Republican Banquet

To Be Held in East Jordan next Friday.

The Charlevoix County Republican Club will hold its first annual banquet at the Town Hall in East Jordan Friday evening, July 15. The banquet is slated to begin at 8:30 and it is expected that several hundred republicans from all over the county will be present. All republicans or others are urged to come, so do not remain away simply because you are not a member of the club. An opportunity will be given you to join and the membership fee is only 25 cents.

Several outside speakers will be present, including at least one of the candidates for governor and Congressman Francis H. Dodds, and the program of speeches will equal that of any Republican Club in Northern Michigan.

Tickets for the banquet are sold at $1.00 and can be obtained from the different vice presidents through the county or from any of the other officers of the Club.

The Charlevoix County Republican Club was born Feb'y 8th last when the Republican County Committee were called together at Charlevoix for the purpose of perfecting this organization.

A temporary organization was perfected at that time the officers to hold until the time of the banquet when a permanent organization will be perfected and new officers elected for ensuing year.

City of Boys Opens July 15

Unique Municipality Ready for Second Season on Shore of Pine Lake.

Boy City, Michigan, June 5, 1910—This unique municipality of boys, for boys, and governed by boys, will resume civic operations July 22. From that date until August 18 the city will be in the hands of its embryo politicians, will govern itself, hold an exciting campaign and election, have its own water works and electric light plant, listen to its own band, produce a circus, "such as Barnum never had," swim, boat, fish, play ball, hike across country, listen to the obantauqua lecturers, see moving picture shows, sleep in tents, run its bank, grocery and postoffice and conduct its own church, camera club and newspaper.

Although the organization by wards into a city will not continue longer than three weeks, the grounds will be open for the boys' use from July 15 until September 1.

Realizes Brown's Life Dream.

Boy City is the culmination of Judge Willis Brown's life's dream. Judge Brown is known as the world's champion believer in the inherent goodness of all boys. He has toured the country pleading for a better understanding of boy's nature and demonstrating his theories, and last summer he founded National Boy City on the shores of Pine Lake, one and one-half miles from Charlevoix.

Boys from twenty cities became citizens of Boy City. Two brothers came with twenty dollars, remained three weeks and went home with nineteen. Others succeed in partially paying their expenses by entering some line of Boy City business. Each group from a city constituted a ward elected its alderman. Other city officers were chosen and a police force appointed. All city employees and officials received a small salary.

Boys Form Eating Association.

Boys brought their tents and provided their food and cooking facilities or secured them at cost. What was known as "The Mutual Eating Association" engaged a cook, bought a stove and lived on about two dollars a week for each member, there being about forty in the association.

Dr. J. D. Elson, professor of physical training at the University of Wisconsin, was and will be, in charge of the athletics. Each citizen will be examined before he is allowed to take severe exercise and an expert swimmer will be on guard during bathing hours.

The moral welfare of the boys will be cared for. Last summer the church numbered among its members, Catholics, Methodists, Lutherans, Baptists, Jews, Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Congregationalists. Its creed was simple: "I will try to play square with my parents, my school teachers, my companions, myself and my God."

This year's Boy City will be larger than that of last, and plans are being laid to have ultimately a city of boys and controlled by boys all the year 'round, with a self-governing college. Judge Brown's belief is that the civic idea, not the military, is best adapted for the promotion of honest government and the eradication of graft and purchased elections now admittedly common throughout the country.

Permanent College Town the Aim.

With this consummative in view, the National Boy City association has secured sufficient land for a permanent college town, its belief being that the location so near Charlevoix, the Bay View assembly and dozens of other summer resorts will make the location popular with cottagers, tourists and students.

Judge Brown has given lectures on Boy City in more than 100 cities since last summer, and Boyvilles, under the auspices of churches, school boards and Y. M. C. A.'s have sprung up all over the country. Each of these will send a delegation to Boy City this year. After the boys from Jackson, Mich., returned home from Boy City last summer they immediately interested other boys, with a result that Ralph Stanley, the boys' work director of the Jackson Y. M. C. A., inaugurated a Boyville as the boys' department of the association. At Hammond, Indiana, the men's club of the city employed Charles B. Hahn, associate director of Boy City, to inaugurate a Boyville with each public school as a ward.

New England to Send Many.

At Dover, New Hampshire, the Boys' Welfare association was organized. All New England has become interested in National Boy City and will send many citizens this summer. Sharon, Pennsylvania, has organized a Boyville, with each church as a ward, under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Churches, Pennsylvania will send a ward, Providence, R. I., Yonkers, N. Y., and St. Paul's Universalist church in Chicago, are working out the Boyville idea.

Boy City will this year also have citizens from Baltimore, Md., Detroit, Charlotte, Hastings, Ludington, Cheboygan, Manistee, Kalkaska, Big Rapids, Charlevoix, Petoskey, Lansing and other Michigan cities. Last summer boys came singly and many are expected this year.

The publicity given the Boy City movement last summer by the press of the country has caused thousands of inquiries to pour into the mail box of Fred Brown, manager of Boy City, at Charlevoix. Books containing information and dozens of photographs taken last summer have been printed and Mr. Brown will mail a copy and any information desired on application.

bas, Dr. Rafael Olagüel, and Ignacio Mora. Although the president was empowered to move the museum, from May 20, 1831, to the building formerly occupied by the now extinct Inquisition, the date of removal was indefinitely postponed and the establishment continued its existence at the university without being able to make the slightest development. For many years afterward it was grossly neglected.

Upon the arrival of the Archduke Maximilian, a decree was issued, December 4, 1865, declaring that the Public Museum of Natural History, Archaeology, and History was henceforth under his immediate protection, and orders were given that it should be removed to the department in the National palace which

IE National Museum of Mexico may be said to have just emerged from its infancy, as it is only within the last decade that any real attention has been given to it. It has a wonderfully wide scope, and a most brilliant future, as the republic is probably the richest field in the world today for the archaeologist. Many buried cities are being discovered, and traces of prehistoric civilization in America are constantly throwing an illuminating ray upon the many vexing probdeputies since 1894, but better known throughout Mexico as a historian. Some of the books which have emanated from his pen are: "Character of the Spanish Conquest in America and Mexico," "The Plan of Independence of New Spain in 1808," "Bernal Diaz del Castillo's Conquest of Mexico, According to the Autograph Codex," "Juarez—a Refutation of Don Francisco Baines," and "Leona Vicario, the Insurgent Heroine." Besides these he has prepared 23 volumes of unpublished documents relative to the history of Mexico. Upon his promotion to the position of Lic. Garcia immediately proceeded to the scientific classification of the many articles contained in the museum, giving to each object a card specifying both its vulgar and scientific name, the place where it originated, and such other observations as would give the public an intelligent idea regarding it. He added greatly to the collections of the museum, acquiring in one year alone 74,000 objects, and perfected the official publication known as "Anales del Museo Nacional," bringing it up to such a high standard that it is today perhaps the best publication of its kind in the world.

