Will Confirm Class of 40

Bishop E. D. Kelly To Be Here Next Thursday, June 8th.

The Rt. Rev. E. D. Kelly, Bishop of the Grand Rapids Diocese, will confirm a class of forty in St. Joseph's Church, this city, next Thursday afternoon, June 8th, at 4:30 o'clock.

In the evening he is expected to attend the Program and Play to be rendered by the music pupils of Sister Humilitas at the High School Auditorium and it is hoped he will have occasion to address a few remarks on the work of the pupils.

A most cordial invitation is extended the public to be present at either occasion. And more especially those of our community who knew Bishop Kelly as the former Father Kelly of Ann Arbor, Mich., will have an opportunity of renewing their happy acquaintance.

M. A. C. TESTS SHOW RELATIVE FEED VALUE.

That corn is the best all around grain for fattening hogs, while normal silage is superior to stover silage for steer feeding, is shown by the results of extensive feeding tests carried out at the Michigan Agricultural College during the past few months.

Results of the experimental work, which was completed on May 6, were announced at a Feeders Day meeting held at the college recently. This was the second year on the same tests, a third being planned before definite results can be given out by the college specialists.

Three lots of steers were on test in the experiment, the first being fed normal corn silage, supplemented by linseed meal and clover hay; the second stover silage, linseed meal and clover hay; and the third the same ration as the second, with the addition of an amount of shelled corn equal to that which was taken from the stover silage when it was ensiled. Some shelled corn was added to the rations of all lots.

The first lot, on normal silage, made the most effective gains, as was the case in the 1921 experiment. The three lots, when sold on the Detroit yards the middle of May, brought an average of about $8.25 a hundred-weight. Six of the seven animals in the first lot brought $9.35.

Tests run with hogs during the same period to determine the relative value of various home grown grains for hog fattening work, brought out the fact that corn ranks first as a hog grain feed. Returns on the hogs fed corn and tankage showed $1.10 a bushel for the corn, with hogs selling at nine dollars a hundred.

"MUSHROOMS" FATAL TO THREE

Mother and Two Daughters Die After Eating Poisonous Fungus.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—Three deaths have occurred in the family of Mr. Joseph Lawlor, a farmer at Gordon Lake, Ont., nine miles north of Desbarates as a result of eating poisonous fungus believed to be mushrooms, and the lives of two other members of the same family are in danger. A little three-year-old child who refused to eat the dish, is the only one of the family not affected.

Mrs. Lawlor, mother of the family of two boys and two girls, was the first to die. Her death was followed by that of the two daughters, aged 12 and seven.

ONCE AGAIN LLOYD GEORGE WINS

Commons Refuses to Vote Measure Criticising Genoa Work.

London—Once again Lloyd George appeared in the house of commons to render as prime minister an account of his stewardship at Genoa, and once again, after a precise and carefully worded statement and an eloquent rebuttal of criticisms directed against him, he received the support of the house in what is considered the equivalent of another vote of confidence.

Bed Has Electric Attachments.

Atlantic City—Those who hate to get out of bed in the morning needn't do it. The latest thing in beds, described here at the National Electric Light association convention has attachments for heat pads, lights, a fan, and a grill to cook breakfast, or heat baby's bottle. In case baby has to be walked to sleep in the middle of the night, papa or mamma can turn on a light under the springs, which illuminates only the floor, so they can see their way.

HIGH SCHOOL CHORUS WILL PRESENT CANTATA WEDNESDAY, JUNE 7TH.

The High School chorus of seventy boys and girls will present The Mound Builders, a cantata by Paul Bliss, on Wednesday evening June 7th at 8:15 in the auditorium of the High School building.

The composer, who attended the rites and dances of many Indian tribes has woven into the music of the cantata many of the original melodies, which form the themes for the separate numbers.

The story runs as follows:

At sun-up, the Indian braves start on a deer-hunting expedition.

During their absence the women continue the mound-building. They become weary at noon and rest, watching an eagle in his flight.

The deer-hunters return empty-handed and the women go down to the stream for water to refresh the weary warriors.

During their absence the camp is attacked and then the foe attempts to capture the water-carriers. They are driven off and the water-carriers return. As evening comes on, a wood-pigeon is heard and then a flute, in a serenade which all sing as night falls.

Admission for children and H. S. students will be 15c and 20c for adults.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE THREATENS RESIGNATION

HENRY C. WALLACE

Washington—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace may resign from the cabinet if President Harding approves the reorganization plan to transfer three of his bureaus to other departments, according to White House visitors who have urged the president to make no material change in the agricultural department.

ARMED MEN LOOT P. M. FREIGHT

Train Held Up Near Holly and Merchandise Hauled in Trucks.

Holly, Mich.—A band of 20 armed men held up a Pere Marquette freight train near here early May 28 and looted it of several thousand dollars' worth of merchandise, which they hauled away in a fleet of waiting motor trucks.

Four miles north of Holly, where the track skirts a thick woods, the robbers cut the air hose, stopping the train. When the crew got off to learn what the trouble was, they were covered with revolvers and warned not to resist.

With a half dozen of the bandits kept the crew covered the others went from car to car, breaking the seals and selecting the choicest of the merchandise, which they carried to five or six trucks waiting, with their drivers, at the roadside. The loot selected was mostly automobile tires, dry goods and shoes.

Washington Leaving His Officers.

There is an old book my grand-children love to hear me read to them. It is the "Morte d'Arthur," done into English by Sir Thomas Malory. Often when I read therein of how Arthur the King bade farewell to the world and to the last of the great company of his Knights of the Round Table, this scene at Whitehall Ship comes back to me, and I seem to see once more those gallant soldiers, and far away the tall figure of surely the knightliest gentleman our days have known—Hugh Wynne, in Weir Mitchell's "Hugh Wynne, Free Quaker."

