EAST JORDAN GETS SECOND PLACE IN PETOSKEY MEET.

East Jordan High School's first Track Meet of the season was held at Petoskey last Saturday.

The members of the Petoskey team again showed their class by scoring more points than the other three contestants combined.

East Jordan was able to get four, second places, a tie for second, and two third places, for second place in the meet.

Harbor Springs was third with Boyne City in fourth place. The failure to place in the quarter-mile was somewhat of a disappointment to East Jordan but Love, upon striking a hole at the two hundred and twenty yard mark was upset and failed to finish.

The work of McCalman of East Jordan, in the one hundred, two hundred and twenty and pole vault was the feature of the Jordan squad, although Walker in the shot and discus showed himself to be a sure point winner in any northern Michigan meet. Smith's placing of second in the broad-jumps shows him to possess possibilities in that event. East Jordan's relay team got a second place and is developing rapidly.

The next meet will be held at East Jordan on the new Track Field which is, and will be, in excellent condition due to the early week rain.

It will be worth your money and time to be at the Meet in East Jordan Saturday of this week, May 19th at 1:30 p. m. and see the two Georges of Petoskey perform.

Ann Arbor—Word has been received here last week of the death in Grand Rapids, of Professor Herbert N. Schmidt, member of the faculty of the University of Michigan. Professor Schmidt was on leave of absence this year, but had expected to return to his duties next fall.

Adrian—The annual county high school track and field meet will be held May 25, on Thompson field, at Hudson, Mich., plans having been completed for the event. Morenet, Clinton and Blissfield schools, with their teams of last year practically intact, are expected to furnish interesting contests.

Escanaba—Francis Rouleau, 25 years old, died from injuries suffered when he slipped and fell into a boiling vat at the Northwestern Co-operative plant at Gladstone, where he was employed. His body was almost submerged and he was terribly scalded. Death resulted from burns and poisoning from chemicals in the vat.

Battle Creek—Burt Wilcox, who has been engaged in the wholesale butter and egg business here for the last 20 years, died, last week, from a stroke of paralysis. His widow, Edna Dole Wilcox, is well known about the state as musician and director of the largest mandolin orchestra in this part of the country.

Battle Creek—Preparations for making Camp Custer one of the finest summer military training camps in the United States this year are being made. The main body of regular army troops will arrive here in another week following which final arrangements for the training of thousands of rookies and student officers will be completed.

Dowagiac—Contractors began the paving of four miles of road from the north Cass county line to Decatur as part of the Dixie highway, last week. When finished in August, motorists will have a pavement from South Bend to Kalamazoo. Albion—The city council voted to lease from the New York Central railroad for the nominal sum of one dollar per year the former company station grounds here, and will maintain them as part of the city park system.

Flint—Ground was broken last week for the South End Baptist Evangelical church. Because only part of the building fund has been subscribed, members of the congregation will help to build the new edifice.

Battle Creek—Afraid he would be late to school if he waited for a Michigan Central freight train, last week, Joseph Slayton, 7 years old, dashed under the crossing gates and started across the tracks. He was hit by a train and killed.

Saginaw—Gideon Cardinal, 38, formerly an inmate of Pontiac State hospital, who killed Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shover, near Saginaw with an axe, Wednesday, two weeks ago, was taken to Ionia State Hospital for the Criminal Insane last week.

Adrian—Miss Minetta, a senior at Adrian college, has been awarded one of the six scholarships granted annually by the University of Michigan to state college representatives. Throughout her college course Miss Nicolai has never received a grade lower than "B."

Ball Team Warming Up

Preliminary Game at Harbor Springs, May 20th.

The East Jordan Ball Club was out to practice, Monday, for the first time and the prospects look good for the coming season.

Sam Kamradt, the king of the swatters of last year's league, batted and fielded in mid-season form. He cracked a few in the left field bleachers and made sensational catches; his speed is like Bobby Veach's. Rod Davis, the lightning fielder, showed up a little late for practice but showed up good for the time being. Morgan played short with pep and we look for him to be the best shortstop in the league this year. Hank Kamradt, a brother of Sam, was full of pep and pegged to second in mid-season form. We look for him to be one of our first strong catchers and right fielder. He sure is wicked with the stick and whether the breaks are with him or against him he always has one of those home-coming smiles on his face.

Ward, who is trying out for first base, sure fields his position like Geo. Sizer.

Covey, the second baseman of many a hard fought battle on the ball diamond, is sure some fielder; he fields his position like Rogers Hornsby and boy he sure can smack the old pill on the nose.

Elmer Smith, the high school sensation, is sure a comer and will make a good bid for the team. If he keeps up his perfect fielding he sure will be some asset to the club. He fields and throws like Bobby Jones and loses no time in getting the ball to first base. At present he is handicapped with a swollen thumb, but will be as good as ever in a few days.

Elmer Hayner, the Afton kid, is a fine little player but has some faults that he will have to correct if he wants to beat out some of his team-mates for a berth. He is fast as lightning but is too anxious to get the ball and make his throws. This is his first year with fast company.

The team will be out to practice this Friday. All players urged to be present on time.

East Jordan team plays a pre-schedule game at Harbor Springs May 20th. All players requested to be at Bulow Bros. at 12:00 noon.

Battle Creek—Another cottage division for tuberculosis ex-soldiers is to be opened at Roosevelt American Legion hospital at Camp Custer within a few days, according to official announcement. Approximately 185 Michigan vets now are registered there and more are arriving daily. Four more units will be opened before the institution reaches capacity accommodation of 450 men.

