Parent-Teacher Association

Is Now Organized. Committees To Report March 14th.

The executive committee of the Parent-Teacher Association met Monday evening, in the library basement to appoint committees.

The father, mother, teacher or patron whose name is printed below have not been notified previous to this publication, it being taken for granted that any one called upon to help in this new work will do so to the best of his ability.

What literature we have so far pertaining to the work of the Parent-Teacher Association will be found on one of the tables in the library for the use of any one interested in the work.

Each chairman is urged to call a meeting of his committee to work out plans for the remaining school year, and are asked to give a short report of same at the next meeting March 14.

The library literature will aid these committees.

Program Committee: Mrs. Duncanson, Mrs. Sidebotham, Mr. Wilson, Miss Franseth, Mrs. A. Kowalski, and Rev. Hulme.

Membership Committee (To secure members for the Parent-Teacher Association.) Mr. B. Severance, Mrs. Roy Webster, Mrs. Mikula, Mrs. Henry Alexander, Clarence Healey, Mrs. Ekstrom, Mrs. Vern Whiteford, Mrs. Matt Swafford, Mrs. B. Arnston, Mrs. C. Halstad, Mrs. H. Rosenthal, Mr. Elmer Alexander.

Able Jurist Candidate

At Primary Election on Wednesday, March the 7th.

Two weeks from next Wednesday, March seventh, is the time designated for holding the primary election for the nomination of certain county and state officials and one of the most important officials to be nominated at this primary is that of Judge for this the thirteenth judicial district of Michigan, consisting of Charlevoix, Antrim, Grand Traverse and Leelanau counties.

With the completion of the present term Judge Frederick W. Mayne of Charlevoix will round out his fourth term, or a continuous period of twenty four years of faithful service as a court presiding official and at the same time has won the position as one of the most able and distinguished Jurists in the State of Michigan and recognized as such by Attorney who have appeared in his court, Judges of other Circuits and members of the Supreme court.

Judge Mayne is also recognized as a hard worker, a thorough student with more than ordinary ability to interpret and successfully administer the law, as a result of these combinations and with his years of service on the bench he has special adaptability and is peculiarly fitted for the position that he now holds and for which he again aspires.

It is but natural for members of the legal profession to look forward to the time when they can wear the Judicial ermine and wield the official gavel of authority, then too, there is something attractive about the title "His Honor" when used either oral or written. It contains alluring elements that charm the younger and enticing to the older members of the fraternity. Hence it is to be expected that some one or more at the time for the selection of a Circuit Judge will make an effort to relieve, from further duty, the existing Judge at the end of the term for which he was elected, regardless of his fitness for high Judicial service and ability to safeguard the interest of the public in complicated legal proceedings.

We are satisfied that there are several Attorneys in this circuit that, with experience on the bench, would eventually make admirable Judges. There is no question in our mind concerning this proposition, but at this time, inexperienced as they are as presiding officers, it is not reasonable to suppose that they can transact business as speedily, precisely and with the clarity as can Judge Mayne with years of active service to his credit in a judicial position.

The Record Eagle, of Traverse City, recently published a lengthy editorial in which they paid Judge Mayne a pronounced compliment but at the same time announced that the support of that paper to their local candidate in which they gave their reason in part and in substance as follows: "We believe in industries. The Judgeship is literally an industry and we are desirous of bringing as many industries here as possible. It is an admitted fact that Attorneys and Clients from the entire circuit are frequently called to Charlevoix, Judge Mayne's home, to perform legal business. Many visitors and much business accordingly goes there would come here were the Circuit Judge to make this his home."

Again "Grand Traverse is the largest county in the circuit, likewise the Commercial and Educational center of the circuit. It seems quite fitting therefore that the Circuit Judge should make this his home, particularly in view of the fact that Charlevoix has maintained a monopoly on the honors for nearly thirty years."

Personally we are satisfied with the statement that the Judgeship is literally an industry. We are also firm in the conviction that Charlevoix county is entitled to retain its present industry with Judge Mayne as the head of this department of legal business and know of no good reason why the electors of Charlevoix County and contiguous territory in the thirteenth Judicial district should not enthusiastically support Judge Mayne in his candidacy and assist in every possible way to retain an industry that is recognized as valuable by the electors in Grand Traverse county. If the Judgeship is of value to Grand Traverse county it is equally as valuable to Charlevoix county and as an industry it is altogether too valuable to lose.—Charlevoix Sentinel.

FIRST MUSICAL CONTEST IN 4TH AND 5TH GRADES A SUCCESS.

As has been previously mentioned in this paper, the fourth and fifth grades of the Central School of East Jordan are in the midst of a very interesting musical contest.

The method in which this contest is being carried on is as follows:—Each day before playing a new record, special attention is given to the study of the composer about which the pupils are encouraged to do outside reading for reports. At the end of four weeks only a part of each record is played. The children write what they think is the name of the record, the composer and one thing about him. Each party only counts one-third. A prize is given to the one having the most points.

In order to test the children and give them an idea of what the real contest would be like, a (mock) contest was given last Friday. The winner was Ellogean Reitzel, a fourth grader, who only missed one third of a point. The fifth grade average was one percent more than the fourth.

We wish to thank those who have loaned us their records. We are still minus the following records:

Traumeri.....Shumann
To a Wild Rose.....McDowell
Meditation (Thais).....Massenet
Stars and Stripes Forever.....Sausa
Blue Danube Waltz.....Straus
From the Land of the Blue Sky
Water.....Cadman
Etude (Butterfly).....Chopin

INTERURBAN CRASH HURTS 40

Car Hits Open Switch At Roseville Crashing Into Powerhouse.

Detroit—A speeding Mt. Clemens interurban train of two cars, carrying more than 100 passengers, crashed into the brick wall of the Roseville powerhouse when it hit an open switch Saturday afternoon. Both cars of the train were derailed, and all passengers thrown about violently.