MRS. ALFRED QUINN LAID TO REST SATURDAY, MAY 27.

Mrs. Alfred Quinn passed away at her home in this city, Wednesday, May 24th, following an illness of several months' duration from anemia.

Margaret Alice McKenney was born in this city, Nov. 10th, 1887, her parents being James and Julia McKenney. She grew to womanhood in this city and on March 6th, 1905, was united in marriage to Alfred Quinn.

Deceased is survived by the husband and the following sons—Casimir, Lawrence, Clarence, Vincent and Charles. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Julia McKenney of East Jordan, and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Louis Peppin of Suttons Bay, Mrs. Mary Taylor of Detroit, Charles McKenney of Los Angeles, Calif., James McKenney of Bellaire, Mich., and Cyril and Stanley McKenney of East Jordan.

Mrs. Quinn was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, and of the Ladies Altar Society of that church.

Funeral services were held from St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Saturday forenoon, May 27th, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Drinan. The remains were laid to rest in Calvary Cemetery.

Notice to All Members of The Railwaymen's Relief Association of America.

East Jordan Division No. 24 will hold regular meeting this Saturday night June 3rd. Supreme President G. R. Murray of Muskegon will be with us. Every member please be present. Visitors welcome.

ERLE FARMER, Sec'y.

South Arm Board of Review.

The Board of Review of South Arm Township will meet at the office of the Supervisor of said township on Monday and Tuesday, June 12th and 13th, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon and remain in session six hours each day as required by law.

H. E. HUTTON, Supervisor.

NITROGEN INCREASES FRUIT TREE BLOSSOMS.

Applications of nitrogen caused much heavier blossoming in fruit trees this spring, in a fertilizer experiment of the Michigan Agricultural College horticultural division, than was found on other trees in the same orchard.

In 1921 there were practically no difference in the number of blossoms produced in the different plots in this orchard, according to Prof. R. E. Marshall, of the college department, although there were contrasting differences in yield, the fertilized plots producing from three and one-half to seven times as much as the unfertilized ones.

This spring the percentage of spurs which produced blossoms was determined, and the results showed nitrogen to have played a very important part in increasing the blossom percentage. Only six percent of the spurs on non-fertilized trees produced blossoms, while slightly more than four percent of the spurs on a plot receiving 10 pounds of acid phosphate per tree during each of the past three years produced blossoms.

Four plots received applications of nitrogen alone or in combination with phosphorus and potash, and while there are some differences in number of blossoms produced in the different plots, nitrogen is apparently the only element responsible for increasing the average percentage of spur forming blossoms to more than forty.

Love also is what makes the world go crazy.

A man's idea of going on a diet is to continue not to eat the things he doesn't like.

It isn't the money you have but the money that nobody can get away from you, that counts.

Also a man is known by the company that refuses to have anything to do with him.

Since the girls have taken up horse-back riding, why not spend your summer at home?

CITIZENS' MILITARY TRAINING CAMP AT CAMP CUSTER.

Thirty days military training under Regular Army supervision will be offered by the government this summer to a limited number of Charlevoix County young men at the Citizens' Military Training camp which opens at Camp Custer, Michigan, August 2nd.

Free transportation, clothing, food, equipment and Medical attention is given the men who are accepted for the camp.

Dr. H. W. Dicken of East Jordan is Chairman of the Charlevoix Co. Local Committee. Application blanks and detailed information may be obtained from him.

Purposes of the military training camps are to furnish young Americans with a chance to secure military training under favorable conditions, and to develop them physically, mentally, and morally as to increase their ability to render service to their country in time of need.

The training will be confined in the "Red" course to simple fundamentals, and in the "white" and "blue" courses, for non-commissioned officer and officer material, respectively, to subjects in which the candidates must qualify for appointment in the grades indicated.

Age limits are 17 to 25 for the "Red" course; 18 to 26 for the "White" course; and 19 to 27 for the "Blue" course. No man who completed the "Red" course last year will be barred from the "White" course this year on account of age, however. World war veterans and other ex-service men may be accepted for any one of three courses if not over 35 years of age.

SEED PLOTS INCREASE STATE POTATO YIELD

That the use of seed plots and careful planting can be made to increase the potato yield for all Michigan growers is the contention of J. W. Weston, potato specialist with the Michigan Agricultural College extension division. The work is said to be comparatively simple, requiring no separate field or elaborate methods.

"A few rows in the regular potato field should be planted with selected seed and given good care, such as seed treatment, proper cultivation, spraying and roguing," says Weston. Desirable hills can be selected at digging time for next year's seed plot, and for general planting as well.

"All seed should be treated with corrosive sublimate solution, according to directions which may be obtained from county agricultural agents or from the agricultural college. A good seed bed is also essential in the development of normal, good type tubers. Careful spraying with home made Bordeaux Mixture, 4-4-50, with a high pressure sprayer so as to prevent injury from leaf hoppers and stop introduction of diseases from sick plants to the healthy ones, is another important factor to be considered.

"The Rural and Green Mountain strains, other things being equal, may be expected to be most productive. Pick potatoes for your seed plot for ideal type of variety, shallow eye, oval, short, and weighing from six to nine ounces. Cut into about four pieces, splitting the bud eye and discarding any tubers showing discoloration, especially in the region of the stem end."

"Love is blind," but the landlord isn't.

The love of adventure is the root of much poverty.

You think you have hard luck on the first of the month, but think of the tailor—he has pressing bills all the time.

Truth isn't stranger than some of the fiction men tell when explaining how it happened that the boss promoted somebody ahead of them.

EAST JORDAN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The Ninth Graders are making satisfactory progress in preparing their Shakespearean program for assembly on Friday. It is to the credit of this class that their readings compare favorably with the work done in Shakespearean interpretation by tenth and eleventh graders in many larger schools. At any rate several actors of promising ability have been discovered in this grade through sympathetically studying Shakespeare.