Kalamazoo—Allen F. Maybee, of this city, has been chosen a member of the Columbia university debating team which will tour the British Isles in June for a series of debates with British university teams. Maybee is the only freshman ever to make a Columbia varsity team. The team will debate the question: "Resolved that President Harding's proposal to that the United States enter the international court of justice merits the approval of this assembly."

Grand Rapids—Working side by side for 54 years of their span of three score and eleven, is the record established by William and Willis Hardy, twins, now employed in the polishing department at a furniture plant here. From fighting log jams on the Grand and Pere Marquette rivers in the days of their youth, they have carried on through all their years and now are more bound up in one another than ever. Each morning the men leave their homes, which are not far apart, and walk together to their work.

Phrenology.
The brain that counts is from the ear to the top of the head and the ear to the forehead. The back part of the brain only shows affection and it is not nice affection, unless the head is rather rounded out between the crown of the head and the neck at the back. The more the head juts out at the back, the more affectionate and kind will be the nature.

DUNCAN McCOLMAN PASSED AWAY THURSDAY LAST.

Duncan McColman, well-known East Jordan resident, passed away at his home in this city last Thursday, May 10th, following a two weeks illness from pneumonia and kidney trouble.

Deceased was born at Collingswood, Ont., Aug. 20th, 1864, his parents being Alec and Florence McColman. On Aug. 8th, 1881, he was united in marriage to Louisa Gill at Sterling, Mich. They came to East Jordan some thirteen years ago and have since made this place their home.

Deceased is survived by the wife and the following daughters and son—Mrs. Jos. Clarambeau of Boyne City; Mrs. Frank Brackett of Detroit; Mrs. Florence Reitzel of Grand Rapids; Duncan McColman of Detroit; Lillian and Beatrice McColman of East Jordan. One granddaughter, Ellagene Reitzel; a niece, Mrs. John Anderson of East Jordan. Also four brothers and four sisters, viz.: Archie and Adam of Saskatchewan, Samson and Neil of Manitoulin Island; Mrs. Alec Moffett of Sterling, Mich.; Mrs. Isabelle Kendrick of the Canadian Soo; Mrs. Wm. Kendrick and Mrs. Tim Rowe of Providence Bay, Manitoulin Island.

E. J. H. S. DEFEATS BOYNE CITY H. S. BASE BALL TEAM

The E. J. H. S. baseball team defeated Boyne City 13 to 10 last Friday thus avenging the football and baseball defeats of the past two seasons. The game was very slow in its early stages, but speeded up after the 4th inning.

Poquette, who pitched for the visitors, was hit hard throughout the game. Peebles led the onslaught with three hits in four times at bat.

Johnson's wildness in the second and fourth innings along with hits by Boyne City and misplays by East Jordan made it possible for Boyne City to score ten runs. Peebles relieved Johnson in the 5th inning and his excellent pitching and air-tight support blanked the visitors during the remainder of the game.

East Jordan plays Central Lake here Friday and Boyne City there next Wednesday, May 23rd. Bay City Central will play here June 8th.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

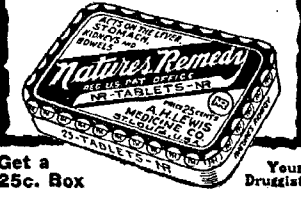

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wycliff's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

WHEN EVERY MOVE HURTS

Lame every morning, achy and stiff all day, worse when it's damp or chilly? Suspect your kidneys and try the remedy your neighbors use. Ask your neighbor!

Erle Farmer, railroad engineer, East Jordan, says: "I had a sore feeling across the small of my back that stayed with me for days and I had stitches in my back when I wasn't able to move at all and my back was always lame. When I stooped I could hardly get up again. Mornings I felt tired. Black specks came before me and blurred my eyes so I couldn't see. Through the night I often had to get up and the secretions were not only painful but always filled with dark sediment. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a few boxes at Gidley & Mac's Drug Store and they fixed me up in good shape."

THE GREAT EVENT

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

INTO each life shall come some great Event,
Obliterating all that was before
And making all that comes inconsequent,
The measure of our life forevermore.
Some episode our whole career inclines,
Some hour of sweetness so surpassing all
It is the truth in all life's faulty lines,
In all the songs of birds the perfect call.

And so that song has summoned even me;
I, who had been busy with so many things,
The small concerns that seemed so great to be,
I have been lifted up on sudden wings.
The night is fair that once was dark and drear,
The day is joyous that was full of care;
The clouds are gone, the sun, the stars, appear,
And now the world is beauty everywhere.

Some alchemy transfigures all the earth,
Toil now is pleasure, once a weary round;
New friends draw near, the old have greater worth,
The wealth of human hearts my heart has found,
Now merrily I climb the hard ascent,
But now the grass is green, the sky is blue;
Into each life shall come some great Event,
And, in my own, that great Event was You.

Immense Loss Caused by Rust.

Sir Robert Hatfield says the world loses about $2,500,000,000 a year by the rusting and decaying of iron and steel.

Experience Valuable.

It is as much waste to take bread out of the oven too soon as it is to allow it to remain there too long. Prevention of waste requires the exercise of judgment which is gained only through experience. This is why experience is a valuable asset.

Gum-Dipped Cords

Gaining New Fame for Service

194% Sales Increase in Last Six Months Shows Trend Toward Firestone

The public has emphatically spoken. The popular preference in all territories is unmistakably the Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord.

