Faces Very Serious Charges

Kentuckian Accused of Rape and Burglarly Same Night.

Our little city came in for some unpleasant notoriety first of the week when a transient man committed both rape and burglarly late Saturday night. Alvah Stone, a young man aged 24 years, whose home is in Kentucky, has been working in our city the past month at various occupations.

Saturday night, it is claimed, he laid in wait for a 14-year-old girl, who was on her way to her home on the West Side, and while passing a vacant building, grabbed and pulled her into the lot near the building. Passersby heard her screams and rushed to her aid but not before he had torn her clothing badly and assaulted her.

In the darkness he escaped and came back over town. About two o'clock Sunday morning he entered the room of Tony DeForest at the Russell House and stole about $90.00 from the pockets of his trousers. DeForest was awakened as the burglar was leaving and Deputy Sheriff Cook notified. He immediately started an investigation, and through commendable work arrested Stone at Petoskey Sunday afternoon.

Stone had purchased a ticket for Cincinnati and was waiting for a train. Over half the stolen money was found on his person and by redeeming the railroad ticket, Sheriff Cook returned to Mr. DeForest $84.00 of the stolen money.

Stone was brought back to East Jordan by Sheriff Cook, and on Monday a hearing on the criminal assault charge was held before Justice Blount, who bound him over to the Circuit Court. He was later taken to the Charlevoix jail.

A couple weeks ago, complaint was made that Stone had grabbed and threatened a young lady one night on Main-st., while on her way home. The young lady did not wish to file formal charges and the matter was dropped following a reprimand by Sheriff Cook. In both cases Stone threatened the young ladies with a long knife and this was found on his person when searched.

CHECK SHOWS THAT FARMERS OWN CARS.

The most Michigan farmers, in certain sections of the State at least, own their own automobiles is shown by the report of a farm-census in Washtenaw County, which was issued recently by the extension division of the Michigan Agricultural College. Automobiles are owned on 1337 of the 1753 farms covered in the county census, or by practically three-fourths of the farmers.

These figures come as a distinct shock to those who have imagined that the cities own a corner on the automobile game, for it seems that their rural neighbors do a full share of riding these days.

On these 1753 farms, 61 trucks and 82 tractors are owned. Most of the farmers are shown to own their own land, although there are 256 share croppers, 79 cash renters, and 30 paid managers on the farms on the list. Silos are found on 1,034 of the farms.

While Washtenaw is listed as one of the wealthier counties of the State, and it is certain that a census in most of the other localities would not show so great a percentage of automobiles and farm improvements, the extension men of the college point out that the farmer is coming to be a fledged business man, and that in most cases he has the accessories that go with a business life.

NURSING CLASSES PLANNED BY RED CROSS CHAPTERS.

Classes in nursing the ill, conducted by trained nurses and open to every woman the local chapters as a part of the peace program outlined by that organization. The course will include instruction in home sanitation, hygiene, care of the sick, and dietetics. These classes are being introduced into public schools and colleges and are offered to employees of department stores and factories, girl scouts, or anyone who desires to learn to prevent illness as far as possible, and to care for the patient when illness comes.

About the time a man gets money enough ahead to begin to enjoy life he falls into the hands of the specialists and they kill him.

REV. R. S. SIDEBOTHAM RECEIVES CALL TO MANISTIQUE PASTORATE.

Rev. R. S. Sidebotham, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city, has received a call to the pastorate of the Presbyterian Church at Manistique and will leave for his new field of labor as soon as satisfactory arrangements can be made with the local church.

Mr. Sidebotham has been pastor of the Presbyterian Church here for a number of years and the church has prospered under his able management. As an officer in the Petoskey Presbytery he has accomplished much good in furthering church matters throughout Northern Michigan. While the removal of Mr. Sidebotham and his family is a matter of sincere regret among their many friends here, the new field of labor is a much larger one and the well-wishes of our entire community will follow them.

The matter of securing a successor to the pastorate here will be taken up by the local church in the near future.

WHAT HAVE THEY DONE?

When a public health nurse has been recommended for Charlevoix County, the question most frequently asked is: "What have Public Health Nurses done in other counties?"

The County Red Cross Chapter submits these answers to the question: Public Health Nurses have in all instances lowered the death rate of infants in counties where they have been employed. It is a common fallacy to assume that infant mortality is greatest in city districts, but cities have been after his low death rate until now the truth is that villages and cities under ten thousand population have the highest death rate for babies of any other area in the United States. This includes country districts. If education is needed—and that is the main thing—and a nurse can give us this education—and that is what they are doing in city districts—then surely we need a public health nurse.

Public health nurses have urged and instituted warm meals for country school children attending either city or rural schools. They have even succeeded in having the ten o'clock refreshment hour with pasteurized or malted milk for delinquent children and found that most of them could then keep up with their classes. They watch the thin and puny children and are friends to the friendless and needy.

The greatest plague in the world today is the great, white plague. Tuberculosis takes more victims every year than were lost in the Lusitania. In counties where public health nurses have been employed for some time, prevention and treatment for tuberculosis patients have been provided for to a much greater extent than in other counties.

The public health nurse in other counties, has visited the house of the discouraged and weakened mother, has gained her confidence, has effected in many cases greater cleanliness, better sanitation, and good cooperation with the local health officers.

