Post of American Legion Starting

Next Meeting at Armory, Monday Night, Dec. 1st, Commencing at 7:00.

ALL EX-SERVICE MEN URGED TO JOIN!

A few days ago W. C. Spring, former captain in the 32nd Division, and now State Organizer for the American Legion, was here in East Jordan, and suggested that we organize a post as soon as possible. The word was quickly passed around, and an application for a charter has been made.

The American Legion is an organization composed of former service men. Anyone is eligible who served in the army, navy, or marine corps, between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918.

The Legion is a civilian, not a military organization. There is no distinction as to previous rank, or service performed.

What do we stand for? The preamble to the Constitution reads:

"For God and Country we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligations to the community, state and nation; to make right the master fight; to promote peace and good-will on the earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

Our post in East Jordan will be one of the posts in the State. The States are governed by the rulings of the National Convention, composed of delegates from every State.

What has the American Legion done? It has strongly condemned the activities of I. W. W. S. Anarchists, and International Socialists. It has recommended that Congress should reclaim land, for homes of ex-service men. It has demanded of Congress the same disability privileges for members of the former National Guard and National Army, as members of the regular army receive. It has demanded that Congress deport aliens who refused to join the colors at the outbreak of the war. It has undertaken to see that disabled service men should be brought before the Vocational Board to enable them to obtain a lucrative occupation. It has demanded that nationalized citizens convicted under the espionage act be deported. It authorized the establishment of a bureau to aid ex-service men to obtain re-employment. It has appointed a committee to see that the above recommendations were effectively acted upon by Congress. That committee is now at work.

At present The American Legion is endeavoring to get every disabled man Vocational Training. A system has been devised whereby the man may be examined at once in Detroit, and sent on to the work. Also, the American Legion is making a recommendation to Congress in regard to a bonus, for ex-service men. At present congress has before it sixty-one bills asking for different amounts to be paid to former service men. Congress has asked the Legion to make a recommendation as to what the men want. Our state delegates are fighting for—well, we'll tell you that at the next meeting.

It is hoped that before long we will have the sister organization "The Companions of The American Legion" in operation too. Women are already planning for that chapter here. In that organization, any wife, cousin, sister, aunt or other relative is eligible.

Every former service man is invited, urged to come to the meeting on Dec. 1st. Regular officers will be elected, and future plans will be discussed. This is Our organization, our chance to keep together. Each member receives a copy of the American Legion Weekly, so he is not in the dark as to what is being done in other posts in this state and others.

During the War we were four million eight hundred thousand strong. Some power. If each stays by himself all will be S. O. L. Come to the meeting Monday night and help make our post the best not only in this State, but in others.

YANKEE MARINE HEIR OF SULTAN

Harem He Has Never Seen Is Part of Estate.

IS ADOPTED BY MORO RULER

Sergt. Robert McLean, While Serving in the Philippines, Becomes Friendly With Natives, Learns Language and Makes Hit With Sultan—Ruler Dies Without Male Heirs and Sergeant Inherits Fortune.

Sometimes it's an advantage to fall heir to property, and then again it makes a difference just what the property is. How would you like to wake up some morning and find that overnight you had fallen heir to 40 wives?

Well, that is the situation confronting Sergt. Robert McLean of the marine corps recruiting station, 24 East Twenty-third street, New York.

You see, it all happened this way. The sergeant, who is a "devil dog" of several years' service, spent two of those years in the southern Philippines among the savage Moros who inhabit that region.

While there he mastered the native language, and became so friendly with the native "sultans" that on his departure he was officially adopted by the sultan of Llang-Llang, a small island off the Borneo coast.

The sergeant returned to this country, and his memories of Llang-Llang became hazy until the other day, when he was notified that the old sultan had died without a legitimate heir, and he, the sergeant, had inherited the title, with its accompanying perquisites, which include a healthy harem.

But Sergeant McLean is a good sport, and he is going right there to see just what his property is, wives and all.

"I have been released from the marine corps to make the trip," he told me at the recruiting station, writes Fay Stevenson, "and I am going to see the thing through. Perhaps the old sultan doesn't own a bit of property, saying the harem, but I am going to investigate."

May Meet Undertaker's Bill. "Perhaps you will get down there and find you will have to pay his funeral expenses," I pessimistically suggested; "you know sons have to do that many times, and probably adopted sons, too."

"In that case I will sell off the harem," laughed the sergeant. "I haven't been there in six years, and of course I haven't the slightest idea of the amount of property I am left."

"To begin with, the term sultan may be overestimated in importance; down there it is about the same rank as a mayor here."

"But coming back to my adopted puter: He lived upon an island, which he owned, three miles in circumference and really, you know, he may have quite a good deal, for all I know. "His house was two stories high, and made of nipa fiber. It was set upon stilts eight feet high and had 20 rooms. The cows and pigs and chickens were kept in the space underneath the stilts. There were no windows of glass, but instead they are made of this same nipa fiber, slide up and down, and are always kept closed during the rainy seasons.

"And speaking of the harem, they were off in quarters by themselves, and during my stay in my adopted father's house I never set eyes upon them; so, whether they are as old as my grandmother or mere flappers, I know not. Some of the native women are quite pretty."

"But how did the sultan come to take such a fancy to you, and did he legally adopt you, and just what ceremony did you have to go through?" I asked.

Old Man With No Sons. "Well, the sultan, was quite an educated man, and spoke English quite fluently. I used to visit him at his home and have long chats with him. He was eighty years old then; you see, he must have been about eighty-six when he died. I told him all about America and our ways, and he would sit and listen for hours."

"I guess he was sort of in his dotage, for he grew so fond of me that he said he wanted to make me his legal son, since he had no legitimate male heir. I don't really know whether he had any daughters or not, because with all his harem, I never saw a woman about the place."

"I thought he was joking about making me his heir, but one day I received a summons to come to him at once, and bring two of my friends along."

"I took Frank Kornum, who was killed in France, and Sergeant Walter of the marine corps, along with me. When we reached the sultan's home we were ushered into the public hall, which was really only a good-sized tent pitched high on stilts. There I found the sultan looking very stately and important."

Ceremony of Adoption. "My friends and I were taken into an adjoining room and dressed in long, flowing robes, and then we were brought before the sultan, who first bared his own chest and made a little slash in it with a Moro kris. Then he made me open my robe and bare my chest, and he cut the same sized slash. Taking a drop of blood from his chest he mixed it with a drop of my blood, and from then on I was his adopted son. I left that next week, and I have never seen him since."

"And have you ever written to him or had any word by a friend?" I asked.

"Not a line," was the sergeant's quick reply. "To tell you the truth, I had almost forgotten the incident, but now you can just bet your boots I'm going to see this thing through, and if he has left things in a bad mixup and is head-over-heels in debt, I'll see him through, some way or other."

