EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, SATURDAY, MAY 9, 1908.

No. 19

Meguzee Ass'n Next Week.

Hold Convention at East Jordan.

Meguzee Association Order Eastern Star will hold its Sixth Annual Convention in the Masonic hall, next Wednesday, May 13th. At which time we will have the pleasure of meeting our Worthy Grand Matron of Michigan, as well as the representatives from eleven different chapters. The afternoon session will open at 1.30 and the evening at 7.30. All members of the order will be cordially welcomed.

Potato Warehouse.

East Jordan is fast becoming one of the best potato markets in Northern Michigan and our farmer friends will be pleased to learn that arrangements have been made with responsible parties to build a first class potato warehouse with a frost proof basement which will be complete and ready for use in time for the fall crop.

May Burr McIntosh.

The cover of this charming magazine, now on the news stands, is in full colors by the celebrated French artist, E. Vernon. There are also very beautiful portraits of Mabel Tallafiero and Florence Reed in colors in this issue. An interesting article on Alaska with some very unusual photographs is a feature of the number, while the reproductions of paintings from the Spring Exhibition at the National Academy of Design will appeal to art lovers. Mr. Perriton Maxwell, the well-known art critic, writes very interestingly of these pictures. Those who are interested in photography will appreciate the article on "The Limitations of the Film Camera" by Chas. Quincy Turner. In the departments of People of Note and The Season's Notable Plays many fine photographic reproductions are shown. Arnold Kruckman continues his fine articles on Music and Musicians. This May number is one of the best of recent issues of this unique magazine. Burr Publishing Co., New York.

"Follow the Leader," one of childhood's happy games, is also applicable to business, and it is a wise man who is willing to concede that a competitor has figured out a good campaign of action and follows in his footsteps. Every fair minded theatrical manager concedes that Geo. M. Cohen was the first to introduce comedy dramas with music and the author of "Bud, Hicks, The Yankee Doodle Boy" willingly admits that he is not entitled to any credit for this novel style of entertainment. It is simply a case of "Follow the Leader." This happy blending of comedy, music, song and drama will be presented by a clever organization of players and singers at the Loveday Opera House on Wednesday night next week. Seats now on sale. Prices 25 to 75 cents.

County Normal Notes.

Bessie Cramer, visited friends in Petoskey last Saturday.
Annie Metcalf is teaching music in the training room.
Miss Lucy Eastcott and Miss Clara Hughson visited the normal room Monday, May 4.
Last Thursday, April 30th, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, L. L. Wright of Lansing, visited the normal room and training room. He gave a very interesting talk to the class. The class also listened to his short but pointed address to the high school pupils.

All the Sporting News.

The steady reliability with which the Chicago Record-Herald presents the sporting news of the whole country each day has made it an authority in this field. It has a large staff of editors and reporters to handle the telegraphic matter and gather the local news in this important department alone. In the Sunday Record-Herald this department has a separate supplement of four full pages—a newspaper in itself—in which all the latest sporting news is presented with numerous illustrations. All that is of interest in baseball, football, racing, athletics, automobillog, yachting, golf, tennis, pugilism, aquatics and other sports can always be found here, along with many special articles by experts of national reputation. The Record-Herald is a favorite among lovers of sport because its sporting columns are written by "men who know."

A Prescription for Constipation
Eminent medical authorities agree that ninety per cent of their patients suffer from ailments due to clogged bowels (Constipation).
The bowels become clogged with impurities and body-poisons, causing biliousness, colds, stomach trouble, headache, rheumatism, deranged liver and kidneys, etc.
A Tonic Laxative is prescribed in nearly every case. Those who need a laxative may use this prescription with assurance that no harmful results will follow its use. It has been given to the Public in tablet form and is known as Iron-ox (Laxative Iron-ox Tablets) and are put up in aluminum pocket cases.
The formula is wrapped around the case. The action of each ingredient is explained, that you may understand why Laxative Iron-ox Tablets are the safest Laxative to use; they strengthen the bowels, aid digestion and keep the liver and kidneys healthy and active. We have secured the selling agency for Laxative Iron-ox Tablets and recommend them to our Customers. F. B. Gannett & Co.

Skilligalee.

WARREN W. LAMPSON.
Where the waters of Michigan bend and sweep
Through Mackinaw's gate into Huron's deep,
A sentinel rock rises out of the sea,
The home of the gulls, the Skilligalee.
And the keeper who keeps the lighthouse there
Is the seaman's friend, be it foul or fair.
Skilligalee! Skilligalee!
Sentinel rock of the inland sea!
Here's to the sailor who sails by thee!
Safe and secure may his good ship be.
Hail to the watcher on Skilligalee!

When the sea is calm and the skies are bright,
You can see his house there in the clear sunlight;
From near and from far you can see it gleam
Like a marble shaft in the slanting beam.
And deep in your heart is a fervent prayer
For a blessing on him who is watching there.
Skilligalee! Skilligalee!
Guarding the gate of the inland sea!
Peace to the sailor who sails by thee!
Safe and secure may his good ship be.
Hail to the watcher on Skilligalee!

When the night is dark and the waves run high,
And there's never the gleam of a star in the sky,
And the storm-king threatens a watery grave,
You can see the light flashing afar o'er the wave.
And still from your heart comes the same deep prayer
For the watcher who watches the lighthouse there.
Skilligalee! Skilligalee!
Isle of the storm-tossed inland sea!
Here's to the sailor who sails by thee!
Safe and secure may his good ship be.
Hail to the watcher on Skilligalee!

When the thick mists gather o'er lake and shore,
And the dead sea tosses with sullen roar,
Like a bellowing bull in a field o'er the hill
Comes the sound of the foghorn guiding you still;
And you steer your good bark far out to the sea,
And pray for the keeper on Skilligalee.

Skilligalee! Skilligalee!
Isle of the great unsalted sea!
Here's to the sailor who sails by thee!
Safe and secure may his good ship be.
Hail to the watcher on Skilligalee!

To relieve constipation, clean out the bowels, tone and strengthen the digestive organs, put them in a natural condition with Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, the most reliable tonic for thirty years. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. F. B. Gannett & Co.

Tired nerves, with that "no-ambition" feeling that is commonly felt in spring or early summer, can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. One will absolutely note a change; feeling within 48 hours after beginning to take the Restorative. The bowels get sluggish in the winter-time, the circulation often slows up, the kidneys are inactive, and even the heart in many cases grows decidedly weaker. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is recognized everywhere as a genuine tonic to these vital organs. It builds up and strengthens the worn-out weakened nerves; it sharpens the falling appetite, and universally aids digestion. It always quickly brings renewed strength, life, vigor, and ambition. Try it and be convinced. Sold by James Gidley.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.
Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery" for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.
A glance at the full list of its ingredients printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts of Great Britain and the United States, who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.
A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges; hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on coughs, and all these wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will, if taken in time.

Railroad to Mecca.

Announcement has lately been made that the railway from Damascus to Mecca will be completed as far as Medina on September 1, and that in two years more the remaining 300 miles to Mecca will be ready for use. This is one of the most remarkable railroads in the world. Some, if not all, the money for its construction has been contributed by Mussulmans in British India and in Africa, as well as in Turkey, and it is regarded by them as a religious enterprise. It is intended to make easier the pilgrimage to the holy city. The religious motive has not only led the faithful in various parts of the world to contribute money for the railroad, but, stranger still, it has led the Turkish officials and contractors engaged in the actual work of construction to abstain from their usual practices of dishonesty, which in America are in a general way called "grafting." The road runs through a waterless desert for long distances, and in these parts has not cost, including rolling-stock, more than $12,600 a mile. The best record made in track-laying is two and three-quarter miles in a day. Arrangements are already making in Medina to celebrate the entrance of the new road into the city. While it is a religious enterprise to the Mussulmans, the rest of the world is aware that it has great political value to the Turkish sultan, for it will make it easier for him to control Arabia by sending troops there quickly, and it will also afford an easy route for dispatching an army to the Egyptian frontier in case he should think it desirable to assist the Egyptians in any effort to throw off British rule.

Value of Psychological Research.

Why should not psychological investigation lead to practical results, asks Sir Oliver Lodge, F. R. S., in the World To-Day. Are we satisfied with the preaching of chaplains. That is as civilized people content to grow a perennial class of habitual criminals, and to keep them in check only by devices appropriate to savages; hunting them, flogging them, locking them up, exterminating them? It is unwise and unscientific to leave prisoners merely to the discipline of wardens and to the preaching of chaplains. That is not the way to attack a disease of the body-politic. I have no full-blown treatment to suggest, but I foresee that there will be one in the future. Society will not be content always to pursue these methods of barbarism; the resources of civilization are not really exhausted, though for centuries they have appeared to be. The criminal demands careful study on the psychological side, and remedy or palliation will be a direct outcome of one aspect of our researches. The influence of the unconscious or subliminal self, the power of suggestion, the influence of one mind over another, the phenomena of so-called "possession," these are not academic or scientific facts alone; they have a deep practical bearing, and sooner or later it must be put to the proof.

