

Charlevoix County Herald.

Vol. 17

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1913.

No. 5

Only One Case

Of Divorce on February Circuit Court Docket.

Some East Jordan People Seek Citizenship.

Circuit court convenes next Monday at Charlevoix in regular February session. The calendar is much shorter than usual and probably will be disposed of in short order. The only change made in court officials will be in clerk, Richard Lewis again assuming his old place behind the desk. The calendar follows:

APPLICATION FOR CITIZENSHIP
Paul Robert Schelle; John Allan Auld; Robert James Madill; Meyer Max Cohen; James Wellington Wyers; Abraham Herman Kling; Reinhold Edward Deltz; Joseph William Riedel; Hiram Rosenthal; William Hardt; Judson Kennard Garrie; Joseph R. Cooper.

CRIMINAL.
People vs. Herman L. Swift, gross indecent liberties with a male person, three cases.

People vs. Andrew Mazur, violation of liquor law, four cases.

People vs. Stetzel, violation of liquor law.

People vs. John Patterson, assault to do great bodily harm, less than the crime of murder.

People vs. Charles Hittgas, cruelty to animals.

People vs. George Kling, violation of liquor law.

People vs. Charles Wheaton, assault to do great bodily harm, less than the crime of murder.

People vs. Meiza Brown, desertion.

ISSUE OF FACT AND LAW.

East Jordan Electric Light and Power Co. vs. East Jordan Gas and Electric Co., assumpsit.

H. A. Jersey vs. City of Boyne City, trespass.

George E. Nichols vs. City of Boyne City, trespass on the case.

Philip O. Moore, by his next friend Elizabeth Moore vs. Boyne City, Gaylord & Alpena Railroad Co., trespass on the case.

Axel Anderson vs. The Boyne City Chemical Co., trespass.

Charles G. Bush vs. Wisconsin Chair Co., assumpsit.

Nichols, Butlers & Bridge vs. William Richardson principal defendant, West Michigan Sugar Co., garnishee defendant, appeal garnishment.

CHANCERY.

Auditor General vs. Delinquent Tax Payers, petition.

First National Bank of Boyne City vs. William Selirik, et al, foreclosure.

Christen Neilsen vs. Christian Neilsen, divorce.

Commits Suicide.

Saturday afternoon Grant W. Richert of Charlevoix, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid.

The facts in the case seem to be as follows: Richert has been absent for several weeks in different cities south of here working at his trade carpentry. While in an intoxicated condition he forged some papers. Friday night he came, and with the fear of his apprehension in his mind took the poison Saturday, leaving a note behind explaining his act.

Coroner Wilkinson was called but in view of the above, decided an inquest was unnecessary.

L. O. O. M. Resolutions.

Whereas it has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to call from his labors on earth our brother Richard F. Steffen, therefore be it,

Resolved, that while we humbly bow to the will of Him who doeth all things well that we will ever cherish in our hearts the memory of our departed brother who was a true and loyal Moose, ever exemplifying in his daily life the principles of aid and protection to the weak upon which our order is founded, and be it further,

Resolved that in his memory our altar be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days, that these resolutions be engrossed upon our minutes and a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

ALBERT BLOSSIE
HENRY DEWITT
JOHN WHITEFORD Com.

The political candidate who "also ran" is unable to see wherein the world is growing wiser.

The Y. M. C. A. Supplementary Agency.

The primary agencies for development in any community are the home, the church and the school. To these three agencies is intrusted the training of the coming citizens. And the Y. M. C. A., no matter how efficient its work, cannot take the place of any one of these established institutions but it can and does supplement the work of all three.

It supplements the work of the home in a number of ways depending entirely on just where the home fails to function properly. Where the home is lax in teaching spiritual things the Association enters, the boys of that home in some branch of Bible Study and aids them in applying the truth to conditions as they find them in life. Rather than dwell too long upon the things they cannot do we prefer to lay emphasis upon the things they can do and create within the boys a desire to do these very things. If the father because of long working hours imposed upon him, by maladjustment of industry or because of long working hours self imposed owing to an overmastering desire to see certain things come to pass, fails to be chum to his boy we try to do the "chumming" that the father should do and realize that we are far from filling the need. Knowing that the homes fail almost entirely to teach anything regarding sex hygiene the Association arranges to secure the services of experts who can do this satisfactorily. Often failures on the part of the parents to fully understand their boys or on the part of the boys to fully understand their parents have been adjusted by secretaries and the disastrous results of broken homes averted.

Realizing the importance of education not because it increases the boys power to earn more money but because it increases his power to serve we aim to cooperate with the schools in stimulating the interest of the boys in things educational. Not only do we aim to assist the boy while he is attending high school in the county but we follow him after he leaves the county for college and attempt to look him up with the Association in the college. It is very seldom that a young man leaves one of the organized counties for college and does not find when he arrives there that the news of his coming has preceded him and the local association officers are ready to assist him in getting located and if he is interested in finding work to defray a part of his college expenses their assistance is valuable.

Young men leaving their homes to work in large cities, to join the army or navy or to visit a foreign country can be provided with letters of introduction that will prove of untold value. The secretaries are notified in advance that a certain person has been given a letter of introduction and in case it is not presented within a reasonable length of time to take steps to locate the young man and render him any assistance possible. This assures a young man getting opportunity to line up with things that are right in his new location and he is made to feel the personal interest of somebody who comes to him at a time when he is deprived of the intimate friends of his home town.

The cooperation between the churches and the Association takes the form of leadership training and the enlistment of the services of more men in the work of the Kingdom. The matter of aiding to increase the attendance of the boys at Sunday School and finally relating them to the church as active members is a definite policy of the Y. M. C. A. Besides cooperating with the above named agencies the Y. M. C. A. stands ready to cooperate with any organization which has for its object better temporal and spiritual conditions in the county, the state or the nation.

To the Electors of East Jordan.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination of Mayor of East Jordan, subject to the approval of the voters at the City primary, to be held March 24, 1913, and it humbly and elected will give my best endeavors to perform the duties with care, and in a manner satisfactory to the people.

A. E. CROSS.
Dated, Jan. 28, 1913.

Bad luck is commonly the result of bad judgment.

Republican Co. Convention.

To the Republican Electors of Charlevoix County:

Notice is hereby given that a republican county convention will be held at the court house in the City of Charlevoix on Thursday, February 6, 1913, 10:30 a. m. for the purpose of electing nine delegates to represent said county in the republican state convention, called to meet in the Gladner Theatre, in the City of Lansing, Michigan, on Tuesday, February 11, 1913, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention. The several townships and wards will be entitled to delegates in the convention as follows:

Bay 2, Chandler 4, Charlevoix 1, Evangeline 1, Eveline 3, Hayes 3, Hudson 2, Marjot 1, Melrose 3, Newfoundland 1, Peaine 2, St. James 2, South Arm 3, Wilson 3.

Charlevoix, 1st ward 2; 2nd ward 4; 3rd ward 4. Boyne City, 1st ward 3; 2nd ward 3; 3rd ward 5. East Jordan 1st ward, 2; 2nd ward 2; 3rd ward 4. Dated, January 17, 1913.

E. L. STANFORD
Secretary Republican Co. Com.
W. J. PEARSON
Chairman Republican Co. Com.

Making Seed Contracts.

The Everett B. Clark Seed Co. are contracting for growing of beans for the coming season. Full contract price paid for every bushel of merchantable beans, nothing deducted from price for handpicking. Your seed is charged up at the contract price, not at the market price. Call at their office or address.

A. E. CROSS, SUP'T
East Jordan, Mich.

Special Assessment Notice.

The second installment of taxes on Sewer District number one is now due and should be paid at this office at once.

C. C. MACK,
City Treasurer.

A mother is firmly convinced that the baby loves her, more than it loves its father—merely because it cries for her when it is hungry.

An old bachelor says it takes more than a porous plaster to relieve the generated by observing a 200 pound girl trying to act cute.

One of the hardest blows that the saloon business has received since the beginning of its downward and outward movement, in response to public demand, was the editorial declaration recently made by the Chicago American that there would never be another whiskey advertisement printed in that paper. The editorial declared that this step had been determined on because the Chicago American felt that it had no right to encourage the use of anything that is a curse to the country and has caused more misery than any other vice in the world. Referring to the loss to the paper which its refusal of whiskey advertisements would involve, The Chicago American editorially stated, "that even were the amount involved many times $50,000 per year it could not afford to be untrue to its obligations to its readers. And it further declared that 'having concluded that the advertising of whiskey is not legitimate business we herewith drop it. If our contemporaries find additional profit in this act of ours it is a matter between them and their own consciences—with their readers as referees. The Chicago American will never publish another whiskey advertisement.'

EAST JORDAN DRUGGIST DESERVES PRAISE.

J. Gidley deserves praise from East Jordan people for introducing here the simple buckthorn bark and glycerine mixture, known as Adler-Ka. This simple German remedy first became famous by curing appendicitis and it has now been discovered that A SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY.

W. S. Skelton, a merchant at Stanley, Ind., says he would not take $100.00 for the relief a single box of Foley Kidney pills gave him. I had a severe attack of kidney trouble with sharp pains through my back and could hardly straighten up. A single box of Foley Kidney pills entirely relieved me." HITES DRUG STORE.

New Supply of REXALL Remedies

We have just received a new shipment of Rexall Remedies and can now supply your wants.

A FEW OF THE LEADERS:

Rexall Orderlies, 10, 25 and 50 cent sizes.
Rexall Liver Salts, 25c, 50c
Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets
Rexall "93" Hair Tonic
Rexall Catarrh Jelly
Rexall Grippe Pills
Rexall Cold Tablets
Rexall Cherry Bark Cough Syrup

The Above are only a few of these valuable remedies. Remember, we guarantee every remedy.

Ask our customers who have used them.

W. C. SPRING DRUG CO.

When Burton Holmes recently gave his celebrated travelogue on "Panama" at Orchestra Hall, Chicago, he was seriously interrupted by continual coughing of the audience. No one among the multitude and it people with coughs, colds, hoarseness and tickling in throat would use Foley's Honey & Tar Compound, they could quickly cure their coughs and colds and avoid this annoyance. HITES DRUG STORE.

THE SEASON FOR BUCKWHEAT CAKES

IS HERE AGAIN. This year's crop is of fine quality and we are making the same old-fashioned Stone Ground Absolutely Pure Flour.

It's Got the Flavor.

Don't let your dealer substitute any of the mixed compounds that the Pure Food Law still allows; insist on the PURE STONE GROUND—it is cheaper in the end. Made by

The ARGO MILLING CO.

At Mill B, East Jordan.

East Jordan Planing Mills Co.,

B. E. WATERMAN, Manager.

Custom Planing Mill.

Manufacturers and Dealers in Doors, Windows and Glass, Siding, Ceiling and Flooring Mouldings, Turned Work, and Scroll Sawing.

FINISHED LUMBER, FRAMES, CASINGS

Burpee, Philadelphia, is sufficient for the front of a post card. If you will write your own address plainly on the other side we shall be pleased to send THE LEADING AMERICAN SEED CATALOG, an elegant book of 150 pages, which should be read by all who would have the best garden possible and who are willing to pay a fair price for seeds of the Burpee-Quality

FRED E. BOOSINGER

It Is Not Too Late To Come In Now.

Our supply is complete of the well-known Ideal Clothing Company's

Workingman's Clothing

Lot 81 1-2; Our Big Special Overall at $1.00

Double Sliding Buckle	Suspenders 1 1/2 inches wide	Big Apron
Safety Spring Loops	Sliding Cross Over	Elastic Web 1 1/2 x 6 inches
Combination Pocket	Two Button Openings	Full Waist Measure
Lined Curved Pants Fly	Lined Buckle Straps and Heavy Buckle	Suspender Buttonholes sewed in 3ply heavy denim
Deep Swing Pockets	Two Big Hip Pockets	Reinforced Crotch
Extra-Roomy Seat	Two-Seam Legs	Rule Pocket
Brass Buttons	Big Legs, same width at shoe as at knee

The above is only one of the many thoroughly reliable things we are offering in Men's Clothing.

Oak Serge

(Reg. U. S. Patent office). Positively the best Serge in the world for ladies' dresses and men's suits. Sponged and shrunk. Guaranteed all wool. This Suiting by the yard sells at $1.35 per yard, and in Suits at $16.50 to $18.00.

Beautiful New Laces and Embroideries. Dress Goods and Trimmings. The New Season's First Arrivals.

"QUALITY FIRST OF ALL."

FRED E. BOOSINGER

CHAUFFEURS MUST NOT SMOKE.

The municipal authorities in Berlin have issued an order forbidding chauffeurs to smoke while in charge of automobiles. The order applies not only to chauffeurs driving taxicabs, but also to anybody, prince or peasant, who steers an automobile. It is based upon the contention that smoking diverts the attention of drivers and has caused many accidents. There is more governing in Germany than in any other country, and this decree will be considered an extreme manifestation of interference with private affairs. But it may get results in the way of reducing the total number of accidents. If it does it will be enforced regardless of whether it is popular. American observers of the use and abuse of automobiles will feel, however, that it is vastly more important to forbid persons to drive automobiles after having drunk intoxicants than while smoking cigarettes or cigars, says the Louisville Courier-Journal. The man at the wheel who "feels his oats" is a really dangerous factor in the somewhat difficult problem of running at the maximum speed possible upon the roads provided and killing only a small number of the persons who subject themselves to the risks of the road.

