EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1921.

No. 50

An Auspicious Beginning

East Jordan Indoor Baseball League Makes Debut.

Certainly the Indoor Baseball League made a very auspicious beginning, Friday evening, Dec. 9th. Even the customary tossing of the ball by the Mayor, Mr. Wilson, was poor, and the ball went wide of the mark. However, this in no way delayed the opening game of the evening, between the strong Presbyterian Fellowship Club team and the Methodist Fellowship Club team. The Presbyterians proved a little too strong for the Methodists in this game; for such men as Donald Porter on first base, Gibbs behind the bat, Freiberg and Watson at short; Howard Porter as second, proved to be stars at the indoor game, and swept the Methodist team off their feet before they realized what they were up against. The game ended 55 to 15.

In the second game, the famous All Star Independent team more than came up to the expectations by defeating the Firemen 27 to 9. The stellar roles were played by the McKinnon brothers and Ed. LaLonde behind the bat. The Independents looked like one of the strongest contenders for the Indoor Baseball pennant.

On Tuesday, Dec. 13, the Holy Name Society of the Catholic Church, proved a real stumbling block to the Methodists and won the game 30 to 14. Among the Methodist Stars, Mr. Bogart and Mr. Ekstrom. The Holy Name boys displayed two or three real finds in Ed. LaLonde, formerly of the All Stars, and Nachazel in the box and Father Drinan behind the bat.

In the second game the Firemen may have had some advantage in practice, but the Masons proved a worthy foe and defeated the Firemen lifesavers by the score of 28 to 14. To the surprise of all, they displayed such stars as Parks, Bechtold, Sid Sedgman, Muma behind the bat, Gidley at short. The Masonic team seem to be one of the contenders in the fight for the flag.

Wednesday, Dec. 14, the Presbyterians again displayed unusual strength by defeating the strong I. O. O. F. team, 31 to 7. The Presbyterians seemed to have a terrific slugging crew that seemed to make the other team look bad in the field. However the I. O. O. F. with a little practice should be one of the strongest teams in the League. Swafford, Pumphrey seemed to be the outstanding stars of the I. O. O. F. outfit. Certainly the Presbyterians displayed a real star on first base, in Donald Porter. The battery work of the Presbyterians was strong. Duncanson and Gibbs formed this battery. In the second game, the Independents had all the advantage of the K. of P. team, who came up without any practice whatever, and displayed a fighting spirit and a pitcher in Kowalski, which augers well for the future of this team. Other stars of this aggregation were Suffera and Bartlett. The Independents seem to have no outstanding star for they all play very well, and Hector McKinnon can be proud of his team. The score ended 27 to 4 in favor of the Independents.

An unfortunate incident occurred in this game when John Courier let go of his bat, hitting Eddie Streeter a glancing blow on the head. Of course, it was not done intentionally, but spectators need not fear, for a strict rule of the League is, that anyone throwing his bat is out of the League for the rest of the season.

There is only one thing that Superintendent of the School Board requests of the people who come to the building, and that is that they kindly leave their cigarettes and cigars outside the door. We know now that a few have used them in the building simply because it was not known to them that this request had been made.

The schedule is put in the paper this week just as it has been drawn up by the schedule committee. However, it has not been officially adopted by the executive committee; so there may be one or two changes, which will be announced later. Possibly next week the constitution will be printed in the paper and it will give a better idea of the purposes in mind in organizing such a league. The spirit displayed between the teams and by the spectators is of the finest. This spirit is a compliment to the citizens of East Jordan. We hope that they may enjoy the recreation of the game and the spectators appreciate the spirit displayed and get a degree of pleasure out of the pastime and amusement.

The standing of the League is as follows to date:

	Won	Lost	Percent
Independents,	2	0	1000
Presbyterians	2	0	1000
Masons	1	0	1000
Holy Name	1	0	1000
I. O. O. F.	0	1	000

E. J. H. S. In Basketball

Fine Schedule of Games Arranged for Boys and Girls.

Clyde Snellenberger has charge of a very likely looking basket ball squad. He apparently is saying nothing, and making no predictions; but if some of the murmurs about the street contain any truth, East Jordan may expect a very respectable team in the famous winter sport.

As to the coach himself, we will venture to say that the boys in East Jordan High School are fortunate indeed, in having a man of his experience and energy. It looks very much to the observers that speed will be the middle name of the high school team this year.

If Mr. Snellenberger can convey the speed that he has displayed on college floors, the games this winter will be well worth seeing, for Mr. Snellenberger was considered one of the strongest and speediest basketball players in the state colleges two or three years ago.

Therefore, we feel like mildly suggesting that East Jordan may expect things from the basketball team.

With the schedule nearly completed, East Jordan is facing the hardest and greatest season on the basketball court. Twelve games are already listed and several more pending. The opposition picked for the Red and Black is the hardest kind and will tax the ability of Snellenberger's men to the limit.

It is the policy of the management and coach to give the fans an opportunity to see the biggest and fastest teams in Northern Michigan play. Our boys have had only one year's experience, but you can rest assured they will be a strong "Fighting Five."

The finest schedule ever prepared for an East Jordan high school team follows:

Taxpayers To Benefit

Through New Internal Revenue Act of 1921.

To what extent will the average taxpayer be benefited by changes in revenue legislation? What are his exemptions and deductions under the revenue act of 1921 compared with the revenue act of 1918? Hundreds of such questions are reaching the bureau of internal revenue.

Probably the most important change affecting the man of moderate income is in the exemptions. Under the 1921 act a married man with a net income of $5,000 and less is entitled to an exemption of $2,500. Under the revenue act of 1918 this exemption was limited to $2,000. The revenue act of 1921 also provides for each person dependent upon the taxpayer if such person is under eighteen years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective—an exemption of $400. The exemption under the revenue act of 1918 was $200 for each such dependent.

NORMAL TAX RATE

The normal rate of tax, 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income above exemptions, and 8 per cent on the remaining net income, remains unchanged. This applies to citizens and residents of the United States. Alien non-residents are taxed to the full 8 per cent on income received from sources within the United States. Non-resident aliens are allowed only a single personal exemption of $1,000. To overcome the disparity in the amount of normal tax in the case of two taxpayers, one of whom is just within the lower $2,000 exemption, the other being just within the higher $2,500 exemption the act provides that the reduction of the personal exemption from $2,500 to $2,000 shall not operate to increase the tax, which would be payable if the exemption were $2,500, by more than the next income in excess of $5,000. For example, a married man or head of a family has a net income for 1921 of $5,010. Assuming that he has no dependents, his tax, if he were allowed only the $2,000 exemption, would be $120.40. Under the benefits of the above provision, however, his tax is $110.4 per cent on the amount of his taxable income of $2,500 or 100 plus the amount by which his net income exceeds $5,000.

