"THE ORCHARD COUNTRY."

South Arm of Pine Lake Ideal Location.

The East Jordan Fruit & Land Co., Inc., of East Lansing, Mich., with orchards at East Jordan, have issued a neat little folder relative to the location and advantages of their Fruit Farm near here.

Below are some extracts from the folder.

THE ORCHARD COUNTRY.

Sometimes called the "fruit belt" of Michigan extends from St. Joseph and Benton Harbor on the south to Charlevoix and Petoskey and even farther on the north. And while all this orchard country is beautiful, especially during the growing season, the section is so picturesque, nor possesses such delightful climate all through the long summer and on into the late fall as that region about Charlevoix and Petoskey.

SOUTH ARM OF PINE LAKE.

After long and careful investigation, we selected a location for our orchard on the South Arm of Pine Lake in Charlevoix county for the following excellent reasons:

(1) The land is high and rolling affording that air and soil drainage so essential to successful fruit growing.
(2) The fertile soil ranges from sandy loam to heavy clay, giving a variety for all kinds of fruit.

(3) The shipping facilities are unsurpassed. We are within easy distance of three railroads, and besides boats can load right at the dock on our own property for Chicago and Eastern markets.

(4) The climate is ideal for growing fruit of the highest quality. Not only is the fruit of good size, high color and very free from spot and blemish, but it is remarkable for its extra fine flavor.

A COUNTRY OF "HEARTS DELIGHT."

Besides these essentials so necessary to commercial fruit growing, this location is one of the most beautiful in all that country. South Arm is long and narrow, resembling a broad, noble river, perhaps even more than it does a lake.

Its blue waters are deep and not too cool for delightful bathing and swimming. The land rises from the lake on either side in irregular terraces, 50 to 200 feet or more in height, thus affording those beautiful views which are one of the charms of this locality.

Our property is about half covered with hardwood timber with a few scattering pines and hemlocks, and about half of it is cleared and ready for planting.

FLOWING SPRINGS.

There are several large flowing springs on the tract, either of which would furnish an abundance of ice-cold water for a thousand people.

GOOD FISHING.

To the west of us a few miles are the Intermediate Lakes, considered among the best in the State for black bass fishing. A short distance to the South is Deer Creek, and the beautiful Jordan River, two noted trout streams, besides dozens of other streams more or less easy of access.

IN CONCLUSION.

This location has all the requisites for commercial fruit growing on a large scale, and at the same time it is a locality that possesses all of those advantages so dear to the cottager, tourist or fisherman. A picturesque locality, easy of access, yet far enough away from the main line of travel to insure a reasonable degree of seclusion and quiet.

Michigan Beats the West.

Fruit growers in all parts of Western Michigan are setting aside apple trees for special care that the same may grow larger and better fruit than ever before, that this fruit may be available for exhibition purposes at the big land show to be held in Chicago the latter part of November.

Word has come to Western Michigan that the growers in the apple sections of the west have announced that they are going to "back Michigan off the board" in the matter of a fruit display at the Land and Irrigation Exposition. Last fall, it will be remembered, the Western Michigan fruit exhibit was one of the strongest features of the entire land show. In fact it was the largest and best of the many displays of fruit.

While the Western men do not know it, yet it is still the truth, that Western Michigan can grow fruits that are more than the equal of the fancy fruits of the much advertised apple sections of the Pacific coast states. Western Michigan has a soil and climate that produce a better flavored fruit than is possible by the artificial methods that have been adopted where irrigation is necessary.

This year, for the first time, the Western Michigan fruit growers are going to make an effort to do their best and the result will be such as to surprise us all.

Over In The Hills.

WARREN W. LAMPSON
I know where the flowers grow,
Over in the dell;
O'er the hills and down below
Where the fairies dwell.
Violets blue and daisies white,
Yellow buttercups so bright,
And sweet berries, ripe and red,
All along the way are spread.

I know where the crow has made
For her young a nest;
Over yonder in the glade
Fairies love the best.
There is heard the shy cuckoo,
There the thrush, and bobwhite too,
And when night comes lone and still
Sings the plaintive whippoorwill.

I know where the fairies hide,
Over in the hills;
Where those rippling waters glide
Down the rocky hills.
Dashing, splashing, night and day,
Dance the waters on their way;
But the fairies dance at night,
In the moonbeam's witching light.

Come, O come away with me,
Over in the dell;
O'er the hills and down below
Where the fairies dwell.
With the birds and with the flowers
Let us spend the fleeting hours,
Let us with the fairies roam
Where the brooklets dash and foam.

Scared into Sound Health.

Mr. B. F. Kelley, Springfield, Ill., writes: "A year ago I began to be troubled with my kidneys and bladder, which grew worse until I became alarmed at my condition. I suffered also with dull heavy headaches and the action of my bladder was annoying and painful. I read of Foley Kidney Pills and after taking them a few weeks the headaches left me, the action of my bladder was again normal, and I was free from all distress." Hite's Drug Store.

Fruit Growers' Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Charlevoix County Fruit Growers' Association will be held in Charlevoix on Tuesday, June 7th, 1910, at 1:00 p. m.

The general subject for the afternoon will be pruning, spraying and thinning, but perhaps the most valuable part of the meeting will be an address given by Mr. J. I. Gibson, secretary of the Western Michigan Development Bureau.

Mr. Gibson will address the meeting on the subject of fruit raising and the fruit growers of the county should be on hand with a long list of questions.

Every member of the society should be present.

If you are not a member we invite you to come and become a member.
J. H. MILFORD, Secy.

Glad to Recommend Them.

Mr. E. Weakley, Kokomo, Ind., says: "After taking Foley Kidney Pills, the severe backache left me, my kidneys became stronger, the secretions natural and my bladder no longer pained me. I am glad to recommend Foley Kidney Pills." In a yellow package. Hite's Drug Store.

HOW THE WIVES AND DAUGHTERS OF CELEBRITIES SPEND THE SUMMER

By WALDON FAWCETT

PHOTOS COPYRIGHT BY WALDON FAWCETT, WASHINGTON, D.C.

THE wife or daughter of the average man who is conspicuously in the public eye through his prominence in politics, science, art, finance or religion, earns a vacation quite as consistently as the head of the household. It is notable that in the eyes of many prominent women the ideal vacation is one which enables real solitude and which embraces, among other things that seclusion which makes it possible for the vacationist to don garb that is comfortable, without regard to the dictates of fashion.

MISS MARION OLIVER PLAYING GOLF

Thus we find Mrs. Joan D. Rockefeller leading the quietest possible existence at Forest Hill, her husband's extensive estate near Cleveland, and Miss Anna Morgan, daughter of the financier, isolating herself at her father's log "camp" in the depths of the Adirondack forest. Our presidential widows are likewise fond of the simple life in summer. Mrs. Garfield spends the heated term at her farm at Mentor, Ohio, near the shore of Lake Erie; Mrs. Harrison and her daughter take up their abode at a forest lodge on the shore of one of the lakes of the Fulton chain in the north woods; and Mrs. Cleveland has as her summer home a quaint farmhouse in New Hampshire, not so many miles distant from the county seat of Mrs. John Hay, widow of the late secretary of state.

Mrs. Taft, wife of the president, who was overtaken by ill health, a few months after her husband assumed office, was so benefited at Beverly, Mass., last summer by the sea air and the opportunities for complete rest that it is probable that the picturesque north shore of Massachusetts will be the summer retreat of the Tafts for some years to come. Here Miss Helen Taft, the only daughter of the family, finds the best of opportunities for her pet diversions, tennis and morninging in an electric runabout which she drives herself.