Wednesday, June 7, the High School Chorus will give the "Mound Builders" A modern Indian Cantata by Paul Bliss. This will be interesting, as the composer secured much of his material from the Indians themselves.

The students have been drilled by Mrs. Duccanson for this number. It will be given in the School Auditorium in the evening.

A boy's hat lost on Decoration day, may be claimed by owner at the School office.

Under the direction of Miss Graham forty six pupils have received their awards in penmanship as follows:

The East Jordan High School baseball team defeated Central Lake High School on their home field Monday by a score of eight to six. The team journeyed to Central Lake on Coykendall's truck and evidently the ride did the team good, as the boys played the best game of the season.

White pitched a nice game holding Central Lake to five hits and four bases on balls which bunched in two innings gave them six runs. In the meantime East Jordan was getting twelve hits for eight runs. The game was a tie 6-6 at the beginning of the ninth inning. Then East Jordan scored two runs while Central Lake was held scoreless, giving us a well earned victory. Swafford, Hudkins, Malpass and Stewart were the heavy hitters for East Jordan, each getting two hits, while Stevens and Mathers each got two hits for Central Lake.

Memorial Day Well Observed

Large Crowd Enjoy Fine Program at Auditorium.

Probably the largest crowd that ever turned out to a Memorial Day observance in East Jordan was that of last Tuesday. The High School Auditorium and corridors were packed and many more were turned away.

The parade at 1:00 o'clock p. m. was well representative of our various organizations, and the reorganized East Jordan Military Band gave the parade its pep.

The program as advertised was carried out in full opening with a selection by the Band, followed by America by the audience, Invocation by Rev. Marshall, selections by the Glee Club, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Miss Virginia Pray. Mayor Dicken introduced the speaker, Farm C. Gilbert of Traverse City, who delivered a fine patriotic address. The program closed with "Michigan My Michigan," by the assembly.

Following the program at the Auditorium a procession was formed, headed by a firing squad of the American Legion and the East Jordan Military Band, marching to Sunset Hill, where the graves of our departed soldiers were fittingly decorated.

Actonism.

A little while ago, in response to an expressed need for some word which would indicate optimism plus action, the word "actonism" was coined. An actonist is an optimist who makes the most of every opportunity to apply his optimism and who does not confine his efforts to breezy sayings.—Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

East Jordan To Celebrate July 4th

American Legion Will Have Charge of the Day.

This year is East Jordan's turn in the triangular Cities to celebrate July 4th in a befitting manner. The American Legion, who have charge of the event, already are mapping out plans and a meeting of our citizens will be called probably this coming week, to work out a definite day's program.

True Friendship in Books. When all that is worldly turns to grass around us, books retain their steady value. When friends grow cold, and the converse of intimated languages into vapid civility and commonplace, these only continue the unaltered countenance of happier days, and cheer us with that true friendship which never deceived hope nor deserted sorrow.—Irving.

Fox Farming Growing Industry. Although hardly known a decade ago, fox farming is a growing industry in this country, with 10,000 to 15,000 silver foxes being raised in captivity.

When I asked to one who had remarked, it is too bad Peninsular got beat, which I took as correct, I got hit, but though I thought I knew better, which probably accounts for other mistakes.

Wheelbarrows Climb Stairs.

One of the interesting sights of the city of Changsha in China, is the wheelbarrows which climb stairs. Some distance ahead of the regulation wheel there is another smaller one. In climbing over flagstone steps or bridges, the handles of the wheelbarrow are lowered until the auxiliary wheel rises above the next high step. Then the wheelbarrow, which often carries 300 or 400 pounds, seesaws from wheel to wheel until the next level stretch of flagstones is reached.

Get Below the Surface.

Painting over the white streak on the old cow's back won't make her a black cow. If you were born with a mean disposition, don't try to whitewash it with big promises. Get right away down deep in your heart. Then the first shower won't wash the white streak out.—Exchange.

The Indian Drum

By William MacHarg and Edwin Balmer

The door opened then a very little, and the frightened face of an Indian woman appeared in the crack. The woman evidently had expected—and feared—some arrival, and was reassured when she saw only a girl. She threw the door wider open, and bent to help unfasten Constance's snowshoes; having done that, she led her in and closed the door.

"Where is your man?" Constance had caught the woman's arm.

"They sent him to the beach. A ship has sunk."

"Are there houses near here? You must run to one of them at once. Bring whoever you can get; or if you won't do that, tell me where to go."

The woman stared at her stolidly and moved away. "None near," she said. "Besides, you could not get somebody before some one will come."

"Who is that?"

"He is on the beach—Henry Spearman. He comes here to warm himself. It is nearly time he comes again."

Constance gazed at her; the woman was plainly glad of her coming. Her relief—relief from that fear she had been feeling when she opened the door—was very evident. It was Henry, then, who had frightened her.

The Indian woman set a chair for her beside the stove, and put water in a pan to heat; she shook tea leaves from a box into a bowl and brought a cup.

"How many on that ship?"

"Altogether there were thirty-nine," Constance replied.

"Seven are living then?"

"Seven? What have you heard? What makes you think so?"

"That is what the Drum says."

The Drum! There was a Drum then! At least there was some sound which people heard and which they called the Drum. For the woman had heard it.

Constance grew suddenly cold. For twenty lives, the woman said, the Drum had beat; that meant to her, and to Constance too now, that seven were left. Indefinite, desperate denial—that denial which had been strengthened by the news that at least one boat had been adrift near Beaver—altered in Constance to conviction of a boat with seven men from the ferry, seven dying, perhaps, but not yet dead. Seven out of twenty-seven; the score were gone; the Drum had beat for them in little groups as they died. When the Drum beat again, would it beat beyond the score?

