Schools Close Next Week

With Graduation Exercises

East Jordan Public Schools will hold Commencement Week this coming week. A class of thirteen students will receive their "sheepskins" on Friday night—a double boodoo—which would indicate that the graduates are not at all superstitious. Those comprising the class of 1908, are: Austin Godfrey Sheldon, Bessie Kathel Light, Eoga Berg, Edith Maude Spauts, Estella Elizabeth Sedgeman, Frances Mary Malpass, Flora Moir Porter, Hazel Lovenia Stevens, Ida Mae Phee, Margaret McKay, Myrtle May Ward, Phillis Angle Hurlbert, William Henry Malpass. The class colors are blue and gold; the flower, yellow rose; and their motto, "As the Labor, So the Reward."

The Baccalaureate Address will be given by Rev. Warren W. Lamport, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at the Presbyterian Church, Sunday, May 31st; commencing at 7:30 p. m.

On Wednesday evening, June 3rd, the Juniors will Banquet the Seniors and Teachers at the Russell House.

The Commencement Exercises will be held at Loveday Opera House next Friday evening; June 5th, commencing at 8:15. The address of the evening will be given by Prof. W. N. Ferris of Big Rapids, his theme being "Master Motives." Below is the program for that night in full:

PROGRAM:

A Famous Newspaper Man.

William E. Curtis, the famous correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, writes a two-column letter for his paper every day to the year without intermission. His powers of sustained work are as great a marvel as his faculty of always making his matter interesting.

Probably no other newspaper correspondent in the country is read so regularly and eagerly by so many thousands of men and women as Mr. Curtis. Mr. Curtis has traveled several times around the world, visiting every country under the sun, and writing a large number of brilliant and interesting letters of travel than were ever before produced by a single hand. Many of these have later been reprinted in book form. One of his latest expeditions for the Record-Herald was through Mexico, resulting in a series of letters as entertaining as those he wrote a few years ago from India, Turkey and the Holy Land. His forthcoming letters from Ireland, Russia and Germany will rival in importance and interest any of his previous contributions.

Beginning his career in Chicago as a reporter in 1872, Mr. Curtis rapidly rose to be managing editor. He resigned that position to accept a government appointment as secretary of the South American commission. So brilliantly did he perform the duties of this office that James G. Blaine, Secretary of State, placed him at the head of the Bureau of American Republics. At the world's fair in Chicago he distinguished himself as the executive head of the Latin-American department. He is a member of almost every learned society in Washington and of many in Europe. It is not strange that the Record-Herald prints Mr. Curtis' letter every day in the first column of the front page, and that nothing but a California earthquake can displace it from that station of honor.

Frank H. Dodds for Congress

WELL-KNOWN MT. PLEASANT ATTORNEY A STRONG CANDIDATE.

We are glad indeed of the privilege to make public through the Times this week the candidacy of Mr. Frank H. Dodds of this city for a seat in the national house of congress to succeed Hon. A. B. Darragh. The announcement will be received by Isabella county republicans with enthusiasm, and we have reason to believe that the republicans of Gratiot, Osceola and Missaukee will vie with Isabella in his support. He will also have strong support in Mescocta and Montcalm and all other republicans in the district who desire a capable, worthy successor to Mr. Darragh to represent us in congress will be enthusiastic in his support when they come to know him as thoroughly as we in Isabella.

We are proud to announce his name for the honor because he is a local candidate, but that's not the principal reason; we are proudest because we know he is eminently qualified for the place. He is a man in whom the people of his district can place absolute confidence.

Frank H. Dodds is a capable man naturally, one who can accomplish large things easily, and a man of influence among his fellows. Of a broad education and deliberate in judgment, he is in a general way splendidly equipped for the place. His long legal training and active practice of the law better equips him to solve intelligently the difficult questions that confront our national law makers. He is recognized as one of the ablest attorneys in this part of the state. He is clean morally; honesty and truth are sacred principles of his, and he is exalted in his purpose to serve his fellow men. He deserves the place politically. He has never asked for a public office, but has always been an enthusiastic worker and ready counsellor in the republican party. He is in the pride of his manhood, but well schooled in life's experience, and seeks the place, not so much from selfish motives, as to have opportunity to do hard and persistent work in the cause of his country, state and district.

Mr. Dodds was a candidate before the congressional convention that nominated Mr. Mesick in 1896, lacking but little of nomination, and again in 1900 when Mr. Darragh was nominated he was one of the very leaders and stood as good a chance of nomination as anyone, when he withdrew and turned over his entire support to Mr. Darragh, with whom he has since been on the very best terms.

Perhaps no person in the district has given the tariff question more consideration than Mr. Dodds, and he is particularly qualified along this line. He is a strong protectionist, and will be able to look after the interests of the district—including our sugar industry—in all respects as he should. Mr. Dodds is in the congressional race to stay, and expects to win, and we are with him first, last and all the time.—Central Michigan Times.

Weak women should try Dr. Shoop's Night Cure. These soothing, healing, antiseptic suppositories go direct to the seat of these weaknesses. My "Book No. 4 For Women" contains many valuable hints to women, and it is free. Ask Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., to mail it. Ask the Doctor in strictest confidence, any questions you wish answered. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is sold by James Gidley.

County Normal Notes.

Mayme Scroggie and Alma Francis are teaching language in the second grade in the training room.

Miss Himes, Miss Reed and the normal class visited Miss Meggison who is teaching in the Clark district, Miss Penn of the Black district, and Miss McQueen of the Barnard district. We saw some very good work done.

The class in connection with their study in history and geography are making some large wall maps.

This year Mr. Bryan's political clouds have not even a silver lining.

"Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee imitation ever yet produced. This clever Coffee Substitute was recently produced by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real Coffee in it either. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee is made from pure toasted grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for Coffee. No 20 or 30 minutes tedious boiling. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. Sold by G. L. Sherman & Son.

A Prescription for Constipation

Eminent medical authorities agree that ninety per cent of their patients suffer from ailments due to clogged bowels (Constipation).

The bowels become clogged with impurities and body poisons, causing biliousness, colds, stomach trouble, headache, rheumatism, deranged liver and kidneys, etc.

A Tonic Laxative is prescribed in nearly every case. Those who need a laxative may use this prescription with assurance that no harmful results will follow its use. It has been given to the Public in tablet form and is known as Iron-ox (Laxative Iron-ox Tablets) and are put up in aluminum pocket cases.

The formula is wrapped around the case. The action of each ingredient is explained, that you may understand why Laxative Iron-ox Tablets are the safest Laxative to use; they strengthen the bowels, aid digestion and keep the liver and kidneys healthy and active. We have secured the selling agency for Laxative Iron-ox Tablets and recommend them to our Customers. F. B. Gannett & Co.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the delicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of known composition. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound. If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels.

Making Law

Difficulty of Framing Good Laws Is Enormous

By HON. JAMES BRYCE, British Ambassador to United States.

THE difficulty of framing good laws is enormous, because the work is in most countries no longer the comparatively easy task of repealing old laws which hampered and constrained the citizens—destruction is simple work—but the far harder task of creating a new set of laws which shall guide and help men to attaining the ends they are bent on.

"In God We Trust." The passage by the house of representatives of the bill to restore to the United States coinage the motto "In God we trust" was accomplished by a vote so overwhelming as to be almost unanimous. Five members only out of 260 voted against it.

Power of the Government. The arraignment before a United States district judge in Chicago of 36 men charged with violation of the anti-lottery laws and arrested in different parts of the country recalls the extent of the lottery business until federal laws rigidly enforced put an end to the concerns so far as existence in the United States was concerned.

The prefect of police of Paris has issued an edict barring all hand-organs from the streets. This action has called forth a storm of protest, not only from the organ grinders, of whom there is an army, but from multitudes of residents, young and old, who appear to regard enjoyment of the form of music in question as an inalienable right.

When the American heiress wants to buy a duke she is told to take an American husband and be happy. Divorces in high life at present would seem to prove the case.

All German soldiers must learn to swim. Some of them are so expert that, with their clothing on their heads and carrying guns and ammunition, they can swim several hundred yards.

The demand for a profusion of legislation is inevitable; and the difficulty of having it good, undeniable. In what does the difficulty consist? In three things. First, of those who demand legislation, many do not understand exactly what is the evil they desire to cure, the good they seek to attain.

The task of legislation becomes more and more difficult, owing to the complexity of modern civilization, the vast scale of modern industry and commerce, the growth of new modes of production and distribution that need to be regulated, yet so regulated as not to interfere with the free play of individual enterprise.

Many of the problems which legislation now presents are too hard for the ordinary members and even for the able members of legislative bodies, because they cannot be mastered without special knowledge. (It may be added that in the United States a further difficulty arises from the fact that legal skill is often required to avoid transgressing some provision of the federal or a state constitution.)

The above conditions make it desirable to have some organized system for the gathering and examination of materials for legislation, and especially for collecting the laws passed in other countries on subjects of current importance.

To secure the pushing forward of measures needed in the public interest, there should be in every legislature arrangements by which some definite person or body of persons become responsible for the conduct of legislation.

Bills of a local or personal nature ought to be separated from bills of general applicability and dealt with in a different and quasi-judicial way.

Arrangements ought to be made, as, for instance, by the creation of a drafting department connected with a legislature or its chief committees, for the putting into proper legal form of all bills introduced.

Similarly, a method should be provided for rectifying in bills before they become law such errors in drafting as may have crept into them during their passage.

When any bill of an experimental kind has been passed, its workings should be carefully watched and periodically reported on as respects both the extent to which it is actually enforced (or found enforceable) and the practical results of the enforcement.

In order to enable both the legislature and the people to learn what the statute-law in force actually is, and thereby to facilitate good legislation, the statute law ought to be periodically revised, and as far as possible so consolidated as to be brought into a compact, consistent and intelligible shape.

Man Is a Builder. By REV. THOMAS EDWARD BARR, Milwaukee.

good-will are its cornerstones. Do you square to these?

With what are we building our national house? Liberty and justice, equality and brotherhood, bound the circuit of our national hope.

