Baby Conference At County Fair

East Jordan, Next Week, Wednesday and Thursday.

Look who's here! A Baby Conference at the Charlevoix County Fair. Frank F. Bird, hustling secretary of the fair, had been hearing so much about livestock that he began to reflect. The hogs had to be up on their toes with nice arched backs; the milk cows had to show dairy type; the horses had to have good bone, be well coupled, and all the rest of it.

"But why neglect the babies?" asked Farmer Bird, as he pondered. Then he began to smile. "We'll put on a baby show—and give the mothers a chance," he told himself, and the Baby Conference is the result of this happy resolution.

And if you are interested in children don't miss it. A county physician will examine all babies and children up to six years of age free of charge. Miss Charlotte Ludington, director of the northern nursing district, will be at the fair and it is expected that a lay worker from the Department of Health at Lansing will arrive Wednesday to assist Miss Ludington.

The Baby Conference will be held in the school room of the Educational Building Wednesday and Thursday of next week, the fair opening Monday and closing Friday. Supplies for the Conference have been received from Dr. Blanche M. Haines, director of child hygiene and public health nursing, who writes that all that is now needed is "plenty of babies." Bring on the little darlings!

And here's another batch of good news! The fair association has put the kibosh on the weather jinx by taking out rain insurance of $1,000.00 per day for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. No sane weather man would start to acting up in the face of such a loss, and it is believed he is down for the count of five full days.

A program at once interesting, entertaining and instructive awaits you and your family and friends. Lend your support to the county fair—your County Fair.

Plan to go—and GO!

Schools Now Under Way

Supt. Duncanson Urges Students To Enroll At Once.

East Jordan schools opened Tuesday with about the same enrollment as former years for the first day. Some of the grades showed a smaller enrollment and others a larger. The West Side showed the largest gain over last year, having almost as great an attendance as the total of last year. However, there are quite a number of students that haven't entered for this year. This is a great mistake because the first two weeks of school are the most important of the whole year. It is the part of the year when all the introductions to the subject are explained and the foundation is laid for the year's work. Hence the student is greatly handicapped especially when school was running as usual Wednesday morning. Sometimes it takes two weeks to get under way but we do not plan on over two days. All the books and necessary equipment was ordered in June. However, not all the books arrived. Possibly they are on the side track of some railroad.

Referring again to those who have not entered, let me urge that they do so immediately for although we will attend the Fair the last three afternoons, the rest of the time we will be going as usual.

The following is the enrollment by grades:

A PROBLEM IN ARITHMETIC

In 1916, when Stone Park Boulevard, near Sioux City, Iowa, was being built, an October leaf fell from a nearby tree and lodged in the fresh concrete. When the street had hardened and the leaf was removed, a very faint impression remained. It was so faint, in fact, that one thirty-second of an inch of surface wear would have obliterated it.

In 1921, just five years later, the accompanying photograph was taken. As it shows, the impression appears as on the day it was made. During the five years of heavy traffic, the pavement had failed to wear as much as a thirty-second of an inch.

Here is the problem: If five years fails to wear a thirty-second of an inch from a concrete road, how many hundred years will it require to wear out a concrete pavement 8 inches thick?

Who And Why Opposition To Frank D. Scott

The citizens of this county are wondering why an effort is being made to defeat our present Congressman Frank D. Scott. Two years ago Scott had made such an excellent record in Congress that he had no opposition for re-nomination and no opposition on any ticket for re-election. This year the District is being circularized with misleading and false statements regarding our present Congressman. His opponent is a gentleman by the name of Aldrich who who came up from Detroit about six years ago and purchased summer resort property at Mullet Lake in Cheboygan County which, for political purposes, he now chooses to call a farm. His campaign is being managed by Tom Fuller, formerly of Battle Creek, who about a year ago moved Cheboygan and purchased the Cheboygan Tribune. These two gentlemen are now attempting to teach the citizens of this District the "city" methods of playing politics. Besides the false circulars which they have scattered around the District, they have imported several professional speakers and agitators from Missouri and Ohio in an effort to capitalize the general discontent incident to the strikes and other industrial disturbances. The News of the Upper Peninsula last week had the following to say regarding the campaign being made to defeat Scott:

"Don't be misled by the extravagant statements of the paid spellbinder on the corner as to what Congressman Frank D. Scott did or didn't do down at Washington. Hot air is the cheapest thing to be had these days. Ask anyone of the many ex-service boys whom he assisted both during and following the World War; ask the widowed mothers or parents of these boys who put their cases in his hands after every other available source of assistance had failed. They will tell you in words of deep gratitude and appreciation that Congressman Scott was tireless in their behalf and never stopped until he got results. Ask the farmer and laboring man who had occasion to write or submit any matter and he will tell you right off the bat that Frank Scott was not only on the job at all times, but that his letter was acknowledged promptly and his matter given full and careful consideration.

Whom are you going to believe? On the one hand your friend and neighbor who knows whereof he speaks? On the other, a soap box orator imported from somewhere out west at so much per hour to insult your intelligence by telling you how to vote?

The people of this District know that Frank D. Scott has proven himself to be one of the most valuable members of the lower house of congress, and that it would be a grave mistake to make a change at this time on the sayso of a spell-binder who is not so much as a resident of Michigan.

If Mr. Aldrich is competent to represent you in congress, why is it that he has to have someone from Missouri to make his campaign speeches?"

Home League Closes Season

Wednesday Half-Holidays Discontinued For Awhile.

Two interesting ball games on August 30th, brought to a successful close the first summer of Wednesday half holidays. The first game between the M. E. and H. N. team was won by the M. E. after seven innings of good base ball, thus giving this team second place in the City League. Both teams played a very good game. The M. E. winning by their superior hitting.

The Masonic team who have lead the League all season played the last game with what was supposed to be the K. P.-I. O. O. F. team. For some reason only two of this team showed up and the Masons apparently feeling that they could defeat any combination which could be brought against them permitted the remnant of the K. P.-I. O. O. F. team to pick out any seven men that they wanted to complete their team which the K. P. proceeded to do with the result that when they took the field they had an all star combination. The battle which resulted will long be remembered by those who witnessed it. Duncanson pitched for the Masons and Davis for the All star combination. Both pitchers kept the hitting down and scattered. Final score was 3 to 1 in favor of the All stars; two of their runs coming as a direct result of errors on the part of the Masonic in-field. Many spectacular field stunts were pulled off by both teams and it was undoubtedly the best ball game played this summer.

The general concensus of opinion among the business men of East Jordan is that the Wednesday closing throughout the summer has been very beneficial. From fifty to seventy-five of our business and professional men have found it possible to engage actively in the National pastime. Many of our citizens have greatly enjoyed themselves each Wednesday afternoon at the ball games and have had an afternoon out in the open which they would not have been possible otherwise. Many patrons of the East Jordan business houses have found it possible to see at least a part of the ball games and have enjoyed them very much. Our little city through its indoor League of last winter and outdoor League of this summer has become famous throughout the State of Michigan as a good lively community where the people believe in play as well as work. The games have helped to create a friendly community spirit; have furnished beneficial entertainment to all and have in every way been a complete success.

The Wednesday afternoon closing has enabled many people who otherwise would have been shut in to enjoy fishing trips on the river, to have bathing and picnic parties on the lake; to take auto rides out into the country and to neighboring cities, thus helping to make the summer a pleasant one enabling them to work with renewed vigor.