Having finished the tea, Constance returned to the door and reopened it; the sounds outside were the same. A solitary figure appeared moving along the edge of the ice—the figure of a tall man, walking on snowshoes; his muffled, too, in a great coat which made it unrecognizable. He halted and stood looking out at the lake and then, with a sudden movement, strode on; he halted again, and now Constance got the knowledge that he was not looking; he was listening as she was.

"Is the Drum sounding now?" she asked the woman.

"No."

Constance gazed again at the man and found his motion quite unmistakable; he was coming—if not coming something that he heard, or thought he heard, he was recounting and reviewing within himself something that he had heard before—some irregular rhythm which had become so much a part of him that it sounded now continually within his own brain; so that, instinctively, he moved in cadence to it. He stepped forward again now, and turned toward the house.

Her breath caught as she spoke to the woman. "Mr. Spearman is coming here now!"

Her impulse was to remain where she was, lest he should think she was afraid of him; but realization came to her that there might be advantage in seeing him before he knew that she was there, so she relocked the door and drew back into the cabin.

CHAPTER XIX

The Sounding of the Drum.

Noises of the wind and the roaring of the lake made inaudible any sound of his approach to the cabin; she heard his snowshoes, however, scrape the cabin wall as, after taking them off, he leaned them beside the door. He thrust the door open then and came in; he did not see her at first and, as he turned to force the door shut again against the wind she watched him quietly.

He saw her now and started and, as though sight of her confused him, he looked from the woman and then back to Constance before he seemed certain of her.

"Hello!" he said tentatively. "Hello!"

"I'm here, Henry."

"Oh, you are! You are!" He stood drawn up, swaying a little as he stared at her; whisky was upon his breath, and it became evident in the heat of the room; but whisky could not account for this condition she witnessed in him. Neither could it conceal that condition; some turmoil and strain within him made him immune to its effects.

She had realized on her way up here what, vaguely, that strain within him must be. Guilt—guilt of some awful sort connected him, and had connected Uncle Benny, with the Miwaka—the lost ship for which the Drum had beaten the roll of the dead. Guilt was in his thought now—racking, tearing at him. But there was something more than that; what she had seen in him when he first caught sight of her was fear—fear of Constance Sherrill.

"You came up here about Ben Corvet?" he challenged.

"Yes—no!"

"Which do you mean?"

"No."

"I know, then. For him, then—did you?"

"For Alan Conrad? Yes," she said. "I knew it!" he repeated. "He's been the trouble between you and me all the time!"

She made no denial of that; she had begun to know during the last two days that it was so.

"So you came to find him?" Henry went on.

"He'll be found!" she defied him.

"Be found?"

"Some are dead," she admitted, "but not all. Twenty are dead; but seven are not!"

"Seven?" he echoed. "You say seven are not! How do you know?"

"The Drum has been beating for twenty, but not for more!" Constance said. "The Drum you've been listening to all day upon the beach—the Indian Drum that sounded for the dead of the Miwaka; sounded, one by one, for all who died! But it didn't sound for him! It's been sounding again, you know; but again, it doesn't sound for him, Henry, not for him!"

"The Miwaka! What do you mean by that? What's that got to do with this?" His swollen face was thrust forward at her; there was threat against her in his tense muscles and his bloodshot eyes.

She did not shrink back from him, or move; and now he was not waiting for her answer. Something—a sound—had caught him about. Once it echoed, low in his reverberation but penetrating and quite distinct. It came, so far as direction could be assigned to it, from the trees toward the shore; but it was like no forest sound. Distinct, too, was it from any noise of the lake. It was like a Drum! Yet, when the echo had gone, it was a sensation easy to deny—a hallucination, that was all. But now, low and distinct it came again; and, as before, Constance saw it catch Henry and hold him. His lips moved, but he did not speak; he was counting. "Two," she saw his lips form.

The sound of the Drum was continuing, the beats a few seconds apart. "Twelve," Constance counted to herself. The beats had seemed to be quite measured and regular at first; but now Constance knew that this was only roughly true; they beat rather in rhythm than at regular intervals. "Twenty—twenty-one—twenty-two!" Constance caught her breath and waited for the next beat; the flutter of the interturb between the measures of the rhythm passed, and still only the whistle of the wind and the under-one of water sounded. The Drum had beaten its roll and, for the moment, was done.

Twenty-two had been her count, as nearly as she could count at all; the reckoning agreed with what the Indian woman had heard. Two had died, then, since the Drum last had beat, when its roll was twenty. Two more than before; that meant five were left!

Constance caught up her woolen hood from the table and put it on. Her action seemed to call Henry to himself.

"What are you going to do?" he demanded.

"I'm going out."

He moved between her and the door. "Not alone, you're not!" His heavy voice had a deep tone of menace in it; he seemed to consider and decide something about her. "There's a farmhouse about a mile back; I'm going to take you over there and leave you with those people."

"I will not go there!"

He swore. "I'll carry you, then!" She shrank back from him as he lurched toward her with hands outstretched to seize her; he followed her, and she avoided him again; if his guilt and terror had given her mental ascendancy over him, his physical strength could still force her to his will and, realizing the impossibility of evading him or overcoming him, she stopped.

"Not that!" she cried. "Don't touch me!"

"Come with me, then!" he commanded; and he went to the door and laid his snowshoes on the snow and stepped into them, stooping and tightening the straps; he stood by while she put on hers. He did not attempt again to put hands upon her as they moved away from the little cabin toward the woods back of the clearing; but went ahead, breaking the trail for her with his snowshoes. He moved forward slowly; he could travel, if he had wished, three feet to every two that she could cover, but he seemed not wishing for speed but rather for delay. A deep, dull resonance was booming above the wood; it boomed again and ran into a rhythm. No longer was it above; at least it was not only above; it was all about them—here, there, to right and to left, before, behind—the booming of the Drum. Boom was the substance of that sound of the Drum beating the roll of the dead.

