EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, SATURDAY, APRIL 20, 1912.

No. 18

Good Roads Enthusiasts

Met at East Jordan Monday Afternoon.

Our good roads people fell asleep when the Board of Supervisors were in session last week and failed to present a suitable petition to the board asking that a bonding proposition for good roads be submitted to the people. As a result the Supervisors adjourned without any action on this point.

Then our good roads people woke up and a meeting was held at the K. P. Hall in this city, Monday afternoon, which was attended by over sixty of the heaviest tax-payers of Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan. A. B. Clark of Norwood township was chairman of the meeting and Com. Milford of this city secretary. A petition was circulated and liberally signed, asking the Board of Supervisors to re-convene and submit to the qualified electors of Charlevoix county a proposition to bond the county for at least $300,000 for the building of good roads.

The Board of Supervisors, in pursuance to call, will convene Tuesday, April 30th and the question will be submitted to the voters at a special election to be held probably early in June.

If the proposition is carried it will mean that with the addition of State Reward about half a million dollars will be put on our highways, giving our county approximately 250 miles of roads, and greatly increasing the value of every farm in the county. At the April 1st election, Kent county voted to bond for $500,000 and several other counties bonded heavily, showing that the proposition is meeting with approval in our sister counties.

Through a Grand Rapids paper the fact is referred to that Eddie DeLosh, a local boxer who has been winning some recognition as a middleweight pugilist was found helplessly drunk on Canal street one morning recently and was locked up at police headquarters. The young man's case explains why the saloon seeks to be recognized as a "sporting" center. The fact of desire of young men to have themselves recognized as "sports" makes of them easy victims to saloon temptation and generous contributors to the saloon cash register. From the saloon point of view the would-be "sport" has a pitifully brief career. Only through a very few years is he of value to the saloon. His money and manhood and health and strength are soon cashed in at the bar and then the barkeeper refers to him as a pum and an undesirable saloon hang-around. One of the very best features connected with the closing up of the saloon is that it permits the existence of legitimate and enjoyable rivalry in athletics and in all legitimate games without having them necessarily related to the barroom as a community "sporting center."

Spraying Calendar.

This is the time of the year to decide to carry out an aggressive spraying campaign for the coming fruit season, that the quality of the 1912 crop may be greatly improved and the quantity greatly increased. Here is the schedule for spraying that has been adopted by a successful apple grower:

First time, before buds open (as soon as freezing is over)—
Lime-Sulphur ..... 5 gals.
Water ..... 50 gals.
No arsenate.
Second time, just before the petals open—
Lime-Sulphur ..... 1 gal.
Water ..... 50 gals.
No arsenate.
Third time, after blossoms fall—
Lime-Sulphur ..... 1 1/2 gals.
Arsenate of lead ..... 2 lbs.
Water ..... 50 gals.
Fourth time, in June or July—
Lime-Sulphur ..... 1 1/2 gals.
Arsenate of lead ..... 2 lbs.
Water ..... 50 gals.
Fifth time, Aug. 1st to 10th—
Lime-Sulphur ..... 1 gal.
Arsenate of lead ..... 2 lbs.
Water ..... 50 gals.

This last spraying is to control the second brood of codling moths and is sometimes omitted.
The Lime-Sulphur used is the concentrated solution which can be bought in practically every village throughout the fruit section. There are a number of different brands on the market. The solution should test 32 degrees Baume, or better.

Laborers Not Needed in Canada

While it is true that with the approach of spring there are fewer unemployed in British Columbia than a few months ago, it can hardly be denied that there are more than sufficient laborers in this Province at present for any demands likely to arise in the course of the year.

The immigration of laborers from the United States to Canada should be discouraged until further developments have greatly changed the labor situation here. Immigrants from the United States are bound to be disappointed because of the lower wages, higher cost of living, and the great uncertainty of obtaining employment. They should in no case come without sufficient means to keep them for some time in case they can not obtain employment and to take them back to the United States if finally unsuccessful.—Consul General David F. Wilber, Vancouver, March 6, 1912.

A girl may not marry the best man at her own wedding, but she should try to make the best of the man she marries.

When we encounter a man who is long on words and short on works we wonder how much his wife earns by taking in washing.

It takes an awfully clever man to dodge the leap-year widow who has appointed herself a committee of one to induce him to face the parson with her.

Carried.

A communication was received from the district manager of the Mich. State Telephone Co. regarding the matter of removing all telephone poles from the streets. Moved by Hudson, supported by Kenny that the Clerk and Treasurer be authorized and instructed to borrow $1,000 for four months. Carried.

The City Commission of the City of East Jordan, having under consideration the matter of paving on Mill, Main and Esterly streets, Commissioner Kenny offered the following resolution and moved its adoption. Seconded by Commissioner Hudson.

Whereas it was the intention of this Commission at the time of adopting the general plans, plats, diagrams and specification, and estimate of cost of said proposed improvement, that in the reception of bids therefor great latitude should be extended as to the kinds and types of pavement, and

Whereas from an examination of said plans, plats, diagrams and specification it might appear that certain kinds and types of pavement have been excluded, Therefore

Resolved, that said plans, plats, diagrams and specifications be amended by adding the following, viz.

"Bids may be substituted for other kinds and types of pavement than are herein specified shall submit with their bids full descriptions of pavements they propose to furnish and full details of the specifications of the same on which their contracts based. They shall be held to the same general specifications and stipulations, the same conditions as to grading, shall deposit a like certified check, furnish a like bond, and be held to all the requirements expressed in the plans, plats, diagrams and specifications as heretofore adopted, in so far as they are applicable.

Further resolved that the foregoing be inserted in the advertised notice for bids for said paving.

Moved by Hudson, supported by Kenny, to adjourn until Wednesday evening, April 24, 1912. Carried.

OTIS J. SMITH,
City Clerk.

Michigan Needs a Business Man

Striving against all sorts of political handicaps, Michigan has forged ahead industrially, commercially and agriculturally into a position of national importance, and is now looked upon as one of the most promising states of the union. In fact it has reached a stage of development where it grows of its own violation. Little thanks are, however, due to the politicians who have had the handling of state affairs as there have been some stupendous blunders made. Some of these were due to the short-sighted and selfish policies of the men in power, some to a desire to satisfy perverted public opinion manufactured by would-be reformers who desired to serve the dear people for a stipulated remuneration. No matter what the cause, the blunders have been made and will continue to be made, until the people awaken to the fact that what Michigan needs, and must have for her future salvation, is a level-headed, able business man for governor; a man who will have the brains and strength of character to give the state a business administration which will seek to bestow simple justice upon its inhabitants, whether to their personal or business relations with the commonwealth.

The foundation for the greatest industrial and commercial development of the state has been laid, and it only remains for the state to give a genuine and sincere assurance that those who are investing their capital in Michigan will be given a square deal to cause the commonwealth to take strides of progress that will astonish the most sanguine believers in its future.

Give us a business man for governor.—Michigan Investor.

Navigation Open On Lakes

Steamer Hum Took Trial Trip Sunday.

THE last of the ice in Pine Lake went out Tuesday when a high wind was blowing. The Steamer Hum, which wintered at her dock here, was taken down the lake on a trial trip Sunday last, but encountered a field of ice below the "point," and returned.

In keeping with the policy of the owner of the Hum, Mrs. Florence Jepson, the boat has been thoroughly over-hauled this spring. New decks and hull bottom have been built and a new electric lighting plant is being installed. The boat has also been re-painted throughout.

The Hum is this year in charge of Captain George Jepson, with Joseph Ryland engineer, Jack Henry fireman, and John Mahar wheelman. The spring schedule will start probably the fore part of next week.

NEPTUNE NOT TO BE DENIED

Young Woman Long Had Defied Sea-sickness, but Her Time Came at Last.

When the steamer Tagus got in from Bermuda, 24 hours late, Captain Laws reported that she had battled a head wind which at times assumed the vigor of a West Indian hurricane.

"Just then the ship mounted on a hill of water. She slithered down that hill seaward. When she got to the bottom of the hill, a further valley opened beneath her, and she swooped down again."

Twenty-Nine Days in Open Boat.

A terrible story of a shipwrecked crew's sufferings was told at Liverpool (England) recently, when the Booth liner Denis landed the captain and six men of the schooner Hibernian, which became derelict in mid-Atlantic some time ago and had drifted, waterlogged and dismasted, for 29 days.

Ideal Fiction

Public Library Should Contain Good Novels

By SAM WALTER FOSS

THE IDEAL attitude of the public library toward fiction should be one of severity, tempered by toleration. A public library should buy all the good novels and buy them in large numbers.

The bad novels it should not buy at all. All a public library, then, has to do in the matter, in reference to any novel, is to discover whether it is good or bad.

This is a very simple thing to state, but a well-nigh impossible thing to do. There are easy-going readers who think there is some good in all novels, and there are implacable haters of modern fiction who stiffly maintain that, at present, no good novels are written at all.

These conclusions will frequently be wrong, but he will have lived up to the best light he has. He will probably find some good novels. To deny that good novels are written today is to make a too sweeping impeachment of our literary output.

It is undoubtedly a misuse of one's time and a perversion of his intellectual faculties to read fiction, even of the best quality, exclusively. No one knows better than the librarian that there are a large number of readers who never do read anything but fiction.

Good fiction presupposes a considerable degree of intelligence in its readers. If it deals with the eternal verities of human nature it must make its readers interested in many and varied domains of thought.

Let him do his best and abide in content.

Plan to Compel Criminals to Work

By SARAH BLUMENTHAL

Again, there are many instances where the family of the murdered man become the charges of the public at large because the only bread winner has been taken from them.

Where the convicted men are executed society is forever placed beyond the possibility of drawing upon the wrongdoers for the support of those who have suffered most keenly.

The public is put at a double expense, the expense of the prosecution and the support of the sufferers.

There should be indefinite imprisonment, first and foremost for the purpose of making good to society, to as high a degree as possible, for the harm done.

