Open New Hall

Knights of Pythias Will Dedicate e. Nov. 24th.

South Lake Lodge No. 180 Knights of Pythias will formally dedicate their new hall in the Temple Theatre block Friday evening, Nov. 24. Preparations are being made for a big time that night, a number of grand lodge officers will be in attendance as well as delegation from all the surrounding lodges. The local lodge has the reputation outside of being royal entertainers and they will have a generous brand of hospitality on tap that evening.

The new lodge room is one of the finest in this part of the state, and one which the local lodge may well feel proud. It is equipped with all modern conveniences.

We understand a dance will be held in the hall prior to the formal opening.

Young Bees Transferring.

The first authoritative statement concerning the progress made in transferring members of the Knights of the Modern Maccabees to the new schedule of rates has just been made public by A. M. Slav, Great Record Keeper.

"Among the first thousand members who have already transferred," stated Mr. Slav, "we have found that 131 members or 13 per cent are between 60 and 70 years of age; 247 or 25 per cent are between 45 and 60 years of age, while 622 or 62 per cent are 45 years of age and under. It was feared by some that we would lose our younger members, but these figures absolutely prove the contrary. These facts and figures also confirm the claim that all members were treated fairly in the re-adjustment of rates. We are convinced that the permanence and prosperity of the Society is already assured."

Efficiency in Advertising

One principle of successful advertising, as practised by department store ad writers and other specialists on publicity, is to give definite descriptions of the goods offered. When a merchant uses such phrases as "The best is the cheapest" and "Biggest assortment and lowest prices" he convinces no one. The reader argues that anyone can use these catch words and they prove nothing.

The most successful advertising is not apt to sound like an attempt to persuade. It is more a statement of facts. The reader is given material by which he forms his own mental picture of the goods.

For this purpose try definite and detailed though very brief description. Get manufacturers of your lines to give you some definite facts about how the goods are put together, so that you can give some real reasons why goods are superior.

Pick out some special bargains, describe them as above indicated and put in the prices and the real value you believe them to have. Don't bother about flowery language. What the buyer wants is cold facts. "Reason why" advertising is what brings the buyer around.

Importers' Tactics.

The ways of the importers are strange and incomprehensible to the man in the street.

New York papers have been speculating on the reasons that led fruit importers to ship thousands of boxes of lemons from Sicily to New York and then re-export them to Canada, Hamburg and other foreign markets. One explanation was that this was done while the tariff fight was on at Washington, and lemons being too cheap in eastern markets to permit the importers to allege that the tariff was showing prices up too high, they tried to create a scarcity by diverting lemons to other, and more profitable markets, and cause the price in New York to go high enough to give them an argument. They showed incidentally, how completely they control the market and how easily they could manipulate prices if they had free entry and could thereby keep the domestic product "beyond the Mississippi" as they formerly did before the enactment of the Payne-Aldrich bill.

Does Local Option Hurt Resort Business.

When Charlevoix and Emmet counties were making their campaign against the saloons the whiskey sympathizers put forth the argument that banishing saloons would greatly injure the resort business, a most important factor in the prosperity of both counties. In spite of this argument, most strenuously and persistently presented by the "wets," the better sentiment and judgment of the voters prevailed, saloons and breweries were closed and the results have forcefully proved that the "wets" were utterly wrong in their contention. The resort business in both counties has never been better than under the "dry" regime. Moral and social conditions are immeasurably improved, and the most prosperous periods in the resort business in Emmet and Charlevoix counties have been in the seasons since the saloons were driven out. The editor of Moderator Topics has been a summer resident and cottage owner on Little Traverse bay for more than 15 years, and knows whereof he speaks. Mind you we do not say that the betterment is entirely due to the shutting up of rum holes, gin shops, booze joints and the like, but we do insist that closing the saloons does not injure any decent business.—The Moderator Topics.

Gumption On The Farm

Paint the ladders and store them away in the barn.

Thrash the grain out before the rats and mice do it for you.

Don't stand too much on your dignity—you might slip and fall.

With hay at twenty dollars a ton who would not be a hayseed?

It is so easy for a little rip in the horse blanket to get larger! Start for needle and thread the minute you see such a rent.

As the end of the year approaches let us be up and doing all the outdoor work that has been put off, lest winter catch us unprepared.

Selling the farm and moving into town to join the store-box club is a good deal like trading off the best cow for a yellow dog. Don't do it brother as long as you can plow a straight furrow.

If you had to stack any hay out this year look at the tops before winter sets in. They sometimes settle badly, so that the storms are likely to injure the hay very much. If this is the case with yours, top them out again. Thick, fine grass is the best for this purpose. Tread it down well.

Never set a fried egg with the expectation of hatching a fried chicken. In excessively hot weather place a canvas over the potato patch in order to shield the eyes of the potatoes from the blinding sun. Investigation of modern science have disclosed the fact that there is no essential connection between duck raising and quack grass.

George Patrick, a former well known merchant of Mackinaw City, is charged with manslaughter and Mose Jones is dead as the result of a recent saloon brawl in Mackinaw City. Patrick and Jones were in the Stimpson House saloon both of them drinking beyond the legal limit when the former attempted to throw Jones out of the door. Jones' heel caught in the door sill and he plunged forward striking his head on the cement walk. The man died an hour later. The "regulated" saloon had claimed another victim and had stamped its brand of crime on still another of its patrons. More lives have been lost through saloon fights and drunken quarrels in Michigan during the past four months than during any period in Michigan history, and these crimes and deaths have all occurred in "regulated" liquor selling places, in saloons legally vouched for by the Michigan Bonding and Surety company.

VETCH AS A FERTILIZER

While advocating the use of Alfalfa Cover to renovate and enrich our sandy lands, the attention of the seeker after information on this point is called to the virtue to be found in vetch, which is being largely used also for this purpose. In fact some are now claiming that vetch is by far the most valuable plant for this purpose. An Indiana Correspondent, writing to the Indiana Farmer, gives this subject from his own experience as follows:

I am now in the sixth year of my experiments with vetch. The first year I experimented with two acres. This year, 1911, I plowed under and followed with corn, grown less than fifty acres per year. I have grown it on all kinds of soil, except muck, and had it suitable to any soil upon which I have grown it. However with me, it has always grown best on the poorest soil, which makes it the most valuable of fertilizing plants.

I have sown it as late as August 30, but advise sowing from July 15 to August 15. September sowing is too late for the latitude north of the Ohio river.

Vetch should be followed with corn, tobacco, clover, potatoes, or any crop but wheat. If followed by wheat there will be enough vetch to ripen its seed with the wheat to make a dock at the elevator, although I claim that the grain to the soil which vetch gives is worth more than the dock you may receive.

After I had experimented with vetch for three years I said that the vetch plant was the most valuable fertilizing plant ever discovered and now after an additional three years experimenting with the plant, I am convinced that I did not make the statement too strong. It is the most valuable fertilizing plant for the reasons:

First. It is easily grown and grows between the cultivating and plowing seasons, covering and storing nitrogen in the soil as no other plant will.

Second. As a nitrogen gatherer it has no equal. It will in one season put into the soil nitrogen worth $25 per acre.

Third. No plant gives so much humus to the soil as is given by the foliage and roots of the vetch plant.

Fourth. Its fine root system has no equal for breaking up the surface and sub-soil.

Fifth. Great masses of vetch plowed under enables crops to resist drought and make vigorous and healthy growth of plants.

Though we may never have lost any, most of us are looking for money all the same.

A hen will spend a whole day getting up an egg that a hungry man can eat in a minute.

Here is a good question for lycums to discuss this winter: "How much is enough?"

When you buy a balky horse you may not pay for any harness, but you will be sure to get a halter.

The wise man does not let his wife hear him boast that he is a good manager; she knows better.

Don't wait for success to come in your yard. Grab it by the collar and yank it inside the gate.

DEPENDABLE FURS

In the early days when the manufacture of fur garments was in its infancy, people bought furs mainly with a view to their warmth and comfort. As the industry has grown, more and more attention has been given to appearance, until now the wearer of furs has come to look for distinction and style in furs, as much as in other garments.

The merchant who handles Dependable Furs is in a position to cater to the most critical, because they are, first of all, of the very best quality and in addition to this, they possess that distinction which comes from close attention to the style of garment.

Every garment in our store is made up in the style best calculated to bring out the beauty and attractiveness of the natural fur, while it in no way detracts from the comfort of the garment or from the wearing quality of the fur itself.

Satisfaction in fur garments must be based upon the grade of material used and the wear they are subjected to. The nature of the fur cannot be changed. We are always ready to advise as to the wearing quality of any fur.

Our stock consists of White Iceland Fox, Russian Raccoon, Blue Wolf, Flat Jap, Mink, Isabella Opposum and many other beautiful things in up-to-date styles. Look in our north window.

WEATHER AND THE BOBOLINK.

