County Fair Free Attractions Secured

DAY AND NIGHT ENTERTAINMENT PROGRAM OF MERIT

Charlevoix County Fair—Sept. 13-17 Inclusive To Be The Best Ever.

Although the Charlevoix County Fair will not take place until the week of September 13th the secretary has already secured the 1920 free attractions. All over the country, county and state fairs are this year making even greater preparations than they did for the 1919 fair. The Charlevoix County Fair is leading the fairs of this section in preparations for the biggest and best fair ever held.

This year's fair will be open for entries on Monday, September 13th. Entries will close Tuesday, September 14th at eleven o'clock a. m. The fair will be in full swing from that time until Friday night. Night fair commences Tuesday, September 14th and an excellent program will be given the nights of September 14th, 15th and 16th. While the deal is not yet closed prospects are very bright for securing a five car carnival company to take care of merry-go-round, ferris wheel and side shows.

The free attractions will be taken care of by the Six Marvelous Morals, who will perform on the casting bars, putting on stunts in this class of work which will excel anything which has been heretofore shown at the County Fair. They also have a slack wire artist who will dance Spanish dances on the wire. Among other things shown by this troupe will be head slide, teeth slide, hair slide and toe slide. These are features which have never been shown here. This troupe is booked at the larger southern Michigan county fairs and would have been booked at the West Michigan State Fair had they not already entered into a contract to perform at the Ann Arbor fair which is held the same week as the West Michigan Fair. Advance notices indicate that it is an act of unusual merit.

The Association has contracted with the Byrnes-Weigand Fireworks Company of Chicago for three nights of fireworks. This company will send their own expert to fire the display and have contracted to put on each night a program of fifty-two numbers. Among the said pieces which will be shown each evening will be the Battle of Chateau Thierry, produced by the discharge of blinding magnesium flashes and reports, these reports and flashes growing heavier and stronger as the firing continues, finally finishing in a blinding cannonade. A realistic representation of a battle scene, the quick rattle of the musketry and the boom of the cannon, the flash and smoke of battle. This is elaborate and very special, covering a space of 200 feet in length. Among other numbers which will be put on each evening are the following: Realistic naval battle, between a American cruiser and a foreign gunboat. In outlines of fire the two boats are shown. A realistic battle takes place in which hundreds of shot and shells are fired, concluding with the blowing and sinking of the foreign gunboat.

The raising of the American Flag showing the Stars and Stripes in lines of colored fire. A wonderful realistic and beautiful device creating great admiration everywhere. 1,000 feet of bombardment is used in this scene. Pugilistic contest between Jack Willard and Jack Dempsey. Two life-sized figures are shown and both outlined in lines of colored fire, very heavily lanced, reproducing a very realistic scene of the last round of the two celebrities, in which Jess Willard is being knocked out. "Niagara Falls showing one solid sheet of aluminum fire, 35 feet high and 75 feet in length which has the appearance of the glittering water and the sound of the mighty cataract itself. The molten fire reaches the ground, rebounds with a spray of silvery mist creating a most realistic and inspiring effect long to be remembered. 75 feet in length. This unusual fireworks display will close the program each evening and will please lovers of spectacular fireworks.

Music will be furnished by a combination Northern Michigan band and will be of a very high class caliber.

There will be races each afternoon of the fair the program of which will be announced later. The management feels that the entertainment end of the fair will be taken care of in a manner which will excel any previous effort of the association. Announcements will be made from time to time of the work done to make the fair one of unusual merit from an educational standpoint.

TO DISTRIBUTE MICHIGAN-GROWN SEEDS

Co-operation With State Farm Bureau to Aid Marketing Of Michigan Grown Seed.

East Lansing, March 15.—Wider distribution of high grade Michigan grown seeds has been insured by the Michigan Crop Improvement Association through a plan of co-operation whereby the State Farm Bureau will aid the association in its marketing work.

Details of the co-operative plan were worked out at a recent meeting of the Improvement Association Board of Directors, at which time J. W. Nicholson, manager of the Seed Department of the Farm Bureau, was named sales representative of the association, and A. L. Bibbins was elected secretary, to fill the office held by Mr. Nicholson before he joined the farm bureau staff.

That the identity of the Crop Improvement Association would be interferred with in no way by the co-operative plan was brought out clearly at the directors' meeting. While Mr. Nicholson will handle all quantity sales, both in and out of the state, sale lists of certified seed will be gotten out by the secretary of the association, as in the past, and the seed produced by members of the association will be available to any individual or seed company in the state.

"Stimulation of production and wide-spread distribution of high grade seeds will be the aim of the co-operation between the Crop Improvement Association and the Farm Bureau," says Prof. J. F. Cox, head of the Michigan Agricultural College and a member of the association board of directors. "Trained seed inspectors will be furnished by the Farm Crops Department of the college, as in the past. Lists of certified seed will be prepared by the Improvement Association, based on the inspection, and then Mr. Nicholson will handle his large sales from these lists, although farmers and seed houses will all have access to seed produced by any member of the Improvement Association, whether or not they belong to state agricultural societies."

R. G. Potts, vice-president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, has been invited to attend all meetings of the Crop Improvement Association Board of Directors, in order that full co-operation between the two organizations may be worked out at all times.

The development of a greater field for out-of-the-state distribution of leading Michigan grain varieties is expected to follow the new arrangement for improvement Association sales. The demand from other states for Michigan seed is increasing tremendously every year, and satisfactory service to meet this demand is one of the things the co-operative arrangement will insure.

Records of the Crop Improvement Association, membership matters, registration of varieties, etc., will be taken care of by the new secretary, Mr. A. L. Bibbins. For five years a member of the Farm Crops Department at the agricultural college, Mr. Bibbins is in close touch with the business of the association, and will be able to carry on the work of the secretary's office without interruption.

East Jordan An Ideal Place For The Laboring Man

LOW COST OF LIVING AND RECREATION ADVANTAGES ATTRACTIVE FEATURES.