"And if he has left you a fortune?"

"I'll get it together as quick as I can and beat it back to little old New York."

"And what about the harem?"

But Sergeant McLean only arched his eyebrows.

AUSTRIA FORCED WAR

Minutes of Mutiny of Privy Council Reveal Secret.

Count Von Berchtold Solely Responsible for Outbreak of Hostilities.

Vienna.—There were made public from the archives of the former Austro-Hungarian government minutes of the meeting of the privy council on July 7, 1914, at which it was virtually decided to begin war on Serbia.

According to this publication the ministry of Austria-Hungary, especially Count Leopold von Berchtold, foreign minister, was solely responsible for the outbreak of hostilities.

The minutes show the meeting to have been opened by Count von Berchtold, who pleaded for an immediate resort to arms against Serbia, stating that Italy and Roumania "could be compensated afterward for not having been consulted beforehand."

Count Stephen Tisza, then Hungarian premier, opposed the war, demanding that diplomatic action be taken first and then that an ultimatum of an acceptable nature be sent. Only in case both failed would he have resorted to arms.

Count von Berchtold thereupon said: "Now, is the right moment because Germany is ready to assist."

Count Tisza, again warned against the danger of a general European war as a result of steps which were contemplated, whereupon Count von Berchtold said: "The opportunity is so favorable that immediate action is necessary."

Finally a resolution was adopted that such far-reaching demands be made of Serbia that she could not fulfill them and thus a way would be opened to a resort to arms.

SEEK OIL LAND UNDER RED RIVER

Wichita Indians Now Set Up Ancient Title to River Channel.

HISTORY INVOLVED IN SUIT

Question Engrosses Attention of Lawyers, Oil Men, Land Owners and Federal and State Officials—Gives History of Wichita Claim.

Austin, Tex.—Seldom has a case been filed in American courts in which history has been involved to the extent that it is in the question of the ownership of the channel of the Red river, beneath the bed of which are valuable oil deposits.

This question has been engrossing the attention of lawyers, oil men, land owners and federal and state officials. The state of Texas claims ownership in the bed of the river to the center of the channel, while the federal government and the state of Oklahoma oppose the claim of Texas under the terms of the treaty of Spain in 1819, by which the northern boundary of the Spanish dominions in Texas was designated as the south bank of the Red river.

The federal authorities hold that the ownership of the Red river bed areas in dispute belong to the Indian tribes which owned the adjacent reservations, and the state of Oklahoma maintains that, as a meandering stream, the bed of the Red river is state property and should be leased for the benefit of the state school fund.

Another Claimant. Joseph B. Thoburn, secretary of the Oklahoma Historical society, has advanced the suggestion that there is still another claimant to the ownership of the oil bearing area of the channel of the Red river, namely, the Wichita Indians. Mr. Thoburn in the course of an extended statement says:

"Older than any of the claims of ownership which are now being pressed for the possession of the oil bearing areas of the channel of the Red river—older than any claim of the State of Texas, by rights derived from Mexico or Spain, and older than any claim of the State of Oklahoma or of the United States which may have been derived from France through the purchase of Louisiana—is the right of the aboriginal owners of the land on both sides of the river, and these are the people of the Wichita tribe of Indians."

"The ancestors of the Wichita Indians have lived in Oklahoma and adjacent states for a thousand years, and for approximately five hundred years past they have occupied the country on both sides of the Red river in that part of its course where it traverses the Burkburnett oil fields. In using the word 'occupied' in this connection, I do so advisedly, for these people have always been sedentary in their habits, living in fixed villages and depending largely upon the cultivation of the soil for their subsistence."

"The rights of the Wichita Indians to the ownership of these lands has never been extinguished by purchase, exchange or otherwise, though state and federal governments have seemingly proceeded on the theory that no such right ever existed. From the time of its foundation the federal government has always paid due regard, at least in form, to the extinguishment of title to lands which were claimed by the several Indian tribes under aboriginal occupancy. The one exception to this has been that of the Wichita Indians, who lived in the upper Red river country between the Canadian and Brazos rivers."

Indians Cede Land. "In 1818 certain chiefs and warriors of the Quapaw tribe of Indians, in council at St. Louis with William Clark and Auguste Chouteau, as commissioners representing the government of the United States, entered into a treaty by the terms of which they ceded all of the lands in Oklahoma and Texas between the Arkansas and Canadian rivers on the north and the Red river on the south to the government. The fact that the Quapaw Indians lived in eastern Arkansas, that they seldom went as far west as the eastern boundary of Oklahoma and that they never by occupancy or otherwise exercised any form of ownership or jurisdiction over any of the lands within 200 miles of the region where the Wichitas were living, do not seem to have entered into the consideration at all, if, indeed, the government commissioners had any knowledge of the existence of the Wichitas at that time. Yet, with this Quapaw transaction as a basis, the government of the United States executed a grant of these lands to the people later. More than thirty years later the Wichita people first learned that their country had been sold by the Quapaw and then granted to the Choctaws.

"If the government of the United States ever means to do the square and honorable thing by the Wichita Indians it will never have a better chance than it has at the present time. Their lands are gone—sold to strangers without recompense to them and without their consent—but they still have an equitable claim to the ownership of the Red River channel oil properties, and simple justice demands that they be given a chance to establish it."

WINNING ON PAIR OF FOURS IS CHEATING

Judge in Pittsburgh Rules $110 Is Too Much for Hand.

Stud poker players, attention! It is no longer the illustrious and omniscient Mr. Hoyle who alone may decide perplexing questions arising in the great national indoor sport. Henceforth, "according to Sweeney," must be accepted as equally authoritative.

For Magistrate John J. Sweeney, who conducts hearings in Central police court in Pittsburgh, Pa., ruled that winning a pot of $110 on a pair of fours was cheating, and consequently a man who gets his money back at the point of a revolver is no criminal.

George Bright appeared before the magistrate accused of "pointing a firearm." According to the testimony he had pointed a revolver at Joseph Benz at the close of a game of "stud."

Bright declared Benz had won $200 and was about to rake in a pot containing $110 on two-fours, which he had dealt himself, when the fireworks began. Bright, it was testified, sprang to his feet and, leveling a pistol, demanded his money back, asserting Benz had cards up his sleeve.

Benz returned the pot and then called the police, who arrested Bright. At the hearing Bright insisted that in the circumstances he was justified in introducing a little artillery demonstration. The magistrate, who did not appear unfamiliar with the intricacies of the case, admitted the merits of Bright's argument and absolved him.

PLAN TO REBUILD LOUVAIN LIBRARY

American Educators Launch Movement to Raise Necessary Funds.

DESTROYED EARLY IN WAR

Geographic Society Criticizes Acts of German Invaders in Wantonly Wrecking Belgian Art—Great Seat of Learning.

