CURB ILLEGAL ELECTION SIGNS

Political Candidates Warned Against Use of Banners and Billboards.

Detroit—The police department is taking steps to curb the illegal use by political aspirants of billboards and banners announcing their candidacy.

Billboard signs, posters and banners, all of a size which constitutes defiance of the Michigan Primary Election Law, continue to advertise the candidacies of aspirants for Circuit Court Judge, sheriff, prosecuting attorney, state representative and senator, although the penalty on conviction carried a fine of $500 or 6 months imprisonment or both.

In the Primary Election Law the legal maximum size for such signs is given as 2 1/4 inches by 4 inches.

Police Commissioner Croul states that if a candidate admits responsibility and then does not remove the illegal advertisement, he will be prosecuted. If the candidate disclaims responsibility the police will ascertain who is responsible and take court action.

CREW ESCAPES BURNING SHIP

Fishing Tug Rescues Captain and 11 Men Adrift in Row Boats.

Cheboygan, Mich.—The captain and 11 members of the crew of the barge Miami were rescued when the barge burned in Lake Huron 11 miles south of Mississaugi straits. The men had abandoned the burning boat and were adrift in the lake in two row boats when they were picked up by the crew of the fishing tug Edna A.

Capt. Chauncey Johnson of the Edna A said he sighted the burning barge while returning to Cheboygan from Great Duck Island and immediately went to the rescue of the crew. The two row boats were heading away from the barge when the fishing tug picked them up.

Capt. Charles Garey, of the Miami, said the crew had fought the fire for an hour before he gave the order to abandon the barge. The fire started in the after coal bunkers, he said.

The Miami was a 250-foot barge and was owned in Saginaw.

New Rejuvenation Operation Found.

Berlin—A new method of making old men young has been found by Dr. Eugen Steinach, famous Viennese surgeon and originator of the rejuvenation operation called after his name. The new method does away with any operation. Instead of the knife Dr. Steinach uses an ordinary medical diathermic apparatus through which he increases internal body heat which, in turn, increases the flow of blood and opens the veins and canals to the glands.

Odd Fellows Had Picnic

Due to heavy rain which persisted in falling all Saturday morning, only two hundred persons attended the Odd Fellow picnic at Whiting county park on that day, where seven hundred had been looked for and provided for.

The afternoon turned out to be pleasant, and those who attended had a remarkably good time. Free ice cream and coffee were dispensed, aside from that the picnic was a basket luncheon affair. The main feature of the occasion was a ball game between teams made up of Odd Fellows from East Jordan and Boyne City. The Boyne aggregation won the contest by gleaming the long end of a 9 to 8 score.—Boyne Citizen.

Coolidge Accepts With Confidence

Has Abiding Faith in Judgement of People on Accomplishments and Purposes

Seeks Peace and Thrift

Wants Opportunity For All. No Government Monopolies, Independent But Helpful Foreign Policy.

Washington, Aug. 14.—No single question vital to the people of the United States was dodged by President Coolidge in the first great speech of the political campaign—his speech accepting the nomination as President offered him by the Republican party, and delivered in Washington the evening of August 14.

After outlining the sound foundation of the party system of government, the President said: "Party means political co-operation, not as an end in itself, but a means, an instrument of government. If founded upon a great moral principle and directed with scrupulous regard for its integrity, it cannot fail to sweep onward and upward, advancing always steadily and surely, a mighty constructive force, a glorious bearer of progress."

"That is what the Republican party always has been and is today. In full faith that such it will continue to be, deeply conscious of the high honor it confers and the responsibility it imposes, I accept its nomination for President of the United States."

"In the history of our country is recorded the public services rendered by our party for more than the three-score years. That is secure. I pass on to the recent past and the present."

Progress of Four Years.

