Foster Residence Scorched

The residence of Dr. F. A. Foster, occupied by Dr. John A. Macgregor and wife was partially burned early Tuesday morning.

Dr. Macgregor and wife were awakened about three o'clock by smoke in their bedroom and discovered that fire had eaten through a defective flue and gained considerable headway. An alarm was turned in and the firemen responded promptly but before the fire could be subdued it had eaten its way from the second floor up through the roof. The household goods were removed as much as possible, but the carpets, etc., were ruined, with no insurance. Dr. and Mrs. Macgregor are at present occupying rooms at E. A. Gibson's and the doctor has his offices over the state bank. The loss on the building is covered by insurance.

Hold Joint Opening.

B. C. Hubbard & Co. and Miss Jennie MacFarlane hold a joint Spring Opening at their store in the Empey Block next Friday and Saturday. The former will have on display a full line of Ladies' Furnishing and Ready-to-wear Gargents, and Miss MacFarlane will have a big display of Spring Millinery. See ads elsewhere.

East Jordanite in Georgia.

The following interesting letter on Prohibition and the presidency situation in Georgia was received the past week from Mr. Jerome B. Allen, who is in the south trying to regain his health. The letter is closely written and is without a wrong letter or misspelled word—which shows that Mr. Allen is past-master at his trade—stenoigraphy.

Trenton, Ga., Feb. 25, 1908.
Pub. Herald,
East Jordan, Mich.

Dear sir:—Thinking that perhaps you would be somewhat interested in the way Prohibition is enforced here I will give you a couple of instances how it is done here. A man about seven miles from this place was detected, in clandestinely selling whiskey (Blind Tiger), and twelve counts were sustained against him, one for selling one quart of whiskey for which he was fined one thousand dollars, which he very reluctantly and grudgingly paid, and was then released on suspended sentence on the other eleven counts but with the assurance that if he attempted to continue this business that he would be immediately fined on the other eleven counts, or serve his term in the Chain Gang, and this all dread and will do anything in their power to avoid it. Another instance was that of a man who owned a distillery, who by some means had on hand eleven thousand gallons of whiskey, attempted to ship it out of the state by loading it in a large car in the night secretly, and surrounding it with brick, but he was detected and all the whiskey immediately seized and the distillery also was confiscated, being a loss to him of over twenty thousand dollars. Some time ago a person from another section called at a drug store for a pint of whiskey, but of course was refused as the law is also very severe on the one that either sells it or gives it away. He took a bottle from his pocket and drank therefrom and in a boastful manner said that he was supplied or something to that import, went into the street and in a few moments was attempting to walk on both sides of the sidewalk in a rail fence style and in less than an hour he was in the Chain Gang, under an officer working on the Public Highway. Another case a man was fined $250 for selling one bottle of Lager beer, or three months in the dread Chain Gang. At the railroad station, or other public places no drunken men are to be seen here, and the report from Atlanta, our state Capitol, is that there are less than half the number of cases at the police court than before the law was in effect. It is the sentiment of the people here that gives the law its force.

Very little excitement is in politics as Roosevelt is the almost universal choice of the whites, and next to him Taft or Hughes. With the "Niggers" however, Foraker is the choice, but his name is in utter contempt among the whites, who say "concern in Foraker," "Let his 'nigger' brethren vote for him."

County Normal Notes.

The class began their work in Civics last week.

Alma Francis substituted in the seventh grade for Miss Jones one-half day last week.

Lola Cross had charge of the eighth grade room for a short time one day last week.

The Parents' Meeting was held last Friday evening in the normal room. The seventh and eighth grades served refreshments in the meseroom. Last Tuesday evening, Mar. 3, Mrs. Rifeberg gave the class a very pleasant time at her home. She invited us all to come and surprise Miss Himes and Miss Reed—which we were very successful in doing. The evening was spent in playing games after which Mrs. Rifeberg served dainty refreshments.

Leah Persons substituted for Miss Parfield part of a day last week.

Mayme Scroggie spent Saturday and Sunday in Petoskey.

Miss Himes received a letter last week from Miss Ruth Ekstrom, of last year's class, who is teaching near Boyne Falls.

Old papers sold at this office.

Miss' and children's spring jackets at all prices at B. C. Hubbard & Co's.

"One never knows," said a salesman in one of the big stationers. "How many people are afflicted with a given infirmity, until something comes up to call attention to it. Everyone knows in a general way that a number of persons are left handed; but until we got these new playing cards with the index marks in all four corners, which were invented just for left handed players I had no idea that so many people held their cards in their right hand. I have been keeping count for a week now, and I find that about one person in six wants cards for left handed players."—New York Sun.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, dependent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, or "rising" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong. The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle, and is attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised. Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret medicine of known composition.

WILSON.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, Jr., spent Sunday in East Jordan.

Miss Eva Mackey's school in Afton is having a vacation this week.

Loren Frost had the misfortune to lose one of his horses recently.

Edward Nowland, who has been working up north, is at home again. Mrs. Carrie Lanway is spending a few days in East Jordan and vicinity. Miss Florine Hudkins visited relatives in East Jordan, the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin who have been in the south west for some time, returned to Wilson last week.

Township Treasurer Chas. Hudkins drove through to Charlevoix last Monday to settle with the County Treasurer. He was accompanied by his wife and little boy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Yronbran have been ill with grippe the past two weeks and their daughter Glennie, who is attending school in East Jordan, is quite ill with pneumonia.

Hundreds Here will Welcome the Advice.

Here is a home-made mixture as given by an eminent authority on Kidney diseases, who makes the statement in a New York daily newspaper that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe; try it:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here in town is authority that these ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle. This mixture has a healing and soothing effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure the Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood and system all uric acid and foul, decomposed waste matter, which cause these afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.

Ideal Newspaper Fiction.

Stories of newspaper scoops on matters of current news are many, but it is seldom that a newspaper can claim a triumph in the discovery of a popular novel was recorded recently by the Chicago Record-Herald when it printed serially "The Wings of the Morning," by Louis Tracy. The judgment of the paper has since been verified by the unprecedented sale the book has had both in the United States and in England. The Record-Herald's keen judgment in fiction enables its readers to get the best novels offered before they reach the book stands, while its policy of giving just the right amount daily and Sunday makes it a pleasure to follow its serials.

A radical departure in Sunday journalism was marked by the advent of the Sunday Magazine of the Record-Herald. It is particularly strong in fiction, both serials and short stories, and it has all the other attractive features of the famous illustrated weeklies and monthlies and challenges a comparison with them.

SEEKS KENTUCKY TOGA

John C. W. Beckham, former governor of Kentucky, is at present engaged in the fiercest kind of a factional fight for the United States senatorship for his state.

This hostility to Beckham arose from his conduct as governor. He was a young man, less than 30, and it had never been intended that he should be the chief executive of the state.

The latter entered the office declaring that he would be a "straight away" governor, but some of the influential Democratic leaders laughed in their sleeves at the announcement.

No particular pains were taken to discredit Beckham, as the law provides for only one term of four years as governor of Kentucky.

A GENIUS OR A RASCAL

Henri Lemoine, who is under arrest in Paris on a charge of swindling Sir Julius Wernher, one of the syndicates that controls the diamond output of South Africa, is either a finished rascal or a wonderful genius.

be opened only after Lemoine's death. Then it is to become the property of Sir Julius, who has already paid $65,000 for it.

Whatever Wernher may have believed at first, he has little faith in the formula now, and he is seeking to have it opened, predicting that only a piece of blank paper will be found.

There is something in this case very closely resembling the Humbert affair in which a safe said to contain millions fooled the people of Paris for a long time, and when it was opened it was found to contain a collar button and a few other trifles of the kind.

Lemoine is 30 years old, with an aggressive black beard and sparkling eyes. He was born in Trieste when his father was French consul there.

NEW PORTUGUESE RULER

Dom Manuel II, the new king of Portugal, is the second son of the late ruler, King Carlos. He is said to be a young man of considerable force of character, and, unlike his elder brother, is popular with the masses.

Prince Manuel, in his early teens, was sent to the naval school at Lisbon, where he showed a marked aptitude for maritime affairs.

Bejo was as well as his hereditary title of duke of Saxony. He is the owner of 11 Christian names, by one of which he is known as Manuel.

The young sovereign's personality is described by those who know him as very winning. As a lad he displayed fine manly traits. He had considerable artistic talent, especially for music, and like his father was exceedingly fond of outdoor sports, such as tennis, riding and shooting.

DENOUNCES WORKINGMAN

Barrett Wendell, professor of English at Harvard university, who recently startled Chicago with his hysterical denunciation of the workingman, is chiefly known to fame as the father of Barrett Wendell Jr., the athlete.

"One of the most popular caricatures in the comic papers to-day represents a big-bellied, bald-headed, thin-whiskered, brutal, grinning man trampling on his worthy fellow citizen, and he is supposed to personify wealth and fashion, the upper classes.

