Town Meeting Next Monday

Important Matter for the Tax-Payers' Attention.

TO THE VOTERS
OF SOUTH ARM TOWNSHIP.

The East Jordan and South Arm Board of Trade require funds immediately to use in locating new industries in East Jordan. You know something of the aims of the Board of Trade—that its sole function is to attract outside industries which, if secured, mean a better local market, a sharper demand for labor and a higher degree of general prosperity.

One enterprise has just been secured and several others are under consideration. Two of these, now in operation in locations where timber supply is practically exhausted, now employ 100 men or more each, and have a weekly pay roll of over $1,000.00, and if they can locate within reach of an adequate timber supply, they will double their present capacity.

Do you realize what such industries mean to the town and surrounding country? But every wide awake town in Michigan, through its Board of Trade is going after these desirable industries hard and we must meet the propositions of other towns, or get nothing.

As property owners are benefited in practically the same degree, it is right that the expense incident to acquiring new industries be shared upon a valuation basis. To this end there will be submitted to you, on Town meeting day, at the regular business meeting, a proposition for your action and your decision at that time will have much bearing upon the future work of the Board of Trade.

To meet the proposition made by much smaller towns than ours, the officers of the Board of Trade have jointly assumed obligation aggregating $1,200.00 which must be met at an early date.

In addition to this the committees have commenced an active campaign of advertising our agricultural resources, with a view to getting our thousands of acres under cultivation; our manufacturing possibilities for the purpose of securing new factories, mills, etc., and to attract to our town and the surrounding country a portion of the Resort business, which has had so much to do with the material prosperity of many of our Northern Michigan towns.

We have under consideration two Canning Factory propositions. These require the permanent patronage of the farmers and it is useless to consider them without the assurance of the farmers that they favor securing such industries. If you are interested in these propositions you are invited to be present at a public meeting, to be held as soon as practicable after our Township election, and give the Board of Trade the benefit of your views.

Meanwhile we must have funds to meet current obligations, and we ask your earnest consideration and co-operation, so that when the proposition comes up on Town Meeting day you may vote understandingly and to the interest of the community at large.

SOUTH ARM BOARD OF TRADE.

Laugh and Grow Fat.

Good fun and plenty of it is found in the color comic section of the Sunday Record-Herald. The constant aim is to keep these amusing illustrations free from vulgarity and mischievous suggestions which characterize so many comic sections. It is certainly a cure for the blues.

There is an entertaining variety of special features in the Sunday Record-Herald and in addition a Sunday Magazine which has all the distinctive qualities of the famous independent periodicals. Celebrated authors and artists contribute the text and illustrations. The picture on the first cover is in rich colors. It sets a new standard in Sunday journalism.

Eggs Typify Rebirth.

There are many superstitions in connection with Easter, and each country has a custom of celebrating it peculiar to itself, but while each varies, they all unite to observe the spirit of Springtime, and all Christians rejoice that the Lord of Life forever won victory over death. Among the many quaint superstitions is the old Aryan one which typifies the return of the sun of Springtime by a golden egg—eggs being distributed at the early equinox by priests to strengthen the hopes of the people that the bleak cold days of Winter might soon cease and a brighter time ensue.

The Persians believed that the earth was hatched from an immense egg on Easter morning; the Aryans also believed the sun to be a large golden egg which was constantly rolling nearer to the earth.

With the Jews, says the April De-

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases. If we would properly investigate them, we should find the most efficacious remedies for each ailment. The most remarkable cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood purifier known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of grateful testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic drainage, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines, and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by the skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle wrapper.

lingator, the egg became a type of their rescue from the land of bondage, and in their Feast of the Passover, eggs occupied a conspicuous place in the services. It was their connection with the latter that finally caused them to be used by Christians the world over in celebrating Easter—the egg of resurrection into a new life, bringing a message of life from death, as it were.

The Tyrolese Easter egg is similar to our valentines, for besides being most beautifully lined they have, in unique lettering, mottoes—representing appropriate wishes for the recipient.

The priests of Italy bless all eggs brought to service on Easter morning, and each person carries his back home, where they are placed on a kind of altar arranged for the purpose, surrounded by lighted candles and often flowers; then each member of the family and any guests abiding with them, eat one of these holy eggs as a safeguard against disease and danger. They are hard boiled before being taken to church.

County Normal Notes.

Leah Persons and Lola Cross spent Sunday at their homes in East Jordan.

The normal class was invited to the high school, to hear the talk by Mr. Hubbard, on making beet sugar, on Monday morning, Mar. 30.

The Normal Class postponed their Lyceum until Tuesday evening, Mar. 31, because Miss Lombard, who was invited with the Junior class, was ill.

Prepare the Mixture Yourself as Advised.

Mix the following by shaking well in a bottle, and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. A local druggist is the authority that these simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from our home druggists.

The mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the clogged and inactive Kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and Urinary trouble of all kind, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Those who have tried this say it positively overcomes pain in the back, clears the urine of sediment and regulates urination, especially at night, curing even the worst forms of bladder weakness.

Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial, as it is said to do wonders for many persons.

The Scranton (Pa.) Times was the first to print this remarkable prescription, in October, of 1906, since when all the leading newspapers of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and other cities have made many announcements of it to their readers.

For hauling what is declared to have been the biggest load of lumber banked in the Michigan pineries in years, the G. M. Mashek logging camp near Alfred, Delta county, and of which Michael Gordan is foreman, lays claim to the championship belt. There were 16,500 feet of white pine on the 16-foot bunks of the sleigh and it was hauled to the landing, five miles distant, by one team of horses weighing 3,000 pounds. In 35 days this one camp, with only four teams of horses in service, has delivered a million and a half feet of logs. This is a big work considering the five-mile haul, and is believed to establish a record.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oftentimes weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by James Gidley.

APPROVED FASHIONS EXCLUSIVE COLORINGS FAULTLESS TAILORING

Three Points of Distinction in Favor of Our Present Complete New Spring Lines of

Men's Fine Suits and Overcoats

The Extent to which we have surpassed all our previous efforts in these three particularly interesting details calls for unusual emphasis.

Approved Fashions:

"Approved" applied to the fashions of our Men's Clothing is significant of refinement, of newness, and of absolute correctness. Our resources enable us to make an accurate forecast of the trend of each season's fashions. Great precaution is used in determining which of these we shall admit and which exclude from our lines, and then expert designers give exact interpretation to these new and refined fashions.

Exclusive Colorings:

Whether it be in the new plain shades or in the mixtures, men will find many colorings which are not to be duplicated. In fact, practically all our fancy patterns in Suits are exclusive to us. Our selections always comprise the patterns most commendable in their newness and refinement.

