Fair Directors Annual Meet

Held in this City Thursday of Last Week.

Next Exhibit to be Held Sept. 8-9-10-11, 1914

It requires more than thirty-seven degrees below zero to quench the ardor of our County Fair Directors which was evidenced by the fact that every member of the official board was present at the annual meeting held at the Regill House, East Jordan, February 12th inst.

In view of the many suggestions offered by the citizens of the county for the improvement of the fair, the energies of the fair officials were vigorously renewed to make our 1914 fair a distinct improvement over all previous exhibitions particularly with regard to attractions, amusing and instructive. It was thought best not to purchase a high priced attraction of short duration but rather to arrange a varied and continuous program running throughout the fair to interest and delight its patrons. Every day of the fair will be made to claim an interest peculiar to itself. While public entertainment will be given special attention this season, yet every department of the fair will be given careful attention with the object of securing increased satisfaction to both exhibitor and the general public.

President H. L. Olney was empowered to select a Speed Committee within thirty days from date, which fact will assure added convenience and comfort to all interested in the Races which will be made for the same liberal purses offered last year.

To increase premiums, one hundred dollars was appropriated for apportionment between Divisions, Cattle, Swine, and Sheep, and suitable floors will be placed in the stalls, which will greatly add to the comfort and appearance of the exhibits. Competent judges will be secured and every possible effort will be made to remedy the past lack of interest shown in these divisions and the finest exhibition of Live-stock ever shown in Northern Michigan should result.

The premiums offered in the Fancy Work Department will be thoroughly revised by its superintendent and submitted to the secretary before May 1st. All interested in this division who have any suggestions to offer should confer with the superintendent at once. A number of valuable Special Prizes will be offered, the best exhibit of certain farm products.

All Granges will be required to have every portion of their exhibits in place on the first day of the fair.

The liberal plan of giving complimentary passes to all school children in the county who are neither absent or tardy during the spring term of school will be continued and the program for "School Day" Thursday, Sept. 10th will be especially interesting to the great crowds that will attend. The usefulness of the fair as an educational factor through cooperation with the public schools will be encouraged in every way possible. Meritorious school work not listed will be awarded discretionary premiums, and a more systematic method will be employed in the arrangement of the exhibits which enhance the attractiveness of this "Grange Day" not only in name, but in fact, will be conducted under the auspices of Charlevoix County Grange No. 40, and every farmer, and citizen, in this section, may rest assured that he will be more than repaid for effort to attend on that day.

The Executive Committee of the Fair Association will meet occasionally between now and the dates of our next fair, Sept. 8, 9, 10, 11, 1914, to complete details and inaugurate new plans for the betterment of the event.

All who have suggestions to offer should communicate them to the President, Secretary, or some member of the committee, to receive prompt attention.

TEN GRANGES REPRESENTED

At Pomona Meet With Wilson Grange Last Week.

Charlevoix Pomona Grange No. 40 met with Wilson Grange on Feb. 12th with a good attendance, there being about ten granges represented. As the crowd was late in getting there on account of the weather, practically nothing was done before dinner. In the afternoon all of the business of the meeting was done as the evening session was to be an open one. John Knudsen gave a short but interesting report of the State Grange session held in Flint. Mrs. E. H. Clark gave a very instructive paper entitled, "The Grange as a Social Center." One candidate was obligated and instructed in the mysteries of the fifth degree after which a committee consisting of Earl H. Clark, Wm. Mears and E. E. Stroud, was appointed to arrange for three one-day Grange Rallies to be held sometime in the spring. It is expected that State Master J. C. Ketcham will give an address on Grange work at each of these meetings.

In the evening the main part of the program was taken over by the teachers from the Boyne City schools. Miss Anne Callow, the domestic science teacher, gave a very instructive paper on "Handwork for Girls in the Rural Schools" illustrated by specimens of the work of the different grades in the Boyne City school. Miss Carr, the manual training teacher gave a paper on "Handwork for Boys in the Rural Schools" and Mr. Wheeler a talk on "What has been accomplished in one-half year of study in the Agricultural Course in the Boyne City High School." The next meeting will be April 9, 1914 with Ironton Grange.

ALFALFA BENEFITS.

Among the benefits from growing alfalfa are the following:
 It brings nitrogen to the land. This is the most costly and the most valuable element of fertility. It takes its nitrogen from the air and deposits it in the nodules formed on the roots.
 It brings humus, that is, decaying vegetable matter, to the soil. It does this through the abundance of its root growth. This in dry regions is very important because of the increased power which it brings to the soil to retain moisture.
 It aids in keeping down weed growths because of the cultivation it is necessary to give it dry localities; as when it is grown in rows that are distant from each other.
 It virtually subsoils the land. This it does by sending its roots down into the subsoil and there leaving fissures in the same through decay of the roots when the crop has been plowed up.
 The value of this wonderful plant to the agriculture of the United States it would not be easy to over-estimate.

TWO HOME WOMEN TALKED ABOUT HAIR

Two women met in our store the other day, when one of them said:
 "My, how pretty your hair looks! What have you been doing to it?"
 "Why, I have been using Harmony Hair Beautifier for the past two weeks" was the reply.
 "Why, indeed!" replied the first woman, "that is just what I am using. Isn't it great, and don't you think my hair shows a lot of improvement?"
 Harmony Hair Beautifier is becoming all the rage among both men and women who are particular in the care of their hair. It is just what it is named a hair beautifier. It seems to polish and burnish the hair, making it glossy silky-soft, and more easy to put up in graceful, wavy folds that "stay put." Contains no oil, and will not change color of hair nor darken it. Simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it.
 To keep your hair and scalp dandruff free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of the hair and scalp, insuring a quick and thorough cleansing. It is washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us—W. C. Spring Drug Co., East Jordan, Mich.

It pays to be honest, but sometimes pay day is a long time showing up. A genuine curiosity would be a man who keeps his mouth shut and lives to regret it. We have never seen a genuine curiosity.

IN GOOD CONDITION

Michigan Jails Raised to High Plane.

Lansing, Feb. 14—"The jails of Michigan are in better shape right now than ever before in the history of the state" declared Secretary Mari Murray of the state board of corrections and charities, today. Murray recently completed a visit of inspection to every county in the state and in most instances he visited every city or town of importance in the county.
 Murray thinks that the action of the last legislature in giving the state board of corrections increased powers in dealing jails and jail problems is largely responsible for the improvement. The board now has jurisdiction over all county and city jails and detention rooms. Since this power was granted the board has closed the city jail at Iron Mountain, remedied trouble in Battle Creek jail and has advised numerous changes and improvements in other jails all over the state.
 Secretary Murray recently received a communication from the board of supervisors of Otsego county jail by the state board, the supervisors had ordered that a proposition to bond for $10,000 for construction of a new jail be submitted at the spring election.
 "If the bonding question is defeated by vote of the people, what shall we do?" the supervisors asked.
 To which Secretary Murray dictated the following reply: "Then you will have to pay the fiddler. You will be up against the proposition of having the sheriff of your county take all prisoners to some other county jail and charging up big bills each month for traveling expenses, besides what it will cost you to care for the prisoners in some other county bastle."

 Murray suggested that the bond issue proposal be given the hearty support of the supervisors.