Since these things have been done in other counties, the Charlevoix County Red Cross Chapter believes that it can be done in this county and recommends a public health nurse for Charlevoix County. It depends on the funds raised in the November drive. In other words, it is up to us.

CRAW JEWEL CASKET

Andromeda is, or was, a plain drab-colored runabout Buff Cochlin hen, with feathered pantlegs and no especial claim to distinction. She belonged to H. E. Westerly, a farmer at Hayward, Cal., and led an existence as drab as her color. She wallowed in the dirt, cackled as per accomplishment and did her own scratching in a wholly middle-class way.

Now Andromeda is the most famous hen in the county. For Westerly decided that his hen would make a wonderful Sunday dinner. He killed her and opened her crop. Among the gravel of her grinder he found an emerald ring surrounded by diamonds, worth about $300. The ring was corroded and had apparently been in the hen's differential box for about a week.

It is thought the ring was dropped by some passing automobilist and Andromeda, attracted by the glitter, swallowed it.

FARM SALE PRICE RAISED BY LANDSCAPE GARDENING.

That the sale price of farms is usually raised enough by landscape gardening around the house to pay for the cost many times over is the opinion expressed by I. T. Pickford, Extension Specialist in Horticulture of M. A. C.

In response to inquiries from various parts of the State in regard to effective landscape work for the farm home, Mr. Pickford is planning demonstration work for several counties. The planting of public highways will be taken up at the same time, with the idea of beautifying Michigan roads. Nurseries of the state are cooperating in the work by agreeing to furnish trees and shrubs.

INTERNAL REVENUE DEPT TO INVESTIGATE TAX LIABILITY.

A special drive to locate merchants and manufacturers who have followed erroneous methods in making their inventories for the taxable years 1917 and 1918 - such methods tending to reduce tax liability - is about to be made by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, it was announced today.

In cases of voluntary disclosures before investigation of failure to make proper return and payment, the policy of the Bureau, it was stated, will be to forego penalties except where there is intentional evasion of the tax. Where discovery is made by Government officers heavy penalties will apply.

In some cases inventories have been found to have been taken on the basis of average costs, though it was possible to identify the articles remaining on hand at the inventory period, and so determine their exact cost. In others, because of conservative accounting methods, flat percentages have been deducted after determining inventory values. Others use a fixed average based upon costs of prior years, or fail to include all merchandise to which they have title in their inventory.

All of these methods, which have the effect of reducing tax liability, are contrary to the regulations of the Bureau and are illustrative, it is said, of numerous irregularities which have been found.

A warning issued by the Bureau advised taxpayers who have followed such methods to file correct returns without notice and without investigation. Some taxpayers have voluntarily notified the Bureau of the employment of incorrect methods, and are filing amended returns. It is only fair to these taxpayers, the Bureau states that their competitors who have made similar errors should be located.

Respectfully,
EMANUEL J. DOYLE.

East Jordan Man On Grand Jury

Will Investigate Newberry Election Fraud Case.

Robert Sherman, of East Jordan, has been elected foreman of the grand jury in the United States court in the western district of Michigan, at Grand Rapids, which will investigate into the manner in which United States Senator Truman H. Newberry used funds in his nomination and election campaign in Michigan.

In giving instructions to the members of the jury, Judge Clarence W. Sessions in the District court cautioned the members about divulging any information whatever concerning those things which take place during the deliberations of the jury.

"I have no doubt each one of you will be besieged with questions for information of the things which transpire in the jury room," said the court. "Some of these questions—the majority of them—undoubtedly will be innocently made, while others may not be of such a nature. It is the duty of each juror to divulge to no one, not even to members of his own family, those things which transpire in the jury room."

"This session of the grand jury is one of the most important in the history of the state," said the court in opening. "Matters of great importance to the people of the state, the government, and to tell all of us are to be presented for your consideration and determination so far as to say whether prosecutions are to be instituted."

The court told members of the jury the session may be an extended one.

Hundreds of witnesses are being summoned to appear and indications were that the investigation would require from three to a month to complete. Every angle of the primary and election will be gone into.

School Commissioner's Notes

May L. Stewart, Commissioner

Observance Days in Michigan Schools.

We now have six OBSERVANCE DAYS in each school year. By this we mean that besides the real holidays when school will close and boys and girls will celebrate in true childish freedom, besides these there are six days when the teacher must by law have appropriate exercises to educate the school children concerning the history of our country.

On Sept. 17. Constitution Day, the Constitution must be studied in every school of the state. It seems best that this be done by explanations of how we govern ourselves and what we mean by government of the people.

On October 12th. Columbus Day. The Declaration of Independence must be read to the schools.

On October 27th. Roosevelt's birthday. Appropriate exercises must be given to create patriotism such as will best serve as a memorial to Roosevelt.

On November 11. Armistice Day. Liberty Day exercise should be given to explain democracy and celebrate the world war victory.

Feb. 12th is Lincoln Day and should be appropriately observed.

Feb. 22nd is Washington's Birthday and is always a big day in the schools.

