THE WARD ESTATE BEING DIVIDED.

Reign of Great Timber Property.

The following article in the Michigan Investor is of particular interest to the citizens of this locality.

The recently announced purchase by the Kneeland-Bigelow Company of Bay City of 3,440 acres of timber land in Otsego county, from the estate of David Ward, calls attention to the fact that what has been the largest body of timber land held by an individual in the lower peninsula of Michigan is being sold off piece-meal and the residue not disposed of in a short time is to be divided up among the heirs.

Some 40 years ago David Ward, a pioneer Michigan lumberman, who operated on Pine river in the Saginaw valley, and was also an experienced "land cruiser," as well as careful estimator of pine timber, acquired about 76,000 acres of land, chiefly in one body, located in Otsego, Antrim and Charlevoix counties. Mr. Ward, while engaged in lumbering in the valley, held the body of timber in question many years as an investment. Some time before he died he estimated that his timber holding in that section aggregated some 700,000,000 to 800,000,000 feet of standing timber. A considerable portion of it was pine, and the remainder hemlock and hardwood. Some 20 years ago he constructed a standard gauge railroad from Frederic, a point on the Mackinac division of the Michigan Central railroad, west to East Jordan, a distance of 47 miles. This road was built as substantial as any commercial road in the country by Mr. Ward at his own expense, although primarily it was intended, largely to furnish an outlet to the timber on this vast tract of land.

When Mr. Ward died this body of land was one of his principal assets. A trust deed was formed which was to administer the property twelve years. It is understood this trust terminates under the terms of the agreement about June 15 next, and at that time all the residue of the property undisposed of is to be divided among the remaining heirs.

The administration of the estate some years ago erected a large saw mill plant at Deward, twelve miles west of Frederic, and it has been operated continuously until a few days ago, when it was shut down, is out of commission and is to be sold. This mill has manufactured as high as 37,000,000 feet of lumber in a single year. Last year it manufactured 13,000,000 feet of pine, 2,300,000 feet of hemlock and 3,700,000 feet of hardwood lumber, a total of 19,000,000 feet; also 4,000,000 pieces of lath and 740,000 shingles.

The railroad, known as the Detroit & Charlevoix railroad, was taken over two years ago by the Michigan Central, and is now being operated by the latter.

Within the last two years the estate has disposed of large timber holdings to Salling-Hudson Co., of Grayling; the Kneeland-Bigelow Co., of Bay City; Buckley & Dobson Co., of Manistee; Stearns Lumber Co., of Ludington; Anderson Co., Williams Bros., of Cadillac, and others.

The Knapp & Scott saw mill in Bay City has been stocked from this timber the last few years and is still getting supplies of saw logs from that source; cutting lumber for the Hanson Ward Company, who operates a large veneer and flooring plant in Bay City. A lumberman in close touch with the estate says he should estimate there is still some 30,000 acres of the tract. How much of this will be disposed of before the close of the administration of the estate cannot be stated. The lumber camps are being broken up and the camp equipage, horse, etc., are being disposed of and every effort is being made to close up what was the pride and ambition of the original owner and which has yielded millions of dollars in land and lumber property to the estate.

A shoestrink trust has been formed in New England. Wear button shoes and beat it.

A Chicago man was fined $200 for shooting at a policeman. The cost of crime evidently isn't going up.

A Seattle woman advertises that she would pay $10 to any man who would give a few sound whallops to a wife-beater. Earning that money would be great pleasure for the average man.

ARE MICROBES IN YOUR SCALP?

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness

Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebium, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots, and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee—that this remedy called Rexall's "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently help to restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall's "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by acting on making every hair root, follicle, and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring pigment throughout the hair roots.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give Rexall's "93" Hair Tonic a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it.

"For Women Who Care"

Of all the wearthings which a woman must choose, the Corset is most important. Upon it depends the fit and hang of her costumes—her poise and carriage.

In this adv. we will tell you about the kind of Corsets which insure grace and distinction to every figure.

Corsets are based upon correct fashion principles. They are designed to mould the figure into the graceful, harmonious outline demanded by present form-revealing modes.

They are not expensive garments, retailing at $1.00 upward—yet they offer the discriminating woman the best in modern corsetery.

To induce symmetry without causing rigidity, is the effect now most sought by down-to-date corset makers and, in achieving this result, J. C. C. Corsets are most successful.

They are comfortable and healthful, gently persuading the figure into graceful lines without hampering the wearers freedom of movement.

Every woman can be perfectly corseted in a J. C. C. model. With intelligence and discretion, just the right style can be chosen for every figure—from the supple form of the growing girl to the full development of maturity.

In the corset department of this store will be found experts who are especially engaged to guide you aright in the matter of selection.

J. C. C. Corsets are made of good materials and tastefully trimmed. They are boned with duplex boning which is doubly durable, rust-proof and resilient. May we show you the newest numbers?

NOT ENOUGH THAT HE WRITE

Modern Author is Provided by His Publisher With Another Less Pleasant Vocation.

After dinner speaking is a part of the trade of authorship nowadays, the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star writes. The men who are being featured in the popular magazines have become peripatetic pianowheels of oratory. They are called on to sputter bon mots and spatter humor as soon as the match is lighted. The magazines and publishing houses send their authors to every banquet within reach. The unfortunate have to keep their evening clothes by the bedside, and be ready to slide down a brass pole like a fireman as soon as a dinner alarm is sounded. The small fry of writers attend all sorts of dinners, from the annual reunion of the Sons of Sour Mash to the feast spread by the Amalgamated Order of Coach and Town Painters. But the big chiefs—like the Irwin Brothers and John O'Hara Cosgraves and Gelett Burgess—only cover dinners for which the "three nines" are sounded. Then you can see them dabbling madly through the streets in taxicabs, wearily getting into the first part regalia and buttoning collars, and muttering the new stuff which the dinners are to be regaled that night. It isn't any wonder that they get away to the woods as soon as the woods are opened in the spring. They have to restore digestion impaired by a nightly procession of nine courses and five wines. "I've become a kind of refined wine agent," said one of them the other day. "I ought to put out a sign: 'All dinners eaten with neatness and despatch. We pride ourselves on our refinement.' There is just one place where I have it on a wine man. He has to drink wine. It's part of his business. Whereas if I drink beer it is regarded as an eccentricity of genius."

Indian Girl's Good Shot. One of the prettiest exhibitions of marksmanship ever seen here was witnessed by a crowd in the vicinity of the post-office.

One of the hayrds attached to a flag on a high pole of a riding device snapped and the flag and hayard twisted themselves into the pulley in such a way that it was impossible to get the flag down. The manager offered $25 to any one who would get the flag down. Wenona, an Indian girl, overheard him and procured her rifle.

From where she stood to where the flag was flying from the pole was fully 800 feet. The pulley was so well concealed by the flag that only a small piece of the top of the eyelet was visible. Carefully sighting, Wenona fired and the first shot cut the pulley from the pole and sent the flag flying down.—Venice Correspondence Denver Times.

Royalty Travels Incognito. Nearly every member of the British royal family adopts a pseudonym when traveling otherwise than on state occasions. The duke and duchess of Connaught chose the incognito title of earl and countess of Sussex when they made their continental journeys, and Princess Louise, duchess of Argyll, and the duke of Argyll travel as Lord and Lady Sundridge, this being one of the Argyll minor titles.

Before her marriage Queen Maud of Norway occasionally called herself by the unpretentious name of Miss Mills. Queen Victoria always traveled as countess of Balmoral, though, curiously enough, her heavy luggage was generally labeled "The Queen."