Washington, D. C.—American educators are launching a movement to raise funds to rebuild the famous library of the University of Louvain, destroyed by the German invaders early in the war. The city of Louvain the "Oxford of the low countries," is described in the following bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society:

"Not only the University of Louvain, but the city is an object lesson in Belgium and France by the German army. Early in 1915 a group of university professors of other countries drew up a petition expressing strong indignation and abhorrence at the wholesale destruction of ancient buildings that has marked the invasion of Belgium and France by the German army and protesting in the strongest terms against the continuance of so barbarous and reckless a policy."

German Professors Make Reply. "To this a group of German university professors, among them Gerhart Hauptmann, Max Reinhardt and Rudolph Eucken, replied that it was not true that their troops had treated Belgium brutally but that, anyway, 'we must decidedly refuse to buy a German defeat at the cost of saving a work of art.'"

"If Louvain, has contributed little to scientific achievement—it had a tremendous effect upon philosophic and religious thought. It has been said that the city's chief-product was theology. But Germany's contempt for that kind of culture is reflected unconsciously in Baedeker's guidebook of 1910, which describes it as 'a dull place with 42,200 inhabitants.'"

"Thus the German guide casually dismisses the cradle of Belgian independence, an early home of the European weaving industry, and a treasure house of marvelous art works. In one of his most famous pastorals, Cardinal

Merlier, now a visitor in the United States, describes the havoc wrought in Louvain thus:

"In this dear city of Louvain, perpetually in my thoughts, the magnificent Church of St. Peter will never recover its former splendor. The ancient College of St. Yves, the art schools, the consular and commercial schools of the university, the old markets, our rich library with its collections, its unique and unpublished manuscripts, its archives, its gallery of great portraits of illustrious rectors, chancellors, professors dating from the time of its foundation, which preserved for masters and students alike a noble tradition, and were an incitement in their studies, all this accumulation of intellectual, of historic and of artistic riches, the fruits of the labors of five centuries—all is in dust!"

"The city of Louvain ever will be remembered as the scene of the grating to the Belgian people by Duke Wenceslaus of the 'Joyous entry,' and the university will be associated with that character's preservation, more than four centuries later, when Kaiser Joseph, the 'crowned anarchist' of Austria, tried to deprive Belgians of their ancient rights."

"The circumstances of that resistance form one more bond of union between Belgium and the United States of America, for it took place just ten years after the Declaration of Independence was signed, an act which left a deep impress upon the Belgians."

Joseph's Move Against Holland. "It will be recalled that Emperor Joseph, brother of Marie Antoinette, had tried to abolish Holland frontier forts. He won a temporary victory because Holland at that time was embroiled with Great Britain over the former's recognition of the United States of America."

"Next he turned to Belgium with a project for reforming the church, but the Belgians were determined that such reformation should not be imposed from without. When the Belgians resisted he declared its constitution annulled, sent an armed force into the country, and was met with a declaration that he no longer was duke of Brabant, and that the Belgians henceforth would be an independent people, to be known as the United States of Belgium."

"Though the Belgian United States was short lived, largely because the great powers of Europe declined to set a precedent by recognizing it, and encouraged Joseph's successor in reconquering it, the seed of independence thus planted by the historic university bloomed again a half century later, and revealed itself gloriously in 1914."

Drink Aged Wine. Reading, Pa.—Alderman and Mrs. Oliver J. Wolff celebrated their golden wedding anniversary the other day by giving a dinner to their children and members of their families. There were thirty-eight guests. One of the features of the event was the serving of a pint of wine fifty years old, which was part of the wine served at their marriage fifty years ago.

FINDS ANTS IN MILK

Judge Puts a Fine of $25 for Each One Found.

The price of ants has gone up in Dallas, Tex. They are now $25 each when delivered in a bottle of sweet milk. A local dairyman left a bottle of milk for a lady one morning last week. It had a little red ant in it. She charged him with violating the pure food law.

"Judge, I bought that milk from a farmer and didn't know the ant was in it," pleaded the dairyman.

"That don't go here," replied the judge. "I have never heard of a farmer milking an anthill. Dairyman have boosted the price of milk from 9 to 14 cents per pint. The price of ants goes up with it. I'll fine you $25."

Unearth Ancient Tablets. Workmen engaged in roadmaking near the Indian village of Kisplox, B. C., have unearthed a sandstone tablet. It is curiously engraved and is of considerable interest to scientists. The Indians are unable to trace in the figures any resemblance to any of their totem signs.

Submarine Able to Cruise 7,000 Miles. The United States submarine AA-2, the latest style of undersea craft in America, with an estimated cruising radius of 7,000 miles, has been launched at the Fore River yard at Quincy, Mass.

Bullet Wounds Man Nine Times. A bullet fired from a rifle aimed at a crow by W. W. Dashiell, a wealthy resident at Greenwich, Conn., hit a stone wall half a mile away and rebounding struck Michael Fagnano, who was standing near by, inflicting nine wounds in his abdomen.

Connecticut Closes Drunkard's Farm. The Connecticut state farm for drunkards, which was crowded to the limit up to July 1, has been closed by order of state directors.

Words and Music.

The value of words is going up, at least in Rouen. There the courts have decided that the artistic values of the words and music of a poem are equal. At present in the United States and Canada the writer of the words of a song gets only a pittance of the royalties or a small sum outright at the start. In England many of the most popular ballads have brought their writers no more than two or three guineas, while the composer goes on cashing his royalty checks for years. What measure publishers apply to the two arts thus combined to make words so much less valuable than music is rather hard to understand. Verse writers might well send a little gold medal to the just-minded citizens of Rouen who have ruled it a false one.

Unusual Methods Used.

With the end of the war have come many revelations of the unusual methods used by the Germans to spread their harmful propaganda in the countries arrayed against the central powers, and of the clever work which often frustrated their well-laid plans. In one case, mentioned in Popular Mechanics Magazine, what appeared to be an old and worn copy of the works of Homer proved to be a volume of attacks on British rule in India. Only the first few pages of the book were printed with the words of the ancient poet. The remainder, though in Greek type like the beginning, was filled with the diatribe. The volume was addressed to an educated Hindu capable of translating the Greek into an Indian dialect.

TIMES, "SURE HAD CHANGED"

Doughboys in France Mailed as Friend Man Whom They Had, When "Kids" Feared Greatly.

The story of how two doughboys found their old enemy in France is told by the Nolan, former police lieutenant of New York city, who served as a K. of C. secretary assigned to the Sixteenth Infantry, First division. Nolan is fifty-two years old and put in 28 years on the New York police force. When he changed the blue uniform for khaki, he was in charge of the twenty-third precinct, the old Tenderloin.

On his breast is a victory ribbon with two bronze major offensive stars and three silver citation stars. He has been recommended for the D. S. O. by the commanding officer of the Sixteenth Infantry.