Those weatherwise farmers of northern Indiana who prophesy an early autumn because of the departure of the bobolink southward two or three weeks earlier than usual should consider the bird's peculiarities. It is not because he considers summer nearly over, but because he has raised a new family early that he now starts southward, in all probability. "Robert of Lincoln" departs for the rice fields of the mid-south coast with the ability of his brood to fly. He and his mate come to us early and depart early, says the Chicago Record-Herald. He has now a new coat and will fill himself with rice, so that he will soon be in prime condition as the "rice bird" of the Carolinas. He spends the winter in Central or South America, if he escapes the shotguns of the coast hunters, and is billed for return appearances next April or May. One of the results of hot weather is the quick fulfillment of many natural events and functions. The weather prophets of the "rural districts" often satisfy themselves, but not the scientists.

Germany is not the first place in the world to which one would look for a movement in the direction of relief from conventionality. However, a Men's Dress Reform society has been founded in Berlin, with the object of bringing masculine attire to a higher hygienic standard. The society protests against the "airtight armor plating" of the starched shirt front, the cast-iron rule of black frock-coats for weddings and funerals alike, and the general system of dress which involves the wearing of many tight-fitting garments each overlapping the other. Stiff collars and cuffs are also tabooed. It is said that the society will begin its propaganda among artists and other men of independent standing, like writers, physicians and sportsmen. Berlin has not had great success as a starter of women's fashions, but that is no reason why it should fall in "setting the pace" for men. The result of the new undertaking will be awaited with interest.

The reckless motorists and those who are insolent both in demands and manner to the general public are doing much to provoke antagonism which will react on the whole sport of automobilism, says the Baltimore American. There are a large number of automobilists who operate their machines carefully and with due care and consideration for the rights of others, who do not abuse their privileges, are not only willing but also anxious to comply with all the provisions of the law and who treat pedestrians with consideration and courtesy. But as in other cases, these innocent ones have to suffer for the sake of the guilty, and will be powerless to check the adverse public opinion which so much recklessness and arrogance are bound to engender. It is another count against the reckless ones that they are bringing discredit and ill feeling against a large class who do not deserve either.

A Gotham broker has gone abroad to hunt for a perfect wife, who, to suit his taste, must combine the best points of the women of all nations. But one trouble with a quest of this kind is that the ideal woman herself, if found, may also be looking for the ideal husband.

The establishing of an age limit for operators of automobiles is a perfectly reasonable proposition. A powerful machine, with all its possibilities of speed, in streets used by men, women and children, is entirely too dangerous a toy for irresponsible boys who think nothing of the rights of others and of possible accident, but are heedlessly intent only on "going fast," says the Baltimore American. Already in a fatal accident the plea of extreme youth has been set up as a defense, and this fact should add weight to the arguments for taking the handling of automobiles from irresponsible persons. If youth and intoxication are allowed as mitigating circumstances in accidents, then there will be no safety in the highways and the city streets for anybody.

Again has a New York society woman found that it does not pay to try to beat the customs inspection. The woman who makes the effort is not only foolish, but is compelled to pay a high price for her folly.

A man in St. Louis tried to kill himself because his bride was always wanting to kiss him. Another man lately applied for a divorce because his bride insisted on being unknissed. And yet the men declare it is the women who are difficult to please.

It is stated that the panic of 1907 considerably affected the conscience fund in New York. The consciences of the public probably were active, but the pocket nerve was paralyzed.

Physical Training

Athletics When Carried to Excess are Harmful

By MARY E. ALLEN, Boston

THE educator whose domain is physical training recognizes that his special educational field, unlike any other, comprises two distinct factors—the resultant must be brain development and health. In no other division of education is the acquisition of health an essential feature. Indeed, no thought of health exists in connection with the ordinary phases of education. In deciding whether he will study the classics or the sciences, seldom does a student consider the question of health as influencing his decision. For this reason the general public looks upon physical training as chiefly the development of muscle and the acquisition of health. Hence there is little clear perception of the educational side of physical training, and public interest has centered on athletics instead of on educational development. It is difficult to draw a clear line between the two, though no thoughtful educator can fail to see that the distinction is real.

Exercise that develops brain centers and brain control of nerve-endings must be symmetrical in design and proceed from simple to complex. Such training is educational. Exercise that has out its ultimate object—fun, recreation, competition, the ability to beat, belongs to the playground division of physical training. The tendency of such exercise is to induce asymmetry, one-sided development—over-development of one part and under-development of another.

Could our college faculties once grasp this throughout there would be less uncertainty in handling football and other games involving comparatively few of the students, and greater justice in the treatment of gymnasium directors and an understanding of the value of this work with the many.

Games conduce to an increase in muscular control, to health and to the acquisition of various good qualities, but only within certain limits. When some one was expatiating on the great value of football in developing self-control, etc., a friend of mine remarked that she "would like to know if the self-control gained on the football field would make a man more patient with a crying baby at night."

'Tis a question whether self-control gained in the field of competition, under restricting rules, in the eye of a criticising public, is a control that will serve in ordinary living, where one makes his own rules of lives without them. Athletics, within healthful limits, are most highly to be prized, but they should be entirely separated from exercise in its educational field. Games of all kinds would be included in educational progressive training, but they would take a subordinate part and would be used only until the special development they are capable of giving is achieved.

The playground idea must be pushed if health and physical efficiency are to be incorporated in our children's lives, but what is done in the playground would certainly constitute very desultory education. Everybody who thinks realizes that the play element should be fostered—not only in children, but in grown-ups—from the kindergarten games tops and marbles, hop-scotch and tag to tennis, baseball, cricket, etc., for children of older growth. They are all in the same category—the recreational list—and are valuable, as they meet the individual need for recreation and fun.

I can tell many girls why they have missed their chance of marrying. While they may be good looking and may dress well, if they have that awful habit of gum chewing there is not one gentleman out of five hundred who will take one of them for a wife unless he is a habitual gum chewer himself.

Why is it that women persist in gum chewing in public when it is, as we all know, a vulgar habit? If one must chew gum for indigestion one should do so in the privacy of one's room at home.

I have talked to dozens of men, both in business and in professional life, and they tell me that the gum chewing habit is so repulsive that it makes them often lose a valuable acquaintance or a business deal.

A woman, no matter how smartly gowned, has no attraction for them when once they see "her jaws working like a steam engine."

A prominent physician told me that his wife had to stand all the way home in the car from the city, a distance of eight miles, because otherwise she would have been compelled to seat herself beside a woman or a girl who was chewing gum, which was so sickening that she could not endure it.

I have a young man cousin at Yale university, and he will not make the acquaintance of a young woman who chews gum.

He and his companions formed a club, and there are now 150 in this club of young millionaires and lawyers and doctors, who have signed pledges never to marry a young woman, no matter how attractive she is, who chews gum in public.

They are sincere, as he told me that one cannot go in the best society if one's wife embarrasses one by chewing gum.

In the near future everything will be done to benefit the greater part of the children attending our public schools, but what has been done to improve the present system for the benefit of the weak and nervous children that attend them?

After the vacation these children will begin their tasks fairly well, but look at those children two months later, and still later when the school days are over. What is left?

In many cases the child is a physical wreck or a complete ruin, in a few years ready for the asylum or even the cemetery.

What is to be done? To do justice to such children is to have one room in each public school set aside, with a special teacher who has a perfect understanding of these poor children and can give them the proper attention, for they need a different training from that required by ordinary healthy children.

Lessen Trials of Nervous School Children

Many Girls Have Chewing Gum Habit

By BLANCHE BRUGE, Nashville, Tenn.

I can tell many girls why they have missed their chance of marrying. While they may be good looking and may dress well, if they have that awful habit of gum chewing there is not one gentleman out of five hundred who will take one of them for a wife unless he is a habitual gum chewer himself.

Why is it that women persist in gum chewing in public when it is, as we all know, a vulgar habit? If one must chew gum for indigestion one should do so in the privacy of one's room at home.

Young Gates Very Much Like His Father.

Has Already Shown the "Plunging Spirit" on a Small Scale—Some of His Escapades in the Field of Chance.

New York.—Like his late father, but necessarily on a smaller scale, Charles G. Gates has been known for several years as a spender. Now, with upward of $30,000,000 in his control, will he prove to be a spender to an extent proportionate to the reputation he has gained as an embryo, or as "the son of John W. Gates?"

Several transactions in which young Gates has figured and which may be regarded as significant are recalled here. While they perhaps no more than verge on the sensational, they disclose, it is pointed out, a character that in time may develop true "bet-you-a-million" proclivities.

It is recalled that in 1901 Charles Gates decided he wanted a seat on the New York stock exchange, and to get it wrote a check for $52,000, the record price paid for a seat up to that time.

