High School Glee Club

Seventy Voices In East Jordan's New Musical Organization.

A High School Glee Club of seventy voices, in charge of Mrs. A. J. Duncanson, has been organized since October 15th. It is a new departure in the schools and one that should enlist the interest and support of every progressive school patron in the community. There is hardly a school in the state the size of East Jordan's but what has its music supervisor. It is considered of first importance for many reasons, which for lack of time and space cannot be discussed here. Suffice it to say, that the School Board and Supt. Duncanson are to be congratulated on the step they have taken.

Altho East Jordan is one of the last cities to institute music in the schools it however is a rather auspicious beginning. When you consider that there are forty girls and thirty boys in a Glee Club in a school the size of East Jordan's, it shows the demand and the progressive spirit of the East Jordan people. Cities with four or five hundred in the high school do not have a larger musical organization.

Athletics, debating, and football are important as far as they go. However, a debating team trains three, a football team eleven but here is the finest training for seventy. The comparison is evident. Perhaps more students depend on music to work their way thru college than by any other means. Of course the Glee Club does not make them musicians but it helps them to find themselves and gives the needed inspiration to many to become musicians.

Then we were unusually fortunate in securing a teacher of large experience and training to take charge of the work. Mrs. Duncanson graduated from the Public School Music Course at Central Michigan Normal College and later from the same course at Oberlin college. Not alone the training, but a very successful experience with Glee Clubs and orchestras at Care, Michigan and two or three other places fits Mrs. Duncanson admirably for her work with the Glee Club. People who know anything about developing a musical organization from green timber realizes that some months are necessary to weld a collection of voices into anything approaching unity. The expense of the whole undertaking is less than $250, a nominal sum indeed. At the same time we feel sure that later results will justify the interest and investment.

ANNUAL PRESBYTERIAN PRAISE SERVICE.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the Annual Praise Service of the Woman's Missionary Society at the Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning, Nov. 27th, at 10 o'clock. The Methodist congregation is invited to join us and Rev. Marshall will assist in the following program:

All fools are not dead and if they were we'd have to invent some new ones to keep the world from taking itself too seriously.

You are not much of a success if others do not have as much to thank you for as you have to be thankful for.

Just because a man is an animal he doesn't need to be a bear nor because a woman is an animal does she need to be a cat.

If you'd tell the truth you'd admit that it isn't the hard time you have which worries you half as much as the soft times you think you ought to have and haven't.

If you expect little out of life, that's what you'll get.

SAMUEL F. RICHARDSON PASSED AWAY SATURDAY LAST.

Samuel F. Richardson passed away at his home on North Main-st., last Saturday evening, Nov. 19th, following a lingering illness of stomach tuberculosis.

Deceased was born near East Jordan Sept. 1st, 1879, his parents being Samuel Richardson and Elizabeth Morgan. He attended our public schools and grew to manhood in this vicinity.

On March 27th, 1907, he was united in marriage to Miss Addie Pauline Kowalske at East Jordan. Two daughters were born to them—Ardith Elizabeth and Leoma Arlean—who with the wife and mother, survives the deceased. Other surviving relatives are one brother, William, of this city, and two sisters—Mary Healey and Margarette Melstir—both of Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. Richardson was well known throughout this region and popular among his associates. Of late years he was traveling salesman for farm implements and made a success of his calling. He was a member of South Lake Lodge No. 180 Knights of Pythias.

Funeral services were held from the Presbyterian Church Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 22nd, conducted by Rev. Marshall. Interment at Sunset Hill.

MISS GLADYS M. STOKES BECOMES BRIDE OF HARRY H. HOOVER

A pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Stokes last Monday evening, Nov. 21st, when their daughter, Miss Gladys May, became the bride of Harry H. Hoover, son of Mrs. Lillian Hoover of this city.

Rev. Thos. W. R. Marshall, pastor of the Methodist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives. The bride wore a white crepe-de-chine dress. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover are well known and popular residents of our little city and have the hearty congratulations of their many friends.

DEBATING TEAM IS ORGANIZED IN HIGH SCHOOL

East Jordan has again entered the Debating league and much enthusiasm is displayed by the contestants for a place on the team. Two of last year's debaters, Arthur Secord and Gayle Hudkins are out for the team and three others, Virginia Pray, Fern Flannery and Francis Coykendall will make the contest for the first speech a close one.

The first debate of the season will be held with Alba at East Jordan, December 9. The home team will uphold the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That the principle of the closed shop should receive the support of public opinion." They are busily engaged in completing a strong argument that they may uphold the splendid record that the East Jordan high school has made in the last two years.

IN-DOOR BASEBALL

Some cities for years have played more or less indoor base ball, Alpena, Owosso and a few others being the examples. However, it is just within the past two or three years that a great many cities have taken to this game. This year again, Traverse City, Petoskey and Manistee are going to have indoor baseball leagues. Why not East Jordan? Quite a number of organizations have spoken to Mr. Duncanson at the high school for the Gym and have liked the idea of a league, perhaps playing a game a week. It is the policy of Mr. Duncanson to make the high school a real community center. Why not accept the opportunity to form a league in baseball and have some exercise and fun thru the winter months.

To get to the point at once, this article asks that all interested in such a proposition meet in the High School Auditorium 7 o'clock, Wednesday evening, November 30. If your lodge or other organization desires to enter a team, you should be there, for enough have already signified their intention of entering such a league. Therefore, either call Mr. Duncanson at once or have representatives at the above mentioned meeting.

You should take a vacation. Even though you may not need a rest, those around you do.

The "Near East Relief"

East Jordan To Raise Its Quota Week of December 4th.

Most people understand at once what is meant by the "Near East Relief." However, there are a few things that should be mentioned at this time in order to acquaint the general public of the fact that the campaign to raise our quota for this very worthy cause will take place the week between Dec. 4th and 11th.

It may not be understood by all that the U. S. Congress took the responsibility for looking after the children and others in this region, for a period of five years, and turned it over to the American public to carry the relief through.

This being the third year, the quota is much smaller than formerly, being $300.00 for the city of East Jordan and vicinity.

The Committee in charge of the campaign appointed by the state manager, has arranged to have the matter presented to the community some time before the week of December 4th.

The Committee in charge are the following persons:

- Arthur K. Hill—Masonic Lodge
- Howard P. Porter
- Mrs. Henry Clark—Eastern Star
- Mrs. W. H. Sloan—Women's Study Club
- Mrs. Howard Porter—Improvement Club
- G. A. Lisk—Publicity Man.
- R. T. McDonald—M. E. S. S.
- R. O. Bisbee—Treasurer
- Mrs. G. W. Kitsman
- A. J. Duncanson—High School—Chairman.
- Miss Leonora McCarty—Secretary
- Ira D. Bartlett—Knights of Pythias.

The quota is small enough to be a burden to none and if we do our part we will go over the top easily. More will be given in a later issue of the Herald.

The following organizations will very likely be called upon to do their part:

- Masonic Lodge
- Eastern Star
- Women's Study Club
- Improvement Club
- Knights of Pythias
- Pythian Sisters
- Odd Fellows
- Lady Maccabees
- The Rebekahs
- W. R. C.
- G. A. R.
- M. E. Sunday School
- Catholic Church and School
- Methodist Church
- Presbyterian Sunday School
- Latter-Day Saints
- Sanctified Saints
- Lutheran Church
- Christian Science
- Rock Elm Grange
- Peninsular Grange
- Wilson Grange
- South Arm Grange
- The Gleaners.

MICHIGAN HEN COMES NEAR WORLD'S RECORD

Coming within eight eggs of the world's record for her breed, and within twelve eggs of the "all-breeds" record, Mary Ann II, a Barred Rock hen owned by the Michigan Agricultural College, has completed a year's egg production which has won her a lasting place in the poultry Hall of Fame. Mary Ann laid the remarkable total of 302 eggs between Nov. 16, 1920 and Nov. 15, 1921.

Proof that "blood will tell" is given by the fact that Mary Ann II has four sisters who produced between 200 and 250 eggs last year. She is the daughter of Mary Ann I, the founder of the now famous strain of Barred Rocks owned at M. A. C.

The "Ann" family are to be on display for class room work during a special Poultry Short Course which opens at the College on November 28 and runs four weeks.

"During the short course we will show how to raise hens capable of making such records, as well as how to handle them to make the records possible," says W. E. Newline, Assistant Professor of Poultry at M. A. C.

An advanced Poultry Husbandry course is to be given at the College in January, according to the Winter Short Course program. The work of both courses is designed for the practical man who is actually engaged, or expects to engage in poultry raising.

A hardened character sometimes can be softened by kind treatment.

Clean-up Squad At Petoskey

Veterans Having Claims To Be Given Hearing Dec. 5-7.

Veterans of the World War who have claims against the federal government will be given an opportunity to present their cases from Dec. 5 to 7, inclusive, in Petoskey, Mich.

A Clean-up Squad, whose duty is to hear such cases, will listen to veterans from Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

The Squad will hear only those claims which have to do with insurance, or compensation or vocational training. Under these heads, it will hear both new requests, and protests from men who consider their present awards inadequate.

Veterans who are uncertain whether they have claims are asked to get in touch with their local American Legion officials who will advise them.

Dr. Frank S. Broderick, state welfare officer of the Legion, sends the following message from Detroit:

"Every veteran who thinks he may have a claim should be ready to present it now. The Legion wants every case of the sort, the country over, heard and disposed of within a year at the outside.

"Veterans should have complete proof of their claims. For instance, if they claim that a present illness is traceable to their service, they should have sworn statements from physicians as to their health before the war, their present condition, and the incidents or circumstances in the service to which they attribute their trouble. They should not bring unsupported statements by relatives, or similar insufficient evidence. They should 'make their case entirely clear.'"

SOIL SURVEYS SEEN AS GUIDE TO BUYER

That soil surveys provide a valuable basis for the prospective land buyer is a standard for the banker in placing loans, and a general foundation for all future agricultural development is the contention of experts from all parts of the country who gathered at the Michigan Agricultural College Nov. 18 and 19 for the Second Annual Conference of the American Association of Soil Survey Workers.

Twenty-four states, ranging from California to New York, and five Canadian provinces were represented by fifty delegates who are the leaders in American Soil Survey work. Correlation of the survey programs in the different states and exchanged ideas on the newest developments in the field marked the deliberations of the delegates.

A boost for the Michigan soil survey, started on a small scale two years by the soils department at M. A. C. and the U. S. Bureau of Soils, cooperating, and pushed actively since, was expected as a result of the conference, which emphasized many problems pertinent to the Michigan work.