While East Jordan has many attractive features for manufacturers, nevertheless the advantages which it offers to laboring men are no less worthy of consideration. Houses here cost only one-third to one-half as much as they do in larger places. Rent is equally low. These items count very heavily when men are not working, for then the cost of maintaining a home does not make it prohibitive. During such periods high wages count for nothing and the heavy outlay is not present to eat up the wages earned for months following a lay-off. Then, too, it is possible here for every man to raise a garden, which is a big item in meeting the high cost of living.

No less important are the lakes, streams and forests, which afford an opportunity for recreation. When a day of rest comes it is worth much to have the privilege of hunting or fishing out in the open air. What a contrast this is to the heavy air and congested sections of a city. It is much easier to raise a family and keep them in good health than it is where such advantages are not found.

True it is that in the large cities higher wages are offered, but when one considers the mounting costs in those places that go on when a man is not working, plus the meager advantages for open air recreation, the advantages all favor East Jordan.

Last Night's Dreams —What They Mean

DID YOU DREAM OF ACCIDENTS?

THE high-brows, the scientific investigators of dream phenomena, have invented a fearful and wonderful word for the art of taking omens from dreams. The call it oneiromancy—five syllables, accent on the second. Freud, in answer to the question, "Does the dream have any value for a knowledge of the future?" would substitute "for a knowledge of the past," for "the dream originates in the past in every sense. He adds in his characteristically involved and transcendental manner "to be sure the ancient belief that the dream reveals the future is not entirely devoid of truth. By representing to us a wish as fulfilled the dream certainly leads us into the future, but this future taken by the dreams as present, has been formed into the likeness of the past by the indestructible wish." Read that over several times and perhaps you will see what the learned professor is driving at.

The ancients, especially the Persians, Egyptians and Greeks who erected the foretelling of events by dreams into an art, divided dreams into different kinds, only one kind of which would literally come true and would not interpret the dreams of people who had been drinking. And some modern soothsayers refuse to regard as prophetic dreams caused by indigestion or alcohol. Bishop Synesius, who lived in the fourth century and will be remembered by all readers of Charles Kingsley's Hypatia, wrote a treatise on dreams in which he states that as no two people are alike the same dream does not have the same significance for everybody and we must find out the meaning of our dreams for ourselves. All of which is well to remember when we consider the dicta of the modern mystics in regard to such dreams as say those of accidents for instance. Some mystics say that to dream of seeing or being in an accident merely means that you are to have an unexpected meeting with some acquaintance; others that it is a warning not to travel for a while. According to still others to see an accident in a dream means short-lived worries and to dream of being in one, a slow but sure success in life.

INTERESTING FACTS REGARDING GOVERNMENT INSURANCE.

When a man contemplates taking out insurance, he naturally is interested in the following questions:

How much business does this company do?

How reliable is it?

Does it pay a cash dividend?

What is the cash value?

How do costs of premiums compare with others?

What about ME in case of total disability?

If the insurance applications received in an average day at the headquarters of The War Insurance Bureau were joined together, they would form a belt one and a half miles long. It would take nine transports each carrying 6,000 passengers to accommodate the boys who applied for insurance in one day. The checks that are mailed from this bureau if stretched end to end would reach 380 times the height of the Washington Monument. If the girl employees of the bureau stretched out their arms and touched finger tips, they would reach a distance of 13 miles. If the amount of insurance on soldiers and sailors was to be converted into silver dollars, it would form a stack high enough to go around the earth two and a half times. If the amount of life insurance in the bureau were in one dollar bills joined end to end, they would reach 14 times the distance to the moon. Have you ever dreamed of a Life Insurance company that did a business like this?

The War Risk Insurance Bureau is backed by the Treasury of the United States, the present money power of the world.

Dividends are to be paid as they are earned.

The policy provides that you may draw, if necessary as high as 94 per cent of the cash paid in, after the first year.

Cost of premiums are practically a third less than in the average Old Line Company.

In case of total disability, the insurance is payable to you, yourself, and payment of premiums automatically ceases.

You have your house, car or buildings insured against fire, and possibly theft and accident—and know you need it. But, what about your life?

Merely your word that you are in as good health as you were when you left the military service, and one month's back premium with the insurance you select reinstates you to the Biggest and Best Backed Insurance Company on earth.

Mr. Hammersburg, at the Peoples State Bank will gladly give you information, and help you with your insurance.

BRANCH OFFICE IS A GREAT HELP

Automobile Owners Get Licenses
Near Home This Year.

Petoskey, Emmett county and Northern Michigan auto owners appreciate the value of the service that is being rendered them by the branch auto license office established by the state at Petoskey. Several thousand car owners are expected to secure their licenses there this season instead of sending to Lansing for them.

Heretofore it has been necessary for car owners to send their money to the office of the secretary of state and there await their turn for license plates. Many times a wait of one to two months has been necessary, and the trouble and nuisance involved has been general.

It may not be generally understood that the Petoskey bureau is supposed to serve Northern Michigan in general. Some people have understood that its service was restricted to Emmet county. This is not true. The Petoskey office can sell license plates to an automobile owner from Cheboygan, Gaylord, Onaway, Alpena, Charlevoix, Boyne City, East Jordan, Manistota and other surrounding places. The territory is the entire northern part of the state. Auto owners are urged to act early and not wait until the day they want to use their car.

The Charlevoix County Normal

Charlevoix County Normal has this year a class of nine students, who will graduate in June to help fill the thirty-one estimated vacancies in the rural schools of the county. Threatened as we are with the grave danger of closing part of our schools or lowering our standard to so great a degree that it is worse than closed doors, it is a comfort to feel that nine trained teachers will be ready for the profession. Whatever mistakes they may make, whatever may be their failures—we may know that untrained they would of far less value than with the year of training under experienced teachers who watch, train, criticize, and train still further every native talent which they find in the student.

Last year the rural schools had good exhibits at the county fair. In many cases, in spite of the drawbacks that the rural schools must overcome, the work in some of the subjects compared favorably with that of the city schools. The judges in the educational hall spoke favorably of the rural schools. It is advertisement enough for the county normal when we say that every school having an exhibit at the building, except one from a town teacher—all except this one were entered by county normal graduates. In order to be allowed to enter their exhibits they had to first win the highest honors in their own township.