Apocryphal of its "bargain list," a firm of manufacturers announces that it recently sold a 1907 second-hand automobile to the vice-president of one of the largest transcontinental lines; another to the president of a national bank; a third to a prominent real estate dealer; another to a famous Wall street operator; one to a well-known and popular man of leisure; another to the president of a great commercial enterprise, and yet another to a noted corporation attorney. "This is a class of buyers," it is added, "who in the past would not consider any but a new car." Perhaps the reason is not far to seek. They are not the only persons who are economizing.

It is pleasant to hear of the bravery and unselfishness of American sailors even in time of peace, when they are supposed to have little to do outside of routine duty. Rear Admiral Evans, commander of the battleship fleet, reports to the naval authorities at Washington the highly commendable conduct of four seamen while at Punta Arenas, Chile. This consisted of entering, at great personal risk, a boat that was leaking badly and proceeding to the rescue of two midshipmen who had been thrown into the water by the capsizing of a dingy and were in imminent danger of drowning. But the Yankee sailor is always cool-headed, resourceful and dependable.

An educator in New York opposes the "feminizing" of boys, citing as an illustration of his theory that women are not in favor of war. He evidently never followed the proceedings of a D. A. R. business convention or election when in full blast.

In Belgium breeders are obliged to keep a record of all cattle raised by them, and each animal has a registered trade number, which is engraved on the ring fastened to its ear.

The New "The Spirit of My Country Is Reform" China

By WU TING-FANG, Chinese Minister to the United States.

The spirit of China is reform. We are advancing in every direction. We have awakened. Mark my words. From now on we will make progress which will not merely astound a Chinese returning to his country after a long absence, but all who have an interest in my country.

One can go from Peking to Paris by rail; from Peking to Hankow by rail. This is one of the interesting features of the awakening of my country. No longer is there hostility to the train. The people want the railroad. They are eager for it. They like to ride in trains. We have about 4,000 li of road now and we want a great deal more. But there is the question of capital. Many Chinese believe in the slogan: "China for the Chinese." They don't want capital to come in which will give foreign powers a chance to interfere in the affairs of the empire. At the same time they want the railroads built. This must become the subject of agreements so that our rights and interests will be fully protected.

It won't be long before a railroad connects Shanghai and Peking. They are building it now. When I go back to China again I certainly expect to run to Peking from Shanghai by rail. One of our troubles is a lack of expert men to run the engine. Our native workmen make excellent engineers, but they have to be trained. They are doing well, however. We know now how to harness the locomotives and we are making them do the work as you do it in the United States.

Within five years I believe China will have a constitution. We had commissions abroad which made thorough investigations of the constitutions of the most advanced countries. The reports of these commissions have been studied with the greatest care. Preliminary measures have been taken for the adoption of an instrument best suited to the needs of our people. We are not ready yet for anything of the kind, but we learn fast. There has been constituted already in Peking a body similar to that of the House of Lords in England. This is made up of the nobility. Then we are getting an assembly together. Some day these two bodies will be joined together in a parliament and we shall then have a constitutional government.

Marriage Ethics Are Advancing

By CHARLOTTE PERKINS GILMAN, Author and Lecturer.

Marriage was the first thing we really made ethics about, and we have been making ethics about it ever since and will continue to make ethics about it, for the ethics of marriage is still in the process of formation.

In the matriarchal period, before there was marriage, when woman was free and only respected and honored in her motherhood, there was little or no ethics. But in the patriarchal period, which saw the introduction of the family, even though women were only property and a man had as many wives as he could buy, a very certain and new ethics was developed, and from that time until the present that very certain and new ethics has been developing.

A higher order of marriage has developed as the race has advanced and a higher order of ethics has developed as our ideas of marriage have advanced, until to-day we have a cleaner, nobler, more practical and altogether higher idea of marriage than ever before, with ethics to correspond.

In our life to-day, in marriage and out of it, as in centuries gone, more importance is attached to the sinning of women than to the sinning of men, and for what reason? For answer we must go back to the remote past, to which we are so securely anchored and by the ideas of which we are so surely influenced in all we believe, think and do, and find our explanation in the fact that woman's duty developed first and became more or less fixed before man's duty was considered of any importance.

We must go back to that remote past for explanation of many points of ethics of to-day. We are tied in many respects to the ethics of centuries ago. The ethics of our ancestors have been handed down from generation to generation; they have kept their hold on the world through their continued influence on children.

True Mating Means Happiness

By Rev. Cornelius F. Thomas, Baltimore.

Sometimes marriage is called a state of bliss and again we hear people say that it is something else than bliss. That is as the man and the woman make it. When two persons are joined together according to God's word in the holy estate of matrimony, which St. Paul says is honorable among all men, they have it in their power to be very happy or quite the reverse. If love has brought about the union and both husband and wife have the consideration for each other they should have, they will be happy and their home will be an altar of God and will be blessed by him.

Every man or woman centers his or her affection on some object. Sometimes it is a dog, sometimes a horse and very often another human being of the opposite sex. In most cases when this last is so marriage is the result. Since this is true and since marriage is a sacrament, it behooves every person to choose the right partner in life and be very careful about that choice. In choosing men for their husbands women should be careful not to be attracted by the flashy and entertaining man, but by one of stability and character. Good men come high. It is not hard for a woman to get a husband, but the difficulty lies in getting the right sort of man.

In the choosing of wives the same rule obtains. A man should not set his affections on a young woman because she is pretty, because she can sing well, dance gracefully or kick high, but because she has character, because she is a good woman and because she will be a loving and faithful companion along life's journey. When husbands and wives are chosen for any other reasons that marriage is not as God's word doth allow, and will not be a happy one.

A REINVESTMENT.

A Missouri man tells of an Irishman named Coughlin, who lived in a shanty standing in a field near the main highway from Kansas City. The foundations of the shanty were lower than the road, through which ran a big water-main. As the living floor of the place was raised on posts to make it level with the highway, it left a large, cellar underneath, where Coughlin kept a dozen hens.

One day the water-main burst, flooding the cellar and drowning the hens. Whereupon Coughlin took steps to enter a claim for damages against the city. After much delay influential friends succeeded in securing the sum of $25 in settlement of Coughlin's claim.

"I've got me money!" shouted the Irishman to a neighbor sitting on the steps of the next shanty.

"It's glad I am to hear that," was the reply. "And how much was it, Coughlin?"

"Twenty-foive dollars."

"And what are ye goin' to do with the twenty-foive, Coughlin?"

"I'm goin' to buy twenty-foive dollars' worth o' ducks," said Coughlin.—Harper's Weekly.

Guile. "They don't worry me with their savage dogs."

"How do you get round 'em, Weary?"

"When I hear a dog bark, I gits out me memory-ander-book, an' pretends to be looking round, an' takin' notes, d'yer see?"

"Yes."

"An' they takes me fer the man come fer the dog license."—Royal Magazine.

What She Did. Mrs. Stinky—Oh, Clarissa, I saw such a sad thing to-day; a poor woman with a baby, shivering out in the cold, singing along the street. I never beheld anything so pitiful before in my life.

Clarissa (breathlessly)—Yes, aunt; what did you do?

Mrs. Stinky (sighing)—Well, my dear, I was so upset that I had to go and have a cup of tea.—Royal Magazine.

Not Unnecessary. "And the name is to be—?" asked the suave minister, as he approached the font with the precious armful of fat and flour.

"Augustus Philip Ferdinand Codrington Chesterfield Livingstone-Smith."

"Dear, dear!" (turning to the sexton.) "A little more water, Mr. Perkins, if you please."—Royal Magazine.

Wondering. She is a charming maid to see. Her eyes are blue, her hair is frizzy; I wonder how it came to be.— Her parents thought to name her Lizzie?—Detroit Free Press.

HE IS THE VICTIM.

"Your wife certainly pays for dressing, old man."

"Gee! I wish she did!"—Chicago Journal.

Terrible. This is a thought that comes to me, And so I must repeat it: When wife gets in a frightful stew, Alas, I cannot eat it.

An Epicure. Customer—What is this tough, tasteless substance in this custard pie?

Walter—That's cocoanut, sah—custard topped with cocoanut.

Customer—Hum! Well, take it out and bring me custard topped with rich, juicy white pine sawdust.—N. Y. Weekly.

Frenzied Finance. Wedderly—I made the mistake of my life when I gave my wife a $20 gold piece on the first anniversary of our marriage.

Singleton—How's that?

Wedderly—I've had to give her $20 a week ever since to keep her from spending it.—Chicago Daily News.