From the financial standpoint the closing has been a benefit. At least as much business has been done by our stores and possibly more. The people in the country have appreciated the stores being open on Wednesday evening, thus giving them a chance to trade one night during the week and the people in the surrounding country have appreciated the East Jordan merchant's liberality in permitting their employees a half holiday and in attempting to furnish amusement for the entire community.

Let us have the indoor baseball League again this winter and when next summer comes it is to be hoped that the outdoor League will again be organized.

Wholesalers on Trade Tour

Will Visit East Jordan on Thursday Afternoon, Sept. 28th.

The Wholesalers Department of the Grand Rapids Association of Commerce will make its 16th annual Fall Trade Tour, Sept. 26, 27, 28 and 29.

They are scheduled to visit East Jordan on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 28th, from 2:20 to 3:20. They leave their train at Ellsworth and will visit this city by autos.

The Grand Rapids Wholesalers have five fall trade tours, making one of them each year. The territory to be covered this year always calls out more of the wholesalers than any of the others, so another big party is expected for the September tour with every indication of even a larger attendance than has covered this popular route in previous years.

The Furniture City band will accompany the wholesalers on the tour, playing at all day stops and giving concert programs at the evening meetings.

Stops for Thursday, September 28th, include Clarion, Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Bay View, Bay Shore, Charlevoix, Ellsworth, East Jordan, Central Lake, Bellaire, Alden, Rapid City, Williamsburg, and Traverse City, where the Furniture City band will give a concert for the wholesalers and their guests from Traverse City and neighboring points.

Secretary Bierce started August 26 on a preliminary tour over the route to be covered by the wholesalers in September, visited all the points and arranged the local details with those who are cooperating at the various points to make the tour a complete success.

Mr. Bierce reports that a hearty welcome will be ready for the Grand Rapids men at every point along the route.

BONUS MEASURE THROUGH SENATE

BILL GOES TO HOUSE AFTER PAS-SAGE BY 47-22 VOTE IN UPPER BODY.

LEADER PROMISES RUSH ACTION

The Slight Differences Between The Two Houses Expected To Be Ironed Out Ahead of Tariff.

Washington—The four billion dollar soldiers' bonus bill was passed Aug. 31 by the senate and is now in conference. The vote was 47 to 22 with party lines wiped out. Neither senators nor spectators manifested particular interest in proceedings as the discussion proceeded, but just before the vote at 3 p. m. both the senate chamber and the galleries filled quickly.

With the announcement of the result there was applause from spectators, particularly from one section of the galleries where there were a number of service men. No effort was made to prevent this demonstration.

Twenty-seven Republicans and 20
 Democrats voted favorably and the opposition vote was divided between 15
 Republicans and seven Democrats.

Immediately after the passage of the measure the senate directed that it be returned to the house with a request for a conference. Since there is no serious dispute between the two houses on the bonus, the conferees are expected to lay aside the tariff long enough to agree to a report on the bonus.

Government experts estimate the total cost of the bonus at $3,845,659,481 on the basis of 75 per cent of the veterans electing the certificate plan, 22½ per cent the farm and home aid,
 and 2½ per cent vocational training.
 This total is exclusive of any appropriations that would be made under the $3,350,000,000 land reclamation provision, but under that provision the government finally would recover those costs. The total of the certificate plan is placed at $3,364,909,481;
 farm and home aid, $412,425,000;
 vocational training, $62,325,000, and cash payments to veterans receiving $50 or less, $16,000,000.

As amended by the senate, the soldiers' bonus bill would become effective January 1, 1923, and would provide three optional plans for veterans of the world war other than those whose adjusted service pay would not exceed $50. These would be paid in cash.
 The options are:
 Adjusted service certificates, payable in 20 years, or sooner at death,
 and containing loan provisions.

Vocational Training Aid at the rate of $1.75 a day up to a total of 140 per cent of the adjusted service credit.

Aid in purchasing a farm or home,
 the total amount to range from 100 per cent of the adjusted service credit if the money were advanced in 1923 to 140 per cent of the adjusted service credit if the payment were made in 1928 or thereafter.

Adjusted service pay, or adjusted service credit would be figured on the basis of $1 a day for domestic service and $1.25 a day for foreign service, less the $50 paid at discharge. But in no event could the amount of the credit of the veteran who performed no overseas service exceed $500, and the amount of the credit of the veteran who performed any overseas service exceed $625.

STATE IGNORES FEDERAL BODY

Fuel Administration Acts Independently of Washington Distributor.

Lansing—The state fuel administration has discontinued sending coal orders through the Federal distributor at Washington and is now acting independently in supplying the needs of Michigan, it was announced by W. W.
 Potter, state administrator.

Inability to get information from Washington as to the measurs being taken to meet the demands of the state, coupled with press reports that the Federal fuel distribution organization was being disbanded, was responsible for the action of the Michigan administration, it was said.

ILLEGITIMATE BIRTH RATE HIGH

32,000 Annually Born Out of Wedlock, Report Shows.

Washington—More than 32,000 children are born out of wedlock annually in the United States, according to a statement by the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor.

The bureau announced approval of a law proposed by Prof. Freund, of the University of Chicago, and recommended by the National Conference of Commissioners on uniform state laws granting broader right to "illegitimate" children.

Gen. Mulcahy to Lead Irish.

Dublin—The Irish Free State now looks to Richard Mulcahy, William T.
 Cosgrave, Owen O'Duffy and John J.
 McKeon to carry on the work begun
 by Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, according to all indications of the trend of opinion as to the new leadership. General Mulcahy, the new commander, is lauded by his friends as capable and determined, with a touch of the poetic in his character, which heightens his appeal to his fellow Irishmen.

SOVIET RED HELPS SMALLPOX

Noted Moscow Hospital Finds Use for Flaming Color.

Moscow—Red, official color of the soviet government, has been found by Russian scientists to have a beneficial effect on smallpox cases.

White rays are harmful to the skin lesions in this disease, they say, while red is most healing.

Consequently the smallpox wards of the Third University hospital at Lefortovo, built 217 years ago by Peter the Great, have been painted entirely in flaming red.

The beds, bedding and equipment
 also are in that color.

 To Aid In Escape.

Leavenworth, Kans.—Because she is said to have used a revolver for the filling of a cake she baked for her fiancee, "Doc" Ward, who is in Kansas State Penitentiary serving a sentence of from 10 to 21 years for highway robbery, pretty Mildred Ward, 25 years old, is being held in the county jail charged with plotting the escape of Ward and three of his penitentiary friends. "Doc" has been placed in solitary confinement.

$60,000,000 PROFITS FOR FORD

Company's Report for Year Ending
 April 30 Shows Big Gain.

Detroit—Not profits of the Ford
 Motor company for the year ended April 30 were $60,000,000, according to a statement made public in New York City, recently, and confirmed by Ford officials here, who expressed belief that the figures had been taken from the public records in New Jersey or Massachusetts.

Commercial Frauds Court Opened.

New York—The commercial frauds court, designed to check the practice of obtaining credit from merchants and banks by the use of false financial statements, was opened here. Magistrate Simpson presided over the first session, and issued 30 summonses.
 District Attorney Banton made the opening address, and outlined the purposes of the court, which he said was sorely needed, and whose inauguration marked the dawn of a new day in business.

British Widow Unprotected.