"Some soil survey work has been done in every state in the Union," said W. J. Geib, of Wisconsin, secretary of the Survey Association. "Canada is also taking up the survey question and will be organized in the near future. In Canada, as in this country the state or province agricultural colleges cooperate with the government departments in carrying out the work."

A paper on "Laboratory Work of Value to the Soil Survey" was given before the conference on Saturday morning by Dr. M. M. McCool, head of the M. A. C. Soils Department.

Safety Week To Be Dec. 4 to 10

Schools of Nation Are Preparing For the Campaign.

"National Safety Week" during which it is planned to stress safety education among grammar school pupils and teachers, will be observed throughout the country Dec. 4 to 10 as part of a national safety campaign being conducted by the highway and highway transport education committee.

According to information reaching the office of the committee, official proclamations setting the week aside are to be issued in many states. Schools are arranging special exercises, and in many cities civic clubs and other organizations will discuss the best means of reducing the number of automobile accidents. Chambers of Commerce, automobile clubs, and others who are cooperating with the committee in the conduct of this campaign, have written the Washington office of their intention to bring every influence to bear to reduce the number of accidents in their respective communities.

The week is to be a climax to the campaign, which is in the form of two contests, one among grammar school pupils and the other among grammar school teachers. Prizes for the pupils and for the teachers are offered as an incentive for them to participate. As a result, section vying against section in efforts to make the campaign effective in reducing the accident toll of the nation, which reaches a total of 10,000 fatalities annually.

EDISON BACKS FORD PROJECT

Inventor and Auto King to Visit Muscle Shoals Soon.

New York.—Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison have joined forces to make Muscle Shoals the "biggest thing in industry."

The automobile manufacturer and the inventor, in a conference here arranged to visit the big nitrate and power plant soon after Thanksgiving, when they will make a survey to determine how much it will cost the government to complete the project so that Ford can take it over.

Ford came here direct from a bedside conference with Secretary Weeks in Washington last Friday. Major details of Ford's offer to buy Muscle Shoals were agreed upon at this conference.

END OF MEDICINAL BEER SEEN

Senate Votes 56 to 22 On Anti-Beer Bill; Up To President.

Washington.—Congressional action on legislation to prohibit the medical prescription of beer and other malt liquors was completed, Nov. 18, through adoption by the senate, 56 to 22, of the conference report.

The legislation, which would also prohibit additional "teeth" in the nation's prohibition enforcement code, now goes to the president, the house having acted last August. Twelve Republicans and 10 Democrats voted against the conference report.

HOUSE VOTES HIGHER SURTAX

50 Per Cent Rate Passed Despite Harding Compromise Offer.

Washington.—Disregarding the expressed wish of President Harding, the house voted, 201 to 173, to accept the senate amendment to the tax revision bill fixing the maximum income surtax rate at 50 per cent on incomes of $200,000 or more.

Ninety-four Republicans, most of them from the middle and far west, joined with the practically solid democratic minority in supporting the amendment.

WOODWORTH JOB TO HARTMAN

Governor Makes Appointment for Ford and Drug Department.

Lansing.—William F. Hartman, of Grand Rapids, secretary of the Western Michigan Development Bureau, has been appointed by Governor Grosbeck to succeed Fred Woodworth as head of the state food and drug department. Woodworth was recently appointed federal internal revenue collector, with headquarters at Detroit.

EAST JORDAN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Charlevoix 20; East Jordan 7.

At the football game played in Charlevoix Saturday afternoon East Jordan was defeated by the score of twenty to seven. East Jordan started the game with three substitutes in the lineup and Charlevoix received. During the first quarter Charlevoix made one touchdown but failed to kick goal. During the rest of the first half the opponents made two more touchdowns and kicked goal both times. The second half started with East Jordan receiving. In six minutes the ball went across for a touchdown and Johnson kicked goal. During the rest of the game no scores were made by either side. East Jordan's lineup for Saturday's game was as follows:

- Malpass L. E.
- Summers L. T.
- Vance L. G.
- Jones C. C.
- White R. G.
- Walker R. T.
- Stewart R. E.
- Hudkins L. H.
- Hegerberg F. B.
- Streeter R. H.
- Phillips Q. B.

Substitution for East Jordan: Johnson for Hudkins, Hammond for Summers, Referee Alberts of Petoskey. Head Linesman, Tuttle of Charlevoix. Time of quarters in 1st half—15 minutes. Time of quarters in 2nd half—6 minutes.

Girls Basket Ball.

There are thirty girls from the Senior High out for Basket Ball this year and the East Jordan High School expects to see a good team develop from a raw bunch of students. The girls are having some fine practice games and they are all very enthusiastic about playing. Each girl that goes on the team will have to get a Doctor's written permit to allow her to play, showing that she is in a fit condition to do so. Then the East Jordan team will be a strong healthy team. The regular team has not been chosen yet as it takes time for the coaches, who are Miss Messelink and Miss Norton to select the best players for the right place. The girls who will be chosen, however, probably will be those that played on the regular team last year when they practiced. The girls play their first game a week from Wednesday and the opposition will be the Alumni team which consists of members of the Faculty and a number of our East Jordan girls.

Basket Ball Meeting.

A meeting of the candidates for Basket Ball was called Wednesday, Nov. 16th, under the supervision of Mr. C. Snellenberger. There are about 35 men who are out for the team. No team has yet been organized, but all are learning the fundamentals of the game. The schedule has been arranged and the first game is with Petoskey at Petoskey December 21st.

The Girl Scouts.

The girl scouts now are advancing very rapidly. The scouts are divided into squads and have learned to do the usual right and squad left along with the usual drills. They have elected a secretary, Vera Lohr, and treasurer, Marie McDonald, and Miss Norton is appointed as president.

English 10.

Some of our class officials were greatly surprised when we saw the "Place Map" drawn by Virginia Lehmann. In English each student drew a "place map" showing the travels of Abrahams generation from the book of "Old Testament Stories" which the class is reading. The best being Virginias which took a great deal of hard and tiresome work. Also next week we are to make maps of the story of Moses, and our class are hoping to produce as many more good maps as before.

WATSON REPEATS HANGING CHARGES

GEORGIA SENATOR FIRES COVERT THREAT AT PERSHING FOR STATEMENT.

TELLS OF GIBBETS IN FRANCE

Submits New Data of Alleged Executions of Soldiers Without Court Martials.

Washington.—Presenting further support for his charges that American soldiers were hanged overseas without court-martial, Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia, in the senate, turned his fire on Secretary Weeks and General Pershing because of their denial of the senator's assertions.

Alluding to a statement made by the war secretary that "no decent man" would make charges with respect to army nurses such as made several days ago in the senate, Senator Watson, while disclaiming any intent to attack the nurses as a whole, said he would leave to any impartial tribunal or judge whether he or Mr. Weeks was the more "decent." The senator said his charge as originally made was "that officers in too many cases made courtesans of the nurses."

"And I can prove it," he exclaimed. Reading General Pershing's statement, as made in Nashville, Tenn., that the Watson charges of illegal hangings and inhuman treatment of privates by officers was a "most outrageous and untrue accusation," the Georgia senator declared: "When the general denounces a senator as a liar, he had better remember that it is within the power of the senate to bring him here, and a time may come when we will do that. If he feels that way about more senators it may be done. We have as yet no kaiser that says 'Me and God.'"

Senator Watson then read a letter from an unidentified Richmond, Va., woman who said she had served 12 months as an army nurse. The letter said that "officers made courtesans of the nurses wherever possible, and nurses who resisted . . . were subjected to personal indignities." Mr. Watson also said he had been told personally by a former nurse that she had been compelled to repel the assault of an officer.

More telegrams and letters in support of his illegal hanging charges also were presented by the senator.

AGREE TO PHONE MERGER PLAN

Valley Home Telephone Properties Sold for $1,250,000, Report.

Lansing.—Sale of the Valley Home Telephone company's properties in Saginaw valley to the Michigan State Telephone company is understood to have been practically agreed upon here last week. The price will be approximately the same as the valuation reached by the public utilities commission, $1,250,000.

The two systems will be combined and duplication of telephone service in Saginaw, Bay City and the surrounding towns will be eliminated. Rates for the consolidated service will be fixed by the public utilities commission after the sale and merger.

AERO ORGANIZATION FORMED

Detroit Man Elected President at Omaha Aero Congress.

Omaha, Neb.—Formation of a national organization in the interest of aviation in the United States was accomplished here Nov. 5 by delegates attending an aero congress in session during three days. Sidney Waldon, president of the Aero club of Detroit, was named president. Selection of the next meeting place was left in the hands of a board of governors.

Colonel R. S. Hartz of Los Angeles and Eddie Rickenbacker of Columbus, Ohio, were among the vice-presidents selected, while Rex Uden, of Cleveland, was made recording secretary.

U. S. GATHERING GOLD SUPPLY

Average of $75,000,000 Monthly Now Being Shipped Here.

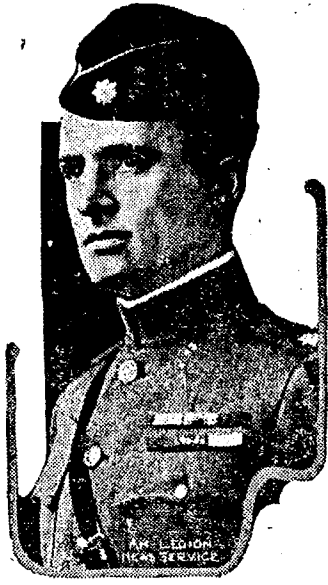

New York.—Gold holdings of the United States, the world's sole creditor nation, mounted to a new high record last month, approximating the stupendous sum of $3,500,000,000. Statisticians estimate this to be 35 to 40 per cent of the world's visible supply.

Metal which has been pouring into this country ever since the close of the war has averaged $75,000,000 monthly this year.

Breweries Can Now Make Beer.

Washington.—Prohibition Commissioner Haynes has yielded to Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair and other treasury officials in their controversy over beer as a medicine regulation, and beer of alcoholic content that has been held by the brewers may be used under the new ruling. Commissioner Haynes had insisted that the brewers must manufacture new beer in establishments apart from the near beer plants, but he has yielded to other officials.

HANFORD MACNIDER

Hanford MacNider, of Mason City, Iowa, is the new national commander of the American Legion. The president of an investment banking company in civilian life, he won nine separate citations for valor while he was in the army and rose from second lieutenant to lieutenant colonel of infantry during his term of service in the second division. He was born October 2, 1889, and is a graduate of Harvard.

