Co-op. Ass'n Ship Potatoes

Will Store 10,000 Bushels In Chicago.

The Steamer Missouri came into port Saturday night on its last trip of the year, and loaded a quantity of potatoes. The boat has come into East Jordan on its last three trips, for potatoes that the East Jordan Co-operative Association are shipping to Chicago for storage this winter. Altogether about ten thousand bushels were shipped by water on these last three trips of the steamer.

GOVERNOR ENDORSES SALE OF TB. CHRISTMAS SEALS

Shortening days, chilly nights, and falling leaves warn us of the approach of winter, and with winter comes the glad Christmas season, heralded by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association's annual sale of Christmas seals.

The proceeds of this sale will be used in the fight against the tuberculosis scourge and will gladden many a heart with the thought that someone does care.

The salesman receive no remuneration. Their work is a labor of love. "Buy Christmas seals and save human lives."

"Christmas seal your Christmas list."

Guide to Visitors.

A busy literary man tacked the following announcement on the door of his residence: "No admission except on business. No business transacted here." The legend on the back door was like unto it: "Please do not enter without knocking. Please do not knock."

BENJ. F. HARDY PASSED AWAY MONDAY LAST

Benj. Hardy passed away at the home of his mother in this city Monday afternoon, Dec. 4th, from pneumonia. Benjamin Franklin Hardy was born Sept. 7th, 1877, at Greenup, Kentucky. He came to East Jordan with his parents in 1882. In 1912 he was married to Miss Ida Reinhart.

Deceased is survived by his mother, Mrs. Trenvillia Hardy; his daughter Eva May; one brother, Edward Hardy of Gladstone; three sisters, Mrs. Joseph Durant of Gladstone, Mrs. James Highnote of this city and Mrs. Wm. Beardsley.

Funeral services were held from his late home Thursday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Henry Hulme. Interment at Sunset Hill.

SMITH CAPTAIN

Last Wednesday, the East Jordan High School Football team officially closed the season of 1922 by getting their annual picture and electing a captain for next year. The choice was a good one. For Elmer Smith is not only popular and a good fellow, but is a fighter as well as being a real football man. With such a leader, the first important step has been taken, to insure another successful season in 1923.

The local squad loses but four or five men. The schedule is largely completed for next year and will likely soon be announced. Now if we could have the first annual banquet for the team, and present their monogram. The season could be considered official and appropriately closed. Possibly the season will be reviewed next week.

East Jordan Study Club

The East Jordan Study Club met Tuesday December fifth at the home of Mrs. Charles Whittington. After the business meeting the program for the evening was in charge of the hostess, Mrs. Hite and Mrs. Baich gave piano solos. Mrs. Sherman and Mrs. Sloan reviewed the book "John Norton's Christmas Eve" which was enjoyed very much. A chapter from "The Birds' Xmas Carol" was dramatized by members of the club in costume. Those taking part were,

Miss Crowell.....Mrs. Ruggles
Mrs. Richardson.....Peter
Mrs. Lither.....Sarah Maude
Mrs. Ekstrom.....Cornelius
Miss Gregory.....Clem
Mrs. Hite.....Kitty
Mrs. Blossie.....Peoria

MICHIGAN'S NEW SENATOR APPOINTED BY GOVERNOR

SENATOR JAMES COUZENS

Detroit—James Couzens, who will resign as mayor of this city to accept Governor Groesbeck's appointment as United States Senator to succeed Senator Truman Newberry, resigned, is one of the men who was associated with Henry Ford in establishing the automobile industry. It was he who helped Mr. Ford to finance the Ford industry when it was in its infancy. He invested his own savings, said to have been less than $1,000 and retired in 1919 with a fortune, estimated at about $50,000,000. He was elected mayor of Detroit in 1919 and was the outstanding figure in the city's fight to acquire the street railway.

J. R. Colden Passes Away

Was Well-known Resident of This Region For Years

After a lingering illness of many months' duration, the final summons came to Dr. J. R. Colden last Sunday morning.

James R. Colden was born at Avoca, Mich., April 25th, 1865 and passed into rest December 3rd, 1922. Funeral services were held from his late home, Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 6th, J. C. Little officiating, and he was laid to rest in Lakeside Cemetery.

The spring of 1897 he came to East Jordan to live.

October 15th, 1900 he was united in marriage to Miss Nettie Ross. To this union were born seven children:—Hugh L., Inez, Doris, Annie, Helen, James Jr., and Glenn B., the oldest and youngest passing away in infancy.

Dr. Colden was an intense lover of animals, especially horses, and delighted in training and educating them, beyond the ordinary ways. It was a logical sequence to apply himself to the study of veterinary surgery; consecrating his life to the relief of his dumb friends, who instinctively recognized him as such. Rare, indeed, is the person who wins such universal love, as did Dr. Colden. In his home he was always a real "pal," entering into his children's lives on an even plane, whether rejoicing over some happy incident or mourning the loss of some four-footed chum.

Among his friends he was always a messenger of cheer, his keen Irish wit always ready to flash forth in anecdote or jest; his hands and heart always ready for service in any emergency, and, when he knew his earthly work was ended, he bade us "Good-bye" with the same happy smile and the assurance that "all is joy."

We can only say our lives are enriched by his memory and Heaven is the brighter for his presence there.

VETERAN CONGRESSMAN DEAD

Pneumonia Ends James R. Mann's 26 Years' Service in Congress.

Washington—Representative James R. Mann, of Illinois, died at his home here after a brief illness. Mr. Mann, who had served for a quarter of a century as a member of the house, was stricken a week ago, with pneumonia. With him at the end were Mrs. Mann and the physicians.

The outstanding features of his long career as a member of the house of representatives—extending over more than a quarter of a century—were absolute courage and independence and knowledge of legislation, pending and past. There was nothing too little to escape his eye, there was no man or measure he feared to attack.

Yet by his own direction, the record of his distinguished service was summed up in less than a line and a half of the Congressional Record: "Republican of Chicago; was born in 1856; was elected to the 55th and each succeeding congress."

SHIP SUBSIDY REACHES SENATE

House Votes 238 to 184 on Bill; 69 Republicans Bolt

Washington—The Administration Shipping Bill, around which was waged the most bitter partisan fight of the present Congress, was passed Nov. 29 by the House with 24 votes to spare. The final count was 208 to 184.

Sixty-nine Republicans broke away from their party organization and opposed the bill, while four Democrats supported it.

There never was much doubt about the result, but the margin by which it went through was much lower than estimates publicly given by most of the leaders. It was, however, just about what they figured on privately. In the face of threats to delay, if not to prevent, its passage by the Senate, the measure will go to the Senate Committee, which plans to accept it as passed and bring it on the floor of the senate for the final fight.

THREE IRISH REBELS EXECUTED

Free State Firing Squad Carries Out Death Sentences.

Dublin—Three Republican leaders were executed by a Free State firing squad. They are the first death sentences to be carried out since Erskine Childers was executed last week. They had been found guilty by a military tribunal of having in their possession arms for purposes of rebellion against the Free State government.

They had been captured in a raid upon a house at Oriel three weeks ago. Their trials were conducted secretly, and no one knew they had been sentenced to death until their executions were announced.

Mary MacSwiney Released.

Dublin—Miss Mary MacSwiney, who was released from Mountjoy Prison on the twenty-third day of her hunger strike, met her sister, Annie, in a private hospital in this city. Annie, weakened by several days of fasting outside the prison gates, collapsed when she saw her sister, but quickly recovered and was taken to another hospital on a stretcher. The order for Mary MacSwiney's release was issued by the provisional government to the military authorities.

Couzens Accepts Senatorial Seat

Detroit Mayor Will Succeed Senator Newberry.

Lansing—Mayor James Couzens of Detroit has accepted Governor Groesbeck's appointment as United States Senator, but he will retain the general management of the Detroit Municipal Street Railway system, as long as the new mayor and the street railway commission are agreeable.

