

Charlevoix County Herald.

Vol. 24

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, APRIL 23, 1920.

No. 17

High Prices or Food Shortage

Crisis if Legitimate Prices are Hammered Down

East Lansing, April 20.—"Every attempt to force down legitimate high prices of foods will ultimately result in reduced supply and higher prices," says C. W. Waid, extension specialist at the Michigan Agricultural College, and President of the Potato Association of America. "Consumers must learn that high food prices are absolutely necessary, so long as present conditions prevail."

Farmers realize that the laboring classes are entitled to reasonably high wages under present conditions, according to Mr. Waid, but they ask that the wage earner be made to realize that the demand for higher and higher wages will never solve the High Cost of Living. Every boost in wages to a large class of laboring men draws many men and boys from the farms, thus lowering the production of foodstuffs.

"Investigation shows that there are 25,000 less men working on the farms of New York state this season than in 1919, while Ohio finds a reduction of 10 percent in its farm labor supply. There will be nearly 1,000,000 acres less in crops in Ohio this year than last. Throughout the country the shortage of labor on the farms is much greater than it was at any time during the war. Thousands of farmers in Michigan will plant only such crops as they can care for and harvest with their own hands.

"If carried too far, the present boycott on potatoes may result in a potato shortage another year. The extreme prices being asked for potatoes at present are the result of a shortage greatly enhanced by lack of facilities to market the potatoes held by producers. The growers are not to blame for the present situation; in fact, because of inability to get potatoes to market they are profiting but little by the present high prices. While individuals should be encouraged to use the foods which are most abundant, the potato boycott is in danger of hitting the innocent and missing the guilty.

"Scarcity of labor and high price of seed will themselves have a very serious effect upon the acreage of potatoes planted this year, and if the growers have to fear boycotts the situation will become much worse. Consumers must realize that the only way to insure an adequate supply of foodstuffs for next year is to encourage the growers to plant as large acreages as possible. Insuring reasonably high prices (as far as is possible), and avoiding unjust prosecutions and boycotts are the only means of securing the large acreage needed."

$25.00 Reward

I will pay $25.00 to any party who can furnish evidence for the arrest and conviction of the originator of untrue statements regarding my selling shoes at $16.50 to a revenue man and being arrested. The party who originated said false statement will be prosecuted to full extent of the law.

H. ROSENTHAL.
East Jordan, Mich., Apr. 20th.

Profane Expression.

Do not think you are profane when you say that you "don't care a dam." The truth is that a dam was the small est Hindu coin at a time when the English were invading India, and the expression that one "didn't give a dam" naturally sprang up to mean that a matter was of next to no importance.

Snails as Barometers.

Snails make good barometers. When the snail crawls in the open weather will be fair, but when the snail takes to cover under a twig or a clump of grass rain will come.

"Devil's Dozen."

The saying "devil's dozen" means the same as "baker's dozen," but the origin differs. It "connotes" as the metaphysicians love to say, 13 loaves of bread instead of 12, and it sprang from the idiotically superstitious attempt to explain the baker's dozen which also was 13 loaves. This latter practice of giving 13 loaves was due to the drastic penalties in England for shortweighting, and to be safe the baker threw in the extra loaf.

RECEIVED CERTIFICATES FOR TYPEWRITING EFFICIENCY

The Underwood Typewriter Company sends out Typewriting Tests every month. This is done to raise the standard of typewriting efficiency. The Initial Certificate is awarded to those who write 40 or more net words a minute for ten minutes from the Underwood Typewriting Tests. Ten words are deducted for each error and only ten errors are allowed.

The following students have received their initial certificates:

Eleanor Harmon	48
Jennie Franseth	48
Elsie Johnson	47
Eleanor McBride	45
Leonora McCarry	44
Bessie Tousch	43
Alfhild Hastad	41

Eleanor McBride is entitled to the Special Credential Certificate having written 657 words in ten minutes without an error, making a total of 65.7 net words per minute.

The following students are working for the Special Credential Certificate.

Eleanor Harmon	56.6
Elsie Johnson	53.6
Alfhild Hastad	48.8
Jennie Franseth	48.2
Leonora McCarry	43.3

NOTICE

The Peoples Ice Co. of East Jordan will start their regular delivery to the private houses Monday, May 3rd. Prices for private homes $4.00 per month, in advance, payable on or before the 6th of each month. Prices for business places $8.00 per ton. Merchants will buy their coupon books in advance. Leave your orders at the Peoples State Bank.

PEOPLES ICE CO.

STUCK TO HIS CAR

Yankee Kept Long Vigil in Deep Baltic Snow.

Soldier Abandoned by British Officer When Auto Failed to Buck Drift.

Paris.—Richard Kelly of El Paso, Tex., one of the American doughboys recently recalled from duty in the Baltic country, now is in a hospital in Paris nursing frost bites and restoring lost tissue as the result of a lone vigil with his car in a Baltic snow-drift. During his tour of duty in the Baltic, Kelly was assigned to drive for a British officer one of the big yellow American cars, which, it is supposed, can go anywhere. One of the last things his superiors told Kelly was "stick to your car whatever happens."

What happened, was that during the drive in the rural districts near Riga, Kelly's machine, officer and all, became stalled in a snowdrift. No horsepower or ingenuity was able to budge it. The British officer with his adjutant fought their way to the nearest town for aid, leaving Kelly alone to buck the snowdrift. For some reason the officer failed to return.

Though Kelly might have surrendered and sought shelter, he remembered his instructions and gamely stuck. Night fell; so did more snow. No one came along the road and no twinkling light told of the nearness of human beings. Kelly, hungry and forlorn, curled himself up in the car and slept. While awake he soled himself with cigarettes.

He spent a second day in the same drift, determined to stick. That day a peasant came along in a sledge and towed Kelly to a nearby village and there he left the car, returning to his base by train, later passing through Berlin to Paris. Now he is spending his off hours looking for that "blamed" British officer.

Standard Weights and Measures.

The idea of adopting scientific measurements as a basis of a system of weights and measures, was suggested as early as the seventeenth century, particularly by the French astronomer, Jean Picard, who lived from 1629 to 1682. The system was worked out and taken up by the national assembly of France in 1790. It was adopted and its use made compulsory in 1801.

But One Way to Acquire Wealth.

Wealth is not acquired, as many persons suppose, by fortunate speculations and splendid enterprises, but by the daily practice of industry, frugality and economy. He who relies upon these means will rarely be found destitute, and he who relies upon any other will generally become bankrupt.—Francis Wayland.

Commission Proceedings.

Regular meeting of the City Commission held at the commission rooms, Monday evening, April 19th, 1920.

Meeting was called to order by Mayor Wilson. Present: Wilson and Gidley. Absent: Porter.

Minutes of the last two meetings were read and approved.

Bills were presented for payment as follows:

E. J. Clay Products Co., brick	$ 5.25
E. W. Giles, cleaning streets	33.00
William Hurlbert, opening meter boxes	7.00

Mrs. St. Charles, cleaning library	2.50
City Treasurer, payment of labor	97.00
Mich. State Tel. Co., rentals	7.42

On motion by Gidley, the bills were allowed by an aye and nay vote as follows:

Ayes: Wilson and Gidley.
Nays: None.

On motion by Gidley, the Reid-Graff Plumbing Co. was awarded the contract for the construction of a sewer running north from Garfield street between Second and Third streets, at a cost of $103.00 and $45.00 each for manholes, the aye and nay vote being as follows:

Ayes: Wilson and Gidley.
Nays: None.

On motion by Gidley, meeting was adjourned.

OTIS J. SMITH,
City Clerk.

Laugh a little less at your neighbor's troubles and a little more at your own.

MRS. NATHAN GRIFFITH PASSED AWAY

Mrs. Ethel May Pollitt was born in Bellaire, Antrim County, May 29th, 1892, her parents being Mr. and Mrs. Edson Pollitt, and passed away in East Jordan April 13, 1920, at the age of 28 years, 11 months. She had been ill for some two years with sugar diabetes. She was united in marriage to Nathan Griffith April 29th, 1911. Three children were born to them—Esther, age 7 years, Ruth, age 5 years, and Robert who passed away. She is survived by the above two children, her husband, her parents, two brothers, Ralph at home and Will of Atlanta, Ga., and one sister, Mrs. Hazel Gartrell of Howell, Mich.

Funeral services were held from the Pollet farm in Echo township, Friday afternoon, April 16th, conducted by Rev. John Duncan. Interment at Central Lake.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation of the many acts of kindness extended us by friends during the illness and death of our wife, daughter, and sister.

Nathan Griffith
Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pollitt
Mrs. Hazel Gartrell
Ralph Pollitt

What the political leaders are trying to discover now is an issue that will not cut both ways.

FILIPINOS WANT AMERICA TO GIVE INDEPENDENCE

Maximo M. Kalaw Declares U. S. Cannot Consistently Refuse "Self-Determination."

By MAXIMO M. KALAW,
Secretary of the Philippine Mission, Author "The Case for the Philippines," "Self-Government in the Philippines," etc.

"When they show sufficient capacity," "When they are able to govern themselves," "When they are educated enough." These run the answers of many Americans pressed with the question as to when the Filipinos should be granted their independence. Now, "ability," "capacity," and "sufficient education"—What do they mean in black and white?

Senator Shugart may think no people is capable of self-government that does not establish the judicial recall, or that has no Billy Sunday. John Smith of Somerville may think no people is capable of self-government that does not vote his democratic ticket, or go to church on Sundays.

"Capacity for self-government" is as broad and elastic as the world, and if that should be the criterion for the granting of Philippine independence, America might as well say to the Filipinos, "I will give you independence when it pleases me to do so."

Fortunately, the American promise to the Philippines is not based on such obscure and abstract conditions. It is based on a definite, measurable thing. When America, through her Congress, officially told the Filipino people that they would be granted their independence as soon as they could establish a stable government, no abstract or obscure condition was meant. Stable government, according to American usage, means a certain, definite thing.