On one occasion John W. Gates went to Texas on a shooting trip and left his son in charge of his Wall street brokerage office. One day the latter went out before the books closed on Colorado Fuel & Iron, borrowed about 10,000 shares and had it transferred into his own name. After the books closed he returned the certificates, but gave proxies on them to Mr. Harriman.

By a strange coincidence, George J. Gould owned all of this stock. He had planted it about Wall street to see what would happen to it. When Mr. Gould saw the clever move made by young Gates—for the Colorado Fuel war had just begun, and such moves counted—he let Harriman go ahead counting the stock until the next day when young Gates was overwhelmed by having served on him legal papers by the numerous brokers from whom he had borrowed the stock, ordering him to send the proxies on it to them and telling him that if he attempted to vote it at the Denver meeting they would bring suit for damages. Gates had run head on into the law and had to back out.

When John W. Gates was in his prime he was a familiar figure and a heavy plunger at the race tracks. So was his son. The latter's best record of winnings was made at Los Angeles, when he took $28,000 from the Santa Anita bookmakers. Returning to the city on the last day of the meeting, young Gates much elated, paid $500 for a dog worth $50. He then gave it to the cashier of the Alexandria hotel. Next he procured a $50 puppy, but meeting a young woman who liked the animal, pup No. 2 vanished in oblivion. Then the young plunger found a handsome bulldog and parted with $8,500, but kept the animal.

"Charlie" Gates has also taken occasional flings at roulette and faro and a fortune usually changed hands one way or the other. One night, after a banquet on Broadway, he fell in with Arnold Rothstein and William Shea, both notorious gamblers, and spent the night at their place of business. In the morning Rothstein accompanied the young plunger to his bank, where Rothstein cashed a check for $40,000 which Gates had written at daylight.

If the father was possessed of a whole-souled sense of humor, so is the son, and it has been amply evidenced several times. Again big sums were always involved, at least in the stories that found their way to the public print.

The following is a sample: "Turn me a trick in the market, will you? I need the money badly."

This request came over the telephone to young Gates one morning. Mr. Gates immediately bought 200 shares of Louisville & Nashville. In less than an hour the stock had been sold at two points profit.

"I've got $400 for you," shouted Gates over the telephone. "How do you want it, cashier's check?"

The clerk, who thought Mr. Gates was joking, replied: "Oh, send it over in pennies."

Two strong porters were dispatched to the sub-treasury, 40,000 new pennies were procured and delivered to the amazed customer in a bushel basket.

Fireman's Helmet

Photograph by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

THERE is something deliciously incongruous in a maiden whose mission it is to ignite the flame of love, wearing a fireman's helmet of dainty hue and material. This "helmet," which has reached these shores by way of Paris, is bound to become a prime favorite, not only by reason of its chicness, but also because it is so entirely adaptable to practically any coiffure. As will be seen by the picture, it has a deep dip back and front and is shallow at the sides so as to allow of the hair showing. A white cockade worn at the right side gives the necessary height effect. The crown is of lattice work braid. The hat may be worn at any slope that suits the face contour of its owner.

RETURN TO LACE BLOUSE COIFFURE HIDES UGLY EAR

Well-Dressed Women Realize the Possibilities of This Most Charming Garment.

Present Style Lends Itself to Those Afflicted—Much May Be Done in Infancy.

The Irish lace blouse, simply fashioned to show the beautiful pattern of the lace, is a great favorite still with well dressed women, and there is every indication that the summer vogue of real lace will be carried far into the coming season. Many of the newest evening gowns are elaborately flounced with lace.

The girl with an ugly ear should rejoice in the present style of coiffure, for it is easy to disguise her defect. Hair is draped low on the sides, but unless you wish to be thought careless or deformed, do not drag your hair too low.

At the moment one of the most fashionable laces is chantilly, which has endless possibilities as a veiling. A very favorite combination is black and white, and the smart afternoon frock and evening toilet is carried out in white charmeuse or crepe, veiled with fine black chantilly. Sometimes the tunic is of chantilly, and instead of clinging to the tight-fitting skirt of yesterday this lace tunic meets a frock of valenciennes frills or a deep flounce of chantilly.

A noted French beauty specialist has said that a woman adds much to her charm by half-concealing her ears, and few Frenchwomen would draw the hair straight up from the ears in the fashion that Americans adopt.

Irish point de venise and filet are used for flat trimmings, and some very charming effects are produced in finely darned filet.

The same authority states that every woman who would look young should put a daub of rouge on the lobe of the ear and should be careful not to wear earrings if they harden the lines of the face or make it appear broader.

GIRL'S FROCK OF BATISTE

This dainty frock for a girl from fourteen to seventeen years old is of white dotted batiste, trimmed with narrow ruffles of the material and baby Irish insertion. The girle, prettily knotted at the side, is of liberty. The dress is made up over taffeta or some imitation silk.

If one has an ugly ear or an ugly hand it is better unadorned, though sometimes a distorted or badly shaped lobe is half concealed by circular earrings.

A New Model. Among new models might be mentioned the draped cutaway, and one which fastens high over the bust at the left side, with both edges curved to a rounded point at the center back, then faced all the way on the outside, with self-material.

The flaming ear is trying and, if not caused by digestive or blood troubles, the colorfulness should be blotted out by powder.

For Good Dressers. In the matter of being well dressed it must be remembered that the whole effect can be ruined by the amount and kind of jewelry worn. It must be of the right kind and chosen with an eye to the general effect. For instance, with a tailored suit the greatest simplicity should be maintained, any jewelry worn merely carrying out the idea of severe tailor made. Rings of heavy masculine type only, practical pins, pearls if any necklace is worn. On the other hand, the intensely feminine effect is heightened if with a drooping hat, lingerie frock and fancy slippers are added a dainty necklace, frivolous chain, pendant earrings and purely feminine rings. With an evening dress anything becoming is allowable.

To Keep on Pumps. Fasten a small piece of elastic two inches long across the heel inside, attach the ends only. When the pump is drawn on, the elastic stretches over the ball of the heel and prevents its slipping off. Fasten other pieces of elastic on either side of the instep, so as to be stretched when pump is on. This prevents it gapping at the sides.

The Courtship of Miles Standish

With Illustrations by Howard Chandler Christy

Sailing of the Mayflower

Just in the gray of the dawn, as the mists uprose from the meadows, there was a stir and a sound in the slumbering village of Plymouth; Clanging and clinking of arms, and the order imperative, "Forward!" Given in tones suppressed, a tramp of feet, and then silence. Figures ten, in the mist, marched slowly out of the village. Standish the stalwart it was, with eight of his valorous army, Led by their Indian guide, by Hobomok, friend of the white men, Northward marching to quell the sudden revolt of the savage. Giants they seemed in the mist, or the mighty men of King David; Giants in heart they were, who believed in God and the Bible,—Aye, who believed in the smiting of Midianites and Philistines.

Take His Musket, and So Stride Out. Over them gleamed far off the crimson banners of morning; Under them loud on the sands, the scattered billows, advancing, Fired along the line and in regular order retreated.

Many a mile had they marched, when at length the village of Plymouth Woke from its sleep, and arose, intent on its manifold labors. Sweet was the air and soft; and slowly the smoke from the chimneys Rose over roofs of thatch, and pointed steadily eastward; Men came forth from the doors, and paused and talked of the weather, Said that the wind had changed, and was blowing fair for the Mayflower;

Talked of their Captain's departure, and all the dangers that menaced, He being gone, the town, and what should be done in his absence. Merrily sang the birds, and the tender voices of women Consecrated with hymns the common cares of the household. Out of the sea rose the sun, and the billows rejoiced at his coming; Beautiful were his feet on the purple tops of the mountains; Beautiful on the sails of the Mayflower riding at anchor, Battered and blackened and worn by all the storms of the winter, Loosely against her masts was hanging and flapping her canvas, Rent by so many gales, and patched by the hands of the sailors. Suddenly from her side, as the sun arose over the ocean, Dashed a puff of smoke, and floated seaward; anon rang Loud over field and forest: the cannon's roar, and the echoes Heard and repeated the sound, the signal-gun of departure! Ah! but with louder echoes replied the hearts of the people! Meekly, in voices subdued, the chapter was read from the Bible, Meekly the prayer was begun, but ended in fervent entreaty! Then from their houses in haste came forth the Pilgrims of Plymouth, Men and women and children, all hurrying down to the sea shore, Eager, with tearful eyes, to say farewell to the Mayflower, Homeward bound o'er the sea, and leaving them here in the desert.