In addition to the above named observance days, October 20-27 is Better Speech week, and the second week in March is Tuberculosis week. For both of these weeks, and others appointed from time to time, the state furnishes material for special study. Those may be prepared as morning exercise material and preparation made for a Friday afternoon program, when in true old fashioned literary fashion the children have a program either for themselves alone, or for themselves and friends. The only distinction is that the present day program has a motive, very utilitarian, and usually very much American.

Hallowe'en, Thanksgiving Day, Arbor Day, several of the poet's birthdays, song festivals, etc., have found a place in our schools and just naturally grow into the life of the pupils. The law didn't make these. Like Topsy, they just grew.

The New Year and Christmas season come at vacation periods, or vice versa, but they occupy a big place in our lives, and naturally bring a vast amount of richness to the school room. The question is "What shall we do with so many observance days?" and again "What would we do without them?"

Farm Census This Winter

Michigan Growers Will Cooperate in National Canvas.

A national farm census, which will provide extremely valuable information on the exact condition of the farming industry in the United States, is to be taken in connection with the fourteenth government census of the population of the country, beginning on January 1, 1920.

Many of the troubling agricultural questions of the day are reported as easy of solution, once the exact facts on the industry throughout the country are obtained. When facts are gathered together, as they will be by the coming census, the farmers themselves will have something to go on in determining profits and losses on their investments in the industry.

"The taking of the census will be a tremendous affair, as the blanks which all farmers will be asked to fill out are necessarily quite detailed. C. H. Graves, farm management expert at the Michigan Agricultural College, reports that the questions on the agricultural schedule cover the farm problems of the day and will furnish information which should go a long way in solving them.

"The great responsibility of this census rests upon the farmers of the country," says Mr. Graves. "If the questions are not answered with accuracy the value of the work will be small. It depends upon the farmers to give their most serious thought to this matter in order that the true condition of the farming interests can be found.

"The small service asked of the farmers, - that of answering the questions asked in the schedule, is so small a part of the whole project, which is costing the government millions of dollars, that every farmer in the country should feel that any failure on his part to do his best would be little less than unpatriotic to the farming cause."

KIDNAPED BRIDE-ELECT

After being refused a marriage license because he lacked seven days of being 21 years old, and then stoically waiting until this period had elapsed, Marlon G. Stewart, of Muncie, Ind., has been cheated out of his bride-to-be, Miss Marian J. Clous, of Wilmington, Del.

The wedding was to have occurred the day after Stewart had reached his majority. Preparations had been made for an elaborate ceremony, but to make some last-minute purchases Miss Clous left her home. On her way through one of the stores she met a former lover, Joseph Barney, of Douglas, Ariz., who, with Western breeziness, and what the girl's parents assert is some hypnotic influence succeeded in inducing the bride-elect to go with him to Elkton, Md., where they were married.

Following the marriage, the western visitor departed for his home to make preparations to receive his bride, while Mrs. Barney returned to the home of her mother. Meanwhile, the parents say they will attempt to have the marriage annulled, so that their daughter can marry Stewart.

DOUBLES OATS CROP

Farmer Finds That Cross-Breeding Brings Good Results.

By cross breeding oats, William Schumacher, a farmer near Waverly, La., has developed an oats crop which during the last two years has amounted to double that of his neighbors. This year his crop averaged eighty bushels to the acre. Nearby crops averaged thirty to forty bushels. Last year Schumacher's crop average was 102 bushels.

Schumacher began breeding oats nine years ago. The start was made with three kernels. The oats was crossed at that time with pollen from Ames. Since that time he has carefully selected the best stalks from his fields. This year the product from his original three grains of oats was 2,400 bushels, and in sorting out the best producing hills he found one kernel that produced twelve stalks of oats. The total number of seeds the one kernel produced was 2,410. The normal production from one stalk is fifty kernels.

RICH VEIN OF GOLD IS FOUND IN WALES

Problem Is Whether the King Will Claim It as of Yore.

The discovery of a rich vein of gold near Barmouth, Wales, bids fair to revive the old question as to whom do the mines containing gold belong?

Gold has been discovered in the Welsh hills at many places in the past, but it has seldom been worked for long. The discovery usually has been followed by a claim from the crown for the greater part of the product, and the miners have not found the business a paying one.

Some years back Mr. Pritchard Morgan invested a considerable sum in developing some of these mines, but the authorities claimed the greater part of the output, and though the gold seeker sought the aid of the courts he lost his case on the ground that all gold was the property of the king.

Since that period little attention has been given to these gold bearing districts. Just before King George V married Queen Mary a certain amount of work was done with the object of collecting enough Welsh gold to make the wedding ring.

The new discovery is said to yield quartz giving two ounces of gold per ton. The question now is, will the king grant a license to work the deposit on terms that will allow the promoters to be repaid for their expenditure of capital and labor costs?

HERMIT'S ANNUAL BATH

Lives in a Dilapidated Shack and Police Gave it to Him.

John May, aged hermit, who lives in a dilapidated shack in the Five Bottoms at Dallas, Tex., has been given his annual haircut, shave and bath. The police did the tonsorial act and also administered the scrubbing. It took several of the cops to do it, for John is a strong man and put up a determined struggle throughout the performance. He went to the police station with grizzly hair and beard which reached almost to his waist. He came away with a smooth face and head and smelling like high-priced toilet water.

John makes his living by mending tinware and his customers did not recognize him when he came around the next day.