The United States promised the Cubans the same thing, that "when they have established a stable government, then American troops would be withdrawn." As soon as the Cuban people elected a government suited to themselves, capable of maintaining order and fulfilling all international obligations, there was a stable government in Cuba, and American troops were withdrawn.

When Congress passed the Jones law, it simply borrowed the phrase "stable government" from the Cuban history and applied it to the Philippines. The history of Philippine legislation shows that in black and white, the Filipino people accepted the Jones law and immediately began setting up the stable government required by Congress as a pre-requisite to independence. The stable government is now a fact. It is indeed more than that; it is an undisputed fact.

The official representative of the United States in the Philippine Islands, the Governor General, reported to the American Congress and the administration that "the Filipino people have established the stable government demanded by Congress as a pre-requisite for the granting of independence—namely, a government elected by the suffrage of the people, which is supported by the people, which is capable of maintaining order and of fulfilling its international obligations."

The Philippine question is therefore no longer a question of politics, argument or supposition. The Philippine mind, at least, it is now a question of whether the United States is ready to discharge its own obligations fully and completely. America went before the world in the recent war as the avowed champion of "self-determination" and Filipinos cannot see how America can consistently refuse to act.

The Filipino people, however, have no grudge or grievance against the American people. There is a message of friendship and gratitude. They seek independence as the natural and logical outcome of America's policy in the islands and of America's solemn promise to them. They come willing to give privileges and concessions not incompatible with their national welfare.

The Filipino people are willing to accept independence under any of the following conditions: Under a League of Nations, guaranteeing its territorial integrity; under the protectorateship of the United States for the first few years; under a treaty of neutrality between the United States, England, Japan, France and other powers, or even without any condition whatever—also full and complete independence. They have no fear of Japan. Philippine independence, in our opinion, is not inimical to Japanese interests. The Japanese are now free to come to the Philippines, but at the present time there are less than 10,000 Japanese in the islands. There are six times as many Japanese in California as there are in the entire Philippine Archipelago.

The Filipinos are willing to take their chance as a nation. Smaller nations beset by graver problems and dangers have taken a more hazardous chance at freedom, and have succeeded.

Parochial Bill Is Attacked

Catholic Prelate Brands Amendment Travesty on Democracy

Challenging the authors of the proposed anti-parochial school amendment to produce proof "that the Catholic parochial schools are not 100 per cent American, as efficient as the public schools in secular education and unique as a bulwark against the forces of disorder which threaten the foundation of the government today," Bishop Edward D. Kelley, of the Grand Rapids Roman Catholic diocese, in a diocesan letter, attacked the Wayne Civil society and the supporters of the bill which would abolish parochial and private schools, and called upon the voters of the state to defeat the bill as un-American.

The letter, read in all churches of the diocese at all masses, reads in part as follows:

The passage of the proposed amendment would mean a death warrant to constitutional rights and a travesty on democratic government. We are slow to believe that the enactment of this measure is possible, where education and enlightenment have at all obtained. The common-sense and the patriotism of the vast majority of our non-Catholic brethren can surely be depended upon to rebuke the bigoted element which has recorded itself as willing to prostitute the principles of liberty to the furtherance of unreasoning prejudice to sell the constitution for a mess of pottage.

"Here indeed is a case of wanton assault upon the rights of citizenship. Were the Catholic schools of Michigan, against which the measure is primarily directed, not proven by every standard of education and citizenship; were they failing in the thoroughness of their Americanism; were they lacking in any qualification desired in those institutions which cradle the hopes of the America of tomorrow, the amendment would be intelligible on the ground of public policy. But there is no such refuge.

"We challenge the author of this scheme with the high educational standard achieved by our schools; we challenge them with the records of the army essay contest as published in the daily press recently; we challenge them with the record of patriotic services rendered; we challenge them with the names of the bravest and the most devoted and the most brilliant among the men and women who fought America's fight for democracy; we challenge them with the records of the heroic soldiers who died for liberty at Chateau Thierry and in the Argonne. Because they dare not accept our challenge we brand their much touted one hundred per cent Americanism as one hundred per cent self-interest and venom, and we look to the voters of the state to rebuke those men who seem to value so lightly their own liberties that they are willing to betray the liberty of their neighbors.

"The amendment in question may be styled an act to proscrib the Catholic religion. Its intent is to rob the little ones of their most treasured possession; it means the assumption on the part of the state of parental duties which, before God, cannot be yielded; it means that Catholic parents are to be legally prevented from fulfilling their most solemn obligation towards their children and towards Almighty God.

"No majority is empowered to abrogate a Divine law, or destroy a natural right. Coercion is a sinister word; it does not breathe of the spirit of democracy; it ill harmonizes with the idea of liberty; and when coercion is directed against the mandate of religion, when it invades the sacred precincts of conscience, it becomes odious beyond the bounds of sufferance."

The average married man can't understand how Carnegie managed to save so much money.

Just because a restaurant is in the basement is no reason for supposing that the price will be any lower.

The STRANGE CASE OF CAVENDISH BY RANDALL PARRISH
"THE DEVIL'S OWN" "MY LADY OF THE NORTH" ETC.
COPYRIGHT BY RANDALL PARRISH.

Dash! Romance! Mystery!

Begins with a baffling crime in New York's most fashionable section and shifts immediately to one of the wildest of mining camps.

Introduces a new heroine into fiction—the newspaperwoman.

Concerns largely the adventures of Stella Donovan, reporter, and her successful unraveling of a strange mystery. Proves that a woman and a woman's wit may frequently penetrate where a man would be helpless. A blending of East and West, with the real spirit of both localities.

OUR NEW SERIAL!

Peoples' Wants

MUNNIMAKERS
Notices of Lost, Wanted, For Sale, For Rent, etc., in this column is 25 cents for one insertion for 25 words or less. Initials count as one word and compound words count as two words. Above this number of words a charge of one cent a word will be made for the first insertion and one-half cent for subsequent insertions, with a minimum charge of 15 cents.

Help Wanted

WANTED—First Class Molder for General Grey Iron Foundry. Wire or Write J. B. LUND'S SONS, Cheboygan, Michigan. 17tf.

WANTED—Salesman for East Jordan and vicinity. Commission contract only, for spare time or full time. We will teach you to sell income protection through our free school of instruction and help you build a business of your own. Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company, Accident and Health Dept. Saginaw, Michigan, Capital $1,500,000. 16-3

WANTED—Women between 18 and 40 years of age to work in packing, shipping and manufacturing departments. Experience unnecessary and work not difficult but applicant must be in good health and willing to learn. Give height, weight and age in your application. Pay beginners $15.00 per week. Work 50 hours per week. Also have permanent places for experienced cut off sawyers and rip-sawyers. Sligh Furniture Company, Grand Rapids, Mich. 16-3

Lost and Found

LOST—Double Tire Carrier with two Ford tires on the Marion-Barnard-Norwood, the Norwood-Charlevoix, or Charlevoix-East Jordan roads. Will finder please notify HERALD OFFICE, and receive reward. 17tf.

DOG LOST—Black and tan dog somewhere near East Jordan. Will finder please notify JOHN LEWIS, Boyne City, Mich. Reward. 17-2

For Sale—Real Estate

WILL TRADE FARM for City Property.—For information inquire of R. O. Bisbee at Peoples State Savings Bank. 17tf.

FOR SALE—Seven-room house, good barn, good water, fruit trees and shrubbery bearing. Eight acres land. For terms see H. A. Goodman. 17tf.

FOR SALE—The former Blaine Harrington residence on the West Side. For particulars see ROBERT PROCTOR, Licensed Real Estate Agent. 15-4

FOR SALE—Forty Acres Land just outside city limits. About half under cultivation, balance good pasture land. Also Five Acres with Dwelling and Barn in city limits on Boyne Falls road. For information inquire of JAMES ROSS, East Jordan. 10-1f.

FARM FOR SALE—80 acres; 40 acres cleared; good house and out buildings; good orchard; located one mile from State Award road, four miles from East Jordan. Will accept small payment down balance on easy terms. Apply to R. O. Bisbee, Peoples State Savings Bank Bldg., East Jordan, Michigan. 16-1f

FOR SALE—Small House on easy terms. STROEBEL BROS. 15tf

FOR SALE—My residence together with about eight acres of land. For price and terms apply to residence of JACOB QUICK. 14-6

FOR SALE—On Maple-st., East Jordan, Seven Acres Good Land with Good Buildings. Get price and terms of J. A. NICKLESS. Also Dray Wagon. 10-1f.

WHY PAY—$100 for a 50 foot lot when you can buy an acre in the east end of town for $200? See H. A. Goodman.

FOR SALE CHEAP—Five room House and two Lots, good location. Inquire of Mrs. Richard Barnett, Third Street. 9-8

WEST SIDE PROPERTY FOR SALE—An attractive home, good location, 8 room house, basement, woodshed, city and well water, barn, three lots are included with this. Price $1300. Terms easy.

6 room house and three lots, a porch across the front and side, cement basement, water inside and out, stable, shade trees, near school house. Price $800. Terms easy.

4 room house, porch, woodshed, electric lights, sewer, near new factory and school. Price $400. Terms easy.

6 room house, stone foundation, cellar, drive well at door, 4 lots, chicken house and park, barn, eleven cherry trees, 3 apple trees, small fruit, strawberries and raspberries, near school. Price $1200. Terms easy.

E. A. LEWIS, Dealer in Real Estate.

For Sale—Miscellaneous

Singer Sewing Machines are the best in quality, the lightest to run, and the easiest to pay for. $5.00 down and $3.00 per month until paid for.—E. A. LEWIS.

FOR SALE—Pair of heavy work Horses, weight 3000 lbs. Work Harness, Blankets, etc.—CHAS. COYKEN-DALL. 13tf.

FOR SALE—Economy King Cream Separator, 5 Gal. Barrel Churn in good repair. Also a One Horse Wagon and Single Buggy. Inquire of JOHN LIGHT. 14-4

OVERLAND CAR—35 h. p. Overland 4 passenger Touring Car in good condition. Completely equipped with cord tires. Inquire at East Jordan Lumber Co. Office. 13-3

Bring Your Laundry Work to Monroe's Segar Store.—Agency for Petoskey Laundry. 13

Source of Tears.