A standard of service has been set by these famous tires without parallel in the past. It has brought a sales increase of 194% for the past six months over the same period of a year ago—the greatest gain in all Firestone history.

The Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord is the mighty achievement which has enabled Firestone to break the tremendous record of past Firestone success.

The tire buying public has been aroused to the results in economical mileage of the Firestone process of double gum-dipping. The buying-swing toward Firestone shows how it has advanced the public's standard of tire value.

Ask owners about Firestone performance on their cars. Note the big taxicab fleets Firestone-equipped. Watch the new cars you see—just from the factories; Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are seen everywhere in fast increasing numbers.

Get the maximum extra mileage that only the Firestone name assures you. Only by insisting on this name can you be sure of getting the genuine gum-dipped construction.

Quart of Water Cleans Kidneys

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder is Troubling You

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys may be fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

BLUEBERRY MADE LARGE INDUSTRY

Varieties Bred With Berries More Than Three-Quarters Inch in Diameter.

ACID SOIL IS REQUIREMENT

About 20,000 Hybrids Have Been Fruited at Government's Testing Plantation at Whitesbog, Near Browns Mills, N. J.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

After experiments extending over 10 years, the United States Department of Agriculture has established the culture of the blueberry as a commercial industry and has bred varieties with berries more than three-fourths of an inch in diameter. The most outstanding cultural characteristic of the blueberry is its requirement of an acid soil. It does not thrive in ordinary rich garden soil that has a neutral alkaline reaction.

The Katherine Blueberry, a Department of Agriculture Selected Hybrid, With Berries Three-Quarters of an Inch in Diameter.

The department's testing plantation for hybrids is at Whitesbog, near Browns Mills, N. J. About 20,000 different hybrids have been fruited thus far. Propagation material of some half dozen of the best of these hybrids has been placed in the hands of several nurserymen, but only one of them has carried the propagation to the point of offering plants for sale, and only one variety of these hybrids, Pioneer, is as yet commercially available.

Misleading Advertisements.

Unfortunately a few nurserymen are taking advantage of the work that has been done in the domestication and improvement of the blueberry to deceive the public by advertising blueberries in a very misleading manner. One New York nurseryman has been using in an advertisement an illustration of a hybrid blueberry taken from a publication of the Department of Agriculture issued in 1916. The illustration is used in such a way as to lead the reader to believe that this firm has for sale blueberries of the kind shown in the illustration, when as a matter of fact ordinary wild blueberries, first transplanted to a nursery, are furnished in response to the advertisement. Furthermore, advertisements issued by this firm give very misleading information. One of their advertisements, in the February number of a well-known garden magazine, states that "by repeated transplanting, we perfected the root system of the plants" that "now, you may grow blueberries as easily as any other garden berries"; and that "starting with our nursery-grown plants assures success under all conditions." These statements give a very erroneous and misleading idea of the conditions necessary for success in blueberry culture.

Name Should Scare 'Em.

It is estimated, says the United States Department of Agriculture, that from 300,000 to 400,000 pounds of para-dichloro-benzene was used against the peach borer in Georgia last fall.

So if life be short at best,
If we wonder what and why,
Here's a toast to pledge with zest:

MEALS FOR THE DAY

Feeding the family is a very important business, and one which cannot be done successfully without study of individual, occupation, climate, age and health.

Heavy salads prepared of meats, molded fish and such combinations fit into a light luncheon, as they can be the main dish, while a fruit salad may make a most acceptable dessert, following a hearty main dish.

Ragout of Chicken.—Clean and disjoint a large fowl. Take the dark meat freed from the bones and put through a meat chopper. Season with salt, pepper, a clove of garlic, and add a well-beaten egg. Make into small balls and cover with water; simmer until the meat is tender. Make a white sauce, using the chicken broth, season with salt, pepper and a teaspoonful of curry, add the meat balls, cook one-half hour; then add the diced white meat, which has been well cooked with the bones. Serve when well heated with cooked rice, hot.

Marshmallow Chocolate.—Dissolve one-half cupful of sugar in one-fourth of a cupful of water and let it boil five minutes; melt four squares of chocolate over hot water and pour the sirup into it, stirring all the time. Scald the milk, combine the two mixtures, place in a double boiler and stir, boiling several minutes. Cut marshmallows (one dozen) in small dice and drop into the chocolate while hot. Set aside until cool, then beat briskly and pack in ice until thoroughly chilled. Serve in glasses with a spoonful of whipped cream on top of each.

Brown Stew of Carrots.—Mash and scrape a dozen large carrots. Drop them into boiling water and cook until tender. Cut into balls with a potato cutter; add to a pint of rich brown sauce, prepared from stock, catsup, cayenne pepper and onion juice to season. Simmer twenty minutes; thicken the sauce after removing the carrots; return them to the sauce and serve very hot.

WHOLESALE FOOD FOR CHILD

Where Given Quart of Milk and Butter on Bread Avoid All Kinds of Fatty Foods.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There is more than an ounce of fat (at least two and one-half level table-spoonfuls) in a quart of whole milk. If the healthy child is given a quart of milk, and has butter on his bread, he gets enough fat, and that which he receives is in wholesome form. It is well, therefore, the United States Department of Agriculture believes, not to give children such fatty foods as pastry, fried meats, doughnuts or rich cakes, as experience has shown that in these the fats are not in so good a form for them. If the child is constipated, the occasional use of cream or salad oil is desirable, for fat in abundance is laxative.