"It's not my fault, lady," said John as one of the women failed to recognize him. "Them loafing cops are what did it."

John got his first haircut, shave and bath in twenty years last year, when the policemen ran him in and trimmed him up.

WATCH STOPS SHOT

In a Man's Hip Pocket, Acts as Armor Against Rear Fire. While at work on a lawn at Fort Augusta, Pa., C. F. Boyer of Sunbury transferred his big silver watch from his vest to his hip pocket, and to this he attributes a possible escape from death.

A few minutes later he wanted to see what time it was, and found the timepiece stopped, the hands broken off and a big dent in the back. A high power rifle bullet was also in his pocket, and a hole in the cloth told how it went in.

Boyer says he felt no shock and heard no sound, but as the bullet fits the dent in his watch there appears to be no doubt that it was a stray shot from a rifle. The rifle is in full view of where he worked, and a person standing across the stream might have fired it. The police chief, who is an old Twenty-eighth division man, says it is not from an army rifle.

Deed for Small Strip.

An unusual deed was signed the other day by H. Dryfoos, Jr., for a strip of land 8 inches wide and 40 feet long in the central part of Hazelton, Pa. It is at the rear of the Palace Cafe. Presto lunchrooms and the Knies and Neugass properties, which were destroyed by fire in the spring, and access to all of which was gained through the rear by this small piece of ground. It has been bought by the owners of the Presto, who control the entire tract.

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you—Drink more water.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush of the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

GULF FLOODS DUE TO DROWNED KEYS

Cause of Corpus Christi Disaster is Explained.

HOW HOLLAND IS PROTECTED

Building of Dikes Holds Back the Sea as the Stanch Sea Walls at Galveston Have Prevented Recurrence of Disaster of 1900—Subsidence of Gulf Coast is Estimated at About One Foot Per Century.

An explanation of the coastal formation which contributed to the terrible inroads of the floods that all but wiped out the city of Corpus Christi, Tex., and devastated other gulf towns is contained in a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

The bulletin recalls that the Galveston flood of 1900, which resulted in the erection of the stanch sea walls that prevented a recurrence of desolation at Galveston, was not the first calamity of that sort which has visited southern cities.

"Witness the swallowing of L'Isle Derniere, a health and pleasure resort of New Orleans, with most of its transient population, just 44 years before Galveston," the bulletin says, quoting from a communication to the society.

Florida Keys Farther Out.

"The student who scans the shores of Atlantic and gulf, either on the ground or on the admirable maps of the coast and geodetic survey and the hydrographic office of our navy, soon perceives that the relations between wave-built bars and wave-cut sea cliffs vary from coast stretch to coast stretch. On the New Jersey coast the bars are beaten well back to or beyond the line of the sea cliffs, so that the ponds or sounds behind the bars are relatively short and discontinuous; along the Florida coasts the keys stand farther out to sea and are separated from the mainland by great elongated sounds often affording navigable waterways; while about the northern shores of the gulf the relations of the keys to sounds are more variable.

"Closer study serves to interpret these variable relations. From Florida westward to Mobile bay the keys are nearly continuous and the sounds long and narrow; thence westward to Lake Borgne the typical keys are lost, though their lines continue in a series of islands—Ship Island, Horn Island, Cat Island, etc.—separated from the mainland by the broad Mississippi sound; still farther westward a new series of keys, erratic in form and trend, appears in the Chandeleur islands, and beyond the delta there is a corresponding (and correspondingly erratic) series of low keys stretching westward nearly or quite to Atchafalaya bay.

Keys in Process of Growth.

"Now the mainland shore of Mississippi sound is marked by a series of small and narrow keys and sounds, evidently in process of growth, but much less advanced than those east of Mobile bay; and these are among the evidences that along this stretch of shore the gulf has encroached on the land to such an extent as to leave the original keys 20 to 40 miles behind."

"Similarly the Chandeleur keys and the corresponding series west of the delta are small and new and obviously connected with the delta building.

"West of Atchafalaya bay the coast is characterized by the absence of keys and sounds, save of the infantile sort, like those of the inland shore of Mississippi sound; so that this shore seems incongruous with the rest until the student discovers the long line of completely submerged keys—Sabine bank, Trinity shoal, Ship shoal, etc.—in a position precisely corresponding to the islands south of Mississippi sound and forming a direct submarine connection (save as cut off by the delta) between these islands of the eastern gulf and the well-developed keys of the southern Texas shore.

"The position of these banks, like that of the Horn Island and its fellows, is such as to demonstrate that the waters have invaded the mainland and that west of the delta the encroachment has been sufficient not merely to push back the shore line 50 to 100 miles, but completely to submerge the ancient keys.

"The most striking feature of these drowned and half-drowned keys is their symmetric arrangement; except for the interruption by the delta (with its new and lesser sand banks), the great bars form a sweeping curve regular as the beach line of a landlocked bay, and hence afford a rough measure of the outbuilding of the delta as well as of the invasion of the gulf on its flanks.

"Hardly less striking than the symmetry of the series is the closeness of continuity between keys and banks. And it is a significant fact that Galveston island is the northwestern terminus of the west coast system of keys, the last stretch of these sand banks still rising above the level of the tide.