To Stock Lakes With Frogs. The department of commerce and labor of the United States will make an investigation of the possibilities of the frog industry, according to a letter received by George H. Hazard, interstate park commissioner at St. Paul. The letter was in answer to Mr. Hazard's letter asking that the department stock some of the inland lakes with frogs.

The commissioner of fisheries declares that he has had the subject under consideration for some time. He believes there are opportunities in the industry.

Whale Meat as Chicken Feed. Now they are feeding that whale to the Eastport chickens with wonderful results. The flesh of the whale is very much like ordinary beef in texture and appearance.

The poultry men maintain that it is the best and most economical egg-producing food that they can buy, because it is really very nutritious, rich in oil, free from bone and practically fresh owing to the intense cold of the past few weeks.—Lawiston Journal.

A Stickler. Howell Rowell is a man of tenacity.

Powell—Yes; if he were a dog and got a grip on your trousers you would be perfectly safe in ordering a new pair.

Melodramatic. "How was the play?" "Just fair." "Was there a hairbreadth escape?" "Yes. The author managed to get away by crawling through a rear window."

Women Workers

Menace to Men's Wages in Foundries

By ELIZABETH G. EVANS, Boston

THE outcry against the employment of women as core-makers in foundries, the most important aspect of the question is escaping attention. The alleged unsuitability of the work to a woman's dignity and strength is made prominent; the rate of her pay is denounced; but the effect of her competition upon the standard of wages in the trade, which is really the crux of the whole difficulty, is too little mentioned.

In and by itself, core making, which means fashioning the mold for castings, is well suited to a woman's deft fingers, provided she is employed only on the smaller forms and provided her work is properly supplemented by that of men to do the heavy lifting and carrying. Indeed, the occupation is a particularly attractive one from the creative element which it involves.

In the foundry which I investigated the interest which the women appeared to take in their work was noticeable and in striking contrast to anything I have seen in other factories; while the only things I observed which could be legitimately criticised were a lack of seats (which, I am told, are supplied in some establishments), and a tube or pipe in common use which the women put into their mouths in spraying the material they are shaping.

As to wages, judging from this one foundry, they are far better than those prevailing in some of the typically feminine callings. Hence, from the point of view of the women as individuals, coremaking would seem to be by no means an undesirable occupation.

Nevertheless, the presence of women in foundries is a menace against which labor is very properly aroused. It is a menace because men with a standard wage of $3 a day are being displaced by women who do their work for half the wages or less. And men whose wages are threatened not unnaturally regard this feminine invasion with indignation and even abhorrence.

But is this menace best met by trying to drive women from the trade and make it that much harder for some other man's sister or daughter to earn an honest living? Why not rather help her to get full value for her producing power?

The competition of women in this industry is a menace because they can be hired so cheap. And one reason they can be bought cheap is because they sell their labor for any price offered where men have learned to take a hand in setting their own price and to bargain collectively for that.

price, to the end that one shall not undersell the other.

Many Women Forget Good Manners

By F. M. Mansfield

We frequently hear the regret expressed that the days of chivalry are no more. Maybe, but this writer has been impressed with the fact that, if days of masculine chivalry have passed, ladylike and gentlemanly manners have diminished in accordance, and even common courtesy has been impaired.

Half a dozen times in the last two weeks the writer has seen men rise and offer seats to women who were standing. In one case the woman thanked the man kindly, but most of them made haste to avail themselves of the opportunity without a glance toward the one who offered it, to say nothing of speaking a word of thanks.

One well-gowned woman, when offered a seat by a laboring man whose clothes bespoke his "plasterer's trade, merely elevated her chin and gave him a withering glance by way of acknowledgment and refusal.

Let us be glad that such instances are only exceptions to the rule, and that the majority of women do appreciate the kindness offered them. And may the others realize their part in re-establishing the good manners for which the elder days were famous.

How People Save Money in Europe

By Karl Bickler

The American people are prone to waste. It is a truism that a family on the continent of Europe will live upon what the average American family will throw away.

Even in small things this Yankee disposition to prodigality is manifest. For instance, the Germans, in their correspondence, use extremely thin envelopes, which proves their habit of saving in minor matters.

The German double envelope is not more than half as heavy as the American envelope of equal size. The thinness of the paper, of course, cuts down the cost of postage, and yet the envelope is clever and attractive, and does its work just as well as the bulky ones in use in this country.

It would seem that so good an idea would be copied on this side of the Atlantic, but so far no demand has been observed or else the American envelope makers would have busied themselves to duplicate the foreign article.

What Is An Insult To Our Flag?

By John M. Stiles

The flag being an emblem, and the Stars and Stripes being emblematic of liberty in its broadest sense, any one undertaking to abridge the liberty of the citizens of this country represented by this flag does more to insult it than he who tramples it under his feet.

The defenders of the flag, the army and navy of the nation, first, every loyal citizen, and believer in what the flag stands for, cannot but feel just indignation when the nation's honor is called in question.

It is a shame to have to admit that there are people in our country who do delight in ridiculing our sailors and soldiers, and they go still further and disobey the mandates of our courts and teach others to do so, and after doing all this they want to be called respectable.

These people may become so satisfied of their ability to take care of themselves and to wipe out the army and navy and the judicial and executive departments of the government that they might become a menace to the rest of us.

FIND FATAL WEAPONS IN SUICIDE'S ROOM

Morphine and Chloroform Had Been Used—Others Were Held in Reserve.

San Francisco.—Every engine of self-destruction mentioned in the usual newspaper story of a suicide was found in the room of an unidentified man at the New Orleans hotel, 1411 Stockton street, the other day, when the proprietor of the lodging house broke down the door after getting no response to his calls. The body of the lodger was in bed and showed the man had been dead several hours.

Tied over the mouth and nostrils was a sponge which had been saturated in chloroform. Stretching down from the gas jet to the mouth was a rubber tube, although the gas had not been turned on. Beneath the pillow was a loaded revolver, and on a small stand by the side of the bed were an open razor, a bottle of cyanide of potassium and a quantity of morphine. The net result was death, probably caused jointly by the morphine and chloroform.

The body was well dressed, although there was nothing in the pockets or about the clothing to identify the man except a tag in the coat showing it was purchased from the firm of Puckett & Aterbury, Reno and Sacramento.

He was about thirty years old, five feet three inches tall and of medium build. He had chestnut hair, gray eyes, smooth face and two gold teeth in front. His clothing consisted of a green fedora hat, green overcoat with fine red and white stripes, and blue trousers with a brown stripe along the sides.

SKY PILOT TREED BY WOLVES

Famous "Lumberjack" Preacher and Former Prizefighter Is Chased to the "Tail Timber."

Duluth, Minn.—An encounter with a pack of timber wolves forced John Sornberger, ex-prizefighter and a convert of the famous "Sky Pilot" Higgins, to spend the night perched on the pinnacle of a log loading derrick.

"I had gone to a lumber camp north of Virginia early in the evening," he said, "and the boss refused to allow me to preach a sermon to the lumberjacks. Angered, I started for the next camp, six miles distant. About nine o'clock I heard wiles, many of them. They began following me, and sudden-

"I met the wolves at the same place and they wasted no time in making an attack. By swinging the lantern in my faces, I kept them off and made sh. Just then the big loader and I made for it."

Sornberger formerly was a prizefighter and was known as the "terror of the lumber camps."

What is in a Name?

