E. J. High In Heavy Schedule

First Game With Petoskey Saturday. Team Green But Prospects Fair

Old East Jordan Hi will open its football schedule Saturday at Petoskey against one of the fastest teams in northern Michigan. When you look over the schedule you will admit that it is by far the heaviest one in the history of East Jordan. Nearly every contestant has had years of experience. We are not looking for any championship but we predict that every game will be worth the price of admission.

Although you will hear the boys and girls talking about football as though that was all we were doing, we are keeping our football distinctly as a secondary matter. Anyone who has any doubt about the statement inquire from some of the students about the attitude of the faculty on easing up their work for this fall sport. We mean to put a lot of pep into our work as well as our play. Many of the football fans will be interested to know who some of the men are that are showing up on the field. Since our first game is ahead of us it is very difficult to say, but Isador King, Eddie Streeter, Theodore Malpass, Almer Smith, Floyd Walker and Russell Johnson are showing a good deal of football ability. It looks very much now as though these men would make a place on the team.

One of the methods the Athletic Association will use to help support the schedule will be to get season tickets which will make it possible to have large side lines and a cheaper rate for the games. Then, as the games will all be played at the high school it will make it possible for all those interested to get there. If you are not a football fan learn how to be one. There is nothing that sets the blood tingling through your system as much as the good old American college and high school game—football. Let's have a real team before the season is over.

The following is the schedule and lineup for the Saturday game with Petoskey:

September 30, Petoskey, there; October 6, Onaway, there; October 13, Boyne City, here; October 18, Charlevoix, here; October 21, Harbor Springs, here; October 28, Traverse City, there; November 3, Onaway, here; November 11, Armistice Day, Cheboygan, here; with a Thanksgiving game in prospect.

The boys will likely go into the game Saturday with the following lineup:

L. E.	Stewart
L. T.	Calkins
L. G.	Bartholomew
C.	Vance
R. G.	LaClaire
R. T.	Walker
R. E.	Kling
Q.	Malpass
L. H.	Johnson
F.	Smith
R. H.	Streeter

Water Tax Notice.

Water tax for quarter ending Sept. 30th will be due Oct. 1st and payable at my office during the month of July.

After Oct. 30th, if the tax is unpaid, service will be discontinued. No notices will be sent.

G. E. BOSWELL,
City Treasurer.

HELPS TO STOP FLOW OF LIQUOR

Canada Places Agents in All Export Establishments.

Washington—The Canadian government is further co-operating with American authorities in stopping the flow of liquor into the United States has decided to place agents in all liquor export establishments in the dominion. Prohibition Commissioner Haynes has announced. The agents will endeavor to make sure that all liquor consignments from the export houses reach legitimate destinations.

Falls Through Window on Man.

New York—Falling from a second floor window of her home, at No. 247 East Fifty-seventh street, Miss Martha Barnes, 24, landed on the shoulders of Oliver Huber, of No. 427 East Fifty-seventh street, who was passing at that moment. Huber broke the young woman's fall and perhaps saved her from serious injury, but both were taken to Flower hospital suffering from contusions and lacerations. After being attended they were able to go to their homes.

THREE WOMEN AND 13 QUARTS WHISKEY IN CHARGE OF SHERIFF.

Sheriff Weaver took three women in charge last Tuesday night and at the same time a big Studebaker car, thirteen quarts of Canadian Imperial whiskey and various other articles. The Studebaker car carries an Ohio license, but one of the women in question, Mrs. Charlotte Dorkey claims River Rouge as her residence, one of the other women, Mary J. Foltz, claims Columbus, Wisconsin, as her home, while the third, Madeline Dellibaugh, says she is a citizen of Cleveland.

The chauffeur of the car, a man known locally as "Dutch," escaped, temporarily at least, and when last heard from was "going north," and at a rate of speed that demonstrated that he was bound for somewhere and in haste to reach his destination.

Members of the party have been touring this part of the state for some weeks and it is generally understood that their general headquarters has been Harbor Springs. The women are in charge of Sheriff Weaver who will hold them until Prosecutor Rueggel can take charge of the case.

Studebaker cars are all out of luck these past few days—one a complete wreck, one badly disfigured and now, one held on the charge of being a booze runner.—Charlevoix Sentinel.

McNEAL—SHEPARD

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. L. McNeal of Boyne City, Wednesday afternoon, when their eldest daughter, Amanda, became the bride of William A. Shepard of East Jordan, in the presence of the immediate members of the two families.

The couple were attended by the bride's sister, Miss Alice, as bridesmaid and Heston Shepard, brother of the groom as best man, little Betty Vogel, niece of the groom, carrying the wedding ring in the heart of a rose. The service was performed by the Rev. Thos. Marshall of East Jordan M. E. Church.

The bride was lovely in a gown of old blue canton crepe and carrying pink and white roses and tube roses, while Miss Alice wore blue crepe de chine and carried cerise roses.

As Miss Alice Dow at the piano played the Lohengrin Bridal March, the bridal party took their places at an improvised altar where they were met by the Rev. Marshall who very impressively performed the ring service.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepard are spending their honeymoon motoring through southern Michigan, where they will visit Bangor, Detroit, Lansing, Grand Ledge and Port Huron. They will be at home after Oct. 15th at Hillcrest farm near East Jordan.—Boyne Citizen.

U. S. FARMERS GO TO RUSSIA

Many Americans Already There And Settled On Farms.

Moscow—More than 500 American farmers will be in Russia by the end of the summer, settled permanently on the land. Two hundred and eighty-four already have arrived. Negotiations are under way with the representative of 10,000 farmers, and if these are successful there will be a great exodus from California of the Malakans, a group of Tolstoyan peasants who fled from Russia in the days of the Czar and now want to return.

FORD PLANTS ARE REOPENED

Manufacturing Resumed With Assurance of Fuel Supply.

Detroit—The Ford plants in Highland Park, River Rouge and Springwells resumed operations at midnight, September 22, and about 70,000 men who had been idle for nearly a week were notified to return to work.

Edsel B. Ford telegraphed orders to officials of the company from Cincinnati, after he had determined that sufficient coal supplies were moving to warrant continued operation.

Busy Father Becomes Citizen.

Grand Rapids—Sikke Jacob Westra, 72, wanted to become an American citizen when he was a young man. But the children kept coming so rapidly that he spent all the time he might have been studying in putting his offspring to bed. So he told Judge Leonard Verdier when he appeared for his final citizenship papers. After his 11 children had grown up and gone away Sikke Jacob took up studying and realized his dream shortly after becoming a great grandpa.

STELLA OWEN VAN ORDEN PASSED AWAY IN HAYTI OF MALARIAL FEVER.