It can not be truthfully asserted that the appalling list of deaths due to aviation has been wholly in the interests of science. Men who have fallen to their death while experimenting in the field of aviation are entitled to all the credit due to men who risk life in the interests of scientific research. But a majority of the victims have met death while exhibiting themselves to the public, not as scientists but as showmen. In response to a morbid demand of the public for new thrills they have taken long chances for a price, not for the joy of discovery. Their deaths are due to the same cause that impels death-defying feats under canvas. The general public wants to be thrilled. Americans deprecate the bull fight, and have put the prize fight under the ban. But, after all, isn't it just as bad to demand that men shall risk death in order to supply the thrill, as it is to demand the blood of bulls or to delight in seeing two human animals, trained to the limits of physical perfection, pummel each other to a pulp under the glare of electric lights in a roped in arena?

At the first menace of war, Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria sent to Paris on a secret mission one of the most faithful members of his staff. This personage was charged, not as one might think, with diplomatic negotiations with M. Poincare, nor with our great Parisian financiers, but to buy in one of our most important magazine novelties, banners for the protection of the precious body of his majesty during the rigors of the campaign. But events came on with such rapidity that this commissioner was urgently recalled and obliged to resign his post before he was able to complete his purchases. Therefore, he left his wife at Paris, charged to fulfill the delicate mission with which he had been intrusted. Thanks to the intelligent activity of this lady the imperial package was at last sent without delay to Sofia. These are French banners and will permit the Czar Ferdinand to meet the rigors of a winter campaign without running the risk of catching cold.

Wheat exports from the United States in 1912, will materially exceed those of recent years. The record of the ten months now available in the Statistical Division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce indicates that the wheat exports of the full year will exceed one hundred million bushels, against eighty-three million in 1911 and sixty-two million in 1910. The total for the ten months ended with October is seventy-six and a quarter million bushels, against sixty-seven and three quarter million in the corresponding months of last year. This increase occurred chiefly in the new crop.

We deem it quite doubtful whether the alleged farmeress who perpetrated the epigram that the farmer who has the fattest hogs usually has the leanest wife, is a real farmeress. Else she would know that the farmer's wife has charge of sending the waste food to the hogs and can intercept any item of the hog's menu to which she may take a fancy.

Reading the news that Harvard has engaged her football coach, Haughton, for a term of years at $10,000 a year, several mere teachers in science, language or philosophy may wish that they had turned their attention to something really educational.

In New York it is proposed that boxing be taught in schools. Pistol practice would be much more practical, as well as trekking and ambuscading.

Curbing Ambition

Boys Seldom Finish Trade Education

By A. E. WINSHIP

IT MUST be admitted that there is a skillfully promoted and amply financed "movement" for curbing the ambition of the children of the poor. There is certainly no "movement" to vocationalize the children of the rich and cultured, and there is no public demand for specially vocationalizing the public schools for any class. Everything in that direction is artificial.

An enterprising American city of 300,000 population has an elegant fourfold trade school for boys of fourteen and upwards, on which it is spending by state law about one-seventh as much as upon the education of the other tens of thousands of children, paying the expert trade school superintendent and providing him with specialized heads of the trades. The school superintendent, the school board, all the papers of the city, the employers and the labor unions are in sympathy with the experiment. It has had several years of enthusiastic promotion, but up to date they have never found one hundred boys for all of these school-shops in any year. About a fourth of these have to be told after a time that they can never learn the trade selected, and another fourth get tired of it early and drop out. There is slight prospect that they will ever graduate, as worthy and well qualified, fifty boys a year in all the shops for plumbing, carpentering, iron working and pattern making. The "movement" is interesting, but the demand is not a tidal wave.

In a great industrial state a memorial trade school was established and attendance was promoted to the limit. It brought forth as applicants one lad who was willing to learn the bricklayer's trade, three consented to learn carpentering and some others would like to be electrical engineers.

A man of vast wealth, believing that the "movement" was a demand, left a fortune for a marvelously complete technical institution, where they not only provide free tuition and free material but free board and clothes for four years, so that a young man can have a good trade wholly without expense, and the absence of any tremendous enthusiasm for learning the ordinary trades is interesting.

Some years ago the "movement" was brilliantly (?) launched in Massachusetts by the appointment of an industrial education commission, upon which the state was reduced to expend about $100,000, and it promised to pay one-half of the entire expense of any sort of trade school or school thereof, by day or by night, and after an elaborate three years' campaign of speech making and banqueting prominent citizens and expensive lobbying in many cities and towns they did not succeed in starting anything anywhere with the suspicion of a trade-idea in it.

"Real causes?" Well, the time has not come to tell all that is known of the "real causes." They may fool all the people a little while, they can fool some people a long time, but I refuse to believe that they will fool all the people all the time.

I am suspicious of the devotion to the children of the poor of any man, or of any interest that has been willing to sacrifice the children of the poor to the greed of mill and factory and has never had a voice to raise against the crime of child labor.

It is said in private conferences and at the banquets of the elect that the children of the poor ought not to be allowed to go to school for themselves the higher lines of industrial life.

Straws may not show where the "real causes" come from, and again they may. It was entirely easy under existing conditions to make this school a place to curb a poor boy's ambition. Here the "real causes" are in sight. Sometime the "real causes" may cease to fool the people.

A. E. Winship

Quality That Will Count Among Boys

By William Held, M. D., Chicago

Complaint is made that American boys do not stand at attention and remove their hats when the American flag is displayed and the national anthem rendered. It seems to me that we have enough of such meaningless, silly display of so-called patriotism. Unless the American boy has a good reason to be proud of his country, be it on account of the protection which the government affords its citizens as to life, property and liberty, or for other reasons, such a display must appear senseless.

Uncovering the head does not make for better men. It is a sham. In theaters one can notice the hysterical shouts of the horde when the flag is displayed. Is this patriotism?

If young America were made to understand the lack of fair-mindedness, the prevalence of dishonesty, the brutal cruelty to which the aged are subjected, the nation-wide plundering of the people by some of their paid officers, if our boys could be made to see and abhor all American trickery, then, if these boys could be brought to work for a betterment of conditions, for the implanting of honesty, integrity and justice, such a patriotism would be worth while.

Let us work to that end and forget the fetishism demonstrated when the national anthem is sung.

Let us first pledge our boys to work toward producing conditions of which every American shall have reason to be proud. Then let us uncover our heads to the flag that flies over such a country!

Many Wonders Of Our Modern Surgery

By Dr. C. WALDO GUNBY, San Francisco

Surgery already does things that to a past age would have seemed miracles, but there is ground for believing that still greater triumphs in that line are to come. The young French surgeon, Carel, has shown the possibilities of replacing lost portions of the human frame through his experiments on dumb animals, and some startling results have been attained. If these things are demonstrated in the case of brutes it is logical to assert they can be done with the human subject.

It is too early to say just yet how far the thing may be carried, but it is not visionary to prophesy that a new hand, a new foot, or even a new leg may be conferred on one who has lost a member. An employee of a railway company gets in an accident, his foot is smashed and it is necessary to amputate. Hidden away somewhere, let us say, is the foot of a felon who for some capital offense had suffered electrocution.

The surgeon of the future will fit the preserved foot by proper attachments to the limb of the railroader, and in due course of time he will have as sound a pedal extremity as ever in his life.

MAY BE HELPFUL TO COOK

Some Hints as to the Best Methods of Preparing Food for the Household.

When fish of unpronounced flavor is to be boiled it is improved by the addition of vinegar to the water. If the fish is inclined to be tasteless half a pint of vinegar to an ordinary kettle of water will not be too much.

An old New England housekeeper has a cupful of rich, hot cream ready to stir into the baked beans when they come from the oven and before they go to the table.

Creamed toast in one family is prepared in this way: The bread is toasted and kept hot in a covered dish. Then a white sauce is made in the usual proportion of a cupful of rich milk or cream to a tablespoonful each of butter and flour, with salt to season. At the last, when the sauce is thick, two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese are stirred in, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and a dash of paprika. It is poured over the toast.

To prepare a rice omelet as one cook does it, make a white sauce with a cupful of milk and two level tablespoonfuls each of cornstarch and butter. Stir in three well-beaten yolks and a cupful of hot boiled rice. Fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of three eggs, season with paprika and a trace of nutmeg, and cook in the regular omelet pan. Serve with red currant jelly.

RIGHT WAY TO PULL CANDY

Confection May Easily Be Made Tough If It Is Wrongly Handled—The Flavouring.

Here is a recipe that pulls well when rightly done.

Molasses Candy.—One cup of molasses, three cups of sugar, one cup of water, one cup of vinegar. When boiled up, one-half cup of melted butter. When done take off the stove and put one-half even teaspoon of soda in and stir briskly, turn at once in a greased pan, with the sugar and butter into the center as it cools. When ready to handle altogether, proceed as above. Test in the usual way when done. Drop a little in cold water, and when brittle it is done.

Home Helps.

To clean lacquered brass wash in hot water, using soap if necessary. Polishes should be applied to unlacquered brass only.

Folded newspapers should be kept handy in the kitchen, and these placed under pots and kettles. If this is done every day when the pans are taken from the stove no grease spots will mar the kitchen table.

Avoid open shelves in a kitchen, as the dust soon gathers there. A wide window shade is splendid to keep out the dust, and far more sanitary than a curtain.

Croquettes to be fried in deep fat should stand for 15 minutes in the warm kitchen before being cooked. This will help the browning process.

Bunny Sandwiches.

Sandwiches attractively served are always appetizing, and for a gathering of little folks they should be novel in form. These are cut in the shape of rabbits; the bread, thinly sliced, is cut into shape by the use of a cardboard pattern. Half the number cut are spread with a chocolate-and-nut filling, and then topped with the remaining bunnies.

A bit of melted chocolate is then dropped on to simulate an eye. Any other animal shape may be used instead of the bunny, and the same idea may be applied to any odd-shaped sandwiches that you can cut out with a knife or a cutter.—Harper's Bazar.

Date Cake.

One cup brown sugar, one cup shortening, one-half cup warm water, two cups rolled oats, two and one-half cups flour, one tablespoonful soda.

Filling.—Stone one pound of dates and cook with one-half cup water and one cup granulated sugar until soft. Spread dough in thin layer on bottom of pan, then spread with the date mixture and cover with another thin layer of the dough. When baked, cut in three-inch squares.

To Clean Mica.

To clean the darkened sheets of mica in your coal heater, await a time when the fire is out, or very low. Then sponge them off with a soft piece of sponge dipped in diluted vinegar. If the black does not come off at once let it soak a little. Touch very gently as they break easily. Even though badly smoked they will become quite clear by this treatment if a little patient care is given. Let them dry gently before exposing to the heat of the fire.

Mock Rabbit.

Mix pound of raw chopped beef and as much lean veal, also chopped, with four eggs, one cup breadcrumbs, a little salt, pepper, nutmeg, parsley, thyme and a spoon of onion juice. Beat all well and shape on a dish into an oval loaf. Cover with eggs and breadcrumbs; put in a pan lined with slices of pork; bake it in oven while baking it. Bake forty minutes. Serve hot or cold in slices.

Grape Sauce.

Squeeze the pulp from the skins of grapes, then cook the pulp and strain so as to get the seeds out, then put back on the stove, put in sugar, cinnamon, clove and mace and the skins, cook all together, put in a little water. This recipe is made wholly by taste as regards quantity. It is very nice with meats.

Splendid French Cloak

The splendid and gorgeous fashions brought out this season can only be worn to best advantage when they fall about and encase the figure. They have proven an inspiration to designers. Fabrics have for years indeed outdistanced styles. When we look at these marvels from the loom we realize that they are fit for goddesses to wear.

Perhaps, for this very reason, cloaks are long but full. Materials are so supple that they incline to fall to the figure and to aid them they are provided with little weights where needed.

A superb coat of satin and a gold brocaded fabric is shown here. It is worn with muff and hat of chinchilla and an ostrich neck ruff.

The dress under the coat is of satin and chiffon. It appears to be something between a paillard and regimote style. Again the lightness and suppleness of the fabrics make possible the mixed design. It is not so beautiful as the coat but has many interesting features, like the queer shaped sleeves and pointed collar and the long lines of button ornaments.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

HAVE WIDE CHOICE IN COATS

Not for Many Years Has There Been Such a Large and Excellent Variety from Which to Select.

Certain short draped coats of supple fur rounding away in the front are launched by extremists, who are pushing the petting silhouette, but they are by no means graceful even for the slender woman, and are not likely to be taken seriously by the women in this country.

Some Russian coats of half length or longer button up the left front, close on the left shoulder, and have high, close collars finished at the top by a narrow band of contrasting fur. A model of this type usually is loosely belted or girdled across the back, if not all around, and the model, while good-looking if well worn, is becoming only to the exceptional woman.

Many of the new fur coats are made without collars for greater convenience in the wearing of separate neck furs. Linings are often of the handsome brocades, and in some of the most luxurious garments these linings are so rich in themselves that they add greatly to the cost of the coat.

