The Republican State Ticket

Has Woman Candidate For the M. A. C. Board.

Every nomination at the Republican State Convention held at Lansing Tuesday afternoon was made by acclamation.

Mrs. Dora H. Stockman, of Lansing, was nominated on the agricultural board when A. J. Doherty, of Clare, who had served on the board for twelve years, withdrew from the race.

L. Whitney Watkins, of Jackson county, defeated Robert D. Graham, of Grand Rapids, candidate for renomination, without a roll call.

Nominating speeches were made for both candidates but Graham's name was withdrawn when it became apparent that Watkins was an easy winner.

Members of the state board of agriculture: L. Whitney Watkins of Jackson, and Mrs. Dora H. Stockman, of Lansing.

Regents of the University of Michigan: Benjamin S. Hanchett, of Grand Rapids, and Dr. Lucius L. Hubbard, of Houghton.

Justices of the supreme court: Russell C. Ostrander, of Lansing, and John E. Bird, of Adrian.

Superintendent of public instruction: Fred T. Keeler, of Mt. Pleasant.

Member state board of education: Frank Cody, of Detroit.

Every county in the state had some women in its delegation and they took an active part in the deliberations of the convention.

Commission Proceedings.

Regular meeting of the City Commission held at the commission rooms, Monday evening, Feb. 17, 1919. Meeting was called to order by Mayor Whittington. Present—Whittington, Gidley and Crowell. Absent—None.

Minutes of the last two meetings were read and approved.

On motion by Gidley, the following bills were allowed:

Anthony Kenny, wood for Mrs. Hall $ 5.00

Northern Auto Co., supplies for fire truck 23.31

Stroebel Bros., mdse 5.66

Wm. F. Bashaw, registration clerk 3 days 6.00

Moved by Crowell, supported by Whittington, that the commissioner of Streets and Public Improvements be instructed to secure the services of a competent engineer for the purpose of drafting plans and specifications for the improvement of the bridge across the South Arm of Pine Lake. Carried.

On motion by Gidley, meeting was adjourned until Monday evening, Feb. 24, 1919.

Otis J. Smith, City Clerk.

Catching the Post.

Pat was walking along the road, when, hearing a whir, he looked back, and saw Larry flying fast and furious on a bicycle.

"Hi! Wait a minute!" shouted Pat. "I want spake to you."

"I can't, I'm in a hurry. I want to catch the post," cried Larry, flying by.

Suddenly the bicycle swerved and crashed into a telegraph pole on the roadside, and Larry and the bike lay in a helpless tangle. As Pat came on, Larry was extricating himself from the wire puzzle.

"Begorra!" said Pat, with a grin. "I see you caught the post."

His Pledge.

Dick Brown was very much addicted to drink, and some of his friends determined to get him to take the pledge. To that end one of his neighbors read to him from a newspaper of a man who was so saturated with alcohol that in blowing out a candle his breath caught fire and he was burned to death.

"Burned to death!" exclaimed Dick. "Badad! that'll never happen to me. Bring me a prayer book and listen—I, Dick Brown, hereby solemnly declare that as long as I live I will never blow out a candle."

Unless a young man keep his mind on his business more of the time than on his social affairs, it's a sign he's going to be a social success.

A WOMAN'S RECOMMENDATION

Mrs. D. T. Tryor, R. F. D. 1, Franklin Av. Otago, O., writes: "I realized so great a benefit from the use of one box that I feel safe in recommending Foley Kidney Pills to any kidney sufferers."

They relieve backache, sore muscles, stiff joints, rheumatic pains and bladder ailments.—Hite's Drug Store.

The Better Day Will Determine Woman's Status

WARREN W. LAMPOR

Long the night has been and dreary That enraps the sons of men; Eyes a-watching worn and weary For the "better day" again.

Long have sin and superstition Filled the earth with grief and pain; Long have parasites been feasting While the poor have toiled in vain.

Selfishness and greed have triumphed Oft with shameless, cruel might, And war's ruthless desolation Filled the earth with bane and blight.

But eyes weary with their vigils, Watching for the coming dawn, Now with hope and joy are kindling, For the better day draws on.

Thrones are toppling, crowns are falling, Sinking to decay and rust; Age-long systems of oppression Yield and crumble to the dust.

See! The people's hour advances! Hail! All hail, democracy! Tyranny's long reign is ended And the world at last is free.

Free the serf as is the master; Free the woman as the man; Each a rightful place possessing In the world's redemptive plan.

Truth and righteousness prevailing Over error's evil sway! Oh, 'tis blessed to be living In this glorious latter day.

Let your souls lean out and listen! Coming up the steeps of time Hear the footsteps of the Master, Treading with a march sublime.

In his hands, once pierced and bleeding, Peace and brotherhood he brings. Jesu! Hope of all the ages! Hail him! Hail him, King of Kings!

The Spectral Fleet

WARREN W. LAMPOR

Over the waters they come and go; Crowding the waves they glide to and fro;

Swept by the urge of a voiceless breeze, The spectral fleet of the inland seas.

Some, as they pass in the mystic light, As the foam of the rolling waves are white,

And some are as somber and dead and dull As the folded wing of the gray seagull.

They are the ships that we hail no more, The sail-winged crafts of the days of yore;

Pioneer ships that gave us our best, These glorious states of the middle west.

Over them many a season crept, And many a storm in its fury swept; But steadily on they plowed their way, They loved the storm as the child loves play.

Their hulks now lie deep under the wave, As the men who sailed them sleep in their grave;

The voyage is ended, their day is done, The day of the swifter steam draws on.

Yet in my dreams I see them go, Led by the Griffin they pass to and fro; Swept by the urge of a voiceless breeze, The vanished fleets of the great five seas.

To the Voters of Charlevoix Co.

I am a Candidate on the Republican ticket for renomination to the office of County Commissioner of Schools and would like to meet the voters of the County personally as I did many of them four years ago for I thoroly enjoyed the campaign. However the duties of my office are heavy and I am now organizing the spring work of the rural schools which I love. It will therefore be impossible for me to meet many of you at this time, but I shall none the less appreciate your support at the primaries March 5th. If re-elected I shall endeavor to show my appreciation to you by continued effort in your behalf.

Very truly yours,

MAY L. STEWART.

To the Voters of Charlevoix Co.

I am a candidate on the Republican ticket for the office of Commissioner of Schools. If elected, I pledge myself to devote all of my time to honest and efficient service in the interests of the schools of the County. Your support at the primaries March 5th, will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

AMELIA KADEN.

Creation of Commission Urged to Adjust Inequality Between Sexes.

Lansing, Feb. 19.—Uniformity in all laws affecting the legal status and rights of women in Michigan, as compared with men, in view of the right of suffrage which has recently been conferred on them, is the object of a bill introduced by Senator Vincent M. Brennan in the Michigan senate.

This measure would create a commission, to be composed of two women and two men, the members to make a study of the laws now in force, and the acts of 1919, "and to make recommendations for repealing and amending existing statutes, and for enacting additional legislation with a view to giving full effect to the letter and spirit of the woman suffrage amendment to the state constitution adopted Nov. 5, 1918, and, considering the physical differences between the sexes, to place the women of the state upon the same legal basis as men, politically, socially and industrially."

The members of this commission would be appointed by the governor, one member of which would be the attorney general or one of his assistants. They would serve without pay, except necessary expenses, including any clerical or other employes necessary in carrying out the work. A close study should be made by this commission of all laws pertaining to the legal rights of women, married and single, and which create a distinction between them and the analogous or similar rights and duties of men. The commission would also consider the judicial decisions setting forth the rights and duties of women as distinguished from men.

It is the idea that the members of this commission, keeping in mind the constitutional and natural differences between men and women, shall do this work for the purpose of "correcting legislation or conditions which now make for unjust inequality between the sexes and of conferring such rights and imposing such duties upon the women of this state as are now enjoyed by and required of men."

The commission is to make a full report of its work to the legislature of 1921, in printed form. In its preparation the commission is further authorized to investigate social, industrial and economic conditions insofar as the same affect women as distinguished from men, and which can be improved by legislation.

SUPREME COURT OPENS MICHIGAN TO BOOTLEGGERS.

Uncle Sam and the Tax Dodger

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 18.—The Michigan Supreme court in an opinion today decided that August Marxhausen, former editor of a German newspaper in Detroit, was legally entitled to the return of 7,000 bottles of beer which state inspectors confiscated from his summer home last July.

At the same time the court held that search warrants must be obtained before liquor can be taken from buildings, automobiles, suitcases, etc. This means that enforcement of the liquor law along the Ohio line where the state constabulary have been stationed must be suspended until the legislature remedies the defects in the present law.