Foremost among them was Alden. All night he had lain without slumber,

Turning and tossing about in the heat and unrest of his fever. He had beheld Miles Standish, who came back late from the council, Stalking into the room, and heard him mutter and murmur, Sometimes it seemed a prayer, and sometimes it sounded like swearing. Once he had come to the bed, and stood there a moment in silence; Then he had turned away, and said: "I will not wake him; Let him sleep on, it is best; for what is the use of more talking!" Then he extinguished the light, and threw himself down on his pallet, Dressed as he was, and ready to start at the break of the morning,— Covered himself with the cloak he had worn in his campaigns in Flanders,— Slept as a soldier sleeps in his bivouac, ready for action. But with the dawn he arose, in the twilight Alden beheld him! Put on his corselet of steel, and all the rest of his armor, Buckle about his waist his trusty blade of Damascus, Take from the corner his musket, and so stride out of the chamber. Often the heart of the youth had burned and yearned to embrace him, Often his lips had essayed to speak, imploring for pardon; All the old friendship came back, with its tender and grateful emotions; But his pride overmastered the nobler nature within him,— Pride, and the sense of his wrong, and the burning fire of the insult. So he beheld his friend departing in anger, but spake not, Saw him go forth to danger, perhaps to death, and he spake not! Then he arose from his bed, and heard what the people were saying, Joined in the talk at the door, with Stephen and Richard and Gilbert, Joined in the morning prayer, and in the reading of Scripture, And, with the others, in haste went hurrying down to the sea shore, Down to the Plymouth Rock, that had been to their feet as a doorstep Into a world unknown,—the cornerstone of a nation!

There with his boat was the Master, already a little impatient. Lest he should lose the tide, or the wind might shift to the eastward, Square-built, hearty, and strong, with an odor of ocean about him, Speaking with this one and that, and cramming letters and parcels into his pockets capacious, and messages mingled together. Into his narrow brain, till at last he was wholly bewildered. Nearer the boat stood Alden, with one foot placed on the gunwale, One still firm on the rock, and talking at times with the sailors, Seated erect on the thwarts, all ready and eager for starting. He, too, was eager to go, and thus put an end to his anguish, Thinking to fly from despair, that swifter than keel is or canvas, Thinking to drown in the sea the ghost that would rise and pursue him. But as he gazed on the crowd, he beheld the form of Priscilla Standing dejected among them, unconscious of all that was passing. Fixed were her eyes upon his, as if she divined his intention, Fixed with a look so sad, so reproachful, imploring and patient, That with a sudden revulsion his heart recoiled from its purpose, As from the verge of a crag, where one step more is destruction. Strange is the heart of man, with its quick, mysterious instincts!

How Good You Have Been to Me. Saying a few last words, and enforcing his careful remembrance. Then, taking each by the hand, as if he were grasping a tiller, Into the boat he sprang, and in haste shoved off to his vessel. Glad in his heart to get rid of all this worry and flurry,— Glad to be gone from a land of sand and sickness and sorrow, Short allowance of victuals and plenty of nothing but Gospel! Lost in the sound of the oars was the last farewell of the Pilgrims. O strong hearts and true! not one went back in the Mayflower! No, not one looked back, who had set his hand to this plowing!

Soon were heard on board the shouts and songs of the sailors Heaving the windlass round, and hoisting the ponderous anchor. Then the yards were braced, and all sails set to the west wind, Blowing steady and strong; and the Mayflower sailed from the harbor, Rounded the point of the Gurnet, and leaving far to the southward Island and cape of sand, and the Field of the First Encounter, Took the wind on her quarter, and stood for the open Atlantic, Borne on the send of the sea, and the swelling hearts of the Pilgrims.

Standing Dejected, Unconscious of All. Strange is the life of man, and fatal or fated are moments, Whereupon turn, as on hinges, the gates of the wall adamant! "Here I remain!" he exclaimed, as he looked at the heavens above him, Thanking the Lord whose breath had scattered the mist and the mists, Wherein, blind and lost, to death he was staggering headlong. "Yonder snow-white cloud, that floats in the ether above me, Seems like a hand that is pointing and beckoning over the ocean. There is another hand, that is not so spectral and ghost-like, Holding me, drawing me back, and clasping mine for protection. Float, O hand of cloud, and vanish away in the ether! Roll thyself up like a fist, to threaten and daunt me; I heed not. Either your warning or menace, or any omen of evil! There is no land so sacred, no air so pure and so wholesome, As is the air she breathes, and the soil that is pressed by her footsteps. Here for her sake will I stay, and like an invisible presence Hover around her for ever, protecting, supporting her weakness; Yes! as my foot was the first that stepped on this rock at the landing, So, with the blessing of God, shall it be the last at the leaving!"

Meanwhilst the Master, alert, but with dignified air and important, Scanning with watchful eye the tide and the wind and the weather, Walked about on the sands; and the people crowded around him

Long in silence they watched the receding sail of the vessel, Much endeared to them all, as something living and human; Then, as if filled with the spirit, and rapt in a vision prophetic, Baring his hoary head, the excellent Elder of Plymouth Said, "Let us pray!" and they prayed and thanked the Lord and took courage. Mournfully sobbed the waves at the base of the rock, and above them Bowed and whispered the wheat on the hill of death, and their kindred Seemed to awake in their graves, and to join in the prayer that they uttered. Sun-illuminated and white, on the eastern verge of the ocean Gleamed the departing sail, like a marble slab in a graveyard; Buried beneath it lay for ever all hope of escaping. Lo! as they turned to depart, they saw the form of an Indian, Watching them from the hill; but while they spake with each other, Pointing with outstretched hands, and saying, "Look!" he had vanished. So they returned to their homes; but Alden lingered a little, Musing alone on the shore, and watching the wash of the billows Round the base of the rock, and the sparkle and flash of the sunshine, Like the spirit of God, moving visibly over the waters.

Height of Fame. "And how is your son Henry getting on in literature?" asked the visitor. "Oh, he's doing famously," said the proud mother. "His autograph brought $10 the other day." "Really?" "Yes,—signed to a promissory note for three hundred. I bought it myself."—Harper's Weekly.

DANGER SIGNALS ON THE GREAT LAKES

GUIDED BY THE FOGHORN

LIGHT and noise from the shore have been employed to guide seamen in making harbors when they were hidden by darkness or fog ever since man first discovered that he could travel on water in a boat. In the long ago great fires were kept up during the night and if the night was fog-bound so that the fires could not be seen men having heavy, coarse and penetrating voices would stand at the water's edge and one after the other they would lift their voices to the highest pitch in the "Li-hi-li-ho!" Mariners hearing the voices would know in what direction to steer their craft.—In those days, however, fires were kept burning or voices sent out over the water when a boat was expected, which was not often. Later, the watch tower was added to the fire and the voice signals.

The United States is generally regarded as leading the world in the protection which she affords to her own mariners and to those coming to her shores from other countries. Like many other of our institutions, the development of this service, though comparatively recent, has been both rapid and thorough, and in some respects marvelous. Other countries, however, have also made notable strides along the same line with the result that the old dangers of travel upon the seas of the world have been greatly reduced.

More than 200 years after the discovery of America only one lighthouse had been built in this country, though the value of such an aid to navigation had been known since the days of the ancients. Since they began to multiply, many almost unsurmountable obstacles have been overcome in establishing some of the most important lights and not a little heroism has been chronicled in the work of construction as well as in the subsequent daily tasks of the keepers. Some most notable feats of engineering skill have also been chronicled.

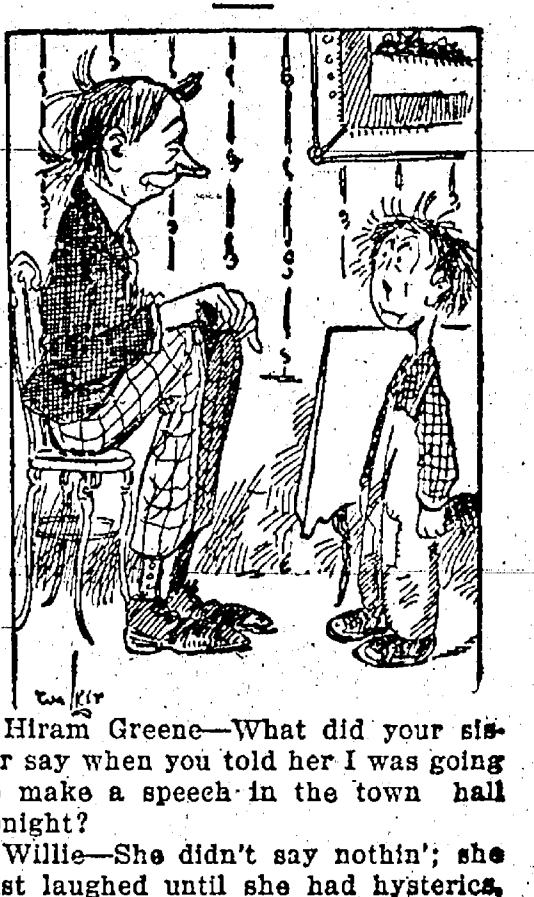

The greatest heroism and skill has, of course, been exhibited in the erection of those lights which stand upon the reefs or on huge boulders. Passengers on passing ships watch the waves and heavy seas dash over these rocks on which now stand staunch lighthouses, and marvel how they were ever built. The history of such houses usually includes the loss by drowning of several of the builders not to speak of exposure and unusual hardships on the part of all. Nor have all the obstacles been upon the ocean coasts. On one of the five great lakes—Lake Huron—there stands a lighthouse on Spectacle reef which for nearly forty years has been withstanding not only the storms and heavy seas but also the pressure of great packs of ice.