Studebaker

THE BIG-SIX SPEEDSTER, COMPLETELY EQUIPPED AS ILLUSTRATED, $1835

$45,000,000 Worth of Studebaker Big-Sixes in 1922

The public paid more than forty-five million dollars for new Studebaker Big-Six automobiles in 1922, buying more of this model than of any other car selling in the same price field.

In the entire world there were only eleven other automobile manufacturers whose total sale of all models equaled the sale of Studebaker Big-Sixes for 1922, and no other manufacturer sold as many cars of the Big-Six class. In addition to the Big-Six, Studebaker builds the Special-Six and the Light-Six in large volume.

For the first quarter of 1923, Big-Six sales showed an increase of 70 per cent over the same period of 1922, evidencing the growing popularity of this model. Big-Six popularity is the result of Big-Six superiority. Materials and workmanship are unexcelled in any car at any price, and unequalled in any car at the Big-Six price.

With its long 126-inch wheel base, big 4½-inch tires, heavy frame, scientifically distributed load, long Studebaker-made springs, the Big-Six Speedster rides more comfortably than most cars selling at much more money. Its 3½ x 5 motor delivers a world of power, plenty of speed and a quickness of getaway hard to equal.

The price is the result of quantity production.

The name STUDEBAKER is assurance of quality. It has stood for high grade transportation for seventy-one years.

Making the Home Bright and Cheerful

"BEAUTIFUL! Walls and woodwork that look as if a great water color artist had tinted them by hand in a moment of inspiration."

This is the best description that could be given of the wonderful effects secured by using Washable Interior Colors on your walls and ceilings.

The result of such painting produces entirely different results from those which can be had by the use of ordinary Flat Wall Paints.

Bradley & Vrooman Washable Interior Colors

Are soft and velvety—most pleasing to the eye. They dry with a subdued artistic "sheen" which satisfies that inborn craving all of us have for that which is unique and harmonious.

They are superior in every respect to kalsomine and wallpaper and more sanitary. The cost is small—the results most satisfying. Try them in your home—you will be gratified and pleasantly surprised.

Paint Doesn't Cost Money —It Saves It!

Unless your home is protected inside and outside by repainting at least once every four years, you will lose in repairs and lessened value, from five to ten times what the paint and labor would cost.

Paint that is fresh always yields maximum satisfaction. B. & V. Washable Interior Colors are invariably fresh and good because they are combined in the base and Tinter way on the job.

PLOT TO KILL MARSHAL FOCH

POLAND FOILS WOULD-BE ASSASSINS — THIRTY REDS ARRESTED.

HANG LOR CURZON IN EFFIGY

Prepare to Sever Relations—Soviet Representative On Way to Conference.

Paris—Thirty young Russian Reds, from the Ukraine, have been arrested in Poland for a plot to assassinate Marshal Foch with dynamite bombs according to a dispatch from Cracow. Marshal Foch went to Poland to attend the army maneuvers. His visit was seen as a move on the part of France to strengthen her claim upon Poland's good will and to stiffen Polish military resistance to the bolshevik threat on the north and east.

Moscow—Militia workers look over Moscow in a fever of patriotism this week-end.

A great national demonstration against Great Britain brought thousands, granted a holiday by the government, to the capital and mass meetings of Saturday had their aftermath in further demonstrations Sunday.

Many peasants, as distinguished from the workers, who are loyal to a man to the soviet rule, were among the throngs that swept through Moscow streets during the night, and applauded fiery speeches in which the gauntlet to Britain, to imperialism, capitalism and Fascism, and to most of the rest of the world, was thrown down.

Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, was hanged in effigy.

London—The tense situation created by Great Britain's ultimatum to Russia and a reply, understood to be couched in defiant terms, now on its way here, was discussed by cabinet members in secret conference here Sunday.

Both Russia and Britain are making plans for a possible break in relations.

Leonard Krassin, soviet representative in London, is flying here to wind up his affairs if the trade agreement between this country and Russia is abrogated by Britain.

For the first time in history one views the spectacle of the main party in parliament aligned with a foreign power against Great Britain.

The laborites have sympathized openly with the Russian stand and urged everything possible be done to avert a break that would mean increased unemployment and possible war.

TURKS SCORE DEBT VICTORY

Angora to Settle Foreign Obligations Privately.

Lausanne—Following another sweeping Turkish diplomatic victory on the question of the Ottoman debt, only one important issue—rights of foreigners in Turkey—remains before the Near East peace conference.

If the Allies yield on this issue the Turks will have gained a complete victory in both the old and the present Lausanne conferences.

The Allies gave in on the Ottoman debt question when they agreed to exclude from the treaty the method and amount of payments which Turkey must make to coupon holders. This will force those holding coupons on the Turkish debt to settle privately with the Turkish government, the same as being done now at Angora regarding the English, French and Italian concessions.

The Allies already have granted concessions in the dispute over what rights Turkey will guarantee to foreigners for the protection of life and property. They are now asking what seems to be nothing more than a mere pretense at protection, but the Turks are not willing to grant even this.

There is every reason to believe that the Turks finally will win out even on this last disputed issue thus completing their full diplomatic conquest for the nationalist program. The program on which they stand is:

- 1.—Absolute recognition on equal grounds with every nation of Europe.
2.—Absolute abolition of every form of foreign control or intervention or surveillance within the Turkish boundaries.
3.—Establishment and maintenance of the Turkish racial majority and supremacy within the Turkish state.
When these assurances have been obtained then the Turks will be ready to join the League of Nations and participate in world affairs on an equality with all Europeans.