"It is the business of the geologist to detect and weigh the evidences of subsidence or elevation of coasts and to estimate the rates of movement for the guidance of local residents and investors; and it behooves such citizens to avail themselves of the scientific researches.

How Holland is Protected.

"The observations on the rise and fall of various coasts are impressive; Holland derives its name from its subsidence, coupled with the building of dikes for the protection of the land; the island of Batavia, inhabited in the days of Tacitus, is drowned; Zuyder Zee was formed by an invasion of the sea about the end of the thirteenth century, and the Netherlands polders (or dike-protected lands) are maintained only by artificial embankments which have been raised from generation to generation until now cultivated fields lie seven to ten meters below tide level.

"The measure of the rate of subsidence of the Holland coast ranges from .09 to .75 meter per century; since 1732 the mean has been .26 meter, or nearly a foot per century. The subsidence of the New Jersey coast was estimated at two feet per century by State Geologist Cook; it has continued so long that fresh water cedar swamps have been submerged and the forests imbedded in saline mucks, whence it is profitable business to mine the logs for lumber; and in consequence of the current sinking the Atlantic is encroaching and swallowing or destroying estates and homes to the value of many thousand dollars annually.

"The subsidence of the gulf coast is less confidently known; but the geologic indications are that it is (at least between Mobile bay and Galveston harbor) nearly as rapid as on the New Jersey coast, and more rapid than on the Netherlands coast, at least since the building of the dikes; so that the rate cannot justly be estimated at less than a foot per century."

ST. LOUIS GIRLS' INGENUITY

They Can Keep Both Hands on Auto Wheel and Avoid Law. You can't beat Cupid. Knocked to his knees by the antispooning edict of St. Louis county officials he drank the cup of bitterness.

The constables declared that men driving automobiles must keep both hands on the wheel and quit spooning. But the constables gasped when they saw girls driving and the young men sitting alongside with both hands free.

"What's a fellow going to do when the girls got both hands on the wheel?" Constable George Roth asked. "That's perfectly legitimate. That's what I call beating the law."

Got Bait From Wreck.

O. H. Woodward and a companion of Chagin Falls, O., started on an auto trip to a fishing place. Unable to obtain bait, they feared the catch would be small. Half way to their destination the auto turned over. Woodward was thrown clear of the machine, but his companion was pinned underneath. When the machine was finally lifted the man inside was found putting angleworms in the bait pail, for the machine had torn up the ground. And they were then up.

Could Be Seen Growing.

A freak vegetable growth which in two hours developed from the size of a baseball to the proportions of a small watermelon attracted hundreds of visitors to the home of George Motheral, at Lawrenceburg, Ind. Development was plainly visible, there being alternate movements from side to side. Visitors were unable to classify the strange formation.

GOOD SAILOR BUT ALWAYS THE GOAT

ARMY WON'T LET HIM LAND

Was Only a Kid When He Left the Great Lakes to Go to Sea and Has Made Ten Round Trips to France—Ten Times He Has Been Refused Permission to Land—Has Extraordinary Appetite for Lead Pencil Shavings.

When the "trophy ship" Santa Rosa made fast to her pier at Hoboken, the first member of the crew to start down the gangplank was Dinny, who was bred in northern Illinois, and was only a kid when he left the Great Lakes naval training station to go to sea. The soldier guard at the bottom of the gangplank held up a forbidding hand. Dinny, being a sailor, disdained the landlubber's command, writes George C. Briggs in the Chicago News. The immediate result was an encounter about the middle of the inclined way, and the soldier retired precipitately to the pier while Bosn's Mate Claude Smith and others of the Santa Rosa crew dragged the obstreperous Dinny back on shipboard, placating him with promises that he should have a large meal of pencil shavings.

This incident led to a discovery of twofold interest. For one thing it disclosed that Dinny will do almost anything—waive his shore leave; waive his short tail—anything for a mouthful of pencil shavings. Lieutenant Commander Horace L. Hall, executive officer of the Santa Rosa, confessed that it has kept him busy grinding up pencils in the pencil sharpener so that sawdust might be supplied to appease Dinny's inordinate appetite.

It's Army Versus Navy.

The other thing of interest is that an extensive controversy has arisen between Uncle Sam's army on the one hand and the navy on the other, as to whether Dinny should be allowed to land on the shores of his native country or whether, like the man without a country, he must remain forever an expatriate and sail the briny sea till it gets his goat.

"Nope; he hasn't come ashore," was the translated mandate of port of embarkation officials, communicated by an orderly to Lieutenant Commander Hall when sailors of the Santa Rosa took up the argument in Dinny's behalf with soldiers at the bottom of the gangplank—where the jurisdiction of the navy ends and dominion by the land forces begins.

It was the tenth time permission for Dinny to land had been refused by the army.

"I'm sorry about Dinny," said the executive officer. "He is the best mariner on the ship. He has made ten round trips to France—every one since the ship went into commission as a transport last March. And he never gets seasick, although he eats matches, cigarettes and all the pencil shavings we can supply. He is a native-born American and still the army won't let him land. The situation is getting serious now, for this is our last trip. The ship is to be turned over to the shipping board and something will have to be done about Dinny."

Suspicion Falls on Dinny.

At this juncture of the conversation an officer of the port appeared at the door of the ex-office.