Other lighthouses built under much less difficulty, however, are of the greatest importance. Buildings of much less size built not upon rocks but perhaps upon artificial cribs a mile or so from shore are to be found at many points, especially on the great lakes, and their lights illumine the paths of the immense steel ships which carry the ore from Lake Superior to the ports on Lake Erie. Some of those now building on these waters are said to be a forerunner of many others of like construction which the government will build within a few years. They are constructed of steel and concrete along the lines of a modern office building. One of these modern buildings has just been completed and is known to mariners as the White Shoals lighthouse. Steel instead of stone and brick means as much to modern lighthouse building as it does in so many other industrial lines. The cost of lighthouses ranges from $1,000 to $300,000 and there have been

A Preference. "Marriage is a lottery," said the ready-made philosopher. "No, it isn't," replied Mr. Growcher. "In a lottery you can lose once and forget about it, instead of having to put up alimony."
 About the Size of It. "Why is it?" queried the youth, "that so many people fail to mind their own business?"
 "There may be one or two reasons, or both," answered the home-grown philosopher. "They may have no mind or no business."—Philadelphia Press.

Failed to Scare Tim. A plan was formed to scare a certain Tim Casey, living in a village near Belfast, on his returning from market by night past the churchyard. As he went by, the usual turnip, white sheet, and lantern of the conventional ghost were submitted to his gaze, with the customary weird howls. Tim, however, simply looked fixedly at the apparition for a moment and remarked: "Arrah, now, and is it a general resurrection, or are ye just taking a walk by yerself?"

SOUND SLEEP
 Can Easily Be Secured.
 "Up to 2 years ago," a woman writes, "I was in the habit of using both tea and coffee regularly.
 "I found that my health was beginning to fail, strange nervous attacks would come suddenly upon me, making me tremble so excessively that I could not do my work while they lasted; my sleep left me and I passed long nights in restless discomfort. I was filled with a nervous dread as to the future.
 "A friend suggested that possibly tea and coffee were to blame, and I decided to give them up, and in casting about for a hot table beverage, which I felt was an absolute necessity, I was led by good fortune to try Postum.
 "For more than a year I have used it three times a day and expect, so much good has it done me, to continue its use during the rest of my life.
 "Soon after beginning the use of Postum, I found, to my surprise, that, instead of tossing on a sleepless bed through the long, dreary night, I dropped into a sound, dreamless sleep the moment my head touched the pillow.
 "Then I suddenly realized that all my nervousness had left me, and my appetite, which had fallen off before, had all at once been restored so that I ate my food with a keen relish.
 "All the nervous dread has gone. I walk a mile and a half each way to my work every day and enjoy it. I find an interest in everything that goes on about me that makes life a pleasure. All this I owe to leaving off tea and coffee and the use of Postum, for I have taken no medicine." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
 "There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.
 Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Fife Lake Hunter Makes Fatal Mistake in North Woods.

Vesper Judkins, 23 years old, operator at Walton Junction, was fatally shot and killed in the woods near Esseltine in the upper peninsula by his father, Louis Judkins, G. R. & L. station agent at Fife Lake.

The accident happened Tuesday afternoon. The young man, who leaves a wife and year-old baby, was in the woods with his father after deer, and wore a yellow hunting coat. The father, having left camp in an opposite direction from the son, finally spied what he thought was a moving deer. Forgetting his son, he took aim and fired at a considerable distance. When he arrived where the supposed deer was he found his son writhing in agony.

The father "packed" the dying son to camp several miles upon his back and a start was made for home. While crossing the straits the young man died. The father is nearly bereft of his reason. The mother and young widow knew nothing of the accident until the body arrived at Fife Lake.

WILSON

Cooler weather this week.

Terry Barber made a business trip to Charlevoix one day last week.

Grange hunt of Wilson Grange takes place this week Friday with the supper Saturday evening.

Miss Ailie Wilks of Jordan township has been stopping at Steven Sloan's the past few weeks.

Miss Esther Shepard went to Charlevoix last Tuesday where she will visit friends and relatives for a few days.

Clio Sloan who has been suffering with an attack of appendicitis is gaining slowly and hopes to be able to resume school in a short time.

Mrs. Annie Godfrey was called to Jordan township last week by the severe illness of her father old Mr. Hveck. He is still very low.

Mrs. Thos. Shepard and Mrs. Wm. Tate returned last week from a fortnight visit with friends and relatives in Traverse City and other points further south.

A large crowd at Max Ostensbergs auction sale last Tuesday and most of his property sold for a good price. Mr. Ostensberg and family will soon remove to the west where they will live in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Batterbee were called to mourn the loss of their little daughter Cora aged about 20 months, who died Monday night after a short illness. The funeral services were held at the Grange Hall Wednesday afternoon conducted by Rev. Bennett of East Jordan, interment was made in the Lewis cemetery. The bereaved parents have the sincere sympathy of all in their sorrow.

"This little bud, so pure and fair called hence by early doom, just came to show how sweet a flower in Paradise could bloom."

Value of Cheerfulness.

Cheerfulness is a thing to be more profoundly grateful for than all that genius ever inspired or talent accomplished. Next best to spontaneous cheerfulness is deliberate, intended and persistent cheerfulness which we can create, cultivate and so foster and cherish that after a few years the world will never suspect that it was not a hereditary gift.—Helen Hunt Jackson.

At Work on Mezzotical Figures.

Louis St. Gaudens, brother of the famous sculptor and an artist of rare promise himself, is now working on figures for the new union station in Washington, D. C. There are to be six allegorical figures, for which President Elliot of Cambridge has written the inscriptions. St. Gaudens lives in a remodeled Shaker meeting house at Cornish, N. H., built in 1798.

Purists Up In Arms.

The purists are now objecting to the use of such modern terms as "drummer" for commercial traveler, "sleeper" for sleeping car, "hard up," "on the go" and so on. They also oppose the phrase, "an awfully pretty girl" on the ground that beauty never produces awe in the beholder.

Still In Doubt.

"So that is your impressionistic masterpiece?" "Yes. What do you think of it?" "It certainly is a wonderful piece of work. What is it intended to represent?" "I have not decided as yet whether to call it 'Sunset on the Moor' or 'An Orchard in Bloom.'"

OBITUARY.

Alexander Mayville passed away after a lingering illness at his home near East Jordan on Oct. 18th, aged 67 years eleven months and eighteen days.

Mr. Mayville was born in St. Louis, Canada and was the youngest of seven children and was the last member of his family, all having passed on before. At the early age of five years he went to Clinton Co., New York, where he lived with an Uncle until he enlisted when only seventeen years old, going to the front and serving his country for two years. He returned to Clinton again, and in a few years came to Michigan where he met Miss Julia Dufore, whom he married, at East Jordan thirty-three years ago, going then to Bay City where he lived four years and then returned to East Jordan and purchased their home.

Mr. Mayville was of a kind and pleasant disposition and will be sadly missed in his home and community. He is survived by his wife and seven children, five sons and two daughters, who were present at his bedside, with other relatives and friends.

Many beautiful flowers, tokens of the esteem of his friends, covered his casket as it was carried from his home. Funeral services were held from the St. Joseph's Catholic church and interment made in Calvary Cemetery.

Resolutions.

Adopted by Golden Rod Local, L. S. of E., extending our sympathy to our sisters Mrs. Julia Mayville, Mrs. Laura Stewart and Miss Lillian Mayville on the death of their loved one, husband and father.

"In the midst of life we are in death." How beautiful, yet how much unheeded, until so suddenly brought home to us, when the silent messenger of death entered the home of our sister taking her loved companion.

And therefore, Resolved, That as a society we extend heartfelt sympathy to each member of the family, assuring them that "Earth has no sorrow that Heaven cannot heal"

Resolved, That a copy be presented to our sister, and also spread on minutes of society.

Odd Conditions.

"I think it is extremely queer that they demand cash payments for telegrams." "Why shouldn't they?" "Because it is a well-known fact that all telegraphic messages go on tick."

Chinaman Wanted Much.

One of Boston's insurance men insured a small building which served an industrious Chinaman both as shop and home. The policy covered damages caused by fire and water, but John Chinaman evidently thought he was protected against losses due to any other cause whatever. One day the following letter came, addressed to the insurance company:

"Some bad boy break my one glass. Now all tore. Come you my house look. Fix new. Joe Lung."