DRY AGENTS VICTIMS OF PLOTS

U. S. Investigators Say Rum Gang Killed to Cover Secrets.

New York.—Bootlegging gangs have deliberately planned to kill prohibition agents and others who had learned their secrets, it was declared by Assistant United States Attorney McCormick after he had received new reports from department of justice agents who investigated the mysterious death of James McGuinness, chief prohibition agent and a nephew of Joseph P. Tumulty.

McGuinness was found dead from bullet wounds on the shore of Newark bay, near Bayonne, N. J., Christmas day, 1920. Some of the others whose deaths are now subjects for official inquiry were found hanged, some were beaten to death and some were shot. In five cases, including that of McGuinness, death was attributed to suicide after cursory inquiry.

Federal detectives have learned recently, however, that bootleggers gave a dinner in this city December 26, 1920, the avowed purpose of which was to celebrate the death of McGuinness, their arch enemy.

NOBEL AWARD TO FRENCHMAN

1921 Prize for Best Literature Goes to Anatole France.

Stockholm.—The Swedish Academy, on Nov. 10, awarded the 1921 Nobel prize in literature to Anatole France, noted French author.

He is the fourth French writer to receive the Nobel prize in literature since its foundation in 1901 by Dr. Alfred B. Nobel, noted Swedish chemist, inventor of dynamite, who created in his will a foundation of some $9,000,000, proceeds of which provides for annual prizes of about $40,000 each in physics, medicine, chemistry, literature and peace.

AMERICA PAYS ITS HOMAGE

"Unknown" Soldier Buried With Republics Other Heroes.

Washington.—The national capital led the nation November 11 in doing homage to the unknown soldier who died for his country on French soil. Up in the rotunda of the capitol, resting on the catafalque where Lincoln, Garfield, Grant and McKinley laid, the casket had stood through the night amid heaping piles of flowers and in the morning it was borne away to Arlington cemetery where rest the bodies of America's heroes.

PRIVATES BACK WATSON FIGHT

Former A. E. F. Men Say Tyranny and Brutality Was Rule.

Washington.—The Private Soldiers and Sailors' Legion last week, in a letter to Secretary of War Weeks, declared that "unless the records of the war department have been tampered with" a scrutiny of them "will furnish conclusively that tyranny, brutality and abuse were the rule and not the exception in the attitude of officers toward enlisted men" in the A. E. F.

Church Gets Community House.

Lansing.—Announcement has been made that Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Scott will erect and present to the Central M. E. Church community building, including an auditorium, with stage and dressing rooms; a gymnasium; reading club and class rooms; offices and various features. Work will be started at once. The site will be provided by the church. The building will cost about $250,000. Mr. Scott is chairman of the board of directors of the Reo Motor Co.

SOUTH SEA ISLANDER WHO WAS CROOK'S FAVORITE SCOUT

"I would rather lose a third of my army than to have Frank Guard killed," once declared Gen. Frank Crook, and when this great Indian fighter set such a high value on the services of a scout it meant that Frank Guard was without a peer. Guard was born in Tahiti in 1850, the son of an American trader and a native woman. His father returned to this country when Frank was but two years old and at the age of fifteen Frank ran away from home and went to Montana.

Guard became a mail carrier, a dangerous job in a country full of hostile Sioux. They captured him finally and were preparing to kill him when a young brave pleaded for his life. Calling their attention to Frank's swarthy complexion he declared that the mail carrier must be an Indian who had been captured by the whites.

This Indian was the renowned Sitting Bull. For 19 months Guard was guarded closely and, realizing the uselessness of attempting to escape, he learned the Sioux tongue and entered into the Indian life as one of them. He lived with the Indians six years before he finally escaped.

One day Guard was scouting for an officer who attempted to guide his command by use of the compass. They became lost in a blinding snow storm. Frank borrowed the officer's compass, smashed it against a rock, and then, taking the lead, he guided the soldiers straight to the place they wished to go.

Guard's greatest exploit was his part in the "Sibley Scout" in 1876. Lieut. S. W. Sibley was sent out on a scout to find the Indians. He found them, and in a short time his little command was surrounded by hundreds of Sioux and Cheyennes. After a desperate fight in which the Cheyenne chief, White Antelope, was killed, the soldiers were forced to abandon their horses and attempt escape on foot.

Guard's knowledge of the country was all that saved them. He led them over unknown mountain trails, winding through the deep canyons and around high peaks, until the Indians were outdistanced. The next day he guided them to a high point on a mountain side and pointed down. Below them lay Crook's camp.

Frank Guard was given a life-time position as a government scout and he performed valuable services in the last uprising of the Sioux, the Ghost Dance war of 1890-91. In 1894 Frank saw his father for the first time since he had run away from home. Guard died in St. Joseph, Mo., in 1913.

"LONESOME CHARLEY" REYNOLDS, CUSTER'S SCOUT

Many noted scouts served with General Custer during his Indian campaigns, but his favorite of them all was Charles Reynolds, known as "Lonesome Charley." In the early seventies, Reynolds was a hunter for the garrison at Fort Rice, N. D. He was a quiet, little man who lived much to himself and preferred to hunt alone, no matter how many hostile Indians were near. Because of his disregard for human companionship, he became known by everyone as "Lonesome Charley."

Reynolds first served under Custer in the exploration of the Yellowstone country in 1873. During his expedition two inoffensive civilians with Custer's command were murdered by the Indians. The next year, while Reynolds was attending a sun dance of the Sioux near Fort A. Lincoln, N. D., he heard a young chief named Rain-in-the-Face boast of the murder of the two men. Charley reported this to Custer and Rain-in-the-Face was arrested and imprisoned. Later he escaped and sent back his now-famous vow of vengeance of the whole Custer family.

"Lonesome Charley" was with Custer during the exploration of the Black Hills in 1874. When gold was discovered, at Custer's request he rode 150 miles, through a country swarming with hostile Indians to Fort Laramie, Wyo., in 48 hours and gave to the world the first news of the discovery, causing a stampede of miners into that region.

When Custer started on his last campaign against the Sioux in 1876, Reynolds was offered the position of chief guide.

When the Seventh cavalry left the steamer Far West, Reynolds was ill. Capt. Grant Marsh of the Far West tried to persuade him not to go with the expedition since he was in no condition to do any fighting. Reynolds refused.

"I've been waiting and getting ready for this expedition for two years, captain, and I'd rather be dead than miss it," he said earnestly. So he rode away to his death.

When Custer divided his command to attack the Sioux on the Little Big Horn, the scout was sent with Major Reno. The Indians swept down upon Reno and forced him back to the wooded bluffs across the river. "Lonesome Charley" was killed in this retreat. His body was found surrounded by 60 empty cartridge shells. He had died fighting.

Saturday is the last day of free Brednut offer

Take the five empty cartons to your dealer before closing time Saturday, and get a pound of Brednut free. No cartons will be redeemed after Saturday.

BREDNUT comes fresh every day from the churns. It stays fresh longer than costlier products, so you are perfectly safe in buying an extra pound or two if it's necessary in order to profit from this offer and get a pound of Brednut free.

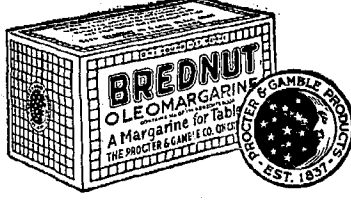

Everywhere astonished housewives, including thousands of former users of expensive spreads for bread are telling each other that Brednut is just as good—tastes as good, looks the same on the table, spreads as well, and has all the qualities for which they have had to pay very high prices for years.

None but the finest white cream of selected coconuts is used in making Brednut—and it is treated in the exclusive Brednut way with the exclusive Brednut equipment by experts who have had twenty years' experience and who have produced a nut margarine that is surpassed by nothing at any price.

Brednut is guaranteed to satisfy. Your money back if it doesn't.

The Famous Brednut Test Example No. 10 Brednut on Milk Toast

ARE you cranky about your milk toast? If you wish to make an interesting test of Brednut, try this: Have two bowls of milk toast prepared. In one place a bit of Brednut; in the other put the most expensive spread for bread. We challenge you to tell which is Brednut.

Cut to the Nth. This phrase signifies wholly, or to the utmost degree. The expression is taken from a mathematical formula, where a stands for any number. "Cut to the nth, plus one," is another form of the phrase, a plus 1 signifying more than any number.

CUT THIS OUT—IT IS WORTH MONEY.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaks, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

DR. FRANK B. BRODERICK

None of the "hard-boiled" discipline which marks some hospitals for former soldiers will be tolerated at the Roosevelt Hospital of the American Legion, designed particularly for tubercular veterans of the World War.

Dr. Frank B. Broderick, state welfare officer of the American Legion, has outlined a plan which the Legion is certain will maintain order without imposing on the men.

"Self-government is the answer," said Dr. Broderick and "the necessary regulations will be made by the men, as a body."

Times for Gratitude.

There is much greatness of mind in the owing of a good turn as in the doing of it; and we must no more force a regular out of season than he wanting in it.—Seneca.

Chinese Widows Seldom Marry.

In China the remarriage of widows is regarded as an impropriety, and in wealthy families is seldom practiced, but among the poorer classes necessity often compels a widow to seek another breadwinner.

Have Pains?

Aches and pains seem to be the lot of the ordinary mortal. However, these should be taken simply as nature's warning signals that some part of the human machine is out of order. It is a mistake to resign one's self to physical torture when the cause can be removed.

Foley Kidney Pills

tone up weak, inactive, sluggish kidneys and help rid the blood of poisonous waste matter that causes aches and pains in arms and legs, backache, rheumatic pains, sore muscles, stiff or swollen joints.

Issac B. Turman, Ashbury Park, N. J., writes: "My back caused me a great deal of trouble for some time. I experienced sharp, shooting pains which were due to the condition of my kidneys. One bottle of Foley Kidney Pills completely relieved me. The pains left my back. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills to my friends."

Steel-Head Trout. The steel-head trout is classed as a salmon by fishermen and the fishing trade, and it is said that it was named "steel-head" because of the hardness of its skull. Fishermen tell that it often requires several blows from a club to kill this fish when captured and taken into a boat.

APPLY SULPHUR ON YOUR ECZEMA SKIN

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It never fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

ANOTHER CHANGE MADE AT M. A. C.

Addison M. Brown, Secretary, Resigned by Board to Resign.

