Open Attack On Corporation Tax

Battle Creek Firm Contends Levy On Corporations Is Unconstitutional.

Lansing.—The expected attack on the constitutionality of the new corporation tax, passed by the legislature during the regular session this year to raise $6,000,000 to meet the deficit of the state, was launched in the supreme court July 21 by the Union Steam Pump Sales company of Battle Creek.

The corporation tax law requires corporations to pay three and one-half mills upon each dollar of their paid-up capital and surplus, except that no corporation shall be permitted to pay less than $50, and none shall be required to pay more than $10,000.

Corporations are required to submit certified checks for this tax when they file their annual corporation reports in July and August. The Union Steam Pump Sales company submitted its annual report to Charles J. Deland, secretary of state without the required check. Mr. Deland refused to accept the report, and the company, through its attorneys, Burrill Hamilton and J. L. Hooper, of Battle Creek, and B. D. Chandler, of Hudson, immediately filed suit in the supreme court for mandamus to compel the secretary of state to accept the report without the tax payment.

It is doubtful whether the matter can be submitted to the court, and an order to show cause issued before the time for payment of the tax expires September 1. The importance of the case may result in a call of the court to meet here before the time originally planned, however.

The contention of the pump company is that the corporation law is in violation of three sections of the Michigan constitution and of the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution. The company's case is based upon the contention that the levy is a tax, whereas the attorney general and the governor, who framed it, contend that it is a fee and not a tax.

The tax is discriminatory, the attorneys for the company contend, in that the $50 minimum and $10,000 maximum results in wide divergence between the rate paid under it by various corporations. Their brief points out that the company they represent would be compelled to pay $350 on each $1,000, while the Reo motor car company would pay less than 67 cents a $1,000, the Burroughs Adding Machine company less than 30, Dodge Brothers, Inc., less than 16, and the Ford Motor company less than 8 cents on each $1,000.

HOUSE PASSES FORDNEY BILL

Favorable Vote Received After Several Changes Are Made.

Washington.—With finished lumber, hides, leather, shoes, oil and cotton on the free list, the dye embargo knocked out, but the American valuation provision retained, the Fordney tariff bill was passed by the house July 21 by a vote of 287 to 127.

Seven Republicans voted against the bill and seven Democrats voted for it.

BABY RUN OVER BUT UNHURT

Train Stopped After Eight Cars Pass Over Child Between Tracks.

Sloux City, Iowa.—The 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jackich played on the railroad tracks near the home. A freight train came along and before the engineer could bring his train to a halt his locomotive and eight cars had passed over the child, which was found to be uninjured except for a few bruises where it had been hit by the rods of the cars.

TO MAKE TOUR OF FRUIT BELT

Horticultural Society to Inspect State Orchards Next Month.

East Lansing.—A three-day tour of more than a score of western Michigan orchards will be taken by the Michigan Horticultural society, August 2, 3 and 4. Plans are in charge of T. A. Farrand, extension specialist in horticulture at M. A. C., and secretary of the society.

Spring Sensation at Slacker Quiz

Rep. Ben Johnson, Called Liar By Bergdoll's Brother, Threatens Fight.

Washington.—A violent encounter between Representative Ben Johnson of Kentucky and Charles A. Braun, brother of Grover C. Bergdoll, the draft slacker, broke up the Bergdoll investigation in riotous disorder last Saturday.

Spectators, fearful of gun play, were thrown into a panic and the excitement which followed would have furnished a thrilling scenario for an uncensored movie.

Hostilities burst from a tranquil sky while Representative Johnson was questioning Braun, who occupied the witness stand. Johnson didn't like the way Braun answered questions.

"You aren't telling the truth," remarked Johnson.

Braun rose from his chair, leaned across the table, looked Johnson in the eye, and in even, measured tones said:

"You are a liar."

Johnson leaped to his feet, reached into his pocket as though about to draw a weapon, and started around the table after Braun. Women spectators shrieked. For a moment everyone in the committee room seemed paralyzed.

Mrs. Johnson, wife of the warlike congressman, was the first to act. She threw herself upon her husband, holding his right arm, screaming:

"No, you must not do that!"

Other congressmen came to her assistance to restrain Rep. Johnson.

Meanwhile Sergeant-at-Arms Joe Rogers, who happened to be in the room, took charge of Braun. He started to lead him out of the room. This added to Johnson's fury. He cursed with the vehemence of a pirate.

"Am I not going to have a chance to settle with that —?" he shouted. "Won't this committee let me punish that flag-hating —?"

The committee and Mrs. Johnson and the marine captain held him tight.

By this time, Braun, in the custody of Rogers, had reached the door. A shriveled little fellow, about half Braun's size, dashed up, and, shaking his fist at Braun, shrieked:

"I'd like to get hold of that skunk, your brother."

The big sergeant-at-arms led Braun out of the capitol and told him to go home. Braun wept as he walked away. He told how he had tried to keep out of the Bergdoll affair, even to the point of changing his name to escape the stigma cast upon the family by his brother, the slacker.

Johnson finally became calmed. When the committee finally thought it safe to release him, Chairman Peters decided to call it a day and adjourned the hearing.

$75,000 BOOZE CARGO SEIZED

Four Arrested in Alleged Nationwide Whisky Trust.

Kansas City, Mo.—Police in a raid on a downtown hotel, took four men into custody on charges involving a gigantic "whisky trust." The trust, according to Chief of Police Edwards, has its headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa. The arrests, according to police, will result in an exposure of the liquor ring's nationwide activities.

The alleged agents of the "booze trust" registered at hotels and gave the names of "Mike" Connor, Tom Hand and Charles Malone when arrested. Tom Egan, a yardmaster of the Chicago & Alton railroad, also was arrested. A carload of whisky of a famous brand, valued at $75,000, was seized.

RUSSIA TOLD TO FREE CAPTIVES

Hoover Tells Soviet Aid Will Be Given If This Is Done.

Washington.—Immediate release of the Americans now held prisoners in Russia must be ordered by the Soviet government before aid can be rendered the sick and starving in that country by the American relief administration, Secretary Hoover, chairman of the organization, has informed Maxim Gorky at Petrograd in a cable made public here July 24.

It takes a good many years of experience for a man to understand the difference between the advice, "Go on" and "Come on."

PROMINENT CHIROPRACTOR LOCATES IN CHARLEVOIX

Dr. John H. Albert one of the pioneers in Chiropractic has decided to locate with us permanently.

This section has felt the need of a chiropractor for some time and Dr. Albert has decided to abandon his practice in Detroit and locate at Charlevoix. Dr. Albert is a former northern Michigan boy having attended high school in Kalkaska and Traverse City.

Graduating in chiropractic when little was known of this science, when a chiropractor was looked upon in half derision, standing the fight against the older schools of healing, which always seems the lot of a new science, Dr. Albert has worked continuously for chiropractic watching the growth from a few scattered practitioners until there are now more than ten thousand in the United States alone and it is no longer looked upon in derision but as a great and growing science.

Dr. Albert is running a series of articles in this paper explaining the what, how, why, and when of chiropractic adjusting which promise to be both interesting and instructive coming as they do from a man with a long experience in this work.

CHARLES BEECHER WARREN

Charles Beecher Warren was recently appointed by President Harding as ambassador to Japan. He was born in 1870 and graduated from the University of Michigan in 1891. Mr. Warren has gone to Europe where he will spend several weeks before taking up his new duties.

Flint Hotel Keeper Arrested

Flint.—A police raid on the Cramer hotel here brought the arrest of Fred Babcock and Floyd Elmore and the confiscation of four and a half gallons of whisky and gambling devices. While police were raiding the hotel, they were made the object of a rain of empty beer bottles from guests in the place. Babcock faces three separate charges of selling liquor, while Elmore faces two. Bail on each count was set at $500 pending trial in circuit court.

$720 Worth of Dope Taken

Cassopolis, Mich.—Morphine valued at $720, was seized by Sheriff Wyman in a raid on a summer resort hotel at Diamond lake, operated by Eddie Brown, of South Bend. Brown was taken into custody and turned over to the federal officers. Besides the drugs, five quarts of whisky were confiscated. Attention of the officers was attracted to the hotel, it is said, because of the large number of women who made it their favorite stopping place.

STATE FAIR'S BIG BUILDING PROGRAM

$80,000 HORSE STRUCTURE WILL BE READY FOR THE 1921 EXHIBITION.

