Postal Savings

Depository To Be Opened at East Jordan, Dec. 7th

The East Jordan Postoffice has been designated by the Postmaster General as a Postal Savings Depository, same to be opened for business on Dec. 7th. Below is an outline of the objects of the institution with some of the principal rules governing deposits.

OBJECT

1. The Postal Savings System is established for the purpose of providing facilities for depositing savings at interest with the security of the United States Government for repayment.

SAFETY

2. The faith of the United States is solemnly pledged to the payment of deposits made in postal savings depository offices with accrued interest as provided by the postal-savings act.

WHO MAY DEPOSIT

3. Account may be opened and deposits made by any person of the age of ten years or over in his or her own name and by a married woman in her own name and free from any interference or control by her husband. No person can have more than one account at any one time.

4. No person may open a postal-savings account at any post-office who is not a patron of that office.

5. All accounts must be opened in person by the depositor or his authorized representative. After opening an account a depositor may forward subsequent deposits to the post office by mail.

6. Deposits will be accepted only from individuals, and on no account will be opened in the name of any corporation, association, society, firm, or partnership, or in the names of two or more persons jointly.

7. No account will be opened in the name of one person in trust for or on behalf of another person or persons.

SERVICE FREE

8. The service of the Postal Saving System is free, and no charge or fee is collected or required in connection with the opening of an account or the withdrawal of money deposited.

PRIVACY OF ACCOUNTS

9. No person connected with the Post Office Department or the postal service is permitted to disclose the name of any depositor or give any information concerning an account except to the depositor himself, unless directed to do so by the Postmaster General.

HOW TO OPEN AN ACCOUNT

10. When a person applies to open an account he must furnish the necessary information for the postmaster or his representative to fill out an application, which he will then be required to sign. If the applicant signs by mark his signature must be witnessed by a disinterested person.

DEPOSITS

11. Deposits are evidenced by postal-savings certificates issued in fixed denominations of $1, $2, $5, $20, $50, and $100, each bearing the name of the depositor, the number of his account, the date of issue, the name of the depository office, and the date on which interest begins. The postmaster or his representative will make out a duplicate of each certificate issued, which the depositor will be required to sign and which the postmaster will retain in his records.

12. No account will be opened for less than $1, nor will fractions of a dollar be accepted for deposit.

13. No person is permitted to deposit more than $100 in any one calendar month nor to have a total balance to his credit at one time of more than $500 exclusive of accumulated interest.

14. Savings certificates can not be transferred or negotiated and will be payable only to the person to whom issued.

15. On opening an account a depositor is supplied with an envelope in which he may keep his savings certificates. On this envelope is printed information for his guidance and also a blank ledger record on which to draw an account of his deposits and withdrawals.

16. In case the savings certificate is lost or destroyed the depositor should notify the postmaster. If deemed proper, a new certificate will be issued upon compliance by the depositor with the necessary requirements.

17. Postmasters are not permitted to receive savings certificates for safe-

GOOD ROADS

There is no single matter more important to the welfare, prosperity and well being of the state than that of its highways.

As important are the roads of Michigan to her future, from the standpoint of her industries, the wealth, health and happiness of her people and her position as a factor in commerce, as are the arteries to the human body.

Dry up the tributaries and the ocean would go dry, and a striking mess and stagnation would abound.

Dam up the tributaries and the earth would be flooded—somebody would get all of the water and many drown in it while others would die for lack of it.

The highways connecting the farm with the village, crossing here and there, with now and then a little red school house at a corner—these are but the tributaries through which must come the fruits of the soil and life of the great broad expanse for the whole of the people—tributaries to enlightenment and civilization.

Adown them presidents have passed. For every one that is denied or dried up, and for every one that is dammed for being impassable, commerce, all of the people as dependents on commerce, civilization and advancement must suffer.

What Michigan is offering to her counties and townships in the way of roads is nothing compared with what other states are giving.

Michigan gives nothing for repairs, $500 a mile toward the cost of gravel roads costing $1,300 a mile and $1,000 a mile toward the cost of macadam roads costing $4,000 or more a mile.

Altogether the state has spent less than $4,100,000.

On the other hand, New York, under the Fuller-Plank act, gives the township fifty cents of every dollar it raises for repair work; under the Higbee-Armstrong act, it gives one-half of the cost of building gravel and stone roads; and under the law of 1906 pays the entire cost, both of construction and of perpetual repairs on a projected mileage of nearly 3,500 miles of macadam road.

Other states have been equally liberal. Pennsylvania in 1903, adopted an act appropriating $6,000,000 for good roads, and in 1907 added one million more.

New Jersey has spent on her roads nearly $2,500,000, and Massachusetts has appropriated more than $9,000,000 some of which is still in process of expenditure.

Even little Rhode Island has spent more than $1,000,000. A dozen of other states have expended liberally.

Michigan has approximately 70,000 miles of public wagon roads outside cities and towns. The percentage of gravel roads is increasing and it is estimated that three-fourths of Michigan roads will be eventually of that material. Michigan has an abundance of gravel, from nearly all of which good roads can be made at much less cost than is necessary in many other states.

Every dollar expended upon the roads to this end must and will come back doubled and trebled to the taxpayer in Michigan—in reduced cost of necessities of life to the man in the city and in an increased value upon his farm to every farmer.

Let's have not only improved roads, but the best roads in Michigan.

It will be to the advantage of both state and people.—Detroit Times.

FREE IF IT FAILS

Your Money Back if You are not Satisfied with the Medicine We Recommend

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction irritate, and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to their healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons, and old folks as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge cause excessive looseness, nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriad of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time, 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets 25 cents; 80 tablets 50 cents. Sold at East Jordan only at our store—The Rexall Store. The W. C. Spring Drug Co.

If You Were Going To Buy a Horse

You would look it over very careful wouldn't you? In buying life insurance wouldn't it be advisable to do the same?

The town is full of people who wish they had more carefully examined their insurance certificates. In purchasing life insurance it is well to observe the following rules.

See that the contract agrees to pay a DEFINITE SUM to your family in case you die. How much would you give for a note that promises to pay NOT TO EXCEED one thousand dollars?

Do not sign away your rights by agreeing to abide by any rules and regulations that may be adopted in the future. You never can tell what the future management will do.

Do not try to get something for nothing, things that cost little are never worth more than they cost.

Examine all the fine print and be sure that you do not agree to an increase of assessment in old age, this means a freeze out; ask your next door neighbor about it.

Be sure that the terms quoted are guaranteed never to increase. Insist on a guaranteed contract.

See that there are no restrictions as to residence and travel or occupation from date of issue, Some policies mean lawsuits for the family instead of protection.

See that the contract is made by a company operating on a safe basis, with a sufficient reserve at all times to meet its liabilities.

In the very nature of the thing you will not be here to argue the points when it becomes a claim therefore choose a company that issues an unconditional as well as an incontestable form of policy. The Sun Life of Canada not only does this but can point to a long and honorable record of fairness and honesty with widows and orphans covering a period of nearly half a century.

BREEDS FOOLS BY SCORE

Sensational Murder Cases, Especially Whore Woman is Involved, Produce Many Kinds of Idiots.

Every sensational murder case breeds a large crop of fools. Especially if a woman is involved, there is always plenty of idiotic people pressing themselves forward for notoriety or anonymous association with the tragedy.

The abnormality that leads people to take a keen personal interest in persons accused of participation in the most revolting crimes passes understanding. There was, for instance, the case of Ethel Levene, the companion and possible accomplice of Crippen, who slew his wife in London.

Without doubt, the woman in this Richmond case could even without the slightest suggestion of talent, make a comfortable fortune "on the stage." She has already received what are described as attractive offers from vaudeville managers, her acceptance of which is necessarily somewhat handicapped by the uncertainty of her future.

The Irish Ambassador.

At an international wedding in Washington, order was preserved in the streets near the church by a squad of policemen under the command of Capt. Daniel Sullivan, who is famous for his politeness.

Sullivan's dictum was partly as follows:

"The British Ambassador. The Senators from Maryland. The German Ambassador. The Irish Ambassador. The Bishop of Washington."

When the reporter returned to the office and looked over the list he was astonished to see the note, "The Irish Ambassador," as he realized that Ireland, being a part of Great Britain, has no diplomatic representative of its own.

"What do you mean by 'The Irish Ambassador?'" he was asked in great haste. "Who is he?"

"Why, he's Capt. Daniel Sullivan," replied Sullivan. "Ain't a policeman?"—Popular Magazine.

Emergency Thought.

The Fare—Now, cabman, I wish you to be extremely careful. When you come to a crossing you must wait until the policeman tells you to go on, and if the streets are slippery, you must drive very slowly.