Lansing—Addison M. Brown, secretary and controlling influence at the Michigan Agricultural College for several years, has resigned at the request of the state board of agriculture.

The board of agriculture elected L. Whitney Watkins, of Manchester, as its chairman, to succeed William H. Wallace of Saginaw.

Whitney Watkins, of Manchester, as its chairman, to succeed William H. Wallace of Saginaw.

These two acts of the board of agriculture signalize the transfer of authority at the college to the farmers of the state after a political battle of many years' duration.

PARENTS' SLAYER BEGINS SENTENCE

CHAMPLAIN GIVEN LIFE TERM IN STATE PRISON FOR DOUBLE CRIME.

GIRL'S FAITH CAUSED QUARREL

Prisoner Tells Warden Stepmother Stirred Father to Keep After Him Continually.

Saginaw—The doors of Jackson prison closed on Richard Champlain, 22-year-old Hemlock boy, Saturday morning, and for the rest of his natural life at hard labor he will atone for shooting and burning his mother and father, wealthy and highly respected farm couple, at the farm home near Hemlock, on Nov. 14.

The departure of Champlain from Saginaw was without event. The day fitted into the picture. It was raining and cold. "Dick" was up at 5 o'clock, ate a hearty breakfast and was at the depot at 6 o'clock.

Clara A. Humpert, "Dick's" school teacher sweetheart, didn't show up to bid him good bye.

Parents' Religious Intolerance Banned.

Jackson—Conflicting religious beliefs was given by Richard A. Champlain, in a statement after entering Jackson prison, as the real reason why he had killed his father and stepmother and burned their bodies in their home near Hemlock.

In answer to a question by Warden Hulbert, Champlain declared that his real mother was a Roman Catholic, and that he had been christened in that faith. He said that his mother had died when he was 3 years old, and that his father married again.

Questioned further, he stated: "Two years ago my sister was married to a Roman Catholic boy. My father, because she did this, disinherited her. My stepmother kept nagging him, and I believe she was responsible for the disinheritance of my sister. I have had several sweethearts. But three weeks ago I met Clara Humpert. I loved her. I do yet. I had intended to marry her. Of course I knew what my fate financially would be also. When my parents learned that I was courting a girl of another faith, my stepmother began to keep after my father about it, all the time stirring him up and goading him on.

"Monday evening the row began in earnest at the supper table. My stepmother kept at it and at it and at it. Then my father kept at me and at me and at me. It was not the sight of blood in France, as I told the Saginaw officers and newspaper men, that stirred me at this moment; it was solely because my stepmother was so bitter against the religious faith of my real mother. I got up from the table, and, securing a revolver, I returned to the table, first shot down my father through the heart, then my mother."

VOICES

By Emanuel G. Frank

There's a wondrous thrill of pleasure When you see the form and face, Of some loved one in whose presence you rejoice; But the joy there is in seeing Can't compare with what takes place, When you hear the magic music of her voice.

Be it mother, wife or sweetheart, Be it sister, daughter, friend, As within your waiting vision each appears; While your heart may leap to see them What is better in the end, Than their eager voices sounding in your ears.

But remember as you listen That these sweet and nameless thrills, Find an echo and an answer rich and true, In the hearts of cherished loved ones Which alone your voice fulfills; For when all is said, your voice is really you.

So when travel takes you from them Let them feel how much you care, Let them know you haven't left them all alone; Let them feel in fullest measure You, yourself, are standing there; Let them hear the voice they cherish through [the phone.

Modern Inventions Come Rapidly. The telephone was a toy in 1876; the typewriter a crude arrangement in 1878; the electric industry a baby in 1879, when Edison invented the incandescent light; the phonograph was a curiosity in 1890, and moving pictures a flickering experiment in 1896.

Oldest Religious Celebration. The Jewish feast of the passover is one of the most undying links that bind together this very old world. It is the oldest religious celebration known to mankind. It had its birth on the banks of the Nile 4,000 years ago in the twilight of history.

Pauline Frederick

"A cowboy among cowboys," is the way the boys at the Cheyenne round-up designated the handsome "movie" star, Pauline Frederick, who was their invited guest. Pauline became endeared to the boys when she demonstrated her ability to ride and rope a steer with the best of 'em last summer. "I'd rather ride than eat," is the way the star expressed her delight in the pastime.

THE BALLOT.

IN ORDER to keep votes and opinions secret the ancients resorted to some form of vote. The Greeks used oyster shells (ostrakon) to vote on the banishment or ostracism of men; the Romans used tablets or tabellae. The printed ballot was used in the New England colonies in the earliest days of their history, but its use in Europe was not until later. In 1710 it was proposed by the English parliament but was rejected. The French chamber of deputies used it in 1840-1845.

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

Mr. and Mrs. Milton McClure and family of Benton Harbor, and Mrs. John McClure and son, and Mrs. James McClure of Boyne City spent Thursday with Mrs. Ira McKee in the Star Dist. They had a jolly time.

Sam A. Hayden returned Wednesday evening from Grand Rapids, where he visited his sister and family, Mrs. Elmer Faust for one week. He reports them all well, and doing well.

Mrs. B. F. Conyer, who has been visiting her father, Geo. Jarman for two weeks, returned to her home in Grand Rapids, Tuesday.

Mrs. Charles Woerful and two children, who have spent a month with her father, Geo. Jarman, returned to her home in Boyne City, Friday. Mrs. Woerful is very much improved in health.

Miss Maggie Pine who spent last week visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles Healey, returned to her home in Bel-Aire, Saturday.

Because of disagreeable weather, the auction sale at the I. Flora farm Friday Nov. 18th in the Mountain Dist. was not very well attended and not many of the articles were sold.

Charles Healey is very poorly, being confined to the house part of the time with neuralgia.

Ira McKee got back Monday from his hunting trip to the U. P. He did not get a deer.

Derby Hayden went to Springvale Sunday, where he has a job cutting stove bolts. He expects the job to last all winter.

There was a good-bye party, Friday evening for Geo. Wurn at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wurn.

Geo. Wurn returned to his work in Detroit, Saturday, after a two weeks visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wurn.

Chester Demmonde returned to his work in Grand Rapids, Saturday, after spending a week at the Fred Wurn home.

Misses Margarite and Hope Moss of Boyne City attended the party at Fred Wurn's Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Wageman motored to Boyne Falls Monday on business.

The gang who are surveying the Good Road across the S. A. Hayden place suspended operations Thursday noon, because of the storm. It is doubtful if anything more is done this fall.

Jack Wanek of Boyne City spent the week with Orval Bennett on the farm hunting birds.

Pat Foote, carrier on R. 2, East Jordan made his round with a horse and sleigh, Tuesday Nov. 22nd.

Clarence Johnston went to Boyne City with a cutter, Tuesday.

The snowstorm which began Nov. 18 still continues but as it doesn't freeze yet which reminds us ruralites we can't depend on the mails from now on.

The Nimrods are very much excited by the report of a black bear being seen running across an open field near Advance. Everyone hopes to bag him.

Last Friday three generations of Wagemans, old Mr. Wageman, Frank Wageman and young Lyle Wageman took a herd of cattle from their farm in the Three Bell dist. to their farms near Boyne Falls. In attempting to bring home a garage which had been taken apart and loaded on a wagon, the wagon broke down when a mile or so on their return trip. A car brought two members of the party home but Frank had the pleasure of getting the team home without a vehicle, a distance of 15 miles or more which is not considered a holiday job at this time of year.

A Reich took one of his horses to Boyne City Tuesday to be used by the West End grocery through the winter.

IT'S WORK THAT WINS.

WHEN a great player sits at the piano and touches the keys, they respond with exquisite sweetness.

As you listen and drink in the waking music, you realize that it is good for the soul.

There is joyful inspiration in every ringing note.

You yield to unrestrained enjoyment. Long have you been thirsty. Now you will drink your fill.

So it is with a picture revealing in composition and color those masterly strokes which we are apt with more or less airiness of manner to designate as real art.

There is always pleasure in watching the proficient man do his work, and noting the self-confidence with which he approaches it, whether he be an artist, a carpenter or a cobbler.

He exhibits skill in his every movement, and this very skill of his sets him off as a master in his particular calling.

He has acquired dexterity by common-place work—by doing over and over again the difficult parts until no more difficulties remain.

Nothing worth while in life can be obtained except by continuously applied effort, which, in the basic sense is work—hard work, oft repeated.

Lincoln worked his way to honor and fame by reading and studying at night, lying prone on the floor.

His only light being that from the burning wood in the open fireplace of his log cabin home.

Rockefeller and his partner had less than eight hundred dollars when they first ventured in the oil business. But they overcame the many obstacles confronting them by working and keeping at it.

Work is the key that unlocks the world's treasure chest.

The pianist spends hours every day in practicing intricate passages; the painter, often cold and half-starved, paints and rubs out, until he gets the effect he has visioned, and so it goes with every man and woman who ultimately rises to distinction.

The mistakes they make act as incentives for greater effort and more earnest work.

Work! Work! Work! That's the thing that wins.

The diligent worker never admits defeat, never ceases exertion till he "arrives" at the top of the hill where success is waiting with outstretched hands to confer honor and riches beyond his dreams.

"What's in a Name?"

BY MILDRED MARSHALL.
Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

HORTENSE.

HORTENSE is essentially a French name, though she has been adopted by all countries and she has the almost unique distinction among feminine names of having no contractions, diminutives or offspring of any form. Hortense she begins and Hortense she remains throughout history, with the single exception of Italy where the "H" is sometimes dropped and she is called Ortesia.

Like Sylvia, she is something of an ancient sylvan name, having come originally from the Latin "hortus" meaning a garden. The slave who tended those elaborate Roman gardens was called hortensius, and finally through some strange quirk of fancy, it came to name an honorable old plebeian game.

For many centuries it continued in Italy and gradually the masculine form Ortesio came into use as a proper name, quickly followed by the feminine Ortesia. The most famous Ortesia of those days was Ortesia Mancini, the niece of Mazarin. This notable lady carried her name into France, where the French straightway placed the stamp of their language upon it by calling it Hortense. Since that time many famous women have borne it, particularly those of royal circles.

Hortense's jewel is the diamond, which is said to give its wearer fearlessness, invulnerability and to bring victory in any endeavor, provided, however, that it is received as a gift and not purchased. To exercise its best power it should be set in gold and worn on the left hand. Its potency for Hortense is concerned not only with lovers, but is extended to enhance the love of a husband for his wife. Saturday is her lucky day and six her lucky number.