He had wandered up to a "little bunch" of doughboys who were "shooting craps," and gave each of the boys a pack of K. of C. cigarettes. The game was an exciting one, and a soldier who was about "to roll the ivories" looked up at him and asked him to "kiss 'em for a five." Nolan did so, and the dice turned up a two and a three.

One of the unlucky boys who had lost on the toss of the dice looked up at Nolan and recognized him as an old enemy.

"Holy cat! Look, it's Tenderloin Bull Nolan!" he said to his pal. "Don't you remember, he's de cop who used to chase us from doorways for shooting craps when we was kids?"

"Shure," said the lucky soldier, "and he pulled us once for smoking butts. And here he is abelling out packs of real cigarettes and kissin' de bones for us. Damn'd if it ain't right dat de war changes de whole world!"

The Golden Horseshoe

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

There was a memory of the most tragic hour of young Bertram Wynn's life that he never forgot. He had left his home ten miles distant with a dark cloud hovering over past and present, and had sat down at the edge of a bluff lining a waterway to think, to cast up accounts socially, financially and morally. The outlook was desolate. As in an evil dream he summed up the disastrous climax to advice he had given his father as to investments, that had brought John Wynn to the verge of bankruptcy. He had sought solitude to analyze the shock, to withstand its crushing weight if that seemed possible.

Darker and more forbidding grew his scowling brow as he faced the facts. Gloomier and more repelling seemed the future. His eyes fixed on vacancy, his lips grimly compressed, he drew a revolver from his pocket, turned it over speculatively in his hand and then hastily thrust it upon the ground behind him as the sound of approaching voices reached him.

A picture in vivid contrast to the dismal visions wrought by his depressing mentality was presented. Framed in the golden sunshine was a group of little children led by, or clinging to a lovely girl of about eighteen. She seemed to be their teacher and they just let out of school or returning to it. As she passed the spot where Bertram sat she seemed momentarily startled, and then as if impressed with the sadness and desperation depicted in his face half wavered, and passed on. Somehow that glance to Bertram seemed full of human sympathy and encouragement and as the group vanished the circumstance left an impress of joy and innocence that recalled his own bright youthful days. He was glad as, reaching behind him, he found that the revolver had slipped over the edge of bluff into the water beneath, and he arose shuddering at the spasm of despair, which had so nearly led him to take his own life.

Bertram Wynn went to a large city and chanced to secure board with an Italian family whose head had been a man of considerable means in his own country. This man took a fancy to Bertram and finally asked him to join him in an export business he had started. He had influence abroad and had secured some orders of magnitude. Bertram worked hard. At the end of the European war they secured a contract for a large consignment of machinery, duplicated it later on, made enormous profits, and, one year after leaving Chesterton, Bertram returned a rich man.

His experience had made him human and considerate, and his past dark days actuated him towards making brighter those of the unfortunate and unlucky whom he met. He first recouped his father's lost fortune, and enabled him to complete some philanthropic plans his ill fortune had hindered. Bertram was kindly and friendly with all his old associates and had ever an open, helpful hand for the poor and lowly. One noon time, passing a group of workmen whom he knew near the plant where they labored, he was invited to engage in a game at quoits. In lieu of the usual metal discs ordinarily employed in the sport, horseshoes were used. Bertram entered into the game with zest. He was pitching one of the horseshoes when a child ran across between the stakes. The flying missile struck her directly on the head and the little girl fell, bleeding and insensible.

Bertram at once picked up the victim of her own venturesomeness and hastened with her to the nearest physician. The latter was gravely concerned and stated that he feared bad results.

"Poor little creature!" he said. "She is a homeless orphan whom Mary Valle adopted. About two months since Miss Valle went to the city to try a position there in a seminary and has since been paying the board of her protegee here."

"If you will give me the address of the young lady I will communicate with her," suggested Bertram.

"No, don't do that, until the crisis is past," advised the doctor. "It would only distress Miss Valle, and probably cause her to give up a lucrative position."

"Meantime, then, let the little one be removed to our home," insisted Bertram.

Little Corinne passed the crisis safely and Bertram told the doctor he would go to Miss Valle and tell her of the accident and its outcome. He had heard so much of the kindly deeds of the young lady that he considered her deserving of an assurance that he and his father would gladly take from her shoulders the expense and responsibility she had so nobly assumed.

The glory of life seemed to open up for him with new sentiment as Mary Valle came into the room where he was awaiting her at the seminary. For in a flash he recognized her as the sympathetic girl of the day when death grazed him so closely.

But not until their double chance acquaintance had ended in mutual love did Bertram Wynn tell Mary Valle of how much he owed to her, and when they took little Corinne to their new home over the doorway of its living room they affixed a golden horseshoe.

Labor Troubles in China.

The $40 a month which the Chinese coolie with his family drew from the Chinese government during his period of enlistment in the army is the basis for the labor disturbance which is rocking China at the present time, says C. C. Thompson of Shanghai in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Mr. Thompson explains that prior to the war the average coolie made a monthly wage of $12 to $15, while having become accustomed to the new standards of living made possible by the $40 allotment he declines now to return to the old basis. Even household domestics have become affected by the new unrest and are demanding more money, he says. Recently because of the unsettled conditions there was a strike of dockworkers in Chinese ports which held up all trans-Pacific traffic for a considerable time. Mr. Thompson states.

Owes All to Uncle Sam.

Building upon his past experience as an employee in a shoe factory, the federal board for vocational education placed a young chap of 24, who was disabled at Solissons, in a shoe manufacturing plant for training. His left hand and arm were severely injured by a high-explosive shell, but he finds he can carry on, in spite of the handicap, and is fast becoming an expert shoe cutter. The management, finding his service valuable, are paying him $1 a day—this, of course, in addition to his training pay, which comes from the board. He is enthusiastic and writes: "This training is great stuff. Everything is going fine. . . . I wouldn't have been able to do anything if the government hadn't given me this chance."

Movies Set Distance Record.

Two moving picture records were broken recently, according to the Popular Mechanics Magazine, at the centenary celebration of the Methodist church in Columbus, O. An ordinary projecting machine, equipped with a special lens, a rapid shutter, and a 150-ampere light, was used to throw pictures 100 by 75 feet, on a screen 350 feet away from the machine. The light employed was three times the strength of those commonly used. It generated so much heat that it was necessary to operate the cinematograph at great speed to prevent burning the film. The screen on which the pictures were thrown was 115 feet square.

JAR FOR COFFIN ASKED

Londoner's Will Also Urges That Ashes Be Mixed With Cement.

