Scutcheon's foster father.

Sunday, with no warning, so far as is known, Scutcheon suddenly and furiously attacked his son with an ax. He crushed the boy's head frightfully. When his wife interfered he turned on her and pursued the frightened, screaming woman from their house to the road, where he knocked her down with his weapon. He then rushed back to the house and murdered his foster father-in-law.

Next he tried to destroy himself. The maddened man gashed his throat and wrists with a razor and took some Paris green. His wounds did not weaken him and the poison did not take immediate effect. Ax in hand, he returned to the road where he had felled his wife a few moments before. The first blow did not kill her and she had been carried into the house of Henry McClellan, near by. McClellan rushed to another neighbor's for help.

When Scutcheon found that his wife was in the McClellan home alive he smashed a window with his ax, jumped through it and again attacked her. This time he crushed her skull. He then left the McClellan home and returned to his own house, but when Mr. McClellan returned from his search for help the crazed man came out and started toward him, saying: "I want you, too."

"I will shoot if you come across the road," replied McClellan, who had armed himself with a shotgun. Despite the warning, Scutcheon came across with murder in his glance. McClellan thereupon shot him dead.

FOUR GUILTY; NOT TO HANG.

Verdict in Lamana Case Causes Threats of Lynching.

Hamville, La.—The jury in the Lamana kidnaping and murder trial brought in a verdict Thursday evening finding Campiciano, Mrs. Campiciano, Tony Costa and Frank Gendusa guilty without capital punishment.

Absolute silence greeted the foreman's announcement. The spectators listened quietly while the jury declared that the verdict was unanimous and then court adjourned. An hour afterward, it was reported that preparations for a lynching were under way. A physician of local prominence gave out a statement declaring, "that the good people of St. Charles repudiate the verdict," and calling it a "prostitution of justice."

URNS STATE'S EVIDENCE.

W. W. Raibe Admits Conspiracy to Obtain Lands by Fraud.

Denver, Col.—W. W. Raibe, a mining man of Milwaukee, who was arrested in a federal grand jury indictment charging him and five others in connection with the Federal Coal Mining company with alleged fraudulent acquisition of Routt county (Col.) coal lands, has given a signed statement to United States District Attorney Cranston in which he goes into details of the whole conspiracy to defraud the government.

Raibe was taken before United States Commissioner Hinsdale Thursday and released on his own recognizance after agreeing to appear at the trial as a witness for the government.

William January Set Free.

Fort Leavenworth, Kan.—William January, alias Charles W. Anderson, for whose pardon a petition containing the signatures of 50,000 persons was presented to President Roosevelt three months ago, was released from the federal prison here Friday. Anderson returned to Kansas City, Mo., where he will engage in business. The case of January resembles that of Victor Hugo's hero, Jean Valjean.

Wanamaker's Stables Burn.

Philadelphia.—The stables on John Wanamaker's estate, Lydenhurst, near Jenkintown, a suburb, were destroyed by fire Sunday, entailing a loss estimated at $100,000. Three horses were burned.

Bloody Sunday About Wheeling.

Wheeling, W. Va.—Four murders were committed in and around Wheeling Sunday. Walter Benford, a negro, was shot three times and killed by Charles Moxley, another negro. Jealousy was the motive. At Wellsville, near here, Edward Lockhart, 35 years old, shot and killed Pierce Davis, aged 67. In a quarrel over a woman at Bradley, O., just over the state line, Arthur Slipper, a negro, shot and killed John Meadows, another negro. Lockhart and Slipper made their escape.

QUIETING DOWN IN SEOUL

HASEGAWA THINKS HE HAS CONTROL OF SITUATION.

Japanese Ready to Blow Up Arsenal if Overpowered—New Emperor Orders Deputation Punished.

Seoul.—Seoul seemed quieter Sunday and, believing he is in control of the situation, Gen. Hasegawa, in command of the Japanese troops, withdrew one of the machine guns from the palace square.

The two government arsenals are guarded by Japanese soldiers, although the number is not large, and they are under orders to explode the magazines if they find themselves unable to defend them.

The Korean troops are frequently harangued by civilian agitators who take up their stand at the entrances to the barracks. The Koreans possess 90,000 rounds of ammunition, of which Gen. Hasegawa, who has only 2,300 troops in Seoul, has been unable to demand the surrender.

The Ping Yang regiment, which was reported Saturday as having been disarmed, still refuses to surrender its arms or ammunition.

"The Japanese commander is not yet able to assure safety in the streets, but he is making the best use possible of his men, while awaiting reinforcements, which are now on their way from Shimonoseki.

Marquis Ito, the resident general at Seoul, will not consent to the enforcement of martial law, but he is re-garrisoning the country as far as possible as a precaution.

The new emperor's first edict orders the punishment of the Korean deputation to The Hague.

Saturday there was much street fighting and several Japanese were killed.

Friday night the deposed emperor attempted a coup d'etat. He ordered the imperial guards to seize the palace, murder the cabinet ministers, and replace him on the throne. Marquis Ito learned of this just in time. Gen. Hasegawa at once marched his troops into the palace, making the deposed emperor a prisoner and planting machine guns at every entrance to the palace.

BODY OF MRS. MAGILL EXHUMED.

Grave of Mrs. Magill Opened with Great Secrecy.

Clinton, Ill.—Dr. Adolph Gehrman and Dr. W. A. Evans, both of Chicago, Wednesday night directed the exhumation of the body of Mrs. Pet Magill, wife of the Clinton banker, who is now under arrest at San Diego, Cal., charged with her murder. The internal organs of Magill's first wife were taken to Chicago in sealed glass jars for chemical analysis. The unearthing of the body was performed with the greatest secrecy.

Earlier in the evening another sensational incident in this case of many sensations occurred at the grave of the woman, who is declared by the prosecution to have been murdered by her husband in order that he might marry his daughter's chum. Mrs. Mabel Parrett, said to be an old sweetheart of Fred H. Magill, was found unconscious on the grave of Mrs. Magill. She had taken strychnine, it is alleged, and, despite the efforts of physicians who are working over her, the attempt at suicide may be successful. The young woman was sometimes known under the name of Lillian Ryan.