The work done by the prisoners should be at a living wage so that the very source of the privation caused by crime should have an opportunity to make restitution.

If once the principle is decided upon the method can easily be discovered.

Too Much Emphasis on Mere Learning

By Prof. John M. Tyler, Amherst College

The school should furnish the training formerly furnished by the farm and the home, or the education of the child will be defective in the most important respects.

It can no longer be merely or chiefly an institution of learning, as it could content itself to be a century ago. It must furnish training in skill and ingenuity, in planning and doing, as well as in learning and abstract thought.

We have fine buildings, good equipment, but the system under which our teachers are working is antiquated. It must shift its emphasis from mere increase of learning—or memory—to increase of physical, mental and moral power and efficiency.

Such a change will force its way here but slowly against the prejudices of parents and public, who would have even the baby devote himself to learning something "useful."

Comforts for Men Charged With Murder

By Agnes Hall

A mighty few such convictions would have more effect than dozens of convictions under the present system, where the murderer is followed to court by dozens of women.

Aside from all ethical reasons why capital punishment should be forever abolished I beg to mention a more potent one. I make my appeal now in the name of economy.

We all know that in most cases the expense in the prosecution is in direct ratio to the financial rating of the accused, but even where four men are sentenced to be hanged within two months of the date of their crime there is a certain amount of money spent by the state.

Again, there are many instances where the family of the murdered man become the charges of the public at large because the only bread winner has been taken from them.

Where the convicted men are executed society is forever placed beyond the possibility of drawing upon the wrongdoers for the support of those who have suffered most keenly.

Who comforts the wife murderer? Every day we read of some brutal murder and the next day we read of the notes of sympathy and the flowers sent to the murderer by tender-hearted women.

His trial drags on and on until he has been tried by women from one end of America to the other and finally he is either an acquitted or convicted hero.

Women's influence should be exercised to make a country-wide law that would execute a woman murderer as nearly instant as would be compatible with justice and with no sympathy whatever shown him.

A mighty few such convictions would have more effect than dozens of convictions under the present system, where the murderer is followed to court by dozens of women.

GOT EVEN WITH NEWLYWEDS

Friends Inserted Small "Ad" in Newspaper, and Seekers After Bargains Did the Rest.

Bright dreams of wedded bliss were shattered by a tiny want ad. Instead of a day all by themselves, as they had planned, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Joleen, newlyweds, spent eight strenuous hours receiving strangers, who wanted to buy the brand-new furnishings of their cozy flat at No. 4851 West Van Buren street.

Here is the ad that wrecked their happiness:

FOR SALE—Furniture, entire furnishings of six-room flat; everything new and in first-class condition, including a piano-player. Call Sunday, between 3 a. m. and 9 p. m., at 4851 West Van Buren street. No reasonable offer refused.

The Joleens knew nothing about it. They were serenely happy. The groom was showing his bride the cozy corners of their nest.

"How do you like it, my darling?" he inquired anxiously.

"Oh, Nels, it's just too—"

Mrs. Joleen's reply was interrupted by a hammering at the door.

"Hey! What'll you take fer the planer?" asked a man when the door was opened.

"Don't want to sell it. Good day," said Joleen.

Again he turned to his bride. Again a knock on the door.

"I seen your ad in the paper," said another prospective buyer.

"No, you didn't. I didn't have any ad. I don't want to sell anything. I'm busy. Good day," replied Joleen.

All day long Joleen and his wife answered the bell and knocks at the door and turned away the would-be buyers of furniture and piano-players.

About 6 o'clock in the evening it suddenly dawned upon them that the friends whose rice and old shoes they had dodged by leaving the church where they were married through a side entrance after the ceremony, had persevered in their joking and had won.

The groom grinned sheepishly, then called a taxicab. The only quiet moments the couple had during the day were spent at a downtown hotel.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Nature Student.

"The bat, when winter comes," said a nature student, "folds his long ears against his sides, shuts off his heart and, hanging head down from some black corner of barn or smokehouse, hibernates till spring. In March he begins to wake up.

"Lizards and snakes hibernate underground. Frogs hibernate in the frozen mud at the bottom of their ponds. It's nothing to them that they freeze stiff. A frog so stiff frozen in February that you could break him like a soda cracker will thaw out in a warm March as chipper as you please.

"Rats and mice don't hibernate. They come indoors. They leave their cold fields and sewers and they take up their quarters in our nice, warm, steam-heated houses. There it's jolly plenty to eat, no snow, no sleet, no piercing March winds. The winter season makes no difference to the rats and mice, save that, while always marrying and giving in marriage, they marry and give in marriage more than ever in our comfortable houses, rearing, at our expense and on our foodstuffs that in their vast numbers would content even a rat Roosevelt."

Honest Pharmacist.

That "honesty is the best policy" is an axiom that has not been received with entire favor in France may be inferred from the following: Last November a Paris pharmacist who had made a blunder in a medicine that he had prepared discovered soon after delivering it to an unknown woman that he had put into it a most dangerous poison. He inserted in a number of daily papers a notice warning the unknown customer not to use the medicine. This conscientious publication has had a disagreeable result for the pharmacist. He was hunted out by the police for having delivered a poisonous substance without a physician's prescription. He has just settled by paying a fine of 100 francs.

But the customer had not remained unknown or undiscovered. The police had found her. She had not seen any of the notices the pharmacist had put in the papers. But dowered with an excellent scent she had not used the medicine "because it did not seem quite right."

Oriental Metaphor.

The Oriental speaks naturally in metaphor. Even the children continually use figures of speech which are often poetical and always suggestive. The Washington Star thus quotes Bishop Oldham, a missionary bishop of the Methodist church. He writes from Singapore.

"I wish you could hear some of the expressive phrases of the native boys. A lad the other day was describing to me the abstemiousness of his father.

"Oh, he is content with very little," he said. "Such a very little!" Here he pointed to the ground. "No more than the water in the hole made by a chicken's feet."

"He smiled and resumed: "He eats nothing. A grain or two of rice contents him. You should see him at his meals. He is like a hound mauling flies."

"How did you get your wife to forego her desire for that expensive evening gown?"

"Told her it was just the thing a plain woman needed."—Judge.

When Things Come True

By BRYANT C. ROGERS

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

Miss Blythe Halpin should have had more sense than to go to an astrologist in the first place and hand out a dollar in her hand, and in the next place she should have known better than to believe what the woman told her the stars were going to dish out for her benefit.

"You are going to be dreadfully embarrassed!"

"You are going to meet a light-haired man with blue eyes."

"You won't like him at first, but later on you will marry him."

"You will be very happy."

"The blue-eyed man is almost in love with another girl, but he will turn to you."

"The stars cannot lie. They always tell the truth. Next."

Fred Ward handed out his dollar half an hour later and was told:

"You think you are in love with a girl with a turn-up nose, but it is only a passing fancy."

"You will meet and love a girl with gold-filled front teeth."

"She will almost hate you at first sight, but do not be discouraged."

"You will live in a vine-clad cottage after marriage."

"But what's the matter with a two-story and basement?" asked Fred as his hand was dropped.

"Do not presume to dictate to the stars in their courses!" was the reply.

"But aren't they going to have my lottery ticket hit the capital prize?"

"The stars have spoken, sir!"

"Might little speaking for a dollar. I'd talk half an hour for half the cash. However, I'll go out and find the girl I'm to be almost hated by."

And he found her. It was an icy winter's day. Miss Blythe had come out to do a bit of shopping and call on the astrologist. Every shoe store carries a stock of ladies' rubbers, and every lady buys a pair or two and lays them away in camphor balls. At least, they never wear them when it can possibly be avoided. Miss Blythe had never thought of hers. She went sliding and slipping, and just as a young man was passing her down she came like a ripe apple. It was a kerchief of a drop. It was a drop on ice, and her hat was bounced off. She also felt hooks and eyes give way. But it was a graceful fall. She didn't claw the air nor scramble nor turn a hand-spring. It was a nice graceful fall, one that caused the young man who helped her up to say:

"I don't believe that one woman in a thousand can beat it!"

"How dare you, sir!" was hissed at him.

"But you didn't want to sit there all the afternoon, did you?"

"Yes, there was the light-haired, blue-eyed young man!"

"Yes, there was the girl with the gold-filled teeth!"

The astrologist had hit the mark right in the center, and no precious time had been wasted.

Mr. Fred picked up Miss Blythe's hat and handed it to her. Had he known how he would have planned it on her head.

"I don't thank you, sir!"

"Oh, there's no need!"

And thus they met and thus they parted. The astrologist had said that she would be dreadfully embarrassed. Hadn't she been? The woman of the stars had said that the girl would almost hate the blue-eyed man at first sight. Gee, but didn't she want to claw his smiling face! To most young ladies it is utterly impossible to get up from a fall and walk away with proper dignity, but Miss Blythe made a very good attempt.

Mr. Ward was in the real estate business. He passed on to attend to his bargain sales, but as he headed for his office he said to himself:

"Yes, I thought I loved another, but I was wrong. It's the girl with the golden tooth I love and am going to marry."

Mr. Ward did not lack cheek. No real estate man does. If he hasn't got it he makes a flat failure. Therefore, he didn't let 24 hours elapse before calling on Miss Blythe. For the small sum of ten cents a small boy had followed her home and marked down street and number. The agent intended to ask if the house was for sale, but something happened to prevent.

The girl who had tumbled was at the head of the stairs when he rang. She started down to open the door, and her heel caught and she pitched forward and went to fall floor like a feather bed. The mother came running and screaming, and Mr. Ward turned the knob and entered just as the bundle on the floor was unrolling itself.

"You—you again!" it gasped.

"Yes! You cannot be much injured. You fell too gracefully for that. You surely have got the art. I called to ask—"

The bundle grew feet and walked off down the hall after one awful glance, and the mother replied that the house was not for sale, and that that was her busy day.