The President pointed out the condition of the nation in March, 1921, when the Republicans resumed the reins of government after a lapse of eight years. Though more than two years had passed since the armistice, the nation was still technically in a state of war. No diplomatic relations existed with Turkey, Greece, Russia, Colombia or Mexico, the Far East situation caused "grave apprehensions." Because of the war, "a reckless extravagance had come to characterize the administration of public affairs and was all too prevalent in private life." The national debt had risen to the staggering total of $24,000,000,000, more than $7,000,000,000 of it in short-time obligations without provision for payment. Government bonds were below par. High war taxes burdened the people. Demobilization and liquidation were incomplete. Huge railroad accounts remained unsettled. Transportation was crippled. Unliquidated foreign debts amounted to $11,000,000,000. Banks were filled with frozen assets. Interest was high, capital scarce, and financial distress acute. About 5,000,000 were without employment. No adequate provision had been made for relieving disabled veterans and their dependents. The great powers continued to burden their peoples by building competitive armaments. An avalanche of war-worn people and cheapened merchandise impended upon America from foreign lands, the President pointed out.

Turning to the settlement of these vast problems since the start of the Republican regime, the President pointed out that treaties of world-wide importance have been ratified with Germany, Austria, Hungary, Colombia and Mexico, that 42 other treaties have met with the approval of the senate, while 6 still await action. Friendly intercourse with Greece and Turkey has been resumed. Peace and American rights have been assured in the Far East and the Pacific.

Turning to finance, the President called attention to the enactment of the budget system, and the resultant tremendous savings.

"For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921," President Coolidge said, "our expenditures were $5,588,000,000 and our surplus was $86,000,000. For the year just closed our expenditures were $3,497,000,000, and our surplus exceeded $600,000,000. This was a reduction in the annual cost of government of $2,041,000,000. The public debt now stands at about $21,250,000,000, which is a reduction in three years of about $2,750,000,000 and means an annual saving in interest of more than $120,000,000. The $7,000,000,000 of short-time obligations have all been quietly refunded or paid. The internal revenue taxes have been reduced twice, and many of them repealed, so that during the present fiscal year the tax receipts show a saving to the people of approximately $6,000,000 a day compared with 1921. One government bond has sold well over 105."

The President pointed out that more than 40 per cent of the debt due us

Children Love Music

When Taught New Way Parents—Do You Know

Why so many children dislike to take their music lessons? Why they protest against practice instead of striving to make progress? Why they fail to learn music as easily as they learn arithmetic? Do you know that the study of music can be made of fascinating interest to the child? Do you know that the Progressive Series of Piano Lessons is a standardized text work for the study of music—that these lessons are given by class-room method as well as individual instruction—and are taught only by competent and experienced music teachers who have passed rigid examinations?

ALL OUT OF SORTS?

So Was This Good Woman Who Tells Her Experience.

All too often women accept their aches and pains as natural to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often to blame for that backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired depressed, feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. This case in one of many in this locality.

Mrs. Wallace Weather, 172 1/2 Main St., Manvelona, Mich., says: "I felt pretty badly with backache and I was hardly able to be around. It was difficult to attend to my household. Every time I stooped, I was miserable in straightening up. I was restless nights, couldn't sleep, and it seemed I was always tired and depressed. Doan's Pills rid me of the trouble." Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Weather had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Build Home-Grown Ration for Swine

Corn, Barley, Oats and Potatoes Are Valuable.

Satisfactory rations for the brood sow can be built up mainly from feeds grown on the home farm, say the workers in swine at the New York state college of agriculture.

They list corn, barley, oats, boiled potatoes, and the like as among the substances that may readily be made the basis of the energy and heat forming portions of the feeds.

The growth-promoting portions of the ration—as well as the mineral requirements may be met through meat meal, tankage, fish meal, oil meal, skim milk, alfalfa hay and good kitchen waste.

If minerals are known to be deficient in the feed, the following mixture kept where all the breeding and growing stock can get it is desirable: One part of ground limestone, one part of salt, one part of ground bone or bone meal, and two parts of charcoal. Good rations for brood sows worked out at the college are as follows: One hundred pounds of hominy or corn meal or ground barley; 100 pounds of ground oats; 100 pounds of wheat bran; 80 pounds of oil meal or fish meal or tankage, and 15 pounds of chopped alfalfa hay.

This is fed at the rate of one to three pounds a day, depending on the condition of the sow. If poor sludge-house waste, or sweepings from the dairy cow mangers can be had, they may be spread on the ground where the sow can get them. Skim milk may take the place of the protein part of the above ration.