Faultless Tailoring:

Through closest co-operation with us the makers of our Men's Clothing have attained and are maintaining a standard of highest excellence in their respective lines. Their success has been most notable in the devising of new systems of measurements—so that men of almost all proportions can be satisfactorily fitted in our garments. The character of the workmanship leaves nothing to be desired to gain for our Spring Suits and Overcoats the preference of the most exacting men.

Our Men's Suits and Overcoats are offered at from $12.50 to $20.00.

A Mexican judge is reported to have sentenced a woman to "six months' silence." The assertion that Mexicans are cruel by nature seems to have some foundation.

Lovers have outgrown the bashfulness of those of a few generations ago, and now express their sentiments more directly, even if in a less poetic manner; and the sending of valentines is chiefly an amusement for children today.

A bachelor aged 52 years has just died in Indiana, leaving the parting advice to his sex that they "don't live a batch as I did live." Count Boni de Castellane is said to have so much respect for his former wife that he does not want any other man to marry her. It would seem more natural if he claimed to have so much love for his former wife's American dollars that it makes him indignant whenever he thinks of her second marriage, which would effectively cut him off from a chance of ever regaining control of them.

How general has become the impulse to alleviate the sufferings of animals is shown by two recent occurrences in Boston. In one case a crowd of several hundred persons watched for two hours the struggles of a pigeon to free itself from a string which had become wound round its leg and held it suspended from a cornice. Many of the watchers tried to help, and all of them cheered heartily when the bird succeeded in freeing itself. In the other case a sergeant of police and a parolman worked hard for 15 minutes to rescue a cat from a sewer.

A California court has decided in a suit for damages that the rights of a pedestrian on public highways are paramount, and that a man run down by an automobile cannot be accused of contributory negligence in not keeping a sharp lookout, as it is the duty of the autoist to keep that lookout. This is very different from the verdict of a coroner's jury here, says the Baltimore American, that the victim of a similar accident was guilty of criminal negligence in not leaving the street clear for a speeding automobile.

Behold the Man

Wealth Cannot Rule Him Nor Gold Buy Him

By RUDYARD KIPLING, Celebrated Author.

SOONER or later you will see some man to whom the idea of wealth does not appeal, whom the methods of amassing that wealth do not interest, and who will not accept money if you offer it to him at a certain price.

At first you will be inclined to laugh at this man, and to think that he is not smart in his ideas. I suggest that you watch him closely, for he will presently demonstrate to you that money dominates everybody except the man who does not want money. You may meet that man on your farm, in your village, or in your legislature. But be sure that, when ever or wherever you meet him, as soon as it comes to a direct issue between you, his little finger will be thicker than your joints. You will go to him in fear; he will not go in fear of you. You will do what he wants; he will not do what you want. You will find that you have no weapon but your army with which you can attack him; no argument with which you can appeal to him. Whatever you gain, he will gain more.

I would like you to study that man. I would like you better to be that man, because from the lower point of view it doesn't pay to be obsessed by the desire of wealth for wealth's sake. If more wealth is necessary to you, for purposes not your own, use your left hand to acquire it, but keep your right for your proper work in life. If you employ both hands in that game you will be in danger of stooping; in danger also of losing your soul. But in spite of everything you may succeed, you may be successful, you may acquire enormous wealth. In which case I warn you that you stand in grave danger of being spoken and written of and gilded out as a smart man. And that is one of the most terrible calamities that can overtake a sane, civilized white man to-day.

They say youth is the season of hope, ambition and uplift—that the best word youth needs is an exhortation to be cheerful. Some of you here now, and I remember, that youth can be a season of great depression, hesitations, doubts and waverings, the worse because they seem to be peculiar to ourselves and incommunicable to our fellows. There is a certain darkness into which the soul of the young man some time descends—a horror of desolation, abandonment, and realized worthlessness, which is one of the most real of the hells in which we are compelled to walk.

I know of what I speak. This is due to a variety of causes, the chief of which is the egotism of the human animal itself. But I can tell you for your comfort that the chief cure for it is to interest yourself, to lose yourself, in some issue not personal to yourself—in another man's trouble or, sometimes if doesn't; if the black cloud will not lift, as sometimes it will not; let me tell you again for your comfort that there are many liars in the world, but there are no liars like our own sensations. The despair and the horror mean nothing, because there is for you nothing irremediable, nothing ineffaceable, nothing irrecoverable in anything you may have said or thought or done. If for any reason you cannot believe or have not been taught to believe in the infinite mercy of heaven, which has made us all, and will take care we do not go far astray, at least believe that you are not yet sufficiently important to be taken too seriously by the powers above us or beneath us. In other words, take anything and everything seriously except yourselves.

Woman Suffrage in America

By ANNE COBDEN-SANDERSON, Prominent Leader of "Suffragettes" of England.

The question of woman suffrage in the United States is quite different from what it is in England. To begin with, there is no opposition whatever from the men. They may be indifferent, but they are not hostile. They say in effect: "If women want to vote they will get it, we won't stop them." The opposition comes from the rich women—the only idle class to be found in America.

These horrid women—and they are supported only by a few men who object to the alien vote and would like to confine the franchise to American born citizens—sign the petitions against woman suffrage; and so far they have met with success in the east. "We have got everything we want," they say, and as I used to tell them at my meetings: "You have a great deal more than you deserve."

But I could not get any of them to oppose me, or even to put a question. At the Century club in Philadelphia the only person who could be found to start an opposition was a lawyer, and the general impression was that it was rather bad taste for a man to contradict a woman. Such scenes as we have here at meetings would be quite impossible in America. If people don't approve they stay away or walk out. They don't interrupt.

There are two classes of women in the United States upon whom the chief hope of the movement for woman suffrage rests. The one is the college girl. She is a far larger class than we have here, because there are so many women's colleges and universities in America. I am bound to say that as a rule they know little about the question, perhaps because they approach it from a different standpoint. The idea of the thinking college girl is to go into politics in order to purify it.

I spoke at Bryn Mawr college, near Philadelphia, and there, as elsewhere, the girls were perfectly enthusiastic. They were quite ready for the "gospel," because they study sociology and political economy, and, in fact, one result of this is that they all want to go into settlements and work among the poor when they leave college.

And the other class is the working women, or rather the laboring women, whose only means of improving their condition and obtaining better wages is by combination and getting political power.

Women will get the vote in America by way of socialism. Just now we are at the beginning of a great movement in that direction. There is no chance of an independent labor or socialist party, such as we have in England. But everything will come altogether by socialism.

