City Dads

New Officers Now In Control of

East Jordan is now a city in reality as well as in name. The Village Conmon Council held their last meeting Monday evening and finished up the affairs of the Village. At the close, Mayor Cleveland and Commissioners Hudson and Kenny-were sworn in.

Prior to the Council meeting the Charger Commission held its last niceting, and approved the bills incident to framing of the charter and expense of election. In the close of the work of the Charter Commission the citizens of East Jordan owe each and eve y one of the gentlemen who comprised the Commission a sincere vote of thanks. They have labored untiringly and without compensation for the best interests of our city. Unselfishly they gave valuable time and earnest study to lay a solid foundationfor our city's government, and the charter framed by them and accepted by our citizens is one that in the years to come will stand the test.

Following the council meeting, the Councilmen, new City officers and Charter Commission adjourned to Taylor's Inn where a banquet, given by Mayor Cleveland, awaited them. W. F. Empey was toastmaster and a royal goodfellowship time was indulg-

The City Commission held a couple of meetings this week and the new city officials are pretty well organized. Below are the appointments made for the various city offices:

City Clerk-O. J. Smith City Treasurer and Water Works Contector-C. C. Mack-

Attorney-Elisha N. Clink Chief of Police, Water Works and Street Superintendent-Henry Cook

Fire Chief -- Eugene Adams Health Officer-Dr. Frank P. Ramsey Mayor Cleveland has charge of the departments of finance and public health, Commissioner Hudson is in charge of the water works and public utilities, and Commissioner Kenny, is in charge of streets and sewers.

A resolution was passed that it was the sense of the Commission that it was a public necessity that a policeman be appointed to protect property and maintain peace, such officer to receive no compensation except for actual services rendered. Thomas J. Smith was appointed as policeman.

On motion, the salaries of the sev-Tral city officers were fixed as follows: Clerk, $3(0); Treasurer, $300; Chief of Police, $900; Attorney, $100; Health Officer, $75; Chief of Fire Dep't, $50.

On motion the old council rooms were discontinued and future meetings will be held in the city hall.

On motion the regular meetings of Board of Commissioners will be held the first and third Mondays of each month, commencing at 8:00 p. m. standard.

Another meeting of the Board was held last evening.

The last legislature amended the truancy act, so that the truant officer is now appointed by the county commissioner of schools and is subject to his orders, and among the other changes in the law is a provision that. the truant officer shall investigate the condition of all out buildings and them in sanitary condition,, and in ese they fail to do so, the truant efficer has the authority to have the work done and have the expense spread upon the roll of the district the same as other district taxes. This is a good keep it clean and smooth. If the unsanitary and filthy, and there seems to be no way of getting at them, but the new law gives the necessary authority to the truant officer.

Grain and Fruit Wanted

Michigan grains as well as Michigan fruits will be shown at the first Michin the colliseum, in Grand Rapids, the second week in November,

The management is already seeking choice specimens of wheat and other grains for display at this big expesition of the state's products and resources. It desires and requests that all farmers who have this year grown wheat, oats, barley, rye, or other grains that are a credit to Michigan soll and Michigan methods of agriculture save samples and write to Secretary John 1. Gibson at the Land and Apple Show headquarters, Evening Press building, in Grand Rapids. The donations of individual contributors will be gratefully received and duly acknowledged. With the cooperation of the public spirited farmers of the state, a display is certain that will advertise Michigan to obsequics. the world in splendid fashlon. Samples of alfalfa are also much desired.

Scoretary Gibson states in handling the samples, the grain should be pulled up by the roots. If this is not practical, it should be cut as close to the roots as possible so as to show the entire length of the straw. The grain should then be hung up in the corn crib or some other place where it will be away from the vermin and birds. It would be better still to hang it up in the cellar where it would not dry out so quickly.

Care of the Farm Horse.

The farm horse is an important factor in agricultural pursuits. We would not get far without the patient quadruped who draws our loads and carries our burdens. He is so closely interwoven in our industrial and business life that were we called upon to adjust our farming operations to the use of some other motive power our plans would be demoralized and our prosperity receive a serious check. In view, therefore, of the importance of the place filled by the farm horse. It behooves us to care for him in a manner that will conserve his energy and enhance his usefulness.

