Spencer Block Badly Burned

The Spencer Block was badly gutted by fire Monday afternoon, in a blaze which taxed our fire department to its utmost to keep it from destroying the entire structure.

The fire originated near the roof of the back part and an alarm was turned in. The fire department responded promptly and an effort was made to extinguish the blaze with chemicals. The building is constructed mainly of pine, and this, coupled with the fire being just under the roof and almost inaccessible, made hard work for the fireman. Water was brought into play, and this held the fire from going below the second story.

The store buildings were occupied by George Spencer with his plumbing shop and electrical supplies, and by the Blount Bazaar Store. The second floor was divided into apartments, George Spencer, with his mother and family occupying a part, and the families of Jesse Simmons and Walter Petrie the other apartments. Owing to the dense smoke caused by the burning pine, it was impossible to save any of the household furnishings from the second floor and these are badly injured by the water and smoke. Some of the contents of Mr. Spencer's shop were removed, but the remainder of this stock together with that of Blount's Bazaar were soaked with the falling water.

Mr. Spencer carried fire insurance on the building and the contents owned by him, and Blount's Bazaar was insured.

Death of Jas. M. Cummins

The funeral of James Michal Cummins, whose death from Bright's disease last Friday was reported in these columns, was held from the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. John Clemens. The remains were in charge of the local I. O. O. F. lodge of which deceased was a brother member. Interment at East Jordan cemetery.

Deceased was born the 15th of Nov. 1865 at Wegatchie, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y. his parents being John and Eliza Cummins. He came with his parents to East Jordan in 1878, and in July, 1889, he was united in marriage to Miss Maude Gregg of Sears, Mich. They made their residence here for a number of years, and later moved to Pewaukee, Wis. Owing to his failing health Mr. Cummins and wife returned to East Jordan last September, and made their home with their father, John Cummins.

Besides his wife, deceased leaves to mourn his loss his father, two brothers, Joseph and John, and two sisters, Mrs. Rose McArthur of this city and Mrs. Ida St. John of Escanaba.

Death of Mrs. Harriet Stephan

The remains of Mrs. Harriet Stephan, who passed away at Lansing, Mich., Friday, Feb. 4th, were brought to East Jordan, Saturday last for interment. Funeral services were held from the Methodist Episcopal church Monday afternoon conducted by the pastor, Rev. John Clemens; interment at East Jordan cemetery. Deceased was born in Holland, Europe, in 1851. She was united in marriage to Mr. Stephan in that country and they came to this country about twenty-five years ago, locating at Ellsworth, Antrim county. She has since resided at Grand Rapids, and for several years made her home at East Jordan, going to Lansing last November.

Deceased leaves, besides her husband three sons and three daughters—Peter, Henry and John Stephan of Lansing, Mrs. Carl Bohls of Lansing, Mrs. Abe Lamper of Grand Rapids, and one daughter who resides near Ellsworth.

Old Nursery Rhymes Revamped

There was a man in our town,
Who was not very wise,
He went to buy his wife a belt,
But he did not know the size.
And when he took it home to her,
She should have heard the kicks,
'Twas eighteen inches 'round,
The belt was thirty-six!

The bells in the choir may bring
Some young men to church than the Bell in the steeple.

Wise and Otherwise

What would be the basest crime in time of peace is the highest exemplification of patriotism in time of war.

ELBERT BEDE SAYS

The anti-militarists seem to have overlooked the Salvation Army.

The secret ballot will soon be a back number with women becoming voters.

Perpetual motion has been found at last. The man who discovered it has a wife and twelve daughters.

The candidate thinks more about good roads when he wants to pave his way into office than he does afterwards.

If the war in Europe continues another couple of years, disarmament will become mighty popular with the taxpayers over there.

It is proposed to have congress in continuous session—and this just as several noted preachers were claiming the world was getting better.

The man who said there is no connection between poverty and crime must be right. There are many times more bankers in jail than newspaper men.

The wholesale price of steel bars has dropped, so it is said, and the economical housekeeper will see that she gets the benefit when doing the family shopping.

The chief objection to our banking system is that the man who hasn't any money can't get any, while the man who has plenty of it can always borrow more.

A former newspaper man is president of a college. If he imparts to the students everything he learned as a newspaper man, some well trained young men and women are going to be turned out into the world.

The fact that a woman is married is not to bar her from teaching in Oregon. From experience with her own children the mother should be better qualified to act as proxy parent to the children of the neighborhood.

Short and Sweet

Pat—"I hear you and the boys struck for shorter hours. Did you get 'em?"
Mike—"Sure. We're not working at all now."

In Memoriam, H. L. Olney

At the business session of the Charlevoix County Farmer's Institute Society at Ironton, Feb. 5th, 1916, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, Our earnest and beloved leader and President, Herbert Olney, has been removed from our midst thru death, therefore

Be it resolved, That we, the members of the Charlevoix County Farmer's Institute Society extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy, also

Be it resolved, That we in this way express our deep and sincere appreciation of Mr. Olney's services in the interests of better agriculture thru his activity in our Society, and further

Be it resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent to the family and to the several county papers.

And Along Came Ruth

"When I open the windows to sweep the rooms," complained Ruth's aunt Caroline, "the curtains brush back and forth and rub up against the screens and outer sash, and become so soiled that they are a constant nuisance."

"Just let me tell you an easy way to avoid that," said Ruth. "Sew snap fasteners on the inside of each lower corner of your curtains, and the other half of the snap about three quarters of the way up, on the inside also, one on each side of the curtain. In this way they can be quickly caught up and held in place, yet the fasteners will not be seen by the casual observer."

"Ruth, that head of yours," began her aunt, "but words fail me!"

Insults and pills are best swallowed without chewing.

But the thorn remains long after the rose has withered.

However, the less a man talks, the more he doesn't have to apologize.

SAVING AT THE SPIGOT AND WASTING AT THE BUNGHOLE

There is an economy that saves at the spigot and wastes at the bung-hole. To practice economy in little things and forget it in the larger ones is no economy at all. To walk a mile in order to save five cents car fare may not be a good policy, for the time may be worth many times the saving. It has been figured out that it does not pay a carpenter to stoop down to pick up a nail, for the time he wastes would buy two nails. You often see men and boys in the big city dashing in front of autos, dodging trolley cars and taking desperate chances with their lives to save a few moments time, and then stop for ten or fifteen minutes to watch some gentleman in a window advertising a corn cure. Be consistent!

It never pays to buy something simply because it is cheap. If you do not need it, it is dear at any price. The woman who is eager for bargains and buys simply because she cannot resist the temptation to get a bargain has swindled herself. True value consists in getting the maximum return for the money spent.

Last summer a woman bought six baskets of peaches that were spotted, and thought she bought them cheap, and her economical soul was exultant; but when she found she had fewer cans than if she had bought sound fruit, and the scraps were useless for "peach butter," and in her anxiety to get them canned before they spoiled she worked herself sick and let the syrup boil until it crystallized, she realized that there are some bargains that are not bargains.

When a wave of economy strikes the household, the wife generally decides to save on the table, which is all very well, provided she knows how. But to buy cheap meats and state vegetables may be the poorest sort of economy.