Under British law, unlike the law of the United States, France and some other countries, a husband is not even bound to leave any portion of his income to his wife after death.

MARKETS

U. S. BUREAU OF MARKETS Washington, D. C.

(For the week ending August 31, 1922.)

Grain—Prices kept within narrow range during the week and averaged lower. Chicago September wheat, down 2 1/2c; September corn, down 3c. Selling and liquidation influenced by weakness in Liverpool and lack of buying support were main market factors. VIOLENCE MARKS RAIL STRIKE

Transportation Slowed Up By Poor Equipment, I. C. C. Reports.

Chicago—The disclosures of a new train wrecking plot, an attempt to blow up a train, the burning and dynamiting of bridges and other railway property, greasing of tracks, slugging of workers and other acts of violence marked the strike of the railroad shop men through the country last week. Railway executives contradicted a report made by the interstate commerce commission that railway motive power has been seriously affected by the shopmen's strike and that carriers have relaxed their own inspection of equipment. Inspectors reported that of 4,085 locomotives examined, more than half of them were defective or unsafe to operate.

The sun bath establishments of the higher Alps are flourishing as it seems to be established as a fact that the sun's rays have certain curative powers and the persons who go there seem to be improved to a great degree. It has been noticed in England and Wales that there is a relationship between the amount of sunshine and the death rate. One recent year was noted as the sunniest ever experienced and the death rate was the lowest.

CHARLES H. EMREY
FOR COUNTY CLERK

Since Mr. Emrey has been County Treasurer $72,000.00 in County Road Bonds have been cancelled and the interest stopped, plans have also been arranged for the incoming Treasurer to cancel an additional $30,000.00, so that in April 1923 a total of $102,000.00 of our County Road Bonds will be cancelled which is nearly one-third of our entire County indebtedness.

Mr. Emrey has handled more County money during the past four years than has been handled in the same office in any other ten years, because of the County Road Bond issue and the great amount of money expended in construction and maintenance of County Highways.

Mr. Emrey is a tax payer and has held County office only four years, while his opponent, Mr. Weaver has been granted eight years in office.

Mr. Emrey gave up all other work when elected to the office of County Treasurer and has worked diligently the past four years in the service of all who have come in contact with this busy office.

Compare the record made by Mr. Emrey as your County Treasurer with the record made by his opponent Mr. Weaver and then vote without friendship and without malice, but with ability and service as your only guide and may the best man win. adv. 35-2

Killed in Shotgun Accident

Albert Thompson Victim of Loaded Shotgun.

Albert, the 14-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Thompson of Jordan township, received injuries in a shotgun accident, Monday evening, which caused his death a few hours later.

The lad had taken the loaded gun to a neighbor's barn and set it down. The neighbor picked it up, accidentally touched the trigger, and the load of shot entered the lad's abdomen. This happened about 6:00 p. m., Monday.

The unfortunate lad was rushed to the office of Dr. H. W. Dicken in this city, but in spite of able medical treatment, he passed away about 11:00 p. m.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon from his late home. Interment at the Jones Cemetery.

Cook Lands Boyne Burglar

Melvin Mays Pleads Guilty Before Circuit Judge Mayne.

Headly work by Under Sheriff H. W. Cook brought swift justice to a burglar in a Boyne City store.

The general store of N. J. Rovick of Boyne City was robbed of some thirty five dollars, principally in nickles and dimes, at an early hour last Friday morning.

From the Boyne Citizen, we glean the following:—

Melvin Mays, nineteen years of age, claiming Colorado as his home, was suspected last Friday by East Jordan officers, when he was found liberally spending money, after its being known to them that he was previously without funds. No thefts at the Jordan were known so the officers called up this city and learned of the Rovick store robbery. Mays was arrested and brought to this city and on Saturday appeared before Justice Hammond where he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering in the night time and was bound over to the Circuit Court.

"This is not the first time Mays has been in trouble in this county and providing he does not change his plea, or if he is found guilty he will probably be severely punished."

Mays was taken before Judge Mayne on Tuesday where he plead guilty to the charge of burglary. Sentence has not yet been pronounced.

Sounds Travel Farthest In Darkness.

Sounds can generally be heard much farther by night than by day; sometimes ten or even twenty times as far. One reason is that the air at night contains, as a rule, few eddies and other local disturbances, such as break up the sound waves by day. Moreover, on calm, clear nights the vertical distribution of temperature near the earth is often the reverse of that occurring by day, and has the effect of bending the sound waves downward instead of upward.

Marriage in Poland.

The average man isn't overjoyed to learn that with his wife he is acquiring a large following of in-laws. But in Poland it is different. In the marriage contract the man does not inquire what a girl's portion is, but how many relatives she has, as each one is relied upon for a gift. It is not unusual for the woman to propose a match, through her parents.

Explaining the Difference Between Checks Printed on Ordinary Safety Paper and

Super-Safety Insured Checks

While checks printed on ordinary safety paper are somewhat safe from alteration by acid, rubber or knife erasure, they are not positively safe against alteration by the many other means open to the crook.

There is no mechanical or chemical means you can use to positively protect your checks against such alterations as adding "0" to "8" and adding "Y" to "Eight," thus making eighty dollars—a loss of $72.00 to the writer of the check.

INSURANCE is the only positive protection against this form of alteration and all other forms of fraudulent alteration.

The clever crook or the "greenest" of amateurs may alter your checks but if you have Super-Safety Insured checks, you cannot lose—the insurance repays you for any loss you may have incurred.

THE PEOPLES STATE SAVINGS BANK PROVIDES ALL DEPOSITORS WITH SUPER-SAFETY CHECKS—POSITIVE PROTECTION.

As visible evidence of the positive protection which we give depositors' checking funds, we will issue you an individual vest pocket insurance policy for $1,000.00 protecting you against any loss due to fraudulent alteration of your checks.

As a part of this insurance policy is an identification card with space for your signature, finger prints and photograph (to be furnished by you) which will identify you any place in the world. Sometime when you are out of the city this little identification card might help you in many ways.

Carry your commercial account with us and secure this added protection and unusual service.

NOTE—Super-Safety Insured checks are kind you see advertised in the leading magazines such as the Saturday Evening Post, Literary Digest, American Magazine and System.

me every morning, achy and all day, worse when it's damply? Suspect your kidneys and the remedy your neighbors use. Is your neighbor!

Dr. J. Farmer, railroad engineer, East Jordan, Mich., says: "I had a sore feeling in the small of my back that I had with me for days and I had to move at all and my back was as lame. When I stooped I could hardly get up again. Mornings I felt tired. Black specks came before me and blurred my eyes so I couldn't see. Through the night I often had to get up and the secretions were not only painful but always filled with dark sediment. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a few boxes at Gidley & Mac's Drug Store and they fixed me up in good shape."

New Harmony in Poetry.
In the sweet chorus of modern poetry one may hear a strange new harmony. It is the life of our time, evoking its own music; constraining its poetic spirit to utter its own message. The peculiar beauty of the contemporary poetry, with its fresh and charming, grows from that; and that, too, its vitality is assured. It has the deep sanction of loyalty; a loyalty draws inspiration from the very source.—Mary C. Sturgeon.