What kind of a house does your religion make for you? A chamber of horrors, where morbid conscience and unjust authority hold you in terror? An unfenced plain, with the uncharted heavens to guide you over an unknown earth? What are the landmarks of this great estate? Reverence for God and for all that is, because God made it; faith, in the good in men and for men; hope, for the ultimate triumph of right in ourselves and in the world; love, for all God's world, here and beyond the veil of death, specially to help those who need. Does your religion make it easier for you to resist temptation? Does it help you to be brave, worthily ambitious, untiring? Does it make you patient, sympathetic, helpful? Does it bring the unseen and spiritual closer to your consciousness, with the appeal of its supreme, controlling, lasting worth? This is the tabernacle of God, let down out of heaven for each man, and which each may make tangible for himself. In this is the peace that passeth understanding, and joys forevermore.

Four houses? There is a fifth—the house of character. Thought and desire, purpose and experience, weave a tent, the expression of ourselves, which we can never quit and through which we look and work upon the world. What if it be the poisoned shirt of Nessus, tormenting Hercules to his death? What if it be the creative foregleam of the building of God, the house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens? To attain that revelation toil and pain are well worth while.

Thomas Edward Barr

WHAT A WOMAN CAN DO.

She can say "No," and stick to it for all time. She can also say "No," in such a low, soft voice that it means "Yes." She can sharpen a lead pencil, if you give her plenty of time and plenty of pencils. She can dance all night in a pair of shoes two sizes too small for her and enjoy every minute of the time.

SO SILLY OF HIM.

"I've just had my hair shampooed with champagne." "There's always so much sham about girls' heads!"—Chicago Journal.

—Every Time. Few men are there beneath the skies to whom a name is not a prize; but man is only human. His name he will not sell; but when the time arrives, for nothing, then, he'll give it to a woman.

Sounded insulting. Sam—What's d' matter with you and Chloe? Susan—Matter nough. She insulted my friend, Mr. Jackson, what called on me las' night. "Insulted Mr. Jackson, did she?" "Dat's what she done. She asked me who dat 'ere nocturnal visitor was!"—Yonker's Statesman.

Nothing of the Kind. He (fiercely)—We don't need that rug any more than a cat needs two tails. How often have I told you, my dear, never to buy anything because it is cheap? She (with air of one who has got the better of an argument)—But it wasn't cheap, my love; it cost $25.—Royal Magazine.

A Change of Diet. First Moth—How do you do? Where are you living now? Second Moth—Still living in the same old fur-lined overcoat. And you? First Moth—I've had to move. My doctor ordered me to eat nothing but antique orientals, so you'll find me in the rug room.

Brutal. He (embracing)—This is heavenly. She—Ecstatic! He—Seraphic!! She—Divine!!!! He—Celestial!!!! Servant (entering)—Miss Alice, your tripe and onions is ready.

Virtue a Necessity. C—There is one thing for which mankind, I think, deserves credit. Y—What might that be? C—When you think of all the liars we have, there has never been one who claimed positively that he had seen the north pole.

A False Impression. Aunt—See, our dear little Charlie is enjoying the apple auntie gave him—biting first this side, then that—the little rogue. Charley—No, I'm not. I'm doing that to dodge the worm holes in it.—Royal Magazine.

Ripping Times. Gunner—Hot times out at the ball game. The players were slamming balls all the afternoon. Guyer—And how about the bleacher-ites? Gunner—Oh, they were slamming the umpire.—Chicago Daily News.

Instinct. Loanstein—I got a terrible bad cold in my head. Isaac—Why don't you take something for it? Loanstein (absent-mindedly)—How much will you gif me?—Puck.

Both Affected. "I feel all cut up about it," remarked the piece of wood that was badly splintered. "Yes, it gave me a kind of dull feeling, too," said the ax.—Royal Magazine.

Drastic Measures. Springtime Bard—Ah, Miss Rose, what should a young man do when he is keyed up to write spring poetry? Heartless Maid—He should be locked up.—Chicago Daily News.

PROMINENT PEOPLE

"TRUST BUSTER" FOR BENCH

Milton D. Purdy, assistant to the attorney-general, has been nominated by the president for United States judge at Minneapolis, and it remains to be seen whether the local political influence that has been so hostile to him in the past will be able to defeat him now.

It is somewhat remarkable that a man who has made so brilliant a record as a lawyer should have been an indolent, unambitious pupil at school. His father was a potter; he learned the trade himself. He had no ambition to be anything else and would have remained a potter all his life but for his mother, who insisted on his going through the high school and then to the University of Minnesota.

Then came the happiest moment of his life. He was appointed assistant city attorney of Minneapolis at the magnificent salary of $25 a week. He felt that he was indeed wealthy now, and as soon as he could save enough for his wedding clothes he was married. Then he was appointed assistant United States district attorney and succeeded his chief on the latter's death.

CHIP OF THE OLD BLOCK

Charles G. Gates has been "bucking the tiger" in a Rawhide gambling house and come out a winner to the tune of $20,000. Gambling is to Charles as the breath of his nostrils; without it life would be unendurable, if not impossible.

was at this time engaged in many deals of his own and he made enough money by them to buy a partnership in a stock-brokerage firm. At 24 he felt that he had earned a rest, so he gave up business and went traveling for three years. On his return he went into his father's brokerage firm in New York. One day he calmly called a meeting of the partners to tell them how they could make two millions in six months. He proposed a coffee of the corn market, and these men who had been studying the market for more years than young Gates had lived, went in with him. They ran the price of corn from 85 cents up to $1, and then the crash came. It was whispered that the Gates family intended to leave the others stranded on the top of a rapidly falling market, and the partners took fright and pulled out.

The Gates combination does not seem to have lost much, for they were immediately afterward active in other deals. Everything they touched seemed to turn to money until they were caught in the slump of a year ago. Their partners, unable to trust them, got from under and the banks called in their loans. Charles and his father are said to have dropped $40,000,000 at this time. The firm was dissolved and the seat on the exchange sold. Gates and his father proposed to spend a few years in France recuperating, but within a few months they were back in the game again. Charles is now in Rawhide engaged in mining deals.

BLOW TO BRITISH LIBERALS

The worst blow to the British liberals since they have been in power was delivered in the bye-election here, when Winston Churchill, president of the board of trade in the new Asquith cabinet, was defeated for parliament by 423 votes. W. Joynton Hicks, unionist, won, getting 5,417 votes to Churchill's 4,988. Churchill defeated Hicks for the seat two years ago, but under English custom had to stand for re-election when advanced to cabinet rank.

The vote was the heaviest cast in years. Several elements figured in the defeat of Churchill, one of the principal ones being the energetic opposition of suffragettes. English Catholic priests also opposed Churchill. Premier Asquith failed to send the usual letter to a candidate standing because of advancement, and expounding to the voters the necessity of strengthening the government.

Churchill, although but 33 years old, is noted as a war correspondent, soldier, orator and parliamentarian. As under secretary for the colonies, he received the brunt of the criticism of the Natal muddle, wherein the interference of the London office very nearly brought on an open rupture. He is the son of the late Right Hon. Lord Randolph Churchill. His mother was a New York girl, the daughter of Leonard Jerome, famous for his wealth and his horses. He won praise during the Boer war by his gallant defense of an armored train at Cheneley. He was made a prisoner of war during the action, but escaped. He was then but 25 and had gone to the scene of conflict as a war correspondent.

As a writer he has distinguished himself, one of his best works being a description of the sea. He also served in the Spanish army in Cuba in 1895, took part in the later wars in India and won a medal for bravery with Kitchener at the battle of Omdurman.

BOOMING CAUSE OF HUGHES

Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, president of the Hughes league, is busy booming the cause of the New York governor for the Republican presidential nomination.

If Hughes falls the general would like to see the choice fall upon Uncle Joe Cannon who, he says, has prevented more bad or useless legislation from going through than any man in the country. Moreover, he and Uncle Joe entered congress the same year and are exactly the same age, which probably helped to make them the staunch friends they have always been.

Gen. Woodford was born in New York 72 years ago, and was practicing law there more than half a century ago. He was messenger for the famous electoral college of 1860, and was afterward United States attorney for the southern district, which position he threw up to enter the army. At the close of the war he was brevet brigadier-general of volunteers. He was lieutenant-governor of New York in 1866, but was defeated for governor at the following election. He was president of the electoral college in 1872 and a congressman the following year. He has filled some important positions, having been a member of the commission to draft the charter for Greater New York and president of the Hudson Fulton commission. He was United States minister to Spain in 1897, and when the war broke out the following year he returned to the United States and retired into private life, only to emerge once more to boom the candidacy of Gov. Hughes.

CHIEF TOPICS AND SPEAKERS AT CONFERENCE FOR CONSERVATION OF NATURAL RESOURCES

Natural Resources Conference

At the White House May 13, 14, 15

Topics Under Discussion

Some of the Chief Talkers

(All from stereographs, copyright, 1908, by Underwood & Underwood, New York.)

Ingenious news photograph, showing at a glance a most remarkable, epoch-making conference, the first of its kind in the history of civilization. In the center, Mr. Roosevelt. In the inner circle about him, beginning at the top and passing from left to right, are Speaker Cannon, Forestry Chief Pinchot, Postmaster General Meyer, John Hays Hammond, president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, Senator La Follette, Senator Knox and Secretary Root. In the outer circle, beginning at the top, John Mitchell, Seth Low, Samuel Compers, Secretary Cortelyou, Gov. Folk of Missouri, Justice Moody of the supreme court, Gov. Haskell of Oklahoma, Gov. Curry of New Mexico, William J. Bryan, Andrew Carnegie, James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, Gov. Hughes and Gov. Johnson of Minnesota. On the margin are pictured mining, cattle raising, railroading, farming, river transportation, manufacturing, building material and forestry.

When the conference of governors of states and men distinguished in political life of the nation met at the White House in Washington, May 13-14-15, in behalf of the preservation of the country's natural resources, the strangest and, perhaps, the most important convention ever held in the capitol was inaugurated.

Among those invited to attend by President Roosevelt himself were members of the cabinet, judges of the supreme court of the United States, governors of all the states in the union, including the executives of Alaska and Hawaii, and Andrew Carnegie, William Jennings Bryan, James J. Hill, the railroad magnate; John Mitchell, the labor leader, and prominent scientists and business men from all over the country.

Political differences, opposing issues of national questions and business rivalry were laid aside to discuss the ways and means of conserving the natural resources of the country.

President Roosevelt opened the convention with an exposition of the why and wherefore of the conference and an outline of his views of the matter. While on his trip down the Mississippi river last fall, with the governors of 16 states, under the auspices of the Inland Waterways association, he is said to have obtained the nucleus of the idea which resulted in the present conference.