"Oh, Fred, why did you do this," the woman murmured when she was revived by the use of powerful antidotes. Later, in the night, when she had partially shaken off the effect of the poison, she muttered: "Fred and Fay caused this."

The woman was taken at once to the dispensary, where Dr. Campbell was called.

San Diego, Cal.—Sheriff Campbell of Dewitt county, Ill., left on the morning train Sunday for Clinton, accompanied by Fred Magill and the latter's wife, who go to face the charge of murdering Mrs. Pet Magill of Clinton.

It was learned Sunday that Miss Margaret Magill, daughter of the accused man, arrived in Clinton Sunday afternoon. Her departure from this city two or three days ago was kept a close secret.

Dog Ejected from Church.

Oyster Bay, N. Y.—Dr. Washburn, of St. John's Episcopal church, who is President Roosevelt's summer pastor, made it plain Sunday that he proposed to take no part in any nature-faking competition. When he saw that the main point in his sermon was likely to be misconstrued by his congregation because of the interest displayed in the presence of a friendly little dog, he stopped short. He would repeat what he had said after the dog had been ejected, he announced, but first he wished to insist that no members of his flock should hereafter bring their pet dogs to the church. President Roosevelt and his family attended the service.

Jealous Husband Shoots Three.

Harrodsburg, Ky.—"Buster" Phillips, a city workhouse keeper, shot his wife four times Sunday, three of the bullets entering her breast and the other passing through her abdomen. He then turned the weapon on Mrs. Kyle Watkins, his sister-in-law, and fired one shot at her, which entered the left side, inflicting what is thought to be a fatal wound. He fired his last bullet at Thomas Sillie, aged 18 years, the ball entering the shoulder. Jealousy was the cause of the shooting.

SCHEME THAT DIDN'T WORK

"Coals of Fire" Had No Effect on Jack Jones.

Mrs. Fanny Crosby, the author of hymns, is still, though 87 years old, in first-rate health.

"Not long ago," said a New York clergyman, "I visited Mrs. Crosby in Bridgeport, and found her exceedingly entertaining. I shan't soon forget some of the youthful memories that she recounted.

"Our talk turned to the subject of children's quaint misunderstandings of Biblical metaphors and parables, and she told an amusing story on this head.

"She said that a little boy came home one day from school in a bad humor. Another boy, Jack Jones, had given him a thrashing, and he wanted revenge.

"Oh," said his mother, "don't think of revenge, Willie. Be kind to Jack. Heap coals of fire on his head. Then he will become your friend."

"Willie thought he would try this method. He did not see Jack Jones till the next day at recess. Just as he was buying a lemon pie for luncheon Jack appeared and said:

"Look here, I licked you yesterday, but I didn't give you enough. Now I'm going to lick you again."

"And he planted a hard blow on Willie's little stomach.

"Willie gasped and grunted, but instead of striking back he extended his plate to Jones.

"Here," he said, in a kindly voice, "I'll give you this. I make you a present of it."

"Jack Jones, in glad amazement, fell upon the pie greedily, and it had soon disappeared.

"Gosh, it was good," he said. "What did you give it to me for?"

"Because you struck me," said the keeper of coals.

"Instantly Jones hauled off and struck him again.

"Now, go and get another pie," he said.

A Bunker Hill Gun.

Alonzo Smith of Skowhegan has an old gun which was used in the battle of Bunker Hill, 131 years ago. Many who fought on the American side on that 17th day of June afterward came to Maine to settle, among them Biley Smith, a private in the Second New Hampshire regiment. Mr. Smith, the great grandfather of Alonzo Smith of Skowhegan settled in Cornville in 1790 and his grave is in the orchard on a farm near where his grandson, Clark E. Smith, now lives. The musket which Biley Smith carried at Bunker Hill was among his effects brought to Cornville, and on his death passed into the hands of his son, David, and was by him bequeathed to his grandson, Sylvester Smith. A few years ago, when Sylvester left for the west, he gave the famous old musket to Alonzo Smith of Skowhegan, who now treasures it as a family heirloom. One remark made by Biley Smith, in relating his experiences at Bunker Hill, has been handed down to his descendants to the effect that he felt some repugnance at first in shooting at the redcoats as they came up the slope, but after the first few shots he could not help taking aim at a British officer as he held at a partridge. The gun-fights in working order barring the loss of the flint, and could be easily reequipped for actual use.—Kennebec Journal.

Mental Medicine.

A somewhat eccentric physician who recently died would order patients to take walks, say, daily, on the left side of the street, returning by the other side; another he would order to arise each morning at a certain hour and eat cheese with ginger beer; another to take supper precisely at midnight, and eat only apples; or, he would instruct the patient to put just so many grains of salt on the egg he was to eat, and part his hair in a different way each day. His object was to get the mind of the patient on something else than symptoms, and this scheme worked well in many cases, especially when the patient was suffering from melancholia.

Truth-Telling.

The test of civilization is its regard for truth. Truth is nothing more than honesty. The habit of telling the truth begets accuracy of statement, and the habit among a people of hearing and expecting the truth produces the truth. Honest men who have no intent to deceive are called truthful, but if they are lax and careless, and have been habituated to loose statements, and themselves place no great value upon truth for its own sake, they are pretty sure to be inaccurate, and, therefore, mistrustworthy. For this reason, perhaps, Sir Walter Scott declared that the right education for a young man was to learn to fish and to tell the truth.

Ancient and Modern.

"The ancient Greeks had a good law." "What was that?" "When a man divorced his wife he could not marry a younger woman." "Well, there's the joke?" "There is no joke. When one thinks of our unspeakable steel kings, one feels far from facetious."

Too Much Help.

Mrs. Yarley—"What an awfully worried, anxious, despairing look Mrs. Goodsoil has." Mrs. Chatter—"Yes, I fancy she must have stopped doing her own work and taken to keeping a servant."—Exchange.