There are some cuts of beef as nourishing as porterhouse at one-third less the cost; but to buy bone and gristle for beef is to deceive yourself. If the family eats no fat, buy lean cuts. Pork chops can be had with practically no fat or bone at all. These are the loin chops. Rump roast is all meat and no bone and goes a long way because there is no waste. In the matter of clothing costly economy can be practiced. Two pairs of two dollar shoes will not last half as long as one pair of four dollar ones. Gingham costs more than calico, but it wears longer and looks better. It costs just as much to make a dress of calico as of gingham and the only difference is the small saving in material cost, which is overbalanced by the short wear. A remnant is not cheap unless you can use it.

It may pay a woman to do her own laundry, but if she breaks her health it is costly washing. You can save money by doing without eating—at least cutting it down to stopping the craving for food. You can eat candy just before dinner and not want soup and meat; but that is saving money to hire a doctor. True economy does consist in doing without some things—needless luxuries, but not in doing without the necessities of life. There are many ways to save, but look out that in saving at the spigot you don't forget the bung-hole.

The Pessimist Breaks Loose

There is a land of small delight
Where all we mortals dwell,
Where something pesters day and night
And holidays, as well,
Misfortune's ice is spread afar
Whereon each mortal slips;
And those who dodge the mortar car
Appendicitis grips.

While shines the sun man maketh hay
And sunstroke is his gain
He saveth for a rainy day;
And lo it doesn't rain.
The demon corn gnaws at his feet,
Or pain his eye tooth rides,
Or something that he's had to eat
Disturbs his whole insides.

His wife deletes what ere he's earned
And buyeth hats galore;
And every time his back is turned
They raise his taxes more
Almost before he gets to bed
A new day doth commence.
Full oft he'd wish that he were dead—
Except for the expense.

Such is the life we mortals live—
A paltry, tiresome task.
All joys are given in a sieve,
Cares in a stoppered flask;
If poor a man is thought a dunce;
If rich, 'tis called a crime.
Good fortune knocks, 'tis said but once;
Hard luck knocks all the time.

He who never does wrong never
Does very much, anyway.

FEBRUARY, MONTH OF "RED-LETTER" DAYS ("By Observer.")

February, while the shortest month of the year, certainly holds its own in number of "red-letter" days—days having some special significance attached to them. With an added day tacked on the rear end, the month this year also crowds September, April, June and November for length. Over the United States there are thousands of people who will this year celebrate an anniversary of their birth on Feb. 29th who have not had an opportunity for doing so for four years.

The first red-letter day of February was the 2nd—candlemas, or groundhog day more or less associated with superstition the United States over. The 12th is an anniversary of the birth of Lincoln, born 107 years ago. On the 14th comes St. Valentine's day, when little tokens of love and remembrance are exchanged—an ideal opportunity for us to remind our absent relatives and friends that they are still in our memory. Sunday, the 20th is a more or less widely known church day—Septuagesima—meaning the third Sunday before Lent. Washington's birthday comes on the 22nd and is the 174th anniversary of that event. On the 27th is Sexagesima—second Sunday before Lent, and then the 29th—Leap Year Day, the extra one added to the month one year in four which gives the year the title of "Leap Year," during which those girls of marriageable age who think it is not embarrassing to "pre-possess" are offered an opportunity of doing so themselves.

The word "February" is from the Latin "febru," meaning to purify.

Temperance

A WORLD-WIDE WAR.

"A world without a liquor nation by 1930"—this, said Daniel A. Poling, in an address delivered at the Panama-Pacific exposition, this is the goal of the National Temperance council. The membership of this organization, of which he is president, is made up of leaders from 97 national religious and reform societies and its activities are to be international in scope. The first great word of its declaration of principles is unite, the second educate, and the third exterminate. "The temperance fanatics today," affirmed Mr. Poling, "are not preachers and women, but railroad presidents, owners of steel mills, scientists, popular novelists and war lords. Medical authorities are laying charges against the door of John Barleycorn that the most rabid temperance orator of five years ago never dreamed of making."

"Chief Actuary Hunter of the New York Life Insurance company has claimed prosperity in human life for Russia as the result of the prohibition of vodka that takes away the breath of a third party prohibitionist. Sam Blythe is writing temperance articles for the Saturday Evening Post that discount the Union Signal."

"William Jennings Bryan, delivering a temperance address in Cooper Union, New York, has used language that vies with the choicest epithets John B. Gough ever employed."

"The Carnegie Steel works is stricter in its total abstinence requirements for its employees than is the average church for its members."

"And just now Emperor William and Czar Nicholas have, in the trenches of Flanders and on the plains of Poland, Galicia and Russia, the greatest temperance societies in the history of the race."

"There is a white ribbon around the world."

A MAYOR'S TESTIMONY.

"The saloons were closed on the 15th of February. All the desirable locations were picked up by other businesses within the next few weeks following. A few out-of-the-way locations are still vacant."

"I cannot see that there is any appreciable effect because of throwing men out of employment and certainly no increase in demands for charity. In fact, it is exactly the other way. The men who lost employment have gone into other lines. Some of them have followed up their former calling in other cities, but the men who were spending in the saloons the money which their families needed are now buying groceries and shoes instead. The consequence is a very much better tone in every way. In the first place their families are not now in want and in the second place, they are paying their bills for the ordinary necessities. This is making collections noticeably better in other lines, so our merchants report."

"Our experience proves that a decisive policy can handle the bootlegging very effectively. There will be some illicit sales, to be sure, but they can be reduced to a very small minimum."

NO FRIENDS OF J. BARLEYCORN.

The saloonkeepers of Washington, D. C., were sorely disappointed, it is said, because few of the veterans attending the Grand Army encampment spent their money for drinks. Of the 20,000 marching only one or two were seen "under the influence." One of the old soldiers explained it thus: "The fellows who could drink it or let it alone are not here—nearly all of them are in their graves." It is worthy of note that every one of the 128 members of the post at Hagerstown, Md., is a total abstainer and a prohibitionist. One of the features of the parade which evoked much cheering from the crowds of onlookers was the "West Virginia Water Wagon," which headed the delegation from that state.

THE PROOF.

A gentleman was riding on the street car the other day, when he saw on the advertising spaces, printed in large, clear letters, these words: "Pure Rye Whiskey—Tones Up the Body, Brightens the Intellect, Invigorates the Soul." After reading it his eyes dropped involuntarily to the seat beneath the advertisement, and there was a drunken man. His eyes were bleared, his face bloated, with red lines of dissipation in it, and his body slouched down in a sort of collapsed way common to men under the influence of liquor. The drunken man was an illustration of the advertisement, and proved the falsehood of it. "Wine is a mocker."

MONTANA WAKING UP.

Richland county, Montana, gave a vote of two to one against the liquor traffic in the first county option election in the state. The liquor men put up a hard fight with five orators working overtime to hold the territory. Montana, one of the blackest states on the prohibition map, is waking up, and the days of the liquor traffic in the state are numbered.

DIMS-BATTING EYE

"I do not drink; it dims my batting eye," said Ty Cobb.

Short Sermons FOR A Sunday Half-Hour

THE ENLARGEMENT OF LIFE.

