EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 8. 1918.

Webber Quartet Red Cross Notes Next Monday

Number High School Entertainment Course.

The third number of the High School Entertainment Course will be given by the Weber Male Quartet, Monday, Feb. 11th, at the Temple Theatre.

The Weber Male Quartet is in every ense a high class organization, comed of four of the well known con-Fert and church soloists of New York City. They have sung together for several years and the result is a beautiful blending of voices and clear enunciation of words. -The Quartet is progressive in adding to its repertoire, and by its versatility and general bearing has been unfailingly successful whereever it has appeared.

The Quartet has appeared before the critical assemblage of the metropolis, the great gathering from the "East Side" settlements, the church society, the club, the Lyceum and Chautsuqua all these whether in city or village, have received the Weber Male Quartet with that hearty responsiveness, which is the artist's richest reward.

Reserved seats go on sale Friday at C. C. Mack's. Single admission-50c and 25 cents.

Please be at the Theatre promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

Denver, Colo .- Bad men are his meat. He doesn't know how he tames them, but he does. And he looks mild, harmless, almost apologetic, at that. -In his quarter of a century's experience in dealing with "ornery hom-bres," Willard Wilton Webb, former secret service operative, and deputy sheriff in the West of the days gone by, has never had a single man try to list him when an arrest was to made. Some of the "bad uns" that have followed him to jail as tamely as lambs have killed other officers who later tried the same trick. "The worst man I ever had to handie was a fellow named Sid Munn, at Telluride, Colo.," said Mr. Webb at a local hotel the other day. "He was something of a bully, and had been raising a disturbance. I told him he had better come along to fail with me. or something like that, and he came along very peaceably.

"About three months later he shot a marshal who tried to arrest him.

'I have no particular method. I just take it for granted that a man is go ing to resist, and I don't let him get the 'drop' on me.

Maybe my luck comes from my be lief in God. I think He must have kept me from getting killed out in the Desert, around Sweetwater, Wyo. A fellow took a shot at me from behind a guily. He hit me in the chest, the bullet passing from right to left and out on the other side. I don't know who the man was or why he did it.

"Out in Lander, Wyo., I was shot in the abdomen by a rich gambler, who was known as a tough sustomer. He believed some one had cheated him and began to raise a 'rough house.' While the marshal had held of him, the fellow let his pistol, go off, not meaning to bit anyone, however.' If -I hadn't turned just at that moment, I would have gotten the full benefit of it, but as it was, it just grazed me. No one knew that I had been hit. The same sampler afterward save me a job.

SELF, LIGHTING CIGAR

"The Idea is Absolutely New," Patent Office Writes. Waterico, Jowa-Ever since William

Rolfe, in the early settlement of Jamestown, Va., introduced tobacco among white men, users of ulgars have been stepping up to the lighter or saying to a friend, "Lend ma a match."

It was left, finally to a woman to invent the self-lighting cigar. The in-ventor is a Waterloo woman-Mis. Oscar C. Morten, formerly Miss Hmma Vorce, who has been employed here by the Western Union Telegraph company.

Mrs. Morten has applied for a United States patent on her invention? In reply to her inquiry; the patent office reported the records showed nothing of the sort on its files. "The idea is the director of the absolutely new," patent office writes.

The self-lighting cigar will be equipped with a match attachment inserted in the end of the weed. When the device is put on the market all the smoker will have to do is to "strike" his cigar instead of striking his match or striking his friend for a light.

While on her way to northern Minnesota in the summer Mrs. Morten observed two young men who, after sev-eral vain attempts, failed to get a light for their cigars because of the wind. One said, "The thing ought to light itself." This set Mrs. Morten to work solving the difficulty, She began her experiments by inserting ,a - paper_ match into the end of the cigar. There were difficulties which patient testa finally overcame.

NOVIE SEATS FOR "SPOCNERS"

London Manager Arrangee Gallery for Easy Courting.

London, England.-There's a movie ouse out in Golders Green that is delly becoming more popular. Downstairs it's an ordinary sineme, but in the baloony the kind genie who looks after boys and girl in the springtime has arranged things differently. Stats in the gallery are all built double, with just room for two in each seat. The work up there is mined, suscently inst re it slepsly.

This stormy weather is a good time for getting your spring sewing done.

We have in our complete line of "Bridal" White goods, Nainsooks, Longcloths, Cambrics. and Muslins. A very little higher priced than a year ago but the quality is the same.