THE CHURCH AT WORK

WORLD'S OLDEST MINISTER.

He Is Rev. Thomas Lord, of England, Aged 100.

Rev. Thomas Lord, of England, has just entered upon his one hundredth year, and he is probably the oldest minister in the world who is still in active service. This veteran of the pulpit retired from the ministry nearly 30 years ago, but frequently preaches in chapels in the district where he resides, besides taking part in temperance meetings, in which work he has been an enthusiast nearly all his life.

When asked to explain the secret of his long life, Mr. Lord instantly replied that there was no secret in it: "It is the duty of every Christian," he said, "to use his own common sense and to moderate in all things. By doing that, I have lived to be over 99."

While abstaining from intoxicating liquors, Mr. Lord has also abstained from using tobacco. On one occasion, an old lady advised him to take to smoking, saying that a minister could think better with a pipe in his mouth. The reply was characteristic of the man: "No," he answered, "if that is where thought comes from, I would rather not think at all."

The venerable minister, says Christian Herald, takes his turn with other pastors in conducting services at the Horncastle workhouse on every Wednesday, and not long ago he was engaged in preparing a new lecture on temperance. He is a living example of how a man, by hard work and careful living, can be preserved to a ripe old age.

REVIVAL IN KOREA.

Remarkable Religious Awakening at Pyeng-Yang.

One of the most remarkable evidences of divine power has swept over the city of Pyeng-Yang. This is the result of the united prayers of the missionary forces in that city. After a short sermon one Sunday morning, in which the appeal was made to people to confess their sins and surrender themselves unreservedly to God, the people were asked to make confession. Immediately a young man prominent in church work, with tears and groans, made confessions of a sinful life. When he had finished speaking, he flung himself on the floor in great agony, and sought for mercy. The scene that followed was indescribable. Men were stricken to the floor, as if hipped there by a thunderbolt. They writhed upon the floor and cried for mercy in great remorse. So remarkable has been this revival wave, that during the last year one of the churches has increased its membership by 10,000; and a revival equal to the notable revival in Wales seems to be progressing in most parts of the country.

After a Century.

As the result of 100 years of missionary work in China, there are about a hundred and fifty thousand native Protestant Christians in the empire. The anniversary of the beginning of the work was celebrated recently in Shanghai when Europeans and Americans interested in Protestant missions attended in large numbers. It was in 1807 that Robert Morrison, appointed by a British missionary society, and carried to China by an American firm engaged in the eastern trade, began his labors. After 35 years there were six converts and 20 missionaries. There are now nearly 4,000 missionaries, and the number of native Christians is doubling every seven years, says Youth's Companion. The Roman Catholics have had missions in the empire several hundred years, and count a million adherents and 25 bishops.

Revival at Aberdeen.

Five hundred and thirty-one persons declared themselves for Christ in the revival services at the Auditorium at Aberdeen, S. D., after continuing four weeks. All-day services were held, also a day of fasting and prayer, and many business houses were closed for the meetings, which were conducted by Evangelist R. E. Johnson, of the Moody Institute, Chicago.

Pleads Cause of Boer Women.

Countess d'Assell writes from Geneva, Switzerland: "Miss Hobhouse sailed from South Africa for England at the same time as Gen. Botha, to plead the cause of the Boer women. Gen. Botha, now premier of the Transvaal, writes gratefully thanking all who have aided the Hobhouse home industries."

Finest Methodist Church.

The new Fowler church in Minneapolis, Minn., will be one of the finest churches architecturally in Methodism, and nothing will be spared to make its decorations and finish on a par with its architecture.

 States. He conducted a store at Emmer for several years and removed on there to East Jordan some four and a half years ago, opening a drug store on the Glenn Block corner of Main and State sts., and which has since been conducted by his son James.
 Besides a wife, three sons and two daughters—Charles of Empire, and James and Arthur of this place, Mrs.
 Mary Robertson of Eastport, and Mrs.
 Effie Moran of Boyne City—are left to mourn his departure. During the last two months a brother, Jesse, of Cedar Bluff, Neb., assisted in caring for him.
 Funeral services were held Friday morning at 9:00 o'clock at the house, conducted by Rev. A. D. Grigsby, pastor of the Presbyterian church.
 Through request of the deceased, interment was made at Bay View Cemetery, near Eastport, by the side of his two departed sons.

Murder at Boyne Falls.
 Adam Corros, a Pole aged about 20 years was killed at Boyne Falls Sunday and the evidence strongly points to murder. His body was found lying face downward in a pool of dirty water and his head was covered with blood.
 An autopsy showed that death was caused by drowning while in an unconscious state produced by assault and battery. Both eyes were black and his head was badly battered up.
 There was a severe laceration of the forehead caused by pounding. His stomach contained dirty water and leaves that he had breathed while lying face downward.
 The pockets of the dead man were turned inside out and nothing of any value was found on his person. It is reported that he had about $10 with him
 the night before.
 Pros. Atty. Clink, Sheriff McWain and the coroner worked on the case but could get no information of any value from the Pollocks who were with him. The affair is being thoroughly investigated.
 The Petoskey Daily Resorter in some anonymous manner got hold of the man's name as Albert Touch, a Bohemian who assaulted Lyman Miles here a couple of years ago and who is now living at Boyne City.

 Precedence in New York Society.
 A philanthropic society of New York recently arranged a benefit performance in one of the theaters. A large number of prominent women were to act as patronesses. When the time came to have the announcement cards signed the president of the society was in a quandary. In what order should he arrange the names? He had never given the matter of social precedence a thought. He referred his troubles to one of the women, and she said decisively:
 "They must be arranged alphabetically or you will be in hot water at once."
 "But some of these ladies are wives of scientific men who are world renowned and some are simply rich.
 Some are wives of army and navy officers."
 "It makes no difference. In New York society the order of precedence is alphabetical, and there is no other rule."—New York Sun.