Fight Against Bindweed Won by Kansas Farmer

Despite the fact that land infested with bindweed is often abandoned because the owner believes it impossible to exterminate, William Dietz, Sumner county (Kan.) farmer, has entirely rid his farm of this weed. Mr. Dietz used three methods of extermination. On the smaller patches he applied salt at the rate of about one pound to the square foot. Mr. Dietz does not recommend such a method, however. Although he applied the salt ten years ago, he has not yet produced a crop on the land so treated. Two or three-acre patches of bindweed he successfully exterminated in about three years by placing hogs on the patch.

A 20-acre field was rid of the pest by the intensive cultivation method. He plowed the patches early in the spring and then went over them from three to four times a month throughout the remainder of the summer, using a knife weeder, which cut the plants about four inches below the surface. Following this practice for three to four years, Mr. Dietz declared, will entirely kill them.

Age of Fowl Determined by Many Characteristics

The age of a fowl can generally be told by the size of the spurs, but this rule does not always hold good. To some extent the texture of the leg is a guide to age, and so are the delicacy and freshness of the skin of the face and comb. The skin of the body is a better test, as it becomes coarser and dry-looking with age. Formerly the wing-feathers were considered an absolute test between a pullet and a hen, even after the long practice of early breeding had made the molting of early pullets quite common. An Australian authority says that a pullet will show rose-colored veins on the surface of the skin, under the wings. There will also be long, silky hairs growing there. After a year old these hairs and the veins disappear, and the skin grows white and veinless. It is more difficult to judge the age of water fowls than of other poultry.

Milk Feeding Chickens

Most milk feeding of roasting chickens by the producer is done in the fall, when the weather is cool and the birds can better stand confinement. The time just preceding Thanksgiving and Christmas is most desirable. Young birds weighing from 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 pounds are about the right weight for fall feeding.

Farm Hints

The most productive lands soon become barren under wasteful hands.

Old crankcase oil poured on swampy pools will help keep down the mosquito pest.

Co-operative marketing won't produce bigger yields, but it will yield bigger profits.

A family tree to be proud of is that laden with fine fruit in a well-cared-for home orchard.

Sweet clover should not be pastured so late that it does not have time for the second crop to ripen seed.

Cutting clover hay with a binder saves time and the bundled clover is handled more conveniently, in our experience.

Alfalfa, as also clover and most other legumes, cannot be allowed to stand in the field until it goes to seed or reaches the best stage of maturity for silage.

Collar and Cuff Sets the Call of the Mode

Sing a song of lingerie collars and cuffs, they are the fashion of the hour. Let every school girl join in the chorus, for pretty, lacy, frilly things at neck and wrist have such a happy way of giving one a refreshing start to classroom each morning.

If one heed the promptings of the mode, one will see to it that the school-time outfit includes one of the popular youthful-looking fine flannel frocks either plaided, striped or in solid coloring. To wear with it, in the bill of one's trunk or in one's top dresser drawer, should be a plenteous supply of lingerie collar and cuff sets, a lace vestee or two, a net and insertion bib effect and do not forget to include one of the detachable lace panels which drop from their matching collars to the very hemline of the dress. Garnished with these dainty accessories, even the most ordinary frock assumes a distinctive air of charm and refinement.

Railway Sermons
Delivering sermons in railway stations, a London vicar chose as some of his subjects, "Spiritual Lessons From the District Railway," "The Ticket Office and Cloak Room" and "The Repair Sheds."

African Oranges
The largest orange orchard in the world is located in South Africa. In that land orange cultivation has reached such proportions that it is predicted South Africa will have 7,000,000 boxes of oranges available for export in a few years.

JOSELYN'S WIFE

by Kathleen Norris

ALTHOUGH it deals with some of the interesting problems of married life, it is not, strictly speaking, a problem novel. It is first of all an absorbing story, with characters very much alive, natural and appealing. Since dramatic incidents come into the lives of all natural, everyday folks—probably more tensely dramatic than those experienced by the more artificial class—this story will have a keen interest for a majority of men and women of today. The author has given it the stirring qualities and the elements of heart-interest for which her books are famous.