"Where do tears come from?" In each eye there is a small duct called the tear duct. This little gland is constantly making tears and washing the eye. The eye "winkers" are the brushes that wash the particles of dust away from the delicate portions of the eye. When we cry the tear gland "works overtime" sending one tear chasing another, like rain drops on the window pane.

New Lamp for Bicycle.
A new electric bicycle lamp is to be carried low on the front fork has a red jewel in the back to make it serve as a rear light as well.

GLASSES FITTED

CONSULT

J. LEAHY

Optometrist

Expert on Eye Strain

Headache, Dizziness, Nervousness, and all other symptoms of Eye Strain cured.

Crossed Eyes Straightened Without an Operation.

Fitting Children's Eyes a Specialty.

Difficult Cases Solicited.

Glasses Guaranteed to Fit.

Will Be at the Russell House MONDAY and TUESDAY May 3rd and 4th Home Office, Petoskey, Mich.

CHARLEVOIX CO. HERALD

G. A. LISK, Publisher
Subscription Rate, $1.50 per year.

Published at the postoffice at East Jordan Michigan, a second class mail matter.

Punctuality Valuable Asset.

Many of young men have failed of promotion or lost good positions because of the lack of punctuality. There is no more desirable business qualification than this and no other so indispensable to a man of affairs, or to any one who would save his own time and that of others. "If a man has no regard for the time of other men," said Horace Greeley, "why should he have for their money? What is the difference between taking a man's hour and taking his $5? There are many men to whom each hour of the business day is worth many times $5."—Chicago Daily News.

Sandpaper Label.

A device for protecting people from taking doses from poison bottles by mistake is a sandpaper label. The ordinary label is pasted in a piece of sandpaper large enough to go all around the bottle, so that when any one takes up the bottle in the night, no matter how dazed from sleep he may be, the rough, unfamiliar feel of the sandpaper rouses him and he recognizes at once that the bottle contains poison of some description. The printed label tells the kind of poison in the bottle.

Lovers' Communication.

When the petals of the great laurel magnolia are touched, however lightly, the result is a brown spot, which develops in a few hours. This fact is taken advantage of by the South American lover, who pulls a magnolia flower, and on one of its pure white petals writes a motto or message. Then he sends the flower, the young lady puts it in a vase of water and in three or four hours the message written on the leaf becomes perfectly visible, and remains so.

Uplift Through Science.

It is the application of science to the work that helps the worker. The social reformer cheers but does not invigorate. As Prof. Milliken well said not long ago: "One little new advance like the discovery of ductile tungsten which makes electric light one-third as expensive as it was before, is a larger contribution to human well being than all kinds of changes in the social order."—Samuel Crowther in the World's Work.

Beware of Lost Minutes.

"In the dynamics of human affairs," said a learned man, "two qualities are essential to greatness—power and promptitude. The former is often the fruit of the latter. A man or woman who is impressed with the value of time will make every minute count to such purpose that his or her life will inevitably bear the stamp of power."—Orison Swett Marden in Chicago Daily News.

A Ventilation Test.

Mrs. Newlywed was speaking proudly to her caller of their new house, and told of its having hollow block construction, thus insuring plenty of ventilation. "I don't think your modern dwelling has anything on our old-fashioned frame house in that respect," returned her caller. "Every night we lock the cat in the cellar and let her out of the attic in the morning."—Boston Transcript.

Scotch for Tough.

Stopping at the same boarding house as myself was a young Scotsman, who was annoyed at every meal by the landlady inquiring as to the name in Scottish of the various articles on the table. On this particular day she passed the meat to him saying, "What would you call that in Scotland?" He tried it gingerly with his fork then looked up seriously and replied, "Leather."—Exchange.

Grandpa's Peculiar Power.

During a slight drought last summer the boys were wishing for rain, when Willie said: "My grandpa can make it rain whenever he wants to." His companions laughed at him, but he insisted: "Well, he can. He just gets rheumatism in his knees and it rains right afterward."

No Fear of Phosphate Famine.

Reserves of phosphate on the island of Nauru, in the Pacific, are believed to be sufficient to meet the demands of the world for 200 years. Anything from 80,000,000 to 100,000,000 tons are available, and possibly more.

SULPHUR SOOTHES UGLY, ITCHING SKIN

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, never fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

Privacy.

"Living without privacy," said an observant woman the other day, "is one must in an apartment or boarding house, leads us to nervous shipwreck. We feel the strain of too close contact with the other members of our family and with our neighbors. But we do not know what the trouble is. We feel that something is wrong with the place we are living in and we move. We simply move from one box to another. What we need is more room—room enough for privacy—room enough to be alone."

Origin of the Hun.

The word "Hun" was first applied to a horde of savages, who, in the fourth century of the Christian era came into Europe from Central Asia, and under the command of Attila began to desolate the Roman empire, its colonies and dependencies. The word is an abbreviation of the Low Latin word "Hunin," meaning the Hiong-nu-Hu-egnou people, who, according to Chinese annals, constituted about the end of the third century B. C., a powerful empire in Central Asia.

Old Friend Returns.

Our old celluloid collar friend has been exhumed again, this time by Raphael. "He wears sleeve garters; uses a mustache coffee cup, a cigar cutter and a change purse; his name, in gold letters, is old English on his shaving mug; and he carries his watch in a chamolis bag."—New York Tribune.

WATER TAX NOTICE

Water taxes for the quarter ending March 30th is now due and payable at my office over the Hite Drug Store. If not paid by April 30th 10 per cent penalty will be added.

G. E. BOSWELL, City Treasurer.

NOTICE

State Examination for the teachers of Charlevoix County will be held in the Court-room in Charlevoix, April 29 and 30 and May 1, 1920, work beginning at 9:00 each morning, Eastern Standard time.

Certificates of all grades, issued; papers furnished. For particulars write Commissioner of Schools. MAY L. STEWART, Commissioner of Schools.

OWING TO THE PURCHASE OF THE CHARLEVOIX COAL AND WOOD COMPANY

WE HAVE FOR SALE:

- Two Teams with Harness
- One Wagon
- One Sleigh
- Two Platform Scales
- One Wagon Scales--Pitless
- One Ford Truck

ALL TO BE SEEN AT OUR CHARLEVOIX PLANT

BANKABLE PAPER WILL BE ACCEPTED FOR THE ABOVE.

Argo Milling Co.

Pantry Convenience.

In a dim light the tack or nail or which an article is hung in the pantry is nearly invisible against dark wood work; but is at once made conspicuous if the tack be driven through a white pasteboard disk.

HIGH PRICES MAY CAUSE ILLNESS.

At this season of the year when fresh vegetables are so high many persons suffer from deranged digestion. If you feel dull and sluggish, or if you suspect indigestion or constipation you will feel better tomorrow if you take a Foley Cathartic Tablet tonight. They banish biliousness and headache. Hite's Drug Store.—ady.

Edward Thorsen

R. F. D. 3 East Jordan, Mich.
BREEDER AND IMPORTER OF PURE BRED O. I. C. Swine.

New Coat and Suit styles That Breathe the Spirit of Spring

The season's prettiest styles finds fullest expression in this unusually attractive and complete assemblage of new styles, reasonably priced.

This premier showing adds another garment to our long established and enviable reputation for beautiful Spring Garments. In the display you will see the latest ideas of the reliable

"THE Palmer GARMENT"

—styles and materials that are exceptionally attractive, superb in quality and exclusive in design.

POLO COATS

The great rage—ready for your immediate selection. No wonder they are so popular for it has been many a day since there has been created a style more practical, so smart and extremely becoming.

East Jordan Lumber Co.

Bell-Wether to the Rubber Flock

It's the same old story—some one comes along with a distinctive, out-of-the-ordinary, classy product, and immediately there is a long line of trailers.

A few months ago Goodrich brought out the

GOODRICH BLACK SAFETY TREAD TIRE

They call it the "Barefoot Tire," because it clings to the pavement—doesn't slip—in fact you might call it a give and take tire that will not fight the road and wear itself out like hard unyielding rubber does.

Come in and let us tell you more about this

Bell-Wether to the Rubber Flock

For Sale By STROEBEL BROS.

The House of Whispers

WILLIAM JOHNSTON

Illustrations by IRWIN MYERS

Copyright by Little, Brown & Co.

(Continued)

When the morning of my trial actually arrived I entered the courtroom in a state of dull apathy. The night before I had not slept at all. I had spent all the black hours reviewing my life, especially the last year, thinking with what high hopes and great expectations I had come to the metropolis and how miserably everything had turned out for me. Step by step I had reviewed the events that had brought me, discredited, all but friendless, all but penniless, into this dismal courtroom accused of a horrible, cowardly deed, seeking to see wherein I might have altered my recent actions or changed the course of my life to avoid having arrived at this shameful goal. Yet, strange to say, I found myself after mature reflection convinced that had I this last year to live over again not in one iota would I have done differently—no, not even if I could have foretold what the future had in store for me.

No sense of shame nor of guilt possessed me. I was aware of having done wrong to no one. A clear conscience kept assuring me that it was misfortune and not error on my part that had brought me here. At every point in the strange chain of circumstances I felt that I had acted as a man of honor should have acted. My sense of innocence upheld me even though the deliberate malicious plotting of evil men might make it appear to the judge, to the jurors, to the whole world that I was a murderer. Even though I should be sentenced to death for killing a woman I never had seen the knowledge that at every point I had done what I still believed to have been right, brought me strong comfort and filled me with new courage.

Yet it was with lack of interest that I listened to the monotonous questioning that formed a part of the selection of a jury.

"So far as I am concerned," I had said to my counsel in our last chat, "any sort of a jury will do. Unless we succeed in upsetting the evidence against me with a crash that all the world can hear it makes no difference."

"I guess you are right," he answered, despondently. It seemed to me, "and if the worst happens, we always can take an appeal."