An Improvement That Will Sometime Come

Henry R. Pattengill, former superintendent of Public Instruction and well known writer and speaker on school subjects, expresses himself in his usually direct and vigorous way touching the question of proper provision for schools in a recent issue of his school journal, Moderator Topics. Mr. Pattengill's pertinent query, "When will prejudice give way to sense" is intended to refer to opposition to the township unit system, a provision that is certain to sometime be adopted in Michigan and the absence of which at this time increases the burden of many school districts and causes loss to country school pupils in every county in the state.
 "Talk about conservation! one room schools of two pupils, four pupils, and five pupils are running right now in several counties of Michigan. Note the per capita cost of such instruction! Consider the lack of inspiration the child and teacher find in numbers, companionship, and class competition! School-grounds, games, co-operation, and all such valuable educational factors are all wanting. In one district of five pupils, the rankerous community institute proceedings to compel the board to continue school. The board sensibly concluded that the needs of the children would be better served by transporting them to an adjoining school. When will this conservative belt of Michigan loosen up? When will this prejudice give way to sense? It is not essential that a schoolhouse be next to every child but it is essential that every child be put next to a good school."

FINAL NOTICE OF UNPAID TAXES

Agricultural Education

By Prof. M. E. Duckles, Elk Rapids, Mich.

Agricultural education has been wearing its seven-league boots during the past year. Those who have been watching its great strides have been amazed at the advance taken. In no other line of education, from engineering to music, has such important progress been made. The lavish demands of the American stomach may be open to criticism, but that organ has done its part in creating a situation that has brought forth an enormous amount of hard study directed at the economic resources of our country. What has come upon us mightily possibly has been postponed a few years had we been less wasteful in the consumption of our products, but most of us are rather glad that we are now living to see this wonderful educational revolution, brought about, though it may be by a badly regulated digestive apparatus.

Yet it is a pity that we have not been more saving in our food supplies. The waste has been costly both in dollars and cents and in human life. No one knows how much poverty, how much ill health, discomfort and distress, has been caused by our inordinate tastes and intemperate practices. And it is because many of us just eat for pastime, for entertainment, for sport, with a hardworking hungry man eating a business proposition, his demands are single so long as he has enough; but there are thousands of people who have to cater to a no-appetite taste, people whose chief thought and aim is to find "something different" to satisfy an unnatural craving brought on by little-to-do and lots of money.

There are other causes to which we might attribute our sudden awakening, but the fact remains that we are going forward rapidly toward the conservation and improvement of our agricultural resources. The high school that has not taken steps toward including a course in agriculture in its study outline, in whatever state, is a back number. Western Michigan has been and is at the front of this movement. Her high schools have taken up the work with an enthusiasm that means success, success that carries a score of counties on its shoulders. The farm owners of this region are now beginning to enjoy the benefits of this movement and have lost all desire to buy land elsewhere, while those who went west a few years ago to the plains beyond the Mississippi, are lamenting their unwisdom and praying for means to get back once more to the forests and streams and fertile fields they left.

Among the effective agencies promoting the cause of agricultural education are the farmers' institutes. These have grown in the last ten years from 9,570 sessions to 20,640 in 41 states. The attendance has increased from 904,664 to 2,897,391 in the same period. It would be hard to overestimate the value of the attention given to this work. For the most part it has been carried on by the states individually without any national appropriation. Last year all the states and territories excepting Louisiana, Nevada, Alaska and Porto Rico, held institutes at a cost of about $700,000.

Institute workers as a rule are selected from men of practical experience who have the faculty of being able to impart their theories and ideas to others. These men are paid according to their experience and ability and during the institute season depend largely for their transportation, board and lodging, upon the members of the various county agricultural societies, where the work is being done. In no cases are the institutes forced upon communities against their will. And he it said to the credit of the majority that the meetings are asked for and attended with enthusiasm. The one-day gatherings are usually held in the school-houses and grange halls and the schools often attend in a body and furnish short programs that add interest and variety to the occasion.

Institute workers generally welcome the school children to the audiences. The young people are often the most attentive listeners. Sometimes they bring their notebooks to take down such hints as may be new to them. It is recognized by the Department of Agriculture that the most effective instruction must be directed to the boys and girls, for old farmers, from force of habit, find it very hard to change the practices which they have held to for so many years. The young on the other hand are ready to take up with open minds and willing hands every advanced project applying to soil management, stock raising, or farm construction. Another decade will show wonderful changes in farm practices as well as in farm profits.

It is surely time that the farmer were coming to his own. Too long has he been the brunt of the funny man and the satirist. If it is true that he who laughs last laughs best, the farmer's halo will soon be heard from the fields of corn and alfalfa along every roadside. The process of education is necessarily somewhat slow, but it is as sure in its final results as the grinding of the mills of the gods. It has brought about all the splendid achievements of our modern civilization now enjoyed for the most part by the dwellers of the cities, but it is now at work for the man who lives in the house by the side of the road, who has done so much for the world in the past without receiving his share of the benefit. Here's to the success of agricultural education and the prosperity of the modern farmer!

go, let me go," as he pulled at his chain, "some great beast is after me, and has a great, big, ugly eye."

"He screamed so loud that the keepers ran to the tent to see what was the matter, and the little boy ran outside, laughing at the big elephant, that had told how brave he was, and yet was afraid of a little boy in the dark when he had a flash light."

"But, Daddens," said Little Pete, "what made the elephant afraid of the little boy?"

"What makes you afraid of the dark?" asked the Sand Farmer.

"O, I don't know. Just 'cause I don't know what's there, but if big elephants are afraid of a searchlight, I shan't be afraid of the dark any more, for I have my search light now, and can scare even the bugaboo man with it."

Just then Mother said, "Come, son, it's time you were going to bed," and Little Pete started upstairs alone, with his search light, chasing all the phantoms of the dark that had frightened him so many nights.

"Mother," said the Sand Farmer,

"I guess that we are all children, more or less, and need love's search light to drive away the dark things we often fear, but seldom see."

"I think I will begin to test my seed corn tomorrow morning, to drive away the poor-crop elephant with a little real light on the subject of seed germination next spring."

Mother smiled, and that was all the flash light the Sand Farmer needed to make his way light.

As he sat by the fire the pine stumps ceased to flare, and Mother, knowing how he would love to watch the flicking shadows, turned off the lights and drew up her chair by his side. Her hand some way found his chair arm, and the Sand Farmer's instinctively rested upon it.

As they sat by the dying embers their thoughts went back to the little ones no longer afraid of the dark, and they wished they could kiss them good-night and tuck them up in their beds when they went upstairs. But they knew that they were in the City of Light, where there is no more dying, and where the Lamb is the Light thereof.

FOREST NOTES.

The legislatures of Virginia and South Carolina are considering advanced forestry legislation.

Incense cedar is proving valuable for piling on the Pacific coast, where marine borers are particularly troublesome.

The paper used by the government printing office each year requires approximately 125,000,000 pounds of rag pulp and 490,000,000 pounds of wood pulp.

F. A. Elliott, state forester of Oregon, says that co-operative fire patrol associations among lumbermen for prevention of forest fires have proved their worth.

Roadside signs, each containing a single catchy sentence in large type, are proving effective in warning against fires on western forests. They give the essentials and tell the importance of protection against forest fires.

Although at first thought this matter of diagnosis appears to be of prime importance, in reality it is not so important or so difficult, as it seems. It is estimated that at least 90 per cent of all deaths of hogs from disease in the United States are caused by hog cholera. Therefore, in the case of any fatal outbreak, the chances are about nine to one that the cause is hog cholera. It is true that other infections may and do frequently complicate outbreaks of hog cholera, but in such cases the germ of hog cholera is the primary cause of the disease; and if we can take care of the germ of hog cholera the pig will usually overcome the other infections himself.

The symptoms exhibited by hogs sick of hog cholera are not sufficiently distinct from those produced by other maladies so that a positive diagnosis can be made only through a careful consideration of a number of other factors in connection with the symptoms. From a practical standpoint the important thing is to recognize hog cholera as soon as possible after its appearance in a herd in order that anti-hog cholera serum may be applied before the disease progresses too far. Good serum may be depended upon to protect well hogs, and even to cure a large percentage of those in the earliest stages of the disease, but it will not be of much avail when used upon hogs that are already visibly sick.