GREAT NEW COLISEUM TO BE BUILT BY NEXT YEAR

Another distinct step forward in the steady development of the Michigan State Fair is being made in the building program that has been decided upon for the immediate future. The fair has maintained a rapid rate of growth since it located on the grounds out Woodward avenue and with the additions now to be made will begin to make the impressive appearance that its rank as the leading fair in America entitles it to.

There is now under construction on the fair grounds a new horse building, costing in the neighborhood of $80,000, which will be completed and ready for use at the coming fair, September 2-11. Were it not for the prohibitive cost of building construction and the difficulty of obtaining labor that existed last year, a more considerable amount of building would have been arranged for to be completed in time for the 1921 fair.

"With the new horse building fully equipped to take care of all horses shown at the fair, in the most modern manner throughout, the old horse building is being remodeled as an addition to the cattle building," explained Secretary-Manager C. W. Dickinson, of the fair. "The cattle building, with this addition, also will be one that the fair can be proud of."

"The old cattle sheds, which will be used this year for sheep and swine exhibits, will be torn down after this year's fair. The new coliseum will be erected on the site now occupied by these cattle sheds. The coliseum will be a most effective addition to the permanent features of the state fair. The building will cover a space about 220 by 180 feet. It will have a large central arena, with tiers of seats about the arena that will accommodate seven to eight thousand people.

"In this arena we can have blooded stock shows and sales during the year as well as having the use of it at State Fair time. It can be made the central point in the mid-west for high-class stock sales, with profit to the state fair as well as increased reputation."

Sewers have been constructed through the fair grounds during this year, giving additional facilities to the grounds. A new building is being planned for the sheep and swine exhibits, which will be of much better grade than the present temporary quarters in the old cattle sheds.

A new art building also is planned, along with improvements to several of the existing buildings on the grounds. All these improvements and new buildings are to be ready for the opening of the 1922 fair, it is planned, thus heavily increasing the facilities over those now had.

BAR JITNEYS; CAR FARES GUN

State Order to Stipulate That Liquor Sales Must Be Protected.

Lansing.—Street car fares to East City are to be reduced from the present scale of 10 cents cash fares and four tickets for 30 cents to 7 cents cash fares and four tickets for 25 cents under an order the public utilities commission announced July 28 that it will issue shortly.

The commission intends to make its fare reduction contingent upon action by the city to eliminate competition between street cars and jitneys.

Reports Floating Bar to Harbor

New York.—Assertion that a floating bar was being operated off Long Island outside the Green mile light was made by the Brooklyn Eagle, according to that newspaper a freight laden ship dubbed the Flying Dutchman has made a third visit to waters near Montauk Point, disposed of 1,500 cases of craft that swarmed out of shore, and called back to the Bahamas. Federal officials professed ignorance of the ship, which was said to be an English flag.

TENOR SOLOIST RECOMMENDS FOLEY'S

John F. West, 272 Morris Ave., Trenton, N. J., well-known tenor soloist, writes: "I had a severe cough and tickling in my throat. I tried Foley's Honey and Tar and was relieved at once. I can highly recommend Foley's Honey and Tar." Good for coughs, colds, croup, hay fever, asthma.—Hibb's Drug Store.

SAYS SMALL EMBEZZLED $500,000

Illinois Executive and Two Officials Indicted by Grand Jury.

Springfield, Ill.—Gov. Len Small, Lieut.-Gov. Fred B. Sterling and Verne B. Curtis, of Grant Park, were indicted by the Sangamon county grand jury for conspiracy and embezzlement in connection with the interest earnings of the state treasurer's office.

The indictment charged that the three obtained "divers grants, warrants, vouchers and documents to the amount of $2,000,000." The investigation hinges on the $10,000,000 loan of state funds to Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. The money was listed as deposited in the "Grant Park bank" drawing two per cent interest while the packers' notes are said to have drawn 7 and 8 per cent. It is the difference in the interest earnings that form the crux of the investigation.

Much interest is centered in the controversy, the greatest political scandal in Illinois' history. Gov. Small claims that as chief executive, he is above jury, warrant or any agency of the judicial branch of the government.

SAYS MAYOR SHOT IN DEFENSE

Witness Testifies State Man Had Threatened Dr. Collier.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—Important new testimony substantiating the claim of Dr. Frank S. Collier, Yickburg village president, that he shot in self-defense when he killed Robert B. Thompson, of Kalamazoo, on June 30, was brought out by Delbert Shames at the examination held in municipal court here. According to Shames, Thompson threatened Dr. Collier after the latter had interfered in the family quarrel that began when Christian Weber, brother-in-law of the slain man, and Thompson drove to the home of Weber's estranged wife to get possession of the two children.

Weber and his wife have since then been reconciled and they were among the witnesses who testified against the Dr. Collier. The hearing will be continued August 1.

275 FROM MICHIGAN AT CAMP

Men to Have Month's Training at Government Citizens Camp.

Detroit.—Two hundred and seventy-five Michigan men left here July 28 over the Michigan Central for the citizens' training camp at Camp Grant, Ill., where for one month they will receive military instruction. The object of the camps, which are being conducted in each of the nine military areas of the country, is to train to develop officer material. Michigan men were joined at Camp Grant by those from Illinois and Wisconsin.

War time days were recalled when the men embarked here at the station. Crowds gathered to see the boys a sendoff.

FRANK COWARD.

Few men are better known to Michigan farmers and livestock breeders than Frank Coward, of Bronson, State Fair Board member, who will be in charge of the exhibits of the sheep department of the 1921 fair in Detroit, Sept. 2-11. As state treasurer of the Grange and a prominent figure in farm loan activities and other state affairs he has been long prominent in the public eye.

The sheep department is regarded as one of the most important at the state fair, because of the prominence of Michigan in the wool market. Mr. Coward will be assisted in his work in this department by C. J. Kellogg, of Reading, who will judge medium and long wool, and by George A. Brown, professor of Animal Husbandry, M. A. C., East Lansing, judge of fine wool.

Michigan News Tersely Told

Pontiac.—Carl and Olive Rasmusen, of Seattle, formerly of Royal Oak, have been put on trial in circuit court charged with larceny of household goods from Frank Briggs, of Royal Oak.

Northville.—Dates for the Wayne county fair at Northville have been set for September 23, 29, 30 and October 1. The fair will be run day and night with fireworks as an added evening attraction.

Vicksburg.—Going to the rescue of his drowning niece at Pickereil lake, Clyde McCausey, 17, Pavilion township boy, succeeded in saving the girl's life just before he sank back into the water exhausted.

Benton Harbor.—Benton Harbor has adopted the commission-manager form of city government, electing five prominent business men commissioners. The commissioners named J. N. Kluck, a manufacturer, as mayor.

Bad Axe.—James Baldwin has been unanimously elected to succeed himself for his thirty-fourth year as a member of the board of education. His years-of-continuous service on an educational board is believed to be a state record.

Grand Rapids.—Declaring some taxicabs are rolling barrooms, Superintendent of Police A. A. Carroll has urged the city commission to adopt a proposed ordinance to bring the taxicab business under closer supervision of city officials.

Ann Arbor.—The Rev. Lloyd C. Douglas, for 11 years pastor of the First Congregational Church here, has resigned to take up religious work in industry at Akron, O. He also will take charge of the First Congregational Church at Akron next fall.

Battle Creek.—John H. Patterson, whose resignation as president of the National Cash Register company, was announced Monday, is in the city, where he came for rest and recuperation at a local sanitarium. He is accompanied by his personal physician.

Sault Ste. Marie.—The Chippewa County Historical society has erected an 18-ton granite boulder marking the spot where Governor Lewis Cass, 101 years ago, concluded a treaty with the Chippewa Indians, giving this government a tract of 16 square miles within what is now Sault Ste. Marie.

Adrian.—Mrs. Calvin Meyers, aged 65, drowned herself in the river Raisin at Deerfield, 14 miles east of here. She left a note in her home advising survivors to "look in the river." Men searched the streams for four hours before recovering the body. Mrs. Meyers is survived by her husband and one son.

Lansing.—Another warning against the spread of diphtheria has been sent out by the State Department of Health in connection with the release of figures on the number of cases in Michigan in the first six months of 1921. There are 1,000 child deaths from diphtheria every year in Michigan, the board says.

Ida.—M. C. Thomas will retain his job as county agent of Monroe county, despite action by the extension department of Michigan Agricultural College calling for his resignation. The county organization of the farm bureau, at a meeting here voted to continue Thomas in office, by indorsing action to this effect previously taken by the county executive committee, 32 votes to 10.