Our Spring Ginghams are here in good colors and styles. Pretty plaids, stripes and plain colors.

A little later Bob Mixon, a Holy Roller exhorter, brother-in-law to Miss Murray, came before the awed throng, and went thru somewhat the same per formance, only he handled the serpent more gingerly, and only lightly laid it was thickest.

Functinated, the crowd in its excite ment called loudly for the girl-preacher apain? They would once more see Miss Murray handle the monster, then be forever convinced of her perfect manctification!

Elated by her former success, the girl caught up the reptile and wound it about her throat.

"He will not strike me!" she cried. "Even the Arch-Evil does not assail one where heart is pure! And even should the anake strike me, its bite would in no wise harm me!"

But the huge rattler drew back, and disting at the girl's left arm. The con-world, inhabited by birds with leather wings and teeth, and thousands of other strange and weird creatures, has been found in the Ossgu hills, in a wild and only partially explored soo tion of northwestern Oklahoma. 7 be tale of the lost morid was brought here by John Brane, a member of the Osage Indian tribe, who has a reputation at an explorer.

The story told by Brune is as strange as that related day Sir Arthur in Doyle in "The Lest World," and it has the advantage of being possilin of verification: Brune, himself, is now making plans to equip a large explor-ing party and next apring he will go again into the Daage hills determined to bring back concrete proof of his life on the plateau was the same as that which existed several hundred years ago was the result of a hunting trip. Brune saw a bird, of strange uppearance, and he shot it. He touid that it had leather wings without feathers and that its mouth was firnished with a complete set of tee h Altho he did not know that the bird answers to the name of pterdacty) in science, he did realize that it was a strange species.

So steep were the cliffs leading up to the plateau on all sides that the animals on the summit were unable to descend and the men below were so far away that they could not distinguish their characteristics except that they were different from all animals m to the huntsmen.

So Brune decided to return to civilization and get an outfit which would enable him and his friends to return to the Osege hills, scale the cliffs of the mysterious plateau, and see at first hand the mysteries of the life existing there.

The plateau is completely isolated from surrounding country. But Brune says that with the aid of ropes and plenty of men he believes the cliffs can be scaled Heavy rifles will be carried by the men making up the party in the expectation that they may meet with some of the great animals described in books devoted to prehistoric animal life.

Brune only talks of his experience to those who are intimate with him. He fears he will not be believed because of the strangeness of his story. But he swears he tells the truth and he is determined to prove to the most cynical that the lost world really exists. He is determined to bring back to civilization specimens of strange animal life, carcasses, and skins.

POCKET IN WALNUT LOG IS RACER SNAKE'S TOME

Reptile Thought to Have Been in its Mummy Chamber 20 Years. BRISTOL Tenn. - Imprisoned in a acuum in the heart of a walnut log 2 feet in diameter for 15 or 20 years is the most unusual experience of a black anake of the racer type, according to authentic information vouched for by M. L. Scifers, a millman of Johnson City, Tenn.

The discovery of this reptile was made when the saw in the veneer plant. suddenly uncapped the vacuum. An examination of the unexpected chamber in the heart of a sound log of walnut revealed the 4-foot racer colled in what had up to that moment been a hermetically sealed prison, the chamber being as large as a man's head. The anake, which had probably been dead for many years, was still perfect in form and retained its shape until lifted from its snug position.

"This is not a anake story in the ordinary sense of the term," said Scif-ers when asked about it. "It is a fact attested by all employes of our mill. The log, as nearly as I am able to tell, came to us in a shipment from Waynewille, N. C. from which locality we have received some excentionally choice logs of walnut. The supposition is that the snake climbed the tree and slid down into a hole caused by a decayed limb. How long the reptile may have used this chamber as a home one can only imagine: but it seems to me natural to presume that by the dropping of a bit of bark, which darkened the small opening, the make found itself in a prison from which i was never able to escape.

"Death may have followed by suffocation," Mr. Scifers theorizes. "Na ture then began its process of sealing over the opening with new layers of timber. The depth of these layers indicates that the snake may have been imprisoned 20 years, if not longer. Its mummy chamber was beautifully po lished within, indicating that the snake might have traversed its walls for days or weeks before succumbing.