Appointment of Mayor Couzens to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Truman H. Newberry was officially announced from Lansing and Governor Groesbeck later telephoned to the mayor at the Belmont hotel, New York. The mayor accepted the appointment over the telephone and will take the oath of office after arranging his affairs in Detroit.

In accepting the senatorial appointment in the face of protest from citizens who felt he still had work to do in Detroit, the mayor in a statement wired from New York, said: "There will always be problems confronting the fourth city. I will always be at their service in helping to solve them. If I felt in any way that Detroit would be inconvenienced by my appointment I would decline."

When asked his attitude toward the insurgent wing of the senate and his possible alignment, Mr. Couzens said:

"I have always been a Republican and will continue to be so, but I hope I may be considered a progressive one. My past activities in public office is the best guide as to what may be expected in the future."

"I hate compromise, but I know that not to compromise is stupid. Half a loaf is better than none. I shall let my conscience be my guide at Washington. I'm not the representative of any block or group and I do not purpose to tie myself to any faction of the senate in advance of each issue as it arises, and upon each issue I shall take my own stand. I do not represent labor as a group, I do not represent the farmers as a group, and that is not to say that I would not favor legislation beneficial to any of these, so long as the same legislation is beneficial to the nation."

"I want to thank his excellency, Governor Groesbeck, for the confidence placed in me. I hope that I may so conduct myself as to warrant a continuation of this confidence and the confidence of the people of Michigan."

In making the appointment, Governor Groesbeck let it be known that he had from the start favored a Detroit man for the post.

He declared he had no understanding with Mayor Couzens that the latter would sever all connection with city work, and that he saw no objection to him continuing an official connection with the street railway especially as that connection probably would be without salary.

"I want some one whose service has already been approved by the public and whose attitude would be profitable," the governor declared. "Couzens seems to be that man. I believe he will prove a strong figure in the senate and I think an arrangement might be made whereby he could continue to serve the city's street railway."

"There are no strings attached to the appointment. Mr. Couzens knows he may feel free to pursue any policy he desires in the senate. This applies also to patronage. I am not interested in the least. My advice will all ways be at his disposal, but he is a free agent."

3 DROWN IN LAKE ST. CLAIR

Small Boat Capsizes in Rough Sea; One Is Rescued.

Detroit—Swept into Lake St. Clair when their row boat filled with water and capsized in a rough sea, two Detroiters, one a woman, and a Macomb county man were drowned a few yards off the private dock of the recently constructed Lakeside Park club, opposite Blossom Heath Inn late Sunday afternoon. Charles J. Gildemeister, 4740 Field avenue, Detroit, a fourth member of the party, was rescued by Dan Thomas, a boats man living nearby, when he was attacked with cramps after swimming a few feet in the icy water.

The dead are:
Mrs. Margaret Sharpe, 46 years old Detroit, Courtney Smith, Mt. Clemens, a man known only as Emmett.

"Sweetheart."

It is not exactly known when or how this word came into use. The form was originally written in the form of two words, and it is found in literature as early as 1200.

EAST JORDAN MARINE AT BRAZILIAN FAIR

Washington, Dec. 5.—A voyage to South America, where he is visiting the Brazilian Centennial Fair, was recently made by Thomas Taylor of East Jordan, Mich., who as a member of the U. S. Marine guard on the battleship Nevada, recently reported lying at anchor in the harbor at Rio. His name appears on the official roster of Marines attached to that vessel.

Thomas, who is a son of William Taylor of East Jordan, joined the Marines at Detroit, December 2, 1919. For several months he was stationed in Santo Domingo. Later he was assigned to duty on the Nevada, and was aboard that vessel last August when it was selected to carry a special guard of Marines to Rio de Janeiro, where they are attending the Brazilian Fair.

While Taylor and several other Marines are members of the Nevada guard they have many opportunities to go ashore and view the fair or visit their Marine comrades who are encamped near the waterfront on one of Rio's most picturesque plazas.

In recent months the Nevada has been cruising about the waters near Rio, occasionally steaming to the seaport of Santos nearby. It is expected the Nevada will return from Rio some time this month, bringing back the special guard of Marines from the Fair.

TAX NOTICE.

Taxes of the City of East Jordan, levied for State, County, County Road and school purposes, are due and payable at my office over Hite's Drug Store on and after December 10th, 1922. If paid on or before January 10th, 1923, no collection fee will be added. Thereafter a charge of four per cent will be added.

G. E. BOSWELL,
City Treasurer.

RURAL CREDITS, SUBSIDY ON LIST

Transportation Revision Also to Get Attention of Session.

Washington—The following legislative program for the house during the remainder of the present congress, which expires March 4, has been agreed upon at a conference between President Harding and Republican Leader Mondell:

Ship subsidy bill. Annual appropriation bills. Rural credits legislation. Consideration of modifications of the Esch-Cummins transportation act.

The administration, Mr. Mondell said, recognizes there is a pressing need for rural credits legislation. Commercial banking institutions can only handle short time obligations based on actual values, while the farmer and stock man generally need longer credit, running from one to three years. Some new plan for providing this long term credit, the Republican leader declared is "not only desirable but essential."

TURKS BACK AT OLD HABITS

Execute 8 and Order American Orphanage to Move Out.

Paris—Eight executions are reported as having been carried out by order of the Turkish government at Angora. The men who were slain were charged with treason and included a former minister of justice and former military governor of Constantinople and a former director of the military section of the British police.

The Turkish authorities at Angora have served notice on the orphan caring division of the American Near East Relief that unless their 20,000 orphans are removed from Turkish jurisdiction within 10 days they will be "disposed of as the Turks see fit."

An Unusual Ohio Cricket.

The jumping bush cricket (Orcharis saltator) is found in small numbers throughout the southern half of Ohio, frequenting the undergrowth of dense woods, the thickets along the borders of streams and the shrubbery of orchards and yards.

Great Variety of Insects. There are over 2,000,000 different kinds of insects known to be now living on the earth.

GRANDCHILD HAD CROUPY COUGH

"My grandchild could get no relief whatever from a very bad croupy cough," writes Peter Landis, Meyersdale, Pa., "until I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar. Coughs, colds, croup, throat, chest and bronchial irritations quickly relieved with Foley's Honey and Tar.—Hite's Drug Store.

Western Respect for Women

The best story of the westerner's reverence for women, writes a correspondent of a London paper, "is concerned with the conclusion of a little fight with Indians. The latter got the best of it and the squaws arrived with stone hammers to finish off the wounded. As a squaw thus arrived was approaching a half-conscious victim his friend called out to him: "Look out, Bill, there's a lady coming."

Do They Turn it Off?

A little girl from Indianapolis with two older sisters visited Niagara Falls. After watching the volume of water pour over the American side of the falls several minutes she inquired: "Do they turn it off at night?" The girl probably had in mind the water at the Indiana Soldiers and Sailors' monument at Indianapolis, which pours over the stone work there and is turned off late each night. —Indianapolis News.

Found Ancient Coin.

A very ancient coin was kicked out of the ground by a ten-year-old boy at Meaford, England. The lad's toe came in contact with a battered and rusted silver match case, the lid being missing. When he lifted the case the boy noticed another shiny substance and picked up a silver coin the size of a ten-cent piece. On one side was the impress of a queen's head and on the other side the figures "1572." Apparently the coin is 350 years old.

After-Dinner Liquors.

The custom of drinking liquors after dinner was common in Scotland before it was in England. It was served in small glasses. Cherry brandy, lemon brandy, etc., was drunk by the ladies as well as the men.

USE OF CHRISTMAS STOCKING

Good St. Nicholas, Saint of Fourth Century of Christian Era, Founder of Custom.