It will be remembered that President Roosevelt on that trip expressed the opinion that the question of the conservation of the natural resources of the country was of more importance than the regulation of the rate question.

A number of papers, prepared at the president's request, were read and discussed.

James J. Hill, the railroad king, spoke on "Relations Between Rail and Water Transportation." His paper dealt with such subjects as the growth of rail transportation, its distribution and extent of systems, cost and present value, traffic and earning capacity, estimated cost of the cultivation of trees for railroad ties and their preservation, increasing railways to meet prospective requirements, etc. Regarding water transportation Mr. Hill dealt with its cost, present facilities, relation to rail transportation, pressing lines of development, regulation by business interests or by law, influence of cheapened transportation on production, etc.

Under the general head of land resources, Prof. T. C. Chamberlain of the University of Chicago, in a paper on "Soil," dealt with its origin, natural products, progressive enrichment, effects of cultivation, erosion, and general estimates of loss to the country through needlessly reduced fertility and decreased production.

The question of "Forests" was expounded by R. A. Long, president of the Long-Bell Lumber company of Kansas City, Mo., who explained their early use and destruction, present extent and value, rate of consumption, estimated duration, prospective prices of forest products, the influence of forests on soil, ground water and springs, rivers, floods and low water, waterway improvement and navigation, and the relation between forest control and crop production, commerce and population.

Dr. George W. Kober of Washington in a paper on "Sanitation" spoke of the development of systems of community water supply, relation between purity and clarity of water for community supply, mortality and disease due to impure water, and the action required in the interests of the public health.

"Reclamation," by Hon. George C. Pardee of Oakland, Cal., dealt with the extent of arid and semi-arid regions, development and extent of irrigation, growth of concepts concerning water-rights and water as a basis of property, influence of irrigation on production, commerce, population, consumption of water and other resources, reclamation and stream control by drainage, and extent of swamp and overflow lands and increased value available by drainage, protection and flood prevention.

Judge Joseph H. Carey of Cheyenne, Wyo., in a paper on "Land Laws," dealt with their early policy of disposal, transfer under state charters, especial grants, etc., development, effect of creation of national parks, forests and other reserves, advantages of making this a nation of homes and home owners, state and federal action required, etc.

Hon. H. A. Jastro, president of the National Live Stock association of Bakersfield, Cal., delivered a paper on "Grazing and Stock Raising." He treated on the development of the industries in the United States, their extent and value, grazing in the arid and semi-arid regions, methods and results, comparative cost and profit and relation between stock raising and commerce.

Under the general head of mineral resources, Dr. I. C. White, state geologist of West Virginia, in speaking of mineral fuels, dealt with the coal fields of the United States, methods of mining, losses in mining, estimated duration of present methods of mining and use, improvements in mining and use, connection with coal production and transportation, relation between coal and other resources, petroleum and rock gas and possible substitutes for fuel.

Andrew Carnegie spoke on "Ores and Related Minerals," their production in the United States, price, estimates of available quantity, duration of supply, processes of mining and quarrying and probable consequences of exhaustion of standard minerals.

On May 12 President Roosevelt entertained at dinner the cabinet, the members of the supreme court, the governors and the other more distinguished guests. Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forestry division, gave a reception to the governors and the Inland Waterways association on May 14. On the afternoon of May 15 Mrs. Roosevelt gave a garden party on the White House grounds for all the delegates to the convention. At the various hotels in Washington arrangements were made for smaller receptions and dinners.

All of the governors who accompanied President Roosevelt on his Mississippi river trip last fall were present. They are: Comer of Alabama, Broward of Florida, Deneen of Illinois, Cummins of Iowa, Hock of Kansas, Blanchard of Louisiana, Folk of Missouri, Shelton of Nebraska, Cury of New Mexico, Burke of North Dakota, Fryant of Oklahoma, Chamberlain of Oregon; Davidson of Wisconsin and Brooks of Wyoming.

That the conference attracted world-wide interest was evidenced by the fact that many of the foreign diplomats at Washington followed the affairs of the convention closely.

Those who were in close touch with the conference arrangements declare they have never known another movement which has been greeted with such quick and enthusiastic popular approval.

An indication of public opinion was afforded by the great mass of correspondence which poured into the White House on this subject. Organizations of all sorts expressed realization of the greatness of the enterprise.

That conservation of national resources is nothing about which the political parties wish to raise an issue is indicated by the attitude of the Democratic leaders. Both William J. Bryan and Gov. John A. Johnson, leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, wrote to President Roosevelt, expressing their approval. Equally emphatic endorsement, it is understood, has been voiced by Grover Cleveland. Mr. Bryan's letter to the president read: "I greatly appreciate your kind invitation and shall take pleasure in attending the conference on the conservation of natural resources. I am, I beg to assure you, in hearty sympathy with the purpose of the conference, and I have no doubt that the discussion of the subject will be very helpful to us all."

Gov. Johnson's letter read: "To assure you that I heartily agree with your conclusion that the conservation of the natural resources of our country presents a problem demanding the best thought of our times is superfluous. We have been exploiting our resources with no thought of the morrow, and the claims of posterity upon us should certainly be taken into account."

In his letter of invitation to the conference President Roosevelt said: "There is no other question now before the nation of equal gravity with the question of conservation of our natural resources, and it is the plain duty of us who, for the moment, are responsible, to take inventory of the natural resources which have been handed down to us, to forecast the needs of the future, and so handle the great sources of our prosperity as not to destroy in advance all hope of the prosperity of our descendants."

The need for such a conference is illustrated by a few facts vouched for by investigators. Government experts say that between 300,000,000 and 400,000,000 tons of coal were lost in 1906 by penny wise and pound foolish methods, and that the total so wasted since the beginning of the industry is 50,000,000,000 tons. Millions upon millions of horsepower are going to waste through failure properly to utilize and conserve the waterpower of the United States.

The construction of reservoirs at the sources of streams in which flood waters may be stored to be released at periods of low water is expected not only to keep the waters at a continuous level, but prevent the destruction of property by floods, maintain constant levels for navigation and to develop water power.

At the present rate of timber consumption it is estimated that the price of every kind of lumber will be about double the present price only one decade from to-day.

It is said that the total iron ore available in the world to-day is 25,000,000,000 tons, of which three-fifths is in the United States. Should the rate of consumption continue to increase in the United States in the same ratio that it has in the course of the last score of years, at the end of two centuries there would be no more ore to be mined.

In the United States there is an area of 175,000,000 acres of land susceptible to reclamation by irrigation, and 500,000,000 acres of western public range which may be made available for increased production of meat by restricting the grazing and reseeded portions which have been destroyed by unrestricted grazing. With this area made available once more, it is estimated that its meat producing capacity will be nearly doubled.

NEEDS OF THE NAVY

TWO BATTLESHIPS TO BE ADDED TO FLEET.

President's Recommendation That Four Be Constructed This Year Not Heeded by Congress—Avoids Rivalry with Other Nations.

The senate concurred with the house in limiting to two the number of battleships to be authorized this year. The president was insistent that there should be four. Congress, which holds the purse strings, would only grant the smaller number. That ends the matter for the time being. If the majority in congress could have been brought to believe that the two additional ships would be an effectual insurance against war it would have voted them in spite of the fact that expenses are outrunning receipts and that economy is highly expedient. The majority did not agree with the president as to the need of so much insurance. The coming years will determine whether it or the president was the wiser.

There is a belief which perhaps is not ill founded that the result of this year's contest over battleships will be an annual provision for two ships, thus doubling the program of recent years. In 1906 only one battleship was authorized; ditto in 1907. It would take too long if the program of a ship a year were adhered to, to provide substitutes for the smaller battleships still in commission; which were constructed several years ago. Those battleships do not compare favorably with the huge ones which are being constructed nowadays, and should not be counted in the same class with them.

The needs of the navy are not restricted to battleships. It requires more and better armored cruisers, torpedo boats, and torpedo boat destroyers and submarines. It needs more colliers and all the other paraphernalia of a complete fleet. The appropriations for these different vessels and for the sailors to man them will add to the bulk of future appropriation bills, but they will be necessary expenses.

The special naval activity of one country almost inevitably sets the pace for others. If a foreign nation with which there appeared to be any danger of the United States coming into collision were to set about increasing its naval force at an unusual rate congress would change its present policy and proceed to build ships on a more extensive scale. On the other hand, if the United States were suddenly to expand its program of naval construction in a marked degree, other nations, uncertain as to the purpose, would hasten to insure themselves by adding more vessels to their fleets. That would be an unwholesome rivalry which should be avoided for the sake of the taxpayers.—Chicago Tribune.

Testimonial to American Navy. Some of the criticism that has lately been directed against the navy may have come from sincere, conscientious but timid men, though most of the critics seem to be constitutionally unfitted to see good in anything.

If there are any persons who are really convinced that our battleships are inferior they should listen to what Sir William Henry White has to say. Sir William was for nearly 20 years responsible designer of all British warships, and the purchase of two of his designs was the foundation of the present American navy, for from those designs the Charleston and the Baltimore were built.

According to this good authority, we have naval architects as capable as any in the world, and our shipbuilding yards are quite equal to any in Great Britain. The result is that, in Sir William's opinion, the United States has a fleet that, ship for ship, is as good as anything the world contains and, next to the British navy, is the most formidable in existence.

This testimonial from a man who knows what he is talking about should more than offset the vapors of amateurs who assert that the American navy would be unable to repeat the glorious exploits of Manila and Santiago if we were opposed by a first-class power.

Let Us Have Action. We would once more urge upon congress the great necessity for emergency currency legislation at this session. The commission idea is a good one, but it provides no suitable substitute for immediate action. The commission project should be regarded as something supplementary. It should follow the passage of a law that will satisfy the public mind that the country has protective legislation that it did not have last fall. The mere existence of such a law would serve to establish confidence and so to prevent panics.

It is obvious also that a postponement at this stage will be discouraging to all schemes of currency reform if we should be so fortunate as to pass into a new era of confidence and indifference. The subject awakens the greatest possible interest now because the memory of the last panic is so fresh. Delay will lead to delay. Lacking the powerful pressure of the present time, politicians and financial experts will be the more inclined to emphasize their disagreements and reject compromises. They may even quarrel over a commission's report and then sink into a comatose state until the next big jolt comes.