Having finally been made director in chief, Lic. Garcia secured the separation of the museum into two departments, thus making a separate branch entirely of the department of natural history and subdividing the national museum of archaeology, history, and ethnology into six departments—archaeology, history, ethnology, industrial-retrospective art, publications, and library.

The department of archaeology is composed of seven large halls, which are called "salon azteca," "salon toteca," "salon tarasco," "salon mixteca," "salon zapoteca," etc., each hall thus representing a distinct division of Mexican archaeology.

The department of history consists of four "salones," situated in the principal inner section of the third floor, in which are exhibited many interesting objects.

The department of ethnology occupies almost the entire second floor and contains mostly objects strictly related to the aborigines—such as plaster casts of heads, hands, and feet; dress, furniture, chattels, etc.; photographs and oil paintings; industrial products, and ethnological maps, all classified in a similar manner to those in the department of archaeology.

The department of industrial retrospective art consists of five "salones," and was created only recently by Lic. Garcia. In the first salon are exhibited a series of oil paintings representing the costumes worn by the citizens of different epochs in the nation's history, from the time of Cortez down. In the second salon are six large glass cases in which are exhibited objects of iron, jewels, costumes, military objects, etc. In the third salon are three large glass cases in which are to be found dining-room articles, all grouped according to classes, among which will be found part of the magnificent table service of the Emperor Maximilian. In the fourth salon Maximilian's royal carriage is exhibited, as is his road carriage. Close by is the coach which belonged to Juarez, the restorer of the republic, in which he traveled when pursued by the imperialist armies. The fifth salon contains many objects of high artistic value.

The department of publications is one of the most important in the museum, and has charge of all the documents which are printed relative to it. It is at present preparing, in commemoration of Mexico's centennial, which will begin in September, a number of volumes which will treat of the different plans which were formulated for the country's emancipation from Spain.

The library is situated on the lower floor, a few steps from the main entrance, and the books which it contains are classified in perfect order, so that it is an easy matter for the person wishing to look up any certain point in history, archaeology, or ethnology to get full and complete data at very short notice.

lems which have for years been the despair of the historian. In fact, Mexico may today very properly claim the title of "The Egypt of America." Why, indeed, should the archaeologist go to Egypt, when Mexico offers to him such rich and inexhaustible fields as Mitla, Monte Alban, Palenque, San Juan de Teotihuacan, the ruins of Uxmal, and of Chi Chen Itza in Yucatan, and many others which are just being unearthed?

The museum located at the national capital is generally the first place sought out by the thousands of tourists who pour into the country each year. And it is well worth a visit, for it offers certain things which no other museum in the world could offer to the eyes of the curious.

The best brief sketch of its history is given by its director, Lic. Genaro Garcia, himself a notable historian and archaeologist, in the introduction of volume 1, No. 1, of the "Annals of the National Museum of Archaeology, History and Ethnology," a most creditable publication which is issued monthly by the institution, under the direct supervision of Lic. Garcia. In speaking of the foundation of the museum which he has brought up to such a creditable standard, Lic. Garcia says:

Under the Spanish dominion there existed only a small collection of antiquities in Mexico, consisting, for the greater part, of the codices and native manuscripts which a cavalier of Milan, Italy, Don Lorenzo de Boturini y Benaduci, Senor de la Torre y Homo, had been able to collect, at the cost of unheard-of sacrifices, and which were confiscated in the most unjust manner by the viceregal government in 1743. These antiquities were first kept in the office of the viceroy's secretary, and afterward in the library of the Royal and Pontifical University of Mexico, where they were taken by order of His Excellency Antonio Maria de Bucarell y Ursua, viceroy of New Spain. In one and another place they were greatly damaged by neglect, humidity, rats and thefts.

Upon the consummation of Mexico's independence the national government not only directed that the existing antiquities be kept at the same university, but assigned, in addition, the sum of $1,892,1 real and 1 "grano," for the salaries of a directing professor of botany, a gardener, and the expenses of the garden.

When this appropriation was made the government did not as yet have in mind the establishment of a national museum which, according to Gen. Lucas Alarcan, then secretary of state and foreign relations, in a memorial presented to congress on January 11, 1825, was to be a matter for the future. Notwithstanding all this, Don Sebastian Camacho, successor to General Alaman, announced to congress during the latter part of the same year that the National museum had been established, "under the most happy auspices, with a keeper intrusted with its arrangement, safety, and development," and with many projects for "scientific trips, discoveries, excavations, and other operations" which were never made. The museum, therefore, had no other end than that of the conservation of a few antiquities, unclassified, and in generally bad shape.

The museum proper had its birth by virtue of the decree of November 21, which ordered its formal creation and its division into three branches—antiquities, products of natural history and industry, and botanical garden.

The chief executive of the republic proceeded at once to the organization of the museum in accordance with the foregoing decree, and appointed as members of the directive board Messrs. Pablo de la Llave, Isidro Ignacio Icaza, Miguel Bustamante, Jose Mariano Sanchez Mora, Ignacio Cuit occupies today, the same having been used before as the Casa de Moneda; that it should have a library, to be formed from books owned by the university and by the convents which had just been abolished, and that the government would provide the expenses of installation, conservation, and development.

After the constitutional government triumphed over Maximilian, it appropriated, in the budget for 1867-1868, the sum of $12,000 for the museum; half of which was for expenses and the other half for the salaries of a director, two professors of natural history, a preparator, a clerk, an errand boy, and a porter. Unfortunately the poverty of the public treasury at that time prevented the government for many years from increasing the appropriations for the museum, which only reached $12,160 during the fiscal year 1876-1877, for which reason it had little opportunity to make any progress.

When Gen. Porfirio Diaz came into the supreme magistracy of the republic, he, the indisputable restorer of the public peace and the first factor in the actual progress of Mexico, gave a great impulse to all the federal educational establishments. The museum, which in 1877-1878 only had an appropriation of $13,360, received an increase each year, until in the year 1901 it reached the sum of $24,797.20. In this manner its development was enabled to keep pace with the rest of the country.

The progress of the museum has been very rapid since Lic. Don Justo Sierra, secretary of public instruction, took charge of the educational development of Mexico, and during the past three years it has enlarged its collections until they consist of nearly 70,000 objects. Such an abnormal development made the space occupied by it too small, and it was divided into two departments: National Museum of History, Archaeology, and Ethnology, and National Museum of History. The former remains in the National palace, and the latter is being removed to a new building of sufficient size for its requirements.