The daisy, signifying innocence, is Hortense's flower.

One old-fashioned citizen rises to remark that it is not necessary for dead men to tell tales—the live ones are battling a good average.—Hot Springs New Era.

Flower Sermon.
Flower sermon had its origin in St. Catherine Cree, England. On Whit Monday each of the congregation carried a bunch of flowers, and a larger bunch was laid on the pulpit cushion. The custom has spread, but it has somewhat changed. Now in many churches the flower sermon is preached on Sunday and the church is decorated with flowers, the members of the congregation also bring flowers with them to the service. The time of holding this service varies in different churches, but it is usually held in the spring or early summer when there is an abundance of garden flowers.

The Humble Clotheshpin.
Every Monday morning thousands of pulley lines squeak and thousands of clotheshpins are jabbed into place. In spite of many new inventions, people the world over still use the primitive wooden clotheshpin designed years ago by a New Hampshire man. Twenty million feet of lumber are said to be needed each year to supply the clotheshpin manufacturers in the United States.

A pot luck dinner was served, after which music and games were enjoyed and remembrances of good times spent in East Jordan repeated.

The Herald is indebted to our neighbor, W. R. Stewart, for a fine portion of venison which made last Sunday's dinner somewhat out of the ordinary. The deer was the first one received in East Jordan this season, coming in last Friday. It was sent down from the upper peninsula by Mr. Stewart's son, Harrison, who is living in the region where the game is plentiful.

While hunting Sunday, Hintz Fenton was attacked by a bear which he had slightly wounded. The shell became lodged in the barrel and it was necessary for Mr. Fenton to seek refuge in the tangled limbs of a nearby hemlock to prevent being devoured by the maddened animal. Luckily for Hintz, Bill Murphy chanced that way and ended the life of Mr. Bruin. The bear is now being exhibited in the pool room. Hessel item in St. Ignace Republican-News.

A QUESTION BOX AT THE DOOR.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Back-ache or Bladder trouble—Neutralizes acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person. At that you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Pat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

An Epic or Dramatic Poem. In designing house and gardens, it is happy when there is an opportunity of maintaining a subordination of parts; the house so luckily placed as to exhibit a view of the whole design. I have sometimes thought that there was room for it to resemble an epic or dramatic poem.—Shenstone.

Michigan News Tersely Told

Grand Rapids—Burglars for the second time in a few weeks, carried a safe from the office of the Sun Oil Co. The safe contained $200.

Ontonagon—County officers are investigating the disappearance of Emil Hill, woodsman, who has been missing for two weeks. Foul play is feared.

Saginaw—A state-wide campaign to educate the people to the value of ice in preserving food was decided upon at the recent meeting of the Michigan Ice Industries association here.

Battle Creek—Glen Barclay, 18, this city, was killed at the Angell street crossing by a Michigan Central train. He was driving an automobile and intended to call on a woman friend.

Charlotte—The commission form of municipal government for Charlotte, as provided for by a new charter drafted by a special commission, was rejected by the voters in a special election, the vote being 201 for to 540 against.

Pontiac—Two veins of anthracite coal have been found by well diggers on the property of Herbert Roat at Walled Lake. The first was at a depth of 50 feet and just below it was another said by the diggers to be the largest they have ever encountered.

Grand Rapids—The Michigan Railway company has been named defendant by William Marshall, in a suit in circuit court for $2,000 damages. The action is based on alleged injuries received when Marshall's automobile was struck by an interurban car.

Port Huron—An automobile ride over the Gratiot turnpike, ceremonies at Muttonville and a banquet in Port Huron, will be features of the formal opening of the new concrete road from Port Huron to Detroit. November 28, St. Clair, Marine City, Marysville and Port Huron citizens will participate.

Bay City—Enoch Gladdin and others have appealed to the supreme court against the decision in the Gladwin circuit court in which they lost in a suit for damages against the Beaverton Power Co. They sued to recover as the result of an overflow of lands; said to have been caused by damming Beaverton river.

Saginaw—The badly mutilated bodies of William Van Valkenburg, 55 years old, and his wife, who was 50, were found on the Pere Marquette right of way, near Hoyt Station, five miles from Saginaw. It is believed they were struck by a freight train. A letter in the man's pocket indicated they had recently come from Detroit.

Grand Rapids—The Michigan Cannery association elected the following officers: President, Harold Royal, Shelby; vice president, William McEwing, South Haven; secretary-treasurer, A. R. Todd, Lansing; executive committee members, E. P. Daggett, Coopersville, Walter Reid, Lake Odessa, and Hans Weigands, Traverse City.

Charlevoix—Elver Sweet, 21 years old, charged with passing forged checks here Nov. 10, was returned to Ionia reformatory to complete a five-year term for robbery. He was convicted of robbery, in the circuit court here a year ago, sentenced to serve from six months to five years in Ionia. He was paroled after serving seven months.

Kalamazoo—The sudden death of her husband, Otto Glen Martin, made his girl bride a widow three weeks after their marriage. Martin was engaged in repairing a boiler at the Hawthorne Paper mill. He was about to emerge from the boiler, evidently after having had a premonition of his coming collapse, when he sank dead. The coroner decided Martin died of heart failure.

Detroit—Officials of the village of Oakwood appeared before the county election commission with a request that the November election be investigated. They complain that in the ballot on annexation with Detroit, which carried 308 to 249, more votes were cast than there are qualified voters in the village. The commission advised them that inasmuch as all who voted had registered, some one else should investigate, starting with the registration books.

Grand Rapids—In its answer filed in United States district court yesterday, the House of David of Benton Harbor denies each allegation made by the expelled members, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hansel, in their suit to recover property turned over to the Israelites and for compensation for services, amounting to $69,000. Special denial is made of charges of immorality in the colony, brought by the Hansels, who are charged with attempts to break up the cult. Date for hearing has not been set on the defendant's motion to quash the case.

Kalamazoo—Is a woman whose husband dies three weeks after their marriage entitled to his insurance, despite the fact his policy was left in the name of his former wife? That is the question the Kalamazoo County Circuit Court will have to decide between Mrs. Glenn Martin No. 1 and Mrs. Glenn Martin No. 2. Martin remarried three weeks after he divorced his first wife. No. 1 kept up the payments and the policy names her the beneficiary. No. 2 contends she is the beneficiary because she was Martin's wife at the time of his death.

Kalamazoo—Mrs. Lou Henshaw, president of the Michigan Photo Shutter Co., was elected a member of the new city commission.

Iron River—A petition asking for the appointment of a receiver for the Citizens' Gas Co. of this city has been filed here by Charles McGinley.

Bid Rapids—Mrs. Ernest Ely received serious injuries when the auto in which she was riding overturned. Her daughter, Eva, was also badly injured.

Ann Arbor—Every manner of labor from tutoring to tinsmith work is acceptable to hundreds of students who have applications on file with Dean J. A. Bursley for employment to help earn their way through the university.

Grand Rapids—Joseph Benihan, administrator of the George E. Ellis estate, is paying to depositors in the Ellis bank a second dividend of 20 per cent. The first accepted by depositors in lieu of cash for their claims.

Lansing—Representatives of 27 states have been invited to send representatives here by Governor Alex J. Grossbeck to discuss compulsory physical education in the public schools. The meeting will be held at Battle Creek, Dec. 20 to 22.

Lansing—Civil War veterans from many parts of Michigan were here to attend the funeral of George W. Stone, past commander Michigan G. A. R., and former auditor-general of the state, who fell dead here Armistice Day, while walking in the parade.

Albion—The first opossum captured in this section for many years was caught by Orin Lamont and Charles Griffith on the farmers' farm west of Albion. The animal, a large male, was dug out of his hole and will be the piece de resistance of a big family dinner.

Mancelona—Mrs. Eliza Hensie, her two sons, Ben and Alex, and Mrs. Barbara Hirt and Jake and John Breitner, are under arrest charged with mooning. Sheriff Andrew Dunsmond and Prosecutor Wellman made the arrests. Thirteen barrels of mash and wine were confiscated.

Muskegon—Steady increase in business has relieved Muskegon of the emergency it faced two months ago, when an emergency bond issue of $50,000 was issued to provide for those in need. The city commission now finds it does not need the money and the bonds will not be sold.

Kalamazoo—The boy ringleader of Kalamazoo's burglary league, Harry McCormick, 18 years old, and his chief lieutenant, Wilfred Blair, were taken to the state prison at Jackson to begin the sentences imposed by Circuit Judge Welmer. McCormick was given five to fifteen years; Blair two to fifteen.

Coldwater—Major George Turner, 82, former state adjutant general who served four years in the Civil war, died at his home here following a short illness. He was captain of Company A during the war, and also served as a member of the Michigan Soldiers' Home board for several years.

Kalamazoo—Twelve days was long enough to break Mrs. William Spark's dream of a happy married life, according to the testimony presented in circuit court when the husband obtained a divorce. They lived together less than two weeks, constantly quarreling throughout their honeymoon. It was said. At the end of the 12 days, the wife returned to her parents' home and resumed her maiden name.

Lansing—The cost of maintaining the Legion hospital at Camp Custer during the first few months of operation will be borne by the state, out of the war preparedness fund voted in 1917, according to a resolution passed by the state administrative board. The state's plan is to care for the necessary expenses of the institution until the legion welfare committee is able to provide funds of its own.

Hemlock—Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Champlain, well to do farmers living a short distance east of this village, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed their home. Fire apparatus from Hemlock and Merrill was called to the farm but was unable to do more than protect nearby buildings. The cause of the fire is not known. Richard Champlain, 22, son of the fire victims, saved himself by jumping from a second story window.

Flint—Plans to establish a coal mine on the John Zimmerman farm on the Corunna road have been abandoned. Several months ago, a rich vein of coal was discovered beneath the farm by geologists. The coal rights were leased to the Genesee Coal company. The company's lease expired September 1 and Mr. Zimmerman then leased the property to the school board. He says no further mining plans have been considered, although it may again be taken up in the future.

Grand Rapids—Addressing the Kent county conference of social workers, prosecuting Attorney Cornelius Hofius said: "It looks as though it were the beginning of the end of society when girls of 14 and 16 years of age will accept the attentions of any male who may accost them on the street, particularly if he has an automobile. The present laws are entirely inadequate to care for a vast number of the cases. Marital relationship and immorality cases compose the large part of my work and conditions that I see are appalling."