The fire caused a little loss of timber for Von Platen Lumber Company and 200 or 300 cords of wood for the Chemical Company of this place.

ANOMALY OF PROFILES.

How often have we sat directly opposite a comely face in the street car, for instance, admiring its regular, well-formed features, when, with a certain turn of the person's head, the illusion of beauty suddenly vanished, the new view presented revealing contours of nose, chin and mouth disappointing in the extreme, says the Photo Era. The consoling feature, perhaps, is the ear, which, projecting abnormally in so many cases, now assumes an air of repose. Few faces will produce a profile of classic beauty; and even some of these fail to yield flattering full face portraits. This is one reason that one sees more front view portraits than profiles in painting and photography. Incidentally, it may be remarked that many a man would look better with his head presented in profile, if he wore a mustache instead of being smooth-shaven Not only does it preserve the harmonious proportions designed by nature, but its removal, in obedience to fashion's decree, sometimes result in unpleasant disclosures, such as an abnormally long upper lip or an ill shaped mouth, besides imparting undue prominence to the nose. A possibly humorous phase of this subject is the report that patrons of marriage bureaus in large German cities now insist upon both fullface and profile photographs of their prospective con-

EN, because of the exactions of their business, are allowed to pay their social calls on Sunday afternoons and during the evenings of the week.

No man calls upon a woman except at her invitation, unless he has previously sent her a letter of introduction. He pays his first call preferably on her formal receiving day, but if he is unable to command the leisure for an afternoon call he may ignore fashion and call in the evening, about nine

In making a call a man usually leaves his overcoat, stick or umbrella, hat and gloves in the hall before entering the drawing room. He may, if he chooses, carry his hat and stick into the room at a first or formal call, if it is to be very brief.

He should put his card on the hall table or on the tray offered him by the servant who opens the door.

He should always remove the right glove before he offers his hand to the hostess. The hostess, of course, offers her hand first, and until she does so a man should merely bow formally to all present.

A man should always rise where a woman is standing, and only resume his place when she is seated.

A man never shakes hands when presented to a woman, unless the woman offers to do so, but always when introduced to a man. A man is never invited to dine where he has not previously called.

A call after each invitation is the civility demanded by good form, and a card should be left in person the day after a dinner, luncheon or breakfast.

No man ever brings a friend to call upon a woman without having previously asked her permission.

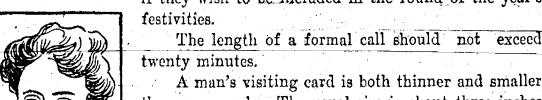

No young girl visitor should receive calls from the men whom she knows without asking her host or hostess to be present, leaving the option with them, and she should not invite a man to visit her without first ask- DAINTY LUNCHEON DISHES ing permission of her hostess.

If a woman is behind her tea table she need not rise to greet a man caller, but bow, offer his hand, and gracefully include him in the conversation, introducing him to those near her.

When another caller enters a man stands up if he is seated.

Under no circumstances does a woman accompany a man to the hall or front door when he is leaving the house, neither should she help a man on with his overcoat.

Men leave their cards early in the season upon their acquaintances, if they wish to be included in the round of the year's

A man's visiting card is both thinner and smaller than a woman's. The usual size is about three inches in length and an inch and a half in width. The man's is engraved in full without initials, and always with the prefix "Mr." The address of his home or of his club may be engraved in the lower right hand corner.

Young Woman Who Cannot Make Up Her Mind

By FRANCES J. QUESNER

The girl who cannot make up her mind is a trouble to herself,-a terror to her parents and a fearful trial to her lover!

One moment she almost loves—the next she is supremely indifferent.

The girl who doesn't know her own of salt, one fourth of celery salt, onemind needs driving with a firm hand on the_reins. Once give way to her whims, and she will be more at sea than ever. She must be taught that "yes" means "yes," and "no," "no," and that both carry inevitable consequences for joy or ill.

She must be mastered, since she cannot master herself.

Some girls are undoubtedly born with thin-skinned, sensitive natures ter together and season with salt and that render their possessors' lives a misery to them-if they choose to give way to the fallings to which they undoubtedly incline.