SURTAX RATES

Many inquiries are received relative to the surtax rates.

Taxpayers in the preparation of their returns should be careful to note that the surtax rates for the calendar year 1921 remain unchanged. The surtax rates on incomes for 1921 range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $5,000 and $6,000 to 65 per cent on the amount of net income in excess of $1,000,000. For the calendar year 1922 and each calendar year thereafter, the surtax ranges from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $6,000 and $10,000 to 50 per cent by which the amount of net income exceeds $200,000.

RETURNS REQUIRED

Returns are required of every single person whose net income for 1921 was $1,000 or over, every married person not living with husband or wife whose net income was $1,000, and every married person living with husband or wife whose net income was $2,000 or over. Every person whose gross income for the year was $5,000 or over must make a return regardless of the amount of net income. This requirement was not contained in the revenue act of 1918. Every married couple living together must make a return, either separate or joint as desired, if their aggregate net income was $2,000 or over, or if their aggregate gross income was $5,000 or more.

PERIOD FOR FILING RETURNS

The period for filing returns is from Jan. 1 to March 15, 1922, when made on the calendar year basis. If the taxpayer makes his return on the fiscal year basis, the return must be filed on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the fiscal year. Non-resident aliens must make return on or before the fifteenth day of the sixth month following the close of the fiscal year, or, if the return is made on the calendar year basis on or before June 15.

IS YOUR CHILD WELL NOURISHED?

Malnutrition in childhood is one of the most serious causes of physical unfitness in later life. If the child is undernourished he cannot withstand childhoods infectious diseases. The well nourished child may not escape the disease, but he can at least escape disastrous after effects.

Many mothers fail to realize that their children are really ill as a result of poor nutrition. They think the child is merely nervous, irritable, and obviously "underweight". They often describe his condition as: run down; no appetite; frail; delicate; thin; skinny sensitive; easily upset; growing too fast; or merely "not himself."

When these conditions exist, a child's condition is really serious. The delicate child must be made robust. Malnutrition makes the child susceptible to tuberculosis and retards his mental development.

If your child does not eat well, sleep well, study well, and feel well, it is time to make a serious study of his diet. Improper nutrition may be to blame.

Milk, as a regular part of a child's diet, insures proper nourishment. Next week we will discuss milk, as a vital food for children.

A poor man likes to think that the rich have more troubles than he has.

P. M. Wants To Cut Lines

Battle In Courts May Result From Request.

Possibilities of court action to decide whether the interstate commerce commission or the Michigan public utilities commission shall have the final authority to grant or disapprove permission to a Michigan railroad to abandon parts of its lines in the state, was seen following a statement issued by Commissioner William Smith of the state utilities commission.

The Pere Marquette has applied to the interstate commerce commission at Washington for permission to abandon certain pieces of its line in Michigan a couple of hundred miles.

From Benton Harbor to Buchanan, where lines are about 25 miles; White Cloud to Big Rapids, about 20 miles; from Haynor to Sheridan, about 20 miles; from Elm Dale to Freepport, about 6 1/2 miles. A spur track between Grand Ledge and Ionia to Lyons, about 1 mile.

MICHIGAN APPLE BOX MEETS APPROVAL AT HORTICULTURAL MEET

B. L. Severance returned latter part of last week from Grand Rapids where he attended the annual meeting of the State Horticultural Society. His mission was to introduce his invention—a collapsible apple box and collapsible crate suitable for packing apples of the better grades. The box and crate have many good features to commend its use, and it met with hearty approval among the growers of choice apples present at the sessions.

Mr. Severance has already secured some orders and the Joynst & Severance woodworking plant will start the manufacture of same in January.

The below clipping was taken from an issue of the Grand Rapids Press:—

"Between sessions of the convention the fruit growers each day have jammed into the Watera building where the commercial exhibits of interest to fruit growers are on display. Some of the most modern apparatus manufactured for use in horticulture is on exhibition. One exhibit of striking interest was a collapsible apple box manufactured by a coöperation concern at East Jordan. It was said to be the very latest work in fruit packages.

G. E. BOSWELL,

Poets never have been able to pen encomiums worthy of woman whose life is given to her children's welfare above all else, nor critics to find sufficient anathema for women who place themselves and any imagined "art" or "talent" above motherhood.

Any doctor knows that it isn't hard to prescribe for a sick man but that it is impossible to prescribe for a woman who only thinks she is sick.

Anything that will make a child laugh is a better tonic than any doctor can prescribe.

CANADIAN LIBERALS WIN: KING ELECTED PREMIER

WILLIAM LYAN MACKENZIE KING

Ottawa—Canada's general election resulted in defeat for Premier Meighen and the Conservative party. Sweeping the country from coast to coast, the Liberals, headed by William Lyon Mackenzie King, not only routed the government but gave a stinging personal defeat to the premier in his own constituency of Portage la Prairie, which he lost by approximately 3,000.

CHECKING UP ON DELINQUENTS

About $400,000 Still Due From Corporations of State.

Lansing—Following the supreme court decision, establishing the validity of the state corporation tax law, a special force of clerks in the department of state is busy checking up delinquent corporations.

It is estimated by the department officials that in the neighborhood of $400,000, is still due the state from corporations which failed to pay at the prescribed time.

Penalties including suspension of corporate rights in extreme cases and a fine of $100 plus an additional penalty of $5 for each day of delinquency, are prescribed in the law.

It is probable, however, in view of the fact that the law became operative only this year, and has been a source of almost constant litigation, that a lenient attitude will be taken toward backward corporations.

FLINT YOUTHS KILL EMPLOYER

Paul Delisle, Meat Wholesaler, Was Given Poisoned Whiskey.

Flint, Mich.—Fear that they would be arrested for the theft recently of $223 is the motive given by Charles Austin, 20, and Clifford Thorpe, 17, who confessed to Flint police last Saturday that they deliberately murdered their employer, Paul Delisle, 51, of 380 West Twelfth street.