Mrs. Stella Owen VanOrden, wife of Col. George Van Orden, passed away in Hayti, of malarial fever. The remains were brought to Lansing, Mich., where funeral services and interment were held Sept. 19th.

Besides the husband, she is survived by one son, George, who is attending St. Johns school at Manilus, N. Y. Mrs. Van Orden was a sister of Mrs. R. A. Risk of Muskegon, a former well-known East Jordan resident.

Col. Van Orden was a former East Jordan resident, his parents residing here. At the age of 10 years he was appointed to the Annapolis Navy School where he graduated and served his country ever since.

BOLSER—KROHKOWSKI.

Added feature occurred at Fair, Bride and groom married in Secretary's office. A feature which was not scheduled on the program of the Northwestern Michigan Fair, was staged in the Secretary's office, Thursday afternoon, Sept. 19th, when John Krohkowski, of Chicago, and Jessie Bolser of East Jordan were united in marriage.

The Judge of Probate, Fred H. Pratt performed the ceremony. The bride was attired in a blue silk gown and wore a long bridal veil, held in place by a wreath of white carnations, also carried a bouquet of the carnations.

Miss May Bolser, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and also was attired in a blue silk gown and carried a bouquet of carnations. Gaylord Hough of Grand Rapids acted as best man.—Taken from the Grand Traverse "City News."

OPERATORS AND MINERS TO MEET

CONFERENCE CALLED TO DEVISE NEW WAY FOR WAGE BARGAINING.

TRY TO AVOID ANOTHER STRIKE

Negotiate New Wage Scale Before Expiration of Present Agreement, April 1, 1923.

Cleveland, O.—An invitation to all bituminous operators of the United States to meet here October 2 with representatives of the United Mine Workers of America to devise an entirely new machinery of wage bargaining to replace that of the central competitive field which broke down prior to the recent national coal strike has been sent out from here. The main object of the conference, it was explained, is to prevent another coal strike next April 1. The conference also initiated an investigation of the industry concurrently with that carried on by the fact finding commission to be named by President Harding.

The call was signed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Thomas K. Maher, Cleveland coal operator, under authority given joint conference here last month, which subsequently resulted in the almost complete ending of the soft coal strike. Maher was chairman of this conference.

The invitation went to operators' associations and to important operators known to have signed the Cleveland agreement.

"It should be made plain," Maher said, "that all operators who signed the Cleveland agreement, or the supplementary contracts based on this agreement are expected, and cordially invited to attend. Notification through the press shall constitute notices of the meeting whether or not the operators or associations receive the invitations through the mail."

Several hundred operators are expected, Maher stated, from the soft coal fields in Ohio, Indiana, Western Pennsylvania, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and other trans-Mississippi states and part of central Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The agreement signed here last month by bituminous operators and unions provided that a meeting be called on October 2 to arrange for negotiating wage scales in the industry prior to the expiration of the present agreement April 1, 1923.

M. A. C. EXPERT TELLS HOW BEST TO BAKE THE CHIEF PETOSKEY POTATO

Michigan housewives who have paid out their good money each year for baking potatoes grown in Idaho and Colorado were not aware that Michigan is producing a spud almost as good and less expensive, according to J. W. Weston, of the Michigan Agricultural college, one of the leading tuber specialists in the state.

The Petoskey Golden Russet potato, if properly prepared, will bake up as mealy as the Idaho Rural or the Colorado Russet Brown Beauty. He states experiments have shown that by dipping Chief Petoskey potatoes in butter or grease before placing in the oven a coating is formed over the skin which remains intact until a higher temperature is obtained in the oven.

When the tuber cells finally burst the skin the heat is so intense it causes the interior to become snowy white and mealy like that of the Idaho spud, according to Mr. Weston.

RAY CANNON

Ray Cannon, attorney and former baseball player of Milwaukee, Wis., is bringing forth plans for a new union for baseball players. He hopes it will be recognized by the American Federation of Labor.

DYING MAN'S MESSAGE SAVED

Words Burned On Argonaut Shaft Preserved By State.

Sacramento, Cal.—The state industrial accident commission has been instructed to cut away and preserve that portion of the stone in the mine drift on which William Fessell burned with his lamp the only message left by the 47 miners who were victims of the tragedy at the Argonaut mine. Clarence E. Jarvis, member of the state board of control, said the stone would be kept by the state in memory of the victims.

The words written on the stone, Jarvis said, were: "Gas getting bad, 3 o'clock." Below the figure "4" had been burned and a portion of the letter "O." Fessell is believed to have succumbed to the gas at that point.

SMYRNA SURVIVORS SUFFERING

Pestilence Adds to Misery Periling 75,000 Population.

Smyrna—Though several days have passed since fire obliterated Smyrna, 75,000 survivors remain exposed on the quay, destitute, distracted and abandoned. No Allied vessel has offered to salvage this last wreckage of human life in the greatest disaster in Asia's history.

Dr. Wilfred Post, of New York, medical director of the Near East Relief, has urged the Turks to bury their dead to prevent pestilence. He also has appealed to them to vaccinate everyone, to guard against cholera and smallpox.

GUARDS ESCORT RACE PLANES

America's Latest Flying Craft in Self-ridge Field Meet.

Detroit—Many of the new racing airplanes being sent for the National Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Oct. Airplane Races which will be held at ber 12, 13th and 14th, are escorted by an armed guard. Approximately 150 of America's latest flying craft will participate in the contests. Several of the new planes have never been flown publicly, and their actual speed is unknown. Rumors emanating from the various airplane factories in which the planes were built reported that several of the planes had attained speeds in excess of 200 miles an hour.

EAST JORDAN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

School notes are edited by the Sophomore English class this semester.

Enrollment.

The enrollment of the High School has increased a few over that of last year. There were one hundred and fifty-nine last year, while there are one hundred and sixty-one this year. Four of those enrolled last year were only taking a commercial course, while all are taking the regular work this term. That makes an increase of six, and more pupils are expected later in the season.

Chapel

Thomas E. Gunson, Professor of Horticulture at M. A. C., while visiting in East Jordan gave a speech in Chapel, Wednesday, Sept. 20. His speech was very interesting as he has been abroad once for the Lansing Rotary Club and told some of his experiences. Prof. Gunson is one of the oldest Professors at M. A. C.

Freshmen

Fifty-one pupils have entered the ninth grade. Thirty-eight came from the eighth grade room of this city, two have moved here, and thirteen come in from the country because of the reputation of East Jordan schools. This is an enrollment of three more than last year's class.

At the Freshman class meeting held Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 26th, the following officers were elected:

President—Eva McBride.
Vice-President—Geraldine Little.
Secretary-Treasurer—Carl Wright.

New Football Field.