The sensitive girl enjoys things infinitely more-keenly than her more stolid sister, a thing for which she should be devoutly thankful.

If once and for all she will but convince herself of her exceeding unimportance in the scheme of creation, she will speedily grow happier. Only while she is self-engrossed will everyone's hand seem against her, and everybody bent on making her wretched.

Every girl secretly longs to be the one love of a man's life, and sometimes, cynics notwithstanding, she gains her wish. There are numberless good fellows who, having chosen their hearts' desire, remain true in thought and word their whole life through.

When something less is given her a girl is partly to blame.

The proper study of womankind is certainly man, and the gentleman whose heart is always changing its occupants is really quite easily known and avoided.

SPRAYING FOR CONTROL OF INSECT AND FUNGOUS ENEMIES

Marked Increase Has Been Noted Within Past Decade ork Largely Due to Work of Experiment Stations in Demonstrating Effectiveness of Operation and Profit Attending it -Some Injury.

(By W. W. BONNS, Maine Agricultural Experiment Station.) The spraying of economic plants for the control of insect and fungous enemies has markedly increased withinthe past decade. This is largely due to the work of experiment stations in demonstrating the effectiveness of the ery and materials have helped much towards the adoption of spraying as an annual farm operation, and especially is this true of the fruit growing industry. The progressive orchardist today recognizes the necessity of timely, thorough and intelligent application of insecticides and fungicides in order to sell his fruit in the best and most profitable markets.

The increase of spraying operations has, however, been accompanied by serious problems for the solution of which the grower turns to the experimenter. The use of bordeaux mixture, for many years the standard orchard spray, and even today recognized as the best all-around fungicide known. has been accompanied by injury to fruit and foliage,

Complaints of such injury have been increasing with each season and are not confined to any section of the country. The severity of the injury varies in degree and in different seasons. It has long been known that bordeaux mixture cannot be used with safety on the peach and Japanese reled and kept from freezing can be stored indefinitely. Home made limesulphur can also at present be made cheaper than the home-prepared bordeaux mixture, so far as cost of ingredients are concerned. The choice on grounds of economy is, therefore, merely between the expenditure of money or time and labor.

Home made boiled concentrated lime-sulphur may be made as follows: Lime, best grade...... 55 pounds Water sufficient to make 60 gallons, Slake the lime, mix the sulphur into a thin paste with a little water, add it to the lime, add sufficient water to make 60 gallons, bring to a boil and boil vigorously for 80 to 45 minutes. The sediment is then allowed to set tle, after which the clear dank ambercolored liquid is drawn off and may be stored in casks for future use.

In making this solution a large iron kettle or cooker of some sort is necese sary. A stock feed cooker of large capacity will answer. Fig. 1 shows a satisfactory form. The solution can also be made with the use of direct steam, and this means has been frequently employed when large quantities of the material are made.

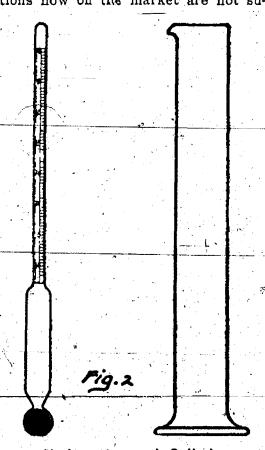

With our present knowledge, the strength of lime-sulphur to use depends upon its density. This may be determined by a cheap and simple instrument called the hydrometer. This consists of a hollow glass tube.

Howard Jeffries, banker's son, under the evil influence of Robert Underwood, fellow-student at Yale, leads a life of dissipation, marries the daughter of a gam-bler who died in prison, and is disowned by his father. He is out of work and in desperate straits. Underwood, who had once been engaged to Howard's stepmother, Alicia, is apparently in prosper-ous circumstances. Taking advantage of his intimacy with Alicia, he becomes a sort of social highwayman. Discovering his true character, Alicia denies him the house. He sends her a note threatening suicide. Art dealers for whom he acted as commissioner, demand an accounting. He cannot make good. Howard calls at his apartments in an intoxicated condition to request a loan of $2,000 to enable him to take up a business proposition. Howard drinks himself into a maudlin condition, and goes to sleep on a divan. A caller is announced and Underwood draws a screen around the drunken sleeper. Alicia enters. She demands a promise from Underwood that he will not take his life. He refuses unless she will renew her patronage. This she refuses, and takes her leave. Underwood kills himself. The report of the pistol awakens Heward. He finds Underwood dead. He hinds Underwood dead.