SULPHUR CLEARS UP ROUGH OR RED SKIN

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It never fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

UNUSUAL HAPPENINGS AND OTHER BRIEF NEWS

Honolulu Gets Street Lights.
Honolulu, T. H.—Honoluluans no longer will be compelled to rely upon the man in the moon to guide them about the streets at nights when the moon is supposed to be present in the sky. The supervisors have decided to keep street lights burning during all hours of darkness.

"Showing Off" Fatal to Boy.
Chicago—Playfully asking his chum to watch him "commit suicide," Jesse Grant, 14, put a revolver to his head and pulled the trigger. He died a moment later with a bullet through his brain. The boys had found the revolver in a dresser drawer and "didn't know it was loaded."

Bryan Stumps for Hitchcock.
Washington—William Jennings Bryan will toss his old campaign hat back into the national political arena this fall. Mr. Bryan announced he would "take the stump" for his former political enemy Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, who is seeking re-election to the senate from Nebraska.

Jilted Doctor's Body Found.
Chicago—The body of W. W. Talcott, who jumped from a lake steamer after bringing charges against Dr. A. J. Moore, conductor of a school to "heal homes and hearts," was found by life guards. Talcott alleged that after his wife became a disciple of Moore's philosophy, her affection for him cooled.

Wants Perfumeless Bathing Beauties.
Atlantic City, N. J.—Chemical fumes which he has been forced to breathe for many years in experimental laboratories have made perfumes nauseating to Hudson Maxim, the inventor. In consequence, the bathing beauty contest and pageant here this week, in which Maxim is to be Father Neptune, will be perfumeless.

Honor "Message to Garcia" Here.
San Francisco—Nearly a quarter of a century after he carried President McKinley's "message to Garcia," Maj. Andrew S. Rowan, U. S. A., retired, was honored for his exploit which, it is said, has been told in every language. Rowan was decorated at the Presidio here with the Distinguished Service Cross as a token of his deed.

Lake too Cold, Chooses River.
Kankakee, Ill.—The warmer, less unfriendly looking waters of the Kankakee river claimed Arthur J. Coulter, 40, of Indianapolis, after he had looked at Lake Michigan with the idea of suicide, and found it "so big, so cold." In a letter in Coulter's pocket, addressed to his wife, he said, he had walked from Chicago after finding himself unable to end his life in the lake.

Keeps Healthy on 50 Cent Diet.
Warren, O.—That a man can maintain normal weight on fifty cents worth of food a day was demonstrated here after a week's test by Dr. E. J. Maguire. The doctor weighed 176 pounds at the start and the scales showed no decrease. The test was made as the result of a friendly argument between Dr. Maguire and two other physicians. Dr. Maguire ate the 21 meals in a local restaurant.

Acting Governor Had Side Line.
Lincoln, Neb.—Lieutenant Governor Pelham A. Barrows has resigned his job as guard for the Burlington railway, and accepted the vice-presidency of the Nebraska Automobile association. Considerable comment was caused recently when it became known that Barrows, while acting chief executive of the state during the absence of Governor Samuel R. McKelvie, was working for the railroad at a $5 a day wage.

Red Arrow Veteran Killed.
Milwaukee—A train carrying members of the Red Arrow association of the thirty-second division from a reunion in Madison was wrecked near Waukesha. Harry True, Madison, Wis., was killed and six Red Arrow members were wounded. The engine, tender and baggage car and two passenger coaches ran into the ditch. Four or five men who were working on the track are said to be missing.

Prisoner Wants Vacation, Takes It.
Raleigh, N. C.—Leaving a note in his cell saying he just had to have a vacation and might not return until next spring, Dr. James Walter Peacock, the most distinguished prisoner in North Carolina, sawed his way to freedom from the state prison for insanity here. Dr. Peacock was imprisoned for a life term, following his acquittal on grounds of insanity, on the charge of having murdered Police Chief Taylor, of Thomasville.

Love Pact Proof Failure.
Milwaukee, Wis.—An experiment in a love bonus was a failure for Adolph Loose, according to an answer to his wife's divorce petition. He is 61 years old, she 49, and they were married in August, 1921. Loose said he and his wife signed a prenuptial agreement by which she was to receive $500 for every year of happiness she gave him. This bonus plan was to last 10 years, but it petered out in a few months and each now charges the other with desertion.

MANUFACTURERS WANT RELIEF

Michigan Association Petitions Congress for Strike Remedy.

Detroit—Impelled by loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars because of inability of railroads to furnish cars to move their products, due to the strike of railway shop craft workers, directors of the Michigan Manufacturers' association at a special meeting held Aug. 31, called on President Harding and Congress to put enough teeth in the Esch-Cummings bill to prevent strikes in the future and immediately end the sabotage which, they declared, is daily becoming more persistent and destructive.

Dogs Foretell the Weather.
Frazee dogs seem to have some kind of knowledge of the weather, if observers at the New York zoological park are right. Now and then the large members of the colony loosen the earth round their mounds with their forefeet, then shovel the soil upward with their hind feet. Other members work inside the burrow, throwing out earth to aid in the building. When a dyke has been built, the animals stamp the earth down with their heads—an amusing sight. As those operations invariably take place before a storm, the obvious purpose is to build a dam that will keep the water from running into the burrow.

Trackless Trolleys.
More than 100 miles of trackless trolley lines are in operation in England.

Something to Think About
By F. A. WALKER

THE MASTERFUL MIND

WHEN a perplexing task confronts you, the very thought of which upsets your poise and seems to paralyze your mental and physical faculties, by all means keep cool.

You cannot by any other manner master the situation. By mastering yourself, composing your tingling nerves and going at the work in an orderly fashion, you will find that however serious were your apprehensions, or your fears of getting through on time, there was really nothing to be flustered at at all.

A moment of quiet, decisive thought at such times is usually all that is really needed, but the difficulty with most persons is, the mastering of the moment to do their bidding.

The average mind has an inclination to jump and dance in circles and to become so agitated that anything approaching tranquility appears to be entirely out of the question.

Mutter for the time being overwhelms mind, breaks it into a thousand atoms with provoking spitefulness and leaves thought in utter dismay.

The housewife knows how true this is, when at dinner time her happy-go-lucky spouse walks in at the front door with several old college chums, and calmly announces that they have come to dine with him, forgetting until he put his key in the lock that it was the cook's afternoon out.

In the flurry that follows everything goes wrong. Had the husband in the beginning given thought of the cookless kitchen, all embarrassment could have been avoided.

Your desk may confront you with hundreds of letters requiring immediate personal attention.

If you have a masterful mind, you will proceed to make haste slowly, and dispose of the work in half of the time it would take a man to complete the work whose self-control had deserted him.

The masterful mind is one of the figures in the combination that opens the lock on the world's treasure box, in which repose success, honor, fame, wealth, and power, each one more easily attained by the man or woman of composure, than by those persons who upon the slightest provocation become ill-tempered, excited and hysterical.

You can never hope to lead, direct and control others except by the magnetic power of the masterful mind, acquired only by mastering self, after long seasons of trial.

One of the chief causes of financial pressure in modern life is the failure of some girls and women to realize that money does not fall, like the dew, gently from heaven.

Old Paintings Retain Coloring.

How long will a modern painting last? The old masters in the National gallery look as if they had been painted yesterday. There is a picture, for instance, by Van Eyck, the inventor of oil painting, which might have been just taken down from the artist's easel, yet it is more than five hundred years old. And one has only to walk through the glowing rooms where Raphael, Guido, Correggio and Fra Angelico shine out of lovely altar-pieces to realize that there are hundreds of other pictures almost as old and every bit as fresh in color.—London Tit-Bits.