"This privileged individual with the tin dinner pail also combines with his kind to crowd out all competition, and to do it resorts to the most brutal and intense physical force. He destroys competition and keeps up prices by violence.

"I have said enough to show that I am not in public life. To be in public life in any nation one must show proper deference and adulation to the sovereign, whether the sovereign be a shah, a czar or the people.

Prof. Wendell was the first American professor to lecture at the Sorbonne under the international agreement for an exchange of professors.

Then Bilson hung up the receiver, and got back into bed a happy man.

The Solution of the Servant Girl Problem. By ISAAC M. RUBINOW, Chief of the Division of Foreign Statistics, United States Department of Commerce.

Domestic service to-day is nothing but benevolent feudalism. It is a system so pernicious that the inevitable revolt has not only set in but has gathered full headway.

The problem of domestic service is one that cannot be treated lightly or solved easily. Its ultimate solution is inevitable and will be brought about, I firmly believe, almost as speedily without as with the aid of the public itself.

A vast majority of the superficial students of the servant question, and a surprisingly large number of more careful investigators, it seems to me, have fallen into a common error.

If in order to get "help" the housewives of the future are compelled to grant them fixed hours, they will so arrange their work as to comply with the inevitable.

The solution of the domestic problem requires but one thing: Realize that the woman who is working for you is human and loves and cherishes what is dearest to a woman's heart—a home of her own.

Woman's Veracity vs. Man's. By MRS. HENRIETTE M. JOHNSTON-WOOD, New York Lawyer.

Men are firmly convinced that there are occasions when the lie is justified. Then they lie deliberately and they lie well, whether on the witness stand or off.

Women witnesses are generally considered more evasive than men. Yet the most difficult witness to bring to a point of saying "yes" or "no" is the man lawyer.

When a woman starts out not to perjure herself but to evade the questions of a clever attorney all the talent of the bar might as well retire from the field. She will win, hands down.

No Life Really Is a Failure. By J. P. BLAND, B. D., Sociologist and Lecturer.

Postand reminds us that while millions ever struggle for success, it is oft far nobler to fail. What clouds of memories such a thought awakens.

In the last analysis, and viewed in the largest way, are failures really possible? Is not every life in some sort a success, and, were it otherwise, could it ever come as life at all?

I like the optimistic note which the poet Pope so often strikes, as in his gleaming discord but as harmony not understood and partial evil but as universal good.

FACTS FADS FALLACIES

Dealing with Personal Magnetism, Telepathy, Psychology, Suggestion, Hypnotism, and Spiritualism.

By
EDWARD B. WARMAN, A. M.
Eminent Psychologist and Hygienist.

SUGGESTION.

The mind is always controllably by suggestion. A suggestion, however, is not necessarily verbal, but is something you can see, smell, hear, touch, or taste. The mind can be stupefied, starved or poisoned as truly as the body.

I have every reason to believe that there is not a disease known to man which cannot be remedied if the mind of the patient were prevented from regarding the recovery of health.

Friends and sympathetic relatives also have, unintentionally, of course, misled many persons by misdirected kindness and over-anxiety.

Suggestive therapeutics is an established fact. It is rapidly taking its place as a remedial agent. Wherever we go, and in every case of sickness, we witness the power of suggestion.

Suggestive therapeutics is more than "Christian Science," more than "faith cure," more than "divine healing," more than any "patent" or "miraculous" suggestive therapeutics, however, is not infallible, says Bernheim, although it gives good results in a very large number of cases. It may fail even when it is intelligently and persistently managed. The cause of the failure is inherent; sometimes in the disease, sometimes in the subject.

One who uses suggestion never has need to deny the existence of disease, but positively and truthfully asserts that the disease is amenable to cure and that recovery will follow as the result of the treatment.

That there is inherent in all mankind a psychic power presiding over the functions, conditions and sensations of the body, and that the power can be invoked and controlled at will, under proper conditions, is no longer a matter of doubt by reasonable investigators.

This inherent power, known as the subjective mind, runs the entire human machinery when the objective mind is either asleep or in abeyance; in fact, it runs the machinery of life all the time, but runs it better when not interfered with by the objective mind in the form of adverse suggestions. It has absolute control over all the functions—nutrition, waste, all secretions and excretions, the action of the heart in the circulation of the blood, the lungs in respiration, and in all cell life, cell changes and development.

"I do not pretend," says Bernheim, that "suggestion" acts directly upon the diseased organ. Diseases are cured, when they can be cured, by their natural biological evolution. Ordinary therapeutic methods consist in putting the organism in a condition such that the restitutive act integrum may take place. We suppress, says Bernheim, the pain, we modify functions, we let the organ rest, we calm the fever, we retard the pulse, we induce sleep, we encourage secretion and excretion; and, acting thus, we permit nature (the healer), or, to speak in modern language, we permit the activity of the forces and the properties inherent in the biological elements to accomplish their work.

Every element of the organism has, so to speak, its center of action bordering upon the brain. Sensibility, movement, nutrition, secretion, excretion and calorification are governed, or at least influenced, by this central organism which presides over the complex mechanism of animal physiology.

"Suggestion" is of special value to physicians. I think Dr. Parkyn is quite right in declaring that physicians study the anatomy and physiology of the brain, but they sadly neglect the study of its functions.

The chief and greatest function of the brain is to receive, associate and store away all impressions received through the senses and to reproduce these impressions when necessary. Through the mind every organ of the body may be assisted, and it is through unconscious action of the mind upon the body that so many diseases are produced and so many cured.

A study of psychology and suggestion will enable a physician, when a patient first consults him, to ascertain the part imagination plays in the complaint. Imaginary or not, it is real to the patient.

Every careful observer knows that the functions of the human body may be greatly disturbed through mental influences, and that such disturbances, if prolonged, result in fixed, functional or nervous diseases, and that these functional derangements often terminate in organic disease and sometimes in death.

That mental activities are capable of producing chemical and anatomical changes in our bodies is a demonstrable fact. It is also true that, while properly directed thoughts are always conducive to conditions of health, perverted mental conditions as certainly produce functional and organic disease.

Alcoholism is now justly regarded as a perverted mental condition of which the uncontrollable drink habit is the outward manifestation. The fact that alcoholism yields so readily to suggestive therapeutics is proof positive of its mental origin and, on this account, its rational treatment can be accomplished only along the line of psychic methods.

Power of Thought in Auto-Suggestion.
Auto-suggestion (self-suggestion) is as potent in its influence as when exerted by another. Even when reason is dethroned, the thought held by the subjective mind (the mind of the soul) having become the dominant idea, holds a power over the bodily functions. The following convincing illustration is vouched for by the Lancet, London, Eng.:

"An English lady, disappointed in love in her younger years, became insane and lost all account of time. Believing she was still young and living in the same hour in which she was parted from her lover, taking no note of years, she stood daily before the window watching for his coming. In this mental condition she remained young.

"Some American travelers who saw her were asked to guess her age. They, unacquainted with her history, placed her under 20. She was, at the time, 74; but she had not a wrinkle or gray hair; youth sat gently on cheek and brow. She was held by the thought of youth and love, and it retarded the marks of age.

Imagination and Suggestion.
The imagination may be wrought upon by reading—as instanced by patent medicine advertisements—or by hearsay, or may be wholly creative. In each case it is the outgrowth of a mental condition and the result is that the unreal becomes the real, the ultimate result frequently proving fatal.

The fatal power of imagination was illustrated recently in the case of a Russian railway employe who was, by accident, shut up in a refrigerator car.

He wrote on the wall, "I am becoming colder." Later, "I am slowly freezing." Still later, and the last, "I am half asleep; these may be my last words."

When they took him out, he was dead; but it was found that the temperature of the car was only 54, the apparatus was out of order. His auto-suggestion working on his imagination killed him.

Imagination Extraordinary.
The Philadelphia Press gives the following interesting and highly suggestive incident of the power of suggestion through imagination:

"On one occasion when Li Hung Chang, as premier, was having a bitter fight with some of the more conservative members of the Tsung Li Yamen, he received, as a present, a magnificent cake which he had reason to suspect contained poison. He put the cake aside and set to work to find out who was at the bottom of the plot. The crime was traced to three men, one of whom, at least, was absolutely guilty. Li had the trio brought to his yamen. When they arrived they were ushered into his presence and were received in his courtliest manner. The cake was produced with the remark that 'politeness forbids my tasting it until the three generous donors have had an opportunity to enjoy its excellence.'

"Li cut the cake and one of his servants handed it to the unwilling guests. Each took a piece and ate, or pretended to eat. One of them crumbled the pieces and let them fall upon the floor, but the two others ate calmly without manifesting any emotion.

"Within ten minutes the two men began to show symptoms of suffering. Li smiled benignantly and said to the man who had not eaten: 'Your wisdom is so great that I am compelled to preserve your head as a souvenir of transcendent genius.'

"The man was removed and promptly decapitated. To the two others the premier remarked: 'The cake you ate is not the one you sent, but one which I had my cook imitate. The poison from which you are suffering exists only in your imagination. I know of no better way to cure your present pain than by letting you share the same fate as your friend who has just left the room.'

