Memorial Day In East Jordan

The Day To Be Fittingly Observed By Our Citizens.

As usual, the citizens of this community will more than passively observe Memorial Day.

The day's exercises will commence at 9:00 a. m. when the American Legion will decorate the rural graves of dead heroes.

At 10:00 a. m., the G. A. R., W. R. C., and American Legion will conduct the services at the bridge in honor of fallen naval heroes.

At 1:00 p. m. the annual Memorial Day parade will start as usual at the Public Library. This procession will be headed by the East Jordan Concert Band, and followed by the American Legion, the lodges and other city organizations, will march to the High School where the procession will be perfected by the addition of the children. From there the procession will march south on Fourth street to State street, then up Main street back to Library corner, and east to Public School where a fine program is being arranged.

Rev. Fr. R. B. Drinan will deliver the Memorial Day address. He is associate pastor of Muskegon and was for several years connected with recreation work at Camp Roosevelt.

Following this program the American Legion will march to Sunset Hill Cemetery and conduct appropriate exercises.

Kalamazoo—Failure of motorists to read the "stop" signs installed at through streets and state highway trunk lines may lead to drastic action by the city commission. An ordinance to enforce the regulation in the city already is under consideration. The present condition, where some motorists stop and others whiz by, is considered dangerous.

Lansing—A cross section of the Washington elm will rest permanently in the state museum here. When it was found necessary to cut down the old tree it was sawed into a number of cross sections which were presented to governors of the various states, museums, and public buildings. It will occupy an honored place in the museum. The cross section is only about three inches thick.

Lansing—The state administrative board has authorized construction of a large vault for the state treasury department. Contracts are to be let for the work totalling more than $35,000. A Chicago firm will furnish the vault that will replace one which has been in the capitol since its erection and which has been found to be too small to protect the large amount of securities owned by the state.

Engaged to a Count

Miss Helen T. Marye, daughter of George T. Marye, former ambassador to Russia, and Mrs. Marye, of Washington, has just sent from abroad the announcement of her engagement to Count Lamberto Negri Arnoldi, scion of a wealthy and influential family. Mrs. Marye and her attractive young daughter, who is but seventeen, have been abroad for several months. Miss Marye was scheduled to make her debut in Washington society next season. Count Negri is twenty-two and is said to be exceptionally handsome and one of the most eligible bachelors in Roman society.

CHARLEVOIX CO. FEDERATION WOMEN'S CLUBS HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Charlevoix County Federation of Women's Clubs will meet in East Jordan, Tuesday, June 3rd at the Presbyterian Church. The morning session will be devoted to whatever business may occur and the reports from the different clubs.

At 12:30 a luncheon will be served at The Inn, $1.00 per plate.

The afternoon session promises to be very interesting. Mrs. S. T. Johnson of Reed City, our north western district president will give an address, also several others. We will have a Musical Number from each club.

All members are urged to be present and visitors are welcome.

Mrs. H. W. Dicken, Pres.
Mrs. L. G. Balch, Cor. Sec'y.

Game Goes To Alpena

East Jordan Loses Out In The Tenth Inning.

East Jordan lost a ten inning game at Alpena last Sunday, score 8 to 7. East Jordan made four runs in the first inning, one in the second, one in the seventh and one in the eighth. Alpena scored two in the first, one in the second, two in the third, one in the sixth, one in the seventh and one in the tenth.

East Jordan made eleven hits to Alpena's eight, but had twelve men left on bases.

The day was far from ideal for Base Ball, as a high wind made it hard for the fielders. Alpena plays a return game here June 15th.

There will be three games at East Jordan May 30, 31 and June 1st with the Polish Daily News (formerly Detroit Stags).

Cadillac—The publication department of the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange has received a request from Paul Ramella, Argentina, South America, plantation owner, making inquiry for data relative to Michigan potato culture, methods of marketing and other details of the industry. Mr. Ramella learned of the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange through American newspapers circulating in Argentina.

Cadillac—Tourists are beginning to come into Northern Michigan in numbers unusually large for this time of year. Every day cars from Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and other states may be seen, many carrying camping equipment, all headed north. Some are bound for the lakes and streams in search of the excitement and thrills incident to trout fishing, others for lodges and summer resorts in various sections of the resort country for rest and seclusion.

Fall Convention To Be Sept. 24

Detroit Gets Michigan Republican Parley, Committee Says.

The fall Republican state convention will be held in Detroit Sept. 24, according to an announcement received by the secretary of state from the state central committee. County conventions will nominate candidates for four state offices, secretary of state, auditor general, attorney general and treasurer.

Candidates for governor, senator and lieutenant governor will be named in the primaries Sept. 9. The choice for superintendent of public instruction and highway commissioner and of two justices of the supreme court will be made in the spring of 1925 offices being filled in the spring election. County conventions will name delegates to the state conventions.

WILL PLANT "LATE" POTATOES EARLIER

Quality of Tuber Crop Can Be Improved With Longer Season

Earlier planting of "late" potatoes than is practiced by many Michigan farmers would result in a crop of better quality, according to H. C. Moore, extension specialist in potato culture at the Michigan Agricultural College. Russet Rural, the variety which is said to make up ninety per cent of the state late potato crop, require about 130 days of growing season to mature fully. Many growers are trying to raise their crop in 90 days, according to Moore, and the results are not entirely satisfactory.

"Instances of discrimination against Michigan potatoes on the country's markets have been reported," says Moore. "This is frequently due to immaturity and resultant poor conditions of the tubers. Jobbers and consumers have sometimes associated this condition with the Russet Rural variety, which makes up the bulk of the state crop, when in reality the trouble was not due to the variety itself."

"While the planting date will vary in different sections of the state, proximity to the Great Lake and other factors entering in to determine the average date of killing frost in the fall, growers should plan to allow their crop the necessary growing season.

"The last of May or first ten days in June will be the best planting period in most sections. Many successful growers in the southern part of the state can plant the last of June, but those farther north should not delay their planting this long for best results.

"The earlier planting will, of course, call for additional spraying and cultivation, but the extra cost will be more than offset by the better quality of the crop. Factors governing better quality also go hand-in-hand with increased yield, for more efficient production.

SOUTH ARM TOWNSHIP BOARD OF REVIEW

There will be a session of the Board of Review of South Arm Township at the office of the Supervisor on Monday and Tuesday, June 9th and 10th, from 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m., standard time.

H. E. HUTTON
Supervisor

Grand Rapids—His mother's dying wish, that her ashes should be buried in Grand Rapids, was fulfilled when Bert C. Hemphill, tobacco buyer, arrived here from the Philippines after an absence of 21 years. With him he brought the ashes of his mother, Mrs. Emily Hemphill, who died June 11, 1922, at Manila. Mrs. Hemphill left Grand Rapids in October, 1921. Her ship was caught in a typhoon off the coast of Formosa. She was on deck when the storm broke and was thrown to the floor with great force, injuring her spine.

Traverse City—With Mark Crow, Traverse City, district fire, fish and game warden, at the head, District 12 has been completely organized to fight the menace of forest fires in northwestern Michigan. The district includes Grand Traverse, Benzie, Manistee, Leelanau and Wexford counties. Under Crow there are three deputy wardens, three special deputies who work as fire wardens, four state park caretakers, four fire bosses in the village, five towermen stationed in fire towers, and 54 keymen located in each township.

HAZEN P. HAYWARD PASSED AWAY SATURDAY LAST.