If officers are required to obtain a search warrant before going through a car suspected of containing liquor, the bootleggers will be miles away. It is believed that millions of quarts of whisky will be brought into the state before the legislature can put through the bill now pending which will cur the defects in the old statute which resulted in its being overturned by the Supreme Court.

Washington, Feb. 17.—How does Uncle Sam deal with tax dodgers? This inquiry, which was prompted by the severe penalties provided in the new revenue bill, has brought from Commissioner Daniel C. Roper a frank statement as to the Internal Revenue Bureau's attitude toward those who attempt to evade taxation.

"Any person who deliberately conceals tax liability, or who falsifies a return in order to reduce or evade any internal revenue tax, or who deliberately abets such concealment or fraud, finds arrayed against him the entire strength of this Bureau pressing for the full civil and criminal penalties. This is the attitude toward the tax dodger, expressed in one sentence. Whether he is a moonshiner, a stealthy trafficker in habit-forming drugs or juggler of income figures, a delinquent in making the sworn return the law requires, or a revenue violator of any other kind, the Bureau is charged with the duty of hunting him out and exacting the full punishment provided in the law.

"Toward the taxpayer who means to comply with the internal revenue laws, fully and honestly, the Bureau extends a helping hand. Cooperation with the taxpayer is our objective. "These two contrasts—the teeth of the law for the tax-dodger and the violator, and the aid of every lawful agency for the voluntary taxpayer—are policies necessary to the administration of tax laws under modern conditions. "One of the most difficult of the many problems in tax collecting is to classify those who fail to fulfill the obligations imposed by law. The Bureau is obliged to maintain a large staff and to use the utmost discretion in properly labeling these cases. Even-handed justice is a heavy responsibility, and only through careful siftings can delinquents be classified.

"These are three distinct classes of delinquency with which we have to deal. First, the taxpayer who had reasonable cause, brought about by exceptional conditions beyond his control; secondly, the fellow who didn't look up or didn't realize his obligations; and thirdly, the person who willfully evaded compliance with the law.

"As for the man who shows a reasonable cause within certain lines, established by the Bureau, no penalties are asserted. All other delinquents are more carefully investigated before prosecution is begun. Many of these offenses are caused by ignorance and negligence. Failure to make the reports required by law may in some cases warrant severe penalty, as where the delinquent continues his delinquency after being warned of the penalty for failure to make return. However, if the delinquent takes immediate corrective action, and it is clearly established through investigation that he did not willfully violate the law, the Bureau allows him to compromise his liability to specific penalty by tendering a nominal sum of money. In such instances the money is not really in compromise but assessed to impress the taxpayer against future violations.

"But there is no relief, no compromise, for the man who willfully evades, willfully neglects, or willfully falsifies. He is classified with other law-breakers in the eyes of the Bureau, and is vigorously prosecuted in the courts. No other course is open to the Bureau, in meeting fairly and squarely the demand of the willing taxpayer: "I will—the other man must." There is a solemn responsibility thus existing between the honest taxpayer and the Bureau to locate and punish the dishonest tax-dodger.

"For a decade the drift of Federal taxation has been from the indirect tax toward direct payment by each citizen and resident of his just share of the cost of government. Gradually the circle of direct taxpayers has been increased, and under the new revenue law the extension will include hundreds of thousands who never before filed declarations with the Government.

"We are therefore now come to another milestone in national progress. We approach a new test of the soundness of American ideals of a government of, by and for the people. The test is whether our wonderful victory of liberty is worth the cost as apporportioned to the private pocket-book by the people's representatives.

"It is such a big thing, this collection of taxes directly from private funds and business funds, that nothing short of our best American cooperative effort can make it successful and hence just. The Bureau seeks this cooperation of the people in collecting the revenues. It has never been denied or stinted; anything less than the great, voluntary outpouring of shares in the national assessment is unthinkable.

"And it is such a big thing that the willing taxpayer must have the guarantee of this Bureau that the laggards, the jugglers and the violators will not escape taxation and penalties. The Bureau is fulfilling its part of this contract with the people—this contract that means so much in the practical, effective and just administration of the Internal Revenue laws."

Respectfully,
Emanuel J. Doyle,
Collector.

NEW TRACTOR SCHOOL TO OPEN AT M. A. C.

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 17.—A new tractor school, for the instruction of men who would like to learn how to operate and repair these farm machines will be opened at M. A. C. on March 3, according to word from the department of farm mechanics. The course was to have commenced on Feb. 17, but reappearance of the influenza at M. A. C. caused the college authorities to postpone the opening to the later date.

Individuals interested in learning the domestic and other habits of the various varieties of tractors are informed by the college that they can obtain information by writing to Ashley M. Berridge, director of short courses at M. A. C.

School Notes

Kindergarten—The children of the Central Kindergarten building enjoyed a Valentine luncheon, Friday. Their long table was decorated with vines and red hearts, and lighted with many candles. Salted crackers with apple butter and mint candies were served. In the morning the hostess was Helma Twilsen, the host Howard Ramsey. In the afternoon Marion Maddock was hostess and William Ellison host. Harriet Bisee won a silver star on the game circle last week.

First Grade—The first grade enjoyed a Valentine party and Valentine box, Friday. Popcorn was served.

Second Grade—The pupils who were neither tardy nor absent during the month of January were as follows: Ruth Alexander, Peter Hegerberg, Isabel Kijmsah, Ruth Kale, Margaret Maddock, Russel Meredith, Clara Mack Norman, Basil Blanshan, Evelyn Webster, Franklin Severance.

The past week the 2nd grade room has been decorated with hearts and have been studying St. Valentine and his life. A party was greatly enjoyed by all, Friday. The study of Washington will be taken up this week and the Valentine decorations will be replaced by patriotic decorations. Mrs. Webster, Mrs. Ruhling and Mrs. Barnett called on the 2nd grade last Friday.

Third Grade—Dorothy Hager entered our grade from the East Tawas schools. We are glad to have her. We enjoyed a Valentine party Friday afternoon.

Sixth Grade—The following pupils received Palmer pins in Palmer Method writing: Sylvia Tusch, Laberta Stewart, Mary Maddaugh, Grace Hudkins, Anna Griffin, Dorothy Kitman, Howard Snyder, Guy Moors, Donald Clark, Thurlow Brown, Beatie Kaufman, Grace Ellison, Dorothy Malpass, Alice Zitka, Leatha Cox, Marie McDonald, Raymond Sheehy and Olaf Omland.

Shredded cabbage and lettuce hearts with French dressing and roasted peanuts make an excellent salad.

An oblong piece of zinc fastened to one end of the ironing board is a great convenience and time-saver. No hunting for the regulation stand and no scorched pad.

Instead of warming cereals in the oven, fill a large corn popper full of flakes and toss it lightly over the heat from the stove. Besides being quicker, there is no possibility of scorching, as is the case when the oven is used.

Garments worn by children should be rendered fireproof by the addition of a little ammonium phosphate to the water in which they are washed. This will not render them absolutely fireproof, but very nearly so.

To clean a white satin hat buy a five-cent block or square of magnesia at the druggist's and rub over the satin. Use plenty of magnesia, covering every bit of hat. Leave for a few days. Then turn the hat upside down and shake off what is loose. If you do not like the appearance of the hat go over it again, using plenty of magnesia and taking pains to do a good job.

To prevent picture frames from making ugly marks on your wall, glue on the back of the frame at each corner a thin piece of cork.

Add cup of salt to one quart gasoline, shake well. Lay soiled garment on blotting paper, wet cloth with mixture and rub garment.

To remove a rusty screw, apply a hot iron to its head for a few minutes and then remove it in the usual way with a screwdriver. The screw will then come out easily.

School Commissioner's Notes

May L. Stewart, Commissioner

Township teachers' Meetings during the past two weeks were held in Bay, Boyne Valley, Eveline, Evangeline, Wilson, South Arm, Marion, Norwood, Hudson, and Melrose. Miss Redfield, temporary chairman in Hayes, has been ill and the meeting was necessarily postponed. Chandler and Big Beaver have not yet been heard from. The teachers conducted the meetings themselves without the attendance of the commissioner and the suggested schedule was adopted almost without exception, all the complete returns are not yet available. Names of chairmen and committees appointed will be printed as soon as the line-up is complete. Our rural schools have a live-wire corps of teachers, organized and at work. Watch for the results this spring—interesting and the best yet.

Plans are under way also to do something substantial for our county school system in Educational Hall at County Fair Grounds in September. The townships have already nobly responded and one city superintendent to whom the plan was mentioned incidentally said: "We'll help, too. Sure we will." And it is too good to be true and we can't tell you yet but later watch for the good news, sure and definite.

Attendance greatly improved through out the month. Better health conditions and open roads give us an unusually fine February attendance, several schools reporting "no absence during the past two weeks."