A strange provision for his interment was made in his will by W. H. Syrett, Nightingale road, notice server to the Hackney borough council, England. A codicil reads:

"If reasonable, I desire my body cremated and the resultant ashes placed in a large old jam jar which belonged to my mother, that Portland cement and sand mixed with water may be poured therein until a solid block of concrete is formed, and such block buried in some place unlikely to be disturbed, or alternatively thrown into deep sea water."

Parents Spend $1,325 to Rear Child.

It costs $1,325 to rear a child from birth to sixteen years of age, according to the children's bureau of the department of labor. The bureau declared that in order to raise children the average working man and wife must economize seriously.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning
 Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.
 Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Evansome, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the system the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have swollen veins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of lime-tone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.

ASPIRIN FOR COLDS
 Name "Bayer" is on Genuine Aspirin—say Bayer

Insist on "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in a "Bayer package," containing proper directions for Colds, Pain, Headache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Rheumatism. Aspirin is a trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monocetone or of Salicylic acid.

REMOVE WAR'S SCARS
 France Has Already Rebuilt 60,000 Houses.

Much of Railroad and Canal Systems Have Been Put Into Shape Again.

Capt. Andre Tardieu, member of the French Peace commission, has given interesting figures on the reconstruction work accomplished since the armistice. Sixty thousand of the 550,000 houses wrecked by shell-fire have been rebuilt; 2,016 kilometers of the 3,246 kilometers of railway destroyed have been repaired and 700 of the 1,375 kilometers of canals rendered useless are again in commission. Of the 1,100 plants destroyed, 588 have been repaired.

Equally remarkable progress is being made in restoring to cultivation in the devastated regions the vast areas which the end of the war left with their rich surface soil plowed under by artillery, sown with dangerous unexploded shells and cut up by trenches and thousands of miles of rusting barbed wire. The devastated area embraced approximately 4,500,000 acres. Of this approximately 1,000,000 acres have been returned to the farmers and 500,000 acres are ready for seed. More than 3,000 miles of barbed wire have been disentangled and carried away in the operation.
 Commissioner Tardieu added that a country which had lost nearly 2,000,000 workers killed or incapacitated by war, which had been deprived by invasion of one-fifth of its productive capital and which nevertheless of its own efforts had accomplished such a showing had a right to rely on the effective help of its allies to restore completely its economical and financial status.

PAPER MONEY PUZZLES SLAVS
 Currency in Such a Scrambled Condition That It Hurts Business of Country.

Belgrade.—Not the least of the ills that beset Jugo-Slavia is the scrambled condition of its paper currency. The paper money of half a dozen countries is in circulation in various parts of the kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. In Belgrade itself the "krone" of Austrian ancestry is still the unit by which all commodities are priced.
 The situation is further complicated by the fact that the ratio of exchange between the different moneys varies from day to day.
 Indirectly, the chaotic currency situation has aggravated the problem of provisioning the country by impeding the movement of surplus foodstuffs from one section to another. Farmers who possess a surplus which they would willingly sell under stable money conditions decline to barter their paper for paper whose value is one thing today and another thing tomorrow.

NEW RAIL CONTROL IN FRANCE
 "Committee of Exploitation" Put in Charge of Lines by Government Decree.

Paris.—A decree instituting the "committee of exploitations" to have control of the railroads in France will appear in the Journal-Officiel tomorrow.
 This is in accordance with the plan of M. Clavelle, minister of public works, which provides for the collaboration of representatives of commerce and industry or railway workers with the heads of departments and directors in the management of the roads.
 The committee will comprise a higher official of each line as president, the operating managers of all lines, three representatives of commerce and industry designated by the minister of public works and three representatives of the employees, also designated by the minister.

4,200 MILES TO WED
 Bride Makes Trip to Western Town From Belgium.

After coming 4,200 miles to wed the man she had met in Antwerp, Belgium, Miss Alice Rubens and Ira Weaver, a returned soldier, were married at Danville, Ill., recently. The bridegroom was serving with the One Hundred and Sixth engineer train when he met Miss Rubens.

He was walking down the streets of Antwerp when he noticed a young man having trouble with his automobile. Weaver stopped, offered his services and the motor was soon running. He was invited to the home of the man whom he had assisted, and there met the sister.
 Their friendship quickly ripened into love and when he returned to the United States it was with the promise that she would soon follow. His bride arrived and a marriage license was procured in short order. They will live in Danville.

STOWAWAY MADE FOUR TRIPS ACROSS ATLANTIC

Mike Gilhooley, Sent Home Four Times, Determined to Live in America.

Mike Gilhooley, a fifteen-year-old Belgian youth, has been deported for the fourth time by American immigration officials. The boy, however, is determined to make his home in the United States.

"You'll see me again," shouted Mike from the steamer rail in New York harbor. "I'll be back soon, and I'll keep right on coming back if I have to keep up this stowaway game for the next ten years, because I'm going to be an American citizen."

The Belgian youth is an orphan. His father, who was born in Ireland, died before the war began, and his mother, a Belgian, was killed during the German invasion.

Mike tried to get into the war, but was too young. After varied adventures he attached himself to the American army and made many friends. Soon after the armistice was signed he decided to come to America, and some of his soldier friends helped him by giving him a uniform and smuggling him on board a transport. Once on the ocean Mike thought he was safe; but he wasn't. The immigration officers found him, and he was sent back to France.

A few weeks later he arrived again as a stowaway. Again Mike was sent back. Then he arrived on board another transport. This time he escaped from the ship after immigration officials had ordered him held for deportation. He lived with friends in New York city for a month, then he was found and sent to Ellis Island.

But Mike never reached his home town in Belgium. Instead, he went to Bordeaux, and the doughboys again took him in. The soldiers were ordered home and the Belgian had attempted to embark on their transport, only to be foiled at the gang plank. He waited around the Kroonland, another transport and, when he saw no one was looking, leaped aboard. He was found two days later hiding in the hold.

COMPOSER DRIVEN TO DEATH BY GERMANS

Author of "Internationale" a Suicide in Military Hospital at Lille.

The tragic death of Adolphe Degerter, the composer of the "Internationale," who passed away at Lille during the German occupation, has just become known to the city.

Degerter, a man of strong character, laborious workingman, had written several songs which he and his brother-in-law used to sing.

He made no pretension to being a musician, but took great pleasure in playing the bugle.

It was on this instrument that he played the famous air which he wrote to the words of Eugene Pottier's hymn, and the first time he sang it was to some of his comrades in a cabaret at Lille.

Then his wife died. His brother went to Paris and passed himself off as the author of the famous air.

The two misfortunes worked disastrously on Degerter's mind. He began to drink heavily and conceived for all music a dislike so strong that he would leave a cafe if anyone began to sing or to play some musical instrument. Then the Germans came. Degerter suffered acutely from having to work for them on the town water supply. When the typhus epidemic spread he was ordered to report at the military hospital, and one day he failed to present himself. The "kommandantur" issued a warrant for his arrest. In the evening he hanged himself.