Twelve persons are known to have been hurt so seriously as to require medical aid. About 20 others were slightly injured.

The crash came an hour after two men were probably fatally injured a few miles nearer Mt. Clemens, when an interurban and an automobile collided.

The switch was left open after the arrival at the barns of a freight train, spectators said. Only a few minutes before, the interurban which figured in the other accident, striking five men in an automobile, entered the barns for repairs.

The first accident occurred when an interurban, south bound, hit the automobile as its driver attempted to make a crossing at the Masonic Country Club crossing.

James Norburn and William Warncke, of Detroit, occupants of the front seat of the automobile, were seriously hurt. Warncke died at a Mt. Clemens hospital Sunday. Norburn's back was broken.

NEW INAUGURAL DATE POSSIBLE

Senate Approves Installation of New Presidents in January.

Washington—The Norris amendment to the federal constitution eliminating the present session of an old congress and changing the date of inauguration of president from March 4 to the third Monday in January, was approved by the senate.

The resolution embodying the amendment was adopted after brief debate and by a vote of 63 to 6. It now goes to the house with approval there before adjournment of congress regarded as problematical.

Pittsburg Papers Discontinued

Pittsburg—Announcement that the Pittsburg Leader, Republican afternoon paper, had been sold to the Pittsburg Gazette-Times, Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph, Pittsburg Press Pittsburg Post and Pittsburg Sun, was made by A. P. Moore, editor and publisher. The discontinuance of the Leader follows closely on the announcement by the Pittsburg Dispatch that it had been sold to the same papers and would no longer be issued.

Income Tax Facts

In the making of his income tax return for the year 1922, a taxpayer, if single, is allowed an exemption of $1,000. A married person, or head of a family, whose net income for the year 1922 was $5,000 or less is allowed an exemption of $2,500. The exemption allowed a married person or head of a family whose net income was in excess of $5,000 is $2,000. A head of a family is a person who actually supports one or more persons living in his or her household who are closely related to him or her by blood, marriage or adoption.

An additional credit of $400 is allowed for each person (other than husband or wife) dependent upon the taxpayer for chief support, if such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self support because mentally or physically defective. A single man whose net income for 1922 was $2,000 and who supports in his home an aged mother would have no tax to pay, but would nevertheless be required to file a return. The fact that a person's income may be nontaxable by reason of the exemptions does not nullify the requirement to file a return if his income was within the prescribed figures—$1,000 if single and $2,000 if married.

Broadly speaking, gross income includes all income received by the taxpayer during the year from salary or wages, or from "business, trade, profession or vocation," dealing in property, or the transaction of any business carried on for profit. Net income upon which the tax is assessed, is gross income less certain specified deductions for business expenses, losses, bad debts, taxes, contributions, etc.

Among the most important items in the returns of many taxpayers are the deductions for business expenses. In the case of a storekeeper, they include a reasonable allowance for salaries paid employees, amounts spent for advertising, premiums for insurance against fire or other business losses, the cost of water, lights, heat and fuel used in his place of business, drayage and freight bills.

A professional man, doctor or lawyer, may claim as deductions the cost of supplies used in the practice of his profession, expenses paid in the operation and repair of an automobile, used in making professional calls, dues to professional societies, subscriptions to professional journals, office rent, and the cost of fuel, lights, heat and water used in his office, and the hire of assistants.

The farmer may deduct all amounts paid in the production, harvesting and marketing of crops, including labor, cost of seed and fertilizer purchased, cost of minor repairs to farm buildings (other than the dwelling, which is personal expense) and cost of small tools used up in the course of a year or two. Rent paid for a farm also is an allowable deduction.

Deduction of personal or living expenses such as rent paid for a dwelling, hire of domestic servants, education of children, etc., is expressly disallowed by the revenue act.

The normal tax is 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the exemptions, and 3 per cent on the remaining net income. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return, or in four installments due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

WHAT CAUSES GAS ON THE STOMACH?

It is caused by fermenting, sour waste matter in the intestines. This old, foul matter should be thoroughly cleaned out with simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. This acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing old accumulated matter you never thought was in your system. Adler-i-ka relieves ANY CASE gas on the stomach. EXCELLENT for sour stomach and chronic constipation. Guards against appendicitis. GIDLEY & MAC, Druggists.

PENINSULAR

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

The worst storm of the winter struck this section Tuesday evening, Feb. 13, continuing all day Wednesday, no one stirred out of doors all day. The storm was followed by the coldest weather for years.

The Star and Mountain schools were closed Wednesday, because of the storm but resumed work again Thursday.

The Three Bells school closed Wednesday, because of the storm and has since been closed because of so much sickness. They expect to begin work again Wednesday, Feb. 21.

The Three Bells high school students who attend school in East Jordan have been home the latter part of the week while the East Jordan school has been closed by storm and illness.

Jack Jardine and Jim Willson of Mountain District were the first to venture out after the storm Thursday, they made a trip to the Douglas Tibbits farm where they purchased two young beef cattle and at A. B. Nicoly farm they got another. They loaded all three into their cattle rack and started for home. They got as far as what is locally known as the Pete Tuttle hill where the road usually turns into the F. D. Russell field in the winter, but had kept the highway all this winter. The Wednesday, storm had made it had made it necessary to turn into the field, in trying to make the turn their sleigh tipped very nearly over spilling the cattle out rack and all. They finally got righted and reloaded; no serious damage was done.

Minnie McDonald was confined to the house the latter part of last week by illness but is better now.

Miss Nita McDonald came home Friday from East Jordan where she attends high school, ill with the flu but is better now.

Mrs. David Staley of Three Bells District, is no better.

Mrs. L. Duffey of Mountain District, has returned from Aldin, where she was called by the death of her father.

Kathrine Wangerman of the Three Bells District was confined to her bed by the flu, the latter part of last week but is better now.

The family of August Lew are all confined to the house by illness as is also the Will Looze family of the Three Bells District.