A striking proof of the efforts made by the supreme government to perfect its educational establishments is the fact that the present annual appropriation for the museum of $120,000 is almost ten times as great as was the appropriation of 1867-1868.

The publication in which this sketch appeared is of comparatively recent origin, in so far as its actual importance is concerned. It was founded in 1877, its director at that time being Prof. Gumersindo Mendoza, his principal collaborators being Manuel Orozco y Berra, and Lic. Alfredo Chavero. It was not at that time printed in the museum, as it is only since 1885 that the printing plant of the museum, which had a very humble beginning, got its start, the nucleus of which was a small Colombian press, model 2, chiefly used for running off cards, or classification slips for the objects contained in the establishment. From this time on, however, the various directors who came and went, each recognizing the importance of having a well equipped print shop, made important additions, until the plant attained its highest degree of efficiency, a year or so ago, with the acquisition of an Optimus press. To celebrate its acquisition two special studies were written and run off on the new press, one of which, entitled "Porfirio Diaz, Sus Padres, Ninez y Juventud" ("Porfirio Diaz, his parents, childhood and youth"), was written by Lic. Garcia, then professor of history in the museum, and the edition, which was beautifully gotten up, was immediately exhausted. Shortly after this, or about the middle of 1907,

CHOOSE HUSBAND BY SCIENCE

English Professor Lectures to Girl Students on Importance of Knowledge of Eugenics.

London.—How to choose a husband scientifically was the subject of a lecture delivered to girl students of the Bedford college by Prof. W. M. Inge. A knowledge of eugenics, he said, prevent girls falling in love with the wrong men. But a frequent objection made to the science of eugenics was that it constituted undue interference with an individual's free choice in falling in love and marrying.

"To a certain extent," said the professor, "I sympathize with that objection, but I do think a certificate of sound health should be one of the things insisted upon before marriage. The insurance policy is rarely more important than the marriage settlement. Some knowledge of eugenics," he added, "would in many cases prevent falling in love with the wrong people."

"Unconsciously, as it is, we are much guided by eugenic considerations. Generally, a man's attraction for a woman is attributable to his fine and strong physique, and in the same way the points of beauty in women are those which belong to her womanhood. But some training in eugenics would enable a young man or woman to detect those signs of degeneracy which are obvious to the scientific eye."

The professor boldly advanced it as the duty of every beautiful woman to marry. She owed it to the race. On the other hand, people should not be too scrupulous, because "physical health is not everything and many families physically defective are yet of great use to the community."

Physical degeneration in this country is going on at an alarming rate, Professor Inge believes. He went so far as to say that if the process continued at its present rate, in three generations the English stock, which a few years ago was one of the best in the world, would be one of the poorest.

BETLE HEADS FOR HATPINS

Women Overcome Fears and Use Insects of Various Colors in Latest Fashion Fad.

London.—Women have overcome their natural repugnance for insects sufficiently to wear imitation beetles and flies. Will they proceed a step further and adopt the real beetle as an adornment?

Hatpins with heads consisting of real beetles are the latest fashion created for women's hats.

The beetles, which are about an inch and a half long, and an inch across, are in their natural state, minus their legs, and some are very beautiful and might be admired by the most nervous woman.

The first four to be shown in London were to be seen at a well known Regent street establishment. One of these bright green in color has the appearance of a perfectly enamelled beetle.

One dark green beetle and one which is a dark copper color tinged with green show the natural sheen of the insects. Less pretty, but unique, is the "Rhinceros beetle" hatpin head, which is larger and brown in color. They are all tropical beetles.

The hatpins have been sent from abroad by a naturalist who conceived the idea of turning the beetle to useful account," said a representative of the firm.

"They will be somewhat expensive when first put upon the market, but more will be ordered if women like them."

"The hatpin heads are all lamelliporn beetles," a naturalist said. "The green beetles are similar to the English rose beetles."

HORSE PARTLY DEER AND COW

Freak Animal in Canada Is Only One-Third Equine—Backbone Is on One Side.

Ottawa.—At the village of Buckingham, on the Quebec side of the Ottawa river, a few miles from this city, is a horse, if such it can be called, that is only one-third horse, the other two parts being divided equally between cow and deer.

As a freak the animal probably has no equal. The normal parts are its head, eyes, teeth and one hind leg. Its backbone is not in the center, but runs along the side of its back. One side of the body is that of a deer, perfectly formed, with the fine close-set ribs and the delicately curved body, while the other side resembles that of a cow, very full, with big rough ribs and the hide much rougher than on the other side.

"Clubbing" for Education.

London.—Londoners are considering with interest the scheme of Lady Edward Cecil by which a number of families, living in the country, might club together to retain the services of two first-class teachers to conduct classes at one of their houses. The teachers are to be paid extra to provide their own board, and lodgings. In the case furnished by Lady Edward Cecil, as an example, the cost amounted to about $1,100 a year for a class of six children.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my side, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."—Mrs. SADIE MULLEN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

This celebrated institution is pleasantly situated in the barroom of Parker's, in School street, and has pupils from all over the country. I had a letter yesterday, by the way, from our mutual son, Artemus, Jr., who is at Bowdoin college, in Maine. He writes me that he is a Bowdoin Arab, & is it cum to this? Is this boy as I nurtured with a parent's care into his childhood's hour—he is he going to be a grate American humorist? Alas, I fear it is too true. A BUNCH OF KIDS

THE Union Pacific railroad has discovered a new use for billy goats and every day at half a hundred stock feeding stations on the line of the big railroad system, solemn goats with long white beards act the part of Judas, luring unsuspecting sheep to their doom. Little did the grave members of the Interstate Commerce commission think when they made a ruling that live stock en route from the great western ranges to the packing houses along the Missouri river, should not be kept aboard railroad trains for more than 28 consecutive hours, but that, at the expiration of that period, the animals should be taken from the cars and given water and provender that the ruling would be responsible for the creation of a band of goats trained to ingratiate themselves into the confidence of innocent little lambs, matronly ewes and stately rams and bring these down to their death.

But such is the case. And the Union Pacific railroad has a flock of goats, each individual member of which can do better work along the lines for which it is trained than half a dozen men could do in twice the time.

When the 28-hour law went into effect the Union Pacific railroad found it necessary to build big feeding yards at numerous points along its line—in fact, these yards were installed about every 25 miles from end to end of the big system. During the shipping season that railroad brings hundreds of thousands of sheep from the great ranges of Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Oregon, Montana, California and the southwestern states to the packing houses at Omaha. Under the new law it was necessary that these sheep be unloaded, fed and watered, and then reloaded every 28 hours.