"As they were led away Li said to his retinue: 'It is a pity that men who can eat a deadly corrosive poison with an unmoved countenance should so misapprehend the talent wherewith heaven has endowed them.'

NEW IDEA IN SANDWICHES.

Delicacy That Is Popular with Our English Cousins.

An unusual sandwich is the Devonshire. It is thoroughly English. Put half a pound of Vienna flour into a basin, add half a teaspoonful of salt, a level teaspoonful of castor sugar and a full teaspoonful of yeast powder, then rub two ounces of butter into the flour, and when thoroughly mixed moisten with a well-beaten egg and enough milk to form a fairly soft dough.

Knead the latter just sufficiently to make it into a perfectly smooth ball, then turn it from the mixing basin on to a floured board, and after rolling it out to about the thickness of a quarter of an inch, cut it out into rounds with a plain or fluted cutter of about the size of a five shilling piece and bake the scones at once on a floured tin. Just before they are done brush them over with beaten egg, and on taking them from the oven let them cool on a wire rack or sieve.

Shortly before they are required split the scones through the middle with a sharp knife and spread all the pieces with thick clotted cream, then cover half the number with a layer of honey and clove sandwiches.

FOR FLAVORING CLEAR SOUP:

Extract Made from Vegetable Parings and Spices.

"How do you ever get so much flavor into a clear soup?" asked an intimate friend of the hostess.

"I make a regular vegetable flavoring extract," was the reply. "It's good for soups or stews of any sort."

"If you want to make some, collect some nice fresh carrot and turnip peelings, onion, leek and tomato skins and celery trimmings. They should weigh about a pound altogether. Add to these a sprig each of parsley, thyme and marjoram, one bay leaf, one clove of garlic, a small piece of lemon peel, two cloves, eight peppercorns, one teaspoonful of salt and one pint of cold water.

"Put them all on the range and simmer until it has boiled down to about half a pint. Next strain carefully and bottle the mixture. This flavoring is very strong, and about one teaspoonful of it is required to flavor one pint of stock."

Plants Thrive on Steam.

A woman famous among her friends for her thrifty house plants ascribe her success to her practice of steaming them.

"Whenever they begin to droop and look as if they needed 'toning up' they get a treatment," she said recently. "She has a row of hooks arranged on the bathroom wall over the tub, and from these she suspends the pots by strings to within two feet of the water, the plants having previously had a thorough watering. The door and windows are closed, with the exception of a narrow crack left open at the top of one of the latter, and the tub is filled with water hot enough to allow a gentle steam to rise and pervade the atmosphere.

In this position the plants are left for an hour, and the operation is repeated until they are restored to health. This of course only can be done in a room with painted walls, as the constant steaming will loosen paper.

Crown of Lamb.

The success of this dish depends largely upon your butcher. You need two racks of young lamb chops. They should be cut and "frenched," but not entirely separated. These two racks should be tied together with the bones towards the inside, forming a perfect circle. Put in baking pan and roast from 35 to 45 minutes, according to the heat of your oven, basting the meat frequently. This should be served on a large platter, and the inside of the "crown" should be filled with two cans of French peas that have been heated with a tablespoon of butter. Garnish the outside of the crown with Saratoga potatoes and parsley. If your guests are not many and you have an exceedingly large platter, you can serve this entire course on the one platter.

Hot Ham Sandwiches.

A housewife who was tired of serving cold sliced ham advises other people to try hot ham sandwiches. "Cut thin slices of white bread and spread half of them with soft butter and the remaining half with finely chopped ham," said she. "Press the slices together and remove the crust. Beat one egg slightly, add one-half cup milk and strain over the sandwiches. When moistened place them in a hot frying pan with two level tablespoons of butter. Brown on both sides and serve at once."

Veal and Tongue Cheese.

Pound in a mortar equal quantities cold boiled tongue and veal, adding the meanwhile a little butter and some of the veal stock to moisten. Pack solidly in a stone jar, pour on melted butter, cover tightly and keep in a cool, dry place. This can be served with any tart jelly or used in a salad.

Filling for Fancy Pin Cushions.

Always a new wrinkle from the young woman of "faculty" who knows how to do everything the neatest and easiest way. "Rice, she says, makes the best possible filling for a fancy pin cushion, as it holds its shape well and takes the pins easily."

Boiled Cider Sauce.

Beat one egg yolk in sauce pan over boiling water, add one tablespoon of brown sugar, beat, then add three-fourths cup of nice boiled cider. Continue beating until smooth and foamy.

Radford, No. 184 Fifth Ave., Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

This is an old style house plan, but it has a good deal to recommend it. Those who appreciate plenty of light and air like to have rooms built on this plan because they can have all the windows they want and have them so placed that sunlight can penetrate into every room.

The first houses, built when the country was new to white folks, were square or nearly so. Then, as more room was needed, they were extended in one direction, keeping generally to one room in width. When the limit in this form was reached some bright intelligent fellow branched off at right angles and built a room on the side of his house. This must have been considered a great invention, and so it was, for it has been handed down from one generation to the next and we still find the idea worth adopting.

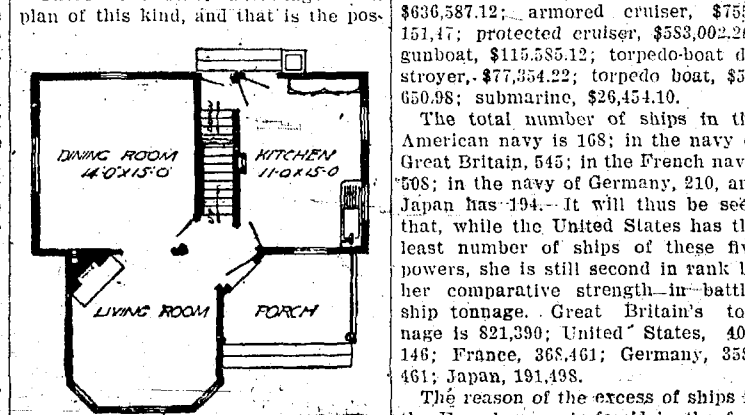

There is no record of the original house built on this plan, so we don't know whether it had an upstairs or not, but there is a good cellar, another feature that the original architect didn't understand. It is necessary to like back to these good old times when luxuries approached closely to what we call privations. In order to appreciate what we now have.

We would live as the early pioneers did, in one room houses built with an ax, but we would rather not do it in the winter time. There are, however, a few principles that were worked into those early habitations that we cannot get away from and we do not want to. One is the open air freedom, the light and cheerful setting of trees and clearing, and the open fireplace, the cheerful warmth of which still lingers in our hearts as a heritage from primeval days. As this house is 30 feet wide and the projections at the roof gables are extra it needs considerable room. The law has decided that you must not hang your roof over your neighbor's ground, so it would be impossible to put this house on a narrow-minded city lot. If you want to build on this plan you must have room enough to look out in every direction.

There is another advantage in a plan of this kind, and that is the possibility of extending it at the back without interfering with the original plan. Some houses may be enlarged when the family increases, while other plans cannot be altered without tearing the whole house to pieces. There are only six rooms in the plan as designed, but the rooms are all large. If an eight-room house is wanted in the years to come the only thing necessary is to add a wing at the back similar to the one in front and make two rooms that can be reached without any objectionable features and with no alteration in the original plan except the cutting of two doors.

It is not desirable as a general thing to build a house smaller than you really want with the expectation of making it larger afterward, but there are a great many different existing circumstances, and changes in families are continually taking place. It is customary under certain conditions to build a house larger than necessary and to leave some rooms unfinished to save expense at the time of building, but it is quite unusual to select a plan with the expectation of making alterations. In fact, it is usually very undesirable to do so.

One feature about this plan that will strike everybody favorably is the possibility of building it for about $1,000. In these times of advancing prices no one expects much of a house for any such price. A man would have to "manage" very carefully to get this house for that amount of money, but it can be done in localities where building materials and labor may be had at reasonable prices, and provided the owner understands how to take advantage of such conditions.

STRENGTH OF OUR NAVY.
Interesting Comparison of American and Japanese Fleets.

A comparison of the naval strength of Japan and the United States is doubly interesting in view of the recent departure of the American fleet of battleships for the Pacific, and the significance which has been attached to this event, writes Newton Forest in Harper's Weekly: "The American navy has on its list 20 battleships of 10,000 tons and over, while Japan has 13; our navy has 11 coast-defense vessels, Japan three; we have 15 armored cruisers, Japan 13. But in the number of torpedo boats and torpedo-boat de-

LEFT HIM GUESSING

INSPECTOR HAD NO ANSWER TO CUB'S RETORT.

Army Officer Relates How He Got Beautiful Setback from the Young Quartermaster of a Western Post.

"In an interchange of repartee, friendly or for blood, one can nearly always find some sort of answer in rebuttal," said an army officer of the quartermaster's department, "but I got the finest flooring at a western post the other day you ever heard of. 'This cub is the quartermaster at the western post.—Rather a classy young fellow, too, only eccentric. I suspect that what ails him is that he's a bit of a genius.