Oh, my—All right, mum; I'll be very careful, mum. And in case of a haecent, mum, which hospital would you like to be took to?—Bystander.

Varieties of Oranges and Lemons.

Oranges and lemons of excellent quality have reached this country from Rhodesia. The introduction of both these fruits into Europe is more recent than many suppose. A native of India, the orange came to us by way of western Asia, the bitter orange being brought in by returning Crusaders and the sweet variety not coming until the fifteenth century, when Genoese traders introduced the tree into Italy.

The lemon was brought into Spain by the Arabs in the twelfth century. According to the experts there are 47 varieties of lemons and 80 of oranges.—London Chronicle.

According to Her Estimate.

"You and your husband celebrate your silver wedding next week, do you?"

"Yes, next Wednesday."

"Does it seem possible that you have lived together 25 years?"

"I should say it didn't! Harry's a traveling man for a wholesale queens-ware house and we've lived together just three years, eleven months and nineteen days."

A Diagnosis.

"I know why barbers succeed in preventing other men from getting in a word edgewise."

"Why is it?"

"Because they are always cutting the other men short."

Top Suspicious.

"Say, what does a tailor mean when he's measuring you for a suit of clothes and sings out 'R. B.'?"

"That means 'round backed.'"

"Gee! I thought he meant 'regular beat,' and I slugged him for it!"

Work Alone

Some Girls Take Much Interest in Labor

By JULIA REED

IT MAY SEEM somewhat paradoxical to say that a girl may take too much interest in her work, but it is nevertheless true.

Of course, there is the class of girl (and she might be called almost typical she is so numerous) who is merely poised, so to speak, on her position temporarily, waiting until she shall flutter away to a husband and a home, but there is also the girl who becomes so wrapped up in her work that only on the rarest occasion can she take a peep beyond the narrow horizon that bounds it.

She works early and late until she is practically a nervous wreck, and is imposed upon quite as a matter of course.

Of course, it is a truism that she who wishes to succeed must put her whole heart into her work. This is self-evident.

But there is a sane and safe level between neglecting one's work and living for that and nothing else.

The good worker should also be the good player, and above all she should learn to drop her work when she leaves the office or schoolroom or workshop, and learn to take an interest in something outside her own little base of operations.

People quickly get the habit of avoiding as if she were a pestilence the girl who is constantly quoting the "boss" or bragging of the quantity or quality of the work she does.

The amusing things that happen at the office are legitimate subjects for conversation, and will be welcomed when recounted at home or at the boarding house, but the purely business details contain as a rule not the least glimmering of interest for the outsider.

This kind of girl becomes rather a nuisance to the "boss" himself in time, for she is always ready to take offense at anything which she considers a slight.

Many girls undergo real suffering by having certain work they were in the habit of doing given to some one else, when it should have been regarded as a relief and a kindness done to them.

The girls who can think of nothing but clothes, and who will suddenly break into any conversation with some irrelevant remark as to tucks or gathers or box plaits, and demand that you shall give your opinion regarding the same, is pretty bad, worse, perhaps, than the girl who thinks too much of her work, but the latter is nevertheless bad enough.

Ancient Idea of Real Home is Passing. By N. K. KILBERG. The old idea of a real home is fast disappearing. Clearly, the change has come to stay; it may be worse as time goes by, but improvement is beyond hope.

Little Quail is True Friend of Farmer. By W. W. DAVIS, Chicago. The papers have lately published the season for shooting quail and prairie chickens in Illinois.

What Compound Interest Really Means. By CLARENCE OHLENDORF, Park Ridge, Ill. To illustrate the power and beauty of mathematics I have proposed the following problem: What is the amount in cents from the year 1 till 1910 of one cent compounded annually at six per cent interest?

"I am going home," was the remark made to me by a friend and I immediately responded by asking: "Where is your home?" And the reply came: "In a flat building." But homes are few and flats are many.

The wife of my friend was reared in an old-fashioned home, while today she presides over a modern flat of six rooms. Her nature is conciliatory, while that of her neighbor in the next flat is domineering.

The papers have lately published the season for shooting quail and prairie chickens in Illinois. There should be no season for destroying these friends of the farmer.

POPULAR HERO GONE

Death of Admiral Schley Recalls Santiago Victory.

Famed for Rescue of Greely Arctic Expedition and Later Prominent in Spanish-American War Naval Fight.

New York.—Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, retired, who dropped dead the other day in this city, was famed for the rescue of the Greely arctic expedition and was the popular hero of the famous naval battle of Santiago, July 3, 1898.

Although Winfield Scott Schley was famed for his bravery in rescuing the crew of the famous arctic expedition in 1884, he came most prominently before the world in the naval engagement of Santiago. It was for his work on this occasion that he became one of the popular naval heroes of the American people.

It is an irony of history that, in the arguments which arose in lieu of the disagreement over the honors of Santiago, Schley should have been charged with cowardice. It was he who, in 1862, in the face of almost certain death, went out with a small boat and rescued a beleaguered ship from the fire of the Confederate guns; it was he who charged first over the redoubt at Corea and when his comrade fell dead at his side shot his slayer and vaulted over the embankment, leaving his men to follow him; it was Admiral Schley who braved the terrors of the arctic winter and brought back in safety the explorers who, entrapped by arctic ice for more than six months, nearly died from exposure and starvation.

Winfield Scott Schley was known among naval men as a dashing commander before the war with Spain. He had creditably disciplined Chinese and Korean coolies, protected the American consulate in San Salvador during a revolution and had behaved with gallantry and diplomacy when American sailors were assailed by a mob in Valparaiso.

In recognition for his heroism in rescuing Greely, congress rewarded him with a medal and the citizens of Maryland presented him with a handsome gold watch which he carried until the day of his death.

Instead of granting a season of privilege to the reckless hunters, the law should make the shooting of all birds a finable offense.

Cripple Demands a New Leg. New York.—Andrew Witzel of Manhattan appeared before the town board of North Hempstead and explained that unless a new wooden leg were given him he would be compelled to seek shelter from the superintendent of the poor.

Macon, Ga.—Ragtime compositions found in the music room of Wesleyan college by Dr. Dingley Brown, director of the conservatory, were confiscated and the edict was sent forth that ragtime melodies no longer should be heard there.

Don't wait until it's too late!

This Time for a Friend. "Tis a wise man," said Robert-Edson, "who knows when to ask questions. The other night I was standing inside the railroad station when an Irish cab driver came up to me and asked me how soon the next train came in. I told him and he said thank you and went away. In about five minutes he came back with the same question. I told you not more than five minutes ago, I said. 'I know it,' he answered cheerfully, 'but it's not me that wants to know this time. It's a friend of mine outside that has to watch his horses and can't come in an' ask 'yez' himself!'"—Young's Magazine.

Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills After Doctors Gave Up Hope. J. L. Richardson, Red Key, Ind., says: "For five months I was confined to my bed, a helpless invalid. I almost went crazy. Twenty-five hours passed without a passage of the urine. The doctors began to take the water from me with a catheter. They did this once a day for fifty days. Finally my doctor told me my time was up. The next day a friend advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills. When I had used five boxes, I got out of bed and improved until entirely well. For five years I have not had the slightest trouble."

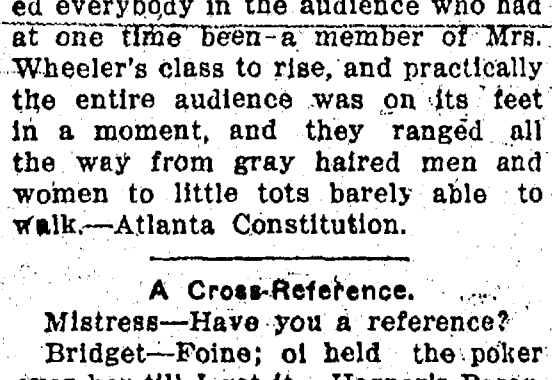

The Disturbing Rudder. The Turkish navy appears to be in the main an obsolete fighting machine. Probably, however, it is better off than half a century ago. When Lord Carlisle visited Constantinople in 1854 he met a Turkish admiral whose ignorance of naval matters was equalled only by his horror of the sea.

TOWN IS BEING REBUILT

Flood of Waters Has Not Taken Black River Falls, Wis., From the Map.

More than a million dollars absolutely disappearing in the short time of two hours was the toll collected by the waters at Black River Falls, Wisconsin. Even the residents of the town could not realize what it meant until the lake formed by the Hatfield dam was dry, and the rush of waters had passed on to the Mississippi.