Hazen Pingree Hayward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Hayward, was born in Echo Township April 12th, 1900, and passed away at the home of his parents Saturday, May 24th, 1924, having attained the age of twenty-four years, one month and twelve days. He was afflicted with appendicitis and heart trouble, being ill only a few days.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his mother, father, three brothers and two sisters—his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Hayward, Mrs. Violet Ruckie, Miss Vesta Hayward, Marenus, Hariem and Lucius Hayward.

He acknowledged Christ and was baptized Sunday May 18th by Rev. Henry Hulme.

Funeral services were held Monday forenoon from his late home, conducted by Rev. Hulme. Interment at the Cemetery in Echo township.

Another Concert Next Wednesday

East Jordan Concert Band Well Received on First Number.

The East Jordan Concert Band gave its initial opening concert on Wednesday evening, May 21st. In spite of the cold weather prevailing, there was a good sized crowd in attendance, and the band boys more than merited the many hearty commendations received. Plans are being made for the erection of a Band Stand at the Park opposite the Library.

Our newly-organized Band is scheduled to furnish music on Memorial Day, and their second concert will be given at the Park, north of the Inn next Wednesday evening, June 4th. Below is the musical program as arranged for next Wednesday:—

- 1.—Happy and Gay.....March
- 2.—Emerald, Concert.....Waltz
- 3.—The Rambler.....March
- 4.—Uncle Tom's Cabin, a Tune Picture of the South.
- 5.—March Let's Go.....
- 6.—Inspiration.....Overture
- 7.—With the Colors.....March
- 8.—Indian Intermesse.....
- 9.—Lieutenant Santelman.....March

Pontiac—Morris Fowler, watchman, 58 years-old, was killed instantly when hit by a train which was backing over the Rapid street crossing.

Grand Rapids—Walter Kayehazyk, 10 years old, jumped to safety upon a ladder extending from the Grand River. Good wall in this city after a spectacular river trip, for more than a mile, floating down stream upon a piano box.

Ann Arbor—With the funds raised by the students of the University of Michigan, for the starving European students, it has been possible to establish a kitchen in Kiev, Russia, which will feed 1,500 students daily, it was learned here.

Hart—Henry Moan, 60 years old, a barber here for 40 years, is dead, as the result of injuries suffered when he backed his automobile over a 50-foot precipice, landing in the twisted wreckage of his car on the east bank of the Pentwater River.

Lansing—Michigan fire and marine insurance rates have shown a reduction this year of eight cents a $100 insurance or a saving of $2,300,000, according to Insurance Commissioner Leonard T. Hands who attributes the decrease to the anti-discrimination act passed by the legislature in 1923.

Lansing—The State Highway Department has decided to ask for bids on more than 10 miles of 30-foot pavement on M-25, between Charlotte and Lansing. It will be in two sections, five miles from the present pavement in Charlotte toward Lansing and 5 1/2 miles at the Lansing end.

Standish—William Hartman, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hartman, is dead of injuries suffered when he was caught in the revolving sprockets of a farm implement. The boy was put to the field with his father and when left alone fell into the machinery. His skull was fractured and his body badly lacerated.

Grant—Because Fred J. Brown, of Grand Rapids, was up before the sun in his way north through Grant on an early morning fishing trip, he probably saved the village from destruction, for he discovered the fire which destroyed three store buildings and did damage of more than $25,000. Greater damage, it is said, was avoided by the timely alarm.

Fair Association Out of Debt

Owns Over $15,000 Property Value Free of Indebtedness.

The officers and directors of the Charlevoix County Fair Association may well feel proud of their efforts of the last few years in clearing the Association of a long-standing indebtedness.

Today the Association is free from indebtedness of any nature and owns outright the forty acres of land located near East Jordan, together with all buildings and improvements.

Though careful management during the last few years, the officers and directors of the Association have placed the finances of the Charlevoix County Fair in the best condition they have ever been, and today our Fair Ass'n is among the best-financed of any in the State.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a detailed statement of the condition of finances.

This year is the Fair's fortieth Annual Exhibit, and special efforts are being put forth to make this a banner event. At present, Secretary Frank F. Bird is busy getting the Annual Premium List compiled for publication, and it will undoubtedly be ready for distribution the fore part of July.

Moon and the Tides

The highest tides occur when the attractions of the sun and the moon act in unison. The moon, being closer to the earth than the sun, has the strongest attraction or "pulling power," but the sun pulls the water also, and it is when they pull together in the same direction that the highest tides occur.

"Veins of Wealth"

As Ruskin tells us: "The veins of wealth are not the veins of gold and silver in the earth, but the veins of rich, red blood in the bodies of youth."

As to Monuments

Those only deserve a monument who do not need one; that is, who have raised themselves a monument in the minds and memories of men.—Haslitt.

GLYCERINE MIXTURE PREVENTS APPENDICITIS

Simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adierika is excellent to guard against appendicitis. Most medicines act only on lower bowel but Adierika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes all gasses and poisons. Brings out matter you never thought was in your system. Helps any case gas on the stomach in TEN minutes.—GIDLEY & MAC, Drug-gists.

TOM MIX in "THE LONE STAR RANGER"
WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

ZANE GREY'S NOVEL READ WORLD OVER

"The Lone Star Ranger," the famous best-seller by Zane Grey which has been made into a motion picture by William Fox with Tom Mix in the starring role, has been read by more than ten million people since its publication in 1915, according to Harper Brothers, publishers.

The noted author's work has been through more than seventeen editions and from the demand that still exists it is likely that it will pass through many more before it is finally shelved.

The book has been translated in many foreign languages and found fertile soil in the readers of these countries. The film will be shown at the Temple Theatre Saturday, June 1st, Matinee and Evening.

BACK BAD TODAY?

Then Find the Cause and Correct It As Other East Jordan Folks Have.

There's little rest or peace for the backache sufferer. Days are tired and weary—Night brings no respite.

Why continue to be so miserable? Why not use a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys?

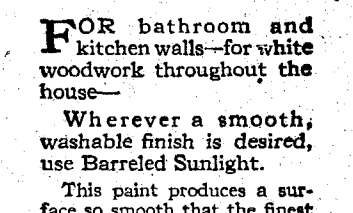

Use Doan's Pills. Your neighbors recommend Doan's. Read this East Jordan case:

Eric Armer, railroad engineer, says: "I had a sore feeling across my back that stayed with me for days. Sitches took me and I wasn't able to move."

My back was always lame. Mornings I felt so tired I could hardly get up. Through the night I often had to get up to pass the kidney secretions.

Doan's Pills, from Gidley & Mac's Drug Store, fixed me up in good shape.

SENATE APPROVES TAX BILL REPORT

CONFERENCE PLAN FAVORED 60-5, WHEN TREASURY REPORT SHOWS SURPLUS

LIGHTENS INCOME TAX LOAD

Bill is Compromise, Carrying Rate Schedule and Limited Publicity On Returns

Washington—The conference report on the tax reduction bill has been approved by the senate by a vote of 60 to 6 and sent to the house.

The report is a compromise between the senate and the house bills carrying the senate Democratic income rate schedule and the house provision for limited publicity of returns and no change in the present corporation tax.

Thirty Republicans and 30 Democrats supported the conference report, while five Republicans and one Farmer-Labor member, Johnson, of Minnesota, opposed it.

The income tax rate schedule approved in the report was proposed by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the finance committee.

It provides for a reduction in the present normal rates of 4 per cent on incomes of $4,000 and under and 8 per cent above to two per cent on incomes of $4,000 and under, four per cent on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000, and six per cent above $8,000.