Howard is turned over to the police.

Capt. Clinton, notorious for his brutal treatment of prisoners, puts Howard through the third degree, and finally gets an alleged confession from the harassed man. Annie, Howard's wife, declares her bellef in her husband's innocence, and calls on Jeffries, Sr. He refuses to help unless she will consent to a divorce. To unless she will consent to a divorce. To save Howard she consents, but when she finds that the elder Jeffries does not intend to stand by his son, except finan-cially, she scorns his help. Annie appeals to Judge Brewster, attorney for Jeffries Sr., to take Howard's case. He declines Sr., to take Howard's case. He declines. It is reported that Annie is going on the stage. The banker and his wife call on Judge Brewster to find some way to prevent it. Annie again pleads with Brewster to defend Howard. He consents. Alicia is greatly agitated when she learns that Brewster has taken the case and detectives are looking for the woman who called on Underwood the night of his death.

CHAPTER XVII.—Continued.

"That's our object, isn't it, Mr. Jeffries-to find out?" he said sarcastically.

"What's the name of this mysterious witness?" exclaimed the banker testily. # "If the police haven't been able to find her why should-Howard's wife be able to do so? There was a report that she herself was-" He paused and added, "Did she tell you

"No," said the judge dryly, "she will tell us to-night."

The banker bounded in his seat. "You'll see," he cried. "Another flash in the pan. I don't like being mixed up in this matter—it's disagreeable-most disagreeable."

Dr. Bernstein puffed a thick cloud of smoke into the air and said quietly: "Yes, sir; it is disagreeable-butunfortunately it is life."

Suddenly the door opened and Capt. Clinton appeared, followed by his fidus Achates, Detective Sergeant Maloney. Both men were in plain clothes. The captain's manner was condescendingly polite, the attitude of a man so sureof his own position that he had little respect for the opinion of any one eise. With an effort at amiability he began:

"Got your message, judge—came as soon as I could. Excuse my bringing the sergeant with me. Sit over there, Maloney," Half apologetically, he added "He keeps his eyes open and his mouth shut, so he won't interfere. How do, doctor?"

Maloney took a position at the far end of the room, while Dr. Bernstein introduced the captain to Mr. Jef-

The banker nodded stiffly. He didnot relish having to hobnob in this way with such a vulgarian as a grafting police captain. Capt. Clinton turned to Judge Brewster. "Now, judge, explode your bomb!

But I warn you I've made up my "I've made up my mind, too," re-

"Yes;" growled the other.
"As I lated in my letter, captain," went on the judge coolly, "I don't want to use your own methods in this matter. I don't want to spread reports about you, or accuse you in the papers. That's why I asked you to come over and discuss the matter informally In no other country in the civilized with me. I want to give you a chance world would this be tolerated, except to change your attitude."

"If you don't," cried the judge sharply, "I'll ask them through the medium of your own weapon-the press. Only my press will not consist of the one or two yellow journals you inspire, but the independent, dignified press of the United States."

The captain reddened.

"I don't like the insinuation, judge." "I don't insinuate, Capt. Now, I may tell you, captain, that this condition fits in every detail the clinical experiences. of nerve specialists and the medical experiences of the psychologists. After five hours' constant cross-questioning while in a semi-dazed condition, you impressed on him your own ideas -you extracted from him not the thoughts that were in his own consciousness, but those that were in yours. Is that the scientific fact, doctor?"

"Yes," replied Dr. Bernstein, "the optical captivation of Howard Jeffries' attention makes the whole case complete and clear to the physician."

Capt: Clinton laughed loudly. "Optical captivation is good!" Turning to his sergeant he asked: "What do you think of that, Maloney?"

Sergt. Maloney chuckled, ____ "It's a new one, ch?"