His reply convinced me that he, too, was anticipating the result, which I long ago had decided to be the only outcome, unless something unforeseen happened—a verdict against me of murder in the first degree.

I heard, almost with amusement, the district attorney, with eloquent oratory, tell the jury the crimes he expected to prove against me, even smiling a little at the picture he painted of a gangster seeking employment in an apartment occupied by families of wealth that he might find opportunities for plundering them, and when he was surprised in the midst of his burglarizing, brutally choking the unprotected woman whose home he was despoiling and then as she lay there, helpless and insensible, shooting her through the heart.

In fact, I quite agreed with all he said, even to his most strenuous adjectives—except for the one fact—that I knew I was not the man he was talking about. It had been a brutal, cowardly murder, and I was fully as anxious as the district attorney could possibly be to see the miscreant who had killed Miss Lutan brought to book.

The testimony that was to come, I devoutly hoped, would give some clue that would lead to the unmasking of the real murderer. The first witness called was one of the detectives who had arrested me. He told conclusively, as though repeating a well rehearsed story, of having been summoned to the Granddeck and finding there the body of Daisy Lutan. He said that she had been shot through the heart.

"Was there anyone in the apartment when you arrived?"

"Yes, a doctor."

"Anyone else?"

"Yes, Mr. Wick, the superintendent of the apartment, and the prisoner."

"What did they say? How did they explain their presence there?"

"They said they had heard a shot and had come in to investigate."

He told of examining the body, questioning the physician and of making a search of the apartment for the murderer, but finding no one else there.

"What did you do then?"

"My partner and I followed the prisoner to his apartment and placed him under arrest. We searched his room and in the dresser I found a revolver with one chamber recently discharged."

"What made you suspect Nelson?"

Why did you arrest him?"

"My partner and I talked it over, and we both were of the opinion that it was an inside job. A burglar would have no chance to get into a building, like the Granddeck and make his getaway. It was between the superintendent of the building, who was a man of responsibility, and this young fellow—who was only a caretaker."

"Had anything in Nelson's actions made you suspicious of him?"

"I noticed that he was greatly excited."

"Anything else?"

"After Nelson had gone upstairs to his own apartment, I questioned Mr. Wick. He said he had been in the elevator when he heard the shot. He had gotten out at the fifth floor, where it seemed to have come from. At the door of Miss Lutan's apartment he had found the prisoner."

"That's all," said the district attorney triumphantly.

My attorney waived cross-examination. The second detective was put on the stand and corroborated his partner's evidence in every respect. Both of them told of finding blood on my coat. The physician whom Wick had summoned gave a somewhat technical description of the bullet wound and the prosecution put in evidence the bullet extracted from the body and the revolver the detectives had found, pointing out that they were of the same caliber.

"Call Mr. Wick," said the district attorney.

I leaned forward to listen to every word of Wick's testimony. In fact from the moment he was brought in I never took my eyes from him. It

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

The prosecutor waved his hand to the jury as if to say, "You see, gentlemen," and followed on with another question.

"Was the defendant's conduct in the building in any other way such as to arouse your suspicion?"

"He had hardly got located before he began buzzing the telephone girl, asking her all kinds of questions about the other tenants in the building. He kept trying to get her to go out to dinner with him."

"Did she go?"

"Yes, she did. She reported his actions to me, and I suggested that she go with him and try to find out what his name was."

"What else do you know about the defendant?"

"That's all—except—"

"Except what?"

"What I saw on the night Miss Lutan was murdered."

"Tell the circumstances."

"I was in the elevator coming down from the top floor. I heard the sound of a shot. It seemed to come from the fifth floor. I got off there to investigate. As the door of the Lutan apartment stood Mr. Nelson."

"What was he doing there?"

"Just standing there. It looked to me as if he had just been coming out and that when he saw me he had stopped suddenly."

"What was his manner? Describe the position in which he was standing to the jury." Again there was in the district attorney's voice a triumphant ring.

"He was all excited and trembly-like," Mr. Wick went on, "and his eyes seemed to be bulging out of his head."

"What did he say?"

"I asked him if he had heard a shot and he said that he had. I asked if it had not come from the Lutan apartment and he said that it had seemed so to him. I wanted to keep my eye on him, so I took out my pass-key and suggested that we investigate together. He did not seem at all anxious to go back into the apartment with me, but the elevator man was standing there, so he came along and was with me when I found the body. I kept him there until the police came."

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected that my counsel would offer objections to Wick's testimony, especially to his having said that I did not appear anxious to 'go back' into the apartment, but McGregor contented himself with two questions.

"Do you not know that Mr. Spalding Nelson is a grand-nephew of Mr. Rufus Gaston? Did not Mr. Gaston tell you of this relationship?"

"He did not," I lied Wick calmly.

"How was Mr. Nelson first standing when you got out of the elevator when you first saw him?"

I recalled my attitude distinctly. I had been standing facing the door, straining my ears to catch any sound in the apartment. When I heard the elevator stopping, I had looked around over my shoulder as Wick emerged.

"He was standing," said Wick, of his own accord, speaking direct to the jurors. "with his back against the door. One hand—his right hand—was behind him. I thought at first he might have a revolver in it and drew one I always carry, but he had not. It looked as if he had just slipped out of the door and was reaching behind him to close it when I discovered him."

"That will be all," said my counsel, to my great disappointment. Throughout the mixed medley of truth and lies that Wick had been telling, there had been manifest to me his deliberate purpose to discredit me and cast suspicion on me. I felt certain that an able lawyer could quickly have riddled his testimony, but McGregor showed no disposition to take advantage of his opportunity.

Nellie Kelly was called. Briefly she told of her job—switchboard operator at the Granddeck. She corroborated Wick's story of my first arrival at the Granddeck and bore out his statements about my having chatted with her and also told of having gone to dinner with me. When I had begun questioning her about other tenants, she said, she excused herself and went to the telephone and called up the Granddeck for advice as to how she should answer. For some reason, she said, when she returned after phoning, the defendant had not questioned her further but had seemed anxious to get away from the restaurant.

"Yes, say," said McGregor, as he began her cross-examination, "that

"I had expected

"The House of Whispers"

(Continued from Page Three)

voice in addressing her no longer was harsh and sarcastic but merely suave and impelling—"you have testified here as a witness against Mr. Spalding Nelson, accused of having murdered Daisy Lutan, have you not?"

"I have," she answered, looking at him steadily in the eye, but speaking with a slight tremor in her tones. "I wondered to what it might be due. Was it because she feared the consequences of the revelation as to her identity, or was it that she feared she might be trapped by his questions?"

"Now tell me, Mrs. Moore, he shot at her explosively, 'who really murdered Daisy Lutan?'"

"Henry Kent," she answered quickly, before the district attorney had time to stop her.

"What's this?" exclaimed the judge. "What did you say?"

"Object object!" vociferated the district attorney, striving in vain to catch the attention of the judge presiding. McGregor, apparently well satisfied with the results of his question, stood there, smiling assurance at me.

"Young woman," directed the judge, "will you kindly repeat your last statement—louder. Who did you say killed Daisy Lutan?"

The girl turned to face the judge. Her lips were set as if she had determined to carry out some fixed plan, cost what it might.

"Daisy Lutan," she repeated, "was murdered by Henry Kent, who owns the Granddeck. He's really Orville Granders, the bank president who got away with eight hundred thousand dollars and was sent up for seventeen years."

There was a commotion in the rear of the courtroom. A dapper little old gentleman with neatly trimmed white whiskers rose hastily and made a dash for the door. Gorman, who had been sitting behind him, sprang after him and pincioned him by the arms:

"Nothing doing, Granders. I've got you."

Wick, sitting up near the counsel table, at the same time showed evidence that he, too, was contemplating hasty flight, but a husky chap whom I suspected of being one of Gorman's aides, seized him, too.

"Your honor," cried my counsel, "I demand the issuance of warrants at once for Orville Granders, alias Henry Kent, and his confederate, James Wilson, alias James Wick and 'Stuffy Jim,' on the charge of having murdered Daisy Lutan and Rufus Gaston. I further urge the immediate release of my client, Mr. Spalding Nelson, in my custody. Testimony that we already have obtained will establish that he was an innocent victim of the dastardly plots of these two ex-convicts."

The reaction that came from this sudden clearing of my name left me in a puzzled daze from which I hardly recovered until late that evening, when, once more free, I found myself in the Gaston apartment. Granders, his tool, Wick, and practically every employee of the Granddeck were under arrest, and warrants were out for other members of the band whose identity had been revealed by the former telephone girl.

And there in the apartment with me were my mother, Gorman, McGregor—and to my surprise and delight, Barbara Bradford. After her sister's wedding, it appeared, Barbara's mother had gone away for a brief rest, leaving her alone in the apartment with the servants. She had welcomed the opportunity to work undisturbed on the mystery that had landed me behind the bars. Thinking that at Rufus Gaston's funeral she might pick up some clue that would be of service in unraveling the tangled skein that held her and me together, she had gone thither, and seeing my mother there, and suspecting at once who she might be, had introduced herself. Quickly they had become good friends and she it was who had informed my mother of my plight.

Present also with us, despite the lateness of the hour, was the district attorney and two of his aides, and Nellie Kelly, or as she much preferred to be called, Mrs. Moore. The girl was technically a prisoner, but her services in bringing the real criminals to book had been so exceptional that she had been released on her own recognizance. Hither she had been brought that the district attorney might check up with her the marvelous tale of criminal conspiracy that she had unfolded to my counsel in the brief recess of the court that day.

Orville Granders, it appeared, had been the master-mind that had directed all the plotting. A score of years before he had been president of one of the metropolis' biggest banks. He had been discovered to have embezzled nearly a million dollars. He had been tried and sentenced to seventeen years' imprisonment, but no one ever had been able to find what he had done with the money, so safely had he hidden it away.