Just out of reach of the flood the business men and residents of the place watched the waters carry away the buildings that represented the homes of business enterprises which it had taken years of effort to build. Among the larger industries seemingly wiped out within a few minutes was the plant of Coles Carbolic Acid. This plant, along with others that suffered a like fate, is today being rebuilt, and the business men of Black River Falls promise that a better town shall replace the one destroyed by the raging floods, and that just as rapidly as men and material can put it together. It is catastrophes like the breaking of the Hatfield dam that demonstrate the American spirit.

The Mussel Industry. The mussel industry has assumed large proportion on American waterways in recent years. In this part of the country the mussel first came into general notice through the operations of pearl fishermen in the small rivers. Occasionally the mussel has a valuable pearl hidden away in his shell-encrusted interior, and in some streams pearl hunting is remunerative. At present, however, the bivalve is in demand because of the fact that the shells are largely used in the manufacture of buttons.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

An Unbeliever. "Sir," said the haughty American to his adhesive tailor, "I object to this boorish dunning. I would have you know that my great-grandfather was one of the early settlers."

Monologue for Two.
"Well, have you heard the news?" asked a friend brightly. "My wife and I are going on the variety stage. A clever fellow has written an act for us, and we are going to put it on next week."
"Oh, old man!" he exclaimed enthusiastically. "What is it—a song and dance act or a variety act?"
"Neither—it is a monologue."

"A monologue? I thought you and your wife were both in the act."
"We are. But do you know my wife's part?"

CONTINUOUS PERFORMANCE.

"Dear—In winter I write poems to keep the wolf from the door.

Dear—in summer I have to keep on writing poems so the ice man will stop at the door."

ALMOST CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

"The undisciplined, cannot give enough praise to the Cuticura Remedies. I had been doctoring for at least a year for eczema on my foot. I had tried doctor after doctor all to no avail. When a young girl I sprained my ankle three different times, paying little or no attention to it, when five years ago a small spot showed upon my left ankle. I was worried and sent for a doctor. He said it was eczema. He gave me a small bottle from the ankle about the size of a match and about an inch long. The small hole grew to about the size of an apple, and the eczema spread to the knee. The doctors never could heal the hole in the ankle. The whole foot ran water all the time.

"My husband and my sons were up night and day wheeling me from one room to another in the hope of giving me some relief. I would sit for hours at a time in front of the fireplace hoping for daybreak. The pain was so intense I was almost crazy, in fact, I would lose my reason for hours at a time. One day a friend of mine dropped in to see me. No more had she glanced at my foot than she exclaimed: 'Mrs. Finnegan, why in the world don't you try the Cuticura Remedies!' Being disgusted with the doctors and their medicines, and not being able to sleep at all, I decided to give the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment a trial. After using them three days that night I slept as sound as a silver dollar for eight long hours. I awoke in the morning with but very little pain, in fact, I thought I was in heaven. After using the Cuticura Remedies for three months I was perfectly restored to health, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I will be sixty-four years of age my next birthday, hale and hearty at present." (Signed) Mrs. Julia Finnegan, 2234 Hebert St., St. Louis, Mo., Mar. 7, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 12 K, Boston.

Charity.
"I hear your rich uncle left all his money to charity?"
"No. He left it all to me."

SERIAL STORY

The Courtship of Miles Standish

With Illustrations by Howard Chandler Christy

The Spinning Wheel

Month after month passed away, and in autumn the ships of the merchants came with kindred and friends, with cattle and corn for the Pilgrims. All in the village was peace; the men were intent on their labors, busy with hewing and building, with garden-plot and with merestead, busy with breaking the globe, and mowing the grass in the meadows, searching the sea for its fish, and hunting the deer in the forest. All in the village was peace; but at times the rumor of warfare filled the air with alarm, and the apprehension of danger. Gravely the stalwart Miles Standish was scouring the land with his forces, waxing valiant in fight and defeating the alien armies. Till his name had become a sound of fear to the nation. Anger was still in his heart, but at times the remorse and contrition which in all noble natures succeed the passionate outbreak. Came like a rising tide, that encounters the rush of a river, staying its current a while, but making it bitter and brackish.

Meanwhile Alden at home had built him a new habitation. Solid, substantial, of timber rough-hewn from the firs of the forest. Wooden-barred was the door, and the roof was covered with rushes. Latticed the windows were, and the window-panes were of paper. Oiled to admit the light, while wind and rain were excluded. There, too, he dug a well, and around it planted an orchard. Still may be seen to this day some trace of the well and the orchard. Close to the house was the stall, where, safe and secure from annoyance, haphorn, the snow-white steer, that had fallen to Alden's allotment in the division of cattle, might graze in the night-time. Over the pastures he cropped, made fragrant by sweet pennyroyal.

Off when his labor was finished, with eager feet would the dreamer follow the pathway that ran through the woods to the house of Priscilla. Led by illusions romantic and subtle, pleasure disguised as duty, and love in the semblance of friendship. Ever of her he thought, when he fastened the walls of his dwelling; Ever of her he thought, when he delved in the soil of his garden; Ever of her he thought, when he read in his Bible on Sunday. Praise of the virtuous woman, as she is described in the Proverbs.—How the heart of her husband doth safely trust in her always, how all the days of her life she will do him good, and not evil. How she seeketh the wool and the flax and worketh with gladness. How she layeth her hand to the spindle and holdeth the distaff. How she is not afraid of the snow for herself or her household. Knowing her household are clothed with the scarlet cloth of her weaving!

So, as she sat at her wheel one afternoon in the autumn, Alden, who opposite sat, and was watching her dexterous fingers. As if the thread she was spinning were that of his life and his fortune. After a pause in their talk, thus spake to the sound of the spindle. "Truly, Priscilla," he said, "when I see you spinning and spinning, never idle a moment, but thrifty and thoughtful of others, suddenly you are transformed, are visibly changed in a moment; you are no longer Priscilla, but Bertha, the Beautiful Spinner." Here the light foot on the treadle grew swifter and swifter; the spindle uttered an angry snarl, and the thread snapped short in her fingers; while the impetuous speaker, not heeding the mischief, continued: "You are the beautiful Bertha, the spinner—the queen of Helvetia; 'She whose story I read at a stall in the streets of Southampton, who, as she rode on her palfrey, o'er valley and meadow and mountain. Ever was spinning her thread from a distaff fixed to her saddle. She was so thrifty and good, that her name passed into a proverb. So shall it be with your own, when the spinning-wheel shall no longer hum in the house of the farmer, and fill his chambers with music. Then shall the mothers, reproving, relate how it was in their childhood. Praising the good old times, and the days of Priscilla, the spinner! Straight uprose from her wheel the beautiful Puritan maiden. Pleased with the praise of her thrift from him whose praise was the sweetest. Drew from the reel on the table a snowy skein of her spinning. Thus making answer, meanwhile, to the flattering phrases of Alden: "Come, you must not be idle, if I am

Such were the tidings of evil that burst on the hearts of the hearers. Silent and statue-like stood Priscilla, her face looking backward. Still at the face of the speaker, her arms uplited in horror. But John Alden, upstarting, as if the barb of the arrow striking the heart of his friend had struck his own, and had sundered once and forever the bonds that held him bound as a captive. Wild with excess of sensation, the awful delight of his freedom, mingled with pain and regret, unconscious of what he was doing, clasped, almost with a groan, the motionless form of Priscilla. Pressing her close to his heart, as for ever his own, and exclaiming: "Those whom the Lord hath united, let no man put them asunder!" Even as rivulets twain, from distant and separate sources. Seeing each other afar, as they leap from the rocks, and pursuing each one its devious path, but drawing nearer and nearer. Rush together at last, at their trusting-place in the forest; So these lives that had run thus far in separate channels. Coming in sight of each other, then swerving and flowing asunder, parted by barriers strong, but drawing nearer and nearer. Rushed together at last, and one was lost in the other. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

a pattern for housewives. Show yourself equally worthy of being the model of husbands. Hold this skein on your hands, while I wind it, ready for knitting; Then who knows, but hereafter, when fashions have changed and the manners, Fathers may talk to their sons of the good old times of John Alden! Thus, with a jest and a laugh, the skein on his hands she adjusted. He sitting awkwardly there, with his arms extended before him. She standing graceful, erect, and winding the thread from his fingers. Sometimes chiding a little his clumsy manner of holding. Sometimes touching his hands, as she disentangled expertly. Twist or knot in the yarn, unawares—for how could she help it?—Sending electrical thrills through every nerve in his body. Lo! In the midst of this scene, a breathless messenger entered, bringing in hurry and heat the terrible news from the village. Yes; Miles Standish was dead—an Indian had brought them the tidings. Slain by a poisoned arrow, shot down in the front of the battle, into an ambush beguiled, cut off with the whole of his forces; All the town would be burned, and all the people be murdered!