The surtax schedule calls for a general scaling down in the present rates and would start at one per cent at $10,000, graduating up to 40 per cent at $500,000.

Summing up the Treasury report, Senator Reed Smoot, chairman of the Finance Committee, declared, that even after allowing for the soldier bonus the new tax law would produce a surplus of $2,000,000 over estimated expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925.

Senator Smoot said there might still be a deficit due to other extraordinary appropriations. He mentioned the postal pay increase, to cost $65,000,000.

re-classification of Federal employees, $15,000,000, $28,500,000 for the Veterans Bureau and $4,500,000 allowance to the district of Columbia as expenditures which either has passed or are likely to pass, which had not been counted in the budget.

DETROIT GAS RATES ILLEGAL

Court Enjoins Company and City from Enforcing Arbitration Award.

Detroit—The entire new schedule of gas rates fixed by the gas arbitration board after four months of deliberation was declared invalid when Judge Clyde I. Webster, in Circuit Court, granted an injunction temporarily restraining the gas company and the City from proceeding under the Council resolution enacting the rates.

The Judge pointed out carefully that his injunction was directed against the procedure and not against the rates.

He said the City and the company might, by agreement, keep the new rates in force on their own authority until the matter was finally settled.

He held that the agreement between the City and company, on which the rates are based, is virtually a franchise and, as such, should be passed by a favorable vote of three-fifths of the voters at a general election.

KIDNAPPERS SLAY MILLIONAIRE'S SON

FATHER READY TO PAY RANSOM OF $10,000 DEMANDED WHEN NOTIFIED OF MURDER.

NUDE BODY FOUND IN CULVERT

Most Baffling Homicide in Chicago's History—$10,000 Reward Offered for Slayers' Arrest.

Chicago—Slain while kidnapers demanded a $10,000 ransom, the body of Robert Franks, 14-year-old son of Jacob Franks, millionaire watch manufacturer, found in a railroad culvert five miles from his home, brought to light what the police term the strangest and most baffling homicide in Chicago's history.

Young Franks was last seen alive when he left several companions after umpiring a base ball game at the Harvard School.

The first inkling of the boy's fate came from a telephone call at the Franks home, advising the parents that their son was kidnaped. A few hours later a special delivery letter arrived instructing the father to have in readiness $8,000 in $20 bills and $2,000 in $10 bills in a plain white wrapper, pending receipt of further instructions.

Plans were made to trace the point of origin of the telephone calls and it is assumed that the kidnapers, also had learned of the plans to trace the phone calls, and, becoming frightened, killed the boy and concealed the body.

The boy's nude body, stripped of all identification marks was found half extending out of a culvert under the railroad tracks. It apparently had been tossed into the water head first.

A man walking along the tracks found it and with the aid of section hands hauled it to dry land.

A reward of $10,000 was immediately offered for information leading to the arrest or conviction of the boy's slayers. Of this amount, $5,000 was offered by the boy's father and a similar amount by a local newspaper.

LIQUOR TREATY NOW IN EFFECT

Pact Aims to Curb Illicit Traffic Along U. S. Coast.

Washington—President Coolidge has issued a formal proclamation putting into effect the new liquor treaty with Great Britain. This was done after the exchange of ratifications between Charles E. Hughes, Secretary of State, and Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador.

The primary purpose of the treaty is to curb illicit liquor traffic along the American coasts, and at the same time to remove the annoyance to British vessels due to the application of foreign prohibitive enforcement statutes to 16 size stores of liquor aboard those vessels while in American waters.

To accomplish its purpose the treaty provides that ships under British flag suspected of liquor smuggling may be searched and seized up to the distance from the American coasts that "can be traversed in one hour" by the suspected vessel.

The treaty provides also, that penalties under American prohibition statutes shall not apply to liquors aboard British ships listed as sea stores, or cargo destined to other than an American port.

WORLD FLIERS LAND IN JAPAN

U. S. Aviators Have Now Covered Most Dangerous Part of Trip.

Kasunigaura, Japan—The three American Army air cruisers, having flown across the Pacific for the first time in history, landed May 23 on the Japanese flying field here for a week's rest, preparatory to a continuance of their attempt to encircle the globe by air.

The aviators made the jump from Hitokappu Bay, Yotorofu Island, Kuriles, 720 miles, in 12 hours and 50 minutes flying time. They made one stop of about two hours at Minato for lunch.

The Americans and their planes were in excellent condition upon their arrival, but decided to stop a week here for a thorough overhauling of the aircraft.

With the landing here, the first and most difficult portion of the around-the-world journey has ended.

The American aviators, when they reached here had covered the "last part of the earth's circumference hitherto untraveled by air. From Clover Field, Santa Monica, Calif., they reeled off 6,570 miles in 90 hours of flying time.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

Detroit—Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States will conduct an annual poppy day campaign in memory of soldiers who died in service.

Kalamazoo—The Kalamazoo Association of Michigan Alumnae has announced the raising of $6,500 of a $15,000 quota for the $1,000,000 women's building at the University of Michigan.

Ruth—Albert Sajetaki, 40 years old, was killed instantly when he fell 25 feet to the bottom of a dry well on his farm here, alighting on his head. He is believed to have been overcome by gas emitted from the well.

Lansing—The remains of Dr. W. J. Beal, professor at the Michigan agricultural college and at the time of his death the oldest living alumnus of the University of Michigan, has been laid to rest at Mt. Hope cemetery here.

Grand Rapids—The contract for the construction of the $700,000 exchange building of the Michigan Bell Telephone company here has been let. Excavation has begun, and the construction will consume more than 10 months.

Copemish—A dynamite cap with which he was playing, and not a shot fired from ambush, as he had declared, caused serious injuries to Louis Wold, 11 years old, son of Martin Wold, living northwest of Thompsonville.

Detroit—After climbing to the roof of a four-story apartment house to retrieve a baseball which had lodged in the gutter, William S. Jordan, Jr., son of W. S. Jordan, became dizzy and fell. He was instantly killed on the pavement.

Alpena—Walter Mistak, 7 years old, was drowned in Thunder Bay River. In company with other boys he was playing on the boom at Old Sorting Gap when he lost his balance and fell off the log. The body was found four hours later.

Grand Rapids—Invoking the mandates of a new ordinance, the city commission has denied applications of 16 aliens for pool, room or soft drink licenses. The new regulation bars aliens from operating such places within the city.

Bay City—Although the Bay county board of auditors authorized the city board of health to vaccinate all school children and agreed that the county would foot the bill, it is reported they now decline to pay the bill presented by the physicians, amounting to $4,400.

Grand Rapids—Lec Cox, 18 years old, employed at the United States Plaster Co. mill had his left arm torn off at the shoulder and his right broken when he was pulled into the elevator machinery when his left arm was caught by a rope hanging on a shaft.

Lansing—Lansing will have a third junior high school at the beginning of the fall term in 1925 according to an announcement of the board of education. The new school, to be named the Walter H. French junior high school in honor of Professor French who, before his death was connected with M. A. C.

Iron Mountain—This village, founded 32 years ago by M. Perron has been sold by him to Frank Martozek, Keisterville, Pa. Included in the sale are a hotel, store and several homes, including the house in which the Perron family have resided. The village covers about 15 acres, and is surrounded by prosperous and fertile farms.