Springvale and Maple Grove have joined the Hot Noon Lunch list. Springvale will no doubt organize under the M. A. C. plan as have Ranney and Burgess. Bay Shore Handicraft Club definely. State leader expects to visit them this month.

FAMILIES OF SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

Are you worried because your allotments do not come, or your letters do not arrive, or for any reason connected with your boy's service to his country? Let the Red Cross Civilian Relief Department help you. Call or phone the following committee:

J. J. Porter, phone 1.
Mrs. W. E. Palmiter, phone 185.
Roscoe Mackey, phone 88-F2.
The service is yours, free.

Returned Soldiers and Sailors: Keep up your Government Insurance! We have some late dope on this. Ask us.

It is true, of course, that "poets are born, not made," but just because you've been born doesn't signify you are a poet, although a good many people seem to think it does.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES

Shirtings consist of a number of rows of gatherings either on tucked or plain material.

Ruching is made like ruffles, but usually is not wide, and is hemmed on both edges and gathered or pleated in the center.

Seams are bound with a small running stitch, the tape or other binding being held down over the seam edge while sewing.

Never darn fine woolen underwear with wool. It will shrink and pull out a hole larger than the original. A loosely twisted knitting silk is excellent for the purpose. When washed the darn will have almost the same thickness as the knitted goods.

The woman who goes about with a workbag on her arm is more usual than she used to be. The craze for knitting has done much to make her so, for before knitting came in there had been many years of comparatively little doing of needlework among us. Not that knitting is needlework. But knitting has brought renewed interest in handiwork of all sorts and now workbags are so lovely that nobody can resist them.

The most charming kind of a boudoir cap can be made from a large handkerchief. It must be a man's size and should be of finished linen. Whip to the edge of it an inch wide edge of Valenciennes lace. You may add a heading before you apply the lace, thru which ribbon can be run, but it is not necessary. Fold back two corners of the handkerchief for several inches. These fall at back and front of the cap. Now gather the other corners over the ears and hold the gathers with a knot of ribbon. To hold the cap in place use an end of the ribbon as a chinstrap and snap it under the bow on the other side.

The average woman is willing to stand up for her rights anywhere except in a crowded street car.

There are millions of reasons why a man can love an heiress, and each one of them is a silver dollar.

While a man may be capable of loving two women at the same time, if he is wise he won't attempt it.

When a man reaches the point that he is ashamed to admit that he loves his wife, he will bear watching.

A man may try to make a widow think he could not help loving her, but she invariably knows better.

This is difficult for a woman: To believe the nice little things she tells other women about her husband.

There are plenty of men claiming to come from fine families who appear to be a long way from home.

Husbands and wives should remember that they married for worse as well as better and act accordingly.

No, Cordelia, drummers are not so called because they are on the beat, but rather because they are so noisy.

A man who probably speaks from experience says: "When a wife resigns, look out for domestic storms."

It is always a question whether persons who have to ask for a vote of confidence really deserve it when given.

One has poor control of himself when he allows his disposition to depend on the weather and other external.

TOWN LONG DEAD REBUILT BY FISH

Elk Springs, Mo., Now Back On The Map: A Center for Fishermen and Hunters.

Kansas City, Mo.—You hear a lot about towns that used to be, but here's a story about a town that's coming back.

Elk Springs, once the capital of Missouri and the county seat of McDonald County, but for the last forty years just a whistling station, is bearing back. The fish that roam up and down the gravel bottom of the Elk River, once the Cowskin, are bringing it back to its former greatness.

At one time Elk Springs was a place worth while. It was quite a trading post for the hunters and trappers in the Ozark Mountains. At that time it was the county seat of McDonald County, of five hundred inhabitants.

The Civil War came, and Elk Springs boomed. It was feared the Federals would capture the books and records in Jefferson City, and one night they were all loaded in wagons and carted thru the State to Elk Springs. There the executive officers remained with their records several days.

Then the town began to fade. One night the county judges loaded up their documents and sneaked over to Pineville, six miles away. It was thus that Elk Springs lost the county seat, and its last vestige of respectability. In a few years nothing was left but memories.

But the sun was again to shine for Elk Springs. The Kansas City Southern built a road down thru Missouri. They put up a shed there for a station. Some one built a store. Travelers began to go thru. The Ozarks, a part of Missouri that was practically unknown, began to be explored. A cool, clear river that wound in and out among the mountains, filled with fish of all kinds, particularly bass, was found. They also found squirrels, quail, wild turkeys, coons, possums, ducks, and other wild game. Elk Springs became the center of the fishermen's and hunters' endeavors. The mountains were filled with caves.

It's small consolation to a man to know that his neighbor's wife is less extravagant than his own.

Cupid is a sorry leader. After leading people into trouble he leaves them to fight it out themselves.

Two men can hardly talk for ten minutes without introducing the subject of money or property.

RUNAWAY JAVA SPARROW IS RETURNED TO FOLD

Is Back With His Sorrowing Mate After Months Sojourn in Parts Unknown.

New York.—Tommo, errant Java sparrow, is back at the Children's Museum in Brooklyn after a month's sojourn in parts unknown, and while he is busy telling it all, bird fashion, to his mate Quinnie, Miss Anna B. Gallup the curator at the museum, is trying to figure out whether fate or providence arranged the remarkable chain of circumstances attending Tommo's flight and return.

It was a month ago that Miss Gallup, assisted by Eugene A. McCarthy, one of the students at the museum, was giving Tommo and Quinnie their baths when Tommo flew out of the cage and disappeared through an open window.

"Never mind," said Miss Gallup to the boy, "Tommo will come back." Days went by but Tommo, prodigal-like, did not return for the fatted seed. Quinnie, with every sign of grief, ate but little and spent most of the time with her beak through the wires of the cage looking toward the window through which Tommo had escaped. Miss Gallup feared the bird would die.

Miss Nellie Francis MacCarthy, an aunt of Eugene, who lives near the museum, brought a Java sparrow in a box to Miss Gallup. The bird had flown that morning into the studio of Charles H. Budd's gift shop, in Manhattan where Miss MacCarthy is employed as an artist and designer.

"Eugene has identified this bird as a Java sparrow," Miss MacCarthy told Miss Gallup, "and as you lost one recently, I have decided to present you with this one."

Miss Gallup examined the gray plumage, red beak and queer white spots on the sides of the face, that resemble little whiskers, and uttered an exclamation of joy.

"It is Tommo!" she said and soon Tommo was back in the cage with Quinnie. There was a joyful reunion. Quinnie was her old self again and she and Tommo flew around the cage in an ecstasy of joy. After dinner together Tommo listened patiently to a certain lecture from Quinnie, and then entered upon a recital of his adventures. To all appearances he has promised to settle down and become a model husband. At least, Quinnie's manner would indicate such an agreement.

Fifth Death in Piggott Family

Influenza Takes 14-year-old Lad, Thursday.

Percy E. Piggott passed away at his home in Echo township, Thursday morning, from influenza, aged fourteen years.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning with interment at the Jones cemetery.

This makes the fifth death from influenza in this family within less than a fortnight. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Piggott, and two children—Richard and Martha—passed away Feb'y 10th and 12th.

This makes five deaths in a family of thirteen and is probably the heaviest toll that the dread disease has taken in our state.

WAS RESIDENT OF ECHO TOWNSHIP FOR FIFTY YEARS

Mrs. Elizabeth Marsh Kidder, wife of Ephraim Kidder, passed away at the home of her son, Edward Hebdon, in Echo township Tuesday, Feb'y 18th at 12:30 p. m.

She suffered a paralytic stroke about a week previous. Deceased was 68 years of age and has been a resident of Echo township for half a century. She leaves her husband, one son, Edward, and two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Spence of Echo, and Mrs. George Bradshaw of Central Lake.

Funeral services were held from her late home Thursday afternoon conducted by a Central Lake pastor. Interment at the Densmore cemetery.

OVERWORKED, TIRED WOMAN TOOK VINOL

'Now She is Strong and Hearty'

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was overworked, run down, nervous, could not eat or sleep. I felt like crying all the time. I tried different remedies without benefit. The doctor said it was a wonder I was alive, and when Vinol was given me I began to improve. I have taken eight bottles and am now strong and perfectly healthy in every respect, and have gained in weight. I can not praise Vinol enough."—Mrs. Sarah A. Jones, 1025 Nevada St., Philadelphia, Pa.

We guarantee Vinol to make overworked, weak women strong or return your money. Formula on every bottle. This is your protection.

TO FIX STANDARD FOR MOTOR FUEL

CORPS OF GOVERNMENT EXPERTS AT WORK TO DETERMINE WHAT IS "PURE GASOLINE"

TOO MUCH KEROSENE BEING USED

Many Complaints Received About High Percentage of Constituent.