Mrs. Sherman, wife of the vice-president, spends her summers in the big comfortable stone mansion at Utica, N. Y., which has been "home" to the Shermans for so many years, and in the rear of which are the spacious flower gardens which are Mrs. Sherman's especial weakness. Mrs. Knox, wife of the secretary of state, usually spends her summer vacation at Valley Forge farm, the premier's splendid country seat and stock farm, a short ride by train from Philadelphia. Mrs. Meyer, wife of the secretary of the navy, is almost as indefatigable a hostess in summer as in winter, for she entertains lavishly at her magnificent country seat at Hamilton, Mass. At the town of Marion, in the same state, is the large "cottage" which is the summer headquarters of the family of Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor.

Mrs. Hughes, wife of the man who has made so remarkable a record as governor of New York state, finds her vehicle of supreme summer enjoyment in her canoe, and the brightest weeks of the year in her estimation are those she and her family spend at a rustic cabin on Upper Saranac lake, little more than a stone's throw from the cottage where Grover Cleveland and his bride spent their honeymoon. The two elder daughters in the Hughes household inherit their mother's fondness for this fascinating form of boating. Other prominent women who are partial to the life of the mountain lakes include Mrs. Timothy Woodruff, wife of the New York politician, Mrs. Victor Herbert, wife of the musical composer, and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, who is usually ready to forsake one of the most attractive country seats in England for an interval among the pines at Camp Wild Air.

There are not a few women whose fondness for favorite outdoor sport serves to itself, map out their summer program—sending them to the localities where the chosen form of athletics may best be enjoyed. By way of illustration, there might be cited the hold which golf exerts upon Miss Marion Oliver, daughter of the assistant secretary of war, and upon Miss Frances Griscom, the sister of Lloyd Griscom, the well-known diplomat and politician. The former of these young ladies is an aspirant for the golf championship of the United States, and the latter has already been a title holder.

Similarly it is suspected that Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth would go in for aeronautics did not her husband rather frown on her ambitions for sky sailing. Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of the senator from West Virginia, is correspondingly zealous as a horsewoman, and has been known to give up an entire season to attending one open-air horse show after another, usually as an entrant in the classes for ladies' hunters. Miss Elkins is also an enthusiast on the subject of blooded dogs and has personally donated cups and other trophies as prizes in competitive classes at various dog shows.

The Lure of the Chicken

Chickens were never the fashion till now. Had the chicken ever been the fashion this would be the renaissance, but the present popularity is without precedent. Not only has the chicken been dramatized, as per "Chantecler," but milliners have taken up the plumage right under the noses of the Audubon societies; then, also, there is the secretary of agriculture, who offers the chicken as the perennial lure to the country, where the problem of living, or pure food and plenty of it is to be solved by the cityites as soon as they organize a real hegira to the tall timbers. Even the cold-storage chickens hanging in rows in the market look more alluring and seem to suggest to you the possibility of boycotting the beef trust.

There is no question about the merits of chickens, the Brooklyn Eagle says. They carry on a successful egg business, a gigantic trust of their own, no competitors and all the world for patrons. Their product never is supplanted by an improved article invented by some one who improves on their idea, and such good standing have they as an idea in economics that they are the chief element in the magnet that lures the city man to the country.

Every second man you meet on Broadway, will confess he has plans to go to the country some day to make a living out of chickens. He will grow enthusiastic and unfold the plans. If you give him half a chance. He knows the name of the breed of chickens he means to raise and he knows the kind of incubator he will buy and he knows about chicken houses and chicken "feed" and no end of detail about scientific chicken business. The chicken dream, the chicken lure has something to answer for, something which never gets into the newspapers. The real chicken dreamer knows just how much money he is going to invest in a chicken colony and then he intends to lie back and let the chickens support him. It is to laugh!

"Don't let me prick the chicken bubble," said the city man who has just sold his chicken farm and come back to town. "I don't mind giving up the facts in the case, for no one with the chicken fever would believe me. Every man has to try it for himself. And it's all right; let him. I had fun with chickens for three years and I've no wish to be a kill-joy. Hardly ever a case of chicken fever lasts a city man more than three years.

"The secretary of agriculture and certain students of sociology recommend city people to move to the country and find there the solution of all their problems and the city sentimentalists with shattered nerve systems eagerly grasp the idea. Now, farming is a business the same as any of the other pursuits in life by which men make a living and a certain temperament is required to be successful in it, as well as a great deal of patience. Do city people have much patience? I leave it to you.

"It takes a considerable amount of practical knowledge that farmers have to be born with, a kind of traditional information that never gets into the query column nor any other column of the agricultural periodicals. This knowledge may possibly be included in theoretical farming, but I have never found it there. It's what keeps the city man from succeeding in the country.

"He knows where he can get $5 a dozen for squabs and 60 cents a dozen for eggs and $1 a pound for butter and $3 a pair for broilers all the year round. It sounds pretty good. It isn't the first business proposition that has figured out finely on paper. Now the farmer rarely figures. He saws wood, gets up at 4 a. m. and does the best he can. He is not an enthusiast, and there's a pretty good reason for it.

"The farmer is a patient man. He doesn't dress up much and, without meaning to speak disparagingly, he eats what he can't sell. City people who live in the country sell what they can't eat. The farmer is obliged to live frugally in order to make both ends meet. By the time the city man gets through eating and entertaining his friends there is nothing left. He knows too well what good living is."

WOMAN AS FIREFIGHTER SAVES VALUABLE HOMES

USES A GARDEN HOSE TO FIGHT FLAMES, CHECKING SPREAD UNTIL FIREMEN ARRIVE.

Freeport, L. I.—The courage and intelligence of a woman saved the residences in the West Randall and Residence park sections of this place from almost certain destruction by a forest fire.

Mrs. George Thoney prevented flames from reaching the home of Mrs. Amund Marks, which was close to the burning area, by keeping a stream of water from a garden hose constantly on the Marks carriage house. If the latter structure had caught fire, the house no doubt would have been the flames' prey, and if it had burned many handsome dwellings in Residence park would have been hard to save.

Mrs. Thoney's act was made difficult not only by the intense heat felt for a quarter of a mile in every direction from the blazing trees and underbrush, but also by the thick black smoke which hung over the entire district in a heavy fog. Although many men not so close to the fire as the women in the Marks house were affected by the stifling atmosphere, Mrs. Thoney never wavered in the task she had undertaken. Frequently she was obliged to turn water on her own face to cool it. When the Freeport fire department arrived and tackled the blaze a short distance from Mrs. Mark's home they were amazed to learn how effective Mrs. Thoney's work had been.

The fire was seen first in the north-western part of this village, not far from the West Randall and Residence park districts, where are the fashionable homes of more than a score of wealthy New York business men. Before ten minutes had passed these houses were menaced, and the local firemen were called from their firehouse, more than a mile away. By the time they got within fighting distance of the fire about half a dozen acres had been swept by flames. These acres constituted land covered with shrubby growth and timber. Two barns on the outskirts were destroyed and the Marks' carriage house was slightly damaged, but otherwise the loss from the fire was slight.

When she saw the fire speeding her way Mrs. Marks was in great alarm. She had no idea what to do. Mrs. Thoney, her guest, had little experience fighting fires, but she saw the only way to head off the flying sparks was to turn a stream of water on the stable. She stood alone in the stifling smoke and aimed the stream at the menaced building. When the firemen finally relieved her she was on the point of collapse—not from fear, but from exhaustion.