The Clarence Johnston family of the Three Bells District, who have been very ill for two weeks with the flu, are all better and able to be up.

Mrs. Geo. Jardine of the Mountain District is confined to her bed with the flu.

Douglas Tibbits of Cherry Hill is filling his fine new ice house.

Derby and Frank Hayden of Orchard Hill are filling their ice house. The ice is twenty inches thick nearly all clear blue ice.

G. C. Ferris, is cutting last bolts which he expects to haul to East Jordan Elton Jarman is helping him.

The Northern Peninsula Social Club at the Ray Loomis home in Star District Saturday evening, the entertainment was progressive Pedro. They had a jolly time. The next meeting is with John Healy, March 3rd.

The boys are planning a stag party with Willford Arnot at Bunker Hill N. S. Feb. 24.

The first to report young lambs is A. B. Nicoly, 8; and Douglas Tibbits, 6, February 19.

For those who admire "Old fashioned winters" the past two week surely suits them.

While returning from Boyne City, Saturday, with Mr. and Mrs. James Arnot, A. Rich froze his nose.

While Ed. Guerrins and Bob Jarman were coming from their fish shanty on Pine Lake, Saturday afternoon, Bob froze his feet quite severely.

Pat O'Brine of Advance Store reports 14 below zero Saturday morning, and four below all day.

J. P. Seiler has taken the agency for the Holland Chicken Hatchery.

Grandpa Russell of Ridgeway, who has been very ill with heart trouble for the past 7 weeks is no better.

The Mountain school is planning Patron Day for March second. They expect B. O. Hagerman, County Agent, for the principal speaker. Everybody is invited. There is sure to be a jolly instructive time.

The Three Bells school have prepared a program for Friday afternoon, Feb. 24, a Lincoln and Washington program consisting of the following: Song—America, by school. Song—Mount Vernon Bells, school. Flag Drill, 5th and 8th grade girls. Dialogue 8th grade girls. "Drill, Soldier boy where are you going", Curtis Sande, Frederick Lemm and Charles Looze. Recitation, Lincoln and Washington, Dorothy Lemm. Flag march and song, school. Flag salute. Minutette, by 5th grade. Dance the Minutette in costume. Closing song, school. "Star Spangled Banner."

Electors of Charlevoix County

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the position of Commissioner of Schools of Charlevoix County and will appreciate the votes of all who see fit to honor me with the same.

SEVEREST STORM OF WINTER PASSES

BLIZZARD WORST THAT HAS STRUCK MICHIGAN IN TEN YEARS.

NORTHERN DISTRICTS BLOCKED

Predicted That State Will Not Suffer Another Extended Cold Period—Carriers Ice-Bound.

Detroit—The cold wave that gripped Detroit last Wednesday and Thursday, and brought to Northern Michigan the worst blizzard in 10 years, with consequent suspension of railroad and highway traffic and temporary cessation of business in many towns, passed to the east last Friday.

A 30 hour blizzard had blocked all roads in and out of Bad Axe in Huron county, the extreme north section of the Thumb and no trains or mails were possible. Mail carriers made no trips for two days and doctors could not get into the country to visit patients.

Petoskey and northern Michigan were isolated for two days, that section being without train service on any road or other means of transportation in any direction. Great drifts some of them 10 feet deep blocked railroad and wagon roads in all directions and efforts to open roads and rail lines was unsuccessful for days.

Michigan probably will not suffer another extended cold period this winter, according to Norman B. Conger, chief observer of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Three Pere Marquette car ferries at Ludington were held outside the harbor by ice walls. The floes were packed 30 feet high in the harbor entrance by westerly gales. The steamer Nevada was blocked inside the harbor.

"SLACKERS" FREED BY RULING

Court Says Charges Must Have Been Made Within 3-Year Period.

Cleveland—Thousands of men and youths who evaded the selective service law during the World war, and are free, are exempt from punishment, under a ruling handed down here by Federal Judge C. Westenhaver, who declared the joint resolution of congress that the statute of limitations in the prosecution of "slackers" and draft evaders is merely "an expression of legislative opinion."

Judge Westenhaver ruled that only when indictments had been returned or information had been filed before expiration of three years from the alleged offense was committed, can the government continue prosecution against draft evaders.

The statute of limitations, the court pointed out, affects all federal charges of lesser magnitude than felony. Violations of the selective draft service law were classified within the law itself as misdemeanors, punishable by a year in jail, no less and no more.

MRS. RAIZEN GUILTY OF MURDER

Jury Convicts Woman of Shooting Doctor 15 Months Ago.

New York—A verdict of guilty of second degree murder was returned by a supreme court jury Sunday against Mrs. Lillian B. Raizen, who shot and killed Dr. Abraham Glickstein in his Brooklyn office, December 10, 1921.

Mrs. Raizen's defense was that the physician had ruined her life and that she had been driven to insanity through haunting fear of him.

The jury, picked from a special panel of 100 men of "super-intelligence" and instructed to try the defendant "with their heads and their hearts," returned the verdict after deliberating 12 hours and 15 minutes.

TWO DIE OF "SLEEPING SICKNESS"

Fatal to Farmer and Trainman in Different Parts of State

Detroit—John Vandesaiken, 37, farmer, died at Northland, a victim of what physicians believe to be sleeping sickness.

After members of his family and physicians were unable to awaken him from the sound sleep into which he had fallen, he was rushed to a hospital in Escanaba, where he died.

Oliver O. Floyd, 35 years old, brakeman, between Detroit and Chicago, died of sleeping sickness at the home of his father-in-law, Samuel Guthrie, of Chelsea.

Vaccinates Hens Against Disease

Newton, N. J.—F. Leon Brown, county farm agent, says that he has successfully vaccinated 8,000 hens and roosters here against chicken pox, croup, canker and pneumonia. The operation had no deleterious effect on the egg production of the hens. Brown said he had for some time been experimenting with a new serum because of the high death rate of chickens in the county. The serum is injected in the loose skin beneath the wing.