Rising quickly from his chair, he crossed the room and talked in an undertone with his sergeant. This new turn in the case seemed to interest him. Meantime Mr. Jeffries, who had followed every phase of the questioning with close attention, left his seat and went over to Judge Brewster. "Is it possible," he exclaimed, "is it possible that Underwood shot himself? I never dreamed of doubting Howard's confession!" More cordially he went on: "Brewster, if this is true, I owe you a debt of gratitudeyou've done splendid work-I-I'm

The judge grasped his hand warmly. "Thank you, doctor!" he exclaimed: "I don't know what I should have done without you."

"Don't mention it," replied the psychologist almost ironically.

He went out and the banker impatiently took out his watch. "It's getting late!" he exclaimed; where is this girl. I have no faith in her promises!"

As he spoke the library door opened and Annie appeared. (TO BE CONTINUED)

ART OF BEING SHABBY UNDERTAKING FOR MISSIONARY.

WOMAN URGES IT ON THOSE WHO HAVE SMALL MEANS.

How an Old Lady Made Everyone Think She Was Rich and Always Had the Best of Everything.

"There are two ways of impressing people," said a woman who had knocked about the world a good deal, according to a writer in the New York Times. "You can be very smart or you can be distinctly shabby. For a woman of small means I recommend the second way, and I can speak with some authority, since I have followed my theory for a long time.

"Before I adopted it myself I watched it in operation. I know an old lady of some means, but not rich, who lived in a good hotel. Everybody dressed rather expensively, and everybody received more or less consideration from the management, but this old lady was the mogul of the place.

"She paid no more for her rooms than the others and she spent less in the dining room, and I was at a loss to account for the fact that she commanded instant and implicit obedience, even in the most exacting requests until one day when the hotel clerk, having seen me in conversation with her, said casually:

"'You know she's awfully rich."

"'Is she?' said I. 'I had no idea.' "'Oh, yes, indeed. She goes around in those shabby clothes because she doesn't care, but she has several million dollars.'

"It happened that after that I became quite intimate with the old lady, and by reason of helping her with her affairs in one way or another I got a pretty good idea of her income, which was certainly not more than $5,000 a year. Also, as our intimacy became apparent, I found myself more and more often questioned in the same casual manner.

"'She is tremendously rich, isn't she?' people would say. And I would answer noncommittedly that she certainly had enough for one woman to Judge Brewster sat down. Looking live on. To which the invariable reply

BABY'S HAIR ALL CAME OUT

'When my first baby was six months old he broke out on his head with little bumps. They would dry up and leave a scale. Then it would break out again and it spread all over his head. All the hair came out and his head was scaly all over. Then his face broke out all over in red bumps and it kept spreading until it was on his hands and arms. I Sought several boxes of ointment, gave him blood medicine, and had two doctors to tract him, but he got worse all the time. As had it about six months when a friend told me about Cuticura. I sent and got a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. In three days after using them he began to improve. He began to take long naps and to stop scratching his head. After taking two bottles of Resolvent, two boxes of Ointment and three cakes of Soap he was sound and well, and never had any breaking out of any kind. His hair came out in little curls all over his head. I don't think anything else would have cured him except Cuticura. "I have bought Cuticura Ointment and Soap several times since to use for cuts and sores and have never known them to fail to cure what I put them on. I think Cuticura is a great remedy and would advise any one to use it. Cuticura Scap is the best that I have ever used for toilet purposes." (Signed) Mrs. F. E. Harmon, R. F. Postmuster General Hichcock thinks one cent postage is not far off. In recent interview relative to last year's investigation into the cost of railway and mail transportation under the old law and present rates, he says:

"Many of the railways of the country are being overpaid for transportting the mails. I believe that a saving of approximately $900,000 a year to the government can be made without injustice to the carriers by readjusting the pay on a six per cent, profit to all railways carrying the mails.

"After Congress has authorized the readjustments, the postal surplus, which is the first in many years, wil be increased largely, paving the way still further for the introduction of one cent letter postage which can be a complished without a postal deficit just as soon as the postage rate on second class mail matter is properly adjusted."

Mr. Hichcock will recommend a readjustment of railway mail pay and certain changes in the method of fixing such compensation.

GREELEY & MINTIRE

PATENT ATTORNEYS WASHINGTON, D. C.