A new football field was laid out back of the schoolhouse, Friday, Sept. 22. It is one hundred and twenty yards long, a ten goal zone being allowed on each side of the goal posts. The posts are painted white and show up well, thanks to Mr. Gibbs, who, with his manual training students laid out the new field. The field is much better in quality as well as in convenience than was the old field at the Fair Grounds. This is a great help to the people of East Jordan as well as to the high school pupils, for no longer must they walk to see a "rattling good" game of football. The one thing needed to make the field as it should be is a wire fence surrounding it.

New Stereographs for School.

The school is expecting to get six hundred new stereographs to supplement the old ones that they have. The material covers new fields in South America, the later methods in industries, and more recent views of cities and the surrounding country. They will also show pictures of the new European countries, such as Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, and other places of interest. The grades and Junior and Senior High School will raise the money.

Geometry on the Football Field.

Last Wednesday, the first class of Geometry, taught by Mr. Snellenberger, went to measure the streams on the football field. Using two posts as the banks of the stream and with only stakes and cord, all the students were able to prove a line, constructed equal to the width of the stream. They also drew triangles and many other figures, equal, in the hard soil of the field.

Seniors Sell School Stationary.

A new type of stationary is being introduced by the Seniors. The paper is a high grade, having a gold monogram at the top of each sheet. Each box contains twenty-four sheets and twenty four envelopes. The price is unusually low, being only fifty cents a box. Orders are now being taken by the members of the Senior class.

New Readers for the Junior High

The seventh and eighth grades have begun studying their new Seanson and Martin Readers this week under the instruction of Mrs. Blount. Their note books will be made up of biographical sketches of the authors, whose selections they read. This work will be preparatory for their American Literature work later.

Manual Training.

Manual Training has become a very interesting subject. The beginning students are making necktie racks and broom holders, they are not allowed to use any power driven machines. The advanced students are making tapering legs and braces as in table corners, they use all the machinery necessary.

An accident occurred in the shop yesterday when Howard Snyder attempted to plane a short block of wood, the wood caught in the planer and flew back letting his fingers drop in and cutting off the ends of two.

English 10.

Current history is to be the topic of discussion for one day a week in English 10. Two people are assigned a certain topic of which they must read from magazines in the library. A bibliography is given the class together with a list of questions which touch upon the important phases of the topic under discussion. When the hour arrives, a week from the time the bibliography and questions have been given out, the two temporary teachers explain all the points they have gained from their reading and answer any questions the pupils do not understand.

Through this thorough discussion of the subject or from the reading he has done, each member of the class must be able to answer the questions assigned. The railroad strike and the coal strike have been discussed in this fashion. Ten copies of the Outlook, weekly, have been ordered which will enable each pupil to keep a notebook concerning all the important current topics. Monthly tests will of course include questions in this work.

In addition to this oral English study which makes a good foundation for debating, the class is studying newspaper writing as outlined by Erle E. Clippenger in "Written and Spoken English."

West Side News.

At present the enrollment of the West Side School is as follows:—Kindergarten, Miss Hayden, 24. First and second grades, Miss Blanding, 49. Third and fourth grades, Miss Larson, 33. Fifth and sixth grades, Miss Norton, 25.

There is an epidemic of measles and over half the school are absent. This hinders the teachers in giving the regular work, as most of it will have to be taught over when they return. The first and second graders, however seem to be progressing rapidly.

The first graders are learning to read from posters with pictures at the top, giving the children a good idea of what they are reading about. They have learned to count, to distinguish the colors, and learned the numbers. They are learning to add from cards which have figures on one side and answers on the back. The second graders have learned the combinations of the twos and threes.

Their room is prettily decorated with colored paper chains on the windows, and cunning pictures on the walls. They are also the proud possessors of a new clock.

Carrying Their Message.

While sitting on the steps one evening my little girl saw some horses coming from the sales stable labeled sold. She came running into the house, crying excitedly: "Mother! I just saw some horses going down the street with their tails wrapped in paper and a note on their backs!"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Prunes.

Sixty-four years ago Louis Peller, French immigrant, took with him to California from his native country two prune cuttings. These he planted on his brother's ranch near San Jose, thus beginning the prune industry in California. Today California produces an annual prune crop of 225,000,000 pounds.

Worth Remembering.

An ant is a wise creature for itself, but it is a shrewd thing in an orchard or garden. And certainly meth that are great lovers of themselves waste the public. Divide with reason between self-love and society; and be so true to yourself, as thou be not false to others, especially to thy king and country. It is a poor center of a man's actions, himself.—Francis Bacon.

Skiing in Summer.

Active glaciars, sand dunes, boiling springs, snow banks and ski slides that offer winter sports in summer are typical recreation delights of the Colorado Rockies.

It's toasted. This one extra process gives a delightful quality that can not be duplicated

PENINSULAR

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

The Good Road from the Whiting house to the Sid Hayden place is receiving the fine gravel top dressing now which will greatly benefit it.

Three silo fillers working on the Peninsula at once, requires all the help that can be mustered.

Ray Loomis is filling his silo today. H. B. Russell who is employed on the road near Charlevoix spent Sunday with his father, grandpa Russell at Ridgeway.

Everybody is too busy this lovely weather to stay indoors to answer their phone calls so news items are hard to get.

All last week and so far this has been lovely weather and every man, woman and child is hurrying up the fall work.

Billy Morgan of Boyne City was calling on old friends on the Peninsula Tuesday evening.

There was quite a frost both Monday and Tuesday morning, but a fog kept it from doing any harm.

Mrs. Viana Curtis formerly a resident on the Fred Wurn place, but now of Dallas, Texas, who was called to Boyne City to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Shaw some time ago, motored around the Peninsula last week Wednesday and called at her old home.

Charles Harbrecht of Boyne City is working for A. B. Nicoy on the farm.

Mrs. James Arnolt was confined to the house several days, with a severe attack of lumbago.

Mrs. Mercy Woerful was confined to her bed several days last week with a severe attack of asthma.

Mr. Al. Brooks of East Jordan is doing the carpenter work on the addition of A. Reich's house.

Surveyor Robinson of Boyne Falls was working again on the Hayden Point, good road last week. He reports some one went to the trouble of pulling up the grade which he had set. It took a whole day to reset them.

A. B. Nicoy filled his new cement silo Monday and Tuesday forenoon.

F. D. Russell is filling his silo. The Pickle Station closed Saturday, Sept. 23. There are still some untouched by the frosts but the rot is getting bad.

Ted Aldred of Petoskey spent Sunday at Orchard Hill the guest of Sam Archie Hayden. They both attended church in Petoskey Monday morning.

The Co-Op's are loading cars both at East Jordan and Boyne City with Wolf-river apples for shipment and everybody has any are hurrying them to market.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Phillips are picking their Wolf River apples this week.