HUMAN CHAIN SAVES VICTIMS

Albion Woman Badly Hurt When Auto Plunges 440 Feet on Mountain.

Albion, Mich.—Rescued by a human chain when her coupe skidded on wet roads and plunged 440 feet down the side of a mountain at Summit, Pa., Miss Delight Smith, of this city, formerly connected with the Smith drug store, was placed in a cast, with an injured spine.

The accident happened during a rainstorm on the "Old Trail" between St. Louis and Washington, when, at the highest point in the Alleghenies crossed by a highway, Miss Smith attempted to shift from third gear into second. Using her brakes too suddenly, the wheels locked and the automobile left the road, and rolled over and over down the side of the mountain.

KENT LADY WEIGHS 700 POUNDS

Physicians Unable to Explain Cause of Unusual Fattening.

Grand Rapids—Mrs. Winnie Hopkins, who weighs 700 pounds has been receiving treatments for a strange disease at the Michigan Soldiers' Home hospital here.

Mrs. Hopkins was brought to the hospital three months ago in a moving van. Her bed on which she was carried was later replaced by a specially built steel bed. When she entered the hospital she weighed 683 pounds and is believed to have gained nearly 20 pounds since that time.

Every year, for three years, she has gained openly 100 pounds and physicians are unable to predict when the unnatural increase will end. She is 39 years old.

WORLD FLIERS HELD AT ICELAND

Flight Detained to Find Safe Landing Place On Greenland Coast.

Washington—The American round-the-world fliers were detained last week at Reykjavik, Iceland, until new bases could be established along the Greenland coasts which are consistent with the safety and success of the flight.

Lieut. Bissell, advance officer, said he was trying to establish an emergency base at Cape Farewell, the extreme southern tip of Greenland, if possible. From this it was believed the fliers might possibly try to make a direct flight from Reykjavik to Cape Farewell, eliminating the ice-locked region of Angmagssalik.

Forest Fire Wipes Out Settlement.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—The settlement of Cold Springs has been destroyed by forest fire which raged in the thick timber in the War Bonnet district, 60 miles southwest of Douglas, Wyo., according to information received at the United States land office here. Two crews of 60 men, led by Sheriff Albert Peyton, of Conner County, and Special Agent Kimbal, of the general land office, fought the flames, which threatened thousands of acres of Government-owned timber.

Giants of Old

It is impossible to give the height of "the tallest giant ever known on earth." One skeleton unearthed in Lucerne is said to have measured 17 feet. Another, in Crete, is stated to have been 70 feet; another, found in Sicily, "if human," makes the original owner to have been 300 feet tall.

POISE

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

THE man who sold me my ticket at the Grand Central station was wrinkleless and placid in his appearance. He came into the office just as I arrived, and relieved the clerk who had previously been there. He removed his coat deliberately and hung it up without haste or agitation, straightening the collar and smoothing out the wrinkles in the sleeves. He adjusted his tie carefully and brushed back his hair, speaking to a fellow clerk in the meantime, all the while oblivious of the gathering line behind me.

When he was ready to wait on me, he went at the job without haste or agitation. He confirmed my reservation calmly; he made out my ticket slowly; he consulted all sorts of tables and guides with a deliberation that revealed the fact that he was not in a hurry by the passage of time. He was unmoved by the irritation of the woman behind me who wanted to catch the six fifteen train.

When he finally had everything looked up and written in and pasted together and calculated and the ticket slipped into its outer clothing, twenty minutes had passed. The man had poise; he had self-control; he knew that the line behind me would keep up all day and all night and he was not going to allow a little thing like that to worry him. If the woman did not get the six fifteen train there was another going later.

And this state of mind explained why his cheeks were so round and his brow so unfurrowed and his actions so calmly deliberate. He could go on doing his work for ninety years without a nervous quiver; he would all ways seem unflinched by the rushing crowds constantly going by him.

I am not sure that he was not overdoing this self-control a little, but most of us could take a lesson from him. We worry too much. We rush into things headlong and do them badly. We lose our heads to a crowd or in stress of one sort or another or in meeting the unexpected because we do not center our attention upon the main business in hand. We are thrown off our balance by little things; we have no poise.

