Sleeper Urges Daylight Saving

Governor Proclaims Eastern Time For State in Summer.

A proclamation issued by Governor Sleeper Monday calls upon all communities to adopt eastern standard time during spring and summer, beginning April 8th.

The proclamation follows: "The use of two times within the state of Michigan, is the cause of a good deal of inconvenience and confusion, and furthermore the adoption of eastern time by the whole state during the spring and summer months would give us an extra hour of daylight at the close of the day.

"Therefore, I, Albert E. Sleeper, governor of the state of Michigan, do issue this my proclamation and I respectfully urge all communities, which have not already done so, to take the necessary action to make eastern time official on and after April 8, next. I further request that on that day all time pieces that now indicate central time be set ahead one hour."

In many cities the matter of the change in time is being placed up to the voters at the April 5th election. In other places the city councils or chambers of commerce have already voted for daylight saving for this summer.

Awake to Spirit of Easter.

It is the tragedy of many a life that it weeps at an empty tomb. It thinks that there all its hopes are buried, all its possibilities of joy, all its future. How empty and joyless is the life that has not met the risen Christ! On the first Easter evening two disciples were walking down to Emmaus. Their hearts were sad, their lives were hopeless because they had lost their Lord, and they had no faith in certain rumors of a resurrection which had come to their ears. Jesus joined them on the way, but their eyes were hidden so they knew him not. May the Spirit open our hearts and eyes on Easter day to the glory and joy of the risen Lord. Exchange.

Eastertide, 1918.

"I saw many things. . . . I saw a man in France—a soldier—full kilted—full weary, humping his loaden pack. "I saw a woman with three bundles humping the children home. "And the soldier took two of the children and he carried them five kilometers—and the sweat and the swelter that he went through carried him on that day very near to the Gates of God."

GLORIOUS LILIES OF EASTER

Beautiful Flowers Epitomize the Blossoming and Exquisite Beauty and Gladness of Spring.

Redolent and abounding lilies are seen everywhere. They are marching along the highways of hope; they are merged in the glory of the Easter morning; they are painted by the tints of the stained glass that falls through the cathedral windows; they are in the thought of all and in the words of many, in the sentiments and traditions of the day. There they are in great banks and piles about the altar steps, and where the sacred desk stands before the congregation. Lilies stand forth in the wonderful alle-gories that have been theirs—the lily-of-the-valley, whose sheen is more wonderful than the glory of the great Solomon, the annunciation lily, with its folded petals like the clasped hands of a virgin, the lily of the resurrection, with its star-fared petals that stand out with a show of the golden heart of hope; the calla lily, with its stately presence and exquisite perfume, the very essence of the esthetic sentiments of the day; the lily auratum, with its golden bands of faith, hope and of love; the tiger lily, that shows forth the passions of men held in check upon Easter day; the yellow garden lily that stands for the homey aspirations of men on the day of the blossoming and exquisite beauty of spring opening and of heart gladness!

Triumphant Christian Faith.

Easter marks the Resurrection day. To the man of deep faith it is the greatest day of all the year. The good clothes parade that crowds him out of his usual seat has no appeal for him. He is concerned with worship. He comes to the sacred meeting to contemplate the greatest of earth's miracles. There is much about it reason cannot compass. Every failure to solve the mystery drives him back to the faith that has never failed to bring comfort when cold reason suggested only perplexity. When tempted to doubt he remembers that a critical nation with antagonistic leaders tried to hush up the story when it was first reported. He remembers the dismal failure they made of it. Though contrary to all experience and knowledge great things have been brought to pass by faith in this miracle. Is it any wonder he sits in meditation and worship?

Girls who indulge in promiscuous kissing aren't likely to catch anything—not even a husband.

Prepare to Buy Stock In Canning Factory

SALE IS TO START APRIL 5TH AND WILL CONTINUE FOR ONE WEEK.

The Board of Trade is going ahead at once with a canvass for sale of stock in the Canning Factory to be located in East Jordan. No money will be asked at the present time, but stock subscriptions will be taken so that the amount which can be raised can be definitely determined.

A general canvass will be made of the city and surrounding country. It is necessary to raise this amount and to raise it at once. The smallest amount of stock which can be subscribed for will be one hundred dollars. It is hoped that everyone will take at least this much.

If East Jordan is to have a canning factory action must be taken at once. East Jordan can have this factory if she simply goes ahead with it. There is absolutely no doubt of its being successful; in fact the next few years should be the most prosperous ever enjoyed by the canning industry.

This canvass will not be a donation. It will be a campaign in which people are merely asked to make an investment that is absolutely safe and that will pay a good dividend. Welcome the canvassers with a glad hand and sign up quickly. At least fifty thousand dollars will be required and must be subscribed within a week.

The Legend of Easter Eggs

Trinity bells with their hollow tones, And their vibrant lips and their brassy tongues, Over the roofs of the city pour Their Easter music with joyous roar, Till the soaring notes to the Sun are rolled As he swings along in his path of gold.

"Dearest papa," says my boy to me, As he merrily climbs on his mother's knee, "Why are these eggs that you see so hold Colored so finely with blue and gold? And what is the wonderful bird that lays Such beautiful eggs upon Easter days?"