WINTER MILLINERY

Most appropriate for this season of the year, becoming dark colors have precedence in millinery. In the velours, browns and similar fabrics which are so much used, the darker colors are always most beautiful. These are frequently accentuated and relieved from too extreme somberness by a touch of white. The hat in the drawing has a charmingly rolled brim of unexaggerated lines; but with the modish extension of brim of the side. This hat is of black velvet, with high square crown, against which a beautiful breast and wings of white stands out in bold relief. Two supplementary wings increase the length of the sides.

Novel Cord Bag.

A cord bag can be made quickly at small expense. Make it so as to easily hold an ordinary ball of twine. Gather at the bottom and sew around a brass ring, so that cord can pass through. Put a drawstring in top of bag and arrange a loop to hang the bag up by. Trim top with bow of ribbon.—Harper's Bazar.

Collar Braid.

When the lining next to the collar of your wrap begins to show signs of wear, get a few inches of wide silk military braid, matching the color, and sew it neatly over the worn part. By pulling a thread at the edge, the braid will be perfectly smooth and the garment will not look patched.—Good Housekeeping.

The STOLEN SINGER

by MARTNA BELLINGER

COPYRIGHT 1911 THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

Agatha Redmond, opera singer, starting for an auto drive in New York, finds a stranger sent as her chauffeur. She is annoyed, but he remains. Leaving the car, she goes into the park to read the will of an old friend of her mother, who has left her property. There she is accosted by a stranger, who follows her to the auto, climbs in and chloroforms her. James Hambleton of Lynn, Mass., member of an old New England family, decides he needs a holiday. He goes to New York and there witnesses the abduction of Agatha Redmond. Hambleton sees Agatha forcibly taken aboard a yacht. He secures a tug and when near the yacht drops overboard. Aleck Van Camp, friend of Hambleton, had an appointment with him. Not meeting Hambleton, he makes a call upon friends, Madame and Miss Melanie Reynier. With the latter, Van Camp is very much in love.

CHAPTER IV.—Continued.

"I think my proposition a prior one," he remarked with dogged precision; "but, of course, Miss Reynier must decide." He recovered his temper enough to add, quite pleasantly, considering the circumstances, "Unless Madame Reynier will take my part?" turning to the older woman.

"Oh, no, not fair," shouted Jones. "Madame Reynier's always on my side. Aren't you, Madame?"

Madame Reynier smiled inscrutably. "I'm always on the side of virtue in distress," she said.

"That's me, then, isn't it? The way you're abusing me, Mademoiselle, listening here to Van Camp all the evening!"

But Melanie, tired, perhaps, of being patiently tactful, settled the matter. "I can't go to luncheon with anybody tomorrow," she protested. "I've had a touch of that arch-enemy, indigestion, you see; and I can't do anything but my prescribed exercises, nor drink anything but distilled water."

"Nor eat anything but food? We know," cried the irrepressible Jones. "But the Little Gray Fox has a special diet for just such cases as yours do come!"

"Heavens! Then I don't want to go there!" groaned Aleck.

Melanie gave Jones her hand, half in thanks and half in farewell. "No, thank you, not tomorrow, but sometime soon; perhaps Thursday. Will that do?" she smiled. Then, as Jones was discontentedly lounging about the door, she did a pretty thing. Turning from the door, she stood with face averted from everybody except Van Camp, and for an instant her eyes met his in a friendly, half-humorous but wholly non-committal glance. His eyes held hers in a look that was like an embrace.

"I will see you soon," she said quietly.

Van Camp said good-night to Jones at the corner, after they had walked together in silence for half a block.

"Good-night, Van Camp," said Jones; then he added cordially, "By the way, I'm going back next week in my private car to watch the opening of the Liza Lu, and I'd be mighty glad if you'd go along. Anything else to do?"

"Thanks—extremely; but I'm going on a cruise."

Aleck entered the plousty exclusive hall of the club his good nature came to his aid. He wondered whether he hadn't scored something, after all.

CHAPTER V.

Melanie's Dreams.

Midnight and the relaxation of slumber could subtract nothing from the high-browed dignity of the club officials, and the message that was waiting for Mr. Van Camp was delivered in the most correct manner. "Mr. Hambleton sends word to Mr. Van Camp that he has gone away on the Jeanne D'Arc. Mr. Hambleton may not be back for some time, and requests Mr. Van Camp to look after the Sea Gull."

"Very well, thank you," replied Aleck, rather absent-mindedly. He was unable to see immediately, just what change in his own plans this sudden turn of Jim's would cause; and he was for the moment too deeply preoccupied with his own personal affairs to speculate much about it. His thoughts went back to the events of the evening, recalled the picture of his Diana and her teasing ways, and dwelt especially upon the honest, friendly, wholly bewitching look that had flown to him at the end of the evening. Absurd as his own attempt at a declaration had been, he somehow felt that he himself was not absurd in Melanie's eyes, though he was far from certain whether she was inclined to marry him.

Aleck, on his part, had not come to his decision suddenly or impulsively; nor, having arrived there, was he to be turned from it easily. True as it was that he sincerely and affectionately desired Melanie Reynier for a wife, yet on the whole he was a very cool Romeo. He was manly, but he was calculating; he was honorably disposed toward matrimony, but he was not reborn with love. And so, in the sober bedroom of the club, he quickly fell into the good sleep induced by fatigue and healthy nerves.

Morning brought counsel and a disposition to renew operations. A note was dispatched to his Diana by a private messenger, and the boy was bidden to wait for an answer. It came presently:

"Come at twelve, if you wish."

"MELANIE REYNIER."

Aleck smiled with satisfaction. Here was a wise venture going through happily, he hoped. He was pleased that she had named the very hour, he had asked for the night before. That was like her good, frank way of meeting a situation, and it augured well for the unknown emergencies of their future life. He had little patience with timidity and traditional coyness in women, and great admiration for an open and fearless spirit. Melanie's note almost set his heart thumping.

But not quite; and no one understood the cool nature of that organ better than Melanie herself. The ladies in the apartment at the Archangel had lingered at their breakfast, the austerity of which had been mitigated by a center decoration of orchids and fern, fresh-touched with dew; or so Madame Reynier had described them to Melanie, as she brought them to her with the card of Mr. Lloyd-Jones. Miss Reynier, smiling faintly, admired the blossoms and turned away.

The ladies usually spoke French with each other, though occasionally Madame Reynier dropped into the harsher speech of her native country. On this morning she did this, telling Melanie, for the tenth time in as many days, that in her opinion they ought to be going home. Madame considered this her duty, and felt no real responsibility after the statement was made. Nevertheless, she was glad to find Melanie disposed to discuss the matter a little further.

"Do you wish to go home, Auntie, or is it that you think I ought to go?"

"I don't wish to go without you, child, you know that; and I am very comfortable here. But his Highness, your cousin, is very impatient; I see that in every letter from Krolvets. You offended him deeply by putting off your marriage to Count Lorenzo, and every day now deepens his indignation against you. I don't like to discuss these things, Melanie, but I suspect that your action deprives him of a very necessary revenue; and I understand, better than you do, to what lengths your cousin is capable of going when he is displeased. You are, by the law of your country, his ward until you marry. Would it not be better to submit to him in friendship, rather than to incur his enmity? After all, he is your next of kin, the head of your family, and a very powerful man. If we are going home at all, we ought to go now."

"But suppose we should decide not to go home at all?"

"You will have to go some time, dear child. You are all alone, except for me, and in the nature of things you can't have me always. Now that you are young, you think it an easy thing to break away from the ties of blood and birth; but believe me, it isn't easy. You, with your nature, could never do it. The call of the land is strong, and the time will come when you will long to go home, long to go back to the land where your father led his soldiers, and where your mother was admired and loved."

Madame Reynier paused and watched her niece, who, with eyes cast down, was toying with her spoon. Suddenly a crimson flush rose and spread over Melanie's cheeks and forehead and neck, and when she looked up into Madame Reynier's face, she was gazing through unshed tears. She rose quickly, came round to the older woman's chair and kissed her cheek affectionately.

"Dear Auntie, you are very good to me, and patient, too. It's all true, I suppose; but the prospect of home and Count Lorenzo together—ah, well!" she smiled reassuringly and again caressed Madame Reynier's gaunt old face. "I'll think it all over, Auntie, dear."

Madame Reynier followed Melanie into her sitting-room, bringing the precious orchids in her two hands, fearful lest the fragile vase should fall. Melanie regarded them a moment, and then said she thought they would do better in the drawing-room. "I sometimes think the little garden pink quite as pretty as an orchid."

"They aren't so much in Mr. Lloyd-Jones' style as these," replied Madame Reynier. She had a faculty of commenting pleasantly without the least hint of criticism. This remark delighted Melanie.

"No; I should never picture Mr. Lloyd-Jones as a garden pink. But then, Auntie, you remember how eloquent he was about the hills and the stars. That speech did not at all indicate a hothouse nature."

"Nevertheless, I think his sentiments have been cultivated, like his orchids."

"Not a bad achievement," said Melanie.

There was an interval of silence, while the younger woman stood looking out of the window and Madame Reynier cut the leaves of a French journal. She did not read, however, and presently she broke the silence.

"I don't remember that Mr. Van Camp ever sent orchids to you."

"Mr. Van Camp never gave me any kind of flower. He thinks flowers are the most intimate of all gifts, and should only be exchanged between sweethearts. At least, I heard him expound some such theory years ago, when we first knew him."

Madame smiled—a significant smile, if any one had been looking. Nothing further was said until Melanie unexpectedly shot straight to the mark with:

"How do you think he would do, Auntie, in place of Count Lorenzo?"

Madame Reynier showed no surprise. "He is a sterling man; but your cousin would never consent to it."

"And if I should not consult my cousin?"

"My dear Melanie, that would entail many embarrassing consequences; and embarrassments are worse than crimes."

Melanie could laugh at that, and did. "I've already answered a note from Mr. Van Camp this morning, Auntie. No, don't worry," she playfully answered a sudden anxious look that came upon her aunt's countenance. "I've not said 'yes' to him. But he's coming to see me at twelve. If I don't give him a chance to say what he has to say, he'll take one anywhere. He's capable of proposing on the street-cars. Besides, I have something else to say to him."

"Well, my dear, you know best; certainly I think you know best," was Madame Reynier's last word.

Mr. Van Camp arrived on the stroke of twelve, an expression of happiness on his lean, quizzical face.

"I'm supposed to be starting on a cruise," he told Melanie, "but luck is with me. My cousin hasn't turned up—or rather he turned up only to disappear instantly. Otherwise he would have dragged me off to catch the first off-time with me hanging back like an anchor-chain."

"Is your cousin, then, such a tyrant?"

"Oh, yes; he's a masterful man, is Jimmy."

"And how did he disappear instantly?" "It sounds mysterious."

"It is mysterious, but Jim can take care of himself; at least, I hope he can. The message said he had sailed on the Jeanne D'Arc, whatever that is, and that I was to look after our hired yacht, the Sea Gull."

Melanie looked up, startled. "The Jeanne D'Arc, was it?" she cried. "Are you sure? But, of course—there must be many boats, by that name, are there not? But did he say nothing more—where he was going, and why he changed his plans?"

"No, not a word more than that. Why? Do you know of a boat named the Jeanne D'Arc?"

"Yes, very well; but it can not matter. It must be another vessel, surely. Meanwhile, what are you going to do without your companion?"

Aleck rose from the slender gilt chair where, as usual, he had perched himself, walked to the window and thrust his hands into his pockets for a contemplative moment, then he turned and came to a stand squarely before Melanie, looking down on her with his quizzical, honest eyes.

"That depends, Melanie," he said slowly, "upon whether you are going to marry me or not."

For a second or two Melanie's eyes refused to lift; but Aleck's firm-planted figure, his steady gaze, above all, his dominating will, forced her to look up. There he was, smiling, strong, big, kindly. Melanie started to smile, but for the second time that morning her eyes unexpectedly filled with tears.

"I can't talk to you towering over me like that," she said at last softly, her smile winning against the tears. Aleck did not move. "I don't want you to talk to me about it; all I want is for you to say 'yes.'"

"But I'm not going to say 'yes'; at least, I don't think I am. Do sit down."

Aleck started straight for the gilt chair.

"Oh, no; not that! You are four times too big for that chair. Besides, it's quite valuable; it's a Louis Quinze."

Aleck indulged in a vicious kick at the ridiculous thing, picked up an enormous leather-bottomed chair made apparently of lead, and placed it jauntily almost beside Miss Reynier's chair, but facing the other way.

"This is much better, thank you," he said. "Now tell me why you think you're not going to say 'yes' to me."

Melanie's mood of softness had not left her; but sitting there, face to face with this man, face to face with his seriousness, his masculine will and strength, she felt that she had something yet to struggle for, some deep personal right to be acknowledged. It was with a dignity, an aloofness, that was quite real, yet very sweet, that she met this American lover. He had her hand in his firm grasp, but he was waiting for her to speak. He was giving her the hearing that was, in his opinion, her right.

"In the first place," Melanie began, "you ought to know more about me—who I am, and all that sort of thing. I am, in one sense, not at all what I seem to be; and that, in the case of marriage, is a dangerous thing."

"It is an important thing, at least."