Joe expected the company to make good the damage done by the bad boy, and plainly thought he was being swindled when informed that his claim was inadmissible.

Necessary Labor.

Everything within and about us shows that it never was intended that man should be idle. Our own health and comfort and the welfare and happiness of those around us, all require that man should labor. Mind, body, soul, all alike suffer and rust out by idleness, the idler is a source of mental and moral offense to everybody around. He is a nuisance in the world and needs abatement for the public good, like any other source of pestilence.

Sort of Job He Wanted.

"There's what I'm looking for," said the lazy man going through the want advertisements for an easy job, as his eyes lighted on a call for canvassers to sell something that "would sell itself." "That's the sort of a job I want," he said to himself. "Something that I can earn money at without work." And he thought that really some day he must go down and look 'em up.

Blind people are now permitted to ride free on the street cars of Glasgow, Scotland. A young man confined in a Pennsylvania jail proved his refinement by using a spoon to pick his cell lock and escape. Well-bred persons never forget their table manners. Some men would have used a knife had they been situated as the Pennsylvania prisoner was.—New York World.

Cruel and Unusual.

"Saw off the handle of an old broom," says the Farm Journal, "and use it to brush your horse with after you have been over him with a comb and brush of the regular kind." # Briefs of the Week

The Hite Drug Co. moved into their new quarters in the Boswell block this week.

Petoskey's paper mill will resume operations Feb. 1, after being idle for many months.

East Jordan will be represented at the State Teachers' meet at Detroit next week. Among those planning to attend are Supt. J. T. Northon and Triant Officer W. F. Bashaw.

Mrs. Leahy, wife of Dr. Leahy, died at her home in Petoskey, Thursday last. The lady was quite well known in this city having accompanied Mr. Leahy here on several of his business trips.

Our neighboring town of Boyne City is in the throes of a gigantic labor disturbance. Tuesday morning the telephone girls refused to answer calls because the manager had advanced the wrong girl. Late dispatches indicate that the Michigan State Telephone Co. is still in existence.

All voters should remember that there will be a general re-enrollment this winter and that all who desire to vote in the primaries will have to have their names enrolled. This means everyone. Those who are now enrolled will have to be re-enrolled. The date of the enrollment will be on the last Saturday in January and the place will be announced later.

The Everett B. Clark Co. seed house on the west side started operation on Monday morning with a full force there being thirty-five ladies employed. Mr. Sholes, who has been foreman of the picking room for the last two years, is again employed as foreman. A great many of the old hands are engaged again this year as well as a number of new ones.

James Hedger and Miss Florence Haggert, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haggert, in this city, last Sunday, Oct. 22nd, at the noon hour. Rev. T. Porter Bennett officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bashaw of McMillan, relatives of the bride acted as groomsmen and bridesmaid. The young couple will reside at Orchard Heights.

W. D. Harlow, who recently came from Chicago and purchased the Bellaire Independent from Ira Adams, surrendered his contract the first of this week. Mr. Harlow retained possession of the building in which the plant was located and plans are now being formed by him to put in another paper in Bellaire. The Independent plant was moved from the building to the Dole building next to the Large Drug store and will be issued from that place by Ira Adams. Mr. Harlow informs us that the new Bellaire paper will soon appear with an entire new equipment.—Central Lake Torch.

On the last page of this issue will be found the formal notice of the Board of Supervisors, calling for a vote on the Local Option question at the April next election. Since the posting of the petitions The Herald was hopeful that something would come up to prevent this needless vote. The people of Charlevoix county are satisfied in having the saloons out of their midst and, although enough thoughtful citizens were found to force an election, the vote on the question will not be materially changed from that of three years ago. We have been under local option for nearly three years and we defy anyone to say where our cities or townships have suffered in any manner. Business has been better, many families are in better circumstances by reason thereof and our citizens have been free from the carousals and turmoil so frequent in the days of the open saloons.

Supt. L. F. Balch was a Leland business visitor this week.

Mrs. Cook is slowly recovering from a severe attack of tonsillitis.

Mrs. D. C. Loveday left Friday for a visit with friends in Ontario.

Corra Batterbee, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Batterbee, died on Monday after an illness of a few weeks. She was born Feb. 27th, 1910. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon. The sermon being preached at Afton by Rev. T. Porter Bennett pastor of the Methodist church. The parents have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

A number of Mrs. Minnie Ismans friends met at her home on Tuesday evening in honor of her birthday. Five hundred and fifty took up a few hours of the evening; Mrs. Gidley received the 1st prize for finch and Mrs. John Whiteford the booby prize. Mrs. Pringle the 1st prize for 500 and Mrs. Mollard the booby prize. A fine lunch was served and all bade the lady good-night wishing her many more anniversaries.

About a dozen ladies met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zess Friday afternoon and for about two hours you could see nothing but corn flying in the air as the ladies all pitched in and husked about 75 bushels of corn for Joe. They were then called into the dining room where a bounteous feast was spread for supper which all enjoyed. The dishes were quickly cleared away, shortly after the gentlemen began to arrive and all spent a few hours in dancing. Then lunch was served and all departed for their separate homes hoping Joe would let them come again soon.

For the Michigan State Teachers' Ass'n meet at Detroit the E. J. & S. R. R. will sell round trip tickets at 1 1/2 fare, selling dates November 1-2 return limit November 6th.

The new Catholic school at Mancelona, built through the efforts of Fr. Burchard, was dedicated last Thursday. It is a two-story brick structure built along the lines of St. Joseph's school.

Empey Bros. are headquarters for COMFORTERS. They are selling a 68x78 inch Comforter, filled with cotton batten, for the low price of $1.15. If you want anything in that line it will pay you to look over their stock.

There seems to be good ground for inquiry into this matter of the support of the county poor. The county possesses at East Jordan a fine poor farm with a house thereon that would do for a resort hotel. The annual report shows that 18 persons are being cared for there at an expense of $3,180.65, while the cost of maintaining the poor outside the county-house for the year was $3,747.17. The inquiry naturally is, if we have a county house and farm why are not the poor cared for there. Over $9,000 for the support of the poor in this small county for one year is somewhat staggering to the average tax payer.—Charlevoix Sentinel.

Last Wednesday night Sheriff Edgerton received word from Harbor Springs that Joe Cobe, who escaped from the Emmet county jail several months ago, had returned and was at the home of Bill Glasgow. Officers at that village immediately proceeded to capture the jail breaker and he was brought to Petoskey Thursday and placed again in the Emmet county jail. Cobe escaped in company with Felix Henderson and claims he has been in Canada most of the time. He was sent up for sixty days for drunk and disorderly and had thirty days more to serve when he escaped. He will now have to answer to the charge of jail breaking.—Petoskey Record.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted during the closing session of the eleventh district of the W. C. T. U. that has been meeting this week in the M. E. church. "That we hereby express our sincere thanks to the W. C. T. U. and citizens of East Jordan for the kind entertainment given to this convention in so many thoughtful ways, for the use of the church, for the delightful music and all that has contributed to make this meeting a pleasant and profitable one." A great deal of interest was felt in the above meetings and it is hoped that much permanent good will result. About forty delegates from the various counties and local centers were present and took part in the discussions and general business. Mrs. Bilz a prominent national speaker fresh from Europe addressed the convention and her powerful and moving statements stirred the delegates profoundly. Mrs. Howard of Petoskey, the president, presided with great tact and efficiency. Music was contributed by the Church Orchestra and singing by friends. On the closing evening by the High School chorus under charge of Miss Belding. The contest for the Grand Gold Medal was most interesting, four competing. The medal being surrendered to Miss Lillian Mosher. The competition was confined to those who had already secured silver and gold medals in local contests. Miss Grace Howard was the representative of our city and we regret she did not secure the Grand Gold Medal.

Leave your laundry at Mack's. Just received a new and beautiful line of Ladies Plush Coats of the well known Bischof make, at B. C. Hubbard & Co.

It is surprising to some to hear Empey Bros. say their business far exceeds any year yet. We presume to say that is brought about from the fact they are carrying a larger stock than ever.

We gratefully thank all the good people who visited us during our annual bazaar and had their meals with us. We strove to please all and think that we have succeeded. Hence we kindly beg to be remembered next year again.—The Ladies of St. Joseph's Congregation.

No expense has been spared in securing the right people. In costuming the company, in coaching it for each individual number of the program, and in preparing the whole organization and its work to meet the most critical audiences and popular demands.

The Antias are not essentially a novelty attraction, but an organization of artistic, versatile women. The artists have been selected not only for individual artistic accomplishments, but for their versatility.

In spite of the rain over two hundred attended the rally service last Sunday morning. The church was very prettily decorated with flags, bunting and evergreens. The lecture room was decorated beautifully for the Cradle Roll department. The program was well rendered, much credit is due the young people that took part in the program and also the choir and orchestra. The flag drill by the boys was greatly enjoyed by all. The program was printed in the form of a railway ticket. A beautiful chair was presented to Mr. M. H. Robertson on behalf of the Sunday school for his efficient service as Superintendent for so many years.