Sault Ste. Marie.—Alpena was chosen as the 1922 convention city of the Michigan Firemen's association after two ballots were taken. Site officers elected were: Frank Trombley, Sault Ste. Marie, president; Dennis C. Rivet, Bay City, first vice-president; Fred W. Griswold, Albion, second vice-president; H. L. Williams, Ludington, secretary-treasurer; Captain William Brockless, Saginaw, statistician.

Howell.—Livingston County officers have indicated that Willard A. Lawson, of Detroit, arrested a few weeks ago on a charge of killing his wife while on a hunting trip at Island Lake two years ago, will not be brought to trial at the special session of Circuit Court which will open July 26. An investigation of the case is being made and will not be completed in time for this term, it was said. Lawson is out on $5,000 bail.

Port Huron.—Who says bathing suits are too immodest to be worn on the streets to and from the bathing beaches? This question has stirred whole sections of Port Huron, with the bathing suit contenders in the lead. Wasn't Eve attired in something just a little less than a bathing costume when Adam met her? "Yes," replies the stern maids. "And, Adam wasn't shocked." And, didn't she "get away with it, too?" is the blinder to the question. So, Port Huron reformers have compromised.

Pontiac.—The D. U. R. has replied to requests of the Pontiac City Planning commission for complete rebuilding of main trolley lines in Pontiac, removal of the third track from Saginaw street and double tracking of the northwestern division in the city. The answer is that the expense would approximate $300,000 and prospects are not favorable for earning reasonable return on the investment. General Manager Burdick wrote that adequate repairs are being contemplated. He suggested a meeting with the city commission.

Alma.—The Michigan National Guard cavalry unit here has leased the Wright house burns for three years for the headquarters of the troop.

Pontiac.—Mrs. Ray Colser, 43, was probably fatally burned when she attempted to light a kitchen range with kerosene. She was covered with burning oil.

Bay City.—Captain Harold Davidson, 38, died at Mercy hospital from cerebral meningitis due to ptomaine poisoning which he contracted at Buffalo a week ago.

Pontiac.—Aug. St. Roberts, proprietor of The Cottage, a resort hotel at Cass lake, and John Rostan, a waiter in the place, are under arrest charged with violating prohibition laws.

Port Huron.—Although Charles Jack, Detroit Edison employe, had 2,500 volts of electricity pass through his body, he will recover. He took hold of a live wire while working on a pole.

Adrian.—Roscoe Swift, of Adrian, announced that he had accepted an appointment tendered him through Congressman Earl Michener of this district, as postmaster of the house of representatives.

Grand Rapids.—Because the force in the internal revenue office here is inadequate, the Government is losing a vast amount of taxes, according to Frank W. Hine, deputy collector. He says the work of checking up accounts two or three years old has not been completed.

Lansing.—The D. U. R. won the Birmingham splitfare suit through an opinion handed down by the supreme court declaring Judge Frank L. Covert, of the Oakland circuit had no authority to issue an injunction setting aside the straight two-cent rate established by the company May 4, 1920.

Petoskey.—Henry Kniffin and Joseph Burns, who escaped from the Emmet county jail recently, being recaptured in a swamp, were sentenced to serve from 1 to 15 years in the Ionia reformatory. Mrs. Austin, who aided in the escape, was given 6 to 12 months in the Detroit house of correction.

Kalamazoo.—Officials of three states are looking for James Jaisiek, Kalamazoo man, who left Chicago on his return trip to this city with $1,300 and has not been seen since. Jaisiek formerly lived at Chicago and went to the Windy city a week ago to withdraw the $1,300, which he had on deposit in a bank there.

Kalamazoo.—Men are about 30 times as bad as women, according to the annual report made to the board of supervisors by Sheriff Fred Putnam. During the fiscal year ending June 30, according to the report, 827 prisoners were lodged in the Kalamazoo county jail. Of the 827, only 27 were women, the proportion of men prisoners being about 30 to one.

Saginaw.—Returns here showed a 2 to 1 vote against the granting of a new 30-year franchise to the Saginaw-Bay City Railway company. The charter provided for a joint control of the lines by company officials and the city through a commissioner of utilities. It is thought a receiver will be asked for the company, which, officials claim, has been operating at a loss for some time.

Pontiac.—The C. R. Ferguson private bank at Almont, Lapeer county, has closed its doors. No statement has been made public as to the bank's situation and depositors have not undertaken any action with regard to it. The bank was founded in 1872, by Charles Ferguson, and had an extensive business, somewhat curtailed, however, since foundation of a state bank there a few years ago.

Pontiac.—On the ground that the affidavits accompanying petitions for a special election on the revision of Pontiac's new commission-manager charter so as to return to the aldermanic government were insufficient under the state law, the city attorney has recommended to the commission that the petition be denied. The commissioners decided, however, to ask the attorney-general to rule on the matter.

Cadillac.—Mayor Perry F. Powers, who was auditor general 20 years ago, says during his term in office the supreme court made a decision denying the right of the legislature to increase the salaries of state officials, even though they are given extra duties. Mr. Powers cites that decision in support of Auditor General Fuller's refusal to pay extra compensation to members of the state administrative board.

Grand Rapids.—Pretty mermaids who frequent the city swimming pools and who refuse to leave at 9 p. m., the closing hour, are causing the guards considerable embarrassment, Robert M. Teller, superintendent of municipal recreation, says. The girls, it is charged, absolutely decline to leave the pools and since the guards are not permitted to use force to eject them, the guards are required to wait until the swimmers leave.

Saginaw.—John Bukenske, for nine years a member of the Saginaw police force; Cyril H. Chilton, former deputy register of deeds, and Rock Wood, were arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Schindehette on charges of attempting to buy off a witness in a Volstead act case against Oliver C. Hardy, proprietor of the Hardy hotel and former assistant clerk of the city police court. Hardy is now awaiting indictment by the United States grand jury at the next term of federal court at Bay City. Chief of Police McCoy made the complaints.

THE WOODS By DOUGLAS MALLOCH SYLVIA.

IT WAS because the dawn was in her eyes,
It was because the night was in her hair,
Because I heard the forest in her sighs,
I held her fair.
She came upon me 'neath the huddled eaves,
She walked beside me in the maze of men—
Her sadness, sadness of a wood that grieves,
Her smile, the sun again.
Her voice was like the whispering of trees,
Her laughter like the tinkle of a rill;
Her cheeks blushed roses, roses such as these
Upon the hill.
She was a river in a thirsty land,
A changeless star in midnight skies to shine
Her touch, to walk with Nature hand-in-hand—
And she was mine, was mine.
So leave me in the wood a little while;
Here where the grass is greenest let me lie.
The sun shall bring me once again her smile,
The wind her sigh.
Here only do we seem no more apart,
In verdant ways beneath the skies of blue;
The stirring earth will seem a beating heart,
The heart, the heart I knew.
Once only she could bring the forest near,
In those old days amid the panting crowd,
Once only she could make the stars appear
Beyond the cloud.
So now the forest that her soul expressed
To my own soul is her-interpret—
In every wind that wanders east or west
I hear but her, but her!

THE DAINTY HOME TABLE.

SINCE linen has been almost prohibitive in price and the linen in our chests has been cherished for state occasions, the little Japanese sets, cloths and napkins, which make no pretense of being anything more than cotton (but which have such pretty artistic designs, in good colors) have become very popular.
The well-kept dining table never looks better than when laid with pretty doilies, which most women enjoy making in their leisure moments.
The old fashion of loading the table with all sorts of good things has passed. We still have the desire to be well fed but with more comfort and greater health.
A dainty centerpiece of flowers or a small plant always adds to the appearance of any table. Flowers need not be of the choice hot house variety, for a bunch of beautiful clover is a thing of beauty and costs nothing.
Pretty little ferns may be taken up in the woods, planted in small pots and used for a table ornament.
The present fashion returns to the old way of serving desserts and salads at the table, letting each guest help himself to the amount he desires. This is both convenient and economical as it eliminates leftovers.

Famous Poem Founded on Fact
Mrs. Hemans' poem "Casablanca" is founded on the death of Louis Casablanca, a French naval officer. As captain of the flagship Orient, he commanded the fleet, which transported Napoleon to Egypt. In the battle of Abukir, Admiral Bruyeres was killed and Casablanca was put in command. He was wounded and the ship caught fire, but still he remained at his post. His 10-year-old son would not leave his father and both were killed when the ship was blown up.