"But the astrologist said I was to marry the girl with the teeth of gold," said Mr. Ward to himself as he walked away, "and I'll have to wait and let Providence help me out."

A month passed. Then one day Mr. Ward rode out into the suburbs to inspect a piece of real estate that had been marked down in price to him owing to the fact that it abutted on a graveyard, and folks didn't fancy the scenery. Of a sudden there were screams. Miss Blythe was riding out that way with the girl-owner of a run-about, and the vehicle was skidding from side to side of the road and looking longingly at a stone wall. There was no chance to play the hero before Miss Blythe jumped. It cannot be said that she landed on her ear, but still she landed and brought up against a fence with a bang.

Mr. Ward was on the spot with words of hope and condolence, but he hadn't uttered ten of them when Miss Blythe was on her feet and saying:

"You wretch, but you have crossed my path again!"

"Oh, I don't know," replied the young man. "I came out here to look at a graveyard, and had no thought that you would follow me."

"But it must stop, sir—it must stop!"

"Yes, three falls is enough!"

"If you continue to—"

"But you see I've got to. I paid an astrologist a dollar to read my hand, and she said the stars said I was to marry you."

"That woman—that woman!"

"If you'd drop in there yourself and hand her a dollar it's shilling to pennies that she'll tell you the stars say—"

"I won't! I won't!" exclaimed the girl as she walked off.

"I'll bet she has!" whispered Mr. Ward to himself, "and that's what she is mad about. She may fight me out for a time, but the stars are working for me day and night."

During the next month Mr. Ward did not catch sight of the girl with the golden teeth, but he was calm and content. Not for a moment did he doubt that the stars would bring everything out all right. Then the day came that a grocer's horse was given an extra handful of oats and got frisky over it and ran away. Did he run over Miss Blythe? Not a bit of it. Mr. Ward was there to grab him by the nose and twist him into a lamp-post and see that his neck was properly broken. Of course, the girl stumbled and fell backwards; but she was at once assisted to rise, and before she could shed a tear the real estate man was walking home with her and saying:

"You can't beat the stars, my dear. They say we are to occupy a vine-clad cottage after marriage, and we might as well be looking around after the vines!"

Happiest couple on the street! Bless the stars!

Ancient Baths Unearthed.

Prof. Garstang's work of excavation at Meroe, the ancient capital of Ethiopia, continues to give most interesting results. The most recent discoveries are more remarkable than any that have yet been made.

Luxurious baths with arrangements and decorations confirming the descriptions contained in ancient Abyssinian records have been found. These baths were fed by water which, passing through a series of aqueducts, finally flowed down cascades between numerous sculptured lions, oxen and other animals.

The walls are ornamented with rows of colored tiles with relief patterns and medallions, all still remaining in their original positions, while around the large tank are statues of musicians and other figures, not to mention a number of broken statues lying about. Twelve steps lead down to the tank.

"Horror Tea" Is the Latest.

The latest novelty in "at home" is a "horror tea." "Please bring your pet horror" is the invitation sent out to friends. If you have been invited to a "horror tea," here are some ideas as to what you might take with you. A man would cause great amusement by wearing an arrangement of unpaid bills, stitched on his coat. Ladies could bring toy insects, imitation mice, or any animal which they particularly dislike.

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courted by Lady Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow, who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church, and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Poniatowsky is a suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles decide to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily; he can talk of nothing but Letty and this ruffles the Duchess. The westerner finds Letty ill from hard work, but she recovers and Ruggles and Dan invite her to supper. She asks Dan to build a home for disappointed theatrical people. Dan visits Lily, for the time forgetting Letty, and later announces his engagement to the Duchess. Letty writes for an entertainment given by Lily. Galorey tells Dan that all Lily cares for is his money, and it is disclosed that she and the Duchess have been mutually in love for years. Letty sings at an aristocratic function, Dan escorting her home. Dan confronts Galorey and Lily together.

CHAPTER XX.—Continued.

"For God's sake!" he heard her murmur, and she impatiently drew her cloak around her shoulders. Poniatowsky put out his hand to help her, but she drew back from him, exclaiming violently: "Oh, no—no!" before he was aware what he was doing, Dan was holding his hand out to Miss Lane.

How she turned to him! God of dreams! How she took in one cold hand his hand; just the grasp—a man needs to lead him to offer the service of his life. Her hand was icy—it thrilled him to his marrow.

"Oh—you—" she breathed. "Hello!" No words could have been more commonplace, less in the category of dramatic or poetic welcome, but they were music to the boy, and when the actress looked at him with a ghost of a smile on her trembling lips, Dan was sure there was some kind of blessing in the greeting.

"I am going to see you home," he said with determination, and she caught at it.

"Yes, yes, do! Will you?" The third member of the party had not spoken. A servant fetched him a light to which he bent, touching his cigar. Then he lifted his head—a handsome one—with its cold and indifferent eyes, to Letty Lane.

"Good night, Miss Lane." A deep color crept under his dark skin.

"Come," said the actress eagerly, "come along; my motor is out there and I am crazy tired. That is all there is about it. Come along."

Snatched from a marriage contract, still bitter from his jealous anger, this—to be alone with her—by the side of this white, fragrant, wonderful creature—to have been turned to by her, to be alone with her, the duchess of Breakwater out of his horizon, Poniatowsky gone—Oh, it was sweet to him! They had rolled out from the Carlton down toward the square and he put his arm around her waist, his voice shook:

"You are dead tired! And when I saw that brute with you tonight, I could have shot him!"

"Take your arm away, please." "Why?"

"Take it away. I don't like it. Let my hand go. What's the matter with you? I thought I could trust you!"

He said humbly: "You can—certainly you can."

"I am tired—tired—tired!" Under his breath he said: "Put your head on my shoulder, Letty, darling."

And she turned on him nearly as violently as she had on Poniatowsky, and burst into tears, clutching almost to the corner of the motor away from him, both her hands upon her breast.

"Oh, can't you see how you bother me? Can't you see I want to rest and be all alone? You are like them all—like them all. Can't I rest anywhere?"

The very words she used were those he had thought of when he saw her dance at the theater, and his heart broke within him.

"You can," he stammered, "rest right here. God knows I want you to rest more than anything. I won't touch you or breathe again or do anything you don't want me to." She covered her face with her hands and sat so without speaking to him. The light in her motor shone over her like a kindly star, as, wrapped in her filmy things, she lay, a white rose blown into a sheltered nook. After a little she wiped her eyes and said more naturally:

"You look perfectly dreadfully, boy!

What have you been doing with yourself?"

They had reached the Savoy. It seemed to Dan they were always just driving up to where some one opened a door, out of which she was to fly away from him. He got out before her and helped her from the car.

"Well, I've got a piece of news to tell you. I have broken my engagement with the duchess."

This brought her back far enough into life to make her exclaim: "Oh, I am glad! That's perfectly fine! I don't know when I've heard anything that pleased me so much—Come and see me tomorrow and tell me all about it."

CHAPTER XXI.

Ruggles Returns.

Dan did not fall asleep until morning, and then he dreamed of Blairtown and the church and a summer evening and something like the drone of the flies on the widow pane soothed him, and came into his waking thoughts, for at noon he was violently shaken by the shoulder and a man's voice called him as he opened his eyes and looked into Ruggles' face.

"Go Whitaker!" Ruggles exclaimed. "You are one of the seven sleepers! I've been here something like seventeen minutes, whistling and making all kinds of barnyard noises."

As Dan welcomed him, rubbing the sleep from his eyes, Ruggles told him what he had come over "the pond" just for the wedding.

"There isn't going to be any wedding, Josh! Got out of all that last night."

Ruggles had the breakfast card in his hand, which the waiter had brought in, and Dan, taking it from his friend, ordered a big breakfast.

"I'm as hungry as the dickens, Rug, and I guess you are, too."

"What was the matter with the duchess?" Ruggles asked. "Were you too young for her, or not rich enough?"

Significantly the boy answered: "One too many, Josh," and Ruggles winced at the response.

"Here are the fellows with my trunks and things," he announced, as the porters came in with his luggage.

its envelope. Blair had seen her only in soft clinging dresses, in white visionary clothes, or in her dazzling park costume, where the play dress of the dancer displayed her beauty and her charms. Today she wore a tailor-made gown, and in her dark cloth dress, in her small hat, she seemed a new woman—some one he hadn't known and did not know, and he experienced the thrill a man always feels when the woman he loves appears in an unaccustomed dress and suggests a new mystery.

"Oh, I say! You're not going out, are you?"

In the lapel of her close little coat was a flower he had given her. He wanted to lean forward and kiss it as it rested there. She assured him:

"I have just come in; had an early lunch and took a long walk—think of it! I haven't taken a walk alone since I can remember!"

Her walk had given her only the ghost of a flush, which rose over her delicate skin, fading away like a furling flag. Her frailness, her slenderness, the air of good breeding her dress gave her, added to Dan's deepening emotions. She seemed infinitely dear, and a thing to be protected and fostered.

"Can't you sit down for a minute? I've come to make you a real call."

"Of course," she laughed. "But, first, I must answer this letter."

His jealousy rose and he caught hold of her hand that held the envelope. "Look here, you are not to write it if it is to that damned scoundrel. I took you away from him last night and you are never to see him again."

For the first time the two really looked at each other. Her lips parted as though she would reprove him, and the boy murmured:

"That's all right. I mean what I say—never to see him again! Will you promise me? Promise me—I can't bear it, I won't have it!"

A film of emotion crossed his clear young eyes and her slender hands were held fast in his clasp. His face was beautiful in its tenderness and in a righteous anger as he bent it on her. Instead of reproving him as she had done before, instead of snatching away her hands, she swayed, and at the sight of her weakness his eyes

Dan Caught Her in Her Dark Dress, the Flowers in Her Bodice, to His Heart.

"Just drop them there, boys; they're going to fix some kind of a room later."