The following suggestions to farmers are offered as an aid to the early recognition of hog cholera in a herd:

1. Keep posted concerning the condition and health of hogs on other farms in your neighborhood. Sick hogs on a neighboring farm are a positive menace, for the germs of hog cholera are easily carried on the feet of men or animals.

2. Look over your herd regularly in order that any sick hogs may be promptly discovered.

3. If any hogs in the herd are found to be "off feed" or appear in anywise sick, separate them immediately from the remainder of the herd, and keep them and the main herd under close observation daily. If there is a tendency for the disease to spread in the herd the trouble is probably hog cholera. This diagnosis may be confirmed by killing one of the sick animals and examining the organs in the manner described in Farmers' Bulletin 379.

4. When the first symptoms of sickness are observed an immediate change of feed sometimes corrects the trouble. This is particularly true of swill fed hogs.

5. If there is any tendency for the disease to spread in the herd do not temporize, but immediately treat the herd with serum from the State College or State Live Stock Sanitary Board. Prompt administration of the serum is essential to success.

7. Remember that hog cholera kills millions of hogs where other diseases kill thousands. Dismiss from your mind all thought of such diseases as "lung plague," "infectious pneumonia," "pig typhoid," etc., for these are generally merely fanciful designations given to hog cholera by uninformed men.

THE ELUSIVE ONION.

Here's a good story related by Robert Edeson, the popular actor:

"An aged country couple on the urgent invitation of a grandson who lived in the city, were on for a visit. The grandson's wife were very anxious that the first meal should be one which the aged couple would enjoy after their long ride on the train, and accordingly the table groaned under its burden of good things to eat.

"In the course of the repast she noticed several times that the old man seemed to be making little progress with the meal.

"What is the matter, Grandfather?" she asked, "don't you like my dinner?"

"No, no, my dear," mumbled the old man, "it isn't that. Only I've a pickled onion in my mouth, and I haven't got but one tooth left, so it's harden's Sam Hill to catch it, it's so lively. Just rest easy a spell till I get a hold on it and I'll be all right."

creased through the season to 13.1 cents in November, 1911.

The best results were secured with the following three rations: No. 1, 3 parts of corn meal, 2 parts of low-grade wheat flour, and 1 part of shorts; No. 2, 3 parts of corn meal and 2 parts of low-grade wheat flour, and No. 3, 5 parts of corn meal, 3 parts of low-grade wheat flour, 1 part of shorts and 5 per cent of tallow. The same feeding value is secured in a ration of 3 parts of corn meal and 2 parts of oat flour but at the increased cost of 17 cents per 100 pounds of gain. Four parts of corn meal, 2 of low-grade wheat flour, and 1 of shorts gave very good results during the latter part of the feeding season, or in cool weather; that is, the proportion of corn meal and low-grade wheat flour may be increased in cool weather.

The bulletin goes into considerable detail regarding the average price of grain and buttermilk used in feeding experiments and also gives in detail an account of the equipment, management and methods of feeding. Illustrations are given showing the general arrangement, feed mixers and elevator in the interior of a station; an exterior view of a model well-equipped plant showing complete ventilation which can be easily controlled; and the exterior of a small fattening station with feed room in the rear. Other illustrations show individual birds which are good and poor types of feeders. A very good feeder has a short, thick head; a poorer type has a crowslike shape head. The bulletin also treats of breeding poultry, shrinkage in dressing, initial cost of chickens as affecting profit in fattening, relation of grain fed to manure produced, etc.

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE GIVES ADVICE ON SWINE.

The Department of Agriculture is in receipt of frequent inquiries concerning methods for distinguishing hog cholera from other swine diseases. The specialists in hog cholera investigations answer these inquiries as follows:

Helps For Advertisers

By J. W. Lafferty

Good advertising is that which attracts attention, creates interest and desire to own that which is advertised.

Asking a question in your "Ad" is an imposition upon the reader of the paper. Such expressions as "We Sell Hundreds of Brooms—What's the Reason?" might be answered in many ways, if the reader has the time and wants to figure it out, but it compels him to do something that should be unnecessary. He should be told the reason.

Advertising has done more to educate the people than any form of literature; all new inventions are exploited through advertising and by reading it we learn what the world is doing. Keep in mind that you are giving out special news of your store every time you write an Ad.

Help your paper to increase its circulation and you increase the readers of your Ad. It is sometimes a good investment to pay a few months' subscription to one of your customers so that you will be sure that he reads your Ad.

I have known men who say they do not believe in advertising and yet these same men keep several traveling men upon the road, reaching about one per cent of the people they could reach by good advertising at an immense saving in expense. Traveling men are valuable, but when they travel for a house that backs up their efforts by good advertising, it means increased sales in every territory. This old adage is good to remember by all who advertise: "In matters of principle stand like a rock, but in matters of taste swim with the current."

Never advertise "Goods at Cost" unless it is the absolute truth. Be sure that the public will find it out if you mislead them and remember that your competitors know the cost of goods as well as you.

"Sales Days," held weekly or monthly, are always good, but they must be real sales or the public will lose confidence in you.

Couple up your Ads with the Nationally Advertised articles; by so doing you get the benefit of the expensive campaigns that are run in all high grade magazines. Every line has this opportunity and it is a good plan for increasing business.

Take "Big Ben" for instance. If you handle it tell your people that they need not send away money for it when it can be purchased at home. Do this with anything in your line that is being given National publicity.

Do not criticize your competitor's goods in your Ad. It never has won a customer for anybody to "slam" his competitor, but reacts by advertising him. Let him alone and boost your own goods. The public is a great jury and the verdict is always in your favor if you keep in the select class of Advertisers.

HOLSTEIN DAIRY HERD AT TRAVERSE CITY STATE HOSPITAL.

Nineteen head of cattle from the Traverse City herd were entered in fifteen classes at the National Dairy Show for 1913. Although but three weeks' time was spent fitting the animals for the show eleven prizes were taken. The herd contains over one hundred head and several of the animals are record breakers.

Commerical Fattening Of Poultry

The Department of Agriculture has been carrying on experiments for over two years in the commercial fattening of fowl for the market, and has proven that mechanical labor-saving devices reduce the cost of fattening by reducing both the total amount of labor and the proportion of skilled labor required. The use of labor-saving mechanical devices has enabled one man to care for 4,000 to 5,000 birds. The results of the Department's experiments are published in a bulletin, "The Commercial Fattening of Poultry," which has just been issued and can be had by applying to the Department at Washington, D. C.

Provided stations are kept clean, mechanical features may be used to good advantage in handling poultry commercially, according to the Department's investigators. A mixing machine is particularly a good investment when one is fattening a large number of chickens.

The new bulletin gives illustrations of chickens in feeding batteries waiting to be fed and of pouring the feed into the troughs. It also shows other labor-saving devices, such as the spraying machine and a rack for squatted and hanging dressed poultry. The advantage of a portable feeding battery are emphasized in the Department's experiments. The portable feeding battery turned out the birds in better condition and reduced the cost of labor per pound of gain. It also eliminated some of the bruising of the birds caused by rehandling where stationary batteries are used.

An expert manager who is paid higher wages than the regular labor about a feeding station is a necessity unless the manager of the packing house understands how to fatten chickens and watches the work closely enough so that he can successfully direct ordinary help which has had some experience.

The conclusions of the Department's experiments, which are just being published, are made for the seasons of 1911 and 1912. The experiments were made at four separate feeding stations and therefore four sets of figures are given.

The average cost and the amount of feed consumed in fattening 394,744 chickens in the four experiments during the season of 1911 were, respectively, as follows: Grain, per pound of gain, 3.62, 3.33, 4.45 and 4.18 pounds; cost of feed, per pound of gain, 7.83, 7.20, 7.15 and 8.71 cents; total cost per pound of gain, 9.18, 9.20, 8.94 and 10.27 cents.