One and Same Stone.

"Few realize," said a jeweler, who was discussing the increasing popularity in stones of the semi-precious varieties, "that the garnet and the carbuncle are one and the same stone. They are varieties of garnets, but the term carbuncle may be applied to any of them. The trade generally understands 'carbuncle' to mean a garnet which has been cut enchechon—that is with a smooth half round or domed top without almost any faceting. For large garnets this is the favorite cutting. This is almost exclusively used in jewelry for men."

An Ancient City.

Peking is one of the oldest cities in the world, being known to exist in the twelfth century before Christ, but although it is of immense size, but 26 miles in circumference, much of the space within the walls is unoccupied.

Uncle Eben.

"Dar's one thing I's got to say in favor of ghosts," said Uncle Eben. "I never yit heard o' one hittin' a lonely traveler over de head an' takin' his watch an' pocketbook."

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids—Splendid for system.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; a sin, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is epidemic for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

Patron Saint of Toothache.

The unfortunate who happen to be suffering from toothache or who have a visit to the dentist in view may or may not be comforted to know that Apollonia of Alexandria is the patron saint of toothache. Before being thrown into a fiery furnace, which consumed her, St. Apollonia had all her beautiful teeth pulled out, one by one, for which reason she is represented in art holding a pair of pincers, and for which reason, also, she has long been regarded as the protectress against toothache.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-time Recipe that Anybody can Apply.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for retarding faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Looking back over it now, he could see how easily Fate had played into the hands of the Rodaines, if the Rodaines had not possessed a deeper concern than merely to seize upon a happening and turn it to their own account. The highwayman was big. The highwayman talked with a "Cousin-Jack" accent—for all Cornishmen are "Cousin Jacks" in the mining country. Those two features in themselves, Fairchild thought, as he stumbled along in the darkness, were sufficient to start the scheming plot in the brain of Maurice Rodaine, already ugly and evil through the trick played by Harry on his father and the rebuke that had come from Anita Richmond. It was an easy matter for him to get the inspiration, leap out of the window, and then wait until the robber had gone, that he might flare forth with his accusation. And after that—

Either Chance, or something stronger, had done the rest. The finding of the stolen horse and the carelessly made cache near the mouth of the Blue Poppy mine would be sufficient in the eyes of any jury. The evidence was both direct and circumstantial. To Fairchild's mind, there was small chance for escape by Harry, once his case went to trial.

Down the dark street the man wandered, his hands sunk deep in his pockets, his head low between his shoulders—only to suddenly galvanize into intensity, and to stop short that he might hear again the voice which had come to him. At one side was a big house—a house whose occupants he knew instinctively, for he had seen the shadow of a woman, hands outstretched, as she passed the light-strewn shade of a window on the second floor. More, he had heard her voice, supplemented by gruffer tones. And then it came again.

It was pleading, and at the same time angered with the passion of a person approaching hysteria. A barking sentence answered her, something that Fairchild could not understand. He left the old board sidewalk and crept to the porch that he might hear the better. Then every nerve within him jangled, and the black of the darkness changed to red. The Rodaines were within; he had heard first the cold voice of the father, then the rasping tones of the son, in upbraiding. More, there had come the sobbing of a woman; instinctively Fairchild knew that it was Anita Richmond. And then:

"Leave this house—leave me! Leave this house! Don't you dare touch me—leave this house! No—I won't be quiet—I won't—you're killing him, I tell you!"

And Fairchild waited for nothing more. A lunge, and he was on the veranda. One more spring and he had reached the door, to find it unlocked, to throw it wide and to leap into the hall. Great steps, and he had cleared the stairs to the second floor. Dimly, as through a red screen, Fairchild saw the frightened face of Anita Richmond, and on the landing, fronting him angrily, stood the two Rodaines. For a moment, Fairchild disregarded them and turned to the sobbing, disheveled little being in the doorway.

"What's happened?"

"They were threatening me—and father!" she moaned. "But you

"They Were Threatening Me—and Father!"

shouldn't have come in—you shouldn't have—"

"I heard you scream. I couldn't help it. I heard you say they were killing your father—"

The girl looked anxiously toward an inner room, where Fairchild could see faintly the still figure of a man outlined under the covers of an old-fashioned four-poster.

"They—they—got him excited. He had another stroke. I—I couldn't stand it any longer."

"You'd better get out," said Fairchild curtly to the Rodaines, with a suggestive motion toward the stairs. They hesitated a moment and Maurice seemed about to launch himself at Robert, but his father laid a restraining hand on his arm. A step and the elder Rodaine hesitated.

"I'm only going because of your father," he said gruffly, with a glance toward Anita. "I'm not going because—"

"Oh, I know. Mr. Fairchild shouldn't have come in here. He shouldn't have done it. I'm sorry—please go."

Down the steps they went, the older man with his hand still on his son's arm; while, white-faced, Fairchild awaited Anita, who had suddenly sped past him into the sick-room, then was wearily returning.

"Can I help you?" he asked at last. "Yes," came her rather cold answer, only to be followed by a quickly whispered "Forgive me." And then the tones became louder—so that they could be heard at the bottom of the stairs: "You can help me greatly—simply by going and not creating any more of a disturbance."

"But—"

"Please go," came the direct answer. "And please do not vent your spite on Mr. Rodaine and his son. I'm sure that they will act like gentlemen if you will. You shouldn't have rushed in here."

"I heard you screaming, Miss Richmond."

"I know," came her answer, as telly as ever. Then the door downstairs closed and the sound of steps came on the veranda. She leaned close to him. "I had to say that," came her whispered words. "Please don't try to understand anything I do in the future. Just go—please!"

And Fairchild obeyed.

CHAPTER X

The Rodaines were on the sidewalk when Fairchild came forth from the Richmond home, and true to his instructions from the frightened girl, he brushed past them swiftly and went on down the street, not turning at the muttered invectives which came from the crooked lips of the older man, not seeming even to notice their presence as he hurried on toward Mother Howard's boarding house. In his creaky bed he sought to think, but in vain.

After hours, daylight began to streak the sky. Fairchild, dull, worn by excitement and fatigue, strove to rise, then laid his head on the pillow for just a moment of rest. And with that perversity which extreme weariness so often exerts, his eyes closed, and he slept—to wake at last with the realization that it was late morning, and that some one was pounding on the door. Fairchild raised his head.

"Who is it?"

"No one you know—yet. I've come to talk to you about your partner. May I come in?"

"Yes," Fairchild was fully alive now to the activities that the day held before him. The door opened, and a young man, alert, almost cocky in manner, with black, snappy eyes showing behind horn-rimmed glasses, entered and reached for the sole chair that the room contained.

"My name's Farrell," he announced. "Randolph P. Farrell. And to make a long story short, I'm your lawyer."

"My lawyer?" Fairchild stared. "I haven't any lawyer in Ohadi. The only—"

"That doesn't alter the fact. I'm your lawyer, and I'm at your service. And I don't mind telling you that it's just about my first case. Otherwise I don't guess I'd have gotten it."

"Why not?" The frankness had driven other queries from Fairchild's mind. Farrell, the attorney, grinned cheerily.