But I do know who you are; I knew long ago. Since you never referred to the matter, of course I never did. You are the Princess Auguste Stephanie of Krolvets, cousin of the present Duke Stephen, called King-of-Krolvets. You are even in line for the throne, though there are two or three lives between you. You have incurred the displeasure of Duke Stephen and are practically an exile from your country."

"A voluntary exile," Melanie corrected.

"Voluntary only in the sense that you prefer exile to absolute submission to the duke. There is no alternative, if you return."

Melanie was silent. Aleck lifted the hand which he held, touched it gently with his lips and laid it back beside its fellow on Melanie's lap. Then he rose and lifted both hands before her, half in fun and half in earnestness, as if he were a courtier doing reverence to his queen.

"See, your Highness, how ready I am to do your homage! Only smile on the most devoted of your servants."

Melanie could not resist his gentle gaiety. It was as if they were two children playing at a story. Aleck, in such a mood as this, was as much fun as a dancing bear, and in five minutes more he had won peals of laughter from Melanie. It was what he wanted to brighten her spirits. So presently he came back to the big chair, though he did not again take her hand.

"I knew you were titled and important, Melanie, and at first I thought that sealed my case entirely. But you seemed to forget your state, seemed not to care so very much about it; and perhaps that made me think it was possible for us both to forget it, or at least to ignore it. I haven't a gold throne to give you; but you're the only woman I've ever wanted to marry, and I wasn't going to give up the chance until you said so."

"Do you know also that if I marry out of my rank and without the consent of Duke Stephen, I shall forfeit all my fortune?"

"Cut off without a cent!" Aleck laughed, but presently paused, embarrassed for the first time since he had begun his speech. "You know, haven't millions, but there's a decent income, even for two. And then I can always go to work and earn something," he smiled at her, "giving information to a thirsty world about the gilt-slit, as you call it. It would be fun, earning money for you; I'd like to do it."

Melanie smiled back at him, but left her chair and wandered uneasily about the room, as if turning a difficult matter over in her mind. Aleck stood by, watching. Presently she returned to her chair, pushed him gently back into his seat and dropped down beside him. Before she spoke, she touched her fingers lightly, almost lovingly, along the blue veins of his big hand lying on the arm of the chair. The hand turned, like a magnet spring, and imprisoned hers.

"No, dear friend, not yet," said Melanie, drawing away her hand, yet not very quickly, after all. "There is much yet to say to you, and I have been wondering how to say it, but I shall do it now. Like the heroes in the novels," she smiled again. "I am going to tell you the story of my life."

"Good!" said Aleck. "All ready for chapter one. But your maid wants you at the door."

"Go away, Sophie," said Melanie. "Serré luncheon to Madame Reynier alone. I shall wait; and you'll have to wait, too, poor man!" She looked scrutinizingly at Aleck. "Or are you, perhaps, hungry? I'm not going to talk to a hungry man," she announced.

"Not a bite till I've heard chapter thirty-nine!" said Aleck.

In a moment she became serious again. "I have lived in England and here in America," she began, "long enough to understand that the differences between your people and mine are more than the differences of language and climate; they are ingrained in our habits of thought, our education, our judgment of life and of people. My childhood and youth were wholly different from yours, or from what an American girl's would be; and yet I think I understand your American women, though I suppose I am not in the least like them."

"But I, on the other hand, have seen the dark side of life, and particularly of marriage. When I was a child I was more important in my own country than I am now, since it seemed then that my father would succeed to the throne. I was brought up to feel that I was not a woman, but a pawn in the game of politics. When I had been out of the convent for a year or more, I loved a youth, and was loved in return, but our marriage was laughed at, put aside, declared impossible, because he was of a rank inferior to my own. My lover disappeared; I know not where or how. Then affairs changed. My father died, and it transpired that I had been of ficially betrothed since childhood to Duke Stephen's brother, the Count Lorenzo. The duke was my guardian, and there was no one else to whom I could appeal; but the very week set for the wedding I faced the duke and declared I would never marry the count. His Highness raged and stormed, but I told him a few things I knew about his brother, and I made him see that I was in earnest. The next day I left Krolvets, and the duke gave out that I was ill and had gone to a health resort; that the wedding was postponed. I went to France and hid myself with my aunt, took one of my own middle names and her surname, and have been known for some time, as you know, as Melanie Reynier."

"I know you wish to tell me all these things, Melanie, but I do not want you to recall painful matters of the past now," said Aleck gently. "You shall tell me of them at another time."

The color brightened in Melanie's face, her eyes glowed.

"No, not another time; you must understand now, especially because all this preface leads me to what I really want to say to you. It is this: I do not now care for the man I loved at nineteen, nor for any of the other men of my country who have been pleased to honor me with their regard. But ever since those early days I have had a dream of a home—a place different from Duke Stephen's home, different from the homes of many people of my rank. My dream has a husband in it, who is a companion, a friend, my equal in love, my superior in strength." Melanie's eyes lifted to meet Aleck's, and they were full of an almost tragic passion; but it was a passion for comprehension and love, not primarily for the man sitting before her. She added simply: "And for my dream I'd give all the wealth, all the love, I have."

The room was very still. Aleck Van Camp sat quiet and grave, his forehead resting on his hand. He looked up, finally, at Melanie, who was beside him, pale and quiet worn.

"Poor child! You needed me more than I thought!" was what he said. But Melanie had not quite finished. "No, that is not enough, that I should need you. You must also need me, want what I alone can give you, match my love with yours. And this, I think, you do not do. You calculate, you remain cool, you plan your life like a campaign, and I am part of your equipment. You are a thousand times better than Count Lorenzo, but I think your principles of reasoning are the same. You do not love me enough, and that is why I can not say 'yes.'"

Aleck had taken this last blow standing. He walked slowly around and stood before Melanie, much as he had stood before her when he first asked her to marry him; and this time, as he looked down on her fairness, there was infinite gentleness and patience and love in his eyes. He bent over, lifted Melanie's two hands, and drew her bodily out of her seat. She was impassive. Her quick alertness, her vitality, her passionate seriousness, had slipped away. Aleck put his arms around her very tenderly and kissed her lips; not a lover's kiss exactly, and yet nothing else. Then he looked into her face.

"But I'm not going to say 'yes'; at least, I don't think I am. Do sit down."

Aleck started straight for the gilt chair.

"Oh, no; not that! You are four times too big for that chair. Besides, it's quite valuable; it's a Louis Quinze."

Aleck indulged in a vicious kick at the ridiculous thing, picked up an enormous leather-bottomed chair made apparently of lead, and placed it jauntily almost beside Miss Reynier's chair, but facing the other way.

"This is much better, thank you," he said. "Now tell me why you think you're not going to say 'yes' to me."

Melanie's mood of softness had not left her; but sitting there, face to face with this man, face to face with his seriousness, his masculine will and strength, she felt that she had something yet to struggle for, some deep personal right to be acknowledged. It was with a dignity, an aloofness, that was quite real, yet very sweet, that she met this American lover. He had her hand in his firm grasp, but he was waiting for her to speak. He was giving her the hearing that was, in his opinion, her right.

"In the first place," Melanie began, "you ought to know more about me—who I am, and all that sort of thing. I am, in one sense, not at all what I seem to be; and that, in the case of marriage, is a dangerous thing."

"It is an important thing, at least."

But I do know who you are; I knew long ago. Since you never referred to the matter, of course I never did. You are the Princess Auguste Stephanie of Krolvets, cousin of the present Duke Stephen, called King-of-Krolvets. You are even in line for the throne, though there are two or three lives between you. You have incurred the displeasure of Duke Stephen and are practically an exile from your country."

"A voluntary exile," Melanie corrected.

"Voluntary only in the sense that you prefer exile to absolute submission to the duke. There is no alternative, if you return."

Melanie was silent. Aleck lifted the hand which he held, touched it gently with his lips and laid it back beside its fellow on Melanie's lap. Then he rose and lifted both hands before her, half in fun and half in earnestness, as if he were a courtier doing reverence to his queen.

"See, your Highness, how ready I am to do your homage! Only smile on the most devoted of your servants."

Melanie could not resist his gentle gaiety. It was as if they were two children playing at a story. Aleck, in such a mood as this, was as much fun as a dancing bear, and in five minutes more he had won peals of laughter from Melanie. It was what he wanted to brighten her spirits. So presently he came back to the big chair, though he did not again take her hand.

"I knew you were titled and important, Melanie, and at first I thought that sealed my case entirely. But you seemed to forget your state, seemed not to care so very much about it; and perhaps that made me think it was possible for us both to forget it, or at least to ignore it. I haven't a gold throne to give you; but you're the only woman I've ever wanted to marry, and I wasn't going to give up the chance until you said so."

"Do you know also that if I marry out of my rank and without the consent of Duke Stephen, I shall forfeit all my fortune?"

"Cut off without a cent!" Aleck laughed, but presently paused, embarrassed for the first time since he had begun his speech. "You know, haven't millions, but there's a decent income, even for two. And then I can always go to work and earn something," he smiled at her, "giving information to a thirsty world about the gilt-slit, as you call it. It would be fun, earning money for you; I'd like to do it."

Melanie smiled back at him, but left her chair and wandered uneasily about the room, as if turning a difficult matter over in her mind. Aleck stood by, watching. Presently she returned to her chair, pushed him gently back into his seat and dropped down beside him. Before she spoke, she touched her fingers lightly, almost lovingly, along the blue veins of his big hand lying on the arm of the chair. The hand turned, like a magnet spring, and imprisoned hers.

"No, dear friend, not yet," said Melanie, drawing away her hand, yet not very quickly, after all. "There is much yet to say to you, and I have been wondering how to say it, but I shall do it now. Like the heroes in the novels," she smiled again. "I am going to tell you the story of my life."

"Good!" said Aleck. "All ready for chapter one. But your maid wants you at the door."

"Go away, Sophie," said Melanie. "Serré luncheon to Madame Reynier alone. I shall wait; and you'll have to wait, too, poor man!" She looked scrutinizingly at Aleck. "Or are you, perhaps, hungry? I'm not going to talk to a hungry man," she announced.

"Not a bite till I've heard chapter thirty-nine!" said Aleck.

In a moment she became serious again. "I have lived in England and here in America," she began, "long enough to understand that the differences between your people and mine are more than the differences of language and climate; they are ingrained in our habits of thought, our education, our judgment of life and of people. My childhood and youth were wholly different from yours, or from what an American girl's would be; and yet I think I understand your American women, though I suppose I am not in the least like them."

"But I, on the other hand, have seen the dark side of life, and particularly of marriage. When I was a child I was more important in my own country than I am now, since it seemed then that my father would succeed to the throne. I was brought up to feel that I was not a woman, but a pawn in the game of politics. When I had been out of the convent for a year or more, I loved a youth, and was loved in return, but our marriage was laughed at, put aside, declared impossible, because he was of a rank inferior to my own. My lover disappeared; I know not where or how. Then affairs changed. My father died, and it transpired that I had been of ficially betrothed since childhood to Duke Stephen's brother, the Count Lorenzo. The duke was my guardian, and there was no one else to whom I could appeal; but the very week set for the wedding I faced the duke and declared I would never marry the count. His Highness raged and stormed, but I told him a few things I knew about his brother, and I made him see that I was in earnest. The next day I left Krolvets, and the duke gave out that I was ill and had gone to a health resort; that the wedding was postponed. I went to France and hid myself with my aunt, took one of my own middle names and her surname, and have been known for some time, as you know, as Melanie Reynier."

"I know you wish to tell me all these things, Melanie, but I do not want you to recall painful matters of the past now," said Aleck gently. "You shall tell me of them at another time."

The color brightened in Melanie's face, her eyes glowed.

"No, not another time; you must understand now, especially because all this preface leads me to what I really want to say to you. It is this: I do not now care for the man I loved at nineteen, nor for any of the other men of my country who have been pleased to honor me with their regard. But ever since those early days I have had a dream of a home—a place different from Duke Stephen's home, different from the homes of many people of my rank. My dream has a husband in it, who is a companion, a friend, my equal in love, my superior in strength." Melanie's eyes lifted to meet Aleck's, and they were full of an almost tragic passion; but it was a passion for comprehension and love, not primarily for the man sitting before her. She added simply: "And for my dream I'd give all the wealth, all the love, I have."

The room was very still. Aleck Van Camp sat quiet and grave, his forehead resting on his hand. He looked up, finally, at Melanie, who was beside him, pale and quiet worn.

"Poor child! You needed me more than I thought!" was what he said. But Melanie had not quite finished. "No, that is not enough, that I should need you. You must also need me, want what I alone can give you, match my love with yours. And this, I think, you do not do. You calculate, you remain cool, you plan your life like a campaign, and I am part of your equipment. You are a thousand times better than Count Lorenzo, but I think your principles of reasoning are the same. You do not love me enough, and that is why I can not say 'yes.'"

Aleck had taken this last blow standing. He walked slowly around and stood before Melanie, much as he had stood before her when he first asked her to marry him; and this time, as he looked down on her fairness, there was infinite gentleness and patience and love in his eyes. He bent over, lifted Melanie's two hands, and drew her bodily out of her seat. She was impassive. Her quick alertness, her vitality, her passionate seriousness, had slipped away. Aleck put his arms around her very tenderly and kissed her lips; not a lover's kiss exactly, and yet nothing else. Then he looked into her face.