MICHIGAN RAILROADS TO SPEND MILLIONS IN STATE THIS YEAR

Washington—Evidence that the Pere Marquette, Pennsylvania and other railroads serving Detroit and adjacent territory are alert to the necessity of improved and extended facilities for handling coal during 1923 is seen in the answers given by the presidents of coal-carrying roads to a questionnaire submitted to them by the National Coal association.

Frank H. Alfred, president of the Pere Marquette lines, has announced that $10,000,000 has been allotted by his board to be expended during 1923 upon improvements touching Detroit, Lansing, Grand Rapids and other Michigan cities.

Improvements include double track from Plymouth to Detroit and additions to shops at Grand Rapids.

Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania system, said that his company is making extensions into Detroit and enlargement of freight facilities.

RUHR SITUATION MORE ACUTE

Boycott Results in Refusal to See Invading Forces.

Essen—The boycott tilt between the Franco-Belgian occupational forces and the Germans is daily becoming more acute in the Ruhr, particularly in Essen. The most noticeable features are the failure of co-operation by the German police and the refusal of the hotels and merchants to serve the French and Belgians.

The boycott here has resulted in an announcement the soldiers will be permitted to appropriate necessities where such are withheld by the proprietors of the shops.

Congressman Protects Invasion.

Washington—A resolution protesting against the French occupation of the Ruhr, requesting the president to call a world economic conference and setting forth the view of congress that France should arrange to pay its war debts to the United States has been introduced by Representative Voight, Republican, Wisconsin.

The resolution characterizes the Versailles treaty as a "perversion of the terms of the armistice" and terms the invasion of the Ruhr as an "act of war against a starving and defenseless people, making it still more impossible for them to comply with the treaty."

BISHOP CHAS. D. WILLIAMS DIES

Widely Known Prelate Succumbs to Attack of Apoplexy.

Detroit—Right Rev. Charles David Williams, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Michigan and distinguished as a pioneer in the movement to liberalize religious thought in this country and in England, died suddenly at his residence here. Death was due to cerebral hemorrhage.

In the bishop's death news of which shocked religious leaders here by its suddenness, the Episcopal diocese of Michigan has lost a firm but broad-minded guide.

Bishop Williams was in his sixty-third year. He was elected bishop of the Michigan diocese Feb. 6, 1907.

He suffered a slight attack of influenza a week ago, at which time he was to have delivered a sermon in St. Paul's cathedral on Father and Son week.

Ten minutes before he passed away he presided over a meeting of diocesan officials at the executive offices of the diocese and he then seemed in perfect health.

U. S. WILL PAY GERMAN ALIENS

Property Seized During War to Be Refunded—Values $45,000,000.

Washington—Ninety-three per cent of the German aliens, whose property was confiscated by this government when war was declared in 1917, will soon get back what the alien property custodian seized by order of former President Wilson. The total value of the property to be returned is approximately $45,000,000.

The remaining seven per cent of the Germans who owned property in the United States will have to wait for the return of their property until the mixed claims commission, under the department of state, adjudicates disputes arising from loss of American lives and the destruction of American ships by submarines of the former kaiser.

The Winslow bill, which was reported favorably from the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce on February 8, provides for the return to the Germans of property seized in the United States having a value under $10,000.

U. S. to Pay $230,874 for 11 Properties

Ann Arbor—After listening to testimony for 11 days, it took the jury in Judge Sample's court, but two hours to return a verdict in the condemnation suit, started by the U. S. against owners of property wanted for a building, which is to be a gift to the university by one of its alumni. A board of appraisers appointed by the board of regents of the university fixed a price of $230,874 for the 11 properties involved in the deal.

ALBA

(Edited by Mrs. A. I. Ashbaugh)

(Rec'd last week too late for publication.)

The Shakespeare play, "Julius Caesar" given by the tenth grade pupils was a decided success, although the weather was so bad that not many were out. It is said that they will repeat the play some time later.

The Study Club had a social evening at the home of Mrs. J. Anderson Tuesday evening. A fine lunch was served and the evening enjoyed by all present.

The Ladies Aid of the Federated Church of Alba will give an entertainment in the near future in which the ladies will compete with the high school teachers in a game of basket ball. The same evening the High School boys will play against the Independents. There will also be other entertainment.

Dewey Ashbaugh and wife of Flint have been visiting the latter's parents at Mancelona and are now visiting Mr. Ashbaugh's father and mother at Alba.

Train service has been very irregular owing to the heavy storms which have swept over this section of the country lately.

Mrs. Oscar Allen, who was taken to Terre Haute, Indiana, a short time ago for treatment, died at that place last week. She leaves a husband and several children to mourn her loss.

The debate between Central Lake and Alba was postponed until the 22nd, because of the heavy storms which have made train service so uncertain.

O. Allen, a daughter and two sons have returned to Alba from Indiana.

Among Mancelona visitors for this week are Misses Edna Holmes and Arlene Ashbaugh, Mrs. D. Cross, Martin Duff, Ed. B. Blaine, and Mr. Benson.

Claude Wood, head swayer at the Dennis Lumber Co's mill has been ill for a few days. The mill has been shut down until someone can be found to take his place.

Mr. Hill, principal of the Alba High School was one of the judges at the debate between Charlevoix and Harbor Springs.

It was after Mrs. Belding's departure that Belding discovered in Nell a condition of mind that amazed and distressed him. She had suddenly become strangely wretched. She would tell him nothing. But after a while, when he had thought it out, he dated this deplorable change in Nell back to a day on which he had met Nell with Radford Chase. This indefatigable wooer had not in the least abandoned his suit. A slow surprise gathered upon Tom Belding when he saw that Nell, apparently, was accepting young Chase's attentions. At least, she no longer hid from him. Belding could not account for this, because he was sure Nell cordially despised the fellow. And toward the end he divined, if he did not actually know, that these Chases possessed some strange power over Nell, and were using it. That stirred a hate in Belding—a hate he had felt at the first and had manfully striven against, which now gave him over to dark brooding thoughts.