No Divided Allegiance for Her. Lil—So you rejected that young fireman, did you?

Min—I surely did. Do you suppose I'd marry a man who might leave me at any hour of the 24 to dance attendance on some other dame?—Chicago Tribune.

A Lazy M. D. Mrs. Hayrix—What be yore son doin' tew th' city?

Mrs. Meadowgrass—He's studyin' fer a doctor.

Mrs. Hayrix—The idee! Is th' doctor tew lazy tew study fer hisself?—Chicago Daily News.

The Use of Cloves. Mrs. Gotham—The paper says that chewing wintergreen will keep people awake in church.

Mr. Gotham—It might be; but, at the theater, I have found cloves very efficacious.—N. Y. Weekly.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

WINS LAETARE MEDAL

Dr. James Charles Monaghan, well known as a lecturer in Catholic circles, has been chosen as the recipient for 1908 of the Laetare medal, awarded annually by Notre Dame university to some prominent Roman Catholic layman as a mark of honor.

Dr. Monaghan was born in Boston in 1857. He acted as consul to Mannheim, Germany, from 1885 to 1889, and as consul to Chemnitz from 1893 to 1897. In 1899 he was delegate to the world's commercial congress and in 1903 editor of the reports of the bureau of foreign commerce in the department of commerce and labor.

As an educator Dr. Monaghan has been instructor at both Wisconsin and Notre Dame. From September to December, 1907 he was dean of the course of history and economics at the latter institution, having to abandon the position to the disappointment of both students and faculty in order to fill engagements on the lecture platform. Dr. Monaghan was graduated from Brown university, and upon his return to the United States in 1890 took up the study of law and newspaper work. At present he is engaged on a lecture tour throughout the United States.

The history of the Laetare medal dates back to 1833, when it was conferred upon John Gilmary Shea. The medal is of gold and the bar from which the disk is suspended is lettered "Laetare medal," the face of the disk bearing the inscription in Latin, "Truth is mighty and shall prevail." The reverse side bears the name of the university and the recipient. The medal takes its name from the Sunday upon which its recipient is announced—Laetare Sunday. The particular Sunday was chosen because on that day for the last six centuries the popes have conferred a golden-rose upon one who has performed marked service to religion and humanity.

It is probable that the bestowal will take place at Notre Dame May 17, upon which day it is hoped to hold a reunion of all the living Laetare medalists here. Others to whom the medal has been awarded are Attorney General Benaparte, Bourke Cockran and Gen. William Rosecrans.

BRITAIN'S NEW PREMIER

The Right Honorable H. H. Asquith, the new British premier, appointed to succeed Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who resigned on account of ill health, was born in Yorkshire of a non-conformist family. His father died when the future premier was only six years old, and the boy's life was guided by his mother, a strict Puritan. His first schooling was received at the Moravian school at Fulneck, where the home influences were reinforced by the religious atmosphere of the Moravian community. Leaving Fulneck, young Asquith went to the City of London school, where he was a brilliant pupil. Then he went up to Oxford and won the Balliol scholarship.

At Balliol he fell under the influence of Jewett. The late master of Balliol had many distinguished pupils, but none among all of those who looked up to him with reverence and affection were more absolutely under his influence than Henry Asquith.

When he left college he went straight into the practice of law and began to win recognition in the world. His first political victory was scored in 1886, when he was elected to the commons from East Fife.

It was only six years after his entrance into political life when Mr. Asquith was selected as a cabinet officer, he becoming home secretary in 1892. He retained this position until 1895, when the fall of Lord Rosebery's government brought about his resignation.

With the rise of Campbell-Bannerman to the leadership of the liberals, Asquith became chief lieutenant. He did not seek this advancement, and, in fact, was called cold-blooded by some of his followers because he did not attempt to push himself over the head of "C. B." Later Asquith was made chancellor of the exchequer, which office he had administered well.

MISSED SENATORIAL TOGA

Congressman Asbury Francis Lever of Lexington, S. C., who was mentioned as a possible successor to the late Senator Latimer, but failed to land, is now serving his fourth term in the lower house. He is so prominent in working for the Appalachian forest reserve and in other matters that he is no longer mistaken for one of the floor messengers. In his first term his boyish and unaffected look and his small, wiry figure made many of his colleagues take him for a page. He was asked by them to "take these papers to the desk." He took the treatment with great humor and the embarrassment was all with the others when they found they had asked a fellow member of congress to wait on them.

Mr. Lever is descended from the South Carolina Germans of early days, a sterling population which inhabited the central counties of the state. The ancestral name was Lieber. The given names and surnames of the South Carolina delegation show plainly how the state has large German and Irish-American elements and also plenty of Methodists in faith. For both the late senator and Mr. Lever bear the name of Bishop Asbury.

Like very few who ever reach congressional honors, Mr. Lever was nominated and elected before he had reached the age of 25. He taught school until Congressman J. William Stokes, the Farmers' Alliance worker, selected him as his private secretary. He entered into sympathy with the farmers' ideals in legislation, and in 1900 he was elected a member of the legislature, though still serving Mr. Stokes as secretary. When his chief died the private secretary naturally succeeded him. He was re-elected over six opponents and has been twice re-elected since.

VICTIM OF KAISER'S TONGUE

Lord Escher, to whom Kaiser Wilhelm referred so contemptuously in his private letter to Lord Tweedmouth, the letter that raised a hornet nest about the ears of the British government, is a person of considerable ability. He is not by any means a politician; far from it, he was pressed to enter the cabinet as secretary of war, but refused in order that he might be left free to effect a thorough sanitary reform of Windsor castle, of which he was deputy governor. It is to this the Kaiser referred when he said that Escher should stick to drain pipes and keep his hands off the navy.

If Lord Escher had had political ambitions he might have been prime minister to-day, for he has considerable tact and great family influence in addition to his peculiar abilities. But he is absolutely without political aspirations, as he is without a party, for neither side is quite sure of him.

If he were to accept a portfolio he would have to identify himself actively with the party in power, and this is probably the reason why he refuses. He prefers to be able to retire when he chooses to his charming house in Windsor forest, as he did when Gladstone passed his Irish home rule bill in the commons. To show his displeasure Escher gave up what little connection he had with politics and spent the next few years surrounded by his books, his flowers and his family, breeding a few race horses and entertaining friends. It is with difficulty he was induced to give up this ideal existence and return to hard work in London. He was one of the commission of three to reorganize the British army, which had broken down in the Boer war. He was also appointed on the commission to reorganize the war department, and this is where he began to lay his hands on the navy; to the disgust of the Kaiser, who probably does not know what a very useful man Escher is in his own peculiar way.

Lord Escher, too, was entrusted with the task of arranging the papers of the late Queen Victoria, a task of considerable delicacy.

FACTS FADS FALLACIES

Dealing with Personal Magnetism, Telepathy, Psychology, Suggestion, Hypnotism, and Spiritualism.

By
EDWARD B. WARMAN, A. M.
Eminent Psychologist and Hygienist.

SPIRITISM.

Clairvoyance.

In one of the leading cities of Ohio, a very prominent man, a man of influence and of unlimited credit at the banks, suddenly disappeared, and, with him, about $20,000.

Being in the city at the time, I persuaded a young lady to allow me to hypnotize her in order that she might become clairvoyant, and, thereby, find the whereabouts of the man—she being known to both of us.

She consented, but informed me that she did not believe in either hypnotism or clairvoyance, and that nobody could hypnotize her, as many attempts had been made and all had failed.

I encouraged her to express herself freely; in fact, helping her to unload her objections. When this was done she became passive (a necessary condition) and in less than two minutes (no longer time is ever required with a good subject) she was so thoroughly hypnotized, that she passed readily into a clairvoyant condition.

She went (clairvoyantly) to his home. She saw him quietly leave his home in the night (I say "saw" him, as that is a clairvoyant expression). She saw him board a train, saw him leave the train at Detroit, Mich.

At this point I interrupted her. I said: "I think he has crossed the river into Canada." She informed me to the contrary. I mention this for the purpose of impressing upon you the fact previously expressed, viz., a clairvoyant is not influenced by a suggestion as is one who is merely hypnotized and does not pass beyond that stage.

To resume. She said: "I see him go up Jefferson avenue (she had never been there). I see him turn down Woodward avenue, then out Griswold street, then to the left on Clinton street, and he is now in a story-and-a-half house (giving the number).

Again I interrupted her by asking her how she knew it was Detroit and how she knew the names of the streets. To this she replied (mark her words): "I move among the throng, but they know it not. I cannot talk with them, but I can see. I saw the name of the station and, on the lamp posts, I read the names of the streets—in fact, just the same as if I were there in body. But I have not told you all. Listen! He has shaved off his whiskers and has assumed another name."