SCHOOL DAYS

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

HOW THEY DO IT

SPENDING your days addressing to the world at large the question: "How do they do it?" is not going to bring you any information.

You will see in your travels the banker, the railroad president, the painter, the author—all respected, all useful, all getting a great deal out of a life that they have, each in their own way, made easier for others.

You will read, perhaps, that this man started on a farm, that the other began as an office boy, that the railroad president once wiped engines on the line which he now rules.

And if you are normal the question "How do they do it?" will occur to you very frequently.

For these men will look much like other men; they will talk like other men. They will have the same interest in baseball scores and the outcome of a big prize fight.

And it will be difficult for you to understand just what it was that placed them in the high positions they occupy, and kept them there.

The answer to your question is fortunately not inaccessible. You can find out how they do it, if you try.

Nearly all of them have written, or will write, exactly how they did it, or if they do not they will tell others who will put it on paper for you to see.

And you will be very much surprised to discover that in most cases the one thing that did it was application and industry—in other words hard work.

Geniuses are men apart. They don't know how they do it, and they can't tell.

But successful business men and lawyers and doctors are not geniuses. They are merely men with good natural ability, and enough energy to keep working till they get what they are after.

Study and read their biographies wherever you find them. They will answer for you a very important question. And if they can help you just a little toward exerting more energy and cherishing a little higher purpose, the time you spend in reading about them will be paid for at the rate of many thousand dollars an hour.

YOUR HAND How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

A BUSINESS PERSON'S HAND

IN THE hand of a good man or woman of business the fingers are well opened, when held naturally, this showing versatility and self-confidence. The mount of Mars, which lies below the mount of Mercury (the latter is at the base of the little finger), should be strong and well-marked, because this indicates courage and willingness to take risks when necessary.

An exceptionally favorable sign for a man or woman of business is a tripod, or three-pronged division of the line of fate at its end. The line of fate runs up the center of the hand. This sign shows great success in business. If the finger of Mercury is unusually long, in proportion to the other fingers, it shows acquisitiveness and care of money, and is therefore a good sign for a business person. If there is a short line running upward from the line of life to or toward the finger of Jupiter, which is the index or first finger, it is a sign of ambition that is or will be gratified. Last, look in the center of the palm for a triangle that is well formed. This indicates forethought and intuition, valuable qualities in business.

TODAY

DON'T waste time in sighing
For old days;
Don't waste time in crying
For old ways.
Better days than yesterday
Leave no time for sorrow;
On them better fix your gaze—
Today and tomorrow.

Don't waste time in fretting
For lost hours;
Don't waste time regretting
The lost flowers.
Better hours are growing
Thin memory can borrow;
Sweeter flowers are blowing
Today and tomorrow.

Don't waste time repining
Over bad days;
Don't waste time declining
The good ways.
Smile and look around you,
And new courage borrow;
Better days surround you—

VARIATIONS OF STANDARD SALAD DRESSINGS.

MAYONNAISE dressing should be thick like whipped cream, and remain so for a long time, if kept in a cool place. Olive oil is by far the most tasty to use in making mayonnaise, but corn oil makes a very good substitute, and as far as appearance is concerned, is equally as good. To vary mayonnaise—add to three-fourths of a cupful two tablespoonfuls of tomato puree; this is tomato soaked down until very thick and put through a sieve.

Piquante mayonnaise—add two tablespoonfuls of chopped olives and pickles.

Cream mayonnaise is prepared by adding three or four tablespoonfuls of whipped cream to three-fourths of a cupful of mayonnaise.

Chutney mayonnaise—add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of chutney. Comely mayonnaise—add one-half cupful of cold boiled rice.

Thousand Isle dressing—to one cupful of mayonnaise add one-half cupful of salad oil, very slowly; one tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar, one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika, one-fourth teaspoonful of chopped chives, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one tablespoonful of green peppers, chopped; and one-third of a cupful of chili sauce.

Russian dressing—to one cupful of mayonnaise add three tablespoonfuls of chili sauce, two tablespoonfuls of plumbeo cut in small pieces, one tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar, one teaspoonful of chopped chives and three-fourths of a tablespoonful of worcestershire sauce.

Fig Filling.
Cook one cupful of chopped figs in one-half cupful of water, the juice of a lemon and when cool stir in powdered sugar until thick. Use on layer cake.

Lemon Filling.
Roll together five minutes one cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of melted butter, one-half cupful of water and the juice of two lemons. Add two well-beaten eggs. Beat well; cool before using.

NO MORE BACKACHE FOR HER

What Stevenson Thought of Music. Robert Louis Stevenson said: "I make a home out of a household, given the raw material—to wit: a wife, children, a friend or two, and a house—two things are necessary. These are a good fire and good music. And inasmuch as we can do without the fire for half the year, I may say music is the one essential."

Mrs. J. M. Gaskill, Etna Green, Ind., writes: "I suffered from severe backache and sharp pains. I could not stoop over. Foley Kidney Pills gave me such relief that I can not praise them too highly." This standard remedy for kidney trouble and bladder ailments can be taken with absolute safety.—Hite's Drug Store.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

Bay City—George H. Randall, Sr., well known retired lumberman, was found dead in his bed at the Imperial hotel. Coroner H. M. Simon decided death was due to natural causes.

Kalamazoo—William Ritchey, 60, who escaped from the Kalamazoo Hospital for the Insane, later hanged himself on a tree south of the hospital grounds. A posse was searching for him when his body was discovered.

Bay City—T. M. O'Brien was named receiver for Meagher brothers, in an action started before Judge S. G. Houghton by the stockholders, asking dissolution of the corporation. The concern deals in ice, fuel and butchers' supplies.

Cadillac—Names of all Wexford county men who died in service during the World War are wanted by the Cadillac post of the American Legion for a memorial tablet to be presented Armistice day by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Ann Arbor—Miss Sarah A. Hall, oldest daughter of Arthur A. Hall, registrar of the U. of M., has accepted the position of Chief actuary of the Ladies of the Maccabees, in the head office of the organization, at Port Huron. She will begin her duties on October 1.

Saginaw—T. Leo Jones, Michigan district president of the United Mine Workers of America, has resigned to go on a vaudeville tour with a local orchestra, in which he plays a saxophone. He has been succeeded by George Toskey, St. Charles, district vice-president.

River Rouge—River Rouge will soon be a signless city. A resolution was passed by the city commission ordering that no billboards could be erected and that those already in use must be taken down by January 1, 1923. The commission declared that the billboards destroyed the beauty of the city.

Mears—A broken arm and other injuries are not preventing Swift Lathers, editor of the Mears News, from publishing his weekly newspaper. The newspaper is being edited from a room in the Paulina Stearns Hospital at Ludington, where Lathers was taken after the truck on which he was riding upset.