Lansing—Michigan's highway department won the right to relocate M-16, the Grand River road between Detroit and Lansing when the state supreme court turned down a request of residents of Okemos, asking a writ to keep the road where it is. The highway department plans to locate the new road a half mile north, eliminating a dangerous curve.

Lansing—The State Prison Commission has recommended to the State Administrative Board the establishment of a plant for production of cheap bedroom furniture as a new industry at the State House of Correction at Marquette. The population there is now more than 500 men, it was said, and is steadily increasing. It may be necessary later to establish a stone crusher there to provide stone for highways.

Menominee—The population of the city of Menominee, as of May 1, 1924, is 11,006, according to a census just completed by a local newspaper. When the government census of 1920 gave Menominee a count of 8,907, a loss of 1,600 in the previous 10 years, the question arose as to the reliability of the federal figures, as the school census of that year and the 1920 presidential registration list indicated a larger population.

Ablon—The death of Mrs. John G. Murray, brought the toll of deaths in an automobile accident at Homer to two. Mr. and Mrs. Murray, with their daughter, Doris, 15 years old, and son, Dell, 6 years old, were hit at the Hillsdale street crossing of the Air Line division of the Michigan Central railroad, by a lone switch engine, which was running backwards. The daughter, Doris, was killed instantly. A fractured skull caused the death of Mrs. Murray within a few hours. Mr. Murray has broken ribs and a bruised

Sudan Grass Useful as Emergency Crop

It Is Particularly Valuable for Hay and Pasture.

From a small eight-ounce bag of seed brought by the United States Department of Agriculture from Africa to this country in 1908, Sudan grass has come to be recognized as a valuable and widely used emergency crop for hay and pasture in New Jersey and many other states. Comparative tests have shown that it outyields millet, which has always been the leading grass crop for these two purposes. "Furthermore," says H. R. Cox, farm crops specialist at the New Jersey state college of agriculture, "this new grass is liked better by live stock."

"Sudan grass should not be seeded until the weather has become warm and settled, which is a week or more after corn planting. The crop is best sown broadcast in this state, either with a drill or by hand, at the rate of 20 to 25 pounds per acre. If sown with a drill the machine should be set as if to sow two pecks of wheat, which will distribute about 20 pounds of Sudan grass."

"When harvested about the time it is fully headed it will make a vigorous renewal growth; and hence, two cuttings may usually be taken in one season. On good corn land the grass will get five feet high and the total yield will be from two and a half to four tons per acre. The plant is an annual and will die when cold weather comes on. This crop makes a very desirable summer pasture. In one test it furnished abundant pasture for one cow per acre for 125 days."

"Sometimes Sudan grass is mixed with soy beans or cowpeas for hay and pasture. A good rate of sowing is a bushel of the legume and 12 pounds of Sudan grass per acre. Some farmers, however, have found it more desirable to sow the two crops in separate fields, since the best date of cutting most varieties of soy beans does not coincide with the best date of cutting Sudan grass."

Feed Chickens Skim Milk, Either Sweet or Sour

Skim milk when fed to chickens can be either sweet or sour and has, apparently, little influence on the fowl. They seem to relish the sweet about as well as the sour and will consume either in rather large quantities. One has been constantly advised not to change from one to the other, but even this change, although not advised, has little effect on the flock.

If milk is the one form of animal protein feed that is supplied it must be given in large quantities and before the flock constantly. In an effort to stimulate a greater consumption, water is not given to them during the winter. Flock owners state that fowls will consume both milk and water if both are offered. That is true and to obtain the same amount of animal protein from the milk that they would receive from 20 per cent of meat scrap or tankage placed in the mash, only the milk should be fed.

Much Fertilizing Value of Manure Being Wasted

Experiments at the Ohio station show that farm manure exposed in flat piles in an open yard from January to April lost 85.6 per cent of its nitrogen, 22.5 per cent of its phosphorus and 51 per cent of the potash. That means about one-third of its total fertilizing value. This loss would be largely avoided by keeping the manure under cover or hauling it out on level ground each day. Manure never can contain more plant food than on the day it is made. There is a constant and steady loss, great or small, from that day, and this fact gives one of the great arguments for hauling out every day whenever possible. The other argument is that the work is done at the most convenient time and will not interfere with the necessary spring jobs.

FARM NOTES

A good well equipped with a modern pump is a fortunate possession.

While soy beans stand more frost than corn, nevertheless soil should be warm before planting.

The advantage of a good cropping system for the farmer who is feeding several classes of live stock under average farm conditions cannot be too greatly emphasized.

The cultivation of the soy bean crop does not last over a long period, but the right care at the right time will make the crop comparatively easy to handle, and most profitable.

Bright leaty alfalfa hay of the second or third cutting makes excellent forage for brood sows during the winter months and forms a valuable addition to the regular rations.

Many melon growers follow the practice of putting manure in the hills a short time before planting. This manure should always be worked in with the soil, and not left in one parcel under the ground.

Barley prefers a well-drained soil. It does better on a well-drained sandy soil than on heavy clay soils that are often wet. If the soil is fairly fertile and well-drained it will not make so much difference whether the soil is high or low.

Guinea Raising Is Quite Profitable

Substituted in Fashionable Hotels for Various Kinds of Game Birds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Guinea raising is becoming more profitable as a result of their successful substitution in fashionable hotels and eating places for such game birds as grouse, quail and partridge, says the United States Department of Agriculture. When well cooked, guineas are attractive in appearance, although darker than common fowl, and the flesh of young birds is tender and of especially fine flavor, resembling that of wild game. The census figures show an increase of 36 per cent in the number of guinea fowl on farms in 1920 over the number in 1910.

Raise in Small Flocks.
A few of the large poultry raisers, particularly those within easy reach of the large eastern markets, make a practice of raising a hundred or so guineas each year, but the great majority of guineas are raised in small flocks of from 10 to 25 on the farms of the Middle West and of the South. The highest prices for guineas are paid in the large eastern markets. Poultrymen who are near these markets, or who have developed a trade among private customers, receive prices that make this industry very profitable. Wholesale prices in New York usually range from $1 to $1.60 per pair for dressed spring guineas. They are marketed late in the summer when they weigh from one to one and one-half pounds when two and one-half months of age, and also throughout the fall, when the demand is for heavier birds.

Guinea hens usually begin to lay in April or May, those in the South laying earlier than those in the North. From 20 to 30, and often more eggs, are laid before the guinea hen becomes broody, at which time she can be broken of her broodiness easily by removing the eggs from the nest, when she will soon begin laying again. If not allowed to sit, guinea hens will continue to lay throughout the summer, laying from 40 to 60, and in some cases 100 eggs during the season.

Persistent Layers.
As profitable egg producers guinea hens cannot compete with ordinary hens, but during the latter part of the spring and during the summer they are persistent layers. The eggs are smaller than hen's eggs and consequently bring lower prices, being graded as small eggs. The chief claim to profitability on the farm is the demand for the fowl by the eastern markets for supplying the hotel demand for a wild game substitute. Their noisy, never-ending, harsh cry which is often cause for their unpopularity on the farm is really a point in favor of keeping a few of them, as they are excellent sentries, giving warning of marauders in the poultry yard. Their pugnacious disposition, while sometimes causing disturbances among other poultry, also makes them show fight against hawks and other common enemies, so that guineas sometimes are kept as guards over the poultry yard.

Coöperative Marketing by Live Stock Raisers

A gain of $1.23 per head was recently made by the members of a co-operative live stock shipping association in one of the Southern states as a result of shipping a single load of sheep and lambs co-operatively instead of selling to country buyers. A report to the bureau of markets and crop estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture shows that the load of sheep and lambs brought $475.47 more on the market than local buyers bid for the stock.