Designed the White House.
The designer of the White House was James Hoban, born in Ireland about 1755. He came to the United States, settling in Charleston, S. C., and later to Washington when the city was first being laid out. He worked for the government for the greater part of his life. He is chiefly known for his work in connection with the White House, the rebuilding of which he directed after it was burned in 1814.

Origin of Wall Paper.
Wall paper originated in China, but in China it was not known as wall paper. It remained for the western world to take the idea of huge wall paintings, mounted upon rollers, which were mounted ceiling-high, but never affixed to the walls, and from such temporary decorations evolve the wall coverings of today.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens So Naturally that No-body can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied. Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful. This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

To Brighten Carpets.
Brighten your carpets after the dust has been beaten out of them by scattering on them cornmeal mixed with salt, and then sweeping them off. Spots can be removed by the use of ox-gall or ammonia and water.

Spinology

By Dr. John H. Albert, D. C.
Post Office Bldg., Charlevoix, M.

The spinal origin of disease was first brought to the attention of the general public through the chance discovery of a so called magnetic healer, who finding a mal-alignment in the spine of a deaf negro, thrust it into position with his hands, and to his surprise as much as the negro's deafness was relieved.

The science was developed, slowly at first, named chiropractic (khiro-praktik) from two Greek words meaning done with the hands or hand practice. With in a few years more had been learned of the function of the spinal nerves than in the two thousand years that gone before. It was learned that certain definite nerves controlled certain definite organs, that a pinching on a nerve caused an abnormal functioning of the organ which this nerve supplied with life giving energy and that the organ would become diseased. The symptoms expressed depended on the degree and character of the pinch.

At first the only patients that came to the chiropractic-physician were those that were positively beyond hope for any other system of healing to even give relief of the most temporary kind. Much to the surprise of the patients and their friends they actually did recover. Gradually, very gradually, patients whose complaints had not become chronic began to drift into the chiropractor's office and found that the chiropractor, by his adjustments relieved the more recent ailments as well. At the present time there are ten thousand chiropractic-physicians in the United States alone, you will find them in nearly every country, you will find millions of people in the United States who now call the chiropractor first, not waiting for the patient's vitality to be lowered by dosing, until the chances of recovery are less.

Now that chiropractic is becoming so wide spread and so thoroughly well known by intelligent and advanced people in all parts of the country it is arousing a great many inquiries on the part of those who have been slower to see its value, and adopt it as being of use to them.

People have thought that chiropractic is just a sort of indifferent manipulation or limited massage which might be of benefit in a case of sore muscles, a back ache, or something of that kind and are now surprised to learn that chiropractic is not limited; but is of broad and general application to the entire subject of dis-ease. Thousands of the more conservative people are now coming enthusiastically to the use of chiropractic, not only for themselves but for their families. They are hearing of its value and as a matter of information are now desirous of knowing what chiropractic will do and how it does it.

I shall endeavor to give you this information in a series of articles—first taking the more ordinary disorders of the body and later the less frequently met with dis-eases endeavoring to show how and why a pinched nerve will cause abnormal function (disease) why the chiropractor adjusts the spine and why recovery follows these adjustments. The following definition of chiropractic will be of benefit in the reading of the articles that are to follow and will help the reader to come to an understanding of what chiropractic really is. "Chiropractic is the science that teaches health in anatomic relation and dis-ease or abnormality in anatomic dis-ease, and teaches the art of restoring anatomic relation by a process of adjusting by hand."

The farmers' meeting at the Star Schoolhouse Monday evening July 25 was well attended both by farmers and threshing machine agents. It was finally decided to purchase stock in the machine already owned in Three Bells dist. by 8 stock holders. Another meeting was called for Monday, Aug. 1 to draw up articles of agreement. In the meantime it was planned to canvas the East end of Eveline twp. for members.

Among the agents to attend the thrasher meeting at the Star Schoolhouse July 25 were Mr. Evans of near Ellsworth who had a second hand machine and a Mr. Shepard and Foster for the Huron and Ford makes and Mr. Kurkall for the Greyhound of Toledo, O. who passed cigars.

Hoeing potatoes and cutting weeds are in order for hand labor and oat harvesting for team work.

Potatoes are coming fine now with about 3-4 of a stand for the earlier plantings and the later plantings are not up enough to tell how they will be but with the rain and cooler weather they should be fine.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

FACING THE MUSIC.

JUST when or under what circumstances the expression "facing the music," originated is, so far as I know, unrelated history, but one thing is certain, it is one of the most expressive of the many pungent Americanisms that a nation apt in coining phrases has originated.

I suspect that it had some sort of a military application in the beginning, that it meant that a soldier should always face the front where the band was playing and where the action was going on.

There are, as I understand it, only two explanations for a soldier being shot in the back.

One is that one of his own men, too excited to take proper aim, wounded him unintentionally. The other is that he had his back to the enemy and was running away.

The fellow that is facing the music never gets hit in the back.

That is just as true off the field of battle as it is on it. And it proves that there is only one way to fight and that is facing the foe squarely.

You never can evade REAL trouble. You may defeat it. You may overcome what seems insuperable. But to do that you have to FIGHT it, not FEAR it.

And the best way to battle anything is to face it squarely, fight it fairly.

If you ever saw two boxers in the ring and one of them fought with the side of his body towards the other, you will have noticed perhaps that the man who fought sideways never landed a blow with the hand that was farthest from his opponent.

If he tried to strike with it his competitor knew long enough in advance to thoroughly guard himself against its effects.

The well-trained boxer faces the music. He stands squarely in front of his adversary where either hand will have to travel the shortest possible distance to land.

The man who turns away from trouble, who thinks to escape it by avoidance, who doesn't face it bravely and manfully indicates a lack of courage and an absence of judgment.

Nothing will give your adversary more encouragement than the evidence which you may display of a desire to quit.

Many a man has won a fight after he has lost it simply because his opponent gave up when he was not defeated.

There was only one man on the ships of Columbus who really made the trip from Spain to the new world and that was Columbus himself. All the others quit days before the shore of San Salvador was sighted. Columbus won because he never turned his back to the dangers, never took his eyes from looking forward, he always faced the music.

There are two splendid memorials to this exhibition of sheer courage. One is the statue of Columbus in front of the great terminal station at Washington; the other the inspiring poem "Sail On" by Joaquin Miller. If you cannot go to see one you can surely read the other without great trouble.

If danger threatens you FACE IT. If adversity threatens you FACE IT. If you have lost your job or your money or even your sweetheart put on the best front you know how and battle whatever circumstance presents itself face to face.

It is related by Sir Charles Napier that by fearlessly facing a tiger he sent it cowering back into the jungle. If he had turned away in the slightest degree he would have been killed.

The Psalmist says, "Thou madest him (man) to have dominion over the works of Thy hand. Thou hast put all things under his feet."

One of the truest things ever said by a politician was the telegram which a state of Maine man sent to a despairing candidate—"Remember God hates a quitter."

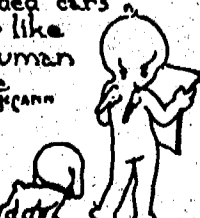

Everybody hates a quitter. A man may love and gain applause but a quitter doesn't get even sympathy.

Face the music. Fight a good fight. Then, win or lose, you will have done yourself the credit of trying the best you knew how, of giving the best that was in you, or being down, perhaps, but never out.

Facts about your name; its history; meanings; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

LENORE.

MADE famous in this country by Poe, Lenore is in reality the Spanish transformation of one of the most ancient of feminine names—Elen. Its original root was "Helios," the Greek sun-god who drove his heavenly chariot around the heavenly vault day by day, the name signifying light and brightness.

Every language, practically, has brought its distinguishing mark to the original name, and Lenore is one of the most beautiful and musical of the derivatives. In Italy, Leonora is one of the forms, Eleanor in England, Eileen in Ireland, and so on.

The original Spanish derivative was Lemore, in which the "n" gradually displaced the "m."

The jewel assigned to bearers of this name is the beautiful yellow jacinth—a stone formerly carried by travelers to insure them against accident and disease. A fantasy associated with this gem is that it warns its wearer of approaching danger by growing pale in color and it also is supposed to guarantee protection from lightning. The lucky day of Lenore is Sunday and 6 is her lucky number. To dream of her natal stone, the yellow jacinth, is interpreted to mean success in any undertaking she may be interested in at the time.