Saginaw—When Dr. Ralph S. Jiroch saw flames in the basement of the home of Miss Agnes B. Muir, an invalid, he jumped from his automobile, rushed into the house and carried Miss Muir, who was one of his patients, to a place of safety, before she was overcome by the dense smoke. Firemen were compelled to use gas masks to fight the fire.

Saginaw—Resumption of service on the Saginaw street car lines, which have been idle more than a year, is asked in initiatory petitions circulated here by the Saginaw Auto Dealers' association. It asks that Otto Schupp, trustee, representing holders of first mortgage bonds, be permitted to operate the lines at a fare of 10 cents for a single ride, or 20 rides for a dollar.

Charlotte—Miss Minnie Mills, educated in Olivet College and a missionary in Smyrna when that city recently was destroyed by fire, escaped from that port while hundreds of others were being killed by the Turks. Word of her safety came in a cablegram to her sister, Mrs. Abbie Thomas, of Charlotte. Miss Mills, the cablegram stated, now is quartered in a Girls' School in Athens.

Mt. Clemens—Unable to furnish $10,000 bail, Fred "Pug" Hamilton, charged with criminal assault upon Rose Connolly, a Detroit girl, was lodged in the county jail. He was arraigned before Justice William J. Dussa, waived examination and was bound over to the next term of circuit court. Detroit authorities are aiding local officers in tracing Hamilton's police record.

Ionia—Suit for $10,000 has been started against the Ionia Free Fair association by Ernest Thornton by his next friend as a result of the fireworks explosion in which he lost part of his right hand. Thornton obtained fireworks from the grounds which he carried home. They exploded on the way tearing his hand to pieces and a hole in his throat. The throat has healed and all that is left of the hand is the thumb and little finger.

Marquette—Appointment of a commission of physicians to determine the mental condition of Arthur "Cypri" Bob Harper, Jasper Perry and Charles Roberts, Marquette prison inmates, charged with the murder of Fred C. Menhennit, deputy warden at the Marquette branch prison, who died as a result of knife wounds alleged to have been inflicted by them during the fight in the prison chapel, December 11, 1921, will be petitioned for in circuit court.

Flint—A warrant was issued in justice court charging Joseph Morrow, alderman from the First Ward, with defrauding the city of $50. According to the complaint, Morrow, on July 1, sold gravel pit equipment owned by the city for $800, received a check for $125 and $50 in cash. It is alleged that he reported to the council that the equipment brought only $850. The warrant grows out of a John Doe investigation started here by Circuit Judge F. W. Brennan and Harry Galt, prosecuting attorney. Morrow denied the charges.

Houghton—Announcement was made of a wage increase by the Copper Range Consolidated, averaging 15 per cent for all employees of the Champion, Baltic and Trimount, tain mines and stamp mills.

Ionia—Henry J. Cook, the oldest employe in point of service at the Michigan Reformatory, has resigned as record clerk. He is the Democratic nominee for sheriff. Mr. Cook has been employed at the reformatory 31 years.

Muskegon—John C. Beukema, former Muskegon newspaper man and for the last five years secretary of the Manistee Chamber of Commerce, has been named secretary-manager of the Muskegon chamber to succeed James B. Coak.

Lansing—Assistant Attorney O. L. Smith, was appointed by Attorney General Merin Wiley, to represent the office in prosecution of the scores of communists awaiting trial on a charge of criminal syndicalism in Berrien county.

Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids furniture manufacturers are protesting individually and through their organization, the Furniture Manufacturers Association, against the proposed 10 per cent duty on mahogany and other cabinet woods in the log.

Byron—The Byron council has decided to allow pool rooms to operate in this village this year. A motion that all applications for license be rejected lost when H. C. Seaman, village president, broke a tie vote with his vote in favor of the pool rooms.

Grand Haven—Marie Donnelly, of Dallas, Tex., and Harry Schafer, of Muskegon, were arrested by Sheriff Portney, at the Ottawa County Fair, at Holland, for selling "moonshine" at a booth where they advertised spark plugs for sale. The sheriff seized 23 bottles of "hootch."

Eaton Rapids—M. D. Crawford, local banker, has a freak in the grape vine, two vines, a Concord (purple) and a Niagara (green) growing side by side. In some manner a bunch from each vine became entangled with the result that they have developed and grown firmly together.

Crystal Falls—Iron county has purchased from the owners the Indian burying ground adjoining the old Indian village site at Chicago lake. It has been tidied up, the houses over the graves rebuilt where they were found to be in decay, and the tract dedicated to the use of the public.

River Rouge—James Peterson, of this city, was the victim of the first hunting accident in this vicinity this season. The accidental discharge of his companion's shotgun caused a flesh wound and the loss of blood caused his death before physicians arrived. Peterson was a former aviator in the Army.

Big Rapids—Thomas Shaw, 80 years old, only living brother of Anna Howard Shaw, died here after a long illness. Sixty-seven years ago he came to the county, but afterward lived at Northville and in Black Hills, S. D. He was chief bugler in General Custer's brigade, in the Civil war. He leaves his widow and a daughter by first marriage.

Muskegon—Adam Strohm, Detroit librarian, has written Muskegon county officers expressing his appreciation for having been stopped for speeding in Muskegon County a few weeks ago. Mr. Strohm says he believes the Muskegon system of stopping tourists and warning them when violating the law will cause people to become more considerate in the future.

Lansing—Joseph G. Gourlay, a teacher at the West Junior High School who eloped last June with a 14-year-old girl pupil, was sentenced by Judge Leland W. Carr, in the Ingham Circuit Court, to serve from five to 10 years in the Michigan State Prison at Jackson. Gourlay, 42 years old, married and father of three children, pleaded guilty to a statutory offense. In his own defense he declared the girl had told him that she was 18 years old.

Pontiac—Pontiac firemen have a new task. In addition to their regular duties at the fire halls where they work every other 24 hours, they have been asked by Chief Frank Kuhn to devote some of their spare time to an inspection of the business places and homes with the idea of eliminating fires. The firemen will look for the hazards which are unnecessary and will suggest the removal of inflammable materials from basements or wherever they are discovered.

Grand Rapids—The Kent county road commission has received from Philip B. Osgrove, of Hastings, president of the Michigan State Good Roads Association, approval of the dates, November 21, 22 and 23, for the annual convention of the organization to be held here. It had been proposed that the convention should be postponed until next spring. Sessions will be held at the Coliseum, where one of the largest exhibits of road machinery ever shown in the state will be on display.

Ann Arbor—For the student who plans to enter the University of Michigan this year equipped with an automobile and intends to stage gay parties in it, there awaits a great surprise in the form of a city ordinance which has just gone into effect. It aims directly at the driver of the automobile. The ordinance reads: No more than two persons shall occupy the front seat of an automobile, except that a child under 10 be the third person. And no person shall be seated in the lap of the driver, nor shall the driver sit in the lap of another.