"About two years ago this young officer had a bad fit of sickness after his return from the Philippines, and it affected his head. In fact, he had to take sick leave for six months and go to an institution where people are treated for nervous prostration. At the end of his six months he was examined by a board of army surgeons, pronounced quite sane again—they gave him a certificate to that effect—and he was restored to duty in the quartermaster's department. He was assigned to duty at this western post.

"He isn't much of a bookkeeper, and his accounts got all pickled up a while ago, and so after a lot of futile correspondence the quartermaster's department fired me off to straighten up the cub's accounts out.

"When I finished the job of straightening his accounts I proceeded as per orders to read a little piece or two from the riot act to him.

"You've got to take a brace, son, I said to him, for they'll be coming down on you like a thousand of brick. They won't stand for another bunch of messed up accounts from you. You've got to get right down to it and keep these things straight if you lose a leg at the job.

"Well, he's a decent boy, and all that, but when he proceeded to give me an argument about this gentle little lecture I couldn't help but call him. His idea of it was that the quartermaster's department's established method of having post accounts kept was all wrong, too laborious, involved, complicated, and so on, and he said he'd like to have the job of revising the department's old-fashioned methods, as he called them. This particularly riled me.

"You're dreaming, youngster," I said to him. "Dreaming or daff." "Then utterly forgetting that the young fellow had been out of his head in a sanitarium for quite a spell—of course I never would have made the remark if I'd remembered that—I added:

"Fact is, you're crazy as a loon." "The 'help knew that I wouldn't have said that had I remembered about his experience, and so he gazed at me without a bit of resentment in his expression.

"Is that so?" he said to me. "All the same, I'm the only man on this reservation who has got a certificate that he is absolutely sane."

"I suppose that wasn't a hot one! It took me right off my pins. There wasn't a word to be said in reply to that, and the only thing I could do was to slouch away and make for some quiet spot where I could think it over."

Deserved His Liberty.

The smartest lunatic who ever escaped from an English asylum seemed to be a well-known Hadley man. Wearing a silk hat and a frock coat, he walked into a newspaper office in Hadley and, after writing a thrilling story of how to elude the vigilant attendants at the Staffordshire county asylum, asked the editor to publish it. According to his story he waited for a foggy night and then, after loosening the screws in his cell window, descended to the ground by a rope ladder. He then visited Stockport and the poor law officers to look over the lunacy law. After learning that a lunatic could not be apprehended after 14 days of liberation unless a fresh order should be made out against him, he gave himself up to unrestrained celebration of the new year. He complained in his story that the asylum system was too prisonlike and that it discouraged and depressed him.

Use for Laurel and Sunflower.

People who live in damp localities, particularly near undrained land, in France have discovered a simple remedy for damp situations. Successful experiments have shown that it is possible materially to improve the atmosphere in such neighborhoods by the planting of the laurel and the sunflower. The laurel gives off an abundance of ozone, while the sunflower is potent in destroying malarial conditions. These two, if planted on the most restricted scale in a garden or my ground close to the house, will be found speedily to increase the dryness and salubrity of the atmosphere.

Great Chilean Salt Deposits.

The salt deposits of Chile are the greatest in the world. The Salgar Grande mine in the province of Tarapaca, about 60 miles south and east of Iquique, covers an area of 80,000 acres to the depth of 25 feet. This body of salt is nearly pure and contains more than 14,000,000,000 tons, or enough to supply the world's demands for many decades. There are several other deposits in the interior that cover two or three times the area of the above.

Roads Completed in New York.

During 1907, 375 miles of improved highways were completed in New York state, 690 miles were placed under contract, and plans and specifications were adopted for 490 miles more. Last year showed the greatest amount of road building since the policy of state road improvement was inaugurated in 1898. For the ten years there are 1,042 miles of completed improved roads to show, and of this total 375 is to be credited to last year.

Entered at the postoffice at East Jordan Michigan, as second class mail matter.

Michigan Crop Report.

Lansing, Mich., March 3, 1908. The month of February was very stormy, frequent heavy snowfalls and high winds greatly interrupted all traffic. The temperature was below the normal and precipitation considerably above the average.

In answer to the question, "Has wheat during February suffered injury from any cause?" 64 correspondents in the southern counties answer "yes" and 253 "no"; in the central counties 20 answer "yes," and 138 "no"; and in the northern counties 32 answer "yes" and 119 "no." Snow protected wheat in the southern counties 3.90 weeks, in the central counties 3.78, in the northern counties 3.64 and in the State 3.82 weeks.

The average depth of snow on February 15th was, in the southern counties 7.61 inches, in the central counties 8.91, in the northern counties 10.42 and in the State 8.43 inches. On the 29th the average depth of snow in the southern counties was 9.64 inches, in the central counties 10.71, in the northern counties 14.92 and in the State 10.97 inches.

Wheat was well protected by snow during the month and at present is in a very promising condition.

The total number of bushels of wheat marketed by farmers in February at 124 flouring mills is 116,110 and at 74 elevators and to grain dealers 83,264 or a total of 199,374 bushels. The estimated total number of bushels of wheat marketed in the seven months, August-February, is 5,600,000. The amount of wheat yet remaining in possession of growers is estimated at 5,500,000 bushels. One hundred and one mills, elevators and grain dealers report no wheat purchased in February.

The average condition of live stock in the State is reported as follows, comparison being with stock in good, healthy condition: horses and sheep, 94; cattle and swine, 92.

GEORGE A. PRESCOTT,
Secretary of State.

Tickling or Dry Coughs will quickly loosen when using Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else, even for very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub give the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other, James Gidley.

$100.00 paid by Dr. Shoop for any recent case of Gripp or acut Cold that a 25 cent box of Preventics will not break. How is this for an offer? The Doctor's supreme confidence in these Little Candy Cold Cure Tablets—Preventics—is certainly complete. It's a $100 against 25 cents—pretty big odds. And Preventics, remember, contain no quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh nor sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were always broken. Safe and for feverish children. 48 Preventics 25c. James Gidley.

A Rising Diplomat.

A curious person espied the son of a new neighbor one morning in a doctor's office. "Good morning," he said. "Little boy, what is your name?" "Same as dad's," was the quick reply. "Of course, I know, little boy, but what is your dad's name, dear?" "Same as mine, sir." "I mean what do they say when they call you to breakfast?" "They don't never call me. I allus gets there first. See?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Crusoe's Good Friday.

"Now, boys," said a Sunday school teacher, addressing the juvenile class, "can either of you tell me anything about Good Friday?" "Yes, ma'am; I can," replied the boy at the foot of the class. "He was the fellow that done the housework for Robinson Crusoe."

Would Choose His Company.

In the west there lived a good man who gave up a part of his time to teaching the Indians the Christian faith. On one of his trips he stopped at the ranch of a well to do and religious Swede and requested a night's lodging. The Swede disliked having a pack of greasy Indians hanging about his place, so, after much hemming and hawing, he stated his objections. "But these Indians are Christians, my good brother, and if you can't abide with them for a single night here on earth how do you expect to dwell in heaven with them through all eternity?" Inquired the indignant missionary. The Swede, after thoughtfully scratching his head a moment, said, "The Bible says that in my Father's house are many mansions, an' I think I had a separate house."—Lippincott's.

The Best Laxative for Children.

Parents should see to it that their children have one natural, easy movement of the bowels each day. Do not dose the child with salts or griping pills, as they are too powerful in effect, and literally tear their little insides to pieces, leaving the bowels weakened and less able to act naturally than before. Little Candy Cold Cure Tablets tone and strengthen the bowels, and stimulate all the little organs of healthy activity. Choccolato coated tablets, easy to take, never grip or nauseate. 10c, 25c and $1.00.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Gripp with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics. Preventics are Little Candy Cold Cure. No Quinine, no phytic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Preventics may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Harelip probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 2c boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 48 Preventics. Insist on your druggist giving you

At twenty, when a man is young, he thinks he knows it all; he likes to wag his active tongue and exercise his glib, he struts around in noble rage, the world is all his own; he laughs to scorn the words of age and lists to self alone. He wears a window in his eye to see his whiskers grow; he thinks the ladies pine and die because they love him so. At forty as you may suppose, he's knuckled down to biz; 'tis not till sixty that he knows how big a chump he is.