Delisle, wealthy Flint meat wholesaler, was found dead in a chair at his home. Death was caused by drinking a mixture of whiskey and carbolic acid, prepared by Austin and Thorpe, employed in the Delisle slaughterhouse here, according to the confession.

The lads, with many others familiar with the Delisle premises, were picked up by the police for investigation. It was late Saturday night that they broke down and confessed the whole affair to the police. They signed a confession, police say.

AGREEMENT IN EAST PENDING

Four Nations to Maintain Open Door in China.

Washington—Final agreement on the quadruple "understanding" in the Pacific to supplant the Anglo-Japanese alliance is pending.

The declaration will amount to an agreement between the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan to observe certain general principles in their dealings with China, notably to respect her sovereignty and her territorial and administrative integrity, maintain the "open door" for trade and not seek any further special rights or privileges.

PACKER STRIKERS CAUSE RIOTS

Precautions Taken to Prevent Recurrence of Disturbance.

Chicago—Extra precautions to prevent recurrence of disorders were taken by authorities in several of the large packing centers of the middle west, following the spread of rioting here by strike sympathizers to other towns.

Declare Lower Taxes Necessary. Washington—Further revision of the tax laws, with a reduction of the maximum of income surtax rates to 20 or 25 per cent and adjustment of the rates on business profits and estates, is suggested by Secretary Mellon in his first annual report, transmitted to congress. The secretary announces that the treasury's policy with respect to deferment of the soldiers' bonus is unchanged, and urges prompt funding of the ten billions of dollars of for loan.

The Fourth Dimension. The fourth dimension is merely a mathematical speculation. It is assumed to be the property of matter that should be to solids as solids are to planes. Mathematical investigations are made on the assumption of an indefinite number of dimensions.

The Thermos Bottle. A thermos bottle is a double-walled receptacle. The air in the space between the walls is completely exhausted and the walls are silvered like a mirror so as to reflect radiation. This guards against the access of heat or cold from without.

Belladonna. Belladonna is Italian for "fair lady" and the drug was given this name because Italian women employed the juice for staining their skin and to beautify the eyes by giving them a glistening appearance.

Water and Electricity.
 The bureau of standards says if a stream of water from a hose is thrown upon high tension wires at close range there is considerable hazard from the possible conduction of electricity by the stream of water back to the men holding the nozzle. If, however, the stream of water be thrown from a distance such that the water breaks up into drops before coming in contact with the electrical conductors, there is little danger, as such a stream of water is nonconducting.

"Association of Ideas."
 This phrase seems to have been used first by John Locke, an English philosopher, who lived in the seventeenth century, but the facts referred to were recognized as early as the time of Aristotle, when four ways by which the mind passes from one idea to another were discovered. These were known as association by similarity, by continuity, by contrast and by succession.

 Crabs Walk Off With Clocks.
 Christmas Island, in Oceania, is infested with landcrabs two feet across which swarm over the camps of travelers in such large numbers as to be dangerous.  Monterey's Ostrich Tree.
 Montgomery, Cal., is as proud of its ostrich tree as residents of the lower Hudson valley are of Anthony's nose. This celebrated curiosity is formed of two coast cypresses, so that their foliage seems to be that of one tree; and the shape of it, together with the peculiar angle at which the two trunks are placed, gives the silhouette of a huge and earnest ostrich stalking along shore. The brave old trees that make the picture are alone on a barren tongue of beach running out into the breakwaters of the Pacific.

Trees Strong.
 Trees and plants display a wonderful strength at times. Some of them will lift a heavy stone which blocks their way or even split a rock, but there is one thing which they cannot withstand and that is the stranglehold of another plant which encircles them. A honeysuckle will soon kill a tree which it takes hold of and in the tropical forests there are many creepers which kill the trees they climb and save themselves by reaching out to neighboring trees.
Rats Outwitted by Sawdust.
 Insulation by sawdust not only deadens sound, but also defeats rats. When a rat starts to construct a burrow through packed sawdust, the operation no doubt seems easy enough to begin with. But presently the sawdust begins to cave in, filling the hole as far as the rat can dig, and in the end discouraging the animal completely.
Porridge Was Thin.
 Little Frances, age three, was eating breakfast at the home of her grandfather. The oatmeal porridge was a little thinner than usual that morning. The little miss looked intently at her grandfather for some time, as he was eating his porridge, and then broke the somewhat protracted silence with the remark: "Grandfather, you sound like soup."

CHAPTER VII.

Honorable Scars.

If I had been what I had invited Jeanie Twombly to imagine me: merely an ordinary drifting tourist set afoot in the wilds by circumstances over which I had no control, my cue to be on my way the following morning couldn't have been delayed much beyond the appetizing breakfast to which I sat down a little after seven o'clock. But once I had reached the end of the rainbow, and had no intention of moving on before I could have my chance to dig for the pot of gold which is said to be the reward of successful rainbow chasers, I was casting about for an excuse to prolong my stay when Twombly, in accordance with the bit of talk which I had overheard in the loft chamber, took the matter out of my hands.

"When we was talkin' about automobiles and such, las' night, you let on to me that you knowed something about machinery," was the way he began. "If you ain't in a tearnin' hurry to be goin' somewheres, maybe I could get you to hang round for a spell and show me how to take a steam engine to pieces so 't I could clean it up and keep it from goin' to rack and ruin."

"With all the pleasure imaginable," I hastened to say, before he could have time to change his mind.

While the cerulean-eyed maiden was carrying the dishes out of the kitchen, the old man donned overalls and a jumper, and a few minutes later I was introduced to the mine—my mine, if you please—or rather to so much of it as was open to any visitor other than a submarine diver.

My heart went hot in sympathy for good old Grandfather Jasper. The scoundrels who had done him up had not been content with merely selling him the gold brick; they had let him spend thousands more for the pumping machinery, after they, themselves, were well assured that he was merely throwing money away.

I asked Daddy what he wished to do with the machinery. He said he was afraid it might be rusting inside, standing unused so long, and he wanted to take it apart; especially the steam engine. So I told him how to begin, and he fell to work; but in just a few minutes his awkwardness with the tools gave me a fit of the willies.

"See here," I said; "if you've got another pair of overalls and a jumper—

"Sure pop, I have," he admitted; and that was how I discovered my first real job of honest-to-goodness work.