Tenderly shines the April skies, Like laughter and tears in my child's blue eyes, And every face in the street is gay, Why cloud this youngster's by saying nay? So I cudgel my brains for the tale he begs, And tell him this story of Easter eggs:

You have heard, my boy, of the Man who died, Crowned with keen thorns and crucified; And how Joseph the wealthy—whom God rewarded— Cared for the corpse of his martyred Lord, And piously tumbled it within the rock, And closed the gate with a mighty block.

Now, close by the tomb a fair tree grew, With pendulous leaves and blossoms of blue; And deep in the green tree's shadowy breast A beautiful singing bird sat on her nest, Which was bordered with mosses like malachite, And held four eggs of an ivory white.

Now, when the bird from her dim recess Beheld the Lord in His burial dress, And looked on the heavenly face so pale, And the dear hands pierced with the cruel nail,

Her heart nigh broke with a sudden pang, And out of the depth of her sorrow she sang.

All night long till the moon was up She sat and sang in her moss-wreathed cup;

A song of sorrow as wild and shrill As the homeless wind when it roams the hill. So full of tears, so loud and long, That the grief of the world seemed turned to song.

But soon there came through the weeping night A glittering Angel clothed in white; And he rolled the stone from the tomb away.

Where the Lord of the earth and the heavens lay; And Christ arose in the cavern's gloom, And in living luster came from the tomb.

Now, the bird that sat in the heart of the tree Beheld this celestial mystery, And its heart was filled with a sweet delight.

And it poured a song on the throbbing night, Notes climbing notes, till higher, higher, They shot to Heaven like spears of fire.

When the glittering, white-robed Angel heard The sorrowing song of the grieving bird, And, after the jubilant psalm of mirth That hailed Christ risen again on earth, He said: "Sweet bird, be forever blest, Thyself, thy eggs, and thy moss-wreathed nest!"

And ever, my child, since that blessed night, When Death bowed down to the Lord of Light, The eggs of that sweet bird change their hue, And burn with red and gold and blue; Reminding mankind in their simple way Of the holy marvel of Easter Day.

—Fitz-James O'Brien.

Song of Easter.

Sing that the winter is over, Sing for the coming of spring, For the showers and flowers and beautiful hours, And the flash of the robin's wing. Sing for the gladness of Easter Lift up your voices and sing.

The error of a moment may become the sorrow of a lifetime. When flatterer meets flatterer his satanic majesty sits down and rests.

NEW TRUANT OFFICER OF THE COUNTY

Due to the long illness of Mrs. Swafford, the truancy work has for some time rested with Miss Stewart. The work has been done by correspondence mostly but in most cases with very much success. Finally, however, Mrs. Swafford insisted upon the acceptance of her resignation which had been tendered for over a month, stating that she would probably never again be able to do the strenuous work of either the city or county truancy. The resignation was regretfully accepted for Mrs. Swafford knew her work, knew men and women and boys and girls. We can only offer best wishes for her speedy recovery.

Mr. Wm. Harrington of East Jordan has been appointed in her place, has taken his oath of office and given bonds as county truant officer. Mr. Harrington is a civil war veteran of unusual energy and ability. Altho well along in years, Mr. Harrington is still active in lodge and other local work and says that he will enjoy getting out among the people of the county. His former experience as sheriff in Cheboygan county will peculiarly fit him for the duties of the office, as the truant officer is really merely a deputy sheriff for school legislation. He loves boys and girls and has the good of the school at heart. In his new work he has the congratulations and good wishes of his many friends.

ARBOR DAY VOTE BEING TAKEN

Mr. Geo. Hemingway, one of our summer visitors, making his home at Ironton, is particularly interested in the rural schools of the county. He wants to see a beautiful county and wishes to begin with the school yards. He has accordingly made an offer in which he proposes to give to every school district from which one will volunteer to call for the tree, its choice for the three most beautiful of decorative trees:

American Mountain Ash 6 to 8 ft. high.

Weeping White Birch 8 to 10 ft. high. Black Hills Spruce 3 to 4 ft. high. The school must agree to plant the tree selected with some sort of appropriate Arbor Day Exercises on May 7th.

Mr. Hemingway is preparing pictures of these trees so that the children may see the three and choose what they will prefer. He will have the trees delivered by truck to three central places of the county on May 6th so that they may be ready for planting the following day. They must be called for on May 6th the same day on which they are delivered to these central places. Mr. Mackey of the Northern Auto Co. has offered the Northern Auto Co. Garages in the three towns as free distributing centers for these trees and the trucks will accordingly leave them in these towns. Vote of the county schools is now being taken to indicate the number of trees wanted and the places where they will be bailed for.

Let us quote from Mr. Hemingway's letter: "My heart is in this work, as it is a great influence in any community. Wherever and whenever you can get folks to love there home more by adding to the beauty of it surrounding, you may be certain that things in general are going in the right direction."

Joy Supreme.

And, in the glory of the lilies, in the great joy of the glad morning, there should be no heart that any fate can rob of its serenity, no soul that the powers of evil can successfully assault.

EASTER'S AWAKENING.

Never yet was a springtime, Late though lingered the snow, That the sun stirred not at the whisper Of the south wind, sweet and low; Never yet was a springtime When the buds forgot to blow.

Ever the wings of the summer Are folded under the mold; Life, that has known no dying, In Love's, to have and to hold; Till sudden, the bourgeoning Easter! The song! the green and the gold! —Margaret M. Sangster.