It was in order to elevate rural school teaching as a profession that our state legislature first passed the county normal law which made possible such a little vocational school in our home county. Under this law our county normal receives twelve hundred dollars state aid each year, with the remainder paid half in half by city and county. When the remaining expense is a thousand dollars it thus costs the City of Charlevoix actually but five hundred dollars to maintain the county normal and costs the county at large the remaining five hundred. The county gets value received several times over in better trained teachers and in co-operation with a training school at home, besides having one year of college within a short distance of any village in the county. The City of Charlevoix receives value returned for its small investment in several ways. The state and county appropriation more than pay the expense of the equipment of the normal room and the salary of the county normal principal. The critic teacher, who is also a regular grade teacher, with especially high credentials, is thus secured for less actual cost to them than the usual grade contract. The normal girls also substitute for the grade teachers in short time absences although to continue this for long periods would defeat the main purpose of the rural. The aim of the normal is to prepare teachers for rural schools and thus make better rural students. It is of direct value to any city to feel that the eighth grade graduates who enter the high school be well prepared; with such preparation as comes only from a well trained normal trained teacher. It is thus of direct educational and financial value to Charlevoix to have a county normal in its midst and to boost for that normal every time an opportunity presents itself.

It is still early in the year to predict the size of next year's class, but prospects look fine for a good year in 1920-1921. Superintendents who have tried the county normal graduates in their schools feel favorably inclined to send students to a county normal. The state institutions recognize the value of the personal work done in the normal classes and recommend most highly their own graduates who enter with previous normal training from county classes. To the question, "Do county normal graduates make good?" we answer merely that they not only do make good but continue to improve.

CLAIMS MUST BE PUT IN AT ONCE

Any one who has any claims against the government for anything that happened to him while in service is urged to get the data together and send in the claim at once to the Post Adjutant, A. E. Dickie. A representative from each of the departments is to be met by our representative, who will bring all claims. This committee is from the capitol, and is accompanied by our state officers. So, now is the time to straighten that back pay, insurance, allotment, compensation, liberty bond, or whatever else you may have.

120,000 STAND IN BREAD LINE

More Than 1,000,000 Face Death Is Message Brought by Miss Dakesian.

Imagine a bread line of 120,000 famished people waiting for twenty-four hours a day for the dole of food that is the sole barrier between them and death from starvation. That is the situation in Alexandropol, a city in Russian Armenia, according to Miss Hermine Dakesian, a pretty Armenian girl, one of the survivors of four years of the horrors of Turkish massacres and deportations. Saved by an American woman, she has come to this country and entered Oberlin College.

With her came fourteen other Armenian girls in charge of Miss Adelaide S. Dwight, a Near East Relief worker, who has been instrumental in helping to save hundreds of thousands of their people from death by starvation. Miss Dwight, who is not given to exaggeration and has seen conditions at first hand, says more than a million people are facing death by starvation in Armenia and will perish unless America aids.

Herself an eyewitness to the slaughter of hundreds of helpless women and children by the Turks and a victim of the deportations, Miss Dakesian, an unusually pretty girl, says there is untold suffering in Armenia and Syria. She praises the efforts of the Near East Relief, formerly the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, to save as many of these people as possible. At Erivan, the capital of the Armenian republic, one hot meal is given out daily, and by this relief alone the city's death rate has been cut from a thousand daily to an average of twenty. At Alexandropol, where the refugees from Turkish Armenia were driven by thousands, the situation is appalling, Miss Dakesian says. It is to avert these wholesale deaths that Near East Relief is making a nation-wide appeal for funds.

BOY SCOUTS IN YOUNG ARMENIA

Strangest Troop of All in Constantinople Being Made Into Good Citizens.

American Boy Scout training is adding prominently to the rehabilitation of hundreds of little Armenian boy refugees from the Turkish massacres, who have been organized into a scout troop in Constantinople as the solution of one of the most troublesome problems that confronted the Near East Relief workers in that city.

Hounded and driven for four years, having seen their parents and relatives slaughtered or worse by Turks and Kurds and themselves forced to beg, steal or do almost anything to eke out the barest existence, these boys had completely lost their moral sense when they finally found refuge in the Near East Relief orphanages.

The boys had been clad in rags for so long that they had forgotten how to take care of clothes. This was a tragedy when the Near East Relief had need of every pair of shoes and of every suit of clothes for new boys constantly coming in.

Then the boys were organized as Boy Scouts and given their uniforms. They began to be careful of their school clothes as well as of their uniforms.

They had been so often hungry they had come to steal without compunction. When they first entered the orphanages they continued to steal. One boy stole a purse from his American teacher. For two or three weeks after he became a Boy Scout he was obviously uneasy. One day he came to her with the purse in his hand.

"I don't want to give it back," he said reluctantly. "But I have to, I'm a Boy Scout now."

To form more scout troops to transform these little unfortunates into good citizens, is one of the reasons why the Near East Relief, 1 Madison avenue, New York city, is making its appeal for funds.

SPORT TOGS ARE OF LONDON KIND

American Importers Turn to English Designers for Their Spring Models.

JACKET SUITS ARE YOUTHFUL

Outfits Are Comfortable and Do Not Hamper Movements of Wearer—Fabric Hats Bid Fair to Be Popular.

At this time of the year we begin to buy our sport clothes, not only for wear in the South, but also for the country this summer. This is a part of our wardrobe which can be attended to early in the season, as styles in sport clothes are fairly well crystallized now, writes a prominent fashion correspondent.

Our American importers have turned to London for their models this spring, because the English designers and manufacturers are offering an unusually smart collection. Not since pre-war days have we seen such striking English sport clothes, although before the war England was looked to for the best in this line. During the war years such new things as we had in sport togs came from the Paris market, and consequently there was considerable change in this type of dress. Directly the war was over, as well as during it, our designers got their inspiration from the more fussy type of so-called French sport clothes. Now the London dressmakers have regained their prestige in this line.

Jacket Suits for Sport Wear.
Most noteworthy in these new clothes are the bright-colored wools woven in bold patterns. These are especially attractive in the striped materials, which form short, separate skirts, as well as complete costumes, consisting of a short skirt, either plain or plaited, and a straight, full jacket, which is unbelted and rather of the wrap type, cut with kimono sleeves. These jacket suits, which are very young looking, are ideal for sport wear, because they are comfortable and do not hamper the movements of the wearer, but permit her to take part in games with ease and at the same time to be very smartly dressed.