Washington.—The Government has set to work a corps of experts who will shortly announce an absolute standard of motor fuel which will be available to the lawmakers of the State. In fact, the real purpose of the "pure gasoline" inquiry which the Bureau of Standards of the Department of Commerce is conducting is to provide accurate scientific data for the time is believed to be fast approaching, when the quality of the gasoline now being sold will be frowned upon by the law.

The trouble with gasoline is its kerosene constituent.

For more than a year inquiries have been pouring in upon the bureau from trade and commercial organizations from coast to coast, all asking: "What is pure motor gasoline?"

In almost every case the question was accompanied by convincing proof that the fuel sold as "gasoline" by garages and other sources of supply contained a kerosene constituent that ranged anywhere from 5 per cent to 15 per cent of the fluid mass.

Very recently the Board of Trade of the District of Columbia started a campaign in the interest of purer gasoline. The Bureau of Standards was called upon to inaugurate a series of tests which would fix a standard for gasoline so that the board could bring prosecutions under a local statute which provided a penalty for false advertising.

The board was successful in obtaining the co-operation not only of the Bureau of Standards, but of the Federal Board of Mines as well, and at this time the gasoline investigation is well under way. It was started, bureau officials pointed out, because of the almost inevitable demand for "pure gasoline" laws which is expected to come within the next few months.

The development of the gasoline engine has made possible the use of a certain kerosene content in all gasoline sold for fuel. This constituent was low in the first days of gasoline adulteration, but it has increased month by month until it is now so large that it will leave a film or grease on cloth dipped in the ordinary grade of motor gasoline.

The increasing of the kerosene adulterant has caused motorists endless trouble, such as the clogging of cylinders with a carbon deposit, and so poor is the ordinary grade of gasoline that certain firms are charging higher prices for the pure product. The Bureau of Standards believes the time is not far off when all states will pass laws aimed at this evil.

No effort, however, to pass a national pure gasoline law will be made, it is believed; the matter will be left solely to the State, but the Bureau of Standards expects to be in a position to furnish legislators with data upon which such laws must be based.

The work of adopting an absolute standard for pure gasoline is altogether too technically scientific to be easily understood by the lay mind, yet it can be summed up by saying that the bureau experts must determine at what temperature a real gasoline distillate may be drawn from the petroleum "base."

PORCUPINE ATTACKS A DOG

Man Gets Few Quills When He Goes to Animal's Rescue.

Witten, S. D.—Burnis Simans was called outside by the barking and howling of his dog and found that it had stirred up a porcupine. After considerable difficulty the animal was killed. The dog was pretty well filled with needles and Simans also received a share of the porcupine's natural weapons.

These animals are very rare in this part of the State. They must have been more numerous years ago, as the Indians used the quills, colored with pigment, in forming some of the designs in their dresses on gala occasions. A few days later A. L. Lindich killed the supposed mate to the porcupine killed by Simans.

Man Eats Black Lime, Lives.

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—Finding a pan filled with what he thought to be cottage cheese, "Sandy" Harris, 60 years old, of Plains Township, hid himself in a barn and ate most of the stuff. Children later found him writhing in great agony, and a doctor was summoned. After cleaning out Sandy's stomach with a pump, the physician learned that the "cottage cheese" was black lime.

Harris has recovered, except that his eyes have become badly crossed as a result of his experience. The physician says they will remain in that condition for the rest of his life.

EYE STRAIN HAS MARKED EFFECT UPON CHARACTER

Missouri University Expert Cites Results Upon Children and Advises Parent and Teachers.

Columbia, Mo.—Defects of the eye, such as farsightedness, nearsightedness and astigmatism, have a marked influence on character, especially in growing children, says Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the Missouri University, Department of Preventive Medicine. These can be classed under the general head of eyestrain, the most common symptoms of which are rapid fatigue of the eyes during reading and writing, pain in the eyes, headache, blurring of the print, pain in the back of the neck between the shoulders, redness of the edges of the lids, a desire to rub and press on the eyeball, dread of light, cross-eyes, floating spots before the eyes, brain fag, drowsiness and a tendency to develop styes in crops.

The near-sighted child, whose vision is often restricted to things which he can touch with his forefingers gradually loses all those things which he cannot see clearly. By 10 or 12 years of age the danger to his eyes may have become beyond cure, and beyond help from the use of glasses. In the beginning of school life, about 2 per cent of the children are near-sighted, whereas in late school or early college life it is found in 30 per cent of pupils.

The far-sighted child is working under an overload all of the time. His power of mental concentration fails, being submerged by disagreeable sensations which he experiences but does not know how to locate. He soon becomes discredited both in school and at home. Punishment which he receives he feels to be unjust and unreasoning is the natural result.

Astigmatism produces a very much the same trend of symptoms and often-times is combined with farsightedness.

Teachers and parents should remember that the child does not know what good vision means, and does not realize his defects. In the presence of any of the symptoms mentioned a specialist should be consulted and the eyes examined. Proper glasses can generally be adjusted without a great deal of difficulty, and the child thereby often changed into a happy and proficient student.

MAN STEALS AND SELLS THREE HUNDRED LAMBS

Is Arrested at Douglass for Theft and Lodged in Jail at Casper, Wyo.

Casper, Wyo.—One of the most sensational thefts of livestock ever perpetrated in this country, and one that takes rank with some of the most lurid deeds of the "Old West," was recorded when Tom Stevens, aged 28, an employe of one of the local refineries for the past three years, was captured in Douglass as he was getting off of the train to cash a draft for $1,600 which he had received from the sale of 300 lambs belonging to the Coal Creek Sheep Company of this county.

Stevens, in the custody of a deputy sheriff of Converse County, was brought to Casper and lodged in the county jail.

Stevens committed one of the bold acts of robbery which has come to the attention of local authorities in years.

According to the story told to the officers, Stevens went to the camp of the Coal Creek Company and told the herder in charge of the flock that he had been discharged, and that he, Stevens, was to have the band in charge.

After the herder left Stevens drove 300 head of the sheep to Casper and loaded them under the name of P. C. Nicolaysen, president of the Coal Creek Sheep Company, and accompanied the shipment to Denver, where he received a draft for $1,600 after the shipment had been sold.

Stevens then returned to Casper and remained here for a day before going to Douglass, where it was presumed he intended to cash the draft. The deal was tipped off to Sheriff Patton in time to notify the Converse authorities to nab Stevens just as he was getting off the train.

NEGRO HAS MORE TITLES THAN MOST FARMERS HAVE HAY

Birmingham Man is Clerk in Railroad Office, Sunday School Teacher and Poet as Well.

Selma, Ala.—A Birmingham negro, W. M. Montgomery, appears to be one of the wealthiest men in the country in the line of titles tralling after their names. This is the conclusion of a local business man to whom Montgomery wrote on one of his regular letter sheets.

At the head of this letter paper it is revealed that Montgomery is president of the local N. A. P. E., teacher of Galeda Class Sixteenth Street Baptist Sunday School, author of Poetical Pearls, a book of rare poems; clerk Macon & Birmingham Railroad Post-office, trustee Selma University, member executive board State Sunday School Association, president Selma University Club, and Secretary of Mount Pilgrim Baptist Association.

Two of the persons listed in the latest issue of the St. Paul (Minn.) directory were in the very first volume put out sixty years ago.

A good business qualification is the ability to adjust to your own.

CHILD HOLDS UP BANK TO GET 'HUNDRED BILLYUN'

'Was Goin' to Have House n' Woods, Servants, Ottermobiles n' Everything,' He Confesses.

Minneapolis, Minn.—An 11-year-old boy, whose name is withheld by the authorities, held up the Robbinsdale State bank to get "a hundred billyun" dollars to build a castle in the woods and "have automobiles, servants n' everything. But let him tell the story: "They told me that there was a hundred billyun dollars in the bank," he said. "We boys were going to hold up the bank and get the money. 'Nen we were going to take part of the money and buy a fine, big house in the woods, where no one could find us. 'N we were goin' to have ottermobiles n' horses, n' a lot of servants, n' not go to school any more.

"'N, oh, gee, we were goin' to have ever' thing fine n' grand n' live there forever. 'Nen we were goin' to put the rest of the money in some other bank and we were going to get three hundred thousand dollars a minute n' trust on it 'nen we would have money enuf to last us forever.

"'Nen we planned it all out after school 'n we went out to our camp at Spring along Nineteenth avenue, 'nen we started for the money. One of the other boys gave me my gun 'n told me not to put a mask over my face cause real brave hold-up-men never wear 'em any more. 'Nen they went with me as far as a big bridge almost to Robbinsdale. 'N they hid under the bridge and were to wait for me there.

"'Nen I went into the bank, n' I pushed that gun, only it wasn't loaded, at that woman, and I guess I would have got the money, 'f she hadn't started that bell to ringin'.