MONOGRAMS.

THE origin of monograms is probably Egyptian; we are certain that the Greeks and Romans used these devices. The merchants of the Middle Ages used calligraphic interwavings of letters as their distinctive marks, and the great Charlemagne used a cipher as his signature to conceal his ignorance of writing. The old-time painters and printers also had their private marks made of their initials. It was not until the Nineteenth century, however, that monograms became popular.

SOPHIA.

THE wisest of feminine names is Sophy, or Sophia, as she should be called properly. It is perhaps the only name which is closely associated with Divine attributes, since its origin dates back to the dedication of that most gorgeous of Christian temples by which Justinian declared that he had surpassed Solomon. It was called St. Sophia (the holy wisdom of God). According to the "Preacher" in the Book of Ecclesiastes, Wisdom is the mother of fair Love, Hope and holy Fear, and this idea is said to have suggested the allegory of the holy woman with three daughters so called, and in compliment to the newly built church, the niece of Justinian's empress, afterward wife of his nephew and successor, was called Sophia. The name straightway became fashionable among the daughters of the nobility of Greece and was carried, through Slavonians, to Germany.

History records a Hungarian princess of that name in 910, and another, daughter of King Geysa, married Magnus of Saxony and spread the use of the name throughout Saxony. Denmark is said to have received it through this latter princess and has since made it almost a national name. Its vogue with the royalty of Denmark is unmistakable and its use spread through all classes.

England barely escaped having a Queen Sophia and even though Sophia Dorothea of Yette never actually ascended the throne of England, her granddaughters gave it vogue in the British Isles in the reign of the House of Hanover.

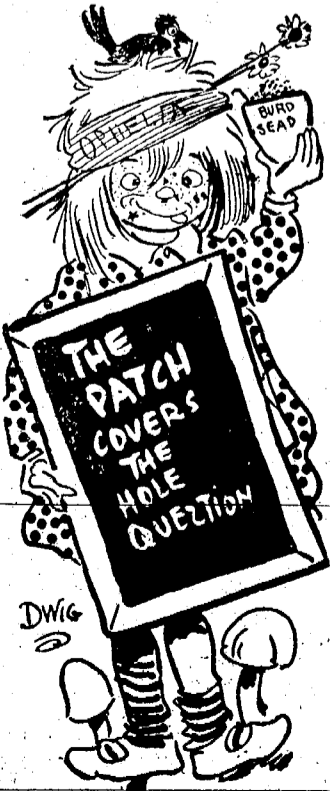

England claimed both Sophia and Sophy. France makes her Sophie; Italy Sofia, Germany Sophia and Pleka; and Russia Sofia.

Sophia has an old talismanic stone—malachite. It protects its wearer from danger, if it is engraved with an image of the sun. It is particularly potent for children and is said to ward off disease and promote peaceful slumber if attached to a child's cradle. Saturday is Sophia's lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

THE WOODS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

INSPIRATION.

A POET sang of human things,
Of gorgeous queens and mighty kings,
And gems that glister;
He praised the brassy front of show,
The ruby's fire and diamond's glow,
Yet none would listen.

He wove him many labored rimes
Of ended days and coming times,
Of deeds that stirred him;
He wrote of pomp and circumstance,
The flap of flag, the light of lance,
But no one heard him.

And thus he learned to know the pain
Of him who sings but sings in vain
To ears averted,
Like one who wakes his sweetest tone
To unresponsive walls of stone
In halls deserted.

When all the merry melodies
He sang his fellow men to please
Brought none to hear him,
He turned from splendor and from puff
To sing a measure for himself,
A song to cheer him.

He wrote a song of long ago—
A vale where yellow lilies grow
Beside a river,
A path that leads the weary feet
Where meadowland and waters meet
And rushes quiver.

He wrote a song of childhood days,
Of pleasant shade and wooded ways
And summer quiet—
A bridge that spanned a gushing rill,
A humble cot upon a hill,
With roses by it.

'Twas not the creature of his art,
This song upwelling from his heart
In moments lonely;
With memory his eyes grew dim,
For then his own soul sang to him,
The poet only.

But other mortals heard his tale
Of woodland path and verdant vale
To heaven winging,
And men who scorned his song before
Sought out the poet's open door
To hear him singing.

Thus came to him his mistress Fame,
Clad in her aureole of flame
And smile supernal,
No more a fleeting vision now,
She placed upon the singer's brow
The kiss eternal.

And then the poet, fool and sage,
Turned gently from his written page,
While bravos thundered,
And, when he saw the listening throng
Of those who once had spurned his song,
He greatly wondered.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"POLTROON."

AT THE time of the drafts during the Civil war and the World war there were a few men who attempted to avoid compulsory military service by cutting off their trigger or first finger, arguing that this would prevent their being mustered into the army. On no less an authority than Archbishop Trench, a deep student of English, we find that a similar practice was responsible for the introduction into the language of the word "poltroon" as a synonym for ardent coward.

"In olden times," states the archbishop, "a self-mutilation of this description was not infrequently on the part of some cowardly shirking fellow who wished to escape his share in the defense of his country. He would cut off his right thumb, become incapable of drawing a bow and thus useless for the wars. It was not to be wondered at that Englishmen should have looked with extreme disdain upon one who had so basely exempted himself from service nor that the Latin phrase 'pollice truncus'—one deprived of his thumb, later shortened to the two-syllabled 'poltroon,' should afterward have become a name of scorn affixed to every base and cowardly evader of the duties and dangers of life."

Something to Think About
By F. A. WALKER

MEN'S WEDDING RINGS.

THE Brooklyn Eagle, which reports most things accurately and well, published the news that in its city the use of wedding rings for men is gaining rapidly in popularity. This is interesting and important if it means that men are coming to take the marriage ceremony and its vows more seriously and that the divorce rate is as a consequence to cease in its upward trend.

The wedding ring is a relic of savagery. It is probably a descendant of the metal bracelet and chain by which the earlier tribes of men assured themselves that their spouses would not wander away from the house domicile while the master of the house was away hunting.

Some more engaging wife, having convinced her husband of unquestionable fidelity, was rewarded by having the bracelet replaced by the ring and the chain done away with altogether. The ring by itself showed that she was married. The absence of the chain said, "Here is an exceptionally fine wife." That flattered and pleased both parties.

But if the modern woman is expected to wear a wedding ring and advertise her married position, what good reason is there why the husband should not be marked in an equally prominent manner and his limitations of freedom equally advertised?

An old custom of the marriage ceremony consisted of putting the wedding ring first on the thumb, then on the first finger, then on the second, speaking the names of the Trinity as the ceremony proceeded, and, finally, when it rested on the third finger, it was supposed to signify that next to her duties to God the wife recognized her duties to her husband.

Of course, it ought not to require a ring or any other form of emblem to make a man or a woman hold sacred the vows of the altar. If a thin band of gold or platinum is all that restrains either one of them from wandering, then the divorce court is not very far away.

To most women the wedding ring is a very sacred thing. It is the last thing that goes to the pawnshop when adversity demands its toll. Just how much it means to the men, who in accordance with the new custom will wear it, is a question that only a test will settle.

The question of divorce in this country is fast getting to be of such dimensions as to demand serious corrective attention.

In twenty years the number of divorces granted annually has increased from about 60,000 to 133,000 with a total in the twenty years of nearly two millions.

In Nevada there are almost as many divorces as there are marriages, but since Nevada has been the resort of many citizens from other states seeking freedom from marital ties, it may be fairer to point to Oregon, which has only two and a half tin marriages as divorces.

In six counties in four states the record shows 50 per cent more divorces than marriages.

The innocent parties to these disagreements are the children and in the past 20 years more than 1,800,000 sons and daughters of disagreeing parents have been involved in the court proceedings which followed the desire for separation.

In many states it has come to be easier to get divorced than it is to get married. Scarcely two states have divorce laws alike, and what is illegal in one state becomes perfectly all right so far as the statutes go the minute the imaginary line between it and another commonwealth is crossed.

Perhaps the custom of wedding rings for men will have a good effect on the bad record recited above.

Perhaps, on the other hand, the men will wear their badges of matrimony in their vest pockets whenever they think a more conspicuous display will interfere with an evening a little gayer than they would have at home.

But whatever means is necessary for the correction of present conditions should be determined and put into force.

Marriage should be made less of a farce and divorce less of a joke than present records show both to be.