I asked for the assumed name and she gave it without hesitancy. The next day I called on the wife, gave her a diagram of her husband's movements, the number of the house and his assumed name. She sent a friend to communicate with him. He found him without difficulty. He inquired for him first by his right name, but was informed that no such person was there; then by his assumed name. He was ushered into his presence. He was, as described, whiskerless.

Truly this was remarkable, and the more so as a first experience. "Was it telepathy or clairvoyance?" In this case, as in the previous one, I am frank to admit that all the knowledge obtained may have been telepathically received; but was it?

Premonitions and Impressions.
All premonitions are impressions, but all impressions are not premonitions. An impression may be the forecasting of a pleasurable event; a premonition is the foreshadowing of approaching danger or evil. It does not follow, however, that the event foreshadowed is inevitable. The shadow is merely to warn you of imminent peril which, if you are wise, you will divert by heeding the warning.

Do not mistake imagination for premonition. All premonitions are intuitive, and all intuitions are correct. Whenever you are in doubt, it is not intuition; intuition never doubts. When anyone asks you, "What makes you think so?" and you can answer with positive assurance, "I do not think it, I know it;" that is a true impression on which you may rely.

Is it possible to foretell the future? Only in a limited degree. I think that God, in His all-wise providence, has dropped the curtain between us and the future in the general, everyday affairs of life; but upon certain occasions, as in approaching danger, He kindly lifts the curtain to give us fair warning that we may avert that which would otherwise prove disastrous.

How does He acquaint us with this fact? By a special dispensation of providence? I think not. God is no respecter of persons. That which we call "soul" is, but a spark of the All-Soul. It possesses all the potentialities of God Himself, but in a much lesser degree—in the proportion of the spark to the whole.

The subjective mind is the mind of the soul; the highest faculty is intution. It possesses the power to perceive that which is not within the range of the objective vision, and it is always on the alert for the safety of the one in whose temple it dwells; its first law being self-preservation.

This subjective perception is what I believe to be true clairvoyance, and when the warning is heard, true clairvoyance in my own experience that cannot possibly be accounted for by telepathy; therefore, a clear case of clairvoyance.

Away back in the "seventies" there occurred what was known, and is still remembered by many, as "the Ashtabula disaster."

Before the train pulled out from Boston I had entered the fated sleeper with the intention of securing berths for a lady friend and myself. We had barely taken our seats when I heard—or thought I heard—these words: "A wreck, a wreck; get out of this car, get out of this car."

I recognized it as the still small voice that came to warn us of approaching danger. It was a premonition received through impression. The impression came as words; yet I cannot say that I actually heard them (clairvoyantly) and I am sure that my friend did not hear them. Suffice it to say I heeded them. We left the train, but not until I resorted to a little ruse to meet the prejudice of my friend, who had no patience with what she called my "eccentricities;"—lacking better word.

To prevent any anxiety on the part of her father, at whose request I was accompanying the daughter, I immediately telegraphed him of our delay; and then, after the train had pulled out, I took back the little white lie I had told for the purpose of saving her life—and mine.

She did not believe my premonition—not then; not until we had passed safely over that great gully at Ashtabula, and she, with a shudder, looked down into that yawning chasm and partially realized what "might have been" had it not been for my "eccentricities."

As is well known, not a passenger escaped from that sleeper; hence the question naturally arises: "Why should you be the only one to receive the warning message?"

I am not sure that I was, but I am sure that I was the only one who heeded.

I am often asked why I did not warn the others. Because the warning would not have been accepted and I would have been looked upon as a fit subject for the lunatic asylum. Besides, had the passengers really believed it, there would have been such an exodus that the railroad officials would have probably "looked me up" and then "locked me up" for disturbing the peace.

During the civil war I was, for a short time, quite ill while in camp. A comrade called at my tent and insisted on my going with him to his tent. I told him that was out of the question. He was impelled by an unknown power (which neither of us then understood) and would not take no for an answer. He raised me to my feet and, with the aid of another comrade, I was being helped to his tent, which we had not yet reached when, with a terrific crash, a tree fell across my tent, deeply burying into the ground the blanket upon which I had just been lying.

Telepathy? I think not. Clairvoyance? Without doubt. My own subjective mind undoubtedly perceived the danger, but for some unaccountable reason my objective mind did not get the impression. My comrade was impelled to act quickly. The only telepathy was from my subjective mind to his, but that was after the danger had been perceived by my subjective mind. It was, it is true, a roundabout way, but the object was accomplished. It could not have been telepathy, as by no possibility could the knowledge of the accident-to-be have been in anyone's mind.

The night before Lincoln's assassination he had a dream of his approaching death, and on the evening of its fulfillment he was narrating it to Stanton. Booth's mind was necessarily intent on his murderous plan for days before the assassination, and especially so during the hours immediately preceding the moment when the murderous scheme was to be put into operation. Lincoln, you will observe, was duly warned, but he heeded it not. His subjective mind perceived it, not necessarily clairvoyantly, but possibly telepathically, as it existed in the mind of Booth. In either case it furnishes us a fine example of premonition; its origin, its accuracy; its benefits, when heeded; its inevitable results when unheeded.

In conclusion I desire to say that the foregoing articles have been written with the hope of interesting those who have heretofore given no thought to the subjects included in "Psychic Phenomena;" to clear away the clouds that have obscured the broader view of the seeker after psychological facts; to encourage everyone to step over the threshold into that larger life that awaits them here.

"The Now is eternal and will be forever;

There is not a future, nor will there be ever;

We clutch no 'To-morrow,' no matter how clever,

It's 'To-day' and 'To-day,' to-morrow comes never.

I know it's so here, and it may be so over."

If you wish to come in touch with your higher self you should learn to listen to the promptings of that still small voice—the sleepless sentinel on the watchtower of the human soul.

Listen well, heed well, and all will be well.

ISSUES ARE JOINED

BRYAN AND TAFT PLATFORMS COMPARED.

Questions of the Coming Campaign Pretty Well Laid Before the Voters in the Ohio and Nebraska Declarations.

The Ohio Republican platform is said to have been examined and approved by President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft, and the Nebraska Democratic platform had the immediate supervision of Mr. Bryan. It is probable, therefore, that these two platforms anticipate pretty closely the platforms that are to be adopted by the national conventions, and it is interesting to note some of the differences between them and the questions upon which issue is joined.

The Taft platform calls for tariff revision, but in doing so insists particularly upon adequate "protection" for American manufacturers, farmers, producers and wage-earners. The Bryan platform demands that articles entering into competition with articles controlled by trusts be placed on the free list, that reductions be made in the tariff on the necessities of life and that reductions be made "in such other schedules as may be necessary to restore the tariff to a 'revenue' basis."

The Taft platform attacks the disfranchisement legislation of the southern states and favors "the reduction of representation in congress and the electoral college in all states of this union where white and colored citizens are disfranchised." Upon this subject the Bryan platform has nothing to say.

The Taft platform calls for "such modifications of the currency laws as will provide for the demands of commerce, satisfy the needs of all portions of the country and have at all times the quality of undoubted security." On this subject there will probably be legislation by congress before the national conventions meet. The Bryan platform opposes both the Aldrich and the Fowler bills, insists that emergency currency should be issued and controlled by the federal government and that it should be loaned upon adequate security and at a rate of interest which will compel its retirement when the emergency is passed. It demands better regulation of banks and specific security for depositors.

The Taft platform enumerates among its policies the development step by step of popular government in the Philippines. The Bryan platform says: "We favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to recognize the independence of the Philippine Islands as soon as a stable government can be established, such independence to be guaranteed by us as we guard the independence of Cuba, until the neutralization of the islands can be secured by treaty with other powers."

There is agreement upon certain of the policies which the Roosevelt administration is identified, and the Bryan platform, which is much the longer of the two, touches upon subjects not mentioned in the Taft platform. Some of them may lead to partisan controversies, but issue is not likely to be joined over others.

Aldrich Bill Amendments.
The senate passed the Aldrich bill, much amended. Of course, the most important change was the elimination of the provision authorizing the issue of notes based on railroad securities. Other amendments are the increase of the permitted circulation from $250,000,000 to $500,000,000, and requiring the banks to pay interest on government deposits. The reserve provision is better than it originally was, for it is now necessary that of the 15 per cent. reserve required in nonreserve cities four-fifths must be kept in the vaults of the bank, of which amount one-third may be in proper securities. National banks are not permitted to invest their funds in stocks or securities of corporations, the officers or directors of which are officers or directors of the banks.

The amendment offered by Senator Nelson, providing for a guarantee of deposits very much on the line of the scheme proposed by Mr. Bryan, was voted down, and only two Democrats voted for it. The bill finally passed by a vote of 42 to 16, five Republicans voting in the negative. What are the chances of this measure in the house we do not know. In our opinion it has little merit. The idea seems to be that it is necessary to do something, and congress is less afraid of the Aldrich bill than of any other. We believe that it will give little or no relief, when relief is needed, and that it will prove to be only another obstacle in the path of real reform.—Indianapolis News.