Yes, Luke, the coquette was created so the fool might have a companion. There is a vast difference between the lay of a poet and the lay of a pulpit. The Almighty never measures a preacher's worth by the salary he gets.

Newberry Awaits Action by Senate

Will Not Resume Seat Until His Status is Cleared Up.

Washington, March 30.—Senator Newberry, of Michigan, who returned here Saturday, will not resume his seat in the senate until questions as to his status arising from his conviction in the Michigan election conspiracy cases have been disposed of.

"I shall not resume my activities in the senate," he said, "until all matters growing out of the proceedings in Michigan are cleared up."

The senator did not appear today at the capitol. He was understood to have conferred with some Republican leaders and will return to Michigan for the Easter holidays without any definite plan as to when he will be back in Washington.

Democratic senators, who were active in pressing for investigation of the Michigan senatorial contest, admitted that they had been prepared, should Mr. Newberry have put in an appearance in the senate, to seek his expulsion on the ground of his conviction on a criminal charge. His decision obviates that action and it was assumed the next step would be in the committee on elections where the Ford-Newberry contest is pending.

Even should Mr. Newberry not participate in any roll calls or be paired on any votes, the Republican control of the senate by a majority of one would continue, the political alignment being 48 to 47.

April Best Month—Proper Selection And Storage of Eggs For Incubation Important.

East Lansing, March 22.—That chicks should be hatched in early April, rather than in May or June, is the opinion of Professor C. H. Burgess, of the Poultry Department at M. A. C. The rather common practice of hatching in the early summer is a mistake, according to the college authority, for the April chicks are said to mature in time to begin laying in the fall of the same year.

The following rules for selecting and storing eggs which are to be incubated are given by Professor Burgess: "Select eggs with uniformity of color and shape. Never incubate eggs weighing less than 2 ounces each (24 ounces to the dozen)—the eggs of best size are those weighing 26 ounces to the dozen. Gather the eggs often so that they may not become chilled. Select eggs that have uniform thickness of shell and are not rough on the surface.

"Store these eggs by setting them on end. Turn them daily, and keep them in a temperature of from 55 to 65 degrees. Never keep eggs more than two weeks before incubation—the sooner they are set after being laid the better. Eggs received from poultrymen should be allowed to stand for 48 hours after they are received before being placed in an incubator or under a hen.

"There is very little difference between the methods of natural and artificial incubation. If incubators are to be used it pays to buy standard makes. While they cost more at the beginning, the easier control of heat and other advantages of the standard machines make them far more practical in the end."

The Bonniest Bonnet by Dixie Walcott

There's the bonny Scotsman's bonnet That he wears with greatest pride, With a jaunty silver tassel Fastened gaily at the side. There's the little pink sunbonnet Which the country lassie wears; And the boudoir's frilled creation That "My Lady" dons upstairs.

And stored within our attic In a rosewood chest of yore, Is the fetching wedding bonnet That my great-grandmother wore. There's a wreath of posies on it, And a tiny spray within— And some cherry-colored ribbons That were tied beneath her chin.

But the hat most chic and oharming That has ever come my way Is that one that Dorothea Wore to church on Easter-day. I can't tell the shape or color, I could never guess its worth, But beneath it glowed the beauty Of the sweetest face on earth! —Detroit Free Press.

IF BACK HURTS USE
SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if Kidneys feel like lead or Bladder bothers you—Meat forms uric acid.

Most folks forget that the kidneys,
like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.
You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.
Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive;
makes a delightful effervescent lithiawater drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.
A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overruling kidney trouble while it is in its infancy.

THE SANDMAN STORY

HAPPENED ON A BUREAU.

The little lady who lives in a frame on the wall told the story, so it must be so; because she said she saw it with her two pretty eyes.
It happened one night after the dance on the bureau, when the little lady who tossed the fan there was fast asleep.

The Frame Lady says that when the moonlight streamed in through the window she was so surprised she nearly fell out of her frame to see the little painted lady on the blue satin fan step out of her place and go to the mirror and look in.

"I am pretty," she said, "and my feet are small. I am sure I can dance, and I am tired of going to parties and balls and seeing everybody dance, while I have to look on."
Then she picked up her dainty lace skirt and bowed low and began dancing about the bureau top.
The hatpins began turning their little heads, and when the Fan Lady came up to them they all hopped out and followed her.
She stopped in front of the pin-cushion and began to laugh. "Oh! you fat, plump thing! You cannot dance;
you are much too clumsy," she said,
dancing away.
But the pin-cushion did not like being called fat, and to show it was not clumsy it began to bob about and off
it rolled on the floor.

The tall bottles began to whirl about and the Fan Lady danced about them until one bumped into her. "Clumsy, awkward thing!" she said. "You can't dance." And over went the poor bottle, spilling its perfume.
"Now, see what you have done!"
said the little lady. "I shall get my feet wet."
By this time the powder puff had jumped out of its box and was trying to dance. The mirror, finding it was topheavy and could not dance, lay down, and on this the little Fan Lady stepped to keep out of the wet.