Henry had stopped in front of her, half turned her way; his body swayed and bent to the booming of the Drum, as his swollen lips counted its soundings. She could see him plainly in the moonlight, yet she drew nearer to him as she followed his count. "Twenty-one," he counted—"Twenty-two!" The drum was still going on. "Twenty-four—twenty-five—twenty-six!" Would he count another?

He did not; and her pulses, which had halted, leaped with relief. He moved on again, descending the steep side of a little ravine, and she followed. One of his snowshoes caught in a protruding root and, instead of slowing to free it with care, he pulled it violently out, and she heard the dry, seasoned wood crack. He looked down, swore; saw that the wood was not broken through and went on; but as he reached the bottom of the slope, she leaped downward from a little height behind him and crashed down upon his trailing snowshoe just behind the heel. The rending snap of the wood came beneath her feet. Had she broken through his shoe or snapped her own? She sprang back, as he cried out and swung in an attempt to grasp her; he lunged to follow her, and she ran a few steps away and stopped. At his next step his foot entangled in the mesh of the broken snowshoe, and he stooped, cursing, to strip it off and hurl it from him; then he tore off the one from the other foot, and threw it away, and lurched after her again; but now he sank above his knees and floundered in the snow. She stood for a moment while the half-mad, half-drunken figure struggled toward her along the side of the ravine; then she ran to where the tree trunks hid her from him. He gained the top of the slope and turned in the direction she had gone; assured then, apparently, that she had flown in fear of him, he started back more swiftly toward the beach. She followed, keeping out of his sight among the trees.

To twenty-six, he had counted—to twenty-six, each time! That told that he knew one was living among those who had been upon the ferry! What one? It could only be one of two to dismay him so; there had been only two on the ferry whose rescue he had feared; only two who, living, he would have let lie upon this beach which he had chosen and set aside for his patrol, while he waited for him to die!

She forced herself on, unsparingly, as she saw Henry gain the shore and as, believing himself alone, he hurried northward. She could not rest; she could not let herself be exhausted. Merely minute after minute she raced him thus—A dark shape—a figure lay stretched upon the ice ahead! Beyond and still farther out, something which seemed the fragments of a lifeboat tossed up and down where the waves thundered and gleamed at the edge of the floe.

Henry's pace quickened; hers quickened desperately, too. She left the shelter of the trees and scrambled down the steep pitch of the bluff, shouting, crying aloud. Henry turned about and saw her; he halted, and she passed him with a rush and got between him and the form upon the ice, before she turned and faced him.

Defeat—defeat of whatever purpose he had had—was his now that she was there to witness what he might do; and in his realization of that, he burst out in oaths against her—He advanced; she stood, confronting—she swayed slightly in his walk and swung past her and away; he went past those things on the beach and kept on along the ice hummocks toward the north.

She ran to the huddled figure of the man in mackinaw and cap; his face was hidden partly by the position in which he lay and partly by the drift-snow; but, before she swept the snow away and turned him to her, she knew that he was Alan.

She cried to him and, when he did not answer, she shook him to get him awake; but she could not rouse him. Praying in wild whispers to herself, she opened his jacket and felt within his clothes; he was warm—at least he was not frozen within! No; and there seemed some stir of his heart! She tried to lift him, to carry him; then to drag him. But she could not; he fell from her arms into the snow again, and she sat down, pulling him upon her lap and clasping him to her.

She must have aid, she must get him

She Tried to Lift Him, to Carry Him, Then to Drag Him. But She Could Not.

to some house, she must take him out of the terrible cold; but dared she leave him? Might Henry return, if she went away? She arose and looked about. Far up the shore she saw his figure rising and falling with his fight over the rough ice. A sound came to her, too, the low, deep reverberation of the Drum beating once more along the shore and in the woods and out upon the lake; and it seemed to her that Henry's figure, in the stumbling steps of his flight, was keeping time to the wild rhythm of that sound. And she stooped to Alan and covered him with her coat, before leaving him; for she feared no longer Henry's return.

CHAPTER XX

The Fate of the Miwaka.

"So this isn't your house, Judah?"

"No, Alan; this is an Indian's house, but it is not mine. It is Adam Enos' house. He and his wife went somewhere else when you needed this."

"He helped to bring me here, then?"

"No, Alan. They were alone here—she and Adam's wife. When she found you, they brought you here—more than a mile along the beach. Two women!"

Alan choked as he put down the little porcupine quill box which had started this line of inquiry. Whatever questions he had asked Judah or Sherrill these last few days had brought him very quickly back to her. Moved by some intuitive certainty regarding Spearman, she had come north; she had not thought of peril to herself; she had struggled alone across dangerous ice in storm—a girl brought up as she had been! She had found him—Alan—with life almost extinct—upon the beach; she and the Indian woman, Wassaquam had just said—had brought him along the shore. How had they managed that, he wondered. His throat closed up, and his eyes filled as he thought of this.

In the week during which he had been cared for here, Alan had not seen Constance; but there had been a peculiar and exciting alteration in Sherrill's manner toward him, he had felt; it was something more than merely liking for him that Sherrill had showed, and Sherrill had spoken of her to him as Constance, not, as he had called her always before, "Miss Sherrill," or "my daughter." Alan had had dreams which had seemed impossible of fulfillment, of dedicating his life and all that he could make of it to her; now Sherrill's manner had brought to him something like awe, as of something quite incredible.

He turned to the Indian.

"Has anything more been heard of Spearman, Judah?"

"Only this, Alan; he crossed the straits the next day upon the ferry there. In Mackinaw City he bought liquor at a bar and took it with him; he asked there about trains into the northwest. He has gone, leaving all he had. What else could he do?"