The total cost of shipping amounted to $206.02, resulting in a net gain on the carload, consisting of 220 head, of $267.45, or $1.23 per head. This, of course, does not take into account any profits that may have accrued purely as a matter of production. The following tabulation shows the transaction in detail:

Historic "Husking Bee" Is Feature of New Film

The historic "husking bee" and the old bone-husking peg, as well as the newer thumb hook and the "bang board," have their part in the new United States Department of Agriculture educational motion picture, "The Corn Belt Derby."

This film treats of the economic phases of corn husking and culminates in the pictorialization of an interstate husking contest in which husking rivals to the dignity of a major sport. The slow-motion camera reveals the technique employed by the husking champs to speed up the operation.

Scenes introduce the old peg, that played an important part in the conquest of the new world, and immortalize the "husking bee," a major farm social event of a generation ago.

"The Corn Belt Derby" will be circulated through the educational film service of the department and the co-operating state institutions. Copies may be borrowed for short periods, or may be purchased at the laboratory charge.

Septuagenarian Hurdler

Mr. T. Goodyear of Rickmansworth, England, is in his seventy-fifth year, but you'd never know it to see him handle a horse with the skill and the nerve of a youngster who makes a business of riding on racetracks on the most aristocratic of blue-blooded steeds. This photograph shows Mr. Goodyear, mounted on his "Royal Star," taking a hurdle easily and fearlessly.

Mississippi Girls Work for Pure Bred Poultry

Pure bred poultry is receiving encouragement in Mississippi through the interest of a leading merchant in Laurel, Jones county, who gave twenty settings of pure bred Rhode Island Red eggs to twenty "4H" poultry club members. These girls were required to raise as many as possible of the chicks hatched and keep all except one pullet, which was returned to the donor. The twenty pullets which came back were made into five pens, to each of which a cock was added. The five pens were then given to five other girls in the county, who were to own the chickens. Each of these girls, however, promised to send in a setting of eggs to be distributed in turn to other girls.

Eighteen of the original girls succeeded with the project, according to a report received by the United States Department of Agriculture. The two who failed were allowed to try again. This plan has proved an excellent means of interesting club girls in the production of pure bred poultry, and many of their neighbors have also become interested.

Try This Yourself

"When a man is trying to catch your eye and interest you," says Fenwick, "and you don't want to be interested, all you have to do is to look with both your eyes straight at the bridge of his nose. Then he can never hook you. But if you want to hook the other fellow, look with both your eyes into just one of his. This simple little trick has relieved me of many terrors of self-consciousness and embarrassment."—George Allan England.

Red Frog of British Guiana

In the wilds of British Guiana is found a bright-red frog with a voice of astonishing volume, according to Miss Ruth Rose of the tropic research station. The native Indians regard these strange creatures as charms of great value. When one is caught the Indians cut it up into as many pieces as there are warriors in the village and each man rubs a piece on his arrows under the assurance that his aim will be infallible.

TODAY—Ride in this Remarkable Six

Scientifically balanced, holds the road at all speeds. All-steel body. One-piece windshield. Luxurious, genuine leather cushions, fenderless deep, cool lights. Standard non-skid cord tires.

Now here's a car to put the song of the open in your heart!

HERE is the open of the country, the quiet of star-leavened skies, the power of a thousand giants to transport you magically to the land of dreams-come-true.

A car world-famous and distinguished, the product of a vehicle-maker internationally acclaimed for the supreme in fine carriages since the days of Lincoln and Grant.

All the luxuries of a fine car—for it is a fine car. The same steels, the same engineering as the most costly Studebaker models—and that means the best men know. The same ease of handling, the same quiet, smooth operation, long life, low upkeep cost.

Now ride in it. Note its quick response to the slightest touch of the accelerator. Feel the thrill of its tremendously powerful six-cylinder motor. Mark its ease of handling, its comfort, its fine car refinements.

Then note its price is well within the limits of economy—the cost of upkeep low. The terms of payment liberal. It offers the supreme value of today in the $1000 field.

We invite you to take out a Light-Six model for comparison with other cars at near its price. Then with cars selling for several hundred dollars more. We'll place a Light-Six at your disposal for this purpose any time you name.

WILSON

(Edited by Mrs. O. D. Smith)

The coldest May in the memory of oldest inhabitants.

Mrs. Elmer Hayner spent a few days recently with Mrs. Geo. Hayner in East Jordan.

We are glad to record that Miss Faye Shepard is slowly recovering from her recent illness.

Claud Sutton of Lansing was a visitor at the J. L. Sutton home the first of last week.

Mrs. O. D. Smith visited her friend Mrs. Clifford Brown in Boyne City last Tues.

Miss Lucille Hott has been stopping at home and driving back and forth to her work in Frost's Grocery every day.

The misses, Marian Sedgeman and Zella Smith of East Jordan were callers at O. D. Smith's in Afton last Saturday evening.

Webb Hott and family of Detroit were visitors at his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hott in Afton several days last week.

A gentleman's kid glove for left hand was found last Sunday morning near Wilson Grange Hall in Afton. Owner may have same by calling at O. D. Smith's, in above mentioned place.

Mrs. Emil Oleson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sutton, passed away at the home of her parents last Monday afternoon after a lingering illness. Beattie Sutton was born and brought up in this place and her many friends are saddened by her early death. She leaves her husband and one son, Lyle, 6 years old; besides her parents, five brothers and one sister to mourn her loss. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the home of J. L. Sutton. Interment in Boyne City Cemetery.

PENINSULAR

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

Mrs. Edith Tibbitt and granddaughter Alberta Tibbitt of Cherry Hill arrived home last week, after spending the winter in Louisiana and Mississippi, visiting her two sons, Lewis and Chas. Tibbitt, and her brothers.

Douglas Tibbitt has set 500 more cherry trees in his already fine orchard Cherry Hill.

Mrs. Orval Bennett visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Papineau at Boyne City Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. F. D. Russell of Ridgeway, Mrs. A. Reich of Bunker Hill, and Mrs. E. Hayden and son Frank of Orchard Hill attended the funeral of Verne Kershner in Boyne City last week Thursday.

A large delegation of parents and pupils attended the Eveline Township Day at the Mountain schoolhouse last Saturday. They all enjoyed themselves.

David Gaunt is very much pleased with his litter of 11 O. I. C. pigs, so many have lost their early pigs.

The Duroc Jersey Pig Club is not planning out very satisfactory. So far Kenneth Russell has the most pigs, having saved 6 out of a litter of 10. Daniel Reich is the only one so far to save a 100 per cent of their pigs and his sow only had two.

Will Gaunt and family who have lived in East Jordan all winter, where Mr. Gaunt is employed in the Chemical Plant, have moved into the Geo. Simmerman house in Three Bells Dist. and will drive his car to and from his work morning and night.

E. W. Lane of Comstock Park made a flying visit to his farm in Three Bells Dist. Saturday, returning Monday.

Alfred Tillison, a former resident of Star Dist. but now of Boyne City was making calls on old friends, Monday.

There was a ball game at Peninsular Grange, Sunday. It took all available timber for miles around to make a game.

Douglas Tibbitts of Cherry Hill received the sad news of the death of his father in Oregon some time ago.

Mrs. F. D. Russell, who was confined to her bed with a severe cold on her lungs for several days, is able to be around again.