"Because I understand it concerns the Rodaines. Nearly everybody has a little money stuck into their enterprises. And seeing I have no money at all, I'm not financially interested. And not being interested, I'm wholly just, fair and willing to fight 'em to a standstill. Your partner's in jail, as I understand it. Guilty or not guilty?"

"Wa—wait a minute! Who hired you?" Then with a sudden inspiration: "Mother Howard didn't go and do this?"

"Mother Howard? You mean the woman who runs the boarding house? Not at all."

"But—"

"I'm not exactly at liberty to state." Suspicion began to assert itself.

"Under those conditions, I don't believe—"

"Mr. Fairchild: This is my good friend. He will help you. There is no fee attached. Please destroy."

"Anita Richmond."

"But—but I don't understand."

"You know Miss—er—the writer of this card, don't you?"

"But why should she—?"

Mr. Farrell grinned broadly. "I see you don't know Miss—the writer of this card at all. That's her nature. Besides—well, all she's got to do with me is crook her finger and I'll jump through. I'm—none of your business. But, anyway, here I am—"

Fairchild could not restrain a laugh. There was something about the man, about his nervous, yet boyish way of speaking, about his enthusiasm, that wiped out suspicion and invited confidence. The owner of the Blue Poppy mine leaned forward.

"But you didn't finish your sentence about—the writer of that card."

"You mean—oh—well, there's nothing to that. I'm in love with her. Been in love with her since I've been knee-high to a quack. So 're you. So's every other human being that thinks he's a regular man. So's Maurice Rodaine. Don't know about the rest of you—but I haven't got a chance. Don't let it bother you. The problem right now is to get your partner out of jail. How much money have you got?"

"Only a little more than two thousand."

"Not enough. There'll be bonds on four charges. At the least, they'll be around a thousand dollars apiece. Probabilities are that they'll run around ten thousand for the bunch. How about the Blue Poppy?"

"I don't know what it's worth."

"Neither do I. Neither does the judge. Neither does any one else. Therefore, it's worth at least ten thousand dollars. That'll do the trick. I'd suggest now that you get up, seize your deeds and accompany me to the palace of justice. Otherwise, that partner of yours will have to eat dinner in a place called in undignified language the hoosegown."

Soon Fairchild was dressed and walked hurriedly up—the street with the voluble attorney. A half-hour more and they were before the court, Fairchild, the lawyer and the jail-worn Harry, his mustache fluttering in more directions than ever.

"Not guilty, Your Honor," said Randolph P. Farrell. "May I ask the extent of the bond?"

The judge adjusted his glasses and studied the information which the district attorney had laid before him.

"In view of the number of charges and the seriousness of each, I must fix an aggregate bond of five thousand dollars, or twelve hundred fifty dollars for each case."

"Thank you; we had come prepared for more. Mr. Fairchild, who is Mr. Harkins' partner, is here to appear as bondsman. The deeds are in his name alone, the partnership existing, as I understand it, upon their word of honor between them. I refer, Your Honor, to the deeds of the Blue Poppy mine. Would Your Honor care to examine them?"

His Honor would. His Honor did. For a long moment he studied them, and Fairchild, in looking about the courtroom, saw the bailiff in conversation with a tall, thin man, with aquiline eyes and a scar-marked forehead. A moment later, the judge looked over his glasses.

"Bail?"

"Yes, Your Honor."

"Have you any information regarding the value of the Blue Poppy mining claims?"

"Sir, I have just been talking to Mr. Rodaine. He says they're well worth the value of the bond."

"How about that, Rodaine?" The judge peered down the courtroom.

"They'll do," was his answer, and

"Bond Accepted—I'll Set This Trial for—"

The judge passed the papers to the clerk of the court.

"Bond accepted, I'll set this trial for November 11."

"Very well, Your Honor." Then he turned with a wide grin to his clients. "That's all until November."

Out they fled through the narrow aisle of the courtroom, Fairchild's knee brushing the trouser leg of Squint Rodaine as they passed. At the door, the attorney turned toward them, then put forth a hand.

"Drop in any day this week and we'll go over things," he announced cheerfully. "We put one over on his royal joblots that time, anyway. Hates me from the ground up. Worst we can hope for is a conviction, and then a Supreme court reversal. I'll get him so mad he'll fill the case with errors. He used to be an instructor down at Boulder, and I stuck the puges of a lecture together on him one day. That's why I asked for an early trial. Knew he'd give me a late one. That'll let us have time to stir up a little favorable evidence, which right now we don't possess. Understand—all money that comes from the mine is held in escrow until this case is decided. But I'll explain that. Going to stick around here and bask in the effulgence of really possessing a case. 'Slong!"

And he turned back into the courtroom, while Fairchild, the dazed Harry staking beside him, started down the street.

"Ow do you figure it?" asked the Cornishman at last.

"What?"

"Rodaine. 'E 'elped us out!"

Fairchild stopped. It had not occurred to him before. But now he saw it: that if Rodaine, as an expert on mining, had condemned the Blue Poppy, it could have meant only one thing, the denial of bond by the judge and the lack of freedom for Harry. Fairchild rubbed a hand across his brow.

"I can't figure it," came at last. "And especially since his son is the accuser and since I got the best of them both last night!"

"Got the best of 'em? You?"

The story was brief in its telling. And it brought no explanation of the sudden amiability displayed by the crooked-faced Rodaine. They went on, striving vainly for a reason, at last to stop in front of the post office, as the postmaster leaned out of the door.

"Your name's Fairchild, isn't it?" asked the person of letters.

"Yes."

"Thought so. Some of the fellows said you was. There's been a letter for you here for two days!"

"For me?" Vaguely Fairchild went within and received the missive, a plain, bond envelope without a return address. He turned it over and over in his hand before he opened it—then looked at the postmark—Denver. At last:

"Open it, why don't you?"

Harry's mustache was tickling his ear, as the big miner stared over his shoulder. Before them were figures and sentences which blurred for a moment, finally to resolve into:

"Mr. Robert Fairchild, Ohadi, Colorado."

"Dear Sir:—"

"I am empowered by a client whose name I am not at liberty to state, to make you an offer of $50,000 for your property in Clear Creek county, known as the Blue Poppy mine. In replying, kindly address your letter to—"

"Box 150, Denver, Colo."

Harry whistled long and thoughtfully.

"That's a 'ole lot of money!"

"An awful lot, Harry. But why was the offer made? There's nothing to base it on. There's—"

Then for a moment, as they stepped out of the post office, he gave up the thought, even of comparative riches. Twenty feet away, a man and a girl were approaching, talking as though there never had been the slightest trouble between them. It was Maurice Rodaine and Anita Richmond; they came closer, her eyes turned toward Fairchild, and then—

She went on, without speaking, without taking the trouble to notice, apparently, that he had been standing there.

After this, there was little conversation until Harry and Fairchild had reached the boarding house. Then, with Mother Howard for an adviser, the three gathered in the old parlor, and Fairchild related the events of the night before, adding what had happened at the post office, when Anita had passed him without speaking. Mother Howard, her arms folded as usual, bobbed her gray head.

"It's like her, Son," she announced at last. "She's a good girl. I've known her ever since she was a little tad not big enough to walk. And she loves her father."

"But—"

"She loves her father. Isn't that enough? The Rodaines have the money—and they have almost everything that Judge Richmond owns. It's easy enough to guess what they've done with it—tied it up so that he can't touch it until they're ready for him to do it. And they're not going to do that until they've gotten what they want."