In his long years in prison, associating daily with criminals of the worst sort and listening to their plans for further crime on their release, his own criminal instincts, already developed, had grown stronger, and he had spent his time planning a new system of crime of which he was to be the head, using as his confederates certain evildoers with whom he had become acquainted in prison. When he had been released he had slipped quietly away to the West and lived in close retirement until he had been forgotten. The white whiskers he had grown so changed his appearance, too, that he had little fear of being recognized. Recovering such part of the stolen money as was left to him, he had come to New York in the guise of a prosperous Western investor and, purchasing a plot of land, had erected the Granddeck apartments, designed for the occupancy of the wealthiest class of tenants.

In this building, sitting like a little white spider in his web, he planned to prey secretly on all who came to live there. Every attendant in the building was either a criminal or an associate of criminals, reporting to him daily all that went on, and obeying his orders—implicitly. A special switchboard in his apartment enabled him to listen in at will on all telephone conversations that went on. Every letter delivered at the Granddeck went through his hands before reaching the tenants. For every wall safe in the building he held a master combination

He Had Built a Secret Passageway, and his pass-key would unlock every door there was. And in addition to this—

HE HAD BUILT A SECRET PASSAGEWAY.

We found it that night and explored it, familiarizing ourselves with all its exits, greatly to the amazement and confounding of Gorman. Connecting with the service elevator by a masked opening, it ran along the hall of each apartment, with entrances concealed in wall panels. It enabled Granders to wander at will through the apartments at night, leaving mysterious notes to terrify his tenants, prying into the secrets hidden in their wall safes, listening when he chose to their most private conversations, examining the contents of their pockets. As he had planned from the beginning, he gained in this way much information that he was able to utilize to his financial profit without arousing suspicion. He had discovered, Mrs. Moore said, secret stock market movements one of his tenants was planning and had made a small fortune out of the advance information. Several injudicious women he had successfully blackmailed, turning over to agents who never came near the Granddeck the secrets he learned from letters he opened and telephone conversations he had listened to.

In the case of Rufus Gaston, he had plotted to steal the Gaston pearls. Mrs. Moore explained, first terrifying the old couple into leaving the apartment, the whispers that had been heard coming of course from the secret passageway.

"But I can't understand," I said, "why, after he had once got hold of the pearls in Mr. Gaston's absence, he should have restored them to their hiding place."

"He had a duplicate made of phony pearls," explained Mrs. Moore. "It was part of his plan not to have any of the tenants discover the thefts for a long time after they occurred."

"If he was so cautious," said the district attorney, "I am puzzled as to why he killed Miss Lutan and Mr. Gaston. He must have realized that both murders would be thoroughly investigated."

"Both were accidents, so to speak," the girl explained. "Each of them surprised him in their apartment, and he had to kill them to make his getaway. I suppose he had been roaming around so much he had got careless."

"How about the revolver?" asked Gorman. "How did he come to plant it in Nelson's room?"

"He was puzzled by Mr. Nelson butting in on the Bradford case, and it made him sore. I heard him and Wick talking about it one day, and he said that he'd teach Mr. Nelson not to interfere. 'How?' asked Wick. 'I'll frame him for the goat if anything happens.'"

"And was it he who had me discharged from my office?" I asked, eagerly.

"Sure it was. He wrote a note on Mr. Gaston's stationery saying that you had forged a check after he had befriended you. He wrote in the letter that he was not going to prosecute you because of your mother, but that he felt that you were unworthy of employment anywhere."

"I believe," said the district attorney, "that that clears everything up, except for one thing—why, Mrs. Moore, did you aid him and Wick in all these crimes?"

"He promised that if I would help him he would get Eddie out," she cried. "I was desperate. I'd do anything to get my husband back."

Gorman and the district attorney exchanged meaning glances. While nothing more was said, I felt sure that they departed that both were thinking that this brave young woman who had solved the mystery for them certainly deserved some reward, and I think we all realized that the only reward life ever could hold for her was the freedom of her husband.

Presently they went and left us alone, Gorman, my mother, Barbara, and I.

"There are still two things I cannot understand," I said, as we sat talking it over. "The first is—and I turned to Barbara—"what was your sister doing in this apartment on the night of the first murder? When I came up from the Lutan apartment I caught her just coming out of my door. I could not help wondering if she had made her plant the revolver."

Barbara started up, blushing.

"Oh, no," she cried. "It was nothing like that. You remember a few moments before you and I had been in your room, looking at the secret passageway. Claire just then had come into my room looking for me. She was puzzled by my absence, and the only solution that came to her was that I must be in your rooms. Alarmed at what she considered my imprudence, she had slipped out into the hall, and seeing your door open, had investigated. Of course she did not find me, for I had returned by way of the window ledge. She told me about it the night before she was married. I don't wonder, though, that you suspected her."

"I didn't suspect her," I cried. "I just wondered what she had been doing there."

"That's right," said Gorman. "He wouldn't believe for a minute that she had had anything to do with it."

"But what puzzles me most," I went on, "is how you ever persuaded the telephone girl to give Granders away. It must have been done after she had given her first testimony. How did it happen that she changed so suddenly over to our side?"

As I looked from one to the other for an explanation, Gorman burst out laughing.

"You'll have to ask Miss Bradford about that," he said. "She did it all."

I turned again to look at Barbara, expecting her to speak, but she merely blushed and was silent.

"Go on, tell me," I urged her.

"Well," she said hesitatingly, "as I heard her testifying, I had an inspiration. I heard her say that she loved her husband, and that she did not care who knew it—and—and—all at once I realized that love was the strongest influence in the world, so I had Mr. McGregor ask for an adjournment, and then—"

She stopped in confusion, the rosy blushes once more mantling her cheeks.

"Go on," I insisted.

"I can't tell it," she cried.

"You must tell," I urged. "I have a right to know it. What did you do?"

"I managed to see her alone."

Again she hesitated.

"What did you say to her?" I demanded.

"I just told her," she faltered, lowering her eyes as she spoke, "that—that I loved you just as much as she loved her husband, and I begged her for love's sake not to help send you to the chair, and she broke down and told everything."

"Oh, Barbara, my Barbara!" I cried, springing up and clasping her arms. "If only I had something to offer you besides my love—"

"I wouldn't worry about that just now, Spalding," interrupted my mother's voice. "They found your great-uncle's will today. He made you his sole heir."

But Barbara and I hardly heeded her good news. We were too busy telling each other the world-old story.

[THE END.]

The Universal Color.

The professional mixer of paints knows that fierce color discord can easily be created by a misplacing on green. But Nature never misplaces it. Even blue stands without tinging, cheeks by cheek with Nature's greens. Lark spurs and lobellias go quietly arm in arm with their respective foliage. Any rose of any tint or color is best set off by a green rose leaf. Every spring of fall color, pale or florid, will shade pleasantly into green on the very same leaf.

COSTS MORE BUT PRICE IS SAME.

Foley's Honey and Tar is the original and genuine honey and tar cough medicine. It costs Foley & Co. more to make than it costs others to make mixtures of cheaper ingredients, but it costs you no more than the cheap mixture. Contains no opiates. Children like it. For coughs, colds, croup, Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Origin of Old Saying.

If you will read up on the theological controversy between Arius and Athanasius over the nature of the second person in the Trinity you will get the plausible origin of the saying "I don't care an iota." The one contended, using the Greek word, that Jesus was "homocousios," i. e., of the same nature as God, the other arguing that he was "homolousios," that is of similar nature. You will detect that the two Greek words differ only by an iota, the Greek name for their letter "I." So one tired of the riots in Byzantium and the prolonged discussions, contentedly said he did not care an iota.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Year's Growth of a Pine Tree.

Mr. Hill, lockmaster at Buckhorn, Ont., experimented with a pine tree to determine improved growth which may be secured by proper care. Fifteen years ago he pruned all the lower branches off a four-inch white pine sapling, removing other saplings from its vicinity, dug up the earth around it and applied manure to its base. It is now nineteen inches in diameter at its base and has a long, clean pole. This, during the fifteen years the growth in diameter has averaged one inch annually.—From the Conservation.

To Preserve Furs.

Insects dislike pennyroyal, the smell of it destroys some, and drives others away. Take oil of pennyroyal, put some into a saucer, steep it in small pieces of new cotton or wadding, and place where required. It is also well to place some between the mattresses, etc. When putting furs aside for the summer, fold carefully, with a little pennyroyal, and then wrap thoroughly in newspapers, gumming down the edges. Place in closely shutting drawers with a little camphor.

Most Grandmas Are Like This.

Chester had a slight toothache about which he made a big fuss. Grandma patted him a bit, then said: "Here's a quarter. Go buy a ball and play, then maybe you'll forget about the aching tooth." Chester, rushing to his mother, displayed the money, saying: "Gee, grandma's easy; she gave me a quarter when I only had about a nickel's worth of toothache."

Ravens of Tower of London.

The ravens are an institution in the Tower of London, although there is no record that they are one of its historic features. One of the yeoman warders has charge of the ravens, giving each a particular name, such as "James Crow, thief." If it suits the character of the bird.

"Rush" Work Seidem Good.

It is all right to be busy, provided it is the right kind of busy. Some people are in a constant state of hurry which borders on confusion, because they never begin in time, never make the right sort of preparation, and never stop long enough to calm their minds in order to get their bearings.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Origin of Old Saying.

If you will read up on the theological controversy between Arius and Athanasius over the nature of the second person in the Trinity you will get the plausible origin of the saying "I don't care an iota." The one contended, using the Greek word, that Jesus was "homocousios," i. e., of the same nature as God, the other arguing that he was "homolousios," that is of similar nature. You will detect that the two Greek words differ only by an iota, the Greek name for their letter "I." So one tired of the riots in Byzantium and the prolonged discussions, contentedly said he did not care an iota.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Year's Growth of a Pine Tree.

Mr. Hill, lockmaster at Buckhorn, Ont., experimented with a pine tree to determine improved growth which may be secured by proper care. Fifteen years ago he pruned all the lower branches off a four-inch white pine sapling, removing other saplings from its vicinity, dug up the earth around it and applied manure to its base. It is now nineteen inches in diameter at its base and has a long, clean pole. This, during the fifteen years the growth in diameter has averaged one inch annually.—From the Conservation.

To Preserve Furs.