Woman suffrage is not likely to be granted by separate legislation in America. The thing is too complicated. There are five states altogether that have adopted it, but only Colorado as a state—the others introduced woman suffrage when they were territories. And of course that does not touch the federal government. So I think that women will have to wait until the American Federation of Labor is strong enough to have its way—for woman suffrage is part of its program.

FURNITURE FOR THE BEDROOM.

Bobbinet—One of the Best of Materials That Can Be Used.

Bobbinet is a material that can be nicely used for a bedroom set. The bedspread and bolster case, dresser cover and wash stand cover and numerous little fancy-work articles can be made with this durable, washable material. Some pretty designs in corner pieces can be worked with very coarse cotton floss. Either white or a color may be used. The bedspread should have a flounce, edged with narrow lace, and the bolster or pillow shams must be lace edged. Place it over a pink silk-aline cover.

Beautiful bedspreads can be made with lace curtains if four pieces can be found to match and pointed with strips of bobbinet 16 inches wide. One curtain, if doubled, will make a neat bolster cover. The bolster being much neater than pillows, it can be made with muslin and filled with fine shavings. False pillow shams can be made on a light wooden frame, using thin pieces of wood like those placed in the bottom of window curtains. A square of muslin is tacked very tight to one side, then it is lightly padded with shavings or cotton, and a cover drawn over the top, and either glued or tacked in place. These false shams will not weigh over a pound apiece and a bed looks much neater if the lace shams have a substantial backing. These sell for two dollars in the furniture store, but any woman could make a pair at home.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Never beat or stir cereals or rice with a spoon. It makes them pasty. Use a plated or a silver fork.

Cake icing will not crack when cut if a little thick cream is added to it. Allow one teaspoonful to each white of egg.

To prevent hands from getting cold while hanging up clothes, wipe hands dry and rub thoroughly with powdered starch.

Milk will immediately and effectually extinguish the flames from gasoline or any form of petroleum, since it forms an emulsion with the oil.

In washing dishcloths, instead of using soap or borax, put a quantity of soda in the water and boil the dishcloths. The grease and soda makes a soap that does its own work.

A good combination for serving in grapefruit glasses or shells is pineapple and grapefruit. Shred both fruits and mix with sherry and a little sugar. Decorate with two or three maraschino cherries and serve very cold.

Brown Cream Candy.

A most delicious cream candy is made by mixing one cup brown sugar, one-half cup water, one pinch of cream of tartar; then placing the mixture on a moderate fire to boil until it makes a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Do not stir the mixture when the sugar is once dissolved. When done, pour on a cold platter and place the platter in cold water; do not scrape the pan. When the plate is cool enough to allow the hand to hold it, it should be removed from the water and beaten with a silver knife or wooden spoon. When creamy and dry it should be taken into the hands and kneaded until smooth; then it should be molded into shapes. Nuts, dates or figs may be used by being kneaded in if desired.

To Clean Walls.

Burlaped or papered walls may be brushed with a new broom covered with a hood of cheesecloth, which must be removed and shaken when dusty. Bread crumbs and a pencil eraser will remove many ugly marks from wall paper. Magnesia often removes grease marks. A weak solution of borax and water will remove the greasy black stains that mar delicate wood or paints. Use kerosene in the water when wiping varnished wood-work. No difference how good a furniture polish you use, always rub off every particle of grease with dry cloths, or it will accumulate dust and the dust is more difficult to remove than the grease.

Bacon-Fritters.

Cut fresh pork into pieces, about half an inch square and fry until done, but not brown. Take one cup flour, one cup southern cornmeal, one teaspoonful saleratus, a pinch of salt and enough sour milk to make a stiff batter. Beat one egg up stiff and light, mix up batter well and add the cooked pork, stirring just enough to mix well. Fry in skillet and eat with good southern molasses.

Apple-Chutney.

Chop and mix together 12 peeled apples, two green peppers, one cup of seeded raisins and one large onion. Into this mixture stir a pint of vinegar, the juice of three lemons, two cups of brown sugar, one tablespoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of ginger. Scald all together, pack into jars and seal.

Marlequin Cake.

One egg beaten light, beat into this one cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one-half cup milk, speck of salt, two scant cups flour, two spoons baking powder. Divide into thirds. In one put chocolate, in another vanilla, in the other strawberry. Bake in one sheet in layers. Frost with strawberry frosting.

For the Pastry Cook.

When making apple or any fruit pie always place the quantity of sugar required on lower crust first and you will never have a runover pie. In mince-meat or any meat pie insert a paper chimney or funnel in upper crust, and no more tears will be shed over a leaky pie.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

MAY RECEIVE NOBEL PRIZE

Congressman Richard Bartholdt, from the Tenth district of Missouri, is spoken of as the probable winner of the Nobel peace medal for this year, a distinction which was won by President Roosevelt for his work in bringing to an end the bloodiest struggle in modern times, the Russo-Japanese war. The congressman is the leading figure in the Interparliamentary union, a congress of members of national parliaments in all parts of the world, organized to further the cause of peace, and it was due to his efforts that 200 members of the American congress were brought in. Both King Edward and Emperor William have received him and Andrew Carnegie made him the custodian of $1,000,000, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to furthering the interests of peace. He took a prominent part in the last peace conference at The Hague, where he made this very practical recommendation:

"To each nation joining the community of nations in such a legislative body will be guaranteed (1) territorial and political integrity and local sovereignty or home rule; (2) an equal opportunity to trade abroad, and (3) due voice in determining the law to be recognized by nations in their intercourse with each other. These are the rights, you will observe, which to secure and enjoy has always been assigned as the only reason for the maintenance of military systems."

Although to-day an enthusiastic American, Congressman Bartholdt was born in Germany, but came to this country when a boy. He learned the printing trade and has been a newspaperman ever since. He was connected with several eastern papers as reporter, legislative correspondent and at the time of his election to congress he was editor of the St. Louis Tribune. He is 53 years of age and has served eight consecutive terms in congress.

YOUTHFUL BANK PRESIDENT

John H. Edwards, who resigned the position of assistant secretary of the treasury to become president of the Mercantile National Bank to succeed F. Augustus Heinz, who was forced out during the hurry that followed the collapse of the corner in United Copper in October, is a little past 30 years of age. He began life as a bank clerk in Ohio, and by the time he reached voting age he had been elected assistant secretary of the Bankers' association of Ohio. Congressman Weaver of Springfield, O., offered him the position of private secretary some ten years ago, and Edwards accepted it and went to Washington with him. That position he held until 1901, when the congressman was retired. His work had attracted the attention of Postmaster General Payne, who offered him a similar position. Edwards accepted. His duties brought him frequently into contact with Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, and when the latter was looking for a private secretary he "borrowed" Edwards and never paid him back. When Horace A. Taylor tendered his resignation of the position of assistant secretary of the treasury he recommended Edwards. He suggested that the announcement be made on Washington's birthday, then but a few days off.