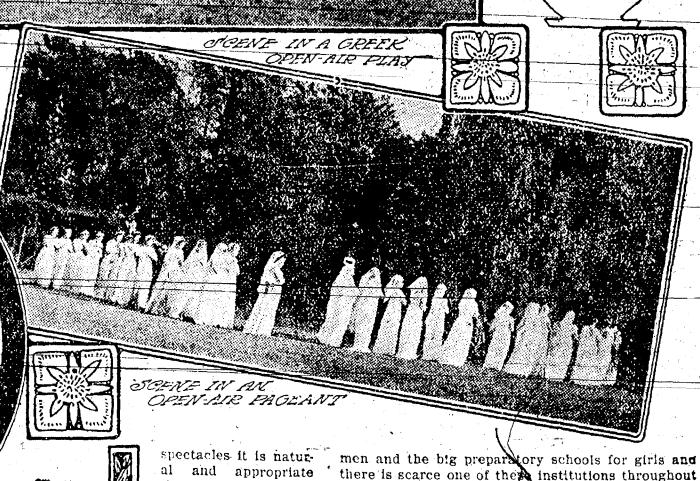

HE American people, ever keen for something new, have during the past year or two been indulging their fancy to an ever-increasing extent for a new form of amusement,—that is it is new to the United States although it has had great vogue from time out of mind, in all the leading European countries. The open-air pageant or play is the object of this new fad,if fad it may be called,—and the new style out-door entertainments are by no means confined as some people might suppose to the summer months. Indeed the spring is a favorite time for this form of "return to nature" whereas many such spectacles are held in the autumn and finally we are coming to find such productions provided as among the leading mid-winter attractions of such favored regions as Florida and Southern Call-

The people who do catering of amusements as a business were sort of caught unawares by this sudden popularity of the open-air pageant or play. It spread suddenly and of its own accord so to speak and thus we see an explanation of the fact that nearly all of these big spectacles are promoted by artistic or public-spirited private citizens who have no thought of gain in the matter. Similarly almost all the parts in such openair dramas are enacted by amateurs rather than by professional actors and dancers. And finally the proceeds of almost every one of these undertakings have been devoted to some worthy cause.

IN AN OPEN ALR PLAY -if not to charity at least to some philanthropic purpose or to some form of municipal betterment for the community in which this latest style of moving picture is presented.

PARTICIPANT

As has been said, open air plays and pageants that tell a story have been annual events in Europe from time out of mind. The best known of these, of course, is the world-famous Passion Play which is held once every ten years and which thousands upon thousands of Americans, witnessed during the last past presentation. There are many Americans, however, who claim that the idea of the distinctively American pageant as developed during the past few years in this country has not been transplanted bodily from the Old. World as many persons suppose. Certain it is that New World influences have had a part in the evolution of this novel class of drama. For instance, the Indians conducted in their palmy days some of the most wonderful spectacles the world has ever known and a remnant of those picturesque rites may yet be witnessed among the Pueblo Indians of the Southwest. Consequently, if the original Americans handed down to us some of the ideas for our modern open-air that we should now. turn to Indian themes for our latter-day dramas on the greenswards. The story of Hiawatha has proven particularly popular for such presentation and has been enacted in all parts of the country, sometimes with real Indians in the roles and sometimes with white folk dians. There are many persons who contend that the penchant for the open-air drama in America is but the natural outgrowth of the parades and festivals which have gradually attained to the dignity of local institutions in many of as make-believe In-our cities,—as for instance, the Madri Gras in Ne wOrleans, the frontier fetes held annually in many western cities, the Veiled Prophet parades and the midwinter Carnivals of Roses in Southern California. Yet another factor that has undoubtedly helped to bring this whole broad subject to public attention is the penchant which many of our schools and colleges have shown for this form of entertainment. Particularly has the open-air spectacle entrenched itself at the collegs for wo-

Among the women prominent in the production of Greek spectacles,—and almost all the projects for open-air theatricals are in the hands of women,-is Mrs. Albert Clifford Barney of Cincinnati and Washington, D. Home of the Famous Woman Spy is to Be Torn Down and Replaced by Educational institution.