The marriage relation is an important part of our civilization. It merits more attention and more perfection than it is at present receiving.

Mother's Cook Book

A life spent in brushing clothes and washing crockery and sweeping floors, a life which the proud of earth would have treated as the dust under their feet; a life spent at a clerk's desk, a life spent in a narrow shop, a life spent in the laborer's hut, may yet be a life so ennobled by God's loving mercy that for the sake of it a king might gladly yield his crown.—Canon Farrar.

ECONOMICAL DISHES.

ANYONE who can get to the fields to gather the delicious field mushroom, has a luxury for which the wealthy pay a high price. If one learns a few varieties of the common mushroom and adheres strictly to that knowledge, never risking a doubtful one, there will be many delightful dishes which the family may enjoy, free of expense. Pounds of this wholesome food goes to waste each year because people either lack the knowledge of preparing and cooking it or pass it by without a look. The simplest method of preparation is to peel the caps, cut up both stems and caps and saute in a little butter; when thoroughly cooked, add cream and serve on toast or as any creamed vegetable.

Smothered Calf's Liver.

Make 12 incisions in the upper surface of the liver with a sharp knife, having the cuts parallel. Insert bits of bacon in the cuts, sprinkle with salt, celery salt and dredge with flour; put three thin slices of bacon in a hot frying pan, put in the liver and brown the surface, turning frequently. Remove to a casserole, add five slices of carrot, half an onion, two sprigs of parsley, 12 peppercorns, two cloves and two cupfuls of boiling water. Cover closely and cook in a moderate oven an hour and a quarter, basting every 15 minutes. Remove the liver to a hot platter, reduce the liquid to one-half and strain over the meat. Surround with canned or freshly cooked string beans well seasoned with butter, pepper and a dash of vinegar and salt.

LET your slogan be better and more trade schools for girls. There are far more trade schools for young men than for young women, yet it is becoming almost as usual for the girls of the family to earn their living as for the boys. Very few girls nowadays are satisfied with staying at home and going into society. They want to work at something; they want their independence. And they deserve training and proper opportunity.

Many women in the smaller towns are eager for training that will fit them to earn a living, and they cannot get it. This is all wrong, and it is up to us to get our schools. One girl I know wanted a course in photography, for which she had a strong leaning. She had to travel hundreds of miles and spend much money to get it. She could afford to do so and she has now a good business back in the town from which she started. What is more, she is conducting a class in her specialty. But she believes that it would pay her town to run a vocational school for girls that would teach photography as well as many other vocations. And she is working for such a school.

It is a pity to force so many girls into the weary road of stenography simply because it is so often impossible to get the needed training in the hundreds of other vocations open to them. Let every town insist on its trade school. It will pay for itself a thousand times over.

BE RID OF THAT ACHE

If you are a sufferer with lame back, backache, dizziness, nervousness and kidney disorders, why don't you try the remedy that your own neighbors recommend?

Mrs. Wm. Harrington, East Jordan, says: "I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for I have used them with very beneficial results. I was troubled considerably with dull, nagging backaches and distressing pain through my kidneys. My kidneys were very irregular in action. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they helped me wonderfully by relieving the backache and correcting the action of my kidneys. I have used Doan's in the past and they have always given me the best of relief and satisfaction." (Statement given on Aug. 3, 1909.)

On April 23, 1920, Mrs. Harrington added: "I haven't had occasion to use a kidney medicine since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me years ago. The cure proved to be complete in all respects and has stood the test of time. I recommended Doan's in 1909 and I am happy in saying that I am as strong for them as ever. I gladly confirm the state I made in that year."

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT

Finish the Kidneys at once when Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by finishing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithine and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

SCHOOL DAYS

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

DEPENDENT ON OTHERS.

Did you ever stop to realize how dependent you are upon the thoughts and efforts of your fellow men?

Did you ever try to imagine just what would happen to you if you were left alone on this round globe with all its wealth, all its resources and all its possibilities?

It might teach you a lesson in humility if you gave it the proper consideration.

The money would be worth nothing to you for there would be no person from whom you could buy.

You could not even be charitable and give it away for there would be none to accept it.

What would happen to you then happens in a lesser measure every day now.

Let us suppose you are a millionaire with plenty of money and a desire to spend it, we will say, for a beautiful home.

Suppose again that the masons and the carpenters and the plasterers and the hundred and one other artisans whose handwork go into a fine home, refused to accept your money or do your work. How would you get your home?

You might by dint of hard work build yourself a shelter, but it would not be at all what you wanted nor in the least what you could afford.

You see, then, that although you were a millionaire, you are dependent for your home comforts upon the willing efforts of others.

Suppose, on the other hand, that you are a poor man, not poverty-stricken, but poor in the sense of modern fortunes.

You have saved a few hundred dollars, bought a bit of ground and wish to build yourself a home.

In order to do it you have to borrow money. Suppose the bank, or the building association, or whatever organization you apply to just plainly and bluntly refuses to loan you a penny.

You will find yourself in the same predicament that the millionaire was in. You cannot have the kind of home you want and can afford. You are dependent on others for that.

Every morning when you eat your breakfast you are eating, in part, the labor of hundreds of men and women. The clothes you wear, the shoes you walk in, the hat that shelters your head, all the necessities, to say nothing of the luxuries, you enjoy are the fruit of your dependence upon other people.

If you could analyze your needs for one day and count the human beings that labored to satisfy them with either toll or money, you would find that scores and scores of people had been indirectly in your employ and working in your behalf.

And, on the other hand, you have the satisfaction of knowing if you do an honest day's work that you have labored to help scores of others.

It is the lack of recognition given to the fact that we are all dependent each upon the other that leads to our greatest troubles. It is that pits capital against labor and labor against capital. It is that causes the war between classes and the wars between nations.

If you fully recognized your indebtedness to your fellow man, you would want to help him because by doing so you would be indirectly helping yourself.

If everybody in the world set out to gouge and cheat everybody else in the world, it would be only a short time before there would be utter chaos, commercially, and morally.

It is because only a comparative few try at one time to get all they can regardless of methods or results that keeps the world on an even keel and society from toppling to destruction.

The more we recognize that we must rely and depend upon each other, the higher consideration we have for the good of the world as a whole and the more nearly we come to being truly civilized.

God in His wisdom made no one absolute.

The only such power that has ever been bestowed has been placed and recognized by subjects who thought they needed to be ruled, which was a conclusion not very complimentary to themselves.

It is really worth while for you to think for a few minutes on what an inefficient and incompetent being you are when you divorce yourself from all outside aid. It will help you to be meek and in the greatest sermon ever preached it was said, "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth."

The Ostrich is Shedding a Toe.

The common ostrich has only two toes, but certain individuals, it appears, are tending to lose one of these. Possibly, in time, there will arise a one-toed form, analogous to the present day one-toed horses, whose ancestors had as many toes as the ancestors of the ostrich.

TWO WOODEN DOLLS.

ONCE in a shop window hung by a string a little wooden Boy-Doll, and not far away by a string hung a little wooden Girl-Doll.

As they were both made of wood, Boy-Doll thought it would be a very proper thing for him to do if he asked Girl-Doll to marry him, for he had long been in love with her.

But when he told his love one night when all was still, Girl-Doll turned up the tip of her little painted nose and tossed a wooden head. "I shall marry no one beneath me," she said, "but some one nearer my equal."

"But we are both made of wood," pleaded Boy-Doll, as he looked up at his sweetheart, hanging above him.

"That makes no difference," said the haughty little Girl-Doll. "I am above you; that you can plainly see."

Boy-Doll had to admit that this was true; he also knew that on the same line with Girl-Doll hung a Worsted Girl dressed in blue, and toward him Girl-Doll had looked when she spoke of marrying one who was her equal. Wooden Boy-Doll was very unhappy, for he knew no way of getting up where Girl-Doll was hanging and he was sure she never would come down to where he sat on the floor of the shop window.

At night he could hear Girl-Doll and Boy-Blue talking and he heard her tell him that all that separated them was the Jumping Jack that hung between them.

"Oh, dear," thought Wooden Boy, "instead of one rival I have two. I never will be able to win her. Even if I could be hung on the same line, there would be many between us."

So little Boy-Doll sat very sad and lonely on the floor and thought of his sweetheart, far above him, at whom he could only look, but not once did she lower her proud little wooden head to look at her true lover.

But one day, when all seemed lost to little Boy-Doll, for Jumping Jack had been sold and now there was nothing to keep Girl-Doll and Boy-Blue apart, the spring that held Girl-Doll broke and down she tumbled right beside Boy-Doll.