Mrs. Clara Nicloy and her two daughters, Mrs. Hazel Rout of Shepherd, Mich., and Nurse Zura Nicloy, superintendent of the Greenville hospital, drove up, Friday, in Miss Zura's car and visited until Sunday when the young women returned to their respective homes. Mrs. Clara Nicloy will remain at her home, Sunny Slope Farm, with her son, A. B. Nicloy and family, all summer.

ALBA

(Edited by Mrs. A. I. Ashbaugh)

The Seniors and Juniors acquitted themselves with much credit in the play which they presented at the opera house last Friday evening. The evening was rainy and cold, but among those from outside were Ed. Sloat and family, Joe Hale and family and Miss Lillie Hull, all from Gaylord.

Otto Anderson and wife and Miss Lottie Anderson and friend visited at Walden Larson Saturday.

Boyd Hammond of Sidnaw, and Mrs. Elsie Slater of Cadillac were called home on account of the illness of their father, L. Hammond. Mr. Hammond has been ill for a long time and Sunday was taken to the Mercy hospital at Cadillac for treatment.

Mr. W. Schraeder was a Traverse City visitor last week, bringing his daughter Maude home with him.

Elmer Hughey who returned home Monday from Johnson College, Tenn., visited his Aunt, Mrs. Lud Lowrey. A younger brother and his sister were with him.

Mrs. Potter and daughter Hazel returned home Thursday from their visit to Stanton where Deb Potter is working.

Mr. Nolan is taking the place of F. Frymire during the latter's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Campbell have returned from their visit at Belding and other points and are moving into Mrs. E. Kelly's house which was recently vacated by Stanley Kelly. Mr. Campbell has been employed by the Anderson meat market and grocery concern.

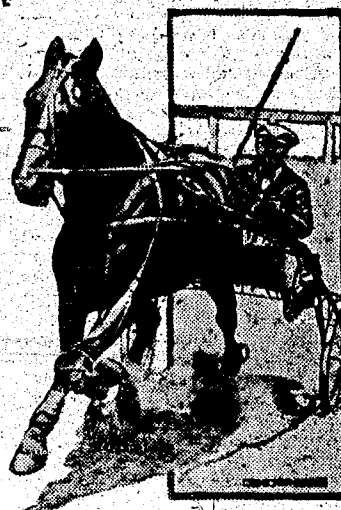

Sam. Kregulka is the new clerk at Saperston store.

Mr. Darrell Cross had bad luck on his way home from Petoakey, breaking the universal joint in his car and having to be towed home from Elmira.

C. E. Bennet is having a sun parlor added to his residence.

Clyde Baldwin and family visited at East Jordan Sunday.

Candler Loves Horses

Walter Candler, son of Asa G. Candler, the Atlanta (Ga.) millionaire, who is striving to develop the finest general stable in the South, has just added 19 racing horses to his stable near Decatur, Ga., bringing the total of racing horses up to 60. Although many times a millionaire, Mr. Candler is a confirmed lover of horses. In the photograph is shown Mr. Candler driving "Bogalusa," one of his fine racing horses, on his own track at Decatur.

F. L. Smith Passes Away

Was Resident Of This Region For Forty-five Years.

Franklin LeRoy Smith, a resident of this vicinity for forty-five years, passed away at his home in this city Tuesday night, following a year's illness.

Mr. Smith was born at Whitehall, N. Y., Nov. 7, 1841, his parents being Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith. At the age of twenty years he enlisted in the 12th Wisconsin Regiment and served his country during the Civil War.

In 1868 he was united in marriage to Miss Nancy Bowen at Scott, Wis. From there they moved to Missouri, and some 45 years ago located on a farm in Wilson township, Charlevoix County. They moved to East Jordan 32 years ago. The wife passed away two years ago.

Deceased is survived by two sons—O. D. Smith of Wilson township and Frank Smith of East Jordan; a daughter, Mrs. Robert Barnett of this city. Also by two sisters, Mrs. Peter Karlskin of Advance and Mrs. Alice Sedgman of East Jordan.

Funeral services will be held from the Methodist church, Saturday afternoon, May 31st. Interment at Sunset Hill.

Modern Sweater Features Side-Tie Jacquette

The ultra-chic of sweaterdom is expressed in the knitted jacquette. If it has horizontal stripes contrasted with plain sleeves, its claim to smartness is accentuated. Further style details are plain-knit bindings and the wide turnover collar as revealed in the picture.

"JONAH"
 "Jonah" is the name of a Biblical character famous for proverbial bad luck. Jonah's presence on board ship was believed in ancient times to have been responsible for a terrific storm at sea. When Jonah was tossed overboard the storm is supposed to have ceased. A Jonah today means a person who brings bad luck.

Meeting With Joy

Don't wait for Joy to knock at the door, but rise up and meet him half way on the road of Life, then introduce him to all the travelers you meet, and celebrate him on the hills and in the valleys that have been dreaming of him all the year long, and you'll hear bells, and the dreams of a lifetime will come true.—Atlanta Constitution.

How to Care for Plants

Plants will grow more quickly if a few drops of ammonia are added once a week to the water with which they are watered. The water should not be colder than the atmosphere of the room, and the leaves of the plants should be kept free from dust by sponging or syringing.

Retaining Youth

As I approve of a youth that has something of the old man in him, so I am no less pleased with an old man that has something of the youth. He that follows this rule may be old in body, but can never be so in mind.—Cicero.

"Well, I nearly blurted out the whole story," the man confessed, "and then I remembered that wouldn't do me any good, so I went away. I got a job at the Ritz, but I was took ill a few days afterward. I went to see a doctor. From him I got my death-warrant, sir."

"Is it heart?"

"It's heart, sir," the man acknowledged. "The doctor told me I might snuff out at any moment. I can't live, anyway, for more than a year. I've got a little girl."

"Now just why have you come to see me?" Francis asked.

"For just this, sir," the man replied. "Here's my account of what happened," he went on, drawing some sheets of foolscap from his pocket. "It's written in my own hand and there are two witnesses to my signature—one a clergyman, sir, and the other a doctor, they thinking it was a will or something. I had it in my mind to send that to Scotland Yard, and then I remembered that I hadn't a penny to leave my little girl. I began to wonder—think as meanly of me as you like, sir—how I could still make some money out of this. I happened to know that you were none too friendly disposed toward Sir Timothy. This confession of mine, if it wouldn't mean hanging, would mean imprisonment for the rest of his life. You could make a better bargain with him than me, sir. Do you want to hold him in your power? If so, you can have this confession, all signed and everything, for two hundred pounds, and as I live, sir, that two hundred pounds is to pay for my funeral, and the balance for my little girl."

"Francis took the papers and glanced them through.

"Supposing I buy this document from you," he said, "what is its actual value? You could write out another confession, get that signed, and sell it to another of Sir Timothy's enemies, or you could still go to Scotland Yard yourself."

"I shouldn't do that, sir, I assure you," the man declared nervously, "not on my solemn oath. I want simply to be quit of the whole matter and have a little money for the child."

Francis considered for a moment.

"There is only one way I can see," he said, "to make this document worth the money to me. If you will sign a confession that any statement you have made as to the death of Mr. Hilditch is entirely imaginary, that you did not see Sir Timothy in the house that night, that you went to bed at your usual time and slept until you were awakened, and that you only made this charge for the purpose of extorting money—if you will sign a confession to that effect and give it me with these papers, I will pay you the two hundred pounds and I will never use the confession unless you repeat the charge."