It was just then that the little Silver Boy, holding a vase on his shoulder, turned around to follow the little lady.
She had smiled at him all the while in a most bewitching manner, but not once did she give him a chance to speak to her.
"Pray let me help you back to your place on the fan," said the Silver Boy,
"and that you may not spoil your shoes I'll lay my coat over the wet place."
Then taking off his coat, the Silver Boy held out his hand and helped the little lady to her place on the blue satin fan.
"And I heard him say," said the Frame Lady, "that the Queen of old could not have been more beautiful than she was."
"And then the Fan Lady said:
"The Queen of old could not have had a more gallant subject than you, Silver Boy!"

No one knew what they meant, but now every night when the blue satin fan is left on the bureau the little lady steps out of her place and the Silver Boy takes her hand and leads her where no one can hear what they say.
"Of course, the place is never in disorder now as it was that first night," the Frame Lady said. "And the maid thought her mistress threw the things about, but I knew it was all the fault of the Fan Lady."

TREATING WRINKLES.

QUITE a number of readers have written to me lately, asking why wrinkles come so soon under the eyes, and what can be done to remove them. In most cases, these were the only wrinkles on the face.
Wrinkles under the eyes rarely denote age, so the woman who anxiously watches for that proverbial crow-foot that means the passing of youth, need not worry much about the tiny creases that come beneath the eye. In many cases, these wrinkles are the result of a habit of squinting the eye when laughing, and together with the lines radiating from the end of the eye, are called "laughing wrinkles." You

Proper Care Will Keep Wrinkles Away for Many Years.

can judge whether they are or not on yourself, by laughing at your image in the mirror, and watching the effect on the muscles of your face.
Often too, these wrinkles come from nervousness and run down health. A general building up will do away with them, even a few nights of real rest will smooth them out.
But if they are creased well into the skin, massage will undoubtedly help.
Get a good flesh-building cream and massage it around the eyes. Begin the stroke at the temples or the center of the forehead, bring the fingers across the wrinkles at the corner of the eyes, and under the eyes to the bridge of the nose. Repeat several times. The motion works in the flesh-building cream and irons out the creases, besides bringing fresh re-juvenating blood to that part of the face.

SWAN LONG A SACRED BIRD

Ancient Belief That the Valkyrs Had Power to Change Themselves into its Shape.

The swans that adorn our Easter palms were sacred birds in olden days and the Valkyrs, the beautiful virgins who conducted the fallen heroes to Valhalla, Wodan's paradise, possessed the power to change themselves into those white and graceful birds. The orange was an apple originally, consecrated to Freya, the highest of the goddesses. The custom of giving Easter eggs as a symbol of new awakening life is so ancient that we find it back as far as there is any written evidence, and the merry Easter meadow reminds us of the Easter plays that were held to celebrate the arrival of spring amongst almost all the Teutonic nations.

EGG ALWAYS EASTER FEATURE

Highly Decorated or Simply Colored, It Has Figured in All Celebrations of History.

In the early English days Easter eggs were highly colored and decorated with landscapes and elaborate inscriptions. While most of the old elaborate displays have fallen into disuse, the egg in some form yet remains a feature of Easter in modern times.

The Pyroese peasants retain a very pretty custom of celebrating Easter, in which the egg figures prominently. On Easter eve bands of musicians traverse every valley, singing holiday hymns. Their picturesque hats are adorned with flowers. Crowds of children accompany them and at night carry torches of lighted pine wood. As they pause before each house the people come to the doors and put eggs into the baskets of the singers, while they themselves join in the chorus.

The Paschal lamb as an emblem was much used in the early Christian era, and is still a symbol of Easter in many of the Latin countries.

In Africa they even worship it, and no altar decoration is considered finished without a circle of eggs, while each private family boasts at least one sacred egg.

The "hare" legend, strange to say, is connected with the moon. There were all sorts of fancies with regard to the moon phases, from which time Easter is reckoned, and among some nations the hare is a type of the moon itself. The Hindu and Japan artists painted them across the moon's disk, while the Chinese represent them in the moon as pounding rice in a mortar. In many parts of the world today children watch eagerly for the "bunny" who hides its eggs so carefully for their finding on Easter morning.

DAY OF DAYS

O Day more glorious than all days that shone
Since first dim, fruitless earth was bathed in light,
Now cross and tomb and sealed sepulchral stone
Are overcome by Love's eternal might,
O blessed Morn! O joyful Day of Days!
To thee we bring our sacrifice of praise.

School Week April 11th

Proclamation by the Governor

Unusual economic conditions have affected all lines of business and all professions. There is today in Michigan, and this condition is common to all of the States of the Union, an alarming shortage of teachers and the work of our schools is consequently greatly hampered. The need of efficient teaching is fundamental and anything that interferes with the proper work of the teacher is calculated to do the commonwealth a real injury. What can be done to remedy present conditions? An educational campaign, with a special effort to enlist the interest and sympathy of the best of our young people in the cause of education, ought to be helpful, and the suggestion that a particular week be definitely set apart as SCHOOL WEEK seems to me to be a most valuable one.

Therefore, I, Albert E. Sleeper, Governor of the State of Michigan, do issue this my proclamation and designate the week beginning April 11th, 1920, as SCHOOL WEEK; and I urgently request the press, the pulpit, all clubs, and other social and educational organizations, to give thoughtful and earnest consideration to the problem of the supply of teachers, and to set aside some portion of that week for the discussion of this and other school problems.

Given under my hand at the Capitol in Lansing, this thirtieth day of March, 1920. ALBERT E. SLEEPER, Gov.