GET THIS FOR COLDS
Prescription for Positive Results
Don't Experiment.

From your druggist get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Globe Fine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake well. Take one to two teaspoonsful after each meal and at bed time. Smaller doses to children according to age. This is said to be the quickest cough and cold cure known to the medical profession. Be sure to get only the genuine Globe-Fine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Each half ounce bottle comes in a tin screw-top sealed case. If your druggist is out of stock he will quickly get it from his wholesale house. Don't fool with uncertain mixtures. It is risky. Local druggists say that for the past six years this has had a wonderful demand. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.

TOLD HER LIFE'S AMBITION

Small Girl Somewhat Crudely Expressed Her Desire to Be a Teacher When She Grew Up.

At one time or another during the ward school life of a little girl there prevails the ambition to become a teacher. Perhaps it is the indisputable authority possessed by the hand that wields the rules or the nonchallant display of wisdom on topics surrounded by the most inaccessible difficulties to the small boy and girl. They will nearly always tell their ambitions to a well liked teacher, and one rather surprising declaration was given by a little maid in one of Miss Clara Townsend's rooms before she became principal of the James school.

Among the special favors coveted by the youngsters is the permission to stay behind after school and clean the blackboards. One evening a little girl was given the desired privilege, and while engaged in the task she struck up a shy sort of conversation with Miss Townsend. Finally the usual confession was made.

"When I grow up, I am going to be a teacher," she announced.

"That so?" pleasantly asked Miss Townsend. "And why do you want to be a teacher?"

"Well," was the rather surprising answer, "I'll have to be either a teacher or a lady; and I would rather be a teacher."—Indianapolis News.

Shopper's Cramp.
Simeon Ford, at a dinner of hotel men in New York, discussed a new disease.

"There's a new disease called shopper's cramp," he said "it appears early in December, becomes violent epidemic about the middle of the month and ends suddenly on the evening of the 24th."

"Women feel shopper's cramp in the arms, the limbs, everywhere; but it attacks the husband only in one place—the pocket."

Balanced.
Representative Pujo was talking in Washington about the currency.

"It must balance," he said. "It must balance automatically and delicately. It must resemble the Christmas husband."

"Oh, John, dear," said this chap's wife, "I'm so sorry you've got all those heavy parcels to carry!"

"Well, you see, John panted, reassuringly, 'my pocket is very much lighter now.'"

To Defeat Winter Ills

START NOW

Susceptibility to colds, sore throats, tonsillitis and such, indicate impoverished vitality—lack of reserve strength to weather changing seasons.

A spoonful of SCOTT'S EMULSION after each meal starts healthy body-action like a small match kindles a great fire—and more: it makes rich, healthy, active blood—fortifies the tissues and stimulates the appetite—it makes sound body-strength.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is the purest cod liver oil, made cream-like and palatable without alcohol or drug—the quintessence of purity.

Reject imitations they are impostors for profit.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Bloomfield, N. J. 12-58

Conductor S. L. Miller, Norfolk, Nebr., on Bonesteel Division of U. & N. W. Ry. Co. recommends Foley Kidney Pills and says: "I have used Foley Kidney Pills with very satisfactory results and endorse their use for any one afflicted with kidney trouble. They are all right." Higgs Drug Store

HELP

For The Housewife
"A Shine In Every Drop"

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY HERALD

G. A. Lisk, Publisher

ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR

Entered at the postoffice at East Jordan Michigan, as second class mail matter.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 25, 1913.

The man who is always harping about every man having his price is usually willing to sell out cheap.

The illustrated lecture, "Western Michigan, the Land of Fruit and Fortune," will be given as one of the numbers in the lecture course at Fremont, Friday evening February 7th.

For years Kalkaska has maintained a night watch. The village has no saloons to cause trouble, disturbances are few and arrests seldom made. Hence the action by the council—doing away with the night watch. Just let three or four saloons open their doors in our sister village and see how long it will be before it will again be necessary to assume the expense.—Elk Rapids Progress.

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Helme says the housewives who buy "sausage with cereal" are paying $3.00 a ton for cornmeal that is worth $30 a ton and that they are paying 15 cents for a pint of water. An analysis of sausage samples, showed that a widely sold brand contained 45 per cent of water, 20 per cent of corn flour 3 per cent of spices and 32 per cent of moisture free meat. Squator Mutha has introduced a pure sausage bill that will prevent the adulteration of sausage with cereal and water.

A "Good Roads Convention" on wheels is being planned for the coming summer. The convention is to start at the Indiana state line and roll northward in autos on the West Michigan Lake Shore Highway to the States of Mackinac, where the big meeting will be held. As each county seat is reached in the northward journey the road officials and supervisors of that county will be expected to join the procession. On the return journey the representatives of each county will drop out as their county is reached.

St. Joseph's Church

Rev. Timothy Kroboth.

Sunday February 2, 10:30 high mass. Blessing of candles.
Monday February 3, 8:00 a. m. Mass and blessing of throats.
Wednesday February 6 Ash Wednesday. 8:00 a. m. mass and distribution of ashes.
Friday February 10, First Friday 8:00 a. m. mass
7:00 p. m. stations of the cross and benediction.
7:30 p. m. meeting of Holy Name Society.

Presbyterian Church Notes

Rev. A. D. Grigby, Pastor.

"Is it possible to find out anything for certain as to life in Heaven?" will be the theme next Sunday morning in the Presbyterian church. So many of our friends are leaving us, and we would be glad to know something of their new home.

The pastor will preach and will be glad to meet a large number of interested persons. The readers of this are earnestly invited.

Excellent congregations last Sunday notwithstanding the stormy weather.

Instead of the usual order of service Young Peoples Day will be celebrated Sunday evening with an attractive and appropriate program in the Presbyterian church. The young people will take charge, and the pastor will take a back seat. Everybody invited to come and enjoy the program, and encourage those who take part.

A good attendance at Sunday school last Sunday and the superintendent is glad to welcome strangers and does his best to make them feel at home.

In consequence of the special service in the evening, the usual Y. F. S. C. E. meeting will be omitted.

Trusting to luck keeps a lazy man busy.

Women laugh with wise men and at a fool.

Whether a thing is right or wrong depends upon who does it—you or the other fellow.

First Methodist Episcopal Church

Rev. T. Porter Bennett, Pastor.

10:30 "What are you doing?" will be the subject that the pastor will take for the morning sermon. You are not invited but you are wanted. College, 11:45 Sunday School: The largest Sunday School in the city. Wide awake plans, we want you to attend. 6:15 Epworth League: Mr. Allan Finney, leader.

7:00 Evangelistic service, subject, "Procrastination and its results." Large crowds have been in attendance, over thirty have surrendered themselves to God. The pastor conducted a children's meeting on Wednesday afternoon and there were 140 present. Will you help us in this great work?

The meetings at the noon hour in the mills in the city were, very successful. The pastor is invited to come often. Remember this church stands for the persons that work.

Christian Science Church Notes.

Services will be held in the Christian Science Rooms over Post Office Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Subject of the sermon "Love." Sunday School is held immediately after services. You are cordially invited to attend.

PULPWOOD WANTED.

Spruce and Balsam Bolts, E. F. WILSON, 602 Baringer Bldg. Saginaw, Michigan.

Anyway, the wise man is less of a fool than the average.

Any man who isn't thankful for what he gets has occasion to be thankful for what he doesn't get.

A class in agriculture for real farmers is being organized by Supt. A. H. Clark of the Kingsley, Western Michigan, public school. The class will meet each Monday evening, commencing with the first Monday in February, and take up such problems as and be most profitably considered, Supt. Clark donates his time for the good of the cause. This is probably the first school of its kind in the state.

Dissolution Notice

East Jordan, Mich., Jan. 24, 1913

To ALL CONCERNED—The co-partnership known as Squier Morris Co., Room 2, Post Office Block, is this day dissolved by mutual consent. All accounts due the firm are payable to W. P. Squier, and all claims against the firm will be paid by him.

W. P. SQUIER
M. R. MORRIS

Matrimony may be loves undertaker. Two can live almost as expensively as one.

A woman's headaches are natural; a man's are usually acquired.

Women have few bad habits because of their funny ideas of what fun is.

Every time you tell your troubles you are wasting the other fellow's time.

The only people who keep all of their promises are those who never make any.

If a man can't blame any one else for his troubles he can at least drive himself to drink.

Sol Goldfarb of Elk Rapids, Antrim county, writing from Boulder, Colo., says in a recent letter: "I am convinced that the Michigan farmer is much better off than the farmer further west. Am sure that rain from the clouds brings better success than rain from the ditch. As for product, I know that there is nothing to compare with Michigan fruit or potatoes."

F. E. Walling, a farmer living near Yukon, Mo., strongly recommends Foley's Honey & Tar Compound and says "I have been advised by my family doctor to use Foley's Honey & Tar Compound for my children when there was a cough medicine needed. It always gives the best of satisfaction and I recommend it to others."

GROCERIES.

A few specials in Groceries for next week.

20 lbs. Sugar, $1.00 10 lbs. Oatmeal, 25c
7 bars Oak Leaf Soap, 25c 7 bars Queen Anne 25c
7 bars Swifts Pride, 25c 7 bars Am. Pride, 25c
8 bars Acme, 25c.

Our Meat Department we handle nothing but the best of native and Chicago meats. If you are looking for nice juicy Steak or Roast, give us your order and see if we can't please you.

JAMES MILFORD

GREATEST UNLOADING

SALE

The Sale you have waited the past two weeks for.

MEANS DOLLAR

Store Closed all day Tuesday, February 4th to mark down goods and re-arrange stock.

SAVINGS FOR YOU

Doors open promptly at 8:30 Wednesday a. m. and everything will be in readiness for this Unloading Sale.

SALE STARTS WEDNESDAY, FEB'Y 5TH

THE time has come when factories and wholesale concerns are unloading at great sacrifice, and we bought great bargains during this stupendous unloading of fresh, new this Fall and Winter Merchandise, and will offer it in combine with our own Fall and Winter this year's goods at prices never heard of before. This is not an ordinary Quarter-Off or Clearance Sale.

We will positively offer you goods at one-half off and in some instances even greater reductions—ALL GREAT BARGAINS. This is a money-raising sale; profits will be forgotten.

MAMMOTH SALE BILLS Will Be Circulated Today.

Here are a few of the Matchless Bargains:

- Women's Fleeced Underwear, Vests only, sale price per garment 12½c
- Canvas Gloves, 40 dozen Men's 10c Canvas Gloves, 1c per pair; limit 5 pair to customer.
- Bath Towels, 10c values, good quality, at 5c each; limit 3 to customer.
- Outing Flannel. Good quality Outing at 2c yard; no limit.
- Towels, 30 dozen white fringe Towels at 1c each; limit 5 to customer.
- Handkerchiefs, Ladies' and Misses' white Hdks 2c white fancy emb. Hdks 3c.
- Ladies' Elastic Belts, with fancy buckles at 9c.
- Nickle Safety Pins, all sizes, sale price per dozen 1c. Common Pins 1c per paper.
- Ribbons. 250 bolts of Silk Ribbons, assorted colors, up to "100" in width; none reserved. Unloading Sale price 8c per yard.
- Men's and Boys' Clothing and Furnishings, Shoes, Rubbers, at ½ off; in some instances lower.

Madison Block Main street East Jordan.

THE LEADER

H. Rosenthal, Proprietor

Briefs of the Week

The Russell Hopes has added a fine new bus to its equipment for the benefit of its traveling patrons.

The East Jordan City Basketball team defeated the Mancelona City team by a score of 32 to 13 at the town hall Wednesday evening.

Alexander McCoy, aged about 77 years, died at the County Farm, Wednesday. Short funeral services were held Friday afternoon with interment in the East Jordan cemetery.

Rev. T. Porter Bennett, who has been giving the addresses at the mills to the men will speak upon the subject of Mortgaging the Future at the theatre next Sunday afternoon.

The Detroit News Tribune of Friday contains a large picture of Oral Misener, Alma's star basket ball player. In a short article the News says that Misener has been one of the best men at Alma for several years.

At the state meeting of Superintendents of the poor held at Kalamazoo, Thursday, Supt. A. E. Cross of this city was elected state secretary-treasurer. Next meeting of the Association will be held at Charlevoix.

The home of Dora Zess, west of the city was destroyed by fire Thursday morning about six o'clock. Most of the contents were saved. Mr. Zess and built a fire in a stove and gone to the barn, to do the morning chores, when fire was discovered in the roof.

At the Methodist parsonage on Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Lewis Ellis of East Jordan, and Miss Maud Sweet of Jordan township, were united in marriage, Rev. W. W. Lamport officiating. They were accompanied by the bride's sister, Mrs. Myrtle Touchstone. They will make their home at East Jordan.—Mancelona Herald.

Com'r. of Schools J. H. Milford sent out letters this week to all school officers in the county urging them to combine on some plan to teach agriculture in our public schools. While this subject has been placed as part of the course no one in our county is really competent to handle the subject thoroughly, and the plans set forth in Com'r. Milford's circular are worthy of careful thought.