The averages in 1912 for 498,681 chickens were: Grain, per pound of gain, 4.49, 3.58, 3.72 and 4.98 pounds; cost of feed, per pound of gain, 8.74, 7.70, 6.81 and 9.95 cents; total cost per pound of gain, 10.37, 9.69, 7.98 and 11.54 cents.

termilk in place of tallow produced better results.

Oat flour produced greater gains than low-graded wheat flour, but the latter feed produced cheaper gains.

Beef scrap added to the buttermilk in a fattening ration did not increase the gain. The addition of condimental feeds did not increase the appetite of the birds, or help the gains. Grit is of no value in fattening for any period under 15 days.

Under commercial conditions in the Middle West the best results are secured by fattening for about 14 days until the middle of September, and then gradually shortening the period to six or seven days.

The birds ate more feed on three feeds a day, but used feed more efficiently when fed only twice.

Gains were produced at 1.89 and 1.41 cents, respectively, per pound cheaper in 1911, and 6.30 and 2.63 cents less in 1912 on broilers than on roasters, in two experiments.

There was great variation in the results secured in fattening. This was due to the difference in the ability of the birds to take on flesh to their weight, and to the effect of weather conditions. The variation in birds makes their selection in fattening of considerable importance, if the labor of the extra work can be handled economically. The influence of the weather in fattening allows a chance of error in comparing fattening experiments conducted at different times.

The bleach produced by fattening with buttermilk varies according to the amount of milk solids consumed by the birds.

The average cost of fattening hens in November and December was 10.92 and 8.74 cents in 1911 and 10.83 and 10.43 cents in 1912, respectively, per pound of gain at two stations. This is higher than the average cost of fattening chickens for the entire season at the same stations, but less than the cost of fattening chickens in November and December. Hens cost 7.7 cents per pound in 1911 and 10.3 cents in 1912, into the feeder, so that their flesh can be bought cheaper than produced at this time of the year. Cheaper gains were secured in fattening hens in 1911 on the rations used in fattening chickens than on a ration of corn chop with 15 per cent of shorts mixed with buttermilk.

Chickens cost 17.6 cents per pound into the feeder, in July, 1911, while the gains cost 7 cents per pound at this time; in November, 1911, they cost 9 cents per pound into the feeder, and 9 cents cost 10.5 cents per pound. This influences the profit in fattening and the best length of time to fatten, making it advisable to feed longer in the first part of the season. The cost of picking, grading, and packing (including freezing) was about 7 cents per head, making the total average cost of a pound of dressed poultry in July, 20.5 cents, which gradually de-

A Hint to Parents, or How to Frighten Away The Bugaboo Man

As the Sand Farmer sat around the pine-stump fire with Mother and the boys, Little Pete came over to his chair and said: "Daddens, tell me a story."

The Sand Farmer believes in the best raised crop on any farm—boys, and also believes that the hour before they go to sleep is the time to sow the seed of manhood.

Little Pete has been afraid of the dark for some years, and has had to have someone turn on the light before he could bring himself to go upstairs. His brothers were not afraid of the dark, and so far as could be learned no one had ever frightened him by telling him ghost stories, but he was afraid of that unclean "something," which is supposed to lurk in the dark.

As Little Peter snuggled down in the Sand Farmer's lap there was a royal god-fellowship enjoyed by both as the Sand-Farmer began the story. "Once upon a time there was a big elephant, who lived in the dark, dark woods, and boasted that he was not afraid of anything. He would charge a lion, a hippopotamus, and spank him with his great trunk, or spear him with his ivory tusks. But one day he came to a road which he had often traveled, and suddenly his feet broke through the ground, and he fell into a trap.

"He threshed with his trunk, and screamed until the ground seemed to tremble, but he could not get out.

"Then some men came and put chains around his legs, so he could not run away, and took him out of the trap, and led him to a large steamer at the sea-coast.

"He was shipped to America, and placed in a circus, where boys and girls could see what a big elephant looked like, but he never lost his spirit, and was especially fond of telling the other animals what great things he had done in Africa.

"A little boy traveled with the circus, because his father was the clown, and one night he remembered that he had left something in the animal tent, and thought he would go after it.

"His papa had given him an electric torch, or flash light, for Christmas, and he carried it in his pocket, so that he could find his way around the circus grounds at night when the lights were out, if he wanted to. So he put his flash light in his pocket, and started for the animal tent.

"As he came near he heard the big elephant bragging about how many lions he had killed, and what a brave elephant he was.

"The lions were replying that they had eaten a dozen elephants his size, and the monkeys laughed as they heard them quarreling, and began to tell how they had thrown coconuts on elephants' heads, and made them run away.

"The little boy listened for some time, and then remembered he was after something.

"He was a mischievous little boy, just like some others that I have known, and he liked to scare folks, but didn't really mean to hurt anyone.

"He crept close to the tent door, and then, without making any noise, crawled under it, and along until he was right in front of the big elephant.

"The animals were still telling how brave they were, and what great things they had done before they were captured. The little boy thought how sometimes he told what things he could do, but he thought that he would see just how brave the big elephant was.

"He went a little nearer, until he was right in front of the big elephant, and then pressed the button of his flash light, which looked like a great eye, and lighted up the elephant's face.

"Oh! cried the elephant, 'let me

Over 3,000 Are Injured During The Past Month

Reports of 3,052 accidents have been received by the industrial accident board during January, 1,071 of them being severe enough to entitle the injured employes or their dependents to compensation. Fatalities to the number of 26 were reported during the last month, the iron mines claiming nine victims. Five met their death while in the employ of railroad companies, one was killed in a railroad wreck while traveling for a farm implement company, two were killed in the lumber industry, two in the electrical industry, one met his death while working for an automobile company and the remaining six were killed while performing their duties for as many different industries.

Forty-six permanent injuries due to accidents were reported to the board, the automobile, lumber and railroad industries leading in this class of injuries with a combined total of 24 accidents. The employes who received injuries which did not result fatally or in permanent disability number 393, their injuries being of such a nature, however, to carry them into the compensation period. One thousand nine hundred and eighty-one workers received injuries of so slight a degree that they were not entitled to compensation. During December there were the same number of fatalities reported as in January, but the permanent injuries decreased from 57 that month to 46 in January. Accidents causing temporary disability increased from 966 in December to 399 in January, the accidents causing slight injuries also increasing by 40. During the past month 1,041 agreements in regard to compensation were executed and 882 cases were completed by the filing of as many final reports.

Ten Americans and 16 foreigners were killed or a ratio of nearly two foreigners killed to one American. In the accidents causing permanent disability, the ratio is somewhat lower, there being 17 Americans receiving such an injury compared to 22 foreigners. In seven cases the nationality was not given. The average wage earned weekly by those who met their death during the course of their employment is $16.66, while that earned by those who received permanent injuries is $13.10. This difference in the average wage seems to point to the fact that the occupations at which the 26 men were killed require men who are capable of earning a higher wage than those who were permanently injured at their work. The average age of those who met their death is 37, while that of those who were permanently disabled is 31 years.

Employers to the number of 460 during January signified their desire of operating under the act by sending in acceptances. This swells the total number of employers now operating under the act to nearly 11,500.

DEFECTIVE CHIMNEYS CAUSE OVER 100 FIRES LAST MONTH

State Fire Marshall Winship has compiled figures showing that 273 fires occurred in Michigan last month, an increase of 47 over January, 1913. Of the fires reported last month, 107 were caused by defective chimneys. The value of the property involved in the fires of the month was $502,000, while the damage amounted to $191,000, and the insurance carried was $400,000.