Let us have action now, and later we can argue about reports indefinite and in comparative safety.

TREATY WITH GREAT BRITAIN.

Arbitration Compact Probably Good for Both Countries Concerned.

The senate ratified the arbitration treaty with Great Britain, though it had received many vigorous protests which were intended to prevent ratification. The treaty resembles in its general terms one that has been negotiated with France, but contains two provisions all its own. One of these is that the special agreements that are made according to its terms shall not be binding upon Great Britain before they are binding upon the United States. This stipulation is due to the intervention of our senate as part of the treaty-making power, which may cause delay, and if the present British suggestion is a novel one it will be seen that it is a perfectly natural one and that it would merely put the two countries on even terms. The second provision to which we have referred relates to the self-governing British colonies. Before Great Britain undertakes to arbitrate a question in which any of these colonies is concerned she must by the terms of the provision first secure the concurrence of the colony affected.

Turning now to the general features of the treaty, we find that no startling advance with the principle of arbitration is proposed. The problems to be submitted at The Hague are only such as relate to differences of a legal nature that cannot be satisfactorily settled through the usual diplomatic channels. Furthermore, each power may decide for itself whether a subject under discussion is proper for submission or not, which is to say that in the United States the government may act as it sees fit. But we have no doubt that the machinery that is provided in the treaty will steadily encourage resorts to arbitration and that every such means for preventing international misunderstandings and promoting peace will have the strong and increasing support of public sentiment.

As to risks there need be no fears, for governments move very cautiously in these matters. Differences affecting the vital interests, independence or honor of the contracting powers are outside the range of the treaty.

The Panama Canal.

Secretary Taft goes to the isthmus of Panama presently to see how work on the canal is getting along and to look after some little matters that need attention. The trip ought to be a welcome diversion from banqueting and speechmaking, and the report which he will make after his return should give the public some idea of the progress which is being made in the construction of the canal. Every month or so there appears a statement from the chief engineer telling how many cubic yards of earth have been removed, but these statements do not mean much to the average American, who finds it hard to remember how many yards still remain to be moved.

For several weeks nothing friendly or unfriendly has been said about canal affairs. The last bit of adverse criticism was Mr. John Bigelow's pamphlet, in which he condemned the present plan of construction in every particular and drew the gloomiest picture of the length of time and hundreds of millions in money that would be required to carry out that plan.

Nobody connected with the canal has made any reply to Mr. Bigelow's charges and predictions. Little notice was taken of them by anybody, partly because it was assumed that Col. Goethals knows more about the subject than a man who has a reputation as a publicist but is not an expert in canal construction and has no personal knowledge of conditions on the isthmus. When Secretary Taft gets back he may make a comprehensible report that will let the public know what has been done, what there is to do, and whether the earlier estimates as to the length of time it will take to complete the canal or the money that will be needed should be modified in any particular.

A Change of a Word.

It requires but a little effort of the memory to recall how the gentle and benign McKinley was denounced as tyrant and imperialist by the frantic anti who worked themselves into a fury over the retention of the Philippines. The madness spread over several years, breaking out in public meetings, in numerous books and in countless petitions, and a large part fell upon Roosevelt. But it passed, as such things do.

Now the cry is executive usurpation. Some of the extremists in congress and in Democratic and Populist conventions are arraying their strongest adjectives in trying to show how Roosevelt had overridden the constitution and taken to himself all the powers of the three branches of government. It is amusing how angry they seem to get when, as a matter of fact, nobody is angry at all.

This is the gain we have made. The anti-imperialists were really sincere. The executive usurpationists are Pickwick.—Baltimore-American.

The Question in Illinois.

What has been done to Sullivan—or to Bryan—in the meanwhile that he who was once obnoxious should now be acceptable? The Nebraska statesman, according to all accounts, is as severely pure as ever. Sullivan, for all we know or can see or hear, is as tough as ever. We cannot be sure that he was ever an anti-Bryan man. We must assume, therefore, that he signed in methods and details, and it is obvious that Bryan has forgiven him. But why? That is and remains the question.—New York Sun.

A Pioneer Gone.

Mrs. Elizabeth Welkel died at her home on Main St. early Monday morning after an illness of three weeks. The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from her residence, conducted by Rev. A. D. Grigsby, with interment in the East Jordan cemetery.

The death of "Grandma" (as she was affectionately called) Welkel removes from our midst one of East Jordan's earliest pioneers. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Caherman and she was born in Union county, Pa., Nov. 15th, 1826. She was united in marriage to Jesse Welkel in 1842 and they came to South Arm in 1867 and located a homestead on Section 14.

In 1877 her husband, since deceased, built the River Jordan House (now Russell House) which they conducted until his death.

Four children were born of the union three of whom survive, viz: Howard of this village, W. J. of Charlevoix, and Mrs. Mary Jones of Sacramento, Cal.

WILSON.

Summer weather at last. 94 degrees in the shade last Monday.

Miss Beryl Isaman visited in Afton over Sunday.

Jason Lewis has exchanged his house and lot for a team and will try farming again this summer.

Miss Natalie Liscom who has been stopping at George Jacquet's for a few weeks returned home last Saturday.

Mrs. Will Nowland and baby of Charlevoix are spending this week with relatives and friends in this place.

County Clerk Lewis came up from Charlevoix Saturday evening, attended Wilson Grange and visited friends in this vicinity over Sunday.

Mrs. Malcolm Ellis and children started south Monday morning for a weeks visit with relatives near Grand Rapids.

During the severe wind storm last Monday Elmer Hayner's horse stable was nearly demolished but strange to relate his horses that were inside were not injured in the least.

The Misses Stella and Mabel Shepard and Mrs. Fred Shepard came down from the north last Sunday for a visit with relatives in Wilson.

Regular session of Wilson Grange last Saturday evening. The third and fourth degrees were conferred on four candidates followed by a short program and a bountiful supper. Lecturer announced that for the next meeting the literary program would consist of a spelling match. Let every Granger come and take part. The second Saturday in June.

Echo Items.

Mrs. Wm. Bennett has a brother, Duncan Barus, visiting her from the north.

May is nearly gone, the pleasantest month in the year.

Fruit trees are arrayed in their robes of white.

Ethel Vance spent Sunday with her parents.

A daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McMillan on Saturday last.

Mrs. James Thompson and daughter, Mrs. Politt, visited at the Elston Hotel, on Thursday last, where the latter's daughter Hazel is working. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. Stankey and were detained for supper.

The youngest son of Edson Politt fell from a tree and broke his left arm. Dr. Ramsey set it and at this writing the arm is doing fine.

Mr. Howey was at the A. S. of E. meeting at the Thompson School House. Glad to see our brother with us again.

Mrs. Hackett is improving. We will be glad to have her with us at our meetings as we miss our sister.

Mrs. James Thompson has purchased a driving horse of Loser Bros. Crops are being hustled into the ground these days.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who so kindly gave their assistance during the death and burial of our beloved mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Walsh.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY BARKER.

A change was made by the last legislature in the dates for holding the meetings of township boards of review. Formerly they were held in May, but now the first meeting will be held on the Tuesday after the first Monday of June and the second meeting will be held on the Monday following.

Instructors for 1908-09.

Final arrangements were made by the School Board this week for the corps of teachers for this coming school year. Supt. Fuller, who has been with us for three years, has proven himself a capable man for the position and we are fortunate in having him remain with us another year. Below is the list in full, the names preceded by a (*) indicating new instructors.

H. H. Fuller, Superintendent.
*Albertha Roelofs, Prin. High School, English.
*Ruby Carlton, Latin and German.
Lulu Babcock, Algebra.
Millie A. Comstock, Music and Drawing.

*Catheryn Dolan, Seventh and Eighth Grades.
*Lou A. Rice, Sixth Grade.
Mrs. Ethel Stanford, Fifth Grade.
Jessie Lewis, Fourth Grade.
Susan Walsh, Third Grade.
Alice Horton, Second Grade.
*Martha Freiberg, Primary.
Miss Vida Collins is next year an instructor in the University of Illinois. Miss Roelofs, who takes her place is a graduate of the University of Michigan and comes highly recommended.

Miss Anna Brady will next year be principal of the Constantine, (Mich.) schools. Miss Ruby Carlton, who succeeds her here is a graduate of Olivet College.

Miss Marion Calaghan goes as principal of the Boyne Falls schools next year, and Miss Catheryn Dolan, who taught the Sixth the past year will fill the vacancy. Miss Lou A. Rice, teacher of the Chaddock Dist. school for several years past, will instruct the Sixth.

Miss Martha Freiberg, who will have charge of the kindergarten is a graduate of the kindergarten department of the Ferris Institute, and we understand is a first class instructor. Miss Severson intends to take up the study of stenography with a view of teaching same.

Central State Normal Year Book.

This office has just received the Year Book of the Central State Normal School of Mt. Pleasant, Michigan, for 1908. This book of 130 pages of printed matter, cuts of buildings, views of grounds, etc., contains all the information necessary for those who are planning to enter that institution. The school offers courses leading to the life certificate, the graded school certificate, and the rural school certificate, as well as special courses in music, drawing, kindergarten, manual training and domestic science, all leading to certificates of qualification to teach these subjects in the public schools. Graduates from the school are practically sure of good positions as the call for normal trained teachers far exceeds the supply. The school has three fine buildings and a new physical training building costing $50,000 is now in process of construction. During the past year over one thousand different students have been enrolled and about two hundred will graduate from the different courses. Any one desiring a copy of the new Year Book can have it sent, free of cost, by addressing the Principal or the Secretary of the School.

Mrs. Florence Jepson is receiving a visit from her only brother, Eugene Alexander of Syracuse, N. Y. A very remarkable feature of this visit is that they have not seen each other for thirty-five years, Mrs. Jepson being at the time only a slip of a girl. As the average of human life is 33 years, it may be truthfully said that they have been separated a life-time.

Upon complaint of J. B. Eddy, Dap's game and fish warden, John Coffey of Manistique, a wholesale fish dealer of that place was arrested for having in his possession white fish under two pounds. As the case could not be tried in the same county that the alleged offense was committed in, the case was brought before Justice F. E. Boosinger, Thursday. Mr. Coffey waived a jury trial and the Justice found him guilty, fining him $100 and costs. Mr. Coffey immediately appealed the case and he was released on a recognizance bond of $200. We understand Mr. Coffey intends to test the case in the supreme court.

