School To Employ a Nurse

Will Attempt to Stamp Out Influenza and Other Diseases.

The local school is going to employ a nurse for a limited time beginning next Monday. Miss Fern Howard has been engaged for the work. It is thought advisable to try this plan not only to stop the appearance of influenza but to stamp out other diseases which are found amongst school children.

The plan to stamp out influenza will be as follows:

Every child who has a cold or a cough will be examined and if necessary sent home. Parents will be instructed how to care for the child. No pupils will be permitted to attend school who come from homes which have influenza, or where there is any suspicion that influenza may be developing. The school rooms will be disinfected as often as necessity requires. Parents are asked to co-operate in reporting any cases of illness they know of to the Superintendent.

The school has been having trouble with certain infectious skin diseases, particularly the itch. Parents whose children have this disease, must expect to follow the instructions for curing it given by the nurse. In other words, they are expected to co-operate heartily with the school in stamping this disease out.

A general campaign of instruction pertaining to health and cleanliness will be carried on for the next two weeks. It is hoped to make the school the safest place in the community for children.

Sometimes in shooting folly as it flies we pierce wisdom in a strange disguise.