BY THE REV. C. C. ALBERTSON.

"He brought me into a large place."—Psalms xviii:19.

Someone asked the chaplain of George IV. if he felt no fear when preaching to royalty, and the good man replied, "I forget that there are princes; before men and remember only that there are souls to instruct in godliness." The author of this psalm forgot that he was a king when he wrote these verses, and remembered only that he was a soul, that he had been helped and by Whom he had been helped. There are three singular facts about this psalm. It occurs twice in the Holy Scriptures, once in II Samuel and once in the Psalter. It contains two verses quoted in the New Testament, one in Romans and the other in Hebrews. These verses are ascribed to Christ, as they appear in the New Testament, so we may believe that it is something more than a psalm of David—that King David's Lord speaks through it. But here, at the nineteenth verse, it is a human-soul speaking. He is rehearsing many merces of the Lord. He has just said, "He delivered me from my strong enemy. He drew me out of many waters. He was my stay." You know what a stay is in building. It is a prop. As applied to persons, a stay is a stand-by, and the Greek for stand-by is "Paraclete," and we translate it "Comforter," or "Advocate." "If any man sin, we have an Advocate with the Father." So the Psalmist says, "The Lord was my Advocate." Now follows the text, "He brought me forth into a large place." And this is not the least precious fact here adverted to, by any means.

David was born in a small place, moved in a small circle until the Lord led him out. Not at once was he led into a large place. He mounted to the throne by way of many a hardship and many a battle. It was so with Joseph. He reached the palace by way of the prison. But he came to the large place in time, as did Abraham before him. Ur of the Chaldees was a small place. Abraham had no outlook there, but he found a large place in Canaan, a large place on earth and a large place in history. Even so Moses was led. Egypt was a small place, not small in extent of dominion, nor in its power among the nations of the world—but its horizon was small. The palace is a poor place for a prophet. Better the desert. Better the meadows of Midian. Better the mountains of Moab. Better the wandering through the wilderness. Better the Sinai of law, the Nebo of glory.

This has been the song of all God's servants in every age—"He brought me forth into a large place." Obedience to God never contracts our powers. Christ does not lead men backward, but onward, outward, upward. Matthew was led into a large place when he left the toll-booth to follow Jesus. Peter had never seen anything larger than the Sea of Galilee until Jesus made him a fisher of men. Paul at his best was only a theological hair-splitter, a heresy-hunter, until Christ appeared to him and filled his heart with a passion for the preaching of the Gospel and the glory of the cross. If the voice of patriarch and prophet and apostle could be heard to-day it would cry, "Never say 'No' to God. If He call thee, go. He will lead thee into a large place."

No experience is more common to the most of us than a certain contempt for the littleness of the things by which we are compelled to live. We are crowded and hemmed in by our circumstances. We are painfully limited. The farm boy who leaves the country goes to the city to seek a more abundant life. He dreams the city calls him to large enterprises. He does not know how cramped are the lodgings of most dwellers in the city.

Blessed is travel, for it enlarges the horizon of the traveler if he be a close observer. It is a distinct step in one's mental development when he first acquaints himself with the language and customs of another country than his own. It is an old saying, "A man is as many men as he can speak languages." I know a German shoemaker who speaks nine languages, and he has acquired them by traveling through foreign lands. He goes abroad every year or two, tramps through the country he visits, lives the life of the people, and then comes back to his little shop to cobble and to live over in memory the scenes of his now numerous pilgrimages.

Blessed is literature, for it broadens life. To most of us time to travel is denied. But books are not denied us—books of travel, of history, of science, of fiction. A late writer advises us to read that fiction which portrays life as different as possible from our own. We hardly need that counsel. A certain instinct guides us in that direction.

Blessed is the religion that takes us out of ourselves, makes us superior to our limitations, creates a new world for us. Supremely blessed is the Gospel of Jesus Christ, for of all religions that the world has seen it offers its disciples the most abundant life.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

The graybeard has one changeless song. All modern things, he says are wrong. There's nothing in this vale of woe as fine as things he used to know.

You speak about some lovely girls, with shining eyes and glossy curls, with queenly forms and rounded arms and forty thousand varied charms. You cry, "Such maidens take the bun!" The graybeard murmurs, "Quit your fun! The damsels of these later years are much like the old time year! They pad their frames and paint their cheeks, the gowns and hats they wear are freaks, they hanker after mannish joys, they're bold and sassy as the boys."

"When I was young," the graybeard sighs, "the damsels all had timid eyes; they did not try to force their way, as loud-voiced women do today. They learned to spin, they learned to cook, they read 'Lucile' or kindred book. They did not paint the virgin cheek, or want new dresses every week. And they were lovely as the moon that glimmers on a night in June."

"Oh, take the album from the shelf, and see the old time girls yourself! The dowdy maids, with waterfalls, and Grecian bends and shapeless shawls, and large poke bonnets built of straw—the fiercest bunch you ever saw!"

And still the graybeards mourn their youth, and think they're handing down the truth, when they insist that old time maid left modern damsel in the shade.

I bought a fine new motor car—the smoothest thing in town, by far. A graybeard lives my home beside, and I asked him to take a ride. I thought I'd cheer his ancient heart by speeding up my choo-choo cart, and showing him what haste is like, along some fourteen miles of pike. The car responded to the power, and sawed off fifty miles an hour. And still he talked, in raucous tone about a horse he used to own. "If that great steed came up the hill, you'd think this car was standing still! You'll never know what true speed is, unless you saw my trotter whiz!"

Thus spake the graybeard, and he thought he wasn't talking tommyrot. Thus speak all graybeards, more or less, to every modern man's distress. They're always looking to the rear, recalling things of yesteryear, and croaking forth, with spavined tongue, "When we were young! When we were young!"—By Walt Mason, in Judge

Editor Didn't Eat Paper.

Okmulgee, Ok.—Andrew Carmical, managing editor of a local newspaper, was alone in his office the other morning when a man entered the door, which he quietly closed and locked. "Are you the editor?" Carmical was asked.

"No, but I represent him," the newspaper man replied.

"Then I'm going to make you eat last night's issue of your paper, the visitor said.

"All right, but before you do you'd better lock the door again. It has come open," Carmical said.

The man turned, but the door was still locked. When he faced Carmical again he looked into the muzzle of an automatic pistol.

The newspaper was not eaten, but the stranger was arrested. In jail he gave his name as John Clark and said that an article in the paper was a direct slap at him.

One Girl Refuses Tips.

If she would take tips she could make $2500 a year in addition to her salary. "But," she says, "I would lose my self-respect."

The hotel management could, if it desired, fire Miss Stehle and save her salary, and, to boot, sell the cloakroom "privileges" for $150 a month.

But the mere fact that it has an employe who actually spurns tips has proved such an advertisement that the hotel can't afford to let Miss Stehle go if it wanted to—which it doesn't.

The traveling public cannot believe its ears when it hears Miss Stehle refuse tips. "Thank you," she says, with a gracious smile, "but I do not take tips."

When some men fail to make a hit they try to fix the responsibility on the hammer.

By and by, every man finds out that he is a fool—but some woman knew it first.

This would be a poor world for critics if nobody accomplished anything.