CHRISTMAS stockings have come down to us from the good St. Nicholas, who was a saint of the fourth century of the Christian era and was born December 6, 342, in Lycia, Asia Minor. He was regarded as especially the patron saint of children, young girls and sailors. The Christmas stocking custom arose as follows:

It seems that St. Nicholas, who was the archbishop of Myra, lived in the same town with an impoverished nobleman who because he had no portions to give his daughters, and indeed no means with which to support them, was about to sell them into a life of sin. St. Nicholas, who was accustomed to dispense his large fortune in gifts of charity, resolved to rescue the young women. As he approached, their house wondering how he should proceed, the moon shone out and displayed an open window. Instantly St. Nicholas threw a purse of gold in at the window which, falling at the feet of the father of the girls, enabled him to portion his oldest daughter. The second time St. Nicholas visited the house he also was able to throw a purse of gold through an open window, thus providing for the portion of the second daughter. On the third visit the father, watching for his benefactor, cast himself at the feet of the saint and cried:

"Oh, St. Nicholas, servant of God, why seek to hide thyself?"

The saint made the father promise not to reveal his benefactions. From this habit of bestowing gifts in secret and under the cloak of night arose the practice of putting out shoes or stockings for the younger members of the family, so that the good saint would be able to fill them without being spied on. At one time it was the custom for young women pupils in convents on the even of Saint Nicholas to hang their new silk stockings on the door of the apartment of the abbess. They would also write notes calling the attention of the good St. Nicholas to their stockings. In the morning when the convent pupils who had not gone home for the holidays arose they invariably found their stockings filled with sweetmeats.

BE SURE GIFTS WILL PLEASE

In Making Same Articles for Friends It is Well to Be Sure of Appreciation.

WOMAN tells in recently published magazines how she has a "pillow Christmas" for the benefit of her many friends. She consulted the piece bag, and from it drew forth the materials for making any quantity of dainty sofa pillows, all destined for different friends. The cost of the materials was chiefly that spent for silk cords, for embroidery silk and for filling for the completed pillows. Nearly all the pillows were made by couching figures cut from contrasting materials on a chosen background, and the result was completed. The very same idea might also be carried into effect by the girl who loves to make dainty stockings. There never was a time when the prevailing styles offered such a dainty array of collars, and a box of assorted colors and kinds would be welcomed by any girl friend. There might be found in the piece bag all sorts of bits of silk and ribbon which could be fashioned into the daintiest of dressy stockings, as well as bits of lawn and percale which would do nicely for stockings for every day wear with cotton shirt waists. The gift of a box of stockings might be made valuable if the box itself was a thing of beauty, and this could be brought to pass by the girl who is expert with her needle. Giving the same sort of gift to a large number of people is perfectly proper if the gift is one which is calculated to please everybody. We've heard the story of a nice old lady who always made pin-cushions for all her nieces and mittens for all her nephews every year. It was said that her plan gave great pleasure to one person, the aunt. It's a good idea to be sure your gifts will be appreciated before you go into the wholesale manufacture of one style of article for many people.

Will We Dispense With the Lyceum Course in East Jordan?
TO SOME THIS MAY NOT SEEM A SERIOUS QUESTION, BUT IS IT?

(By Supt. A. J. Duncanson)

The heading of this article gives you a vivid hint of what may happen to our Lyceum Course. Above all other things, I want to be very frank in this article. Up to this time we have sold one hundred and five season tickets which is forty per cent of what sold last year, and is less than one-half the number we should sell in order to insure a continuation of our Lyceum Course. At best it is difficult for boys and girls of High School age to appeal to grown-ups in a business way. Yet that is the only means we have of selling these tickets. It is simply a business proposition and if East Jordan does not want a lecture course the High School is going to drop it. However we are not of that nature, that we are going to do it without a fight, for the writer knows full well the comment on any town the size of East Jordan who can not support a lyceum course.

Furthermore the writer knows just what it means to have high class entertainment for the young people of the city. It is very easy to stand aside and knock and tell how many boys and girls are on the streets and in the pool rooms, but it takes real boosting to provide entertainment for these same boys and girls that will give them a place to go. And it looks to me as it is a commentary on our interest in our young people to let our Lyceum Course go.

I understand as well as anyone just what the situation is financially. I am ever so sympathetic with the people who have perhaps lost thirty cents on every bushel of potatoes they have raised this year and all the rest. Yet all of us get and do many things that are not so valuable to ourselves and the city as a Lyceum Course. As for the next four numbers they absolutely need no apology for everyone is high class. J. Coates Lockhart and his Scotch Lassies are of the highest class. Then comes a fine impersonator in Mr. Crowell, Jan. 20th. After this we have the Southern Musical Company, and we close the Course April 3rd with the Chicago Lyceum Players.

We are making it possible for all those who have not purchased season tickets to buy a season ticket for the four numbers at $1.50 and for the High School and Grades at $1.00. The single admission for the Lockhart concert is fifty and seventy-five cents.

His steps were halted by Ladd's actions. The cowboy reined in his horse, listened a moment, then swung down out of the saddle. He raised a cautioning hand to the others, then slipped into the gloom and disappeared. Gale marked that the halt had been made in a ridged and cut-up pass between low mesas. To the right, up under the ledges some distance away, stood two square black objects, too uniform, he thought, to be rocks. While he was peering at them, uncertain what to think, the shrill whistle of a horse pealed out, to be followed by the rattling of hoofs on hard stone. Then a dog barked. At the same moment that Ladd hurriedly appeared in the road a light shone out and danced before one of the square black objects.

"Keep close an' don't make no noise," he whispered, and led his horse at right angles off the road. Gale followed, leading Mercedes' horse. As he turned he observed that Lash also had dismounted.

To keep closely at Ladd's heels without brushing the cactus or stumbling over rocks and depressions was a task Gale found impossible. It was no easy matter to lead a spirited horse through the dark, winding lanes walled by thorns. Dick saw that the travel was fast, but by no means noiseless. The pack animals at times crashed and ripped through the narrow places. It seemed to Gale that anyone within a mile could have heard these sounds.

Presently Ladd led out into a wider lane that appeared to run straight. The cowboy mounted his horse, and this convinced Gale that they had circled back to the road. The march proceeded then once more at a good, steady, silent walk. When Dick consulted his watch he was amazed to see the hour was still early. He asked Mercedes if she was cold, and she answered that she was, speaking especially of her feet, which were growing numb. Then she asked to be helped down to walk awhile. At first she was cold and lame, and accepted the helping hand Dick proffered. After a little, however, she recovered and went on without assistance. They had reached the summit of what was evidently a high ridge sloped with much greater steepness on the far side. It was only after a few more forward steps, however, that Dick could see down the slope. Then fall in view flashed a bright empyre around which clustered a group of dark figures. They were encamped in a wide arroyo, where horses could be seen grazing in black patches of grass between clusters of trees. A second look at the campers told Gale they were Mexicans. At this moment Lash came forward to join Ladd, and the two spent a long, uninterrupted moment studying the arroyo. A hoarse laugh, faint yet distinct, floated upon the cool wind.

"Well, Laddy, what 'r you makin' of that outfit?" inquired Lash, speaking softly.

"Same as any of them raider outfits," replied Ladd. "They're across the line for beef. But they'll run off any good stock. As boss thieves these rebels have got 'em all beat. That outfit is waitin' till it's late. Nothing to it but head south for the Rio Forlorn. It's on the border line, but it's country where these rebels ain't been yet."

"Senor, Chapparejos and I Are Not Strangers," She Said.

"It's a hike to Beldin's ranch. An' if we get there in daylight some Greaser will see the girl before Beldin can hide her. I'll get talked about. The news'll travel to Casita like sage balls before the wind."

"Shore we don't ride into Rio Forlorn in the daytime. Let's slip the packs, Jim. We can hide them off in the cactus an' come back after them. With the young man ridin' we—"

The whispering was interrupted by a loud ringing neigh that whistled up from the arroyo. One of the horses had scented the travelers on the ridge top. The indifference of the Mexicans changed to attention.