SULPHUR DRIES UP PIMPLES AND RASH

Says Sulphur is Quickest to Clean Up An Ugly Skin.

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

HIGH PRICES MAY CAUSE ILLNESS.

At this season of the year many fresh vegetables are so high many persons suffer from deranged digestion. Easter Day.

It is a beautiful conception, the day and its significance. Our finite minds are accustomed to conceive of death as the end; we are often prone to stop there and not go beyond the resurrection. The physical world is emblematic of the change that must ever take place before the springing up of new life. So with the life of the spirit. He that loathes his life shall find it. Something of this thought is in the mind of him who is to find the real meaning of Easter. It is the beginning of a new year, not in the formal calendar of days and months, but of the world of nature which is often all the world of reality to us. The season speaks of abundance of life with all its wonderful hopes and possibilities. To the Christian world, Easter is the apotheosis of everything that is beautiful and awe-inspiring. It means the emergence of the spiritual, the message to humanity that the good and true and beautiful can never die. It is the inspiration of the poet, the essence of hope to the man of faith.

Announcement is made by Director R. G. Cholmeley-Jones of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance that the insurance division of the bureau is at the end of its period of congestion and consequent dissatisfaction and vexatious delays, resulting from the great volume of work suddenly thrown upon it by the demobilization of the armed forces during the past year. Former service men whose insurance has lapsed or has been cancelled are encouraged to take advantage of the very liberal provisions for reinstatement of war risk insurance by the payment of two monthly premiums with the application and a satisfactory statement of health. They are assured that from now on, receipts for premiums will be sent to them within a few days from the date of the original receipt of the remittance. Instead of the form paragraphs and unsatisfactory form letters which formerly it was necessary to use to answer the flood of mail, they will be replied to with real letters in insurance cases which require detailed and specific answer.

As we waited the three of us chatted about the crime and about the dead actress. From the conversation I learned that at the height of her meteoric career on Broadway Daisy Lutan had become the wife of the young son of a very rich family. His parents insisted that she had trapped him into matrimony and after long legal wrangling she had been divorced about a year ago. She had received a large sum in settlement, and this with her earnings as an actress enabled her to live in luxury.

"Haven't she a sweetheart now?" I asked.

"Better make it plural," sneered the doctor. "Women of her type always have a lot of men friends."

"No men ever came to see her here. I'm positive of that," said Mr. Wick.

"Of course not," said the doctor sarcastically. "The reputation of the Granddeck apartments must be protected at all costs."

As we talked two detectives in plain clothes arrived. They viewed the body and proceeded to question the doctor.

"How was this woman killed?"

"By a revolver shot right through the heart."

"Who is she?"

"Daisy Lutan, the actress."

"Who did it?"

"It must have been a burglar," interjected Mr. Wick. "My theory is that she came in unexpectedly and found him at work."

"Who found her?"

"These gentlemen," said the doctor, including both Mr. Wick and me with a wave of his hand.

The detectives turned to Mr. Wick first.

"Tell us about it," one of them directed.

"My name is James Wick," he began as if he was reciting a familiar lesson. "I am the superintendent of the Granddeck apartments. I was in the elevator about half an hour ago when I heard a woman screaming and then the sound of the shot. I took out my revolver and got off at this floor to investigate. At the door I found Mr. Nelson. He, too, had heard the screams and the shot and thought they came from this apartment. I took out my pass key and we went in."

"Were there any signs of the burglar?" asked the other man.

"No, we looked all through the apartment and found no one."

"Was anything missing?"

I waited with bated breath to hear if Wick would tell of having found the wall safe open. If he did not I felt it would be conclusive evidence that there was something he was trying to conceal.

"I didn't notice anything missing," he said glibly. "I wouldn't know, anyhow. I don't know what stuff she had here."

"Who would know?"

"Her maid might. She's out now. Generally she's home by eleven o'clock."

"Did she keep only the one servant?"

"Only the maid and a chauffeur."

"Then she was all alone in the apartment?"

"Yes. She'd gone out all dressed up about seven in her own car. She came home unexpectedly in a hired taxi not more than half an hour ago."

"Did she come home alone?"

"Sure she was alone. At least the hall boys told me so. I did not see her come in, myself."

More and more I was convinced that Wick was lying. I was sure he knew far more about affairs than he was admitting. Why did he keep harping on the fact that Miss Lutan had come in "unexpectedly"? What means had he of knowing what time she was expected home? Furthermore he said he was in the elevator when he heard the screams and the shot. I did not believe it would have been possible for the sounds to have carried that far. The walls were all deadened, and the room where the tragedy had taken place was at the back of the house many feet distant from the elevators. I wondered if the burglar had not been in the place with Mr. Wick's connivance, while he stood guard outside. As he heard me coming he might have taken refuge in the elevator. And why did he have his revolver so conveniently ready?

The detective who had been questioning Wick turned to me.

"Who are you?"

"Spalding Nelson."

"What do you do? Where do you work?"

"I'm a clerk."

"A clerk living at the Granddeck apartments," he sneered. "You must have a good job."

"I haven't any at present," I replied. "I'm living here in Mr. Gaston's apartment, taking care of it while he and his wife are away."

I could see that my statement that I was only a clerk and was not at present employed had not made a favorable impression on the detective.