A petition was circulated this week among our citizens and quite freely signed, asking the City Commission to appoint A. E. Cross as Mayor of our city, to fill vacancy, until April. In another column of this issue Mr. Cross announces himself as a candidate for Mayorality honors at the city primary to be held March 24th. He will not be alone in his aspirations, however, as Mr. L. A. Hoyt informs The Herald that he will be a candidate for Mayor at the March primary. As both gentlemen are able competent men they will probably receive the two highest numbers of votes cast at the primary, and at the election in April the matter will be fully decided.

One of the best local talent plays ever presented by East Jordan people to an East Jordan audience was that given by the High School Seniors last Tuesday evening at the Temple Theatre. Under the able direction of Mrs. B. A. Risk, the members of the class had studied long and hard to master the various characters of the play—"The Elopement of Ellen"—and as presented Tuesday night showed the result of conscientious efforts. Leon Van Gorder as John Hays, rector of St. Agnes, was particularly good. Those of the class who participated and to whom credit should be given are Francis Howe, Stanley J. Risk, Harry Redson and the Misses Fern Howard, Arlene Hammond and Esther Porter.

Ben Smatts is an East Jordan visitor this week.

Miss Effie Hawley has entered the high school here.

Mrs. W. M. Stone has been on the sick list this week.

Miss Gladys Whiteford is clerking at Weisman's store.

Miss Eva Lewis was a Boyne City business visitor recently.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moberly a daughter, Sunday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Miles, a son, January 22nd.

Anton Wafstad is confined to his home with lumbago this week.

Mrs. E. A. Ashley was a Grand Rapids business visitor this week.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Talbot, a daughter, January 22nd.

Ray Wilson and family now occupy a part of the Warner residence property.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Tyler returned home from Detroit Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Richard Shier returned to her home at Watersmeet, Friday morning.

L. C. Madison was a Charlevoix business visitor a couple of days this week.

Rev. James Reuble was called to Ithaca last week by the death of his father.

Mrs. Lewis Dunson was guest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Golden, this week.

Mrs. M. E. Heston is guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. Coulter at Charlevoix this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Barr now occupy the French residence on Third St.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Nicholas Jr., a son, Allen B., January 21st, at Meridian, Miss.

Miss Reta McDonald of Mt. Pleasant was guest at the home of C. C. Mack, this week.

Mrs. W. P. Porter and Mrs. R. O. Bisbee are visiting friends in Grand Rapids this week.

Miss Roxy Carrol—niece of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kimball, was guest at their home over Sunday.

J. McEachran has been suffering from blood poisoning in one of his hands, the past fortnight.

Mahyn Swafford who was guest of his parents the past week, has returned to his home at Sarnia.

A party was held at the farm home of Joe Lalonde Thursday evening. Several from our city attended.

Mrs. A. E. Cross will visit her daughter, Mrs. John Benford at Mt. Pleasant, latter part of the week.

Peninsular Grange were entertained last Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rühling, north of the city.

Representative H. I. McMillan was home from Lansing over Sunday, returning to his legislative duties, Tuesday.

C. P. Chaddock and daughter, Mrs. J. H. Graft, left Wednesday for a fortnight's visit with relatives at South Haven.

LONG CLOTH—(12 yards in piece)—at $1.50 and 1.75 the piece at the East Jordan Lumber Co's WHITE GOODS OPENING next week.

Irving Hilliard returned from Ann Arbor this week. He was forced to discontinue his studies owing to trouble with his eyes.

Mrs. J. L. Weisman, who has been quite ill, left Friday morning for St. Louis, Mich., where she enters the sanitarium for treatment.

Mrs. E. Beall of Manitowoc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Steele, was called here Tuesday, by the serious illness of her mother.

Mrs. V. G. Holbeck entertained last Friday evening in honor of her sister, Miss Clara Palmer of Lansing, who returned to her home last Monday.

Mrs. W. D. Merrifield and son of Soo St. Marie, who have been guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. McCalmon of State St. for a few weeks, returned home Thursday.

George Spencer is making some fine improvements in his plumbing shop—enlarging the front part, newly papering and painting, and has added a cash register to his office equipment.

Sgt. of Poor A. E. Cross left Wednesday for Kalamazoo, where he attends a meeting of the State Board of Poor Commissioners. From there he goes to Mt. Pleasant where he joins Mrs. Cross.

Dr. Parks was at Detroit this week with a patient.

Bert Wilhelm is at Hammond Ind. this week on business.

Miss Myrtle Ward was confined to her home this week by illness.

John Porter returned from a business trip to Chicago this week.

F. Shier of Watersmeet is guest of his daughter, Mrs. R. F. Steffen.

Miss Jennie Boosinger returned home from Lansing, Monday last.

Dr. Owen and wife of Grand Rapids were East Jordan visitors this week.

Mrs. Thos. Brennan visited her sister Mrs. Callahan at Freerick on Saturday last.

Mrs. Edward Smatts, who has been guest of her daughter, at Central Lake returned home on Monday.

A. W. Frelberg and cousin Edward, and Fred Kowalske were Boyne City visitors Friday evening.

Edward Frelberg of White Cloud, a cousin of A. W. Frelberg is guest at the Frelberg home this week.

Mrs. M. N. Spence and John Hawkins spent Tuesday with the former's mother at Green River.

Do not fail to hear the address to men at the theatre by Rev. T. Porter Bennett next Sunday afternoon at 3:30.

Henry Deno, who has been guest of his brother Edward, the past few weeks, returned to Buchanan on Wednesday.

Miss Marie Smith and Miss Ruth Stimpson of Mackinaw City are guests at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. C. V. Trumble.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kowalske were pleasantly surprised by a number of their friends, Saturday evening, at their home West of the city.

Mrs. Dan McDonald and son Ray of Central Lake were guests of R. T. McDonald and family and other relatives in our city, the past week.

MISS LOST—Somewhere between Spence's Bakery and the I. & C. R. E. depot Will finder please leave at Spence's Bakery—JOHN HAWKINS.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown at McAlister, Okla., a son, Jan 28th. Mrs. Brown was formerly Miss Grace Gregory a teacher in our public schools.

Miss Agnes Senecal of Calumet former woman of the cloak and suit department of the Glass Block Store of that city, is guest of Genevieve Senecal and Mrs. Bert Wilhelm for a short time.

FLOUNCINGS—45 in. Flouncings at from 65c to $2.50 at the WHITE GOODS OPENING of the East Jordan Lumber Co's Store next week. See the popular Elyria Laces, also the Vals and Torcons.

Presbyterian Ladies Aid Society will be entertained by Mrs. L. A. Hoyt, assisted by Mrs. W. F. Empey, at the home of the former, February 7th commencing at 2:30 p. m. Everybody invited.

Mrs. C. A. Hudson was called to Grand Rapids this week by the serious illness of Mr. Hudson, who is taking treatment at a hospital there. We understand Mr. Hudson has some what recovered at this writing.

H. Rosenthal was called to Traverse City this week by the death of his niece, Miss Elizabeth Capella. Deceased was aged 21 years and died after a very brief illness. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon.

Methodist ladies aid will be entertained by Mrs. Jerome Smith and Mrs. Wm. Johnson at the home of Mrs. F. P. Bamsey on Main st., Wednesday, February 2nd, at 2:30 P. M. All members please attend. Visitors welcome.

The W. F. M. S. of the Methodist church will hold their next regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Houghton, Tuesday, February 4th. Mrs. Doris Kowalski assisting. Rigs will be provided for those who desire to go for the small sum of 10 cents apiece starting at 2:00 p. m. fast time. Meet at the home of Richard Barnett and at Milford's store. Everybody welcome.

An old pioneer resident, Mr. James McKinney passed away Wednesday noon at his home one mile north of the city. He was seventy-five years old and for the last few years constantly suffered. He leaves a devoted wife and three sons at the old home besides them, one son who resides in Bellaire and Mrs. Chris Taylor, Mrs. Louis Peppis and Mrs. Alfred Quinton of this city. The funeral took place Friday morning from St. Joseph's church, accompanied to his last resting place by a large number of neighbors and friends.

Services conducted in the county jail at Cadillac last Sunday resulted in W. M. Buckner confessing to forgery, and Guy Racey, Carl Swert and Chas. Jacobson confessing to larceny in the circuit court next morning.

Citizens' Meeting

At K. of P. Hall Next Monday Night.

On Monday evening at the K. of P. Hall, will be held the annual meeting of the Board of Trade and the Retail Dealers Association respectively for the election of officers and the transaction of business of interest to all good citizens.

Light refreshments will be served and the needs of the city discussed.

Every citizen of East Jordan and every farmer interested in the prosperity of East Jordan should be present.

The discussions are all from the standpoint of the needs of the city, and will be under the following heads:

- Civic Affairs.
- Board of Trade Finance.
- Good Roads.
- Board of Trade Membership.
- New Industries.
- Public Improvements and Utilities.
- Taxes.
- Insurance.
- Transportation.
- Our Educational Requirements.
- The Moral Needs of the Community.
- The Board of Trade and The Retail Dealers Association—Their Legislative Functions.

A full line of EMBROIDERIES all widths and prices, at the East Jordan Lumber Co's WHITE GOODS OPENING next week.

In the contest held last week by the representative of the Curilla Co., for the most popular young lady in town Miss Teresa Phillips won the prize, a handsome set of silver.—Charlton news

JOHN G. CARLSON, Chiropractor; office at the corner of Main and Garfield Streets. Office hours, 10:00 to 12:00 A. M. and 2:00 to 6:00 and 7:00 to 9:00 P. M. Phone 38. Consultation free.

Bring in all the HIDES, FURS and PELTS to KLING Bros. They pay the highest prices. $3.00 for No. 1 horse hides. 0-13 (adv.)

Crop improvement associations have been organized by the progressive farmers of Antrim and Mason counties and county agents will undoubtedly be put in the field the coming season.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

The only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

NO ALUM, NO LIME PHOSPHATE

Some men find it easier to make a good living than to make good. One man who fails is better than two men that never try.

Most people are anxious to get away from the noise when a man begins to blow his own horn. Many a man fools himself with the belief that his wisdom is superior to that of the late Mr. Solomon.

OUR JANUARY

Clearing Sale

is now on and will continue until the end of the month.

Goods are being moved rapidly and you should come at once to secure a good assortment.

L. WEISMAN

EAST JORDAN LUMBER CO.

White Goods Opening

These are some of the features of our White Goods Opening. In Ladies and Children's Muslin and Crepe Underwear.

Skirts 50c up, Nightgowns 50c up

Drawers, 25c up Slips, $1.25 up

Corset Covers, 25c up.

9-4 Pepperil bleach and half bleached 25c

Atlantic Pillow Tubing 42-45, 18c up

2 yds wide German Weave bleach all linen

Table Linen 95c up.

Costume Cloths, Flaxons, Linweave, Persians

India Linens, Marquisettes, Persian Lawns, French Lawns, are some of our White Goods

Laces, Trimmings and Embroideries.

East Jordan Lumber Co.

STATE BANK OF EAST JORDAN

Capital $50,000 Surplus $5,000

4

PER CENT

PAID ON DEPOSITS

Officers
W. P. Porter, President
W. L. French, Vice Pres
Geo. G. Glenn, Cashier

Directors W. P. Porter, W. L. French, Chas. M. Schaffer, F. M. Severance, M. H. Robertson, Carl Stroebel, Fred Smith, B. E. Waterman, Geo. G. Glenn

WE WANT YOUR BUSINESS.

FEDERAL PROTECTION OF BIRDS

By WILLIAM L. HORNADAY
Director of the New York Zoological Park

(The bird portraits with this article are from the "American Natural History," Copyright, 1904, by William L. Hornaday, are reproduced here by the permission of the publishers, Charles Scribner's Sons.)

The United States department of agriculture is responsible for the startling statement that, in the year 1904, insect pests cost this country no less than $420,100,000. Here are the figures of government experts:

Product	Percentage Amount of Loss	Amount of Loss
Cereals	10	$200,000,000
Hay	10	53,000,000
Cotton	10	60,000,000
Tobacco	10	5,300,000
Truck crops	20	53,000,000
Sugars	10	5,000,000
Fruits	20	27,000,000
Farm forests	10	11,000,000
Miscellaneous crops	10	5,800,000
Total		$420,100,000

Keeping in mind this enormous loss, consider also the following facts:

- (1) That insectivorous birds do more than all other agencies combined to keep down insect pests;
- (2) That such birds undoubtedly are rapidly decreasing in number; and that, therefore,
- (3) Destructive insects are, in all probability, increasing very rapidly,

The Jacksnipe.
A Useful Bird Which is Rapidly Becoming Extinct.

exterminated, and other curlews greatly reduced. So adverse to the shorebirds are present conditions that the wonder is that any escape. In both fall and spring they are shot along the whole route of their migration north and south.

The accompanying illustrations present portraits of a group of birds, most of which the average person probably knows by sight, though I fear that only a small minority have a clear idea of their very great economic worth.

The Jacksnipe (or Wilson's snipe) is one of the shorebirds (referred to by Mr. McAtee), which, as a family, are being rapidly exterminated. It destroys large numbers of worms and larvae, for which it probes with its long bill in the soft earth of corn and potato fields—thereby doing the farmer a great service—as well as along the shores of ponds, lakes and streams. It also feeds on grasshoppers and other injurious insects. It should be carefully protected, especially during the breeding season.