We stuck at it until noon, disassembling and scraping rust, and polishing and oiling, and incidentally finding the machinery in a great deal better condition than it had any right to be after standing idle for so long a time. Of course, I bungled my soft hands all up, and got as dirty as a pig, and all that; but that first forenoon is written down in my life as one of the most enjoyable I've ever known. And when Daddy Hiram called the noon halt, and we went across to the cabin to wash up for dinner, I was hungry. I think that forenoon measured about the only useful half-day's work I'd ever done; and the afternoon made it a full day. Say, people—it was great! For the first time in an idle, happy-go-lucky life I had a job with a concrete object in view, and a keen ambition to see it through. I was christly eager to get that machinery in shape and to start those old pumps, and this in spite of Daddy Hiram's repeated assurances that it "wouldn't do no good a-tall."

During a hard-working interval of two weeks a number of things had happened. One was a visit from the despondent-looking Angelica who had impressed me with the fact that she belonged to the Ancient and Honorable Order of the Silver Star. I'll have to tell about that visit, because it proved that a tremendously lucky thing it was for me that I had fallen among friends.

It was this way. On the second day of my stay in the bosom of the Twombly family I noticed that a battered surveying instrument—a transit which was probably a left-over from the time when the Cinnabar was a working proposition, with an engineer to figure out its dips and angles—had been moved from its place in the corner of the living room and was stood upon its three legs at a small, square window which looked out over the plateau-bench of the mountain to the south-westward.

Two mornings afterward I found out the why and wherefore of the old transit and its "set up," as an engineer would say. Daddy Hiram and I were standing with our backs to the hearth, waiting for breakfast to be put on the table, when Jeanie came in from the kitchen with a great stack of hot batter-cakes. As she darted out again after the coffee and bacon, she paused just a fraction of a second to put her eye to the Telescope. I didn't see what kind of a signal it was that she passed to Daddy Hiram, but whatever its nature, it made him get action in a tearing hurry.

"Up into the loft with you, quick, Stannie!" he yipped at me; and as I went stumbling up the ladder in blind obedience I saw him hastily helping his daughter to remove my plate, knife and fork, spoon, coffee cup and chair;

"Up in the Loft With You Quick, Stannie!" He Yipped at Me.

In other words, to obliterate swiftly and completely all signs of the presence of a third member of the family. In a minute or so there was a gruff hail from somebody outdoors and Daddy got up to go and look out.

"Why, hello, Ike, you old geezer!" he called. "What under the shinin' sun fetches you up on old Cinnabar this early in the mornin'? Light down and come in; you're just in the nick o' time for breakfast."

While I was cudgeling my brain in a vain effort to recall what, if any, memory association there should be awakened in me by the mention of an "Ike" person, this particular Isaac presented himself at the cabin door and clumped in with the stiff-legged, walk of a man who has ridden horseback far and hard. I knew then why I should have been able to dig that memory association. This was Mr. Isaac Beasley, my Angelic friend of the overgrown silver star and the unshaven countenance.

"Huh!" he grunted, "them griddle-cakes shore do look mighty righteous to me! I been ridin' sense two hours afore sun-up; wild-goose chase clear over on 't'her side o' Lost mountain. Couple o' prospectors blew into Angels day afore yistiday and said they'd seen that con-dummed lunatic that got loose from us and busted up a car-f'r the railroad; them yoddeheads said they'd seen him workin' in the Lost Creek placers."

"A looney?" said Daddy Hiram, as innocent as a two-weeks-old lamb.

"Yep; that feller that stole an inspection car and got it smashed up, and then took to the hills. You hain't seen anything of him, have ye?"

"Nary a lunatic," said Daddy Hiram calmly.

His breakfast eaten, Friend Isaac showed no disposition to hurry away—much to my chagrin. He took time to smoke a leisurely pipe with Daddy Hiram and to ask a lot of indifferent questions about the drowned mine.

"Hain't heard nothin' fr'm yer owners yit, have ye, Hiram?" he wanted to know, after—as it seemed to me—the subject had been pretty thoroughly talked to death.

I heard Daddy's reply, made as to one with whom the matter had been canvassed before.

"Nothin' but that clipin' from some newspaper back East, tellin' about Mr. Dingley's passin' out."

"Kind-a curious somebody don't tell ye somethin', ain't it?" the marshal put in. "Looks like the hel's 'd be either fishin' 'r cuttin' bait on this here Cinnabar layout—not as it'd do 'em any good if they did. Didn't any letter come with the newspaper piece?"

"Nary a pen-scratch."

"Whereabout was the envelope posted?"

"Washin'ton."

"Ah!" said I to myself, "I have you, Cousin Percy! For some reason best known to yourself you didn't want Daddy Hiram to get hold of Grandfather Jasper's proper address!"

His pipe smoked out, the marshal prepared to take horse. Daddy went with him to the far side of the dump and the murmur of their voices came to me in diminishing cadences. After a bit Daddy came back and called up to me in the sing-song of the miners after the final blast has been fired: "A-a-l-l over, Stannie. I reckon you can come down now and get you some breakfast."

lon by those two simple-minded souls if I hadn't first spoken of it myself. This I did in the evening of the same day, when Daddy had gone to make his entirely useless night round of the mine property. As on most evenings, Jeanie sat at her corner of the hearth, knitting, and I was filling a bedtime pipe.

"Jeanie," I broke out, "I wish you'd tell me why you and your father are so good to me. How do you know that I'm not the crazy criminal that other people believe me to be? I did steal the car and get it smashed, you know."

"You are not a criminal and I am sure you didn't mean to get the car smashed. Besides, you had taken shelter under our roof."

"You are true Bedouins," I laughed. "Is that the code in the West?—your code?—to defend anybody who has eaten salt with you?"

"I should think it would be anybody's code."

"You and your father were expecting this man Beasley to come here looking for me?"

"Daddy thought he might just happen along. We are only four miles from Atropia, you know."

"And was that the reason you put the old transit at the window?—so you might watch for him?"

"Of course."

By Jove! Another woman, any other woman in the world, I thought, would have let some little shred of sentiment show; she couldn't have helped it. But this one didn't. A boy couldn't have looked me in the eyes any more frankly and squarely than she did when she said "Of course." Since I had eaten their bread, I was, for so long as I chose to stay, a member of the clan.

It was near the end of the fortnight, and Daddy Hiram and I had scoured and rubbed and scraped and reassembled the engine and pumps, and were finishing the cleaning of the boilers. These were pretty badly rusted and scaled, and to do the job properly, we had taken the manhole heads out of the holes left to give access to the interior of the shells, and had had a good-natured squabble as to which of us should crawl inside to do the scraping; Daddy insisting upon doing it, because as he pointed out, he was the smaller man, and I arguing that I should because I was the younger and stronger.