Replacing the quieter plaids, such hues as orange, brick color and bright lavender striped clothes will make gay splashes of color on our tennis courts and golf courses this spring. Stockinette in plain tones, as well as rough camel's-hair cloth, will feature in the coming suits. A new idea in the stockinette suits is the addition of corduroy collars and cuffs.

Fabric Hats for Many Uses.
With the turning of our thoughts toward spring and summer clothes there comes the question of hats for this season; what will they be like? Already we have a very good idea of what will be offered, but what will be accepted is another matter. The indications are that the fabric hat will not only be popular for street wear, but will be equally in demand for sports.

A new material used for hats is crepe voile, which is nothing more than a highly-glazed voile. For the spring it will be combined with straw. Later, it will be used for a more summery type of hat. As it comes in dark as well as light colors it will serve for both town and country wear.

Goat hair, as a trimming for straw hats, is a fashion of French origin. It has, upon first consideration, the appearance of a frenky fashion, but it is actually very pretty. On one Paris model, which is a straight leg-horn shape, the fur, which has its edges tipped with black, is laid about the trim to obtain an unusually pleasing effect. Haircloth hats are not new we had many of them last spring. This year, however, haircloth is combined with satin to make it softer and infinitely more becoming.

It seems impossible for milliners to give up the use of duvetyne, the French modistes appearing to have a particular liking for it. Some of the very newest models that have recently come over are of this fabric.

The clothes prepared for those going South are noteworthy for the practical element that has been combined with the daintiness that is characteristic of summer apparel. There are no extreme effects; all the dresses are of designs suitable to the well-dressed woman's summer wardrobe. Sport clothes show some change of design and considerable change in color, for they are much brighter than those of past seasons. One is impressed with the fact that they are not distinctly mid-season clothes, but designed for summer.

Chemise dress of tan crepe de chine with two knife-plaited tunics set on a few inches below the waistline.

Crepe de Chine, Especially Brown.
The exodus to Southern resorts always sees a great many crepe de chine dresses brought out, but this year they have a new significance, for they are not only in the lighter colors but in dark shades for street wear. This, no doubt, is due to the fact that Paris has featured crepe de chine frocks very largely during the late winter and spring. Particularly pretty are those of brown. We do not, as a rule, think of brown as a spring color, but this season will see a great deal of it, not only in these lighter silk fabrics, but in brocades from which are fashioned more formal frocks. One is amazed at the beauty of these new brown tones; they are a real achievement in dyes.

Brown crepe de chine is used to develop an interesting frock. It has ever so many new and interesting features apart from the coloring of its fabric, which is light in tone—almost on a beige shade. It is girdled with a deep, rich brown velvet ribbon, the ends being allowed to stand straight out.

The dress is of chemise type, drawn in tightly at the waist by the dark-brown belt. A few inches below the waistline are set two knife-plaited tunics, one on either side. Another youthful idea is carried out in the use of a white organdie and net gumpie, like the gumpie of a little girl's frock. It shows above the neckline of the silk dress, which is gathered, and its little undersleeves peek from beneath very short sleeves of silk. Attached to the gumpie is a harem collar of organdie and net. This collar may be considered by some as an extreme feature, and for that reason it is made so that it may be easily detached.

Dots That Blend With White.
Dotted crepe de chine also plays a prominent part in our new clothes. While a frock made entirely of this material would be monotonous, it is most effective when combined with plain fabrics. It is frequently used in combination with plain white voile.

This summer's organdies are in beautiful shades; browns as well as bright coral being among them. Embroidering organdie with worsted is a new idea in trimming. Loosely-twisted yarn is selected and the stitch worked in such a way as to give the appearance of the wool being split. Skirts of organdie frocks are entirely covered with this wool embroidery.

A bright coral organdie dress has the waist made in the form of a tiny shawl, to which, at either side of the front, buttons a white lingerie vest, extending below the waistline in apron effect. This is an elaborate vest, being completely covered with hand embroidery and drawwork. It is the only trimming on the frock other than a tiny sash of the material. This, instead of being made double, as such sashes usually are, is of a single piece of the organdie, bound on either side with a bias piece of the fabric. A strip of material treated in the same way is used for little bows and tied about the sleeves, which are so short that they are little more than shoulder caps.

THIS IS LEONARD WOOD

The Man Who Won the Unqualified Endorsement of Theodore Roosevelt, Greatest American of His Time.

—and the man who should get your vote in the Primaries, April 5th

A vote for Leonard Wood is a vote for Roosevelt's principles, for the very same things that Roosevelt would be advocating if he were alive today. A vote for Wood is a vote for a candidate whose backers have pledged themselves to see that the voice of the people of Michigan is heard in the state and national conventions. Wood is fighting for the nomination, not merely to gather up delegates to be transferred to some other candidate when the party leaders decide that the psychological moment has arrived. General Wood, in his public utterances, has shown a thorough understanding of the farmer's problems and a warm sympathy for the farmer. He says: "Our stability rests largely in the agricultural population. The red flag never flies over the house of a farmer who owns his farm. If the American farmers had not played the game as they did, we would have lost the war, because we would not have been able to feed our Allies in the field as well as ourselves. If the American farmers had struck, the Germans would have won the war. The farmers sent their sons to war, and in spite of the shortage of labor they, by tremendously increasing their efforts, gave the world the biggest crop in history. Agriculture is not only the principal source of our wealth, it is the groundwork of our most stable citizenship. We must have a department of agriculture conducted for the farmer by men who really know farming from the furrow to the crop. It should be the intention of the national government at Washington to make farming conditions such that there would be fewer tenant farms and more owned farms." Theodore Roosevelt said of Leonard Wood: "He has made all good Americans his debtors by what he has done."

HERRING SOUP RUSSIAN FOOD

PAUL DUKES, WHO SERVED IN RED ARMY, TELLS OF CONDITIONS UNDER BOLSHEVIK REGIME.

ALL CLASSES GRIPPED BY POVERTY

Householders Forced to Give Up Their Choicest Rooms to Communist Workers and Sailors and Live in Kitchens.