Wrote First Modern Novel.
Who was the first modern English novelist? Samuel Richardson (1689-1761) is credited with that distinction. From early youth he was a printer. When he was fifty some publishers desiring a letter writer for people who could not express themselves asked him to prepare it. He made these letters tell a connective story. The result was the first modern novel, "Pamela" (1740).

I'm plumb sure that if we-all didn't take the money Molly 'ud pull out her pcket-pin an' say we wasn't playin' fair an' square with her. I figger we can do this. We can use the money, keepin' account of it, puttin' it into stock an' improvements that'll pay fo' themselves long befo' Molly comes of age an' my guerden papers play out. That way we'll have the benefit of the capital an' keep it ready to turn over to her if she ever needs it. I don't believe she'll ever take one red of it. It was a gamble with her an' she's a thoroughbred sport. But, in case anything ever turns up, or she gets married, we'll have it handy."

"Figger she's goin' to marry that young Keith? I sure hate to think of Molly hitchin' up with a tenderfoot. But I subscribe to Sandy's scheme on these here dividends of ours."

"Count me in," said Mormon. And so the affair was settled.

Of Pillsoll little was heard. The gambler had deserted that profession, and stayed close to his horse ranch. It lay alone, and few visited it save Pillsoll's own associates. Rumors drifted concerning Pillsoll's remarkable herd increase of saleable horses, but, unless proof of actual operation was forthcoming, there was small chance of pinning anything down in the way of illegal work. Wyatt once, staggering out of some blind pig in Hereford, babbled in maudlin drunkenness of his determination to get even with Pillsoll for stealing his sweetheart. For Wyatt, for the sake of the girl, had gone back to Pillsoll's employ.

Thoughts of Pillsoll did not bother Sandy's head. The "old man" of the Three Star—bearing the cowman's inevitable title for the head of the management, whether young or old, male or female—carried out his long-cherished plans for additional water-supply, for alfalfa planting, for registered bulls and high-grade cows. He studied hard, he got in touch with the state experimental developments, he subscribed for magazines that told of cattle breeding, he sent soils for analysis, and young Ed, coming home from his first term, found, somewhat to his chagrin, that Sandy was far ahead of him in both the theory and practice of ranching.

The days multiplied into weeks and the weeks into months. Sandy received one letter from Brandon that seemed to presage another visit across the line. It was terse, characteristic of the man.

"My Dear Bourke:
"We are still losing three and four-year-olds, and the evidence points to their drifting over toward Pillsoll. We have traced up some of the links leading from this end. To be quite frank, the authorities of your own county do not seem over-dissatisfied to bother in the matter, and we are taking things in our own hands. We have set a trap for Jim Pillsoll and have hopes he will walk into it if he is the guilty party.
"The favor I want of you is to tip me off if Pillsoll appears about to leave the country. We have a tip that he expects to do so before long.

If you get wind of this a wire would be much appreciated by me.
"Sincerely yours,
"W. J. BRANDON."

With the founding of the Three Star ranch the lives of the partners had changed a good deal. They held responsibilities, they owned a home and they lived there. None of them, since they were children, had ever known the close companionship of a young girl. Mormon's matrimonial adventures had been foredoomed shipwrecks on the sands of time, his wives marital pirates preying on his good nature and earnings. Molly had leavened their existences in a way that two of them hardly suspected, and the yeast of affection was still working. Each hung to the hope that she might return to the ranch again to stay and each felt that hope was a faint one.

When, at last, there came the news, from Molly herself and from Mrs. Keith, that Keith was coming out to make inspection of his Casey Town properties, that he was traveling in a private car with his son, with Molly and her governess-companion, Miss Nicholson, and that the two latter would get off at Hereford for a visit to the Three Star, Sandy went about with a whistle. Sam breathed sauntering melodies through the harmonica and Mormon beamed all over. The illumination was apparent. Sam told him he looked "all lit up, like a Chinese lantern" and Mormon beamed the more.

Molly's letter was primed with delight. Mrs. Keith's contained regrets that her physicians did not think the journey would be best for her to undertake in the present state of her health, which meant that she feared possible discomforts en route and imagined the ranch as a place where one was fed only on beans, sour-dough bread, bull meat and indifferent coffee.

CHAPTER XVI

East and West.

When Miranda Bailey heard the news she announced her determination of coming over to the Three Star to prepare for the visitors.

"I reckon my reputation'll stand it," she said, "seein' I'm older than two of you an' the third is still a married man. Pedro's cookin' is enough to give any eastern dyspepsy. The whole house wants red-din' up; it ain't been swept proper fo' a year."

Abashed, the partners gave her full sway. The ranch-house was scoured from top to bottom. Miranda's car brought over curtains for the windows, flowers for the window-sills, odds and ends that made the place look homely, cheerful, inviting. Pedro was given lessons at the stove that he at first took sulkily, but, being praised and his wages raised, took pride in.

"He'll do," vouchsafed Miranda at last, the evening before the arrival. "He's no hand at cookies or doughnuts an' never will be, but I'll bring them over from time to time. He can make a pie an' biscuit an' he can broil meat. I've taught him to mash his pertaters with milk 'stead of water an' to put butter in his hot cakes. I'm stayin' over till supper tomorrow to see everything has a good staht. There's room for five—supposed to be—in my car. An' there's four of us an' six to come back. The other car's in use. How we goin' to manage it?"