TWIN SISTERS, IN LOVE WITH SAME MAN, DREW LOTS TO WIN OR DIE

Genoa—The love tragedy of twin sisters who drew lots for death by poison became known recently in the Innsbruck courts when one of them was tried for murder. She was acquitted after she told her story.

The girls, daughters of a farmer named Goldheim, fell in love with a former Hungarian officer, who was unable to distinguish the girls and courted both, thinking he was always with the same sister.

The officer, when he realized the situation, asked the girls to decide which should marry him. They solved the problem by preparing a glass of water and a glass of poison. They drew lots and the loser drank and died. When the surviving sister was arrested, the officer disappeared.

CHAPTER I.

Cousin Percy's Little Joke.

I suppose every one has had the experience of waking in the middle of the night to find everything perfectly still and quiet and normal, and yet with the impression persisting that there had been a tremendous crash of some sort just before the waking senses were alive enough to realize it. It was some such razing jolt as this that was given me on the morning when I was called in, with the other members of the family, to listen to the reading of my grandfather's will.

But, first, however, to give some idea of the conditions precedent, as a lawyer would say. My father—good, easy-going, comfort-loving. Dad—never owned what Grandfather Dudley, pursuing his thin lips and snapping the words out, called "the money sense." As an architect high in his profession and with fine artistic feeling for the beautiful in buildings, he earned a liberal income—and spent it; or so much of it that there was barely enough left after his death to provide for my mother and sister, and to keep me going, as you might say, in an exceedingly modest manner. Without work, I mean. I may as well confess, at once, that I had never acquired the work habit. I was always "going to," but it was so fatally easy to keep on postponing the chilling plunge. I suppose I had been ready on at least half a dozen occasions to take a dive into some pool with a salary attachment; but always some good friend would bob up to say, "Oh, come on, Stannie, old man; we're lacking just one more to make up the bunch. Don't be a clam. Time enough to settle down when you have to," and then it would be all off.

Besides, you see, there was always Grandfather Jasper in the background. He had money—lashings of it, so we all believed; and it had been a family understanding for years that he intended splitting the bulk of it, fifty-fifty, between my cousin Percy and me. Before we go any farther, let me set it down that Cousin Percy was—and is—all the seventeen different kinds of things that I am not, and never wished to be; smooth, neat, well-groomed, a "grind" in college and a "perfect dear" with the girls, ambitious as the very devil, and measuring his friends by the amount of "pull" they might be able to exert in his behalf; there you have him from the crown of his well-brushed little head to his patent-leather pumps.

"You're a fright, Stannie," he would say, in his carefully polished diplomatic manner—he had a billet in the Department of State at Washington, and was in training for the legation service abroad—"you are a perfect fright. Three whole years out of college, and you haven't done a single, solitary useful thing yet. When are you going to begin? And, incidentally, how long are you going to keep Lisette waiting?"

Oh, Lord!—right there was another knot in the tangle—Lisette. We had agreed to agree—Lisette and I—some six months or so in advance of Grandfather Jasper's death, and we were both perfectly well assured, and had assured each other a dozen times, that my income from Dad's estate wasn't more than half big enough to marry on. You see, it was this way: Lisette was one of a family of four girls in a fairly expensive household, and there wasn't anything to lean on that side of the fence. Though, of course, we never discussed it brutally in so many words, we were waiting for that fifty-fifty look-in at the will which family tradition declared had already been drawn up, signed, sealed, witnessed and put away in cold storage; otherwise in the safe-keeping of Grandfather Jasper's family lawyer.

All of which may serve to bring us back to that nightmare effect registered at the start. When the Dudley will was taken out of the icebox and read to the assembled members of the family, there were at least two shocks—surprises. Jasper hadn't been anywhere near as rich as we had all been thinking he was; that his modest manner of living had been, perhaps, as much a matter of necessity as of choice. Bad investments—of which the family had never heard so much as a whisper—had cut his fortune down to something less than half a million, all told. That was shock Number One; and shock Number Two was strictly personal to me; Grandfather Jasper had left me his love and best wishes, and had willed the money and property—all of it, mind you—to Cousin Percy, giving as his reason that he thought Percy would make better use of it.

Of course, I had everybody's sympathy and condolence—even Percy's, for that matter. My mother wept; and, as I recall it, Lisette managed to compose a tear or so when I told her what had happened; or rather what had so ignominiously failed to happen.

"Whatever will you do?" she faltered. "I suppose you will really have to go to work now, won't you, Stannie?"

"Perish the thought!" I told her; then I gave the good reasons why there was no hope for us in that direction. "A fat chance I'd have to earn any real money. I can navigate a yacht—a little—drive a motor, ride a polo pony, and play a fair hand at bridge and the other great American game. I think these are the sum total of my shining accomplishments. You needn't return the ring," I grinned, seeing that she was looking at it rather regretfully. "You can wear it on some other finger, you know."

"Yes; I suppose I could do that," she agreed; and I'm honest if she didn't shift it to a finger of the other hand right there and then!

It was less than a week after this little fade-out scene with Lisette that Percy's letter came. This is what it said: "Dear Stannie: "I know just about how you felt last week when you heard Grandfather Jasper's will read, and it isn't going to make you feel any better now when I tell you that I knew of its provisions more than a year ago. When the will was drawn, grandfather showed it to me, and gave me a sealed envelope, which I was to open after his death. That envelope, as I knew at the time, contained, among other things, a codicil to the will. By its provisions you are to receive a legacy under certain conditions which were to be revealed to you at such time as I might think best.

"Your portion of Grandfather Jasper's property was worth, at its latest valuation, something like $440,000. It lies in a perfectly safe repository, situated between the 105th and 110th degrees of longitude west from Greenwich, and the 35th and 40th degrees north latitude. When you find it, you will be able to identify it by the presence of a girl with brown hair and blue eyes and small mole on her left shoulder, a piebald horse which the girl rides, and a dog with a split face—half black and half white. You will be more than likely to find the three together; and if you make the acquaintance of the girl, you'll be on the trail of your legacy.

"So there you are, Stannie, old boy; there's your fortune. All you've got to do is to go to work and find it. Perhaps by that time you will have acquired the working habit—which is what Grandfather Jasper hoped might prove to be the case.

"Wishing you great joy in your search, I am, "Your affectionate cousin, "PERCY."

Naturally, I had a quiet little laugh over this screed of Percy's, taking it for a joke; a poor joke and in rather bad taste, I thought. In that mood I handed the letter to Lisette for her to read. She didn't laugh, but she did look a bit scornful and put about, if you know what I mean.

"I don't suppose the blue-eyed girl would appeal to you," she said, "though the horse and the dog might. When do you start?"

We discovered that Meridian 105 west of Greenwich split the state of Colorado just beyond Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, and the hunting-ground plotted out for me took in three-fourths of the remainder of the State, a slice of Utah, a good bit bigger slice of New Mexico, with a bite out of the northeastern corner of Arizona. Just for good measure.

"Me for the wild and woolly!" I brayed. "Don't you see me rigged out in a nice, hairy pair of 'shaps' and riding hell-bent-for-leather—I believe that's the phrase—over the snow-capped peaks or the boundless prairies, as the case may be? But just imagine Percy the immaculate pulling a bone-head joke like this!"

"You are taking it for a joke?" she questioned. "Sure I am; and it's a rather rotten one at that. I should say—considering the source."

"Then you won't go to look for the blue-eyed girl with nut-brown hair and the cunning little mole? Think of what you may be missing!"

For just one crazy minute I had a hunch, or a premonition, or whatever you like to call it, that the letter might not be a joke. Grandfather Jasper had always been a bit eccentric—a rich man's privilege and a rich old man's incontestable right. What if he had actually done this thing to me—a thing scarcely less devastating than cutting me off without a penny? On the spur of the moment I said: "If I should go, would you wait for me, Lisette?"

She took her time about answering—a good and sufficient plenty of it.

"I think perhaps I'd better not change the ring back, Stannie," she said, sort of wistfully. "If there is any money and you should happen to find it, you would probably flip it all away before you could get back to Boston. Besides, there is the blue-eyed girl; if she should bring you a fortune, you'd have to marry her, wouldn't you? You are big and strong, and—well—er—nice in a good many ways, Stannie, and much too good-looking for your own good; but when you marry—if you do marry—you'd better be sure that the girl has money enough to buy her own hats. I haven't enough, as you know."

"I know only too well that the love-in-a-cottage idea has never appealed to you," I said, with the regretful stop pulled all the way out in deference to the sentimental disencies.

"Not in the least, Stannie, dear; not in the slightest least."

This appeared to be the end of our rather lukewarm love-dream, and to be really honest and aboveboard about it, I am obliged to confess that it didn't break as many bones for me as I suppose it should have. Anyway, a half-hour or so after I had said good-by to Lisette I met Jack Downing; and when he asked me if I didn't want to go with him and a bunch of the fellows for a little spin down the coast of Maine in his motor cruiser, I fell for the invitation so suddenly that he hadn't a ghost of a chance to back out, if he had wanted to.

So, a few hours beyond that touchy little scene at "The Rokerie," you may figure me, if you please, spinning the wheel of one of the nattiest little boats on the North shore, with a fresh nor'easter blowing and the sea getting up to give me the time of my young life to hold the Guinevere to her course, nor' nor'east, half a point east, as we lifted the Shoals on our port bow.

In such jolly, good company as we had aboard the stout ship Guinevere, three full days elapsed before a thought of Percy or his joke ever entered my head again; and it's a tender to one shot that I wouldn't have thought of him, or it, during the remainder of the cruise, if we hadn't been obliged to tie up at Rockland for motor repairs. This, as I recall it, was on the fourth day, and it was a dog that made me remember; a mongrel cur that followed the motor repairman down to the wharf; a most disreputable looking mongrel, at that; but—by Jove! he had the magic markings! Half of his face, measuring from a line drawn straight down over the tip of his nose, was black, and the other half was a dingy, dirty white.

So then I did a little rapid figuring on train schedules. If Percy had left Washington as I knew he was planning to, my diplomatic cousin should have been at that figuring moment, just about due in San Francisco. That being the case, or the likelihood, I tied up to the telegraph office and sent a message, addressing it in care of the captain of whatever might be the next steamer due to sail for ports in China. All I said was: "Your letter was as funny as an hour in a dentist's chair. Bon voyage to you."

Night found us still tied to the Rockland wharf; and just as we were getting up from dinner in the yacht's saloon, here came a boy with a telegram. The wire was from Percy, and it said:

"Don't be a complete fool. It was no joke at all. Ask my lawyer."