 He is buried in the cemetery near the hill, where a little wooden cross with the name "Adolphe Degerter" marks the grave of the author of the "Internationale."

NEW BAKING PLAN

Bread Rises in Auto on the Way to the Oven.

To mix a batch of bread—six loaves—at her home in Greenwood township, "raise" it by auto and bake it in Bloomsburg, Pa., was the experience of Mrs. John Lemon.

Incidentally it exhibits a new possibility of the motor car. A neighbor and Mrs. James Bush of Bloomsburg both wanted her to go to Bloomsburg.

"But I have my bread mixed and raising," said the puzzled woman, who also wanted to make the trip. "I can't afford to lose it in these days of the high cost of living," she asserted. "Bring it along," was the answer, "and bake it in Bloomsburg." That's just what she did. She telephoned Mrs. Rush to have her oven hot, and the pan of dough was covered with a clean white cloth and placed in the front, close to the engine as possible. When they got to Bloomsburg they found the sponge ready for the oven. Mrs. Lemon declares it was no "lemon," either, and she says she never had better bread than this particular batch.

Blacksnakes to Trail Rats as Traps Fail

New Lexington.—Blacksnakes will be corralled and turned loose in the Union station here in an effort to exterminate rats that have almost taken possession of the place.

Employees have used traps, ferrets, cats and poison without avail.

Hundreds of dollars' worth of damage has been done to merchandise and parcels post packages left in the building nights and merchants are complaining.

The rats are large and blacksnakes are now considered their only foe.

Infant Only Bruised.

Evansville, Ind.—The four-month-old child of Mrs. Jessie Wheeler of Princeton was thrown 20 feet the other day in an automobile collision at Chandler and McCormick avenues here, but escaped unhurt. The mother ran frantically to the infant, expecting to find it killed, but instead it was sitting near the curb, and was only slightly bruised. Mrs. Wheeler and her child were in a car driven by Clifford Parsons of Patoka, which struck a machine driven by James Nugent of this city.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. I relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years experience is at your service.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat, and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble—Neutralizes acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then set fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffing, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.

BOY, 17, FORGES, THEN "REPEATS"

Twice at the Same Bank Proves Bad Policy.

AVIATORS MIXED UP IN IT

Boy Declares Woman Suggested Idea to Him, Furnished Names and Offered to Go Fifty-Fifty With Him—He Was to Forge the Signatures and Cash the Checks—Cashed $200 Check and Then Went Back With Another.

Lightning and forgers—that is, seasoned forgers—seldom strike in the same place twice. But Aaron wasn't a seasoned forger, so he and his friends are guests of the police.

Aaron S. Mashek is 17 years old. He lived at the Chalfonte hotel, Chicago. He is the son of a furrier. He was arrested Sept. 6 on a charge of passing bad checks on several banks. He was admitted to $3,000 bail in the boys' court. His friends paid David D. Cohen $100 to "go his bonds."

Now, Aaron thought it was up to him to repay that $100 to his friends. So he passed a check on the Greentbaum Sons' bank for $200. Then he made his mistake. He went back and tried to cash a check for $250.

Detectives McFarland and Cartan heard what he had to say. Then they arrested the following:

John L. Hingckley, former moving picture actor, former instructor in the Royal Flying corps, who was stationed at Benbrookfield, Texas, and who was injured in a fall of 1,400 feet some time ago; now known as a "curbstone auto broker."

His wife, Caroline, who, previous to her divorce two years ago, was Mrs. C. C. Taylor of Dixon, Ill.

David H. Tagney, Chalfonte hotel, son of D. H. Tagney of Jersey City Heights, N. J. He was also an instructor in the Royal Flying corps, and is Chicago manager for an Eastern millinery firm with offices in the Republic building. His father is a Democratic politician, and a member of the Wall street brokerage firm of Tagney & Isley.

Accuses Woman.

"You see, I got out Friday," said Mashek. "Saturday night I went up to the Hingckley flat to get $30 I had let Hingckley take. Tagney was there, I got talking to Mrs. Hingckley. She was private secretary to C. M. Mazaar, wholesale confectioner, and she had a lot of canceled checks. She said she'd made out Mazaar's income tax schedule, and didn't believe he'd make trouble for her.

"She proposed that we go into partnership—fifty-fifty. She was to furnish the names, and I was to forge them and cash the checks. She gave me the names of Mazaar, A. R. Johnson of the Jefferson Electric company; L. L. Cook of the American Mercantile company, and others. I cashed the $200 check to which I had forged Mazaar's signature. And then I went back to the same bank. I was out of luck.

"Hingckley knew about the arrangement I made with his wife, but Tagney had nothing to do with it.

"That little fraud," said Mrs. Hingckley, when the police repeated to her the story Mashek had told them. "He lied to you."

The police questioned Tagney. "I was playing the victrola at the time," he said, "but I remember hearing the conversation. Yes, I don't like to say so, but I did hear Mrs. Hingckley say she would go partners with Mashek."

So they held Tagney as a witness.

BRITISH AIR ROUTE WILL COST MILLIONS

England-Australia Service Will Require at Least Six Big Airships.

The proposed Liverpool-Australia and Liverpool-New York air service will be an enormous undertaking. The problem of supplying the necessary dirigible airships is but one of the items to be considered. They cost about $3,750,000 each to construct. At least six of these huge craft will be necessary to maintain these two services with any degree of regularity.

There are also to be considered the problems of suitable landing grounds and mooring-posts; the intention of the Great Northern Aerial syndicate being that airdromes will be provided at the most important stations, while mooring-posts will serve as second-class stops or halts.

Airdromes for dirigibles are required only at every 2,000 miles and it now is possible for an airship to be moored to or released from a mooring tower in any wind up to 60 miles an hour; yet the total financial backing considered necessary for such an undertaking is in the neighborhood of $10,000,000.

The mooring out station for airships, which is in the form of a high tower, enclosing an elevator shaft by which passengers and cargo will be taken up and down from the ground, is over 150 feet high. With a revolving head the airship can be rigidly attached to this tower by the nose, will rise clear of the ground in all weathers and be able to swing with the direction of the wind.

Each of these towers will be provided with a hauling-in winch and a rope by which the airship will be hauled up to the mooring post; also a supply base of hydrogen, fuel and water ballast.

SAVED CHILD FROM DEATH

Telegrapher Leaped on Engine Pilot and Pulled Girl From Track.

Obliging to the pilot of a passenger train engine, Frank J. Long, a telegraph operator of Malden, Ind., reached forward and pulled a four-year-old child to safety from the track as the train sped down upon her.

Long saw the little girl playing with cinders in the middle of the track as the train whistled into his station. There was scant time to act, and as the train passed, Long leaped upon the pilot of the engine, held on with his left hand, while he reached out with his right and saved the child.

