Fine Games of Baseball

Two Great Games Played Before Much Interest Being Shown In a Good Sixed Audience

The real League season of Indoor Baseball started off Monday night, with Indoor Baseball and speedy playing, everyone got their money's worth Mon-

Both games showed the best type of argument of umpires.

In the first game, the Masons rather surprised the Methodists with their aggresiveness. This was a very fine game to watch. The Masons had a big second inning which netted them nine runs, enough scores to practically cinch the game. In this game Sid. Sedgeman pitched magnificeut ball. The other defensive star was Dr. Parks, who really featured the whole evening's program, by three or four sensational atches of hard hit balls.

On the offensive side Bechtold's big stick played a brominent part. The score ended 14 to 12. In the second game it looked like walk-away for the High School boys so the old-time rumor that the Temple when they landed on Ed. LaLonde pitching for the K. P's. for ten runs in two ingings. Even up to the fifth inning the game was 16 to 4 in favor of the High School, won the game for them. It was a magnificent up hill fight on the part of the Lodge men. With Covey on the defensive end of in the field than the High School boys. If they have a little more aggressive-ness and steadiness on their part, they will round into a good team.

The game was not over until the last man was out and ended 17 to 16. These were really the first regular League games at which each team played it's

Thirty Seconds For Safety

"Secret of Motor Car Safety" Given By Business Man.

"I talked to my chauffeur the other day about these automobile accidents, said a Danvile business man. "He tells me that the difference between safety and carelessness in any ordinary short trip about town is about thirty seconds. On a trip of about 100 miles it might be about 30 minutes. I told him that he is never to take a hurry and I don't remember that I ever told him to hurry and I don't think I ever will."

It is not likely that this man will ever be in a serious automobile accident. In Deceased is survived by her husband the first place, his car is driven by a sengers. He is not to take a chance to save time. He never will "run" a railroad crossing because there he takes a chance.

Few persons can afford or desire to employ men to drive their cars. Every man who sits behind the wheel of an automobile should realize that the safety of the people in the car is his responsibility.

In driving to work or on short business trips no man's time is so valuable that he cannot waste 30 seconds in the interests of safety.

In a tour of 100 miles it is much better to start half an hour earlier or be an hour behind schedule than to take a chance on each of half a dozen railroad crossings.

Episode Three

Of all the leisured pursuits, then are few less attractive to the thinking man than sitting in a dark cupboard waiting for a house party to go to bed; and Sam, who had established himself in the one behind the plane at a quarter to eight, soon began to feel as it he had been there for an eternity. He could dimly remember a previous ex-istence in which he had not been sitting in his present position, but it seemed so long ago that it was shadowy and unreal to him. The ordeal of spending the evening in this retreat had not appeared formidable when he had contemplated it that afternoon in the lane; but, now that he was actually undergoing it, it was extraordinary how many disadvantages

Cupboards, as a class, are badly ven tilated, and this one seemed to contain no air at all: and the warmth of the night, combined with the cupboard's natural stuffiness, had soon begun to reduce Sam to a condition of pulp. He seemed to himself to be sagging like ice-cream in front of a fire. darkness too, weighed upon him. He was abominably thirsty. Also he wanted to smoke. In addition to this, the small of his back tickled, and he more than suspected the cupboard of harboring mice. Not once nor twice but many hundred times he wished that the ingenious Webster had thought of something simpler.

His was a position which would have suited one of those Indian mys tics who sit perfectly still for twenty years, contemplating the Infinite; but it reduced Sam to an almost imbecile tate of boredom. He tried counting sheep. He tried going over his nast life in his mind from the earliest moment he could recollect, and thought he had never encountered a daller series of episodes. He found a temporary solace by playing a succession of mental golf games over all the courses he could remember, and he was just teeing up for the sixteenth at Muirfield, after playing Hoylake, St. Andrews. Westward Ho. Hanger Hill. Mud-Surrey, Walton Heath, Garden City, and the Engineers' club at Roslvn. L. I., when the light ceased to shine through the crack under the door, and he awoke with a sense of dull incredulity to the realization that the occupants of the drawing room had called it a day and that his vigil was

But was it? Once more alert, Sam became cautious. True, the light seemed to be off, but did that mean anything in a country house, where people bad the habit of going and strolling about the garden at all hours? Probably they were still popping about all over the place. At any rate, it was not worth risking coming out of his He remembered that Webster had promised to come and knock an all-clear signal on the door. It would be safer to wait-for that.

But the moments went by, and there was no knock. Sam began to grow impatient. The last few minutes of waiting in a cupboard are always the hard-Time seemed to stretch out again interminably. Once he thought he heard footsteps, but that led to nothing. Eventually, having strained his ears and unding everything still, he decided to take a chance. He fished in his pocket for the key, cautiously unlocked the door, opened it by slow inches, and peered out.