LIVED ON $16.50 A YEAR

Indiana Man Built a Hut of Mud and Sticks as a Home in Arkansas.

Hope, Ark.—When John Q. Cushman, 63—a hermit who for six years had lived in a mud hut, five miles north of Hope, failed to go to a neighbor's spring for water, the neighbor investigated and found him dying near the hut. He never regained consciousness and died late in the afternoon.

Cushman came here from Indiana. He bought a small piece of land in the woods and with sticks and mud built a hut eight feet square. It has no window and no floor. A scaffold in one corner covered with leaves, was his bed, and a home-made stool and a small cook stove was his only other equipment. He prepared and ate his food from the skillet. He ate only a mush made of beans and corn meal mixed with lard.

Cushman once told a neighbor his expenses for food and clothes were limited to $16.50 a year. He had $2000 in a local bank and is said to have more money in Indiana banks.

ALLIGATORS HATCHED BY HEN

Mother Soon Worried to Death by Her Unnatural Brood.

Tarboro, N. C.—What might sound a fish story or a fairy yarn comes from Beaufort County. C. J. Overton decided on an experiment, so he placed some alligator eggs, which he had discovered while hunting along South Creek, under a hen. It was Mr. Overton's idea to see if the hen would hatch the gator eggs.

He patiently waited and one morning a few days ago, while he was in the vicinity of the setting hen, he heard her cackling vociferously. He investigated and found three young gators tenaciously clinging to their foster mother. The hen was gyrate, while her peculiar offspring were sticking to her like grim death.

Mr. Overton liberated the hen and she flew into the top of a tree, where she remained until she decided it was dangerous to venture below in a live state, so she dropped to the earth, dead. The young gators also died.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and straggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Weyhe's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Weyhe's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

BOY KILLED WHEN BULL RUNS WILD

OTHERS ARE BADLY INJURED BY MADDENED BEAST.

Whole Town Turns Out to Give Battle and Excitement Runs High—Animal Finally Dispatched.

Allentown, Pa.—One boy killed instantly and a man in the hospital with dislocated neck were the chief victims of a maddened bull that ran amok in the streets of this place a couple of days ago.

Sol Stephens, a well known drover, was unloading a car load of cattle consigned to him by a Coopersburg breeder, for his weekly sale, when a sixteen hundred pound bull, red of color and of mixed breed, got away from the men having charge of the same and ran down Union street.

Martin Ashman, towerman at the Union street crossing of the Lehigh Valley railroad had the gates down for the train due in a short time when he saw the bull coming and realized at once that the animal was in no mood to stop for gates, and to save them, he raised the gates.

On the other side of the track the bull was cornered in the lot of the Johnson & Schwartz furniture factory. The boys thought they had him when the bull charged pell-mell into the crowd and knocked down and gored Harold Knechel, 18-year-old son of Leo Knechel, a brakeman.

Just at this moment the bull spied Paul Jones, a railroad maintenance man, who was waving his red flag at a train. The bull left young Knechel's prostrate form and charged in the direction of Jones, who knew nothing of the oncoming animal. Ashman yelled to Jones, who quickly took refuge on a pile of lumber. While the bull was trying to reach Jones, Ashman came out of the tower and laid the unconscious form of Knechel on another lumber pile, the boy giving no signs of life.

Ashman sent in a call for the city ambulance, which arrived in a short time with several policemen. When William Alney, the ambulance driver, alighted the bull went after him and for ten minutes kept him from taking the boy to the hospital. After young Knechel had been placed in the ambulance the bull made a charge on it and lifted the rear of the heavy motor vehicle. As the ambulance got away the bull made its way up to the Linden street bridge, where he was shot at by John Seifling, Ed Mayne, Ben Miller and George Klime, who peppered him with revolver shots. Railroad officers attracted to the scene shot the bull several times, one man with a shotgun. All this enraged the beast still more.

Retracing his steps and following the railroad the animal made his way to the premises of the wire mill where he gored John Cherny, 23 years of age. From the wire mill he made his way to Wire street, densely populated with working men and their families. Women screamed and children were rounded up on the porches. Charles Selgrove, an electrician, was confronted by the bull without any warning. Selgrove climbed a pole. The bull butted the pole but was unable to reach the man.

Finding he could not get Selgrove, the bull started for the yard of the Ochs Construction Company. By this time a contractor, John Wagner, who is a crack shot appeared on the scene with his rifle. He fired a shot hitting the animal between the eyes. This dazed the bull for a moment, but he was ready to charge again when a shot from Wagner's rifle struck the heart of the infuriated beast, killing it.

When the ambulance got to the hospital it was found that young Knechel was dead. Cherny was rushed also to the hospital, where it was found that he was suffering with a dislocated neck and that three ribs were broken.

DEN OF RATTLESNAKES BLOWN OUT BY BLAST.

Trees Now Alive With Blind Reptiles That Won't Come Down—Workmen's Close Call.

Zortman, Mont.—While grading for a new stage and mall line over the divide of the Little Rockies in Phillips county, some heavy charges of dynamite were set off to move rock and large trees. Workmen from a safe distance watched the blast go off. They were much surprised to see that they had blasted out a large den of rattlesnakes, shooting them high into the air, and strange to relate many of them were not killed.

Some of the reptiles lodged in the tops of tall pines and were soon coiled about the branches and won't come down.

As the rattlesnake is blind in the month of August those in the trees move from limb to limb and shake their tails and rattles furiously when any one passes below.

One big one was knocked from its perch by Joe Hartman, and falling on his head quickly coiled itself about his neck. While the superintendent's bells were chiming for dinner Joe was seen dancing to the music. He succeeded in freeing himself from the enemy without being bitten, but "no more for Joseph" is Hartman's motto just at present.

In Kitchen and Pantry

PLANNING BREAKFAST.

Only Bland Fruits Should Be Served With Cereal.

To evolve meals that taste good, look well and are digestible, it is a good plan to follow the inflexible rule of "enough but not too much"—as well as to consider the aesthetic beauty and appearance of the combination, says a dietetic authority in the Ladies' Home Journal. Breakfast is usually the most neglected of the three meals, actual scantiness of food, combinations which are indigestible and hasty service leading to frequent indigestion and consequent "grouchiness."

One of the greatest mistakes perpetrated in most households is the serving of an acid fruit with a cereal and cream. Some cast iron stomachs can stand this combination, but usually it brings about fermentation, with accompanying gas. When a cereal is to be served the fruit should be bland, as bananas, peaches, apples, raspberries, dates, stewed figs, or prunes, not only because it is the correct thing to do, but because it "tastes good." In this case—the heavier part of the meal should be scheduled accordingly and certain foods of marked flavor. If scrambled eggs, for instance, follow a bland fruit and cereal with cream, the effect is flat; while on the other hand, if a little dried beef or bacon is cooked with the eggs, or if they are made into an omelet with tomato or asparagus the whole meal gains point.