To settle it finally we flipped a coin—one of those inch-wide copper pennies that Daddy carried for a pocket-piece—and I won the toss. The job wasn't exactly a picnic, but I got along all right until we came to the last of the battery. I found that the repairers had at some past time inserted a couple of extra stay-rods, so that there was little enough room left in the old steel shell for a looking about in, to say nothing of a husky young chap who tipped the beam at around a hundred and seventy pounds, stripped.

Just the same, I made shift to knock the worst of the scale off and rattle it down so that it could be washed out from below, and was backing out to make my escape, when I found that one of the extra stay-rods was loose. At my asking, Daddy screwed up the nut on the outside of the boiler head to tighten the rod, and then passed the wrench in to me so that I could screw up the nut on the inside. To this good day I don't know just what did happen, but I guess the big wrench must have slipped off the nut while I was pulling on it. Anyhow, something hit me a stunning crack over the eye, and I promptly faked out, blink, like a penny candle in a gust of wind.

When I came to myself again it was night, and I was lying undressed and in a real bed in a room that was totally unfamiliar. In the looking-glass which hung on the opposite wall I got a glimpse of myself with a regular Turk's turban of white stuff wound around my head and skew-angled to cover one eye. When I stirred, Jeanie popped in from somewhere to ask what she could do for me.

"What was it?" I asked; "an earthquake?"

"Daddy says you hit yourself with a wrench. Does it hurt much now?"

"Not more than having a sound tooth pulled, no. But I was inside the boiler, wasn't I? How did you manage to get me out?"

"She turned her face away and even with one eye I could see that she was trying to hide a smile.

"It was funny," she confessed, "though we were both scared stiff at the time. Daddy called me and I ran over. You were all doubled up inside of the boiler, and there wasn't room for Daddy to crawl in and straighten you out. And unless you could be straightened out we couldn't pull you out."

"I see. What did you do?—send for a boiler-monkey?"

"What is a boiler-monkey?"

"It isn't a 'what'; it's a man; usually the littlest man in the shop."

"I was the monkey," she said.

I tried to sit up, but the blinding headache I had somehow acquired said No.

"You crawled into that rusty old coffin?"

"She nodded.

"Daddy lent me his overalls and jumper. It wasn't hard, but when I got in and saw how badly you were hurt, there wasn't anything to laugh at, then. Daddy says you'll be apt to carry the scar as long as you live."

"Honorable scars," I muttered. "You straightened me around—I'll believe it if you say so—and then what?"

"Then I got out and we pulled you out—Daddy and I. I was glad you didn't know; that you were past feeling things, I mean. We must have hurt you frightfully. I don't see how you ever crawled in through that hole."

"It's much easier when you're alive," I offered.

"I'm going to bring you a cup of herb tea, and then I'll go and lie down for a while."

"Since, as I afterward learned, the dose she gave me was some sort of home-brewed sleeping draft, I very nearly slept the clock round. Daddy came in and helped me into my clothes—they were eating their noon meal when I woke up and called—and apart from being still a bit headachy and tottery, I was all right again. But for two whole days they made me sit around and be waited on, hand and foot, and coddled and petted, those two; for their own flesh and blood they couldn't have done more.

WINTER CARE OF TIRES

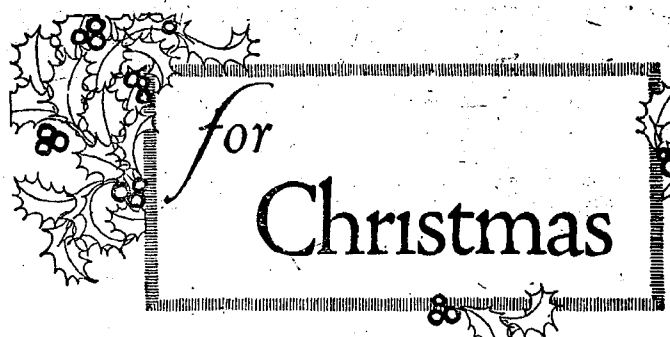

If you are going to put your car away for the winter, there are a few important rules to follow if you want to find your tires in good condition when springtime comes again; say the United States Tire Company.

The tires should be cleaned thoroughly to remove oil and grease. If you want to be especially kind to your tires remove them from the car, deflate them, wrap them up in paper or cloth and store them in a cool, dry place away from the sunlight.

If you do not want to go to the trouble of removing the tires, jack up the car, deflate the tires, and wrap them in covers of paper or cloth. Do not let the car stand on the tires all winter or you will need a new set in the spring. It is essential that tires be deflated. In cold weather an inflated tire has a tendency to "set", a condition under which the rubber is likely to break if bent or twisted out of the position or shape in which it has stood for a long time.

Men do not amount to much in several ways but they seldom think it is necessary to display their chests, backs and calves. They take it for granted that everybody knows they have them.

The pretty girl who is a good dancer attracts a lot of admiration, but unless she develops into a wife of average average looks who is a good cook, she is going to be mighty lonesome some day.

BE RID OF THAT ACHE

If you are a sufferer with lame back, backache, dizziness, nervousness and kidney disorders, why don't you try the remedy that your own neighbors recommend?

Mrs. Wm. Harrington, East Jordan, says: "I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for I have used them with very beneficial results. I was troubled considerably with dull, nagging backaches and distressing pain through my kidneys. My kidneys were very irregular in action. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they helped me wonderfully by relieving the backache and correcting the action of my kidneys. I have used Doan's in the past and they have always given me the best of relief and satisfaction." (Statement given on Aug. 3, 1920.)

On April 23, 1920, Mrs. Harrington added: "I haven't had occasion to use a kidney medicine since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me years ago. The cure proved to be complete in all respects and has stood the test of time. I recommended Doan's in 1919 and I am happy in saying that I am as strong for them as ever. I gladly confirm the state I made in that year."

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

Hitt's Drug Store

To the Lyceum Course, the Ladies' Aid, the Church Supper and Bake Sale Committees, and a Few Others:

This newspaper is always ready to help you in every legitimate way. It stands for everything that is good in this community and it supports it liberally, BUT—

It has only two sources of revenue—ADVERTISING and SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Now when you send in a notice that there is going to be a rummage sale, a cake sale, or an entertainment for your benefit on a certain day at a certain place and the price of tickets is so much, it is pure advertising. That's why you send it to the newspaper. You want to advertise it to the people.