"It is the birthday of Edwards' good old mother," he said, "and the birthday of his young son. I would like to tell him of his promotion on that day."

"Capital!" shouted the president, enthusiastically. "I will go you one better and send his nomination to the senate on that day."

He was as good as his word and Edwards got the appointment. Because the president of the United States and the secretary of the treasury in these commonplace, practical and materialistic days, were sentimentalists, he was confirmed in a position which he did not assume for several weeks later.

ALTERED PROHIBITION WORK

Dr. Purley A. Baker, head and brains of the National Anti-Saloon league, speaking of the temperance wave that is sweeping over the United States, says: "We are fighting a demoralized and divided enemy and smile at concessions shouted back by a whipped army in full retreat."

Dr. Baker looks like a country preacher; he was but he isn't. Once he rode the hills of southern Ohio in a buckboard and ministered to ten isolated congregations. He himself led the singing. Now he rides over the United States in parlor cars, an admirer on wheels in a rigorous and stigmatic warfare against the liquor traffic.

Officially he is described as the superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of America. Unofficially he is described as a corporation lawyer, a political boss and a doctor of divinity. His headquarters are in Columbus, O., and Washington. He is quick and nervous, but his head is all the time clear and his brain knows little if any rest. He dresses like a business man.

As the head of the Anti-Saloon league he has helped to select 250 paid workers throughout the country, a considerable number of whom are lawyers.

Dr. Baker was born in the country. At 13 he had a step-father with the usual results. He became a farm laborer. One night he drifted into a revival meeting. Then the desire for an education seized him. He became a minister and while laboring in Ohio he saw the effects of intemperance, but didn't think prohibition could be made practical and successful if it continued in politics as a separate party. He became interested with Howard H. Russell, who as a student had gone to the Ohio capital to lobby a township local option bill through the legislature. He resigned his pastorate and took up the cause of temperance.

IRISH PEER COMING

The duke of Leinster, Ireland's premier peer, and a handsome, stalwart young man, is coming to America, and the gossips are hinting that there is a beautiful young American girl who may wear the strawberry leaves as a result of his visit. The duke is said to be the best part of the day, for he lost his parents while he was yet a child, and the revenues of the estates have accumulated during his minority until today he is a wealthy man, even for his position. Both his father and his mother, the latter the most beautiful woman in England at the time, died of consumption, and it was feared at one time that the young duke would meet the same fate. He was sent off for a long sea voyage and he returned strong and healthy, with his constitution apparently thoroughly built up.

Consumption was not the only danger that threatened the life of the young duke, for shortly after the death of his father he nearly lost his life in a fire which destroyed Duncombe park, the country seat of his grandfather, the old earl of Faversham, with whom he was living. He was rescued by one of the servants, who climbed to his window by a ladder, wrapped him up in a wet blanket and carried him to the ground. Both the ladder and the blanket were scorched by the flames bursting out at the window, but the child was uninjured.

The young duke of Leinster is a great-grand-nephew of the famous Lord Edward Fitzgerald, the Irish patriot, who, after a hard struggle with the English troops and police, died in Newgate prison, Dublin, of the injuries inflicted by them. Lady Edward Fitzgerald, who long survived him, was generally believed to have been a natural daughter of the regicide, duke of Orleans, father of King Louis Philippe, and of Mme. de Genlis. The latter was the famous French authoress, who, as governess, was intrusted with the education of Louis Philippe. The romantic circumstances of the marriage of Lord and Lady Edward Fitzgerald, have found themes for the works of many novelists and poets, including Thomas Moore.

April Burr McIntosh.

This Anniversary Number of "the most beautiful magazine in the world" has for its cover a very fine portrait of Miss Maude Adams in the costume of her new play "The Jesters." It is very difficult to persuade Miss Adams to sit for her portrait, hence, the admirers of this popular actress will be glad of the opportunity to obtain this portrait. Among other popular stage people whose portraits are shown in this issue are Alla Nazimova, Lotta Faust, Chauncey Oelcott, Olga Netherese, Christie McDonald, Katherine Gray. In the Department of Painting are a number of reproductions of portraits by the celebrated artist George Byrrougths Torrey. These are reproduced in an exquisite art tone ink. An interesting article on "Peru Old and New" is beautifully illustrated with many unusual photographs. Altogether this issue is equal to those that have preceded it and well worth the attention of lovers of fine pictures. Burr-Publishing Company, New York.

Basket Ball Banquet.

The Basket Ball team of '08 ended their most successful season by a grand Banquet held in the Central School Building, Wednesday evening, April 1st.

The members of the team present were: Phyllis Hurlbert, Bess Light, Bertha Shier, Ida Price, Fay Nichols, Marion and Francis Malpass, Erma Hurlbert, Hazel Cummings and Isabelle Lamport. The honored guests were Flora Porter, Enga Berg and Margaret McKay, and last but not least our beloved coach, Miss Margaret Brady.

The evening was spent in singing and playing games, the rendering of that famous old ballad entitled "The Animal Fair" by the girls' quartette, consisting of Francis Malpass, Bertha Shier, Margaret McKay and Ida Price, being the special attraction.

A four-course dinner was then served, to which all did justice. The following toasts were given: "Our Success," by Phyllis Hurlbert; "The First Team," by Miss Brady; "Our Coach," by Bertha Shier; "Our Guests," by Francis Malpass; "Basket Ball," by Hazel Cummings; "The Second Team," by Fay Nichols; "Farewell," by Bess Light.

The remainder of the evening was spent by roasting marsh mallows, and as the clock struck "23" our merry band dispersed, all declaring that they had spent a very enjoyable evening. —Contributed.

Afraid of Himself.

Joseph Jefferson, the actor, once told this story to a friend: "I was coming down in the elevator of the Stock Exchange building, and at one of the intermediate floors a man whose face I knew as well as I know yours got in. He greeted me very warmly at once, said it was a number of years since we had met and was very gracious and friendly, but I couldn't place him for the life of me. I asked him as a sort of a feeler how he happened to be in New York, and he answered: with a touch of surprise, that he had lived there for several years. Finally I told him in an apologetic way that I couldn't recall his name. He looked at me for a moment and then he said very quietly that his name was U. S. Grant." "What did you do, Joe?" his friend asked. "Do?" he replied, with a characteristic smile. "Why, I got out at the next floor for fear I'd ask him if he had ever been in the war!"