Richmond, Va.—The purchase of the Van Lew house by the city of Richmond as the site of a public school building seals its fate, and the Richmond home of Elizabeth Van Low, "the woman who more than any other aided the United States government during the Civil war" will soon exist only as a memory and a tradition.

In 1824 Lafayette was the house guest of Dr. Adams, a former mayor of Richmond, who built the house while Chief Justice Marshall, Governor Smith-one of the victims of the burning of the Richmond theater in 1811-with the like were frequent visitors there. In 1843 it was bought by John Van Lew of New York, then a successful Richmond hardware merchant.

While the Federal army hovered about Richmond Miss Van Lew was in close touch with its commanders and flowers cut from the beautiful garden in the morning adorned Grant's table at the evening meal. She spied upon the Confederate agents, civil and military, establishing her deputies as servants in the household of Jefferson Davis, and through them acquainting herself with his cabinet conferences. This information, put in cipher and concealed between an outer and inner shoe sole, was smuggled through the lines by a negro employed on a farm below the town. ## ODD ANIMAL FAMILIES

SOME STRANGE ADAPTATIONS HAVE BEEN NOTED.

Friendly Relations Often Formed Between Cats and Dogs-Story of French Chicks That Had a Feline Foster Mother.

The cases in which cats and dogs have formed close relations are, of course, too numerous to mention. It really seems as if there were no animal friendship so strong and lasting as that between cats and dogs when once it is formed. It is well known that mother cats when deprived of their new-born progeny will adopt pupples, rabbits, monkeys or almost any other tender young creatures that may be handy. But there recently came to light a case for which there is no such apparent explanation.

A cat and a female fox terrier, which had brought into the world their progeny at about the same time, deliberately swapped their young, the cat taking the pupples to bring up and the dog the kittens. The exchange was satisfactory, and both litters were brought in good health to the weanable stage. Nobody knows what led to such abnormal conduct.

A somewhat similar case is reported from Halle, Germany. A householder there having a female cat and a fethat his house was in danger of becoming a sort of Noah's ark, and took away and drowned all the kittens.

The pupples found favor in his eyes. Deprived of her little ones, the cat began to "spell" the female dog in lady. graded that it is as easy to take the bereaved mother cat crawled into it here." and nursed the pupples. The chickens, fed by their owner, throve perfectly, and every day the strange sight was presented of their following the mother-cat about the premises, as if expecting her to find them food after the manner of a hen.—New Piece of Humor That Lifted Diffident Professor to the Highest Summer of Joy.

It is told that after Professor Aytoun had made proposals of marriage to Miss Emily Jane Wilson, daughter of Christopher North, he was, as a matter of course, referred to her father. #### Pity the Little Birds.

A correspondent sends us from Dexter, Tex., the following appeal for protection for the birds slaughtered for commercial nurnoses.

That the cruel, lashlon of wearing birds and aigrettes for ornaments on hats is still going on is proved by the little birds and aigrettes that are advertised by all the great millinery firms. But are the ladies who encourage this cruelty by buying them, really ignorant of the fact that this to say that I hope soon to be fully great sin is death through starvation restored to health." J. When so much has been As long as pain is present in any said and published against this part of the body rest is impossible shameful and cruel fashlon, I do hope they do it more for want of thought than for want of heart, and yet this is no excuse before the God who created the dear little birds for one benefit; for our pleasure to hear their sweet God-praising songs; for our benefit that they should destroy insects that threaten our orchards and gardens. And yet man with his five wits about him, and that warning, pleading voice—conscience—goes on no other reason than money on the one hand and vanity on the other. Have you who are mothers ever thought how terrible it would be if some huge monster came along and killed you, leaving your helpless babies behind to starve? Would you not curse such a monster in all eternity? And yet you who wear birds on your hats are guilty of just such a crime. Or do you think a nestling feels the pangs of hunger less intensely than up. your babies? I ask are we really Christians, or are we becoming heathons to allow such a cruelty to go on in this our land of the free and the brave? We fight all other sins, but this one of the country's most sinful, most degrading of sins, is fought against comparatively little. It is the very highest time that laws should be passed of the most severe *..... kind to check this satan-born fashion