HIS CORN EXPERIMENT GETS AN EARLY SETBACK

Mother Hen Walks High Wire and

Steals for Chicks. S1. ALBANS. Vt .- Malcolm Hersey who conducts a truck farm near this city, heard of a method of preserving sweet com by drying it on the cob in the sunshine. He strung a 50-foot wire clothesline between two posts in his back yard twelve feet from the ground

Two hundred cars of choice sweet corn had been fastened to the line before it was hoisted into position. Hersey believed the corn was out of the way of birds and that it would not be disturbed.

One morning Hersey went to the back yard to see how the corn was preserving and was surprised to find that twenty ears next to the south post had been stripped of their kernels. Just before dark he went to the back vari and found the corn gone from fifteen more ears.

Determined to catch the thief. Hersey arese before daylight and concealed himself in the back yard. At about 6 o'clock, he says, a large Rhode Island Red hen came to the back yard, followed by a score of her chickens, flew.up to the wire, walked along the line until the good ears of corn were reached and began picking the kernels from the cob.

Hersey avers that the hen shelled the corn from the ear and that it dropped to the ground where it was greedily devoured by her chickens. He save he watched the hen until she had stripped two cars of the corn from the cob and then interfered and drove her and the chickens into the hen house, where they will be kept until he can ascertain whether his cornpreserving process is a success or fall-

GIRL BABY FAMINE 18 WORRYING KANSAS

Witchcraft Blamed for Scarcity of the Gentler Sex During Last

Nine Years. KANSAS CITY, Mo .- The grave and learned authorities of Tynn County. School District No. 48, four miles north of Emports, have appealed for more girl bables. That is to say, the school authorities crave advice scientific or any other kind-having to do with such a situation as that which now confronts the district where, for nine years, there have been no girl bables born.

The families within the boundaries of District 43 have supplied the birth records of the county with twentyentries within the nine years two But there are no feminine names en the list.

Some persons, who admit they read certain literature upon New England witchcraft when they were very oung, are of the opinion that a com tain spinster has cast a spell upon the community to revenge Cupid's slight of her, and that until she is wed no other girls will be added to the neighborhood.

These directors favor the appointment of an elderly bachelor to sacri-fice himself for the benefit of the district, which proposition was voted down.

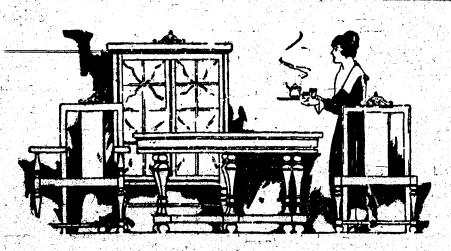

Some one has submitted an argument to the effect that the scarolty of girl babies was merely in line with the trend of the times toward scarolty of all valuable crops-for instance, potstoes.

However, the district as a whole requires instructions from authoritative sources as to what proceedings are necessary to more evenly divide the birth rate.

The city attorney has ruled that the sity must pay Charles Hatfield that for filling the Morena Dam.

Hatfield is a rainmaker. He went to Wan Diego some weeks ago and spoke somewhat as follows: "I notice you don't have very much of an average rainfall here. I'd like to "Fill Morena Dam," said the council man, and they all laughed. Morens Dam had never been more than a third tilled.

"All right," said Hatfield, for $10, 800."

Still laughing they agreed.

Hatfield erocted his tower near the dem, put his galvanized iron tanks on top of them, wrapped the tanks with far paper, and poured in his chereical finid. He was off in the mountains and the city forgot him.

Sometime later the councilmen were m asuring the treasury resources and thinking about appropriations-but zever about the $10,000-when it be san to rain.

Some one brought down word that the water at Morena Dam was higher than it ever had been. "Hatfield isn't doing it," the coun men said "E "crybody's getting plen ty of rain these days."

But when the downpour continued and the flood followed, some favored paying Hatfield $5,000 and calling it guits. But Hatfield is sure he will get his $10,000.

What his chemicals are he has nev er revealed. The tar paper collecting heat, causes the liquid to evaporate in the day time, and at night he ap-plies enough heat to produce the same result. Ascending columns of vapor from the tanks have the power, he save to attract moisture even to the dryest spot.

Penalties Previded for Swearing and Bunday Drinking-Death for Horse Stealing.