"'Nen I run like ev' thing and I had to pull my gun again to get past the people that was runnin' up, 'n I'd a got away 'f it hadn't been for that man that hid behind that tree and told me he would shoot me dead 'f I didn't stop. I thought his gun was loaded, so I stopped.

"'No, I didn't want to do anything bad. I just wanted to get that hundred billyun dollars so'st we could have a fine time the rest of our lives. 'Don and Ray musta seen the folks chasin' after me and beat it 'cause they wasn't under the bridge when the police brought me into town."

Miss Frances Parr, 20, is the woman who foiled the youthful bandit. When she pointed his revolver at her she pretended to start for the cashier's wicket and en route stepped on a floor button, ringing a burglar alarm bell outside the building.

At the sound of the bell the lad fled and was met outside the bank by pedestrians attracted by the gong. He drew his pistol and brandishing it forced his way thru the crowd. He began to run up the street and was halted some blocks away by a man who pushed a revolver in front of the tree-trunk behind which he was hiding, threatening to shoot. The lad stopped and was arrested. He was taken to the county jail and is held on a charge of delinquency.

The boy's father is employed at night and his mother is a washwoman. When she is away the lad is under the care of a sister only three years his senior.

The two boys accused as accomplices have been taken into custody. The youths got their hold-up inspiration, it is said, from cheap novels and the movies.

'CARP HOUND' RAIDS POND, SAVING WHEAT DUCK BAIT

Animal Catches and Eats Fish Which Were Annoying Hunters.

Portland, Ore.—Dr. Alan Welch Smith and his fellow owners of a duck pond on Sawie's Island have presented to the State a new species of animal, to wit, the "carp" hound. This dog eats fish and insists on taking them alive out of the water.

When Dr. Smith and his friends visited their pond recently they found most of the wheat they had carefully planted as duck bait was gone. The evident size of the mouthful quantities in which it had been taken away, added to the scarcity of ducks, led the hunters to suspect that the objects of their charity had been robbed.

"Carp," said a sage member of the party. As if to prove his hypothesis a big fish just then swung into the wheat field and went away with his full.

Another of the party had a dog, and when its master took it to one side and confided to it the tricks the fish had been playing the dog barked sympathetically.

The next carp that started for the wheat met an untimely death. The carp hound let out a yell which frightened the fish out of its wits, then, while the carp was still dazed, sank his teeth firmly in the enemy's back and took it out of its native element. The dog continued his raids until the pond was nearly vacant, so far as carp were concerned.

At the end of a week the hunters found their wheat practically intact.

'THANK GOODNESS IT'S DONE'

Woman Finishes Wonderful Quilt Begun 32 Years Ago.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Mrs. W. K. Scott has just finished a quilt containing 7,639 variegated pieces. She started the quilt 32 years ago, when she married—but the entire time consumed in the making totals only five months. The quilt is a beautiful piece of work.

How to Choose Protein Foods Economically

Since protein is one of the most important food elements which the body needs and in most forms is expensive, housewives should take particular care in the selection of foods rich in protein in order that they may provide this substance in their diet economically, say specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The principles underlying the choice of such foods are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 824, "Foods Rich in Protein." Protein, the bulletin points out, is the only form in which the very important element nitrogen is furnished to the human body. The substance is absolutely necessary for the building and repair of body tissues.

The best known foods rich in protein include meats, fish, eggs, milk, cheese, legumes, nuts, etc. The proteins of the different foods vary somewhat in character. It does not make much difference from which materials older persons get their supply of protein, though a variety of kinds usually is considered desirable. In the case of children, however, milk is the very best source of protein.

Housewives may solve the problem of furnishing the needed protein of the diet economically, says the bulletin, by learning how much protein is provided by the different kinds of food and then choosing the kinds which will furnish what the family needs for comparatively low cost and with little waste. For the assistance of housewives in making such comparisons, tables giving the amount of the protein in a pound of various protein-rich foods, and also the percentages of protein in the different foods are included in the bulletin.

In discussing the relation of the protein food consumed in bodily health, the bulletin points out that healthy persons should not make the mistake of assuming that it is necessary to measure their food as carefully as a doctor measures his medicines or even the food which he prescribes for an invalid. If the body is in good condition it adapts itself to the ordinary variations in its food supply.

The danger comes when, day in and day out, the body gets too much or too little food, or when the kinds provided are not the most suitable. While there is no need to measure exactly how much protein is obtained with every meal, if the diet as a whole is to be healthful and economical the person who plans it ought to know in a general way how much protein and other nutrients are needed, and how much is contained in the different food materials; and then choose accordingly. The bulletin contains recipes for the preparation of economical dishes rich in protein.

For The Housewife.
Wet peach stains with cold water, rub on soap, lay in hot sun. Repeat until stains vanish.
A clean damp mop passed rapidly over matting removes dust and lint and saves much dusting of furniture.
When slicing tomatoes use a bread knife with saw teeth. This will cut the slices thinner and the work will be done more quickly.
Vinegar will sometimes revive colors— one tablespoonful of common vinegar to a quart of rinsing water. Saturate well, wring tightly, dry quickly.
Save the envelopes that have transparent name spaces. Use for buttons, tapes, etc. When in a hurry it will save time to be able to see what each envelope contains.

Always pull the leaves off the stalks of flowers before putting them in water—those leaves which would be in the water, not those above it. And with flowers from any hard stalked sort of shrub the bark should be peeled off as well as the leaves.

Curtains that are individual in effect and durable are not often met with. A woman who takes great interest in having her home individual and not a pattern of somebody else's has for her bedroom windows curtains of muslin to which is applied a two-inch wide band embroidered in pink with cross stitch roses, and edged with a tiny edging of pink crochet.

Needlework Notes.
Instead of embroidery in floss on sport hats; baby ribbon in bright colors is worked in designs looking as tho it were darned thru the silk crown.
In making shoe and slipper bags for the friend who is about to travel, be sure to make each pair of a different material, which saves unnecessary opening. It is more convenient to make a separate bag or envelope for each shoe and sew strong loops of tape at the ends so that they may be hung up in a closet. It is well to make the bags big enough to hold the shoes with their trees inside, for most people who wish to prolong the lives of their shoes keep the trees in always when they are not in wear.

The embroidered medallion is a splendid innovation for the woman who can afford but one hat, and who wishes to wear that hat with more than one costume. It is economy for such a person to purchase an all-black hat and then on this to use medallions embroidered in colors to harmonize with the frock or suit with which the hat is to be worn.

The excruciating pain of an aching ear will be soothed by dropping into it equal parts of glycerine, laudanum and sweet oil.

Eat More Cheese.

"Store" cheese—more properly known as American Cheddar—is more nourishing pound for pound, than any meat and therefore should have a prominent place in the diet as a meat substitute, says a statement issued today by the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Few people in this country eat cheese in sufficient quantities for it really to form an important part of the daily fare," says the statement. "Indeed, it is used more often simply as an appetizer or as a seasoning for some other food. Nearly every one recognizes good American Cheddar or 'store' cheese, but there is an impression that it is indigestible and constipating. Extensive digestion experiments carried out by the Department of Agriculture have demonstrated that more than 95 per cent of the protein of cheese is digested and 40 per cent of its energy is available. Even when eaten in large quantities and for long periods, no case of indigestion, constipation, or other disturbance was observed in those who ate it. One man who ate cheese as the chief source of both protein and energy, eating an average of 9.27 ounces daily, with bread and fruit, for more than two years, did a fair amount of muscular work and kept in good health.

"American Cheddar cheese is a very satisfactory substitute for meat. It can be kept in storage for a long time, and contains much food value in small volume.

"A pound of cheese supplies more than twice as much energy as a pound of fowl or round steak, and almost twice as much protein as the same amount of fowl or ham. Cheese, therefore, is usually a cheaper food than the meats.

"Cheese can be combined in many palatable dishes. When grated it may be used in soups or with many vegetables. Other foods in which cheese is used are: Macaroni and cheese, Welsh rabbit, tomato rabbit, baked-riced and cheese, baked crackers and cheese, and cheese mush.

Cabbage Recipes by Uncle Sam.

How to vary the preparation of cabbage from "plain boiled" is suggested by the United States Department of Agriculture in the following recipes:

CABBAGE WITH SOUR SAUCE.

After taking off the outside leaves, remove tough stalk from a small head of cabbage, cut in quarters; soak in cold water and cook in boiling salted water in an uncovered dish, adding 1/4 teaspoonful of soda. Cook slowly from 30 minutes to one hour, drain and serve with the following sour sauce:

Melt one tablespoonful each of butter or other fat, then add one tablespoon of flour and 1-2 cup of milk. Stir over the fire until hot and add one teaspoonful of made English mustard and two tablespoonfuls of warm vinegar. Pour over hot cabbage. If preferred a plain cream sauce can be used.