Galliee.

As I rode slowly down to it over the hills covered with wild flowers and plants and grasses that lifted themselves almost to the knees of the horses, I felt at last: "This is indeed the holy land"—the land dreamed of by the Russian pilgrim in the icy north, and the little Breton boy on the sun-scorched African upland, the land toward which hearts turn from the uttermost parts of the earth, the unique land of promise and of fulfillment. The gesture of the Breton boy came back to my mind as he said: "I shall see the holy land." Surely in a mystic dream he had looked on Galliee. On these quiet waters, far below me, as still as glass, green, hedged about by thickets of wild oleander and by myriads of unknown flowers, the miraculous feet had walked. It was as if the touch of those feet had given to them peace forever—that marvelous peace at which I now was gazing.—Robert Hichens, in Century.

Are Making Study of Flood. Engineers and scientists are making exhaustive studies of the recent floods in Paris, to devise a system which will prevent a repetition of the disaster. It is planned to keep the Seine within its channel either by constructing higher embankments or by carrying the surplus waters around the city in a by-pass channel.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Galena, Kans.—"A year ago last March I fell, and a few days after there was soreness in my right side. In a short time a bunch came and it bothered me so my at night I could not sleep. It kept growing larger and by fall it was as large as a hen's egg. I could not go to bed without a hot water bottle applied to that side. I had one of the best doctors that I would have to be operated on as it was something like a tumor caused by a rupture. I came to you for advice and you told me not to get discouraged. But to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did take it and soon the lump in my side broke and passed away."—Mrs. R. B. Huey, 713 Mineral Ave., Galena, Kans.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Our country is looking across the boundary in the sands, and I have not yet met one who admits that he had made a mistake. There are no mistakes. There is scarcely a woman in the United States that has not a representative in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta."

WHERE ROBE WOULD COUNT

Under Friendly Cover Preacher Might Safely Proceed to Split His Infitives.

"I tried to get a chance to speak to you at church Sunday," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "but the crush was so great that I couldn't push through to where you were." "Yes, wasn't it awful?" replied her hostess, as she flicked a bit of dust from the Gobelien tapestry. "All the common folks in town seem to want to crowd into our church lately. It's too bad they ain't satisfied to stay where they belong. How did you like the sermon?" "Well, as a sermon it was fairly good, but I do wish Doctor Goodman would quit spitting his infitives. I try not to let it make me nervous, but I can't keep from being shocked every time he does it." "I never let them kind of things bother me, but that's where the Episcopalians have the advantage of us. If our preacher would wear a long robe he could split them and we would never notice it."—Kansas City Star.

The Doctor's Data. A Howard girl who was uncertain as to her exact age, as her father and mother were not agreed on the year of her birth, decided to go to the physician who "attended the case." He said: "Why, certainly, my dear girl, I'll go and examine my old books." When he came back to report, he said: "I find your father charged with a girl baby born on the 'steenth day of April, 183—, and I also observe he still owes me for you."—Howard (Kan.) Courier.

POCKET GOPHER CAUSES MUCH DAMAGE TO CROPS

Amount of Injury to Farms Sufficient to Cause Relentless War to Be Waged Against Pesticiferous Little Animal—Natural Enemies Being Killed Off.

Roots of a Young Tree Damaged by Pocket Gophers.

(By LAWRENCE BRUNER.)
The damage caused by pocket gophers is difficult to estimate in dollars, since it is both actual and apparent. However, all agree that the injury is sufficient to make it quite necessary to wage relentless war against the pest. The various estimates of harm done range on the average between $10 and $15 per each 160-acre farm and in some instances as high as one dollar per acre where the injury is in orchards, gardens and potato and alfalfa fields. It is therefore quite within bounds to place the annual damage caused by pocket gophers at several in numbers of these mammals during recent years must be laid to the killing off of their natural enemies, rather than to any other special agency. The natural enemies are owls, hawks, weasels and bullsnakes. The planting and cultivation of certain especially enticing food plants, as alfalfa, potatoes, etc., may also have had some influence in attracting the animals to particular locations.

FRUIT GROWERS' SPRAYING HINTS

Suggestions by Horticultural Department of Agricultural Experiment Station of Wisconsin University.

To spray home orchards and get the best results, the following suggestions are offered by the horticultural department of the agricultural experiment station of the University of Wisconsin.

Fungus diseases and insects usually work upon trees at the same time; therefore use a spray of bordeaux mixture to which some arsenical poison has been added. Ten ounces of paris green, or three pounds of arsenate of lead, added to 50 gallons of bordeaux mixture will control the codling moth or apple worm and apple scab.

Most fruit growers will find it more advisable to purchase arsenicals in the prepared form than to mix them at home, which involves much labor and care. Bordeaux mixture, which is used for spraying to prevent fungus diseases, should be prepared at home. To get the best results, a strong pressure pump with good nozzle that will throw a fine mist spray should be used.

Growers should watch the development of the trees closely at blossoming time and make a thorough application before the calyx of the apple closes. The leaves and stems of branches not fruiting should be covered with spray up to the top of the tree. The spray should be thrown from many directions so as to cover both sides of the leaves thoroughly.

As a general rule the first spraying should be made just before the buds open, with 200 gallons of bordeaux mixture including poison for each 200 trees. The second application should be made just after the blossoms fall, with 350 gallons; the third application ten days later; the fourth two weeks after the third; and the fifth three weeks after the fourth. The last three sprayings should be made with 400 gallons of Bordeaux mixture and poison.

million dollars. This being true it is certainly worth our while to give the matter more than casual attention. The injury caused is due both to the actual devouring of some crops and to the choking out of others, together with injury to machinery. A very little good might result from the gophers mixing and loosening the soil, but this is more than offset by the harm they do by draining irrigating ditches, etc. The different species of pocket gophers live almost entirely beneath the surface of the ground, where they frequently run their galleries to great length from time to time for the purpose of throwing out the dirt which they dig loose in driving their burrows and constructing storerooms, and once a year when seeking mates. During the balance of the year their life is solitary, both the males and the females leading such isolated existences. They are not rapid multipliers, since only one brood is reared each year. The average number of young is two or three, and these are generally born in May or June. The probable cause for the increase

DEVICE FOR TREE PLANTING

To those who will be planting shade and fruit trees, the following method may be of assistance. In preparing for planting stake out the plot having the stakes in line in several directions. After the plot is carefully staked the trouble is to get the tree set on the exact place occupied by the stake. The following plan will overcome this difficulty. Take a board about eight feet long and eight inches diameter, as shown in illustration. Bore a hole in each end and cut a notch in the middle. Place the board with the notch against the stakes and drive wooden or iron pins into the holes B, B. The board can then be removed from the pegs, place the tree in the notch and pack the soil around the roots. The tree will thus be in the exact spot occupied by the stake, and in line with the others.

THIEF ALL HIS LIFE

Murderer Says He Couldn't Resist Committing Burglaries.

Believes Blow on Head Delivered by Father Affected His Brain and Made Criminal of Him—Mother Defends Son.

Springfield, Mass.—Bertram G. Spencer, who recently confessed that he murdered Miss Martha Blackstone, shot Miss Dow and committed many burglaries, says he thinks he brain is affected. His case already is attracting much attention among lawyers and alienists.

"I killed Miss Martha Blackstone in a fit of anger," he said. "Then I shot Miss Harriet Dow. I did not know what I was doing. When the women screamed I lost all control of myself. I would not have harmed a hair of their heads if they had kept quiet."