Fruit of Republican Rule.
Considering the per capita figures of some other countries it is plain that the average American has no ground for complaint. The 48,000,000 of Austrians and Hungarians have only $9.04 apiece or about one-fourth of the average holding of the American. The 43,500,000 of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland have only $17.58, or about one-half of the American average. Even in prosperous Germany, with its population of 56,400,000, the per capita wealth is but $22.46. The Japanese have each $3.92, Hindus $3.05, while the Chinese, the most numerous of all the peoples of the earth, totaling approximately 330,000,000, possess the minuscule sum of $1.06 apiece. The per capita circulation of the United States is $35.35.

RECKONING MUST BE HAD.

Necessity That President Castro Be Called to Account.

The Venezuelan question is at last before congress. No one will deny that the American government has been careful, deliberate and patient with President Castro and his advisers. No one will charge it with jingoism or spectacularism in connection with this vexed and obscure and complicated question, which, upon analysis, resolves itself into a series of distinct claims and disputes. And no one can doubt that if a greater and more responsible power were involved in this controversy with the United States our government would have acted with far more vigor and far less reluctance and hesitancy. It is, in truth, the weakness and comparative insignificance of Venezuela as a possible opponent of the United States that have caused the latter to overlook various manifestations of "indifference and disrespect" on the part of Castro, and to rely on diplomacy after all its other resources had been exhausted.

It is extremely unpleasant for any powerful, honorable and self-respecting nation to be forced into an open rupture with a minor and reckless power. Some are bound to misinterpret and misrepresent such a situation to the advantage of the "poor, helpless under dog." Yet it is tolerably plain that weakness is no excuse for injustice, unreasonableness and an offensive, contemptuous attitude. Under certain circumstances it may become the painful duty of the big power to discipline and coerce one that merely presumes on its smallness and insignificance.

In the case of Venezuela our government has certainly reached a stage where it must either use some form of coercion or submit to what it believes and feels to be grave injustice to persons and corporations entitled to its aid and protection. Secretary Root has thrice demonstrated his good will toward our neighbors in Central and South America. He has made conspicuously successful efforts to dispel suspicion and prejudice against us and to establish friendly, frank relations among all the nations of the western hemisphere. He is, moreover, an able lawyer and clear-headed statesman. He has earnestly considered every objection Venezuela has advanced to the arbitration that we have proposed to her on several different occasions. He has made all allowances and discounted every claim that was of doubtful equity. Enough, however, remains even in the least meritorious of the claims to demand honest recognition from Venezuela.

Such recognition Castro has contemptuously refused even to consider, and the time has come for appropriate action in the premises on the part of congress. Whatever is done should be done thoughtfully, circumspectly and soberly, however.

Mr. Bryan Saves Himself.
The national Democratic club of New York, through Congressman Sulzer, invited William Jennings Bryan to attend its Jefferson day banquet. Mr. Bryan accepted the invitations and requested that he be the last speaker of the occasion, naming "The Art of Government" as his topic. It then became known that a large element in the club was insisting that, though Congressman Sulzer was authorized to invite Mr. Bryan to attend the dinner, he was not authorized to invite him to speak. And it became known, furthermore, that a large element of the club would insist that Mr. Bryan should be informed that he would be expected to be a listener only.

Out of this misunderstanding a heated controversy arose. Consequently Congressman Sulzer received from Mr. Bryan the following brief but expressive telegram:

"Have withdrawn acceptance. The discussion makes it unwise to go."

Though a man in the very prime and vigor of life, and capable perhaps of as much endurance as any other man of his age in the country, Mr. Bryan, nevertheless, realizes that there are certain strains which he should not voluntarily undergo.

By the exercise of all his will power Mr. Bryan might be able to maintain a dignified silence through much of the speechmaking at this Jefferson day banquet, but he knows that even this would depend altogether upon circumstances over which he could have no control.

If the speeches were friendly to him and to his cause he might, by main strength, succeed in holding himself in his chair, but if, on the other hand, they should contain favorable references to Judge Parker, to Gray of Delaware, or to Johnson of Minnesota, he knows that one of two things would be pretty certain to happen—he would either be on his feet spellbinding the banqueters before they knew it or he would be on the floor in a fit superinduced by a rush of oratory to the head.

At this stage of the campaign Mr. Bryan cannot afford to take any risks. For a man of his habits to sit at a banquet table, listening to half a dozen spellbinders, with the knowledge upon him that the toastmaster would adjourn the gathering without giving him a chance to speak, would be willfully to commit a suicidal act.

Mr. Bryan was wise to withdraw.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Receiver for Democracy.
After Bryan's next nomination for president and his third defeat he will be the logical candidate for receiver of the Democratic party.—Topeka Capital.

The Way of the Transgressor

By J. C. Plummer

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

The steamer Juliet lay in the river off San Nicola, outward bound from Rosario to London. A true specimen of the genus tramp was the Juliet. Run for dividends she was, like her crew, overworked and starved, for if the crew had little to eat, and that had, the poor old craft had so little paint on her sides that great blotches developed as if she had a promising case of eczema.

Forward of the quarter-deck she was a hungry ship. Since the day she had steamed out of Cardiff for Las Palmas the crew had lived on rank beef and petrified Liverpool puddles. At the start three potatoes had been served to each man daily, and when the men en masse petitioned for more the supply had been cut down to two, one, and finally none.

"Faith," said Hennessy, "at home Father John used to preach from a text 'Ask and ye'll receive,' but on this bloody hooker if ye ask ye git less."

Of course there were shore days at Las Palmas and Rosario, but then, after the men had filled up with rum, there was no mopey left for edibles.

What added to the discontent of the crew was that the cabin lived well, and when they saw and sniffed chicken pie, etc., going aft, it made the beef nastier and the biscuit harder.

At Rosario the skipper had bought ten turkeys for cabin delectation. They were in a coop abaft the fiddly

"Ye lee!" thundered Captain McTavish. "Ye ate 'em ye parcel of carrion crows and ye'll be all dead by the night. I'll have the lives of all of ye on my head, ye pair greedy souls."

Then he stalked into the cabin. "I wonder if he means it?" whispered Clark, looking askance at the turkeys in the coop.

"I dunno," replied Hennessy, "but the burrds certainly fook sick."

"Then ye've pizened the whole bloody crew," cried Clark, savagely.

"Ow could I tell the burrds were sick, bein' they come aboard in the night time?" growled Hennessy.

"Faith, I fale sick now!" The sailors stole alarmed glances at the droopy fowls and scowled at Hennessy.

Captain McTavish reappeared on deck, accompanied by the mate, chief engineer and the steward, the latter bearing the medicine chest.

"All hands aft," bellowed the mate. "Eet's a guid thing I found out what ye ha' done," said the skipper, addressing the assembled crew. "I ha' na' call to help men that steal from the sheep, but I'll na' tak the responsibility of the lives of all of ye. Eet's a sair thing to use up all the medicine on the ship, but I'll na' ha' ye dee. How do the men look to ye, Meester Somere?" he said, addressing the mate.

"They look bloomin' sick to me," he replied, wagging his head.

"The disease won't come out on the men before night," put in the chief engineer, with solemnity, "then they'll curl up in a knot and die."

"They will na' dee if I can help it," exclaimed Captain McTavish, "though they don't deserve that I move na' feenger for 'em. Come aft, men, one at a time, and tak' this medicine."

The first man to walk up and swallow a small cup of medicine was Hennessy. Clark and the others followed him.

"Howly saints," groaned Hennessy. "Between the pizen burrude and the medicine I fale that sick I'd as lave be id as alive."

"Eet's a Christian act I have done," cried the skipper as he dosed the last man. "Not a mither's son of ye's fit to dee and I ha' gaeven ye time to repent."

In a quarter of an hour the whole crew was leaning over the rails as sick as a lot of lady passengers on a liner in the first blow. That night the frugal supper of strong beef and stone biscuit went down into thoroughly cleansed stomachs.

The turkeys were removed to a place safe from hungry sailors and sail needles. As soon as the weather became warm the fowls became as gay as crickets and were all eaten in the cabin.

When he left the boat in London Hennessy paused on the wharf and shook his fist at the steamer.

"Bad luck to ye, ye iron pot. If a man asks anything on ye he don't get it, and if he takes it he has to give it up with his own belongins. Bad luck to ye!"

Old Boots Made Valuable.
The Gauls of Paris has been entertaining its readers with a patent leather boot story. It seems that every six months each sewer man of Paris receives a pair of heavy boots. At the end of the period these articles are worthless as far as the original purpose is concerned, but they have actually increased in value. The old boots are sold to the leather dressers, it is said, as the "conditions" under which they have been used make the leather peculiarly adapted for conversion into patent leather for dress shoes.

tube. "If it was rddy?" and finally announced that the savory stew had reached the eating point.