Those men who have ever attempted to drive sheep will remember how difficult the task is, especially to get the animals headed in the right direction. "As timid as a sheep" is a proverb, and its truth is proven every day and every hour wherever sheep are handled.

If the sheep are in the stock cars it is a big job to get them out. Efforts of the attendants to get them to leave the cars usually result in the whole bunch crowding up in one end and refusing to go out the door. Sometimes it was even necessary that each individual sheep be actually lifted up and taken from the car.

After the sheep were fed and watered came the reloading, and again there was trouble, almost as much as when unloading.

The railroad found it necessary to maintain a large force of men at each feeding station, it being found more economic to do this than to spend hours and hours loading and unloading a train. This cost money, and lots of it, but there seemed no means of avoiding the expense. There stood the United States courts ready to inflict a $100 fine every time a car of sheep was not fed and watered every 28 hours. Employing the men was cheaper than fines.

One day a stockman who had come into South Omaha with a train of sheep dropped in at Union Pacific headquarters to see General Superintendent W. L. Park on business, and in the course of his conversation began telling of the trip down from Idaho. He had had lots of trouble loading and unloading, he said, until he reached North Platte, Neb.

"But there I saw the funniest thing in my life," he laughed. "The station agent there has a boy and that boy has a goat—just a plain old billy goat. And that billy goat has learned to chew tobacco.

"When we got ready to load our sheep, that kid took a plug of tobacco in his hand and started. Billy started after the tobacco. The kid walked through the sheep and old Billy followed him. And blamed if all those sheep didn't walk right after that old goat. They thought he was one of them, and you know a sheep will follow where another one leads.

"The boy walked up the chute into one of the cars. Billy was right behind him and sheep were simply falling over themselves to get in. The boys and Billy remained near the door and when the car was filled with sheep they got out and the door was closed.

"That freckle-faced kid and that old billy goat did in five minutes what half a dozen men could not have done in ten."

The stockman saw only a funny occurrence in the work of the goat, but Park saw the solution of a big problem.

Two hours later a special train carrying the general superintendent left the Omaha yards, its destination being North Platte. On arriving there the boy proudly made Billy show off.

Today, when a long line of stock cars, each filled with sheep, draws up at a feeding yard, one of these goats is sent up the chutes and into the car among the sheep. He quickly makes the acquaintance of the newly arrived animals and then calmly walks out the door. True to the idea of following a leader, the sheep fall in line and march out behind old Billy.

This action is repeated until all the cars are emptied—and then Bill gets his reward—a chew of tobacco.

The goats have learned to chew tobacco from the train men who pet and tease them whenever they have the opportunity, and the "chew" is usually given them as a reward when their task of unloading a train of sheep is completed. The railroad company makes a regular allowance to pay for tobacco for these goats.

When ready to reload, the goats are again sent among the sheep, with whom they frolic a few minutes, and then they start for the cars, followed by the sheep. When all cars are loaded the goats receive another chew of tobacco.

The feeding yards are all equipped with electric lights so that cars may be loaded and unloaded at night, thus saving much time. And when a train arrives at night, especially are the goats necessary. At such times they enter the cars where the sheep are lying on the floor—and butt the sleeping animals around until they are thoroughly awakened—and then they lead them out into the feeding pens.

These goats are great favorites of the railroad men and seem to know every brakeman and train employee on their division. But not a single one of the railroaders is more necessary to the economical operation of the line than is one of the Bills, and none of them do more work for their salaries than the goats for their feed and tobacco.

The facility of the goat for this work has long been known at the packing houses, where they are utilized to lead animals to slaughter.

DYNAMITE BLAST UNCOVERS SNAKES

PENNSYLVANIA QUARRYMEN FIRE EXTRA LARGE CHARGE—FIND SERPENTS GALORE.

ONE MAN BITTEN ON HAND

Many Different Kinds of the Creepy Creatures Are Killed After the Explosion and Scores of Others Escape in Haste.

Altoona, Pa.—Of all the blasts ever fired in Pennsylvania it is safe to say that never before did a charge of dynamite unearth the startling surprise given the quarrymen in the stone quarry back of Bluestone, in the Pine creek region, a few days ago.

Instead of ordinary building stone, as the men expected to find when they went back to see how the big blast had acted, they found a score or more of snakes—rattlers, copperheads and blacksnakes—and the pesky things were crawling and wriggling everywhere. And the ones in sight were not all, for before the day was over the men had killed 42 serpents and they counted a dozen more that got beyond their reach in the crevices of the quarry.

John Schurman, one of the quarrymen, was bitten on the arm by a rattlesnake and another quarryman by the name of Davis had the awful experience of having a big rattler drop down off an overhanging rock onto his shoulders and then fall wriggling to the ground at his feet. An Italian, who was a member of the gang of workmen, was so badly scared by the experience with the snakes that he is ill and fears are entertained that he may lose his mind.

The vicinity of the quarry and that entire part of the Pine Creek valley is known to be the haunt of all kinds of snakes.

The amount of dirt and stone loosened by the blast seemed to be almost the entire side of the mountain. Two of the men went crawling up the side of the loose "fall" and had gained within 40 feet of the top when one of them suddenly fell back and yelled, "A rattlesnake!" At almost the same instant his companion came within a few inches of laying his hand on the wriggling form of another reptile, one of the very largest rattlesnakes ever seen in this section. He killed the serpent. The men were afraid to proceed farther and called to their fellow workmen.

When the rock had been heaved away from the main strata it disclosed a succession of fissures and these seemed to be alive with snakes, rattlers, blacksnakes and copperheads, some of them dropping out of the crevices and wriggling down toward the men and others crawling back into the shelter of the rocks. There was a sickening stench evident as the men neared the snake den. Some of the serpents were stiff and inactive, due to the fact that they were cold. This was particularly true of the blacksnakes and a half dozen of these were easily dispatched. But the rattlers were beyond the inertia of hibernation and were as mad as so many hornets.

The men attacked the reptiles right and left. They discovered, too, that the blast itself had slaughtered some of the colony, for pieces of snakes were found spattered over the rocks and stones. An hour after the battle with the snakes had ceased Schurman went to a big box near the quarry fire to get his dinner kettle, which he had wrapped in his coat and set it on the ground not far from the fire. When he stooped to pick up the kettle he felt a sharp sting in his hand at the base of his little finger, as though he had jagged himself with a sharp splinter. But a glance showed him that a big rattlesnake had taken refuge under his coat and had bitten him when he disturbed it. Fortunately Schurman knew how to treat the bite and lost no time in applying remedies. He quit work, but has recovered.