"Will you explain what you were doing at the door of this apartment when the superintendent arrived?" he demanded with a growing suspicion in his tones.

"That's easy to explain," I retorted. "I was in my apartment directly over this one. I heard her scream and then the shot. It seemed to come from the floor right below me, so I ran down to investigate."

"Is that right?" he asked, turning to Mr. Wick.

"I guess so," said Wick. "That's where his room is. He's only been here in the Granddeck a few days. I don't know much about him."

"And that's all you know about it?" said the detective, turning to me again. I hesitated. Should I or should I not tell them of the wall safe that I had seen Mr. Wick closing? There was no way I could prove it. Undoubtedly Wick would deny having done so. It would be his word against mine. As superintendent his word would undoubtedly carry. I decided it would be best to withhold my information to a more propitious time.

"That's all I know, except what Mr. Wick has told you," I said.

"Very well," said the detective in charge. "You can go now, and you, too, Doctor."

Mr. Wick was escorting the doctor to the door. The detectives had withdrawn to the room where the body lay and were holding a whispered conference. I stepped quickly to the wall safe, and making sure that I was unobserved, tested the knob. It was securely fastened. I congratulated myself on having said nothing about it. Wick, I felt certain, would deny having shut it, and there was no proof that it had been opened when we had entered.

As I returned to my own apartment upstairs, nearing the top of the short flight of steps between the floors I was astounded to see a female figure fitting across the hall and entering the Bradford apartment. Though I had opportunity for only a brief glimpse, I recognized her at once. It was Claire Bradford.

The door of my apartment was standing wide open. I remembered that as I had run downstairs a few moments ago, I had neglected to close it after me. From the direction in which she had come, it was plain that Claire Bradford had been paying another surreptitious visit to my quarters. What could have been her purpose? There must have been some strong impelling motive to make her dare the perilous journey along the window ledge, and now, at the imminent risk of discovery, to pay me a second visit. I began seriously to doubt whether the explanation she had offered me was the true one. I was beginning to feel that there was more than a possibility that she was again in the clutches of the unscrupulous rascal who had once been her husband.

Greatly puzzled, I made a hasty survey of the apartment, but could find nothing that appeared to have been disturbed. Going back to my own room I hastened to place a handkerchief out of my window as a signal to Barbara, for I knew she would be anxious to know the meaning of the sounds we had heard below. In a very few moments I heard the tap of her riding crop on my sill and hurried to answer.

"What was it?" she asked in an excited whisper.

"Daisy Lutan, an actress, who lived on the floor below, has been murdered—shot."

"Who did it?"

"I don't know. Mr. Wick and I went into the apartment together. There was no one there."

"How terrible!" she exclaimed.

"It is, indeed," I answered, "but it may help us."

"What do you mean?"

"With the police in the house making investigations, there'll be no more threats from the blackmailers for a while. They won't dare bother you for the present."

"Do you really think so?" she questioned with a little sigh of relief.

"I'm sure of it."

"Have the police been called in?"

"Yes; two detectives are downstairs now."

"I'm glad," she said. "With the detectives here, they won't dare molest us, will they?"

"Of course not," I answered. "Is your sister at home?"

"Yes," she answered. "Our guests have just gone. Mother has retired, and Claire is in the living room writing a note. They heard nothing, so I did not tell them anything about it."

"That was wise. They'll hear it soon enough. Has your sister been in the apartment all evening?"

"She hasn't been out all day unless she went out just to drop the letter she was writing down the mail chute in the hall. Why do you ask?"

"I was merely wondering if there was any way she could learn of the murder."

"How could she? Isn't that too terrible about Miss Lutan? But I mustn't talk any longer. Good night."

"Wait a moment," I cried. "There are some things I must discuss with you before I meet Gorman. How about meeting me at the Astor at eleven?"

"I can't promise, but I'll try. Good night!"

There was nothing further that I could do, and I felt sadly in need of rest. Throwing off my coat and waistcoat I began making preparations for bed. The notion took me to once more investigate the secret passageway. I pushed sharply on the panel as I had done before, but this time I could not budge it. I tugged and worked and pounded, but it stuck fast in spite of all my efforts. As I was struggling to Force it open, there came a sharp ring at the bell of the apartment. As I was in my shirt sleeves, I answered it. The two detectives I had seen downstairs stood there.

"What is it?" I asked.

"I arrest you for the murder of Daisy Lutan," said one of them, and with that they sprang forward and pinioned my arms.

"Why, this is absurd," I laughed in their faces, conscious of my utter innocence of the crime. "I had nothing to do with it."

"That remains to be seen. Put on your coat and come along."

Still holding me fast, they went back with me to my bedroom. Clutching me tight they made me put on my coat, and no sooner had I done so than one of them snapped handcuffs on me.

"Look at this, Jim," said one of them, pointing to a spot on the front of my coat.

"That's blood all right," said the other, after inspecting it.

"I got that when I was helping Mr. Wick lift the body to the couch," I protested.

"Tell that to the judge," the detective called Jim scoffed. "Better look around for the gun, Cullen."

"You'll find no gun here," I cried. "I never owned one."

Nevertheless Cullen began rummaging through the drawers of my dresser. Suddenly he gave a triumphant exclamation and drew something from beneath a pile of shirts in the second drawer.