Victoria's Largest Book

Queen Victoria of England, who for all her reputation for common sense, had many peculiarities, was the possessor of the largest book that had ever been published. It was 18 inches thick, weighed 63 pounds, and contained the jubilee addresses of congratulations.

Trees' Limits

The reason pine trees are so often associated with mountain scenery is because they are among the few trees that can grow at a very high altitude. Pine trees can grow at 6,200 feet, fir at 6,700 feet; but you will rarely find an ash above 4,800 feet, or an oak above 3,350 feet.

Of Interest To Our Citizens

East Jordan, Mich.
August 14, 1924.
Editor of Charlevoix Co. Herald,
East Jordan, Mich.

Dear Sir:—

When I returned recently from one of my selling trips, I was surprised to hear that we had but one train per day over the E. J. & S. R. R., which means a somewhat restricted railroad and transportation service. Upon inquiring the cause of this restriction, I found it was lack of freight to make two trains pay. I also found that some of our merchants were shipping in their freight by truck.

Some of us who have been here for a long time, remember when during certain seasons of the year, all of our freight had to be trucked in. I think we trucked in our freight for about twenty years after we located here and I am quite sure such a prospect does not look alluring to me at present. At that time two of us managed to make a very poor living out of our business while at present, the same business makes a living for over thirty persons with a pay roll of over $1000.00 per week. This is made possible by an adequate transportation and mail service and every merchant in town profits on account of it.

We have two railroads now the continued operation of which depends on the support of the community. These railroads will not continue to function unless supported and patronized by the public. We have reason to believe that neither railroad is making any money at present. If our industries do not get adequate railroad and mail service, they will have to move. Is it good public policy to endanger this service? A short time ago our legislators and government bodies antagonized the railroads all over the United States with the result that our transportation all over the United States broke down and everyone suffered in a more or less degree and both freight and passenger service have probably cost more ever since than it would have if the railroads had been given a chance to keep up their roads and rolling stock instead of allowing it to break down.

Wherever trucks or busses have been the chief dependents of transportation, they have signally failed, as for example Bay City and Saginaw, Michigan and Akron, Ohio and a large number of other cities too numerous to mention. It is quite plain that our railroads will not be able to keep up with a part of the freight and passenger service. Are we to have the railroad or truck service? Only by cooperating together can these railroads be maintained, only by this course can the men now employed be kept here, only by this course can the East Jordan Iron Works the plant that pays the highest wages in Northern Michigan, continue to enlarge and this wage bill continues to grow, and I ask that our merchants and citizens who have the best interests of our city and community at heart, may give this their careful thought and act accordingly.

What inspired us to write this article I wish to say, was a desire to remain and continue to build up our business in East Jordan. We have had several offers to move nearer the source of our business where freight and other conditions are much more favorable, but would prefer to live here if conditions make it possible.

from foreign nations has been liquidated, providing funds for liquidating about $18,000,000,000 of the national debt during a 32-year term.

"The finances of this nation have been managed with a genius and a success unmatched since the days of Hamilton," Mr. Coolidge declared.

"A great revival of industry took place, which is spreading to agriculture. Complaint of unemployment has ceased, wages have increased. Capital has become plentiful at a low rate of interest," Mr. Coolidge declared, "and the banks of our country, as a whole, show a high percentage of liquid assets."

Speaking of the generous laws passed to relieve disabled veterans, the President said that more than 71,000 have been rehabilitated, 38,000 of whom are earning more than they did before the war. Compensation is being paid at the rate of about $100,000,000 a year, soon to be increased by $30,000,000 more. $40,000,000 have been provided for hospital facilities, which are open to veterans of all American wars.

"No government," the President declared, "ever provided so generously for those disabled by service in time of war."

Touching the exclusion law and restricted immigration generally, the President said: "Restricted immigration is not an offensive but a purely defensive action. It is not adopted in criticism of others in the slightest degree, but solely for the purpose of protecting ourselves. We cast no aspersions on any race or creed, but we must remember that every object of our institutions of society and government will fall unless America be kept American."