16 YEARS OF SKIN DISEASE

"For sixteen long years I have been suffering with a bad case of skin disease. While a child there broke out a red sore on the legs just in back of my knees. It waxed from bad to worse, and at last I saw I had a bad skin disease. I tried many widely known doctors in different cities but to no satisfactory result. The plague bothered me more in warm weather than in winter and being on my leg joints it made it impossible for me to walk, and I was forced to stay indoors in the warmest weather. My hopes of recovery were by this time spent. Sleepless nights and restless days made life an unbearable burden. At last I was advised to try the Cuticura Remedies [Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills] and I did not need more than a trial to convince me that I was on the road of success this time. I bought two sets of the Cuticura Remedies and after these were gone I was a different man entirely. I am now the happiest man that there is at least one true cure for skin diseases. Leonard A. Hawtof, 11 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., July 30 and Aug. 8, '09."

At the Bovine Faucets:
"I sent my little boy on his first visit to the country last week," said a Washington Heights milk dealer. "Although my boyhood was passed on the old farm, Willie has grown to the age of eight in the city. He had been watching Uncle Hezekiah milk the cow on his first evening, and when he returned to the house his aunt asked him:
"Is Uncle Hezzie through milking yet, Willie?"
"Not yet," answered Willie. "He has finished two faucets and has just begun on the other two."

Briefs of the Week

The postoffice will be open Saturday from 9:00 to 10:00 a. m. instead of 11:00 to 12:00 as last Sunday.

The Steamer Hum will run an excursion to Charlevoix, Sunday, leaving here at 10:00 a. m. Round trip 60 cents.

The E. J. & S. morning train now leaves at 8:40 to connect with the early north bound resort train on the P. M.

Boyer City is in the throes of a water famine and water from the river is being pumped into the water-mains.

The East Jordan Cemetery Improvement Association will meet with Mrs. Dan E. Goodman next Thursday afternoon the 14th.

An item from Alba in the Mancelona papers state that the East Jordan Chemical Co. lost 800 cords of wood by fire on the 4th back of Sweet's camp in Chestonia.

The annual school meeting for District No. 4, South Arm Township, will be held at the High School building next Monday evening, July 11th, commencing at 8:00 o'clock.

The Steamer Hum carried a large crowd to Charlevoix Wednesday night to hear Hon. Chase S. Osborn. They were accompanied by the band which took a creditable part in Mr. Osborn's reception.

A large number of people spent the Fourth at Bellaire and Petoskey. The day at East Jordan was more quiet than is usual, a fact which was much appreciated by those who stayed at home.

C. F. Schneider, director of the weather bureau station located at Grand Rapids, is authority for the statement that tender plants can be saved from the frost on cold nights by sprinkling them with water.

The funeral of Oscar Johnson was conducted by the Masons last Sunday afternoon. It was very largely attended; a fitting address was given by Rev. Lamport. The remains were laid to rest in the Jones cemetery.

John Spidle, aged 65 years, died at his home in Eveline township last Thursday of acute indigestion. Funeral services were from the home, Friday and interment made in the Lakeside cemetery. He leaves a wife and several children.

Mrs. Mary M. Lanway, wife of Jos. H. Lanway, died at her home on the West Side last Thursday, of heart disease, aged 74 years. The funeral services were held Sunday morning from the L. D. S. church, Elder Dudley conducting same. Deceased was a charter member of Stevens Corps W. E. C., and that organization attended in a body. Interment was made in the Jones cemetery. A husband and three daughters survive to mourn her loss.

Saturday afternoon Fred Siminaw procured a jug of whiskey from Traverse City and, with three companions enjoyed a jubilee back of Bacot's ice cream parlors, ending in a row in which Harry Marshall got the worst of it, having his nose broken and being injured otherwise. Sunday morning Siminaw was arrested, on a charge of violating the local option law and on being arraigned before Judge Collins waived examination and was bound over to circuit court for trial.—Charlevoix Courier.

Representatives of local option from East Jordan, Boyne City, Charlevoix and surrounding townships met at Van Pelt's hall Wednesday afternoon last to consider the advisability of forming a permanent county organization in the interest of local option. After a full discussion of the subject, it was decided to appoint a committee to draft articles of organization for a permanent county committee to be submitted at an adjourned meeting. The number in attendance and the interest manifested in the discussion, proves beyond question that the advocates of local option have lost none of their interest in the cause and the results thus far attained are fully up to the highest expectations of its adherents.—Charlevoix Sentinel.

It is reported from Milwaukee today through usual associated press service that the city council of Milwaukee have decided to close up 104 saloons in that city which in the opinion of the city council "have not been conducted properly." Will those persons who have been beating tom's tom's up and down the highways of this state and elsewhere in the ranks of the mob squad over the denial of personal rights and the confiscation of property please take note of the fact that the city council of the greatest beer-making and beer selling municipality on earth closed 104 saloons because they wanted to—because they thought they ought to be closed. And they did this without even asking the consent of the people, with no majority vote to approve nor with any sort of action, requested or permitted through which the city council could presume to be acting for the people.

if in the city that has been made famous by its beer the right exists to close saloons which for any reason are thought not desirable will there be any contention anywhere hereafter that saloons cannot be closed or should not be closed when in the opinion of the majority of the people any of them or all of them are thought not desirable. The precedent established in Milwaukee yesterday will confront its anti local option orators persistently and effectively through all future local option campaigns.

It is possible these days to insure anything from life to nose glasses, except a love affair.

Unless a man is fortunate enough to have young folks who care for him, when he passes 70 he begins to look a good deal like his own back fence.

The biggest fool in the world is the man who hasn't sense enough to appreciate a real friend. If a man has more than one real friend in a lifetime, he is lucky.

Sometimes it happens that a man's casket is buried under flowers, not because he was so popular, but because he had the good luck to die at a season when flowers are cheap.

FACTS ABOUT THE OSTRICH

Because of Resemblance to Camel, Said to Be Connecting Link Between Beasts and Birds.

The ostrich, because of its resemblance to the camel, has been said to be the connecting link between beasts and birds, says a writer on the denizens of the bird kingdom.

Moreover an ostrich never flies, nor is it possible for it to lift itself from the ground in the slightest degree by the use of its wings; but like the camel it is very swift-footed.

The keeper of an ostrich farm says the birds are the only thing he ever tried that he has not succeeded in taming. They are known to live to be seventy-five years old, and some think they will reach a hundred.

The choice "ostrich feathers" are found only in the wings; the undressed feathers vary in price, having been as low as $25 per pound and as high as $200, and there are from 70 to 90 feathers in a pound.

Naval Gun Power.

There is a tendency to judge the power of a ship by the amount of metal which can be thrown if all the guns were fired simultaneously and without regard to whether they could be brought to bear upon an enemy or could be fired as fast in war as they can be fired in theory—on paper.