Blair's long silk-lined coat lay on a chair where he had flung it, his hat beside it, and Ruggles went over to the corner and lifted up a fragrant glove. It was one of Letty Lane's gloves which Dan had found in the motor and taken possession of. The young man had gone to his dressing room and begun running his bath, and Ruggles, laying the glove on the table, said to himself:

"I knew he would get rid of the duchess, all right."

But when Dan came back into the room later in his dressing gown for breakfast, Ruggles said:

"You'll have to send her back her glove, Dannie."

At the sight of it beside the breakfast tray Dan blushed scarlet. He picked up the fragrant object.

"That's all right; I'll take care of it."

"Is 'Mandata' running the same as ever?" Ruggles asked over his bacon and eggs.

"Same as ever."

Ruggles saw he had not returned in vain, and that he was destined to take up his part of the business just as he had laid it out for himself to Lord Galorey. "It's up to me now; I'll have to take care of the actress, and I'm darned if I haven't got a job. If Dan colors up like that at the sight of her glove, I wonder what he does when he holds her hand!"

cleared, and the film lifted like a curtain. She was not fainting, but as her face turned toward his, he saw it transformed, and Dan caught her in her dark dress, the flowers in her bodice, to his heart. He held her as if he had snatched her from a wreck and in a safe embrace lifted her high to the shore of a coral strand. He kissed her, first timidly, wonderingly, with the sacrament of first love on his lips. Then he kissed her as his heart bade him, and when he set her free she was crying, but the tears on his face were not all her tears.

"Little boy, how crazy, how perfectly crazy! Oh, Dan—Dan!"

She clung to him, looking up at him just as his boy-dreams had told him a girl would look some day. Her face was suffused and softened, her lips—her coral-red, fine, lovely lips—were trembling, and her eyes were as gray, as profound as those seas his imagination had longed to explore. Made poet for the first time in his life, as his arms were around her, he whispered: "You are all my dreams come true. If any man comes near you I'll kill him just as sure as fate. I'll kill him!"

"Hush, hush! I told you you were crazy. We're both perfectly mad. I have tried my best not to come to this with you. What would your father say? Let me go, let me go; I'll call Higgins."

UNCLE SAM'S REINDEER

HERD OF REINDEER

THE herding and breeding of domesticated reindeer, introduced as an experiment a number of years ago with animals imported from Siberia by the government, has now become the most prominent feature of the industrial education of the Eskimo and the main activity of many native villages of Arctic Alaska, writes W. L. Beasley in Scientific America. The progress in civilization that has been made by lifting up the natives formerly living as savages and eking out a precarious existence by hunting, with no other domestic animal than the dog, to the estate of civilized, self-supporting herdsmen, as accomplished through the reindeer industry, is a remarkable educational achievement. The Alaska Reindeer Service has now reached its most successful stage, as it marks the beginning of the period of full utilization of all the reindeer owned by the government for the benefit of the native population. At the present time there is hardly a surplus government reindeer north of the Kuskowin river. This has been made possible by the establishment of new reindeer stations, the employment of more natives as chief herders, by accepting the largest practical number of apprentices, and by transferring reindeer to both chief herders and apprentices, in lieu of salary or supplies, the chief aim and fundamental policy of the government being to turn the reindeer over to the natives as rapidly as they learn the industry and appreciate its value.

The total number of reindeer in Alaska at the last census was nearly 23,000, and of this number, over 11,000 are owned by the natives. One of the most striking and gratifying features is the large income which the natives derive from the sale of reindeer products, their share for the past fiscal year having been $18,000 and over. The amount does not include the value of the reindeer skins used for clothing, nor that of the meat consumed as food. These material benefits and the very considerable income thus derived demonstrates the fact that the reindeer industry has become one of the most prominent factors in the economic life of the Eskimo. The total number of Alaskan reindeer is distributed in herds among 23 stations, 18 of these being owned by the government and 10 by church missions. The Lapps own over three thousand. The natives are very anxious to get deer, and look upon them as a safe investment for their earnings, and usually take deer in preference to cash for services, when an opportunity is offered. The government does not sell deer; this is done by natives and missions alone. The various missions are furnished a herd of 100 deer on loan for a period of five years by the government.

Mission Keeps Increase.

At the end of this time the original number must be returned. The mission keeps the increase of fawns, which amount to several hundred, derived from the government loan. The Moravian mission of Bethel has one of the largest herds, nearly three thousand. Other missions having over a thousand deer, all in Arctic Alaska, north of the Yukon, are located at Golovin, Kotzebue, Shishmaref and Cape Wales. At Barrow, latitude 71 deg. 25 min., the most northern point on the American continent, there is a herd of 300.

landers take a loan of deer for five years from the government, and give their services as instructors for that period. At the end of five years the Lapp returns the 100 deer and becomes an independent herder himself with the large increase of reindeer he has obtained from the herd. The Lapp herders are not interested in the extension of the reindeer among the natives. Some of the largest owners of deer are Lapps, some half a dozen of these men having accumulated herds of from five to nearly eight hundred. In introducing the reindeer as a means to promote the industrial life and to provide a permanent livelihood for the Eskimo, it has been found necessary by the government to put the young natives through a course of training. Those who get their deer directly from the government, serve an apprenticeship of five years.

Mark to Designate.

In the ear of each government deer a little aluminum button is fastened securely, and all private owners and herders have a mark which must be registered with the local superintendent of the reindeer station and also at Washington. Besides being taught the art of deersmanship, the apprentices are instructed in keeping accounts, the methods of marketing reindeer, and in other practical matters connected with the industry. No apprentice can become a herder unless he is proficient in the branches of elementary reading, arithmetic and writing. At the end of his apprenticeship the young Eskimo native is allotted a number of deer by the government, and with the increase obtained during the interval of his five years' service, each apprentice will have, on an average, a herd of 50 reindeer.

As this herd will double itself every three years, the graduate apprentice will have a herd which will afford and assure a self-supporting income quite enough to satisfy the economic wants of himself and family in the future. He is thus established in business by the government and is given free pasturage thereafter. The reindeer produces one fawn in the spring each year for 10 years. Among the useful and profitable products of the reindeer are the skins for clothing. Of these pelts most varied use is made. From them are fashioned the tight-fitting trousers and that wonderful outer garment, the "parka," universally worn in winter by both male and female natives and by many whites. The "parka" extends to the knees and has a close-fitting hood, which keeps the head and shoulders comfortably warm even in the severest weather. These reindeer garments are remarkable for their excellent qualities of resisting moisture and cold. A close examination of the hair of the reindeer furnishes an explanation of its peculiar value. The hair is not merely a hollow tubular structure; with a cavity extending throughout its entire length, but is divided, or partitioned off, into exceedingly numerous cells, like watertight compartments. These are filled with air and their walls are so elastic and at the same time of such strong resistance that they are not broken up either during the process of manufacture or by swelling when wet. The cells expand in water and thus it happens that a person completely in garments made of reindeer wool does not sink when in water, because he is buoyed up by the air contained in the hundreds of thousands of hair cells. As the mineral industry continues to grow in Alaska the natives and graduate apprentices can earn high wages as teamsters hauling supplies and furnishing fresh reindeer meat to mining camps in the interior, at points remote from railway and steamboat transportation.

His Coming Out.

A fond Chicago mother is to give a coming-out party for her son. Of course, we have no means of knowing the youth, but we fancy he must be exactly that kind of son—and we await with bated anxiety a full description of his coming-out costume.

What will be done with the gentle youth after this severe social ordeal isn't stated, but it can be believed that he is to be rushed around to all sorts of society functions—and, of course, carefully guarded against the matrimonial designs of fortune-hunting females.

Modern Journalism.

Arthur Brisbane, the editor, praised at a dinner in New York the educational value of moving pictures.

"But, of course," he said afterwards, "the moving picture will never equal the newspaper as an educative force. The newspaper not only reports news—in dull seasons it makes news as well. A famous editor put this news-making feature very neatly before a cub reporter when he said: 'If a dog bites a man it isn't news. But, if a man bites a dog, it is. Whenever you can't find a man biting a dog, go and bite one yourself!'"

NO WORDS WASTED

A Swift Transformation Briefly Described.

About food, the following brief but emphatic letter from a Georgia woman goes straight to the point and is convincing.

"My frequent attacks of indigestion and palpitation of the heart culminated in a sudden and desperate illness, from which I arose enfeebled in mind and body. The doctor advised me to live on cereals, but none of them agreed with me until I tried Grape-Nuts food and Postum.

"The more I used of them the more I felt convinced that they were just what I needed, and in a short time they made a different woman of me. My stomach and heart troubles disappeared as if by magic, and my mind was restored and is as clear as it ever was.

"I gained flesh and strength so rapidly that my friends were astonished. Postum and Grape-Nuts have benefited me so greatly that I am glad to bear this testimony." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville" in Pkgs.

Fresh air and exercise, with proper food and a sufficient amount of sleep, are the essentials.

Few Changes in China

Several years ago the American consuls in China cautioned young men and women in the United States against going there with the hope of securing clerical or stenographic employment. Inquiries are again being received as to such openings and it is well to repeat the caution.

The custom of foreign firms here is to fit all important and well paid positions with persons whom they bring out under contract, so that a person arriving without such document stands little chance of securing positions that pay living wages. Minor situations are filled by clerks, stenographers and typists who live in Shanghai at salaries ranging from $25 to $75 United States currency a month. The cost of living here is not less than in the United States and the climate is not uniformly suitable to foreigners.

Confessions of a King

It is told of King George—and there can be no harm in giving the story—that he said to one of the plain men who are his friends as well as his servants on the hills of Balmoral: "If they would only let me live six months here every year, they might do what they like with me for the other six."—Fortnightly Review.

For New Parliament Building

The contract has been let for an addition to the British parliament building at Victoria, it cost $1,000,000, practically doubling the size of the building. Work is to be commenced immediately and rushed with all possible speed, as the present offices are so congested that clerks and officers are badly cramped to carry on the details of the provincial government. The building is to be erected of British Columbia stone, same as original structure, and be fully up to all modern improvements. It is expected that when the building is completed and furnished and the grounds laid out in landscape the total outlay may reach $1,250,000 and that British Columbia will have the finest parliament buildings in Canada.