"I'm instructed to locate 1,900 blue denim suits which were delivered to this ship and have them put ashore at once," he told Lieutenant Commander Hall.

"Haven't seen them, captain. Don't know where they are," said the executive officer. "Maybe Dinny—no, I don't think he'd go that far, though he'll eat anything."

"One thousand nine hundred blue jumpers are charged to the ship," the army captain was repeating, when he was interrupted by a clatter of hoofs and a weird apparition appeared in the doorway behind him. There was a goat with a pair of boxing gloves strapped over his horns.

"Dinny, have you been eating any blue denim suits?" the lieutenant commander demanded gravely.

"Aah—aa!" was all Dinny said, but he was looking wistfully, eloquently at the pencil sharpener above the desk of the lieutenant commander.

Just then the bosn's mate raced along the gangway and tried to pull the intruding animal out of the door. "He's been boxing again, sir—standing on his hind legs like he does and butting with the gloves on. And, sir, I've located the blue denim suits, sir. They're packed between the captured cannon and tanks in the hold to keep that artillery from rolling around. Come along, Dinny."

"Aa—ah," said Dinny.

The skeletons consist of long backbone vertebrae that have the appearance of a fish skeleton. The skull looks something like that of a coon, while the limbs appear like those of a large bird.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost. Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK HOT TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB RHEUMATISM FROM STIFF ACHING JOINTS

Stop "dosing" Rheumatism. It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Liniment" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain. "St. Jacobs Liniment" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache, neuralgia.

Limber up! Get a 30 cent bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Liniment" from any drug store, and in a moment you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

Origin of Jury System Attributed to Peoples of European Countries

The exact origin of the jury system is not known with certainty, it having been attributed to different European peoples which at an early period developed methods of trial somewhat similar to the early jury trials in England. Trial by battle was cast in the background by the Norman conquerors when the Norman institution of recognition by sworn inquest was adopted. The Curia Regis, or King's court, directed the sheriff to select four knights of the county by whom 12 knights were selected to serve as recognitors. After being duly sworn they inquired into the facts of interest to the new rulers of England which might be subject to public inquiry, such as matters affecting taxation.

Suitors in cases affecting the title of real estate, as early as the reign of Henry II, 1154 to 1189, applied to the king's court for recognitors whose verdict, if unanimous, was accepted as conclusive.

Originally the jury was selected because of their knowledge of the people, locality and customs and thereby passing upon the facts from a more intimate knowledge of them. During the reign of Henry IV, the jury was instructed to judge the facts upon the evidence submitted to it, which is the single function of the jury of modern practice.—Kansas City Star.

United States Leads All Other Nations of World in Production of Ships

Steamships under the American flag now comprise 24.8 per cent of the steam tonnage of the world, the United States shipping board announced.

"Today this nation has more shipworkers, more shipyards, more ship ways, more vessels under construction, and is turning them out more rapidly and in greater number than now issue from all the shipyards of all the world," the statement says.

"Up to the outbreak of the war we had only 15 vessels of 1,000 tons and over in overseas trade. Today the American flag floats from 1,280 ocean-going steamships, 1,107 of which have been built within the last two years.

Victory, "Dead Sea Fruit"—Defeat Spells Disgrace

Leaving baseball, football and boxing aside there is no longer a great disparity between woman's and man's athletic prowess. But whether the woman should be permitted to compete with the men in the golf, tennis, shooting and other championships is debatable ground. If the men oppose it one can hardly blame them, for it must be years before victory over a woman will be regarded as anything but "Dead sea fruit," and defeat as anything but a disgrace.

With the object of stimulating marriage England has a marriage insurance scheme by which the family will receive $2,500 in the event of the death of the husband, or the same sum will be paid at the end of 35 years if the husband still lives.

Mother's Cook Book

It is not what a man gets but what a man is that he should think of. He should first think of his character and then of his condition. He that has character need have no fear of his condition. Character will draw wisdom after it.

Milk Soup.

A soup that is very satisfactory, and one which may be prepared in a few minutes is canned pea soup mixed with a can of condensed milk. The combination seems especially pleasing. The frugal housewife keeps a goodly supply of all kinds of canned soup, which may be put up at home or bought at the grocery.

Cream of Tomato Soup.

Many housewives put up tomatoes especially for soup, straining them to remove the seeds. In a saucepan melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour, stir and blend, then add two cups of strained tomatoes, a fourth of a teaspoonful of soda, a teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of chopped onion. Cook five minutes and then add one and one-half cups of hot milk. Serve hot with toasted bread. Whipped cream adds greatly to the soup, using a spoonful on top of each cupful as served.

Potato Soup.

Cook three potatoes until soft. Scald a pint of milk with two slices of onion in a double boiler. Beat the potatoes with a wire masher, add the hot milk. Cook together one tablespoonful of flour, a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of white pepper, celery, salt and a tablespoonful of butter; add to the milk and potatoes and garnish with two teaspoonfuls of chopped parsley just before serving.

Rice Soup.

Cook a slice of onion in a cupful of hot milk, add one and one-half cupfuls of rice water saved from cooking rice, thicken with a tablespoonful of butter and flour cooked together; season with salt and pepper; add the milk and rice water and serve garnished with chopped parsley.

Cream of Pea Soup.