However, if the meal starts with an acid like strawberries, pineapples or grapefruit, the main portion may be heavier and somewhat bland. Plain scrambled eggs would be suitable in this case, and might be accompanied with French fried potatoes (to give substantiality) and corn muffins, as no cereal is served. Fish never should be provided for breakfast unless preceded by an acid fruit or accompanied by a tart sauce. Potatoes or hominy should never be used when a cereal appears, as both are starches and therefore too similar in texture and taste. When potatoes accompany steak, for instance, the cereal should be omitted. When cereal is used, plain bread and butter, biscuits or rolls should be prepared, while cereal muffins may be used when the cereal is omitted. In other words, care should be taken not to repeat similar flavors.

BUILT-IN IRONING BOARD

Folds Into Cabinet and Is Latest Convenience.

One of the latest conveniences for the laundry of kitchen is a built-in ironing board that is easily extended into position for use, but can be folded back into a cabinet and out of sight when not in use. The wall end of the board is equipped with small knobs that fit into grooves on each side of the cabinet, while the brace is hinged to the bottom of the cabinet and to the under side of the board.

The grooves extend from the bottom of the cabinet to such a height as to make the board level, and in this position the knobs slip into the pockets and hold the board stationary.

To close up the board it is only necessary to press the knobs out of the pockets and lift the outer end of the board, when the knobs slide down in the grooves and the whole device folds vertically into the cabinet. The cabinet is made with a door, so that the board can be concealed.—Popular Mechanics.

HAVE SEED TESTED

Anyone May Have the Purity of Seed Determined by the Department's Seed Laboratory.

The Seed Laboratory of the Department tests agricultural seeds and furnishes information essential to the farmer which he can not reasonably be expected to obtain for himself. Anyone may submit samples with a request for information upon the following points:

- (a) Truthness to name—whether the seed is misbranded or not.
 - (b) Presence of adulterants—whether the seed contains seed of inferior kinds of similar appearance.
 - (c) Portion of pure seed present.
 - (d) Portion and kinds of weed seeds present.
 - (e) Portion of chaff and dirt present.
 - (f) Portion of pure seed that will grow.
 - (g) Region of origin.
- This work makes it possible for farmers to avoid the use of seed which is misbranded or adulterated, which is low in purity through the presence of noxious weeds or worthless material, or which will not grow, and removes the chief controllable difficulty in the way of securing a good stand in the field.
- The effect of the work, however, extends much further than the actual lots of seeds analyzed. Seedsmen are becoming acquainted with the growing custom of farmers sending their seeds to be tested, and a seedsmen does not offer poor seed to the man who he expects will have it tested before buying.
- Seeds may be submitted for test to the Seed Laboratory at Washington, D. C., or to any of the branch laboratories maintained in cooperation with the agricultural experiment stations in the states of Louisiana, Missouri, Indiana, California, and Oregon.

GOOD BUTTER INCREASES THE QUANTITY CONSUMED

The development of the dairy industry depends upon the profit of the dairy business, which is governed entirely by two factors. The cost of production of the products and the price received for them. The second factor depends entirely upon the demand and price for the reason that this demand depends almost entirely upon the quality of the article which is offered for sale. It is lamentable, yet true, that many dairymen and creamerymen do not appreciate this fact. They do not seem to realize that every pound of poor butter or cheese is a hindrance to consumption, which brings them lower prices and consequently smaller profits. To show the significance of this statement, a test was made by the Kansas Experiment station, in which good second grade butter was supplied on the tables of a series of boarding houses. Without bringing the attention of the boarders to the fact, the butter was changed to fresh butter, classed as first grade. The consumption was immediately increased approximately 33 per cent, and if a still poorer quality than second grade butter had been furnished the variation in the amount consumed would have been much greater. The question is frequently asked where is this vast amount of butter we are producing consumed? It can only be answered in that we are now making better butter than we formerly did by the old fashioned slip shod methods. As we turn out better quality of butter its consumption will be increased. As the quality is lowered the consumption will be cut down and the market overstocked. A self-evident fact that every dairymen and creameryman should appreciate is that he who furnishes the creamery with poor milk or cream or he who sets before the consumer inferior dairy products is an enemy to the dairy industry, a clog to its progress.

SOME OBSERVATIONS

A mash diet made up solely of corn meal mixed with warm milk was fed to a pen of layers, mostly Leghorns, with the following result: First, a remarkable increase in their egg yield; second, an increase in their weight; third, frequent and sudden deaths from apoplexy.

These results were due to the high fattening food given and proved conclusively the grave danger encountered in adopting such a system of feeding.

A meal mash in the morning and whole or cracked corn at noon and night brought about the same results. These experiments were tried during the spring months before the fowls had access to yard or free range.

Later in the season when on free range the same rations were fed with the same result, but attended with fewer deaths.

There is danger in feeding the flock too highly, or in other words, upon food too rich in blood and fat making ingredients.

How Fishes Sink

All fishes have air bladders in their bodies, which enable them to raise and fall in the water at will. Near the bottom, the weight of the water compresses these bladders, and as a consequence the body of the fish shrinks until its bulk is of equal weight with the water it discharges.

The prodigal son of an old hen was once a bad egg.

DOES CONSCIENCE MAKE COWARDS OF US ALL?

BY THE REV. P. A. HALPIN.

Our glory is this, the testimony of our conscience.—II. Cor., 1, 12.

Paul's statement is the answer to the question, Does conscience make cowards of us all? It is an emphatic no. A gift of God, conscience could not be the cause if it made its owner a victim of abject fear.

It may make one afraid of the punitive sanction of the law, yet so it is a salutary check, but does not unnerve. The best among us when the blood burns and greed goads needs to have the awfulness of an offended Deity flashed terrifyingly upon him. Such a warning engenders a caution which implies courage, not pusillanimity. He of Tarsus, when he calls conscience our glory, lifts that faculty up to the dignity which is its by every right, divine and human.

Conscience makes us cowards? Not But it unmaske-cowards. It reveals every character of which the fibre makes not for intrepidity. Where manhood is, conscience inspires prowess, where cowardice is, it exposes the aspen trembling of him who dares not battle for the right. Man's glory and man's shame come from the evidence of conscience. By its declaration he is acquitted or condemned. Its verdict garbs him with a glory which dazzles in the dark ways of life or accuses him of backsliding from high ideals into the slough of mean aspirations, corrupt desires and dishonest practices. The noblest thing we call say of a man is that his word is his bond and that his bond is stronger than corporations or trusts or any of the associations of men.

What has fortified such a man so impregnable is the courage with which he has followed the suggestions of conscience. As it bade, he gave to God what was God's and to Caesar what was Caesar's. No man can do more. Such a one, whether confronting adversity or riding on the highest wave of prosperity, whether in war or in peace, in health or in sickness, in death, whether summoned by God or by his fellows, is sublimely unafraid.

Before the bar of unpurchasable justice the testimony of a man's conscience is the umpire of his fate, no matter what his creed may be. As he has treated his conscience here so will it deal with him of the law. It gives light, but the strength which the will needs to obey its behests must descend from above. Here religion comes to the rescue. That religion must be Heaven born. No religion can prove that its charter is divine unless it makes irrefutably clear that it holds within its gift a light which illumines conscience, as to make it inerrant and endows man's will with a robustness which makes it indomitable.

A man whose conscience is so enlightened and whose will is so panoplied can never be a coward, but always and everywhere a hero.

The Influence of Holiness.