One of the pleasant functions of the week end was a surprise party tendered Mrs. Mary Kenyon-Roy by about thirty of her friends, on Friday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Kenyon. It was an informal social time in which a lunch was served as a feature of the enjoyable afternoon.

The Memorial Exercises at the Methodist church Sunday morning were said by many to be the most pleasing in a good many years. The decorations with flowers and bunting were fine and reflected credit on the ladies in charge, also the music furnished by the choir. Rev. M. Grigsby of the Presbyterian church based his sermon on the feast of Purim, observed by the Jews in commemoration of their deliverance from the plot of Haman. His address was appropriate and full of interest and was well received by the audience. Members of Stevens Post G. A. R. and of the W. R. C. were present in a body and were given hearty greetings at the close of the service.

It was a very pleasant afternoon that a number of our citizens availed themselves of by visiting the school exhibit at the Central School House on Wednesday. One could readily see by starting in at the kindergarten and on up through the grades what progress had been made. Everyone was cordially greeted by the teachers. The work, which was the regular course of study and not work done for the occasion, was very nicely explained by them. There was an exhibit from the Jordan River School of raffia and clay work which was also interesting.

Mrs. D. C. Loveday entertained Thursday afternoon in compliment of Mr. Loveday's sister, Mrs. A. R. Cockrell of San Diego, California. The rooms were made additionally beautiful with pointed plants in bloom and cut flowers. The guests numbered about fifty. Mrs. E. A. Jefferies and little son, Robert Ellison Jefferies of Charlevoix were among the number. The hours from 2:30 to 5:00 were pleasantly passed in a social way with now and then a stitch on some dainty bit of work. Mrs. W. A. Loveday assisted in receiving the guests. Mrs. Jefferies and Eugenia Boosinger served the dainty repast.

SYNOPSIS.

Giles Dudley arrived in San Francisco to join his friend and distant relative Henry Wilton, whom he was to assist in an important and mysterious task, and who, according to Dudley, was a ferry boat trip into the city. The remarkable resemblance of the two men is noted and commented on by passengers on the ferry. They saw a man with snake eyes, which sends a thrill through Dudley. Wilton postpones an explanation of the strange circumstances until a later time, but occurrences cause him to know it is one of no ordinary meaning. Wilton leaves his friend and shoots any one who tries to enter. Outside there is heard shouts and curses and the noise of a quarrel. Henry rushed in and at his request the roommates quickly exchange clothes and he hurries out again. Hardly has he gone than Giles is startled by a cry of "flee!" and he runs out to find some one being assaulted by a half dozen men. He summons a policeman but they are unable to find any trace of a crime. Giles returns to his room and finds for some evidence that might explain his strange mission. He finds a map and a note which explains to Dudley the puzzling work he was to perform in San Francisco. In order to discover the secret mission his friend had entrusted to him, Dudley continues his disguise and permits himself to be known as Henry Wilton. Dudley, mistaken for Wilton, is employed by Knapp to assist in a stock brokerage deal. "Dicky" takes the supposed Wilton to Mother Barton's. Wilton, the detective, observes that he is not Mother Barton, who makes a complaint of him. He can tell nothing about the mysterious boy further than that it is Tim Terrill and Dicky Meeker who are after him. He is told that "Dicky" is a traitor, playing both hands in the game. Giles finds himself locked in a room. He escapes through a window. This episode causes Dudley to be suspicious of his work with Doddridge Knapp. He has his first experience as a capitalist in the Board of the Stock Exchange. Dudley receives a letter from Knapp, the forgery of which he readily detects. Dudley gets his first knowledge of Knapp, who is Knapp's enemy on the Board.

CHAPTER XI.—Continued.

The call closed amid animation; but the excitement was nothing compared to the scene that had followed the fall in the morning. Omega stood at eighty asked, and seventy-eight bid, and the ship of the stock gamblers was again sailing on an even keel.

The session was over at last, and Wallbridge and Eppner handed me their memoranda of purchases.

"You couldn't pick Omega off the bushes this afternoon, Mr. Wilton," said Wallbridge, wiping his bald head vigorously. "There's fools at all times, and some of 'em were here and ready to drop what they had; but not many. I gathered in six hundred for you, but I had to fight for it."

I thanked the merry broker, and gave him a check for his balance.

Eppner had done better with a wider margin, but all told I had added but three thousand, one hundred shares to my list. I wondered how much of this had been sold to me by my employer. Plainly, if Doddridge Knapp was needing Omega stock he would have to pay for it.

There was no one to be seen as I reached Room 15. The connecting door was closed and locked, and no sound came from behind it. I turned to arrange the books, to keep from a bad habit of thinking over the inexplicable.

An hour passed and no Doddridge Knapp. It was long past office hours. Just as I was considering whether my duty to my employer constrained me to wait longer, I caught sight of an envelope that had been slipped under the door. It was in cipher, but it yielded to the key with which Doddridge Knapp had provided me. I made it out to be this:

"Come to my house to-night. Bring your contracts with you, Knapp."

I was thrown into some perplexity by this order. For a little I suspected a trap, but on second thought this seemed unlikely. The office furnished as convenient a place for homicidal diversions as he could wish, if these were in his intention, and possibly a visit to Doddridge Knapp in his own house would give me a better clue to his habits and purposes, and a better chance of bringing home to him his awful crime, than a month together on the Street.

The clocks were pointing past eight when I mounted the steps that led to Doddridge Knapp's door. I had something of trepidation, after all, as I rang the bell, for I was far from being sure that Doddridge Knapp was above carrying out his desperate purposes in his own house, and I wondered whether I should ever come out again, when I had behind those massive doors. I had taken the precaution to find a smaller revolver, "suitable for an evening call," as I assured myself, but it did not look to be much of a protection in case the house held a dozen ruffians of the Terrill brand. However, I must risk it. I gave my name to the servant who opened the door.

"This way," he said quietly, and in a moment I was ushered into a small, plainly-furnished room; and at a desk covered with papers sat Doddridge Knapp, the picture of the Wolf in his den.

"Sit down, Wilton," said he with grim affability, giving his hand. "You won't mind if an old man doesn't get up."

I made some conventional reply.

"Sorry to disappoint you this afternoon, and take up your evening," he said, "but I found some business that needed more immediate attention. There was a little matter that had to be looked after in person." And the Wolf's fangs showed in a cruel smile, which assured me that the "little matter" had terminated unhappily for the other man.

I airily professed myself happy to be at his service at any time.

"Yes, yes," he said; "but let's see your memoranda. Did you do well this afternoon?"

"No-o," I returned apologetically. "Not so well as I wished."

He took the papers and looked over them carefully.

"Thirty-one hundred," he said reflectively. "Those sales were all right. Well, I was afraid you couldn't get above three thousand. I didn't get more than two thousand in the other Boards and on the Street."

"That was the best I could do," I said modestly. "They averaged at sixty-five. Omega got away from us this afternoon like a runaway horse."

"Yes, yes," said the King of the Street, studying his papers with drawn brows. "That's all-right. I'll have to wait a bit before going further."

I bowed as became one who had no idea of the plans ahead.

"And now," said Doddridge Knapp, turning on me a keen and lowering gaze, "I'd like to know, what call you have to be spying on me?"

I opened my eyes wide in wonder.

"Spying? I don't understand."

"No?" said he, with something between a growl and a snarl. "Well, maybe you don't understand that, either." And he tossed me a bit of paper. I felt sure that I did not. My ignorance grew into amazement as I read. The slip bore the words:

"I have bought Crown Diamond. What's the limit?" Wilton.

"I certainly don't understand," I said. "What does it mean?"

"The man who wrote it ought to know," growled Doddridge Knapp, with his eyes flashing and the yellow-gray mustache standing out like bristles. The fangs of the Wolf were in sight.

"Well, you'll have to look some where else for him," I said firmly. "I never saw the note, and never bought a share of Crown Diamond."

"Doddridge Knapp bent forward and looked for an instant as though he would leap upon me. His eye was the eye of a wild beast in anger. If I had written that note I should have gone through the window without stopping for explanations. As I had not written it I sat there coolly and looked him in the face with an easy conscience.

"Well, well," he said at last, relaxing his gaze, "I almost believe you."

"There's no use going any further, Mr. Knapp, unless you believe me altogether."

"I see you understand what I was going to say," he said quietly. "But if you didn't send that, who did?"

"Well, if I were to make a guess, I should say it was the man who wrote this."

I tossed him in turn the note I had received in the afternoon, bidding he sell everything.

The King of the Street looked at it carefully, and his brows drew lower and lower as its import dawned on him. The look of angry perplexity deepened on his face.

"Where did you get this?" I detailed the circumstances.

The anger that flashed in his eyes was more eloquent than the outbreak of curses I expected to hear.

"Um!" he said at last with a grim smile. "It's lucky, after all, that you had something besides cotton in that skull of yours, Wilton."

"A fool might have been caught by it," I said modestly.

"There looks to be trouble ahead," he said. "There's a rascally gang in the market these days." And the King of the Street sighed over the dishonesty that had corrupted the stock gamblers' trade.

I smiled inwardly, but signified my agreement with my employer.

"Well, who wrote them?" he asked almost fiercely. "They seem to come from the same hand."

"Maybe you'd better ask that fellow who had his eye at your keyhole when I left the office this noon."

"Who was that?" The Wolf gave a startled look. "Why didn't you tell me?"

"He was a well-made, quick, litho fellow, with an eye that reminded me of a snake. I gave chase to him, but couldn't overhaul him. He squirmed away in the crowd, I guess."

"Why didn't you tell me?" he said in a steady voice.

"I didn't suppose it was worth coming back for, after I got into the Street. And, besides, you were busy."

"Yes, yes, you were right; you are not to come—of course, of course."

The King of the Street looked at me curiously, and then said smoothly: "But this isn't business." And he plunged into the papers once more.

"There were over nine thousand shares sold this afternoon, and I got only five thousand of them."

"I suppose Decker picked the others up," I said.

The King of the Street did me the honor to look at me in amazement.

"Decker!" he roared. "How did you—?" Then he paused and his voice dropped to its ordinary tone. "I reckon you're right. What gave you the idea?"

I frankly detailed my conversation with Wallbridge. As I went on, I fancied that the bushy brows drew down and a little anxiety showed beneath them.