The whole crew ate of the mess, some sneaking to the engine room and carrying portions to those who could not come. Hennessy, especially, ate heartily.

"There's pipper and there's salt in it," he said, between mouthfuls; "but the best flavor ay all is gittin' ahead of the old man."

The next morning the skipper was on deck before sunrise and counted the turkeys. There was a cold wind blowing and the fowls were huddled together in a droopy fashion.

Capt. McTavish eyed them a moment, and then cried out to the steward, loud enough to be heard all over the ship:

"I'm swindled. These turkeys have cholery and that's the reason that dago sold 'em so cheap. Don't cook any of them, steward; they're deadly poison. They'll all dee one after another. I'm swindled."

Then he turned fiercely on Hennessy, who was standing under the bridge.

"Mon!" he cried, "Are ye sure ye did na' eat those turkeys instead of throwing 'em overboard?"

Hennessy glanced at Clark, who was peeping from behind a ventilator, and both looked troubled.

"I troo 'em overboard," said Hennessy faintly.

"Ye lee!" thundered Captain McTavish. "Ye ate 'em ye parcel of carrion crows and ye'll be all dead by the night. I'll have the lives of all of ye on my head, ye pair greedy souls."

Then he stalked into the cabin. "I wonder if he means it?" whispered Clark, looking askance at the turkeys in the coop.

So many disappointments have been experienced in other cities through lack of foresight on the part of patrons to secure seats well in advance, Messrs. Powell and Cohan recommend an early reservation for those who expect to witness "The Yankee Doodle Boy" at the Loveday Opera House the night of Wednesday May 13th. Business has been phenomenal everywhere and the production has scored heavily. Amusement lovers seem to crave an entertainment which contains lots of good comedy, plenty of jingling music catchy songs, a little melodrama and some pathos. "The Yankee Doodle Boy" has all of the above and as a consequence seats are at a premium nightly.

WILSON.

Miss Belle Saunders of Boyne City visited relatives in Alton over Sunday.
Mrs. Elmer Hayner entertained her sister and husband from Boyne City the past week.

Echo Items.

We saw a big bon-fire in our vicinity Tuesday evening. There were forms sitting near—just the place for lovers.
We hear George Scott sold his horses to a Central Lake man.
We hear Steve Bradshaw and family spent a couple of days with his wife's sister, Maggie Scott.
Mr. Pollitt and wife were visitors Sunday at Belkire.
Mr. Fox is moving near Nettleton's Corners for the summer.
Farmers are busy plowing and doing general farm work.
Equity meeting at the Thompson school house Monday night, May 11th. Jess Dingman is helping his brother-in-law, Ed Gill, for a few days. Ed is a hustler.
Fruit trees are being delivered to Batterbee & Pollitt—that looks business like.
We hear Mrs. Hackett is quite sick. The rest of the family are better.
Mr. Hawley and wife were visitors at James Howey's Tuesday evening.
The Equity Supper held at Wm. Bennett's was a success all around. The program was good, also the singing. Many thanks to the young people for their kindness in helping with the program. A fine supper was served by willing hands, also plenty of sugar. A good crowd present and a good time in general enjoyed—especially by the young folks, as they tripped the light fantastic until daylight did appear, each none the worse, only perhaps a little sleepy. Thanks to the Equity ladies. May we see many more names enrolled. We extend to them our hand to help push the A. S. of E. The proceeds netted over $15.50. The Forget-me-not Local Ladies wish to give a vote of thanks to our host and hostess—Mr. and Mrs. Bennett—for opening their home, also to our president for her assistance in the program. May we have many more social gatherings is the wish of the A. S. of E.
We are glad to hear of ladies in other counties who are interested in the Michigan Ladies Society of Equity. May the Lord strengthen them in the good work, is the wish of our sisters of A. S. of E.
Henry Jennette holds the reins over a new team purchased lately.
James Thompson has a good work horse to sell or trade for a driving horse.

A meeting of the Antrim county fair directors was held at Bellaire on Tuesday. It was decided to make extensive repairs this year on the fair grounds, to track, buildings and fences, but not to hold a fair until next year as the time is too short to get ready for it, and then the neighboring fairs have set their dates and there is no open time in which to get horses for the races.

Usual services in Presbyterian church next Sunday morning at 10:30 and evening at 7:30. Everybody welcome. Sunday School at 11:35, Junior C. E. at 3 (upwards of 40 present last Sunday), Senior C. E. at 8:45. It is hoped that members will make special effort to be present in accordance with the terms of the pledge, which are most solemnly binding on all honest hearts.

The installation services of the pastor of the Presbyterian church next Monday evening, the 11th, in the church at 8 standard time, will be open to every one. The moderator of the Presbytery, Rev. W. Sidebottom will preside and deliver the charge to the pastor, Rev. W. Aull of Petoskey will charge the people. Rev. W. Rea of Boyne City will preach the sermon and Rev. J. Ridpath of Petoskey it is expected will offer the installing prayer. Rev. W. Wormser, pastor of the Holland Presbyterian church, South Barnard, has also been invited to be present on this very interesting occasion.

The company presenting Powell & Cohan's comedy-drama with music "Bud Hicks, the Yankee Doodle Boy" is unusually strong vocally. Each principal is a soloist. The result is a singing show of extraordinary merit. There are ten song hits introduced throughout the action of the play and each one is of the "whistling" kind. Special attention has also been given the scenic mounting. The three acts are carried complete—no house scenery being utilized. In every other respect also the production is noteworthy and one of the most enjoyable evenings of the season at the Loveday Opera House will be spent next Wednesday night. Seats on sale now. Prices 15c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

ORNAMENTS FOR MANTEL.
 Staffordshire Ware Leads in Popularity Just Now.
 Mantel ornaments of Staffordshire ware are being collected by women who like the quaint old-fashioned figures in which this china comes. A single piece does not satisfy the average woman. She wants half a dozen or more, while a lucky winner at "bridge" or one who knows where to pick up odd bits of this ware will rejoice in a small army of animals, fat little boys and ruddy cheeked girls. It is a fad to have at least one mantel in one's country house literally packed with Staffordshire figures. There will be cats of every hue, dogs that are fat and woolly and dogs that are lean and spotted, flower-girls, boy peddlers, men, women and horses in this china army, which takes up the whole mantel itself.
 Very little of this Staffordshire ware is really old, yet occasionally one does find a genuine antique. It is imported, however, and it is not common enough to be thresome as yet. The antique shops carry pieces of the new as well as the old, and they are ordering quantities more to meet the demand. The new fad has created. For "bridge" parties Staffordshire ware is a great favorite.

FROM FIVE POUNDS OF VEAL.
 Three Meals and a Fine Soup May Be Prepared.
 Buy a choice five-pound veal roast, cook it as you would a pot roast, boil low, and remove from liquor when tender and brown in the oven. This will make a fine roast for dinner.
 For supper use some nice slices of the cold roast.
 For dinner the second day add to the liquor left from boiling the roast two cups of the meat cut in small bits, one-third package of spaghetti, one onion cut fine, and quart of tomatoes. Season with salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, and tabasco sauce, and thicken with two tablespoonfuls of flour. There should be water added to make two quarts of this mixture.
 For the third day the bone of the roast may be boiled for soup stock. Add one-half cup of rice and few stalks of celery after thoroughly crushing and you will have a most delicate soup.

Kentucky Burgoo.
 A good fellowship dish served at all barbecues so famous in Kentucky: One young chicken, prepared as for frying, two young squabs, one pound lean beef, same of veal and pork, one pint each of corn, peas, lima beans, string beans, potatoes cut in dice, one quart ripe tomatoes, to which add three tablespoonfuls of sugar to correct acid; four green sweet peppers, one-half pod red pepper corn, one tablespoonful salt, one teaspoonful black pepper. Add all to one gallon water, boil hard one hour, remove bones from squab and chicken, then boil slowly for two hours more, stirring frequently to keep from burning. The burgoo, when ready to serve, should have meat and vegetables thoroughly boiled to bits and smoothly mixed to the consistency of a puree. Serve with hot corn dodgers.

Cabinet Pudding.
 Butter a quart mold well with soft butter. Line the bottom with seeded raisins, apricots and citron, cut in fancy shapes. Cover with slices of stale cake, then add another layer of fruit, and so alternate until within two inches of the top. Scald two cupfuls of milk and pour slowly over three well-beaten eggs. Add two tablespoonfuls sugar and a teaspoonful vanilla and pour carefully into the mold. Set in a pan partly filled with cold water and place over the fire until it reaches the boiling point, then cover and set in the oven for an hour. Turn out of the mold and serve with vanilla sauce.