The room was in blackness. The house was still. All was well. With the feeling of a life-prisoner emerging from the Bastille, he began to crawl stiffy forward: and it was just then that the first of the disturbing events occurred which were to make this night memorable to him. Something like a rattlespake suddenly went off with a whire, and his head, jerking up, | wall adjoining which, he presumed collided with the piano. It was only the electric light switch would be. the cuckoo clock, which now, having cleared its throat as was its custom before striking, proceeded to cuck eleven times in rapid succession before subsiding with another rattle: but to Sam it sounded like the end of the

His hours of inferious amount in the cupboard had had a bed affect on his nervous system, and he vasiliated between there of weakness and a militant Shire to got at the cuchoo clock with a hatelest. He felt that it had done it on purpose and was now checkling to itself in fancion co-curity. For quite a minute he raged allently, and any cuckoo clock which had strayed within his reach would have had a bad time of it. Then his attention was diverted.

So concentrated was Sam on his private vendetta with the clock that no ordinary happening would have had the power to distract him. What occurred now was by no means ordinary, and it distracted him like an electric shock. dor hand over the egg-shaped burns which had already begun to manifest itself beneath his hair something cold and wet touched his face, and paralysed him so completely both physically and mentally that he did not move a muscle but just congested where he sat into a solid block of ice. He felt vaguely that this was the end. His heart stopped beating and he simply could not imagine it ever starting again, and, if your heart refuses to beat, what hope is there for you?

At this moment something heavy and solid struck him in the chest, rolling him over. Something gurgled asthmatically in the darkness. Something began to lick his eyes, ears and chin in a sort of ecstasy: and, clutching out, he found his arms full of totally unexpected bulldog.

took the opportunity of his lips having opened to lick the roof of his mouth. Smith's attitude in the matter was that providence in its allseeing wisdom had sent him a human being at a moment when he had reluctuntly been compalled to reconcile himself to a total absence of such indispensable adjuncts to a good time, and that now the revels might commence. He had just trotted downstairs in rather a disconsolate frame of mind after waiting with no result in front of Webster's bedroom door, and it was a real treat to meet a man, especially one seated in such a jolly and sociable manner on the floor. He welcomed Sam like a long-lost friend.

Between Smith and the humans who provided him with dog-biscuits and occasionally with sweet cakes there had always existed a state of misunderstanding which no words could remove The position of the humans was quite clear. They had elected Smith to his present position on a straight watchdog ticket. They expected him to be one of those dogs who rouse the house and save the spoons. They looked to him to pin burglars by the leg and hold on till the police arrived. Smith simply could not grasp such an atti-tude of mind. He regarded Windles not as a private house but as a social club, and was utterly unable to see any difference between the human beings he knew and the strangers who dropped in for a late chat after the place was locked up. He had no intention of biting Sam. The idea never entered his head. At the present mo ment what he felt about Sam was that he was one of the best fellows he had ever met and that he loved him

Sam, in his unnerved state, could not bring himself to share these amiable sentiments. He was thinking bitterly that Webster might have had the intelligence to warn him of bulldogs on the premises. It was just the sort of wooden-headed thing fellows did, forgetting facts like that. He scrambled stiffly to his feet and tried to pierce the darkness that hemmed He ignored Smith, who snuf fled sportively about his ankles, and made for the slightly less black oblong which he took to be the door leading into the hall. He moved war ily, but not warlly enough to prevent ting a small table with a vase on it The table rocked and the vase jumped and the first bit of luck that had come to Sam that night was when he reached out at a venture and caught it just as it was about to bound onto

He stood there, shaking. The nar rowness of the escape turned him cold. If he had been an instant later there would have been a crash loud enough to wake a dozen sleeping houses. This sort of thing could not go on. He must have light. It might be a risk; there might be a chance of somebody upstairs seeing it and coming down to investigate; but it was a risk that must be taken. He declined to go on stumbling about in this darkness any longer. He groped his way with infinite care to the door, on the It was nearly ten years since he had last been inside Windles, and it never occurred to him that in this progress sive age even a woman like his Aunt Adeline, of whom he could believe almost anything, would still be using candles and oll-lamps as a means of place. In a single instant the world "Good-by."

How long he stood there, frozen, he did not know; nor can one say how long he would have stood there had nothing further come to invite his notice elsewhere. But, suddenly, drowning even the impromptu concert, there came from somewhere upstairs the roar of a gun, and, when he heard that, Sam's rigid limbs relaxed and a violent activity descended upon him. He bounded out into the hall, looking to right and to left for a hiding-place One of the suits of armor which had been familiar to him in his boyhood loomed up in front of him, and with the sight came the recollection of how when a mere child on his first visit to Windles, playing hide and seek with his cousin, Eustace, he had concealed himself inside this very suit and had not only baffled Eustace through a long summer evening but had wound un hy almost scaring him into a decline by booing at him through the vizor of the helmet. Happy days, happy days! He leaned at the suit of armor. The helmet was a tight fit, but he managed to get his head into it at last, and the body of the thing was quite roomy.
"Thank heaven!" said Sam.