Put through a colander a pint of cooked green peas, add a quart of milk, a bay leaf, and a teaspoonful of onion juice. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and when well cooked add to the first mixture. Remove the bay leaf, season and serve.

Any vegetables from carrots to turnips may be served in a cream soup.

CURFEW

Solemnly, mournfully,
Dealing its dole,
The Curfew Bell
Is beginning to toll.

Cover the embers,
And put out the light;
Toll comes with the morning,
And rest with the night.

Dark grow the windows,
And quenched is the fire;
Sound fades into silence—
All footsteps retire.

No voice in the chambers,
No sound in the hall;
Sleep and oblivion
Reign over all!

The book is completed,
And closed, like the day;
And the hand that has written it
Lays it away.

Dim grow its fancies;
Forgotten they lie;
Like coal in the ashes,
They darken and die.

Song sinks into silence,
The story is told;
The windows are darkened,
The hearthstone is cold.

Darker and darker
The black shadows fall;
Sleep and oblivion
Reign over all.

Gasoline and Carbolic Acid to Kill Bedbugs.

There are several standard preparations to kill bedbugs, roaches and lice which can be bought at a drug store. The Maine agricultural station recommends a lice powder made as follows: Take three parts of gasoline and one part of crude carbolic acid, 90-95 per cent, strength; or, if the acid cannot be obtained as directed, three parts gasoline and one part creosol. Mix these together and add gradually, with stirring, enough plaster of Paris to take up all moisture—about four quarts of plaster of Paris to one quart of the liquid. Thoroughly mix the liquid and plaster in order to get uniform distribution and strength. The resultant powder is dusted on in the usual manner. Gasoline or benzine applied to the cracks of beds infested with bedbugs will exterminate them and sulphur candles have been used to drive them from rooms. Powdered borax is an effective agent for driving cockroaches out of a house.

The 1919 Potato Crop.

Commercial potato crop this year, as estimated by the government report, is 123,518 cars of 700 bushels each that are expected to be shipped from leading producing sections. Last year there were 148,048 cars. Crop in large eastern states is nearly equal to last year.

GEN. PERSHING GIVES $10,000 TO RED CROSS.

The last act of Gen. Pershing before he left France for the United States was to turn over to the American Red Cross $4,625.40 francs, about $10,000, to be used by the Red Cross for the care of French orphan children who had been "adopted" by the Red Cross. A chaplain attached to Gen. Pershing's staff visited the Red Cross headquarters and saw the work which was being done for the children. Apparently he had carried a report to the commander in chief, and the check was the result.

EASIER NOW THAN LATER.

RED CROSS AIDS AILING SOLDIERS

Organization Asked by Government to Seek Out Disabled Ex-Service Men.

FREE HOSPITAL CARE GIVEN

United States Pays Compensation While Treatments Are Administered in Public Health Institutions.

The American Red Cross has been asked by the United States government to use its efficient organization to seek out disabled and ill ex-service men, and to try to induce them to accept the government's offer to provide free treatment in public service hospitals, and compensation while the treatment is being administered.

The government estimates that there are fully 50,000 men in this country who are unable to work at full capacity because of wounds or disease contracted in the line of duty who should be receiving this treatment. So far only about 4,000 men have applied for such service.

A statement issued from the national headquarters of the Red Cross in Washington shows that a great misapprehension exists among the discharged men regarding the government's plan.

"Due to misunderstandings and misapprehension a surprising number of disabled service men are scattered throughout the country not knowing the benefits which are still theirs," the statement read.

"Back to the hospital" after he has donned 'civvies' and tried to keep going at civilian occupation is about the hardest order a soldier wants to hear. Acceptance of the government offer does not mean a return to service. The hospitals are civilian institutions. They are separate institutions, and are not connected in any way with the army or navy.

"The Red Cross is constantly discovering men who, through ignorance or prejudice, are losing the advantages of this wonderful service. So effective has this work become that the government has asked the Red Cross to make this a part of its regular relief work. All that is necessary is for the ex-service man to apply to the nearest Red Cross chapter. Arrangements will be made there for him to enter one of these hospitals after examination by a district public health officer, and if his trouble is the result of service with the army or navy he will be given transportation and admittance to a public service hospital.

"The Red Cross is now engaged in maintaining a program of recreation, occupational therapy, meeting the problems arising in the homes of disabled men, household and legal difficulties and affording many miscellaneous services to keep the men who are in the hospitals contented with their lot."

"This work of the Red Cross is one of the important branches outlined for its post war work and a part of the funds raised in the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 2 to 11, will be devoted to this purpose.

The tankateen is a new automobile with a three-horse power motor which has appeared in London and is being adopted by those who do not like the motorcycle.

HUGE OVERSEA SHIPMENTS MADE BY RED CROSS.

Two million crates, bundles or barrels, weighing 218,310,000 pounds were shipped by the American Red Cross to twenty-one countries from ten ports in the United States between April 1, 1917 and July 1, 1919, according to reports sent to national headquarters in Washington. This tremendous volume of business was shipped across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans during the war and after the signing of the armistice from New York, Baltimore, Boston, Montreal, Newport News, New Orleans, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Seattle. In addition to this great store of supplies, the Red Cross purchased supplies in the countries where it operated, both for the soldiers and ailing civilians.