Insects dislike pennyroyal, the smell of it destroys some, and drives others away. Take oil of pennyroyal, put some into a saucer, steep it in small pieces of new cotton or wadding, and place where required. It is also well to place some between the mattresses, etc. When putting furs aside for the summer, fold carefully, with a little pennyroyal, and then wrap thoroughly in newspapers, gumming down the edges. Place in closely shutting drawers with a little camphor.

Most Grandmas Are Like This.

Chester had a slight toothache about which he made a big fuss. Grandma patted him a bit, then said: "Here's a quarter. Go buy a ball and play, then maybe you'll forget about the aching tooth." Chester, rushing to his mother, displayed the money, saying: "Gee, grandma's easy; she gave me a quarter when I only had about a nickel's worth of toothache."

Ravens of Tower of London.

The ravens are an institution in the Tower of London, although there is no record that they are one of its historic features. One of the yeoman warders has charge of the ravens, giving each a particular name, such as "James Crow, thief." If it suits the character of the bird.

"Rush" Work Seidem Good.

It is all right to be busy, provided it is the right kind of busy. Some people are in a constant state of hurry which borders on confusion, because they never begin in time, never make the right sort of preparation, and never stop long enough to calm their minds in order to get their bearings.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

Restful Results for Her.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davison, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., had such a cough. She writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me." Hite's Drug Store.—adv.

A Michigan Product

Your telephone is a Michigan product and your telephone operator is a Michigan girl. Your telephone company is a Michigan company, headed by Michigan men and with Michigan businessmen included on its board of directors.

Your entire telephone system is equipped with Michigan-wrought material from your Michigan mines, fields, and forests. The copper and steel and iron wire and parts, the wood, the poles, the cross-arms, Michigan products, while Michigan labor built and is maintaining and expanding the system.

Michigan products, both raw material and finished equipment, have increased in cost and continue to increase, just the same as elsewhere. Labor is paid more in Michigan than in most other states.

Your telephone company employs Michigan people and uses Michigan material which you, perhaps, help produce at these advanced prices. Everything costs us more. Much of our equipment has doubled in price, just as have the clothing and food you buy and the rent that you, perhaps, pay.

MICHIGAN STATE TELEPHONE COMPANY

For Quick Returns Use The Herald's Classified Column

Just Where and How Is the Money to be Spent?

A businesslike Answer to a businesslike Question

THIRTY denominations cooperating in the Interchurch World Movement have budgeted their needs. No business could have done it more scientifically.

They have united to prevent the possibility of duplication or waste. At least a million dollars will be saved by the fact that thirty individual campaigns are joined in one united effort.

Each denomination has arranged its budget under six main heads:

- 1 FOR THE CHURCH'S WORK AT HOME. A score of times some under this head. Consider only one. Five and a half million people in the United States cannot even read and write the English language. Who is to carry forward this vast work of Americanization if the church does not?
- 2 FOR HOSPITALS AND HOMES. Every year thousands of men and women seriously ill are turned away from Church hospitals because of lack of room. The children's homes are compelled to turn away more children than they can receive.
- 3 FOR HIGHER EDUCATION. Of the 45,000 American students in institutions of higher grade, one-half are in institutions founded and supported by the Churches. Many of these institutions have had no great endowment campaigns, but their needs are just as pressing as the needs of larger schools, and you have only to read their lists of alumni and alumnae to measure the value of their contribution to America.
- 4 FOR RELIGIOUS TRAINING. At least 12,000,000 children and young people under 25 years of age are untaught American life without any religious training at all. Remembering the faith of Washington and Lincoln, do you think that America will continue to produce Washington and Lincolns if faith dies out of the hearts of its youth?
- 5 FOR THE CHURCH'S WORK ABROAD. Influenza came first from the Orient thirty years ago; nearly all plagues are Oriental in origin. So long as China has only one physician to every 400,000 people the Orient will continue to be a menace. So long as one-third of the babies of India die before their second year, and one-third of the babies of Africa die before their second year, and one-third of the babies of South America die before their second year, is it not worth our while to be true as though he worked at home?
- 6 PREACHERS' SALARIES. The preacher is called the "forgotten man," and well he may be. Eight out of ten preachers are paid less than $50 a week!

Each denomination has its own detailed budget, and will administer its own funds. Your pastor has copies of the budget; examine them for yourself. In the week of April 25th-May 2nd you will be given your opportunity to help. You can do it with the full satisfaction of knowing that every dollar of your gift has its post assigned to it in advance.

Every dollar for better America and a better world. When your church calls on you give—and give with your heart as well as your pocket-book.

United Financial Campaign April 25th to May 2nd

The INTERCHURCH World Movement of North America

The publication of this advertisement is made possible through the cooperation of thirty denominations.

"If Only I Had Something to Offer You Besides My Love!"

The Strange Case of Cavendish

Under the above title our new serial introduces and combines in a most interesting manner the dangerous elements of the East—gunmen and crooks—and the equally bad denizens of the West—bandits and outlaws.

Randall Parrish,

author of so many dashing stories of American life, has utilized the two types in a most entrancing narrative. But bad men do not dominate the story. Essential to the plot and furnishing ingredients aplenty for a stirring tale, they are merely incidental to the logical unfolding of it. The unadorned gem serene in a sordid setting is a woman newspaper reporter; rather an unusual heroine, but not the less interesting on that account. It is her intuition which finds the key to a strange mystery; her ability and resourcefulness which defeat criminal designs.

Don't Fail to Read the Story in This Paper!

Briefs of the Week

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Bartlett, a daughter—Betty Jane—Sunday, April 18th.

Postmaster Charles Hudkins has been confined to his home with illness the past week.

It comes but once in four years so don't miss the Leap Year Party of the Pythian Sisters at the Armory, Thursday evening, April 29th. adv.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Painter have opened a Grocery Store on the West Side in the D. E. Goodman store building which they recently purchased.

Claude, 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hollingshead, was taken to the Lockwood hospital, at Petoskey, Thursday, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Henry Jennett, an old settler of Norwood, passed away Saturday, April 17th, of cancer of the stomach. Mrs. Hazen Gardiner and Mrs. Oscar Kidder of East Jordan are daughters of the deceased.

Mrs. Margaret Goodenough passed away at the home of Oscar Dell on Bowen's Addition, April 19th of pneumonia. Funeral services were conducted from her late home, Thursday, conducted by Rev. M. E. Hoyt.

Galen W. Seiler passed away Tuesday, April 20th at the home of his son, John Seiler, of Eveline township. Deceased was born Jan. 22, 1844 at Grantville, Pa. He leaves besides his wife, two sons. The remains were taken Thursday to Hillsdale, Mich., for interment.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Vivian Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Keller of this city, to Fred DeNise of Boyne Falls. The wedding took place at Boyne City February 20th, Rev. Merrell being the officiating clergyman. Mrs. DeNise is completing a term as teacher of the Afton schools. They will make their home at Boyne Falls.

Miss Alma Higby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Higby of this city, and Ivan Thompson were united in marriage at the home of the bride's brother Ernest Higby, in this city, Friday evening April, 16th. Rev. M. E. Hoyt was the officiating clergyman. The groom has been in Uncle Sam's Service and received his discharge at Fort Brady, April 14th. They will make their home in Colorado.

Mrs. Claude Wood visited friends at Petoskey this week.

Ray Barrick returned Friday from a visit at Fairmount, Ind.

Edmund Bogart was at Central Lake on business this week.

Thos. Joynt and family spent Sunday with relatives at Bellaire.

Mrs. Thomas Brennan is spending the week-end at Grayling.

Dance at fronton Grange Hall next Friday-evening, April 30th. adv.

Miss Gladys Stokes is spending the week-end with friends at Gaylord.

Mrs. G. E. Lee of Gladwin is guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ashley.

Mrs. J. F. Kenny, Mrs. G. W. Bechtold and daughter are at Grand Rapids this week.

Mrs. Thomas Ketchbaw of Kalamazoo is guest at the home of her brother, George Sumner.

Herbert M. Bechman arrived Monday from Chicago to assist Ira Bartlett this summer in his apary.

Mrs. Robert Morrow and children of Bellaire are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Joynt.

J. Leahy, the Optometrist, will be at the Russell House, East Jordan, Monday and Tuesday, May 3rd-4th. adv.

You're invited to the Leap Year Party given by the Pythian Sisters at the Armory next Thursday evening. adv.

Mrs. Isaac Shanauquet returned home from Reycraft Hospital, Petoskey, last Monday, where she underwent an operation on her face. She was accompanied home by her daughter, Mrs. Clara Genia of Bay Shore. Mrs. Shanauquet will be confined to her bed for several weeks.

A bogie government operative and Dame Rumor were the two principal offensive characters in an unfounded report that has gained considerable circulation, to the effect that an East Jordan merchant had been fined for profiteering. The entire affair appears to be an unwarranted reflection on this merchant, and brings no credit to the person or persons who concocted the fabrication. The same untrue statements went the rounds at Petoskey the past week relative to the merchants of that city.

Joseph St. John is here from St. Clair visiting friends.

Mrs. Peter Lalonde visited her sister at Bellaire, Wednesday.

William Raymond returned to his studies at the U. of M., Monday.

Mrs. James Ross and daughters visited relatives at Bay City over Sunday.

Mrs. Arnold Kiser and daughter left Wednesday for a visit at Torch Lake.

Robert Grant and son, Leonard, returned home Tuesday from Muskegon.

Miss Merle Dean went to Petoskey, Wednesday, where she has a position.

John Howell was home this week from Detroit for a visit with his family.

Jack Shier returned to Flint, Tuesday after a few days' visit with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Richards returned to Flint Monday, after a short visit here.

Mrs. Wm. Myers and children left Wednesday for a visit at North Bay, Ontario.

Miss Harriett Malpass returned home Wednesday from an extended visit at Muskegon.

Wanda, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Britnall, is recovering from an illness.

Lawrence Lalonde and James Green returned to Pontiac, Wednesday, after a visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Whittington have gone to Kalamazoo for a visit with their son, Frank.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Monroe and daughter returned home Tuesday from a visit at Gary, Ind.