A short time ago a man went to Brighton, searching for reminiscences of Robertson, the great preacher, and found only one. He went into a little shop, kept by a poor, struggling little shopkeeper and asked if he remembered anything about Robertson, of Brighton. And the man said: "Come here, sir," and he took him into a back room, behind the shop, and showed him on the wall, the portrait of Frederick W. Robertson, saying: "I am ever tempted to do mean things in this business I come into this back room and look at the picture of Robertson on the wall, and I cannot do a mean thing—I cannot do it." If Robertson could produce that effect, how much more does Robertson's Master, Jesus Christ, produce that effect upon the human conscience?

An Inside Bath Makes You Look and Feel Fresh

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do. Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.

It sometimes happens that a man is married to his boss.

Suffering has no charm for one who must suffer in silence.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Brest-Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust-Tea," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 25 cent bottle of old honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back so promptly!

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

2000 FAT CATTLE WITHOUT OWNERS

HOW TO GET THEM HAS NEVER BEEN SOLVED

Places Where They Breed, Grow, Sleek and Die are Inaccessible Most of Time.

Omaha, Neb.—In these days, while a beefsteak as big as a two-bit piece costs a quarter, there are 2,000 fat, sleek cattle—that belong to no man in all the world—in the wilds of the Powder River brakes in Wyoming. These cattle are anyone's meat. That is, if one can get them. They have no brand. They have belonged to no one for a dozen generations. No ranchman has been able to get his brand upon them, and no cowboy has been able to round them up. There is a good reason for this: The Powder River brakes are wild jungles of scrub oak, underbrush and tangled vines growing over a labyrinth, a veritable network, or meshwork of canyons, gulches, and ravines.

Far a half century ranchers in the Northwest have been losing cattle every year in this wild country. Each year as the roundup approached some of the wilder of the herd scampered into the brakes and disappeared. Cowboys could not follow them far, for it is impossible for a horseman to make his way far into the brakes.

Here in these wilds these cattle have bred for generations. Naturally, as the cattle that inhabited these parts began to regard this as their home, and as they became more and more wild, they did not venture far from the brakes at any time. The calves kept to the underbrush and were never branded. They in turn grew up and bred again calves that were never branded, until today a great herd of cattle, wild, fleet of foot, yet sleek with good feeding, wander around in the shady gulches, and never are snared into a packing house.

Byron McKinnahan, a ranchman of that section of Wyoming, has for years studied the problem with a view to devising some means of getting these cattle. "Occasionally we are able to shoot one for meat when we are on the roundup," he said, "but to drive one away from the brakes and get him into the regular herd is impossible."

Mr. McKinnahan is in Omaha now conferring with the packinghouse officials here, seeking to devise some plan whereby the cattle could be killed, so that the carcasses could be shipped to the Omaha packing houses in refrigerator cars in time to be handled in the regular course of meat packing. He believes that by waiting until winter, when there is much snow in the brakes, he can throw a force of his men into them afoot and equipped with rifles and a lot of burrows thus be able to draw out the meat. He believes that by making a lot of crude sleds of poles, after the fashion the Indians followed years ago, he can have the cattle shot, bled and dragged out by means of the burrows.

"If we can find the holes where these cattle water in winter," he says, "we can lay for them there and shoot down hundreds of them in a short time. Then by throwing in a big force of men and burrows we can haul out the quarters, load them in refrigerator cars and rush them to Omaha. We will have to choose cold weather, so that the meat will not begin to spoil before we get it on the cars."

"It is high time that something should be done with these cattle. Meat has gone so high that it is a shame these thousands of cattle should continue to breed, grow up and die alone like rats without anyone getting the benefit of their meat."

MISSING WILL IN HER SLIPPER

Grandchild of Wealthy Maker Discovers Document by Accident. Hudsonville, Mich.—When Thomas H. Sestel, pioneer resident of Filmore Township, died on May 30 there began a search for a will disposing of his estate, which is valued at upward of $80,000.

A justice who drew up a will and the men who signed as witnesses testified to the existence of such a document, but a search failed to reveal the missing testament. The estate was taken into probate court to be divided among the heirs according to their rights by birth.

As a probate judge was about to take this step one of the dead man's great-granddaughters was busy aiding in giving the home of Mr. Sestel a thorough cleaning. She found an old pair of carpet slippers, frayed and torn. As she threw the slippers away a piece of paper fell out. It proved to be the missing will.

Science to Help Grow Biggest Melon.

Topoka, Kan.—R. W. Mitchell of Elmont has asked permission of the State Board of Correction to try an experiment on the grounds of the Boys' Industrial School here. He wants to grow the largest watermelon ever raised anywhere.

Mitchell has had chemists working for many years on the chemical changes of growing plants, and he believes he has found the exact chances undergone by a watermelon from the time the melon appears on the vine until it is ripe.

COLONY SENT BY RALEIGH VANISHED

English Settled on Roanoke Island and Their Fate No One Knows. Washington—The Elizabethan era is renowned in English history not only for its literature, but for its growing power upon the sea, and especially for its hardy and skillful seamen. Most notable among these were Sir Francis Drake and Sir Walter Raleigh and his half brothers. Drake was the first to put into practice the policy of weakening Spain by attacking her in America. Drake it was who made the great voyage around the earth in 1580. Eight years afterward he took an important part in the most momentous event of the century in which he lived—the defeat of the Spanish armada.

The defeat of this armada has been pronounced the opening event in the history of the United States. From that moment North America was open to colonization, with little danger of hindrance from the Spaniards. Sir Walter Raleigh must ever be considered the "father of English colonization on the soil of the United States."

Raleigh was one of the most representative Englishmen of his age. He was a student of books and a leader of men. A pupil of Coligny, a friend of Spenser, he was a statesman and a scholar, a courtier and a soldier, and in each he was one of the leading men of his times. Raleigh was granted a colonization charter by Queen Elizabeth. He first sent two exploring ships to the coast of North America, and they returned with glowing accounts of the beauty of the land and the gentleness of the natives. The first of these exploring ships landed at Roanoke Island, off the coast of North Carolina, many years ago—June 13, 1584—and they were the first to name the eastern coast of North America Virginia, in honor of the virgin queen.

The following year Raleigh sent over a large colony under Ralph Lane with 108 men, who settled on Roanoke Island, but after a year of hardships they were picked up by Sir Francis Drake, who happened to touch at that point on one of his great voyages.

They brought back with them tobacco and the potato, and first introduced the use of these in England. Raleigh was disappointed at the failure of his colony and he determined to try it again. In 1587 he sent a colony of 115, seventeen of whom were women, under John White, and soon after they landed at Roanoke, Virginia Dare was born. She was a grandchild of Gov. White and was the first English child born on the soil of the United States.

The governor soon found it necessary to make a voyage to England, intending to return to his colony. But the war with Spain interfered, and three years passed before an English vessel reached Roanoke. When at last help came the colony had utterly disappeared and its fate was never known. Years afterward the people of Virginia found children among the Indians with light hair and eyes, and it was believed that they were descendants of members of White's colony who were probably adopted by the Indian tribes.