During January the fire marshal's department issued a large number of orders directing that fire escapes be installed in hotels, business blocks and other public buildings. Orders were also issued calling for changes to be made in exit doors in public buildings so that they will conform to the provisions of the State law. During January two violators of the theater law were arrested on charges made by representatives of the fire marshal's department. J. P. Taylor, a traveling show man, operating without a license and showing in town halls, upstairs theaters and other places without a booth, was arrested at Copemish. He pleaded guilty when arraigned and paid fines and costs amounting to about $14.

JOS. H. BREWER OF GRAND RAPIDS, ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN UTILITIES COMPANY.

At a special meeting of the directors of the American Public Utilities Company held at the executive office at Grand Rapids Wednesday, February 5, Charles B. Kelsey, President of the company, was elected chairman of the Board of Directors and Jos. H. Brewer, Vice-President and General Manager was elected President and General Manager of the company.

Pursuant to amended by-laws two new vice-presidents were elected: Jos. S. Hart, of the Earl Mirror Plate Company, and Hugh H. Hanson, president of the Merchants Heat & Light Co., of Indianapolis, a subsidiary of the American Public Utilities Co., Vice-President of the Ann Arbor R. R. and a director of the Empire Meat Company, New York City. Mr. Kelsey will retain his interests and will still be active in shaping the affairs of the company, but has designated for some time to be relieved of the large amount of routine responsibility which attaches to the office of president and his election to the presidency of the Grand Rapids Association of Commerce is another reason why he relinquished the presidency. Mr. Brewer's selection as president is well and favorably commented on in business circles and is generally accepted as a recognition of his great executive ability and untiring efforts to place the company in the high position it now occupies among public service corporations.

Upper Peninsula Ideal For Stock Raising, Says The State Veterinarian

"If I contemplated going into the stock breeding business I know of no better place in the United States for it than the upper peninsula," declared Dr. G. A. Dunphy, state veterinarian. Dr. Dunphy, who is speaking before farmers' institutes about the State on stock breedings and stock health, declares that the upper peninsula is practically free from tuberculosis and other animal diseases, there being no cases recorded with the State Sanitary Stock Commission.

Dr. Dunphy, who has had considerable experience in stock breeding and who has studied stock conditions in many states, declares that upper Michigan should, in time, become a great stock raising district of the United States owing to the ideal climate and water supply. Dr. Dunphy maintains that the healthful condition of sheep, cattle, hogs and horses and the absence of tuberculosis is due to the high and dry altitude and the agreeable climate. The pure water supply from spring brooks, lakes, rivers, etc., is also declared to be one of the ideal conditions for stock raising.

It is contended by President Halladay of the state sanitary stock commission that, owing to ideal conditions for stock raising, the upper part of the State will be in time the scene of the transferred field of operations already turning toward this State since the western ranges are being broken up and developed. Already inquiries are coming to various State officials from these sheep breeders who are seeking new pastures. The upper peninsula business organizations are welcoming these men for the reason that they are needed in the industry and because they are experts in their line.

The upper peninsula has something like 8,000,000 acres of land only a small part of which is developed. Dr. Dunphy, in pointing out the ideal position of this big tract for stock breeding, declared that the productiveness of the soil and the tremendous hay and grain crops added a feature entirely different from other locations. Michigan boosters, he said should assist incoming stockmen as much as possible and further declared that in another decade the northern part of the State would become noted for its meat and milk products.

GOVERNOR FERRIS PARDONS OLDEST CONVICT AT JACKSON

Lansing—Isaac Clark, the oldest convict in Jackson prison, walked from the prison gates today a free man. After serving more than 30 years of a life sentence for a double murder he was granted a pardon by Governor Ferris. Clark began his sentence in Jackson, December 30, 1881. He is 70 years old and the pardon was granted owing to his rapidly declining health, so that he would not have to die behind prison walls.

Clark, with Daniel Graham, was convicted of torturing and killing an aged couple, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Miller, living in a log cabin on the outskirts of Detroit, when the couple refused to disclose the hiding place of the wealth they had hoarded for their old age. After Graham and Clark had been convicted and taken to Jackson, the criminal career of Clark was not ended.

Several years later, Enoch A. Gerrard, who had been the chief witness for the prosecution in Clark's trial was also sentenced to Jackson for robbery. When he reached the institution Clark endeavored to force him into signing a statement that his testimony at the trial was perjured. Gerrard refused to do so and Clark attacked him with a knife and killed him.

Attorney W. D. Wallace of New Castle, Pa., acted as first friend for Clark in securing the pardon and will accompany him to New Castle, where the aged convict will be cared for by a relative.

PROF. J. O. LINTON OF M. A. C. STARTS "BRED TO LAY" SLOGAN

"Bred to Lay" will be the slogan of the M. A. C. poultry department. To increase the incubation capacity the department has installed an incubator with 1,500 egg capacity and the smaller machines formerly in use will be abandoned. The department has now ten different breeds in its flocks and will turn out fowls that can be obtained by farmers for the start of a pure blood flock at a reasonable price. The department has injected new blood into its yards by obtaining from the Flanders farm at Orchard Lake, a number of high-bred fowls.

Prof. J. O. Linton will concentrate the work of the department to the hens that produce the eggs and will endeavor to increase Michigan's egg supply by advocating they laying breeds and assisting the farmers all that is possible along that line.

A SECTION OF THE WEST MICHIGAN PIKE IN MANISTEE COUNTY.

Most of the twenty counties in the Western Michigan territory have made enviable records in the matter of road building. There is not a county but what has done something towards improving its main highways, some of the counties have done much. This is true of Manistee in which better than sixty miles of roadway have been graded, turpiked and covered with gravel. For a large share of this mileage, the wagon track is 14 feet or more in width. The roads improved have been, in the most cases, those leading from the prosperous farm sections to the shipping points. The above is a view on the West Michigan Pike between Manistee City and Bear Lake Village. The pike entirely crosses the county.

There are 550 factories in the city in which 37,692 breadwinners are employed. The products are greatly diversified and Western Michigan will have an opportunity of seeing how much it contributes to the welfare and comfort of the world.

CHARTER AMENDMENT NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given, That at a meeting of the City Commission of the City of East Jordan, the following amendments to the Charter of the City of East Jordan were proposed by the City Commission.
 Resolved, That Section four (4) of Chapter III and Section six (6) of Chapter III of the charter of the City of East Jordan, Michigan, be amended to read as follows:—
 Section 4. Each ward, unless otherwise subdivided, shall be an election district. The board of registration of each election district shall be in session at such times as are required by the laws of the state of Michigan and this charter, from eight o'clock in the forenoon until eight o'clock in the afternoon, at such places as shall be designated by the city commission, for the purpose of completing the list of qualified voters. Provided, however, That any qualified elector may be registered and be eligible to vote at any primary election if he shall appear in person before the city clerk, or other officer in charge of the registration book, and take the oath required as to qualification for registration, and request that his name be registered therein. The inspectors of election shall register any person who shall on any primary day appear and make oath or affirmation to the effect that he is a qualified elector in such voting precinct, or when they personally know him to be such. Any person registered on any primary as prescribed herein shall be entitled to vote at the succeeding election without other registration. There shall be no other registration day or days for a primary, general or special election, except as they may be prescribed by the general laws of the state of Michigan, or by this charter.
 Section 6. Candidates for the office of Mayor, Commissioner and Justice of the Peace to be voted for at any municipal election under the provisions of this charter shall be nominated at a primary election and no other names shall be placed on the election ballot for the election of such officers, except those selected in the manner herein-after provided. Provided, however, That if upon the expiration of the time for filing the statement of candidacy hereinafter required only two persons shall be candidates for any one office, then the names of the candidates for such office shall be omitted from the primary ballot and such persons filing such statements shall be deemed regularly nominated to such office. Provided further, That should there be not more than two candidates filing statements for any one office to be nominated at such primary and there be no state law requiring the holding of a primary at such time, no primary election shall be held and the city clerk shall give notice thereof and the reasons therefor, and all persons filing statements for any such office to be elected shall be deemed regularly nominated to such office.
 Further Resolved, That the proposed amendments be published in the Charlevoix County Herald, a newspaper published and circulating in said city, for two successive issues of said paper, and that they remain upon the table for thirty days before action is taken thereon.
 Adopted by the city commission of the City of East Jordan on the fifteenth day of February, A. D. 1914, by an aye and nay vote as follows:
 Ayes, Cross, Hudson, Kenny.
 Nays, none.