Rev. Mr. Bennett, the pastor, made the presentation address. This school has the largest Cradle Roll that it has had in its history. Mrs. T. Porter Bennett, the Superintendent of the Cradle Roll reported seventy children on the roll. This is a very loyal school in every department. The pastor has about 80 boys organized in the Holy Grail, members of this Sunday school.

PLUMBING and HEATING OF ALL KINDS. Prompt Attention Given to Repair Work.

Phone No. 193-2 rings; residence, 193-3 rings.

If you have helped a neighbor or taught him how to smile; if you have learned to labor in brave and patient style; if you believe that singing is better than wringing your hands, and tear drops springing your journey is worth while. If you are trying to side-step sin and guilt; and you are still denying your hands to customs vile; if you believe that toiling is better than soiling your soul with futile broiling, your journey is worth while. If you are sure that growing is badly out of style; if you're aware that scowling is but a sign of bile; if you since you were married, have always homeward carried a heart by grouch unhurried your journey is worth while. If you're a cranky person, with edges like a file; if you are prone to cursing and using language vile, if you make folks unhappy, because your temper's snappy and you are cross and scrappy, your journey's not worth while.

After exposure, and when you feel a cold coming on, take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It checks and relieves. Use no substitutes. The genuine in a yellow package always.—Hites Drug Store.

Candid, if Nothing Else. The Lawyer—Are you acquainted with any of the men on the jury? The Witness—Yes, sir; more than half of them. The Lawyer—Are you willing to wear that you know more than half of them? The Witness—Say, if it comes to that, I'm willing to swear that I know more than all of them put together.

A Variable Condition. "Any malaria around here?" asked the tourist. "Some say they is an' some say they ain't," replied the native. "It depends on whether the person enjoys the kind of medicine that's mostly took fur it."

Recovered Her Sight. After being totally blind for twelve years, a woman eighty-seven years old—Mrs. Doyland, of Taunton, England, has received back her sight. During those years she had prayed that she should regain her sight, and about a month ago she could see a glimmer of light. Gradually the blindness has disappeared and she can now see what time it is by the church clock 100 yards away. She saw a motor car for the first time a few days ago.

Recovered Her Speech. After being speechless two years, as a result of a long illness, Miss Jessie Fishel, of New Orleans, instantly recovered her voice the other day when startled by a vivid flash of lightning and a loud peal of thunder. Seventeen specialists in several cities had tried to restore her voice but with no success. Her father declares the recovery is the result of prayers offered constantly by the family. A big family celebration has been planned.

Perfected Eyeglasses. Eyeglasses for those who are near sighted out crescent shaped have been common for a long time. A yachtsman appeared recently with a pair of eyeglasses crescent shaped, but for those who are far sighted. They are just the reverse of the reading glasses. When wanting to see a distance the wearer looks through the glasses and when reading he looks under them.

More Grown Out of It. Middle-aged graduates of an academy in Auburn, Me., were discussing school days, says the Chicago Post. "What became of that red-headed boy who was so afraid of the girls?" asked one. "He has just been divorced from his fourth wife," said the graduate who had kept up with the times.

Clever. "I wish," said the slight and elegant Mrs. Fitzbob to her friend Mrs. Tieg, whose embonpoint was strikingly handsome. "I wish I had some of your fat and you had some of my lean." "I'll tell you what is the origin of that wish," replied the fair wit, "you think too much of me, and too little of yourself."

Much Like New York. Victim of a broken aqueduct, Venice, may be said to have brought home to it a realization of the Ancient Mariner's "Water, water, everywhere, nor any drop to drink."—Providence News.

CATTLE RAISING IN CHIRIQUI

By FORBES LINDSAY.

THAT portion of the Province of Chiriqui lying on the Pacific side of the Continental Divide and extending westward from the Rio Tabasara, contains the richest lands in the Republic of Panama. Of this area, the choicest section is what commonly goes by the name of the "Divala country," including the districts of Alanje, Boqueron and Bugaba. This superlatively fertile region is situated between David, the capital of the province, and the Costa Rican border. There is no finer agricultural land than it in the world. Along its playas the coco palm thrives. A little farther inland the admixture of sand in the deep stratum of alluvial soil, combined with climate and drainage, make such perfect conditions for the growth of sugar cane that the yield is as great as anywhere in the tropics, although the fields are not irrigated, and tilled only in the most primitive manner. At somewhat higher elevations tropical fruits, tobacco, cacao, and rubber flourish, while in the mountain valleys the vegetables of the temperate zone and coffee of excellent quality are produced.

This country is admirably adapted to the pursuit of cattle raising. The land is covered by light forest, locally termed "monte," which may readily be cleared with the machete. At intervals this growth gives place to level expanses of grass-covered llano, often several square miles in extent, dotted here and there with wild fig or other shade trees in small stands or solitary stations. The prevailing herbage of the llanos is Jenbebrillo, which bears a close resemblance to the famous "blue grass" of Kentucky.

The region is abundantly watered. Every few miles a river or creek intersects the forest, but in the dry season all but the largest of these fall. It is where the interval between streams is unusually great, say, seven or eight miles, that the monte gives way to open grassland. The slope of the ground and the porosity of the soil insure perfect drainage, and there is an entire absence of swamps, save for the inevitable mangrove strips along the coast.

When the development of Chiriqui shall have fairly set in, irrigation will surely become an important factor in the agricultural industries. Good reservoir sites are plentiful, and the lay of the land is perfectly suitable to the installation of simple, inexpensive gravity systems.

The climate of this section is subtropical and somewhat like that of Florida. The mean temperature is about 75 degrees F., and the extreme variations do not exceed 15 per cent. in either direction. The heat of the day is usually tempered by breezes, and the night is cool at all times. The dry season extends over the first four months of the year, and recurs for a few weeks in September and October. During the remaining period there is almost daily rain which seldom extends through more than three or four hours in any 24, and is preceded and followed by clear weather. Excessive humidity is of rare occurrence. Destructive storms, hurricanes and tornadoes are virtually unknown.

The climate is distinctly favorable to man and beast. Few diseases, if any, are attributable to it. The inhabitants of Chiriqui enjoy exceptionally good health, and this statement applies to the natives of Europe and America, of whom there are a number settled in the province.

In the past 20 years, and perhaps much longer, no epidemic disease has appeared among men or animals in the province. Cattle are singularly free from the complaints which commonly afflict them elsewhere. Pleuropneumonia and anthrax have never been heard of. Blackleg once made its appearance, but was readily checked by vaccination.

The land in this portion of Chiriqui is of a generally level character, with a gentle, but constantly prevailing slope toward the ocean. The llanos may be traversed in any direction by the lightest vehicles with the ease which would be experienced in crossing a lawn. Cart roads are easily constructed through the forest stretches, in many cases nothing more being necessary than to clear the monte and remove rocks and the larger stones. The existing roads maintain communication between all centers of habitation and are quite equal to the requirements of any traffic which they may be called upon to support for some years to come. They are not macadamized, but the natural material of which they are composed is such as to pack well and erode but little. I have seen extremely heavy downpours of rain run off them without miring. It may be repeated that the drainage of the entire section under consideration is perfect.