Next the President dealt with the tariff. "By means of a protective tariff," he said, "we have saved American agriculture, labor, and industry from the menace of having their great home market destroyed through the dumping upon it of a flood of foreign products. Under this wise policy we saw an economic revival, and our people as a whole, in marked distinction from the sufferers from the financial distress and depression of other lands, have come into an era of prosperity and plenty. As a source of revenue the tariff surpassed all expectations in producing an annual return of the unprecedented sum of about $550,000,000. A fiscal policy which places a large and much needed revenue in the public treasury, while stimulating business to a condition of abounding prosperity, defends itself against any criticism. Its merits are demonstrated by its results. We have protected our own inhabitants from the economic disaster of an invasion of too many foreign people or too much foreign merchandise."

The Washington Conference.

Next the acceptance speech dealt with "the Washington conference whereby an end was put to the ruinous competitive naval armaments of world powers, the importance of which has never been fully realized by the people in general, Mr. Coolidge declared.

"Turning to the 'honest government' issue, President Coolidge pointed out bluntly that in all his studies of political history he could not recall an administration which was destitute of a dishonest government that, to check extravagance, introduced a budget system, cut taxes, purged pay rolls, made enormous reductions in the public debt and laid former foundations for the peace of the world.

President Coolidge declared he favored the system of private American enterprise and was opposed to the extension of government ownership and control; that he believed in economy in public expenditures and the practical application of the theory; that he believed in tax reduction and tax reform; that he favored protection.

Favors Permanent Court.

"I favor the permanent court and further limitation of armaments," the President said. "I am opposed to aggressive war. I shall avoid involving ourselves in the political controversies of Europe, but I shall do what I can to encourage American citizens and resources to assist in restoring Europe, with the sympathetic support of our government. I want agriculture and industry on a sound basis of prosperity and equality. I shall continue to strive for the economic, moral and spiritual welfare of my country. American citizens will decide in the coming election whether these principles shall have their approval and support.

"The domestic affairs of our country appear to me to be by far the chief concern. From this source comes our strength. The home market consumes nearly all our production. Within our own boundaries will be determined to a very large degree the economic welfare and the moral worth of the American people. These are plain facts, but there are others equally plain."

Reaffirming his opposition to entrance into the League of Nations as a surrender of independence, the President favored becoming a member of the permanent Court of International Justice, "as peace means fundamentally a reign of law." Entrance into the so-called World court "would do much to indicate our determination to restrain the rule of force and solidify and sustain the rule of reason among nations," Mr. Coolidge said.

America Helps Europe.

The President reviewed the difficulties of Europe and the unavailing efforts to find a way out until the American plan, proposed in 1922, was finally adopted, under which the reparations commission appointed a committee of experts, whose three American members included Gen. Charles G. Dawes, the President's running mate on the Republican ticket. The appointment of General Dawes as chairman and the report which has met world-wide approbation were pointed out.

When the reparations plan is in operation, the President said, he would consider it time to approach the great powers with the proposal for another conference to limit armaments still further and devise plans for the codification of international law.

"I trust that never again will the women of this nation be called on to sacrifice their loved ones to the terrible scourge of war," President Coolidge said.

Touching Latin America, the President said that we have constantly striven to come to more complete understandings with those nations. He recited the help given Mexico to avert domestic violence there, and the indication of a policy of making it worth while for a government to conduct itself so as to merit recognition. He pointed to the written agreement with Mexico to negotiate a treaty of amity and commerce such as has not been in existence since 1881.

Equal Opportunities for All.

Of discrimination of all kinds, President Coolidge said: "This is one country; we are one people united by common interests. There should be no favorites and no outcasts; no race or religious prejudices in the government. America opposes special privilege for anybody, and favors equal opportunity for everybody. It has adopted these conclusions, because they are the logical conclusions of our ideals of freedom. Moreover, we believe they contribute to our material welfare. We oppose the artificial supports of privilege and monopoly because they are both unjust and uneconomic. They are not right. They do not work."

The Farm Situation.