Alan crossed the little cabin and looked out the window over the snow-covered slope, where the bright sun was shining. Snow had covered any tracks that there had been upon the beach where those who had been in the boat with him had been found dead. He had known that this must be; he had believed them beyond aid when he had tried for the shore to summon help for them and for himself. The other boat, which had carried survivors of the wreck, blown farther to the south, had been able to gain the shore of North Fox island; and as these men had not been so long exposed before they were brought to shelter, four men lived. Sherrill had told him their names; they were the mate, the assistant engineer, a deck-hand and Father Perron, the priest who had been a passenger but who had stayed with the crew till the last. Benjamin Corvet had perished in the wreckage of the cars.

As Alan went back to his chair, the Indian watched him and seemed not displeased.

"You feel good, now, Alan?" Wassaquam asked.

"Almost like myself, Judah."

"That is right, then. It was thought you would be like that today. A sled is coming soon, now."

"We're going to leave here, Judah?"

"Yes, Alan."

Was he going to see her, then? Excitement stirred him, and he turned to Wassaquam to ask that; but suddenly he hesitated and did not inquire.

RADIO

CRYSTAL DETECTOR EASY TO CONSTRUCT

Telephone Condenser and Receivers Can Better Be Purchased—Mounting the Set.

The material needed to construct a simple crystal detector is as follows:

Piece of silicon or galena molded in a metal button, 25 cents.

Two binding posts, 20 cents.

A block of shellacked or stained wood 3 by 3½ inches.

A thin strip of sheet copper or brass ¼ inches wide by two inches long.

Mount the two binding posts on the block of wood as shown, fastening under one binding post a strip of copper or brass—see sketch—and under the other binding post a coiled up spring of fine springy copper or brass wire. By placing the button of metal con-ments, the tuner, the crystal detector and the telephone condenser, can be mounted on a stained base of wood, say, eight inches square and one-half inch thick. This will keep the component parts of the set together, making a compact unit of the whole and also be advantageous in that it will hold the instruments while adjustments are being made.

The sketch shows how the instruments are connected with each other and to the ground. The condenser is connected to one side of the tuner and to the crystal detector. The ground is connected to the other side of the phones and the condenser and the tuner.

Lamp cord is excellent for connecting up small radio sets of this kind—it being a good conductor, well insulated and easy to handle.

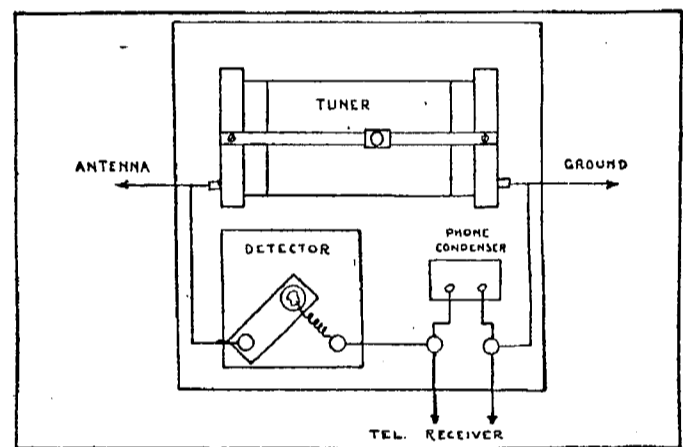

HOW TO LISTEN IN

There are two variables in our radio receiver that require adjustment when it is desired to listen-in; first, the detector, and second, the slide position on the tuner. Once the slider position has been determined for any given transmitting station, it is only necessary to adjust the detector to pick up that same station again.

To operate the receiver for the first time it is best to wait until some station like KDKA is transmitting between 8:30 and 9:30 p. m. Then adtain the crystal of silicon or galena on the strip of metal and allowing the spring to make contact with the surface of the crystal the detector is complete and ready for operation.

A complete crystal detector can be purchased from 75 cents to $2, depending upon the type.

Two other pieces of apparatus are necessary that cannot be readily constructed—they are the telephone condenser and the receivers. A telephone condenser to be used in shunting across the phones can be purchased for about 50 cents.

For use with a radio receiver of this type it is recommended that a pair of 3,000-ohm, Murdoch type, No. 56 receivers, costing $6, be purchased. These are all the necessary parts needed for the complete receiver.

If it is desired, the three instrument the detector by changing the point at which the spring and crystal of the detector make contact until, when a nearby electric light is snapped on and off, a click is heard in the head phones. The detector is now adjusted on a sensitive spot on the crystal. By changing the slider position, the transmitting station should be picked up.

After a station is once picked up it is an easy matter to adjust the detector and slider position until maximum response is obtained in the telephone receiver. With a simple set of the kind described in this and preceding articles and a little practice one soon becomes adept at picking up a given station. The entertainment derived from listening-in is usually well worth the time spent and the money invested.

VAGARIES OF VACUUM TUBES

Peculiar Actions That Always Astonish and Sometimes Frighten the Amateur Radioist.

Everybody who has had anything to do with vacuum tubes has from time to time had them do unexpected things and give results that at the moment seem beyond explanation.

The explanation of several characteristics of these miniature giants which are met with in daily operation is sure to prove of great interest to the amateur. In cases where the actions of the tube are not understood these peculiarities have sometimes frightened people.

One instance of a newborn fan's fright was brought to attention in a letter of inquiry. The instrument had just been set up and was being operated for the first time. The tubes had been firmly adjusted and were just at the spilling point and—over they went, giving vent to the most unearthly sounds. The embryo enthusiast who looked upon the audion tube as an electric light, thought it was going to explode. He jumped away from the instrument and out of the room, and did not venture near it for several hours, and then only after reaching round the corner of the door with a long stick and pulling the battery switch off.

Similar instances have come to attention when bulbs generate vari-colored vapors in the vacuum chamber.

Moonshiners Using Radio.

Revenue officers seeking distillers of the far-famed and hard-hitting "white lightning," in the mountains of Kentucky say that many raids made in the last few months have proven unsuccessful, due to the adoption of radiophones as a means of communication among the moonshiners.