Girl-Doll looked up at Boy-Blue, but he did not lower his head; she was too far beneath him to be noticed.

That night, when all was still, Girl-Doll sat close to Boy-Doll, for the shopkeeper had placed her there. "It is very pleasant down here," she said. "I think I shall like living here."

Then the heart of little Wooden Boy went pit-a-pat and he grew quite bold. "We are equal now," he said, "don't you think we might get married?"

"Of course, silly Boy," answered Girl-Doll, "that was why I came down."

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meanings; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

ROSE.

ROSE by any other name would still be a rose, according to etymologists. The fortunate possessor of one of the most popular flower names has a charmingly fragrant origin. It seems that all countries and languages agree in expressing a rose by its color.

Even the Syrian name for the oleander (rose laurel) is rodyon. Greece produced a Rhoda, which has since come to be a modern name of wide vogue.

The first feminine names to be connected with the fragrant flower called a rose were Rosalia and Rosalia, which, curiously enough, are said to come from the French and Latin of Rosa, meaning fame, rather than from the flower. England's most famous Rosalia was the wife of Gilbert de Gaunt. There were many Rosalias among the De Bohuns and De Veres and the wife of Hubert de Dover in the reign of Henry II was so called.

Ireland adopted the English form and changed it to Rose, whereupon it found vogue in all classes and is still one of the most popular peasant names. Germany took it and made from it the diminutives, Rosal and Roschen. Rosita is a lyric form found only in Peru, but is none the less charming. Our own whim of Latinizing our short feminine names, following the Spanish-American war, has made Rosita almost equivalent to Rose; certainly every Rose has an etymological right to call herself Rosita if she so fancies.

Everyone is familiar with the Rose of Tennyson's "Gardener's Daughter";

Who has not heard Of Rose, the Gardener's daughter? Where was he, So blent in memory, so old at heart, At such a distance from his youth in grief, That, having seen, forgot? The common mouth,

So gross to express delight, in praise of her Grew oratory. Such a lord is Love, And Beauty such a mistress of the world. The moss again is Rose's talismanic stone. It insures a bold heart and freedom from danger, if worn as an amulet. Tuesday is Rose's lucky day and 2 her lucky number. The wild rose is her flower.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. LURIE

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"GENTS" AND "PANTS."

DESPITE the fact that all critics—and even many writers who are not disposed to be very critical—have condemned the use of the word "gents," for "gentlemen," the former word is still used in common speech and in numerous advertisements. "Clothing for ladies and gents" is advertised, and in announcements of entertainments we are told that "Gents' tickets are $1, ladies' 50 cents." The following was overheard recently: "Oh, Mary, did you see the man who picked up my purse?" "Yes; he looked like a perfect gent."

Never say "gent;" say "gentleman." The word "pants," as an abbreviation for "pantaloons," is also condemned by critics; but "pantaloons" is now seldom used, so the only word that is left when one wishes to describe a man's nether garment, is "trousers."

CHEWING GUM.

ORIGINALLY men chewed spruce gum, which exuded from the trees; later pure paraffin wax became popular. The modern gum, with the chicle base, comes from the Indians, who used to chew chicle to quench their thirst. The growth of the industry may be seen from the fact that while in 1885 the United States imported 920,950 pounds, in 1910 5,000,000 pounds were imported.

Nail-Making in United States.

Of the early American inventions for the manufacture of nails the only one which has survived is that patented in 1798 by Ezekiel Reed of Bridgewater, Mass. In 1888 cut nails were first made of steel, and wire nails were manufactured for the first time in the United States about 1851. Twenty-five years later Father Goober, a priest, began their manufacture in Covington, and the American Wire and Nail company was established a year later under his leadership. The output of cut nails has varied from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 kegs a year, while their exportation rose from 1896, when it amounted to 20,000,000 pounds, to over ten times those figures in 1914.

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFIE

WHEN HE DRINKS TEA.

IN THE minds of a good many young men afternoon tea drinking is essentially a feminine pastime and the young man who is versed in the genteel ceremony is by these looked upon as a Miss Nancy sort of person. But many of our soldiers who had been in England came home with quite a taste for the cup that cheers but does not inebriate, and before long tea will be quite the most stimulating beverage that any one can get, anyway. The prediction is made that the custom of tea drinking in the afternoon—already as popular among men as women in England—will become much more general among all classes of Americans. The large hotels are preparing to see many more men in their tea rooms. So the up-to-the-minute young man had better become fairly expert in the genteel art of drinking tea.

The idea used to be that when one drank tea in the afternoon one must hold one's cup and saucer deftly in the left hand. It was considered quite incorrect to let it rest on a conveniently placed table or stand. But now, although we certainly do not sit at a table when we drink tea in our homes, we do not spurn the assistance of the little individual stands that come in sets of five or six and form a "nest" when not in use. At hotels and "tea rooms" however, one takes afternoon tea from a table just as one takes any other meal.

Now, of course, one is not supposed to "make a meal of it" at afternoon tea. If toast and cakes are served, a couple of small pieces of toast and one or two cakes should be sufficient. It is unusual to serve anything more than toast or little cakes or sweet crackers, with sometimes candies, or jam with the toast. When jam is served, it is usually placed in small portions on a bit of toast. When jam is served, of course a plate must be used. Otherwise the cake or biscuit is very often simply placed on the saucer.

Spilled Ink.

A mixture of salt and milk will entirely remove spilled ink from a carpet if it is applied at once. The milk should first be poured over the ink, when it will float to the fatty surface, then soak up as much as possible with an old sponge or piece of soft rag. The stain should next be rubbed in a circle with salt dampened with a little milk until it cannot be seen. As soon as the rag is soiled it should be renewed.

THE WOODS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE PATH.

IT WINDS its way along the shaded hill, Disdaining distance, seeking only ease. It turns aside to linger by a rill. It climbs a slope to rest beneath the trees. Or breathe the perfume of a Summer breeze.

Here time is nothing, haste a thing unknown— The hot, straight highway for the craze of speed; The path is made for them who walk alone. Whose God is Nature, and the woods their creed; To follow blindly where the path may lead.

No stern surveyor made it thus and so, Nor north nor south nor east nor west it tends. It dips to kiss the pool where lilies grow. It rises joyously where ivy bends. And meets in fond embraces with its friends.

Through brooding branches and embroidered leaves The sunshine filters in a golden rain, Transforms the tufted weeds to shining sheaves, The tangled grass to waving harvest grain. The marshy musk to a purple plain. This is a path of velvet from the loom. Of droning Summer. Never human hand

Wove such a pattern, bright with rose bloom. Along its border. Never artist planned This brilliant carpet flung across the land.

Now princes leave their castles, kings their thrones, And unattended walk these sylvan aisles. They pause to muse beside this heap of stones. More beautiful than all the granite piles Reared with slow labor on their ample miles.

Sweet, solemn splendor of the silent wood, More dear you are than all the haunts of men; For never mortal in your presence stood. And listened to the whisper of the glen. But songs forgotten sang to him again, Perhaps it is his mother's voice he hears. The faint re-echo of her cradle croon That sends him groping down the ended years.

To find some long-discarded boon, To find again some long-departed June. Then, by the magic of the shade and sun, Of tree and rose and brook and verdant sod, This world shall seem to be that other one. Where feet walk never, yet where souls have trod— And he shall hold communion with his God.

THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

FARM WIFERY.

THE famous land army of women who took to agriculture under the stress of war demands is now disbanded. Some of its work was remarkably good, some of it very poor, as is the case with most mundane things. But one interesting fact is noted. This is that women seem to do better with animals than men.

Women are especially valuable with fine, high-grade, expensive stock. They are willing to mother the young, to take a world of trouble to save an ailing calf or lamb or chicken or turkey, or to nurse a sick adult animal. They work with more affection for their charges than is the rule with men. And affection appears to be an excellent commercial factor. Farm wifery pays.

Many girls are beginning to take courses in the various agricultural schools and colleges all over the country with a real ambition to take up some form of farming. Advice from responsible sources seems to indicate the advisability of their specializing on animal raising. Small sheep farms, fancy poultry, blooded cattle will prove paying fields. Girls who are well-trained in such matters, and who have a liking for the work, can look forward to success.

But an important development that may be helped by judicious advertising and education is the employment of women instead of men in large establishments that are given to the raising of fine breeds on a large scale.