Ladd and Lash turned back and led the horses into the first opening on the south side of the road. The packs were slipped, securely tied and hidden in a mesquite clump. Ladd strapped a blanket around one of the horses. His next move was to take off his chaps.

"Gale, you're wearin' boots, an' by liftin' your feet you can beat the cactus," he whispered. "Just the—Miss Castaneda, she'll be torn all to pieces unless she puts these on. Please tell her—an' hurry."

Dick took the chaps, and, going up to Mercedes, he explained the situation. She laughed, evidently at his embarrassed earnestness, and slipped out of the saddle.

"Senor, chapparejos and I are not strangers," she said.

Deftly and promptly she equipped herself, and then Gale helped her into the saddle, called to her horse, and started off. Lash directed Gale to mount the other saddled horse and go next.

Dick had not ridden a hundred yards behind the trotting leaders before he had sundry painful encounters with reaching cactus arms. The horse missed these by a narrow margin. Dick's knees appeared to be in line, and it became necessary for him to lift them high and let his boots take the onslaught of the spikes.

Ladd pursued a zigzag course southward across the desert, trotting down the aisles, cantering in wide, bare patches, walking through the clumps of cañal. Gale became chilled to the bone, and his clothes were damp and cold. His knees smarted from the wounds of the poisoned thorns, and his right hand was either swollen stiff or too numb to move. Moreover, he was tired. Mercedes must be made of steel, he thought, to stand all that she had been subjected to and yet, when the stars were falling and dawn perhaps not far away, stay in the saddle.

So Dick Gale rode on, drowsier for each mile, and more and more giving the horse a choice of ground. Once when he, thinking to fight his weariness, raised his head, he saw that one of the horses in the lead was riderless. Ladd was carrying Mercedes.

It seemed that hours passed, though he knew only little time had elapsed, when once more he threw off the spell of weariness. He heard a dog bark. Tall trees lined the open lane down which he was riding. Presently in the gray gloom he saw low, square houses with flat roofs. Ladd rode on for perhaps a quarter of a mile, though it seemed interminably long to Dick. A grove of trees loomed dark in the gray of morning. Ladd entered it and was lost in the shade. Dick rode on among the trees. Presently he heard voices, and soon another house, low and flat like the others, but so long he could not see the further end, stood up blacker than the trees. As he dismounted, cramped and sore, he could scarcely stand. Lash came alongside. He spoke, and someone with a big, hearty voice replied to him. Then it seemed to Dick that he was led into blackness like pitch, where, presently, he felt blankets thrown on him, and then his drowsy faculties faded.

CHAPTER IV

Forlorn River.

When Dick opened his eyes a flood of golden sunshine streamed in at the open window under which he lay. His first thought was one of blank wonder as to where in the world he happened to be. The room was large, square, adobe-walled. It was littered with saddles, harness, blankets. The sight of huge dusty spurs, a gun belt with sheath and gun, and a pair of leather chaps bristling with broken cactus thorns recalled to Dick the cowboys, the ride, Mercedes, and the whole strange adventure that had brought him there.

He felt a dead weight of complete lassitude, and he did not want to move. A sudden pain in his hand caused him to hold it up. It was black and blue, swollen to almost twice its normal size, and stiff as a board. The knuckles were skinned and crusted with dry blood. Dick so-berlized that it was the worst-looking hand he had seen since football days, and that it would inconvenience him for some time.

The door at the far end of the room was open. Through it he saw poles of peeled wood upholding a porch roof, a bench, rose bushes in bloom, grass, and beyond these bright-green foliage of trees.

"He shone was sleepin' when I looked in an hour ago," said a voice that Dick recognized as Ladd's.

"Let him sleep," came the reply in deep, good-natured tones. "Mrs. B. says the girl's never moved. Must have been a tough ride for them both. Forty miles through cactus! Laddy, I'm right down glad to see you boys, and I'll do all I can for the young couple. But I'm doing some worryin' here; don't mistake me."

"About your stock?"

"I've got only a few head of cattle at the oasis now. I'm worryin' some, mostly about my horses. The U. S. is doing some worryin', too, don't mistake me. The rebels have worked west and north as far as Casita. Of course, my job is to keep tab on Chinese and Japs trying to get into the U. S. from Magdalena bay. But I'm supposed to patrol the border line. I'm going to hire some rangers. Now, I'm not so afraid of being shot up, though out in this lonely place there's danger of it; what I'm afraid of most is losing that bunch of horses. You know what those guerrilla Mexicans will do for horses. They're crazy on horse flesh. They know fine horses. So I don't sleep nights any more."

"Reckon me an' Jim might as well tie up with you for a spell, Beldin. We've been ridin' up an' down Arizona tryin' to keep out of sight of wire fences."

"Laddy, it's open enough around Forlorn River to satisfy even an old-time compuncher like you," laughed Beldin. "I'd take your stayin' on as some favor, don't mistake me. Perhaps I can persuade the young man Gale to take a job with me."

"That's shore likely. He said he had no money, no friends. An' if a scrapper's all you're lookin' for he'll do," replied Ladd, with a dry chuckle.

"Maybe I ought to think twice before taking a stranger into my family," said Beldin, seriously. "Well, I guess he's all right, Laddy, being the cavalryman's friend. No bum or lunker? He must be all right?"

"Bum? Lunker? Say, didn't I tell you I shook hands with this boy an' was plumb glad to meet him?" demanded Ladd, with considerable heat. Manifestly he had been affronted. "Tom Beldin, he's a gentleman, an' he could lick you in—half a second. How about that, Jim?"

"Less time," replied Lash. "Tom, here's my stand. Young Gale can have my hoss, my gun, anything 'r mine."

"Aw, I didn't mean to insult you, boys, don't mistake me," said Beldin. "Course he's all right."

The object of this conversation lay quiet upon his bed, thrilling and amazed at being so championed by the cowboys, delighted with Beldin's idea of employin' him, and much amused with the quaint seriousness of the three.

"How's the young man?" called a woman's voice. It was kind and mel- low and earnest.

Gale heard footsteps on flagstones. "He's asleep yet, wife," replied Beldin. "Guess he was pretty much knocked out. . . . I'll close the door there so we won't wake him."

There were slow, soft steps, then the door softly closed. But the fact scarcely made a perceptible difference in the sound of the voices outside.

"Laddy and Jim are going to stay," went on Beldin. "It'll be like the old Panhandle days a little. We'll see 'em glad to have the boys, Nellie. We'll see some trouble before the revolution is ended. I think I'll make this young man Gale an offer."

"What is he? Who is he? Where

"What Is He? Who Is He? Where Did He Come From? Surely You Must Be—"

did he come from? Surely you must be—"

"Laddy swears he's all right," interrupted the husband. "That's enough reference for me. Isn't it enough for you?"

"Humph! Laddy knows a lot about young men, now doesn't he, especially strangers from the East? . . . Tom, you must be careful! He'll fall in love with Nell!" protested Mrs. Beldin.

"Well, wouldn't that be regular? Doesn't every man who comes along fall in love with Nell? 'Twasn't it always happened?"

"But, Tom, Nell might fall in love with this young man!" exclaimed the wife, in distress.

"Laddy, Jim, didn't I tell you?" cried Beldin. "I know she'd say that. . . . My dear wife, I would be simply overcome with joy if Nell did fall in love once. Real good and hard! She's wjlder than any antelope out there on the desert. Nell's nearly twenty now, and so far as we know she's never cared a rap for any fellow. And she's as good and lovable as she is pretty, but I'm afraid she'll never grow into a woman while we live out in this lonely land. And you've all ways hated towns where there was a chance for the girl—just because you were afraid she'd fall in love. You've always been strange, even silly, about that. I've done my best for Nell—loved her as if she were my own daughter. I've changed many business plans to suit your whims. There are rough times ahead, maybe. I need men. I'll hire this chap Gale if he'll stay. Let Nell take her chance with him. She'll be all the better for it."