But the Poor Young Girl Who Accepted It Over the Counter was Forced to Pay the Penalty.
Mrs. Armes handed $1.25 to the girl at the glove counter in payment for her purchase. "Even change," she said. "Need I wait for the sales slip?" "We are not allowed to deliver the package until the cashier sends back the voucher," the girl explained. "Here it comes now." She caught the box as it fell from the tube, and pulled out the slip. A quarter fell out with it. The girl glanced quickly at her customer. "I am very sorry, but we cannot take this quarter," she said. "It is not a good one." Mrs. Armes frowned. "Isn't that a bother!" she exclaimed. "Of course I have not the remotest idea where it came from. I shouldn't know the difference. I wonder if my dimes are counterfeit, too! It makes one feel so doubtful!" The dimes and nickels, however, proved good, and a moment later her purchase was handed her. Mrs. Armes took it absently. Her mind was still busy with that quarter. "I've got to get rid of it somehow," she reflected. "I can't afford to lose it. I'll try the little corner store. I'll get some thread there." The little corner store was a tiny, pathetic place, kept by an elderly woman whose face showed how difficult the struggle had been. She never had more than one assistant—always young and inexperienced. Today the girl was a new one. She accepted Mrs. Armes' quarter without question, and sat huddled, with a sigh of relief, hastily put her thread in her bag and left the store. Five minutes later Miss Earle happened to go to the cash drawer, and her fingers touched the spurious coin; the dime lit out at once. "See, Lucy, this is a counterfeit," she said, and she showed the girl how it differed in weight and "feel" and ring from a genuine coin. "You won't make such a mistake again, I'm sure," she went on. "I'm sorry, but I shall have to take this from your pay tonight. I can't afford to lose it; my profits are too small." The girl's face darkened. She made no protest, for she knew the meager profits of the shop, only—it seemed so cruel! Twenty-five cents was all that she was allowed to keep out of her scanty wages, and this week she had been planning a birthday for little Jack Lee's birthday, and now—the hot tears filled her eyes. But Mrs. Armes had "saved" her quarter!—Youth's Companion.

In a sparsely settled region of West Virginia a motor car driver was once called before a local magistrate upon the complaint of a constable. The magistrate, a good-natured man, was not, however, absolutely certain that the Washingtonian's car had been driven too fast, and the owner stoutly insisted that he had been progressing at the rate of only six miles an hour. "Why, your honor," he said, "my engine was out of order, and I was going very slowly because I was afraid it would break down completely. I give you my word, sir, you could have walked as fast as I was running." "Well," said the magistrate, after due reflection, "you don't appear to have been exceeding the speed limit, but at the same time you must have been guilty of something or you wouldn't be here. A DRUGGIST'S FAVORITE KIDNEY REMEDY—CURED HIMSELF.

Fifteen years ago I had an attack of acute kidney trouble. I consulted a physician who gave me medicine which only relieved me for a time. After discontinuing his medicine my trouble returned as severe as before. Having heard of Swamp-Root I gave it a trial and can honestly state that three dollar bottles cured me, never having any sickness in fifteen years. I have sold Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root as a druggist for many years and can give the very best of recommendations at all times. You are at liberty to use this statement any time you wish. Respectfully, W. C. SUMMERS, 1219 Central Ave., Kansas City, Kans. With Grand View Drug Co., State of Kansas, County of Wyandotte, ss. On this 11th day of August, 1909, personally appeared before me, W. C. Summers, who subscribed to the within statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact. CHAS. H. WILSON, Notary Public.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You
Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention this paper. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

AFTER GRIP

Look Out for Trouble
The after-effects of the Grip are apt to be serious, but a normal healthy condition may be restored in a surprisingly short time by Vinol.

Watertown, Wis.—"After a severe attack of the Grip my system was in a very weakened, nervous and run-down condition. I began taking Vinol with the very best results, and in a short time I began to feel like an entirely different person, and I am better and stronger than I have been for years." Adelaide Gamm. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We have never sold in our store such a valuable strength creator and health restorer for the convalescent, the weak and run-down, as Vinol, and we ask people in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol, with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it.

Do you begin to feel "ringy" stuff? "This day I will live as becomes a man. I will be filled with good cheer and courage. I will do what is right; I will work for the best; I will put soul into every hand-grasp, every smile, every expression—into all my work. I will live to satisfy my other self." You think it is easy. Try it for a day.—Elbert Hubbard.

Spirit of Sympathy.

Beware of that bane of social life, evil speaking. Seek for the spirit of love which is the spirit of truth—for you can never know anyone without sympathy or love—and take care how to speak of those who have not yet learned to love. Never talk of other's faults without necessity and avoid those who do.—Ruskin.

CAUSE FOR ALARM

Loss of Appetite or Distress After Eating a Symptom That Should not be Disregarded

Appetite is just a natural desire for food. Loss of appetite or stomach distress after eating indicate indigestion or dyspepsia. Over-eating is a habit very dangerous to a person's good general health.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, heaviest and healthiest persons are moderate eaters.

There is nothing that will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge all in East Jordan who suffer from any stomach derangement, indigestion, or dyspepsia whether acute or chronic, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question or formality if after reasonable use of this medicine, they are not perfectly satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers every day, and have yet to hear of any one who has not been benefited by them. We honestly believe them to be without equal. They give very prompt relief, aiding to neutralize the gastric juices, strengthen the digestive organs, to regulate the bowels, and thus promote perfect nutrition, and eradicate all unhealthy symptoms.

We urge you to try a 25c. box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, which give 15 days treatment. At the end of that time, your money will be returned to you if you are not satisfied. Of course, in chronic cases length of treatment varies. For such cases, we have two larger sizes, which sell for 50c. and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at our store—The Rexall Store, The W. C. Spring Drug Co.

Bootless Opposition.

The surest way to prevail on a young couple to get married is to oppose them. Tell them you "would rather see them in their graves," and twelve months after their baby will pass you twice a day in a willow wagon.—Exchange.

The Turkish Way.

We don't think we ever punned for a real Turkish bath, though we have produced for the Turkish bath, so-called. The real Turkish bath, judging from the appearance of such Turks as we have seen, is a dry cleaning process.

When a man is generous to a fault, it is usually his own fault.

There is no fun in loafing unless you have a lot of work to do.

The Detroit Saturday Night's leading first page article last week was devoted to the saloon question in Detroit. This surprising statement was made. "If the aldermen would like to know how the people as a whole feel about the saloon in Detroit they can find out very easily by taking a referendum of the entire town. Let them ask the people of Detroit whether they want 1500 or 1000 or 500 saloons, and they will get their answer. It is the saloon that breeds the slot machine graft and all sorts of crooked gambling games and so extends indefinitely its power for political corruption. What else has made possible the ridiculous spectacle of a sheriff, now rushing about with hysterical intensity because a new and active prosecutor has shown him the way. What else can explain the effrontery of the leeches who deal in these contraptions in seriously discussing the arrest of the officers for seizing such contraband goods? Will the aldermen dare give the people of Detroit a chance to speak on the saloon question? Saturday Night's comments and questions show a point of view on the saloon situation that is rapidly becoming prevalent even in the very largest cities.

Cornelius Lynch, 30 days in jail; Leone Burley, 30 days in jail; Macey Wilhoit, 15 days in jail; Jop Eskie, 5 days in jail; Hiram Smith, fine and costs; Benjamin R. Ferguson, suspended sentence; Harley Finley, suspended sentence; Dexter Pittibone, suspended sentence. This list of names in part represents the saloon's relations to one morning's police court list in Grand Rapids. It was commented on by newspapers that reported the police court doings of that morning, that Lynch was formerly a trusted locomotive engineer but was now on the brink of delirium; that Pettibone was a blind man to whom the saloons were forbidden to sell liquor, but they sold it to him just the same. And the others were poor unfortunates who were assisting ten brewers and saloonists to give force and pull to their "personal liberty" pretense. These men good customers of the brewers and saloons, will spend their time in jail without the least thought or care of what becomes of them on the part of the brewers. The saloon's interest in personal liberty does not extend to efforts to keep their patrons out of jail but only to secure for them the "liberty" of passing their wages over the bar and into the saloon till.

Character Above All.
Young man, character is worth more than money, character is worth more than anything else in this wide world. I would rather have it said of me in my old age than to have a monument of the gold bull I once had my dead body reaching from earth to heaven—I would rather have it said that "they could find no occasion against him except it be touching the law of his God," than to have all this world can give.—Dwight L. Moody.