Was Thin Indeed.

A fine, robust soldier after serving his country faithfully for some time became greatly reduced in weight owing to exposure and scanty rations until he was so weak he could hardly stand. Consequently he got leave of absence to go home and recuperate. He arrived at his home station looking very bad. Just as he stepped off the boat one of his old friends rushed up to him and said, "Well, well, Pat, I am glad to see you're back from the front."

"Begorra, I know I was getting thin, but I never thought you could see that much," replied Pat. —Ladies' Home Journal.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism. Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pang of this deplorable disease. In Germany with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt, I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism; but now at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without relief. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy JAMES GIDLEY.

A Prescription For Constipation

Eminent medical authorities agree that ninety per cent of their patients suffer from ailments due to clogged bowels (Constipation).

The bowels become clogged with impurities and body poisons, causing biliousness, colds, stomach trouble, headache, rheumatism, deranged liver and kidneys, etc.

A Tonic Laxative is prescribed in nearly every case. Those who need a laxative may use this prescription with assurance that no harmful results will follow its use. It has been given to the Public in tablet form and is known as Iron-ox (Laxative Iron-ox Tablets) and are put up in aluminum packet cases.

The formula is wrapped around the case. The action of each ingredient is explained, that you may understand why Laxative Iron-ox Tablets are the safest Laxative to use; they strengthen the bowels, aid digestion and keep the liver and kidneys healthy and active. We have secured the selling agency for Laxative Iron-ox Tablets and recommend them to our Customers. F. B. Gannett & Co.

Seven Hens Cannot Lay One Egg.

Daniel Webster when he was secretary of state was one day reading at a cabinet meeting a draft of a message he had written for the president to transmit to congress. He was constantly interrupted by one of the members with suggestions until, losing patience, he turned to him and said: "Sir, you might as well expect seven hens to lay one egg as seven men to construct one message."

She Was the Girl.

The Widower—I've always said that if I married again I should choose a girl who is as good as she is beautiful. Miss Willing—Really, this is very sudden. George, but I accept you, of course.—Pick Me Up.

Competition With the Almighty.

When the first tracks of the Illinois Central railroad were being laid in southern Illinois the superintendent of construction went one day for a drink of water to a well beside the cabin of an old Kentucky dandy, who had found freedom and philosophy on the north side of the Ohio river. The old man was smoking his corn-cob pipe in the shade of his sycamore tree.

"Well, Uncle Sambo," said the railroad builder as he hung up the gourd on the well sweep again, "don't you do any work at all?"

"Me? Yass, sahr. I work six months every winter on a flatboat on dat river yonder."

"Well, I suppose when we get the railroad through you will want to come in with us and get a job on a flat car."

"No, sahr! Ain't nevah goin' to be 'nough work on your railroad to keep 'em man-busy six months in the y'all. Can't yo' see dat river yonder, flowin', flowin'? Lord he made dat river to float things down on, and der ain't no use buildin' a railroad to enter into competition with de Almighty."

To Consumptives

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS and all throat and lung MALADIES. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address—

The Charlevoix County Land Company is the name of a new company recently formed by some of the officials of the West Michigan Sugar Company, of Charlevoix, to induce settlers to locate on the vacant lands and deserted farms in that county. This company will sell lands, furnish tenants to those wishing to rent their farms, or men with families to occupy tenant houses and work farms. Although the company has been organized but a short time, already they have over sixty applications on file for lands. This is a move which means much for the agricultural development of the county.—Michigan Investor.

The union temperance meeting at the Methodist church on Sunday evening drew a crowded house, the chapel as well as the auditorium being filled. The choir, under the leadership of Miss Babcock, furnished excellent music, and in addition to the anthems a solo, "How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds," was sung by Miss Susan Walsh, and also "Abide With Me" by B. A. Dole. The congregation always expects good work of these soloists and is never disappointed. The address of Rev. A. D. Grigsby put him in line with the forward movement in the temperance reformation, and his urgent appeal that something of a local nature be done to relieve East Jordan from the curse of the saloon met with hearty sympathy.

PERUNA EDITORIAL NO. 2.

Dr. Hartman has claimed for many years that Peruna is an EXCELLENT CATARRH REMEDY. Some of the doctor's critics have disputed the doctor's claim as to the efficacy of Peruna.

Since the ingredients of Peruna are no longer a secret, what do the medical authorities say concerning the remedies of which Peruna is composed?

Take, for instance, the ingredient HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS, OR GOLDEN SEAL. The United States Dispensatory says of this herbal remedy, that it is largely employed in the treatment of depraved mucous membranes, chronic rhinitis (nasal catarrh), atonic dyspepsia (catarrh of the stomach), chronic intestinal catarrh, catarrhal jaundice (catarrh of the liver), and in diseased mucous membranes of the pelvic organs. It is also recommended for the treatment of various forms of diseases peculiar to women.

Another ingredient of Peruna, CORYDALIS FORMOSA, is classed in the United States Dispensatory as a tonic.

CEDRON SEEDS is another ingredient of Peruna, an excellent drug that has been very largely overlooked by the medical profession for the past fifty years. THE SEEDS ARE TO BE FOUND IN VERY FEW DRUG STORES. The United States Dispensatory says of the action of cedron that it is used as a bitter tonic and in the treatment of dysentery, and in intermittent diseases as a SUBSTITUTE FOR QUININE.

OIL OF COPAIBA, another ingredient of Peruna, is classed by the United States Dispensatory as a mild stimulant and diuretic. It acts on the stomach and intestinal tract. It acts as a stimulant on the genito-urinary membranes.

Our Peruna Tablet Is Peruna With Fluid Removed.

Useful in chronic cystitis, chronic dysentery and diarrhoea, and some chronic diseases of the liver and kidneys.

These opinions as to the ingredients of Peruna are held by all writers on the subject, including Bartholow and Scudder.

OF HYDRASTIS, BARTHOLOW SAYS it is applicable to stomatitis (catarrh of the mucous surfaces of the mouth), follicular pharyngitis (catarrh of the pharynx), chronic coryza (catarrh of the head). This writer classifies hydrastis as a stomachic tonic, useful in atonic dyspepsia (chronic gastric catarrh), catarrh of the duodenum, catarrh of the gall duct, catarrh of the intestines, catarrh of the kidneys (chronic Bright's disease), catarrh of the bladder, and catarrh of other pelvic organs.

BARTHOLOW REGARDS COPAIBA as an excellent remedy for chronic catarrh of the bladder, chronic bronchitis (catarrh of the bronchial tubes).