"I hope Laddy's not mistaken in his opinion of this newcomer," replied Mrs. Beldin, with a sigh of resignation. "Well, supper is to be got. That young man and the girl will be starved. I'll go in now. If Nell happens around don't—don't flatter her Laddy, like you did at dinner. Don't make her think of her looks."

Dick heard Mrs. Beldin walk away.

"Shore she's powerful particular about that girl," observed Laddy. "Say, Tom, Nell knows she's pretty, doesn't she?"

"She's liable to find it out unless you shut up, Laddy. When you visited us out here some weeks ago, you kept paying cowboy compliments to her."

"An' it's your idea that cowboy compliments are plumb bad for girls?"

"Downright bad, Laddy, so my wife says."

"I'll be darned if I believe any girl can be hurt by a little sweet talk. It pleases 'em. . . ."

"Chop it," interrupted Beldin. "Here comes Nell now."

Dick's tingling ears took in the patter of light footsteps, the rush of someone running.

"Here you are," cried a sweet, happy voice. "Dad, the senorita is perfectly lovely. I've been peepin' at her. She sleeps like—like death. She's so white. Oh, I hope she won't be ill. How strange and sad, that about her! Tell me more, Laddy. You promised. I'm dying to know. Didn't you say the senorita had a sweetheart?"

"Shore I did."

"Is he the young man who came with you?"

"None. That fellow's the one who saved the girl from Rojas."

"Ah! Where is he, Laddy?"

"He's in there asleep."

"Is he—nice, Laddy?"

"Shore."

"What is he like?"

"Well, I'm not long acquainted, never saw him by day, but I was some tolerable took with him. An' Jim here, Jim says the young man can have his gun an' his hoss."

"Wonderful! Laddy, what on earth did this stranger do to win you cowboys in just one night?"

"I'll shore have to tell you. Me an' Jim was watchin' a game of cards in the Del Sol saloon in Casita. That's across the line. We had acquaintances—four fellows from the Cross Bar outfit, where we worked a white back. This Del Sol is a hilliard hall, saloon, restaurant, an' the like. An' it was full of Greasers. Some of Campo's rebels were there drinkin' an' playin' games. Their pretty soon in come Rojas with some of his outfit. They were packin' guns an' kept to themselves off to one side."

"A little while afterward I seen a fellow standin' in the restaurant door. He was a young American dressed in corduroys an' boots, like a prospector. He looked round the saloon, an' when he spotted Rojas he sorta jerked up. Then he pulled his slouch hat lopsided an' began to stagger down, down the steps. First off I made shore he was drunk. But I remembered he didn't seem drunk before. It was some queer. So I watched that young man."

"He reeled around the room like a fellow who was drunker'n a lord. Nobody but me seemed to notice him. Then he began to stumble over pool-players an' get his feet tangled up in chairs an' bump against tables. He got some pretty hard looks. He came round our way, an' all of a sudden he seen us cowboys. He gave another start, like the one when he first seen Rojas, then he made for us. I tipped Jim off that somethin' was doin'."

Then this queer young man shot some cool, polite words at me an' Jim. "He was only bluffin' at bein' drunk—he meant to rush Rojas, to start a rough house. The bandits was after a girl. This girl was in the hotel, an' she was the sweetheart of a soldier, the young fellow's friend. The hotel was watched by Rojas' guards, an' the plan was to make a fuss an' get the girl away in the excitement. Well, Jim an' me got a hint of our bein' Americans—that cowboys generally had a name for loyalty to women. Then this amazin' chap—you can't imagine how scornful—said for me an' Jim to watch him."

"Before I could catch my breath an' figger out what he meant by 'rush' an' 'rough house' he had knocked over a table an' crowded some Greaser half off the map. Then, quicker'n I can tell you the young man dove at Rojas. Like a mad steer on the rampage he charged Rojas an' his men. The whole outfit went down—smash! I figgered then what 'rush' meant. The young fellow came up out of the pile with Rojas, an' just like I'd sling an empty sack along the floor he went he was on top of Rojas before the chairs an' tables had stopped rollin'."

"I woke up then, an' made for the center of the room, Jim with me. I began to shoot out the lamps. Jim threw his guns on the crazy rebels, an' I was afraid there'd be blood spilled before I could get the room dark. Bein' shore busy, I lost sight of the young fellow for a second or so, an' when I got an eye free for him I seen a Greaser about to knife him. Think I was considerate of the Greaser by only shootin' his arm off. Then I cracked the last lamp, an' in the hullabaloo me an' Jim vanoesed."

"We made tracks for our hosses an' packs, an' was hittin' the San Felipe road when we run right plumb into the young man. Well, he said his name was Gale—Dick Gale. The girl was with him safe an' well; but her sweetheart, the soldier, hein' away without leave, had to go back sudden. There shore was some trouble, for Jim an' me heard shootin'. Gale said he had no money, no friends, was a stranger in a desert country; an' he was distracted to know how to help the girl. So me an' Jim started off with them for San Felipe, got switched, an' then we headed for the Rio Forlorn."

"Oh, I think he was perfectly splendid!" exclaimed the girl. "But, Laddy, you haven't told me what he looks like."

At this juncture Dick Gale felt it absolutely impossible to play the eavesdropper any longer. Quietly he rolled out of bed. Beldin's kindly interest, Laddy's blunt and sincere cowboy eulogy, the girl's sweet eagerness and praise—these warmed Gale's heart. He had fallen among simple people, into whose lives the advent of an unknown man was welcome.

He was wild to be one of Beldin's rangers. The idea of riding a horse in the open desert, with a dangerous duty to perform, seemed to strike him with an appealing force. Something within him went out to the cowboys, to this blunt and kind Beldin. He was afraid to meet the girl. If every man who came along fell in love with this sweet-voiced Nell, then what hope had he to escape—now, when his whole inner awakening betokened a change of spirit, hope, a finding of real worth, real good, real power in himself?

Gale imagined he made noise enough as he clymsily pulled on his boots; yet the voices, split by a merry laugh, kept on murmuring outside the door. It was awkward for him, having only one hand available to lace up his boots. He looked out of the window. He heard bees, birds, chickens, saw the red of roses and green of grass. Then he saw, close to the wall, a tub full of water, and a bench upon which lay basin, soap, towel, comb and brush. The window was also a door, for under it there was a step.

Gale hesitated a moment, then went out. He stepped naturally, hoping and expecting that the cowboys would hear him. But nobody came. Awkwardly, with left hand, he washed his face. Upon a nail in the wall hung a little mirror, by the aid of which Dick combed and brushed his hair. He imagined he looked a most laggard wretch. With that he faced forward, meaning to go round the corner of the house to greet the cowboys and these new-found friends.

Dick had taken but one step when he was halted by laughter and the patter of light feet. He saw a little foot sweep into view, a white dress, then the swiftly moving form of a girl. She was looking backward.

"Dad, I shall fall in love with your new ranger. I will—I have—"

Then she plumped squarely into Dick's arms.

Dick saw a fair face and dark-blue, audaciously flashing eyes. Swift as lightning their expression changed to surprise, fear, wonder. For an instant they were level with Dick's grave questioning. Suddenly, sweetly, she blushed.

"Oh-h!" she faltered. Then the blush turned to a scarlet fire. She whirled past him, and like a white gleam was gone.

Dick became conscious of the quickened beating of his heart. He experienced a singular exhilaration. That moment had been the one for which he had been ripe, the event upon which strange circumstances had been rushing him.

With a couple of strides he turned the corner. Laddy and Lash were there talking to a man of burly form.