He was not comfortable, but comfort just then was not his primary need. Smith, the bulldog, well satisfied with the way things had happened, sat down, wheezing slightly, to await developments.

Episode Four.

He had not long to walt. In a few minutes the hall had filled up nicely. There was Mr. Mortimer in his shirtsleeves. Mr. Bennett in his pajamas and a dressing-gown, Mrs. Hignett in a traveling costume, Jane Hubbard with her elephant-gun, and Billie in a dinner dress. Smith welcomed them all impartially.

Somebody lit a lamp, and Mrs. Hignett stared speechlessly at the mob. "Mr. Bennett! Mr. Mortimer!"

"Mrs. Hignett! What are you doing

Mrs. Hignett drew herself up stiffly. What an odd question, Mr. Mortiner! I am in my own house!" "But you rented it to me for the summer. At least, your son did." "Eustace let you Windles for the summer!" said Mrs. Hignett, incredulously. Hubbard returned from the drawing-room, where she had been switching off the orchestrion.

"Let us talk all that over cozily tomorrow," she said. "The point now is that there are burglars in the house." cried Mr.

aghast. "I thought it was you playing that infernal instrument, Mortimer. "What on earth should I play it for at this time of night?" said Mr. Morti-

It appeared only too evident that the two old friends were again on the verge of one of their distressing fallings-out; but Jane Hubbard intervened once more. This practical-minded girl disliked the introducing of slde issues into the conversation. She was there to talk about burglars, and she intended to do so. "For goodness' sake stop it!" she said, almost petulantly for one usually so superior to emotion. "There'll be lots of time for quarreling tomorrow. Just now we've got to catch burglars."

"Yes, you are," said Mr. Mortimer.

"I'm not! "You are !

"Don't argue!"

"I'm not arguing!"

"You are!" "I'm not!

Jane Hubbard had practically every noble quality which a woman can poswith the exception of patience. A patient woman would have stood by shrinking from interrupting the dialogue. Jane Hubbard's robuster course was to raise the elephant-gun, point it at the front door, and pull the trigger. "I thought that would stop you she said complacently, as the echoes died away and Mr. Bennett had finished leaping into the air. She inserted a fresh cartridge, and sloped arms. "Now, the question is . .

"You made me bite my tongue!" said Mr. Bennett, deeply aggrieved.

"Serves you right!" said Jane plac-"Now, the question is, have the fellows got away or are they hid-ing somewhere in the house? I think they're still in the bouse."

"The Billy" midstike up has both forgatting his inversion tought and his other grieveness. "We must

"Obviously!" said Mrs. Hignett, with drawing her fascinated gase from the ragged hole in the front door, the cous of repairing which she had been mentally assessing. "We must send for the police at once."

"We don't really need them, you know," said Jane. "If you'll all go to bed and just leave me to potter round with my gun . . "

"And blow the whole house to pleces!" said Mrs. Hignett tartly. She had begun to revise her original estimate of this girl. To her, Windles was sacred, and anyone who wen about shooting holes in it forfeited he

"Shail I go for the police?" said Billie. "I could bring them back in ten minutes in the car.'

"Certainly not!" said Mr. Bennett.
"My daughter gadding about all over the countryside in an automobile at this time of night!"

"If you think I ought not to go alone I could take Bream, Where is Bream?" said Mr. Morti

The odd fact that Bream was no

"Where can be be?" said Billie,

Jane Hubbard laughed the whole some, indulgent laugh of one who is broad-minded enough to see the hu mor_of the situation even when the loke is at her expense.

"What a silly girl I am!" she said "I do believe that was Bream I shot at upstairs. How foolish of me mak ing a mistake like that!"

"You shot my only son!" cried Mr.

Mortimer. "I shot at him," said Jane. "My belief is that I missed him. Though how I came to do it beats me I don't suppose I've missed a sitter like that since I was a child in the nursery Of course," she proceeded, looking on the reasonable side, "the visibility wasn't good, and I fired from the hip, but it's no use saying I oughtn't a least to have winged him, because She shook her head with a touch of self-reproach. "I shall be chaffed about this if it comes out, she said regretfully. "The poor boy must be in his room," said Mr. Mortimer. "Under the bed, if you ask me, said Jane, blowing on the barrel of her gun and polishing it with the side of her hand, "He's all right! Leave him alone, and the housemaid will sweep him up in the morning.

"Oh, he can't be!" cried Billie, re volted.