Raleigh was still undismayed. Finally his fortune took a downward turn. He fell into disfavor with the king and was cast into prison, where he remained for twelve years, meantime writing his history of the world. Then after a brief season of liberty he was again imprisoned and was soon afterward beheaded. Notwithstanding none of the colonies planted by Raleigh was permanent, he must be awarded the honor of securing the possession of North America to the English race, of making known the advantages of its soil and climate and creating the spirit of colonization among his countrymen.

GHOST PARTNER LEADS WAY TO BIG PAY STREAK

Anaconda, Mont.—Acting on impressions received in a dream, which was repeated for four nights, always indicating the location of fabulous wealth, Andrew Nelson an old time prospector, has struck a ledge rich in virgin gold. A strange partner figured in the dreams of Nelson before he set out to find the ledge. The ghostly partner would tell him how to let himself down with ropes over a cliff, and would return each night to the dreaming Nelson with pockets bulging with nuggets.

Nelson was a hardened prospector, and laughed away his dream. Then it was repeated again and again. So he decided to take a chance and started with his ropes and pick for the cliff. He had scarcely arrived there before his trained eye detected croppings thru the surface. In feverish haste he applied his pick. Over the cliff he shoveled the surface ore, and finally struck a ledge from three to four feet wide with a stringer of gold measuring from one to four inches wide.

The news of the strange find has created a stir in Anaconda, and a rush of prospectors to the cliff above Flint creek has also resulted. Varying stories of the gold strike are coming to town, many of them, crediting the big pay streak.

A NATIONAL CALAMITY.

"I have believed in the regulation, not the prohibition of the liquor traffic," says Dr. Lyman Abbott, "but the action of liquor dealers has made regulation impossible."

The secretary of the Ohio Temperance Union (a liquor organization) wrote to Doctor Abbott asking for a letter which could be used in the state prohibition campaign. Doubtless he is sorry he did it. The reply came as an open letter in the Outlook and is a severe arraignment of the saloon as a lawbreaker. Its law-defying propensities have, in the judgment of Doctor Abbott, been its undoing. We quote:

"The American people are characteristically conservative and slow in coming to a conclusion. But they are coming to the conclusion, though slowly, that the American saloon is not only a local nuisance but a national calamity and are resolving to abolish it.

"The question is not, is beer a useful article of food?"

"It is not, is moderate drinking wrong?"

"It is not, Does the Bible prohibit or permit moderate drinking?"

"These questions the people would prefer to leave each individual free to determine for himself."

"But they are not willing to leave each individual to determine for himself whether the laws enacted by the community shall be obeyed. That question the community will decide, and it will suffer any inconvenience, any deprivation, which may be necessary to secure such obedience. This is the meaning of the present prohibitory movement."

"But if the people are compelled to choose between an unregulated and lawless liquor traffic and the prohibition of the liquor traffic, I do not doubt that they will choose prohibition. If we cannot reform the saloons, we shall abolish them. And if we can find no other way to abolish them, we shall abolish the distillery, the brewery, the winery and the importation of liquor from abroad."

"SALOON AND LABOR PROBLEM. We make no claim that a closed saloon will settle the labor problem; we do not believe it will. We do affirm that there never will be found a solution for the labor problem that ignores the saloon and allows it to continue, whether run by the individual or by the brewer for profit or run by the government without profit. Labor cannot carry 200,000 rum shops on its back and prosper under any system.

"The kingdom of labor will not have come when the door of the saloon is shut; there will still be industrial wrongs to right and other economic problems to solve; but the largest single immediate contribution toward that consummation, the swiftest relief that can be applied, is the abolition of the liquor traffic in the United States. It is the one thing that as the barrier to all other reform must be removed.

To every son of toil who is ground beneath the millstones of low wages and high cost of living, we have but one message: "In the name of God and home and native land, rise up and vote for prohibition."—Clinton Howard.

ALCOHOL AND TUBERCULOSIS.

The following resolution was passed by the International Congress on Tuberculosis, held in Paris, at which some 2,000 medical scientists were present: "That in view of the close connection between alcoholism and tuberculosis, this congress strongly emphasizes the importance of combining the fight against tuberculosis with the struggle against alcoholism."

At the International Alcohol Congress at Bremen, Professor Segran, a distinguished Frenchman, said that the use of alcohol predisposes the system to tuberculosis and also prevents cures. The real individual and social treatment for tuberculosis consists in the strictest total abstinence from alcoholic liquors.

OBJECTS TO LIQUOR DEALER.

My objection to the liquor dealer is the same as my objection to the bedbug. For all I know, the bedbug may be entirely above reproach, so far as his social relations are concerned. He may be regular in his religious duties, gentle in his home and prompt in paying his bills. He may be frugal and industrious and blameless in every civic duty and domestic obligation. He may be kind to his wife and children, obliging to his neighbors, generous to the outcast and worthy of the vote of his congressional district. But my objection to him is the way he gets his living.—T. Alexander Cairns.

NO "MEDICINAL" WHISKY.

Alcohol puts to sleep the sentinels that guard your body from disease. Policy holders are warned against advertisements extolling the virtues of whisky in disease. The callous cruelty of such advertisements lies in the fact that they appeal to the very people who are most injured by the use of alcohol—sufferers from rheumatism, chronic kidney disease, nervous subjects, etc. There is no such thing as "medicinal" whisky.—From Bulletin No. 5, issued by the Postal Life Insurance Company, New York.

REBUKE TO THOUGHT-LESS TRAVELERS.

The traveler of today is so accustomed to the comforts and luxuries afforded in modern railway and steamship travel that he fails to appreciate them at their true value. This fact is brought to mind by the signs in every railroad train, steamship, state-room and frequently in hotels. One of the largest Pacific coastwise steamers has a placard in every stateroom requesting passengers to refrain from lying down in the berths with their boots on, and the proprietor of a western hotel has expressed his request that the property be respected by his patrons in this keenly sarcastic manner: "If you are accustomed to spitting on the floor at home, you are at liberty to do so here. Make yourself at home." Almost daily one observes newspaper reports of the abuses of privileges by campers, tourists and travelers, until finally government action has been necessitated in many places to insure protection of public grounds.

It is a sad commentary of human nature that most of us lack in respect for other people's property. It is strange that persons who exercise the greatest care in conserving their own effects will put their feet on plush sofas in pullman cars and in hotels, will scatter debris about trains and hotel lobbies, will drop cigar ashes anywhere, throw away lighted cigarettes and often through their carelessness, cause fires and destruction to property. The same kind of thoughtless persons will litter up picnic grounds and deface property in seeking souvenirs and in writing and cutting their names in public places and conspicuous spots. With the growth of travel this tendency has become more marked. If the vacationist is to find a second welcome anywhere, it behooves him to show his good breeding by his regard for the comforts and luxuries of travel, and gratitude toward his fellow citizens who have made him gifts of parks, camp-sites, and forest reservations.

A clever idea for storing away hats, furs, blouses, etc., was evolved by a woman who lived in a tiny apartment. She had a wide shelf erected across one end of her bedroom, about a foot and a half below the ceiling. Then she bought six or seven hat boxes and covered them with wall paper in a rose design that harmonized with the rose color of her room. These formed a kind of frieze across one wall, and without detracting from the general appearance made a little store-room easily accessible. On the outside of her cupboard door was kept a list showing just what was in box No. 1, box No. 2, etc.