The Lost Plug Hat.

"The old proverb, 'Findin' is keepin', usually holds good in the case of a silk hat," said the man: "Persons who lose silk hats are always reluctant to claim them. I have found excellent silk hats, and I know other people who have found hats just as good, but nobody ever tried to get them back."

Inference Easily Drawn.

A man who sells vacuum cleaners with a plunger attachment relates the following bit of a yarn every time he gets a chance: "I guess that that near-sighted fellow that calls on sister is getting worse," said a small boy, aged twelve, possibly called Jimmie.

Dean Stanley's handwriting was atrocious. The late Lord Lytton attacked in an amendment to the tory reform bill of Lord Derby. The clerk at the table could not read it, nor could any one else.

More Daylight

Office Where Plan Works in Actual Practice

By THURDE RAYLE BRUCE

PERHAPS readers will be interested in learning how the "more-daylight" plan works in actual practice. We had been discussing this plan in our office for some time and finally, at the beginning of June, concluded to let the employees choose between the hours we had been observing and the more-daylight plan.

Our regular hours are from eight to twelve and from 1:00 to 5:30, making an 8 1/2 hour day. The vote was unanimous for beginning at seven and quitting at 4:30 and we changed the hours. We did not change our clocks but began an hour earlier.

We have now been following the plan for six weeks and I do not believe one of us would go back willingly to the old hours now. It seems to us that the advantages are many. We get to work in the morning when the air is cool and work until noon.

We then take an hour for luncheon and begin with only 3 1/2 hours before us and I really think that all of us work more rapidly because of the short time until we can quit. At 4:30, the time in the day when things begin to drag and the temperature has reached its most trying limit in hot weather, we are through for the day with hours of daylight before us in which to enjoy ourselves according to our several dispositions.

Inquiry reveals the fact that we go to bed earlier than we have been accustomed to, saving ourselves hours of artificial light; that we rise early enough to receive the refreshing benefits that come from early rising and that we do our work better, more easily, and feel better over it than we did under the old order.

The writer has always been an early riser and takes considerable satisfaction in "puttering" about the lawn and vegetable garden, but early morning is not a good time for this work on account of the heavy summer dews. Now I go to my office early and quit early enough so that I can get rest, recreation and much satisfaction working in the soil after hours. In consequence I have a flourishing vegetable garden, a flower-filled lawn and muscles in good condition from the exercise.

I believe we are the first company in the United States to put the "more-daylight" plan into actual practice and I believe that everyone connected with the company is perfectly satisfied with the arrangement.

What Business Men Require of Girls

By KATHRYN O. BAILEY

When the young woman entering upon a business career awakens to the fact that this earth and the life manifested and expressed in our daily actions is the keynote of the whole melody of existence, then will she know that the golden rule applies even in the simplicity of an application for a position.

Then, too, she may discover the principle of perfect freedom of conscience and opinion and permit her neighbor sister "ad-dresser," typist or stenographer the blessed privilege of expressing her ideas of "life, death and that vast forever," as is so desired.

She may possibly discover that her employer or the man who is engaging her services may know something of business and its perplexities which she need not trouble herself to unfold to him, even before the engagement has been decided upon.

When the young woman discerns the fact that several other of her associates are quite as well informed upon some subjects as herself, then she may be prepared to be a success in her sphere.

Superfluous words and actions, as well as "puffs" and "cheap jewelry" so often referred to, and unkindly, perhaps, retard progress and stay success when it would seem that it really was deserved.

"How am I to make a success of my work?" Why is it at all necessary to ask the question when there can be but one correct answer?

Learn to do something, to do it, not to shirk a part of it, and to do it as it should be done. That seems about all the sternest of business men desire of young women in their offices.

Parents Growing Lax in Discipline

By FRANC LYNN

Is our civilization on the decline? Are parents growing lax in discipline for their children? If not, what is the cause of the intolerable conduct of the average American child today?

If men and women of the present time recall their childhood they will find there was not the too-apparent liberty which characterizes the child of today. It seems to be a trait of the American child to be naughty and show a lack of respect for his elders. And even when parents are brought face to face with the situation they invariably say: "He is only a child and will grow out of it."

What a lack of parental training is expressed in that sentence! The child may do whatever he chooses simply because he is a child. Is it a wonder that our foreign visitors are amazed at the lack of training the average American child receives at home? In the home everything that tends to build up character should be emphasized and parents should begin early to uproot any tendency toward demoralization in their children.

Why will parents permit their boys and girls of school age to parade the streets at nine and ten o'clock in the evening? Is it because the courses offered in schools at the present time are simplified to such an extent that a child does not find it necessary to study at home? There is no doubt that certain topics are easy to grasp for some children, but this does not excuse these children from strengthening themselves in those studies that are difficult.

Children of school age should have their minds concentrated on the things that befit their age, but it is obvious the child who wantonly wanders on the streets at nine or ten o'clock in the evening has his mind on things far beyond his years and it is apparent that a continuance of this for a couple of generations will prove harmful to future Americans.

AN ACHING BACK

Means Weak Kidneys.

Well kidneys filter the blood of uric acid and other impurities. When the kidneys are sick, waste matter accumulates and backache, headache and urinary troubles result. To eliminate the aches and pains you must cure the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, and cure them permanently.

J. N. Markham, Montezuma, Wash., says: "Kidney trouble came on me gradually and before long I was suffering from dropsy. My body bloated and my flesh was soft and flabby. I tired easily and suffered severely from pain in my back. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I am today in much better health."

Need of Beds for Consumptives. The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis says that in seven states, Alabama, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oklahoma, Wyoming and Utah, with a combined population of over 5,000,000, not one bed for consumptives has been provided. In nine states and territories, Alaska, Delaware, Florida, Kansas, Mississippi, South Carolina, South Dakota, Vermont and West Virginia, the number of beds for consumptives in each case is less than fifty, while the combined population of these states is over 7,000,000. On the basis of 400 deaths to a million of population, which is approximately the present rate in the United States, there would be nearly 5,000 deaths annually from tuberculosis in these 14 states, with at least 20,000 cases of this disease all the time, and less than 500 beds to care for them.

GNAT CAUSES PELLAGRA.

Committee on Disease in Europe Says Corn is Not to Blame.

London, May 14.—Dr. Sambon, a member of the Field committee which has been investigating the disease pellagra, telegraphs from Rome that the committee has definitely proved that maize or Indian corn is not the cause of pellagra.

The committee finds that the parasitic conveyor of the disease is the "simulium repans," a species of biting gnat.

The Business Instinct.