SPECIAL ABERDEEN-ANGUS PRIZES.
 In addition to the liberal premiums made by the Michigan Agricultural Society at the State Fair, Detroit, this year, the Aberdeen-Angus Breeder's Association has consented to make three awards in each of eight classes to animals of the Aberdeen-Angus breed. This should encourage breeders of black cattle who have never shown to exhibit at this year's exposition.
 The classifications and prizes are as follows:

A—Bull 3 years or over.	1st	2nd	3rd
B—Bull 2 years and un- der 3.	6	4	2.50
C—Bull 1 year and un- der 2.	6	4	2.50
D—Bull under 1 year.	6	4	2.50
E—Cow 3 years or over.	6	4	2.50
F—Heifer 2 years and under 3.	6	4	2.50
G—Heifer 1 year and under 2.	6	4	2.50
H—Heifer under 1 year.	6	4	2.50

 The following conditions govern
 these awards:
 "That it shall be obligatory on all parties applying for the payment of special premiums, that have been won in accordance with resolutions passed by this association, to file with the secretary at same time the recorded name and number of each animal, whether part of a herd or otherwise, by whose exhibition the premium was won.
 Further, That no premium shall be due or paid to the owner of an animal which shall have been entered for exhibition before being recorded in the Herd Book. That this association reserves the right to interpret all premium list rules of shows and State Fairs in connection with the payment of special premiums offered by the association."

STATE FAIR RACES.
 Since the first day of spring the race track at the State Fair grounds, Detroit, has been harrowed and then carefully gone over with drags until it promises to be in perfect condition when the racing program for 1907 opens up on August 29. Horsemen from all over the state unite in praising the course and predict that many a trotter and pacer will circle the oval in sensational time during the coming summer.
 Among the trainers who have been working out their stables at the fair grounds this spring are Fred Tall-madge, Jeff Cunningham, Lacy Mc-Laughlin, the Lewis brothers, Charley Culver and other well known handlers of the harness horse. They have been speeding their charges daily and from the time made, the track record will be placed at a low mark before the fair of 1907 passes into history.
 "We will be only too pleased to encourage breeders by granting them the privilege of working their horses over the fair track, and will do everything in our power to aid them," remarked President Postal recently.
 The attitude of the fair officials has been to encourage Michigan breeders, and to this end they establish comfortable quarters for the horsemen this spring. The program for the meeting to be held during this year's fair has also been arranged with a view to giving Michigan animals an opportunity to compete with the best in their respective classes, while liberal prizes have been hung up for competition between state bred animals.
 Among the horses that have been trained over the fair track this spring are: C. M. Jersey's Gertie W., 2:16;
 Jeff Cunningham's Requisition,
 2:12 1/4; Gale, 2:10 3/4; Idol Star from the Lewis string, Aleck S. with an eighth to his credit in 16 seconds; L.
 De Lisle's Delmas, a promising green colt by Coinage out of Pilot Medium, and a mare of Charley Culver's that has been making fast time.
 Horses worked out in the south have always had a great advantage over Michigan trainers owing to their early preparation, but many trainers say that with the encouragement given Michigan breeders by the State Fair officials this will be a thing of the past. In the early spring the trainers at the fair grounds were hampered by unsettled weather, but with sunshine the fast track rapidly rounded the horses into condition.
 As showing what Michigan horses are capable of the remarkable career of Gale, chronicled by many as Michigan's greatest trotter reads like fiction. When first brought out the Gale horse was marked as "no account" by many experienced horsemen, but Mrs.
 Nettie Kell Moore had unbounded faith in the animal, and her confidence was more than justified when Gale went through the short ship circuit and cleaned up $5,000. He has been changed to pace this year, his natural gait, and by the way he has been working out at the fair track, promises to be faster than ever.
 Eugene Fifield, superintendent of the speed department at the State Fair, is one of the best known harness horse enthusiasts in the west. When he arranges a racing program every horseman knows that he will have an opportunity of entering practically every horse in his stable and with the assurance that he will receive considerate treatment.

$10,200 that will be given out in purses during the six days' racing at the fair this year has been divided as follows: Trotting classes, 2:35, $500;
 2:30, $500; 2:25, $500; 2:22, $500;
 2:19, $500; 2:16, $500; 2:12, $500;
 3-year-old stakes, $300; 2-year-old stakes, $300; pacing, 2:35, $500; 2:30, $500; 2:26, $500; 2:23, $500; 2:20, $500; 2:18, $500; 2:16, $500; 2:13, $500; 2:10, $500; 2:08, $500; free-for-all, $500; 2-year-old stakes, $300;
 3-year-old stakes, $300.
 During the past winter the stables have been enlarged, and improved, and excellent facilities provided for cooling-off and transporting feed. The transportation facilities have also been greatly improved and horsemen will have but little trouble shipping their stables in and out. All entries for the state fair program must be in by August 22.
 Farmers visiting the State Fair should make a special effort to see the display of corn. The products of Michigan cornfields will be gathered from every section of the state and be displayed under one roof.

DIED A BEGGAR.
 The Pathetic Career of John Stow,
 the English Antiquary:
 John Stow, the celebrated English antiquary, was a remarkable man. He was born of poor parents about 1523 and brought up to the tailor's trade.
 For forty years his life was passed among needles and thread, but in the few leisure hours which his trade allowed him he had always been a fond reader of legends, chronicles, histories and all that told of the times that were past. By such reading he grew to be so attached to old memoirs that when about forty years of age he threw down his needle, devoted himself to collecting them and followed his new profession with the faith and enthusiasm of an apostle. Short of means, he made long journeys afoot to hunt over and ransack colleges and monasteries, and, no matter how worn and torn might be the rags of old papers which he found, he kept all, reviewing, connecting, copying, comparing, annotating, with truly wonderful ability and good sense. Arrived at fourscore years and no longer capable of earning a livelihood, he applied to the king, and James I., consenting to his petition, granted to the man who had saved treasures of memoirs for English history the favor of wearing a beggar's garb and asking alms at church doors. In this subject state, forgotten and despised, he died two years later.
 Knew What Buffaloes Liked.
 Secretary Shaw and Senator Tom Carter of Montana were swapping stories the other day when the secretary of the treasury told a good one about a man out in an Iowa town who was never known to disagree with a statement of another, no matter how improbable it might be.
 "One day a group of fellows determined to see if they couldn't get Smith
 —I'll call him Smith," said Secretary Shaw, "to express a dissenting opinion.
 So when Smith came along one of the boys said:
 "I had a most remarkable experience the other day, Smith. As I was coming into town through the hills yonder I saw a buffalo up a tree eating grapes, so shot him. Did you ever see a buffalo up a tree, Smith?"
 "Well, I can't say that I have," returned Smith regretfully.
 "What?" persisted the story teller.
 "Never saw a buffalo up a tree eating grapes?"
 "Well, no, I never saw a buffalo up a tree, but," said Smith, brightening up,
 "I know they are very fond of grapes."