Where Extra Service is Demanded Firestone Cords Predominate

WHEREVER the exacting and tests of tires are most severe—there you will find Firestone Cords in universal use.

The hard jobs seek Firestone. And so well has Firestone responded under difficult conditions—so consistently has mileage mounted to totals impossible to obtain from ordinary tires that today Most Miles per Dollar is the buying slogan of thinking motorists everywhere.

The blending and tempering of rubber, gum-dipped cord construction, air-bag cure—all these mileage methods have been developed by men whose life work is the production of constantly increasing tire values for the public.

Users in this vicinity verify Firestone reputation, and report almost daily some new Firestone record of extra distance travelled.

Don't be satisfied to buy tires—buy values—the longest mileage at the lowest price consistent with such reliable performance.

Make Most Miles per Dollar your principle of tire economy—choose your next tire on that basis.

Studebaker LIGHT-SIX CLOSED CARS

COUPE-ROADSTER $1225
SEDAN $1550

Present prices are the lowest at which Studebaker Light-Six closed cars have ever been sold. Yet the intrinsic value are emphatically the greatest Studebaker ever offered. This means they are the best values that the industry affords, because Studebaker cars have always been above par in the amount of value per dollar invested.

Capacity production and the savings resulting from Studebaker methods of complete manufacture make these low prices possible.

Light-Six closed cars are sturdily built of finest materials and best workmanship. The bodies are the product of Studebaker skill and craftsmanship, and the prices of $1550 for the Sedan and $1225 for the Coupe-Roadster are no index to their inherent value.

"Very good," Mr. Barnham raised a fat hand and wheezed in an effort at intense enjoyment of the reply. "So I have. I merely asked that to be asking. Now, to be serious, haven't you some enemies, Mr. Fairchild?"

"Have I?"

"I was merely asking."

"And I judged from your question that you seemed to know."

"So I do. And one friend." Barnham pursed his heavy lips and nodded in an authoritative manner. "One very, very good friend."

"I was hoping that I had more than that."

"Ah, perhaps so. But I speak only from what I know. There is one person who is very anxious about your welfare."

"So?"

"Well, isn't that?"

Fairchild squared away from the table.

"Mr. Barnham," came coldly; the inherent distrust for the greasy, uninviting individual having asserted to the surface. "You wired me that you had some very important news for me. Now that I'm here, your mission seems to be wholly taken up in drawing from me any information that I happen to possess about myself. Plainly and frankly, I don't like it; and I don't like you—and unless you can produce a great deal more than you have already, I'll have to chalk up the expense to a piece of bad judgment and go on about my business."

He started to rise, and Barnham scrambled to his feet.

"Please don't," he begged, thrusting forth a fat hand, "please, please don't. This is a very important matter. One—one has to be careful in going about a thing as important as this. The person is in a very peculiar position."

"But I'm tired of the way you beat around the bush. As I told you before, I don't like it—and I'm just about at the point where I don't care what information you have."

"But just be patient a moment—I'm coming to it. Suppose—" then he cupped his hands and stared hard at the ceiling. "Suppose that I told you that there was some one who was willing to see you through all your troubles, who had arranged everything for you, and all you had to do would be to say the word to find yourself in the midst of comfort and riches?"

Fairchild blinked in surprise at this and sank back into his chair. Finally he laughed uneasily and puffed again on the dubious cigar.

"I'd say," came finally, "that there isn't any such animal."

"But there is. She has—" Then he stopped, as though to cover the slip, Fairchild leaned forward.

"She?"

Mr. Barnham gave the appearance of a very flustered man.

"My tongue got away from me; I shouldn't have said it. I really shouldn't have said it. If she ever finds it out, it will mean trouble for me. But truly," and he beamed, "you are such a tough customer to deal with and so suspicious—no offense meant, of course—that I really was forced to it. I—feel sure she will forgive me."

"Whom do you mean by 'she'?"

Mr. Barnham smiled in a knowing manner.

"You and I both know," came his cryptic answer. "She is your one great, good friend. She thinks a great deal of you, and you have done several things to cause that admiration. Now, Mr. Fairchild, coming to the point, suppose she should point a way out of your troubles? In the first place, you and your partner are in very great difficulties."

"Are we?" Fairchild said sarcastically.

"Indeed you are, and there is no need of attempting to conceal the fact. Your friend, whose name must remain a secret, does not love you—don't ever think that—but—"

Then he hesitated as though to watch the effect on Fairchild's face. There was none; Robert had masked it. In time the words went on: "But she does think enough of you to want to make you happy. She has recently done a thing which gives her a great deal of power in one direction. In another, she has connections who possess vast money powers and who are looking for an opening here in the West. Now—" he made a church steeple out of his fingers and leaned back in his chair, staring vacuously at the ceiling. "If you will say the word and do a thing which will relieve her of a great deal of embarrassment, I am sure that she can so arrange things that life will be very easy for you henceforth."

"I'm becoming interested."

"In the first place, she is engaged to be married to a very fine young man. You, of course, may say differently, and I do not know—I am only taking her word for it. But—if I understand it, your presence in Ohadi has caused a few disagreements between them and—well, you know how willful and headstrong girls will be. I believe she has committed a few—er—indiscretions with you."

"That's a lie!" Fairchild's temper got away from him and his fist banged on the table. "That's a lie and you know it!"

"Pardon me—er—pardon me! I made use of a word that can have many meanings, and I am sure that in using it, I didn't place the same construction that you did in hearing it. But let that pass. I apologize. What I should have said was that, if you will pardon me, she used you, as young women will do, as a foil against her dance in a time of petty quarreling between them. Is that plain?"

It was too plain to Fairchild. It hurt. But he nodded his head and the other man went on.

"Now the thing has progressed to a place where you may be—well—what one might call the thorn in the side of their happiness. You are the 'other man,' as it were, to cause quarrels and that sort of thing. And she feels that she has not done rightly by you, and, through her friendship and a desire to see peace all around, believes she can arrange matters to suit all concerned. To be plain and blunt, Mr. Fairchild, you are not in an enviable position. I said that I had information for you, and I'm going to give it. You are trying to work a mine. That demands capital. You haven't got it and there is no way for you to procure it. Your partner now is accused of four crimes and will go to jail on them in the fall. It is almost certain that he will be convicted on at least one of the charges. That would mean that the deeds to the mine must remain in jurisdiction of the court in lieu of a cash bond while the case goes to the Supreme court. Otherwise, you must yield over your partner to go to jail. In either event, the result would not be satisfactory. For yourself, I dare say that a person whose father is supposed to have committed a murder—n't that I say he did it, understand—hardly could establish sufficient standing to borrow the money to proceed on an undertaking which requires capital. Therefore, I should say that you were in somewhat of a predicament. Now—"

A long wait and then, "please take this as only coming from a spokesman: My client is in a position to use her good offices to change the viewpoint of the man who is the chief witness against your partner. She also is in a position to use those same good offices in another direction, so that there might never be a grand jury investigation of the finding of a certain body or skeleton, or something of the kind, in your mine—which, if you will remember, brought about a very disagreeable situation. And through her very good connections in another way, she is able to relieve you of all your financial embarrassments and procure for you from a certain Eastern syndicate, the members of which I am not at liberty to name, an offer of $200,000 for your mine. All that is necessary for you to do is to say the word."