TELLS SENATORS ABOUT BEEF COSTS

This May Throw Some Light on the Price You Pay for Beefsteak.

Testifying recently before a body of senators in Washington, a vice-president of one of the large packing concerns (F. Edison White of Armour and Company) made the astounding statement that so far in their fiscal year, which would cover the past eight or nine months, his company had "made no money whatever on beef."

This statement is doubtless well nigh incredible to the average man. Yet it was made in full knowledge that the senators had access to the company's books.

Recovering from the first shock, this same average man will say, "Yes, but the packers are shrewd; what they do not make on the beef they more than make up on the hides."

But even this illusion was destined to be shattered. Mr. White explained that his statement included everything that was derived from the steer as purchased—the hide, fat, even the intestines which are used largely for sausage casings.

Make Money, Nevertheless.

Well the packers make money—how do they do it? Mr. White admitted that they did, quoting figures secured by auditors of the Food Administration, to the effect that packers' profits on food commodities of all kind last year were 1 8/10 cents on each dollar taken in. These would include such things as sausage, shortening, canned meats, etc., in addition to fresh meats, hams and bacon. On all the products of his company, Mr. White explained, comprising both foods and inedible commodities, the profits during the same period were 1 8/10 cents on each dollar sale.

All of which would lead many to say that the packing business is not well understood. It isn't. Yet as one of the leading industries of the country, its workings and, above all, its profits, should be familiar matters to us. It is quite useless to orate against the high cost of living without digging into some of these fundamentals.

By-Products at Market Value.

One of the most enlightening bits of Mr. White's testimony was his explanation of the way in which cost price of beef is arrived at. If a steer is bought at $125.00 and hides are bringing $18.00 in the open market, then $18.00 is credited to the cost of the steer. If hides are selling at $23.00 that amount is credited. The viscera, fat, offal and everything else that comes from the steer are likewise credited at their prevailing market values. What remains is taken as the cost price of the meat. The beef carcass is then shipped to one of the local distributing branch houses, and the manager there is given the cost price with instructions to sell the beef at a profit if he can. But in any event, whether the local market be lively or dull, he must sell for what he can get, for the commodity is a perishable one and must be sold.

Manufacturer's Profit on By-Products.

However, there is another hitch to the packing business, quite a little understood apparently, that goes to show how a loss on fresh meats may be accompanied by a profit on the total amount of business done. Take, for example, the banjo strings aforementioned, which are made from the intestines of sheep. The department that makes banjo strings (and likewise surgical ligatures, tennis strings, etc.) "buys" the intestines from the sheep-killing department, paying exactly the same price that these bring when sold to the outside market. On this basis the string department manufactures its strings and sells them, bringing a profit into the business.

In like manner the fertilizer department buys blood and tankage; the soap department buys hoofs, horns, bones and sinews; and so on through the list of "by-products." The fertilizer, the soap and the glue, just as the music strings, bring in a manufacturer's profit.

In all cases these by-products, whether they be sold to outside manufacturers or to one of the manufacturing departments in the business (at the same prevailing market price), are credited to the cost of the meat portion of the animals, just as in the instance of the hides mentioned above. Thus the "utilization of by-products" system of which we have heard much, and the method by which it is conducted, show the packers' manufacturing profit on a great variety of commodities ranging all the way from pharmaceuticals to glue, do, in reality, bear the burden of fresh meat prices.

Senator Kellogg, of Minnesota, in discussing maladministration of railroads by the Government, said:

There never was a Government operation that was not wasteful and inefficient. It is inevitable under our organization that it should be so. It is not the province or the prerogative of a Democracy like ours, instituted for the benefit of the Government on the face of the earth, to manage the business of the country."

MOBILIZED FOR DISASTER CALLS

50 BASE HOSPITALS READY

Chapters Provide Emergency Relief Committees and Establish Supply Centers to Answer Appeals.

Preparedness for disaster relief on a scale never before possible is being undertaken by the American Red Cross as one of the important features of its new peace program, in support of which a nationwide Third Roll Call will be conducted from Nov. 2 to 11 to obtain 20,000,000 members and $15,000,000.

Plan Survey of Supplies.

Since 1900 disasters of peace have cost many thousands of lives and have brought personal injury or property loss to 1,500,000 persons, destroying property valued at $1,000,000,000. During 1917 eighty disasters were reported to the American Red Cross, 62 tornadoes, 5 floods, 4 great fires, two earthquakes, two serious mine disasters, two munition plant explosions and the tragic calamity which befell Halifax.

Under the direction of the Red Cross the entire resources of all communities will be mobilized for instant use when needed. Chapters everywhere will create committees to make surveys, locating emergency food supplies, drugs, hospital supplies, cots, mattresses, blankets, clothing, armorers, schools and other buildings for housing refugees and will canvass physicians, nurses, social workers and others prepared to respond instantly to calls for their services in disasters.

National Resources Available.

The thirteen divisional organizations will establish disaster relief supply centers and take charge of operations when assistance is needed. In cases of major disasters where the resources of the division in which it occurs are overtaxed, the entire strength of the Red Cross in the country may be mobilized through national headquarters.

Fifty base hospitals organized by the American Red Cross and turned over to the government for use with the military forces will be ready for immediate service.