Difficulties of the Historian.

To obtain history which is literature and history which is accurate depends upon human qualities not often found in the same person. He who has the art of getting at the facts—and it really is quite an art, and difficult enough to master—somehow does not have the art of building his "facts" into a literary structure that pleases, perhaps fascinates, a multitude of readers.—L. A. Chase, Fellow in American History, Michigan, in Outlook.

Truth of the Case.

Betty Richwood thinks it provoking for a woman who has been working all day mending her husband's coat, to find a letter from another in the pocket. That is perfect nonsense. There is not a woman on earth but would find the letter before she began to mend the coat—and then the coat would not be mended at all.

You will be helping to make your town paper of greater interest and thereby serve the general community. Whatever news may interest you, must surely interest many others.

Clarence, the fourteen-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Lalonde, died at the home of his parents early Friday morning. He will be greatly missed especially by his twin-brother and school-mates at St. Joseph's school by whom he was greatly loved. The funeral will take place from St. Joseph's church Monday morning at nine o'clock.

The late George Bender was born in Summerset, Ohio, in 1829 and departed this life at East Jordan Nov. 10th, being past 82 years of age. A daughter, Mrs. Wm. Baker of this city and two sons John, at whose home he died, and Frank are left to mourn his loss. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, and was conducted by Rev. T. Porter-Bennett, interment took place at East Jordan cemetery.

The banquet held under the auspices of the Brotherhood Class of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday School was a grand success in every way. The parlors of the Church were beautifully decorated, the spread was all that could be desired and about fifty seemed to feel at home. Moyer's Orchestra furnished the music which was highly appreciated by all. The men did the serving and the ladies were the guests of honor. A number of addresses were delivered by those present.

We have a fine assortment of canned goods Fruits, Vegetables, Fish, various kinds of Soups and Meats. E. A. Lewis.

On Thursday evening at the Methodist Episcopal parsonage a quiet wedding took place when George Davis was united in marriage to Miss Pearl St. John by Rev. T. Porter-Bennett. Miss Ethel Brintall acted as bridesmaid and E. H. St. John acted as groomsmen. Both are well known and the best wishes go with them for a happy voyage through life.

On Wednesday at high noon a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank St. John when their daughter, Miss Marie, became the wife of Archie W. Ellicey, telephone manager at Conklin, Mich. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few relatives by Rev. T. Porter-Bennett. The bride was assisted by Miss Rachel Ellicey, a sister of the groom, while the groom was supported by Ben St. John a brother of the bride. The ring service was used. After the ceremony all sat down to a wedding dinner. The young couple will make their home at Conklin, and leave with the best wishes of all of their friends.

Presbyterian Church Notes

Rev. A. D. Grigsby, Pastor.

Divine worship as usual next Sunday morning at 10:30 and evening at 7:00 in the Presbyterian Church. Strangers and all those not in the habit of attending church heartily invited. Too many good people in our city neglect church going. You are urged to turn over a new leaf and for your own sake and others begin to make a practice of attending church. Many who stay away allow their children and even insist on their being at Sunday School. Why not come with them at 11:45? The Pastor and Superintendent Northon will teach Bible classes.

Junior C. E. next Sunday afternoon at 3:15 and Mrs. Grigsby has charge and makes the young people welcome. Senior Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at 6:15 Miss Maude Cross is the leader. Topic for morning sermon "True Goodness."

Gray Hair.

Hair should be allowed to grow gray naturally. All dyes made of mercury or lead are dangerous and destroy the beauty and color of the hair. Let us gracefully accept the snowy locks of age. They harmonize with the face which has been changed by time and sorrow. Many faces are softened and beautified by white hair. It is more graceful and dignified not to attempt to repair the ravages of time.

Good Reasoning.

"Now, children," said the stimulating teacher of the brilliant juvenile class, "why did God create this beautiful world?" "I guess because he didn't know of anyone who could do it as well," was the matter-of-fact response of diminutive John.

Successful Economy in Baking.

Most housewives assume when they buy a big can of baking powder at a low price that they have been economical. They have to a slight extent—but when they use that cheap "big can" baking powder, they find it no more economical. There isn't so much economy in it after all, for the wasted materials far outweigh the few cents saved in the price. The real economy, is in the reach of every woman that desires it. She has only to order Calumet Baking Powder, and use it according to instructions. Then, she will achieve economy. For not only does Calumet sell at a reasonable price—25¢ per pound—but it is so carefully made by experienced chemists that failure is impossible. Only the best materials are used and the proportions of the ingredients are so exact and so uniform that EVERY baking comes from the oven, light, sweet, and beautifully raised. Calumet guarantees you against failure, and that is what constitutes real economy in baking. Why not use Calumet, a baking powder that you can always rely upon? You can get no better at any price, for at the World's Pure Food Exposition, Calumet received the Highest Award.

Not Consoling.

One of the boys had broken one of the school rules, and no one would own up.

The teacher announced that he would thrash the whole class if someone did not tell him who had committed the offense.

All were silent, and he began with the first boy, and thrashed every one in the class until finally he reached the last one. Then he said: "Now, if you will tell me who did this I won't thrash you."

"All right, sir, I did it," was the reply.—Ideas.

Lofty Plumage

In spite of the efforts of the Audubon society on this side of the Atlantic, and kindred organizations on the other, there is a very decided return to plumage decorations in the latest swell autumn millinery. And when fickle fashion calls, sense and sentiment have to give way, as is shown in this instance.

In the picture above is seen one of these latest hats. The feathers are those of the ordinary rooster, shaped and trimmed to a height that is in direct contrast to the broad, low confection of last year. There is apparently no limit to the lofty attitudes to which these hats may reach. The body of the hat is of bronze-brown velvet, with an upturned brim that rises front and rear.

NEW TRICK IN MILLINERY

Long Strings of Black Velvet Are Seen on Little Bonnets This Season.

"Straws show which way the wind blows." So, also, do the little bonnets of tulle, coquettishly set upon the waved and puffed coiffure and engarlanded with myosotis, and the large tagals lined with felt, that have quite taken the place of almost all other forms of headgear during the last few weeks.

Every one of them have long strings of black velvet which are tied at the side and at the back and have thin long ends floating, or caught with a jeweled pin high over the bust and on the left side.

The "sleeve" string is simply a very long loop of broad velvet ribbon, through which the arm is slipped. It hangs loosely on the left side under the arm.

This new trick in millinery is causing not a little comment regarding its probable popularity, but withal seems to be finding favor in the eyes of the truly great dictators of styles.

A SPORT'S COAT

This useful coat might well be made in tweed or rough serge. It has the upper part set to the basque under the waist-band, which is of material cut the reverse way, as also are the cuffs and collar.

The cap is of the same material as coat.

Materials required: 2 yards 48 inches wide.

Angora Wool.

Angora wool, ever so beautiful, soft and fleecy, is made up in many attractive forms. A dull green sweater coat is $22, but it is the loveliest thing of its kind. Unlike all the awkward things that are accustomed to being crowded under coats and make the wearer entirely miserable, this one is soft and pliable, clinging to the figure in nice lines. It has pockets and belt and is finished down the front with small smoked pearl buttons. There are scarves, too, of this fleecy Angora yarn, long and soft and loosely woven, though warm as toast. They come either in pure white or with a purple striped border.

TIMELY TIP ON LINGERIE

Among Prettiest Corset Covers Are Those That Fit Into Peplum at Waist.

The busy "bachelor maid," who has no one to look after the little details of her wardrobe, but must attend to them in the bits and edges of time after business hours when she would be glad to stretch out and relax in place of fussing with tapes and ribbons, continues to buy or make her corset covers and "combinations" with beadings or casings at waist and neck edges, in which ribbons must be run if they are to be worn with any comfort.

Yet among the prettiest corset covers of the present day are those that fit into a peplum at the waist line, a narrow insertion or tiny band of folded lawn covering the join and rendering a "draw tape" superfluous, and those that have the fullness at the upper edge gathered daintily, to fit, once and for all, under a similar finishing band to which the lace or embroidery around the neck is joined.

Reference is not made to the close fitting corset cover, which reminds one of a fitted lining. These peplum corset covers have a slight fullness at the waist line, gathered into the band, and almost as much at the upper edges, before finishing, as if the beadings were to be used, with baby ribbon to draw it close. And they yield nothing to the other style, either in prettiness of appearance or perfection of finish. Moreover, they quite eliminate all unnecessary "bunching" at the waist line, which advantage, considering the present styles, is recommending them more and more to "those who know."