A Chicago man who hardly knew one tune from another made the mistake of taking a knowing woman to a concert at Orchestra hall. The selections were apparently familiar to him, but when the "Wedding March" of Mendelssohn was being played he began to evince some interest.

PHYSICIAN SAID ECZEMA CAME FROM TEETHING

"When my little girl was about eight months old, she was taken with a very irritating breaking out, which came on her face, neck and back. When she first came down with it, it came in little watery-like festers under her eyes, and on her chin, then after a few days it would dry down in scaly, white scabs. In the daytime she was quite worrisome and would dig and scratch her face nearly all the time.

"I consulted our physician and found she was suffering from eczema, which he said came from her teething. I used the ointment he gave me and without any relief at all. Then I wrote for a book on Cuticura, and purchased some Cuticura Soap and Ointment at the drug store. I did as I found directions in the Cuticura Book-Jet, and when she was one year old, she was entirely cured. Now she is three years and four months, and she has never been troubled with eczema since she was cured by the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. (Signed) Mrs. Freeman Craver, 311 Lewis St., Syracuse, N. Y., May 6, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to 'Cuticura,' Dept. L, Boston.

No Wonder She Blushed.

Two of the University of Pennsylvania track runners passed a learned and preoccupied professor showing a young woman visitor through the "Gardens."

"With a dainty shiver, the girl remarked: 'It's dreadfully cold—isn't it—to be without stockings?'"

The professor's mind turned for a moment from contemplation of the fourth dimension.

"Then why did you leave them off?" he asked.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Cold Welcome.

New Reception Gown

This gown for Catholic receptions is designed to be worn over low neck gown, made of mulline to match the color of embroidery on gown, finished with fringe. It is intended to overcome the pope's ban on low cut gowns recently expressed in an edict from Rome.

BRACELET IS COMING BACK SLEEVE POCKET FOR THE FAN

With the Elbow-Length Sleeve This Ornament is Almost Sure to Have Access of Favor.

The bracelet is to regain the favor which it once held. Modern dress, with its popular elbow-length sleeve for day wear, adapts itself admirably to the display of the bracelet. This is the main reason why they should become popular again.

Bracelets of fine workmanship set with jewels are bound to find favor. The designs for these are borrowed from those of old Egypt and Persia. The snake armlets which are associated with Cleopatra will be worn, especially with evening dress.

Heavy armlets two inches in width are patterned after those worn by the Sabine soldiers when Tarpeia sold the Roman city, tempted by her glittering glory.

Massive is most descriptive of these bracelets. They are worn on the upper portion of the arm above the elbow.

COAT OF TAFFETA

Changeable taffeta with trimmings of outlining, double ruffles, is the material of which this coat is made. The sleeves are set in large armholes and are in three-quarter length, with turn-back cuffs edged at the top with a ruffling of taffeta, and trimmed with taffeta covered buttons. The collar falls over the shoulders and is rounded in back.

When Little Guests Come. Although there are no children in my home, I always keep on hand eating bibs, little glasses with handles, and a little table-chair. You cannot imagine the little ones' delight when they come to the table. To these may be added little plates, knives, forks, and spoons. I also keep on hand, for their pleasure, a few simple toys. In this way I am always ready for little guests.—Woman's Home Companion.

Innovation Favored by Paris Seems to Presage Return of Such Receptacles to Fashion.

During the past year the pocket has been slowly and steadily regaining its position in woman's toilettes and even so daring an innovation as a sleeve pocket has now been made possible. This is quite the latest fashion note from Paris, the new form of pocket being chiefly intended as a receptacle for the tiny fan, which is so much in vogue at present.

The pocket is usually inserted in the sleeve just below the elbow, the aperture being cleverly concealed with lace or chiffon, so that its presence is not even suspected until the fair-wearer suddenly produces a miniature embroidered fan, apparently out of her arm.

The fan pocket is to be found on either sleeve of a smart afternoon gown and in some costumes one or other of the cuffs is frequently provided with a pocket after the same style.

Although originally intended only to hold the fan, as in China, the sleeve pocket has been found so convenient that it is also used to hold a lace handkerchief, and there is no doubt that its dimensions will increase when sleeves assume large proportions.

Needlework Note.

Damask centerpieces are quite the style nowadays. Many clever needlewomen outline the flowers or design of the damask with a dainty stitch so as to form a border around the circular piece, and with an edging of heavy lace this makes an effective centerpiece as could be desired.

Damask, however, is by no means cheap, but if one can make a number of such pieces from old linen with only the trifling expense of the lace one can have one of these centerpieces.

Little Fancy Coats.

While for the present there are practically only two types of the mixed toilet, that in which a plain material is seen in combination with a striped or checked stuff, and that which weds a little coat of velvet to a skirt of cloth, the advancing season will see many changes rung upon this theme.

New Bags for Old.

We all have one or two rather shabby leather bags. Cover these with velvet, buy some heavy silk cord for a handle, long or short, as you prefer, and you have a stylish and pretty bag. Either paste or sew the velvet on. I sewed mine, and have found it satisfactory.—Woman's Home Companion.

Monogrammed Shoe Buckles.

Parisians have started the rage for a monogrammed shoe buckle, already American dealers have become interested. The Paris women are now ordering shoe buckles with their initials or monograms done in rhinestones or real gems.

GOOD "WELSH RABBIT"

VALUE OF THIS DELICACY LIES IN THE MAKING.

English People, Through Their Fondness for Toast and Cheese, Are Expert in its Compounding—Ingredients and Preparation.

The English are inordinately fond of both toast and cheese, so it is no wonder that they should have originated that epicurean compound known as the Welsh rabbit. And, of course, the delectable toasted English muffin is of the British Isles.

Welsh Rabbit.—For two people grate from a third to a half a pound of American cheese on the bottom of a frying basket—grated in this way you can use a cheese that is beautifully soft. Knead half a tablespoon or a bit more of butter with a wooden spoon in a dish over hot water until it begins to sizzle, add a quarter of a teaspoon of paprika, a pinch of salt, and tablespoon of milk. Mix all thoroughly and when the combination is boiling turn in the cheese. Stir constantly in one direction until cheese is melted to the consistency of thin cream, gradually adding two or three tablespoons more of milk, taking care that the mixture does not become lumpy or stringy. Finally put in a spot of as much as a half teaspoon of made mustard, however much suits the taste from considerable to none at all. Keep on stirring until bubbles appear. Serve on toast which is ready on a piping hot plate. If beer is used instead of milk in making this rabbit it should be very flat—have stood open at least half an hour.

This is an adaptation from a modern English recipe and if carefully made is as silky and soft as can be, and will not give trouble to even a sensitive digestion.

Old Dr. Kitchiner's recipe for this delicacy he gives under the name of "Toast and Cheese."—Cut a slice of bread about half an inch thick, pare off the crust, and toast it very slightly on one side so as to brown it without making it hard or burning it. Cut a slice of cheese (good, fat, mellow Cheshire cheese or double Gloucester is better than poor, thin, single Gloucester), a quarter of an inch thick, not so big as the bread by half an inch on each side. Pare off the rind, cut out all the specks and rotten parts and lay it on the toasted bread on the cheese toaster. Carefully watch it that it does not burn, and stir it with a spoon to prevent a pellicle forming on the surface. Have ready a good mustard, pepper and salt. If you observe the directions here given, the cheese will get mellow and will be uniformly done, and the bread crisp and soft and will well deserve its ancient appellation of a "Rare Bit."—Jane Eddington in Chicago Tribune.

Brown Apple Pudding.