SMOTHERED CABBAGE.

Cut fine 1/2 head of cabbage. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter or other fat in a pan and stir in two level tablespoonfuls of flour. Add the cabbage, one cup of sweet milk, 1 teaspoonful salt and 1/2 teaspoonful pepper. Cover closely and simmer slowly 30 minutes.

CABBAGE PUDDING.

Shred the head of the cabbage closely and cook in salted water until tender. Drain and place in buttered dish in layers with sprinklings of grated cheese between. To two level tablespoonfuls of melted butter or other fat add 2 tablespoonfuls of flour; add a cup of milk, yolks of 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoonful of mustard. Stir over fire until it boils, then add beaten whites of eggs. Pour over cabbage, mix well and bake one hour.

STUFFED CABBAGE.

Remove coarse outer leaves and core. Parboil for 3 minutes. Fill core and inside of each leaf with finely chopped left-over meat (raw meat is best), or sausage. Tie securely in cheese cloth. Place in kettle with 2 or 3 carrots and onions. Cover with stock, and let simmer slowly two hours or until tender.

COLD SLAW.

Slice a small cabbage very finely. Soak in cold water until crisp. Drain and dry between towels and mix with cream salad dressing. It will improve the dressing to add to it a very little curry powder.

Health Notes.

One often finds himself without a toothbrush when spending the day of the night unexpectedly away from home. In such an emergency a rinse of soda water will prove effective in cleansing the mouth and teeth. Borax water is also an excellent substitute.

Light should fall over your left shoulder when you are reading, writing or sewing. If out in the sun when there is snow on the ground, it is best to wear slightly smoked glasses to soften the glare. They will be very restful to the eyes, will not attract unpleasant attention in the country, and will prevent chronic wrinkles. When the eyes are very tired, bathe them with hot water and boracic acid.

The habit of raising the brows continually will tend to produce wrinkles more quickly than the passing years. Whenever you are home alone, put long, narrow strips of court plaster just above the center of the eyebrow, halfway to the hairline. Every time you raise your brows this will be a silent reminder, and soon you will learn to know when you use those muscles that you now use unnecessarily.

Wear the plasters whenever you can until broken off the hair.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more lawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have bladder trouble—Take glass of Salt.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Broom Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest St. Jacobs Liniment

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 30-cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Liniment" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and back misery so promptly!

Kitchen Work Made Light

Does it seem that even at its best the washing of dishes is a monotonous, disagreeable task which no amount of planning can alleviate? I do not wonder that under certain conditions such is the case, writes a contributor to the Modern Priscilla.

A housewife's aversion to this occupation may be wholly due to so small a matter as the height of her sink. I do not know why the average sink is designed for the very short woman, but it is so. To remedy this difficulty, there are racks which can be bought to be placed under the dish pan to raise the latter to the desired height. If one is not obtainable, rest the pan on the kitchen table or some other support that will not necessitate your stooping over while the dish washing is in progress.

Again an abundance of clean hot water is essential. There is no excuse for greasy, dirty water containing floating bits of food. Yet how many housekeepers, who pride themselves on their cleanliness, are guilty in this regard! The common laws of sanitation demand a reform.

As to the accessories employed in dish washing, these should be close at hand. Besides dishpan, drainer, and cloths, they should include a sink drainer, soap shaker, soap dish, washing powder, gritty cleanser of some sort, silver paste, and a supply of sal soda, commonly called washing soda. These may, for the most part, be conveniently placed on a shelf back of the sink.

The order in which the dishes are washed has considerable to do with the heaviness or lightness of the burden. Why not appreciably lessen it by attacking the hardest things first? To be specific, I would recommend first the cleansing of pots, pans, and kettles—what commonly come under the general head of "rough" dishes. Now these are apt to be quite obstinate, as every housewife knows. The gritty cleanser may be effective in some cases, but the very best treatment I have yet discovered for removing sticky hardened substances from frying pans and similar utensils is to sprinkle them with washing powder, cover the bottom with cold water, and allow them to simmer on the top of the stove. They will take care of themselves while the table is being cleared and the food put away. If some dish still refuses to yield to this means of loosening refuse matter, it is well, after the remainder of the dishes are out of the way, to allow it to soak in a soapy solution of washing soda for a time.

Next to the cooking utensils come the silver and glass. A clean dish cloth and immaculate towel are requisite for this part of the task. If an occasional piece of silver is found to be badly discolored, it will save time to clean it immediately rather than put it away soiled, for it will have to be taken out and cleaned in any case before it can be used again.

Only the china is now left, and the care of this is scarcely any work at all if the housekeeper will let it drain itself without the use of a towel. I have seen housewives look askance at the adoption of this hotel method in the home, but far from being a slipshod way of evading dish-drying, it is the only truly sanitary one. One of the most efficient housekeeping appliances I possess is a durable rack of galvanized wire with a row of supports running lengthwise through the center for holding the dishes upright. It has repaid its nominal cost—a quarter—many times over. It must be understood that if the dishes are to dry themselves, they must be first carefully washed and thoroughly rinsed afterwards.

After the sink is washed (with a cloth reserved specially for that purpose), all towels and cloths that have played a part in the dish washing process should be cleansed and hung out doors to dry.

For the Housewife.

If curtains are allowed to dry thoroughly before being starched they will keep clean longer.

To remove machine oil from materials in which the colors might run use cold water to which has been added a teaspoonful of ammonia. Then wash with soap.

A drop of glycerin on pure linen will make the cloth transparent. If the material is adulterated with cotton the transparent effect will not result from the glycerin test.

Moth balls and camphor are said to draw the gloss from the fur and also tend to deprive the pelts of their natural oil, so that the use of these time-honored preservatives should be regarded with some suspicion.

Some people object to fried foods on account of the fat used. Fat need not be used; most foods can be fried simply by rubbing the pan with common table salt, then shaking it out and putting in the food to be fried.

In going over one's pictures eliminate all but the choicest and best loved, and try group together the pictures whose subjects are somewhat related, or which have a similarity in frames. Indeed, even when subjects are closely related, it is not possible always to hang pictures together, owing to a too great difference in the kind of frames. As a rule, any room looks better, especially small rooms, where only one color frame is used on all the pictures.

Here is given the explanation of certain terms in sewing:

A High Loper.

The "tenderfoot" does not always prove an easy victim. On one occasion a stranger to the West passed with flying colors the test that was set for him.

A citizen of Kalispell, Mont., a few years ago sent an article to an English sporting paper describing the eccentricities of bucking horses. An Englishman who was fond of hard-riding saw the article and came all the way to see for himself. He had a hunt for big game, and then he was ready to try the horses of the country. It was decided to give him the worst buck, pitcher, bitter and twister in the bunch. Word was passed around, and many cowboys and interested citizens gathered to the feast. The Englishman rode the animated earthquake and managed to keep his seat. Someone asked how he liked the animal.

"Oh, I like him! I always like a bit of brisk riding. He lopes a little high, but I say—when does he begin to broncho?"

A Just Debt.

A Western lawyer, it seems had been so unthinking as to offend a judge, a young man who had not had so much experience as the transgressing member in the practice of the arts of the profession. Recently in criticizing a ruling of the court, the lawyer went beyond the bounds of genuine respect. The court announced, in a voice which the offender did not hear distinctly, that a fine of $10 was imposed for contempt of court. "What did he say?" asked the lawyer, leaning over the desk of the clerk. He was informed. Thrusting his hand into his pocket, the attorney said: "I'll pay it. I never owed a justice debt."

There are two kinds of women—those whose clothes seem to have been made for them and those who seem to have been made for their clothes.

Only the unexpected interests us. History records the race won by the easy-going tortoise, but says nothing of the many previous races won by the hare.

Rainbow of Optimism

The kind of sunshine that counts in this world is the kind that breaks right out while the rain is falling and the clouds lowering and creates a shimmering rainbow of color over every outlook. Not the kind of sunshine that beams in the easy, self-satisfied smile of the possessor, which rings truly enough in his voice when he says, "Cheer up; I don't find the world such a bad place," but which does not do much to scatter the gloom from the darkened life of a more-unfortunate comrade, who probably just at that period is finding the world, if not such a bad place, at least a very sad one, and who is not in any mood to profit by another's active liver, perfect digestion and generally bright outlook on life.

The man, or woman either, who makes the old world not only bearable, but absolutely pleasant, and at times quite delightful, is the one who absolutely and completely forgets self and all selfish interests in the charitable thought for another's suffering and trouble, who not only refrains from gushing forth untimely sympathy, but sends right through the blackness of the gathering clouds a bright shaft of sunshine in the practice of the kind of optimism that counts. Such a one is not only welcome, but desired and sought, for her name is not legion.