TO LIKE TO KNOW WHAT CALL YOU HAVE TO BE SPYING UPON ME?

I had hardly finished my account when there was a knock at the door, and the servant appeared.

"Mrs. Knapp's compliments, and she would like to see Mr. Wilton when you are done," he said.

I could with difficulty repress an exclamation, and my heart climbed into my throat. I was ready to face the Wolf in his den, but here was a different matter. I recalled that Mrs. Knapp was a more intimate acquaintance of Henry Wilton's than Doddridge Knapp had been, and I saw Niagara ahead of my skull.

"Yes, yes; quite likely," said my employer, referring to my story of Wallbridge. "I heard something of the kind from my men. I'll know tomorrow for certain, I expect. I forgot to tell you that the ladies would want to see you. They have missed you lately." And the Wolf motioned me to the door where the servant waited.

Here was a predicament. I was missed and wanted—and by the ladies. My heart dropped back from my throat, and I felt it throbbing in the lowest recesses of my boot-heels as I rose and followed my guide.

CHAPTER XII.
Luella Knapp.

Two women rose to greet me as I entered the room.

"Good evening," said the elder woman, holding out her hand. "You have neglected us for a long time." There was something of reproach as well as civility in the voice.

"Yes," I replied, adjusting my manner nicely to her, "I have been very busy."

"Busy? How provoking of you to say so! You should never be too busy to take the commands of the ladies."

"That is why I am here," I interrupted with my best bow. But she continued without noting it.

"Luella wagered with me that you would make that excuse. I expected something more original."

"I am very sorry," I said, with a reflection of the bantering air she had assumed.

"Oh, indeed!" exclaimed the younger woman, to whom my eyes had turned as Mrs. Knapp spoke her name. "How very unkind of you to say so, when I have just won a pair of gloves by it. Good evening to you!" And she held out her hand.

It was with a strong effort that I kept my self-possession, as for the first time I clasped the hand of Luella Knapp.

"Was it the thrill of her touch, the glance of her eye, or the magnetism of her presence, that set my pulses beating to a new measure, and gave my spirit a breath from a new world? What ever the cause, as I looked into the clear-cut face and the frank gray eyes of the woman before me, I was swept by a flood of emotion that was near overpowering my self-control.

I mastered the emotion in a moment and took the seat to which she had waved me.

I was puzzled a little at the tone in which she addressed me. There was a suggestion of resentment in her manner that grew on me as we talked.

Can I describe her? Of what use to try? She was not beautiful, and "pretty" was too petty a word to apply to Luella Knapp. "Fine looking," if said with the proper emphasis, might give some idea of appearance, for she was tall in figure, with features that were impressive in their attractiveness.

Through all the conversation the idea that Miss Knapp was regarding me with a hidden disapproval was growing on me. I decided that Henry had made some uncommon blunder on his last visit and that I was suffering the penalty for it. The admiration I felt for the young woman deepened with every sentence she spoke, and I was ready to do anything to restore the good opinion that Henry might have endangered, and in lieu of apology exerted myself to the utmost to be agreeable.

I was unconscious of the flight of time until Mrs. Knapp turned from some other guests and walked toward us.

"Come, Henry," she said pointedly, "Luella is not to monopolize you all the time. Besides, there's Mr. Inman dying to speak to her."

I promptly hated Mr. Inman with all my heart and felt not the slightest objection to his demise; but at her gesture of command I rose and accompanied Mrs. Knapp, as a young man with eye-glasses and a smirk came to take my place. I left Luella Knapp, congratulating myself over my cleverness in escaping the pitfalls that lined my way.

"Now I've a chance to speak to you at last," said Mrs. Knapp.

"At your service," I bowed. "I owe you something."

"Indeed?" Mrs. Knapp raised her eyebrows in surprise.

"For your kind recommendation to Mr. Knapp."

"My recommendation? You have a little the advantage of me."

I was stricken with painful doubts, and the gold sweat started upon me. Perhaps this was not Mrs. Knapp after all.

"Oh, perhaps you didn't mean it," I said.

"Indeed I did, if it was a recommendation. I'm afraid it was unconscious, though. Mr. Knapp does not consult me about his business."

I was in doubt no longer. It was the injured pride of the wife that spoke in the tone.

"I'm none the less obliged," I said carelessly. "He assured me that he acted on your words."

"What on earth are you doing for Mr. Knapp?" she asked earnestly, dropping her half-bantering tone. There was a trace of apprehension in her eyes.

"I'm afraid Mr. Knapp wouldn't think your recommendations were quite justified if I should tell you. Just get him in a corner and ask him."

"I suppose it is that dreadful stock market."

"Oh, madam, let me say the chicken market. There is a wonderful opportunity just now for corner in fowls."

"There are a good many to be plucked in the market that Mr. Knapp will look after," she said with a smile. But there was something of a worried look behind it. "Oh, you know, Henry, that I can't bear the market. I have seen too much of the misery that has come from it."

She shuddered as she looked about her, as though in fancy she saw herself turned from the palace into the street.

"Mr. Knapp is not a man to lose," I said.

"Mr. Knapp is a strong man," she said with a proud straightening of her figure. "But the whirlpool can suck down the strongest swimmer."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Coin and Compliments.

"What would you do if you were a multi-millionaire?" asked the serious man.

"Oh," answered the flippant friend, "I suppose I would get to yearning for a few kind words, and endow colleges like the rest of them."

AROUND THE HOUSE

SMALL THINGS THAT ARE WORTH REMEMBERING.

Simple Manner in Which to Save Thread on Machine-Making Bands for Trimming—For Neat Waist and Skirt.

Save Thread on Machine.—Raise the foot of the machine to remove garment you are sewing, but before cutting the threads lower the foot again with top and lower threads toward the back. You then can cut the threads much shorter and the foot will hold them firmly in place with no trouble about the needle getting accidentally unthreaded. The work can easily be placed under the foot again, and you will find the needle always threaded in place of always unthreaded.

Pea Pin Cushion.—A pretty idea for small cushions is a bunch of green pea pods—about six pods—made of green silk and tied together with baby ribbon. Stuff with hair. A good pattern can be obtained from an old seed catalogue.

Simple Buttonholes.—First sew the shape of the buttonhole, and then cut it through the center after it is sewed.

Bands for Trimming.—Bands never were used more extensively for trimming than at the present time. To make bands quickly and perfectly, cut the band one and one-half inches wider than desired when finished and sew into one long strip. Draw two parallel lines eight inches long on the fronting board, the distance apart to equal the width of band when finished. Make a catstitch, using the lines as a guide. Pull the goods under the threads, and as it passes under press with a warm iron. If edge is taken the edges will turn under evenly as they pass under the threads.

This woman says that sick women should not fail to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she did.

Mrs. A. Gregory, of 2355 Lawrence St., Denver, Col., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was practically an invalid for six years, on account of female troubles. I underwent an operation by the doctor's advice, but in a few months I was worse than before. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to perfect health, such as I have not enjoyed in many years. Any woman suffering as I did with backache, bearing-down pains, and periodic pains, should not fail to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

160 FARMS in Western Canada FREE

Typical Farm Scene, Showing Stock Raising in Western Canada

WESTERN CANADA

Some of the choicest lands for grain growing, stock raising and mixed farming in the new district of Saskatchewan and Alberta have recently been opened for settlement under the Revised Homestead Regulations.

Entry may now be made by proxy (on certain conditions), by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader. Thousands of homesteads of 160 acres each are thus now readily available in these great grain-growing, stock-raising and mixed farming sections.

There you will find healthful climate, good neighbors, churches for family worship, schools for your children, good laws, splendid crops, and railroads convenient to market.

Entry fee in each case is $10.00. For pamphlet, "Last Best West," particularly to sales routes, best time to go and where to locate, apply to

M. V. McINNES, 6 Avenue Theatre Block, Detroit, Michigan; or C. A. LAURIE, Sask. St., Sask., Sask.

To Repair Carpet.

Make an ordinary flour paste; boil and be sure it is free from lumps. Take any old piece of wool carpet that will cover the worn part in the carpet you wish to repair; wet thoroughly with paste and spread smoothly over wrong side, over the thin or worn part. Be careful not to get paste through on right side. With a little trouble you can give new life to a worn carpet.

To Brighten a Gas Mantle.

When your gas burns poorly, probably the mantle is black. If so, remove the globe, get a salt shaker, and with it sprinkle salt on the mantle, as much as will cover it, then light the gas and let it burn till all the black is off. Then replace the globe. Cleaned thus, the mantle should be as good as new again.

THE EXTRA STOUT MAN

He Tells Why Brass Bands Have a Peculiar Interest for Him.

"No," said the extra stout man, "I never exactly played in a brass band, but I came pretty near it once when I joined a band that was forming in the small town that I lived in then in the west."

"We had a band leader out once a week from our nearest big city, fifty-odd miles away, to try us out and get us started, and he put me on the bass drum."

"And on that I made good. I could pound as well as anybody and I could pound in time, and light and heavy, according to the music. It was a great delight to me to practice with the band, to be in it and do my share, for I'd always wanted to belong to a band."

"And my, how we worked! And we made headway, too. Got so you could tell what we were playing, and then the professor said he was going to get us out and give us a little marching practice."

"What we were going to do was to march down the road a piece and be reviewed by the professor, who was going to criticize us here for formation and marching as well as for music, and with that great responsibility on us and all anxious we did certainly make pretty weird work of it when we started off, and when we pulled ourselves together and when we came to where the professor was sitting on top of a fence we were proud of ourselves anyway, and so we marched past, with the professor scanning each man closely and as near as we could tell in the moonlight he was much pleased, and when I came along, slinging away the best I knew how, he pretty nearly fell off the fence, and so I thought I had made the biggest hit with him of all."

"And then we counter-marched and marched past him again and so back to our practice room, the professor coming with us this time, and when we got back there he told us that we'd done ourselves and him proud; that we were making great progress and that he thought now we could safely enter the county band tournament that was to be held in the fall."

"And were we pleased? Well! And the professor called me off to one side and I thought he was going to give me some special praise that he didn't want the rest to hear, but—"

"You will note if you look at me that I am a man of somewhat portly construction, and I was even more so then. Yes, I know that is contrary to the usual way; we are likely to be portly in our maturer years, but I was so then when I was young; in fact, in those days my own copiously approximated bass drum dimensions, and this is what happened:

"You see, in all our practice indoors I had pounded on the big drum while it was lying on the floor in a position where I could readily reach it, but the minute we got outdoors where I had to carry the drum I found myself in contact with a very different proposition."