A Good Hint.

In an emergency, where one has to evolve a "fancy" costume with little time and apparently less material, something very lovely can be made of several of the beautiful evening scarfs, either the spangled ones or plain ones. Nearly every woman will possess a scarf of one kind or another and these can be borrowed, as no damage need be done to them. Over a white dress hang two or more of the silver spangled ones, so that they fall from the shoulders down as far as possible on either side. Then wind others about the hips and around the head, crossing a piece over the forehead and another over the chin and lower part of the face. The eastern effect is graceful and usually very becoming.

White Felt Hats.

Although every one may not accept the fashion for white felt hats in hot weather, it is probable that they will be the first choice as soon as the cool weather comes back. They will make admirable early fall hats, simply trimmed with a bow of black velvet or taffeta ribbon.

One should not attempt to put anything ornate on them, although it is probable we shall see them trimmed in morning glories, in cherries, in plums, and in small red apples.

The Resourceful Girl.

She is a perfect treasure, and far more necessary for the comfort of a home than a patent carpet sweeper or even a telephone. Her suggestions in an emergency are always sensible and to the point; she does not waste time in moaning and groaning over what can't be helped, and makes the best of whatever material comes to hand.

VICIOUS MULE TOSSES SHOER TWENTY FEET

Grabs Blacksmith by Seat of Pants and Throws Him Across the Shop.

Linton, Ind.—E. B. Martindale's estate, incorporated, is made defendant in a suit for damages brought by James B. Dillon, on a charge that is not of the ordinary. Clayton Baker, who is employed on the Martindale farm of 1,200 acres, located southeast of Linton, took a mule to Dillon, who is a blacksmith, to be shod.

Baker knew the animal was vicious, according to the allegations of the complaint, but said nothing to Dillon about it. Dillon proceeded with his work, and while stooping over shoeing a fore foot the animal seized him by the pants with its teeth and threw him twenty feet. He alighted on an iron floor with such violence that the tendons of one leg were torn loose and his left knee was fractured so that he is still compelled to walk on crutches though the injuries were sustained last May. He alleges he will be a cripple for life and asks damages in the sum of $6,000. The defendant is the estate of the late Elijah B. Martindale of Indianapolis.

BIG APE ATTACKS OFFICER

Huge Orang-Outang Broke From His Cage on Ship and Had to Be Killed.

Charlestown, Mass.—A thrilling fight between a giant orang-outang and half a dozen men was described by the officers of the British steamship Pathan, which arrived here recently from the far east.

One day when the vessel was emerging from the Mediterranean into the Atlantic the orang-outang wrenched the steel bars loose and made its way on deck. Mr. Pedday, the purser, was alone on deck and was leaning against the rail, unconscious of impending danger. Stealthily the animal approached and in a moment was on the purser's back; its paws closing on his throat. Mr. Pedday's screams brought the second officer, Mr. Wilcox, and several sailors to the scene. Mr. Wilcox picked up a heavy belaying pin and after a sharp struggle ended the existence of the purser's savage assailant.

Baby in Fireless Cooker.

Willows, Cal.—A fireless cooker has come to the rescue of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pieper of this place in sustaining life in their twin children, born the other day. Curled in separate compartments of this kitchen appliance, the boy, who weighed but two pounds at his birth, and the girl, who weighed three, are sleeping their way to health when not receiving food by aid of a medicine dropper. When the twins were born the doctors declared that an incubator was the only thing that could save their lives. Nothing of the kind was to be found in the vicinity, but the fireless cooker proved equal to the emergency.

When Friendship Counts.

The doors of the deformed man are always locked, and the key is on the outside. He may have treasures of charm inside, but they will never be revealed unless the person outside cooperates with him in unlocking the door. A friend becomes, to a much greater degree than with the ordinary man, the indispensable means of discovering one's own personality. One only exists, so to speak, with friends. It is easy to see how hopelessly such a sensitiveness incapacitates a man for business, professional or social life, where the hasty and superficial impression is everything, and disaster is the fate of the man who has not all the treasures of his personality in the front window where they can be readily inspected and appraised.—From the September Atlantic.

A Broken Bone.

Your first duty, after notifying a surgeon, is to provide support for the injured member in the form of an improvised splint.—Flat pieces of board, as broad, if possible, as the limb and slightly longer than the broken bone, canes, umbrellas, in fact anything that will accomplish your end may be used. In adjusting these, pad with any soft material that is at hand; straw, leaves or cushions made of grass may be used. Avoid any pressure on the injured part; cover it with a cloth and keep wet with clean, cold water.—Woman's Home Companion.

A woman is apt to regard a bachelor as a man who is too much of a coward to get married.

All the world's a stage, and all the men and women are merely kickers.

Rheumatic Pains quickly relieved

Sloan's Liniment is good for pain of any sort. It penetrates, without rubbing, through the muscular tissue right to the bone—relieves the congestion and gives permanent as well as temporary relief.

Here's Proof.
A. W. LAY of Lafayette, Ala., writes:—"I had rheumatism for five years. I tried doctors and several different remedies but they did not help me. I obtained a bottle of Sloan's Liniment which did me so much good that I would not do without it for anything."
THOMAS L. RICE of Easton, Pa., writes:—"I have used Sloan's Liniment and find it first-class for rheumatic pains."
Mr. G. G. JONES of Baldwin, L. I., writes:—"I have found Sloan's Liniment par excellence. I have used it for broken sinews above the knee cap caused by a fall, and to my great satisfaction I was able to resume my duties in less than three weeks after the accident."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is an excellent remedy for sprains, bruises, sore throat, asthma. No rubbing necessary—you can apply with a brush.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GREATON, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Association of Ideas.

"You have a great many flies and mosquitoes," said the rather supercilious girl.

"Yep," replied Farmer Cornstossel, "I didn't like to mention it, but I've noticed every year that flies, mosquitoes and summer boarders all appear to be on hand at the same time."

Consolation.

She—Do you really think I am so very fat, Mr. Smith?

He—Why, no; I saw a lady in a circus the other day who must have weighed at least fifty pounds more than you.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Charity.

"The woman whose husband was killed in master's factory is below, with her three children."
"Tell her to go away. I am practicing for the charity concert and cannot be disturbed."—Der Wahre Jacob.

EXCUSABLE.

Judge—You should have known better than drive fast while crossing that bridge; didn't you see the sign "Walk your horses?"

Prisoner—Dat's right, Jedge; but dem was mules what I were driving.

SHIFT

If Your Food Fails to Sustain You, Change.

One sort of diet may make a person despondent, depressed and blue and a change to the kind of food the body demands will change the whole thing. A young woman from Phila. says:

"For several years I kept in a run-down, miserable sort of condition, was depressed and apprehensive of trouble. I lost flesh in a distressing way and seemed in a perpetual sort of dreamy nightmare. No one serious disease showed, but the 'all-over' sickness was enough.

"Finally, between the doctor and father, I was put on Grape-Nuts and cream, as it was decided I must have a nourishing food that the body could make use of.

"The wonderful change that came over me was, like Jonah's gourd, the growth of a single night, yet it came with a rapidity that astonished me.

"During the first week I gained in weight, my spirits improved, and the world began to look brighter and more worth while.

"And this has continued steadily, till now, after the use of Grape-Nuts for only a few weeks, I am perfectly well, feel splendidly, take a lively interest in everything, and am a changed person in every way." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason." Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Discussion of Practical Forestry

By J. FRED BAKER, Professor of Forestry Michigan Agricultural College.

(NOTE—In the following series of articles, discussion of seasonal operations which every woodlot owner should be interested in, will be discussed.)

Seed Collection.

Every farmer is much interested in the harvest which is just coming to a close and we hear on every hand discussions of the crops and yields in comparison with other years. However, few realize or have taken notice of the fact that this past season has been one of the best for the production of forest tree seeds for some time past. In Europe, the forest seed crop is of immense value annually. We Americans have not realized its value in this country as yet. However, in the next decade, the crop produced each year along the fence lines and in woodlots will be looked upon as a substantial source of revenue to its owner. Many woodlot owners and farmers have recently become interested in how they can better their forest conditions in the woodlot or establish new woodlots. One of the best ways to do is by collecting seeds near at hand, such as, for instance, acorns and nuts. The black walnut, butternut, hickory, red and black oak and basswood have all produced very abundantly this season. The best time to collect is after the first severe frost. The seeds that fall before the first severe frost as a rule are defective and should not be gathered. After the first severe frost they should be gathered and if squirrels and rodents are not prevalent, plant directly in the area desired. This can be done by filling a knapsack with nuts and going into the woodlot with a spud, packing along the fence lines, spading a hole and dropping a nut into it and then covering with the heel. It is wonderful how quickly trees planted in this way will develop into good-sized saplings. These should be planted in open places in the woodlot where the grass and briars have come in. A good knapsack is made by taking an ordinary grain sack, cutting down parallel with the sides, leaving two bands about two inches wide and cutting out a panel about one-third the length. Tie the ends of the sack ribbons made in this way and sling over the shoulder.