For years newspapers have been giving these notices to you free. Oftentimes these notices actually cost the newspapers from one to two dollars. Do you know that it costs at least $4 just to set a column of news. That is just the composition. It does not include the cost of putting it in the forms, making up, printing, etc. And yet for years you have been asking the papers to give you this space free.

Do you know of any business that is giving things away free these days? Go down to the drug store and try to get an ice cream soda free just because you belong to some organization.

If the editor comes around to your sale you expect him to pay good old gold dollars for his ticket, his supper or his cake, don't you? And he has to pay that same kind of gold to the men in his office. They expect it on Saturday night. When you get something for nothing it is not generally appreciated. We don't say that is true in this case, but it is certain that the newspapers have for years been giving away their space free.

And it MUST stop. The printing business has been hard hit. While newsprint has come down a little in cost, it is still higher than before the war. Wages have gone up and hours per week have been shortened. Machinery has doubled and trebled in price.

It must be confessed that newspapers haven't for a long time been conducted on good business lines. It's the editor's fault. He doesn't blame anybody else. But since the war he has learned a few things. He knows that everything has gone up and what's more he has learned that his creditors expect him to pay his bills promptly and with real money. He has also learned that he is entitled to a living wage, the same as his men. He has been compelled to do business in a businesslike way.

It certainly isn't business to give your product away free. No other business does it, so why should a newspaper? This newspaper is willing to co-operate and help and it will give a moderate amount of free publicity to entertainments and suppers providing advertising space is purchased. It's fair, isn't it? Put yourself in our place. You expect a full return for every ticket you sell. Why shouldn't an editor expect full return for his advertising space?

Think it over. We know that it is only necessary for our readers to peruse this little talk to see the justice of our contention. So in the future please don't ask us to insert notices free, but pay for advertising space the same as you expect the people to pay for your tickets to your affairs.

In ALL fairness—look at it from both sides.

The Incentive.

To be ambitious of true honor, of the true glory and perfection of our natures, is the very incentive of virtue; but to be ambitious of titles, of place, of ceremonial respects and civil pageantry, is as vain and little as the things are which we court.—Sir Philip Sidney.

Birds and Cyclones.

One naturalist has expressed the opinion that birds habitually make use of storms in traveling from one part of their range to another. He points out that if a bird cannot find shelter, it must be more comfortable on the wing than on the ground during a storm, because in the fiercest gales the air, as a mass, is at rest; that is, the bird is in a moving, supporting medium, like a swimmer in a strongly flowing river.

FIND HUNTER LOST SIX DAYS

Eastern Man Suffers Privations 30 Miles From Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—Lewis Devoe, 19 years old, a deer hunter from Waterbury, Conn., will lose several toes by amputation as the result of being lost in a Chippewa county Swamp for six days without food or fire.

Devoe was brought to a local hospital Dec. 8 by woodsmen, 30 miles from the Soo.

Immediately after the hunting season closed, Devoe left camp for Strong's, the nearest railroad station. He became lost and in the rain his matches were ruined. His feet were partly frozen.

CRAWL THRU TORPEDO TUBES

Crew of Sunken Submarine Escape After Close Call.

Bridgeport, N. Y.—The Lake Submarine S-48 sank off this harbor Dec. 7 and was submerged for twelve hours before the crew, by lightening the ballast tanks, raised one end of the craft to the surface and escaped through the torpedo tubes.

The submarine was under test off the Penfield reef, when she was rammed and sunk by the tug. She now lies in 70 feet of water, one end resting on the bottom and the bow from which the crew got away, above the water line. The location is four miles east of Penfield reef.

COONEY MUST STAND TRIAL

Mrs. Slack Acquitted on Charge of Hanging Husband.

Centerville, Mich.—George Cooney will have to stand trial in Circuit Court here on a charge of killing William J. Slack Sept. 16. Slack's widow was acquitted last week on a similar charge. The prosecution's decision to try Cooney despite the acquittal of Mrs. Slack was unexpected, as it was generally believed the case would be nolle prossed if the jury freed the widow.

Judge Johnson has refused to hold Mrs. Slack as a witness in the Cooney trial.

Declare Dry Law is Failure.

St. Louis.—The Volstead law, as it now stands, is a failure, declares an exhaustive pamphlet mailed by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing company to President Harding, all members of the senate and house and to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. The pamphlet argues for a modification of the dry act so as to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer. Disrespect for the Volstead law, the pamphlet declares, is breeding a disrespect for all law.

IRISH BODY WILL CONSIDER TREATY

DE VALERA AND TWO OTHERS NOT IN FAVOR OF BRITISH OFFER.

WILL NOT RECOMMEND PACT

Four Cabinet Members Will Vote for Acceptance When Dail Eireann Meets Dec. 14.

London.—The cabinet of the Dail Eireann is definitely split on the question of accepting the peace treaty suggested by Sinn Fein representatives and members of the British Government in London.

Eamon de Valera, leading the revolt of the extremists against the treaty, has declared the terms of the agreement "in violent conflict to the wishes of the majority of the Irish nation as expressed freely in successive elections for the past three years. De Valera, in a statement issued after an intense inter-cabinet struggle, declared that he must refuse to recommend the treaty for acceptance by the Dail Eireann. In his stand he was supported by Cathal Brugha and Austin Stack, ministers of home affairs and defense. The remainder of the cabinet is said to have favored the treaty.

"I feel it my duty to inform you immediately that I cannot recommend acceptance of this treaty," De Valera declared, "either by the Dail Eireann or by the country.

"In this I am supported by the ministers of home affairs and defense. A public session of the Dail Eireann will be summoned for Dec. 14.

"I ask the Irish people to maintain during the interval the same discipline as heretofore. The members of the cabinet, though of divided opinion, are prepared to carry on the public service as usual. The army as such is, of course, unaffected by the political situation and continues under the same orders.

"The great test of our people has come. Let us meet it worthily, without bitterness, and above all, without recriminations."

Arthur Griffith, vice-president and founder of the Sinn Fein and head of the Irish delegation which signed the peace treaty at London, giving Ireland the same status as Canada, has issued a statement supporting the treaty and urging its adoption.

Hardly Realistic.