"Which is—?"

"Anita! Any fool ought to be able to know that. That stroke last night was the second one for the Judge. There usually ain't any more after the third one. Now, can't you see why Anita is willing to do anything on earth just to keep peace and just to give her father a little rest and comfort and happiness in the last days of his life? You've got to remember that he ain't like an ordinary father that you can go to and tell all your troubles to. He's laying next door to death, and Anita, just like any woman that's got a great, big, good heart in her, is willing to face worse than death to help him. It's as plain to me as the nose on Harry's face."

took the letter and scanned it. "You two ain't quitters, are you?"

"Yes, you. - If you are, get yourselves a piece of paper and write to Denver and take the offer. If you ain't—keep on fighting."

"I believe you're right, Mother Howard," Fairchild had reached for the letter again and was staring at it as though for inspiration. "That amount of money seems to be a great deal. Still, if a person will offer that much for a mine when there's nothing in sight to show its value, it ought to mean that there's something dark in the woodpile and that the thing's worth fighting out. And personally speaking, I'm willing to fight!"

"I never quit in my life!" Harry straightened in his chair and his mustache stuck forth pugnaciously. Mother Howard looked down at him, pressed her lips, then smiled.

"No," she announced, "except to run away like a whipped pup after you'd gotten a poor lonely boarding-house keeper in love with you!"

"Mother Howard, I'll—"

But the laughing, gray-haired woman had scrambled through the doorway and slammed the door behind her, only to open it a second later and poke her head within.

"Needn't think because you can hold up a dance hall and get away with it, you can use cave-man stuff on me!" she admonished. And in that one sentence was all the conversation necessary regarding the charges against Harry, as far as Mother Howard was concerned. She didn't believe them, and Harry's face showed that the world had become bright and serene again. He swung his great arms as though to loosen the big muscles of his shoulders. He pecked at his mustache. Then he turned to Fairchild.

"Well," he asked, "what do we do? Go up to the mine—just like nothing 'ad ever happened?"

"Exactly. Wait until I change my clothes. Then we'll be ready to start. I'm not even going to dignify this letter by replying to it. And for one principal reason—"

He added—"that I think the Rodaines have something to do with it."

"Ow so?"

"I don't know. I'll be ready in a moment."

An hour later they entered the mouth of the Blue Poppy tunnel, once more to start the engines and to resume the pumping, meanwhile struggling back and forth with timbers from the mountain side, as they began the task of rehabilitating the tunnel where it had caved in just beyond the shaft.

Hour after hour they toiled, until the gray mists hung low over the mountain tops, until the shadows lengthened and twilight fell. The engines ceased their chugging, the coughing swirl of the dirty water as it came from the drift, far below, stopped. Slowly two weary men jogged down the rutty road to the narrow, winding highway which led through Kentucky gulch and into town.

That night Fairchild did not lie awake to stare about him in the darkness. His eyes closed wearily, yet with a wholesome fatigue. Nor did he wake until Harry was pounding on the door in the dawn of the morning.

Once more the pumps; once more the struggle against the heavy timbers; once more the "clunk" of the ax as it bit deep into wood, or the pounding of hammers as great spikes were driven into place. The timbering of the broken-down portion of the tunnel just behind the shaft had been repaired, and Harry flipped the sweat away from his broad forehead with an action of relief.

"Not that it does any particular good," he announced. "But it's room we'll need when we start working down below, and we might as well 'ave it fixed up—"

He ceased suddenly and ran to the pumps. A peculiar gurgling sound had come from the ends of the hose, and the flow depreciated greatly; instead of the steady gush of water, a slimy silt was coming out now, spraying and splattering about on the sides of the drainage ditch. Wildly Harry waved a monstrous paw.

"Shut 'em off!" he yelled to Fairchild in the dimness of the tunnel.

"Shut 'Em Off! It's Sucking the Muck Out of the Sump!"

"It's sucking the muck out of the sump! That means the 'ole drift is unwatered."

First Annual Potato Tour

Proved Interesting To Some 60 Charlevoix Co. Farmers.

The first annual Potato Tour was held in Charlevoix County last Monday and Tuesday, August 21st and 22nd. The tour, consisting of several autos was met at Ellsworth by the County Agricultural Agent, conducted to East Jordan where a very thorough investigation was made of the East Jordan Co-operative Association and all agreed that it was one of the finest institutions of the state.

From there the tour went to Steve Shepard's place, north of town, visiting his potato field and also his alfalfa field. A very unique demonstration was to be seen there, comparing the value of common and Grim alfalfa. This demonstration proved that everything was in favor of the Grim alfalfa. It is expected that this will be more noticeable as the two fields, which are side by side, grow older. It is generally noticed that the Grim is of a much higher vitality and has a greater staying power when once a good stand is established.

The next stop was at the County Farm where a very interesting demonstration had been conducted in the use of fertilizers. Of course, the actual results in yield per bushel cannot be obtained until after digging time, however, if tops are any criterion, as to the yield it can safely be said that the use of a good grade of commercial fertilizer is a mighty good investment.

The next stop was at Pete Karlskin's place, south of Advance, where he had used two different kinds of seed. At planting time there was a noticeable difference in this seed, and it is a great deal more apparent now than then. In the patch of the poor seed the writer observed that within a fifty foot radius, five of the most prominent potato diseases were very noticeable. Mr. Karlskin has some 25 or 30 acres in one piece and has every reason to expect a very nice crop.

The next stop was at the Breezy Point Farm, H. L. Barnum, Manager. Here a demonstration was to be seen on spraying and dusting. At this place there was no noticeable difference between the two methods of using the Bordeaux. The field was in an excellent condition and an asset to the tour.

Here the tour crossed the ferry, went down the west side of the lake to James Secord's place. At Mr. Secord's place an interesting demonstration in the nature of two different kinds of cover crops plowed under. Namely, rye and vetch and sweet clover. The complete results of this field will be available later.

The next stop was at Harry Behlings. Although Mr. Behling's patch is small, he has a field of perhaps the nicest top growth on the tour.

Tuesday morning the group left Boyne City at 7:00 o'clock and visited Otto Kunert's patch where he had a very interesting demonstration involving fall and spring plowing of a tinvthy sod. Here again the tops showed a decided difference in favor of fall plowing.

From Mr. Kunert's the tour went to Bert Lumley's where another fertilizer demonstration is being conducted, demonstrating the value of commercial fertilizer over nothing, also the value of commercial fertilizer when used with barnyard manure.

From Mr. Lumley's the tour was conducted to F. W. Dilworth's patch at Horton Bay. Mr. Dilworth has used dust entirely in his spray operations during the summer. Mr. Dilworth's potatoes were on new ground and the deductions made were that if dust is to be used where hoppers are a serious menace one must keep after them very diligently.

From Mr. Dilworth's the tour went to Eugene Stroud's place. Here a very decided check was noticeable of sprayed over unsprayed. Mr. Stroud has been using a high pressure sprayer and the results as far as tops are concerned at present, are very convincing proving that when hoppers are present, high pressure spraying certainly pays.