First "Flyless Town."

Health authorities of Saranac Lake, N. Y., say this probably is the first flyless town. Health Officer Tremblay reports, despite unusually hot weather in June and July, that there are hardly any more flies here than most places in January. It cost $1,000, and was accomplished by requiring manure to be screened and frequently removed.

Farmers Used Gas Masks for Grain.

Gas masks are in great demand by farmers near Valparaiso, Ind., for threshing and shipping wheat infested with Australian "takeall." The grain is so saturated with formaldehyde that the workers cannot stand the fumes.

DISAPPEARING LAKE

Water in It Goes Away About Every Three or Four Years.

In Georgia near Vlarosta, there is a lake which disappears every three or four years and then comes back again, no matter what the weather is like.

The lake is three miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide, with an average depth of twelve feet of water. There are natural subterranean passages beneath it, through which the water passes off.

It takes two or three weeks to disappear, when a mammoth basin is left in its place, which furnishes a beautiful sandy beach. After a month or so the water begins to return, and then in a couple of weeks it is the same magnificent stretch of water as it was before.

FOXES RAISED FOR MARKET

Farmer on Island Near Alaska Has "Herd" Worth $130,000.

Growth of a fox farm on Kukoi Island, off the coast of Alaska, from 20 animals to a band estimated to be worth $130,000, has been described by Claude Green, a former trapper, prospector and miner and now one of the proprietors of the farm.

The animals are fed a cooked mash of fish and grain. More than 600 foxes with an average market value of $185 for each pelt have been raised, according to Green.

Build 834 New Freight Cars a Day.

Eight hundred and thirty-four new freight cars a day are being placed in service by the railroad administration, and every effort is being made to relieve the shortage occasioned by the movement of fall crops and reviving business, according to Director General Hines.

The Spirit of Unrest

Reaction from the stress of war, the High Cost of Living, and the disturbed conditions in industry throughout the world have combined to lower the morale of workers in many lines.

In the factory, in the mill, the high degree of pep and enthusiasm is lacking and production lags. Even domestic service has caught the contagion, as every housewife knows.

We think the claim none too broad that employes of the Bell System have been less affected by the spirit of unrest than the majority of other workers. Yet its effects have been felt and will continue to be felt until the world begins to swing back to normal.

The telephone management is doing all in its power to remedy conditions and restore service to pre-war standards. It asks the patience and co-operation of the telephone users.

The Herald To Advance Its Subscription and Advertising Rates.

Effective December 1st The Herald will increase its advertising rates in an effort to meet the increased cost of production.

Effective January 1st, 1920, the subscription price of The Charlevoix County Herald will be advanced to $1.50 per year. Until that time new and renewal subscriptions will be accepted at the old rate.

The reasons for this change requires no lengthy article. The Herald has, through poor business judgment, maintained the present low rate on advertising and subscriptions for the past sixteen years. And this in the face of everything in the way of supplies entering into the production of a newspaper advancing from 200 to 400 per cent.

Frankly we were mistaken in the hope that after the war prices would return to a pre-war basis. Instead of prices of commodities being lowered since Armistice Day, they have continuously advanced.

We trust that both our advertising and subscription patrons will realize our position in the matter, and meet the new rates in the spirit of fairness.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Broom Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure a grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieves congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest St. Jacobs Liniment

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 30 cent bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Liniment at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and in 15 to 20 minutes you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing penetrating oil needs to be used once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless, and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

HAVE SIMILAR FINGER MARKS

Important Discovery Made by California Professor as to Peculiarities of Family Groups.

Prof. J. A. Larson, instructor of physiology in the University of California, announced a new discovery in connection with finger prints which is likely to have a remarkable influence on many important cases that concern the law courts of California.

Briefly, Professor Larson's discovery indicates that a similarity of finger prints among members of a family is sufficiently marked to enable scientists to trace family groups and determine positively whether a given individual is really a member of the family to which he claims relationship.

The importance of the discovery in probate cases such as the Slingsby case is obvious.

Should Dr. Larson's new discovery be accepted by law and science, the Slingsby decision may be reversed, as well as many other analogous cases.

Dr. Larson's investigations began in 1913 at the Boston university.

"Since that time I have examined prints of members of approximately 100 families," he said, "and I am satisfied in my own mind that such a means of identification is possible. I am preparing detailed reports of my work now in order that science may be benefited by my discovery. Before I complete this, however, I expect to investigate the prints of fifteen or twenty additional families so as to remove all doubt as to the accuracy of my discovery."—San Francisco Chronicle.

AMBER FORMED BENEATH SEA

Natural Resin of Pines Turned Into Precious Material by the Action of the Elements.

The world's supply of amber, that rare and therefore precious substance, the "gold of the north," as it has been called, comes from the coast of Samland in the eastern Prussian peninsula, between the towns of Burstrort and Palmnicken, and here the shafts of a famous mine run out under the Baltic and the miners are actually working under water. Ages ago the country was a land of pine forests which the ocean overwhelmed—the pine trees vanished beneath the surface of the sea, and then, century by century, the wood became fossilized and the natural resin of the pines was turned into amber. Millions of years were needed to transform the resin into amber, and the search for amber has developed romantic and picturesque episodes like those that have become part and parcel of the story of gold and diamonds. An amber mine, however, is not necessarily under water, and there is an open-air mine at Palmnicken where amber is dug for in much the same way as diamonds are sought in the mines of Kimberley. In normal times this one mine provides occupation for about 3,000 amber seekers.

Our Own Masters.

We have been told that America is to save the world and rescue civilization from dissolution, but we must do it in our way; in the way that has made us, in a little more than a century, the most unified, the most virile, and the most potent single power in the world. And when we ask ourselves what it is that has given us this unity, this virility, and this potency, the answer is, that we have founded this nation upon principles of law, and upon the guarantees of individual rights under the law. That is our great contribution to civilization; and if we are to be of use to other nations, old or new, our first thought must be to remain our own masters, to preserve our independence, to control our own forces as a nation by our own laws, and to protect our heritage of organized liberty from any form of destruction or perversion.—David Jayne Hill in the South American Review.

Giant Warrior of Middle Ages.

The pride and magnificence that played their part in the days of chivalry can hardly have a better illustration than the suit of equestrian armor which has recently been placed on exhibition in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York city. Sieur Jacques Gourdon de Genouillac wore the suit in the sixteenth century, and Sieur Jacques was an uncommonly large and powerful warrior, who served under Louis XII and Francis I of France. As may be deduced from their armor, the knights of the period wore not noticeably large men, and Sieur Jacques must have seemed a veritable giant, for a six-foot attendant at the museum has tried on his armor and is said to have "merely rattled around in it."

Sea Moss.