TIPS TO THE RADIOIST

Fired 22 caliber rifle shells make good switch points for tuning coils and receiving transformers.

A single wire aerial 100 to 150 feet long is sufficient for local and long distance reception of broadcasting stations.

Do not string aerials across the street or across electric wires. Keep antenna wires off electric light and telephone poles.

Stranded copper or solid copper wire should be used. Phosphor bronze wire if obtainable is stronger but not superior to copper.

Good contact with a piece of mineral like galena can be had by wrapping it in tinfoil. Of course, the top of the crystal is left exposed.

The brass ends of large cartridge shells make splendid crystal detector cups. They should be cleaned out thoroughly before they are used.

The winding of cardboard tubes from oatmeal boxes may be improved greatly if the tube is first heated in an oven for about 15 minutes to take out the moisture and then wound; or better still shellac it while it is still warm and leave it to soak in.

In winding tuning coils with bare wire a thread should be wound on with the wire. This will separate each turn. When the coil is finished the thread can be taken off. Shellac should be applied immediately. When the shellac is dry the copper wire will hold its place.

Ball Games Getting Lively

THIRD OF SERIES NEXT WEDNESDAY 1:30 SHARP.

All Places of Business Close Wednesday Afternoons from 1:00 to 5:00.

The games scheduled in the City League for Wednesday of this week were played on Memorial Day afternoon. There was some misunderstanding as to the time when the games were to commence and the crowd was on hand some time before play was actually started. This will be avoided in the future as games played on Wednesday afternoons will always commence promptly at 1:30 standard time. The crowd was good natured and seemed to derive a great deal of pleasure out of watching the antics of the old boys during the warming up process.

The first game was between the Holy Name and the K. P.-I. O. O. F. combination. The Holy Name looked very nifty in their new uniforms and to the casual observer appeared to be much the better team but when the final out was made they found themselves on the losing end of a 18 to 11 score. The K. P.-I. O. O. F. were very successful at the bat and Ray Gee pitching for them pitched an especially good game for an old fellow. He had fair support and this team looks to be a comer. The Holy Name had an off day probably due to self-consciousness in their new uniforms. Squeeze Green pitched a very good game and the score would have been much lower had he had better support from the infield. Next week they play the Methodists and will undoubtedly put up a great fight. The Mason-Presbyterians vs. the Methodists started out in big time style. For the first three innings neither team could do anything at the bat and the score at the end of this time was 1 to 0 in favor of the Methodists and at that time this looked to be anybody's game, with the Methodists the favorites in the betting. The Mason-Presbyterians outfit in their half of the fourth inning, through some lousy batting, got four runs. In the next inning two more runs came in and in the last inning pitcher Miles was slaughtered to the tune of five runs, making a final score of 11 to 1. Sedgman pitched an especially good game, but five hits being made off his delivery. Bechtold got a three base hit and several two base hits were made. The Mason-Presbyterian team has been strengthened by the addition of John Seiler at second base. Seiler is an old time college player and while he has not been playing ball for a number of years played in midsummer form on Tuesday. The entire team played exceptional ball and at the present time look to be the class of the league. The Methodist team have a number of good ball players on it. Although badly defeated in this game will undoubtedly win their share of games before the season is over. The K. P.-I. O. O. F. team was not up to its full strength on Tuesday owing to some doubt as to whether the game would be played. It will be much strengthened next Wednesday when they line up against the Mason-Presbyterians.

Next week starting promptly at 1:30 on Wednesday afternoon the following games will be played: Methodist vs. Holy Name. Mason-Presbyterian vs. K. P.-I. O. O. F. These games will both be closely contested and worth watching. Remember all stores are closed on that afternoon as well as the mills. Do your shopping Wednesday morning and see the ball games in the afternoon.

Bleachers to seat 300 people are now installed. Wire fences keep the crowd off the diamond; the games are well umpired and are good, clean, lively games. This is a fine thing for East Jordan and deserves your hearty support.

"Biddy" Has Long Pedigree. The chicken, common barnyard fowl, has a pedigree that has been traced back to 700 B. C., when chickens were fluttering about homes in southern Asia, Dr. Clark Wissler, noted anthropologist, says. Within a comparatively short time, considering lack of transportation and the great distance, chickens appeared in Africa, Doctor Wissler says. Next they appeared in Egypt, according to traces found, and after this they became scattered until they were more or less common throughout the world.

ORDER ANOTHER RAIL WAGE CUT

MAINTENANCE OF WAY WORKERS TO RECEIVE FIVE CENTS PER HOUR LESS JULY 1.

ORDER AFFECTS 400,000 MEN

Lower Cost of Living Given As Motive for $48,000,000 a Year Saving for Railroads.

Chicago — Roadadjustment of the wages of approximately 400,000 maintenance of way employees of the railroads of the country, effective July 1, in accordance with decreases in the cost of living and wages in similar outside employment since the decision of the board last July, was provided for in a decision by the United States railroad labor board and made public Sunday night.

The decision is expected to reduce present payrolls of the railroads about $48,000,000 per year and to reduce the pay of the majority of the maintenance of way men five cents per hour, but important classes of the employees were given a smaller cut. Under the majority head were included track laborers and other classes usually designated as "common laborers."

The decision was signed by the three railroad members of the board and the three members representing the public group. A dissenting opinion was filed by the three members representing the labor group. The dissenting opinion contended that the wage scale provided in the decision was insufficient to sustain life on the basis of American standards.

The board's decision followed the hearings held on the request of the railroads for wage reductions and the counter request of several classes of employees for increases in pay. Those hearings began in Chicago March 6 and ended April 29.

In the decision the board called attention to the fact that the present adjustment was based on previous wage adjustments, the first of which, on July 20, 1920, increased the wages of all classes of employees approximately $600,000,000 a year, and the second, the decision of July 1, 1921, which slashed about $160,000,000 from the wages of some 2,000,000 employees in all parts of the country.