Paul Dukes, a Russian who lived ten months under soviet rule, served in the red army, and then escaped to England, writes of his experiences in the London Illustrated News. That portion of Mr. Dukes' recital having to do with living conditions under the new order of things is particularly interesting. He says:

"Both my companion and I were 'attached' to a communal dining room at the other end of the Nevsky Prospect, which meant that a stamp was put on our dinner cards saying that was the dining room we could take our dinner at.

"As we walked down the street we passed the lines of wretched people standing patiently at the edge of the pavements, disposing of all sorts of wares, or food of which they had possessed themselves by 'speculation' or by going on foraging excursions into the country. Some of these people make large sums of money by what is really speculation; but most are selling off their last possessions in the effort to scrape together sufficient to buy food for themselves and their families. Either they are unable to find any paid occupation, or else they come out here in the intervals of work. Most of them are women, largely of the educated class; but one finds also all sorts and conditions of men, peasants, servant girls and street urchins. Old clothing, crockery, toys, knickknacks, clocks, books, pencils, pens, pictures, pots, pans, pails and postcards, the entire paraphernalia of antiquarian and second-hand dealers' shops, are turned out into the street, and disposed of at prices a hundred times higher than the same articles would have cost new two years ago.

"But it is time we hurried into our communal dining room, or there will be nothing left. We line up in the one, pay our six rubles, and pass along to the counter where the dinners are being served. Here we receive a bowl of soup and a plate of gruel, which we carry to our table.

"There is not much to tell about the eating of our dinner, which took much less time than it does to read about it. We fetched out our spoons and forks, which are not supplied at the dining room, and fell to. The soup consisted of half a herring in boiling water. The herring was not scraped or cleaned, but put into the soup, head, bones, scales and all. I had a tall end, my companion had a head. But the dinner was a good one, we thought, because we got gruel, which is a rare luxury. After we had picked the chaff out, about two tablespoonfuls were left.

"Complaints are always being made even in the Bolsheviki (the only press about the filthy and unhygienic state of these communal dining rooms: But nothing seems ever to be done to improve them. The dirty rooms look as if they had not been swept for months. The ingredients are put into the soup unscraped and uncleaned. The dishes look as though they were never washed. But cleanliness is necessarily a secondary consideration. The main thing is to get something to eat. The dinner is the only meal served."

"In crowded towns of central Russia the system of 'compression' also prevails, which consists in the compulsory thrusting upon middle-class tenants of members of the proletariat. Middle-class flat owners have in many cases been evicted altogether from their flats, which are handed over mainly to members of the Communist party. You can find lots of flats where the owners and their families are cooped up in the kitchen, and perhaps one other room, while the rest of the rooms are occupied by Communist workmen or—in Petrograd—sailors. Of course, the incomers are given the right to choose which rooms shall be at their disposal, and furniture being declared communal property, the owners have to shift with whatever is left them in the kitchen.

"Few mothers are able to devote their former attention to domestic duties. Life being so exorbitantly expensive as the result of the attempts to suppress private trading (upon which every one is nevertheless forced to rely for provisioning), mothers also are compelled to work, generally in some Government institution, in order to increase the family income by even the miserable pittance usually paid to women. The standard of pay for women in sedentary occupations is considerably below that of the workingmen.

"Children under 14 are fed at the expense of the state, but the cost still falls on the adult population, for the expense can only be met by a further output of paper money. This in its turn implies still greater irregularity in payment of salaries, and also additional increase in prices all 'round.' Mr. Dukes' experiences present an excellent picture of 'freedom' as it exists in Russia today.

RED OUTRAGES ARE RELATED BY WOMAN

London.—A terrible account of Bolshevik atrocities was submitted to "The Times" by Miss Josephine Inigo Jones, an English woman who had been delivered from Bolshevik hands by General Denikine's army on the capture of Kharkoff. Miss Jones writes: "Do people who defend the Bolsheviks realize what Bolshevism has meant for Russia? I wish they could see just the edge of the misery it has caused, the sufferings and anguish among rich and poor alike, especially among the poor.

"The prisons are full of men, women, girls, and even little children. All are tortured. To this I can testify. I was in Kharkoff when Denikine's men arrived and cannot yet fully realize by what miracle I escaped the awful fate that so many girls in Russia have and are still undergoing.

"In Kharkoff the Commissaries committed unnamable crimes. Prisoners' arms were forced into pots of boiled water to the elbows. When the skin was soft enough it was cut round the arm and peeled off like a glove. Many devout Christians were crucified.

"Women were collected in parties and literally thrown to the foreign mercenaries and criminal guards who dragged them off. Old and young women and even mere children were mistreated by many men and generally until they died.

"Bolshevism means wretched poverty, hunger, misery and despair for all who come under its malign influence."

"I was convinced that they must have someone in the house aiding them. I've found out who it is. It's the telephone girl—Nellie Kelly is the name she goes by."

"I can't believe it," cried the girl, shocked at my statement. "She's only a girl like myself. I have talked to her lots of times. I'm certain there's nothing wicked or wrong about her."

"I'm afraid there is," I explained. "I took her out to dinner last night, to the White Room. The house detective, while she was off telephoning, practically ordered me out of the place because I was with her. She's notorious. Her husband is Lefty Moore, a well-known burglar. He's in Sing Sing now. Detective Gorman arrested him. He ought to know."

"Oh, the poor girl," exclaimed Miss Bradford, peering wiling up in her eyes. "I'm so sorry for her."

"But think of your sister. Think what they are trying to do with Miss Kelly's aid."

"But how do you know she's aiding them?"

"I don't know it. But I do know that nobody could pull off all the things that have been happening in the Granddeck without some one there helping them. We've found someone used to helping criminals—a criminal's wife. Isn't that enough? All we need to do now is to watch her closely and fasten the thing on her."

"How are you going to do that?"

"That's why I insisted on your coming here today. I am to meet Detective Gorman at three. I feel that he could aid us, and I think we ought to tell him everything."

"Tell the police!" Her face grew white at the thought. "Wouldn't that mean a scandal—the newspapers and all that sort of thing?"