It is too early to pick a pennant winner yet; also it is too early in the season to give up hope.

THE FLOOD IN MEMPHIS

Mrs. Hertel Writes Interesting Account of Disaster.

Relatives of Mrs. Blanche Boosinger-Hertel are in receipt of a very interesting letter from that lady, who, with her husband and family, are located near the flooded districts of Memphis, Tenn. Below are some excerpts from the letter:—

We went to see the high water Sunday and it certainly is awful. There is an area of about eight or nine blocks covered with water. In Memphis, and it is quite a sight to see people going in and out of their houses in skiffs. Everything has been done to help them as much as possible, but the worst feature now is that the water in that location is contaminated, and pure water has to be supplied them all the time. Everybody living in the north part of the city and supplied from that certain main, where the seepage has gotten in, is in danger of sickness. Sickness has already started in the north end of the city, and they say it is a peculiar sickness, and one child had developed typhoid fever. It is going to be bad after the water goes down everyone thinks.

Another levee broke above Memphis yesterday, and the refugees are pouring into Memphis by the hundreds. It is pitiful to see them, with nothing saved except what they have on, and thankful to escape with their lives. The boats ply up and down the river all the time, rescuing people and feeding cattle which are marooned on the levees. As far as we can see across the river into Arkansas there is nothing but water, with the tops of trees above the water, and a few tops of houses, but most of the houses have been swept away. There is no railroad service west of Memphis at all, all of the tracks having been washed away. The water has gone down some in Memphis owing to the levees breaking up above us, but the largest hospital is on an island and they had to build a bridge to get to it. Danger from fire had to be considered too and a fire company is camped on the island beside the hospital.

The refugees are being cared for in tents at the Tri-state fair ground, and it is a great expense. However, contributions have been very liberal and so far there has been no suffering among them. There are enough refugees there to make a good sized city, about 2000 I think, and the sanitary conditions have to be looked after, and fuel and lights furnished. The Electric Light Co. gives them light free and the Street Car Co. gives them free transportation.

They do not think we will have gas again for a month as the gas plant is badly flooded and the water will not go down for two weeks probably. It is pretty inconvenient to cook on a laundry stove but that is better than lots of people have. It is a common sight to see people going from one house to another with a pan of biscuits to bake or a roast to put in a neighbor's oven.

We have not had very much warm weather, and have peeded a fire almost every day. It has rained so much that everything is soaked and the season will be very late.

Charlevoix Minstrels Coming.

The minstrel show given by the Charlevoix High School Athletic Association at that place last Friday evening, will be presented at the Temple Theatre in this city next Friday night, April 26th. Admission price 25 and 35 cents. The Charlevoix Sentinel has the following comment:

As a rule, people shy at "home talent" dramatics and minstrel efforts, but the show given by the High School Athletic Association last Friday night, a minstrel effort, was a hummer. Everybody who attended speaks well of it. It embraced special features that were catchy, and the musical features were worthy of high commendation. The boys all did nicely, and they had a fairly good show.

CONDUCTOR PASSED THEM UP

Two "Ham" Actors Figured a Way to Beat the Railroad, and Succeeded.

There were two comedians who had been stuck in a village near Canton, with Cleveland many miles away. And the first comedian, being the more witty of the two, and being furthermore what they call the "feeder" of the team, says he:

"What'll we do next?"

"I'll tell you—let's count the house."

They emptied their pockets and found that by squeezing a cent or two they could manage to buy a ticket to Cleveland. One ticket. They did it, and started forth—the two grown men on a single piece of pasteboard. Of course the conductor kicked.

"There's only one ticket here," he growled.

"That's mine," said one of the actors.

"You lie—it's mine," put in the other, politely.

"Well, you can't both ride on one ticket," said the con. "I'll have to put you off of the train."

"Me—me!" squealed the actors in chorus. "Put me off—go ahead and do it—I spoke first."

"Well, I can't do it here, but one of you must get off at the next station."

"But three local stations passed, and the conductor didn't come back. As a matter of fact, he never appeared until just before Cleveland was reached.

"I think somebody's a grafter," he remarked in passing, "but my orders are to take the safe side when there's a possibility of mistake. Good night. I can lick either one of you, if I ever see you again!"

Queen of Clubs.

"Ah was to a club meetin' las' night, da's w'y I's late dis mornin', Mis' Foster," explained Imogene, as she removed her outer wraps preparatory to doing a day's washing for Mrs. Foster. "Yas'm, ah had a mighty nice time an' dey lected me sekritary of de club by a total majority. Wat de name of de club? We calls oursel's 'De Circle of de Golden Fleece an' de Yaller Slipper.' Las' night was a special 'casion,' continued Imogene, beginning to sort the clothes; "we was entertainin' the members of a club call 'De Silver Star an' de Crimson Girdle.' Dere was some raight smart dressin', but I clar, Miss Foster, dere wasn' no lady present looked putter dan I done mahsef in dat gownd yo' give me wif de hellumtrops flowers on it."

Great Alaskan River.

Capt. John Baakland, with the four-masted schooner Transit, arrived at Seattle from the Arctic with news that the Kubak river, hitherto believed to be a small Arctic stream, is a mighty river, navigable for at least 300 miles from its mouth.

News of the navigability of the Kubak river was given to those on board the Transit by miners and traders, who for the first time had thoroughly explored its main reaches for a great distance inland.

While they say that it is navigable for good sized vessels for at least 300 miles, it is their opinion that any vessel which could get over the bar probably could make its way at least 500 miles up the stream.—Seattle Correspondence Portland Oregonian.

Last Sunday night there was a large congregation. The singing was good. The people seem to feel that they certainly were in a home-like church.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Waterman on Tuesday. It was the regular business and social meeting of the Epworth League. A large number were present, and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

The Ladies Aid of this church is planning to purchase a new carpet for the church. This is a move in the right direction, it will require about 250 yards.

The Marionettes or Manikins now on exhibition at the opera house are a little bit of the most bewildering, yet withal, the most interesting things that have ever come to Boyne City, and the contortions of the little automata are remarkable, and amaze as they do the way the work is done, and say the versatility of the fellow who does the vocal work is something to be proud of, too. Consternation reigns in the camp of the boozers. When the returns of the local option election were given out it was announced that Ingham county had gone wet by a safe majority, and the brewery at Lansing began repairs for beginning business May 1st, and ex-saloon keepers and others began preparations for opening joints.

Monday of last week the board of Supervisors met and canvassed the votes, and their canvass shows the county to have gone dry by a majority of twenty-three. In copying the result of the vote in the first precinct of the fifth ward of that city, the inspectors reversed the wet majority and as the figures now stand Ingham county is dry. Of course the wets are talking about a recount.

The supervisors completed their work Friday afternoon. The most important work of the session was the election of the county road commissioners, and the fixing of their compensation rate. Frank Bricker of Evangeline, Richard C. Hammett of Hayes and Herbert L. Olney of South Arm were chosen as commissioners and their salary fixed at $3.50 per day for time actually spent in the work. The old special committee on advertising consisting of Will E. Hampton, S. C. Smith, and W. A. Loveday was re-appointed by chairman Parker. The general opinion is that a better board of commissioners would have been hard to find to plow the county road system in this county. Mr. Bricker has long been a practical advocate of good roads in this section. Mr. Hammett has large business interests both in Charlevoix and Hayes; and believes thoroughly in good roads while Mr. Olney has for years been a leader in the grange and other farm organizations which means he has been a student of the movement of good roads.—Charlevoix Courier.

After the Royal Frontenac was burned a number of Frankfort citizens were arrested, charged with the theft of furniture.

Stanton Gregory Receives Fatal Apoplectic Stroke.

Our citizens were painfully shocked Friday morning when it was learned that Stanton E. Gregory had expired suddenly from a blood vessel bursting in his brain.

Mr. Gregory was in good health, Thursday, and Friday morning was busy building a fire in the kitchen stove when death suddenly claimed him.

Deceased was 58 years of age. He was born in Ohio, later lived in Allegan and has been a resident of this city for eighteen years. He leaves, besides a wife, two sons and two daughters—Roy and Harry, Mrs. W. T. Boswell and Miss Ruth—all residents of East Jordan.

Funeral services will be held from the Methodist church, Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Bennett.

Deceased was a member of North Star Tent No. 130, K. O. T. M. M.

Through the Moderator Topics, Michigan's school journal, the editor of that well known publication, Henry R. Pattengill, makes this appeal to those who participated in the recent local option contest as opponents of the saloon. Whether you won or lost in the recent skirmish don't let up for a minute. You are fighting a foe that is always at it. There is nothing to be ashamed of if each one did his best in the fight for right. Did you think you were fighting a weakling, did you suppose that decency would win in every battle of the war against evil. A temporary defeat is sometimes necessary for a greater victory later. Sure we lost some battles that we wished to win. But popular and thrifty county like Branch, Shiawassee, Isabella, Charlevoix and Oceana give emphatic majorities for prohibition of the liquor traffic. And mind you, more people voted to keep Ingham county dry than voted to make it dry two years ago. Wexford dry for two years and wet for two years, swung into line by an emphatic vote and once more banishes the saloon. Keep your nerve and your fighting blood. It is far better to lose with the drys than to win with the wets. Look the foe with a clear eye fairly to the face. We have nothing to be ashamed of if we fought fair and fought hard.

Picturesque Spring Hats

Two of the prettiest of many wide-brimmed hats are pictured here. One is a pressed shape of hemp faced with a changeable silk and bound with velvet. The crown is finished with a fold of velvet at the base. Two long uncurled single ostrich plumes repeat the two colors which are blended in the silk. It is the management of color that gives character and beauty to this simple and graceful shape. The shape of deep lavender hemp is of the right shade to harmonize with the facing of silk which is gray, blue and rose woven together. The feathers in blue-gray and rose-gray combinations seem to have been made expressly for this particular hat. The narrow binding of velvet is in deep lavender.