Fairchild leaned forward.

"And of course," he said caustically, "the name of this mysterious feminine friend must be a secret?"

"Certainly. No mention of this transaction must be made to her directly, or indirectly. Those are my specific instructions."

"Do you want my answer now?"

"At any time when you have given the matter sufficient thought."

"That's been accomplished already. And there's no need of waiting. I want to thank you exceedingly for your offer, and to tell you—that you can go straight to—"

And without looking back to see the result of his ultimatum, Fairchild rose, strode to the door, unlocked it, and stamped down the hall. He had taken snap judgment, but in his heart, he felt that he was right. What was more, he was as sure as he was sure of life itself that Anita Richmond had not arranged the interview and did not even know of it. One streaking name was flitting through Fairchild's brain and causing it to seethe with anger. Cleverly concealed though the plan might have been, nicely arranged and carefully planted, to Robert Fairchild it all stood out plainly and clearly—the Rodaines!

And yet why? That one little word halted Fairchild as he left the elevator. Why? What did they know about the Blue Poppy mine, when neither he nor Harry had any idea of what the future might hold for them there? That day in court Rodaine had said that the Blue Poppy mine was a good property and that it was worth every cent of the value which had been placed on it. How did he know? And why—?

Suppose that it had been Anita Richmond after all who had arranged this? It was logical in a way. Maurice Rodaine was the one man who could give direct evidence against Harry as the man who had held up the Old Times dance, and Anita now was engaged to marry him. Judge Richmond had been a friend of Thornton Fairchild; could it have been possible that this friendship might have entailed the telling of secrets which had not been related to anyone else? The matter of the finding of the skeleton could be handled easily, Fairchild saw, through Maurice Rodaine. One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maudering tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greasy, hand-rubbing hystery? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

The next day found him still striving to put the problem away from him as he went about the various errands outlined by Harry. A day after that, then the puffing, snorting, narrow-gauged train took him again through Clear Creek canon and back to Ohadi. The station was strangely deserted. Only the bawling bus man for the hotel, the station agent wrestling with a trunk or two—that was all. Fairchild looked about him in surprise, then approached the agent.

"What's happened?"

"A lot. From what I hear it's a strike that's going to put Ohadi on the map again."

"Who made it?"

"Don't know. Some fellow came running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere he was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their buttonholes, stuffed into their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild gritted his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine!

CHAPTER XIV

Had it been any one else, Fairchild would have shouted for happiness and joined the parade. As it was, he stood far to one side, a silent, grim figure, watching the miners and townspeople passing before him, leaping about in their happiness, calling to him the news that he did not want to hear.

The Silver Queen had "hit." The faith of Squint Rodaine, maintained through the years, had shown his perspicacity. It was there, he always had said it was there, and now the strike had been made at last, lead-silver ore, running as high as two hundred dollars a ton. It meant everything for Ohadi; it meant that mining would boom now, that soon the hills would be clustered with prospectors, and that the little town would blossom as a result of possessing one of the rich silver mines of the state.

Fairchild felt cheap. He felt defeated. He felt small and mean and not to be able to join the celebration. Squint and Maurice Rodaine possessed the Silver Queen; that they, of all persons, should be the fortunate ones was bitter and hard to accept. Why should they, of every one in Ohadi, be the lucky men to find a silver bonanza, that they might flaunt it before him, that they might increase their standing in the community, that they might raise themselves to a pedestal in the eyes of every one and thereby rally about them the whole town in any difficulty which might arise in the future? It hurt Fairchild, it sickened him. He saw now that his enemies were more powerful than ever. And for a moment he almost wished that he had yielded down there in Denver, that he had not given the ultimatum to the greasy Barnham, that he had accepted the offer—made him—and gone on, out of the fight forever.

Anita! What would it mean to her? Already engaged, already having given her answer to Maurice Rodaine, this now would be an added incentive for her to follow her promise. It would mean a possibility of further argument with her father, already too weak from illness to find the means of evading the insidious pleas of the two men who had taken his money and made him virtually their slave. The future looked black for Robert Fairchild. Slowly he walked past the happy, shouting crowd and turned up Kentucky gulch toward the ill-fated Blue Poppy.

The tunnel opening looked more forlorn than ever when he sighted it, a bleak, staring, single eye which seemed to brood over its own misfortune, a dead, hopeless thing which never had brought anything but disappointment. A choking came into Fairchild's throat. He entered the tunnel slowly, ploddingly; with lagging muscles he hauled up the bucket which told of Harry's presence below, then slowly lowered himself into the recesses of the shaft and to the drift leading to the stope, where only a few days before they had found that gaunt, whitened, haunting thing which had brought with it a new misfortune.

A light gleamed ahead, and the sound of a single jack hammering on the end of a drill could be heard. Fairchild called and went forward, to find Harry, grimy and sweating, pounding away at a narrow streak of black formation which centered in the top of the stope.

"It's the vein," he announced, after he had greeted Fairchild, "and it don't look like it's going to amount to much!"

"No?"

Harry withdrew the drill from the hole he was making and mopped his forehead.

"It ain't a world-beater," came disconsolately. "I doubt whether it'll run more'n twenty dollars to the ton, the wye smelting prices 'ave gone up! And there ain't much money in that. What 'appened in Denver?"

"Another frame-up by the Rodaines to get the mine away from us. It was a lawyer. He stalled that the offer had been made to us by, Miss Richmond."

"How much?"

"Two hundred thousand dollars and us to get out of all the troubles we are in."

"And you took it, of course?"

"I did not!"

"No?" Harry mopped his forehead again. "Well, maybe you're right. Maybe you're wrong. But whatever you did—well, that's just the thing I would 'ave done. Only—" and Harry was staring lugubriously at the vein above him, "it's going to take us a long time to get two hundred thousand dollars out of things the wye they stand now."

"But we're going to keep at it, Harry, sink or swim."

"You know it!"

"The Rodaines 'ave hit—maybe we can have some good luck too."

"The Rodaines?" Harry stared. "It what?"

"Two hundred dollar a ton ore!"