"I'll do it, sir," the man assented.

Francis drew up a document, which his visitor read through and signed. Then he wrote out an open check.

"My servant shall take you to the bank in a taxi," he said. "They would scarcely pay you this unless you were identified. We understand one another."

"Perfectly, sir!"

Francis rang the bell, gave his servant the necessary orders, and dismissed the two men. Half an hour later, already changed into flannels, he was on his way into the country.

CHAPTER XVIII

Lady Cynthia and Sir Timothy strolled after dinner that night, where the four had gathered at the Sanctuary, to the bottom of the lawn and watched the punt which Francis was propelling turn from the stream into the river.

"Are those two really going to marry?" Lady Cynthia asked, moving her head lazily in the direction of the disappearing punt.

"I imagine so."

"And you? What are you going to do then?"

"I am planning a long cruise. I telegraphed to Southampton today. I am having my yacht provisioned and prepared. I think I shall go over to South America."

She was silent for a moment.

"Alone?" she asked presently.

"I am always alone," he answered. "That is rather a matter of your own choice, is it not?"

"Perhaps so. I have always found it hard to make friends. Enemies seem to be more in my line."

"I have not found it difficult to become your friend," she reminded him. "You are one of my few successes," he replied.

She leaned back with half-closed eyes. There was nothing new about their environment—the clusters of roses, the perfume of the lilies in the rock garden, the even sweeter fragrance of the trim border of mignonette. Away in the distance, the night was made momentarily ugly by the sound of a gramophone on a passing launch, yet this discordant note seemed only to bring the perfection of present things closer. Back across the velvety lawn, through the feathery strips of foliage, the lights of the Sanctuary, shaded and subdued, were dimly visible. The dining-table under the cedar-tree had already been cleared. Hedges, newly arrived from town to play the major domo, was putting the finishing touches to a little array of cool drinks. And beyond, dimly seen but always there, the wall. She turned to him suddenly.

"You build a wall around your life," she said, "like the wall which encircles your mystery house. Last night I thought that I could see a little way over the top. Tonight you are different."

"If I am different," he answered quietly, "it is because, for the first time for many years, I have found myself wondering whether the life I had planned for myself, the things which I had planned should make life for me, are the best. I have had doubts—perhaps I might say regrets."

"I should like to go to South America," Lady Cynthia declared softly.

He finished the cigarette which he was smoking and deliberately threw away the stump. Then he turned and looked at her. His face seemed harder than ever, clean-cut, the face of a man able to defy Fate, but she saw something in his eyes which she had never seen before.

"Dear child," he said, "if I could roll back the years, if from all my deeds of sin, as the world knows sin, I could cancel one, there is nothing in the world would make me happier than to ask you to come with me. My cherished companion to just whatever part of the world you cared for. But I have been playing pitch and toss with fortune all my life, since the great trouble came which changed me so much. Even at this moment, the coin is in the air which may decide my fate."

"You mean?" she ventured.

"I mean," he continued, "that after the event of which we spoke last night, nothing in life has been more than an incident, and I have striven to find distraction by means which none of you—not even you, Lady Cynthia, with all your breadth of outlook and all your craving after new things—would justify."

"Nothing that you may have done troubles me in the least," she assured him. "I do wish that you could put it all out of your mind and let me help you to make a fresh start."

"I may put the thing itself out of my mind," he answered sadly, "but the consequences remain."

"There is a consequence which threatens?" she asked.

He was silent for a moment. When he spoke again, he had recovered all his courage.

"There is the coin in the air of which I spoke," he replied. "Let us forget it for a moment. Of the minor things I will make you my judge. Ledsam and Margaret are coming to my party tomorrow night. You, too, shall be my guest. Such secrets as lie on the other side of that wall shall be yours. After that, if I survive your judgment of them, and if the coin which I have thrown into the air comes down to the tune I call—after that—I will remind you of something which happened last night—of something which, if I live for many years, I shall never forget."

She leaned towards him. Her eyes were heavy with longing. Her arms, sweet and white in the dusky twilight, stole hesitatingly out.

"Last night was so long ago. Won't you take a later memory?"

Once again she lay in his arms, still and content.

As they crossed the lawn, an hour or so later, they were confronted by Hedges—who hastened, in fact, to meet them.

"You are being asked for on the telephone, sir," he announced. "It is a trunk call. I have switched it through to the study."

"Any name?" Sir Timothy asked indifferently.

The man hesitated. His eyes sought his master's respectfully but charged with meaning.

"The person refuses to give his name, sir, but I fancied that I recognized his voice. I think it would be as well for you to speak, sir."

Lady Cynthia sank into a chair.

"You shall go and answer your telephone call," she said, "and leave Hedges to serve me with one of these strange drinks. I believe I see some of my favorite organgeade."

Sir Timothy made his way into the house and into the low, oak-beamed study with its dark furniture and latticed windows. The telephone bell began to ring again as he entered. He took up the receiver.

"Sir Timothy?" a rather hoarse, strained voice asked.

"I am speaking," Sir Timothy replied. "Who is it?"

The man at the other end spoke as though he were out of breath. Nevertheless, what he said was distinct enough.

"I am John Walter."

"I am just ringing you up," the voice went on, "to give you what's called a sporting chance. There's a boat from Southampton midday tomorrow. If you're wise, you'll catch it. Or better still, get off on your own yacht. They carry a wireless now, these big steamers. Don't give a criminal much of a chance, does it?"

"I am to understand, then," Sir Timothy said calmly, "that you have laid your information?"

"I've parted with it and serve you right," was the bitter reply. "I'm not saying that you're not a brave man, Sir Timothy, but there's such a thing as being foolhardy, and that's what you are. I wasn't asking you for half your fortune, nor even a dab of it, but if your life wasn't worth a few hundred pounds—you, with all that money—well, it wasn't worth saving. So now you know. I've spent ninepence to give you a chance to hop it, because I met a gent who has been good to me. I've had a good dinner and I feel merciful. So there you are."

"Last Night Was So Long Ago. Won't You Take a Later Memory?"

"Do I gather," Sir Timothy asked, in a perfectly level tone, "that the deed is already done?"

"It's already done and done thoroughly," was the uncompromising answer. "I'm not ringing up to ask you to change your mind. If you were to offer me five thousand now, or ten, I couldn't stop the bally thing. You've a sporting chance of getting away if you start at once. That's all there is to it."

"You have nothing more to say?"

"Nothing! Only I wish to God I'd never stepped into that Mayfair agency. I wish I'd never gone to Mrs. Hilditch's as a temporary butler. I wish I'd never seen any one of you! That's all. You can go to h—! which way you like, only, if you take my advice, you'll go by the way of South America. The scaffold isn't every man's fancy."

There was a burr of the instrument and then silence. Sir Timothy carefully replaced the receiver, paused on his way out of the room to smell a great bowl of lavender, and passed back into the garden.

"More applicants for invitations?" Lady Cynthia inquired lazily.

Her host smiled.

"Not exactly! Although," he added, "as a matter of fact my party would have been perhaps a little more complete with the presence of the person to whom I have been speaking."

Lady Cynthia pointed to the stream, down which the punt was slowly drifting. The moon had gone behind a cloud, and Francis' figure, as he stood there, was undefined and ghostly. A thought seemed to flash into her mind. She leaned forward.

"Once," she said, "he told me that he was your enemy."