"I have been a robber since I was a child. I stole knives out of a grocery when I was only nine. Thieving has had an irresistible fascination for me. I have broken into houses in almost every city where I have lived. In Springfield in the past year I committed more than a dozen burglaries. I would get out of bed and go out and rob. After the deed was done my mind seemed to be relieved and I could sleep."

"I think my brain is wrong. My father hit me on the back of the head when I was a boy with the butt of a whip. It left a big dent. Since then my temper has been uncontrollable. Nobody has been so afraid of me as myself. I did not run away from Springfield after the murder because I enjoyed reading about the excitement and the foolish efforts of the police to find a clue. I never dreamed they would get me until I was arrested."

Spencer told how he had traveled to many different parts of the world on a training ship. His relatives had thought naval discipline would curb him, as his father had failed to do so. But he returned, he said, with the same love for thieving and a temper as uncontrollable as ever.

At the time of the San Francisco fire, he said, he acted as a public guard. The report that he had been a member of the burglar bands which terrorized the city was not denied by the police.

In Springfield Spencer said he had broken into more than a dozen homes. "I never knew just what house I was going to tackle when I started out," he said. "I would often wake up soon after retiring and toss and turn until I was all in a fever with the desire to go out and rob. As soon as I struck the cool night air and knew I was in the game again I felt relieved. I cannot describe the fascination of the sport. When it once gets a man it won't let go."

I did not intend to rob the Dow house the night I killed Miss Blackstone and shot Miss Dow in the head. I left home about seven o'clock and walked toward Round Hill. When I got to the Dow house I saw there were only women there, so I decided to try it. I got through a bedroom window, pulled out my searchlight and looked into a closet. There was nothing there but clothes. On a dresser I found a green Indian belt and the silver brooch which Miss Dow identified. I put them in my pocket and then went into the dining room and leveled my gun at the women in the next room. All I wanted was money. I would not have cared how little they gave me, so long as they made no fuss."

The confession is now in the possession of District Attorney Stephen S. Taff.

When his mother and sister visited Spencer in his cell he broke down.

"Oh, God, I had to tell," he sobbed, as he buried his head in his mother's arms like a child. "I didn't realize what sins I had committed until they began to question me. Then they all came up before me like so many ghosts. They frightened me, so I could not rest until I recognized them and said they were all true."

"With my daughter I have just returned from the cell where my son is locked up," said Mrs. Spencer, with quivering voice. "Oh, it is terrible, terrible. I never dreamed that all this was to come into our lives."

"I do not think that my son, Bertram, can be considered responsible for the deeds charged against him. He did what he did when he was practically insane. He did not realize what he was doing."

Explanation of Youthful Suitor That Doubtless Satisfied Father of His Adored One.

"Yes, sir," said the pale youthful suitor; "I've come to ask you for your daughter's hand. She is fair as lilies, sweet as honeysuckle, tender as violet, charming—"

"Is that Mary you are talking about?" asked papa.

"Yes, sir. It is a mere formality, I know, this asking for your daughter's hand; but we thought it would be pleasant to you if it were observed."

Mary's papa stiffened.

"And may I inquire," he asked, "who suggested that asking my consent to Mary's marriage was a mere formality?"

"You may, sir," replied the young man, simply. "It was Mary's mother."

AWFUL BURNING ITCH CURED IN A DAY

"In the middle of the night of March 30th I woke up with a burning itch in my two hands and I felt as if I could pull them apart. In the morning the itching had gone to my chest and during that day it spread all over my body. I was red and raw from the top of my head to the soles of my feet and I was in continual agony from the itching. I could neither lie down nor sit up. I happened to see about Cuticura Remedies and I thought I would give them a trial. I took a good bath with the Cuticura Soap and used the Cuticura Ointment. I put it on from my head down to my feet and then went to bed. On the first of April I felt like a new man. The itching was almost gone. I continued with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and during that day the itching completely left me. Frank Gridley, 325 East 43rd Street, New York City, Apr. 27, 1909." ## County Sunday School Convention.

The eleventh annual convention of the Charlevoix County Sunday School Association, which was held in Boyne City Wednesday and Thursday, was not so largely attended as usual, owing no doubt to the continued cold rains which kept the country delegates away. Otherwise it was a very pleasant and satisfactory gathering.

Those in attendance from East Jordan were Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Robertson, Mrs. Mary E. Heston, Mrs. Will Howard, Mrs. W. P. Porter, Miss Agnes Porter, Mrs. Jamison, Rev. A. D. Grigsby and Rev. W. W. Lamport.

M. H. Robertson, county president, wielded the gavel throughout the sessions and Mrs. Heston, secretary, kept the records. The meeting was called to order at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, with Rev. G. J. Rea of Boyne City in charge of devotionals.

Rev. J. A. Bready gave the address of welcome, which was responded to by Rev. W. W. Lamport. During the session of the day and of Thursday forenoon papers and addresses were given by Rev. H. A. Putnam of Charlevoix on "Present Prohibition Problems," "Mistaken Work in the Sunday School" by Mrs. W. H. White of Boyne City; "County Organization, What It Means" by G. A. Weaver of Petoskey; and these were followed by discussions.

A very interesting feature of the Wednesday session was the children's hour, devoted to songs and recitations by the little folks and closing with a talk to them by Rev. A. D. Grigsby.

On Wednesday evening the audience listened to echoes from the International convention held at Washington, D. C., May 18-26.

E. S. Stacks of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Smith of Boyne City, who represented the county at that convention, gave most interesting accounts of what they saw and heard.

Other features of the convention were the reports of various officers and the election of new for the ensuing year, the latter resulting in the choice of E. S. Stacks of Charlevoix for president and Miss McCartney of the same place for secretary-treasurer.

E. S. Stacks, Miss McCartney, Mrs. W. P. Pyrtter and Mrs. M. H. Robertson were chosen delegates to the state convention at Grand Rapids, November next.

Thanks were returned to the friends of Boyne City for generous hospitality, to the president and secretary for faithful and efficient service, and to Captain Weaver and Mrs. Geo. Jepson for courtesies in transportation.

The following resolution relative to local option was also unanimously adopted, the entire evening audience participating in the vote.

Resolved, that, as representatives of the various Sunday Schools of Charlevoix county, responsible to a large degree for the moral and spiritual welfare of our children and youth, we express our great pleasure in the beneficent results that have followed the banishment of the saloon from our midst; and believing that two years is too brief a term in which to test fully the practical workings of local option we are opposed to the re-submission of the question at the next spring election; and we call upon all our fellow-workers and friends to do all they can to discourage and prevent the signing of petitions for such re-submission should an effort be made to bring it before the people again.

The Conservation of Nature's Resources.

Applies as well to our physical state as to material things. C. J. Budlong, Washington, R. I. realized his condition and took warning before it was too late. He says, "I suffered severely from kidney trouble, the disease being hereditary in our family. I have taken four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and now consider myself thoroughly cured. This should be a warning to all not to neglect taking Foley's Kidney Remedy until it is too late." Htie's Drug Store.

Add This Fact to Your Store of Knowledge.

Kidney disease advances so rapidly that many a person is firmly in its grasp before aware of its progress. Prompt attention should be given the slightest symptom of kidney disorder. ## GOOD, HONEST, SQUARE-DEAL Medicines like those of Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, warrant their makers in printing their every ingredient, which they do, upon their outside wrappers, verifying the correctness of the same under oath. This open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves. Furthermore, it warrants physicians in prescribing them largely as they do in their worst cases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

Is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach and bowels, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), liver, bowels (as mucous diarrhea), or other organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful yet gently-acting invigorating tonic and nerveine.