 Every name enrolled on the pages of history, as eminent in any particular line of thought or action represents an individual of purpose and will. The individual who starts in life determined to succeed and adheres to his resolution will generally do so. The will may be determined the rudder of the mind, it is the great engineer of the mental machinery. The strong willed plucky individual dispels opposition at the start and practically exemplifies the old proverb of "Where there's a will there's a way."

This role was taken by Harry Potter of East Jordan, who handled the part in a very creditable manner.

Commissioner Hudson offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:—

Resolved, That Section four (4) of Chapter III and Section six (6) of Chapter III of the charter of the City of East Jordan, Michigan, be amended to read as follows:—

Section 4. Each ward, unless otherwise subdivided, shall be an election district. The board of registration at each election district shall be in session at such times as are required by the laws of the state of Michigan and this charter, from eight o'clock in the forenoon until eight o'clock in the afternoon, at such places as shall be designated by the city commission, for the purpose of completing the list of qualified voters. Provided, however, That any qualified elector may be registered and be eligible to vote at any primary election if he shall appear in person before the city clerk, or other officer in charge of the registration book, and take the oath required as to qualification for registration, and request that his name be registered therein. The inspectors of election shall register any person who shall on any primary day appear and make oath or affirmation to the effect that he is a qualified elector in such voting precinct, or when they personally know him to be such. Any person registered on any primary as prescribed herein shall be entitled to vote at the succeeding election without other registration. There shall be no other registration day or days for primary, general or special election, except as they may be prescribed by the general laws of the state of Michigan, or by this charter.

Section 6. Candidates for the office of Mayor, Commissioner and Justice of the Peace to be voted for at any municipal election under the provisions of this charter shall be nominated at a primary election and no other names shall be placed on the election ballot for the election of such officers, except those selected in the manner hereinafter provided. Provided, however, That if upon the expiration of the time for filing the statement of candidacy hereinafter required only two persons shall be candidates for any one office, then the names of the candidates for such office shall be omitted from the primary ballot and such persons filing such statements shall be deemed regularly nominated to such office. Provided further, That should there be not more than two candidates filing statements for any one office to be nominated at such primary and there be no state law requiring the holding of a primary at such time, no primary election shall be held and the city clerk shall give notice thereof and the reasons therefor, and all persons filing statements for such office to be elected shall be deemed regularly nominated to such office.

Further Resolved, That the proposed amendments be published in the Charlevoix County Herald, a newspaper published and circulated in said city, for two successive issues of said paper, and that they remain upon the table for thirty days before action is taken thereon.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

The Poultry Department contains an extra strong article on "Commercial Fattening of Poultry."

Those contemplating the purchase of a Monument can save money by interviewing Mrs. Geo. L. Sherman who is local agent for a well-known manufacturer of high grade monuments.

Mrs. William Billings, of Antrim, was arrested and arraigned before Justice Wellman, Tuesday, on the charge of carrying concealed weapons, to which charge she pled guilty. It seems she was forming a habit of coming to Mancelona and on the way home amused herself by promiscuously shooting first in one direction and then another. When questioned why she did so, she replied "Just to raise the d—." She is confined in the Mancelona jail awaiting further developments.—Mancelona News.

A soft-hearted man always gets the worst of it when he has occasion to transact business with a hard-headed one.

Ed. Cummings, thirty years old, of Rapid City, was arrested late last Thursday morning at Cadillac by Sheriff Louis Chamberlain and Chief of Police Parquette. He is alleged to be a member of a "tough gang" that has terrorized Rapid City for several months. He is wanted on the charge of larceny from box car on the Pere Marquette railroad tracks at Rapid City on Jan. 28. Alfred Annis, another member of the gang, arrested in Ionia Monday by a Pere Marquette detective "peached" on his accomplices in the recent crime and as a result Sheriff White, of Kalkaska, believes he will have the "whole crew in jail in Kalkaska, within a few days."

Talks to Mothers

Mrs. Mary Wicks, Editor

The Small Boy And The Sunday School

Several women were talking about their children one day, says the Philadelphia Ledger, and one of them asked the others:

"Do you ever have any trouble about getting your boys to go to Sunday school? Mine seem to dislike it so that every Sunday there is almost a family row as to whether or not they shall go. Of course, I can compel them to go, but I do not like to do this; I want them to want to go. If any of you have solved this problem, please tell me how you did it."

The neighborhood in which the women lived was notorious for the number of boys who played about the streets all day Sunday, so all the mothers were much interested in the subject. By common consent, however, they turned to one lady, the mother of four boys, all of whom were regular and apparently happy attendants at Sunday school, and besought her to tell them the secret.

The lady smiled. "Yes," she said, "my four boys all go to Sunday school willingly now, but I can assure you that it was not always so. With two of them I never had any trouble, but the other two did not want to go at all. It troubled me greatly, and I spent much time before I got the correct solution. First I asked myself, 'Why don't these boys want to attend?' and by some careful questioning I got at the true solution. To make a long story short, I found that one was bashful and that the other didn't find anything to interest him there.

"This great point being gained, I went to the superintendent of the Sunday school and told him about the boys, and asked him to find teachers for each of them who would overcome the points of resistance. The bashful boy was placed in a class where his shyness was respected, and where he was not asked even to answer a question until this bashfulness had entirely worn off. The other one was put in the class of a young man who took a great interest in all of his boys. He started a little club, which was confined to the members of his class. They have a meeting once a month that is like a party, and no boy in that class will miss a Sunday, for fear he will miss something about the club. Since that time I have never had any trouble.

"The secret of the whole matter," she concluded, "is that every case must be treated according to the needs of the particular boy. What fits one case will not fit another, and the treatment must come from the teacher rather than from the mother. We can only give the right start; the Sunday school itself must do the rest."

True and Tried Recipes

Fancy Work and Cooking for the Season

Baked Salmon Steak.

Take thick slices of salmon and a baking pan large enough to hold them in single layer. For each slice use one tablespoonful of chopped onion, one of chopped parsley and one of chopped celery or of dried celery leaves. Sprinkle these over the bottom of the pan. Salt and pepper both sides of the salmon slices and lay them in the pan. Dot them liberally with butter and pour a very little hot water into the pan. Bake in a quick-oven twenty-five to thirty-five minutes, at the last browning on the top grate. Lift out carefully on a hot platter. Just a little moist dressing should be left in the pan. Take this out, spread it on the slices and serve.

Cold roast pork in the estimation of many persons, is far better than when served hot. Cut in small thin slices and serve with apple sauce.

The tender white meat of a roast of pork may be made into a salad which many cannot tell from chicken salad. Combine with celery and a few olives and cream.

One cup of dried cold pork added to the gravy that was left over (after carefully removing fat) may be heated and turned over toast and served for breakfast.

Pork Croquettes.

Pork croquettes are most delicious if made with a cup of mashed potatoes to each cup of diced pork. Mix together and add one or two drops of onion juice, a little minced pepper or pimento, and salt to taste. Use one-half cup of very thick sauce or pork gravy. Mix all together. Form into shaps and set in cold place for three or four hours, slice and dip in eggs and roll in fine bread crumbs an hour before ready to fry. Drop in wire basket and fry in deep fat until golden brown. Serve with baked apples.