An English farmer, taking his little son with him, was going to the polling station to give his vote. On the way he met a friend on the same errand, and the two entered into conversation. After an excited and heated argument about the budget they came to blows. The poor lad was much frightened, and, seeing that his father was getting the worst of it, suddenly called out to him: "Hit him in the watch, father; that'll cost him something!"

Reasoning of Youthful Mind.

A schoolmistress whose hair was of the blackest hue, was one day giving a lesson on a coal mine to a class in Suffolk, England. To make the lesson interesting as possible she went on to say she had herself been in a coal mine. A little lad put up his hand, and when pointed to said: "Please, teacher, is that what made your hair so black?"

Up to Pa.

"Papa, sister's a liar!" "Why, why! Jennie, you mustn't say such things."

"I can prove it by your own self. Last night I heard her say, 'Charlie, I'll call papa if you dare to do it again!' And he did it twice more. Did you hear her call?"

Calculation.

"Mr. Nippon always wants the most possible for his money." "Yes. He invariably selects a cloudy day to go to a baseball game in the hope of seeing several innings and then getting a rain check."

FEED CHILDREN

On Properly Selected Food. It Pays Big Dividends.

If parents will give just a little intelligent thought to the feeding of their children the difference in the health of the little folks will pay many times over for the small trouble. A mother writes saying: "Our children are all so much better and stronger than they ever were before we made a change in the character of the food. We have quit using potatoes three times a day with coffee and so much meat."

"Now we give the little folks some fruit, either fresh stewed, or canned, some Grape-Nuts with cream, occasionally some soft boiled eggs, and some Postum for breakfast and supper. Then for dinner they have some meat and vegetables."

"It would be hard to realize the change in the children, they have grown so sturdy and strong, and we attribute this change to the food elements that I understand, exist in Grape-Nuts and Postum."

"A short time ago my baby was teething and had a great deal of stomach and bowel trouble. Nothing seemed to agree with him until I tried Grape-Nuts softened and mixed with rich milk, and he improved rapidly and got sturdy and well."

PASSION FLOWER COMES FROM SOUTH AMERICA

This Beautiful Plant Grows Luxuriously in Its Tropical Home, Climbing By Its Tendrils to Tallest Trees.

In early days, when human intelligence was in its infancy, there flourished a primitive form of religion, known as plant and tree worship, and, though centuries have intervened, curious traces of this old phase still remain in the folk lore of plants.

This old-time veneration which our ancestors cherished for forest plants and exquisite blossoms can be readily appreciated in view of the emotion and admiration which they call forth in ourselves today.

With the passing of the centuries and the progress of civilization these primitive ideas were modified and changed to meet the changed conditions of life and mind, so that under the shadow of Christ's life and crucifixion some members of the plant world became a source of veneration.

The Passion Flower.

from association with certain events and the fancied portrayal of others. Of these legends those connected with the crucifixion are undoubtedly the most beautiful, as well as the most fanciful, and of these the passion flower ranks first. A native of Central and South America, this beautiful plant grows luxuriously in its tropical home, climbing by its tendrils to the summits of the tallest trees, adorning them with a succession of lovely but curious blossoms. As soon as the first Spanish settler in South America beheld it he immediately regarded it as a marvelous symbol of Christ's Passion, calling it the "flower of the Passion," a title which the Mexican Jesuits alternated with "the flower of the five wounds," and indeed, even a cursory examination of it reveals how exactly nature has reproduced the mysteries of the Passion in each of its parts. The leaf symbolizes the spear which pierced the Saviour's side, the three styles the three nails which fastened hands and feet upon the cross, the stamens the hammers which drove them in, and the five anthers the five wounds thus received. The tendrils, representing the whips or cords, have two significations, denoting the scourging and the bonds.

In the center of the flower rises the column of the ovary, which symbolizes the pillar of the cross, while in the filaments is seen the crown of thorns. The nimbus, or halo of glory, which surrounds the Saviour's head, is supplied by the circle of the calyx. Even the coloring of the blossom held a sacred meaning, for the white tint denoted purity, and the blue heaven, and its duration of flowering (three days), was equivalent to the three years' ministry.

WHITE ASH HARDWOOD TREE

The white ash is one of the sturdiest representatives of its genus and is found throughout the eastern states and Canada, although the supply of this valuable wood is rapidly being depleted. In the forests of the rich bottom lands of the lower Ohio basin it has been known to attain a height of 120 feet and five to six feet diameter of trunk, but these dimensions are exceptional, says Forest Leaves. When growing apart from other trees it develops an ovoid or somewhat pyramidal top, with long slender lateral branches, and is popular as an ornamental shade tree. The wood of the white ash is heavy, a cubic foot weighing 40.78 pounds, hard and strong, and is used extensively in the manufacture of tool handles, agricultural implements, cars, furniture, etc. The inner bark is used in medicine. The above cut shows a branchlet of a white ash tree with mature leaves and fruit, a large leaf from a vigorous shoot and a branchlet in winter.

KEEPING MILK SEPARATORS CLEAN

Sweet Cream Should Keep Without Deterioration for at Least Twenty-four Hours—Then It Can Be Mixed.

(By E. W. FARRINGTON.) There is no better way of holding cream from one day to another than to run it over a cooler immediately as it comes from the separator, cooling it thereby to some 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

It will be well to skim the first lot of cream very rich, about 40 per cent. fat. Then cool this to a low temperature and hold it cold until the second day. The cream separated on the second day may be somewhat thinner, containing from 25 to 30 per cent. fat. This may be run directly into the cold rich cream of the previous day and the two lots thoroughly mixed.

After the mixture has stood an hour or so it ought to be tested both for fat and acidity. If it has a slow acidity near 3-10 per cent., a starter may be used. After mixing the starter with the cream ripen it at 65 to 70 degrees until the acidity reached about 5-10 per cent.

The cream ought then to be cooled to about 50 degrees and held at this temperature until it is churned. Sweet cream from clean milk ought to keep without deterioration for twenty-four hours, and if this is mixed with cream fresh from the separator the mixture should stand from six to ten hours, with an occasional stirring so as to ripen uniformly. If you do not do this the older cream may churn before the fresh cream when they are mixed together, and under such conditions there may be a large loss of butter in the buttermilk.

Growing Strawberries. The strawberry comes first in the season and succeeds best on moist, sandy loam. Use only one-year-old plants from new and productive beds. Remove blossoms and buds, and trim roots and foliage before setting them out. For home use plant in hills 12 inches apart in 24-inch rows; also cut runners for field culture. Clear row the land, planting two feet apart in three-foot rows. Cultivate both ways at first, cut runners once, then train along rows, keeping all weeds down with a hoe. Cultivate both ways at least three times, then one way until fall mulching. I cover my rows with stable manure when the ground is frozen.