A girl of high spirit, it seemed to her repellent that the man she was engaged to marry should be displaying such a craven spirit. At that moment she despised and hated Bream Mortimer. I think she was wrong, mind you. It is not my place to criticize the little group of people whose simple annals I am relating-my position is merely that of a reporter; but personally I think highly of Bream's sturdy common-sense. If somebody loosed off an elephant-gun at me in a dark corridor, I would climb onto the roof and pull it up after me. Still, rightly wrongly, that was how Billie felt and it flashed across her mind that Samuel Marlowe, scoundrel though he was, would not have behaved like this And for a moment a certain wistfulness added itself to the varied emo tions then engaging her mind. "I'll go and look, if you like," said Jane agreeably. "You amuse yo selves somehow till I come back." "You amuse your Billie cast a scornful look at her "I'm not quarreling," said Mr. Ben- flance. Absolutely unjustified, in my opinion, but nevertheless she cast it. But it had no effect at all. Terror had atunned Bream Mortimer's percep tions. His was what the doctors call a penumbral mental condition. He was in a sort of trance.

"Bream," said Billie, "I want you to come in the car with me to fetch the police.

"All right," said Bream.

"Get your coat." "All right," said Bream. "And cap."

"All right," said Bream.

He followed Billie in a docile manner out through the front door, and they made their way to the garage at the back of the house, both silent. The only difference between their respective silences was that Billie's was thoughtful, while Bream's was just the silence of a man who has unhitched his brain and is getting along as well as he can without it. In the hall they had left, Jane Hubbard once more took command of af-

" She stopped suddenly, in her eyes the light of understanding, on her face the set expression which was wont to come to it on the eve of action. "Oh l" she said in a different voice, a voice which was cold and tense and sinister. "Oh, I see!" She raised her gun, and placed a muscular forefinger on the trigger. "Come out of that!" she said. "Come out of that suit of armor and let's have a look at you!"

"I can explain everything," said a muffled voice through the vizor of the helmet. "I can—achoo." The smoke of the cigarette tickled Sam's nostrils again, and he suspended his remarks. "I shall count three," said Jane Hubbard, "One—two—"

"You'd better!" said Jane.

"My hands are up!" retorted Sam querulously, as he wrenched at his un becoming head-wear. "Never mind trying to raise your hat," said Jane. "If you've lost the combination, we'll dispense with the formalities. What we're anxious to hear is what you're doing in the house at this time of night, and who your pals are. Come along, my lad, make a clean breast of it and perhaps you'll get off easier. Clean Kidneys By Drinking Lots of Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorted, get suggist, clog up and cause all sorted of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidness areas areas, exting right or if bladder.

neys aren't acting right, or if blatder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladdisorders.

The two old friends clasped hands der disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithiawater drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least (wice a year.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"HASH"

COMEDIANS and others who profess to obtain merriment from the contemplation of the various ingredients which enter into the dish now known as "hash"—a form of food which runs a close second to prunes in its mirth-provoking propensities -owe a debt of gratitude to the French language, because we obtain "hash" almost directly from the French by the elimination of the final syllable of

The hashed-up or cut-up food in question did not begin to be known as "hash" until our forefathers tired of calling it "haskee" in close imitation of the French word in which the "s" is not sounded. This noun is derived from the verb hacher, to chop, or slice or shred, and, in its turn, came from the same Teutonic source as our own verb "hack." Being famous for their cooking, the French early recognized the tasty appetizing qualities of cooked meat, cut into small bits and highly seasoned with various kinds of sauces and condiments. This "hashis" made its appearance in England many years ago, but it did not take long for the word to be shortened by the elimination of the final "ee" sound, and now, speaking literally, "hash" is a synonym for a little of everything. There is no foundation. however, for the legend that name of the dish came from the fact that the cook who originated it conceived the idea while under the influence of "hashish" or hemp-from which the word "assassin" is directly derived.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR DINNER

MOST tasty and attractive serv-A most may be prepared by larding a beef tenderloin or two with very small strips of salt pork. Cut the lardoons from the firm salt pork nearest the rind-they will be firmer. Pull the lardoons through the fillet so that short ends will protrude on each side. By placing them at regular intervals a very pretty effect is made Brush the meat with a quarter of a teaspoonful of mustard to each tea spoonful of salt, using a teaspoonful of salt to each pound of the meat. Arrange in a small roaster, place slices of salt pork at the side and on this place a fat roll of well-seasoned stuffing prepared from bread crumbs sea soned with sage and onion, enriched with egg and butter and seasoned well with salt and pepper. Parboil enough potatoes for the family with an onlor Place a potato, then an onion alternately around the roast. Cover and bake until the meat is brown and the vegetables tender. Serve with the meat in the center of the platter and vegetables and stuffing arranged around it as they were in the roaster.