For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulae of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American, medicinal, forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum. Don't do it.

F. P. ROBBINS

Pointers on Alfalfa Growing.

Bruce Odell of Cadillac, Wexford County, Western Michigan, is having exceptional success in raising alfalfa. He has been experimenting with this form of vegetation for eight years and has mastered the art of securing profitable crops.

Select a well tilled, well manured piece of land, free from weeds and June grass, put on about all the manure you can plow under, plow it in the fall, put on lime and drag it in. Don't be sparing with the manure or lime as you are not preparing for one crop but ten, twenty, thirty, or more and will get the expense back with every crop after it gets started.

From the twenty-fifth of May to the tenth of June is the best time to sow alfalfa in this climate but if the season is favorable it may be sown as late as the fifteenth of August, but there are many failures from late sowing and no chance of getting a crop the first year, while if sown about June first, a crop of one-half ton to one ton per acre may be cut the first year.

It is best to sow the seed broadcast and then thoroughly drag in. As alfalfa does not thicken up it is necessary to have a good even stand and therefore it is best to sow half of the seed one way of the field and sow the other half crosswise of the first sowing.

Immediately after sowing the seed and dragging it in sow broadcast on the land at least five hundred pounds per acre of dirt from an old alfalfa field, the longer the field from which the dirt is taken has been in alfalfa the better, and immediately after the dirt is sown drag the land thoroughly. If this dirt can be sown on a cloudy day or late in the afternoon it is better as this dirt carries the nitrogen producing bacteria that works on alfalfa and without which it cannot be successfully grown and if exposed to sunlight the bacteria in the dirt is liable to be killed. A small amount of this dirt from an old alfalfa field will inoculate the soil of a new field if properly applied.

First Aid to Illiterates. Uncle Joe Cannon had an amusing experience with a waiter in a Kansas City hotel during his last visit to that city. Being in no mood to select his dinner, he had tossed aside, after a glance, the menu presented to him by his waiter, saying: "Bring me a good dinner."

EAST JORDAN LUMBER CO. FRED KAUFFMANN'S 'BIG WHITE SHOPS'. WOULD you want your mother to be the figure in the left hand picture? That is a portrait of the mothers of thousands of other men! Would you want your father to be the one represented in the right hand picture? And your little sister to be as the child here shown? The fathers, and the sisters, of thousands of men are as these! But if ever we find no choice but to thus rap the life from our fellow creatures in order to make a living, we will quit the business! The big point is that FRED KAUFFMANN WHO TAILORS OUR GARMENTS don't find himself up against any such choice! And, rightly viewed, neither do any of the tailors or 'clothes-manufacturers' who pile up rotten profits on the ruins of human life! Look at that picture in the middle. That is one view of a part of Fred Kauffmann's 'big white shops' as the artist sees it. He wants happy workers. They do better work. He wants sunshiny work-rooms. Good work can't come out of dark holes. He wants elbow-room. Many a slip in clothes-making comes from crowding! We have ideals and also business sense. BOTH are best served by the same kind of conditions. Better conditions. Healthful conditions. Clean, bright, stimulating conditions. 'We are for Success!' all right, but not at the cost of human souls! AND WE HAVE PROVED, AND ARE PROVING EVERY DAY, that SUCCESS does not need to have the sweat shop price-tag on it! Every stitch of Fred Kauffmann's work is done on his own premises—under his own eye—in OUR OWN SUNLIGHT! Do you care? You bet you do. We show 500 new Spring Woolen Samples, and our tape is waiting for you. WE want to call your attention to our FRED KAUFFMANN book of samples for good, dressy, 'Made To Your Measure' Suits. We want you to know that there is not a better way to get a good, perfect-fitting Suit than to have us take care of your measurements and by learning from you what kind of a suit you require. We guarantee you a perfect fit. We get most of our orders through satisfied customers who are delighted with their suits, and wanting to do their friends a favor, advise them to see us. We are so confident we can please you that we do not require any deposit until you know that you have a perfect fit—then it's so evident that it's a bargain you will find it a pleasure to pay the price. W. P. Porter, Rev. W. W. Lampport, E. A. Lewis, and Elder Dudley attended the local option rally at Petoskey Monday which, they say, was a great affair. The platform meeting of the afternoon was addressed by representatives from the various towns of the counties represented and showed that as a whole the working of local option was satisfactory to the public, although, as a matter of course, there were enemies and croakers. There were some cases of illicit selling of liquors, but the percentage was a mere cipher compared with what was sold in wet days. The social and financial improvements were very manifest in most quarters. The address of Ex-Gov. Hanly of Indiana in the evening was great in every sense and profoundly impressed his hearers. Both meetings packed the opera house to its utmost capacity. There were over one hundred representatives of Charlevoix county present.

About thirty young friends of Miss Verschel Lorraine perfected a genuine surprise on that popular young lady on Monday evening and report a glorious time. Refreshments, games and hearty enjoyment made the hours fly.

Miss Gladys Kenney entertained a dozen of her young lady friends last Friday evening at her home. No gentlemen were allowed around although their clothing was very tough in evidence. When the party was over the guests left by the back door and left a bunch of youths out in front, waiting at the church.

James Cameron, aged 60 years, a pioneer lumberman of Michigan, died at his home in Central Lake first of this week. He was one of three brothers who came to Central Lake when they were young men, later starting the Cameron Lumber company and also running a general store. In late years he had given up active business and had led a retired life. One daughter, Bella, and two sons, Ralph and Allan, survive him. His wife died about four years ago. The American flag association has, according to its custom for several years past, issued a pamphlet to the governor of every state, the mayor of every American city, to the American press, to the officers and members of all patriotic societies, and to American citizens to remind them that June 14 is flag day and asking for the cooperation of all in the observance of the day. Flag day has become more universally observed each year. It marks the anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes as the flag for the United States and the celebration this year will mark the 133rd anniversary. The most common and universal mode of observance is the display of the flag from private residences as well as public buildings.

The difference between a wet and a dry town was exemplified in Pellston Sunday when several boys, minors, returned from Mackinaw on the night train in a drunken condition, apparently having had no difficulty in getting liquor in Mackinaw's "good saloons," even on Sunday. A saloon keeper who is so greedy for the almighty dollar that he must sell to children should be put out of business even in wet territory.

There is considerable excitement in the Farnsworth neighborhood near Mesick over the report of Stephen Crow finding gold on his farm while digging for a gravel pit. While the quantity said to be found is small it is thought a richer vein will develop at a greater depth. It has been pointed out that owing to the fact that the land where the find was made is of glacial formation the find will not develop into anything more than a pocket with the mother lode far to the northward, perhaps in the Hudson Bay county.

Choosing the Lesser Evil.

The proverbial wit of the Irish jockey is oftentimes mixed with an undercurrent of stern reality that is as touching as it is eloquent. A gentleman driving through Sackville street, Dublin, the other day on an outside car commented on the wretched appearance of the horse. Said he, "Pat, you ought to be taken up for cruelty to animals, driving such an old screw as that."
"Be gor, sur," was the quick reply, "if I didn't drive that, I'd be taken up for cruelty to a wife and six children."—St. James' Gazette.

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your doctor offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM—It pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

HOME OF VENOMOUS SNAKES

Deadly Reptiles Have Pre-empted Island in the Center of New England Lake.