Ellen Terry tells the following amusing story: Once, when she was acting in "Madame Sans-Gene," a cat stole on the stage and rubbed itself against her. To introduce a realistic "touch," she picked it up and set it down a foot or two away, telling it to go to sleep. But a murmuring in the audience drew Ellen Terry's attention to the animal again. The cat was sleeping peacefully on a red-hot "fire."

Yellow Fever Wiped Out.

Yellow fever has been completely eliminated from Guavaquil, Ecuador, where it has been prevalent for generations. In 1842 half the population of the city died of this disease, and there were from 200 to 500 cases every year until the campaign of extermination was begun in 1918.

CONVICT STABS PRISON WARDEN

CHIEF DEPUTY AND SON ALSO WOUNDED IN ASSAULT AT MARQUETTE.

HARPER STARTS RIOT IN CHAPEL

About 400 Inmates Were Seeing Movie; State Police Called to Restore Order.

Marquette.—Warden Theodore B. Catlin and three of his staff at the State House of Correction and Branch Prison here were stabbed in a fight with Arthur "Gypsy Bob" Harper, Jasper Perry and Charles Roberts, Detroit long-term inmates, who started a riot in the prison chapel Sunday morning by attacking the warden during a moving picture show.

The victims of Harper's fresh outbreak of vengeance toward the administration of the prison are lying in a local hospital in a serious condition.

Catlin was wounded nine times by the convict's knife. The deputy was out and beaten badly. Young Menhennit was stabbed through the lungs. All have been placed under the care of the best physicians in this city.

In solitary confinement, awaiting flogging, that has been ordered by Charles Blaney, chairman of the prison commission, are Harper, Jasper Perry, Lifer, and Charles Roberts, a 20-year man, both of Detroit, who assisted Harper.

So surprised was the warden at the attack that his efforts to counter the criminal's passes with the knife were futile. Catlin went down. Prisoners stampeded; while the more loyal ones came to the rescue of the endangered officials.

Harper directed his attack at the warden, against whom he has harbored a dislike since he was denied a transfer to Jackson Prison after his sensational escape from the institution here recently. The other prisoners leaped at Menhennit and his son.

Rioting continued until Charles Muck, a guard on the outer wall, was summoned by Sam Ford, a lifer.

"Stand back," Muck cried, "or I'll shoot the first man that makes a false move."

Muck's order backed the convicts toward the rear of the chapel, and, almost single-handed, he forced the prisoners into their cells.

A call was sent for state police at Negaunee at the outset of the fighting. Major Robert Marsh, supervisor of state prisons, with a squad of 14 men, hurried to the prison. The reinforcements came up a few minutes after Muck, assisted by other guards, had gotten the convicts back into their cells.

EAST JORDAN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The first debate of the season was held at the East Jordan High School Auditorium on Monday, Dec. 12th. As everyone knows East Jordan has always turned out good debaters, winning the State Championship in 1919 and coming out second in 1921. We have high hopes for this year's team. The question was: "Resolved, that the closed shop should receive the support of public opinion."

The Jordan team winning with a 2 to 1 decision defended the affirmative side and Alba the negative. Virginia Pray, Gayle Hudkins and Arthur Secord made up the winning team, and Edward Saperston, John Makel and Lynn Glidden the losing side.

For the first few speeches it was very close, but with Mr. Secord's rebuttal there was very little doubt as to who would carry away the laurels. The judges were Mr. Craig and Mr. Rice of Charlevoix, and Mr. Meggison of Central Lake.

The Tryout of the Debaters.

A tryout of the debaters for first speech was held in the High School Assembly last Friday. The speakers were Fern Flannery, Francis Coykendall and Virginia Pray. All of the contestants gave their speeches well, and East Jordan has a very good chance of winning her share of the debates with the team chosen. The judges were A. J. Duncanson, Howard Porter and Rev. Siebtham. Miss Pray, Mr. Hudkins and Mr. Secord make up the team. Miss Flannery is alternate for the affirmative and Mr. Coykendall for the negative.

Girl Scouts Hike

December third a group of Girl Scouts accompanied by Miss Norton and Miss Massalink walked as far as the pines. The day was extremely stormy and walking was hard because of the previous rains.

High School Basket Ball Team

The High School basket ball team under the skillful coaching of Mr. Snellenberger has improved a great deal over last year. Each night the team goes to the gym for practice and scrimmage games. They have a number of new plays which they never had before and they work successfully against the second team. East Jordan has a number of games to play this year and most of them are with Class A teams. The first game of the season is played with Petoskey and later on Cadillac is going to come here. The team not only wants the high school students to come to the games but "Everybody." Everyone knows of the record of the team made last year. They plan on having a better record this year and also a larger attendance at the games.

Debate in English II

The second division in English held a debate last Monday morning. It was well given and very exciting considering the remarks which the negative side made about losing. The question was "Resolved whether or not East Jordan should have a physical instructor." The debaters for the negative were: Raymond Swafford, Mary Zitka, and Alma Anderson. Those for the affirmative were: Ruth Johnson, Christine Vandeventer and A. J. Wangeman. The debate was won by the affirmative side.

Eighth Grade Party

Friday evening the eighth grade enjoyed a party at the high school given in honor of the winning side in a history contest. The refreshments were: cocoa, salad, apples, pickles and sandwiches. After supper everyone helped with the dishes. The Presbyterian and Methodist leagues were playing indoor baseball so no games could be played in the auditorium. Some went to the game which was very interesting, but after the first quarter everyone came to the hall to play games.

All Stars vs. Mostly Stars

Another interesting basket ball game between the E. J. High School girls and All Stars was held in the gym, Dec. 13. The All Stars again outplayed the high school girls in making baskets but the Mostly Stars have improved so much in their team work that it was hard for them to get away with the ball. During the first half the high school girls scored 4 points while the All Stars had 8 points. In the second half the high school girls scored 2 points and All Stars 14 points thus making a score of 22 to 6 in favor of the All Stars.

A HUNDRED MILLION GOATS

When Mr. Wilson was president the administration took the attitude that the present generation should pay all of the huge indebtedness incurred as a result of our entry into the world war. Under Mr. Harding's administration it is proposed that these debts be liquidated within a period of twenty-five years.

In addition the allies owe us about eleven billions of dollars which we may never see again.

The eleven billions must necessarily come from the pockets of the present generation, as it has already vanished.

But why this frantic haste to liquidate our own debt?

Why the insistent attempt to saddle the whole burden upon those who have done the suffering?

Why make this generation both suffer and pay while the next generation will have nothing to do but reap the benefits?