Jellied Cranberries,

Add a cupful of water to a quart of cranberries and cook until they may be put through a sieve; add a cupful and a half of sugar-less if desired return to the fire and just bring to the boiling point to dissolve the sugar. Too long cooking will make them bitter. Pour out into a mold and chill.

Benares Salad.

Take two cupfuls of finely-diced tart apples; add a cupful of fresh-grated coconut or well-washed dry coconut soaked in milk to soften, a small red pepper, finely minced, and a small mild Southern onion, chopped very fine. Wintering of Puliets Requires Great Care

Culis Should Be Disposed of for Meas Purposes.

A positivyman meet think about many things if his wishes he not his pullets in condition for a good total your's lay.

First, the pullets should be handle and graded into four class medium, poor and cuits. The cuits and poor birds should be sold for meat purposes. A pullet five months old, weighing less than three pounds, loose feathered and weak, is considered poor or a cull

The next step is to grade and house the good and medium classes ac ing to size and maturity rather than age. This will prevent a most and will make feeding more efficient. Every bird should be treated with a good lice killer. A thorough cleaning and whitewashing should be given to all the pens. All leaks in the roof should be mended and the floors made dry. Straw should cover the floors to a depth of six inches. After the pullets are penned they should not b lowed out of doors until late in the

Do not put more pullets in a pen than the roost and floor space can accommodate. Keep the house well open on the front, but have the sides and back tight against drafts. Use curtains on the windows when freezing weather begins.

Pullets require 12 pounds of scratch feed a day per hundred birds. This should be made of equal parts of cracked corn and wheat. If artificial lights are used, then 14 pounds of scratch feed should be fed each day Mash should be available to the birds times. Do not allow the pullets to lay more than 50 per cent of production for the next few

Pure Bred Live Stock in

Kentucky Is Progressing

Kentucky, long camous for its fine horses and blue-grass pastures, is not content with rast laurels, but is making rapid strides in improving the quality of its food animals as well According to Way and Rhoads, field agent in animal husbandry of the Kentucky extension service, who recently visited the United States Department of Agriculture, scrub sires are being replaced rapidly with pure breds. According to best estimates 16 per cent of the dairy bulls and 20 per cent of the beef bulls in the state are now pure bred and the proportion is increasing. A few years ago one-half of the east Kentucky mountain counties had no pure breds at all, and the state was losing $15,000,000 a year due to scrub bulls and boars alone.

The reports of Mr. Rhoads are supported by figures obtained in the "Better Sires-Better Stock" movement, in which Kentucky now ranks third among all the states. A total of 1,508 farmers in Kentucky have signed written agreements that they will use pure bred sires exclusively for all classes of live stock kept and will follow methods leading to further improve-

To Prevent Tuberculosis Clean Up All Grade Cows

"There is a tendency among dairymen," says C. S. Rhode, dairy exten sion, University of Illinois, "and espe-cially among the members of cow testing associations, to get started with pure breds. This is a good practice and the good dairymen should be encouraged to do so. However, before the dairymen invest in pure breds, it is wise to clean up the grade herds that the pure breds are going into. It will be much easier to send a few grade cows to the butcher now than to send the good pure hreds later on. If you clean up now and demand clean animals when you buy, your losses from tuberculosis will be reduced to the minimum,"

Large Cows Are Better Producers of Butterfat

The old question: "Are large cows better producers than small cows? was recently investigated in Missouri Results show plainly that size influences fat production very decidedly, another reason for growing helfers to their full inherited size.

In the test, Jerseys weighing from 625 to 1,125 pounds were used. Those whose average weight was 625 pounds produced an average of 840 pounds of fat. Those averaging 1,125 pounds produced 471 pounds. It was found that after a Versey has reached 1,000 pounds in weight there is very little increase in production for corresponding increases in weight.

Sweet Clover Is Useful Crop for Plowing Under

Another clover which has been proved good and useful is the white blossom, biennial sweet clover. The seed crop of this clover comes on quite early, and probably ample supplies have been already harvested to take care of the spring demand. Sweet clover is being used in pasture mixtures, to some extent, but its greatest use is for plowing under for fertilizer. It also is a surer seed crop than other clovers, and because of its usefulness it is replacing on many farms, other clovers which have heretofore been grown for plowing down. In most every neighborhood there are more or less supplies of seed of all of these clovers, and it behooves buyers to keep track of hulling and engage local supplies whenever it is possible. There is another decided advantage about this home-grown seed One is able to pick seed grown on clean fields, where buckhorn, dodder or field daisles have not been introduced. This is an important matter, for as our fields grow older, mean weeds are apt to creep in menacing the value of all seed or hay or pasture

Feeding to Make Meat Is

Their investigations so far have indicated that it takes six pounds of grain and six pounds of hay to produce one pound of lamb live weight. Ten-pounds of hay and ten pounds of corn will make one bound of beef, while five and six tenths pounds of corn will make one pound of pork.