Two cups fresh brown crumbs, four apples, one cup brown sugar, one tablespoonful butter, one-quarter teaspoonful ground cinnamon, one and a quarter cups hot water. Butter the bake pan, put in the bottom one-half the apples, which have been washed, pared, quartered and cored, then one-half the bread crumbs, then the rest of the apples and bread crumbs. Spread the sugar over the top and the butter in small pieces over that. Last, dust the cinnamon over the top of all. Pour the water in the center of the dish. Bake 20 minutes covered, and then 10 minutes uncovered, in hot oven. This can be served with lemon sauce.

Turkey a la Newburg.

Press the yolks of four hard-boiled eggs through a sieve, add to them one-quarter of a cup of cream and mix to a paste. Put one tablespoonful of butter and two of flour into the chafin dish. When melted add the egg paste and three-quarters of a cup of cream. When smooth and thick, put in one pint of cold turkey, a grating of nutmeg, one-quarter of a teaspoon of salt, one-quarter of paprika and when hot and ready to serve four tablespoons of sherry or madeira.

Creamed Chipped Beef.

Melt a lump of butter the size of an egg. Add one cupful of chipped beef, put in the melted butter, let simmer a few minutes, then add one cupful of sweet milk and one tablespoonful of flour. Keep on the fire and stir until the cream is smooth and thick. Season with pepper. Have on a platter slices of hot buttered toast, pour the creamed beef over them and serve with stuffed-mango-peppers.

Quick Ginger-Cake Pudding.

Get any sort of small or large ginger or molasses cakes from the grocer and cover them with a custard made of boiling hot milk into which several eggs are beaten up. Pour the milk gradually into the eggs, stirring vigorously all the while; sweeten and pour over the cakes, allowing them to stand until they have "drunk" up a good deal of the custard. Serve warm or cold.

Care of Brooms.

If brooms are to sweep clean they must be washed occasionally and freed from dust and dirt. For two quart of warm water add four tablespoonfuls of household ammonia. Stand the brooms in this for a half hour. Rinse in cold water and hang in the sun to dry. House brushes of any variety may be washed in this manner.

DYNAMITE FOR FARM USE IS GRADUALLY BECOMING GENERAL

Greatest Saving Effect by Use of Explosive Is in Time and Labor—Tools and Implements Needed Are of Simplest and Material Is Harmless if Handled With Great Care.

Placing Stick of Dynamite in Position.

It is not very long since the use of dynamite for farming purposes has become general. And indeed it is a very good help to the farmer and colonist who is starting to get his land cleared of all the stumps and stone boulders on it.

In undertaking to clear a piece of ground of tree stumps it is obvious, if the land is to be speedily utilized, that the work must be done as quickly and as economically as possible. It will, for example, take two men with a team of horses from a half to two days to remove a single tree stump, according to its size and depth to which it has grown. Even with expert workers this work is laborious and expensive, and in the case of a forest-grown country, the very cheapest land may become unpleasantly costly. The greatest saving effect by dynamite is in time and labor. It is a saving so large that the cost of the raw material and the simple implements required bear hardly any proportion to the cost of the work by old-fashioned methods. As a matter of fact, the tools and implements needed are the simplest: a long auger, a ring battery, starters, and a coil of fine copper wire. Nothing more, save the dynamite itself, is needed for the work. Yet there is one other thing required, that is care. In handling dynamite with great care it is harmless, but one must avoid subjecting it to shocks, and kept at an even temperature and away from wetness, because wet dynamite is liable to ignite by itself.

In order to drain some part of land the subsoil of which is quite impervious and underlies low ground, the marshy surface can be recovered by ditching. In this process dynamite is of great use and its advantage is obvious. The ditches and drains are excavated by exploding charges of about one-half pound of 80 to 60 per cent. quick acting dynamite in holes put down in a line and spaced approximately two feet apart. Only the middle charge in the row is primed and the explosion of this charge causes the entire row to explode. In this way a ditch three feet deep and five wide and of any desired length can be excavated instantly without shoveling.

Swamps are drained by drilling several holes in the deepest part of the bottom of the bottom of these holes from three to fifteen pounds 30 per cent. dynamite. Properly done, the swamps will never form again.

In order to break the subsoil in orchards, holes are put down four or five feet deep, midway between the trees.

When young trees are planted the hole is dug with a quarter pound or one-half pound of dynamite. This loosens the surrounding soil so that the tree roots grow deep into the soil for moisture. In some ground trees planted in blasted holes are almost twice as large when a year old as those planted in holes dug by hand.

Dynamite is also used on the farm to excavate trenches for tiling or for pipe lines, to dig cellars and foundation trenches to grade and ditch roads, to sink wells, to clear ice from watering places for stock and to break ice gorges in streams, to dig holes for poles or for fence posts and to split logs for fence rails, cord wood and others.

LARGE DEMAND FOR POTATOES

Market Requirements Stimulating Development of Growing Industry Near City of Chicago.

Increasing demand for potatoes in the Chicago market, is stimulating the development of the growing industry in nearby states. The demand all over the country for the tuber, both for local and general domestic use and the export trade, has increased, and production is showing notable gains.

The land in potatoes increased from 2,601,000 acres in 1889 to 2,939,000 acres in 1899 and 3,669,000 acres in 1909. The acreage in 1908 was thus about 47 per cent. greater than in 1899. The production of potatoes in 1879 was 169,450,000 bushels, as compared with 389,195,000 bushels in 1909. The increase in the thirty years was thus nearly 130 per cent. Population during the same period increased about 80 per cent. This is the only important food crop which has increased faster than population. Increases in acreage of potatoes are noted in all the geographic divisions. The largest actual increases are found in the two north central divisions, the eastern section showing an increase of 148,839 acres, or 15.6 per cent, and the western section an increase of 146,629 acres, or 23 per cent. A large increase in acreage is to be noted in Minnesota.

The average production per acre, perhaps in part by reason of temporary weather conditions, increased from 93 bushels to 106.1 bushels. Along with the increase in acreage and production went an even larger relative increase in the value of the potato crop, which increased from $98,280,000 to $166,424,000, an increase of over $68,000,000, or 69.1 per cent. The average value of potatoes per bushel thus increased from 36 cents to 43 cents, or about 19 per cent.

NUTRITIVE VALUES IN FOOD

A nutritive ratio is the ratio between the energy given off by the protein and the energy given off by the carbohydrates. To find this nutritive ratio, the carbohydrates plus 2 1/2 times the fat is divided by the protein. Thus, the nutritive ratio may be 1 to 4, meaning that something contains four times as much of the fat or heat and energy-forming elements, as it does protein or meat-forming elements. Thus it may be seen that chicken feeds differ in the amounts of the different elements. Taking corn for example, the fat-forming elements are nearly ten times as great as the nitrogenous or protein elements. This gives the nutritive ratio of 1:9.6. With meat scraps, the nutritive ratio is the other way, there being twice as much protein as carbohydrates. Thus, in order to select a ration or mixture of feeds for hens, the number of pounds of protein, carbohydrates and fat must be considered as well as the number of pounds of grain. Dr. W. P. Wheeler of the New York experiment station at Geneva, N. Y., says "that 500 pounds live weight of hens in full laying, each hen weighing from three to five pounds, would require: Dry matter—27.5 pounds; ash, 1.5 pounds; protein, 5.0 pounds; carbohydrates, 18.75 pounds; fat, 1.75 pounds. This has a nutritive ratio of 1:4.6."

JEW SCORED ON ARISTOCRAT

Ill-Bred Remark Brought Discomfiture on Duke of Westminster and His Companion.