Owing to the war the supply of "sea moss," of which several hundred thousand pounds, valued at almost $50,000, have been imported annually, for the most part from France and Germany, has virtually come to an end. Sea moss (not seaweed) is the popular name of several kinds of small marine animals that grow in colonies of a branching, plantlike form. Their commercial value arises from their having a horny-skeleton which preserves the general plantlike shape of the growth.

CHANCERY ORDER

State of Michigan. The Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix—In Chancery.

Lucy Long, Plaintiff, vs. Louis H. Long, Defendant.

Due proof by affidavit on file having been made that the above named defendant is not a resident of the State of Michigan but is a resident of the State of Illinois, on motion of A. L. Fitch, Attorney for the plaintiff, it is ordered that the defendant appear and answer the bill of complaint filed in the cause within three months from the date of this order else the said bill of complaint will be taken as confessed by him. Further, that within twenty days this order be published in the Charlevoix County Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county, once each week for six successive weeks and a copy of this order served on said defendant at his last known post-office address by registered mail as provided by law. Such publication shall not be necessary in case a copy of this order is personally served on said defendant at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for his appearance.

Dated October 28th, 1919.

FREDERICK W. WAYNE, Circuit Judge.

PROBATE ORDER

State of Michigan, The Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Charlevoix in said County, on the 6th day of November, A. D. 1919.

Present, Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

In the Matter of the Estate of Jennie Watson, Deceased.

Dwight H. Fitch having filed in said court his petition, praying for license to sell the interest of said estate in certain real estate therein described.

It is Ordered, That the 9th day of December, A. D. 1919, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said probate office, be and is hereby appointed for hearing said petition, and that all persons interested in said estate appear before said court, at said time and place, to show cause why a license to sell the interest of said estate in said real estate should not be granted.

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Charlevoix County Herald, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

SERVETUS A. CORRELL, Judge of Probate.

A true copy.

Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

FISH LIAR WORKS OVERTIME

Here is One Concerning a Salt Herring That is Challenge to the Imaginative.

That is the worst of those fish stories. Somebody always comes along with a better one.

Recently the Evening News told the V. A. D.'s story of the frozen fish that came to life in the cooking pot. Then a correspondent—a naval officer, it should be said—easily puts that to shame.

"An interesting experiment was tried some little time ago," he writes to us, "with an ordinary herring.

"The fish was put into a large bowl of salt water and every day a small quantity of water was removed and an equal quantity of 'fresh' was substituted, until eventually the fish lived and thrived in purely fresh water.

"The owner was so pleased with the success of his experiment that he then tried removing a very small quantity of water daily until the bowl was empty, and found that the herring did excellently, entirely without water, and as he was so lively in the empty bowl he had to put him in a cage.

"Here he lived happily, hopping from perch to perch just like a bird, until one day some sudden noise started him and he fell into his water trough and—was drowned!"

Costly Parking Space.

Tired of being taken into court by traffic policemen, because at the time he goes to business his car has to be parked in the street, as day storage is at a premium and access to a public garage at those hours is difficult, Philip Rosenbach, art composer of Philadelphia, has just paid $2,000 for a stable property which he will convert into a private garage for himself. It is near his place of business.

DON'T DISREGARD A COLD

A neglected cold may develop into most serious sickness. The influenza and pneumonia that swept the country a year ago were preceded by an epidemic of colds. MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the terms and conditions of a certain mortgage bearing date the 20th day of April, A. D. 1917, made by John Hollinshead and Mariah F. Hollinshead, his wife, she contracting in bar of dower, both of South Arm Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Peoples State Savings Bank of East Jordan, Michigan, a Michigan corporation, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Charlevoix, Michigan, in Liber 40 of Mortgages, on page 275 on the 21st day of April, A. D. 1917, on which mortgage there is due at the date hereof for principal, interest and taxes paid, the sum of six hundred eighty-seven and ninety-seven hundredths ($687.97) dollars, and an Attorney fee of twenty-five dollars provided by law, and no suit or proceedings at law or in equity having been had to recover said sum or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that, by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the outer, easterly front door of the Court House at the City of Charlevoix, in said County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, said Court House being the place of holding the Circuit Court within the said County, on the 16th day of January, A. D. 1920, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon; the description of said premises contained in said mortgage is as follows:

The East one-half (E½) of the South-west quarter (SW¼) of Section thirty-two (32), Township thirty-two (32) North, Range seven (7) West, containing eighty acres of land more or less, being in the Township of South Arm, Charlevoix County, Michigan.

Dated October 10th, 1919.

BAD CHECK AND BOGUS DEATH

Habiliments of Mourning and Trick Tears Work on Sympathy of Chicago Undertaker—Cemetery Lot Is Selected and Check for $141.06 Is Offered in Payment of $100 Bill; the Difference Being Mournful Gentleman's Profit.

Around his arm he wore a sable ribbon. A shapely tear, debouching from the lachrymal duct, oscillated upon an abutting eyelash as he crossed the threshold at 1158 North Clark street, Chicago, to enter the dimly illumined interior of the mortuary establishment of D. M. Carroll.

Hastily laying aside the box score and extra, Mr. Carroll arose, tendered his hand, the while exerting a sympathetic pressure, and in modulated tone asked:

"May I not offer you a chair?"

The tear, doubtless obeying the law of gravitation, oscillated loose from the eyelash and splashed upon Mr. Carroll's outstretched hand, just as the visitor was preparing to release it and accept the proffered chair.

A Funeral Is Planned.

"Sir," quavered the visitor, extracting a black silk handkerchief from his black coat and pressing it to either eye, "My mother has passed away—Mrs. Mary A. Baker. She died at Kankakee. I wish her buried in Chicago. Could I place the case in your hands?"

"Yes, indeed," murmured Mr. Carroll.

"Now, the body—that will have to be shipped here."

"Yes, I will assume full charge," said Mr. Carroll. "The cemetery—we must choose a suitable place of interment. Have you a choice?"

"No, those details—one does not think of them."

"Well, we will visit Mount Olivet." There the visitor—he was Dr. C. F. Baker of 7124 Woodlawn avenue, he said—selected a lot, gave the grave digger a cigar and the management a check for $141.06. The bill being but $100, he received the change, $41.06, and departed.

Something is Amiss.

That being last Saturday, a week, and the body failing to arrive, Mr. Carroll telegraphed Kankakee. He learned no death certificate had been issued there for a Mrs. Mary A. Baker, which his client had given as the name of the deceased. The Mount Olivet management also learned the check was fictitious.

"But," soliloquized Mr. Carroll, "you gotta hand it to that bird, at that. Those trick tears alone are worth the price of admission, but when, on top of that, he even takes out the price of that six cent flor de cabbage he tipped the grave digger with, 'T'—t'ell the world it's piling Ossu on Pellon in slicker stuff."