Once the women have proved their worth in such positions they will find it an interesting and profitable profession.

Mother's Cook Book

Health is possible to almost every child. But it is within reach of children of all circumstances, only as they are aided by adults to whom they must look for responsible care and an earnest, intelligent interest in child welfare.

THINGS TO REMEMBER.

ORANGE JUICE a teaspoonful at a time, strained free from all pulp, is a most delightful and refreshing drink for very young children. It should be given neither before nor immediately after milk.

The acids in fruit play an important role in destroying those germs which create gases and cause auto intoxication. Fruit juices act on the kidneys and at the same time are a natural laxative.

As children suffer with their teeth, when the little gums are swollen and inflamed, a drink of cool water will give them much relief.

Water should not be iced but cool enough to be palatable, either summer or winter and the amount each individual should take depends largely upon the food eaten. If one eats freely of juicy fruits, succulent vegetables and drinks much milk, less water will be required. But even a very young baby should be given frequent drinks of cold water.

A juicy, good flavored apple is better than medicine, and should be eaten daily and often. Scraped apple may be given to babies.

To keep the body in good condition drink freely of water before retiring and early in the day. The water may be hot or cold, suiting the needs of the individual.

Overeating and little drinking of water is said to be the great American failure in dietetics. We must get away from the Kentucky colonel's idea "that water is all right for navigation purposes, but a very poor drink."

"ZOUAVE."

PRIOR to the World war, one of the most dreaded branches of the French army was the Zouaves, a corps which was famous for its reckless bravery and fearless courage as it was conspicuous by reason of the bright red and very baggy trousers which it wore. The progress of military science and the great increase in the range of modern rifles rendered the red uniform a target for all sharpshooters, so the scarlet trousers had to be replaced by a less conspicuous attire.

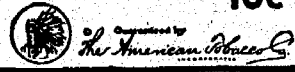

But the Zouaves, as a corps, continued to live up to their reputation for daring—a reputation responsible for their name, a somewhat more civilized rendering of the tribe-name of the Zouanous, an extremely warlike nation in Africa. The first levy of Zouanous was raised in 1830 by General Clausel and was originally composed of native African soldiers with French officers. Gradually, the natives were displaced by adventure-loving Frenchmen and, in 1841, the corps consisted of three battalions—each one of which has carved a niche for itself in the Parisian hall of fame.

THE NEW DISEASE.

REDDY FOX, as everyone knows, is a very clever fellow. He gets his living by his wits as well as his courage.

One day while Reddy was eating his dinner out of his bright tinplate he happened to notice that as he moved it he made little flashes of bright light, for the sun was shining right on it.

Reddy Fox always thinks a great deal, and while he was throwing the light about the room he was thinking how he could use it to his advantage, meaning how he could play some trick on some one in a way that would get him something.

"I believe I can do it," he suddenly exclaimed, jumping up in such a hurry that he upset his chair. Then he washed his tin plate and, taking it under his arm, he hurried out of the house.

Mr. Coon had a pantry filled with things that Reddy Fox liked, but Mr. Coon had not invited him to dinner once this long time, and now Reddy intended to get what he wanted without being invited.

Mr. Coon was sitting on his steps and Reddy had the tin plate under his coat. "You don't look well, Mr. Coon," he said. "Are you sick?" "Now that you mention it," said Mr. Coon, "I believe I do feel rather poorly, and I don't think I ate as much breakfast as usual."

That night, after Mr. Coon had run away for a change of climate, he suddenly discovered, while running, that he was feeling very well and not at all ill.

"I guess I was not as sick as I thought, after all," he said. "I believe I will go back home, and if I have a second spell of flashes I can go away for good, for Reddy Fox said the third attack was the danger point."

It was moonlight when Mr. Coon came to the path that led to his house in the woods, and as he came to the brush where Reddy Fox had hidden his bright tin plate Mr. Coon saw something glint.

"That looks like Reddy Fox's plate," said Mr. Coon. "Now I wonder how it happened to be here. Anyway, finding it is keeping in the woods, and I need a new plate."

When he reached his house he was surprised to hear deep breathing coming from his bedroom, and not wishing to get into any trouble, Mr. Coon climbed in the pantry window.

He was sitting on the sill listening, when the moonlight streaming in showed him two empty shelves.

Mr. Coon stared, then he scratched his head, and then he listened, and then he looked at the tin plate.

By that time he had come to the conclusion that Reddy Fox had played a trick on him.

Whether Reddy Fox ever knew who was to blame for his fright Mr. Coon never knew, but when one day Reddy stopped to speak to Mr. Coon and found him eating his dinner from a tin plate he did not let on he noticed it.

It was a long time after this that Mr. Coon discovered about the flashes. He was eating his dinner, and having made his tin plate very clean by eating all that was on it, he picked it up, and the sun striking it made little flashes round the room.

"Oh," said Mr. Coon, "that was the way he did it. Well, I don't see but what I got the best of it, for I have a nice bright plate and he has nothing to show for his trouble."

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

WHEN HE CALLS.

Practice in time becomes second nature.

IN A MOTION picture recently produced, the charming young actress impersonating a New York society girl receiving the call of one of her men friends takes the caller's hat and coat from him as he enters the hall. Now as a matter of fact no girl who knew social usage would do that. Of course, if the man were aged or otherwise too feeble to dispose of them himself, she would. Otherwise, if there is no servant at hand to take them from him, the young woman would simply show him where the hatrack was located. A young man caller need not be asked by his hostess to remove his coat. If a maid comes to the door he should remove his coat in the hall after he has taken off his hat and give them to the maid or hang them on the hatrack before going into the reception room or drawing room. If the young woman receives a caller in a sitting room above stairs he should leave his outer things in the downstairs hall before ascending.

The American girl should always extend her hand to the young man caller when he calls, if he has asked to see her. It was an old-time courtesy always to say "Pray be seated," or something of that sort, and the young man did not take a seat until he had been so requested. Now, however, we do not stand on such formality. The young man takes a seat after his hostess has been seated, but he avoids taking the most comfortable chair in the room.

The question is often asked by young women as to whether young men should be given refreshments when they call. If they come in the afternoon about four or five it is customary in large towns to serve tea, which the hostess dispenses from a tea table in the drawing room or living room. Of course, with the majority of young men, an afternoon call is an impossibility and all their calling is done in the evening. Now hospitality does not require any refreshments for the evening call; but, especially if the young man has expressed his intentions of coming a certain night, or if there are to be several callers, plan some light refreshments. In some families it is customary to have some sort of light refreshment toward the close of the evening anyway, and then it is hospitable to ask any callers who happen to be present to partake.

Now, here is something that every young man ought to bear in mind, and that is that his leave-taking should be brief. Having risen to depart, he should show decision of character and poise enough after bidding his hostess and others who may be present good-night, to go away at once, but often extremely young men, though they may be willing enough to leave, seem to be quite unable to do this. Of course this dallying is often the fault of those on whom they are calling, who open new topics of conversation just as they are departing, and make it difficult for them to leave at once. This also shows a certain lack of social poise.

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"HEALTHY" AND "HEALTHFUL"

THERE is a distinct difference in the meaning of these two words, and the distinction should be made by all who desire to speak and write correctly. "Healthy" means possessing or enjoying health or its effects, as, "a healthy person" or "a healthy condition." But "healthful" means promoting health, or adding to it, or preserving it. Thus, we say that a healthy person is the product of healthful surroundings. "The finances of the country are in a healthy condition." "Healthful living is conducive to length of life."

A correspondent of a newspaper wrote, "Are plants in a sleeping room healthy?" It was evident that she meant, "Does the presence of plants in a sleeping room affect the health of the occupant of the room?" Of course, a plant, in a sleeping room or elsewhere, may or may not be healthy; and its presence in a room may or may not be healthful for the human occupant.

CODES OF LAW.

THE earliest attempt at codifying laws was the famous code of Hammurabb, about 2000 B. C. This antedated even the Commandments given by Moses. It was very complete, covering nearly every contingency. The Greeks and Romans had codified laws, the most famous being the Julian and Augustan codes. The Napoleonic code, famous in its time, still survives at the present day.

No Tides in the Great Lakes? There are no recognized tides in the Great Lakes similar to what occur in the oceans, for the reason that those bodies of water are too small and irregular. Occasionally, however, tidal waves occur in one or more of the lakes, due to atmospheric conditions, such as great differences in atmospheric pressure and the prevalence of gales.