America did not enter the war from choice, or through any benevolent or chivalrous desire to aid England or France when their backs were to the wall in a losing fight.

The government and congress knew that without American aid for the allies Germany would win, and that the next step of a victorious Teutonic army would be to overrun this country or to drive our ships and commerce from the seas.

These are the facts in a few words. It is therefore plain to anyone of normal intelligence that we fought not only for ourselves, but for the benefit and preservation of generations of Americans yet to come.

Why, then, should we of today assume all of the burdens?

Why should future generations reap the benefits without any of the hardships?

Why not extend this liquidation over a period of fifty or a hundred years and lighten to some extent the burdens of taxation that are pressing so heavily upon the people of today?

Why make slaves of the people of this generation in order that those of the next may live in greater affluence?

Why make a hundred million people the royal goats for those of tomorrow?

FARMERS SEEK LOWER PRODUCTION COSTS

That Michigan farmers are not willing to go on increasing production regardless of cost, in the face of adverse economic conditions, is the opinion of H. B. Killough, farm management specialist at the Michigan Agricultural College. The big problem of the farmer is said to be decreased production costs through more efficient management on the farm.

"With agricultural production normal, industrial production below normal, the purchasing power of the consuming public decreased by reason of unemployment and business losses, and the price level of agricultural products where it is, the farmer is not content to go on increasing production regardless of cost," says Killough. "The demand is now for definite farm cost accounting and farm management information."

Illustration of the need for cost accounting work on Michigan farms was secured recently in records kept in Wayne county by F. T. Riddell, research specialist at M. A. C. Two dairy farms with investments of $24,000 and $25,000, respectively, showed a marked difference in earning power. The first, with high producing cows averaging 10,400 pounds of milk, was earning eight and one-half percent on the invested capital, while the second, with cows averaging 6000 pounds, was making only two and one-half per cent on the investment. Cost accounting work brought out these facts of basic importance.

More than forty cost accounting schools, scattered over twenty Michigan counties, have been scheduled by the college farm management men for the coming winter months in an effort to meet the demand for accounting information. The schools are held at Grange, Farmers Club, or other local headquarters and are arranged by the local county agricultural agents.

An unusually effective plan for handling farm cost accounting schools has been worked out in Wexford county by county agent W. F. Johnson, who is conducting the schools in connection with the consolidated schools of the county. This plan tends to center community interest in the schools and also gives students actual and practical work, thus proving a benefit both ways.

Bankers, farmers and superintendents of schools are cooperating with Johnson in the accounting school work.

Arguments sometimes are lost in the heat of a debate that never were tried in the fiery furnace of common sense.

Where Your Taxes Go

How Uncle Sam Spends Your Money in Conducting Your Business

By EDWARD G. LOWRY

Author: "Washington Close-Ups," "Banks and Financial Systems," etc. Contributor Political and Economic Articles to Leading Periodicals and a Writer of Recognized Authority on the National Government's Business Methods.

Copyright, Western Newspaper Union

WHY YOU'RE INTERESTED

I wish you would take what is written here as a personal report addressed directly to you from me about your business. Don't think of it or read it as an article about "politics," or remote public affairs at Washington. It is not that at all. It is what I ask you to think it, a personal business report to you relating to your individual concerns, your pocketbook and your welfare. I have no other interest than to tell you the exact truth.

Assume that you have sent me to Washington to find out for you what your agents are doing; how they are managing your affairs and spending your money. I call them your agents for that is all they are—the President, the members of the cabinet, the senators and all the members of the house of representatives. You hire them, you pay them, and you can fire them.

You may think of them in deference and awe as a group of eminent statesmen, or you may call them in flippancy and too hasty contempt "a lot of politicians." But whatever you call them, they are your hired men. They attend to your collective business, which is called the public business.

Query: Are they doing it efficiently and with a single-minded devotion to your interests?

Perhaps the largest item in the high cost of living is the high cost of government. And far and away the largest item in the high cost of government is the high cost of armament; preparation for war. About 90 per cent of all government revenues, and that means the money taken from you as taxes, goes to pay for wars, past, present and future.

Before I have concluded this series of articles I expect to show you conclusively that the impelling motive that induced President Harding to call the present conference in Washington to consider limitation of armaments was financial. The pressing need of considering a proposal for a reduction or limitation by agreement of war expenditure was not made entirely on the ground of morality or righteousness, but as a plan for cutting down the operating expenses of the government.

If the United States government were an individual we would say that it was broke, for its expenses exceed its income.

Your interest is simply this: that whatever decision is made you will have to pay the bill. If today we didn't have these army and navy expenses you would have to pay in taxes less than $1,000,000,000 a year instead of $5,000,000,000. That means we would have about $4,000,000,000 more a year to spend on our private needs and pleasures. I frankly confess that I would enjoy having four-fifths of my taxes knocked off. Wouldn't you?

Secretary Weeks of the War Department gave public warning a little while ago that the government would require of us about $17,000,000 in the next thirty months to meet current expenses and other obligations. Persons who have given close study to that possibility say that the need will be nearer $20,000,000, than $17,000,000. The great bulk of that is for past and prospective war expenditures.

For this, you and congress and the Executive departments at Washington are responsible. You more than anybody else, for it is your money that is being spent and you can stop it. In its simplest terms the procedure is this: You earn the money, congress takes it away from you in the form of taxes, and then congress and the Executive departments spend it.

A great part of it is wasted. This is established, conceded, confessed, and acknowledged by congress, which authorizes the expenditures, and by the executive officers of the government, who do the actual spending. It is your money that you have earned in your business, on your farm, or by the labor of your hands, that is being expended and wasted at Washington.

Every cent that is extravagantly or needlessly expended by the government you could have in your pocket to meet the increased cost of food, lodging and clothing, doctors' bills and amusements, or to put away and save against a rainy day, if you only demanded determinedly and untidely that governmental extravagance should cease.

I can tell you some of the conditions of governmental spending and how your money is chucked about, and I can tell you how you can stop it. The power is yours, and until you exercise it waste and extravagance will not stop.

"Perpetual Calendar."

The Rev. Francesco Scatigna of Locoarondo, in the province of Bari, Italy, claims to have discovered a "perpetual calendar," which has baffled science for centuries. His calendar consists of two discs, one superimposed upon the other, by the turning of which the correct day, week and month may be obtained. The great astronomer Herschel declared that a perpetual calendar never could be devised.—From the Argonaut.