Midsummer passed, and the storms came late. But when they arrived they made up for tardiness. Belding did not remember so terrible a storm of wind and rain as that which broke the summer's drought.

The Chases had extended a main irrigation ditch down to Belding's farm, skipped the width of his ground, then had gone on down through Altar valley. They had exerted every influence to obtain right to connect these ditches by digging through his land, but Belding had remained obdurate. He refused to have any dealings with them. It was therefore with some curiosity and suspicion that he saw a gang of Mexicans once more at work upon these ditches.

At daylight, next morning a tremendous blast almost threw Belding out of his bed. It cracked the adobe walls of his house and broke windows and sent pans and crockery to the floor with a crash. Belding's idea was that the store of dynamite kept by the Chases for blasting had blown up. Hurriedly getting into his clothes, he went to Nell's room to reassure her; and, telling her to have a thought for their guests, he went out to see what had happened.

A great yellow cloud, like smoke, hung over the river. This appeared to be at the upper end of Belding's plot, and close to the river. When he reached his fence the smoke and dust were so thick he could scarcely breathe, and for a little while he was unable to see what had happened. Presently he made out a huge hole in the sand just about where the irrigation ditch had stopped near his line. For some reason or other, not clear to Belding, the Mexicans had set off an extraordinarily heavy blast at that point.

Belding pondered. He did not now for a moment consider an accidental discharge of dynamite. But why had this blast been set off? The loose sandy soil had yielded readily to shovel; there were no rocks; as far as construction of a ditch was concerned such a blast would have done more harm than good.

Slowly, with reluctant feet, Belding walked toward a green hollow, where in a cluster of willows lay the never-falling spring that his horses loved so well, and, indeed, which he loved no less.

It was just in time to see the last of the water. It seemed to sink as in quicksand. The shape of the hole had changed. The tremendous force of the blast had obstructed or diverted the underground stream of water.

Belding's never-falling spring had been ruined. What had made this little plot of ground green and sweet and fragrant was now no more. Belding's first feeling was for the pity of it. He thought how many times in the middle of hot summer nights he had come down to the spring to drink. Never again!

The pall of dust drifting over him, the din of the falling water up at the dam, diverted Belding's mind to the Chases. All at once he was in the harsh grip of a cold certainty. The blast had been set off intentionally to ruin his spring. What a hellish trick! No westerner, no Indian or Mexican, no desert man could have been guilty of such a crime. To ruin a beautiful, clear, cool, never-falling stream of water in the desert!

It was then that Belding's worry and indecision and brooding were as if they had never existed. He went directly to his room, and with an air that was now final he buckled on his gun belt. He looked the gun over and tried the action. He squared himself and walked a little more erect. Some long-lost individuality had returned to Belding.

"Let's see," he was saying. "I can get Carter to send the horses I've got left back to Waggon my brother. I'll make Nell take what money there is and go hunt up her mother. The Gales are ready to go—today, if I say the word. Nell can travel with them part way East. That's your game, Tom Belding, don't mistake me."

As he went out he encountered Mr. Gale coming up the walk. The long sojourn at Fortlorin River, despite the fact that it had been laden with a suspense which was gradually changing to a sad certainty, had been of great benefit to Dick's father. The dry air, the heat, and the quiet had made him, if not entirely a well man, certainly stronger than he had been in many years.

"Belding, what was that terrible roar?" asked Mr. Gale. "We were badly frightened until Miss Nell came to us. We feared it was an earthquake."

"Well, I'll tell you, Mr. Gale; we've had some quakes here, but none of them could hold a candle to this jar we just had."

Then Belding explained what had caused the explosion, and why it had been set off so close to his property. Heavy steps sounded outside on the flagstones, then the door rattled under a strong knock. Belding opened it. The Chases, father and son, stood beyond the threshold.

"Good morning, Belding," said the elder Chase. "We were routed out early by that big blast and came up to see what was wrong. All a blunder. The Greaser foreman was drunk yesterday, and his ignorant men made a mistake. Sorry if the blast bothered you. I was a little worried—you've always been so touchy—we never could get together. I hurried over, fearing maybe you might think the blast—you see, Belding."

"I see this, Mr. Ben Chase," interrupted Belding, in curt and ringing voice. "The blast was a mistake, the biggest you ever made in your life."

"What do you mean?" demanded Chase.

"You'll have to excuse me for a while, unless you're dead set on having it out right now. Mr. Gale and his family are leaving, and my daughter is going with them. I'd rather you'd wait a little."

"Nell going away!" exclaimed Radford Chase. He reminded Belding of an overgrown boy in disappointment.

"Yes. But—Miss Burton to you, young man—"

"Mr. Belding, I certainly would prefer a conference with you right now," interposed the elder Chase, cutting short Belding's strange speech. "There are other matters—important matters to discuss. They've got to be settled. May we step in, sir?"

"No, you may not," replied Belding, bluntly. "I'm sure particular who I invite into my house. But I'll go with you."

Belding stepped out and closed the door. "Come away from the house so the women won't hear the talk."

The elder Chase was purple with rage, yet seemed to be controlling it. The younger man looked black, sullen, impatient. Ben Chase found his voice about the time Belding halted under the trees out of earshot from the house.

"Sir, you've insulted me—my son. How dare you? I want you to understand that you're—"

"Chop that kind of talk to me, you interrupted Belding. He had always been profane, and now he certainly did not choose his language. Chase turned livid, gasped, and seemed about to give way to fury. But something about Belding evidently exerted a powerful quieting influence. "If you talk sense I'll listen," went on Belding.