"The term is a little melodramatic," Sir Timothy protested. "We look at certain things from opposite points of view. You see, my prospective son-in-law, if ever he becomes that, represents the law—the Law with a capital 'L'—which recognizes no human errors or weaknesses, and judges crime out of the musty books of the law-givers of old. He makes of the law a mechanical thing which can neither bend nor give, and he judges humanity from the same standpoint. Yet at heart he is a good fellow and I like him."

"And you?"

"My weakness lies the other way," he confessed, "and my sympathy is with those who do not fear to make their own laws."

She held out her hand, white and spectral in the momentary gloom. At the other end of the lawn, Francis and Margaret were disembarking from the punt.

"Does it sound too shockingly obvious," she murmured, "if I say that I want to make you my law?"

It would have puzzled anybody, except, perhaps, Lady Cynthia herself, to have detected the slightest alteration in Sir Timothy's demeanor during the following day, when he made his first appearance at the Sanctuary, or at the dinner which was served a little earlier than usual, before his final departure for the scene of the festivities. Once he paused in the act of helping himself to some dish and listened for a moment to the sound of voices in the hall, and when a taxi-cab drove up he set down his glass and again betrayed some interest.

"The maid with my frock, thank heavens!" Lady Cynthia announced, glancing out of the window. "My last anxiety is removed. I am looking forward now to a wonderful night."

"You may very easily be disappointed," her host warned her. "My entertainments appeal more, as a rule, to men."

"Why don't you be thoroughly original and issue no invitations to women at all?" Margaret inquired.

"For the same reason that you adorn your rooms and the dinner-table with flowers," he answered. "One needs them as a relief. Apart from that, I am really proud of my dancing-room, and there again, you see, your sex is necessary."

"We are flattered," Margaret declared, with a little bow. "It does seem queer to think that you should own what Cynthia's cousin, Davy Hinton, once told me was the best floor in London, and that I have never danced on it."

"Nor I," Lady Cynthia put in. "There might have been some excuse for not asking you, Margaret, but why an ultra-bohemian like myself has had to beg and plead for an invitation, I really cannot imagine."

"You might find," Sir Timothy said, "you may even now—that some of my men guests are not altogether to your liking."

"Quite content to take my risk," Lady Cynthia declared cheerfully. "The man with the best manners I ever met—it was at one of Maggie's studio dances, too—was a bookmaker. And a retired prize-fighter brought me home once from an Albert Hall dance."

"How did he behave?" Francis asked.

"He was wistful but restrained," Lady Cynthia replied, "quite the gentleman, in fact."

"You encourage me to hope for the best," Sir Timothy said, rising to his feet. "You will excuse me now? I have a few final preparations to make."

"Are we to be allowed," Margaret inquired, "to come across the park?"

Help Kidneys By Drinking More Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Help Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Ouch! Lumbago Pain! Rub Backache Away

Instant Relief with a small trial bottle of old "St. Jacobs Oil."

Kidneys cause Backache? No! They have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain. Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Rub it right on your painful back, and instantly the soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Oil" from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache or lumbago pain.

Rub old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" whenever you have sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprains, as it is absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Michigan and Her Railroads

Since 1920, when the Government returned Railroad operation to private enterprise, service in Michigan has become yearly more dependable—more nearly adequate.

That Service is today the best Michigan has ever enjoyed.

As a result there has come into being between the State's 24 steam Railroads and the public they serve, a spirit of pride and mutual good will.

Geographical isolation has made railroad service a local more than a national problem in both Peninsulas of Michigan. Within the enveloping barriers established by our Great Lakes, Michigan and her Railroads can prosper only by prospering together. State and carriers become thus members of a close community of interest.

Michigan Railroads realize this fact and make it fundamental in all details of management and operation.

The public can also recognize this situation by neighborly co-operation and by insisting that the roads be repaid by receiving, in national and state supervision, the same square deal.

We invite from you any suggestion of more ways in which we can consistently better our service.

The tests to secure secrecy, which is a feature of the new system, gave every satisfaction.

Nightingales Sing For Radio Fans
London—Thousands of persons who had never listened to the notes of a nightingale heard the songs of these shy little birds broadcast from the depths of a Surrey wood. These birds were tempted to sing at the right moment by notes sounded on a cello by a musician seated in the wood, it having been found that they respond to musical tones resembling those with which they habitually begin their songs. A sensitive microphone and amplifier were used.

SEEING WHAT YOU LOOK FOR

By THOMAS A. CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I DON'T believe I ever found a four-leaved clover in my life, though I lived for years in the midst of clover fields. I knew a girl once who could reach down into any stray bunch of grass and pick out a half-dozen four-leaved clovers with unerring accuracy. I suppose the explanation is that she was looking for them and I was not. The same thing is true with reference to other experiences in life. The man who is looking for trouble finds it at every street corner and at every cross road. The sensitive soul who is watching out for slights and personal grievances is invariably rewarded by finding them at his elbow.

"You hurt my feelings by what you wrote the other day," an acquaintance said to me.
"How is that?" I asked.
"Because you used my follies as an illustration."
"But I did not," I replied. "I did not have the least idea that what I said would apply to you." She was simply looking for personal thrusts, and she found them.

A good deal of our unhappiness comes from grievances, or slights, or troubles, or disasters that we have looked for—that we have ferreted out and forced out of cover. If we had gone ahead cheerfully and happily we should have passed them by unobserved.

I know people who see no good in each other because they are constantly looking for evil; who turn every word and intonation and suggestion and unconscious act into something that is vindictive and calculating. Each finds a subtle irritating double meaning at every word or suggestion that the other utters, and all because he is looking for it.

The opposite of this is true. There is a sort of unsophistication that does not see vulgarity or deceit or evil of any kind; that knows nothing of unfaithfulness, or disloyalty, or cause for depression and discouragement because it is not expecting them; it is not looking for them.

A young friend of mine had recently been with a crowd in which there had been considerable drinking.

"I hope you were not too shocked by the drinking," I said to him. But he really had never seen it; he did not know about it; it had made no impression on him because his thoughts had been above it—he had not been looking for it.

The world in which we live is a very real world; it is full of pain and pleasure, of faithfulness and deceit, of truth and falsehood, of the sweet and the bitter, the vulgar and the refined, the beautiful and the ugly, but the reality is largely within us. We see what we're looking for.

Used Magical Rings

Superstition, which took such a hold on the medieval mind, found its expression in rings. Magical rings with the necromantic inscription, "Annuzaptus," made the wearer immune to pestilence and epilepsy. Rings with a toadstone—Shakespeare's "precious jewel" in the toad's head—protected new-born babes and their mothers against witchcraft.

GENERATES IN THE BRAIN

HEALTH TALK NO. 14

The "something" that sustains life is generated in the brain.

This energy is transmitted over the spinal cord and nerves to all parts of the body.

The nerves leave the spinal column through small openings between surfaces of the vertebrae, or small bones of the spine.

Pressure upon any of the nerves leaving the spinal column is produced when the vertebrae become out of normal position.

This pressure diminishes the amount of energy, or mental impulses, carried over the nerves pressed upon.

The organs, tissues or parts supplied by the particular nerve or nerves upon which the pressure is produced, suffer because of the decrease in this vital energy.

From lack of this essential energy disease develops.

Therefore, disease is caused primarily by subluxated vertebrae producing pressure upon nerves as they leave the spine, diminishing the normal supply of vital energy, or mental impulses.

The chiropractor adjusts these vertebrae by hand to normal position, removing the pressure and allowing the normal amount of vital energy to be transmitted. This accomplished, health is restored. Consultation and Spinal Analysis Free.