Patty Pancakes for Children.
 Beat to a cream a quarter cupful of butter and one cupful sugar. Beat the yolks of two eggs until lemon-colored and thick, and add to the butter. Have ready a cupful and a half of pastry flour, sifted with a teaspoonful and a half of baking powder, and add, little by little, to the batter, alternating with a half cupful milk, also poured in a little at a time. Flavor with a half teaspoonful vanilla, then lastly fold in the whites of two eggs, beaten stiff. Turn into patty tins, well buttered. Tuck in each one a little Christmas china doll or other favor wrapped in paraffin paper, and bake in a moderate oven. Frost when cold.

Lebkuchen.
 Bring two pounds of honey or good sirup, one-quarter pound butter, one pound sugar, to the boiling-point. Add two teaspoonfuls of baking powder dissolved in water. Allow to cool, add six eggs, one-quarter pound citron, a few ground cloves, some ground cinnamon, one-quarter pound fine cut almonds; at last one pound flour. Work thoroughly, roll out about one-quarter inch thick, put on baking tins and bake slowly, and when warm cut in slices. A frosting can be added if desired.

Marking Linens.
 Curling irons are quite an acceptable substitute for a flatiron when marking linens. After marking the articles heat the irons, but not hot enough to scorch, and press each mark between the irons. A number of linens can be marked without reheating the iron very often.

Washing Ties.
 When washing four-in-hand ties run a basting thread lengthwise through the middle of it, so that the lining will not wrinkle during washing.

THE CALL OF THE SOIL.
 DAYS OF FINANCIAL STRESS MAKE FARM LANDS LOOK RICH.

A staff contributor of a southern newspaper has taken up the question of the return to the farm of many who had forsaken it for the glitter of the city. He says: "It is a well known fact that the history of this Government shows that those men who have been most successful in life and who have left their impress upon its people and its institutions as statesmen, soldiers, financiers—have, as a rule, been those whose youth was spent on the farm, and it is to such as these that there comes with overmastering power THE CALL OF THE SOIL. More especially does it come with redoubled persuasiveness, greater power and sweeter pleading to the man of affairs when the clouds of financial unrest begin to darken the sky; when the cry of panic causes people to lose their wits and act like stampeded cattle; when with reason or without reason there arises before him the specter of ruin, grinning in his face and waving its gaunt arms in threatening gesticulation.
 The pitiable state into which some men were brought by the recent financial flurry, which happily is now passed, suggests these reflections. Some were ruined and a very few became insane because of their losses. Two or three took their own lives.
 It is when such times come that the statesman, the great financier, and the man of affairs becomes tired of the struggle. He lays down his pen, turns from his desk and listens to the CALL OF THE SOIL.
 There are hundreds of cases throughout the United States of those who have money in the banks and are looking for investment in lands. No investment is better or safer. Take, for instance, the lands in Western Canada that can be bought at from $10 to $15 per acre which yield a revenue equal to and often greater than their original cost. Those lands make a certain investment. During the past two months large investments in these lands have been made, some intending to use the lands for farming purposes of their own. Others to resell to farmer friends. The agents of the Government of Canada located at different points throughout the United States have in their possession particulars of districts in which there are free homestead grants of 160 acres each accessible to railways, markets, schools, churches, &c. These are valuable lands. These agents will be pleased to give information to any desirous of securing, and will tell all about the railway rates, &c.

PERHAPS A NATURAL MISTAKE.
 Physician Had Reason to Think He Had Lost His Patient.
 Henry Grimm, who was formerly one of the prominent members of the German-American society, tells a story about a German friend of his who was taken ill.
 For many days the German was close to death, but after a time he showed improvement in condition. The doctor told the German's wife that her husband might have anything to eat that he liked.
 The German expressed a desire for Limburger cheese, and the wife, being a generous woman, and pleased at the improvement, and in order that her husband might have a nibble at any time he had a taste for it, put some cheese in every room in the house. It is easy to imagine the aroma.
 The next morning the doctor called at the house, and as soon as he opened the door he asked:
 "When did he die?"—Hartford Post.

CURE AT CITY MISSION.
 Awful Case of Scabies—Body a Mass of Sores from Scratching—Her Tortures Yield to Cuticura.
 "A young woman came to our city mission in a most awful condition physically. Our doctor examined her and told us that she had scabies (the itch), incontinent paresis, rheumatism, etc., brought on from exposure. Her poor body was a mass of sores from scratching and she was not able to retain solid food. We worked hard over her for seven weeks but we could see little improvement. One day I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and we bathed our patient well and gave her a full dose of the Resolvent. She slept better that night and the next day I got a box of Cuticura Ointment. In five weeks this young woman was able to look for a position, and she is now strong and well. Laura Jane Bates, 85 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y., Mar. 11, 1907."

Machine-Made Proposal.
 Annabel—How queer! Here's a story about a man who made a fortune out of an attachment for a sewing machine.
 Arthur (softly)—That's nothing. I've formed an attachment for the sweetest little sewing machine in the world, and would consider my fortune made if she'd have me. (No cards.)

WHY HIS HORSE WON THE BLUE RIBBON.
 An Amusing Incident at a County Fair That Taught One Horse Owner a Lesson.

At one of the County Fairs held in New York state last Summer the blue ribbon in a certain class of entrants was awarded to a big strapping 6-year-old horse that looked like he could pull a plough or a buggy or run a mile in 1:50 or thereabouts with equal ease. He was a fine looking fellow, stood about 15.3 hands high, and was as sleek as velvet and weighed close on to 1300 pounds. His owner stood by his side after the awarding of the ribbon and was being congratulated as fast as people could reach him. Just then a buggy drawn by a horse that looked like he was ready to lie down and die, drew up in the roadway and the driver hailed to the owner of the blue ribbon. The latter gentleman made his way to the buggy and shook hands with the stranger. "Hello, Frank," says he, "haven't seen you for a mighty long time, but we couldn't have met on a greater occasion. Remember the mare in foal that I bought from you? Well, her colt just won the blue ribbon!"
 "Blue ribbon?" echoed the other man, surprised and apparently thinking of something else.
 "Sure," replied the elated owner, "but by the way, you had a year older full brother to my horse, what became of him?"
 "This is him I'm driving," replied the other man.
 "That!" gasped the first man. Everybody laughed. "Well, what on earth have you done to him?" he asked. "Oh, I guess he's run down," was the answer.
 "Then you ought to do what I did for my horse, give him Pratts Animal Regulator and he'll soon brace up and look like his brother."

It may be mentioned for the benefit of our readers that Pratts Animal Regulator is the favorite with all owners of horses, cows, sheep, hogs and other live stock because it improves the animal's digestion, regulates their bowels, tones up their systems, makes muscle and fat, and gives them new life and spirit. Thousands of users say it is the greatest preventive of animal diseases known.
 In connection with this reference to Pratts Animal Regulator it may be well to suggest to our readers that they send a postal card to the Pratts Food Co., Dept. R, Philadelphia, and ask for a copy of Pratts New Horse Book or Pratts New Cattle Book, New Hog Book or New Sheep Book. Any one of these books will be sent absolutely free of charge, although they formerly sold for 25c each, and the lucky recipient isn't apt to part with any of the books once he realizes its value.

HE COULD BE TRUSTED.
 Youngster "Made Good" Before Temptation Was Put in His Way.
 A train from the north pulled into the station at Charlottesville, Va. An elderly man thrust his head out of a window of a day coach and summoned a little colored boy. The following colloquy ensued:
 "Little boy, have you a mother?"
 "Yassuh."
 "Are you faithful to your studies?"
 "Yassuh."
 "Do you go to Sunday school?"
 "Yassuh."
 "Do you say your prayers every night?"
 "Yassuh."
 "Can I trust you to do an errand for me?"
 "Yassuh."

FROM SUNNY ORANGE GROVES.
 The Twice-Told Experience of a San Bernardino, Calif., Man.
 From Sunny San Bernardino, in the midst of orange groves, writes Lionel M. Heath, of 158 Eighth Street: "For fifteen years I suffered with pains in my back, frequent calls to pass the secretions, dropsy, rheumatic aches and other symptoms of kidney trouble. I could get no relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me five years ago, and this is twice I have publicly said so. The cure was thorough."

A Gardening Nation.
 In Sweden a gift is made once a year to each school pupil of trees or shrubs to be planted about the home. By law each parish must grant a certain amount of land to be devoted to the purpose of school gardens. There are scores of horticultural societies which employ gardeners to give the public free instruction and advice on fruit and vegetable culture. The natural resources of the country are being increased in this way to a wonderful extent.
 Contentment comes neither by culture nor by wishing; it is reconciliation with one's lot, growing out of an inward superiority to our surroundings.—McLean.

Why Suffer?

If you suffer pain from any cause, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will relieve it—and leave no bad after-effects. That's the important thing. Neither do they create a habit. More often the attacks become less frequent, or disappear altogether. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills have no other effect except to relieve pain and quiet nervous irritation.