Simple Laying Rations

Give Good Egg Results Just as good results can be obtained with a simple mash containing three or four ground grains and meat scrap as from a highly complicated mash containing ten or twelve products, say government poultry feeders. Good production and profitable returns from laying hens are the result of proper ly balanced rations.

Some simple mixtures of home grown grains supplemented with meat scraps or milk are: One part oats and two parts cracked corn for scratch feed: the mash to consist of three parts commeal and one part ment scrap. A fair amount of green feed should go with the above com binations.

About 6.7 pounds of feed are re quired to produce a dozen eggs with general-purpose pullets, while egglaying breeds require about 4.8 pounds. Old hens use a much larger amount of feed to produce a dozen eggs than do pullets.

WISE MR. FOX

MR. FOX had not the least idea why he carried off the old cart wheel from Mr. Man's barnyard, but he was so cross because he could not get in to pay a visit to the poultry that he wanted to do something, and so he trundled the old wheel off to his home.

"Til just place it in front of my doorway," said Mr. Fox when be reached home. I need not be so careful about closing the door, with this old wheel in front of it. The spokes will keep folks out and I can get some

This was all Mr. Fox had in his mind when he left the old wheel by his door, and he was not in the least to blame for what followed. But it proved to be such a good scheme that he afterward bragged to all the wood folks about how he "fixed" Mr. Dog.

Mr. Dog had not started out to find Mr. Fox. He knew nothing about his call at the farm, but as he was running through the woods he happened to get on the track of Mr. Fox and followed the scent straight up to the cart

Here he stopped for a second, but was so sure that Mr. Fox was in his from Mr. Dog." home that he began to whine and bark and dance about, trying to get through the spokes.

Mr. Dog was pretty large, so he could not crawl between the spokes First he poked his head between two of them, then a front leg between two

> The "strict constructionists" assert that the opening in the tree must be split so that it runs east and west and the child passed through it toward the rising sun.

> This superstition is a mixture survivals of tree-worship, sun-worship and sympathetic magic. First there is the mystic rowan so closely identifled with the true ash, the Norseman's tree of life. The child is passed through toward the rising sun, thus being dedicated to the sun-god. Then there is the passing of the child through a narrow opening in the sides of which, it is hoped, his affliction will ecome entangled and detached from

In his book, "The Evil Eye," Elworthy cites this superstition as one of the many which refute those who doubt that idolatry still persists among us, notwithstanding all our enlightenment and culture. "For," says he, "it sure ly partakes of both sun-worship and sympathetic magic.'

to get all tangled up between those wheel spokes,

Mr. Dog pulled out a leg, only to out it between two other spokes, and the first thing he knew he was rolling down the hill in front of Mr. Fox's doorway with the cart wheel around

Mr. Fox had heard the noise, of course, and was peeking out to see what was going on, and now that Mr. Dog was on his way down the hill he came out to see how it ended.

When he reached the foot of the hill Mr. Dog jumped up and, without stopping even to give himself a shake, e started off home on the run with his tall between his legs, and he did not stop until he was inside his house. "Well, you should have seen how my trick worked," said Mr. Fox when later he was telling his neighbor, Mr. 'Possum, about it. "You should get yourself a cart wheel, friend 'Possum, and I will wager Mr. Dog will run s mile without a stop when he spies i by your doorway.

"I really should be paid for thinking up such good schemes to protect us wood folks," said Mr. Fox, looking very wise; "but I am so fond of my friends that I have to share all the good things I discover with them."

Mr. 'Possum was not a very wise creature, but he knew Mr. Fox pretty well, and he did not feel at all cer tain there was not some trick about the new scheme that would get him into trouble and benefit Mr. Fox. Anyway, he did not see any use in trying a cart wheel to keep away his enemy when he lived in a tree, where Mr. Dog could not climb.

"Going to try it?" inquired Mr. Fox, who saw cart wheels hanging from trees all through the woods.

"No," replied Mr. 'Possum. "It may be all right for you, who have a tail only for show, but with a tail like mine and a tall tree to climb I think I had better stick to my own way of escaping

"Poor little narrow-minded 'Possum, sighed Mr. Fox, as he watched his neighbor walking away; "he is so old-fashioned he won't try anything new. For my part, I am glad I am broad

S USAN first comes to light as a feminine name in the guise of Schus-channah, meaning a lily. It belonged to one of the holy women of the sep-ulchre and was likewise in the calendar for two virgin martyrs by the name of Susanna, who suffered in the times of persecution, though they were never commemorated in the Western

The English diminutive for Susan is Sue and Sukey; France has called her Suzette and Suzanne: in Switzer land the name appears as Zosa and Zosel. Germany claims Susanne, Suchen and Suse. Perhaps the quaintest derivative is the Bavarian popular name, Sanri.