A friend of mine who is in Cairo just now told me a good story in a recent letter of an old Jew of that city who scored off the young duke of Westminster and his inseparable companion, Lord Ricksavage, when they were there a few weeks ago. They were buying some jewelry in the bazaar there, and the duke remarked audibly to his friend:

"The fool doesn't speak English, of course." But the fool understood well enough.

"Do you spik Italian?" he asked them, to which they replied in the negative.

"Do you spik Griek?"

"No."

"Do you spik Turk?"

"No."

"Do you Spik Russian?"

"No."

"Me one time fool," said the old man after a short but eloquent pause, "you five times fool!" And the duke and his friend retired discomfited.—Exchange.

HARD TO DROP But Many Drop It

A young Calif. wife talks about coffee:

"It was hard to drop Mocha and Java and give Postum a trial, but my nerves were so shattered that I was a nervous wreck and of course that means all kinds of ills.

"At first I thought bicycle riding caused it and I gave it up, but my condition remained unchanged. I did not want to acknowledge coffee caused the trouble for I was very fond of it.

"About that time a friend came to live with us, and I noticed that after he had been with us a week he would not drink his coffee any more. I asked him the reason. He replied, 'I have not had a headache since I left off drinking coffee, some months ago, till last week, when I began again, here at your table. I don't see how anyone can like coffee, anyway, after drinking Postum!'

"I said nothing, but at once ordered a package of Postum. That was five months ago, and we have drank no coffee since, except on two occasions when we had company, and the result each time was that my husband could not sleep, but lay awake and tossed and talked half the night.' We were convinced that coffee caused his suffering, so we returned to Postum, convinced that the coffee was an enemy, instead of a friend, and he is troubled no more by insomnia.

"I, myself, have gained 8 pounds in weight, and my nerves have ceased to quiver. It seems so easy now to quit the old coffee that caused our aches and ills and take up Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

HOW CHRONIC COUGHS

Are Being Cured by Vinol
New Haven, Conn.—"I was troubled with a most persistent chronic cough for a long time and had tried so many remedies and prescriptions without benefit that I was discouraged. I was persuaded by my friends to try Vinol. After taking the second bottle, my cough left me, and I must say I never felt better in my life. I can also recommend Vinol to any one in a run-down condition as the best possible remedy."

It is the combined action of the medicinal elements of the gods' essences, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron which makes Vinol so efficient in curing chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis—at the same time building up the weakened, run-down system.

City Girl and Country Lad View the Farm Life From Different Angles.

"I have often wondered, Mr. Clover-top, if the people living in these dear old farms amid scenes of such peaceful and quiet rural beauty, have as keen an appreciation of the wondrous beauty of field and hill and meadow and sky as we dwellers in the city have when we catch our all too fleeting glimpses of them when we face pithierward for our brief midsummer holiday," said Miss Annabelle Gushington to Adoniram Clovertop when he was taking her from the station out to his farm.

Then she added:
"O, I am quite sure that you must be sensible of all the charm and beauty of your quiet, happy, peaceful environment. Are you not, Mr. Clover-top?"

"Wasn't it this way?" said Mr. Clovertop—"when a feller has pulled out o' bed at three-thirty in the mornin' an' has milked nine keows in muskeeter an' fly time an' the keow critters has basted 'em with their tails for a couple o' hours an' mebbe kicked 'em over a few times an' then 'ye have to give a drove o' screechin' hawks their feed an' a hundred ole hens is chasin' 'em all over the barnyard cluckin' fer their breakfast an' a calf or two drags 'em all over the barnyard while 'ye air tryin' to git them away from their mothers' an' the thermometer shoots up to a hundred in the shade an' 'ye have to dig weeds or bug taters all day or git in hay or chase ten or a dozen miles after some keow critter that has got out o' the paster, an' then 'ye have all that milkin' '65, do over again at night an' 'ye finish up yer chores by lantern light the longest day in the year, when all that happens, ma'am, 's ain't in no condition to git sentimental over 'lights an' shadders' an' peaceful scenes an' sich like. ## GETS GOLD FROM SEA WATER

Dr. Oskar Nagel Claims That He Has a Machine Which Will Do This.

Oskar Nagel, Ph. D., an Austrian chemist, whose home is at 50 East Forty-first street, confided to the newspapers last night that he had invented a way to extract gold and potash from sea water and that with a plant that will cost complete not more than $242,000, he could take from the sea $1,300,000 worth of gold a year. This, he added, meant a gold production of about $3,600 a day to get which will cost about $300, leaving a clear profit of $3,300 each working day in the year.

Doctor Nagel purposes, after he has passed the salt waters of the globe through his extracting pumps and squeezed the gold and potash from them, to return them again to the seas, so that there need be no apprehension of the disappearance of those useful bodies of water.

Doctor Nagel told first of his method of getting potash from the sea. He did not say that he believed he could extract the great commercial article, of which $20,000,000 is imported each year into the United States from Germany, but stated most positively that he has proved already the value of his invention.—New York Times.

Boy Who Knows How

Whether the "three R's"—reads, frills and frivolities—have displaced the "three R's"—reading, riting and 'rithmetic—in the education of the child, it is nevertheless true that teaching the boy or girl to be more self-reliant and quick-witted has certain advantages. In Brooklyn the other day a man was injured and had an artery severed. One of those who hurried to the scene was a boy on roller skates. The man was bleeding to death. The boy removed one of his skates, took off the strap, and with a stick somebody picked up the youngster made a tourniquet, stopped the bleeding and held the tourniquet in place until the ambulance surgeon arrived, thus aiding materially in saving the man's life.— Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Gibson's Report

Illustrated Lecture Tour in Indiana and Illinois a Success.

The lecture entitled, "Western Michigan, The Land of Fruit and Fortune," illustrated by 120 colored slides was given at twenty-four places, twenty of these points being in Indiana, and four in Illinois.

Twenty nine days were occupied in making the tour and the total distance covered was approximately 3,260 miles.

The aggregate attendance at the twenty-four lectures was 2798. About 350 additional persons were seen and talked to on the trains, in the streets and in their several places of business, so that the total number of those to whom the golden opportunities which exist in Western Michigan were presented, by word of mouth, was 3,148.

Copies of the 1912 Western Michigan booklet were given to all those who attended the meetings. In addition to this, we gave away over 2,800 copies of our magazine to people on the trains and interurban cars, at their places of business and on the streets; making about 6,000 copies all told, which we put into circulation in Indiana and Illinois. We received a great many compliments about the booklet, both as to the printing and contents. We were told, many times, that it was refreshing to read a publication that was not gotten out to further some special interests, and that was free from the usual bombast and exaggeration.

Ten hundred and forty two of those who attended the lectures gave us their names and addresses, saying that the lecture had created an interest in Western Michigan and asking us to put their names on our mailing list, so that they might become thoroughly posted and kept in touch with the latest developments in our section.

Fully half of those who gave us their names stated that they would come to Western Michigan some time during 1912. We feel sure that the number of home-seekers visiting our territory this year, will break all previous records.

We took several ways of telling the people about our coming in order to secure an attendance at the meetings and to start an interest.

One method was to run reading notices and display advertisements of our meetings in the local newspapers. Another was to advertise by means of window cards, 11x14 inches. These cards were put in the store windows and tacked outside in the towns where we could get permission to do so. We also had the cards tacked on the bulletin boards, which nearly all the farmers in Indiana and Illinois have in front of their homes.