BARTHOLOW STATES THAT CUBEB, an ingredient of Peruna, promotes the appetite and digestion, increases the circulation of the blood. Useful in chronic nasal catarrh, follicular pharyngitis (catarrh of the pharynx), increasing the tonicity of the mucous membranes of the throat. It also relieves hoarseness. Useful in atonic dyspepsia (catarrh of the stomach), and in chronic catarrh of the colon and rectum, catarrh of the bladder, prostaticorrhea, and chronic bronchial affections.

MILLSPAUGH, MEDICINAL PLANTS, one of the most authoritative works on medicinal herbs in the English language, in commenting upon COLLINSONIA CANADENSIS, says that it acts on the pneumogastric and vaso motor nerves. It increases the secretions of the mucous membranes in general. In the mountains of Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Carolina, collinsonia canadensis is considered a panacea for many disorders, including headache, colic, cramp, dropsy and indigestion. DR. SCUDDER regards it highly as a remedy in chronic diseases of the lungs, heart disease and asthma.

These citations ought to be sufficient to show to any candid mind that Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Surely, such herbal remedies, that command the enthusiastic confidence of the highest authorities obtainable, brought together in proper combination, ought to make a catarrh remedy of the highest efficacy.

This is our claim, and we are able to substantiate this claim by ample quotations from the HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

THE HAND THAT LEVELS

By NELLIE CRAVEY GILLMORE

(Copyright by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

The woman paused coming down the steps, and the man passed going up, with startled, locked eyes.

"Elisabeth!"

"Julian!"

The words broke from their lips after a tense pause that seemed to compass an eternity, but was in reality, only a minute.

And then, to avoid conspicuousness, both moved by tacit consent down the three remaining steps, and on across the wide lawn that stretched like a carpet of green velvet to the edge of the lake below.

"I thought that you were dead," said the woman after a second's struggle for self-possession.

"And I knew that you were worse than that—to me," replied the man. And his voice was curiously harsh and bitter.

"And that is why?" She paused, as though expecting him to divine the rest of her sentence.

"Well?" He spoke quickly, without lifting his eyes.

"Why, you caused it to be believed that you were killed in—"

"I was totally irresponsible for the report. The man's name was Wainwright, like mine, and they mixed his initials in the fool newspapers; that is all. You sailed, I recollect, the very next day, on the Campania."

Elisabeth Dudley drew in her breath as, though it hurt her. She had grown deathly pale. "Yes," she said in an undertone, "we were in Europe four years—until just last week."

"Well!" The pronoun struck across Julian Wainwright's heart like a physical blow. He had heard much of the man, Calvin Dudley, and the perilous pace he had been going. And he had dared to hope—

"How is he, your husband?" he interrupted his thoughts to ask in a cold, perfunctory tone.

"The same."

There was not a flicker of the eyelash as the woman spoke. But in contrast to her recent pallor, the blood was now beating hot in her cheeks, and her usually soft gray eyes had turned almost black.

"Julian," she began, after a slightly constrained silence, "I have something to say to you. It is something I have wanted to say, ever since—ever since—"

"I understand," he interposed gently, for the woman's distress was obvious.

"I was wrong, that is all. I discovered it before I had been married a month. It was you I should have loved, not him. But I am afraid he bewitched, hypnotized me. We had been lifelong chums; he argued me into believing that my feeling for you were merely friendly. I can't altogether explain everything, but—but I think you can understand. You always could understand. Believe me, this confession, I am making now is purely impulsive—a desperate opportunity to clear my conscience of the burden that has been oppressing it for years. You—"

"Does he mistreat you?" The interruption came abruptly, half, savagely, wholly unexpectedly.

It was some seconds before the woman answered. Then, "No," she said, wearily, "he merely ignores me."

"Which is worse." The angry crimson poured over Wainwright's face. "Do you still go about with him?"

"Yes. It is the only thing I can do. Although he pays no particle of attention to me—except in a formal way—he would be the first one to notice any least little delinquency on my part. He has a deadly temper; I—to tell you the truth—I fear him."

They had reached the edge of the water, and Wainwright led the way to a bench a few yards up the beach. When they were seated, he turned to her suddenly and said: "In that event, Elisabeth, I cannot understand why you do not take advantage of the law to free yourself."

"You forget," she cut in sharply, "there's my religion."

"Which you are permitting to damn your body and soul!" he cried, hotly.

"I am only doing my duty," she said in a calm, measured voice.

"Elisabeth!"

She turned at the note of quivering passion in his tone.

"Well?"

"Leave him! Look the thing in the face with clear, unbiased eyes. Does a just God in heaven sanction such a union? You need not try to explain—to extenuate. I happen to know all—everything—concerning this miserable scorpion to whom you have linked your innocent youth. Let me help you!"

"You," she said, dully, "least of all."

"Then you will consider it? Your brother—"

But she shook her head quite positively. "It is Fate," she said, "and I must abide the consequences of my act. Perhaps in time, I may win him back."

"Oh, if you want him back—"

"Please spare me that," she broke in wretchedly, "surely you know—you cannot help seeing what it is I mean?"

"By a master effort, Wainwright controlled himself and downed the demon of jealous fury that, after years of subjection, had leaped up in him fiercer than ever before.

"Is Dudley here now?" he asked, absently, after a pause.

"Not this morning; I expect him on the afternoon train from Cincinnati."

There was a long silence between them. The man was the first to break it. "I cannot bear the thought of meeting him again, face to face," he said, "so the only thing left for me is to get out myself, before he comes."

Elisabeth whitened again, quite perceptibly. He must never know, but the words came almost as a death-blow. In the month following, they were to start for the South Sea islands, and she should never look upon his—Wainwright's—face—again!

"Don't," was all she said, and it came almost inaudibly from between her dry lips. Then recollecting herself quickly, she forced a little laugh that was more than half sob. "There's no need of it, Julian," she said, lightly. "You'd probably never meet him at all. He isn't the kind of a man you'd likely be thrown with now. He has his own pursuits, and—"

"Nevertheless," he said, roughly, "I shall go. It is not safe for me to stay. There are things which I know that you do not." The words were final. Anyone could have told that by the bulldog lines around Wainwright's mouth.

In a second, he rose precipitately and held out his hand to his companion. "Come," he said, "it is past dinner time, and the hotel people will be talking."

A swift look of terror passed over the woman's face, and she caught her breath, as he made her take his arm to ascend the hill. No word was spoken between them as they walked on toward the house, but Wainwright knew, as well as he knew his name, that Elisabeth Dudley's emotion was caused by dread of something getting to her husband's ears.

At the steps, he left her, going at once to his room. They had exchanged only a casual farewell; but the bitterness of all ages lay beneath their smiling faces.