If rodents and squirrels are a source of danger, the nuts should be stored over winter. In the storage of all forest tree seeds, effort should be made to mimic nature. If nature produces seeds and plants at once, the forester does the same. If nature allows the seeds to fall and covers them over winter with a moist covering of leaves and litter, the forester does the same and the same with those seeds which are borne high on the tips of branches and left to the climatic action over winter such as in the case of our sycamore, ash, honey locust and box elder.

All nuts and acorns nature covers over winter. The woodlot owner can collect these seeds, place them in a box sufficient to contain the amount that he desires to collect. Sink the box in the soil in a well-drained locality, putting in about two inches of sand in the bottom, then a layer of nuts or acorns, then another layer of sand, then nuts and so on until the nuts are taken care of and the box is full. See to it that five or six inches of good sand is left on the surface. Then place covering of light boards over the top. If there is danger of squirrels and chipmunks, a piece of closely woven wire netting should be staked over the box large enough to cover an area four or five feet larger than the box itself and this netting should be partially covered with earth. This will protect the nuts from danger of squirrels and gophers, as they will not burrow through the wire. In this way, the nuts are kept at an even temperature and even moisture condition and can be planted out in the woodlot when desired in the spring. Do not try to keep seeds of this class in the dry state over winter, as they will not germinate in the spring to any degree of satisfaction. However, such seeds as sycamore, ash, box elder, black locust, honey locust, etc., should be collected in the fall and hung in a bag on rafters in barns or houses and kept in a dry condition. These can be planted the same as other tree seeds in the spring.

Hen That Pays Her Board.

The sprightly hen that is always off the roost early in the morning and on hand with a fresh egg as soon as she eats her breakfast and then goes directly to work scratching about and does not hover about the nest or hunt for sunny spots to nap in, is usually the hen which pays her board bill with interest at the end of the year.

Value of Charcoal.

The value of charcoal for poultry is best ascertained by allowing them constant access to it. Wet, filthy or old charcoal is not desirable. Do not expect fowls to eat charcoal, grit and shells the way they eat corn. Do not force it on them, but rather have it in convenient reach of the poultry and they will eat as much as they need or is good for them.

Sell Surplus Stock.

Surplus stock should be converted into cash at the earliest profitable opportunity. Money talks, but it doesn't set its head off or die of cholera or cough or some other ailment prevalent among fowls.

When Work is Slack.

When work gets slack take an old hoe, saw off the handle to about a foot in length, and with it scrape off the old, scaly bark on your apple and pear trees.

Commercial Fertilizers vs. Humus

By A. J. PATTEN, Experiment Station Chemist, Michigan Agricultural College.

Commercial fertilizers should be used to supplement the manures made on the farm and the green manure such as clover, vetch, rye, etc. The manures made or grown upon the farm usually contain small amounts of the plant food elements but are rich in organic matter or humus forming material. These humus manures serve to keep the soil in good physical condition, and are absolutely essential to successful farming.

Commercial fertilizers are more universally successful when used on land that is kept well supplied with organic matter. This may easily be demonstrated by running the fertilizer drill across a field that has been fertilized with barnyard manure. The path of the drill will usually be conspicuous owing to the increased growth of grain. Very often fertilizers used on land devoid of, or low in organic matter fail to give satisfactory returns and they are consequently condemned as being worthless. In many cases of this kind the fault does not lie in the fertilizer but in the condition of the land. Commercial fertilizers require moisture in the soil to bring them into solution. Soils deficient in organic matter are not retentive of moisture, consequently the plant food contained in the fertilizer is either not brought into solution at all or may be leached out of the soil and be carried away in the drainage water.

The idea which many farmers hold in regard to the use of commercial fertilizers that once the practice is commenced they must always be used because their action upon the land is such that after once used nothing can be grown without them is entirely erroneous. This idea undoubtedly was originated by those who used commercial fertilizers to the exclusion of all humus forming materials such as barnyard manure and green manure.

Commercial fertilizers alone will not restore the fertility of a run-down soil. This can only be done by using materials having a large amount of organic matter. This fact cannot be too strongly emphasized, and it should be repeated over and over.

The supply of humus in the soil must be maintained and this can only be done by using materials rich in organic matter, such as barnyard manure or green manures (clover, vetch, cowpeas, rye, etc.).

Commercial fertilizers are used to furnish plant food in a more readily available form than it exists in the soil, while the humus-forming fertilizers are used to improve the physical condition of the soil in which the plants must live.

There are, of course, other conditions governing the productive capacity of a soil, such as cultivation, drainage, climatic condition, seed selection, etc., but these cannot be discussed at this time.

CARE OF THE SEED CORN

By C. P. HALLIGAN, Assistant Horticulturist Michigan Agricultural College.

The quality of seed corn in the spring depends largely on its having been properly dried and stored. The selected ears should be placed where they will dry in the shortest reasonable time and various methods have been employed for this purpose. There is no better method from the standpoint of efficiency than the old one of braiding the ears together by the husks or tying them in lots by strings and hanging in the summer kitchen or in the attic above, near the stovepipe. This, however, requires considerable room and is not altogether satisfactory to the workers in the kitchen. A furnace room is a good place, providing it is well ventilated and an occasional fire is built. Frequently the corn is left in crates and while this is usually a successful method, there is more or less danger from molding; corn so stored should be watched carefully until it is known to be thoroughly dry.

Storing.—Many contrivances have been used to hold the ears. Racks on which the ears can be placed in single layers are good if mice and rats can be kept out of the room. Ears suspended in links of binder twine will keep well and be safe from mice. The soft pith in the butt of the ears makes it possible for them to be hung on nails which have had the heads cut off after being driven into upright posts. An inverted pan will need to be nailed about the bottom of the post to prevent mice from reaching the corn.

Drying.—The temperature of the room in which corn is stored should be maintained at 75 or 80 degrees, with abundant circulation of air. Rapid drying removes the possibility of molding and consequent loss of vitality. After the drying is complete, the temperature of the room may be allowed to drop even below freezing, but it should be observed that many of our successful corn growers never allow the temperature of the room in which seed is stored, to fall below freezing. The room should be kept thoroughly dry.

When Work is Slack.

When work gets slack take an old hoe, saw off the handle to about a foot in length, and with it scrape off the old, scaly bark on your apple and pear trees.

Their Quarrel

Imogene came down the street with a stalking step and her chin high. She herself might have added that she flashed from her eyes, but allowance must be made for Imogene's active imagination.

If one had transferred his gaze to the other end of the block one would have seen Imogene's duplicate stalking in the opposite direction just as haughtily. The duplicate was Jane. A few moments previously all negotiations between the two had been broken off abruptly by Imogene's hurrying to the ground the doll dress which was the subject of dispute and announcing that she hated Jane and never—no, not if she lived thousands and millions and trillions of years—would she so far forget herself as to speak to Jane again. So there!

Jane had glared. Then with shrill haste she had declared that, so far as she was concerned, she'd never speak to Imogene first if Imogene was the very last girl left on earth and never—no, never—would she come within miles of her hated presence if she could avoid it. After which began their progress down the street.

Wrath still darkened Imogene's brow as she sat down at the luncheon table. "Don't you feel well?" inquired her mother in surprise. Imogene regarded her mother in portentous silence. "Jane and I have quarreled," she said at last.

"Oh!" said Imogene's mother in relief. "I'm glad you're not coming down with anything. I don't see why you and Jane can't play without always having a fuss."

The Duplicate Was Jane.

"Fuss!" repeated Imogene, indignantly and coldly. "This isn't a fuss—it's a real quarrel, an I hate her and we're never going to be friends any more."

"I don't want you to talk that way," reproved Imogene's mother, with utter disregard of the seriousness of the occasion. "Don't put so much sugar on your berries!"

Imogene pushed the berries away. "I don't want 'em," she said. "I guess you don't understand. It isn't just a common, make up quarrel. I ain't ever going to speak first and she ain't—"

"Isn't," corrected Imogene's mother. "Well, she ain't—isn't," resumed Imogene impatiently. "So, you see, we won't ever speak again nor be friends. We've been mad before, but not like this."

"You and Jane are eternally quarreling for the last time," said Imogene's mother easily. "I guess it isn't as bad as you make out. It isn't nice of either of you to act so."