The Businesslike Farmer. The businesslike farmer watches the market quotations on various crops and by so doing he markets his crop to the best advantage. On the other hand, by watching these quotations from year to year he soon finds out which time of the year to put in his order for wire, fertilizers, etc., thus making a saving in another line.

This gives a good idea of how the Wright aeroplanes to be seen at the State Fair, Sept. 19-24th, will appear. Recent improvements permit of much better handling of the airships than ever, and now circling a grand stand is a matter of easy achievement for the aviators. The aeroplanes will remain at all times in sight of the spectators. This will be the first appearance of the planes in Michigan.

DOWNWARD COURSE.

Fast Being Realized by East Jordan People.

A little backache at first. Daily increasing till the back is lame and weak. Urinary disorders quickly follow; Diabetes and finally Bright's disease. This is the downward course of kidney ills.

Don't take this course. Follow the advice of an East Jordan citizen.

W. T. Lord, State St., East Jordan, Mich., says: "I found Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured from Gannett Co.'s drug store, to be just as represented. My kidneys did not do their work properly and I suffered a great deal from backache and lameness across my loins. I could not stoop or lift without having sharp stitches and I was very anxious to get relief. After I had used Doan's Kidney Pills a few days the lameness disappeared my kidneys were restored to a normal condition. Other members of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pills and in each case, the results have been entirely satisfactory."

To Consumptives.

Edward A. Wilson's Preparation of Hypophosphites and Blodgett from the original formula is the Sovereign Remedy for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, LaGrippe, Coughs, Colds and all Throat and Lung Maladies. Thousands of people say they have been relieved by it.

Those who have used it will have no other, and recommend it to their fellow sufferers.

It has cured many after they were given up as incurable by their physicians. The undersigned as a consumptive can testify from his own experience as to its value.

Write at once—delays are dangerous, and may prove fatal.

Pain can be easily and quickly stopped. Pink Pain Tablets—Dr. Shoop's—stop Headache, womanly pains, any pain, anywhere, in 20 minutes sure. Formula on the 25c box. Ask your druggist or doctor about this formula—It's fine. Sold by James Gibley.

A falling tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silk thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by James Gibley.

WILLIAM M. SMITH.

William M. Smith of St. Johns, candidate for the Republican nomination as attorney general, has been prominent in state politics for a number of years. He is a resident of St. Johns and has several times filled the office of city attorney. He was a presidential elector at large in 1904 and is also a member of the Republican state central committee from the Eighth congressional district.

He attracted state-wide attention at the Republican state convention in the spring of 1909, when, in his speech as chairman of the convention, he for the first time voiced insurgency feeling which is now so rife in the state. In a speech which electrified his audience and brought the delegates to their feet, he declared that the Republican party should purge itself of evils which had grown up within it in the state and predicted a loss of power if this was not done. Mr. Smith predicted conditions would be as they are today in Michigan.

AN OPEN LETTER.

Newberry, Mich., Feb. 12, 1910. Petoskey Rug Mfg. Co., A. T. Washburne, Prop. Petoskey, Mich.

Dear Sirs:—The Rugs came yesterday and are simply superb. If I could see old sinners converted and made over as new as those Rugs are I should think that perfection was reached in transforming men.

How you can do it out of such old carpets is a surprise to me. Your charges are reasonable. Your work is excellent. Your attention to patrons is commendable. And the products of your looms surpassing all our expectations.

With many thanks, we remain, Sincerely, Rev. Levi Bird, Ph. D., Pastor Newberry M. E. Church. P. S.—You are at liberty to use this letter if you care to do so.

We have hundreds of such letters as above coming from nearly every state in the Union on file at our office for inspection.

True Religion.

True religion grows more and more anxious to declare that religion is not something foreign to humanity; that it is simply the fullest utterance of human life; that all human life which is not religious falls below itself.—Phillips Brooks.

First Aid to Illiterate.

Uncle Joe Cannon had an amusing experience with a waiter in a Kansas City hotel during his last visit to that city. Being in no mood to select his dinner, he had tossed aside, after a glance, the menu presented to him by his waiter, saying:

"Bring me a good dinner."

Incidentally Uncle Joe slipped the man a big tip in advance.

This repeat proving satisfactory, the speaker pursued the same plan during the remainder of his stay in Kansas City. As he was leaving the servitor remarked earnestly as he helped him on with his overcoat:

"I beg your pardon, sir, but when you or any of your friends that can't read come to Kansas City just ask for Tom."

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible, but I can now surely kill the pains and pang of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this torturing, much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system; and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy

For Sale or Trade.

I have a six-room house lathed and plastered, lot 4x12 rods, wood house, cellar, porch 4x24, located at Boyne City near the Chemical Plant, to trade for city property or small farm near East Jordan. I also have several good houses in all parts of Boyne City; also some good business chances; and farms in all parts of the county.—JOEL JOHNSTON.

Making Good Makes Friends

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good", and Dr. Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards. A good, honest square-deal medicine of known composition is

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that came into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is as good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for. Don't buy.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments.

It makes weak women strong, sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequalled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy. They regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

COIN FOR INDIANS

Total Amount is $860,000 Including Principal and Interest.
—Bill in House for Payment.

Ottawa and Chippewa Indians may get another large payment from Uncle Sam. Congressman McLaughlin introduced a bill lately permitting those Michigan Indians to go before the Court of Claims and present their case. This action follows the inquiry made by McLaughlin and by the Indian Bureau at his request. The tentative investigation of the bureau indicates that the government owes these Indians $200,000 principal and interest at 6 per cent since 1855, aggregating about $860,000.

This payment is due under the treaty made about 1855. As originally negotiated that treaty permitted the Indians to retain certain lands in western and northern Michigan including within the boundaries of a large tract which they ceded to the whites. The senate amended that treaty to permit them to retain those lands five years, but specified that thereafter they should abandon these remaining tracts for a payment of $200,000. The treaty specified that 6 per cent interest should be paid on unpaid amounts.

Inquiries thus far made indicate that the government paid interest from 1837 to 1855, but has paid neither principal nor interest since. A final report on the facts will be prepared by the Indian bureau and given McLaughlin Saturday. If more complete inquiry confirms the tentative findings Michigan Indians will get fat payments, within a year or two. These Indians reside chiefly in the Little and Grand Traverse bay regions.

'Foley Kidney Pills Have cured Me.'

The above is a quotation from a letter written by A. M. Winkler, Evansville, Ind. "I contracted a severe case of kidney trouble. My back gave out and pained me. I seemed to have lost all strength and ambition; was bothered with dizzy spells, my head would swim and specks float before my eyes. I took Foley Kidney Pills regularly and am now perfectly well and feel like a new man. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Hites Drug Store.