The killdeer plover is another valuable and beautiful shorebird which is being hunted to death. It frequents meadows and pasture lands, as well as shores, and devours great quantities of mosquitoes, crane flies, grasshoppers, army worms, cut worms, caterpillars, cotton-boll weevils, clover-leaf weevils, rice weevils, marine worms, wire worms and crayfish.

Doubtless everybody knows the robin, perhaps the most democratic of our birds, beloved in the northern states

The Killdeer Plover.
Another Valuable Shorebird Which Destroys Great Quantities of Worms and Insects.

for his cheerful song and his handsome appearance, glad everywhere to be the companion and the friend of man when he is well treated, and highly valuable as a destroyer of harmful grubs, worms and insects. Yet this bird is murdered literally by the thousands for pot-pies by negroes and poor whites in the southern states above mentioned, and is more or less hunted in other states. Mr. E. A. McIlhenny, who lives on Avery Island, La., says that during the ten days or two weeks of the "robin season" (in January when the berries are ripe) at least 10,000 of these useful and beautiful birds are slaughtered daily for the pot. "Every negro man and boy who can raise a gun is after them," says Mr. McIlhenny.

Although this bird causes some loss to small fruit growers, it certainly does vastly more good than harm. It is constantly at work on lawns and fields hunting for destructive insects, which it is exceedingly difficult to keep in control. It devours many caterpillars, including hairy species, which infest the orchard, woodland and shade trees. Forty per cent. of its food is insects, and 43 per cent. wild fruit. It would pay the farmer well to go some expense in order to keep the robins away from his fruit trees and berry bushes rather than shoot these birds which are so useful to him in many ways. To murder them for pot-pies is, of course, nothing short of barbarous.

The purple martin is also fond of the society of man, and when not molested by the villainous English sparrows—and still more villainous men by whom it is shot for food, chiefly in the south—it is glad to breed in birdhouses near human habitations. It makes a charming neighbor

The Purple Martin.
An Industrious Hunter of Mosquitoes and Other Dangerous Insects, Which Itself is Being Hunted to Death as Food.

bor and a very useful one, for it is remarkably swift and graceful on the wing, and is expert and persistent in catching rose beetles, May beetles, cucumber beetles, mosquitoes, house flies and flies that trouble horses and cattle. One observer records that 32 parent martins made 3,275 visits to their young in one day, each visit meaning, probably, anywhere from one to half a dozen insects.

The nighthawk (also called "bull-bat"), is probably one of the most useful of birds. It feeds exclusively on insects, and ranks next to the golden-winged woodpecker (flicker) as a feathered destroyer of ants, which it takes when they are in the winged stage. Potato beetles, cucumber beetles, leaf hoppers, bugs of various kinds and enormous quantities of gnats and mosquitoes are found in their stomachs. They are entirely harmless, for they never feed on fruit, grain, grass or vegetables. Yet they are being hunted for sport and are being exterminated.

The loggerhead (or southern) shrike is a champion pest destroyer, a large percentage of its food being harmful rodents and destructive insects, the latter including grasshoppers, crickets and moths, which it frequently impales upon thorns or sharp twigs. It sometimes catches young birds (though this is more characteristic of the northern shrike, or butcher bird), but its diet is chiefly insects and small rodents. It is, therefore, very valuable to the farmer.

The Nighthawk.
One of the Most Useful of Insectivorous Birds Which is Being Hunted for Sport and Exterminated.

The golden-winged woodpecker (also called "flicker," "high-hole," etc.) is an industrious tree protector, and the most efficient of all feathered ant-eaters. It is also feeds freely upon beetles, grasshoppers, crickets, caterpillars, and other harmful insects, as well as on weed seeds. Yet it is rapidly growing rare because it is much hunted for food. It should be protected everywhere and at all times.

In view of the decrease already accomplished in the general volume of bird life in America, in view of the enormous losses annually inflicted upon the people of this country by the ravages of insects, and in view of the destruction of wild life which is now furiously proceeding throughout America, the McLean bill, which is now before congress, to provide for the federal protection of all migratory birds, becomes the most important wild life measure that ever came before that body. In view of the annual economic loss that will continue as long as a federal migratory bird fails to pass, it is impossible for anyone to put forth one good reason—unless it be on purely technical grounds—against that measure. The Weeks bill, before the lower house of congress, is precisely like the McLean bill, and it matters not which one passes, first.

Unless the people of this country wish to shut their eyes to their own interests, and pay out millions of dollars annually in the form of increased cost of living due to the losses caused by insect pests which would be destroyed by the birds, they should demand that a federal migratory bird bill be at once enacted into a law. It is Senate Bill No. 6497, and on the senate calendar it is No. 606. We cannot afford to wait until 1914 or 1915, and congress has full power to act this winter.

The Loggerhead Shrike.
Fifty-nine Per Cent. of Its Food is Insects, and Twenty-eight Per Cent. is Harmful Rodents.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

ALCOHOL—3 PER CENT
Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral NOT NARCOTIC

Recipe of Old Dr. SAMUEL PITCHER

Pumpkin Seed -
Sassafras -
Rhubarb -
Licorice -
Syrup -
Cinnamon -
Cloves -
Mint -
Sage -
Peppermint -
Eucalyptus -
Wintergreen -
Flavor

Perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP

Fac Simile Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher

THE CENTAUR COMPANY,
NEW YORK.

At 6 months old
35 DROPS—35 CENTS

Guaranteed under the Food and Drug Act

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

THOUGHTFUL PAINTER.

In the Night Editor's Room.
"Here's a long story about that storm on the lake the other day. Want it cut down?"
"Does it begin, 'The storm beggars description?'"
"Yes."
"Well, run that, and cut out the description."
Liquid blue is a weak solution. Avoid it. Buy Red Cross Ball Blue, the blue that's all blue. Ask your grocer. Adv.

Optimism.
Hope is a quality of the spirit of man more stubborn of its ground than life itself. It dwells not "in the suburbs of the soul," but holds its place rather as a window through which the future may be seen. It lets us in to the dark places with a confident stride that otherwise we would shuffle through by halting steps. It shows the little things by which we climb, so that we make of hindrances a kind of lookout from which to take a survey of the land beyond. And if that land seems better than it be, we care not, because it never lets us near enough to know.

Its Class.
"That was a raw deal."
"What was?"
"The plot they cooked up."

SKIN ERUPTION ON CHEEK

Kingsley, Mich. "Last May my thirteen-month-old baby had a sore come on her cheek. It started in four or five small pimples and in two or three hours' time spread to the size of a silver dollar. It spread to her eye. Then water would run from the pimples and wherever that touched it caused more sores until nearly all one cheek and up her nostrils were one solid sore. She was very fretful. She certainly was a terrible looking child, and nothing seemed to be of any use. Then I got some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. She tried to rub off everything we put on so that we would sit and hold her hands for two hours at a time, trying to give the medicine a chance to help her, but after I washed it with Cuticura Soap and then put on the Cuticura Ointment they seemed to soothe her and she did not try to rub them off. It was only a few days before her face was all healed up, and there has been no return of the trouble since. We thought that baby's face would surely be scarred, but it is not." (Signed) Mrs. W. J. Cleland, Jan. 5, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston," Adv.

Don't Persecute Your Bowels

Cut out cathartics and purgatives. They are brutal, harsh, unnecessary. Try

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Purely vegetable. Act gently on the liver, eliminate bile, and soothe the delicate membrane of the bowels. Cure Constipation, Biliousness, Headaches, Stomach Ache and Indigestion, as millions know. SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Wood

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA

Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE NORTHROP & LYMAN CO., LTD., BUFFALO, N.Y.

Distinction.

"What have you ever done to claim distinction? In other words, what have you ever done that was original or out of the ordinary?"

"I once had a part in the actual transfer of several shares of stock on the New York exchange."

The surest stepping stone to matrimony is a solitaire.

THE MAN WHO PUT THE EES IN FEET

Look for This Trade-Mark Picture on the Label when buying

ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE

This Antiseptic Powder for Tender, Aching Feet. Sold every where. 25c. Sample FREE. Address, ALLEN S. OLIMSTED, Le Roy, N. Y.

PATENTS

BEFIANCE STARCH—16 ounces to other starches, only 12 ounces—same price and "BEFIANCE" IS SUPERIOR QUALITY.

FOR WOMEN ONLY

Do You Feel This Way?

[Backache or Headache
Dragging Down Sensations
Nervous—Drains
Tenderness Low Down.]

It is because of some derangement or disease distinctly feminine. Write Dr. R. V. Pierce's Faculty at Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. Consultation is free and advice is strictly in confidence.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

restores the health and spirits and removes those painful symptoms mentioned above. It has been sold by druggists for over 40 years, in fluid form, at $1.00 per bottle, giving general satisfaction. It can now be had in tablet form, as modified by R. V. Pierce, M. D.

[Sold by Medicine Dealers or sent by mail on receipt of 50c in stamps]

The Robin.
Highly Valuable as an Insect and Grub Destroyer, But Murdered by the Thousands for Pot-Pies in the South.

with the result that the damage they do is mounting up, year by year.

It is perfectly apparent that here is a situation which demands immediate action, and that this action should bring about the vigilant protection for all time, and in all parts of the country, of all insectivorous birds. Many of the most useful of these birds are already on the tobogganslide toward extermination, as the result of stupid state legislation, or the lax enforcement of such laws as have been enacted. To be explicit:

There are seven states in which the robin is being legally killed by the tens of thousands annually as "game." These states are Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee and Maryland.

The black bird is legalized "game," and suffers the same fate in four states—Louisiana, South Carolina, Tennessee and Pennsylvania—and the District of Columbia besides.

Doves are slaughtered by the wholesale in 20 states, much to the loss of the farmers, for this bird is a great eater of weed seeds.

Cranes, which are also very useful birds, are much hunted for food and for "sport" in Colorado, Nebraska, North Dakota and Oklahoma.

Of the sixty-odd species of shorebirds (i. e., snipe, curlews, plover, sandpipers and the like), at least 30 feed on noxious insects; yet all of these birds are rapidly disappearing. According to Mr. W. L. McAtee of the Golden-Winged Woodpecker.

A Great Tree-Protector, and Champion Ant-Destroyer, Which is Being Exterminated by Pot-Hunters.

bureau of biological survey (United States department of agriculture):

"The black-bellied plover, or beetle-head, which occurred along the Atlantic coast in great numbers years ago, is now seen only as a straggler. The golden plover, once exceedingly abundant east of the Great Plains, is now rare. The Eskimo curlew with in the last decade has probably been

HAREMS OUT OF DATE IN TURKEY

Only the Sultan Adheres to the Old Style Oriental Institution—Modern Turk Resorts to Divorce.

The domestic arrangements of the sultan are entirely different from those of his subjects. Most Turks have one wife; the sultan has no recognized sultana. Turks of high rank marry into their own class; the sultan forms unions with women of slave origin. The ordinary man may not look upon an unveiled woman except she be his relation or servant; the sultan has the right to talk with any woman in the land face to face. Turks of position model their households more or less on the European plan; the sultan's household is oriental.

That does not mean that in the imperial palace you would find women sipping sherbet or smoking narghilehs or clad in baggy trousers. On the contrary, you would find them smoking nothing more oriental than a cigarette, sitting on a European chair—and, yes, wearing corsets! But the code of morals is entirely different, says the New York Sun.

The imperial harem is founded on the old court system of the Byzantine emperors and has an etiquette and law of its own. The first fact one must grasp is that the wives or favorites of the sultan have no importance at all. They are nobodies. The daughter of a Circassian peasant may be honored by the sultan's favor and even bear him a child, but yet be distinguished by no other title than the commonplace "Kadin Effendi." Only the mother of the eldest son receives the royal designation of "sultan," her whole title being "Khar-eki sultan."

Her dignity only results from her being the mother of a possible heir to the throne; that is, in the event that the sultan has no brothers, for the brothers have the right of precedence as the elder male descendants. And the royal favorite of the moment will have transitory importance on account of the influence which she may exercise over the sultan.

Royal princesses are considered inferior to the mother of the sultan, who is the real queen of the little world of the harem, has absolute authority, a large staff of officials and the supreme title of "Valide sultan." Thus it happens that a woman of slave birth may, if she be the mother of an heir to the throne, eventually become the highest woman of the land.

Every royal princess has her daira, or separate apartments, slaves, servants and so on, the management of the household being given over to her kalfas, or ladies in waiting—that is to say, Turkish women of good birth who have remained unmarried.

Royal princesses rarely take a husband of their own rank. They are generally married by the sultan to the sons of men of wealth and position, such as pashas, officers of state, high civil officials and the like, a policy which is founded on a very practical reason, namely, that the arrangement makes the existence of a hereditary aristocracy impossible.

One of the paradoxes in Turkey is that the poorer a Turkish woman is the greater her freedom. The rich woman cannot move a step unaccompanied. She sees Constantinople only from the windows of her closed brougham or through a veil thick enough to act as a mask. She may dress as exquisitely as a mannequin in a Paris dressmaker's showroom, but she must not display so much as an inch of embroidery in public.