"Molly'll ride in with me," said Sandy. "I'm goin' over early on Pronto an' take the white blazed bay along that Molly rode over the Goats' pass."

"Ride in? She won't be dressed for it, travelin' on the train," said Miranda.

"I've got a hunch she will," Sandy answered simply. "They got their own private car. If she ain't, why, Sam can ride the bay back. But me an' Pronto, the bay an' Grit are goin' thataway."

There were certain tones of Sandy's voice that gave absolute finality to his statements. He used them on this occasion. The argument dropped. In a way Sandy was making the matter a test of Molly. If she was as anxious as she wrote to "fork a broncho," if she understood Sandy and he her, she would feel that he would be waiting for her mount for her to return to the ranch western fashion. If not, it meant that she was out of the chrysalis and had become, not the busy bee that belongs to the mesquite and the sage, but a gaudier, less responsible futterer among eastern flower-beds.

Miranda's caravan started an hour after Sandy left, she driving, Mormon and Sam in the back, each dressed in his best, minus chaperajos and spurs, but otherwise most typically the cowboy and therefore out of place—and feeling it—as they sat stiffly in the leatherette-lined tonneau. Miranda was in starched linen, destitute of all ornament, a dark red ribbon at her throat the only touch of color, looking extremely efficient and, as Sam whispered to Mormon, "a bit stand-offish."

The train rolled in majestically, the private car gleaming with varnish and polished glass and brass, with a white-coated ducky flashing white teeth on the platform as the fussy local engine took the detached luxury to the side-track designated for its Hereford location. The silver was parked and Miranda, Mormon and Sam made one group a little ahead of the others, recognized by the crowd as privileged.

If Wilson Keith, clad in tweeds tailored on Fifth avenue, a little portly, square-faced, confident, a trifle condescending, typified the East, Sandy was the West. A good horse is the incarnation of symmetry, grace and power. Sandy, erect in the saddle, lean and keen, matched all of Pronto's fitness. Man and mount both eminently belonged to the land, shimmering with sage, far-stretching to the mountains, a land that demanded and bred such a combination.

Keith stood by the railing of his platform, the darky ready with the dismounting stool. He surveyed the crowd affably, with the poise of a successful candidate assured of welcome, waving his hand in demulcent salute to Sandy, Sam and Mormon, lifting his hat graciously to Miranda Bailey. The man and the car emanated prosperity. Yet, for all the booming of Casey Town, the finding of pay-ore, the sale of shares, Keith's present financial status was not all that he trusted it might be within a short time. It was part of the technique of his profession to assume a mask and manner of financial success, and of late he had worn these until at times they jaded him, but they were well designed, well worn, and no one doubted but that Wilson Keith was a man of ready millions.

Keith had dallied with oil, had speculated, plunged, been persuaded to invest heavily. He was beginning to have a vague fear of not being so certain as he would have wished as to which end of the line he had taken, that of the baited hook, or the end that was attached to the reel that automatically plays the fish.

He sold gold and he was buying oil. Others, partners with him in new enterprises in the petroleum field, were making sudden fortunes. His turn had not come yet, but they assured him that his ventures promised even more than those that had enriched them. Faster than gold came out of Casey Town, Keith used it in Oklahoma and Texas.

The engine uncoupled and panted off, leaving the car at rest on the spur-track. The fox-faced secretary came out, held the door open. Someone followed Molly Casey. Sandy surmised it must be Donald Keith, but he had sight for nothing except the slender figure whose radiant face, between a Panama hat and a dustcoat of pongee silk, shone straight at him. It was Molly, but a glorified Molly, woman, not girl. The freckles had gone, the snub nose had become defined, the eyes of Irish blue seemed to have deepened in hue back of their smudgy lashes. The wide mouth was the same, scarlet and soft as cactus blossom, smiling, opening in a glad cry.

"Sandy!" Her arms went out toward him in greeting over the brass railing. Then, Grit, catapulting from ground to platform, with frantic yaps of welcome, fairly bowled over the darky with his mounting block and bounded up into Molly's embrace. There was confusion on the platform for a moment with Grit as the nucleus. Another person had come out, evidently Miss Nicholson. She had the general appearance of a white rabbit and the manners of a maternally intentioned but none too efficient hen.

Keith descended first, Molly darted by his extended hand and ran straight to Sandy, who had dismounted.

"I'm going to hug you, and Mormon and Sam, as soon as we get home to the ranch," she cried. "Home! I'm so glad to be here. Pronto, you beauty, and my own bay, Blaze! Do you remember the trip over the mesa, Blaze? How did you know I wanted to ride to Three Star instead of drive?"

"Took a chance," said Sandy. "Do you?" The old woman-shyness had come over him, fighting with his knowledge of the child who had changed into a woman. And the pongee duster deceived him.

"Do I? Didn't I write you I was aching to fork a saddle? Look!" She unbuttoned the duster with swift fingers and stripped it off, standing revealed in riding togs of smallest black and white checks, coat flaring out from the trim waist, slim, straight legs in breeches and riding boots, a white stock about the slender, rounded neck. She gave one hand to Mormon, the other to Sam, gazing at her in admiration that was radiant and goggle-eyed. Sandy, looking down at her, saw her eyes crinkle at the corners in the old way. Keith and his son joined them, coming from the car, Miss Nicholson hovering behind ingratiatingly.

"Glad to see you, Bourke," he said. "And you, Manning. You, too, Peters. Meet my son, Donald."

The three partners shook hands gravely with the boy, appraising him without his guessing it.