I shook my head decisively. "Gorman's not with the police now. He is employed as a hotel detective. But he is just the man we need to help us. He knows all about criminals and how to track them. With his aid we can quickly clear the whole thing up."

"Will you have to tell him everything—about Claire's marriage?"

"We've either got to tell him everything or nothing."

"Oh, how I wish we did not have to. The more people there are who know about things the more likely they are to become public."

"Yet you trusted me with your sister's secret."

She gave me a quick glance of confidence. "You're different."

"I'm afraid most people would not agree with you. They would regard me as a worthless, discredited young fellow out of a job."

"But it's not your fault."

"The point is," I went on, "that we have reached a place where we need expert advice. Gorman has fortuitously turned up to give it. The only way is to tell him everything."

For a moment she debated the matter silently, her pretty forehead puckered in thought.

"Yes," she said at last. "I suppose it is the only way. But won't he want a lot of money for his services?"

"I'll attend to that," I answered. "I'll make my great-uncle reward him handsomely for recovering the Gaston jewels."

"If he does."

"He must. We've got to get them back."

From her hand-bag she produced the anonymous letters she had received and handed them to me.

"Will you want to show the detective these?"

the private number—did you and suit about that?"

"Sure, that was easy. It's one of the apartments in the Granddeck—Henry Kent's. Who's he?"

"I never heard of him. I'll try to find out, though."

"I would, but be careful how you go asking questions around the place. The Moore woman may have a pal. They generally work in pairs."

The ease and celerity with which Gorman had learned all these things about the girl impressed me greatly, and I said as much. He received my compliments with a deprecating wave of the hand.

"Nothing to it, boy, when you know the ropes. But last night you told me you had taken the girl out to try to pump something out of her. What was it? What's doing?"

From beginning to end I told him the whole story in all of its perplexing details, starting with the day that I had received my great-uncle Rufus' note that had led to the chance meeting with Miss Bradford, bringing in my discharge and the disappearance of the Gaston pearls, and explaining what made me think these facts were in some way involved with the attempted blackmail of the Bradfords.

"What do you make of it?" I asked as I ended my narrative. "Who do you think is at the bottom of it?"

"I don't think," he retorted. "In our business it does not pay to think too quick. You're apt to convict the wrong party."

"But you must think something," I protested.

"I think," he said slowly and meditatively, "that there's a lot of crooked work going on—I'll say that much. And you and Miss Bradford's pretty close to being the center of it."

"What can we do about it?"

"There's a way I learned from a lawyer that ain't bad. He'd take his client and put him in the center of a big circle with lines running in all directions—alibi, insanity, mistaken identity, no proof of guilt, lack of jurisdiction, escape on legal technicality—he'd mark out every possible defense. Then he'd follow each line out and see where it led and what plan the opposing lawyers would be likely to spring on him. Generally he got his man off."

"I don't quite see how that applies."

"You don't, eh?"

He traced an imaginary circle with his forefinger on the table in the little back room where we were sitting.

"Here's you and Miss Bradford in the center, surrounded by a lot of mysterious deviltry. We'll make two circles. This inside one is the things that have happened to both of you—the wall safes opened, the papers stolen, the blackmail—threats, the loss of your job, the voices you've heard. Now on this outer circle we'll mark down all the people who might be mixed up in these things—mind ye, I say only might be. First, there's Lefty Moore's woman—we know she's a crook. Then who do we know that knows her? There's at least two—Mr. Wick, the superintendent that hired her, and this Mr. Henry Kent, whose apartment she telephoned to. Then there's all the rest of the help in the house. Any one of them might be her pal. Then there's the flighty Bradford girl."

"You don't suspect her, do you?" I cried, horrified at the prospect of his investigation taking this turn.

"Be easy," he retorted. "I'm not suspecting anyone. I'm only putting them down. There's the Bradford girl and her ex-husband. He's a bigamist and that makes him a crook. Those two men you saw in the park, one of them with a scar on his face—we'll run them down. You know a cafe the scar-faced man goes to, so that's a start. There's the man who shadowed you—would you know him again if you saw him?"

I shook my head doubtfully.

"I'm afraid not," I admitted, "you see."

"Don't bother to explain. You either would or wouldn't, and that's all we need to know now. There's old Mr. Gaston and his wife. It's queer about their ducking out so suddenly and leaving no address, but maybe they're only scared. Let's see who else is there—the Bradford servants and the old man's, the old washerwoman—and the families who live in the house. We've got the circle pretty well covered, haven't we?"

More and more I had begun to appreciate how valuable the services of an experienced detective would be likely to be in helping to solve the mystery.

"Look here, Gorman," I said, "why can't you take charge of this case for us?"

"What's in it?" he asked.

My face fell, and my enthusiasm died a sudden death. Once more I was confronted by the specter of my poverty. Of what use my talking to a high-priced investigator like Gorman when all the money I had in the world was less than two hundred dollars, out of which I had to live until I found employment. Yet I must serve Barbara Bradford.

"If you clear up this case," I announced, "I'll give you every cent I've got in the world."

He shook his head.

"It ain't enough. If I take this case, it won't be for the money that's in it. For that matter I can get all I want from old Gaston for getting his pearls back. That'll be enough."

"Then you will take the case," I cried jubilantly.

"On one condition. That you'll promise to keep everything away from the police."

"I'll promise that for myself and Miss Bradford, too. That was the one reason she advanced against my telling you about things. She was afraid you'd call in the police."

"Never fear about that. There's nothing I'd like better than to put it over that bunch of young reformers they've got down in Center street. This hotel work don't suit me, anyhow. I've been thinking of opening up an office of my own. The recovery of the Gaston pearls would be a nice feather in my cap to start with."

"I see," I replied, "but you'll need money for expenses and that sort of thing, won't you? I have—"

"Leave that part of it to me," he retorted with a quizzical smile. "After all the years I was on the police force I ain't exactly broke by a long shot. All you've got to do is to keep your eyes open and let me know all that goes on in the apartment house. I'll attend to the rest. Don't do anything, though, without consulting me first."

"I'll gladly promise that."

"Good enough. We'd better arrange then to meet here every day at three sharp. It's as good a place as any."

"I'll be here."

"And look out you're not trailed. They may try shadowing you again."