An illustration of practical optimism was actively carried out in the experience of a friend recently revealed. Two interested and well-wishing neighbors called upon her during the preparations for the funeral. The first fell upon her neck and wept copiously—this performance repeated at intervals during the day. The second, with one strong, sure clasp of the hand, one steady look of silent but true sympathy, disappeared from view, to emerge in the midst of the work to be done. There were meals to prepare—life had to be sustained; rooms to set in order; mourning to be made. Did she think of home or self? No; zealously, tirelessly she labored, coloring everything she touched with the golden halo of real, practical sympathy—optimistic sunshine.

John and the children, to be sure, were neglected for the time being, but their lives were tranquil and untroubled with grief. They could manage for a day or two, and manage they did, knowing full well that the wife and mother was scattering real love in her tireless labor for a neighbor; was spinning wonderful colors across the darkened horizon. She knew the secret of loving, helpful service—the real value of practical optimistic labor—and she gave it.

On another occasion in the same community a woman in reduced circumstances was about to be turned from her home; she had been unfortunate in having much illness among her children; her husband was crippled and unable to do much to help, and, burdened beyond endurance, the prospects were very dark.

Several women from a neighboring church called at the house, offered verbal words of sympathy, even made contributions toward the rent; one there was, however, who came in, talked over the situation in a clear, practical, bright manner, inspiring confidence and raising the spirits of the depressed family by her glad optimistic outlook. With no money of her own to assist, she flew to a wealthy friend, laid the situation before her and enlisted her to pay the rent. She did not cease her efforts with this, however; for five months she labored in her mission of love.

Employment of a light nature was found for two of the children; sewing trade was drummed up for the mother; in short, the family were not only set upon their feet again and in a position to continue to help themselves, but she had given them such a taste of the real joy for practical and generous sympathy that their simple life was forever brightened by the touch.

Life is full of golden opportunities for the development of this spirit, and hundreds are availing themselves of them every day; but the army is not large enough yet to win, and the call is out steadily for recruiting forces? The real rainbow of optimism spans humanity's horizon, spreading the glowing colors of love and harmony over the drab everyday existence until it fairly shines, the outlook is different and life seems worth while.

Reduces Double Chin.

To help reduce a double chin, practice the following exercise: 1—Stand erect, in military position. Place the hands lightly on the hips, fingers forward. Drop the chin slowly on the collarbone; then throw the head back with a quick, even movement that is not a jerk, but yet puts all the muscles into quick play. Repeat ten times. 2—Turn the head quickly to the right till the chin is just over the right shoulder; then back again. Repeat ten times; then turn the head to the left in the same way. Repeat ten times. Do not fire the muscles of the neck, but gradually increase the number of exercises daily until you can practice each about fifty times without after-discomfort.

Seam-Sewing.

When sewing seams that are inclined to stretch, pull them slightly from you with the left hand and the threads will not break after they are sewed.—Los Angeles Express.

Nature supplies a man with character, but the neighbors furnish his reputation.

It is easier for the borrowed umbrella to keep lent than it is for the average man.

"Time is money," said the man who paid a jeweler $1.50 for repairing a 98-cent watch.

According to an old Indian tradition, the chief end of man is the one with the scalp.

An undertaker is probably so called because he eventually overtakes the rest of mankind.

Discretion is the salt that preserves life and fancy is the sugar that sweetens it.

When women get their rights they will send their husbands to war as their substitutes.

Woman's nature is a mystery that man has never been able to solve. Neither has woman.

Many a man is sorry he spoke after spending an hour pricing furniture and such things.

You never see a married man applaud a wife who gets the best of her husband in a play.

As long as the earth is inhabited men and women will continue to stir up trouble for each other.

Says a female lecturer: "The men hold the reins, but the women tell them which way to drive."

Carnegie's wealth wouldn't begin to pay for enough hero medals if kissing were really dangerous.

Somehow a man never discovers that he is a fool until long after his neighbors have found it out.

A man who is supposed to know says that his better half's idea of beauty is only so-called deep.

Discontented Wives.

The life of the average husband and father must be a supreme monotonous existence. But men seem to be so made that they can do the same things over and over again endlessly without complaint. Perhaps it is their nature, perhaps the result of long generations of patient bread winning.

Women are different. I suppose most women would like everything in their lives changed once a year, and I know some who would tear up all roots oftener than that. Kathleen Morris writes in the Pictorial Review. One thing that holds us so tenderly to the children is that they change so constantly; last year's camera pictures are not this year's, and the pictures of a few years ago already give us a little pang at the heart. They were babies—they are boys and girls—and so soon they will be men and women, and bottles and tris and skates and schoolbooks gone forever.

So the children are safe in our hearts, and, for the houses—well, we move and shift and replace as much as the family temper and income will permit.

But the man of the house comes in under the general rule. Being a man, he never changes, nor sees the need for change. Being a woman, his wife eyes him patiently, or morosely, or indignantly, as her nature decrees, and looks forward with a sort of terror to the long, unaltering years to come. He has no further surprises for her, and as the years go by, his virtues are taken more and more for granted, and his faults are more and more evident. He is good, of course; he is kind and true, but he tells jokes she has heard twenty times, he never touches fish, and he is fussy when his feet get wet! She feels that she could endure violence and neglect for a while, anything for a change!

This would be funny if it were not so tragic. The tragedy comes in because, at the last census, one couple out of every twelve were divorced, and statistics already indicate that at the next census the proportion will be even more serious. So that we know that hundreds of thousands of men and women who loved each other once have come to coldness and bitterness, and the end.

Health Notes.

To make camphorated cream take an ounce of cold cream and add eight drops of camphor. Test the cream before adding the camphor and beat briskly while it is cooling.

A good liver squeeze consists of standing erect, with the arms hanging naturally at the sides. Now throw the left arm over the head and bend the body at the waist as far over as possible. With practice the fingers of the right hand will reach the floor. Reverse the exercise and bend to the left side.

Arms that would otherwise be lovely are frequently marred by having very coarse skin. This is due to the fact that some of the pores are closed, and a wash brush is splendid to open them. After the brush has been used briskly apply a softening wash or an unguent. A good softener can be made from one ounce of bran with enough benzoin to moisten, and the juice of one lemon. Lemon juice, glycerin and rose water, one-ounce of each, also make an excellent lotion.

In the Sick Room.

In the absence of a hot water bottle the nurse heated a skillet of salt, poured it into a paper bag and wrapped a towel around the bag. It was found as helpful as the most modern contrivance.

A financier is a man who collects all the money due him and stands off every bill collector that calls on him.

A woman declares that she has the best husband on earth, but that is no sign that she expects to meet him in Heaven.

A soft answer makes 'em think you are easy.

SALES IT IS THE BEST IN THE WORLD

Are you looking for a safe, reliable remedy for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough? A. H. McDaniel, Box 51, Lindside, W. Va., writes: "I am glad to tell you that Fole's Honey and Tar is the best medicine in this world. I had a severe cough. Someone recommended it and before I used half a bottle I was better."—Hite's Drug Store.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Says an inside bath, before breakfast, helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Sparkling and vivacious, bright, alert—a good, clear, natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. Only every man and woman could be induced to adopt a morning inside bath, what a change would take place. Thousands of sickly, anemic, nervous, women and girls, or morose, or muddy complexioned, or the multitude of "run-downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening, and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that faded, or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By using at any drug store for "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the hair, but for the prevention of dandruff.

It is the oil, not the wick in a lamp that causes it to burn brightly. Unless the oil is replenished, the glow dies out and the lamp becomes unserviceable. Advertising today is the oil in the lamp of business. Some replenish it daily, throwing their light and their influence into new corners; others believe they can keep going on the reputation of other years, forgetting the new readers, new customers arrive in the circle of this community each day, that the readers of a generation ago are not here, and if they are, they have forgotten the appeals of former days. Keep your business light glowing with the new oil of advertising replenish it daily.

Lieut. and Mrs. Stanley Risk with daughter arrived Monday from Battle Creek for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Malpass. Mr. Risk has recently been discharged from Camp Custer.

Mrs. O. E. Sundstedt left Wednesday for a visit with relatives at Chicago. Her son, Ellwyn, left at the same time for Lake Ann, where they have a farm and where he will probably remain for some time.

The G. A. R. and W. R. C. will meet at their hall on Saturday, Feb'y 22nd. They will observe Washington's birthday with a fitting program. All members and friends are invited to attend, commencing at 2:00 p. m.

In Tuesday's Casualty List is the name of William D. Gleason of East Jordan—wounded, degree undetermined. His father, Reuben Gleason, states that the young man was gassed in October, was in a hospital, and later returned to his unit—Hdq'r Company, 125th Inf. The casualty list is probably a belated report.