Mrs. E. E. Hall returned to Detroit Thursday, after a few weeks' visit with friends here.

Mrs. M. E. Hoyt with daughter, Marjorie, left Thursday for a two weeks' visit at Flint.

Mrs. Augusta Blake came Tuesday from Flint, for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Mort Tyner.

Misses Bessie Johnson and Esther Malpass were at Grand Rapids and Muskegon first of the week.

H. T. Bancroft and daughter, Miss Alta, left last Saturday for Flint, where they expect to make their home.

Leap Year Party at the Armory, Thursday evening, April 29th, under auspices of Pythian Sisters. adv.

Mrs. E. V. Chamberlain with children was called to Central Lake, Wednesday by the death of her mother-in-law.

Mrs. Wm. Phelps and children left this week for their farm near Emile, Mr. Phelps expects to follow soon.

See J. Leahy, Optometrist, at the Russell House May 3rd and 4th, Monday and Tuesday. adv.

Arthur Bennett of Emerald, Wis. was here over Sunday, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Graff and other relatives.

Mrs. Wm. F. Roberts of Central Lake was here first of the week visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Carl Stroebel.

Mrs. Ernest Hopkins with children left Monday for Traverse City, where she will join her husband and make their home.

Mrs. Ray Dunson and son, and her sister, Miss Phelemeno Boggs went to Bellaire, Wednesday, for a visit with their parents.

Miss Fern Howard left Monday for a short visit with relatives at Woodstock, Ont. From there she will return to Detroit, to take up her work as nurse.

Rev. J. W. Ruehle was here from Toledo this week after his auto which he plans to drive through. He and his family are now pleasantly located at 1129 Woodstock Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davis and children drove over from East Jordan Saturday, and spent Sunday with their brothers and sisters in this city. ** Miss Florine Hudkins of East Jordan spent Saturday night and Sunday at the homes of Mrs. James Stackus and Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Smith. ** Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brabant of East Jordan were callers in this city Sunday.—Boyne Citizen.

Car Tracks Wear Tires.
The severest wear on solid tires is caused by driving on the car tracks according to an official of a rubber company, quoted by the Scientific American. He says that when on the tracks most of the load is concentrated on a limited portion of the tread, so that it is overloaded and quickly worn away, besides, a sharp pointed frog may actually cut a piece off the tire just as a knife would.

To Clean Beeswax.
When sewing-room beeswax begins to look dingy, it may be melted and remolded. The grime drops off at once when the wax is melted on the surface of boiling water, and gives a clear piece of beeswax when remolded.

Some Consolation.
For the encouragement of men who are prone to call themselves hard names when they have done something unusually foolish, the wise man has said "Those who never make mistakes never make anything else."

Timely Advice.
If you would keep the wolf from the door don't inveigle him into the front yard with bits of extravaganza.

Presbyterian Church Notes
Rev. John Duncan, Pastor

Sunday, April 18th, 1920.

10:30 a. m.—Morning Service.—Subject—"Temptation."

11:45—Sunday School.

11:45 a. m.—Every Man's Bible Class. Subject—The East and West Fight for a Common Cause. Bert Lorraine, Leader.

6:30 p. m.—Young Peoples Christian Endeavor. Subject, Christian Principles in Personal and Public Health. Leader, Miss Eva Howard.

7:30 p. m.—"A Militarist of the Old Testament." We will use the new books in the opening Song Service. You will enjoy the instrumental trio.

First Methodist Episcopal Church
Rev. M. E. Hoyt, Pastor.

Sunday, April 25th, 1920.

10:30 a. m.—"Above the Common."

12:00 m.—Sunday School. The Sunday School sessions are getting more and more enthusiastic.

3:00 p. m.—Junior Church.

7:30 p. m.—"To-day and To-morrow."

St. Joseph's Church.
G. Bierens, Pastor.

Masses on 1st and 3rd Sunday of each month at 8:00 and High Mass at 10:30.

Mass on 2nd Sunday of each month at 8:00 o'clock.

High Mass on 4th Sunday of each month at 10:30.

On 5th Sundays Masses at 8:00 and 10:30.

Masses on Holy days and Devotions will be announced.

St. John's Church.
Bohemian Settlement.

High Mass on 2nd Sunday of each month at 10:30.

High Mass on 4th Sunday of each month at 8:00 o'clock.

Lack of Tact.

Jones—What a Jonah that fellow Smith is! After owing me $5 for two years he came up to me on the street and paid me right while I was talking to Brown, whom I had owed $2 for three years!—Chicago Daily News

Temple Theatre

WHERE EVERYBODY GOES.
PROGRAM
From April 26th to May 2nd.

MONDAY, April 26th.
Wm. Russell in "Eastward Ho." A picture in which is seen the true spirit of the west.
10c and 20c

TUESDAY
Priscilla Dean in "The Exquisite Thief." An intensely dramatic story with a real star.
10c and 20c

WEDNESDAY
Hoot Gibson in "The Jay Bird," a western. Whiz and Whiskers. The Ford Weekly.
10c and 20c

THURSDAY
Viola Dana in "The Microbe." A comedy with a good plot.
10c and 20c

FRIDAY
Mae Marsh in "The Cinderella Man." Story and Star-100 per cent entertainment.
10c and 20c

SATURDAY
Jack Dempsey, Champion of the World in "Dare Devil Jack." Mutt & Jeff. News Weekly. Comedy.
10c and 20c

SUNDAY, May 2nd.
Evelyn Greely in "Me and Capt. Kidd." A winsome star in a good comedy drama.
10c and 20c

Fatty Arbuckle, Wednesday, May 5th.

Special Sale on

CUT GLASS SILVERWARE CLOCKS

C. Hunsberger
Optometrist Jeweler
Temple Theatre Block

Jack Dempsey
The Champion Heavy-weight Fighter and best known man in the world.

SEE HIM AT THE TEMPLE THEATRE
SATURDAY, May 1st
NO EXTRA CHARGE 10c and 20c.

SELLERS
SELLERS
SELLERS
SELLERS
SELLERS

The Word's Most Popular
Kitchen Cabinet

Automatic Flour Bin, Porcelain sliding work table, ant-proof casters and hand-rubbed steam-finish.
"Mr. Man, this is a life-saver for your wife."

Let us demonstrate its many work-saving features.

Bamber & Watson
FURNITURE DEALERS
SERVICE
R. G. Watson, Funeral Director, Phone 66, East Jordan

American Cigarettes Popular.
For a time most cigarettes were made from the Turkish leaf. Then it was discovered that the "bright" Virginia tobacco, now grown in Virginia the Carolinas and eastern Tennessee made an agreeable cigarette. Eventually cigarette-making machinery was invented, and today American cigarettes are smoked all over the world.

HAD A COLD ALL WINTER.
Colds that "hang on," coughs that rack your body and wear you down, the weakening that comes from loss of sleep—these are afflictions from which relief is a blessing. Nick J. Whires, Zahl, N. D., writes: "Had a cold all winter, but since taking Foley's Honey and Tar it has entirely disappeared." Hite's Drug Store.—adv

CHEVROLET

"Four-Ninety"
TOURING CAR

When you buy a Chevrolet "Four-Ninety" Touring Car you purchase a convenient and reliable means of economical transportation. For Chevrolet cars are built to render the greatest measure of utility.

Whether you want an automobile, for family use, for business purposes or for both, the Chevrolet will give you all that is most desirable in mechanical efficiency and motor car beauty, with the assurance of constant safety, comfort and dependability at a very low cost for upkeep.

Come in and inspect this model, and the famous valve-in-head motor with which it is equipped—the motor that has achieved such remarkable records for fuel economy.

Simply write and tell us that you would like to have us show you proof, and it will be a pleasure to do it.

$875.00—DELIVERED AT CHARLEVOIX
Freight and War Tax Paid

THE LAKEWAY GARAGE
HENRY BLOCK, Prop. Charlevoix, Mich.

DRUGS EXCITE YOUR KIDNEYS, USE SALTS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the body's poisonous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 600 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water, you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will set fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK HOT TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB RHEUMATISM FROM STIFF ACHING JOINTS

Rub Soreness from joints and muscles with a small trial bottle of old St. Jacobs Liniment

Stop "dosing" Rheumatism. It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Liniment" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain. "St. Jacobs Liniment" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache, neuralgia.

Limber up! Get a 30 cent bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Liniment" from any drug store, and in a moment you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

ASPIRIN FOR HEADACHE

Name "Bayer" is on Genuine Aspirin—say Bayer

Insist on "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in a "Bayer package" containing proper directions for Headache, Colds, Pain, Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Rheumatism. Name "Bayer" means genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for nineteen years. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Aspirin is trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoacetic-acid ester of Salicylic acid.

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

Ah! how good it feels! Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.

"Pidgin English." The shibboleth of the Chinaman is the word "business," which he seems unable to pronounce. In trying to do so he makes a sound which resembles "pidgin." Thus the business English he picks up in the open court, which is a jargon of the many languages he hears, has come to be known as pidgin English?