"Hello, there's the young fellow," spoke up the burly man. "Mr. Gale, I'm glad to meet you. My name's Beldin."

His greeting was as warm as his handclasp was long and hard. Gale saw a heavy man of medium height. His head was large and covered with grizzled locks. He wore a short-cropped mustache and chin beard. His skin was brown, and his dark eyes beamed with a genial light.

"Young man, did you run into anything as you came out?" asked Beldin, with twinkling eyes.

"Why, yes; I met something white and swift flyin' by," replied Dick.

Have Pains?

Aches and pains seem to be the lot of the ordinary mortal. However, these should be taken simply as nature's warning signals that some part of the human machine is out of order. It is a mistake to resign one's self to physical torture when the cause can be removed.

Foley Kidney Pills

If Kidneys and Bladder Bother

Take Salts to flush kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast; continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia water drink, which often quickly relieves bladder irritation.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid!

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP BY THIS SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and discomfort of sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

Detroit—Sam Meyers, notorious Hamtramck political boss and cafe keeper, was shot and instantly killed by an unknown assassin in Meyer's little cigar store and soft drink saloon, 12181 Joseph Campau avenue, Hamtramck. Meyers' refusal to meet a black-mailer's demands caused the shooting is Coroner James E. Burgess' belief.

Detroit—A friendly receivership was asked for and granted C. H. Wills & Co., Marysville, Mich., through the United States court and the Security Trust company of Detroit was appointed receiver. Although the company is said to be entirely solvent, this process was deemed expedient in order to re-finance and conserve the best interest of all concerned.

Grand Rapids—Judge Willis B. Perkins, signed an opinion ordering a decree to be prepared directing forfeiture by the Grand Rapids, Holland & Chicago railway, the Michigan Railroad company and the Michigan Railway company of the franchise for the operation of interurban cars over the main street in the village of Grandville, unless the defendants pave between the tracks.

Port Huron—G. Earle Minne and A. Enslie Gerrie, filed suits in circuit court against the city of Port Huron to recover $30,000 damages each. The men allege the city was negligent in not properly safeguarding approaches to the Tenth street draw bridge, and that as a result Mrs. Minne and Mrs. Gerrie were drowned September 14, 1921, when the Minne automobile went into the open draw.

Corunna—An instance of the law's delay was uncovered in the files of the county clerk's office here, which is believed to be a record. It shows that the first case started in Shiawassee county, back in 1847, was pending until 1918, when it was finally discontinued. The case was that of Freeman Stowe et al, against Elias Comstock, credited with having built the first house in Owosso. The action was foreclosure.

Olivet—Miss Blanche Lignian, of Olivet, has been notified of her appointment as publicity chairman of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Michigan, the appointment being made by Mrs. L. Victor Seydel, of Grand Rapids, state regent. Miss Lignian is also recording secretary of the Battle Creek chapter. Miss Lignian is an energetic newspaper woman of marked ability, and is associate editor of the Olivet publication.

Grand Rapids—Leo F. Bolger, held by police for nearly a year after he confessed to aiding in the robbery of the Michigan Exchange branch of the Grand Rapids Savings bank and the murder of Detective Samuel Slater and Patrolman George Brandsma, was sentenced by Superior Court Judge Leonard D. Verdier to life imprisonment at Jackson. Bolger had been held in the hope that other gangsters would be caught and sentenced.

Kalamazoo—While jumping up and down on a brush pile to scare out a rabbit, William Kelley, 17 years old, was accidentally shot in the leg by a discharge of his 16-gauge gun, which he had laid on the twigs. Two other boys, along with Kelley, witnessed the accident. At the hospital it was found a number of the shots tore and lacerated the flesh above the ankle, but it is not believed amputation will be necessary. Kelley was allowed to partake of a rabbit dinner at the hospital.

Grand Rapids—Within a few days of a promised discontinuation of parole, Floyd L. Freeland, 25 years was arrested for stealing 22 chickens from the farm of John Stahl, three miles north of Freeport, Ionia county. "I was just planning a good Thanksgiving dinner," he told Sheriff Viergiver, when arrested, the sheriff says. He implicated his wife and brother John, 19 years old, who were also arrested. He said he was paroled from Ionia prison two years ago; after serving one year and nine months for highway robbery.

Traverse City—A number of local fox breeders are planning entries at the third annual show of the National Silver Fox Breeders' association, at Muskegon, December 6 and 7.

Fenton—A committee representing the farmers met with the chamber of commerce at its last meeting, and asked that body to act to obtain better phone service on the rural lines.

Saginaw—Daniel A. Curry has started suit against Dr. G. W. Stewart for $25,000 damages, alleging in his declaration he was given improper care when he fell from a 25-foot scaffolding.

Saginaw—Governor Groesbeck, Bishop Kelly, of the Grand Rapids diocese, and other notables will come here, December 11, for the seventh anniversary of the foundation of the Catholic Business Girls' Club.

Iron River—The body of Oscar Alfredson, of Iron River, was found 12 miles from here in the woods by hunters. Alfredson had been hunting deer and became separated from his party. He wandered 48 hours, lost in a deep thicket. He died of fatigue and exposure.

Ann Arbor—Most college men are not afraid of dirty jobs or beginning at the bottom, President Marion LeRoy Burton of the University of Michigan said here in answering Thomas Edison's allegation that college graduates are afraid of dirt and want to boss a job as soon as they go to work.

Kalamazoo—Fifty thousand dollars damages is asked from the county of Kalamazoo by Mrs. Dominica Mazzolini, in a suit growing out of the death in an auto accident of her husband, Octavio Mazzolini, March 20. The plaintiff blamed the county's negligence in keeping its roads in repair for the death.

Kalamazoo—The hand of time was wrenched violently back a dozen or 20 years here when three thugs, after robbing a home on the edge of the city, escaped in a buggy. Two watches and several rings were stolen by the robbers. Two suspects were taken into custody, but released after they proved their innocence.

Muskegon—Blinded by a shot-gun charge received accidentally in the face, John Boer, Muskegon Heights, and a companion wandered about in the woods near here for several hours before they found their way back to the city. Twenty shots lodged in the youth's forehead and cheeks, but failed to injure the eyeballs, physicians say.

Kalamazoo—A record real estate transaction was completed when the stockholders of the Eddy Paper company, of Three Rivers and White Pigeon, voted to dispose of their holdings to the Eddy Paper corporation of Illinois. The latter company is composed exclusively of stockholders of the Sears-Roebuck company, of Chicago.

Cadillac—A novel suggestion for municipal policing was made by Dr. S. C. Moore at a meeting of the Exchange club. Dr. Moore advocated using the firemen for policemen, as there is little for the firemen to do between runs. A city of this size can have but a limited number of patrolmen and thus there are no officers left to answer emergency calls.

Grand Rapids—The Michigan legislature will be asked next fall to impose a two-cent tax on every gallon of gasoline sold in Michigan, the proceeds from the tax to be used for highway construction and maintenance. By a vote of 174 to 51, the Michigan Good Roads association delegates in convention here has endorsed the tax. Heated discussion preceded balloting.

Kalamazoo—There'll be no midnight and after work for the Kalamazoo postoffice workers, Christmas eve, if Postmaster Samuel Folz can prevent it. In a recent parade at Kalamazoo, the postmaster equipped one of the carriers with an anti-lute Christmas malling placard and had him placed at the head of the line of march as a warning and an appeal to the annual late shoppers.

Sandusky—James P. Mugar, Port Sanilac banker, will not be tried on two charges of forgery until the January term of court, Judge Watson Beach announced. Mugar was acquitted last week on a charge of issuing a worthless check. Lack of time is given as the reason for postponing the forgery charges, which were brought against Mugar by Mrs. Annie O'Connor, of Detroit.