"Glad to see you out west," said Mormon. "We'd sure admire to have you visit us fo' a spell."

"I was hoping for a bid," said young Keith. "Thanks. The car is here, or will be within an hour or two. Father shipped it ahead. Slims wired us it was at the junction. He will drive it over for us to go on to Casey Town as soon as he overhauls it. Then I'll run in from the mines, as soon as Dad can spare me."

"Donald has to get acquainted with a real mining property," said Keith affably. "Molly was certain you would have a horse for her, Bourke. Don't wait round for us. We have to get some supplies and we'll wait in my car till the machine comes. Er—" he looked around, and Miss Nicholson fluttered up—"this is Molly's companion, Miss Nicholson. She goes with you to the ranch. How . . . ?"

Sandy indicated the silver and introduced Miranda Bailey, who had been directing the stowage of the grips and the proper subordination of the porter, who had not seemed appreciative of the silver.

Molly held out a gloved hand for the reins of the fretful Blaze. Young Keith advanced with the proffer of a palm for her mounting. She shook her head at him.

"Blaze wouldn't know what you were trying to do, Don," she said. She turned the stirrup, set in her foot, grasped mane and horn and raised herself lightly, holding her body close to the bay's withers for a second as he whirled, then lifting to the saddle, firm-seated, with a laugh for Blaze's plungings.

"I see they didn't unteach you ridin' back east," said Mormon admiringly. Miss Nicholson clambered into the silver beside Miranda Bailey. Sam, Mormon and the grips packed the tonneau, and Keith and his son were left standing by the private car.

Keith was soon surrounded with a crowd, making himself popular, flattering them until they finally went away convinced that they had all constituted a first-class reception committee to meet the illustrious, the energetic, good-fellow-well-met promoter and engineer of other people's fortunes.

There was not much spoken between Molly and Sandy on the way back to the ranch. She seemed content to breathe in deep the herb-scented air and gaze at the mountains.

Sandy, riding a little to one side, a little back of her, so that he could see her better without appearing to stare, echoed, for the time, her happiness. This was Molly, the girl who had sworn when she told them of her father's death. He could recall the tone of the words at will.

"The d—d road jest slid out from under. He didn't have a h—l-chance!" Molly, who had put arms about his neck and kissed him good-by when she went to school—how long ago that seemed—and said, "Sandy, I don't want to go, but I'll be game."

This was his Molly! The knowledge swept over Sandy and left him tingling. Love came to him, the first, clean white flame of first love, burning like a lamp in the heart of a man. It was for this, he knew, that he had been woman-shy, that he had cherished his own thought of womanhood as something so rare a thought might tarnish it. First love, shorn of boy fallacies, strong, irresistible, protective, passionate.

Game and dainty, tender, true, a girl-woman, partner—what a partner she would make, western-bred . . . He checked himself there. She was western-born, but what had the transplanting done? Would she ever now be satisfied with western ways? She would come to him, Sandy knew that. Whatever he asked her she would not refuse. But would that be fair to her? And he did not want her to come to him out of gratitude. He wanted her nature to fuse with his.

It seemed no time since he had taken her from her saddle and carried her, a tired, heartsome child, in his arms. She must have a fair chance to see if the East, with all it could offer her of amusement and interest, would not outbid the claims of the West. He must wait and watch and hold himself in hand though his love and his knowledge of it thrilled through him, charging him as if with an electric current that strove to close all gaps between him and Molly, struggling ever, in mind and body, to complete the circle.

They got to the ranch ahead of the silver by a scant margin. Miranda Bailey inducted Molly and her chaperoness into the quarters she had helped prepare for them, Molly giving little cries of delight at the improvements she saw downstairs. Miranda came down first and joined the partners.

"Molly is certainly sweet," she said. "She's grown into a woman an' she's grown away from the old Molly. Can't say as how she's affected none an' her speech an' manners is sure fine. That gal's natcherally got a grand disposition."

"The Nicholson person—her first name is Clarice—is well-meanin' enough. She ain't shifless, but she ain't what you'd call practical. I reckon she does fine in teachin' Molly some things, but she'd be plumb wasted out west. I'll say she never washed out anything bigger than a hankychief or cooked a thing larger'n an egg. An' she c'udn't boss a sick lizard. But she's easy to get along with, I suppose.

"That Donald is a good-lookin' lad," went on Miranda. "It must take him an awful waste of time to fix his clothes every time he puts 'em on. I don't know how smart he is inside, but he's got some of them movin'-picture heroes beat on appearance. I'm wonderin' what Molly thinks about him. As for his father, he's smart enough inside an' out. But he talks too much like a politician to suit me. I'm mighty glad we got cash for our claims. Keith's too slick an' smooth an' smilin' to suit me."

It was a lengthy diatribe from Miranda Bailey, accustomed as they were to hear her state opinions freely. The trio at Three Star had universally come to respect her decisions and also her intuitions, and none of them had felt especially cordial toward Keith as a man, though they considered him good in his profession.

"The writer, Kiplin," said Sandy, "wrote a poem about East an' West, sayin' that never the two 'ud meet. Er Keith tries to flammjigger Molly out of anything that's comin' to her by rights, why, I reckon that's one time the West an' East is goin' to meet—an' maybe lap over a bit. So far, he's put money in our pockets. Here's Molly."

"I'm goin' home," said Miranda, as the girl entered the room. "I've got you started an' I'll run over once in a while to see how Pedro is makin' out."