Orders from St. Louis, Mo., for ice in Cadillac received by one dealer totalled 1,000 cars. A prospective order is for 11,000 tons of ice. Other telegrams received were from Toledo, Cleveland and Chicago to reach the limit of thirty cars a day. Cadillac dealers are making plans to go the limit in meeting outside needs.

Gordon Miller hurried home to Cadillac as soon as he received his discharge from the regular army after serving four years. He anticipated a warm welcome from his mother and father. But his homecoming was the saddest event in his youthful career. Upon reaching Cadillac he learned that his mother was killed by a train near Mancelona two years ago when crossing the tracks in a buggy and that his father is an inmate of the state hospital at Traverse City.

Aliens found advocating destruction of property or overthrowing of the government by force will be deported under the provisions of the immigration act of Feb. 8, 1917. This announcement was made by Secretary of Labor Wilson in a letter sharply rebuking Micrometer Lodge, No. 404, International Association of Machinists, of Brooklyn, for protesting against the deportation of fifty-eight "alien radicals." The secretary denied that the aliens were being deported without due process of law and asserted that they had been given fair trials.

Miss Alba Nowland spent the week visiting Charlevoix friends.

Miss Wilma Potter of Central Lake is guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin A. Hiatt arrived Friday from St. Anthony, Idaho, for a visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Fay.

Mrs. Felix Green returned home Friday from an extended visit at Whiting, Ind. Her son, John, with son, accompanied her here.

Private Otto Kaley, who was wounded in overseas service, arrived home Friday. He joined his wife at Sutton's Bay recently. They came up from there together and are visiting Mrs. Kaley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. St. Charles.

WEST SIDE SCHOOL NOTES

We have a fine enlistment in our Health Crusade. The girls are 100 per cent—but we are sorry to say that a few of the boys seem to be waiting for the draft. The credits counting toward commissions are as follows:

Brushing teeth, 1 credit; O. K. on daily appearance, 2 credits; a bath, 2 credits; washing the head, 3 credits. When one gains 30 credits he is made corporal; when he gains 45 he is Sergeant. The credits for commissioned officers will be determined later.

Wilma Pickard spent Thursday afternoon visiting our school.

Mrs. Ingalls was a visitor in the first and second grade room Thursday afternoon.

Wednesday the fourth grade reading class entertained the fifth and sixth grades by the dramatizing, "How a King was Found."

Miss Weston and Beryl Whiteford were callers Monday, after recess.

The Kindergarteners are making picture books, this week.

The Fourth grade have finished their readers, and have started on their supplementary work.

The third and fourth grades are organizing an Audobon Bird Club. Each member brings ten cents and gets his Audobon pin. We have been making bird houses, and intend to study the birds as soon as they return.

The Fourth grade of the Central School invited our third and fourth grades to a Washington Program Friday afternoon. Each grade had something to do, and patriotic songs were sung.

Until you've learned that there are two sides to every story and not merely to some stories, you haven't learned very much.

Let Fish Cut the Cost of Living

The average American eats twenty pounds of fish per year. This includes oysters, clams, crabs, lobster, shrimp, and mussels. One dietary authority states that two hundred miles inland from our three coasts, the consumption of fish-food, per person, is less than a half pound annually.

For purposes of comparison it may be well for us to state that each inhabitant of the British Isles has fish on his bill of fare to the extent of one hundred pounds every twelve months, while the fish consumption, per capita, in Germany is one hundred and twenty pounds; Norway, Sweden and Denmark, one hundred and fifty pounds; China, two hundred and twenty-five pounds and Japan nearly five hundred pounds.

Latin-Americans are the only people who eat less fish than do the inhabitants of the United States, and this despite the fact that most of their countries have large seaboards. A peculiar feature about the inhabitants south of the Rio Grande is that they prefer the old-style dried cod-fish, as salt as Lot's wife and with the skin and bone attached. This forms the essential ingredient of "bacalao" or "la Vizcaya," a dish to be seen on all tables in Spain, Portugal, Italy and South and Central America on Friday.

With oceans of water about them, teeming with fish, they are in reality too lazy to go after them and prefer buying them from the fishermen of the Maritime Provinces, whose small schooners bring cargoes to these countries yearly, returning with salt from Turk's Island, sugar from Cuba, rum from Barbadoes or Jamaica, and tobacco from other localities, all of which they have taken in exchange for their dried cod.

There is absolutely no sane argument against the larger and more extensive use of fish as a daily diet throughout the length and breadth of this land. It is ideal as a food. It is most nutritious and rich in proteins. It is most easily digested. It contains in great abundance the chemical ingredients for making bone, muscle, and tissue. As a food nothing detrimental can possibly be said against it. Fish, with the exception of a few species, are clean feeders. For this reason their meat is extremely wholesome. No fish is as promiscuous and unclean in the provender it consumes as the hog.

The United States Government, realizing that we eat less fish than the people of other countries, is beginning a national advertising campaign to urge upon the American public the value of fish as a food, from both the standpoint of economy and of health.

No country in the world is so completely surrounded by waters containing this standard dietary article. No country has profited less by its fisheries. We have completely ignored the opportunities within our reach. With the exception of one or two concerns the fishing industry in the United States has not kept pace with the demands upon it and is to-day completely unorganized and conducted along slipshod lines by persons unacquainted with modern efficiency methods. In this field of endeavor there exists a really great opportunity to serve the public, reduce the cost of living and at the same time make money legitimately from an industry destined to grow a hundred fold in ten years.

If we do not wake up to this fact quickly the Japanese will have control of this trade, for they are now operating, not only in their own and adjacent waters, but have many packing plants and stations along our Pacific Coast, and in Mexico and Canada, and are shipping tinned fish to the United States and also all over the world, especially to China and Latin-America.—Leslies.

Needlework Notes.

When preparing to draw the threads for hemstitching or draws work, take a small brush that has been dipped in water, rub lightly on a cake of soap and draw it evenly over the threads, you wish to pull out. They will come easily, and will seldom break.

Health Notes.

To cure colds, mix one pint of lard and two ounces of camphor gum, heat and when cool add one tablespoonful of strong ammonia. Keep in cool airtight place. Apply to sore throat and put on chest.

A pure and wholesome remedy to correct constipation is called bran-lemonade. This is made by adding one pint of cold water to two tablespoonfuls of wheat bran. Let this remain over night and in the morning add the juice of one lemon.

If an artery is cut, the blood is a bright red color and comes in spurts; this is very dangerous; act quickly. Send for a doctor at once, treat as in vein cut, crowding gauze into the wound, and hold tight with bandages. Compress artery by tight bandages near the wound, but between heart and wound.

The value of exercise in developing certain parts of the body is well known. An excellent exercise for the development of the forearm is to stand erect and have the hands hang naturally at the sides. Then clench the fists tightly and stiffen the forearm. Then twist the forearm, both the right to the right and the left to the left, as far as possible without undue effort; then reverse the motion, the right arm to the left and the left arm to the right. Repeat a number of times. After this hold the arms extended straight in front of you and go through the same twisting motions. Holding the arms extended from the shoulders, sideways, toward the right and left, respectively, go through the same twisting motions.

For the Housewife.

A glass of vinegar put into the water in which salt fish is soaking will draw out much of the salt.

A wire egg-whip will beat a cake in less time and also will make it of finer grain.

The inkstain on the rug will disappear if you can shift the rug so that the sun will shine on the spot.

Washing dishes in a wooden tub or bowl will spare them the chipping they so often get from a metal pan.

To clean painted walls dissolve two ounces of borax in two quarts of water, add one teaspoonful of ammonia and add half of this amount to a pail of water, using no soap.

If your wall paper is disfigured by a stain that cannot be removed, procure some of the same paper and roughly tear from it an irregular patch which is a little larger than the stain to be hidden. Carefully paste this patch over the stain. The irregular, torn edge of it will almost defy detection.

The traveler's closet may be hung up in a closeless bedroom and will keep dainty frocks free from dust. There is a wire frame at the top and underneath a rod to hold garment hangers. From the frame runs along a rod in front and may be drawn close or pushed back. The cretonne curtain folds up around the wire frame and the closet may be tucked into a trunk tray or even into a week-end suitcase.

Recipes.

PRUNE PIE—Soak and cook one pound dried prunes, one and one-half cupsful prune pulp and juice, add two tablespoonfuls cornstarch, one-half cup sugar. Cook slowly until thick. Cool. Have already baked a rich plain crust. When cool add prune filling and cover with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored.

POTATOES CURRIED—Chop and fry a good sized onion in a little butter until it becomes a pale yellow; add one-half pint of milk and plain stock mixed and two tablespoonfuls rice flour. Boil up and simmer till the onion is done. Cut some cold potatoes into dice, add them to the above with a teaspoon of curry powder, salt and a little lemon juice. Serve as soon as hot and impregnated with the curdy powder.