"If I carried the drum square in front in the ordinary way it was so far in front that I was liable to hit the drum rim as I was to hit the drum head, and that wouldn't do, so I did the only thing I could do; I raised the drum up and over back toward me to where I could pound it. That wasn't the most convenient thing in the world for me, for carrying it raised up so the drum was higher than my face in front and shut off my view there."

"I was carrying the big drum like that and slinging away on it when we marched past the professor when he almost fell off the fence, which I thought was because he was so pleased with my playing."

"When he drew me off to one side to speak to me after we'd got back he told me that I was a good drummer, he didn't know but what I was the best drummer he had ever met, but he said a bass drum carried that way would just queer the whole business."

"Yes, he said he'd known some fat bass drummers, but never one so fat as I was. Why, he said, we might make the finest music ever heard, but the sight of me carrying my bass drum in that way—well, he said he hated to give me up, but they'd have to get a thinner bass drummer."

"And they did, and of course they let me out, and of course I was greatly disappointed over that; but while I was still considered as belonging to the band in a way, I was a sort of ex-officio member, a kind of bass drummer emeritus. You understand what I mean? And as long as I lived in the town I used to go to the band's practice meetings and that was pleasant to me."

"And that's why I say I never exactly played in a brass band, because I never actually played in one on a formal public occasion, but I did belong to one once for a time, and ever since that, as is perfectly natural, brass bands have always had a peculiar interest for me."

Compliment Not Forthcoming.
An aged divine had occasionally the need of the assistance of probationers. One day a young man, vain of his accomplishments as a preacher, took the old divine's place and preached for him. On coming down from the pulpit he was met by the old minister with extended hands. Expecting high praise, he said: "No compliments, I pray." "Na, na, na, my young friend," said the minister; "nowadays I'm glad o' anybody."

AT A CRITICAL TIME.

Women Are Likely to Suffer with Dangerous Kidney Disorders.

Mrs. John Kirk, R. F. D. No. 2, Detroit, Mich., says: "Five years ago at a critical time of life I was on the verge of a collapse with kidney troubles, backache, dizziness, puffy drooping swellings and urinary irregularities. I lost flesh and felt languid, nervous or unstrung all the time. As my doctor did not help me, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. In a few weeks all these symptoms left me. I now weigh 163 pounds and feel in excellent health."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system which enters it through the mucous surface. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co., Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Economical Physician.
Ambassador Wu Ting-fang, was once, it is alleged, telling about a certain selfish politician. He said: "The man reminds me of a doctor of Shanghai. A mandarin came to this doctor for advice. He could not sleep, had no appetite, suffered a good deal from depression and nevertheless was taking on fat at an alarming rate. We'll soon put you in condition again," said the physician. "What you need is exercise, good, hard exercise. Four times a week you can come here and put in the morning polishing my floors." "But why not my own floors?" the mandarin inquired. "Mine," said the physician, "are larger."

A Kansas Girl's Advice.
A Lincoln county girl writes this advice to the Kansas City Star: "Why do young men do so much loafing? Go to work. Push ahead! I am but a young girl, but I clothe myself and have money in the bank. I lay up more money every year than any young man within three miles of my home. When they get a dollar they go to a dance and go home a dollar out. I advise all girls to cut their loafing boys. Stand by the boy who works, and never put your arm through the handle of a jug."

Hanging Scaffolds.
With the modern skyscraping office building has come a new form of building scaffold. Instead of constructing the scaffold from below, which is impossible in the cases of buildings ranging from 10 to 50 stories high, platforms are suspended from the steel girders above. On these swinging platforms the bricklayers work and the scaffold is raised as the work progresses.—System.

"How did you lose your last position?"
"I was pardoned, mum."

CHANGE IN FOOD
Works Wonders in Health.
It is worth knowing that a change in food can cure dyspepsia. "I deem it my duty to let you know how Grape-Nuts food has cured me of indigestion. I had been troubled with it for years, until last year my doctor recommended Grape-Nuts food to be used every morning. I followed instructions and now I am entirely well. The whole family like Grape-Nuts, we use four packages a week. You are welcome to use this testimonial as you see fit."

The reason this lady was helped by the use of Grape-Nuts food, is that it is predigested by natural processes and therefore does not tax the stomach as the food she had been using; it also contains the elements required for building up the nervous system. If that part of the human body is in perfect working order, there can be no dyspepsia, for nervous energy represents the steam that drives the engine. When the nervous system is run down, the machinery of the body works badly. Grape-Nuts food can be used by small children as well as adults. It is perfectly cooked and ready for instant use.

PRACTICAL QUESTIONS FOR LIVE STOCK OWNERS

BOOK ON HOGS AND HORSES.
Question.—"Can you tell me where to procure a reliable book about hogs and horses? My bread-and-butter is dependent upon my keeping my animals in good health and would much appreciate a reply to this question."—C. C. L., Mich.

Reply.—We take pleasure in referring you to two new books just published, one on hogs and one on horses. These are usually sold for 25c apiece, but if you write to the Pratt Food Company, Department "R," Philadelphia, they will send you copy without charge. The books are the most practical we have ever seen.

HORSE OFF HIS FEED.
Question.—"I have two valuable horses which will not eat and seem to be in poor condition. Can you tell me something that will put them in good shape?"—M. D. P., Mich.

Reply.—There is nothing very serious the matter with your horses except general run down condition, which is somewhat usual at this season of the year. We recommend a good tonic and probably the best thing you could use would be Pratt's Animal Regulator, mixing it twice daily with their regular feed. This is an old reliable remedy and we give it our hearty endorsement.

SCRATCHES.
Question.—"I have a young horse troubled with scratches. Please advise how I can cure him."—A. S. D., Mich.

Reply.—Clip hair off sores and wash with castile soap, apply Pratt's Veterinary Healing Ointment twice daily. This is a positive cure.

DISTEMPER.
Question.—"My eight-year-old horse has distemper. He is in fairly good health but perspires freely when working and occasionally sweats in stable."—J. D. O., Mich.

Reply.—If you are working him regularly, would suggest that you increase his grain allowance and also buy a reliable Distemper Cure. We can heartily endorse Pratt's for the cure of this disease.

MORE MILK.
Question.—"I am having great trouble in getting milk from my cows, although they seem to be in general good health."—N. B. R., Mich.

Reply.—All your cows need is probably a good spring tonic and from experience, we know Pratt's Animal Regulator is most beneficial for putting the animals in good shape and increasing the flow of the milk. Mix it in the feed twice a day.

A GOOD COLD.
"That seems a very bad cold you've got, my little man!"
"It's a very good cold; it's kept me away from school for two weeks now!"

BOY KEPT SCRATCHING.
Eczema Lasted 7 Years—Face Was All Raw—Skin Specialists Failed, But Cuticura Effected Cure.

"When my little boy was six weeks old an eruption broke out on his face. I took him to a doctor, but his face kept on getting worse until it got so bad that no one could look at him. His whole face was one crust and must have been very painful. He scratched day and night until his face was raw. Then I took him to all the best specialists in skin diseases but they could not do much for him. The eczema got on his arms and legs and we could not get a night's sleep in months. I got a set of Cuticura Remedies and he felt relieved the first time I used them. I gave the Cuticura Remedies a good trial and gradually the eczema healed all up. He is now seven years old and I think the trouble will never return. Mrs. John G. Klumpp, 80 Niagara St., Newark, N. J., Oct. 17 and 22, 1907."

How He Got Rid of Rats.
A farmer describes his method of clearing the premises of rats in the following manner: "On a large number of old shingles I put a half-teaspoonful of treacle each, and on that with my pocket knife I scraped a small amount of concentrated lye. I then placed the old shingles around under the stable floors and under the cribs. The next morning I found 40 dead rats, and the rest left the farm for parts unknown. I have cleared many farms of the pests in the same way, and have never known it to fail."

COMPLAINTS ABOUT PAINT.
The time to complain about paint is before the painter applies it. The man who puts up the money should not shirk the responsibility of choosing the paint. True, the painter ought to know paint better than the banker, the professional man or the merchant. The trouble is, the house-owner too often deliberately bars the competent and honest painter from the job by accepting a bid which he ought to know would make an honest job impossible.

Secure your bids on the basis of National Lead Company's pure White Lead and pure Linseed Oil and see that you get those materials.

No one need be fooled by adulterated white lead. A blowpipe testing outfit will be mailed to anyone interested in paint.

Stork—I see you've got the gout, Flamingo.
Flamingo—Wrong. Hear of centipede being caught scorching?
Stork—Yes.
Flamingo—Well, I put my foot on him and got burned.

You Would Not Accept Counterfeit Money, Why Accept Counterfeit Goods?
Good money is made by the Government in which you have implicit faith and confidence. Good goods are made by manufacturers who are willing to stake their reputations on the quality of the material offered to you through the medium of their advertisements in this paper. Counterfeit goods are not advertised. The reason for it is they will not bear the close scrutiny to which genuine advertised goods are subjected. Counterfeit money pays more profit to the counterfeiter. Counterfeit goods are offered to you for the same reason.

W. N. U., DETROIT, NO. 20, 1908.

What is Pe-ru-na?

Is it a Catarrh Remedy, or a Tonic, or is it Both?

Some people call Peruna a great tonic. Others refer to Peruna as a great catarrh remedy. Which of these people are right? Is it more proper to call Peruna a catarrh remedy than to call it a tonic?

Our reply is, that Peruna is both a tonic and a catarrh remedy. Indeed, there can be no effectual catarrh remedy that is not also a tonic. In order to thoroughly relieve any case of catarrh, a remedy must not only have a specific action on the mucous membranes affected by the catarrh, but it must have a general tonic action on the nervous system.

Catarrh, even in persons who are otherwise strong, is a weakened condition of some mucous membrane. There must be something to strengthen the circulation, to give tone to the arteries, and to raise the vital force.

Perhaps no vegetable remedy in the world has attracted so much attention from medical writers as HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS. The wonderful efficacy of this herb has been recognized many years, and is growing in its hold upon the medical profession. When joined with CUBEBS and COPAIBA a trio of medical agents is formed in Peruna which constitutes a specific remedy for catarrh that in the present state of medical progress cannot be improved upon. This action, reinforced by such renowned tonics as COLLINBONIA CANADENSIS, CORYDALIS FORMOSA and CEDRON SEED, ought to make this compound an ideal remedy for catarrh in all its stages and locations in the body.