Imogene set her lips. "We'll never play together again," she declared. "I can't like her any more when she's so mean and selfish. Why, she—"

"That'll do!" said her mother. "I've no doubt that Jane thinks you're the selfish one. I'd be ashamed."

"I used to like Jane," went on Imogene in a reminiscent vein. "I thought she was real nice. That was before she got so mean."

"What are you going to do this afternoon if you don't play with Jane?" inquired her mother.

"Dunno," grumbled Imogene. "I don't care if there isn't any one else in the world to play with but Jane, I wouldn't play with her! She never could be nice enough to me to get me to speak to her. Besides, I won't speak first an' she won't."

"I guess I can play without her," resumed Imogene after a pause. "I guess she ain't—isn't the only girl in the world. I can play by myself. I—"

"Ya-l-e-o-o!" cut the air. The call came from the street.

"Ya-l-e-o-o!" Imogene called back mechanically, turning toward the open window.

Imogene's mother for once did not reprove this breach of good manners. She seemed to have trouble controlling the corners of her mouth.

"Coming out?" pursued the outside voice.

"Uh-huh!" called Imogene abruptly from the table. "Did you bring your doll, Jane?"

India's Deadly Wild Creatures.

Last year 22478 deaths occurred in India from snake bites and 2,400 persons were killed by wild animals. The deaths caused by snakes and wild animals in the province of Burma in 1910 amounted to 1,273 and 80 respectively. The number of cattle killed in India amounted to 93,074 by wild animals and 10,909 by snakes. Of the deaths of cattle in Burma, 7,851 were caused by wild animals and 6,588 by snakes. Tigers and leopards were the most destructive animals, elephants, bears, wolves, hyenas, etc., being also responsible for fatalities. Rewards amounting to $47,725 were paid by the government for the destruction in all India 91,104 snakes and 19,282 wild animals.

Countess Mason and Lila Gray are editors this week. Louisa Marsa and Ella Rasmussen are housekeepers and Edna Todd is gardener.

Louisa Marsa substituted in Miss Lewis, room and Winne Cunningham in Miss Mitchell's room Thursday morning.

The map of Michigan which the students have long been expecting, is now located in the front of the room where it can easily be studied.

Lila Gray was not able to be at school Tuesday morning on account of illness.

Marguerite Munger, Ella Rasmussen and Lila Gray spent Saturday and Sunday at their homes.

Most of the normal class attended the annual reception given by the W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. P. D. Campbell, Friday afternoon, November 10. The following program was given:

Vocal Solo, Miss Lillian Randall.

Reasons why Alcohol and Tobacco should not be used:

1st. Grade, Verclal Seaman, Louise Morse; 3rd. Grade, Helen Webster, Marjorie Meyers; 4th. Grade, Dora Martin; 5th. Charles Newkirk.

Musical Reading, The Lost Cord, Miss Cotton, Miss Delbet; 6th. Grade, Wilma Stevenson; 7th. Grade, Jennie Carey; 8th. Grade, Hilda Cooper.

Chorus, Sweet and Low, County Normal Class.

The program closed with brief remarks by Mr. H. A. Craig, principal of the High School, Rev. P. Dewey Elie, Mr. E. J. Meech, and the awarding of the prizes by Rev. F. M. Taylor.

The prizes won by Charles Newkirk and Wilma Stevenson were fifty-cent coupons good at one of the book stores. The other contestants received sacks of candy as a reward for their efforts.

After the program a bountiful lap supper was served, which all heartily enjoyed.

"From the brewers congress to Hinky Dinks, a study in contrast." This is the double column heading given to an article in the Detroit Journal of Friday last. The writer of the article William H. Venn, stands at the door of the Chicago Coliseum looking at the crowd in the brewers' congress just before Secretary of Agriculture Wilson delivered his address before the body. The writer comments on the gathering of well dressed people and refers to the lines of motor cars depositing their occupants at the entrance, and to the music, light, and cheer within. And then the scene changes to the place on South State street where the brewers' congress beer is being sold, where the finished products not at all in evidence at the Coliseum can be looked upon. At Hinky Dink's where young men and old and women and girls are drinking and shouting and lighting under conditions that animals would sicken over. Quite a contrast between the finely dressed ladies at the Coliseum and the wan and slatternly women who are important as money makers for the members of the brewers' congress. The brewers were not fair with themselves; they should have exhibited the source of their income in connection with the glorifications of their business. The heavy hearted sad-eyed women, the poorly clad men and the puny little children who provided the profits through which to pay for the music and lights and the brewers automobiles should have had a conspicuous place in the exhibits at the brewers' congress.

"I wouldn't be surprised if there were 1000 slot machines operating right here in Detroit," said a well known citizen to the Detroit Journal. "I think the estimate is too high," said Commissioner Croul, but I believe there are many saloons in which slot machines are operating." This means that in the opinion of the police commissioner several hundred saloons in one single Michigan city are constantly violating and defying the law. These saloons are provided with beer by the members of the Michigan Brewers Association, and they are protected by bonds given them by the Michigan Bonding and Surety company, two organizations that pretend to be greatly distressed over an occasional report as to some isolated violation of the local option law. The saloon business in Michigan at this time represented deliberate and organized opposition to the law and to all the safeguards of respectable society.

"I think beer kills quicker than any other liquor," this declaration was recently made by Dr. S. S. Burgen of Toledo, through the Toledo Blade. And it was concurred in and approved by several other of Ohio's best known physicians, Dr. C. A. Kirkey, Dr. W. T. Ridenour, Dr. J. T. Woods and Dr. S. S. Dungen. Under their respective signatures these eminent physicians further said: "Any physician who cares to take the time will tell you that among the probable results of beer drinking are erysipelas and lockjaw and that the beer drinker seems incapable of recovering from mild disorders and injuries not usually regarded of a grave character. Pneumonia, pleurisy and fevers have a mortgage on the steady drinker of which they foreclose remorselessly at an early opportunity. One fact especially insisted upon by all the doctors whose names are above given is that Bright's disease is in many cases due to beer drinking. The efforts of the brewers to have it believed that they represent a branch of the liquor trade not so vicious and deadly as whiskey and brandy is thoroughly disposed of by these experts and reliable medical opinions.

A Household Medicine

That stops coughs quickly and cures colds is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Mrs. Anna Pezler, 2526 Jefferson St., So. Omaha, Neb., says: "I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound as a sure cure for coughs and colds. It cured my daughter of a bad cold and my neighbor, Mrs. Benson, cured herself and her whole family with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Every one in our neighborhood speaks highly of it." —Hites Drug Store.

A Mail Carrier's Load

Seems heavier when he has a weak back and kidney trouble. Fred Duellman, Mail Carrier at Atchison, Kas., says: "I have been bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and had a severe pain across my back. Whenever I carried a heavy load of mail my kidney trouble increased. Some time ago I began taking Foley's Kidney Pills and since taking them I have gotten entirely rid of all my kidney trouble and am as sound now as ever." —Hites Drug Store.

TIGER BETWEEN YOU AND ME I'VE GOT THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD, IT'S A BUSTER BROWN BLUE RIBBON SHOE.

THIS IS CONFIDENTIAL!

As true and right and reasonable as if nobody knew it but you and I—yet nearly every household in the country has heard the story of

BUSTER BROWN BLUE RIBBON SHOES

FOR BOYS—FOR GIRLS

You can take these shoes in either hand, or on either foot, weigh them on the scales of quality, against any and every other shoe you ever bought or wore and you will find that Buster Brown Blue Ribbon Shoes are more dependable, more wearable, have more perfection of fit, excellence of shape, form and finish, and are better shoes to stand the racket that youngsters put them to, than you ever imagined any shoes possessed.

Hundreds and thousands of pairs are being sold to the fathers and mothers who want all they can get, and the best they can get, for their shoe money.

Buster Brown Blue Ribbon Shoes are the answer to the vexing question—the only answer—the correct answer.

Dog Days. Dog days is the name applied to the heated season of the year at the time of the heliacal rising of Sirius, the dog star; that is, the time when it rose just before the sun. They usually lasted for about 40 days. We still retain the expression of dog days as applied to the hottest season of the year, but owing to the procession of the equinoxes it is no longer the time of the heliacal rising of the dog star.

Fashions Change Little. From the fresco paintings of women in the Cretan palaces of the period about 2,000 B. C. it is learned that the women of that time plucked in their waists, had flounced or accordion plaited skirts, wore an elaborate culture on their heads, shoes with high heels and hats which might have come from a Parisian hat shop, while one woman might be described as wearing a jupe courte.