Another hat made of a varicolored braided (known as macre) shows the top crown covered with velvet in green (the prevailing tone in the braid) and a piping at the brim-edge of the same velvet. This is a simple model with much style. There is a graceful variation in the width of the brim, and a clever tilt, these with the slight droop convert the shape into a background for the face. The crown is low and rather small. It is a shape which can be worn by almost any one.

Clusters of small compact roses with green and bronze foliage and small buds are mounted flat to the brim at each side. This is one of several trims which look well with this shape. One will go far before finding a hat so simple and so good.

MORNING ROBES ARE DAINTY

Elaborate Ornamentation Allowed on Costumes to Be Worn at Breakfast.

Breakfast robes are being made in most ornate style with flouncings and tracings of lace, adorned with satin rosebuds. The dresses are completed by shoes to match and dainty little caps of lace adorned with flowers.

A charming version of the breakfast toilet was to be seen recently in one of the shops. The foundation of the dress was white satin, veiled with pink nylon and founced with white lace. A series of flowers caught up the lace flouncings, and the cap which went with it had a fringe of lace framing the face prettily, with clusters of flowers at the sides.

Some of the simple house frocks are filled in at the throat with folds of tulle in V shape, while others are made with high transparent collars of the tulle, edged along the top with a narrow band of satin. Satin, after tafetas, is the principal material for the house frock this season and there are charming little dresses in crepes of silky weave, trimmed with lace and satin folds.

In length the skirt of the house frock touches the ground all the way round and the sleeves are long to the wrists.

LINGERIE EFFECT

White lingerie frock with fichu and bands on bottom of tunic of filet lace, edged with white ball trimmings. Hat of white taffeta with white roses.

Baltimore Suit.

An unusual, but extremely smart color combination was seen on a Baltimore girl the other day, says the Sun of that city. Her suit was a severe model of ink-blue velvet and her bonnet-shaped hat, also of velvet, was trimmed only with an immense bow of coral satin. With it was worn a set of black furs.

PRETTY GIFT FOR TRAVELEF

Pincushions of Novel Designs Make Acceptable Tokens Between Parting Friends.

Penny dolls made of china are the foundation of cunning little pin cushions, which look like ballet-dancers at first sight, but on second glance it is discovered that in lieu of fluffy skirts they wear balls of brightly colored satin, silk, Pompadour ribbon or tinsel cloth. To dress one of these cunning dolls, wind a strip of inch-wide cotton about the trunk, from the waist over the left shoulder, back to the waist again and over the right shoulder and then tack it with stout thread. This is the basis for the fluffs of cotton-scented with sachet powder—which must be put on to form a symmetrical ball that is covered with white, soft linen and finally with the fancy silken material. When finished, the doll's hands, feet and head only are uncovered and no matter how many long pins are stuck into her, their points are scarcely likely to reach her trunk.

Pin cushions of fancy ribbon, velvet or silk of oblong shape have three plain plump corners and one that is trimmed with two square double leaves of silk which fall over both its sides and, when their baby ribbon strings are untied, reveal several inside leaves of embroidered flannel for holding needles of various sizes. At the other end of the cushion and set directly at the center of its shortest edge, are ribbon loops by which the cushion may be suspended. This is the ideal steamer or traveling pin cushion and makes a most acceptable bon voyage gift.

Lace-Edged Dollies.

In making a set of round dollies for Christmas gifts one woman made the discovery that by stitching narrow hems in the edges with a rather long machine stitch she could very easily crochet linen thread lace on the edges, catching a loop of the linen thread in each machine stitch.

A simple wreath of scattered daisies and leaves was embroidered on each linen circle, then a two-inch edge of lace, resembling torchon, was crocheted about the edge of each. The effect is wonderfully good. The work is easily done, making a charming set for gifts.

Combinations in Shoes.

White suede or glaze kid uppers are familiar on patent leathers by this time, but some of the new combinations are not. For instance, tan uppers on black, black uppers on tan white buckskin on fabric. Some of the low shoes, or the shoe part of boots with kid uppers, are of tan or black velvet or suede, stitched over with narrow silk ribbon in a diagonal effect.

DRAMATIC SCENE AT A WEDDING ALTAR

Wronged Girl With Detective Stops Marriage of Former Lover of Friend.

FROM CHURCH TO CELL

Reply to the Rector's Request to Speak Now or Forever Hold Their Peace Lifts the Lid of Startling Developments.

Philadelphia.—A dramatic incident occurred the other afternoon in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church, Fifteenth and Portar streets, when pretty Eleanor Rogan, 21 years old, of No. 3939 Wallace street, put to an unexpected end the wedding of James R. Sencenich, a marine stationed at the Philadelphia navy yard, and Ruth Myers, 20 years old, of No. 2410 South Rosewood street. The rector, Rev. Edwin F. Carson, had just asked the formal question whether any one objected to the union, when Miss Rogan stepped up the aisle and declared that the ceremony should not be continued.

Sencenich, it is said, is a friend of both young women who were formerly chums. For some time he paid attention to Miss Rogan, and there was an understanding that they should be married. His love, however, turned to the young woman's friend, Miss Myers, and the two became engaged. Later he procured a license, giving his name as James R. Hale.

Miss Rogan learned of all that was going on, and went to the Detective Bureau and later procured a warrant for the young marine's arrest. Accompanied by Detective Haley she went to the navy yard and told the commandant her story. He told her Sencenich was away on leave of absence, but he would be arrested and turned over to the police when he returned on Monday.

Miss Rogan then visited her mother, who lives in the neighborhood of 15th and Porter streets, and during her visit learned that the marine had been seen in the neighborhood during the day. She summoned Detective Haley and a further investigation resulted in the discovery that the marine and Miss Myers were to be married in the afternoon.

It was about 4 o'clock when the rector pronounced the words saying that if anyone had any reason why the marriage should not take place, to speak now or forever hold his peace. He had hardly uttered the words when Miss Rogan walked up the aisle, with the detective behind her, and told the rector that the wedding must not be consummated.

Mr. Carson took the marriage party, Miss Rogan and the detective to the vestry room, where the young woman told her story. He then handed back the marriage license to the marine, telling him that he could not continue the ceremony. When this was done the detective told the marine that he was under arrest and took him to the central police station.

On the way from the church Sergeant Marinas Laselle tried to arrest Sencenich on complaint of the government, but withdrew his request when the detective informed him that he was outside of Federal jurisdiction.

Deaf From Melon Seeds.

Williamsport, Pa.—Treating thirteen-year-old Carolina Garrison for deafness, Dr. G. D. Nutt found two watermelon seeds in the girl's right ear and one in the left. Pittsburgh, Pa.—Dominice Lapiano, assistant keeper at the Highland zoo, claims that he is able to converse with "John," a three-year-old chimpanzee, in monkey language.

The KITCHEN CABINET

To make better homes, happier families and higher ideals is the aim of household economics.

It is not the evolution which destroys machinery, but the friction.

HOUSEKEEPING DON'TS.

Don't put off the cleaning of boxes and drawers until warm days come, when being out of doors is such a pleasure. Much of the work can be done on rainy days except, of course, the airing of clothing.

House cleaning now ought to be nothing more than an extra cleaning and sweeping day. The rugs can be taken out, laid on the ground and cleaned. Never hang a heavy rug on the line, as it breaks and ruins them. Rugs should not be shaken, either, as the threads are easily broken and the fringe, if any, torn off.

Don't forget to plan the spring so that some of each day may be spent enjoying the lovely weather. If housekeepers took more recreation their work would be better, and much happier, accomplished.

Don't forget that it is much better to keep well and happy than to have the reputation of being the best housekeeper in town, valuable as that may be to you.

Don't forget to plan out your vegetable garden on paper, order the seeds and have everything ready for the busy time when gardens must be made.

Lettuce may be grown for the table at least two weeks ahead of the open ground sowing, by preparing a box set into the ground and covered with thin cheese cloth, through which the rain can penetrate. The cloth protects the tender plants at night and they grow like weeds when the sun warms them.

Don't allow your reserve shelf for hospitality to get low, as unexpected company will find you unprepared.

Don't neglect to wear a close veil when out on a windy day. Dust is a great menace to health, and many microbes lodge on grains of dust.

Don't try to prepare too elaborate a meal for company. Simple food well served is most pleasing. A roasted hostess for first course is too often seen at many tables.

INVALID COOKERY IN PAPER BAGS.

Chop up half a raw chicken, wash a tablespoonful of rice, and mix with the chicken. Add a teaspoonful of pearl barley and add with a pint of cold water. Put all into a small buttered bag and cook for an hour in a slow oven. Rice is not always tender in a specified time; the older rice is the longer it takes to cook.

Chicken Quenelles.—Take the breast of a fowl, add a pint of white sauce and a tablespoonful of butter. Pound the meat until fine, pass through a sieve, mix with an egg. Place in a basin, add a quarter of a pint of cream and stir well. Form small balls in the tablespoon, place in a well-buttered bag, lay carefully on a broiler and cook six minutes.

Mincéd Chicken.—Finely mince the breast of a chicken, add a tablespoonful of cream, the yolk of an egg and a little salt. Lay in a small bag well greased. Cook for five minutes and serve in the bag. The chicken should be accompanied with toast.

Filleted Poultry.—Mince a carrot, turnip and onion, add a little chopped ham, a pinch of sugar and salt, place in the bottom of a well buttered bag. Slice the breast of a fowl, lay the slices on the prepared vegetables, sprinkle with melted butter, seal and cook in a slow oven six minutes. The meat and vegetables are all previously cooked.

Beef Tea.—Put a pound of thick round steak in a buttered bag and cook in a hot oven for fifteen minutes. Remove and take out the meat, cut in small pieces and squeeze through a press. Season the juice and serve hot.