Always on the lookout for the care and comfort of his patrons, Mgr. Holliday of the Electric Theatre has this week installed something which doesn't "show-up" particularly but which will be of inestimable value in case of the film catching fire. The machine booth has been carefully lined with asbestos and over this steel siding was placed a stove pipe was then run from the booth into the chimney. As the film is the only combustible article contained in the booth the above work makes it fire-proof. The company who own the films state that this booth is as safe as any in the country.
The Swedish government is interested in learning why the sons and daughters of that country have come to the United States, and why they stay here. It is thought that an intelligent investigation in that direction will result in making it seem desirable to many of the wanderers from Sweden to return to their old homes. It is more than probable that this effort which was started by direction of King Oscar himself, will show to him that money and goods are not the only ties that now bind his former subjects to the land of their present homes. Most of them belong to the political party of which Abraham Lincoln was the greatest leader. They have absorbed the ideals of Lincoln and his party, and in turn they have given to that party some of their own home-loving and home creating ideals. Regardless of the distant land of their birth they are Americans now. They have given something of the best meaning of that term and even the urgent invitation of their former king will not tempt them to desert their adopted home.

Prof. Atty Clink was at St. James Thursday on official business.

The ball game Thursday afternoon between Boyne City and the E. J. F. D. team was one of the best contests held on the local grounds this season. Both teams played good ball and if it hadn't been for the fifth inning—but what's the use talking about possibilities. The visitors beat our boys by a score of 7 to 3, but it was good, clean, snappy ball and we hope they'll come over again. Maybe then the fates will change.
The P. L. A. S. will hold their next regular meeting at Monroe Creek, Friday, Aug. 2. Launches will be in waiting at the foot of William St. at 1:30 and 2 standard to convey all who may wish to attend. Refreshments will be served and the sum total per head will be 10c. Mesdames Nyquist, Dunham, Kenny and Brabant are the hostesses. All members be present and bring a friend. A cordial invitation is extended to the gentlemen to visit us on this occasion.
The brick block of D. C. Loveday's was sold this week to Seymour J. Yates of Frederic. The building was erected in 1887 and the lower floor has been occupied for years by J. L. Wiesman.
Mr. Yates is in the general mercantile business at Frederic and we are not in a position at present, to state just what his plans are except that he realizes that East Jordan is BOOMING and wants to be in it.
The promise of no contest on the part of the railroads of Michigan in opposition to the two-cent passenger fare legislation, which is suggested at least by the fact that no action has been taken or talked of to question its full validity, is pleasing to the people of the state so far as it goes. Inasmuch as the law does not take effect until the last week in September, however, opportunity yet exists for opposition to the reduced fare requirement if any purpose in that direction exists. The fact that two cents a mile is already the fixed fare in states touching Michigan on every side will be a strong argument in behalf of quietly permitting that rate to go into effect in Michigan in September.
We have a full line of Coffees from 16 cents to 35 cents. Teas 25 cents per lb. and upwards.

The hearing in the case of The People vs. Jos. Podleski—on a serious charge preferred by Mary Tyron—was completed Tuesday and Justice Boosinger bound the defendant over to the Circuit Court, with bail at $1,000 with two sureties. In default of bail Podleski was taken to Charlevoix to await trial.

Some months ago The Herald made a mistake in saying the stork left a boy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kennv. Hence when Dr. McGregor reported to us a 7 lb boy as arriving at the above home last Tuesday evening we rather questioned the rumor. However he says it's so, and if we are making a second error, it's the doctor that's to blame.

The Premium Lists of the Charlevoix Co. Agricultural Society were completed by the Herald the past week and will be generally distributed by Secretary R. A. Brintnall beginning this coming week. If you don't receive one and care for a copy, call on him at the Ericks' Hotel any afternoon except Sunday or drop a post to him. The booklet contains 58 pages and we're just egotistical enough to consider it a credit to the Herald's print shop. A new departure this year is giving each exhibit an entry number—instituted by Sec'y Brintnall to simplify matters during the rush of Fair week.

You, the reader, are very cordially invited to the Presbyterian church on Sunday at 10:30 and 7:30. And you will be inspired to better living should you hear the sacred concert in the evening, of which a full program is elsewhere printed. CHAPTER XX.—Continued.
I looked up speechless. Robinson Locke met my startled glance with cool contempt.

"That you saved my life?" repeated Helena in wonder.

"Have I robbed my gallant countryman of your gratitude, Miss Brett?" he demanded carelessly.

"Then it was you who rushed down the stairway?" I stammered, my face hot with shame.

"Yes, sir," he said sternly, "it was I. It is not a pleasant duty to expose the cowardice of an acquaintance, Miss Brett. I could have forgiven him his terror. But that he should masquerade as a hero while I was vainly attempting to pursue the blackguard who tried to murder you—that is a little too much."

I confronted him, my hands clenched in my rage. But I did not speak. A defense was impossible. I stared at him in silence.

"I am afraid," he sneered, "that you are rather fond of wearing the lion's skin. I believe I had an appointment with you this morning at ten o'clock."

"With me!" I cried, hotly. "No!"

"Then you did not receive the note placed on your pillow last night? Ah, so you did receive it, after all, Sir Mortimer—I beg your pardon, Mr. Haddon."