"We are never without Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. My husband and son, aged 15 were always subject to sick headache until we began using these Pills and they have broken them up entirely. Don't think they have had to use them for six months, few weeks ago I heard an old lady friend was sick. I went to see her. She was down with LaGrippe, and nearly crazy with awful backache. I gave her one of the Anti-Pain Pills and left another for her to take in a short time. They helped her right away and she says she will never be without them again. Last winter my husband was taken with pleurisy on both sides, and I know he would have died if it hadn't been for the Pills. In less than half an hour he was sweating, and went to bed and slept."

WOMEN AND EQUITY.

The following letter is from a lady at Owenton, Ky., to her home paper, Editor News-Herald:

I wish to say a word to the Equity Farmers through the columns of your paper.

"Farmers, you have won the victory; now stand together. If you have anything to sell, sell to an Equity man. If you have anything to buy, buy from an Equity man. Elect Equity men to offices, and see that they are not only bearers of Equity but doers also. The farmer is the most imposed on of any man—yet he is the backbone of the world. Take the farmers out of the world, what would become of the rest of the people? The farmers could rule the world if they would stick together. Let me entreat you once more, stick together."

A Farmer's Wife.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

The following resolutions were adopted at the regular meeting of the Goldenrod Local No. 1 M. L. S. of E. Resolved that we, the members of Goldenrod local, do sympathize with our dear president, Mrs. Lottie Lanaway, in the sad news she received of the death of her loved sister, Mrs. Dorcas Hughes at Peublo, Colo.

Resolved that we bow in submission to our Heavenly Father's will, who saw fit to call this sister, not out of the sunset or twilight of life, but in life's high noon, to her heavenly home, and extend our heartfelt sympathy to the sorrowing friends, and be it further

Resolved that these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our local and a copy sent to Mrs. Lanaway. Mrs. John Hackett, Mrs. Nellie Thompson, Mrs. Nettie Ross, Mrs. Tillie Howey, Committee.

Farewell, dear Dorcas, Thou hast gone before, Wait thou and watch, Upon the celestial shore, For the glad day when we As thou, shall rise, And serve our Master Beyond the Skies.

The Equity ladies met with sister Howey, April 28th. On account of sickness no business was transacted. We enjoyed a pleasant chat and supper prepared by our kind hostess. Adjourned to meet with our sister on Wednesday, May 13th. All members requested to attend.—Nellie Thompson, Sec'y.

It is most gratifying to the friends of Mr. J. A. Everett, founder of the American Society of Equity, that he has won out in his suit against the publishers of the Equity Farm Journal. Each of the defendants are convicted and Mr. Everett's good name cleared.

A Common Error.

The Same Mistake is Made By Many East Jordan People.

It's a common error To plaster the aching back, To rub with liniments rheumatic joints,

When the trouble comes from the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

Joseph Day, living at 702 Lester St. Cadillac, Mich., says: "Five years ago, I had an aching back, pains over the kidneys and across the loins and hips. These pains were so severe at times that I could hardly stoop or lift and had to have assistance at my work. I used plasters, medicines and numerous remedies but none of them helped me. Doan's Kidney Pills acted differently and since first using them I have had no occasion to take anything for the back and kidneys. I am glad to endorse the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills, and have often recommended them to other people whom I have heard complaining of similar annoyances.

Proving It by the Calendar.

In the British museum two men were discussing some Egyptian coins. "Them there," said one, "must be three or four hundred years old." "Three thousand, more likely," replied his companion. "Aw, go on! Why, we're only in 1907 now!"—Everybody's.

Sunday Sickness.

Morbus sabbaticus is a disease peculiar to church members. The attack comes on suddenly every Sunday. No symptoms are felt on Saturday night. The patient sleeps well and wakes feeling well, eats a hearty breakfast, but about church time the attack comes on and continues until services are over for the morning. Then the patient feels easy and eats a hearty dinner. In the afternoon he feels much better and is able to take a walk, talk about politics and read the Sunday papers. He eats a hearty supper, but about church time he has another attack and stays at home. He retires early, sleeps well and wakes up on Monday morning refreshed and able to go to work and does not have any symptoms of the disease until the following Sunday.

Worth Seeing.

Mrs. Walker's cook was trying to make her mistress realize what she had missed by not attending the funeral of a prominent citizen of their village.

"Mis' Fanny," she said, "you sholy orto hev been ther. I ain' nevva seen sech a big furnil in dis desh town. Dantcher know dey hed, all de keridges fum bofe liberty stables, 'mos' all de private conveniences, an' dat new famly from de north was dere in a two horse syringe!"—Lippincott's.

Open Publicity

Insures a fair, square and honest deal. It characterises the policy of Dr. Pierce as relates to the composition of his time-proven and most popular medicines. Their ingredients are on each bottle-wrapper, attested under oath and printed in plain English. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only medicine designed for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments and sold by druggists, the makers of which publish on each bottle-wrapper what the medicine contains.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol, and no narcotics or other harmful or habit-forming drugs, as will be seen from its published ingredients. It contains only such native, medicinal roots as are most highly recommended by leading medical writers and practitioners of all the several schools of practice; for the cure of woman's delicate and peculiar ailments. It is safe for women to take in any condition of the system, as it assists Nature in restoring the healthful action of all the organs distinctly feminine.

Nature's own cure. In fact, "Favorite Prescription" is Nature's own cure for the many derangements and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is advised for no other diseases. If you are a weak, tired, nervous, over-worked, broken-down, pain-racked woman, either young, old or middle-aged, suffering from frequent headaches, backaches, dizziness or fainting spells, gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps see imaginary specks, or dark spots floating before the eyes, have dragging-down or heavy feeling in lower abdomen, or pelvic region, with, perhaps, pelvic catarrh, or other symptoms of functional or organic affections of the distinctly feminine organs, then you will make no mistake if you resort to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The most advanced medical science knows no better agents for the cure of all such diseases than are happily and harmoniously combined in this widely-famed "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce. You can't afford to accept any secret nostrum of unknown composition and of questionable merit as a substitute for this professionally endorsed and time-tested remedy of known composition, simply that some unprincipled dealer may make a little larger profit. Don't expect it to perform miracles but give it a fair, persevering trial and it is not likely to disappoint you. It won't "dissolve tumors"—no medicine will. It will cure a larger percentage of all curable ailments which especially afflict woman than any other medicine sold by druggists for that purpose.

As to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery it has a very large range of application, yet it is by no means recommended as a "Cure-All." It possesses marvelous alterative, or blood-cleansing, properties and is at the same time a most invigorating tonic, or strength-giver. It exerts a specific, cleansing, soothing and healing effect upon all the lining mucous membranes of the system; hence, its great curative value in all catarrhal affections, no matter where located.

In Chronic Nasal Catarrh, it is well to cleanse the passages two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid, while persisting in the use of the "Golden Medical Discovery"

For its blood cleansing and specific curative effects upon the diseased mucous membranes. It will cure a very large per cent. of all cases, even after they have reached the ulcerative, or chronic stage, and no matter of how many years standing they may be. It is equally efficacious in affections of the mucous lining of the larynx, bronchia and respiratory organs in general, thus curing bronchitis, laryngitis and other affections giving rise to obstinate, hang-on coughs. It is not so good in acute coughs following sudden colds, as in the lingering, chronic coughs. Nor must the "Golden Medical Discovery" be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that, but for all obstinate hang-on coughs due to laryngeal or bronchial irritation and kindred affections, of the throat which, if neglected or badly treated, are likely to lead up to consumption, the "Discovery" can be relied upon to produce the best curative results.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is, from its tonic and specific curative control over mucous surfaces, especially efficacious in curing indigestion, dyspepsia, weak stomach and "Liver Complaint," or biliousness. Even ulceration of the stomach and bowels has in thousands of cases been cured by it; also obstinate chronic diarrhoea. In addition to the foregoing, not the least valuable of the marvelously efficacious properties possessed by the "Discovery" is the unequalled regulating and strengthening effect exerted by it over the heart's action. It has made some wonderful cures of very pronounced valvular and other affections of that organ.

The reason why "Golden Medical Discovery" cures so wide a range of diseases is made plain in a booklet sent free on request mailed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. If interested, send for it.

The powerful alternative or blood-purifying properties possessed by the "Discovery" will naturally suggest its use for the cure of blotches, pimples, eruptions; as eczema, salt-rheum, and other skin affections in all of which it has made remarkable cures; also in scrofulous sores and old, open ulcers, or eating sores. To heal the latter, use Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve as a local application, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" to correct the blood and cleanse the system. A box will be mailed to any address on receipt of fifty-four cents in stamps. If your druggist don't have it in stock, address Dr. Pierce, as above.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equalled. Easy to take as candy.