"Here it is," he announced, holding up before my astonished eyes an automatic revolver.

"I never saw it before," I gasped. The detective merely laughed.

"There's one bullet gone," said the man who was examining it.

"Come along, young fellow," said the other detective gruffly. "The bullet settles it. We've got the right party."

CHAPTER IX

A prisoner in a police station cell, I passed a sleepless night. Conscious as I was of my utter innocence and confident of my speedy release, nevertheless I had to admit that the detectives from their point of view were perfectly justified in placing me under arrest.

For a burglar to have gained access to the apartments without the connivance of the employees seemed almost an impossibility. For him to have escaped from the building after having murdered Miss Lutan without being detected seemed also highly improbable. Then, too, there was the damning evidence of the blood on my coat and the fact that I had been found at the door of the apartment. I had not observed the stain on my clothing until the detectives discovered it. My explanation of how it had gotten there was the true one, yet I could readily realize that it might sound fishy to others.

On the face of it the tragedy in the Granddeck looked like an inside job. The revolver, with one bullet missing, was the strongest sort of evidence that I was the murderer. Yet I never had seen the weapon before and could not imagine who could have placed it there. There was only one explanation possible. It had been purposely planted there with the definite object of throwing suspicion on me.

The one person—the only person—whom I knew to have been in my rooms after the murder was committed was Claire Bradford. Could she have done it? I remembered that Barbara had showed me a revolver in her possession. I wondered if this could be the same weapon. I did not think it possible that Claire herself could have used it. I could imagine no motive why Claire Bradford would want to kill Miss Lutan, yet it must have been she who had hidden the revolver in my dresser. What had been her motive? How had she got possession of the revolver after the murder?

Come what may, I had no intention of telling any one—not even Gorman—of Claire's second visit to my apartment. For Barbara's sake I made up my mind I would keep my lips closed about that incident, even if I had to stay in prison indefinitely. At the police station when the detectives had brought me in, I had quietly but firmly refused to answer any questions, although they had badgered me for nearly two hours before they let me alone.

"Where did you live before you came to the Granddeck?"

"Where did you work?"

"Where is Rufus Gaston?"

"Where do your people live?"

"Why did you kill Daisy Lutan?"

"Where did you get the money you have?"

"We've got the goods on you. Why don't you confess?"

These were the sort of questions that were flung at me, first by one and then the other. Evidently at first they had had hopes of breaking me down.

"I have nothing to say," had been my upvaying answer to all their questions.

Finally they gave it up and locked me in a cell for the night, leaving me thankful that the honor of being a suspected murderer relieved me from sharing a cell with some of the frowsy prisoners I saw brought past my barred door.

"Haven't you any friends you would like to have notified?" was the last question they asked as they left me.

"I have nothing to say," I repeated once more.

Nor was this answer this time mere stubbornness. Who was there that I could notify of my plight? Birge and Roller, my two intimates, were somewhere on the high seas. The men whom I had known in the office where I had worked, for obvious reasons, were not to be called on. I had no idea of the whereabouts of my aged relatives beyond the fact that they were somewhere in Maine.

I had no intention whatever of communicating the fact of my arrest to my mother. Indeed, I was hoping that she would not hear of it until after my innocence was established.

I thought of Gorman. I would have been glad of his counsel, but I remembered that I did not know where he lived. He had told me he was giving up his position at the hotel. It would be useless to try to find him until morning.

Yet in spite of my apparent friendlessness, although to all appearances there was no one in New York to whom I could turn in this time of trouble, it was a wonderful comfort to feel that I was sure of one staunch friend—Barbara Bradford.

Seven Things To Be Sure Of IN THE PURCHASE OF YOUR PIPELESS HEATING SYSTEM

- 1 That the quality of heating service assures a comfortable, clean, healthful home in any weather.
- 2 That the convenience of simple operation, regulation, and quick heating compares favorably with much more expensive types of heating systems.
- 3 That the low first cost is due to economy of material and labor instead of cheapness of construction.
- 4 That the fuel bill can be reduced from 1-4 to 1-3—enough to save handsome dividends on the amount invested.
- 5 That the "upkeep," or expense for repairs, is positively less than any other types of heating systems.
- 6 That you are protected at this store, because of the manufacturer's refusal to authorize installation where their trained heating engineers cannot safely guarantee to operate efficiently in your home, their decision being made after careful study of conditions in your home—no guess work—thus protecting all concerned.
- 7 That the purchase will increase the value of your property more than the amount invested.

Mother's Cook Book

They say there are no such things as fairies, or that there are fairies no longer, but they know not what they say. The original of the fairies and by poets was found, and is still, among those amiable mortals who knead bread with energy, mend pants with cheerfulness, nurse the sick with smiles, put witchery into a ribbon and genius into a stew—Charles Wagner.

Good Things for Occasions.
For a quick litchoon dish try this: Stir two tablespoons of butter and one tablespoonful of flour over the heat until well blended. When it bubbles, add half a can of tomatoes, or six fresh ones, chopped, liquor and all. Grate an onion into the mixture; season with pepper and salt and cook ten minutes. Have ready five or six eggs, well beaten; put them in at the last, stirring them in gradually. A minute's cooking finishes the dish. Serve at once.