FINANCIAL STATEMENT For the City of East Jordan for the Month of December, 1919

General Fund RECEIPTS

December

1 Balance on hand..... $ 4925.64

City Taxes..... 68.18

Total $ 4993.82

DISBURSEMENTS

E. I. Adams..... 25.00

W. F. Bashaw..... 124.60

East Jordan Cabinet Co..... 2.53

Henry Cook..... 35.00

John F. Kenny..... 7.42

Geo. A. Bell..... 1.23

James Gidley..... 25.00

C. B. Crowell..... 25.00

Grace E. Boswell..... 42.67

Otis J. Smith..... 25.00

Dwight L. Wilson..... 33.33

Stat Bank of East Jordan..... 456.00

Northern Auto Co..... 5.50

Mich. State Tel. Co..... 7.00

State Bank of East Jordan..... 63.37

Balance on hand..... 4059.10

Total $ 4991.80

Street and Sewer Fund RECEIPTS

December

1 Balance on hand..... $ 1277.51

Geo. Carr, sale of Tarvia..... 23.05

City Taxes..... 49.53

Total $ 1350.19

DISBURSEMENTS

Standard Oil Co..... 12.71

E. W. Giles..... 33.00

Stroebel Bros..... 11.05

E. W. Giles..... 35.00

Balance on hand..... 1280.43

Total $ 1350.19

Water Works Fund RECEIPTS

December

1 Balance on hand..... $ 45.89

Water Tax-Colls..... 121.74

Turn on permits..... 1.00

Overdrawn..... 325.27

Total $ 493.95

DISBURSEMENTS

State Bank of East Jordan..... 391.85

Anchor Pkg. Co..... 38.07

Stroebel Bros..... 3.85

Henry Scholls..... 3.00

Standard Oil Co..... 40.43

E. J. Iron Works..... 9.00

Arthur Moe..... 1.75

Charles Box..... 1.50

Total $ 493.95

Interest and Sinking Fund RECEIPTS

December

1 Balance on hand..... $ 662.31

City Taxes..... 28.36

Total $ 690.67

DISBURSEMENTS

Balance on hand..... $ 690.67

Total $ 690.67

Bridge Fund RECEIPTS

December

1 Balance on hand..... $ 12401.46

City Taxes..... 37.80

Total $ 12439.26

DISBURSEMENTS

Balance on hand..... $ 12439.26

Total $ 12439.26

Paving Fund, Dist. No. 2 RECEIPTS

December

1 Balance on hand..... $ 400.34

Total $ 400.34

DISBURSEMENTS

Balance on hand..... $ 400.34

Total $ 400.34

Paving Fund, Dist. No. 3 RECEIPTS

December

1 Balance on hand..... $ 151.93

Total $ 151.93

DISBURSEMENTS

Balance on hand..... $ 151.93

Total $ 151.93

Paving Fund, Dist. No. 4 RECEIPTS

December

Sale of Bonds..... $ 14275.80

Paving Taxes..... 61.84

Total $ 14337.64

DISBURSEMENTS

December

1 Overdrawn..... $ 6108.34

East Jordan Cabinet Co..... 5.50

East Jordan Iron Works..... 34.50

Balance on hand..... 8189.30

Total $ 14337.64

Cemetery Fund RECEIPTS

December

1 Balance on hand..... $ 280.11

Total $ 280.11

DISBURSEMENTS

Balance on hand..... $ 280.11

Total $ 280.11

Library Fund RECEIPTS

December

1 Balance on hand..... $ 772.98

City Taxes..... 7.12

Total $ 780.10

DISBURSEMENTS

John F. Kenny..... $ 5.74

Anna Sundstedt..... 41.67

Elsie Johnson..... 2.40

Peoples State Savings Bank..... 9.50

Mrs. St. Charles..... 2.50

Stroebel Bros..... 8.99

Gaylord Bros..... 4.42

Library Bureau..... 3.38

Margaret E. Brintnall..... 79.50

Anna Sundstedt..... 5.94

Mrs. St. Charles..... 2.50

Balance on hand..... 608.58

Total $ 780.10

Recapitulation

Balance

General Fund..... $ 4059.10

Street Fund..... 1280.43

Interest and Sinking Fund..... 690.67

Bridge Fund..... 12439.26

Paving Fund, Dist. No. 2..... 400.34

Paving Fund, Dist. No. 3..... 151.93

Paving Fund, Dist. No. 4..... 8189.30

Cemetery Fund..... 280.11

Library Fund..... 780.10

Overdrawn

Water Works Fund $325.27

Less Overdraft..... $325.27

Total $27744.45

Outstanding Orders..... $ 70.89

Cash on hand at end of month $27,815.34

OTIS J. SMITH, City Clerk.

Wolf Once a Monarch.

The old folk tales are right—as they nearly always are if rightly read. Before firearms were well developed, no lone man had any chance worth mentioning against the rush of a wolf pack. The gray prowlers were the terror of Europe, as the tiger still is the terror of India, and deservedly so. Children who gather to stare at a wolf in the zoo are gazing at a captive king.

In Other Words, Self-Control.

True enjoyment lies always along that royal middle ground—the use of all functions and powers, but with the imperial hand of mastery upon all. Otherwise, there are always heavy penalties to pay.—Ralph Waldo Trine

Randall Parrish

This eminent novelist is conspicuous for his virile characters, absorbing plots and thrilling situations. His scenes are laid in all parts of the country, but he is especially happy when dealing with the West, a section which he knows from long residence in early and later days. One of the most prolific of American writers, he is also one of the most successful. Unexcelled in dealing with mystery, romance and adventure, "The Strange Case of Cavendish" is typical of Parrish at his best. You will have the pleasure of reading it in serial form in this paper.

It Is Important Not to Miss the First Installment!

RED CROSS LAYS PLANS FOR 1920

Substantial Sum is to be Kept in Reserve in Case of Sudden Disaster

Out of a fund of $30,000,000 available for its work this year, the American Red Cross has set aside $15,000,000 for European relief, $13,750,000 for use at home and $1,250,000 for completing its program in Siberia.

In making public plans for carrying forward peace time activities, Dr. Farrand, head of the organization, declared that a considerable reserve must be held for emergency calls "incident to such possible events as the opening of Russia to intercourse with the United States." This determination, Dr. Farrand said, was reached after long and full consideration with government representatives in this country and Europe.

With appeals infinitely beyond its resources, and unable to count on additions to its total fund during the year, the executive committee, Dr. Farrand said, found it "both wise and necessary to consider the application of its funds so that the soundest possible sense of proportion might prevail."

All obligations to soldiers, sailors and their families must be provided for, Dr. Farrand reported, while the Red Cross must be ready at the same time to meet relief demands due to disasters.

"We are pledged," he added, "to the establishment of a peace-time program in America for which $13,750,000 will be made available." In considering this item it must be kept clearly in mind that while expenditures in this country arising directly out of the war remain high they should rapidly diminish, and while our work for establishment of peace-time undertakings will increase in some measure, this increase will be inconsiderable as compared with the reduction of war items."

THE INTERCHURCH WORLD---WHAT AND WHY IT IS

THIRTY GREAT PROTESTANT DENOMINATIONS MOVE FORWARD TOGETHER TO CARRY ON THE WORK OF A UNITED CHRISTIANITY.

The church in all its modern history has never attempted a program so broad, so comprehensive, so daring and so earnest as the newly announced campaign of the Interchurch World Movement. Thirty great Protestant denominations are co-operating.

To the laymen who make up 99 per cent of the church, it has seemed for many years that the failure of Christian organizations to play a larger part in world affairs was due to two main causes: first, improper organization and business methods, and, second, a too-emphasized stressing of petty denominational aims.

Leaders of the Interchurch World are most careful to give assurance that they seek no breaking down of denominations, and that they request no man to yield his religious convictions in any matter of conscience. They do seek to find the common points of the whole Christian family, and to work in unison and comity for the attainment of these ends. They plan also for the bettering of the financial conditions of the individual church, for better pastors' pay, for less ruinous rivalry, and for more united work for the Kingdom.

There is a sound sense and an orderliness in all this that must appeal to any man. There can be no reasonable doubt but that it will result in an enhanced usefulness—that it will send forth the spiritual and evangelistic message of the church with a multiplied force and power.

The world today needs the Church and the message of Christianity as never before. It is well that the Church shows every indication of meeting its greatest opportunity with unified strength and organized spiritual power.

PROBATE ORDER

STATE OF MICHIGAN, The Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix.

At a session of said court, held at the probate office, in the city of Charlevoix in said county, on the 3rd day of April A. D. 1920.

Present: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

In the Matter of the Estate of Maggie Barkley, Deceased, Marion Barkley Walters having filed in said court her petition praying that said court adjudicate and determine who were at the time of her death the legal heirs of said deceased and entitled to inherit the real estate of which said deceased died seized.

It is ordered, that the twenty-seventh day of April A. D. 1920, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said probate office, is hereby appointed for hearing said petition;

It is further ordered that public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Charlevoix County Herald a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Frank Phillips

Tonsorial Artist.

When in need of anything in my line call in and see me.

Dr. W. H. Parks

Physician and Surgeon

Office in Monroe block, over East Jordan Drug Co's Store

Phone 158-4 rings

Office hours: 1:30 to 4:00 p. m. 7:00 to 8:00 p. m.

X-RAY in Office.

Hugh W. Dicken

Physician and Surgeon

East Jordan, Mich. Phone No. 128

Office Hours: 11:00 to 12:00 a. m. 2:00 to 4:00 and 7:00 to 9:00 p. m.

Dr. F. P. Ramsey

Physician and Surgeon.

Graduate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of the University of Illinois.

OFFICE E. J. LUMBER CO. BLOCK East Jordan, Mich. Phone No. 196.

Doctor Branch

Office at The Russell House.

Dr. G. W. Bechtold

DENTIST

Office Hours: 8:00 to 12:00 p. m. 1:00 to 5:00 p. m. Evenings by Appointment.

Office, Second Floor of Kimball Block.

Dr. C. H. Pray

Dentist

Office Hours: 8 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m. And Evenings.

Phone No. 222.

Home of General John J. Pershing

Gen. John J. Pershing has purchased the above home at 1748 B street, Lincoln, Neb., and has announced his intention to make Lincoln and Nebraska his permanent place of residence. In announcing the purchase of the home, the general said: "As soon as I retire from the service, I intend to make Lincoln my permanent home, and, as far as I know now, will enter business in Nebraska. I hope to see my son, Warren, graduate from the University of Nebraska, as I did nearly 30 years ago."

The Goodyear Triangle of Satisfaction

Quality--Price--Service

Think That Over When You Buy Tires

QUALITY—A quality that is in harmony with the name that goes on more tires than any other name in the world.

PRICE—A wide range beginning with the lowest that you can possibly pay and get A-1 value for your money.

SERVICE—We have these tires ready for you. We not only give you tires that are your money's worth and more but we show you how to get extra miles out of them.

East Jordan Lumber Company

They Are Best, But—They Cost No More—Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tires.