The Epworth League Concert at the Methodist church Sunday evening was a very enjoyable affair. After a brief song service and devotionals, the choir rendered the anthem, "They That Trust in the Lord," and Katherine Stanford recited a spring selection, "The Lamenting Chorus." Miss Walsh sang, "How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds," and the choir gave the anthem, "We Would See Jesus." The affair had been advertised as a Tom Moore concert, similar to the Tennyson concert in December, and the pastor, Rev. W. W. Lamport, gave a sketch of Moore in which he sought to set forth the religious ideals of the Irish bard by quotations from his sacred songs. Mrs. M. H. Robertson then sang Moore's beautiful hymn, "Come Ye Disciples," and Mrs. Mattie Palmeter read his poem "The Meeting of the Waters." The choir led in singing his hymn "O Thou Who Driest the Mourner's Tear." Other features of the evening were a solo by B. A. Dolp, "A Dream of Paradise;" trio, "Come Thou Fount of Every Blessing," by Miss Walsh, Miss Sheldon and Mrs. Fuller; a recitation by Clara Reid. A collection of $17.50 was taken, which was sufficient to enable the League to meet the last payment on the church organ. Then the choir very appropriately sang the anthem "O Be Joyful in the Lord," and the benediction was pronounced.

The Girl from Tim's Place

BY CHARLES CLARK MURRIN
COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Chip McGuire, a 16-year-old girl living in Tim's place in the woods is sold by her father to Miss Bolduc, a half-breed. She runs away and reaches the camp of Martin Frisbie, occupied by Martin, his wife, nephew, Raymond, Stetson and guide. She tells her story and is cared for by Mrs. Frisbie. The party of Mrs. Frisbie, an old hermit who has resided in the wilderness for many years. When camp is broken Chip and May occupy same canoe. The party reach camp of Mrs. Frisbie's father. They are welcomed by him and by Walker, an old friend and former townsmen of the hermit. They settle down for a summer. Chip, Martin, Ray and May love her, but she realizes this but Cy Walker. Strange canoe marks found on lake shore in front of their cabin. Strange smoke is seen across the lake. Martin and Levi leave for settlement to get officers to arrest McGuire, who is known as outlaw and escaped murderer. Chip's one woods friend, Tomah, an Indian, visits camp. Ray believes he sees a bear on the ridge. Chip is stolen by Pete Bolduc who escapes with her in a canoe. Chip is rescued by Martin and Levi as they are returning from the settlement. Bolduc escapes. Old Cy proposes to Ray that he remain in the woods with him and his wife and help during the winter, and he concludes to do so. Others of the party return to Greenville, taking Chip with them. Chip starts to school in Greenville and finds life unpleasant at Aunt Constance's. She is especially by Hannah. Old Cy and Ray discover strange tracks in the wilderness. Chip's pet, a bear, follows her into the wilderness and discover the hiding place of the man who had been making about their cabin. They investigate the cave. McGuire during his absence. Bolduc finds McGuire and the two fight to the death, finding a watery grave together. Ray returns to Greenville and tells Chip waiting for him. Ray wants Chip to return to the woods with them, but she, feeling that the old hermit is a hermit, she has broken, refuses. When they part, however, it is as lovers. Chip runs away from Aunt Constance's and finds another home with her. She gives her name as Vera Raymond. Aunt Abby, Aunt Mandy Walker's sister, visits them, and takes Chip home with her to Christmas Cove. Chip goes to school at Christmas Cove. She tells Aunt Abby the story of her life. Aunt Abby tells her of their family, and she discovers that Cy Walker is a hermit who has been hiding in the woods, but fear of betraying her hiding place prevents her telling of Cy. Old Cy investigates McGuire's cave in the wilderness and finds evidence that he belongs to Chip. Old Cy returns to the wilderness camp with the news that Chip had disappeared and proposes to start out to find her. He turns over to Martin a book showing a deposit of $50,000 in Chip's name. Chip returns to the home of Judge Walker at Peaceful Valley for a summer vacation. Chip tells Tomah of Cy and writes a note to Martin which discloses her hiding place. Martin immediately visits the wilderness. He gives Chip her money and asks if he shall send her to her, but she says no. Aunt Abby's husband dies. Chip asks Martin to find Cy who is seeking the country over for her. He had been a youthful lover of Aunt Abby, and was supposed to have been lost at sea. Ray wants to go to Chip, but Martin advises him not to. Chip receives a letter from Ray, asking forgiveness for sending slight and neglect.

CHAPTER XXXI.—Continued.

That evening was one that none who were in that wildwood camp ever forgot, for Old Cy was the central figure, and told as only he could the story of his year's wandering in search of Chip.

It was humorous, pathetic and tragic all in one, and a tale that held its listeners spellbound for three delightful hours.

"I had dogs set on me, hundreds on 'em—Old Cy said, in conclusion, 'an' I never knew afore how many kinds 'n' sizes o' dogs that was in this world. I uster think that warn't more'n two dozen or so kinds. I know now that's two million 'n' a few more I didn't wait to count. I got 'rested a few times on account o' not havin' visible means o' support. I've been quailed over the coals by doctors tryin' to make me out a lunatic, 'n' I'd 'a' some time in jail if I hadn't had money to show. I tell ye, boys, this is an awful 'spicious world for strangers, 'n' the milk o' human kindness is mostly old cheese, 'n' all kind at that. I had a little fun, too, mixed in with all the trouble, 'n' one woman who owned a place where I 'plied for lodgin' jest 'bout told me she'd be willin' to marry me if I'd stay 'n' work the farm. She had red hair, hard eyes, 'n' bossy sort o' ways, an' that's a dangerous combination. I watched my chance when she wa'n't lookin', 'n' lit out, middlin' lively."

"And now life at this wilderness camp, less restrained than when wankind were here, became one of work, and persistent, steady, no time-wasted work at that. Martin had said that Levi could boss matters, but it was Ray who assumed management instead. Two years had changed him almost from boy to man. His new ambition was the controlling power. He was here to make his mark, as it were, and the half-hearted, boyish interest in work had changed into a tireless leadership. Then, too, an unspoken, tacit interest in his ambition was felt by those who helped. They knew what he was striving for, and that Chip was the ultimate object. Her history, known as it now was to all who came into the wilderness, influenced the woodsman. She had been of them and from them, and as an entire village will gather to help at a house-raising, so these three, Levi and the two helpers, now felt the same incentive.

Success usually comes to all who strive for it, and now with four willing workers to aid him, Ray was rapidly making a success of this venture. Old Cy, the most valuable assistant, was indefatigable. He not only kept the larder well supplied with game, but tended and set traps, worked in the woods with the rest between times, and his cheerful optimism and droll humor bridged many a stormy day and shortened many a weary tramp. And he seemed to grow younger in this new, helpful life for others. His eyes were bright, his step elastic, his spirits buoyant, his strength tireless.

With Chip safe and provided for, with Ray succeeding in manhood's natural ambition, Old Cy saw his heart's best hope nearing fruition, and for these two and in these two all his interest centered.

Only once was the bond of feeling between Ray and Chip referred to by Old Cy, and then in response to a wish of Ray's that he might hear from her.

"I don't think ye've cause to worry now, arter ye've sent her word what ye're doin' 'n' who for," he answered. "Chip's true blue, not one o' the fickle sort, 'n' once she keers for a man, she won't give him up till he's married or dead. I think ye'd orter sent her word sooner—ye know she'll run 'way out o' spunk,—but when ye go to her like a man 'n' say, 'I've been workin' 'n' waitin' fer ye all the time,' that won't be no quarrelin'."

"I'm not so sure about that," responded Ray, soberly. "From what Uncle Martin said, my chance is gone with Miss Chip, and I don't blame her for feeling so. Like every young fellow, I took it for granted that she was in love with me and ready to fall into my arms on call. Then I hadn't any plans in life, anyway, and, like a fool, believed it made no difference to her. To mix matters up still more, Hannah crowded herself into our affairs and said things to Chip, with the result that Chip got mad, ran away, and you know the rest."

"Wal," asserted Old Cy, his eyes

Visited a Strange Romantic Grotto Up in the Mountains.

twinkling. "the time to hug a gal is when she's willin', 'n' ye orter spunked up that night 'fore ye come away 'n' told her ye was callatin' to make yer fortin' in the woods, an' that ye wanted her to wait 'n' share it—then troubles, 'n', if need be she'd 'a' starved fer ye. I tell ye, boy, wimmin like her is scarce in this world, 'n' when ye hugged 'n' kissed her a little more—by way o' bindin' the bargain, an'—knowin' that gal ez I do, she'd fought Hannah, tooth 'n' nail, 'n' walked through fire 'n' brimston fer ye. I think, stead o' hidin' herself for two years, an' changin' her name, she'd 'a' tramped clear to Grindstone jest to tell ye her find one young 'n' pretty ez she is, hang on to her 'n' hang hard."

"I know it now well enough," returned Ray, ruefully; "but that don't help matters. Then that fortune you found for her makes my case all the worse, and Chip quite independent."

"I do, it do," chuckled Old Cy, as if glad of it. "an' all the more need o' you hustlin'. It's a case o' woodchuck with ye now. But don't get discouraged. Jest dig. Chip's worth it, ten times over, 'n' no man ever worked to win a woman 'thout bein' bettered by it."

It was terse and homely advice, and not only convinced Ray that he had neglected one whom he now felt meant home, wife, happiness, and all that life might mean for him, but made him realize that all possible striving and self-denial must be made in atonement. With whom and what sort of people Chip had found asylum, he knew not. What influence they would have upon her feelings, was an equally unknown matter; and worse than that, the ogre of another suitor for Chip's favor now entered Ray's calculations, and the slang truism, "There are others," was with him every waking moment—a much-deserved punishment, all womankind will say.