The secretary acted as his own advance agent, spending two weeks in selecting the right places and in making preliminary arrangements for halls, advertising, etc., and what was most important, the appointing of local agents to see to it that our advertising appeared, to answer questions, and to work up a local interest. These local agents contributed in no small degree to the success of our lecture campaign.

At almost every meeting, and in talking with individuals, the same stock objections to Western Michigan were advanced, the one referred to most often being that of rigorous climate. In nearly every case our showing of the slide giving the isothermal lines and the explanation of this picture given on page 10 of the magazine, set this objection at rest. It was difficult though, for some to understand why the climate should not become colder and more severe on all growing things, the further north one goes.

Another erroneous notion that we found prevailing quite generally, was that by far the largest portion of the state of Michigan consisted of very light, almost useless sand land. This is not to be wondered at when not only our own citizens, but our state officials, have fostered this error. We heard some very absurd stories on this subject, which has been carried by the reporters, many of whom never get away from the places they visit every summer on the shores of Lake Michigan and of course, see a great deal of sand and of sand land.

Then again, some would ask why it was if the land in Western Michigan was good for anything, there remained such a large area still unimproved and held at such absurdly low prices. We succeeded in most cases, in answering these questions satisfactorily.

The slides showing the diversified character of the farming industry in Western Michigan; orchards, alfalfa, clover and timothy, potatoes, wheat, rye, beans, beets, celery, seeds, dairying the fine herds of cattle, sheep, etc., together with the facts, figures and comparisons converted most of the doubting Thomases and when reference was made to the healthfulness of the climate, and pictures showing which illustrated so strikingly the many forms of recreation, and the splendid social, religious, and educational advantages possessed by Western Michigan; and the actual conditions were told about by the lecturer; a keen interest was aroused and many unbelievers converted.

Many questions were asked about our shipping facilities, markets and freight rates, which with the help of the slides we were able to answer to the satisfaction of almost everybody.

Good roads was another subject that was on nearly everybody's tongue, especially in Indiana where they have almost 25,000 miles of improved roads. The pictures we exhibited of what has been accomplished in building good roads, in Western Michigan, together with the explanation given of our state reward law, and the determination of our citizens to continue improving the highways, produced a favorable impression.

In Illinois, very few questions were asked about roads, for the reason that the roads there, especially during the spring of the year, are almost impassable.

The lectures were given in churches, school houses, city halls, court houses, opera houses, and theatres. We were successful in securing the meeting places sometimes for a very small sum and in other cases free of charge. The total cost of the tour was $219.54. This included transportation, hotel, telephone, telegraph, postage, rents, printing, advertising, lantern, salary of assistant, etc., this gives a total average cost of $34.14 for each one of the twenty four meetings.

At several places, we met with competition from the Great Northern Railroad Company, with its splendidly equipped exhibit car, its moving pictures, and ample supply of funds for advertising, hall rent, etc. If the Bureau could have a car of this kind, and a few moving picture films, it would add greatly to the effectiveness of our work.

At the close of each lecture, we summarized the advantages possessed by Western Michigan, emphasizing the fact that our soils and climate are well adapted to every purpose of the fruit grower and farmer, and offer phenomenal returns to the man who will exercise ordinary intelligence and who is not afraid to work; at the same time pointing out that no exaggeration was needed to make this fertile and healthful region attractive to the home-seeker.

The lectures seemed to appeal especially to the renter, the man of small means, and the wage earner, because they were convinced that nowhere else, so near home, could they get a start so easily and with a better chance of succeeding.

The attendance at the lectures and the interest shown, was much better than we anticipated. Many remained after the close of each meeting to ask questions.

We are convinced that this illustrated lecture tour was by far the most valuable and effective outside advertising ever attempted by the bureau and there is no question but that this foreign missionary effort will bear much fruit.

The pity of it is that Michigan with her wonderful possibilities has been asleep so long. Even yet, after three years of hard work, with very gratifying results, on the part of the Western Michigan Development Bureau, the bulk of our citizens do not realize as our friends in the West and Canada do, the value of education along agricultural and horticultural lines, and the great benefits that will come to Western Michigan by means of persistent intelligently conducted publicity.

We have in our files detailed daily reports of all the lectures, copies of which we will be glad to furnish on application.

Her Father an Authority.
Little Nellie told smaller Anita what she termed a "fiddle fib."
Anita—A fib is the same as a story, and a story is the same as a lie.
Nelly—No, it's not.
Anita—Yes it is, because my father said so, and my father is a professor at the university and he knows.
Nelly—I don't care if he is. My father is a real estate man, and he knows more about lying in a minute than your father does in a week!

Overworked Words.
"Strenuous" was a good word before it was overworked. So with "impeccable" until it became unbearable; also "banal," which is now banal and nothing else through threadbare usage. What superiority do these possess over the rural stock phrases of "in our midst" or "whilst going to Turkey Run last Thursday" or "all partook heartily of a bountiful repast?"—Washington Post.

loves. Mr. Longstreet recites and sings solos. One member plays the violin, another the piano. Altogether they present a popular program of sufficient variety to please all tastes and will probably be greeted at the Temple Theatre on the 19th of April with a full house. Note the very low prices and go early to Mack's to reserve your seat before some one else gets it. Prices: Adults, 25c, 35c, 40c, 50c; Students, 25c, 30c, 35c, 40c; Children, 15c.

The question of woman suffrage will be submitted to the voters of Michigan next fall. While it looked very doubtful about the proposed constitutional amendment getting a two-thirds majority in the house last week, when the matter came to vote 75 answered yes and the bill was passed with a few votes to spare. The Republicans have been heartily in favor of woman suffrage for years. It is interesting to note the forces that oppose women voting; every saloon keeper, every gambler, every brewer and distiller, every keeper of a disorderly house—and why? Because they are afraid that the wives and mothers and decent women of this state will put them out of business if given a chance to vote. That alone is reason enough why every man interested in the highest welfare of his state should vote for woman suffrage. There is no good reason why they should not be given a right to vote. The refusal in the past to grant this right is a survival of the days of barbarism, when women were no more than chattels. Here is a chance for true progress.—Clinton Republican.

A. B. NICHOLAS, JR., Sec. To the Officers and Members of Charlevoix Agricultural Society:

We submit the following report of our improvements on the Fair Grounds at East Jordan, Mich. As nearly as possible we have completed the cost of various improvements and find them to be as follows:

Dining hall and dwelling.....	$ 685 00
Barn for trotting horses 38x66 feet. Barn for cattle 32x100 feet and exhibition barn for horses 33x100 feet, also the restocking and painting of Floral Hall. This work was all done by the day and under the direction of H. B. Hipp and at a cost for labor of.....	1060 00
And material purchased.....	681 00
Also grading street in fair grounds.....	175 00
	$2581 00

These bills are all paid but a lumber bill of $160.00, and the money drawn from the general fund.

We were well pleased with the manner in which the people subscribed to our building fund and resulted in collecting $1066.00 which was placed in the general fund and used in the course of the improvements made.

We feel that another barn for sheep and swine should be built this season and would cost about $800.00, with necessary water supply the same as the other barns have.

While a new grand stand is a necessity in the near future and would be a good investment, yet we think it best to wait another year and then tear away the old building and build a modern grand stand.