From a theoretical standpoint, therefore, Peruna is beyond criticism. The use of Peruna, confirms this opinion. Numberless testimonials from every quarter of the earth furnish ample evidence that this judgment is not over enthusiastic. When practical experience confirms a well-grounded theory the result is a truth that cannot be shaken.

I Am REYNOLDS, the Roofing Man
I have been in the roofing business for 40 years and they call me the "Pioneer." I have been in no other business.

I know the roofing business; have made a scientific, practical study of it. I am at the head of my company, of which I am proud. I have also made a success of my business. The result has been our two brands—Torpedo and Wolverine, The "red granite kind," which are the very best brands of roofing on the market today at any price.

This roofing will last longer, is cheaper to lay and cheaper in the long run than any other you can buy. If we could make a better roofing, we would, but we can't. You will make no mistake in using it.

It only costs about half what shingles would cost laid on the roof. We will give you an absolute guarantee that our roofing will last you five years. We know it will last for 12 or 15 years, but five years' guarantee is enough to make you see five years simply to show faith in our own roofing.

It costs us $70.00 to find out that our kind of roofing was better than that of other men's. The difference is this: Our roofing is made of crushed, irregular shaped granite particles put on heavy sheets of asphalt felt cemented together. These particles of quarry granite have sharp points and sharp edges and stick into this asphalt for evermore. You can easily understand why they will stick a great deal better than the round, smooth little pebbles, which are sometimes used.

The granite is to protect the roof from sun, wind, and rain, and our granite does protect it. Do not buy a roof that will need painting. It means there is a weakness somewhere. You don't have to paint a Reynolds' roof. We have so much to tell you about our roofing that we cannot begin to do it here, but want you to write and let us tell you just why our roofing is what you want and why you cannot afford to buy any other.

We have a liberal proposition to make to you, and no matter how much you may know about some other roofing you should get our proposition. It means a saving. This roofing is put up in one square roll, all ready to lay and securely packed inside of the roll are the trimmings consisting of galvanized iron nails and cement in a can with directions how to lay the roll.

Give us all the information you can about the roof, and we will tell you something that will interest you. WRITE US TODAY.

Are You Sick?

Much sickness is due to a weak nervous system. Yours may be. If it is, you cannot get well until you restore nerve strength. Your nervous system is nature's power house; the organs of your body get their power from it. If the power is not there, the action of the organs is weak, and disease (sickness) follows. Dr. Miles' Nervine cures the sick because it soothes the irritated and tired nerves and gives the system a chance to recuperate. Try it, and see if you do not quickly feel its beneficial effect.

"I was given up to die by a leading doctor. Got one of Dr. Miles' books and found that Dr. Miles' Nervine fit my case. From the very first dose I took I got better. I am better now than I have been for years, and do all my own work on the farm. That's what Dr. Miles' Nervine has done for me, and I am glad to recommend it to others."

Ladies' Equity Notes.

The Michigan Ladies Society of Equity has been called upon to part with one of its members. For the first time since our organization death has entered our ranks and has taken away one of our bright young members, Mrs. Olive Burton, whose death came like a flash of lightning from a clear sky—and she was gone. We will miss her many times. No more will we hear her voice in recitation or song, where she was ever ready to help. In the bright springtime of youth, our Olive has closed her eyes, in the beautiful springtime, when the earth is fragrant with flowers and bright with sunshine. To us it seems a mystery, but let us try to be resigned to God's will and say, "Thy will be done, Oh Lord, not mine."

Oh, fair and cloudless seemed the sky.
A bright and happy day,
When with a blast, sad death went past,
And bore a soul away.

Even as a thief he came and went
In search of priceless flowers:
He saw a gem—he broke the stem
And flew to heavenly bowers.

(These lines were written in behalf of the State Union, M. L. S. of E., by their president, who was a warm friend of the deceased.)

The ladies of Forget-me-not Local met with Mrs. John Schroeder on Wednesday at her pleasant country home. Meeting opened in usual form. All officers, ten members and four visitors present. Messrs Schroeder and Howey gave us very interesting talks on various topics which were discussed with much interest by the members. The aprons made by the ladies were all sold and another goodly number are being made for the benefit of the society. Any donations of cloth will be cheerfully accepted. Our meetings are getting better and stronger. The afternoon drew to a close. Mrs. Schroeder and daughter sang a beautiful song. Prayer was read and repeated in church. Meeting closed to meet with sister Mary Bartholomew on Wednesday, June 3rd; let all members be present. A fine supper was served in the pleasant dining room, over which our sister did the honors as hostess. A short half hour was spent in pleasant conversation and then we went our respective ways to remember this as another of our best meetings.

The Ladies' Local of M. L. S. of E. are buying eggs from their members in good standing (and we are glad to say that nearly all are) paying for the eggs out of our local treasury, 15c per dozen. That the plan is a success shows by the way eggs come in and the interest taken. Over 200 dozen were bought in less than three weeks from members only. We ask the farmers' wives to investigate our plan—it will help you in many ways, both socially and financially.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, member of local No. 2, left last Thursday for Iowa, to join her husband who has been there for some time. She takes with her the good wishes of many friends who will miss her here.

The riddle given in a recent issue is answered by Mrs. John Schroeder, of Echo. Answer, "Baptism."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishment was ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and slow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

Hidden Dangers.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No East Jordan Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently.

Edgar Ormsby, retired farmer, of 202 Twelfth St., Traverse City, Mich., says: "I had a serious kidney weakness for years. The kidney secretions contained sediment and I had pains in all parts of my body. I was finally advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills and did so. I had used them but a few weeks when I was cured."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

If Anna Gould reads one-half the comments on her prince in the daily press she is hardly likely to feel like a merry widow.

If one feels dull or spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it "Spring Fever." But there is no fever—usually. It is the after effect of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired, worn-out nerves leave us languid, lifeless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The Restorative of course won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that "tired spot." Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a falling appetite, aids digestion, feeds sluggish liver and kidneys, and brings new life, strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by James Gidley.

ECZEMA
Cured in less than four weeks.

Those who have had experience with this stubborn disease can hardly believe at first that Wonderful Dream Salve can and does cure Eczema.

There is no doubt about the matter whatever. A great many letters are on file in our office from grateful patients, telling of the quick and easy way in which Wonderful Dream Salve has removed all traces of this torturing skin affliction.

Mr. John T. Kealey, a well-known business man, located in the Stevens Bldg., Detroit, Mich., was recently cured of a bad case of Eczema of fourteen years' standing. After treating with many doctors and taking many remedies without relief, Mr. Kealey was induced to try Wonderful Dream Salve, and in four weeks was entirely cured.

He says:

"I certainly consider this a remarkable cure, inasmuch as I have spent of late in the fourteen years of annoyance with this troublesome itching skin ailment. I have since the cure of my case heard of other cures, some of them even more remarkable than mine, which go toward demonstrating the value of Wonderful Dream Salve as a great skin healer."

If you have Eczema, why not try a box of Wonderful Dream Salve. If it fails, your druggist will refund your money. Isn't that fair enough? Keep it in your home for Chilblains, Chapped hands, Piles, Cuts, Burns, Frost-bites, Boils and Sores of any kind. You will never use anything else. 25c a box at your druggist or mailed prepaid direct.

Cures dizzy spells, tired feelings, stomach and liver troubles, keeps you well all summer. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will do. Try it and you will always buy it.—25 cents, Tea or Tablets. F. B. Gannett & Co.

Just drop into EMPEY BROS. and look their stock over. You will be proud of your town and think you are in some large city store, and their prices, possibly, will make you think of doing business at home. We think we are in a position to give you very low prices.

We rather hate to read of Mr. Carnegie's disapproval of trusts. We always did dislike to see a man go back on his old friends. Yes, gratitude, at least, ought to cause a man to "praise the bridge that carries him over"; but human nature is the same, the world over, just the same with the millionaire and with the ordinary citizen.

The recent convert is always the most violent denouncer of the devil. The reformed drunkard has less patience with other men who may suffer from the infirmity which once held him than has the conscientious believer in temperance. The man who reforms after he has "got enough" is not the proper man to assume to himself the post of advising the public.

To stop any pain, anywhere, in 30 minutes, simply take just one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Pain means congestion—blood pressure—that is all. Dr. Shoop's Headache or Pink Pain Tablets will quickly coax blood pressure away from pain centers. After that, pain is gone. Headache, Neuragia, painful periods with women etc. get instant help. 20 Tablets 25 cents. Sold by James Gidley.

Treasures Found in Our American Forests.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers of this and other countries. The untamed Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until today we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., believes that our American forests abound in medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them, and, in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the most marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action.

The reason why "Golden Medical Discovery" cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

To aid in healing old sores, or ulcers, apply Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve to them while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" to purify and enrich the blood. Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve is cleansing and pain relieving. It destroys the bad odors arising from suppurating, or running, sores and puts them in the best possible condition for healing.

The "All-Healing Salve" is a superior dressing for all open, running, or suppurating, Sores or Ulcers. For healing open wounds, cuts and scratches it is unsurpassed.

If your medicine dealer does not have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, mail 50 cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive it by return post.

In treating all open sores, or ulcers, boils, carbuncles and other swellings, it is important that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery be taken persistently to purify the blood and thereby remove the cause of the trouble. It is in the blood that the great battle of health has to be fought. The ulcer and the sore are simply the scarlet flowers of disease, with roots running down into the blood. These roots must be eradicated or the disease will break out afresh. "Golden Medical Discovery" cleanses the blood of all foul and poisonous accumulations, pushes out the dead and waste matter, and thus purifies the entire life current. Disease in the flesh must die out when it is no longer fed by foul blood. "Golden Medical Discovery" effectively cures disease in the flesh by curing its cause in the blood.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic drains, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines and physicians had failed.

Nursing mothers and over-burdened women in all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating, restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon to prepare the system for baby's coming and rendering the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm—in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, back-ache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retroversion or other displacements of womanly organs, from weakness of parts, will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully, and fairly persistently, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extract of native medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle wrapper.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Observe the cause and you cure the disease. Easy to take as candy.