"Who do you mean by they?" I asked eagerly.

"Them that trailed you yesterday," replied Gorman with a grin. "If you don't know, I don't know either—yet."

From his manner I was confident that he already had a shrewd suspicion as to the identity of some of the miscreants. The maze in the center of which he had placed Miss Bradford and myself meant far more to him, undoubtedly, than it did to me. More than likely his vast knowledge of the methods of criminals and his acquaintanceship with others like Lefty Moore had given him clues enough as to where to look for the plotters. I realized that it would be useless to question him further. He would admit suspecting no one until he was sure of their guilt, a quality I admired greatly.

"You can count on me," I repeated. "I'll be here at three tomorrow."

Yet how foolish it was for any of us to predict what we will be doing or where we will be twenty-four hours from now. Seldom do things happen in the routine of our lives as we had anticipated. I was not there the next day at the time appointed. By no possibility could I have been there, however much I might have wished to. Many things had happened in quick succession.

How it came about that my promise to meet Gorman went unfulfilled can best be explained by narrating the events of the evening after I returned to the Granddeck. It was nearly five when I left the detective. I strolled leisurely down town and had dinner in the cafe where on one occasion I had seen the scar-faced man. I lingered there for a long time over my coffee hoping in vain that he might appear. I even ventured to cautiously question the waiter and head waiter, describing the man as best I could, but both of them insisted that they never had seen any such person. As I walked home I kept a wary eye out to make sure I was not being followed, but apparently no one was now shadowing me.

It was nine-thirty when I reached home. It had been arranged that Barbara about ten would signal me that we might have a chat from our respective windows. As I sat in my room waiting for the time to come, I was reviewing the case in all its aspects. Indeed there was hardly a waking moment that I was not thinking of the many mysteries about us. I was wondering if, when the case was cleared up the mysterious whispers that we all had heard would also be explained. I recalled Claire Bradford's unexpected visit to my apartment when I had captured her. I wondered if the explanations she had offered had been the truth. Was she really trying to locate the source of the whispers? I looked interestedly up at the section of the wall that I had found her inspecting. What had she hoped to discover there?

I decided to make a close inspection of both sides of the wall. As I lighted up the sitting room and hall for this purpose, something unusual came to my notice that had hitherto escaped me entirely.

THE INNER WALL OF MY ROOM—the one running along the hall of the apartment—HAD THE APPEARANCE OF BEING AT LEAST FOUR FEET THICK.

It seemed so absurd that I refused to believe the evidence my eyes had given me. In these modern days of steel construction there was no reason for a wall being of medieval proportions. I sprang to my great-uncle's work basket and began rummaging to see if I could find a tape-measure, and luckily my search was quickly rewarded.

I sketched a rough diagram of the rear rooms, and began measuring them off, carefully checking my figures as I went along. I found myself growing wildly excited as the tape-measure confirmed what my eyes already had told me. The inner wall was at least four feet thick.

With thrills at the thought of the possibility of a secret passage there, I climbed up on a chair just as Claire Bradford had done, and began inspecting the wall inch by inch. Even as I did so I could not help laughing at myself. The idea that a modern apartment building might contain a secret passage was utterly ridiculous, yet as I pounded lightly on the wall it gave forth a hollow sound, vastly different from any other part of the room. I was convinced that between my room and the hall there was space enough at least for a passageway in which a man might walk.

I surveyed with growing interest the wooden paneling that in my room ran clear up to the ceiling. In the other rooms there was no paneling. Mounting the chair again I pressed sharply against the wood at the point from which the sound had seemed to come. It seemed to me it gave a little to my touch. I struck one of the sections a sharp blow. It dropped back a full half-inch, leaving what looked like a doorway—a space three feet wide by five feet high. The bottom of the opening was hardly two feet from the floor. If there was a passageway here, this panel certainly would explain how my rooms had been surreptitiously visited.

Feverishly I worked at the panel trying to push it farther back. If there was a passageway there in the wall I was determined to see whither it led. My efforts to move the panel further seemed hopeless. As I worked at it I heard a tapping on my window sill.

It must be Barbara. In my excitement over the find I had forgotten all about the time. I sprang from the chair and rushed to the window. I found her peering out, trying to ascertain why I had not answered her signal.

"Oh," she breathed with relief, as my head appeared. "You were there. Did you see the detective?"

"Yes," I replied, speaking as low as my excited state would permit me, "but just now I discovered something vastly more important."

"What is it?"

"A secret passageway leading into my room. It seems to run along the hall. The wall there is at least four feet thick—room for a man to walk. There is a panel in the wall in my room leading into it. I was just prying it open when you signaled."

"Oh, how I wish I could see it!"

"Why can't you? Slip out of your front door and I'll be at my door to admit you."

"I can't do that. Mother and Claire are in the front part of the house playing bridge with some guests. They will be sure to hear me going out."

"Come in tomorrow morning, then," I suggested.

Question for Kentucky Doctors Prescribing It, Says State Health Officer.

Louisville, Ky.—Physicians in Kentucky who prescribe whisky for ailing patients will have to prove to the state license board that no other medicine is better, or their licenses are liable to be revoked, according to Dr. A. A meeting of physicians will be held in Lexington, he said, to form a drastic ruling on the prohibition amendment in so far as it applies to the medical profession of this state.

The American Medical society, Dr. McCormack asserted, has gone on record as believing whisky as a medicine is not necessary and wherever it could be used there is some other remedy equally good or better.

This is the result of the death of the former emperor and the Russian revolution.

Nicholas was attacked by a Japanese policeman with a saber. Interference by the rickshaman enabled him to escape with a slight wound. While receiving his pension the rickshaman lived in luxury, but now has returned to the work of hauling his ricksha.

A County Library Book Wagon.

A number of states successfully operate book wagons for the circulation of reading material in the rural districts. The American Library Association includes the needs of the rural communities in its Enlarged Program which is the backbone of its "Books for Everybody!" movement. The A. L. A. hopes some day to see book wagons in every state and is pledged to advocate such service.

LIBRARIANS JOIN FIGHT ON UNREST

American Library Association Inaugurates Nation-wide "Books for Everybody!" Movement.

WILL AID FOREIGN BORN.