An hour later Wainwright had stepped into the hotel hack and was being whirled rapidly on toward the station. He reached there a full 15 minutes before train time, and leaving his suitcase in the waiting-room, began to pace restlessly up and down the platform. Soon the shrill whistle of a distant engine broke on his ears and he pulled out his watch in surprise. Surely—No; it was the south-bound train—the train on which Calvin Dudley was to come! He paused and leaned a little breathlessly against one of the posts. In spite of his expressed aversion to meeting the man face to face, a sudden, all-conquering desire to look at him again swept over him; the man who had robbed him in the most dastardly way of everything that made life dear—the wretch who, to-day, was crushing the very life out of the helpless creature that bore his name!

A minute, a second, and the long noisy train slid to a standstill. There were half a dozen passengers. Dudley was the last one off. In spite of the years of dissipation that had left their ravishing, bestial marks upon his face, Wainwright recognized him instantly. And then, in the flash of an instant—before the eye could telegraph the shock, to the dazed brain—a tragedy was enacted.

For an indeterminate second after he had gained the platform, the man stood looking about him stupidly. His grip fell from his nerveless hand and rolled under the wheels. Too intoxicated to realize the danger, he stooped and reached after it. The train started.

Like a man in a trance, Julian Wainwright had been watching the whole thing. But Dudley's insane action shot through him like an electric current. He had been the one onlooker to fully appreciate the situation.

"Good God, man!" He sprang toward him, careless of danger to himself, and with all the strength of his lion muscles attempted to hurl the heavy form back onto the platform. In the lightning interval that had elapsed while he stood calculating the man's chances, the past, the present, the future—all flew through his brain in lurid panorama. His death, her release; her release, his—their happiness! Then his mind grew blank, and he saw only a human life in peril—and in this final test, he had not hesitated.

When the train had passed, a crowd collected quickly. Dudley lay prostrate on the boards, where by superhuman strength Wainwright had flung him. But a higher power had intervened. The man never regained consciousness. There was a serious concussion of the brain. That night he went to his last account.

"Psychology."

"Do you believe in telepathy?" "I don't know what it means," replied the ward worker.

"Do you believe that by thinking hard about anything you can impress your ideas on the minds of other people?"

"Sure I do; if it's the boss of this ward that does the thinking."—Washington Star.

HOW TO KNOW PURE PAINT.

A Way in Which It May Be Identified Before Using.

After a building has been painted long enough for a weather test, it is easy to tell if the paint used was made of pure White Lead or not. But such belated knowledge comes like locking the barn after the colt is stolen.

What one wants is a test that will tell the quality of the paint before it and the labor of putting it on are paid for.

Nature has provided a way in which genuine White Lead may be positively distinguished from adulterated or fake White Lead before you spend a cent on your painting.

Pure White Lead is made from metallic lead, and under intense heat, such as is produced by a blow-pipe, pure White Lead will resolve itself back into metallic lead. If, however, it is not genuine White Lead, or if it contains the slightest trace of adulteration, the change will not take place. Therefore the "blow-pipe" test is an absolute and final one.

The National Lead Company are urging everyone interested in painting to make this test of paint before using it, and they guarantee that the pure White Lead sold under their "Dutch Boy Painter" trade-mark will always prove absolutely pure under the "blow-pipe" or any other test. To make it easy for you to perform the experiment they will send you free upon request a blow-pipe and everything necessary for you to make the test, together with a valuable booklet on paint. Address, National Lead Company, Woodbridge Building, New York City.

Good Eye, Cuchullin!

Who can set bounds to the soaring imagination of the Celt? An enthusiastic New Yorker recently watching a game of hurling—which resembles lacrosse—between stalwart teams, was moved to ask President Conroy of the Irish Athletic Association how far a good man could drive the ball.

"Well, I'll tell you," responded Mr. Conroy, with a twinkle in his eye that contradicted his serious speech. "In the good old days when Cuchullin was champion of Ireland, the king and all the nobility were assembled at the great games of Taltin. Cuchullin struck up a hurley ball into the sky and then walked off to his pavilion and took a drink of potheen, and strolled back to the spot in good time to catch the ball on his hurley."—Harper's Weekly.

A New Woman's Marriage.

Mrs. Elinor Glyn, the English novelist, who attempts, in her little books, to shock in the French manner, decided the "new woman" at a dinner in New York.

"These new women, with their clubs and their fierce chins," she said, "make me think of a conversation I heard once at a dance."

"So your sister, the senior wrangler, one girl said to another, 'is very happily married, I hear?'"

"Indeed she is," the other girl answered. "She is most happily married. Her husband doesn't open his mouth in her presence."

Result of Business Growth.

Recently a lively firm in a southern town built a one-story frame addition to its stable for the accommodation of wagons, etc. Jerry, the night watchman, whose long service has convinced him that he is part proprietor of the concern was overheard explaining the matter to a couple of inmates in this wise:

"Yes, our business done concentered so dat we've been obliged to build dis hyar substantial in de rear!"

Out to Be Some Special Place.

On the way across the Styx a dispute as to precedence arose.

"I used to put pig iron into life preservers," declared one shade.

"I made rotten fire hose," said the other.

"Dump 'em both overboard, Charon," yelled Satan. "I don't want 'em."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

MUSIC STUDENTS Should Have Steady Nerves.

The nervous system of the musician is often very sensitive and any habit like coffee drinking may so upset the nerves as to make regular and necessary daily practice next to impossible.

"I practise from seven to eight hours a day and study Harmony two hours," writes a Mich. music student. "Last September I was so nervous I could only practise a few minutes at a time, and mother said I would have to drop my music for a year."

"This was terribly discouraging as I couldn't bear the thought of losing a whole year of study. Becoming convinced that my nervousness was caused largely by coffee, and seeing Postum so highly spoken of, I decided I would test it for a while."

"Mother followed the directions carefully and I thought I had never tasted such a delicious drink. We drank Postum every morning instead of coffee, and by November I felt more like myself than for years, and was ready to resume my music."

"I now practise as usual, do my studying and when my day's work is finished I am not any more nervous than when I began."

"I cannot too highly recommend Postum to musicians who practise half a day. My father is a physician and recommends Postum to his patients. Words cannot express my appreciation for this most valuable health beverage, and experience has proven its superiority over all others." "There's a Reason."

PRACTICAL QUESTIONS FOR

POULTRY RAISERS

BEST SHELLED EGGS

Question—"What can be done to prevent soft-shelled eggs?"—J. B. C. Mc.

Reply—"Soft-shelled eggs are usually caused by wrong care or improper food. Feed the hens plenty of clover and green food and to the evening ration add a small quantity of Pratts Poultry Regulator. This ration will supply material for growth, as well as eggs, and you may be sure of a fairly good output."