Council Bluffs, lows .-- Among the archives of the D. W. Keller family, one of the ploneer families of this city, is the complete codification of the laws of New Jarsey from the sarrender of the old colony to "Que on Anne on the 17th day of April, in the year of our Lord 1702, to the 14th cay of January, 1776," according to the title page. It embraces all of the laws and royal ordinances for sever ly-four years, and they book is not as bulky as the complied ordinances of the City of Council Binffs.

The compiler, Samuel Allison, re marks in his preface, "a fev g od laws, well understood and surscriptd, must be a happiness to a people, and are much to be preferred to a la ge code, which by their very number become intricate or soon forgotten, sid. of consequence, are often violated.

"Legislation is the greatest act of superiority that can be exercised by one being over another, and how few can be supposed to be qualified for such a momentous task?"

The old volume, bearing the marks of its nearly 150 years, but sturdy as a piece of granite, contains about all of the old blue laws of the Puritan colonists, as well as all of the statutes found necessary to be enacted from the second year of the reign of Queen Anne on thru the kingships of George L, George II. and George III., beginning when the capital of New Jersey was located at Perth Amboy and later at Burlington.

A law passed at the first ression of the General Assembly at Burlington. Dec. 12, 1704, begins with the declara tion that:

Whereas, profaneness and immorality have too much abounded in this province, to the shame of Christianity and the great grief of all good and sober men," a prohibition law is en-acted prohibiting "cursing, swearing or breaking the Lord's day." The penalty of Sunday violation is a fine of "six shilling or four hours" confinement in the stocks." half the amount for "cursing" and a shade less for plain awearing. For getting drunk six hours in the stocks was the penalty. A special section regulates drinking, but only on Sundays, and says that if "any public-house keeper permits any person to tipple or drink in his house on the Lord's day, espe -sially in the time of divine worship the hotel man was cinched for a sizahilling ine.

The old boys fixed it all right for the favored few by inserting the clause, "except for refreshment," making it certain that it would not be bone dry. But they wouldn't stand for a red light district, and both men and women who were caught were given the option of paying thirty pounds or being "whipped at three several courts, and each time they shall receive thirty lashes on the bare back at each of the several courts.

They commenced to get rid of the harsh laws half a century later, for on December 6, 1769, the Assembly repealed the death penali, for petty thieving, but directed that it should be "lawful to pronounce the death sentence upon any person convicted of the strocious crime of horse steal tog."

The greater part of the time of the legislatures seems to have been devoted to repealing laws, for at the end of the sixty-four years an index

BURGLARS CAPTURED THRU PARROTS TALK

"That'll Do, Boys," Says Bird-Man ter Takes Men by Ruse.

Grand Rapids, Mich .-- When Arthur Simmons' parrot, "Pock," was awak-ened from slumber by the flashlights of two burglars the bird quietly said:

"That'll do, boys; that'll do;" The burglars, surprised, dropped cloth bags with silverware taken from a sideboard, threw aloft their hands and said they would submit to arrest without resistance.

Simmons, investigating, after grming himself with an slarm clock, switched on a light and ordered the burglars to face the wall as he al lowed the light to fall for a second on his timepiece, and turning to Mrs. Simmons he instructed her to call the police.

Now the burglars are behind the bars, while "Peck" is being dined on the best parrot food money can buy.

A man never knows what he can do until he tries, and then he's often sorry he found out.

A charitable speech does little credit to a man who is afraid to put his hand in his pocket.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but the majority of us know it merely from herasay.

Every man knows how a wife should be managed, but few are able to give a successful demonstration.

If a man is devoted to his wife the neighbors say he is soft, and if he isn't they say he is a brute.

When the right girl meets the right man there is not much more to be said emopt by the minister.

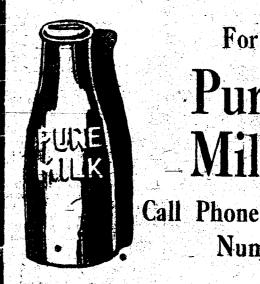

But it is better to do a little kicking on your own account than to detérierate into a human football.

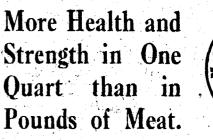

If a girl is unable to secure a man's vages in an office she might succe in getting them by marrying him.

When a woman is angry she tells a man just what she thinks of him-and inedentally just what everybody else thinks of him.

It's a safe bet that a girl doesn't enjoy the first kiss she gets from a certain young man unless she pretends he doesn't.

Somehow the people who do as they please seem to get along just about as well as those who are always trying to please others.