E. B. Ward, Chairman Exe. Com.

SERIAL STORY

THE GIRL FROM HIS TOWN

By MARIE VAN VORST
Illustrations by M. G. KETNER

Copyright, 1918, by The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the six-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow who has been attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl named Lily came to a church and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan, attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Letty's father is an actor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily; he can talk of nothing but Letty and this angers the Duchess. The Duchess finds Letty ill from hard work, but she recovers and Ruggles and Dan invite her to supper. She asks Dan to build a house for disappointed fortune hunters. Dan visits Lily for the time forgetting Letty, and later announces his engagement to the Duchess. Letty refuses to sing for an entertainment given by Lily. Galorey tells Dan that all Lily cares for is his money, and it is disclosed that he and the Duchess have been mutually in love for years. Letty sings at an aristocratic function. Dan escorts her home.

The boy walked briskly back of the scenes toward the little door, behind which, as he tapped, he hoped with all his heart to hear her voice bid him come in. But there were other voices in the room. He rattled the door knob and Letty Lane herself called to him without opening the door.

"Will you go, please, Mr. Blair? I can't see anyone tonight."

He had nothing to do but to go to grind his heel on the door and to swear deeply against Pontotowsky. His late ecstasy was turned to grief. The theater seemed horrible to him; the chattering of the chorus girls, their giggles, their laughter as he passed the little groups, all seemed weird and infernal, and everything became an object of irritation.

As he went blindly out of the theater he struck his arm against a piece of stage fittings and the blow was sharp and stinging, but he was glad of the hurt.

Without, in the street, Dan took his place with the other men and waited, a bitter taste in his mouth and anger in his breast, waited until Letty Lane fluttered down, followed by Pontotowsky, and the two drove away.

The young man could have gone after, running behind the motor, but there was a taxicab at hand; he jumped in it, ordering the man to follow the car to the Savoy. There the boy had the pleasure of seeing Miss Lane enter the hotel, Pontotowsky with her—had the anguish of seeing them both go up in the lift to her apartments.

When Dan came to himself he heard the chimes of St. Martin's ring out eleven. He then remembered for the first time that he had promised to dine alone at home with the Duchess of Breakwater.

"Gosh, Lily will be wild!"

In spite of the lateness of the hour he hurried to Park Lane. The familiar face of the man servant who let him in blurred before the young man's eyes. Her grace was out at the theater? Blair would wait then, and he went into the small drawing room, quiet, empty, reposeful, with a fire across the andirons, for the evening was damp and cool. Still dazed by his jealous, passionate emotions, he glanced about the room, chose a long leather sofa, and stretching out his length, fell asleep. There in the shadow he slept profoundly, waking suddenly to find that he was not alone. Across the room the Duchess of Breakwater stood by the table; she was in evening dress, her cloak and gloves on the chair at her side. She laughed softly and the man to whom she laughed, on whom she smiled, was Lord Galorey.

"Dan, I Really Don't Care a Pin for the Money—I Don't!"

Blair raised himself up on the sofa without making any noise, and he saw Galorey take the woman in his arms. The sight didn't make the fiance angry. He realized instantly that he wanted to believe that it was true, and as there was nothing theatrical in the young westerner, he sprang up, slang so much a part of his nature that the first words that came to his lips was a phrase in vogue.

"Look who's here!" he cried, and came blithely forward, his head clear, his lips smiling.

The Duchess gave a little scream and Dan lunged up to the two people and held his hand frankly out to the lady.

"That's all right, Lily! Go right on, Gordon, please. Only I had to let you know when I waked up! Only fair. I guess I must have been asleep quite a while."

The Duchess of Breakwater shrugged. "I don't know what you dreamed," she said acidly, "if you were asleep."

"Well, it was a very pretty dream," the boy returned, "and showed what a stupid ass I've been to think I couldn't have dreamed it when I was awake."

"I think you are crazy," the Duchess exclaimed.

But Blair repeated: "That's all right. I mean to say as far as I am concerned—"

And Galorey, in order to stand by his lady, murmured:

"My dear chap, you have been dreaming."

But Blair met the Englishman's gray eyes with his blue ones. "I did have a bottle of champagne, Gordon, that's

He made a few computations on paper, lifted the pad to her with the figures on it, round, generous and full.

"At home," he said, "in Blairtown, we have what we call 'engagement parties,' when each fellow brings a present to the girl, but this is what we might call a 'broken engagement party.' Now, I can't," the boy went on, "give this money to you very well; it won't look right. We will have to fix that up some way or other. You will have to say you got an unexpected inheritance from some uncle in Australia." He smiled at Galorey: "We'll fix it up together."

His candor, his simplicity, were so charming, he stood before the two so young, so clear, so clean, that a sudden tenderness for him, and a sense of what she had lost, what she never had had, made her exclaim:

"Dan, I really don't care a pin for the money—I don't!"—but the hand she held out was seized by the other man—and held fast. Galorey said:

"Very well, let it go at that. You don't care for the money, but you will take it just the same. Now, don't for God's sake, tell him that you care for him."

He made her meet his eyes this time: stronger than she, Galorey forced her to be sincere. She set Dan free and he turned and left them standing there facing each other. He softly crossed the room, and looking back, he saw them, tall, distinguished, both of them under the lamplight—enemies, and yet the closest friends bound by the strongest tie in the world.

As Dan went out through the curtains of the room and they fell behind him the Duchess of Breakwater sank a fact, but it couldn't make me see what I did see."

"Dan," the Duchess of Breakwater broke in, "let Gordon take you home, like a dear. You're really ragging in a ridiculous way."

Blair looked at her steadily, and as he did so he repeated:

"That's all right, Lily, Gordon cares a lot, and the truth of the matter is that I do not."

She grew very pale.

"I would have stuck to my word, of course," he went on, "but we'd have been infernally unhappy and ended up in the divorce courts. Now, this little scene here of yours lets me out, and I don't lay it up against either of you."

"Gordon!" she appealed to her lover, "why, in heaven's name, don't you speak!"

The Englishman realized that while he was glad at heart, he regretted that he had been the means of her losing the chance of her life.

"What do you want me to say, Lily?" he exclaimed with a desperate gesture. "I can't tell him I don't love you. I have loved you, God help me, for ten years."

She could have killed him for it.

"I can tell you, Dan, if you want me to," Galorey went on, "that I don't believe she cares a penny for any one on the face of the earth, for you or me."

Old Dan Blair's son showed his business training. His one idea was to "get out," and as he didn't care who the Duchess of Breakwater loved or didn't love, he wanted to break away as fast as he could. He sat down at the table under the light of the lamp and drew out his wallet with its compact, thick little check book, the millionaire's pass to most of the things that he wants.

"You've taught me a lot," he said to the Duchess of Breakwater, "and my father sent me over here for that. I have been awfully fond of you, too. I thought I was fonder than I am, I swear. At any rate, I want to stand by one of my promises. That old place of yours—Stainer court—now that's got to be fixed up."

down in the chair by the side of the table; she buried her face. Gordon Galorey bent over her and again took her in his arms, and she suffered it.

CHAPTER XX.

A Hand Clasp.

It was one o'clock. Blair called a hansom and told the driver to take him to the Carlton, and leaning back in the vehicle he breathed a long sigh. He looked like his father, but he didn't know it. He felt old. He was a man and a tired one and a free one, and the sense of this liberty began to refresh him like a breeze over parched sand. He thought over what he had left for a second, stopped longest in pitying Galorey, then went into the Carlton restaurant to order some supper, for he began to feel the need of food. He had not time to drink his wine and partake of the cold pheasant before he saw that opposite him the two people who had taken their table were Letty Lane and Pontotowsky.

The woman's slender back was turned to Blair, and his heart gave a leap of pain at the sight of the man with her, and the cruel suffering began again.