I turned from him; I looked at Helena. Our eyes met; I did not say one word. I did not beseech even by a look. I had asked her to trust me, but I had not looked for a situation like this. Her eyes fell before mine and they had told me nothing.

"I shall leave you to your interview with Mr. Locke," she said quietly.

CHAPTER XXI.

I Am Trusted Until Midnight.

"Now, Haddon, what is the game?" Locke had seated himself. He had selected with care a cigar from his case (which he did not offer to me), and was regarding me with the brutal amusement of one who has come across a snake sunning in the white road, and who heads off its desperate attempt to escape with a walking stick.

I was silent. I refused to be catechised like a schoolboy. Had I met Locke, his mind still unprejudiced against me, I should gladly have told him everything, even at the risk of making myself ridiculous in his eyes. But his mind was so evidently made up regarding me, his interference had been so fatally ill-timed, that I could not bring myself to the humiliating position of one who begs for one who explains, only to be duped after all.

The episode in the porter's lodge was even now far from clear. I have already said that I knew that Helena's escape was not due to any heroism of mine.

Dr. Starva had concealed himself behind the glass partition of the porter's lodge in the landing. Unobserved, I had stood flat against the wall, watching him.

I had seen Helena coming up the stairs; I had seen Dr. Starva level his revolver at her; I had heard the crash of glass and the report of a revolver. I had supposed that Starva had fired and missed.

Now it appeared that Locke's shot had shattered the glass of the lodge, while Starva had not fired at all. But why Locke should have been in the stairway—why he should have been concealed there—was not so clear. Certainly I had no intention of humiliating myself further by asking for an explanation.

"Come, I'm waiting," he cried sharply.

"You are waiting—for what?" I demanded with an assurance I did not feel. I was playing for time. Should I, or should I not, try to make all clear to Locke? That was the question I was asking myself over and over.

"You remember I warned you. I told you you were a pawn in the clever hands of Countess Sarahoff. I prefer to think that you are her tool rather than her accomplice. But if you have been fool enough to allow yourself to be caught in the net of her intrigue, if you have made your interests at one with hers, you must expect to pay the piper as well as she."

"I see. You're Nemesis dogging me to justice?"

I had decided. No matter what happened I would keep my own counsel for the present. I was not to be bullied into a confession.

"So you admit that the law has its terrors for you," cried Locke quickly. "And are you Justice or the Law in disguise? By heaven, you are assuming a rather high-handed manner. What the devil is your right to play the part of inquisitor?"

"Gently, gently. I said nothing about my right."

"Then I might ask what is your name?"

"I make no pretense to any right. I happen to hold the cards. That's all."

"By that your name, I suppose, is—"

you have put two and two together and made the sum of five. Well, perhaps I say your arithmetic is at fault and perhaps I don't choose to enter into an argument to enlighten you."

"We shall see," said Locke quietly. "Now, Haddon, don't think that I am simply amusing myself. I am only too willing to give you every benefit of the doubt. You are an American; you have been at the same university as myself; you have suffered from an unpleasant notoriety the past week or two. I went to your hotel at Lucerne and offered you my friendship."

"And you come as a friend now? Scarcely, you will admit that."

"I offered you my friendship. I showed my sincerity by taking you more or less into my confidence. I gave you a chance to confide in me in return. I had seen you fascinated by a woman whom I knew to be a dangerous companion. When I warned you, you were clever enough to affect a disingenuous innocence."

"What shrewd observers you newspaper men are!"

"That very evening," continued Locke, frowning, "you dined with her and her accomplice—not openly in the restaurant, but in her own sitting room. Late that evening, in company" with her, you were seen to enter into an argument to enlighten you."

"I am afraid," he sneered, "that you are rather fond of wearing the lion's skin. I believe I had an appointment with you this morning at ten o'clock."

"With me!" I cried, hotly. "No!"

"I make no pretense to any right. I happen to hold the cards. That's all."

"By that your name, I suppose, is—"

"Having seen Dr. Starva and yourself quite as much as a love feast, perhaps better."

"To resume my narrative," drawled Locke, "you disappear within the chamber. My friend Forbes is having his little interview with you. But presently I see you again at the window, packet in hand. You lean far out; you toss the packet into the basin of an empty fountain. The shutters are closed. Your work is finished for the night. And so it mine—that is, after I have rescued from the empty fountain the packet."

"Which you promptly returned to Captain Forbes, no doubt?"

"Who has a greater right to it?" returned Locke coolly.

But he had not returned it to Forbes; I was sure of that. Locke was a newspaper man trained in the school of modern journalism. He had determined on a grand coup for his paper. If the sealed dispatch promised to be of assistance to him he would break the seal.

That would not suit me at all. My task was to hush up the scandal of Sir Mortimer Brett and his mistress. Locke was determined to give it the fullest publicity. Our ends were utterly at variance. Every sentence of his recital made me see that more clearly.

I saw, too, that the object of his story was to overwhelm me with the certainty that I must make a full confession to him or suffer those consequences. My one hope was to avert those consequences until my interview with Madame de Varnier. I hoped everything from that.

For the present I need fear nothing from Forbes. Helena had given me her word that she would trust me until midnight. But the silence of Helena and Forbes was useless unless Locke also was silent. I awaited the rest of his narrative with anxious concern.

The next morning I bestir myself early, you may be sure, that Captain Forbes' rest had been equally perturbed. Together we discover the startling fact that, early as we had aroused ourselves, our patient with his nurse and physician had been even more energetic. But my discovery is of a nature more dramatic than that of the king's messenger. He imagines that it is Sir Mortimer who has fled. I am forced to the reluctant conclusion that it is Mr. Ernest Haddon, American tourist, masquerading as the diplomatist, Sir Mortimer Brett. Is it necessary that I enter into explanations for this discovery, or shall we take the fact for granted?"

"Take it for granted by all means, since you have already taken so much for granted."

"I shall not bore you much longer. Captain Forbes and myself join forces. I needed but one argument to persuade him to do that. I knew where Madame de Varnier and her fellow conspirators were bound; Captain Forbes did not."