Even then, I didn't go off at half-cock, though I have often been called an impulsive jackass. The thing was still too ridiculous to bite very hard. But further along in the evening, when I got to thinking it over, and more especially when it was shoved in upon me that I really did owe it to Lisette not to turn down even the tenth part of a chance to provide her with the means of buying her future hats, the die was cast, as the play-writers say: I made some sort of a foolish excuse to Jack Downing and the other fellows, caught a night train for Boston, stopped off at the home station long enough to pack a couple of grips and to tell my mother and sister good-by, and the thing was—oh, no; not done—nothing like that. It was only just begun.

CHAPTER II.

A Needle in a Haystack.

Since my happy hunting-ground began in the middle of Colorado, I took a ticket to Denver by way of Chicago and Omaha. As I recall it now, it was after the train had passed North Platte that I first became sensibly conscious, as you might say, of the fact that the man in the opposite section of the sleeping-car had a little Pullman table set up in front of him, and was studying maps—and blue-prints. He was a rather efficient-looking fellow of maybe thirty-two or three, with dark hair and eyes, and what Lisette would have called a determined nose, and he sported a beard and mustaches, nut-brown as to color, and neatly trimmed.

Further along we met in the smoking room, at a time when the stuffy little den had no other occupants. Mr. Opposite Section's only cigar turned out to have a broken wrapper, so I naturally tendered my own pocket-case. That served to break the ice and we talked, dribbling along from one commonplace to another until finally Brown-beard said:

"You don't by any chance happen to be a mining engineer, do you?"

"Far be it from me," I laughed; "nothing so useful as that."

"I didn't know," he hastened to say, half apologetically. "I saw you studying maps as we came along."

Now, ordinarily I'm apt to talk a lot too much about my own affairs—I'll admit it; but this was one time when I had a sort of hunch not to. So I merely said:

"I saw you doing the same thing."

"Sure you did," he admitted cheerfully. Then he told me his name—fully I got as Bullton, or Bulletin, or something like that—and said he was a mining engineer, which was the reason why he had asked me if I wasn't one.

Past that, the talk ran mostly upon his profession, and since the mysterious hunch was still nudging me, I let him have the floor, so to speak, figuring chiefly myself as a good listener.

"Yes; we do run across some rather queer propositions in our trade," he said, after he had given me some sort of an idea of what a mining engineer's job is like. "In my own experience, for example, the only sure shot I have ever had—or possibly ever will have—got away from me."

It was up to me to bite, and, of course, I did it.

"How was that?" he replied laconically.

"That sounded rather interesting, so I gave him another pinch."

"Tell me about it; if it won't bore you."

He grinned good-naturedly—and accepted another cigar out of my pocket-case.

"You'll be the one to be bored. It was this way: A little over a year ago I was on my way to Chicago with a report that I had been making on some properties in the Cripple Creek district. In the Denver-Omaha Pullman I fell in with a nice old gentleman who had been buying himself a gold brick in the shape of a flooded mine. The mine had at one time been a 'producer,' though not by any means what you'd call a 'bonanza.' After a rather extended dividend-paying period—I don't know just how long, though it was some years—the luck changed, as sometimes happens. In sinking and drifting the operators had uncovered another vein which was exceedingly rich. Don't let me talk your arm off."

"Go ahead," said I. "My arms are insured."

"Well, at about the time that they struck this new underlying vein, they also struck water; so much of it as to lead them to suspect that they had tapped an underground lake. The old gentleman wasn't exactly a woolly sheep—in the Wall Street sense of the term. He had owned stock in the mine for a long time, and it had been paying him dividends, right along. So naturally, after the new strike was announced, he was perfectly willing to own more. I don't know what his investment was, but he gave me to understand that it was something like half a million. In less than a month after the deal was closed the mine was drowned and went out of business."

"Still, I don't see your lost opportunity," I threw in.

"I'm coming to that. As it happens, my specialty as an engineer is the unwatering of wet mines. The old gentleman had maps and profiles with him; the records of a very careful and excellent topographical survey. I'm reasonably certain that I discovered a way in which that mine could be drained at comparatively small expense.

"I told him I thought I could do it; but I didn't give my plan away. Instead, I made him a proposition; offered to undertake the drainage job at my own costs. If I should succeed, he was to deed me a fourth interest in the property. If I didn't succeed, it was to cost him nothing—sort of a contingent fee, as a lawyer would say."

I laughed. "You made an offer like that to a stranger? and on a mine that you had never seen?"

He grinned good-naturedly and got back at me, quick.

"All business is a taking of chances. As the matter stood at that stage of the game, I had everything to gain and nothing to lose, and the only chance I was taking was in the bet on my own ability as an engineer. The old man was a queer old codger in some respects; as secretive and cautious as an old fox. For example: he had carefully clipped the name of the mine from the blue-prints and other papers, and in all our talk he never once let that name slip, and never even mentioned the name of the district in which the mine was located. But in spite of all this caution he drew up a sort of option agreement with me."

"We found a lawyer and had the agreement drawn up in legal form. The time limit was to be a year, and each of us was to put up a thousand dollars to make the agreement binding. If either of us should wish to withdraw within that time, he was at liberty to do so by forfeiting his ante of a thousand dollars to the other. If neither of us withdrew by or before the end of the year, I was to be at liberty to go ahead with my drainage project, and the agreement bound the owner to turn over a one-fourth interest in the property to me upon the completion of the job and the unwatering of the mine."

"At the moment I was under engagement to go to Peru for a Chicago syndicate, and I expected to be out of the United States for at least six months, and maybe longer. As it turned out, the South American job was a lot bigger than I had anticipated, and for that reason the time limit of a year expired a week ago, on the day that I landed in New York. Yesterday I called upon the Omaha banker, and he gave me the cheering information that my old man was dead—had died just a few days earlier."

"Still, I don't see how you have lost out," I put in.

"Wait; here comes the funny part of it. Mr. Banker tells me solemnly that I am remembered in my old gentleman's disposition of some cash legacies made just before his death, and I'm to have the thousand dollars which he put up as a forfeit. I took the prize down and spent some of it within the next few minutes wiring the old man's home lawyer, whose name and address the banker had given me. I briefed the situation for the lawyer, said I was ready to fulfill my part of the contract, and asked him to wire me the name and location of the mine. You'd never guess in a thousand years the kind of an answer I got."

"I shook my head."

"No; probably not. What was it?"

"It was a bolt from the blue, all right. Mr. Home Lawyer wired that his client had never owned a share of mining stock in his life, that there was nothing in his papers or records bearing upon the subject of my telegram, and that I must be either drunk or crazy. Of course, he didn't put it just that way in his reply, but that is what he meant."

"How do you sort it out?" I inquired.

"The lawyer's telegram? I put it up that my cautious, secretive old gentleman never told anybody at home about his mining investments; kept them in a separate pocket, so to speak. Quite possibly he didn't have any other excepting the one I've been telling you about, and the one he regarded as a dead cock in the pit. That would explain the situation nicely, don't you think?"

The story had left me a bit fogged as to the present state and standing of the thing, and I said so.

"Well, it stacks up about this way," said Brown-beard. "There is a perfectly good mine somewhere west of us that is worth anywhere from a quarter to a half million, and at the present moment it is kicking around without an owner. So far as I can see, I'm the only man on top of earth who has a claim on any part of it. And I have no more idea than the man in the moon where it is 'at.' No; I'm afraid my handsome fortune is a lost dog, so far as I'm concerned."

His mention of a lost dog hit me right in the center of the solar plexus and I laughed like a fool.

"What struck your funny-bone?" he demanded, sort of dubiously, I fancied.

"Nothing," I gurgled; "nothing worth mentioning—only I'm hunting for a lost dog, too."

But I didn't tell him any more. After we'd smoked a while longer, and Brown-beard had apologized for making me listen to his rather longish tale of woe, we took the porter's blot that he'd like to have the smoking room for his nightly shoe-shine, and turned in.

CHAPTER III.

Waifs and Strays.

When I crawled out of my berth at the porter's call the next morning, my Pullman was standing in the Denver yard. While I was shaving in the washroom I asked the colored boy if my smoking-room chum of the night before was up yet.

"Yas, sah; he done been up an' gone for the highest."

Of course, this was mere idle questioning on my part. Tracing the brown-bearded mining engineer who had used me as a convenient dumping ground for his story was the least of my intention at the moment. For that matter, since we hadn't exchanged cards, and I wasn't even sure that I'd heard his name straight, I couldn't have traced him if I had wanted to.

Recalling the story in the garish light of another day, it seemed a bit less credible than it had while I was listening to it, and I began to wonder if the teller of it might not be a member of the deathless guild of smoke-room romancers. I buried the story among the things to be smiled at and forgotten, when I took a taxi for the hotel. After an excellent breakfast I made a few inquiries about the meridian, the 105th, that the maps showed as passing just west of the city. The maps were right. The 105th meridian, which is the one from which mountain time is reckoned, ran a little west of the city proper, and, by consequence, west of the two other principal cities of the state, Colorado Springs and Pueblo.

I found that the 105th meridian, tracing it north from Denver, stops short against the 40th parallel of latitude just south of a little town called Erie. Traced south, it tracks the D. & R. G. railroad for about twenty miles and then takes to the mountain, barely shutting out Manitou, and passing, of course, well to the westward of Pueblo. This simplified matters—a little.

Yet this business of wandering aimlessly from post to pillar, combing the face of nature for blue-eyed maidens and piebald horses and harlequin-faced dogs was already beginning to strike me as about the most fantastic thing a body could conceive of doing. To attempt it without a plan of some kind seemed worse than useless; so, for perhaps the first time in a pretty rattle-brained life, I sat down to do some ground-and- lofty head work, with Cousin Percy's letter for a sort of nexus.

The third paragraph contained the meat of the matter: "Your portion of Grandfather Jasper's property was worth, at its latest valuation, something like $440,000." What single piece of property outside of a large city could be worth any such sum as that? I could think of nothing but a mine of some kind, unless it might be a cattle ranch, or a growth of standing timber; and in the area laid out for me, mines would outvote cattle or timber about a hundred to one, I thought.

Then there was that other phrase: "It lies in a perfectly safe repository."

"Repository" implied a receptacle or container of some sort; a brick wall, or a barbed-wire fence, or any inclosing thing you like to imagine. Could a mine be said to be a "repository"?

As you see, I kept coming back to the mine idea, in spite of all I could do; and at last, without a word of warning, and right out of a clear sky, as you may say, smack! a thing hit me squarely between the shoulder-blades—Brown-beard and his eccentric old gentleman!