Lansing—Governors of several states will be requested to return to Michigan 54 alleged radicals, wanted as alleged violators of the anti-syndicalism law. O. L. Smith, assistant attorney general, announced. Rose Pastor Stokes is one of those wanted. She is alleged to have participated with William Z. Foster, C. E. Ruthenburg and others, in a meeting of the Communist Party of America, in Berrien county, last August. The meeting was raided and 22 alleged radicals arrested.

Ann Arbor—Pierce Butler, named to the supreme court bench by President Harding, is a close friend of President M. L. Burton, of the University of Michigan. Butler belonged to the board of regents of the University of Minnesota, while Dr. Burton was president of that institution. Commenting on the appointment, Dr. Burton said: "I consider Judge Butler one of the keenest lawyers in the United States. He has a keenly analytical mind, and above all he believes thoroughly in the constitution of the United States."

Your Guarantee of Service

The Rule of Thumb vs. Science

The rule of thumb is the guide in the simple distillation process of making gasoline. The refiner takes what the crude will give. The result may fit your car and it may not.

In the 6 modern refineries of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) science rules. Definite specifications have been worked out which produce that perfect motor fuel—

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre At Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold. Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Few Really Learn Life's Lesson. Life is the finest of fine arts; it has to be learned with lifelong patience, and the years of our pilgrimage are all too short to master it triumpantly.—Henry Drummond.

Smart Nanette Fans

These brilliant little Nanette fans began their careers humbly in France, one of them as a plain, small palm leaf and the other as a platted fiber fan. By means of paint, satin ribbons, organdie or millinery flowers they have graduated into the smart set and will accompany gay frocks to joyous parties. One of the fans pictured has a shirred binding of ribbon in green. Its handle is bound with ribbon, finished with a loop and organdie roses in soft colors adorn it. Painted flowers or millinery flowers and foliage adorn the platted fan and ribbon covers its handle.

Christmas Seal Sale for 1922

Another year has rolled around and again we are reminded that one of the various organizations toward which we are called upon to contribute is making its plea to us.

It is hardly necessary to ask our people to respond to this. They will do so very generously as they have done before. So this is only to remind us of the fact that the campaign for the sale of seals is well underway and will open Thanksgiving Day and continue until Christmas Day.

Wonderful Chinese Wall. The great wall of China is the earth's most impressive landmark. Winding like a gigantic serpent for thousands of miles over mountain crests and narrow gorges, it once served as a defense against the Mongol hordes from the North.

BREAK CHEST COLDS WITH RED PEPPER

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time. "Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once. The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say "Rowles."

The Christmas Season.

Though Christmas seems to gain rather than lose in popular favor as the years roll by, yet it is worthy of note that the Christmas season has been much curtailed from what it originally was. For several centuries it began with the eve of All Saints' day or "Hallow eve," October 31, and continued until Candlemas day, February 2. In England it is now computed only from Christmas eve to "Twelfth night," January 6, while in our own country it begins on Christmas eve and practically ends on Christmas night. Yet even now it really begins on December 16, marked in the church calendar, "O Sapientia," from the name of an anthem sung during Advent.

Dry Ship Ruling Deferred.

New York—Learned Hand, Federal judge, has reserved decision on applications by American and foreign owned steamship lines to make permanent the injunction restraining Government officials from putting into effect the Daugherty ruling that vessels must not carry liquor inside the three-mile line, even under seal, when touching at American ports. Mean while Judge Hand extended the stay he had granted last week until he should reach a decision.

PROBATE ORDER STATE OF MICHIGAN, The Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix. At a session of said court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Charlevoix in said county, on the 23rd day of November, A. D. 1922.

Present: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate. In the Matter of the Estate of Herbert S. Olney, Deceased. Ada M. Olney, having filed in said court her petition, praying for license to sell the interest of said estate in certain real estate therein described, and to redetermine the value of the same.

It is Ordered, That the 26th day of Dec. A. D. 1922, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said probate office, he and is hereby appointed for hearing said petition, and that all persons interested in said estate appear before said court, at said time and place, to show cause why a license to sell the interest of said estate in said real estate should not be granted;

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Charlevoix County Herald, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

SERVETUS A. CORRELL, Judge of Probate.

Rub Rheumatic Pain From Aching Joints

Stop "dosing" Rheumatism. It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappears and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stings sciatica, lumbago, backache and neuralgia.

Limber up! Get a small trial bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and in a moment, you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

GREEKS BANISH PRINCE ANDREW

BROTHER OF FORMER KING CONSTANTINE TAKEN TO ENGLAND WITH WIFE.

GREEK ARMY IN THRACE REBELS

No More Discipline Possible and Mutinous Troops Control; Venizelos to Form New Cabinet.

Athens—Prince Andrew, brother of former King Constantine, has been sentenced by a military court to banishment for life and deprivation of his rank. He will not suffer actual degradation. He and his wife, Princess Alice, embarked at Phaleron Sunday afternoon aboard a British warship. It is understood they will be taken to England.

The trial of the prince closed Saturday night, after numerous witnesses had been examined and pleas for clemency had been made by counsel for the defense. The indictment set forth that in the advance on the Sagaris river, Prince Andrew, commanding the second army corps, refused to obey an order to attack the enemy.

Royalty had a bad time in the final stages of the inquiry. The prosecutor dwelt on the disadvantages of employing princes in high positions in the army; he pointed out that their influence was pernicious, not only in Greece, but in all countries, and cited cases where they had been responsible for military disaster. In this connection he alluded to the former German crown prince, which pleased the democrats among the spectators.

The Greek army in western Thrace has mutinied. No more discipline is possible, it is reported. Rumors say that M. Venizelos will soon return here and will attempt to form a new cabinet, with the intention of arresting the movement for a counter revolution.

Fearing a bloody counter revolution, the population here is panic-stricken and endeavoring to reach a zone of safety.

Hundreds, unable to find railway accommodation, are leaving the city by vehicle or on foot.

TURKS RESENT JAPAN'S ADVICE

Protest Continuance of Participation in Near East Parley.

Washington—Inspired by the soviet delegates, the Turks are expected to protest further Japanese participation in the Near Eastern settlement. It was learned here Sunday night that the Kemalists bitterly resent Baron Hayashi's advice to the Turks to tolerate a continuance of special foreign rights in Turkey. The Turks are contrasting the Japanese attitude towards their nation with the attitude of the United States government towards Japan during Japan's 33 years' struggle from foreign molestation.

The Turks draw attention to the fact that Japan made no headway as a nation until her defeat of China in 1895. They say that it was Japan's military success and not her accomplishments in civil government, that won her abolition in 1899 of consular jurisdiction and tariff interference.

FAVOR HOLDING WAR PRISONERS

Legion Commander Opposes Recognition of Soviet Russia.

Baltimore, Md.—Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, called for a united stand of the legion against the release of political prisoners and against recognition of the Russian government in an address to the Monticau post.

"There is," he declared, "a great wave of radicalism abroad which you and I must do everything to check. Whether this radicalism is because the tension of the war has been let down, or because of unemployment, or both, it is nevertheless a serious fact."

DAUGHERTY REPLIES TO CHARGES

Attorney General Says Foes Seek to Shield Guilty.

Washington—Charging that his assistants are seeking to shield persons who are being or about to be prosecuted Attorney General Daugherty slammed back at the groups in and out of congress who are pressing for his impeachment.

The attorney general made public his answer to the 14 charges supporting the resolution proposing the impeachment of Mr. Daugherty which was introduced by Representative Keller, Minnesota.

Packer Merger Still Doubtful Washington—Secretary Wallace is not yet ready to give his consent to the proposed merger of two of the Chicago "Big Five" meat packers through the purchase of Morris and Company by Armour and Company, it was indicated after a second White House conference on the subject. Besides the President and Mr. Wallace, Attorney-General Daugherty and Solicitor Williams of the Department of Agriculture, were present at the conference.