Creamed Oysters.

Put one pint of oysters into one pint of cold water. Put one pint of cream in a double boiler over fire. When it gets foamy it is hot enough. Put one tablespoonful of butter into a saucepan, stir over fire until hot, but not brown; then stir in gradually one tablespoonful of flour and pour on cream, a little at a time, and stir until smooth. Season with salt, pepper and a small pinch of mace. Add oysters after draining and let remain over fire until the edges are curled. When ready to use warm the patties and put two tablespoonfuls of oysters in each patty.

Holiday Fruit Punch.

Use as many different fruits as desired, sliced lemons, pineapples, white grapes cut in halves, and seeded oranges, preserved cherries, and put in a punch bowl with a quart of plain or charged water, the juice of four lemons, two oranges and a sugar sirup made by cooking together a pound of sugar and a pint of water. Freshly brewed tea may be added with advantage to any fruit punch, particularly when mineral waters are used. Decorate the rim of the punch bowl with small clusters of grapes and set the bowl on a mat of grape leaves.

French Stew.

Put a little butter in a spider, slice a small onion and fry in the butter. Cut left over turnip and carrot in fancy shapes. Put the gravy left from a roast into the spider. Cook a few minutes and strain. Now cut nice slices of the cold roast meat and put in the gravy. Cook ten minutes, add turnip and carrot and one can of peas. Pour on a platter and serve.

Pork Tenderloin, Sweet Potatoes.

Wipe the tenderloins, put in dripping pan and brown quickly in hot oven. Then sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake forty-five minutes, basting every fifteen minutes. Bake potatoes and parboil ten minutes, drain and put in pan with meat. Cook until soft, basting when basting meat.

Puree of Carrots.

Boil enough carrots to make two cupfuls after they have been put through a sieve. Add three cupfuls of milk, add salt to taste and place over the fire and let come to a boil, then add three small tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with a little cold milk. Stir constantly until it boils, add a tablespoonful of butter, a dash of pepper and take from the fire and serve. A little light brown sugar may be added and a dash of grated nutmeg if you like.

New England Pie.

Use a deep pie plate. Pare Baldwin or greening apples, core and cut in thin slices. Line your pie plate with pastry, place a layer of apples over this and sprinkle with brown sugar. Then another layer of apple with the sugar until the pie plate is well filled and heaped in the middle. Over the top dot bits of butter, shake a pinch of salt over the whole and a small dash of red pepper, which will give a rich, pungent seasoning that other spices will not. Set the edge of the lower crust, sprinkle with flour, put on the upper crust and press the edges firmly together. Bake a rich brown.

Cheese Puffs.

Use two tablespoons of flour; rub smooth into two heaping tablespoons of butter. Add one-half cup of milk and put over in double boiler to cook. Stir constantly for ten minutes. Take from fire and add one-half cup grated cheese and the well-beaten yolks of three eggs. Allow to cool. Twenty minutes before you are ready to serve the puff fold in the well-beaten whites of three eggs. Turn all into well-greased pudding dish. Set in skillet of hot water in moderate oven. Bake twenty minutes. Serve at once.

Swiss Steak.

Put two and a half pounds of round steak into a saucepan with just enough cold water to keep it from burning as it slowly cooks until tender enough to fall to pieces. Keep the saucepan well covered. A casserole is the best dish for cooking this tender. Then remove the bones, fat and gristle and mince very fine. Add salt and pepper to suit the taste, a pinch of nutmeg and a little catsup or hot table sauce. Press out the juices and work into the meat one unbeaten egg. Mold into shapes four inches long and three inches wide. Sauté these a nice brown in good sweet dripping or bacon fat; arrange on a hot platter and garnish with parsley. Make a sauce by adding a large tablespoon of butter to the pressed out juices, a cupful of milk, half a cupful of water and salt and pepper to taste. Thicken with a little flour-paste and add half a can of button mushrooms or a dozen small oysters parboiled in their own liquor. If the oysters are used take the oyster liquor instead of water for making the sauce.

Yoke and vest effects are immensely popular at present, and many pretty combinations may be effected along these lines, if one possesses a little taste and skill. A splendid style showing these features will be found in Pattern 9818. This waist may be made for evening wear without the chemisette. Snuff brown crepe de chine, with trimming of green messaline, and chemisette of ecru shadow lace was here combined. The sleeve shows a new and attractive style feature. Corn Meal, The American Indian's Gift To Civilization

Originally "Indian corn" was a tropical or subtropical plant, but the Indians, who made it one of their staple foods, succeeded finally in producing varieties which would ripen as far north as Canada. Since the discovery of America, this staple food of these aborigines has been generally raised all over the world. It now ranks with wheat, rye, barley, oats and rice as one of the most important food grains, and may be called the American Indian's greatest gift to modern civilization.

Indian corn, therefore, has special historical interest for Americans from the fact that it is generally recognized as being native to American soil. Its cultivation and use even in the early colonial days was very widely distributed. The desire to produce it was probably the incentive which most frequently led the Indians to abandon nomadic life and to form settlements. Because of the quickness and ease with which it can be raised, it was undoubtedly the means of saving from starvation many of the pioneers who came from other lands. So important was this food in the days when the country was being settled that both natives and colonists in their troubles with one another found it was a greater blow to destroy corn crops of adversaries than to make war upon them.

The Department of Agriculture's experts in nutrition have been studying the possible uses of corn meal, which they have figured out makes up over 8 per cent of the total food consumed by the people of the United States. In a farmer's bulletin (No. 565), entitled "Corn Meal as a Food and Ways of Using It," several dozen recipes are given that may call to mind old favorites and suggest to the housewife untried dishes both appetizing and nutritious. Some of these recipes date back to the aborigines of the soil. One of them is as follows:

Zuni Indian Bread.
One cup white corn meal, 1 cup yellow corn meal, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon cayenne, 1 cup chopped suet.
Mix all well together; form into rolls about 5 inches long; roll in greased paper, and bake in moderate oven 1 hour. Serve hot.

The habit among the Indians was to roll these cakes in the husks of the corn, a method which is sometimes followed by campers. There are other simple breads which were first made by the Indians and are very old types, closely resembling the breads of other primitive people. Though easy to prepare, they are nevertheless very palatable. Two of these are "Ash Cake" and "Hoe Cake."

Ash Cake.
One quart corn meal, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon lard or other shortening, boiling water.
Sauté the meal; add the salt and shortening; and when the mixture is cool form it into oblong cakes, adding more water if necessary. Wrap the cakes in cabbage leaves, or place one cabbage leaf under the cakes and one over them, and cover them with hot ashes.

Hoe Cake.
Hoe cakes are made out of corn meal, water, and salt. They were originally baked before an open fire on a board which for convenience had a long handle attached to it. At present they are cooked slowly and on both sides on a well-greased griddle.

Certain dishes made of Indian corn have become identified with certain localities and thus we have particular recipes bearing the names of these localities. For instance, there is South Carolina Corn Bread.

South Carolina Corn Bread.
One and a half quarts fine corn meal, 2 1-2 quarts wheat flour or 2 1-2 quarts fine corn meal, 1 1-2 quarts wheat flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 pint mashed sweet potatoes, 1 cake yeast.
Mix 1 pint each of the corn meal and the flour and add warm water enough to form a stiff batter. Add the yeast cake, mixed with a small amount of water. Keep this sponge in a warm place until it becomes light. Scald the meal with boiling water and as soon as it is cool enough add it to the sponge.