A SABBATARIAN NUT

Some years ago an insane patient was given to the inmates not to say expensive, habit of tearing his clothing from him and converting jeans, flannel, denim or whatever the clothes were made of into carpet rags.

The prison physician remonstrated with the shredding nut as follows: "Say, old man, you're certainly making a lot of unnecessary trouble for us. We don't think it's fair. Wouldn't you like to make money?"

The insane man emphatically averred his willingness to make ready cash.

"Well, I'll tell you what I'll do," resumed the doctor. "I will give you ten cents for every day you don't tear your clothes off. Eh?"

The offender assented eagerly, and started in to make good. Tuesday his clothes remained intact; Wednesday, ditto; Friday and Saturday the same. His reformation was the talk of the institution.

But on Sunday morning the garments the crazy man had worn all week were torn into strips and thrown to the four winds of his cell.

"What does this mean?" asked the indignant physician. "I thought I had you hired to keep your clothes on and be good!"

"Well," said the prisoner, innocently, "you didn't suppose I was going to work on Sunday did you?"—From Judge.

The Toggery GRAND OPENING March 1st, 1916

On account of the many unforeseen delays in getting our merchandise here and getting our store in shape for the proper display of our new lines of up-to-date Wearing Apparel, it has been necessary for us to change the Opening date from Feb. 15th to March 1st. We have secured the best lines available and hope to greet you on March first with the many good values that we will have ready for you.

A WORD might be said about our business policy. First: Our business will be conducted on a cash basis only. This makes lower prices possible. Second: We will have ONE PRICE for all (the right price) which insures fair dealing to everyone. Third: Anything bought at this store which proves unsatisfactory may be returned at any time and your money will be refunded. No arguments whatever.

Hoping that our policy has convinced you that we can give better values for less money, we again hope to see you at our Opening March 1st.

EDITH TALIAFERRO IN YOUNG ROMANCE

THE STORY
Nellie Nolan, the heroine of this very unusual story, presides over the notion counter in a department store. But, nevertheless, romance flourishes in her soul, and she devotes all her spare moments to reading novels in which "high society" and foreign nobility figure prominently. One day, in a fit of June madness, she determines to spend the entire $100 she has saved by living like a "real lady" for the one glorious week of her vacation. By judicious buying at second-hand stores she accumulates a suitable wardrobe, and betakes herself to a fashionable

Maine Seaside resort where she poses as a Fifth Avenue heiress.
In the same big department store there works one Tom Clancy, who, likewise, is of a romantic turn of mind and who, lured on by dreams of adventure and fortune, goes for his vacation to the same town and under much the same false colors. Tom works in the hardware department down stairs, wherefore it happens that he and Nellie have never met.
The rich young woman impersonated by Nellie receives a large inheritance during the one eventful week, and this fact, recorded in all the newspapers, causes a fortune-hunting count to induce her to visit a deserted island. She finds herself kidnapped, and is obliged by the count to sign a check for $10,000.
How Tom learns of Nellie's distress on the barren island, how he rescues her, and how the two young people fall in love constitute the main succeeding events of the story. They separate, both being ashamed to confess their deceits, but the very first day they return to the store Tom is transferred to a counter right opposite Nellie's counter—and so the course of true-love runs to a happy conclusion.

MARGUERITE CLARK in
"THE GOOSE GIRL"

THE STORY
Count Von Herbeck, the chancellor to the Grand Duke of Ehrenstein, is married but keeps the fact secret on account of his high ambitions. His wife, dying, writes him a letter urging him to make their little child a great lady. With this purpose in view, he arranges with Torpeta, a gypsy, to abduct the daughter of the Grand Duke. He takes the coat, hat and locket belonging to the little Princess and sends his own child away. During the abduction of the little Princess she is wounded on the shoulder by a bullet.
Fifteen years later Von Herbeck tells the Grand Duke that he has found the Princess, and produces the locket and coat in proof of the identity of the child. Meanwhile, the real Princess, after being abandoned by the gypsies, has been adopted by peasants and has grown up as a "Goose Girl."
At the same period, the young King Frederick of Jugendheit is officially betrothed to the Princess of Ehrenstein but does not wish to marry a woman he has never seen, or to put diplomatic necessity above love. He disguises himself as a vintner, meets the Goose Girl, rescues her from the insulting attentions of a vicious Count and longs to marry her.
When it seems impossible for the story to come to a happy conclusion the real identity of the Goose Girl is revealed through the bullet mark received when the gypsy stole her, and she takes her rightful place on the throne. This makes the marriage to the Princess of Ehrenstein the one thing in the world most to be desired by the King of Jugendheit, and everything ends happily after all.

"The Goose Girl" is founded on Harold McGrath's famous novel of the same name and is offered by arrangement with the publishers, the Bobbs-Merrill Company. Miss Marguerite Clark appears as the star through the courtesy of the Famous Players.

School Commissioner's Notes.

Rah, rah, rah, Three Bells, "Standard School." The fourth "Standard School" in Charlevoix County. Everyone was there but Obidiah and he felt wretched because he stayed at home. They fed one hundred besides the children. Um—but that dinner was good, too. Mr. Peaslee had prepared special original music to accompany songs that would fit the occasion. The county normal class-witnessed the presenting of the plate and sang two splendid songs. Miss Himes talked on "The Community in School Life" and we were sorry it was so short.
Everyone was happy, everyone was glad.
For you cannot earn a "Standard" plate
And then in heart be sad.

The best ally the Advance school ever had is the Ladies' Aid. They are still thinking and still planning for their school. It's a medicine case they want to add now.

This is the best time yet to start that Junior Audubon Society. We could learn the permanent residents first before so many migrants return and the Department wants to know all about the "Birds of Killingworth."
The agriculture and science man in East Jordan High is willing to furnish any sort of educational program or demonstration that you may want. We learn by three stages—getting, holding, and giving. The "American Schoolmaster" for January contains a beautiful essay on the "Charm of a School Room." County Normal Notes.

Florence Maddaugh spent the week's end at her home in East Jordan.
The class went to the Three Bells school last week Monday. We enjoyed the ride in spite of the slippery roads. A bountiful dinner was served, after which the program was given. The program was especially good. The first part was devoted to recitations and songs by the school. Certificates of Reward were given by Miss Stewart to twenty-five of the twenty-nine students for being neither absent nor tardy. Mr. J. H. Milford of East Jordan, and Miss Himes of Charlevoix gave short talks. Miss Stewart presented the Standard School Plate and the Normal class closed the program by a song.
The new set of practice teachers have begun their work in the training room. Marcia Goss has the sixth grade reading, Ruth Chellis and Florence Milner have the third grade reading, and Sadie Blanchard has the chart class.
J. H. Milford of East Jordan was a caller at the normal room last week Tuesday.
The class have been showing their ability in blackboard drawings of hills, mountains, ranges, plains and other land formations.
The class attended the Farmer's Institute at Irontoñ, last Friday and Saturday. Both days were enjoyed and also much helpful information gained about farm life. We wish to thank the members of the Institute for their interest in the normal class and the good time which they showed us.