"I want to make a last effort to propitiate you," began Chase, in his quick, smooth voice. That was a singular change to Belding—the dropping instantly into an easy flow of speech. "You've had losses here, and naturally you're sore. I don't blame you. But you can't see this thing from my side of the fence. Business is business. In business the best man wins. The law upheld those transactions of mine the honesty of which you questioned. Now I want to run that main ditch along the river, through your farm. Can't we make a deal? I'm ready to be liberal—to meet you more than halfway. I'll give you an interest in the company. I think I've influence enough up to the capitol to have you reinstated as inspector. A little reasonableness on your part will put you right again in Fortlorin River, with a chance of growing rich. There's a big future here."

My interest, Belding, has become personal. Radford is in love with your stepdaughter. He wants to marry her. Now let's get together not only in business, but in a family way. If my son's happiness depends upon having this girl, you may rest assured I'll do all I can to get her for him. I'll absolutely make good all your losses. Now what do you say?"

"No," replied Belding. "Your money can't buy a right of way across my ranch. And Nell doesn't want your son. That settles that."

"But you could persuade her."

"I won't, that's all."

"May I ask why?" Chase's voice was losing its suave quality, but it was even swifter than before.

"Sure. I don't mind your asking," replied Belding, in slow deliberation. "I wouldn't do such a low-down trick. Besides, if I would, I'd want it to be a man I was persuading for. I know Greasers—I know a Yaqui I'd rather give Nell to than your son."

Radford Chase began to roar in inarticulate rage. Belding paid no attention to him; indeed, he never glanced at the young man. The elder Chase checked a violent start.

"My son's offer of marriage is an honor—more an honor, sir, than you perhaps are aware of."

Belding made no reply. He waited coldly, sure of himself.

"Mrs. Belding's daughter has no right to the name of Burton," snapped Chase. "Did you know that?"

"I did not," replied Belding, quietly. "Well, you know it now," added Chase, belligerently.

"Sure you can prove what you say?" queried Belding, in the same cool, unemotional tone. It struck him strangely at the moment what little knowledge this man had of the West and of western character.

"Prove it? Why, yes, I think so, enough to make the truth plain to any reasonable man. I come from Peoria—was born and raised there. I went to school with Nell Warren. That was your wife's maiden name. She was a beautiful, gay girl. I knew Bob Burton well. He was a splendid fellow, but wild. Nobody ever knew for sure, but we all supposed he was engaged to marry Nell. He left Peoria, however, and soon after that the truth about Nell came out. She ran away. It was at least a couple of months before Burton showed up in Peoria. He did not stay long. Then for years nothing was heard of either of them. When word did come Nell was in Oklahoma, Burton was in Denver. There's a chance, of course, that Burton followed Nell and married her. That would account for Nell Warren taking the name of Burton. But it isn't likely. None of us ever heard of such a thing and wouldn't have believed it if we had. In a moment of amazement—when I recognized your wife as an old schoolmate—I blurted the thing out to Radford. You see now how little it matters to me, when I ask your stepdaughter's hand in marriage for my son."

Belding stood listening. The genuine emotion in Chase's voice was as strong as the ring of truth. Belding knew truth when he heard it.

"So you told my wife you'd respect her secret—keep her dishonor from her husband and daughter?" demanded Belding, his dark gaze sweeping back from the lane.

"What! I—?" stammered Chase.

"You made your son swear to be a man and die before he'd hint the thing to Nell?" went on Belding, and his voice rang louder.

Ben Chase had no answer. The red left, his face. His son slunk back against the fence.

"I say you never held this secret over the heads of my wife and her daughter?" thundered Belding.

He had his answer in the gray faces, in the lips that fear made mute. Like a flash Belding saw the whole truth of Mrs. Belding's agony, the reason for her departure; he saw what had been more call to keep your mouths shut?"

The elder Chase appeared fascinated by something he either saw or felt in Belding, and his gray face grew grayer. He put up a shaking hand. Then Radford Chase, livid and snarling, burst out: "I'll talk till I'm black in the face. You can't stop me!"

"You'll go black in the face, but it won't be from talking," hissed Belding. His big arm swept down, and when he threw it up the gun glittered in his hand. Simultaneously with the latter action peated out a shrill, penetrating whistle.

"The whistle of a horse! It froze Belding's arm aloft. For an instant he could not move even his eyes. The familiarity of that whistle was terrible in his power to rob him of strength. Then he heard the rapid, heavy pound of hoofs, and again the piercing whistle.

"Laddy, Dick has had no more than I gave you—indeed, not nearly so much."

"Shore he's had a lot of kisses then, for he hasn't hollered onct about this treatment."

"Perhaps he has," said Nell, with a blush; "and if you think that—they would help you to be reasonable I might—"

"Well, powerful fond as I am of you, just now kisses'll have to run second to bread an' butter."

"Oh, Laddy, what a gallant speech!" laughed Nell. "I'm sorry, but I've dad's orders."

"Laddy," interrupted Belding, "you've got to be broke in gradually to eating. Now you know that. You'd be the severest kind of a boss if you had some starved beggars on your hands."

"But I'm sick—I'm dyin'," howled Ladd.

"You were never sick in your life, and if all the bullet holes I see in you couldn't kill you, why, you never will die."

"Can I smoke?" queried Ladd, with sudden animation. "My Gawd, I used to smoke. Shore I've forgot. Nell, if you want to be reinstated in my gallery of angels, just find me a pipe an' tobacco."

"I've hung onto my pipe," said Jim, thoughtfully. "I reckon I had it empty in my mouth for seven years or so, wasn't it, Laddy? A long time! I can see the red lava an' the red haze, an' the red twilight creepin' up. It was hot an' some lonely. Then the wind, and always that awful silence! An' always Yaqui watchin' the west, an' Laddy with his checkers, an' Mercedes burnin' up, wastin' away to nothin' but eyes! It's all there—I'll never get rid—"

"Chop that kind of talk," interrupted Belding, bluntly. "Tell us where Yaqui took you—what happened to Rojas—why you seemed lost for so long."