CHAPTER XXXII.

One day while Aunt Abby and Chip were enjoying the newly furnished home of Uncle Jud, a capacious carriage drawn by a handsome pair of horses halted there and Martin and Angie alighted.

"We are taking a cross-country drive for an outing," he explained, after Angie had kissed Chip tenderly and greetings had been exchanged. "We have waited for you, Miss Runaway; to come and visit us," he added, turning to Chip, "until we couldn't wait any longer and so came to look for you. We have also some news that may interest you. Old Cy has been heard from at last. He spent a year looking for you. He has now gone into the woods, to my camp, where Ray located for the winter, and when spring comes, I can guess where they will head for."

How welcome this news was to Chip, her face fully indicated; but neither Martin nor Angie realized how much or for what reason it interested this soft-voiced, gracious lady whom Chip called Aunt Abby. They knew Uncle Jud was Old Cy's brother and that they had once been sailors from Bayport, but the long-ago romance of Aunt Abby's life was unknown to them.

And now ensued a welcome to the callers such as only Uncle Jud and Aunt Mandy could offer.

"We sorter feel we robbed ye o' Vera," Uncle Jud explained, "though 'twan't any intention on our part, an' so ye must gin us some chance to make amends. We callate 'twan't no fault o' yours, either, only one o' them happenin's that was luck for us."

That evening was one long to be remembered by all who were present, for Chip's history, as told by Martin and Angie, was the entertaining topic, and his humorous side was made the most of by Martin. Chip was in no wise annoyed by Martin's fun-making, either. Instead, conscious of the good-will and affection of the friends who had rescued her from the wilderness, she rather enjoyed it and laughed heartily to entertain them, and quite characteristic affairs they were, too.

One day they drove to a wood-bordered pond far up the valley, fished a few hours for pickerel and perch, and had a fish fry and picnic dinner.

The next day they visited a strange, romantic grotto up in the mountains, known as the Wolf's Den, and here a table was set, broiled chicken, sweet corn, and such toothsome fare formed the meal, with nut-gathering for amusement.

Squirrel and partridge shooting also furnished Martin a little excitement. When he and Angie insisted that they must leave, both host and hostess showed genuine regret. A few remarks made by Angie to her former protege, in private, the last evening of this visit, may be quoted.

"I must insist, my dear child," she said, "that you make us a visit in the near future. You left us under an entirely false impression and it has grieved me more than you can imagine. There was never a word of truth in anything that Hannah said. She was spiteful and malicious and desired to get even with you for a hurt to her pride. We had no thought of hurrying away to the woods to separate you and Ray for any reason whatever. Of course, as you must know, I had no suspicion of any attachment between you, and if I had, I certainly should not have tried to break it off in that way. That is a matter that concerns only you and him. My own life experience shows that first love is the wisest and best, and while you were both too young then, for an engagement, you must believe me when I tell you that I had no wish to interfere."

And so the breach was healed. This visit of the Frisbies to Peaceful Valley also awakened something of repentance in Chip's mind, and more mature now, it occurred to her that leaving Greenville as she did, was, after all, childish.

Then Angie's part in this drama of her life now returned to Chip in a new light. Once she began to reflect, her self-accusation grew apace and her repentance as well. Now she began to see herself as she was at Tim's Place.

"I think I treated my Greenville friends very ungratefully," she said to Aunt Abby one evening after they had returned to Christmas Cove once more, "and what Mrs. Frisbie said to me has made me realize it. I know now that few would have done what she did for me. I was an ignorant, dirty, homeless creature and no relation of hers, and yet she took charge of me, bought me clothes, paid all my expenses going to Greenville, clothed me there, and always treated me nicely without my even asking for it."

"The Frisbies certainly ran some risk by keeping me at their cabin when they knew that half-breed was after me. I don't know why they should have done all this. I was nothing to them. And yet when I recall the night I stumbled into their camp, how Mrs. Frisbie dressed me in her own clothes, shared her tent with me, and even prayed for me, I feel ashamed to think of what I have done. I did think that Mrs. Frisbie despised me from what Hannah said. I know now that I was wrong, and running away as I did, was very ungrateful."

"I think it was myself," responded Aunt Abby, "and yet believing as you did, Mrs. Frisbie ought not to blame you. I don't think she does, either. She seems a very sensible woman, and I like her. You made your mistake in not confiding in her more. You should have gone to her as you would to a mother; in the first place, and told her just what Hannah had said to you and how you felt about it. To brood over such matters and imagine the worst possible is unwise in any one. I think from what you have told me, that this person who sneered against you so much must have had a spite against you."

"Hannah was jealous, I know," Chip interrupted, smiling at the recollection, "and I hurt her feelings because I asked her why she didn't shave."

"Didn't shave!" exclaimed Aunt Abby, wide-eyed; "what do you mean?"

"Why, she has whiskers, you see," laughed Chip, "almost as much as some men—a nice little mustache and some on her chin. I told her the next day after I got there I thought she was a man dressed as a woman. I snickered, too, I remember, when I said it, for she looked so comical—like a goat, almost—and then I asked her why she didn't shave. I guess she laid it up against me ever after."

"She revenged herself amply, it seems," answered Aunt Abby.

When Christmas neared, and with it a vacation for Chip, new impulses came to her: a desire to visit Greenville once more and make amends as best she could to her friends there; and her gift-giving desire was quickened by the coming holidays. She now felt that she had ample means to gratify this latter wish. Day by day, since meeting Angie again, her sense of obligation had increased, and now it was in her power at Christmas-time to repay at least a little of the debt.

Others were also included in this generous project: Uncle Jud, Aunt Mandy, her foster-mother, Aunt Abby, as well; and then there was Old Cy, whom most of all she now desired to make glad. That was impossible, however. He was still an absent wanderer, and so, as it ever is and ever will be, some thread of regret, some note of sorrow, must be woven into all joys.

Good Nature. Good nature is worth more than knowledge, more than money, more than honor, to the persons who possess it, and certainly to everybody who dwells with them, in so far as more happiness is concerned.—H. W. Beecher.

HOW DO THEY GET IN? Physiological Problem That Nora Could Not Solve.

A Philadelphia physician tells of an amusing conversation between two Irish girls in domestic service who, while on the board walk at Atlantic City one day not long ago, were exchanging views as to their various physical ailments.

"It's a strange thing, ain't it, Nora," asked one of the girls, "how many new kinds of diseases people get these days. Only this mornin' I were readin' an advertisement of a new medicine. It said it were wonderful for a sluggish liver."

"Gwan!" exclaimed the other girl, scornfully. "Liver trouble ain't no new disease. Me own grandfather was livin' liver trouble when I were not more'n ten years old."

"Maybe," was the laconic response. "But," added Nora, "what I want to know is: how do them slugs get inside the liver, anyhow?"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

ECZEMA FOR 55 YEARS.

Suffered Torments from Birth—In Frightful Condition—Got No Help—Until Cuticura Cured Him.

"I had an itching, tormenting eczema ever since I came into the world, and I am now a man 55-years old. I tried all kinds of medicines I heard of, but found no relief. I was truly in a frightful condition. At last I broke out all over with red and white boils, which kept growing until they were as big as walnuts, causing great pain and misery. But I kept from scratching as well as I could. I was so run-down that I could hardly do my work. I used Cuticura Soap, Ointment, Resolvent, and Pills for about eight months, and I can truthfully say I am cured. Hale Bordwell, Tipton, Ia., Aug. 17, 1907."

"I cheerfully endorse the above testimonial. It is the truth. I know Mr. Bordwell and know the condition he was in. Nelson R. Burnett, Tipton, Ia."

Power of Deceiving.

There is a Brooklyn woman who possesses a servant who is a model in all respects save one—in that she is none too truthful.

Lately the mistress has been using all her eloquence to make Nora see the error of her deceitfulness. But at last she had to own herself beaten when Nora, with a beaming Irish smile, turned and in a most cajoling tone said:

"Sure, now, mum, an' wot de ye suppose the power of desartin' was given us fer?"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

The General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always by the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

WOMAN'S BACKACHE

The back is the mainspring of woman's organism. It quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells, with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in the loins, weight in the lower part of the body, that a woman's feminine organism needs immediate attention.

In such cases the one sure remedy which speedily removes the cause, and restores the feminine organism to a healthy, normal condition is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Will Young, of Columbia Ave., Rockland, Me., says:

"I was troubled for a long time with dreadful backaches and a pain in my side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to try it; after taking three bottles I can truly say that I never felt so well in my life."

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had very severe backaches, and pressing-down pains. I could not sleep, and had no appetite. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a new woman."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

The man who has greatness thrust upon him is always sure that he could have achieved it if that had been necessary.

To refuse to yield to others when reason or a special cause require it is a mark of pride and stiffness.—Thomas a Kempis.