Boston-Brown Bread.
Boston Brown Bread may be made as follows:
One cup corn meal, 1 cup rye meal, 1 cup Graham flour, 2 1-2 teaspoons soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup molasses, 2 cups sour milk, or 1 1-4 cups sweet milk.
Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add the molasses and milk. Beat thoroughly and steam 3 1-2 hours in well-buttered, covered molds. Remove the covers and bake the bread long enough to dry the top.

This may be made also with 1 1-2 cups corn meal and rye meal and no Graham flour.

Boston Brown Bread With Fruit.
Follow recipe for Boston brown bread, adding to the dry ingredients a cup of seeded and shredded raisins or prunes or a cup of Zante currants.

Boston Brown Bread With Cream.
One cup rye meal, 1 cup corn meal, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cup molasses, 2 eggs, 1 1-2 cups thin cream.
Sift the dry ingredients. Add molasses, yolks of eggs well beaten, and cream; lastly, fold in the whites of eggs beaten stiff. Pour mixture into buttered mold, steam three hours; then bake 1 hour in a moderate oven. Italy has also contributed to the list of palatable dishes which may be evolved from corn meal. An instinctive attempt on the part of Italians to supply the body with all the food elements required, by means of one dish has resulted in "Polenta."

This dish, which is common in Italy, differs little, except in name, from hasty pudding, though it is served in very different ways. Sometimes cheese is added during the cooking. Polenta is often reheated either with tomato sauce, or a meat gravy left over from a meal or with a meat gravy made from a small amount of meat bought for the purpose, or with half tomato sauce and half meat gravy. In any case, the dish is improved by sprinkling each layer of polenta with cheese. When the polenta is to be reheated in gravy, it is well to cut it into small pieces in order that the gravy may be well distributed through the dish.

Tomato Sauce for Polenta.
Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup thick strained tomato juice, salt and pepper.
Melt the butter; cook the flour thoroughly in it; add the tomato juice and seasonings; and cook until smooth, stirring constantly.

Another attempt to produce a balanced ration in one dish has been made by the natives of Jamaica. It is called "Stamp and Go," and consists of salt fish, lard and corn meal, and has a nutritive value resembling that of scrapple. A good recipe for scrapple is the following:

Corn Meal Scrapple.
One pig's head split in halves, 2 cups corn meal. Salt and sage.
Cook the pork in water until the meat can be easily removed from the bone. Remove the meat, cool the broth, and remove the fat. Reduce the broth to about 2 quarts or add water enough to bring it up to this amount, and cook the corn meal in it. Add the meat finely chopped and the seasonings. Pack in granite bread tins. Cut into slices and fry. The addition of meat to corn meal does actually tend to produce a balanced ration, for the meat furnishes protein and fat while the corn meal furnishes the starch. There are a number of dishes made from corn meal and meat or fish in which much is made, or which resemble much in some particulars. Among these are corn meal fish balls and tamales, recipes for which are given herewith:

Corn Meal Fish Balls.
Two cups cold white corn meal mush, 1 cup shredded codfish, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon butter.
Pick over the codfish and soak it to remove salt, if necessary. Combine the ingredients and drop by spoonfuls into hot fat. Drain on porous paper. These codfish balls compare very favorably in taste with those made with potato and are more easily and quickly prepared.

Tamales.
Meat from 1-2 boiled chicken, 1 clove garlic or 1-2 medium sized onion, 1-4 teaspoon cayenne, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup corn meal, 2 or 3 small red peppers, corn husks.
Chop the chicken; season with the cayenne pepper, garlic, or the onion finely chopped, and salt; form the meat into little rolls about 2 inches long and three-fourths inch in diameter. Pour boiling water over the meal and stir; use water enough to make a thick paste. Take a heaping tablespoon of the paste, pat it out flat, and wrap a roll of chicken in it; then wrap each roll as made, in corn husks which have been softened by immersion in hot water, tying the husks with a piece of string close to each end of the roll. Trim off the ends of the corn husks, allowing them to project an inch or two beyond the rolls. Cover the rolls with the broth in which the chicken was cooked, or with boiling salted water. Add two or three small shari, red peppers, and boil for 15 minutes.

Tamales are usually made with chicken, but other meat may be used if desired.

COUGH-TWO YEARS OLD

Yields to Vinol. Read Why.

Strong vigorous men and women hardly ever catch cold; it's only when the system is run down and vitality low that colds and coughs get a foothold.

Now isn't it reasonable that the right way to cure a cough is to build up your run-down condition again?

Mrs. D. A. McGee of Waycross, Ga., says: "I had a chronic cold and cough which kept me awake nights for two years and I felt tired all the time. Vinol cured my cough and I feel stronger in every way."

The reason Vinol is so efficacious in such cases is because it contains in a delicious concentrated form all the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, with tonic, blood building iron added.

Chronic coughs and colds yield to Vinol because it builds up the weakened, run-down system.

You can get your money back any time if Vinol does not do all we say.

THE WILL TO LIVE HELPS THE DOCTOR

It has always been known to physicians and nurses that grit and courage on the part of their sick and injured patients were possessions as desirable as any other favorable and helpful conditions. In a recent reference to this necessary service that can be rendered by the mind towards the restoration of the body the New York Herald comes to the conclusion that the will plays a more important part with reference to life and death than the ordinary observer has ever realized. "A series of cases of deaths within a few days of each other of persons who were nearly related, the first of which were those of Dr. and Mrs. S. Weir Mitchell, affords striking illustration of the place of the will to live in human life. It is a common observation that whenever for any reason one who is ill gives up hope of being cured or fears that life may not be worth living, the outlook of the case is always serious. Physicians are always anxious about such persons, even in minor ills.

It is truer among the old than the young that the will to live is an important element for recovery from serious illness, but at all ages this represents a much more important factor than is often thought. The will to get well strenuously exercised would save many a sufferer from prolonged symptoms that are very difficult to bear and make life almost impossible. The lesson thus taught is a precious one much needed in our time.

Lumberman who were agitated some time ago over the salubrious climate this region was enjoying are now in the midst of the kind of weather they were looking for. To be driven from home by fire when the thermometer registered nearly thirty degrees below zero was the unfortunate experience of Harry Darling and family of Pellston, Thursday morning, when a blaze caught around the chimney. The family did not have time to dress before they were obliged to leave the house and Miss Bessie Darling had her feet frozen while running to a neighbor's. FOLK SONGS.

Work has been begun by the United States bureau of education which has for its object the collecting of the folk songs that were current in the early days of the country and which were brought over from the old country by the early settlers. Many of these songs have been forgotten and unless they are collected and preserved in the national archives they will be forever lost to the coming generations. There was a strength and beauty in these songs that is truly inspiring and they show character of the people who founded the new nation and builded the superstructure. The study of the songs of a nation is interesting, especially when the different periods are considered and compared. Great songs have been written in this country at different times, many of which have been all but forgotten by the present generation.

These old songs were far superior to those that are in use at the present time, because they were written with a purpose and came from the heart of the writer. The songs of the present will not live because they are merely written for revenue and have no enduring theme. Too-much attention is paid to the songs of the present and too little to those of the past which inspired generations to better and nobler things. The commercializing of the song has worked to the detriment of American music and in the course of time there will be a revival of the old time songs and ballads. This change has been foreseen by the bureau of education and their efforts to collect the songs that were instrumental in inspiring the people of the early days in their struggles in contending with the hardships of the new country in a move in the right direction which will be appreciated in the future when the rag time era has passed and real music comes to be truly appreciated. The singer and song writer have always been a factor in building nations and it is to be regretted when commercialism retards the progress of real music and discourages the writing of songs that are really worth while and have the true elements of the national life. The time has already come when the real songs must be sorted out from the popular rubbish and kept in a form that will not allow them to be forgotten in the mad rush of the world as it is hurrying toward the more sordid and material things.