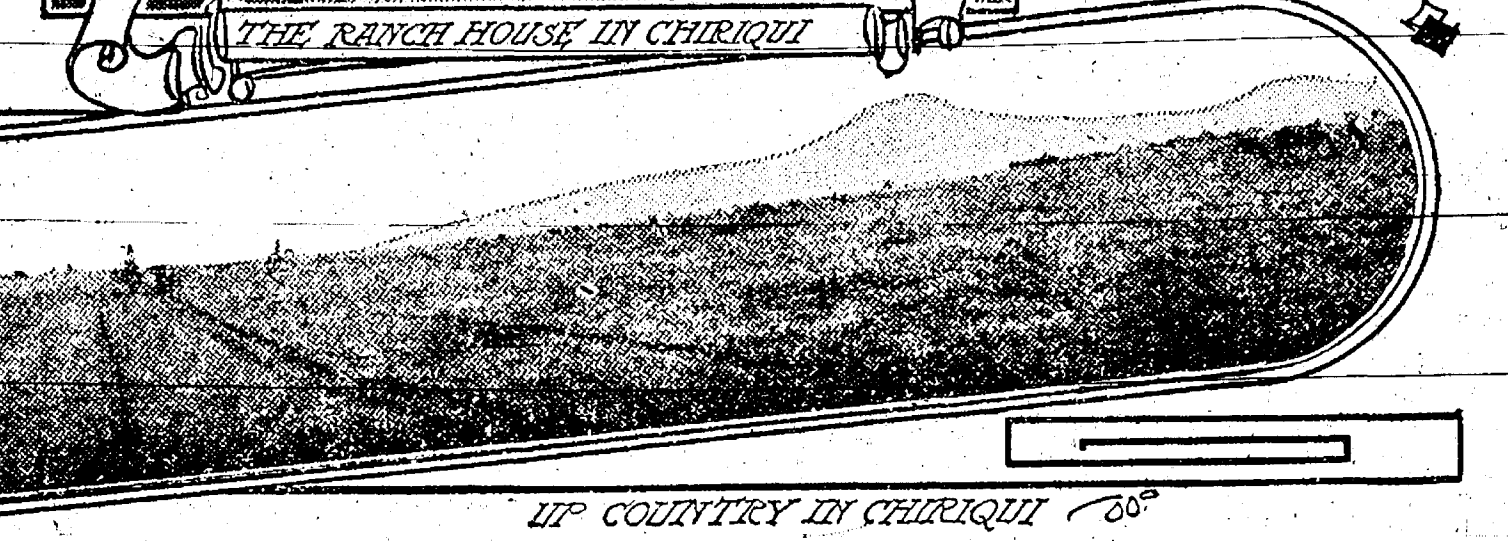

In the Divala country all nonfordable streams are bridged. Telegraph and telephone wires connect all the principal points. Extensive improvements are being carried out, which will affect the highway system and other means of intercommunication.

The Pacific Mail and National Navigation company maintain a weekly service between Panama and David, carrying passengers, mail and freight, including live stock, and calling at way ports, on a journey occupying from three to six days. The length of time is mainly to be accounted for by the difficulty in navigating the rivers at low tide. A fast service has lately been introduced, with a before the dry term has advanced far enough to parch the grass, the small owners sell their lean steers to the ranches, whence fattened cattle are sent to market in order to make room in the potreros for the new purchases.

A potrero is a fattening ground, made by clearing away the natural growth, save for a few shade trees, and, after burning over, planting in the several kinds of fodder plants suitable to the different soils. The varieties of grasses generally employed are guinea, savoya, para, and jujuca.

Para and jujuca are best adapted to cultivation in low-lying land and along river banks, because they readily absorb moisture and retain it for a long time. Guinea grass grows to seven feet and over. The objection to it is that the cattle are apt to eat only about half the leaf from the top, leaving the remainder in a stool which has to be cleared at the end of the season. On the other hand, it has the advantage over para of retaining greater vitality during the dry weather. Guinea and para must be planted. They cannot be sown with effect, for while they readily disseminate themselves the seeds will germinate only when gathered at perfect maturity.

Savoya is more spreading than guinea grass and does not grow to as great a height. It stools like the latter, but not with as much waste. Cattle must be put to savoya in good season, for they will not touch it in flower.

With these fodder plants the cattle raisers of Chiriqui obtain good results, the average steer yielding 400 pounds of meat, but there is no doubt that fattening might be confined on more effective and economical lines.

Alfalfa should grow vigorously in many parts of the province, where the loose sandy character of the soil is admirably calculated to promote the deep-rooting habit of the plant. At least two crops of alfalfa could be secured during the rains and with irrigation a third in the dry season.

With a view to the introduction of alfalfa to Panama I sent, about two years ago, several packages of selected seed to Chiriqui and the canal zone, but there is every reason to believe that it did not receive proper treatment, and no conclusive deduction can be drawn from the experiment.

It would seem that resort should be made to other forage crops than the grasses. If the land designed for potreros, or certain portions of it, were plowed over and sown in cowpeas, velvet beans, and other leguminous plants, better results would doubtless be secured, especially if this food should be balanced with a proper quantity of starchy matter, such as cassava. Such a regimen would produce a heavier grade of stock in a shorter time than is possible under the present method of fattening.

The by-products of the reduction of sugar cane and coconuts, bagasse and press cake, respectively, are excellent fatteners, and under certain circumstances should be plentifully available.

There is room for much improvement in the breed of Chiriquian cattle. Blooded stock has been imported at great expense by a few ranch owners, and many experiments in crossing have been made. It cannot be said, however, that a satisfactory decision has been reached as to the strain best adapted to the climate and conditions of the country.

Although the purchaser of land for stock raising is required to have three-fourths of it in cultivation within four years, the same as with land for crop purposes, yet assurances are given by the authorities that a literal compliance with the law will by no means be required.

Red Cross Christmas Seals.

A statement denying the recent reports about the abandonment of the Red Cross Christmas seal sale has been issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The statement declares that not only will the sale be held this year, as in the past three years, but that it will be conducted on broader lines than ever before. The only order issued by the postoffice department which bears on the sale of Red Cross seals was sent out on July 1, and prohibits the use of the mails to letters and packages bearing non-postage stamps on the face, and also to any mail bearing seals which resemble postage stamps, if used either on the face or back. The Red Cross seal to be used this year has been submitted to the postoffice department and approved, and thus may be used, but only on the back of letters and packages. The design to be used this year depicts a pretty winter scene enclosed with a heavy red circle. The corners are white, thus giving the effect when affixed to a letter or a package of a round seal.

These women are only a few of thousands of living witnesses of the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases. Not one of these women ever received compensation in any form for the use of their names in this advertisement—but are willing that we should refer to them because of the good they may do other suffering women to prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a reliable and honest medicine, and that the statements made in our advertisements regarding its merit are the truth and nothing but the truth.

"Dr. Miles' Nervine Raised Me From the Grave" — Mrs. Taylor

This is a strong statement to make, but it is exactly what Mrs. Thomas Taylor, of Blum, Texas, said in expressing her opinion of this remedy.

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine raised me from the grave and I have much confidence in it. I can never say enough for your grand medicine. If anyone had offered me $100.00 for the second bottle of Nervine that I used I would have said 'no indeed.'"

THE BREWER KNEW.

The International Brewers' Congress which closed its session at Chicago last week was not a success from the brewers' standpoint. One incident caused more consternation and dismay and prospective loss than all the help that beer and booze was given through the demonstration otherwise made. The incident referred to was the statement made by H. Hamilton, president of the Houston Brewing company of Houston, Texas. A meaningless high sounding resolution intended to deceive the public was under consideration when the president of the Houston Brewing company arose and said:

"What is the use of adopting resolutions like these when it is well known that most of the improper places in large cities are in some way owned or controlled by the brewers. The owning of these disreputable places and the protection of them by the brewing interests is what gives us a black eye. I know what I say is true because I have visited every large city in America and found out for myself."

And the people of Michigan know that what Brewer Hamilton said is true. And the people of other states know it. They know just as was declared on the floor of the brewers' congress, that the low dives and the dangerous dirty places and the girl-soliciting and girl-debauching saloons are most of them owned and controlled by the brewers. And brewer Hamilton was eloquently effective when he declared: "What is the use of adopting resolutions" when the true relation of the brewers and the breweries to such places is a most notorious and disreputable fact.

ALL DRUGGISTS

Hon. H. R. Pattengill, former superintendent of Public Instruction, in his school journal, Moderator-Topics thus refers to the petitioners for the return of saloons to dry counties. "No son will ever point with pride to his father's name on a petition aiding the saloon to come back to the county for a resubmission on its business."
The pretended plea of desire for fair play used in behalf of such petitions has no just application. Fair play can not be honestly be used as an argument favoring resubmission until a county has been dry as long as it had previously been wet. Let the local option law be enforced in a county for 10 years as well as it has been enforced in Lugham county for the past 18 months, and you might rake the county with a flue-tooth comb and not find a corporal's guard of people so blind, selfish, or disreputable as to put their names on a whiskey petition and thus bring everlasting disgrace to their families.

Best Kind of Family Reading.
For your home, where the right influence counts for so much, choose the reading that quickens the pulse, that tells of deeds of daring, that takes the reader into strange parts of the world, and yet, with all its power to entertain, depletes honor, true manliness, gentleness, loyalty to principle, as the things of chief importance in life. It benefits while it entertains.
You will find such reading week after week in the pages of The Youth's Companion, contributed by the most popular story-writers, and by men and women whose names are famous in every field of enterprise and scholarship.
Send us your address on a postal card, and we will mail you the beautiful Prospectus of The Companion for 1912, together with sample copies of the paper.
We think you will agree, when you have read them, that there is no other paper that gives quite so much of such a high quality as The Companion, and it costs only $1.75 now for the 52 weekly issues. On January 1, 1912, the subscription price will be advanced to $2.00.

I have advised others to try Vinol, and they have had the same results." (Name furnished on request.)
We want every one in this vicinity who is troubled with chronic colds, coughs, or pulmonary troubles, to come and get a bottle of Vinol.
If it does not go to the seat of trouble, heal the inflammation and stop the cough, we will cheerfully return every cent paid us for it. This shows our faith, and proves that you take no chances.