Sweetbreads cut and served in a white sauce, heated and served in a small paper bag is an attractive dish which will appeal to a delicate appetite.

How it fills the soul with sunshine! How it makes the heart rejoice!

CARE OF THE SICK.

When coal is needed on the fire in a sick room, wrap it in a newspaper or in a paper bag, so that it may be noiselessly placed.

It often takes real diplomacy and genius to persuade a child to take food and medicine in time of illness.

Any device, trick or plan by which the small people may be cheerfully coerced into taking the things which are necessary for their health is most welcome to any who have the care of such small charges.

If the charge is a boy and fond of soldiers, small squares of paper rolled in the form of tonts and a small flag pinned on top, will cover a dish of broth or other food and he may play at being the captain, lift the tent and partake of the dish prepared.

This game may be varied to suit circumstances and the age of the child. A child may be taught to eat if the nurse will have some of the food at the same time, each taking a spoonful out of his own dish at the same time, telling an imaginary story about the food going on a journey "down the little red lane." One mother solved the problem, giving the child toy money and she being the soda water man, selling hot drinks. Any method which will get the results without friction is desirable. The child in a happy frame of mind is much farther on the way to Wellville.

A log cabin made out of dainty strips of buttered toast will be eaten much more happily than toast cut in the usual form, served in the usual way.

A cup of steaming broth or beef tea may stand inside the log cabin and the imagination of the child will be so wrought upon that he will forget that he is eating food.

Little surprises, concealed in the tray for the good child who eats, is another inducement. A transfer picture on the bottom of a glass, which can be seen only when the contents is drunk, is another good way of accomplishing the purpose. The individuality of the child will give the nurse ideas to use if she is thinking and looking for such things.

THE UNDERSIDE OF THINGS.

There are many women who have established a reputation for good housekeepers because on the surface and things in sight were always kept neat and in order, while disorder and even fifth-night run riot in unseen cellars and out of the way places.

No room in the house needs such care as the cellar, and she who throws things into and makes a dumping ground of the cellar, closets and dark places is not deserving of the name of a "good housekeeper."

Cellars where fruits and vegetables are stored should be carefully aired and all decaying vegetables removed at once.

Be lavish in the use of lime as a cleanser; it is also an excellent disinfectant. An open box of it is an ornament in any cellar.

The average housekeeper is constantly talking about "good or bad luck" in regard to housekeeping; in cooking especially. If we turn this matter over and look at it from both sides, we will see that there is no such thing as luck. We are successful in our undertakings only as we meet and fulfill conditions, and when the conditions are not fulfilled we have what is termed "bad luck."

Coffee Cakes.—Use any sour cream cake recipe, add coffee for flavoring, and bake in small patty pans. When cool, frost with an icing colored and flavored with strong coffee.

A dainty and delicious salad for Lent is made of cottage cheese and the seasoned yolks of hard-cooked eggs put through a sieve or potato ricer. Arrange nice crisp lettuce in the form of nests, arrange a border of cottage cheese put through a ricer and in the form of a ring on the lettuce. In the center place the iced yolks, and serve with any cooked salad dressing. A very inviting salad to look at and also a most tempting one to eat is a simple lettuce sprinkled with peanuts and the tiny pearl onions. Serve with French dressing which has a bit of chopped red pepper in it.

Chilly.

A certain member of a Boston club habitually evinces such a frigid demeanor that many of his acquaintances have facetiously averred that "it gives one a cold to shake hands with him."

One evening a group at the club were discussing the disposition of the said member, when a newcomer ventured this:

"Why, gentlemen, I understand that it is the custom in this club when that chap attends a dinner here to ice the claret in order that it may be at the same temperature as the dining room."—Harper's Magazine.

Persistent Advertising Wins.

All the great advertising businesses, that now bring princely fortunes to those engaged in them, have been made what they are by unflagging continuance in this course (persistent advertising); and many could tell you that they have been often upon the point of relinquishing the system, because success did not seem immediately to favor them, but some friendly voice has persuaded them that there was a "good time coming" if they would "try a little longer." They did so, and the business to which many have walked almost penniless and encumbered with debts, now sees the proprietor come to town of a morning in his carriage, a free, wealthy, independent man.—How, When and Where to Advertise, London 1863.

PEAR ONE OF MOST LUSCIOUS FRUITS UNDER CULTIVATION

Trees, However, Are More Difficult to Maintain in Healthy Productive Condition Than Apple—Neglect in Many Instances Becomes Prime Cause of Ultimate Failure.

Budding: a, Budding knife; b, bud stick; c, lengthwise incision with cross cut at top; d, opening of bark for insertion of bud; e, removing the bud; f, inserting the bud; g, bud inserted; h, bud properly wrapped.

(By G. B. BRACKETT, United States Department of Agriculture.)

The pear has long been regarded as one of the most luscious of the many kinds of fruit brought under cultivation. The choice varieties excel most apples in rich, juicy texture and delicacy of flavor, and for both dessert and culinary purposes, either canned or in the fresh state, the pear is considered a great acquisition. With a proper selection of varieties and with careful handling and storing of the fruit its season of use may be extended from midsummer to late winter without resorting to artificial means of preservation.

Pear trees are more difficult to maintain in a healthy, productive condition than apple trees and can not be grown with the same degree of success over so wide an area of country. Such has been the uncertainty of success in growing pears in many parts of the United States that few farmers have the needed confidence to plant even the few trees necessary to provide fruit for home use. This lack of confidence too often leads to neglect, which in many instances, becomes the prime cause of ultimate failure.

The operation of budding, which must be performed during the growing season, consists in removing a bud from a twig of the desired variety and inserting it beneath the bark of the stock or young seedling which is to be changed. The inserted bud is held in place by wrapping it fast with soft cotton twine, bark, or raffia. In about ten days the bud will have united with the stock and the wrapping may be removed. Then by cutting back the stock or limb to near the inserted bud, the sap is forced into the newly transplanted bud and the growth of a new tree of the desired variety is promoted.

A budding knife and the successive stages of budding are shown in the illustration.

The main requisites for success in budding are (1) a healthy growing condition of the stock on which the work is to be done and (2) a certain state of maturity of the buds. The bark of the stock must separate freely, so that the bud may be forced under it without injury to the cambium layer of either bud or stock. The bud sticks or scions for budding should be of the current year's growth and should have well-developed buds. When the scions are taken from the tree the leaves must be cut off immediately, leaving only a short stub of the leaf stem for convenience in handling during the operation of budding. The bud sticks should be kept in fresh condition by means of damp moss or a wet cloth, and not more than one or two scions should be withdrawn from the package at a time.

Although budding may be done as early as well-developed buds can be obtained, the common practice of nurserymen is to insert the buds as late in the season as the bark of the stock will separate freely. By this method of late budding the bud is allowed to remain dormant through the following winter. In the spring the wrapping is removed and where the bud appears to be sound the top is cut back as already indicated. All buds on the stock below the one inserted should be rubbed off as they start to grow, so as to throw all the sap into the growth of the bud inserted.

It is as important with the pear as with any other kind of fruit tree that the land, whether for standards or dwarfs, be well and thoroughly prepared by plowing and stirring the soil and subsoil deeply before planting.

An excellent plan is to plow the ground for lands in the direction that will afford the best drainage, backfarrowing with a heavy plow and leaving the dead furrows where the rows of trees are to be set. It is well to break up the bottom of this dead furrow by running a subsoil plow through it two or three times, giving it a good stirring. This method affords a deeper till under the trees and allows a partial underdrainage in heavy clay subsoil, if the rows are laid out with reference to this object, and is preferable to digging holes which would form basins, that would hold water during rainy seasons, to the injury of the trees.

A good distance for planting standard pear trees is 15 by 30 feet; that is, the rows are 30 feet apart and the trees 15 feet apart in the rows. The object of this method is to obtain larger crops of fruit from the same ground until the trees become large enough to interfere with each other, then each alternate tree in the row is cut out, leaving the trees in the entire orchard at a distance of 30 feet each way. This system has the advantage of more fully utilizing the land for fruit production until the thinning out becomes necessary. Another plan is to plant the trees 20 feet apart each way. This distance will afford free circulation of air and abundance of sunlight, both of which are essential to well-developed and highly colored fruit.

USEFUL FENCE MENDING DEVICE

Illustration Shows Contrivance That Will Be Found Satisfactory—Made of Tough Wood.

For mending a wire fence the device illustrated herewith will be found very satisfactory. It consists of two sticks of tough wood, say 4 feet long, and bolted together at a point about two-thirds the length from the upper end, says the Orange Judd Farmer. A steel clamp at the upper end of each stick is fastened for holding the wire. In each of these a loose end of the wire to be mended is fastened and the legs of the device are brought toward each other until the ratchet on one leg engages with a pin on the other. Then the wire is spliced and the device released, by loosening the ratchet and the clamps.

CRITICAL TIME OF WOMAN'S LIFE

From 40 to 50 Years of Age. How It May Be Passed in Safety.

Odd, Va.—"I am enjoying better health than I have for 20 years, and I believe I can safely say now that I am a well woman. I was reared on a farm and had all kinds of heavy work to do which caused the troubles that came on me later. For five years during the Change of Life I was not able to lift a pail of water. I had hemorrhages which would last for weeks and I was not able to sit up in bed. I suffered a great deal with my back and was so nervous I could scarcely sleep at night, and I did not do any housework for three years.

"Now I can do as much work as any woman of my age in the county, thanks to the benefit I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I recommend your remedies to all suffering women."—Mrs. MARTHA L. HOLLOWAY, Odd, Va.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. We know of no other medicine which has such a record of success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for woman's ills.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

HANDS BURNED LIKE FIRE

"I can truthfully say Cuticura Remedies have cured me of four long years of eczema. About four years ago I noticed some little pimples coming on my little finger, and not giving it any attention, it soon became worse and spread all over my hands. If I would have them in water for a long time, they would burn like fire and large cracks would come. I could lay a pin in them. After using all the salves I could think of, I went to three different doctors, but all did me no good. The only relief I got was scratching.