"I reckon Laddy can tell all that best; but when it come to Rojas I'll tell what I seen, an' so'll Dick an' Thorne. Laddy—Nell's rojas. Bar none, that was the—"

"I'm a sick man, but I can talk," put in Ladd, "an' shore I don't want the whole story exaggerated none by Jim."

Ladd filled the pipe Nell brought, puffed ecstatically at it, and settled himself upon the bench for a long talk. He talked for two hours—talked till his voice weakened to a husky whisper. At the conclusion of his story there was an impressive silence. Then Elsie Gale stood up, and with her hand on Dick's shoulder, her eyes bright and warm as sunlight, she showed the rangers what a woman thought of them and of the Yaqui. Nell clung to Dick, weeping silently. Mrs. Gale was overcome, and Mr. Gale, very white and quiet, helped her up to her room.

Early in the afternoon of the next day Belding encountered Dick at the water barrel.

"Belding, this is river water, and muddy at that," said Dick. "Lord knows I'm not kicking. But I've dreamed some of our cool running spring, and I want a drink from it."

"Never again, son. The spring's gone, faded, sunk, dry as dust."

"Dry!" Gale slowly brightened. "We've had rains. The river's full. The spring out to be overflowing. What's wrong? Why is it dry?"

"Dick, seeing you're interested, I may as well tell you that a big charge of nitroglycerin choked my spring."

"Nitroglycerin?" echoed Gale. Then he gave a quick start. "My mind's been on home, Nell, my family. But all the same I felt something was wrong here with the ranch, with you, with Nell. . . . Belding, that ditch there is dry. The roses are dead. The little green in that grass has come with the rains. What's happened? The ranch's run down. Now I look around I see a change."

"Some change, yes," replied Belding, bitterly. "Listen, son."

Briefly, but not the less forcibly for that, Belding related his story of the operations of the Chases. With deep voice that had many a break and tremor he told Gale how Nell had been hounded by Radford Chase, how her mother had been driven by Ben Chase—the whole sad story.

"So that's the trouble! Poor little girl!" murmured Gale, brokenly. "I felt something was wrong. Nell wasn't natural, like her old self."

"It was hard on Nell," said Belding, simply. "But it'll be better now you're here. Dick, I know the girl. She'll refuse to marry you and you'll have a hard job to break her down, as hard as the one you just rode in off of. I think I know you, too, or I wouldn't be saying—"

"For God's sake, you don't believe what Chase said?" queried Gale, in passionate haste. "It's a lie. I swear it's a lie. I know it's a lie. And I've got to tell Nell this minute. Come on in with me. I want you, Belding. Oh, why didn't you tell me sooner?"

Belding felt himself dragged by an iron arm into the sitting room, out into the patio, and across that to where Nell sat in her door. At sight of them she gave a little cry, drooped for an instant, then raised a pale, still face, with eyes beginning to darken.

"Dearest, I know now why you are not wearing my mother's ring," said Gale, steadily and low-voiced.

"Dick, I am not worthy," she replied, and held out a trembling hand with the ring lying in the palm.

Swift as light Gale caught her hand and slipped the ring back upon the third finger.

"Nell! Look at me. It is your engagement ring. . . . Listen. I don't believe this—this thing that's been torturing you. I know it's a lie. I am absolutely sure your mother will prove it a lie. She must have suffered once—" perhaps there was a sad error—but the thing you fear is not true. But, hear me, dearest; even if it was true it wouldn't make the slightest difference to me. I want you all the more to be my wife—to let me make you forget—to—"

She rose swiftly with the passionate abandon of a woman stirred to her depths, and she kissed him.

"Oh, Dick, you're good—so good! You'll never know—just what those words mean to me. They've saved me—I think."

"Then, dearest, it's all right?" Dick questioned, eagerly. "You will keep your promise? You will marry me?"

The glow, the light faded out of her face, and now the blue eyes were almost black. She drooped and shook her head.

They had forgotten Belding, who stepped back into the shade.

"I love you with my whole heart and soul. I'd die for you," whispered Nell, with clenching hands. "But I won't disgrace you. Dick, you give not one thought to your family. Would they receive me as your wife?"

"They surely would," replied Gale, steadily.

"No! Oh no!"

"You're wrong, Nell. I'm glad you said that. You give me a chance to prove something. I'll go this minute and tell them all. I'll be back here in less than—"

"Dick, you will not tell her—your mother?" cried Nell, with her eyes streaming. "You will not? Oh, I can't bear it! She's so proud! And, Dick, I love her. Don't tell her! Please, please don't! She'll be going soon. She needn't ever know—about me. Please don't go!"

"Nell, I'm sorry. I hate to hurt you. But you're wrong. You can't see things clearly. This is your happiness I'm fighting for. And it's my life. . . . Wait here, dear. I won't be long."

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and laggard. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, irritable stomach, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure and makes a delightful, effective lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

SULPHUR CLEARS ROUGH, RED SKIN

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

To the Voters of Charlevoix County and Vicinity:

My home has been in this Circuit for some thirty years. My wife, my children and myself share with you the conditions that exist in this Circuit.

You have a right to your own opinions as to whether the Court has been conducted so as to keep down expenses and at the same time to accomplish the good of the community.

I favor prompt action in Court; delays are expensive and dangerous.

The law should be enforced firmly, fairly and promptly.

A law not enforced is dead.

Enforcement by the Court is needed to give life to any law.

I offer you energetic, faithful service to the best of my ability.

Will you join with other friends and help me to win.

Sincerely,
PARM C. GILBERT.

To The Voters of Charlevoix Co.

The opponents of Judge Mayne are making an issue of the probation system as applied by him in this circuit.

That we might know other facts, we have examined the statute, the State and County records and find that the system in practice is in accordance with the law and is productive of good and is economical and should be continued and extended for the following reasons:

1. It makes better men and women.
2. The prisoner who is vicious or a menace to society is not placed on probation.
3. It is economical.

We are raising by taxation to maintain our State prisons at Jackson, Ionia and Marquette, annually $1,000,000.00 and including our Industrial Schools for boys at Lansing, and Home for girls at Adrian, nearly $2,000,000.00 a year.