Social Problems Can Be Solved by Teaching American Ideals and Traditions.

The spirit of unrest that has been sweeping the country indicates that the foreign born, who have flocked to the United States from every corner of the globe have not been given the proper help and encouragement. In the opinion of the 4,000 librarians who make up the American Library Association and who are now enlisted in a "Books for Everybody!" movement. The effort is a concerted movement to carry out the Enlarged Program which the association has adopted.

There are approximately fifteen millions of foreign born in the United States and of this number six millions do not read or speak the English language. One phase of the Enlarged Program will be to bring the publisher and translator together with the view of furnishing the proper books in sufficient numbers to carry the message of American ideals and traditions to this vast army of uninformed people. They have been largely dependent upon the foreign press for their written messages. Many men who live with their fingers on the pulse of current events are firmly convinced that a sound foundation in Americanism can be easily built among the foreign born if the proper literature is placed within their reach in a language they can understand.

No Drive to Be Held.

In order to carry out the Enlarged Program two million dollars will be required. This money will not be sought through the medium of a campaign or an intensive drive, but will be obtained through the individual efforts of the librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries. The American Library Association will bend every effort to bring about the nation-wide adoption of each of the cardinal points in the Program, which includes the extension of the county library system and the establishment of more industrial and business libraries. It now has in operation book service to the United States Merchant Marine, Coast Guard, Lighthouse Service and hospitals of the United States Public Health Service. The needs of the 75,000 blind persons in the United States will be cared for. At present the number of books available is woefully inadequate. This will be remedied and the joys of good literature will be brought into lives that are darkened by a veil which will never be raised by any other method.

Not all the work of Americanization lies in the great centers of population. Great sections of the country where industry is carried on by foreign workers do not know public library service. There are important mining states where less than a score of libraries exist. One mining state has but two public libraries.

MORE BOOKS FOR BLIND.

American Library Association Behind Movement to Bring Good Literature to Those Who Walk in the Dark.

There are between 75,000 and 80,000 blind people in the United States. The supply of books in the recently adopted uniform Braille type for their use is inadequate, there being less than 100 titles existing in that print. The American Library Association has included in the project of its Enlarged Program the rescue to aid in printing and distributing additional volumes. It has already succeeded in inducing several well-known authors to finance the printing of one or more of their books. In inaugurating its "Books for Everybody!" movement a fund of $1,000,000 will be raised to carry out the provisions of the Program. The money to be obtained not by a campaign or drive, but through the efforts of the librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries.

American Library Association Urges Adoption of County Library System.

IDEA PROVES SUCCESSFUL.

California, the Pioneer—Other States Adopting the Plan.

The American Library Association, in announcing its "Books for Everybody!" movement, which is to be nation wide in its scope, advises and urges the extension of the county library system as a solution of the problem of supplying good literature to the rural districts. Its intention is to persist in advocating the nation-wide adoption of the idea as successfully applied in California, Ohio and Maryland until every one of the 2,904 counties in the nation have adopted the system and regular shipments of good books are being made from the central point in the county to the designated outposts. California stands out as the highpoint in the successful application of the idea. Of the 58 counties in the state 42 have adopted and are supporting the system at a trifling cost. This it urges as a part of its enlarged program which aims to promote a better citizenship and to combat the social and industrial unrest through the teaching of American ideals and traditions to the foreign born.

The book needs of the sixty million or more Americans who live outside of the big cities will be called to the attention of those in a position to serve them.

County Libraries Urged.

The county library system provides for establishing one central library at the county seat or in the largest town in every county. This does not mean necessarily the erecting of a library building and the stocking of its shelves. In many cases the tools already exist. From this central station books will be loaned to designated outpost stations. The books will be delivered by trucks, parcel post or whatever method may be adopted in any given county to the county stores, tollgates, post offices, schoolhouses and private homes. When one shipment has been circulated and returned another will be sent out. Also, in communities of any size in the county, branch libraries will be maintained.

The American Library Association, with its 4,000 active librarian members and its 40 years of practical functioning, is in a position to know the needs of the country and in the fight for wider knowledge is a force to be reckoned with.

The Enlarged Program calls for an expenditure of $2,000,000. There will be no drive or intensive campaign. The money will be raised by the librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries. The movement for better citizens and a well read population is on and the slogan is "Books for Everybody!"

"BOOKS FOR EVERYBODY!"

Four Thousand Librarian Members of the American Library Association in Nation-Wide Movement.

Since the advent of peace the American Library Association has turned its efforts from war work into other channels. With the benefit of its forty years of experience and the co-operation of its membership of 4,000 active librarians in all parts of the United States, in addition to continuing certain war activities not taken over by the government, it proposes to promote the development of the library systems throughout the country and to encourage the reading habit in all ways possible. The A. L. A. supplied over 7,000,000 volumes to our fighting men here and overseas and on-board vessels, and it has the confidence and the admiration of the nation back of it in inaugurating its "Books for Everybody!" movement. The money to carry out the provisions of the campaign, will not be raised through an intensive drive, but will be obtained by the librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries who have enthusiastically pledged their co-operation in obtaining the necessary $2,000,000.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Drink lots of water and stop eating meat for a while if your bladder troubles you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and laggard. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's uric waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back its Color and Lustre with Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrous—and you're years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

SCHOOL TEACHES CONTEMPT OF FLAG

Detroit.—The lengths to which the bolshevists and communists will go in an attempt to gain their ends was illustrated when Judge Henry S. Hulbert, of the juvenile and probate courts, was appealed to by a thirteen-year-old Russian girl who wanted protection for herself and her younger brothers from their father. She said that she was being forced to attend an "institute, where the red doctrine of destruction of all organized government was being taught. The constitution of the United States was derided as were the public schools, and the tenets of bolshevism in its ugliest form were preached. Investigation disclosed the fact that while the father was indulgent in every other respect, he compelled his daughter and her two brothers, one aged 10, the other 8, to go two afternoons a week to a secret school of anarchy, conducted by foreign agitators, along with other children of alien parentage.

While similar "institutes" have been unearthed in eastern cities, it was the first time such operations had come to light in Detroit. Prompt action was taken by the police department to suppress any such "schools."