"So after hearing so much about the wonderful Cuticura Remedies, I purchased one complete set, and after using them three days my hands were much better. Today my hands are entirely well, one set being all I used." (Signed) Miss Etta Narber, R. F. D. 2, Spring Lake, Mich., Sept. 26, 1910. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Happiness Postponed.

An awkward predicament in which a sailor bridegroom and his bride were placed in St. Mary Major's church, Exeter, Devonshire, England, recently, caused the postponement of their wedding. The barns had been duly called at the church, but when the parties presented themselves at the altar the bridegroom, who had been recently paid off from his ship at Portsmouth, was unable to produce the necessary permission from his commander. The bride swooned, and eventually returned home, while the bridegroom left for Plymouth to get the required document.

Costly Necessities.

A woman who wants alimony says her face powder costs her $400 a year. We shudder to think what she must spend for tooth paste. Or hairpins. Or shoestrings. There is one thing certain. The husband with a wife like that should deal directly with the factories and cut out the middleman.

Spendthrift.

Uncle Ezra—Do you think the money young Eph Hoskins made down in New York will last him long? Uncle Eben—You bet it won't! He's going at an awful pace. I was down in the general store last night, and young Eph was writing $100 checks and lighting his cigars with them.—Puck.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can suffer the heart agony she endures. The woman who knows her weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

HIS UNKNOWN GOOD POINTS

Widow Found It Hard to Reconcile Eulogy With Her Knowledge of Dead Husband.

An old Irishman who had made a good deal of money, but who wasn't very particular about his habits or conduct, lived in Chicago. His custom was to go downtown about once a month on a spree, and then come back home and beat up his family and break the furniture. His aged wife, who had stood him for many years, was blind.

Finally he died, and his children gave him a fine funeral. They had plenty of money now that the old man was dead, and so they spread themselves. At the church there was elaborate eulogy. The blind widow was dissolved in woe. She cried and cried all through the services, paying scant heed to what was going on until the eulogy was pronounced. She listened. The priest referred to the dead man in glowing terms. After about ten minutes of this the aged widow nudged her son and whispered: "Danny, do they be havin' two funerals here today?"—Saturday Evening Post.

Possibly Willing to Assist at It.

At a little party John T. McCutcheon consented to do a little impromptu talk, with the presidential possibilities for his subject. McCutcheon had made several hits. One of the party, chuckling, leaned over to another, a Democrat. "Pretty good, isn't it?" he asked. "What do you think of his execution?" "I think it would be a darned good thing," replied the Democrat.

"The Only Thing That Will Relieve Neuralgia."

The piercing pains of Neuralgia, which often follows a bad cold or La Grippe, are frequently almost unbearable and few medicines afford any relief to the sufferer.

I am a rural mail carrier and have been a user of the Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for years.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills can't be beaten. They are the only thing I have found that will relieve my neuralgia and I have tried most everything, besides medicine from the doctor. I am willing to tell anyone what the Anti-Pain Pills did for me."

CHARLES HILDEBRANDT, Box 205 Woodville, Ohio

If you, like Mr. Hildebrandt, "have tried most everything" in vain, why not do as he did, fight your aches and pains with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. Let the pills bear the brunt of the battle. No matter how stubborn the contest, they will come out victorious.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills stand on their record, which is a long list of cures extending back a generation.

Druggists everywhere sell them. If first package fails to benefit, your druggist will return your money. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Strong Men Are Wanted.

Men and money are what Western Michigan wants today, honest, intelligent, industrious men and more capital. The region needs the men worse than it needs the money, for with strong men the wonderful natural resources can quickly be converted into the silver and gold of trade. Men are needed who are willing to clear the fertile acres, sow the seed, cultivate the growing crops, gather and market the harvest, and with the profits build comfortable homes, improve the roads, enlarge the school houses, churches and grange halls, and take a sufficient part in the intellectual, social, and political life of the day to be an essential factor in the onward march of civilization.

An All-Around Newspaper.

It is generally conceded that The Chicago Record-Herald is pre-eminently the great family newspaper of the Central West. What has given it this favored position in the home? The explanation will be found, not in any single feature, but in the all-around excellence of all its departments, so that it appeals alike to men and women, young and old, gay and serious—the whole family.

The superior news gathering facilities and high-class literary features of The Record-Herald have been the main factors in its wonderful success. Besides the full service of the Associated Press, it receives the foreign cable service of the New York World and Herald. It has its own leased wires to New York and Washington—also special correspondents in all the large cities of the East.

The Chicago Record-Herald has its own special correspondents in every town of the Central West, who report all important news by telegraph. Complete and reliable market reports and financial news can always be found in its columns, with all other news of the business world. Its sporting department also is the best.

But man and woman cannot live by news alone. The true distinction of The Chicago Record-Herald comes with what it gives over and above the news—in such features as L. E. Kiser's daily column of humor, George Fitch's witty essays, Arthur M. Evans' travel articles, Ralph Wulder's clever cartoons, besides serial stories by noted authors, etc. Its criticisms of the drama, music and books are unsurpassed by any in the country. Choicest of all these extra features is the Sunday Magazine of The Record-Herald, a real magazine, full of good stories and pictures by the best living authors and artists—a feast of entertainment for the whole family. The Chicago Record-Herald has earned its pre-eminence by solid all-around excellence.

The growth of cities and towns in general and the steady increase in the urbanization of the people is the most important factor in increasing the beer and the liquor trade. This declaration is made in the report of the board of trustees of the United States Brewers Association. The saloon and brewery pretense that increasing favor for local option and the spread of "dry" territory had led to an increase of the consumption of liquor is not even hinted at in the Brewers' Association report. But increase in the growth of cities and the activity of the liquor traffic in greedily occupying every available nook and corner in the cities and communities where their business is permitted has led to whatever increase in the liquor trade can be legitimately claimed. The Chicago Vice Commission in its report fully confirms the admission made by the directors of the United States Brewers Association. The Vice Commission report says that in the worst sections of the city hundreds of saloons are doing a thriving business where less than twenty were located a few years ago. Poverty, squalor, and misery have been increased in proportion to the increase in the number of saloons and crimes have become so frequent as to create an imperative demand for investigation and some sort of immediate repressive measures. It was never believed by even the brewers or saloonists themselves that their trade found any hope of existence through the spread of dry territory, and the statement of the directors of the United States Brewers Association which fully agrees with the report of the Chicago Vice Commission is thoroughly conclusive in explication of any increase to the consumption of liquor. The latter burden is entirely laid upon the rapidly growing cities and upon the unfortunate sections of such cities where they find most fertile material and opportunity for the infection their business creates and increases.

I have Fruit Lands, Lake Shore Farms, Improved Farms and City Property in all parts of Charlevoix County to sell or trade. Also farms and business chances anywhere in United States. JOEL JOHNSTON

REV. CHAS. SAGER SAYS
Mr. C. A. ABBOTT August 22, 1905
Dear Sir, I have known for over 40 years of the effects of Wilson's Remedy (Wilson's Preparation of Hypophosphites and Biotin) in cases of pulmonary trouble. At the point I will say to you what you have not before known of; that 42 years since, while I was a resident of N. Y. City, I was severely ill with lung trouble. Physicians said I was a consumptive and my family physician told my wife that he thought I could not recover. My attention was directed to the Wilson Remedy, which I used with splendid effect. I have been on my feet and at work ever since my cure. Yours truly,

A MOTHER'S CARE

A careful mother will not give her child a medicine without knowing it is pure, contains no opiates, and has healing and curative qualities. Such a medicine is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, and all affections of the throat, chest, and lungs. Best and safest for children and grown persons. Contains no opiates. Hites Drug Store.

Kicking at a bill is an unsatisfactory way to foot.

A man with a high aim in life seldom carries a gun.

Birth is an accident from which some men never recover.

One way to not please a woman is to let her do as she pleases.

Some people love to tell the truth when they think it will hurt.

You know how your neighbor ought to live, but can you show him?

The woman who suffers in silence usually manages to make a lot of noise about it.

Only a fool ever attempts to convince a man that he isn't as clever as he thinks he is.

Don't allow yourself to be carried away by enthusiasm—unless you have a return ticket.

Every woman loves to talk, but it isn't every man who can induce her to say what he wants her to say.

A Harvard professor has just discovered that women talk too much. However, a lot of old stuff has been worked off as new this year.

The Country Gentleman, published in Philadelphia, urges all fruit growers to keep bees in their orchards in the spring of the year to assist in securing a thorough fertilization of the blossoms. Fertilization accomplishes two things: First, it ensures a large number of fertile fruit buds, and second, it enables the buds to stand a lower temperature at the time of the late spring frosts.

The Hotel Hodges of Pontiac is advertised for sale. Chattel mortgages claims on the property to the amount of $5,068.33 shows that the place has been doing a losing business. The Hotel Hodges is the property in behalf of which pathetic appeals were made two years ago for the return of the saloon to Pontiac, in order that it might not become a bankrupt. The saloons were returned to Pontiac but it was necessary just the same to cover the beds and bureaus and the fixtures of the hotel with chattel mortgages in order to keep it in existence. Had Pontiac been "dry" during the past two years the present business demoralization of the Hotel Hodges would have been pointed to as a striking result of local option. It is possible that the business loss accompanying the saloons in Pontiac during the past two years, as illustrated in part by the Hotel Hodges, will assist in explaining why the "wet" majority in Pontiac was decreased by 371 votes at the recent election as compared with the wet majority of two years ago.

SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS

NEED IT.

The demulcent properties of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound make it especially effective for hoarseness, tickling in throat, and inflamed vocal chords. It is a valuable aid to singers and public speakers. Chas. Boyle, the famous Irish tenor of Saginaw, Mich., says he has used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for years and would not think of filling an engagement without it. He always carries a bottle in his grip or suit case. Hites Drug Store.