After I got cooled off a bit I had to admit that there was something less than odd chance in a thousand that, at the price of a couple of cigars given to a fellow traveler in distress, I had purchased any real clue to my own puzzle.

Yet I couldn't get away from the notion that I was on the verge of a discovery. Oddly enough, the miraculous part of it—the one chance in a million that I should run across the one person in a hundred million who could tell me that particular story—didn't impress me at the time. I was too busily engaged in trying to fit the puzzle pieces together to think of anything else at the moment.

Come to sum them up, they fitted astoundingly well. Grandfather Jasper had always been exceedingly close-mouthed when speaking of his investments. Added to that, he would be the last man in the world to have confessed that he had been bitten, even indirectly, by a "gold-brick" game. Then, too, the course he had pursued with the mining engineer (always granting the truth of Brown-beard's story) was just like him; he would have wanted a year in which to think it over—or maybe longer. Also, it was like him to keep all the identifying marks as carefully hidden as a nut meat in its shell.

At this point I began to think about getting action. One word from Bullton, or Bulletin, or whatever his name was, would settle the identities beyond question, and that word was his "old gentleman's" name. He hadn't mentioned it once in telling his yarn—which might have been by design, or just a happen-so. But, by heavens, I'd make him mention it!

NEW CLEW REVIVES MYSTERY

Ardith Monroe Names Prominent Man of Dowagiac as Slayer.

Kalamazoo.—Did a widely known resident of Dowagiac club William Monroe and his wife and daughter, Neva, to death in their home at Dowagiac, two months ago, or is the belief that he did only a figment of the imagination, or the disordered dream of Ardith Monroe, 12 years old, the only survivor of the tragedy? Two weeks ago Ardith, who is living with relatives here, named a prominent professional man of Dowagiac as the perpetrator. She was just then recovering from her own injuries, and her story was taken to be an illusion born of the strain she has been under. Her insistence, however, has led relatives to appeal to Cass county officials to arrest the man. Sheriff Sherman H. Wyman of Cassopolis, assisted by Sheriff Putname of Kalamazoo, questioned the child here. They were not fully convinced by her story, but are investigating. The name of the accused man is being withheld. Absence of any motive has made the officials cautious in linking him with the crime.

LOOK FOR RATE CUT PROTEST

Other Roads May Oppose Ford's 3-Cent Per Mile Charge.

Lansing.—Whether or not the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad, controlled by Henry Ford, will succeed in making a three-cent fare effective when other roads in Michigan are operating under a 3.6 cent fare is a question raised by members of the state public utilities commission. Some time ago, when the utilities commission endeavored to secure an injunction to prevent the carriers in Michigan from charging 3.6 cents, the carriers succeeded in going over the state body and having the control of rates vested in the interstate commerce commission. If the new schedule is not protested, it will go into effect and the D. T. & I. will be the only steam road in the state operating on a three-cent basis.

FOUR NEW COMMITTEES NAMED

Administrative Board Divided into Permanent Committees.

Lansing.—Four new permanent committees of the State Administrative Board have been appointed. They are: Emergency—Auditor-General Fuller, Highway Commissioner Rogers and State Treasurer Gorman. Budget—Secretary of State Deland, Auditor-General Fuller and Attorney-General Wiley. Institutions—Attorney-General Wiley, Superintendent of Public Instruction Johnson and Secretary of State Deland. Accounts and Purchases—State Treasurer Gorman, Highway Commissioner Rogers and Superintendent Johnson. Gov. Groesbeck is ex-officio member of each committee.

SIX POSTAL VACANCIES IN STATE

Positions to be Filled Jan. 24, Commission Announces.

Washington.—Six more Michigan postoffices are in a new list of vacancies issued by the postmaster general, all to fall vacant January 24 next. With the salaries, the offices are: Bad Axe, $2,500; Boyne City, $2,400; Grand Ledge, $2,400; Petoskey, $3,000; Rochester, $2,300; Three Oaks, $2,400. The civil service commission announces an open competitive examination to fill each vacancy.

Sues D. U. R. for $50,000.

Pontiac, Mich.—The D. U. R. is defending a damage action in circuit court here in which $50,000 damages are asked by Elsa Kurtz, who claims the loss of use of a leg from an accident in Detroit a year ago. A D. U. R. car backed into the automobile in which Kurtz was riding. Doctors called by the defense claim Kurtz suffered from a tubercular condition in the leg as a boy, and allege it is responsible for loss of use of the member now.

Ask Employes to Accept Cut.

Philadelphia.—The Pennsylvania railroad will hold joint conferences with its employes in the near future to ask them to accept wage cuts without referring the matter to the railroad board. In a letter to all employes, President Samuel Rea of the system, declares: "In many cases shippers are unable to pay the present rates," Mr. Rea said, "and we can not cut the tariffs unless we slash our pay roll, which makes up more than half the transportation costs."

Buried in Sitting Posture.

The Japanese bury their dead in a sitting posture, following a custom centuries old. This is done to save space. Three can be buried in this manner in the space of one ordinary grave.

JAPAN DECLARES FOR "OPEN DOOR"

DELEGATES ASSERT TOKIO WILL CLAIM NO SPECIAL RIGHTS OR PRIVILEGES IN CHINA.

WILL JOIN IN READJUSTMENT

Ready to Consider Extra-Territorial Rights Which Appeared "Fair and Satisfactory."

Washington.—Japan has joined with the other Powers in an expression of sympathy for the national aspirations of China, but added a postscript regretting any tendency toward a detailed examination by the Armament Conference into "innumerable minor matters" in the Far East. In a statement omitting mention of specific points of controversy between the two countries, the Japanese delegation informed the Conference delegates that their government claimed no "special rights and privileges" in the procurement of raw materials from China, harbored no "policy of territorial aggrandizement" at China's expense, and was ready to join in any readjustment of extra-territorial rights which appeared "fair and satisfactory."

World Ready to Accept.

Washington.—At the close of the first week of the Washington conference, how shall one summarize the progress of events? Briefly the first week of the conference has demonstrated that the world is ready to accept a program of naval limitation such as Mr. Hughes, with daring courage, presented to the conference on the first day. By contrast, all the talk of modification and change in the relative strengths is "small beer."

Origin of Boot Heels.

Boot heels are of Perstan origin, and were originally attached to sandals in order that the wearers might keep their feet above the burning sands. Heels nine inches high have been known. When high heels were introduced in Venice they were called "chapineys," and were highly decorated. The height of the "chapineys" proclaimed the rank of the wearer.

Folk a longa time I know one guy wot never do any work and he gotta penta cash, too. He wears penta diamond on da feinger and de swella clothes and he no care eef he eats meat five, seaxa time every week. He sure one richa guy, allright.

One time I aska my frien how dat guy maka da leeving. My frien tella me he keepa da blind pig and maka penta cash dat way. I no see how can do dat weeth da blind peeg and I think my frien try maka fool weeth me by da joke. I tella my frien wot's matter dat guy eef he gotta penta money why he no keepa da peeg wot can see. My frien say eef he do dat he go een da jail and rigta queek losa hees cash. He say everybody looka for da blind peeg and weel pay beega price eef can find.

For tella you straighta goods, I think my frien dunno somating very mooch. When he tella me ees penta money for anybody wot keepa da blind peeg I feegure he craze een da head. He tella me eef I no think he knows wot he talk jusa getta myself da blind peeg and I maka penta money pretty soon.

Well, I am almost bust weeth da cash so I try somating once. I go out on da farm and geeva look for da blind peeg, but I no-can find. Every one can see good too much.

I no like to putta da eyes out for dat peeg jusa for maka da money. I no treata even da peeg so bad as dat. So I feegure da system for getta da cash and no geeva moocha trouble for da peeg, too. I buy da peeg and putta bandage over da head so he can no see. Dat way ees so good as eef he no gotta da eyes. But I dunno wot's matter nobody come yet for buy da son-of-a-gun. I have dat blind peeg for three week now and he costa me seaxa dolla for da food and nobody show up weeth da cash yet. I dunno, but I think my frien foola me allright. Wot you tink?

WHEN YOU TELEPHONE.

IN THE business world it is no longer considered good form when you telephone to use the word "Hello"—designated by one of the telephone directors as "an ungraceful and rude little word." Much less then ought it to be used in social telephoning and the telephoning that takes place after business hours and in the home.

"Remember—telephone courtesy begins when the bell rings," says a little booklet recently got out by one of the telephone companies. Now this is something that the young man or woman in business has to remember. He knows, for instance, if he is dealing with possible buyers that he is far more apt to get an order if he does remember it. If he responds to the telephone with a surly, "What do you want?" before he knows who is calling and then, when he realizes that it is a customer, changes the tone of his voice and his mode of speech, he has made a bad beginning, and he is less apt to make a sale than if he opens the conversation with courtesy and cordiality.

Now here are some things that you should remember whether you are using the telephone for business or purely social or personal purposes.

If you open the telephone conversation do not ask any one to give his or her name until you announce your own. If you are calling a certain person in a household and another member of the family whose voice you recognize, answers do not ignore that person, saying, "Hello, I want to speak to Mary," but rather something like this: "Good morning, Jane; this is Claire speaking. May I talk to Mary?" If another person opens the telephone conversation do not make the mistake of prolonging the conversation after she has finished her errand. Especially if an out-of-town wire is being used, be careful not to cause the other person to have to pay double tolls because of your verbosity. (Copyright)

Concrete Ships in Use in Germany. Concrete ships are being used on the Rhine for river trade. The Germans are building many such boats to replace those that were turned over to the allies.

What's the Use? Many a man has managed to live sixty years and then be forgotten in a week.

When Art Failed. This is a true story of an adventure of two lady artists in Sunny Spain. They were walking and arrived at a little country inn, hot, dusty and thirsty. They couldn't talk Spanish, but wanted some milk badly, so one of them drew a most beautiful high-art cow, while the other jingled some coins. The Spaniards looked and a boy was sent off post haste. In half an hour the boy returned, hot and triumphant—with two tickets for a bullfight.—From the London Town Topics.

Uses Tail to Sound Alarm. Although the beaver's chief use for its flat, trowel-shaped tail is for swimming, it has another purpose. When beaten on the water it becomes an alarm signal.

Hurry! "I know the people are behind me!" cried the parlor Bolshevik. "And if you don't move quick they'll catch up to you," responded a menacing voice from the audience.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 35 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone. Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin. Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!