One of those strange freaks of animal and reptile distribution that puzzle the naturalist is found on Rattlesnake Island, in Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H.

The island is one of the largest in the lake as well as the most picturesque. Its name forbids trespass and it remains today as virgin as when the Indians gave the lake its musical name.

Just why the snakes should have chosen this particular island for their abode is a mystery, although an event of a few years ago made it clear how they might have reached it.

Perhaps he was a bit nervous, for he forgot to put out his fire and the wind fanned it into a blaze. A large part of the island was burned over and during the next few days many rattlesnakes were found on the mainland and the neighboring islands.

Dragged to Death by Kite. A boy named William Fletcher met a fearful death in a most singular fashion at San Francisco the other day, being dragged off his feet by a kite he was flying and pulled over the precipitous heights above a quarry, dropping a distance of 250 feet and meeting instant death.

The kite was a monster affair and soon threatened to break away. The youngster, loath to lose his plaything, held on firmly, using all his strength to haul it down.

The huge kite, helped by a strong wind, began to drag him over the ground. The boy dug his heels into the earth in a desperate endeavor to save himself from the impending death, but the toy was too strong for him. He was dragged inch by inch over the ground to the edge of the precipice.

Gardening Under Difficulties. Mrs. Lenora A. Hamlin in The Survey for April tells about a small boy in South Chicago who became interested in a little garden planted near his tenement house.

Rest in Pneumonia. No greater mistake is made than constantly to disturb a child suffering with pneumonia. To give medicine every hour night and day, and keep the child awake, is to retard convalescence.

Extraordinary Surgical Feat. A wonderful surgical operation was performed recently at one of the principal hospitals of Berlin. A patient was suffering from an attack of paralysis following an accident.

Change of Fashion. "Was that a complimentary banquet you attended?" "No," replied the statesman. "Complimentary banquets have gone out of style. Banquets are now given for the purpose of roasting things, or people of whom you disapprove."

Of Course. "There is one man who no matter how enterprising he is, wishes to keep his business on a dead level." "Who is that?" "The undertaker."

Indian Land

Much Suffering and Hardship to Be Endured in Proving Up

By G. WELLESLEY BRABBIT

IT LOOKS considerably better than it feels to draw a number entitling one to homestead a quarter-section of land in the new Indian reservations recently allotted for settlement in South Dakota.

To acquire title, or to prove up, within 14 months, from $1.50 to $6 an acre must be paid in cash to the government, according to the quality of the land to select from.

Then he (or she) will have to have two horses, with harnesses, wagon, at least one cow, some implements necessary to do the required land improvement, house, barn, well.

After 14 months' residence, depending on the location, nearness to a railroad and the amount of improvements made during that time, the land would perhaps be worth, according to the present value of land in that vicinity in South Dakota, from $20 to $35 an acre, or from $4,000 to $5,000.

Of course many will start homesteading on less and live in a sod house to begin with and suffer all kinds of privations during the first few crop years.

Another thing not generally known and about which little, if anything, has been said, is the fact that besides the land here referred to are thousands of acres of land selected or set aside by the government for the Indians.

Approve Human Economic Measure

By JAMES R. CROZIER

At the recent convention of the Massachusetts state branch, A. F. of L., the savings bank insurance and old age annuity measures were unanimously indorsed and the secretary was directed to send letters to all the labor unions in the state calling attention to the beneficial features of the scheme.

In my opinion it is only a matter of time when savings bank insurance will become an adjunct of every labor union in the state, because its benefits need only to be mentioned in order to be appreciated.

Here is an opportunity for trade unionists to obtain, for a trifling monthly sum an old age annuity or a life insurance, guaranteed by the laws of the state—an opportunity which must certainly appeal to every intelligent wage-earner.

I expect that very soon savings bank insurance will be a recognized and prominent adjunct of trade union work and that every labor union whose life is insurable will have either a life, an endowment or an annuity policy.

Many Dangers Attached to Flirting

By BETTY VINCENT

Promiscuous flirting is about the cheapest occupation in which a girl can indulge. Moreover, it seriously injures her prospects of securing a desirable husband if she happens to want one.

No young man, not even the one she honors with her fleeting attentions, thinks more of her for it, and very many persons think less. The girl who sees herself as others see her will never flirt.

"I am known to all my friends as a heartless flirt," writes a young woman. "My fiance objects to my flirting, but I can't seem to cure myself of it. He says I must choose between him and flirting. What shall I do?"

That depends on how much you think of the young man. If you have any great consideration for him you will give him up, for he could never be happy with you. You seem to be proud of having earned the characterization of a flirt, yet it is one which any self-respecting young woman should be ashamed of.

Roses Made of Ribbon

NEW YORK is showing, on millinery and for decorative purposes in several other ways, roses made of ribbon. Each petal is cut out and made double, that is, two petals are stitched together in a tiny seam, with the satin surfaces placed together.

These roses are made around millinery centers, and millinery foliage and buds are used with them. Those pictured here show centers of stamens, but ribbon folded about a small cone-shaped ball of cotton, representing the unblown center of a rose, may be substituted for stamens, with good effect.

These roses, made in several light tints, form an exquisite wreath for a summer hat. As they may be made from bits of ribbon (using short lengths in several shades of one color for the large one) they are not expensive for those people who are handy enough to make them.

The top of a good sized drinking glass or cup will serve for a guide by which to cut out a pattern of paper from which the ribbon petals may be cut.

Millinery foliage, which has seen service, with buds and stems, is easily freshened up and used with these pretty roses, so that one may make a half dozen for a wreath at a small expense.

The method of making them is simple. Place the circles of ribbon in pairs together, with the satin face of the ribbon turned inward. Machine-stitch these disks in a seam one-eighth of an inch deep. Cut the double disk thus made into halves. Each petal is made by gathering or plaiting the semicircle resulting along the straight edge. Sew the petals about the center of stamens or bud, and wind a bit of thread about the stem, finally tying it firmly.

These roses made in light pink, pale blue, maize and pale green make an exquisite decoration, set about the brim of a lace or net hat or on a midsummer straw or hair braid. Rose pink in several shades and cream color look well together. All white and pale buff make another beautiful color combination. These roses make no attempt to follow nature in coloring, and are very handsome on one-color hats made in a color like that of the straw. Gray or blue look particularly well.

If a very large size petal is made it is better to tack a tiny wire (called tie wire) along the seam to aid in shaping the petal after it is sewed to place. The edges are to be curled back like those of the natural rose. The picture shows very clearly the appearance of both the large and small rose when finished.

Straw turbans have huge high-standing brims which give a tailored line. Occasionally this is relieved by a bow of velvet.

Facings of brown or black velvet are this spring's touch. The contrast is generally becoming, and is a test of good workmanship. This latter point, of course, will mark the amateur from the expert.

These jewel shades in rich silken fabrics have not been equalled in anything shown heretofore. Burnt topaz is a remarkable shade of deep rich yellow. Ruby is the deep red of the popular late winter dinner gown.

which to cut out a pattern of paper from which the ribbon petals may be cut. By trimming away a little of the edge, to reduce the size, a second pattern for a smaller petal is made.

Another slight trimming away will make the pattern for the third or smallest sized petal.

The method of making them is simple. Place the circles of ribbon in pairs together, with the satin face of the ribbon turned inward. Machine-stitch these disks in a seam one-eighth of an inch deep. Cut the double disk thus made into halves. Each petal is made by gathering or plaiting the semicircle resulting along the straight edge.