A long whistle. Then Harry, who had been balancing a single jack, preparatory to going back to his work, threw it aside and began to roll down his sleeves.

"We're going to 'ave a look at it."

"A look? What good would it be—?"

"A cat can look at a king," said Harry. "They can't arrest us for going up there like everybody else."

"But to go there and ask them to look at their riches—"

"There ain't no law against it!"

He reached for his carbide lamp, hooked to a small chink of the hanging wall, and then pulled his hat over his bulging forehead. Carefully he attempted to smooth his straying mustache, and falling, as always, gave up the job.

"I'd be 'appy just to look at it," he announced. "Come on. Let's forget 'oo they are and just be lookers-on."

Fairchild agreed against his will. Out of the shaft they went and on up the hill to where the townspeople again were gathering about the opening of the Silver Queen. A few were going in. Fairchild and Harry joined them.

A long walk, stooping most of the way, as the progress was made through the narrow, low-roofed tunnel; then a slight raise which traveled for a fair distance at an easy grade—at last to stop; and there before them, jammed between the rock, was the strike, a great, heavy streaking vein, nearly six feet wide, in which the ore stuck forth in tremendous chunks, embedded in a black background. Harry eyed it studiously.

"You can see the silver sticking out!" he announced at last. "It's wonderful—even if the Rodaines did do it. Come on, Boy, let's us get out of 'ere. I'll be getting the blind staggers if I stay much longer."

Fairchild accompanied him wordlessly. It was as though Fate had played a deliberate trick, that it might laugh at him. And as he walked along, he wondered more than ever about the mysterious telegram and the mysterious conversation of the greasy Barnham in Denver.

For once a ray of cheer came to him. The Rodaines had known of this strike long before he ever went to that office in Denver. They had waited long enough to have their assays made and had completed their first shipment to the smelter. There was no necessity that they buy the Blue Poppy mine. Therefore, was it simply another trick to break him, to lead him up to a point of high expectations, then, with a laugh at his dis- appointment, throw him down again? His shoulders straightened as they reached the outside air, and he moved close to Harry as he told him his conjectures. The Cornishman bobbed his head.

"I never thought of it that way!" he agreed. "But it could explain a lot of things. They want to beat us and they don't care 'ow. It 'urts a person to be disappointed. That's it. I always said you 'ad a good 'ead on you! That's it. Let's go back to the Blue Poppy."

Back they went, once more to descend the shaft, once more to follow the trail along the drift toward the opening of the stope. And there, where loose earth covered the place where a skeleton once had rested, Fairchild took off his coat and rolled up his sleeves.

"Harry," he said, with a new determination, "this vein doesn't look like much, and the mine looks worse. But if you're game, I'm game, and we'll work the thing until it breaks us."

"You've said it. If we 'it anything, fine and well—if we can turn out five thousand dollars' worth of stuff before the trial comes up, then we can sell 'it under the direction of the court, turn over that money for a cash bond, and get the deeds back. If we can't, and if the mine peters out, then we ain't lost anything but a lot of 'opes and 'time. But 'ere goes. We'll 'double-jack. I've got a big 'ammer 'ere. You 'old the drill for awhile and turn it, while I sling th' sledge. Then you take th' 'ammer and Lor' 'ave mercy on my 'ands if you miss."

Fairchild obeyed. Hour after hour they worked. Then, as the afternoon grew late, Harry disappeared far down the drift to return with a handful of greasy, candlelike things, wrapped in waxed paper.

"I knew that dynamite of yours couldn't be shipped in time, so I bought a little up 'ere," he explained, as he cut one of the sticks in two with a pocketknife and laid the pieces to one side. Then out came a coil of fuse, to be cut to its regular lengths and inserted in the copper-covered caps of fulminate of mercury, Harry showing his contempt for the dangerous things by crimping them about the fuse with his teeth, while Fairchild, sitting on a small pile of muck nearby, begged for caution. But Harry only grinned behind his big mustache and went on.

Out came his pocketknife again as he slit the waxed paper of the gelatinous sticks, then inserted the cap in the dynamite. One after another the charges were shoved into the holes, Harry tamping them into place with a steel rod. Instead of with the usual wooden affair, his mustache brushing his shoulder as he turned to explain the virtues of dynamite when handled by an expert.

"It's all in the wye you do it," he announced. "If you don't strike fire with a steel rod, it's fine."

"But if you do?"

"Oh, then!" Harry laughed. "Then it's flowers and a funeral—after they've finished picking you up."

One after another he pressed the dynamite charges tight into the drill holes and tamped them with muck wrapped in a newspaper that he dragged from his hip pocket. Then he lit the fuses from his lamp and stood a second in assurance that they all were spluttering.

"Now we run!" he announced, and they hurried, side by side, down the drift tunnel until they reached the shaft. "Far enough," said Harry.

A long moment of waiting. Then the earth quivered and a muffled, booming roar came from the distance. Harry stared at his carbide lamp.

"One," he announced. Then, "Two."

Three, four and five followed, all counted seriously, carefully by Harry. Finally they turned back along the drift toward the stope, the acrid odor of dynamite smoke cutting at their nostrils as they approached the spot where the explosions had occurred. There Harry stood in silent contemplation for a long time, holding his carbide over the pile of ore that had been torn from the vein above.

"It ain't much," came at last. "Not more'n 'arf a ton. We won't get rich at that rate. And besides—" he looked upward—"we ain't even going to be getting that pretty soon. It's pinching out."

THAT MORNING LAMENESS

If you are lame every morning and suffer urinary ills, there must be a cause. Often it's weak kidneys. To strengthen the weakened kidneys and avert more serious troubles, use Doan's Kidney Pills. You can rely on East Jordan testimony.

Mrs. Henry Ribble, Bridge St. says: "I wasn't in condition to do anything on account of a weak, sore back. When I straightened up from a stooping position terrible knife-like pains caught me in my back. For a time I didn't rest at all and was tired out. I became nervous and depressed and was often irritable. Black specks often appeared before me and I suffered from headaches. I saw in the paper how well Doan's Kidney Pills were liked, so I purchased a few boxes at Gidley & Mac's Drug Store and they cured me."

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally that Nobody can tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

APPLY SULPHUR ON YOUR ECZEMA SKIN

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It never fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble—Neutralizes acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad. Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

"Me!" Arrival.

Barbara had been named for her grandmother and an aunt in Wisconsin. On one occasion while visiting in the North, she saw her Aunt Barbara coming up the street. She ran gleefully into the house, exclaiming, "Oh, mother, mother, here comes my auntie me."

Ever Hopeful.

Following is a card received from my little sister up in the country on a vacation: "Dear Marlan: I am having a fine time. I arrived safe and hope to arrive the same way going home. Love from Gertrude."—Chicago Tribune.