The sapphire with its mysterious azure depths is the jewel which superstition links with the destiny of Susan. It has the power to preserve the wearer from harm, protect her from storms and poison, and attract divine favor for its owner. To dream of sapphires is a sign of a journey. Twelve Thousand Farmers Now Pledged to Use Only 3. Improved Stock.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Farmers who have joined the "Better Sires-Better Stock" campaign, and by so doing pledged themselves to use only pure bred sires of any kind on their farms, now number more than 12,000, according to the latest figures published by the United States Department of Agriculture. This campaign was begun by various states and the department four years ago and has been gaining headway ever since. During the sixteenth quarter of this period, the three months ending September 30, 469 persons enrolled from 11 states. Each farmer who signs the pledge lists the numbers of different kinds of live stock owned, and the records now show that those taking part in this movement for live stock improvement own nearly 500,000 animals and close to 1,000,000 head of poultry.

States With Largest Membership. The states now having the largest nembership are Ohio, with 2,758; Virginia, with 2,227; Kentucky, with 1,508; and Nebraska, with 1,439. Kentucky and Vermont made the largest gains in the last three months. The counties making the best showings in this period were Windsor county, Vermont, and Union county, Kentucky, but Pulaski county, Virginia, is still far in the lead of all counties with a membership of 578 farmers and breeders. During the last quarter 20 new members were added in this county,

The records kept by the Department of Agriculture show some interesting facts concerning the live stock owned by those who have signed the pledges. All the males kept must be pure bred, but females may be pure bred, crossbred, grade or scrub. There are more pure bred females among the swine kept than in any other kind of animals listed-62.9 per cent. Cattle come second in this respect. As high as '72 per cent of the mares are grades; sheep come next in this respect. Only 1 per cent of the swine are classed as scrubs; 1.2 per cent of the sheep; 3.8 per cent of the cattle; and 4.1 per cent of horses. These figures, it much be remembered, apply only to these farms where nothing but pure bred sires are used. Sign of Identification.

Many of the farms of the members of the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign may be identified from the highway by a sign, supplied by the department, which bears the words "Pure Bred Sires Exclusively Used on This Farm." Each sign bears the owner's membership number.

A list of the officials in the various states who have charge of the bettersires activities has been compiled and may be obtained from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

CIVILIANS VOLUNTEERING BY THOUSANDS FOR PRESIDENT OBREGON'S RELIEF.

FOOD SHORTAGE HITS REBELS

Secretary Hughes Against Private Sale of Munitien to Ald Revolutionists.

Washington-Thousands of civilians are volunteering for the army of Pres ident Obregon to put down the De la Huerta rebellion, a statement made public by the Mexican embassy here Sunday deck ed. All the volunteers were said to have had previous milltary training.

"In the state of Oaxaca volunteers are being organized and equipped to move with regular federal forces against the rebels under General Garcia Vigil and Maycotte," the embassy statement sald

"The rebels are short of food, ammunition and in a precarious condition. The recruiting campaign in the northern part of the republic has convinced the government that its citizens are loyal. As fast as the volunteers can be equipped they are being organized.

Already the government has large bodies under fraining and shortly will be able to move them against the repels. Others of the loyal volunteer forces will be used as garrisons."

Shipment of arms from the United States to the De La Huerta revolutionary group in Mexico are being discouraged by the administration as against the policy of the American government.

Secretary Hughes says: "Although thereals no embargo on the shipment of war materials to Mexico, such ship-ments are being discouraged. The state department does not look upon them with favor and they are against this government's policy. Moreover, private concerns making such ship ments do so entirely at their own

COLD WAVE SWEEPS COUNTRY

Railroads Entering Detroit Hardest Hit By Severe Weather.

Detroit-Railroads entering Detroit were hit most heavily, trains being reported from one to seven hours late, particularly out of Chicago.

Sunday night the cold weather area was moving south and eastward with dropping temperatures being reported from cities along the Atlantic coust and in the Ohio river valley, while from Chicago and the northwest, the path of the cold spell reports of rising temperatures were received.

Chicago reported a total of eight p'rsons frozen to death in the city, and five in neighboring towns.

New York city and the east shivit had been led to expect it would. Although the lowest temperature offices of the D. U. R. recorded officially in New York was nine degrees above zero, a stiff northwest wind made the cold more penetrating and the deaths of three men and a woman in Now York city and vicinity were attributed directly to exposure.

The intensity and extent of the cold wave in the east may be imagined from the fact that at Pensacola, Fla., it was seven degrees above zero, while Paul Smith's, N. Y., in the Upper Adirondacks, reported 19 below.

stated extremely cold weather.