These roses made in light pink, pale blue, maize and pale green make an exquisite decoration, set about the brim of a lace or net hat or on a midsummer straw or hair braid. Rose pink in several shades and cream color look well together.

If a very large size petal is made it is better to tack a tiny wire (called tie wire) along the seam to aid in shaping the petal after it is sewed to place. The edges are to be curled back like those of the natural rose.

Straw turbans have huge high-standing brims which give a tailored line. Occasionally this is relieved by a bow of velvet.

Facings of brown or black velvet are this spring's touch. The contrast is generally becoming, and is a test of good workmanship. This latter point, of course, will mark the amateur from the expert.

THE LAST VOYAGE OF THE DONNA ISABEL

BY RANDALL PARRISH
AUTHOR OF "BAR HANCOCK OF PLACER, ETC."

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the introduction of John Stephens, an adventurous Massachusetts man marooned by authorities at Valparaiso, Chile. Being interested in mining operations in Bolivia, he was denounced by Chile as an insurrectionist and as a consequence was hiding. At his hotel his attention was attracted by an Englishman and a young woman. Stephens rescued the young woman from a drunken officer. He was thanked by her, Admiral of the Peruvian navy, who told him that she had been married between Chile and Peru and named him the office of captain. He desired that that night the Esmeralda, a Chilean vessel, should be captured. Stephens accepted the commission. Stephens met a motley crew, to which he was assigned the command of the vessel. They successfully captured the vessel supposed to be the Esmeralda, through strategy. Capt. Stephens gave directions for the departure of the craft. He entered the cabin and discovered the English woman and her maid. Stephens quickly learned the wrong vessel had been captured. It was Lord Darlington's private yacht, the lord's wife and maid being aboard. He explained the situation to the lady. Then First Mate Tuttle laid bare the plot, saying that the Sea Queen had been taken in order to go to the Antarctic Circle. Tuttle explained that on a former voyage he had learned that the Donna Isabel was lost in 1753. He had found it frozen in a huge case of ice on an island and could not reach it. Stephens consented to be the captain of the expedition. He told Lady Darlington—she was greatly alarmed, but expressed confidence in him. The Sea Queen encountered a vessel in the fog. Stephens attempted to communicate. This caused a fierce struggle and he was overpowered. Tuttle finally securing the situation. Then the Sea Queen headed south again. Under Tuttle's guidance the vessel made progress toward the goal. De Nova, the mate told Stephens that he believed Tuttle, now acting as skipper, insane because of his queer actions. Stephens was awakened by crashing of glass. He saw Tuttle in the grip of a spasm of religious mania and overcame him. The sailor upon regaining his senses was taken ill. Tuttle committed suicide by shooting. Upon vote of the crew Stephens assumed the leadership and the men decided to continue the treasure hunt. The islands being supposed to be only 200 miles distant. Tuttle was buried in the sea. Lady Darlington pronouncing the service. Stephens awaking from sleep saw the ghost, supposed to have formed the basis for Tuttle's religious mania. Upon advice of Lady Darlington, Stephens started to probe the ghost. He came upon Capt. Sanchez, the drunken officer he had humiliated in Chile. He found that at Sanchez's inspiration, the crew of the Sea Queen was to go on in further search. De Nova and Stephens conspired then in a flat bid. Lady Darlington was taken ill. The Sea Queen started northward.

CHAPTER XIX.—Continued.

"They've had enough," I said, breathing hard. "Go back on the bridge, De Nova. Now, you lads, get busy. If one of you soldiers, or talks back to me again, he'll go to his bunk for the rest of this voyage. Get up, Anderson, and stop that growling! You fellows may as well learn first as last that I am commanding the Sea Queen, and that we are homeward bound."

Within the space of five minutes I had the whole gang at it, a profane, shuffling crew enough, yet carrying out my orders after a fashion, and sufficiently cowed to be obedient. At last I dispatched the starboard watch below, and leaving De Nova in charge of the bridge, started back to the companion. To my surprise Lady Darlington, muffled to the eyes, still stood, half protected, in the open door of the chart-house.

"What in the world are you doing here in all this snow and blow?" I questioned.

"Waiting for you," she explained, her eyes glowing. "I could not go to the cabin until I knew you had really won. Is it true that we are homeward bound?"

"Yes," I answered, not altogether happy over her evident pleasure. "The Sea Queen has attained her farthest southing. Are you glad?"

"Glad!" Her gloved hands sought mine. "In all my life I was never happier."

"Impulsive words, natural as they were, nevertheless hurt me, and perhaps my face exhibited it. Her eyes fell.

"You cannot know how much I have suffered on this voyage," she said, regretfully. "Only a woman could. My heart cries out for relief, but it is not because I wish to lose any friendship formed on board."

"Yet that is what being homeward bound must inevitably mean."

Her long lashes were uplifted, disclosing the depths of those gray eyes.

"Not with me, Mr. Stephens; I am not a woman to forget."

CHAPTER XX.

In which the Yacht Meets Disaster. I have been endeavoring to recall in sequence the occurrences of the three days and nights following our turning northward, but it is all chaos, vague, confused—an expanse of sleepless hours, raging seas, snow, sleet, and ice, in the midst of which we battled for life in as desperately terrific a fight as men ever waged against nature. I can see and feel it all clearly enough, yet the incidents are so mingled that the separate days and nights appear one continuous event, without beginning or end. I hear the ceaseless howling of the wind, the growl of grinding ice, the smiting of tons of water, the threshing of loosened canvas, the rattle of blocks aloft, the thousand noises emitted by the struggling fabric under-foot. I see the swirl of snow; the crested seas, boiling in madness; the gleam of pursuing ice-fields; the towering pinnacles of giant bergs overhanging our mast-heads; the flying clouds, and the settling down about us of the ghostly frost fog. I feel the wild plunge down into the hollow; the sickening, staggering effort to climb up; the dizzy balancing upon the crest, and that awful drop again into the hell below!

No man on board will ever know how we made it; how we ever found passage through those wind-lashed channels; how we ever kept upright under the pounding of that sea; how the Sea Queen ever shook her trembling decks free from the tons of ice and water, and rose staggering to the crest. Once our engines broke and for two hours we rolled helplessly, while McKnight and the Chilean tinkered at the damaged machinery, and the great waves buried us, and smashed the chart-house into fragments. Once the rudder-chains became fouled with ice, and we swung into the trough of the sea hurled over until our lower yards trailed in the water and half the yacht shivered beneath the smother, we hanging on for our lives, drenched and buffeted by the waves. The jib-boom snapped like a pipestem, and a huge, ugly hole was ripped out of the forward bulwarks. Up to the neck in icy water we chopped away the raffle, and flung it overboard. Gustafson, shrieking wildly for help, went with the litter, while his mates bore Symes below groaning from a broken leg.

Merciful heavens, how that ice came down, pursuing us like the very Fiend! Once it pressed so closely against our quarter that the sea, rebounding from off its front, boarded us, sweeping aft in a vast wall. It caught Dade opening the companion door, hurled him smothering backward and flooded the cabin a foot-deep in icy water. Yet we held to it, our eyes aching, our limbs frozen, our skins stiff with ice, the exposed flesh of our faces one festering frostbite, bruised by the shocks, half dead from fatigue, dizzy from the battle. But it was no seamanship which saved us; it was a merciful Providence, for at times the smother was so thick we ran into it blindly, not daring to broach to with all that ice after us, driven by the wind, and not knowing what was ten yards ahead, or ten yards behind.