Baked Squash, Coconut Stuffed.
Mix and pack the following into half of a cleaned, unpared squash: Three cupfuls of grated fresh bread-crumbs, one-half of a grated coconut, six green peppers shredded, three small onions chopped, one pint of celery chopped, one-fourth of a teaspoonful each of dry mint and sage—if fresh, one-half tablespoonful—one teaspoonful of salt, three eggs and a pint of milk. When the mixture is packed into the squash pour over a tablespoonful of melted butter and bake until the squash is tender, basting occasionally with butter and water.

Potatoes on the Half-Shell.
Take six good-sized, smooth potatoes, bake about an hour. When done, cut in two, lengthwise, and with a spoon carefully scoop out the potato into a bowl. Mash fine, adding butter and half a cupful of hot milk, salt and pepper to taste. Beat very light; add the well-beaten whites of two eggs, fold in and fill the shells with the potato. Brush with the egg yolk, and bake 15 minutes in a hot oven.

Orange Pie.
Take one cupful of sugar, four tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one egg and the yolks of two, one cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of soda and two teaspoonfuls of cream, of tartar, the juice of one orange, three cupfuls of flour. Bake in layers and put together with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with orange.

MINISTERS' PAY IS LESS THAN LABOR'S

PASTORS OF MICHIGAN CHURCHES DRAW LESS THAN $1000 A YEAR.

INTERCHURCH WORLD IS TO HELP THE SITUATION

Michigan ministers are paid an average of only $922 a year—and this in a period when the national government estimates that a family cannot be respectably maintained on less than $1,500.

When all income tax returns were equally complete at Detroit, John Gragan, Collector of Internal Revenue, declared that the names of many mechanics, factory workers, farmers, stenographers, railway men and other workers were on his lists, but he had so small a number of ministers that it was hardly appreciable.

One of the principal objects of the Interchurch World campaign, now being conducted by the leading Protestant denominations, is relief of the condition of ministers where it is needed. It is declared at Interchurch World headquarters that the minimum salary for ministers should be $1,000 a year.

The Interchurch World Movement, it should be understood, asks no money for itself. It is simply an instrument by which the denominations which become members of it are to conduct a united campaign. All the money which is raised by the various denominations will be retained by them; and the money which is obtained from the general un-church public will be divided pro rata.

By means of the united campaign, it is declared that a great saving can be made. In addition, the unity which is developed among the churches is held to be of the utmost advantage to the welfare of the whole Christian Kingdom.

The Interchurch World also will conduct a survey of the religious field of the entire world, and an attempt will be made by the various denominations to spend the money raised by the campaign in the most effective way for the welfare of Christianity in general.

STATE LEADERS NAMED FOR INTERCHURCH WORLD

- Denominational state and regional leaders for the Interchurch World Movement have been named in Michigan as follows:
- CONGREGATIONAL—R. R. Moore, St. Clair.
- METHODIST EPISCOPAL—Dr. J. G. Floyd, 418-6th St., Detroit, or 1829 Auburn Ave., Grand Rapids.

LAWYER BEST PAID, MINISTER THE WORST

Who is the most important man in the community? Narrowing the query, would you put the lawyer at the top of the list and the minister at the bottom?

This is how they rank in the matter of earning capacity, anyhow, according to some interesting statistics which have been collected by the American Education Department of the Interchurch World Movement to show how wretchedly underpaid religious workers are in these days of the high cost of living.

Occupation	Over $3,000	Over $5,000
Lawyers	1 in 5	1 in 9
Doctors	1 in 7 1/2	1 in 12
Engineers	1 in 9	1 in 12
Manufacturers	1 in 10	1 in 12
Architects	1 in 10	1 in 12
Merchants	1 in 22	1 in 33
Commercial Travelers	1 in 22	1 in 50
Ministers	1 in 100	1 in 250

ASK STORES' CLOSING ON GOOD FRIDAY P. M.

Business men throughout the country are being requested by the leaders of the Interchurch World Evangelistic campaign to close their places of business for one hour on Good Friday (April 3) for meditation and prayer to commemorate the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

It is proposed that on Good Friday, church leaders of all communions combine their efforts in their respective cities and towns to entice the interest of men and women, not accustomed to go to church, to think seriously of their relationship with God.

LITSCHER LITE

— is YOUR Farm Equipped With Combined Electric and Belt POWER?

Probably not, for, in spite of the fact that over Six Million American farmers need and want electric light for their homes, the farm light industry has not yet been able to supply even 2% of the tremendous demand.

We make and sell the Litscher Lite—equipment which has received national and foreign endorsement on account of its greater adaptability to farm power requirements. Our product is universally used, well advertised and favorably known. We are assured of a prominent position in an industry which ten years from now will rank in size with the other gas engine industries which twenty years ago were in our present position.
To insure our dominance in the near future, all we need is the production facilities which will enable us to fill the multiplying demand.

Each Litscher Lite plant sells many other Litscher Lite plants. The Litscher Lite has many advantages over other equipment which attempts to imitate its service; it operates electric lights, electric irons, electric washing machines, electric vacuum cleaners and belt driven churns, cream separators, fanning mills and pumps—all at the same time.
We are making our first public offer of Litscher Lite stock. We afford careful investors an opportunity to share in the success which our market, our production and our management assures. The officers and directors of our concern are men well known in Central Michigan for their connections with live prospering concerns.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to keep her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray-streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