Louisiana Cast Adrift During Storm With Seven Men Aboard

Norfolk, Va.—The battleship Louis iana, en route from Philadelphia to Baltimore to be scrapped, was abandoned by her tow during a gale off the Atlantic coast last Saturday, and is adrift, or lost. Seven men were aboard. While being towed by the tugs Wood and Peerless of the Wood Tow ing and Wrecking company, the ship was swept by a strong northwest wind, which caused the tugs to run for shelter. The Louisiana was left anchored 16

PETROGRAD SOVIET HEAD SEEKS TO LINE UP "PRASANTS OF U. S." IN REVOLT.

MORS DEMANBING PROOF

Foreign Relations Committee Will Undertake inquiry to Establish Authoriticity.

Washington-Undismayed by the challenges from Senators Borah and Norris, Secretary of State Hughes returned to the attack upon communistic propaganda in the United States as inspired by soviet interests in Russia. The secretary made public the text of a communication to American Communists, issued by M. Zinoview, de-scribed by the state department as "president of the Petrograd soviet; president of the communist internationale: member of the All-Russian Central Executive committee, and member of the Federation, Central executive committee."

In this document, which first appeared, it seems in the Moscow Pravda, official organ of the soviet regime, Zinoview appeals to American communists to concentrate their energies upon American "peasantry." insisting that it is as important to take the small farmer of this country into camp as the trades unionist.

At the same time the Russian spokesman lays direct claim to the American Farmer-Labor party; assails Samuel Compers and Morris Hillquit as tools of capitalism and makes the announcement that the "general situation" is as extremely revolutionary" in America as it is in Germany.

In the senate Mr. Borah and Mr Norris have demanded that the state department produce proof that the communist propaganda being carried on here proceeds from the soviet government and Senator Lodge, speaking for the administration, has given as surance that the foreign relations committee will undertake an inquiry which will establish the authenticity of such proof as may exist.

Agreeing that it was necessary for the revolutionists to make their first drive in America among the laboring class, M. Zinoview reminds his "comrades" in America that it is yet more important that all hands pull together to proselyte the "American peasant.."

D. U. R. GRANTED FARE INCREASE

Public Utilities Commission Grants Road's Request for New Rate.

Detroit-The inc eased rate of fare authorized for the D. U. Pontiac and Orchard Lake divisions January ered Sunday, but not as violently as 10, in accordance with the commission's order, it was announced at the

The new rates fixed for other divisions of the D. U. R. system will go. into effect as soon as arrangements for the change can be completed, it was said.

Simultaneously with the introduction of the new rate., and by way of an experiment which pro isionally is scheduled to close after 60 days, the company will begin the issue of three classes of commutation tickets. This inrovation also has been authorized by the public utilities commission.

Use of the commutation tickets will bring the rate down to about two cents a mile, officials state.

OHIO RIVER BASIN FLOODED

Monongahela and Allegheny River Four Feet Above Normal.

Pittsburgh-With the Ohio, Monongahela and Allegheny rivers four feet above normal flood stage, Pittsburgh and the lowland towns of the Ohio hasin in this district are awaiting the crest of the first flood in 10 years.

At daybreak Friday the waters had reached 26 feet and were expected to rise to 29 feet as the high mark during the day. Streets in the lower north side section were under two feet of water, tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad were submerged, bringing freight movements to a standstill and a number of industrial plants were forced to abandon operations. With the rivers overflowing the locks navigation on all three rivers has been suspended.

Reports from a number of Ohio River towns told of the rivers creeping onto the streets and forcing dwellers to move to the second floor.

Future of Civilization

Depends Upon Highways The future of civilization, of material, moral and educational progress in America depends upon the high ways, says the Manufacturers' Record, in a recent number, which is largely devoted to a discussion of the highway question. "Bad highways mud or deep sand roads-spell backwardness. Good highways make certain the advancement of religion, education and wealth. "Bad highways will drive men and women from the farms into cities, thus reducing the number of food producers and increasing the number of mouths to be fed from a steadily diminishing food supply. That road leads straight to anarchy and Bolshevism, for a decreasing food supply and increasing population congestion breeds discontent, poverty and ultimately anarchy.

"The good highway is the straight road that opens the way to better schools, better religious activities in churches, better dwellings, and that means better homes, more contentment on the farms, larger food production, with more profit justly earned by the grower and yet a lower cost to the consumer.

"On one side the safety of civilization, increased food supply and the rounding of the nation's life; on the other side-civilization endangered. food riots a certainty of the future, with a nation sunk in its own bottommudholes, sometimes called roads.

A Successful Dinner. "Was your dinner a success?" "Yes, indeed. All the people we didn't in-vite to it are now wishing they were there."