HER CHOICE OF DEMISE.

Pathetic Thought of Little Girl Who Had Lost Playmate.

Mary had for neighbor a small playmate, a much-loved and attractive boy. The little lad rushed across the street one day, throwing back a glance at his mother.

SHE WAS BUSY, TOO!

She—And did my Duckums do a lot of work-work at the office last night? He—A—er—yes—dear—in fact, darling, I was so much occupied that I have never known time go as quickly as it did last night.

John Muir's Simplicity.

Once, in a talk with E. H. Harriman, John Muir, author and ranchman, said that he was richer than Mr. Harriman. "I know what you mean," said Mr. Harriman, "but I won't admit it. Don't you think wealth is a good thing for a man?"

Sees America a Heaven.

Prof. W. B. Eskin of the University of Missouri believes that America will be a veritable heaven on earth within 100 years, and he goes on to tell why in an article which he has written for the American Journal of Sociology.

BRAIN POWER

Increased by Proper Feeding.

A lady writer who not only has done good literary work, but reared a family, found in Grape-Nuts the ideal food for brain work and to develop healthy children.

"I am an enthusiastic proclaimer of Grape-Nuts as a regular diet. I formerly had no appetite in the morning and for 8 years while nursing my four children, had insufficient nourishment for them."

"Unable to eat breakfast I felt faint later, and would go to the pantry and eat cold chops, sausage, cookies, doughnuts or anything I happened to find. Being a writer, at times my head felt heavy and my brain asleep."

"When I read of Grape-Nuts I began eating it every morning, also gave it to the children, including my 10 months old baby, who soon grew as fat as a little pig, good natured and contented."

"Within a week I had plenty of breast milk, and felt stronger within two weeks. I wrote evenings and feeling the need of sustained brain power, began eating a small saucer of Grape-Nuts with milk instead of my usual indigestible hot pudding, pie, or cake for dessert at night."

"Grape-Nuts did wonders for me and I learned to like it. I did not mind my housework or mother's cares, for I felt strong and full of 'go.' I grew plump, nerves strong, and when I wrote my brain was active and clear; indeed, the dull head pain never returned."

THE YOUNG IDEA

By JAMES BARRINGTON

(Copyright.)

"Oh, it's simply preposterous!" expostulated Blake. "And on 'the first, too! I regard 'the first' as a day sacred to serious shooting—not an outing for babies!"

He sent a glance full of irritation at the young Hedleys, who, with their backs to the hedge, stood waiting in the next field.

"It's too bad of Hedley," agreed Coulson. "This is one of his practical jokes, I suppose. Why, the girl's only 13, and the boy not much more!"

"Children with guns—I never heard of anything so idiotic!" "Toys, I call them. They'll frighten everything for miles!"

Blake edged with his safety-bolt. "What the deuce can I do?" he reflected dolefully. "Presently he went through the gate and approached the boy."

"You'll be very careful, won't you, George?" he said in a troubled voice. "Oh, yes," said the boy cheerfully. "And you, Kathleen—you don't think it will tire you to carry a gun?"

"Oh, no, Mr. Blake, not at all." Blake shrugged his shoulders helplessly. He felt he could do no more, and he left them muttering unkind things about their inconsiderate father.

"What charge are you using, Kit?" asked the boy when Blake was out of hearing. "Twenty-six grains of S— and three-quarters of an ounce of No. 7 chilled," was the girl's matter-of-fact answer as she slipped a couple of cartridges into her 28 bore. "Field loading; nice and tight," she added.

"Bet you my bag beats yours." "So it ought—with a 20 bore!" "Give you five birds then." "Make it six, and I'm on."

"All right—for a box of candy," agreed the boy. "Come along!" called Blake, and the youngsters, with their guns tucked well under their shoulders and eyes alert, went up the stubble, a good two paces ahead of their elders.

Half way across the field a single brace of old birds got up with a whirr. "My bird!" sang out the boy and girl in a breath. Bang went their guns and the birds fell, clean shot, to their right barrels.

Coulson, next to the girl, saw them drop while he was getting his gun to his shoulder; and before he had explained his slowness to himself Kit had stopped a bare ten yards in front of him.

He turned and stared at her. She had already reloaded and was carrying a spare cartridge between her teeth. "You won't do that again, my young friend," he glared, but to himself.

"Mark time!" cautioned George as the keeper wheeled. The girl's brown legs responded. Then, as they went on again, a big covey rose. Coulson, who was not going to be caught napping this time, got the leader, but because of his hurry, missed another strong bird with his left. Blake, for similar reasons, wasted two cartridges on one bird. But the children waited until the young ones rose and then each got in a deadly right and left.

Blake gave Coulson a look of astonishment. Coulson's look in response said, "Don't understand it" as plainly as looks can speak. The boy and girl, with a box of candy in the balance, kept their eyes fixed right ahead.

In the next field a small covey, going fast down the wind, crossed the line from Blake's end. Both he and Coulson shot behind the same bird. Kit knocked some feathers out of it and George brought it down at 40 yards. The rest flew wide.

"Wiped our eyes, by gad!" exclaimed Blake. Coulson couldn't say anything; he was staring open-mouthed.

Through gaps in a low quickset they passed into wurzel. George and Kit, as usual, a bit ahead, got all four barrels into some birds before the men had time to swing on.

"My bird!" one or the other would yell out each time anything got up, and the constant repetition of the words had the effect of hurrying the men.

The two small guns seemed at times to be keeping up a fusillade. It was not that game was more plentiful than usual, but because nothing escaped the youngsters' keen eyes. They 'got on' at lightning speed. Even when a bird rose right under the muzzle of Blake's own gun one of them would rob him of his shot before he could pull trigger.

"Nineteen for me," nodded George to his sister as they paused to let the dogs work a patch. "Seventeen—only two behind," returned the girl evenly, as she bowed over the first rabbit that bolted. "Mind the dog," she admonished Blake, who, seeing a movement in the patch, had raised his gun.

"Awfully sorry," he stammered, hardly knowing what he was saying. "Never saw anything like it in my life," admitted Coulson, in an awestruck tone to his host when, a little later on, Kit took a snaphot across a reed-bed at a woodcock and bagged it.

"And to think I asked them to be careful!" confessed Blake in dismay. As the morning wore on the two men became completely demoralized. They shot disgracefully, missing birds and holding yards behind rabbits. They began to be glad of the stray shots that the youngsters had, perforce, occasionally to leave them.

And all the while the boy's 20 bore kept going, as though it had but a single trigger, and the crack of the girl's 28 almost emulated it.

But George was five birds ahead of his sister when they turned into the last field, and Kit, as they walked it up, felt her candy slipping away. In the further angle they flushed a single partridge, right ahead of them. Bang went the small bores, and as the bird fell, Kit, for the first time, ran in.

"My bird!" she screamed. "Bosh! I simply smothered him!" objected George. "Prove it!" was the challenge.

Down the youngsters plumped with the bird between them, while Blake and Coulson came and stood over them in wonder. Kit extracted the pin that held her Tam o' Shanter, and began probing the bird with it. George, with a penknife, became similarly engaged.

"There you are!" he cried, presently, exhibiting a black speck. "No. 6—knew I'd got him!" But his exultation was short-lived. The next moment the girl held up gory fingers with a pellet between them.

"No. 7—my bird!" she exclaimed in triumph. "A double hit, by Jove!" cried Blake. "I say—do you"—looking from one to the other—"do you shoot—much?"

"Oh, yes," piped Kit. "Didn't father tell you? We perform in public. We're 'The Two Little Sure-Shots.' Didn't you know?"

IMMIGRATION FROM SOUTH EXPECTED

U. S. FARMERS ARE RECOGNIZING SPLENDID OPPORTUNITIES OFFERED BY WESTERN CANADA.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9, 1908.—Present indications are that the Canadian Northwest will draw an exceptionally heavy movement of new settlers from the United States this year. It should surpass the banner record for 1907.

This is not only based on the fact that the Americans have come to realize generally that the Canadian Northwest offers splendid opportunities, but also because the railroads have awakened to the fact and are offering rates to the Canadian Northwest which are exceptionally favorable.

The lines which lead to St. Paul from the east and south are offering homeseekers' rates to the Canadian Northwest this year which are on a parity with those in existence to the southwest for a couple of seasons.

These rates can be obtained from any agent of the Canadian government, who will be pleased to give all information possible regarding those districts which offer the greatest inducements to settlers. The weather throughout Western Canada has been remarkably good this year.

A telegram from the winter wheat belt of Southern Alberta dated at Cardston, Alberta, January 29th, says: "This winter up to January 25 was nothing short of a marvel, in fact, it was the finest anyone can remember for twenty-five years though there have been others nearly as good. The days were fine, sunny and warm with light frosts at night. Overcoats and gloves, etc., were discarded by most people in the day time. There was so little frost in the ground that post holes could be dug without any trouble after the first inch was broken through. Winter wheat remained fresh and green although there has been no snow since the September storm. If there is an early spring, winter wheat should gain a great start."