"And Mrs. and Miss Brett—did you reveal your suspicions to them?"

"So far," Locke looked at me significantly. "I have revealed them to no one. We arrive at Alterhoffen, then, the four of us. Captain Forbes insists on storming the chateau. With what result you know better than I. As for myself, I prefer to keep my counsel, and, first of all, to give my friend Haddon a friendly hint. I advise one of the servants at the castle to convey a note to him requesting the honor of an interview at ten this morning. My friend Haddon denies me the honor of an interview. Then if the mountain will not come to Mohammed, Mohammed must go to the mountain."

"I am directed to the castle by the stairway that leads to the village street. I have not descended a dozen steps of the gloomy stairway when I hear some one coming up them in furious haste. Naturally, I pause; and quite as naturally I take the precaution of placing my hand on the revolver in my hip pocket, which I carry with me, remembering the fate of my acquaintance, Captain Forbes."

"To my surprise the person in this extraordinary haste conceals himself in the little glass-covered room at the angle of the stairs. I descend the steps cautiously and curiously. There are other surprises in store for me. First of all I see a second figure standing flat against the wall. As my eyes become accustomed to the darkness I am startled to discover that the man concealed in the lodge has a revolver in his hand. For the moment I think he is lying in wait for myself. But almost immediately I hear steps from below. There is a click as the trigger is cocked. I am averse to bloodshed—even the killing of a would-be murderer. I fire, not at him, but to shatter the pane of glass and divert his aim."

"Now for my last surprise. The assassin, rather truthfully I must say, has been grappled with by the man who had concealed himself against the wall and was apparently awaiting developments. But the would-be assassin has succeeded in freeing himself from this very faint-hearted assailant. I pursue the assassin; he eludes capture; I return faithfully to the hotel to find my friend Haddon receiving the warm thanks of the heroine for saving her life."

"A great deal of this is ancient history," I said, my voice trembling with shame and rage, "such of it as is not fiction. You return, then, to unmask the would-be hero. And now, what?"

"And now," said Locke in a deep voice, his face thrust close to mine, "I want to know this: Why were you hiding in that stairway? Why did you stand there passively while the man was committing the act of murder before your eyes? Why did you pretend to struggle with the assassin, pretend to struggle, I say?"

"Even a coward will fight, I suppose, when he is cornered," I said bitterly. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Another Brand.

"I suppose you realize the danger of firewater?" said the man who tries to benefit people.

"I do," answered the Indian, thoughtfully; "especially the kind the paleface puts in his automobile."

LIFE INSURANCE ACTIVITY.

The New York Life's Business Nearly Up to the Legal Limit.

The New York Life Insurance Company announces that its new paid business during the half year just ended was over seventy million dollars. As the new law allows no life company to write over one hundred and fifty millions per year, it would appear that this company is working nearly up to the limit. The New York Life gained such headway before the law was passed and suffered so little, comparatively, from the Armstrong investigation, that the question with its management has been how to keep business down to the limit, rather than how to reach it. No other company is writing nearly as much as the law allows. The New York Life has evidently become a preferred company.

The company's payments to policy holders during the six months ending June 30 were $21,600,761. It is interesting to note that this amount was almost equally divided between payments under policies maturing by death and payments made to living policy holders. Thus, while death claims were $11,180,626, the amount paid for matured endowments, annuities, trust fund installments, for purchased policies and for dividends was $10,480,135. Modern life insurance, as practiced by the best companies, embraces a wide field, and covers many contingencies. It is money saved for the aged, as well as money provided for the families of those who die prematurely.

QUICK REMEDIES FOR CRAMP.

Not Hard to Get Relief From This Painful Affliction.

Do your little growing folks wake up in the night with cramp in their toes or legs? If so, tell them to slide down to the foot of the bed and press their toes hard against the footboard. This seldom fails to bring relief. Even the tightest toe can do this for herself when she wakes up in alarm at the big pain in her leg.

Should this fail, and sometimes when the cramp is up by the knee, it is not efficient, tell the sufferer to press the sole of her cramped foot against the instep of the other. Press good and hard, and the pressure, together with the warmth and electricity drawn from the well foot, will certainly bring relief unless the case is very stubborn. To treat the "knotty" stubborn kind of cramp, which sometimes seizes the little folks when they are nervous, or if they have eaten something which does not agree with them, to the a broad hand (father's handkerchief, folded, will answer), tightly above the cramped part. Rubbing, unless one knows just how to manipulate the muscle, often does more harm than good. The doctors tell us that cramp of this kind is as much a nervous as a muscular trouble.

If your children suffer frequently with it, a good warm bath with an alcohol rub at night is a good preventive.

B. N.

His Finger Prints.

Of Count Julius Andrássy, whose monument was recently unveiled at Buda-Pesth, the Neue Presse gives the following incident: Count Andrássy had a habit of smoothing with his hand his richly curled hair. One day an important document had passed the Austrian Council of Ministers, in the contents of which Count Andrássy was interested. Shortly afterward the Austrian president of the ministry said to one of the ministers: "Count Andrássy has read the latest document." "How do you know?" "I find on it the imprint of Count Andrássy's fingers," responded the president with a laugh.

MEAT OR CEREALS.

A Question of Interest to All Careful Persons.

Arguments on food are interesting. Many persons adopt a vegetarian diet on the ground that they do not like to feel that life has been taken to feed them, nor do they fancy the thought of eating dead meat.

On the other hand, too great consumption of partly cooked, starchy meats and wheat or white bread, pastry, etc., produces serious bowel troubles, because the bowel digestive organs (where starch is digested), are overtaxed and the food ferments, producing gas, and microbes generate in the decayed food, frequently bringing on peritonitis and appendicitis.

Starchy food is absolutely essential to the human body. Its best form is shown in the food "Grape-Nuts," where the starch is changed into a form of sugar during the process of its manufacture. In this way, the required food is presented to the system in a pre-digested form and is immediately made into blood and tissue, without taxing the digestive organs.