The budget for the next two years as approved, contains a very material increase for the first three named institutions over the amount stated.

It costs us to care for each person committed to prison per year, the following sum:

The Jackson prison.....	$397.53
The Ionia prison.....	344.89
The Marquette prison.....	460.44
Industrial School for boys at Lansing.....	547.54
Industrial Home for girls at Adrian.....	603.06

In addition to the above every prison sentence imposed carries the following additional items of expense, viz: Clerk's fee, Sheriff's fee and traveling expenses for himself and prisoner (4 tickets and hotel), and a court trial, amounting to about $200.00. The total cost for the first year is $550.00 and upwards. The actual time served will equal or exceed 1 1/2 years to two years under each sentence, and the minimum expenses will be $700.00. This sum is saved the people under the Probation System. The general rule is that a person who stands and is convicted by the jury will not be probated.

The aggregate saving in expenses under the Probation System in this circuit based upon the actual number probated covering a period of eight years last past will exceed $20,000.00 per year.

We respectfully submit these facts for your consideration.

A study of the facts we believe, will convince any fair-minded person that the Probation System as practiced in this circuit is a success.

WHEN EVERY MOVE HURTS

Lame every morning, achy and stiff all day, worse when it's damp or chilly? Suspect your kidneys and try the remedy your neighbors use. Ask your neighbor!

Erle Farmer, railroad engineer, East Jordan, says: "I had a sore feeling across the small of my back that stayed with me for days and I had stitches in my back when I wasn't able to move at all and my back was always lame. When I stooped I could hardly get up again. Mornings I felt tired. Black specks came before me and blurred my eyes so I couldn't see. Through the night I often had to get up and the secretions were not only painful but always filled with dark sediment. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a few boxes at Gidley & Mac's Drug Store and they fixed me up in good shape."

FIRE DESTROYS INSANE ASYLUM

WEST WING OF BUILDING HOUSING MOST DANGEROUS MANIACS BURNS—25 DEAD.

HEROIC ATTENDANTS LOSE LIVES

Cool Handling of Situation By Dead Guards Prevents Greater Holocaust, Saves Hundreds.

New York—A terrific blast, set by dredgers in Hell Gate Saturday night, rocked the buildings of the Manhattan State hospital for the insane on Ward's island in the East river and set the 6,338 inmates cowering and wailing with a sense of impending doom.

Attendants calmed them and got them to bed, but before morning the doom fantasied by the disordered brains had come true, for 22 of the maddest. They had been burned to death in a fierce fire that swept the west wing of the main building. Three heroic attendants died with them, striving to the last to rescue them.

Hospital authorities and City medical Examiner Norris, who rushed to the scene said that in all probability the blast had been the immediate cause of the fire. According to their theory, it caused a break in the insulation of electric wires in the attic of the building. A short circuit, they think, did the rest.

The fire was discovered at 5:05 o'clock by Michael Campbell, an attendant. His calm, heroic work, and that of James Hill, attendant in charge, and Patrick Billigan of Hartford, Conn., George A. De Emo and George F. Reiss, the three attendants who were burned to death, prevented a far greater holocaust.

As fast as the maniacs—declared by Superintendent Nathan Heyman, to have been the most dangerous on the island—could be marshalled from their rooms, they were marched in orderly procession to the fireproof dining hall, far from the scene of the fire. The battle against the flames was hampered by two obstacles. One was the near zero weather in which the firemen worked; the other, and more serious, was the extreme difficulty in getting apparatus to the place.

The Ward Island hospital, with its 6,338 inmates, is said to be the largest institution for the insane in the world. The main building, a huge, rambling structure of Gothic architecture, was occupied in 1872, and hence is 50 years old.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

We do not choose our parts in this world, and have nothing to do with the selection. Our simple duty is confined to playing them well.—Epicurus.

FISH AND OTHER DISHES

In the realm of adventure there is no more interesting story than that of the salmon, who leave their haunts in the sea, where they have grown fat and mature, guided by the mysterious instinct given them by their Creator; they return to the rivers of fresh water, where they were born. In the northern Pacific coasts they ascend rivers often blocked by rocks so steep that it is necessary to climb them; however, they leap up the sides or use ladders provided by men to aid them on their journey. Coming in great numbers, it is easy to catch them. Here they lay their eggs and their young are hatched.

Experiments with canned and fresh fish prove that each is equally well handled by the stomach. The tuna fish is becoming a close rival to the salmon. Unlike the salmon its meat is almost white in color, and has a delicate flavor much like chicken; it has been called the "turkey of the sea." Tuna is especially well liked as a salad fish and for creamed dishes.

Salmon Salad.—Drain a can of salmon, shred it fine, mix with one-half cupful each of chopped cabbage, celery and fresh coconut (the desiccated may be used if washed in milk to remove the sugar), a sour pickle finely chopped and sufficient salad dressing to mix well. Serve on head lettuce, leaves.

Lemon Catsup.—Mix a tablespoonful of grated horseradish with the grated rind of four lemons, add three scant teaspoonfuls of salt, the juice of the lemons, three dessertspoonfuls of white mustard seed and celery seed, four cloves and a good dash of cayenne pepper. Boil thirty-five minutes then bottle. This is delicious served with fish.

Hawaiian Dessert.—Soak a cupful of tapioca in a cupful of cold water overnight. In the morning place in a double boiler with three cupfuls of brown sugar and enough water to cover. Add pineapple juice as required and cook until the tapioca is transparent, stirring frequently. Serve with shredded pineapple and whipped cream.

Fish That Have "Voices."

The sunfish, a large fish sometimes found in British waters, is said to utter a distinct groan when it is removed from its native element; and the carp and the barbel will croak when treated in a similar manner. The Jewfish, found in the Gulf of Mexico, is said to emit a booming sound, and some of the blennies are able to utter a cry that has been likened unto a shriek.