Amongst the reports of the yield of last year the following extracts are taken: H. Howe, of Magrath, Alta. writing on November, 1907, says: "I have 70 acres in crop, 50 acres of wheat and seven acres of oats. My average yield of oats was 35 bushels to the acre, and of wheat 45 bushels. The value to me was $35 per acre."

J. F. Haycock, of Magrath, writes in November: "I had 65 acres in winter wheat, which went 60 bushels to the acre; oats averaged 80 bushels. I also had 12 tons of hay worth $10 per ton. I got 600 bushels of potatoes from three acres of land; I got eight tons per acre from five acres of sugar beet."

J. F. Bradshaw, of Magrath, had 1,030 acres of winter wheat last year which averaged 39 1/2 bushels to the acre. The value of his farm products per acre was: Wheat, $31.60; oats, $11.20 and barley, $25.15.

An Ideal Laxative.

Physics and Cathartics which purge, enfeeble the bowels, and give temporary relief, irritate and weaken the digestive and excretory organs. Laxative from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a different effect as they act from the blood. They purify the blood, invigorate the system, give strength and vigor to the work organs intended, thus insuring a permanent cure by perfectly safe and natural means. The best laxative for children. Laxative suited to babies, easy to take, never grips the stomach. 25c. per box at all drug stores.

The Scrap Book

Why We Can Sit.

A Boston schoolboy gave the following definition of the spine: "The spine is a long bone reaching from the skull to the heels. It has a hinge in the middle, so that you can sit down; otherwise you would have to sit standing."

THE BIRDS AND BEES.

I think the bees, the blessed bees, are better, wiser, far than we. The very wild birds in the trees are wiser, far, it seems to me. For love and light and sun and air are theirs and not a bit of care.

What bird makes claim to all God's trees? What bee makes claim to all God's flowers?

Behold their perfect harmonies. Their common board, the common hour! Say, "Why should man be less than these? The happy birds, the hoarding bees?"
—Joaquin Miller.

Presence of Mind.

One of Mrs. Hamilton Fish's rules when her husband was secretary of state in Grant's cabinet was to return every call she received. Her husband was continually holding public receptions, and many women would come who had no desire that Mrs. Fish should call upon them.

One such woman attended a Fish reception, left her card and a little later was duly honored by a call from Mrs. Fish.

It was a beautiful, mild afternoon. The Fish equipage, all a-glimmer in the wintry sunshine, dashed down the narrow street and halted before the woman's little house with a musical jingle of silver chains. The footman leaped from the box and opened the carriage door, and Mrs. Fish descended.

The woman of the house was kneeling on the sidewalk beside a bucket of hot water, with a scrubbing brush in one hand and a cake of soap in the other. She was scrubbing the front steps.

Bending graciously over her, Mrs. Fish asked politely, "Is Mrs. Henry Robinson at home?"

And Mrs. Henry Robinson replied, "No, mum, she ain't," and went on scrubbing.—Lippincott's.

Her Position.

An applicant for teacher in a country school was asked, "What is your position with regard to the whipping of children?"

"My usual position is on a chair, with the child held firmly across my knees, face downward," was the reply.

A Noisy Eater.

Ex-Senator William E. Chandler has an admirer in New Hampshire who has ideas on how the government should be conducted and writes Mr. Chandler about them at great length.

After Chandler was defeated for the senate and before he was appointed president of the Spanish claims commission the friend wrote, condoling with the senator.

"He said it was a shame that the nation and New Hampshire should be deprived of the services of so able a man as Mr. Chandler and closed with this prophecy: 'Nevertheless, I do not think republics are ungrateful. I am confident that your great merits will again be recognized and that at no late date we shall hear of you feeding again at the public crib.'"

All the Same to Him.

One of a party of gentlemen left his corner seat in an already crowded railway car to go in search of something to eat, leaving a rug to reserve his place. On returning he found that, in spite of the rug and the protests of his fellow passengers, the seat had been usurped by a woman in handsome clothes. With flashing eyes she turned upon him:

"Do you know, sir, that I am one of the directors' wives?"

"Madam," he replied, "were you the director's only wife I should still protest."—Ladies' Home Journal.

What She Was Like.

"Do tell me what Mrs. Tewler is like," she asked of her husband.

"Well, she's a woman of sixty who looks fifty, thinks she is forty, dresses like thirty and acts like twenty."

Neuralgia Pains

Are the result of an abnormal condition of the more prominent nerve branches, caused by congestion, irritation, or disease. If you want to relieve the pain try Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They often relieve when everything else fails. They leave no disagreeable after-effects. Just a pleasurable sense of relief. Try them.

"I have neuralgia headache right over my eyes, and I am really afraid that my eyes will burst. I also have neuralgia pain around my heart. I have been taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills recently and find they relieve these troubles quickly. I seldom find it necessary to take more than two tablets for complete relief."

Afraid of Himself.

Joseph Jefferson, the actor, once told this story to a friend:

"I was coming down in the elevator of the Stock Exchange building, and at one of the intermediate floors a man whose face I knew as well as I knew yours got in. He greeted me very warmly at once, said it was a number of years since we had met and was very gracious and friendly, but I couldn't place him for the life of me. I asked him as a sort of a feeler how he happened to be in New York, and he answered, with a touch of surprise, that he had lived there for several years. Finally I told him in an apologetic way that I couldn't recall his name. He looked at me for a moment and then he said very quietly that his name was U. S. Grant."

"What did you do, Joe?" his friend asked.

"Do?" he replied, with a characteristic smile. "Why, I got out at the next floor for fear I'd ask him if he had ever been in the war!"

Was Thin Indeed.

A fine, robust soldier after serving his country faithfully for some time became greatly reduced in weight owing to exposure and scanty rations until he was so weak he could hardly stand. Consequently he got leave of absence to go home and recuperate. He arrived at his home station looking very bad. Just as he stepped off the boat one of his old friends rushed up to him and said, "Well, well, Pat, I am glad to see you're back from the front."

"Bogus," I knew I was getting thin, but I never thought you could see that much!" replied Pat.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Carnegie Amended.

"I once gave an interview to a reporter in which I said that one reason for whatever success I may have had was because I always got good men around me," said Andrew Carnegie. "A rascally Pittsburgh paragrapher quoted that remark and moved to amend it by saying that instead of getting good men around me I got around good men."

Didn't Know Many Folks.

Artemus Ward was once traveling in the cars, dreading to be bored and feeling miserable, when a man approached him, sat down and said:

"Did you hear that last thing on Horace Greeley?"

"Greeley? Greeley?" said Artemus.

"Horace Greeley? Who is he?"

The man was quiet about five minutes. "Pretty soon he said:

"George Francis Train is sicking up a good deal of a row over in England. Do you think they will put him in a bastle?"

"Train? Train? George Francis Train?" said Artemus solemnly. "I never heard of him."

This ignorance kept the man quiet for about fifteen minutes. Then he said:

"What do you think about General Grant's chances for the presidency? Do you think they will run him?"

"Grant? Grant? Hang it, man," said Artemus, "you appear to know more strangers than any man I ever saw!"

The man was furious. He walked off, but at last came back and said:

"Say, did you ever hear of Adam?"

Artemus looked up and said:

"Adam? Adam? What was his other name?"

Keep The Kidneys Well.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Petoskey People Know How to Save It.

Many Petoskey people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer or to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Petoskey citizen's recommendation.

David Hastings, blacksmith of 325 Water street, Petoskey, Mich., says: "Mrs Hastings has used Doan's Kidney Pills with great benefit. This remedy completely relieved her of an annoying weakness of the kidneys together with severe backaches and pains in the small of the back. Since we got Doan's Kidney Pills at the Central Drug Store it has been a pleasure for us to advise others who suffer from complaints similar to those Mrs. Hastings to give the remedy a trial. We can vouch for the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills in curing backache and kidney trouble."

For Sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

The Great Restorative Non-Alcoholic Tonic

of the day, made entirely of native medicinal roots and without a drop of alcohol in its composition.

There are no secrets—all its ingredients being printed on the bottle wrappers.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" by return mail on receipt of 50 cents in stamps. Address Doctor Pierce as below for it.

In short "Golden Medical Discovery" regulates, purifies and invigorates the whole system and thus cures a very large range of diseases. The reason Why it cures such a varied list of diseases is made clear in a little booklet of extracts from the leading medical authorities, compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and which he will be pleased to send post-paid and entirely free to any who send him their names and addresses.

You can't afford to accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps (to cover cost of mailing) for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

In Chronic Nasal Catarrh, it is well to cleanse the nasal passages out freely with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" as a constitutional treatment. Old obstinate cases of catarrh yield to this thorough course of treatment.

Through enriching and purifying the blood, the "Discovery" cures scrofulous affections, also blotches, pimples, eruptions, and other ugly affections of the skin. Old, open, running sores, or ulcers, are healed by taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" internally and applying Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve as a local dressing. The Salve can be had of druggists, or will be sent as above.