GOING INTO THE BUSINESS

Question—"I intend to go into chicken raising and would ask if you would advise me to start with pure blooded stock or would common stock do?"—B. Y., Ala.

Reply—"By all means avoid the common 'scrub' stock. You will have trouble if you start with common stock. A BOOK ON POULTRY

Question—"Can I obtain a cheap book containing full information regarding chickens?"—J. R. D., Mass.

Reply—"Many books have been written on this subject—some of them quite expensive. There is, however, a new book just out relating to poultry, which usually sells for 25 cents, but we understand that by writing the publishers, the Pratt Food Co., Philadelphia, and naming this paper, a copy will be mailed free. We have seen this book and it thoroughly covers the subject in a practical way."

INDICATION

Question—"What makes a hen's comb turn purple?"—E. M. R., Wash.

Reply—"This is probably due to indigestion. We had a hen troubled this way last summer and gave her Pratts Poultry Regulator. Within a week she was laying again and was all right."

SCALY LEG

Question—"I have a rooster with scaly leg. Please let me know if coal oil and lard will remove the scales."—A. C. R., Ind.

Reply—"Coal oil and lard may help, but we know from experience that Pratts Head Lice Ointment, if used regularly, will quickly soften up the scales so that they will drop off and at the same time kill the little insect which lives underneath the scales."

CARE OF CHICKENS

Question—"Please tell me how to get the best results from my chickens. I have 65 hens of different ages. How should I feed them?"—Mrs. R. T. L., S. D.

Reply—"Provide a house with warm roosting room about 12 x 20 feet. Arrange so that after they go to roost a thin curtain can be dropped down in front to keep out the cold. Feed two parts corn and one part each barley, oats and wheat, to which should be added five table-spoonsful Pratts Poultry Regulator. Give fresh, clean water regularly and good fresh meat twice weekly if possible."

Papa's Pat.

"Fifteen-two and a pair makes four," said Subbubs, who was playing cribbage with Popley. "What have you in your crib?"

"Ah!" replied Popley, absent-mindedly, "just the sweetest little outsummatootsums girl in the world."

The Scrap Book

Not the Same.

A young woman who has recently taken charge of a kindergarten entered a trolley car and as she took her seat smiled pleasantly at a gentleman sitting opposite. He raised his hat but it was evident that he did not know her.

Realizing her error, she said in tones audible throughout the entire car:

"Oh, please excuse me! I mistook you for the father of two of my children."

She left the car at the next corner.

PETITION OF THE PLODDER.

Lord, let me not be too content With life in trifling service spent. Make me aspire.

When days with petty cares are filled, Let me with feeling thought be thrifed Of something higher.

Help me to long for mental grace To struggle with the commonplace. Let daily find.

May little deeds not bring to fruit A crop of little thoughts to suit A shrivelled mind.

I do not ask for place among Great thinkers who have taught and sung Under the trifles of the hour. I only would not lose the power To comprehend.

Discipline at Any Sacrifice.

"Sir," said the bank president to a clerk whose face showed a three days' growth of beard, "you will have to get shaved."

"But, sir," protested the clerk, "I am growing a beard."

"Do what you like at home," snapped the president, "but I'll have you understand that you can't grow a beard during office hours."—Every-body's.

Alkali Ike and the Yankee.

"Uh-yah!" remarked Alkali Ike a trifle reluctantly in response to the tourist's polite and half veiled criticism of certain amenities of life as she is lived in the care free and wind swept accident. "I didn't s'pose it would suit you, Mr. Eastman. You New England people think thar hain't nuthin' west of the Alleghany mountains but sagebrush an' blanket injuns."

"Oh, not at all," my dear sir!" deprecated the gentleman from the effects east. "I assure you that I hold the people of the west in the highest respect, and for many of your customs and institutions I entertain the most profound admiration. You are an enterprising, pushing, progressive people. If any criticism could be justly offered it might be that in the midst of your bustling enterprise, you have not yet had time to acquire some of the finer shades that life in the older commonwealths has. For instance, one might say without offering the slightest disparagement that you as a people are lacking in repose. Of course!"

"Huh!" ejaculated the ingenious Isaac. "If we're lackin' in repose it's becauz we have suthin' better to do than to sleep away our time. We are awers up an' a-comin' if anybody asks you! And that's what knocks!"

"Very true, my dear sir! But your ab-progressiveness has its drawbacks. It has made you a—pardon me—race of iconoclasts, and"

"None!" interposed Ike. "Thar are more Methodists around yere than anything else."

"Beg pardon, but you do not understand me. An iconoclast, if you will permit me, is not—"

"By jing! That's so! I was thinkin' about suthin' else. Iconoclast? Why"

OPEN SECRETS.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken the many users of his medicines into his full confidence. Thus too he has absolutely and completely removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them REMEDIES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

Dr. Pierce's medicines are now in a class all by themselves—being absolutely and in every sense Non-secret.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this booklet it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, overworked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their equines. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, and with the use of specially designed chemical apparatus, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health.

The exact proportion of the several ingredients used in these medicines, as well as the working formula and peculiar processes, apparatus and appliances employed in their manufacture, are withheld from publicity that Dr. Pierce's proprietary rights may not be infringed and trespassed upon by unprincipled imitators and those who may be piratically inclined. Dr. John F. Fyfe, of Saugatuck, Conn., Editor of the Department of Therapeutics in THE ELECTRIC REVIEW, says of the chief ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription: "A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator and always favors a condition which makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system, cannot fail to be of great usefulness and of the utmost importance to the general practitioner of medicine." "Helonias more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent."

The following are among the leading indications for Helonias: Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhoea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women, constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia, ("flooding") due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea, arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and an anemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensation in the extreme lower part of the abdomen.

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is rich in all the medicinal properties of Uricorn root, or Helonias.

A Woman's Back.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of This Petoskey Citizen is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Backache is really kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Petoskey women know this. Read what one has to say about it. Mrs. M. A. Graves, living at 618 Walkazoo Street, Petoskey, Mich., says: "Kidney disease bothered me for years and nothing I did seemed to allay the pain and misery until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the Central Drug Store and began using them. I suffered from sharp darting pains in my sides and loins so bad that no position I assumed was comfortable. I had dull heavy headaches and there was a soreness of the muscles and joints. I can say that Doan's Kidney Pills gave me more benefit than all the other remedies I ever used put together. I told of my satisfactory experience with them at that time, and am now able to recommend this valuable remedy as highly as I did then. I am a firm supporter of the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills."