When her husband wants to take a second wife, or grows tired of her and wishes to divorce her, he has both the opportunity and the means if he is a rich man. It is not oblige among Turks of any education to take a second wife; but divorce is replacing polygamy a simple repudiation by the husband of his wife, provided he is well enough off to pay the nekayah or marriage settlement, which he is legally bound to hand over to her.

The woman of the poorest classes can go out alone. Custom does not oblige her to wear her veil down. Should her husband, in a fit of anger, wish to divorce her, he must first of all produce the Nekayah, the dowry, in ready money, not an easy matter for a poor man.

The real danger to domestic happiness in the great mass of Turkish homes is the growing tendency of divorce, and a divorce wholly favorable to the man as against the woman.

The payment of the modest nekayah arranged at the time of his marriage is a simple affair, and it is seldom enough to keep the divorced wife for the rest of her days. She is forced to take refuge with her parents or to find shelter with some of her friends.

Day on Which Women Rule.

Cañdlemas day is not celebrated in Holland much more than in England, but its place is taken by a festival known in this country. Slipper day in the Netherlands is the one day in the year in which the Dutch woman claims superiority over her husband.

On that day she rules him to her heart's content, and he generally obeys good humoredly enough. That is, unless she is one of those ladies not unknown in Holland or in any other country who aspire to complete rule over their unhappy partners throughout the year.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Jumped, Killed; Stayed, Safe.
Ernest Woods, fireman, jumped and was killed, while Fred Lebusch, engineer, stayed at his post and escaped death when the train from St. Albans, which they were driving, collided with an engine in the Grand Trunk yards at Montreal. Woods had barely leaped from the engine when the baggage car toppled over upon him.

Doubly Glad is the Man Who Smokes

Liggitt & Myers

Duke's Mixture

Glad to smoke this pure old Virginia and North Carolina bright leaf—with its natural tobacco taste. Aged and stemmed and then granulated. Tucks quickly in the pipe—rolls easily into a cigarette.

With each sack a book of cigarette papers FREE.

And smokers are glad to get the free present coupons enclosed in each 5c sack. These coupons are good for a great variety of pleasing articles—cameras, talking machines, balls, skates, safety razors, china, furniture, toilet articles, etc. Many things that will delight old or young.

As a special offer, during January and February only, we will send our new illustrated catalog of these presents FREE. Just send us your name and address on a postal.

In every sack of Liggitt & Myers Duke's Mixture is one and a half ounces of splendid tobacco and a free present coupon.

Coupons from Duke's Mixture may be secured with one of these: HORSE SHOE, T.L. TINSLEY'S NATURAL LEAF, GRANGER TWIST, and complete list of FIVE ROSES (10 for 10c coupon), PICK PLUG CUT, PIEDMONT CIGARETTES, CLIX CIGARETTES, and other tags or coupons issued by us.

Premium Dept.

Liggitt & Myers Tobacco Co.

St. Louis, Mo.

REPORT OF MIGRATION OF WOOLY APHID FROM THE ELM LEAF CURL TO THE APPLE

Special Reference to the Economic Significance of This Discovery for Nursery Stock and Young Orchards, With General Account of This Serious and Widespread Pest.

Seedling Apple Showing Colony of Woolly Aphids Which Are the Progeny of Migrants From Elm Leaf Curl.

Bulletin 203, just issued by the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station, contains a report of the migration of the woolly aphid from elm leaf to apple, with special reference to the economic significance of this discovery for nursery stock and young orchards. A general account of this serious and widespread pest is included.

For more than 100 years the woolly aphid has had world-wide recognition as one of the most serious insect enemies of young apple-trees. Statistics for 1911 on two-year-old nursery stock based on observations made at three nurseries containing respectively about 30,000, 45,000 and 300,000 trees, showed that from 20 per cent. to 25 per cent. of the trees were infested by the woolly aphid. As from twenty to forty million of American-grown apple seedlings are used in this country every year, the significance of so high a per cent. of infestation is at once apparent.

It is, therefore, with no slight interest that the entomologists of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station have been seeking to ascertain a previously unknown point in the life cycle of this pest, and have made the discovery that this cycle includes three generations which are passed in what is known as the "elm leaf curl." The disfigured and curled leaves of the elm in the spring are everywhere as familiar as the woolly masses on the apple bark, but the elm generations have not previously been known to have any connection with the apple pest and it has all along borne a distinct name.

It is a fact familiar to students of this family of insects that certain aphids live for a few generations (usually wingless) upon one food plant and then produce a winged generation that migrates to an entirely different species of plant for the summer, where it establishes a series of summer generations and by fall produces a second migrant generation that flies back to the original food plant. It is here the true sexes occur and that the winter egg is deposited—stages absolutely essential to the continuation of the species.

The woolly aphid of the apple is such a migratory species with two distinct types of food plants—the elm, or "original-food plant," on which the true sexes occur in the fall and deposit the over-wintering egg, and on which it lives in the curled leaves in the spring; and the apple to which it migrates from the elm-leaf-curl, and where it establishes itself as a bark feeder during the summer. This species, in addition, produces in the fall a generation that passes the winter at the roots of the apple, a circumstance which has led to the assumption that the apple alone was concerned in the life cycle of this pest, and the elm-leaf curl which shelters the wolf in sheep's clothing has been previously unsuspected of other danger than that threatened the elm itself which, except in the case of young trees, is not usually great. But the discovery of the annual migration of a fresh infestation from the elm to the apple and the knowledge that the elm generations are an essential portion of the life cycle of the woolly aphid of the apple and that this species cannot continue without access to the elm, put a new significance upon the economic status of the elm curl.

Filling the Gullies.

If you have any gullies or ditches in your fields, now is the time to mow out all of the brushy weeds and fence rows or other brushy and weedy places and fill the gullies with the trash. This will prevent such gullies and ditches from further washing, and it will catch and hold other soil into them. No farmer can be counted a success who allows his best soil to be washed out of his fields, or who allows sterile and waste places to remain as such for any length of time. These can be remedied and made to become rich and productive spots, making the farm more beautiful and more profitable.

Electrocuting Meth.

An orchardist in the state of Washington has devised a method of electrocuting the codling moth. Electric lights encased in fine wires alternately coated with copper and tin are hung in the trees. The light attracts the moths which fly against the wires and the contact sends an electric current through them.

Cow as Dowry.

In the Island of Jersey every girl who marries receives a cow as a part of her dowry.

MUCH ASSISTANCE FOR EARLY VEGETABLES

Hotbeds which have been prepared in the fall by digging out the pit permit an early start in spring. The dimensions most suitable are indicated in the illustration.

Costs Less Bakes Better

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

ECONOMY—that's one thing you are looking for in these days of high living cost—Calumet insures a wonderful saving in your baking. But it does more. It insures wholesome food, tasty food—uniformly raised food. Calumet is made right—to sell right—to bake right. Ask one of the millions of women who use it—or ask your grocer.

RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARDS
World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago, Ill.
Paris Exposition, France, March, 1912.

You don't save money when you buy cheap or big-can baking powder. Don't be misled. Buy Calumet. It's more economical—more wholesome—gives best results. Calumet is far superior to sour milk and soda.

Surprised Him.
There was a fellow who proposed to all the girls just for fun. He had no idea of getting himself engaged, but he enjoyed the preliminaries. So he was disagreeably surprised once and served him right.
"Miss Evelyn," he said soulfully, "do you think you could love me well enough to be my wife?"
"Yes, darling," she cried.
"Well—er—now I know where to come in case I should want to marry."
—Detroit Free-Press.

Self-Appreciation.
"How do you know your speech made such a profound impression?" asked the doubting friend. "There wasn't very much cheering."
"That's just the point," replied Senator Serghum. "I am one of the orators to whom my constituents would rather listen than hear themselves applaud."

Crushing Rejoinder.
A workman sat on a curb nursing an injured foot which had been struck by an iron casting which had fallen from the top of a building.

"Did that big thing hit you?" asked a sympathizing bystander.
The workman nodded.
"And is it solid iron?"
"No," replied the victim, "half of it is only lead."

Constipation causes many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One a laxative, three for cathartic. Adv.

Women who marry for a home pay big rent.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

Are Richest in Curative Qualities FOR BACKACHE, RHEUMATISM, KIDNEYS AND BLADDER

DON'T CUT OUT A VARICOSE VEIN

USE ABSORBINE, JR. FOR IT.

A mild, safe, antiseptic, discutient, resolvent liniment, and a proven remedy for this and similar troubles. Mr. K. C. Kellogg, Becket, Mass., before using this remedy, suffered intensely with painful and inflamed veins; they were swollen, knotted and hard. He writes: "After using one and one-half bottles of ABSORBINE, JR., the veins were reduced, inflammation and pain gone, and I have had no recurrence of the trouble during the past six years." Also removes Goitre, Painful Swellings, Wens, Cysts, Callouses, Bruises, "Black and Blue" discolorations, etc., in a pleasant manner.—Price $1.00 and $2.00 a bottle at drug-gists or delivered. Book 50c free. Write for it. W.F. Young, P.O. 310 Temple St., Springfield, Mass.

Resinol

cured terrible humor on face

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6, 1912. "In December 1908, my face became sore. I tried everything that was recommended, and my face got worse instead of better. I spent over $100 and got no benefit. The face and nose were very red and the eruption had the appearance of small boils, which itched me terribly. I cannot tell you how terrible my face looked—all I can say is, it was dreadful, and I suffered beyond description. "I have not gone on the street since since 1908 without a veil, until now. Just four months ago a friend persuaded me to give Resinol a trial. I have used three cakes of Resinol Soap and less than a jar of Resinol Ointment, and my face is perfectly free from any eruption, and my skin is as clear and clean as any child's. It is about four weeks since the last pimple disappeared." (Signed) Mrs. M. J. Bateman, 4258 Viola Street. For over eighteen years Resinol has been a doctor's prescription and household remedy for skin troubles, pimples, burns, sores, ulcers, etc. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap sold by all druggists. For sample of each, write to Dept. 17-K, Resinol Chem. Co., Baltimore, Md.

PISO'S REMEDY

Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by Druggists. FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

W. N. U., DETROIT, NO. 2-1913.

Get a Canadian Home

In Western Canada's Free Homestead Area

THE PROVINCE OF MANITOBA has several New Homesteads available. Write for a free circular showing an unbroken period of over a quarter of a century.

For Grain Growing and Cattle Raising

This province has no superior and no profitable agriculture shows an unbroken period of over a quarter of a century.

Perfect climate; good markets; railways convenient; soil the very best; and social conditions most desirable.

Vacant lands adjacent to Free Homesteads may be purchased and also in the older districts lands can be bought at reasonable prices.

For further particulars write to M. V. McInnes, 175 Jefferson Ave., Detroit, Mich. Canadian Government Agents, or address Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada.

It's Best To Have

ready to use at first sign of trouble the best corrective for any disorder of the organs of digestion. The earlier you seek relief the easier it will be to get it—and the more certain it will be that the trouble will not lead to something worse. It is universally admitted that are the safest preventive as well as the most reliable corrective of stomach, bowel, or liver troubles. They bring about regular, natural, healthful action. All through the body—in every organ, every nerve—in actions, vigor and spirits—you will feel the benefit of Beecham's Pills—and quickly, too. You will save yourself suffering if you have this matchless aid to health

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Ready On Hand Sold everywhere in boxes 10c. 25c.

THOMPSON'S EYE WATER. Quickly relieves eye troubles. Sold everywhere. JOHN L. THOMPSON SONS & CO., Troy, N.Y.

Made a Complete Job. "Mrs. Dingleford, has your husband been cured of his cacothous scribendi yet?"

"I—I think so; the surgeons took that out when they removed his veriform appendix."

JUDGE CURED HEART TROUBLE

I took about 6 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills for Heart Trouble from which I had suffered for 5 years. I had dizzy spells, my eyes puffed, my breath was short and I had chills and back ache. I took the pills about a year ago and have had no return of the palpitations. Am now 63 years old, able to do lots of manual labor, am well and hearty and weigh about 200 pounds. I feel very grateful that I found Dodds Kidney Pills and you may publish this letter if you wish. I am serving my third term as Probate Judge of Gray Co.

Judge Miller.

PHILIP MILLER, Cimarron, Kan.

Correspond with Judge Miller about this wonderful remedy. Dodds Kidney Pills, 50c. per box at your dealer or Dodds Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Write for Household Hints, also music of National Anthem (English and German words) and recipes for dainty dishes. All 3 sent free, Adv.

Roses in Medicine. Roses "at one time figured prominently in the pharmacopoeia. Pliny gives 32 remedies compounded of rose leaves and petals. Sufferers from nervous complaints used to seek relief by sleeping on rose pillows and one is told that Helogabalus used to imbibe rose wine as a pick-me-up after his periodical gormandizing hours. The flower was also served at table, both as a garnish, in the way parsley is now used, and as a salad, and rose water was largely used for flavoring dishes. Roses as food have gone out of favor among western nations, but the Chinese still eat rose fritters.

No thoughtful person uses liquid blue. It's a pinch of blue in a large bottle of water. Ask for Red Cross Ball Blue, the blue that's all blue. Adv.

The Distinction.

"I'd marry a man not of words, but of deeds."
"So would I, if they were title deeds."

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, soothes the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle. Adv.

Straggling Along.

"Is that a monthly rose?"
"It looks more like a weakly one to me."