Dan gave up the idea of eating; drank a whole bottle of champagne, then pushed it away from him violently. "Hold up," he told himself, "you're getting dangerous; this drinking won't do." So he sat drumming on the table looking into the air. When those two got up to go, however, he would go with them; that was sure. He could never see them go out together again; no—no! As his brain grew a bit clearer he saw that they were having a heated discussion between them, and as the room emptied finally, save for themselves, Dan, though he could not hear what Pontotowsky said, understood that he was urging something which the girl did not wish to grant. When they left he rose as well, and at the door of the restaurant the actress and her companion paused, and Dan saw her face, deadly pale. There were tears in her eyes.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

He (nervously)—What will your father say when I tell him we're engaged? She—He'll be delighted, dear. He always is.

Astonished Husband.
De Wolfe Hopper tells a good story about the domestic unhappiness of another actor. The hero of the joke was a man who had married because the woman had much money, although no beauty. Naturally, after the wedding ceremony and the acquisition of the bride's financial resources, the husband was never very attentive to her.

Another member of the company in which the couple were appearing was, however, far more appreciative of the lady's charms, and proceeded to make love to her in an ardent but stealthy manner. The grand finale came one evening when the actor discovered the other man kissing his wife. The fond lover stood petrified with fear, and expected to be shot down the next moment.

No such thing happened. The outraged husband only lifted his hands toward the ceiling with a gesture of intense surprise, and exclaimed: "Merciful heavens! And he didn't even have to!"

The Ugly Brute.
"See that measuring worm crawling up my skirt?" cried Mrs. Bjenks. "That's a sign I'm going to have a new dress."

"Well, let him make it for you," growled Mr. Bjenks. "And while he's about it, have him send a hookworm to do you up the back. I'm tired of the job."

Sick Women

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured many cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble? Here are five letters from southern women which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

Elliston, Va.—"I feel it my duty to express my thanks to you and your great medicine. I was a sufferer from female troubles and had been confined in bed over one third of my time for ten months. I could not do my housework and had fainting spells so that my husband could not leave me alone for five minutes at a time.

"Now I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. Whenever I see a suffering woman I want to tell her what these medicines have done for me and I will always speak a good word for them."—Mrs. ROBERT BLANKENSHIP, Elliston, Montgomery Co., Va.

LETTER FROM LOUISIANA.

New Orleans, La.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with hot flashes, weak and dizzy feelings, backache and irregularities; I would get up in the morning feeling tired out and not fit to do anything.

"Since I have been taking your Compound and Blood Purifier I feel all right. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. GASTON BLONDEAU, 1341 Polynnia St., New Orleans, La.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

Wauchula, Fla.—"Some time ago I wrote to you giving you my symptoms, headache, backache, bearing-down, and discomfort in walking, caused by female troubles.

"I got two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash and that was all I used to make me a well woman. I am satisfied that if I had done like a good many women, and had not taken your remedies, I would have been a great sufferer. But I started in time with the right medicine and got well. It did not cost very much either. I feel that you are a friend to all women and I would rather use your remedies than have a doctor."—Mrs. MARTIE HODNOR, Box 406, Wauchula, Florida.

LETTER FROM WEST VIRGINIA.

Martinsburg, W. Va.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for my mother, daughter and myself. I have told dozens of people about it and my daughter says that when she hears a girl complaining with cramps, she tells her to take your Compound."—Mrs. MARY A. HOCKENBERRY, 712 N. 3rd St., Martinsburg, W. Va.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

Newport News, Va.—"About five years ago I was troubled with such pains and bloating every month that I would have to go to bed. A friend told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. The medicine strengthened me in every way and my doctor approved of my taking it.

"I will be glad if my testimony will help some one who is suffering from female weakness."—Mrs. W. J. BLAYTON, 1029 Hampton Ave., Newport News, Va.

Encourage Agricultural Development.

Agriculture being the foundation of permanent prosperity, more and more attention is being given to the development of all agricultural resources. The statement of Great Britain have elaborated a plan whereby a large amount of money will be devoted each year for advancing British agricultural interests and for teaching the science of agriculture. A number of colleges will take part in the educational work, each making a specialty of some particular branch of the science. The University of Cambridge, which has taken a prominent part in the breeding of new wheat, is to receive $20,000 to $25,000 per annum from the development fund for the promotion of this line of study, and Oxford University will receive $7,300 per annum for the study of the economics of agriculture. The Oxford Agricultural School is being developed with a view to showing the best methods of estate management.

In the face of a contest desperately fought to the very last inch in behalf of the brewers and their allied organizations, the bill making it unlawful in Michigan for brewers to own or control or to be connected with the ownership and management of saloons passed both houses of the legislature and through the signature of Gov. Osborn will become a law. It will be recalled that when this bill was introduced the brewers and liquor interests publicly announced that they would not oppose its enactment. "It would not materially disturb the brewers' business," their attorney declared and it was a move in the direction of decency and better things which the brewers themselves approved of. This statement however was extended to decoy and to deceive. The brewers sent a strong delegation of their professional lobbyists and trained manipulators to Lansing for the purpose of preventing its passage, and the contest continued through every step of the bill's procedure. The actual sentiment of the legislature and the attitude of the people of Michigan on the brewery question was provided through the vote of the lower house, 71 to 19 on the final question of the passage of the bill. The enactment of this law, making it illegal hereafter in Michigan for breweries to be connected with the establishment of saloons or with their ownership, may be only a step in the direction of brewery overthrow and saloon extinction, but it is a long step and one that will provide better conditions for many saloon burdened sections in the larger cities of this state and in several of the saloon counties.

REV. CHAS. SAGER SAYS

Mr. C. A. ABBOTT, August 23, 1905, 60 Ann St., New York City. Dear Sir, I have known for over 40 years of the effects of Wilson's Remedy (Wilson's Preparation of Hypophosphites and Biotin) in cases of pulmonary troubles. At this point I will say to you that you have not before known of that, 4 years since, while I was a resident of N. Y. City, I was severely ill with lung trouble. Physicians said I was consumptive and my family physician told me that he thought I could not recover. My attention was directed to the Wilson Remedy, which I used with splendid effect. I have been on my feet and at work ever since my cure. Yours truly, REV. CHAS. SAGER, Pastor M. E. Church, Hunter, (Greene Co.), N. Y.

On Dec. 1, 1901, Mr. Sager wrote Mr. Abbott: "My health is very good."

If you will write Mr. Abbott he will gladly furnish you any further information you desire.

Good Novels Thrown In.

A reader of the Chicago Record-Herald with a mathematical turn of mind has calculated that the serial novels published in that paper in a year represent a saving of from $15 to $18 to its readers. He figures that for the fiction lover it is more economical to subscribe for the Record-Herald than to go without it.

"No other large city daily," he continues, "prints so much of the best new fiction, in addition to all the news of the day. Not counting the innumerable short stories in the Sunday Magazine of The Record-Herald, that magazine prints yearly at least four serial novels by some of the best popular authors—Rider Haggard, Conan Doyle, Louis Tracy, George Gibbs, Jeffrey Farrol and others in that class. Then in the body of the paper there is nearly always another good serial, running daily and Sunday, which means a complete new novel every month or two, or, say, eight whole books of high-class fiction in a year. At the usual price of $1.50 these twelve novels in book form would cost $18. I get all this thrown in extra with a mighty good newspaper. I call it a bargain."

That is one way to look at it, and it seems to be a sensible way. The real cause of the popularity of The Record-Herald, however, is that it is the best all-around home newspaper in the country.