A remarkable result in nourishment is obtained; the person using Grape-Nuts gains quickly in physical and mental strength. Why, in mental? Because the food contains delicate particles of Phosphate of Potash obtained from the grains, and this unites with the albumen of all food and the combination is what nature uses to rebuild worn out cells in the brain. This is a scientific fact that can be easily proven by ten day's use of Grape-Nuts. "There's a Reason." Read, "The Road to Wellville," in 64.

AUNT AMELIA AND THE RED HAT

When Uncle Nat died last year the girls nothing. Although they were his nieces neither of them was mentioned in his will. Their mother was also ignored, and all the fortune went to an unmarried sister.

This was not quite so bad as it looked. It was understood that she would leave the estate to the family on her death. So the girls ought to have realized that it was the part of wisdom to be polite to Aunt Amelia.

The niece who was Aunt Amelia's namesake was so furious over the matter that she refused to wear mourning after the funeral, except when she called on Aunt Amelia. Then she put on black, that had already done service in honoring several elderly and rather remote relatives.

"I can't see why in the world I should go to the expense of buying new black," Amelia observed, "when he didn't leave me a cent."

"Then I had already bought my spring clothes. If I had got my share of the fortune—the share I thought was coming to me—I could have afforded new mourning. But not now."

So Amelia, to colored clothes and was somber only when she paid her duty calls on her aunt. One day she had dressed for a motor trip in the park and wanted to look her best. This summer her idea of best was geranium hat with its red plumes.

She put that hat on and started to walk around to her friend's house, where the car was to meet them. She went sauntering along, buttoning her gloves and feeling that she really was looking well. Red was her color, and the black and white striped gown contrasted well with the hat.

Suddenly she lifted her eyes. There was Aunt Amelia approaching. It seemed certain that she was going to see Amelia in her gaudy finery. The sight of that geranium-colored hat might affect Amelia's fortunes seriously.

Before Aunt Amelia was half a foot nearer her red-hatted niece turned about and was facing in the opposite direction.

"I must get this red hat off," was the thought that possessed the niece as she fled. "I must get upstairs and get rid of it before she sees."

She was almost running now. That safety lay in walking straight ahead and not stopping at the home at all never occurred to her. Her plan had been to run up to her room and she thought only of that.

She reached the steps and skipped confidently up. She reached down for her night key, but it was missing. Hopeless of escape now, she rang the bell.

"The servants must be asleep," she thought as she pushed the button again. "My! There are Aunt Amelia's footsteps."

Fearing to look behind her, she sidestepped in response to a sudden inspiration and got behind one of the storm doors. It was a close fit and she held her breath as she made herself as flat as possible against the wall.

She heard the rattle of Aunt Amelia's stiff trepe as she walked up the steps. The astonished servant, as she opened the door, saw the aunt when she was still three steps from the top, although the lady had already rung twice.

The servant was not analytical, however, and admitted Aunt Amelia without question. The prisoner, behind the door, wondered if her breathing had been heard. She slipped down the steps as soon as the door closed and darted down the street to keep her appointment. So she was not able to hear her aunt saying:

"I thought I saw Amelia on the street a few minutes ago. But I was mistaken; for that girl had on a red hat. It couldn't have been Amelia."

"Of course not," said the loyal sister to whom this observation was made. "It could never have been Amelia in a red hat."

Korean Financier.

A countryman named Yi Tukso has come to the conclusion that something should be done to prevent the collection of money to pay the public debt becoming such a drain on the collection medium as to cause embarrassment to the merchant class. He luxuriates as their gold rings and silver hairpins and other objects of intrinsic value, that these be conservatively appraised and stored carefully in some safe deposit and used as bullion to back a paper currency which will circulate among the people.

That this is feasible or not it is not clear, but the Koreans are willing to look the difficulties of the situation squarely in the face and desire to meet all valid objections half-way. —Korean Daily Times

Electric Cars for a Funeral.

A wealthy Burmese lady having died in Rangoon, her relatives decided to have her body conveyed to the cemetery by electric tram. Six cars were hired, and with a band playing "The British Grenadiers" the party merrily bowled along at 12 miles an hour, flowers were scattered by the funeral party as they proceeded rapidly on their way, to the great delight of the children en route. A Burman never makes a melancholy party at a funeral, but this is the first time in the history of Rangoon that electric cars have been hired for a funeral procession.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative and my Book on either Dyspepsia, the Heart or the Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating the symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, not the Cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by Warne's Pharmacy.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brush your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Verdict for Dr. Pierce AGAINST THE
Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unvarnished and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the slanderous and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of women's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal for $200,000 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business; furthermore, that no alcohol, or other poisonous, or habit-forming, drugs, or any other, were contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatever, and that Mr. Bok's malicious statements were wholly and absolutely false.

The retraction printed by said Journal they were forced to acknowledge that they had published a very gross and malicious article, from eminent chemists, all of whom certified that it did not contain alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs.

These facts were also proven in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the widely defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however, brought to a very close in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. Thus his slanderers came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

Spasms St. Vitus' Dance

Many persons who suffered untold agonies from epilepsy, fits, spasms, and St. Vitus' Dance are today well. The strengthening influence of Dr. Miles' Nervine upon the shattered nerves having restored them to perfect health.

"I endured agony that words cannot express from St. Vitus' dance, which followed a very severe spell of rheumatism; I doctored with a physician, but the more I took of his medicine the worse I got. My mother's devotion saved me. She gave me Dr. Miles' Nervine, almost heart-broken, as well as physically exhausted from constant care. By the advice of a neighbor she procured a bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine. From the first dose to the last a continual change for the better was noticeable. When I had taken eleven bottles I was well, and in robust health."
EDWARD D. REAM,
North Manchester, Indiana.

"Our little boy Harry, had spasms for three years, and although we doctored with many physicians, he continued to grow worse until he had ten spasms in one week. About that time our attention was called to Dr. Miles' Nervine. We began giving it to him. His improvement seemed slow, but when he had finished the fourth bottle the spasms had disappeared, and have not returned now for years. We shall always recommend Dr. Miles' Nervine."