MARKET REPORT FURNISHED BY U. S. BUREAU OF MARKETS, WASHINGTON, TON, D. C.

Fruits and Vegetables Potato markets slightly weaker for Chicago, generally steady for northern. Chicago market 10c lower for round whites. Prices steady at most distributing points; down 10c at Detroit points. Danish type cabbage up 5c@12c per ton in leading cities, up 5c at New York points. Middlewestern yellow onions jumped 40c to 50c in eastern markets. Apples weaker in eastern cities, steady at Chicago.

Prices reported November 29: New York and Pennsylvania round white potatoes sacked and bulk, $1.25@1.50; 100 lbs. in city markets, 50c f. o. b. western New York points, 50c wagon loads (not to growers at Pennsylvania points). Stocker and feeder calves, 12 important markets during the week ending November 24 were: Cattle and calves, 138,489; hogs, 29,794; sheep, 1,095.

Grain Grain prices were unsettled during the week but made small net advances. Chicago December wheat up 3-8c; Chicago December corn up 1-8c. The advances were the result of large export sales, improved weather, and a demand for grain in foreign markets. Higher prices were reached on the 28th despite evening up for Thanksgiving Day holiday. Reports of crop losses in Argentina and advances in Liverpool were the principal market influences. Western feeder demand continues active. Good general demand for corn.

Closing prices in Chicago cash markets: No. 2 red winter wheat $1.31; No. 2 hard winter wheat $1.21; No. 2 mixed winter wheat $1.15; No. 3 yellow corn 75c; No. 3 white oats 45c.

Dairy Products Butter markets very firm. Supply of fresh butter light and not sufficient for demand. Foreign butter, mostly from goods of best quality scarce. Fresh production decreasing. Some foreign butter being imported, although quantities are not of much market influence as yet. Closing prices for 100 lb. tubs: Boston 52c; Philadelphia 54 1-2c; Chicago 54 1-2c.

Hay Market remains fairly steady, prices very little changed. All grades of alfalfa, clover and prairie lower at Minneapolis. Quoted November 29 No. 1 timothy, Philadelphia $21, Pittsburgh $19.50, Minneapolis $17.50, Kansas City $16.50. No. 2 alfalfa, Philadelphia $18, Pittsburgh $16.50, Minneapolis $15. No. 1 prairie Kansas City $13.75, Minneapolis $17.

Feed Markets quiet. Shipments heavy, especially of wheat feeds. Minneapolis shipment this week of 18,540 tons compared with 17,100 tons for same week last year. Offerings fairly good, those for winter wheat territory to eastern markets firm due to strong grain markets. Demand light. Stocks of cottonseed meal firm. Demand for linseed meal light. Production corn feeds continued heavy, especially of gluten feed. Prices held firm due to strong grain markets. Demand fair. Receipts and movement good. Quoted November 29: Bran $22.75, middlings $22.50, shorts $22.50, rye middlings $21.50, Minneapolis; white hominy feed $20 St. Louis, $20 Chicago; No. 1 second cut winter wheat patents, $7.65; No. 34 Atlanta; 34 percent gluten meal $49.75 Minneapolis, $51.50 Buffalo; linned feed $38.35 Chicago.

The Christmas Goose

By CELIA E. CHUTE

(Copyright, 1922, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

OLOMON, the Caruthers' goose, had grown so plump and so pompous that it seemed as if he must be aware that great things were expected of him at the holiday dinner, and was doing his best to fulfill expectations. "Solomon is almost as much of a responsibility as Johnnie," Mrs. Caruthers said one day, when her husband was exhorting Solomon from a tight place in the poultry yard fence. "I begin to be afraid that having him so much on our minds and in our company may affect our appetites for our Christmas dinner."

As the holiday approached the whole yard began to look small for Solomon. Carrie Caruthers, coming in one day from a walk, complained that he had strenuously objected to making way for her on the walk. "Really, mother, it makes me feel as if we oughtn't to eat him," she said, coloring a little. "He seems too human."

"Dear me, child!" said Mrs. Caruthers hurriedly. "Don't mention that before Johnnie." The next afternoon Johnnie came running into the house in great excitement. "The Leonard dog is chasing Solomon," he wept. "Muvver, come and make him go home!" Mrs. Caruthers looked out. Solomon was certainly having a perilous adventure. The Leonard dog was circling about him, making vicious charges. Nothing but the spreading of Solomon's formidable wings and his harsh outcries saved him. "My! what a dreadful dog!" exclaimed Mrs. Caruthers, hurrying to the rescue.

There was ear-splitting squawking from the terrified goose. "Muvver! Muvver!" cried Johnnie, bursting into headrearing walls. Mrs. Caruthers picked up a stick and made a motion of throwing it. "Go home!" she commanded sternly. The dog spread his feet and shook his head. "Bow-wow!" he returned impudently.

She threw the stick. It seemed to be the only thing she could do. The Leonard dog whirled around in an anguish of pain and astonishment. Then, realizing that he had been worsted, he departed on three legs for his kennel. "You hit him, muvver! You hit him!" exclaimed Johnnie. The frightened goose sat hunched under a tree, his head buried in his back. Some of the feathers were gone from his tail, and patches of fluffy down were blowing about the yard.

"Blest if I can see what there is about that goose to fascinate an entire family," said Mr. Caruthers, appearing suddenly behind them. "If you don't look out, Lucy, you'll be refusing your favorite hip sice when Christmas comes." Hip sice! Solomon's hip sice! Mrs. Caruthers could scarcely restrain a shudder as she glanced at the heap of feathers huddled in a corner. What a cannibalistic vision! "Oh, please, Austin, don't speak of it!" she begged. "Tell father what happened, dear."

Johnnie, incoherent from agitation, told the story of the attack and result. "Go Home!" She Commanded Sternly. "Muvver frow a sick at him," he ended, smiles breaking out at the entrancing recollection. "It hurt his leg. He could only run on free legs. He went home awful fast, didn't he, muvver?"

Just then Carrie Caruthers and a young man came around the corner of the house and came to join them. Johnnie observed young Doctor Arnold with interest. The day before he had heard his Aunt Eunice call the doctor a "foregone conclusion." He watched him narrowly, trying to discover how a "foregone conclusion" differed from other men. He thought, on the whole, that it would be rather nice to be on "friendly terms" with a "foregone conclusion," so he moved nearer and timidly announced that Solomon was a Christmas goose.

"He's a splendid big fellow," said the young doctor heartily. "How much of him do you think you can eat?"

Had Nothing on Her. It was Christmas week and the janitor was on his usual round wishing his patrons the compliments of the season, hoping, of course, to be remembered in some way.

He came to the door of a new tenant and on it being opened he wished the lady the usual compliments, at the same time adding: "I'm the man that empties the garbage can."

"Thank you, same to you," was her reply; "and I'm the lady that fills it." A Regular Christmas Feeling. "Oh, Mr. Flipperley," she exclaimed soulfully, "have you ever felt a dim, uneasy sense of oppression as if the mere weight of life were a burden too heavy to be borne of the chained spirit panting with psychic longing to be free?" "I invariably have such a feeling at Christmas time," was the calm response; "but hitherto I have attributed it to pudding!"

WHY THAT LAME BACK?

That morning lameness—those sharp pains when bending or lifting, make work a burden and rest impossible. Don't be handicapped by a bad back—look to your kidneys. You will make no mistake by following this East Jordan resident's example. Mrs. Win. St. Charles says: "I was bothered quite a good deal with my back and after I did my washing my back was so lame and sore I dreaded to move. There was a sense across my kidneys that hurt me all the time and when I was on my feet a little while my back gave out. I often had headaches and was troubled with dizziness. I was nervous, depressed and irritable. My kidneys were weak and irregular. I saw in the paper how well Doan's Kidney Pills were liked and I decided to try them. I purchased a few boxes at Hite's Drug Store and they cured me."