She said good-by to Molly, who had swiftly changed out of her riding clothes into a gown that looked simple enough to Sandy, though he sensed there were touches about it that differentiated it from anything turned out locally. With the dress she looked more womanly, older, than in the boyish breeches. Miss Nicholson had made some changes also, but she had a chameleon-like faculty of blending with the background that preserved her alike from being criticized or conspicuous. As she shook hands with Miranda the two presented marked contrasts. Miranda was twentieth-century-western, of equal rights and equal enterprise; Miss Nicholson mid-Victorian, with no more use for a vote than for one of Sandy's guns. Yet likable.

"I'm going to Daddy's grave," said Molly, when Miranda had flitted off. "I wish the three of you would come there to me in about ten minutes. Miss Nicholson, everybody's at home here. Please do anything you want to, nothing you don't want to."

At the end of the ten minutes the three men walked together toward the cottonwoods. Grit was lying on the grave, and they saw Molly kneeling by the little railing. They advanced silently over the turf and stood in a group about her with their hats off and their heads bowed. Grit made no move and Molly did not look up for two or three minutes. Then she greeted them with a smile. There were no tear-signs on her face though her eyes were moist.

"I wanted to thank you all," she said, "and to tell you how glad I am to be back. I have met lots of people, of all sorts and kinds, but not one of them who could hold a candle to any of you three kind, true-hearted friends. I wanted to do it here where Daddy is in the place you gave him and made for him under the trees, close to the running water. I was only a girl—a kiddie—when I went away. I think I am a great deal older now, perhaps, than other girls of my age. And I realize all you have done for me. The only thing is, I don't know how to begin to thank you."

She went to Mormon and took hold of both his hands, her head raised, lips curved to kiss him. Mormon stooped and turned his weathered cheek, but Molly kissed him full on the lips. So with Sam, despite the enormous mustache. Then she came to Sandy, taller than the others, his face grave, under control, the eagerness smothered in his eyes, desire checked by reverence for the pure affection of the offered salute. He fancied that her lips trembled for a moment as they rested softly warm, upon his own. But the tremor might have been his own. He knew his heart was pounding against the slight touch of her slenderness that was manifest with womanhood. His arms ached with the restraint he set upon them, in the presence of Mormon and Sam.

"I've brought some things for you," said Molly. "Just presents that I bought in shops. But I wanted to thank you out here where Daddy lies." She sought their glances, searching to see if they understood, satisfied.

"We're sure glad to get back the Mascot of the Three Star," said Mormon.

"An' the sooner you get through bein' eddicated an' come back to keeps, the better," amended Sam.

Sandy said nothing but smiled at her and Molly smiled back again.

"I think you have been my mascot rather than me years. I've still got my luck piece," and she pulled out of her neck, suspended by a fine chain of gold, the gold piece with which Sandy had won the stake that had started her east. "Now show me all the improvements. We'll get Kate Nicholson. She's a first-class scout if you ever get her out of the shell she crawled into a long time ago when her folks suddenly lost everything they had. If we had a plane, Sam, she'd play the seal out of your body. Wait until she gets at the harmonium tonight. You and she will have to play duets, Sam, you on the three-decked harmonica I got for you."

"Aw, shucks!" protested Sam. "I'm no musician."

"You are," she said gayly. "You are my Three Wise Men of the West. You are all magicians. You took me out of the desert, you have made life beautiful for me. Don't dispel the illusion, Soda-Water Sam. I'd rather hear you play 'El Capitan' than listen to the Philharmonic orchestra."

"Whatever that is," answered Sam.

E. J. H. S. Defeats Boyne City And Mancelona.

East Jordan High School added two more victories when the boys trimmed Boyne City 13 to 10 on the home diamond last Friday and by winning a hard fought 11 inning contest at Mancelona 12 to 8 Wednesday.

Art Speltz's Boyne City team was undefeated last year, and won 2 victories over East Jordan High. East Jordan plays at Boyne City next Wednesday and expects to repeat the victory of last Friday.

Mancelona also won 2 games of baseball from E. J. H. S. last year so the victory over Mancelona on their home grounds was sweet revenge. In this contest the East Jordan team garnered 17 hits and would have won more easily except for some errors made early in the game. Smith, Streeter, Swafford, Peebles and Malpass did the heavy hitting. Nothstine of Mancelona drove out 4 safe ones in 6 times at bat.

This Friday the hard-hitting East Jordan teams will meet Central Lake here. This will be a game for blood, so don't miss it. Game starts at 3 p. m.

Chief Nevitt's Bay City Central High teams will close the season here on Friday June 8th. The following day Bay City will play at Boyne City. An attempt is being made to schedule a game with Petoskey High School for June 1st.

The swamp road still is soft in places and considerable difficulty was experienced in moving the big load.

Aleppo's Many Charms.
Aleppo is a source of delight, for her bazaars are more primitive than those of any other city in the country and, for the same reason, full of charm. One can buy any product of the Near and the Farther East from these merchants, the products of the looms of Persia, the silk of China brought thousands of miles by caravan, and wonderful brass and inlay work.

Battle Creek—Special honors likely will be given Boy Scout Raymond Morse, in connection with efforts made at first aid in the case of Mrs. Dora E. The Use of Vertical Lines.
By remembering that vertical lines emphasize the height of a room, one is able to make the low-ceilinged room appear normal. Wall paper with a two-toned stripe, long side drapes hung straight, panel mirrors and pictures and high-backed chairs are some of the things that help.