The next stop was at Floyd Bartholemew's. Here Mr. Bartholemew had a demonstration in high pressure spraying and dusting. It was the general opinion of those present that results were in favor of the high pressure spraying. The next stop was at Lee Sneathen's. Mr. Sneathen has started some very interesting work involving the use of U. S. grade No. 1 and cull seed. Aside from this, Mr. Sneathen has conducted a fertilizer demonstration, the result of which will prove very interesting at digging time. These two items of interest in connection with some hill-selected stock made a very interesting feature of the tour.

The writer wishes that every farmer in Charlevoix County growing potatoes whether certified or common table stock, might have been with us on this tour, as there were many demonstrations of various kinds which will prove to be of almost interest when the results are obtained at digging time. Not having seen these demonstrations growing in the field, one is apt to think that results are juggled to meet the desires of educators advocating better methods. It is the intention that the results of these demonstrations will be given considerable publicity, also a review of the cultural methods under which they were produced.

It was the general opinion of the 55 or 60 farmers on the trip that a similar tour be held next year, as this one proved very interesting to them. If a similar tour is held, a cordial and urgent invitation will be extended to all to participate.

Opportunities for Young Musicians

The young musicians of East Jordan and vicinity will be interested in the fact that Virginia French of Chicago, will be in this locality for a short time in the interests of the American School of Opera and the Clifford-French productions.

The American School of Opera is one of only two of its kind in the U. S. and is a practical school of experience with the definite purpose of training young musicians for the new field of light and grand opera in English. The work includes actual experience with the training and staging of professional companies. There is also a department for the training of young people interested in Lyceum and Chautauqua work. As all of the work leads to professional engagements it is only possible to accept such people as display sufficient talent.

Chas. T. H. Jones who is president of the American School of Opera is one of the best known stage directors and producers in the U. S. and some of the stars whom he has coached and brought out are DeWolf Hopper, Raymond Hitchcock, Gertrude Hoffman, Maggie Tate, Riccardo Martin, Digby Bell, Florence Easton and many others.

Miss French is always interested in finding new talent for the Clifford-French productions which cover the Field of Opera, Chautauqua, and Vaudeville. While here she will hold several auditions to hear young singers aspiring to professional careers. Her statement concerning the source of talent for the Clifford-French productions was very interesting as she says that the greatest number of stars and leading people have been found in the smaller communities.

Those wishing to arrange for auditions may do so by immediately addressing Virginia French at the Cushman Hotel, Petoskey. A frank and interesting opinion upon the possibilities one may have for professional work can be secured through a pleasant interview with Miss French.—Advertisement.

Mother's Cook Book

Today may be all that is mournful—Our paths cannot always be bright, But tomorrow we'll somehow take courage, And trustingly enter the light.

EVERY DAY DISHES

WE WELCOME foods that give variety without adding to the expense of living, which is high enough with the best of management.

Date Surprise Cookies.

Stone dates and stuff with whole almonds blanched. Roll out the cookie mixture very thin, cut in rounds and place a stuffed date in the center; sprinkle with sugar and lemon rind mixed; fold over the cookie and pinch the edges together. Bake in a hot oven.

Pear Bread Pudding.

Slice canned pears in very small pieces; add lemon rind and juice and place half of them in a pudding dish. Mix one tablespoonful of butter with one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of water and a pint of bread crumbs; spread all but a tablespoonful over the pears. Put more pears in the dish; add grated nutmeg and sprinkle with the tablespoonful of crumbs. Bake with a cover for an hour and a half, then remove the cover and brown. Serve with a hot sauce.

Fruit Meringue.

Beat the halves of canned fruit with a bit of lemon peel or candied ginger in the centers; cool and place on each a tablespoonful of meringue. Use the whites of two eggs and one-third of a cupful of sugar for the meringue.

Sandwich Piquant.

Take one cupful of new cabbage or cucumber chopped, one-half cupful of onion chopped, four tablespoonfuls of green pepper chopped, drain, add cayenne and seasonings and use on buttered bread.

Apple Pudding.

Cook one-half dozen apples until nearly done, unless of a variety which cooks quickly; place in a deep baking dish and cover with a rich biscuit dough made like a drop batter, leaving spaces for the steam to escape. A little cinnamon may be added, such as sugar, nutmeg and butter. Serve with a lemon sauce or with thickened apple juice or cider seasoned to taste.

Fried Apples.

Core good flavored apples and slice in half-inch slices. Into a frying pan put two tablespoonfuls of bacon fat, lay in the apples after sprinkling lightly with salt and sugar and brown on both sides. Serve with pork chops.

Rice and Asparagus Soup.

Wash the asparagus and cut off the tougher portions. Put the tips into a quart of well-seasoned broth and one cupful of water and cook until tender. Add one-half cupful of rice as soon as the broth and asparagus are boiling hot. Cook until very tender. This soup may be put through a sieve and is then ready to serve. Pass grated cheese with the soup.

EDISON'S QUESTIONS

A BACKGROUND of general knowledge is useful, and, in some measure necessary.

But storing up in your mind a mass of knowledge which can be found by ready reference to books, merely means overloading.

The young man who could answer all the questions Mr. Edison recently laid down as a test for applicants for positions, would be a young man with a very remarkable memory. But that would be all.

The fact that he could answer the questions would be no proof whatever of his ability.

Abraham Lincoln or Gladstone could not have answered a quarter of them—not even of those whose answers were known in his time.

Neither could many another man who has been of conspicuous service to the world.

There is so much to know in the world that no man with any purpose in life has time to know much of it.

If he knows, say, 75 per cent of all there is to know about his immediate profession, and has a fair amount of general information besides, he is a well-educated man.

But even well-educated men are not necessarily capable.

It is not what you put into your brain, but what you get out of it that counts.

A scrub cow eats twice as much as a Jersey or Guernsey, but she does not give half as good milk.

The processes of your brain do not depend on masses of information, but on the quality of the information, especially that of which applies particularly to your own business.

Mr. Edison's test would probably have barred from his institution Alexander Graham Bell, the Wright brothers, Lloyd George and Charles M. Schwab. But all these men did fairly well with the knowledge they had of their own lines of endeavor.

Your memory will be serviceable to you if you do not load it up with things that books can carry just as easily.

Read history; study languages if you can, get general information, but at the same time teach your mind to work. The general information will be pleasant to have and useful now and then. But the special information will be what wins the race for you.

Not What She Wanted.

An old lady who lived in the country went into town to buy some wall paper. The shop assistant was very obliging, and in pointing out the merits of the different rolls of paper he several times used the remark: "This is very artistic!"

The old lady stood it as long as she could.

"Lookee, young man," she said, "I have got to hang this paper myself. And do you think I'm fool enough to buy paper which is hard to stick?"

To Secretaries of Local Organizations

Why not let this newspaper save you labor?

Labor-saving devices are the modern methods.

They spell efficiency.

Why stay in the old rut?

This is what you have been doing for years—wasting your time and energy in sending out separate notices of meetings regarding your lodge to each member. This means that you have to address from 50 to 100 postal cards or envelopes in addition to preparing the notices for mailing out.

Why not put your notice in an advertisement under "Lodge Notices" in this paper? You could do it for $1.25 and save all that labor.

It's the modern way. It's the way most lodges are doing in the up-to-date communities.

What would be more interesting in this paper than a column or two of such notices? Your members would look for this feature in every issue. And then, think of the labor it would save you.

Just write out one notice and bring it to us. That's all. Simple, isn't it? You bet. Try it and you won't do it any other way.

We are here to serve you and ready to make suggestions.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR IT.