STATE MAY AVOID RAIL CLOSING

Governor Expected to Intervene to Prevent Tearing Up P. M. Spurs.

Lansing—Intervention by the state before the Interstate Commerce Commission to prevent the Pere Marquette railroad from abandoning two short lines in Mecosta and Isabella counties is believed likely as the result of action taken by Gov. Greenback. The Governor, after a conference with Prof. David Friday, president of the Michigan Agricultural College, wrote to the Michigan Public Utilities Commission suggesting that a meeting be called to discuss the advisability of the state taking concerted action in opposition to the railroad company on this project.

The lines which the Pere Marquette proposed to abandon run from Mecosta to Barryton, 25 miles, and from Remus to Weidman, 20 miles.

Washington — Attorney General Daugherty has announced appointment of former Senator Charles S. Mr. Daugherty also announced creation of "a special tribunal within the department of justice, which will constitute a board of review," to determine whether to proceed with or abandon suits, according to probability of success.

BE RID OF THAT ACHE

If you are a sufferer with lame back, backache, dizziness, nervousness and kidney disorders, why don't you try the remedy that your own neighbors recommend?

Mrs. Wm. Harrington, East Jordan, says: "I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for I have used them with very beneficial results. I was troubled considerably with dull, nagging backaches and distressing pain through my kidneys. My kidneys were very irregular in action. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they helped me wonderfully by relieving the backache and correcting the action of my kidneys. I have used Doan's in the past and they have always given me the best of relief and satisfaction." (Statement given on Aug. 3, 1909.)

On April 23, 1920, Mrs. Harrington added: "I haven't had occasion to use a kidney medicine since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me years ago. The cure proved to be complete in all respects and has stood the test of time. I recommended Doan's in 1909 and I am happy in saying that I am as strong for them as ever. I gladly confirm the state I made in that year."

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to keep her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

TO STOP COUGHING AT NIGHT.

A summer bronchial cough keeps not only the sufferer but other members of the family awake. Alfred Barker, 1061 Avondale St., E. Liverpool, O., writes: "My boy was suffering from a bronchial cough for 7 or 8 weeks. Foley's Honey and Tar has done him wonderful good." No opiates.—Hite's Drug Store.

CANADA ASKED TO NEGOTIATE TREATY ON LAKES-TO-OCEAN ROUTE.

CANADIAN DELAY IS EXPECTED

Montreal's Opposition, for Same That New York Fights Project, May Hold Off Action.

Washington — The administration has opened communications with Canada, through the British embassy, looking to the negotiation of a treaty under which could be effected the project for deepening the boundary waterways so that the Great Lakes ports could be reached by ocean traffic. President Harding is understood to hold that a treaty must be made.

The state department has formally announced that on May 17, Secretary Hughes sent to Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, a note stating that this government would be glad to open negotiations on the treaty. Sir Auckland, it is understood, has forwarded the note to the Canadian government but no formal reply has been received as yet.

It is understood that there may be some delay on the part of the Canadian government in getting down to cases in the matter. The new Canadian premier, MacKenzie King, who went into office in the recent Liberal victory in Canada, has a program of legislation that he is anxious to put through and he depends in considerable measure upon the support of representatives of the province of Quebec. These representatives, it is reported, are much interested in the port of Montreal, which is said to be opposed to the project on much the same grounds that New York is opposing it on this side of the line.

The belief of the administration that a treaty should be negotiated before the project is undertaken is said to be a serious disappointment to members of congress from the Great Lakes stations. At best, they see delay in it, and at worst practical defeat through indefinite postponement. For the same reasons the administration's position is cheering to members from New York, who are fighting the whole undertaking bitterly in the belief that if ocean traffic reaches the Great Lakes ports, New York's position will be weakened seriously.

VETERANS BOYCOT MEMORIAL

Sanilac County Legion Men Refuse to Attend Unveiling.

Sandusky, Mich. — Although two members of Congress, a former Governor and nearly 2,000 others were present to honor the Sanilac County soldiers who fell in the World War, the living comrades of the fallen heroes did not attend the ceremony of the unveiling of the Soldiers and Sailors' Memorial Monument, in front of the court house, May 25.

All the nine American Legion posts of the county, numbering some 1,600 men, boycotted the ceremony, because, they charge, the soldier figure that surmounts the memorial is more a representation of a British Tommy than of an American soldier and because, in inscribing the names of veterans on the tablet, no distinction was made between Army and Navy men, welfare workers, nurses and students who attended Army training schools.

GERMAN ENVOY IS RECEIVED

Relations With U. S. Resumed Formally Following Brief Ceremony.

Washington—Dr. Otto Wiedefeldt, the new German ambassador to the United States, was received formally by President Harding, when, accompanied by attaches of the embassy, he presented his credentials as envoy extraordinary of the German Republic. He remained with the president only a few minutes. His reception marked final resumption of relations between the United States and Germany.

SUBSTITUTE DIRIGIBLE REFUSED

U. S. Turns Down British Offer for Payment on ZR-2.

London—The United States has rejected the British offer to turn over the dirigible balloon R-36, in lieu of returning the money which the American government had paid upon the destroyed ZR-2. The ZR-2 collapsed on her final trial flight, with the loss of nearly 50 lives. The United States had advanced more than $1,000,000 upon the airship.

Youngster Makes 900 Mile Trip.

Akron, Ohio—Cecil Norton, eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. Callie Norton, completed a 900-mile trip alone, upon her arrival home here from a visit to her grandparents in Greenville, Texas. Labeled with an express tag, which bore her address, fastened to her neck, she carried three cumbersome dolls, which she said she had purchased at "Thinthinati" and "Columbuth." The child changed trains at Knoxville, Cincinnati and Columbus, unassisted, it is said.