During all that time I scarcely left the deck, although De Nova served his watch on the bridge in the flying spray. Dade fed me as best he could, and what brief snatches of sleep I caught were on the divan in the cabin, my icy clothes drying on my body. I saw nothing of the women; there was no time, no opportunity. I doubt if either could have kept upright amid the awful pitching of the yacht, for I was obliged myself to creep from one hand-grasp to another. So I saw nothing of the ladies, but Dade succeeded in taking them food—cold provender, for the galley was wave-washed, the cook driven below—although how the lad ever managed it is a mystery, and he reported that Celeste clung to her bunk, sick and frightened, but that Lady Darlington was about and dressed whenever he went in.

Some time during the third day the wind had blown itself out, or else we had been driven beyond the sweep of it. Anyhow, it died down into faint puffs, but the sea remained heavy, the fog thickening as the gale ceased. This curtain, coupled with the sparse light there was, left the decks so dark that we attempted little clearing up, merely pointing the yacht's nose more directly northward at half-speed, trusting the Almighty to furnish us with clear water. Indeed, there was nothing else to do with that ice-pack back of us, and the fierce seas pounding our poop. Besides, I had come to the end of my endurance, and when De Nova came limping forward, hanging to the life-line, to take his watch, I crept below more dead than alive, and clawed my way across the cabin. Lady Darlington stood braced in her doorway, yet for the life of me I could not speak, although I tried—my head nodded on my shoulders, and I fell forward across my bunk, asleep before I even struck the mattress. Dade said she made him pull off my boots and loosen my muffler, standing over him until it was done.

It was not sleep—it was more like death, for I never stirred or knew anything. I lay exactly as I fell, utterly insensible to either noise or motion. It was Dade's vigorous shaking that finally aroused me, nor did he desist until he had me sitting up in the bunk, my eyes wide open.

"What time is it, Dade?"

"Two o'clock, sir."

"Morning?"

"No, sir, afternoon; but the fog is that thick outside you can't see your own nose."

"Then I've been asleep for six hours. Why didn't you call me earlier?"

"Mr. De Nova told me to let you lie, sir; I guess the lady asked him to do it."

I had pulled on my boots, and was standing up, gazing out through the door into the cabin, where Dade still remained, watching to see that I did not go back to sleep again. Suddenly there came a tremendous shock which sent me sprawling forward, and flung Dade headlong against the wall. As I struck the deck a thunderous crash and roar sounded forward; the stern of the vessel seemed to spring upward into the air, sliding us both down against the front of the cabin. Instantly there followed two muffled reports, accompanied by a further up-titling of the stern. Everything loose came tumbling down upon us, and as I pulled myself to my knees, I found the deck slanting upward like the steep side of a hill.

"Oh, Lord, sir, what's been done?"

"We've hit something hard; ice, likely. Jump, now, and help me get out the women."

The awful, sickening poise of the stricken boat, swinging stern-up to the motion of the waves, was enough to shatter the courage of any man, and I could read speechless terror in Dade's face. Yet the lad stayed with me, and together we clambered up the incline of the deck, gripping at the table to help us. The door of the after-cabin was either locked or had become stuck; I did not wait to learn which, but burst it open with a swift, heavy kick. The light streamed in upon a scene of chaos—overturned furniture and broken glass. Celeste lay in one corner screaming hysterically; Lady Darlington was upon her knees, holding herself partially erect by clasping the brass rail of the bed.

"Quick!" I cried, before either could speak. "Gather up all the warm clothing you can reach. We must get on deck. Here, let me help you!"

We were scarcely a minute at the task; and the four of us, laden with apparel, slid and scrambled down the slope of cabin floor to the companion-steps. Here I caught Lady Darlington more closely to me, helping her climb the inverted stairs. Her face was pale, her eyes fearless.

"What is it? What has happened?"

"I hardly know myself; only that we have hit something and are badly damaged."

It was like night on deck, the enveloping fog so dense that a human form was indistinguishable five feet away. Fortunately, but little wind stirred, and the sea had gone down. I could distinguish De Nova's voice as he sang out a sharp order. I holloved my hands, and hailed. A dim smudge leaped over the rail above, and peered down.

"Was zat you, monsieur?"

"Ay, with the women. What is it, De Nova, a total smash?"

"By gar, oui! Ze whole bow cave in; ze deck crush' to ze main-hatch; ze after-hullhead was ze only sing w'at held us up. Sacre, it not hold long."

I grasped the entire situation instantly, realizing the desperate need of haste, of cool, intelligent command.

"Send a man down here to help Dade tote up provisions. Jump lively, now; get biscuits and canned goods, my lads, and whatever blankets you can find. Hustle for your lives! Now, De Nova, reach over, and help the women up—easy; that's right."

I held tightly to my lady, clinging to the rail, as I crept across. The black, shapeless figures of several men, whose faces I could not distinguish in the gloom, were clambering about the longboat.

"Everything fitted?"

"Ay, ay, sir."

"What have you got?"

"Oars, mast, canvas, and fresh water."

I reached forward to assure myself that the rudder had been properly shipped, and the plugs securely driven in.

"All right; here come the provisions. Dump them in anywhere, lads. Yes, go back for another load, but for God's sake hurry! De Nova, help me stow the women; gently, but quickly now. Stand by, all of you. Here is the rest of the provender. Now tumble in, lads, and let fall. Ease her off, ease her off, you fools!"

The black smudge dropped downward, and leaning far over the slanting rail I could see it strike the water and ride free. The sodden, wrecked hull beneath me rose and fell with a heavy, sickening motion which brought the heart up into my throat.

"Are those all the living men left, Mr. De Nova?" I called down, for the first time realizing how few they were.

"Zey was all I know."

Another voice spoke, gruff from excitement.

"The fellows forward had no chance, sir; all alive are here."

I swung over the side, and shot down the line into the boat.

"Cast off, then. Oars, men! the yacht is going under."

With a single sweep of the hastily piled blades we were beyond sight of the plunging hull, yet we had not taken half a dozen strokes before we were tossed roughly by a sudden convulsion of the sea.

"My God, she's gone!" shouted a voice forward.

All I could distinguish within the boat were the two women next me at the stern—Celeste, with her face buried in her arms, and my lady staring into the icy fog.

Tolstoy's Plea for Justice. Justice demands that you should take from people no more than you give them. But there is a way of weighing your work and the work of others of which you avail yourself; besides, you may at any time be incapacitated for work, and you will have to make use of the work of other people. Therefore try to give more than you take so as not to be unjust.—Tolstoy.

CANADA FORGING AHEAD

Thomas C. Shotwell, one of the greatest market reporters in America, writes from New York, under date of March 20th, and says:

"The tariff tangle with Canada which President Taft has taken in hand is of importance chiefly because of the multitude of American farmers that are crossing into the Canadian northwest. Most conservative estimates of their number place it at 150,000 for 1910. Some say as many as 250,000 will cross. These are all expert farmers and their places in the United States are being filled by untrained men from Europe and from the cities. Canada is gaining rapidly in agricultural importance and within a few years the United States will have to call on the Dominion for wheat. Production of wheat in the United States is not keeping pace with the population. A tariff war would complicate the problem of getting food. Even now Canadian farmers are getting higher prices for their cattle on the hoof and Canadian housewives are paying less for meat in the butcher shops than farmers and housewives are receiving and paying in the United States. The tariff on cattle and wheat must be removed as between the two countries before long."