Reviewing the situation of the farmer, the President said that one of the first thoughts in 1921 was for the relief and revival of agriculture as a fundamental, industry, and touched upon the credits of between three and four hundred million dollars extended through the War Finance corporation, an additional $50,000,000 provided for the relief of the cattle industry, and the formation of a $10,000,000 corporation in the spring which, it was estimated, can furnish $100,000,000 for diversification and relief in the Northwest. He told of the activities of the intermediate credit banks, directly and indirectly assisting 500,000 farmers.

The President commented on the present upturn of prices for agricultural products.

"The government rendered a great deal of assistance," he said, "and private enterprise co-operated, but the fundamental remedy was provided, as it always must be provided, not so much through the enactment of legislative laws as through the working out of economic laws. Because the farmers have thoroughly realized this, they have on the whole opposed price fixing by legislation. While maintaining that sound position, they have seen a partial relief come in a natural way, as it was bound to come.

"We now need in agriculture more organization, co-operation, and diversification. The farmer should have the benefit of legislation providing for flood control and development of inland waterways, better navigation east and south from the Great Lakes, reclamation, and especially relief for those who cannot meet their payments on irrigation projects. But the main problem is marketing. Co-operative effort, reorganization of the freight-rate structure, good business, and good wages in manufacturing, and the settlement of European affairs will all help to provide better market conditions.

"The Republican platform recognizes that agriculture should be on a basis of economic equality with other industries. This is easy to say, but the farmers themselves and their advisers have never been able to agree on a plan to provide it by law. Now that nature and economic law have given some temporary relief, I propose, therefore, to appoint a committee to investigate and report measures to the congress in December that may help secure this result which we all desire. I want profitable agriculture established permanently. I want to see the dollar of the farmer always purchase as much as any other dollar.

"Under the policy of protection and restrictive immigration," he asserted, "no deflation of wages has occurred. While the cost of living has gone down, wages have advanced. The 12-hour day and the seven-day week have practically been abolished. The uninterrupted operation of public utilities with mutually satisfactory and legally established methods of adjusting labor questions have been sought. Collective bargaining and voluntary arbitration have been encouraged. Republican rule has raised the wage earner to a higher standard than he ever occupied before anywhere in the world."

Reduction of Expenses.

President Coolidge then pointed out that the people of the country, because of the war have had to recreate nearly one-fifth of our national resources. "We can make up the loss," he said, "only by saving part of what we produce each day.

"It is for that reason," he continued, "that the present administration has made every possible effort to cut down the expenses of government. The expenses of the government reach everybody. Taxes take from everyone a part of his earnings, and force everyone to work for a certain part of his time for the government.

"When we come to realize that the yearly expenses of all the governments in this country have reached the stupendous sum of about $7,500,000,000, we get some idea of what this means. Of this amount about $3,500,000,000 is needed by the national government, and the remainder by local governments. Such a sum is difficult to comprehend. It represents all the pay of 5,000,000 wage earners receiving $5 a day, working 300 days in the year. If the government should add on $100,000,000 of expense, it would represent four days more work of these wage earners. These are some of the reasons why I want to cut down public expense.

"Because of my belief in these principles, I favor economy that the taxes of everybody may be reduced. Much has already been done. The bill which I signed will save the people about $1,000,000 each day. I want to see tax reduction and

The raising of the revenue required to conduct our government is intimately connected with our economic welfare. If it is done by wise and just laws, the burden will be most easily borne. But if the method of taxation is not sound disaster will follow, reaching even to financial panic. Our first thought should be to maintain unimpaired the activity of agriculture and industry. That tax is theoretically best which interferes least with business.

Asks Just Taxation.

"Only about 3,500,000 people pay direct income taxes. The remainder pay, but pay indirectly, in the cost of all purchases, from a pair of shoes to a railroad ticket. This country has at least 107,000,000 of these indirect taxpayers. I am not disturbed about the effect on a few thousand people with large incomes because they have to pay high surtaxes. They can take care of themselves, whatever happens, as the rich always can. What concerns me is the indirect effect of high surtaxes on all the rest of the people. Let us always remember the poor. Whatever they the demagogue may make about his ability to tax the rich, at the end of the year it will always be found that the people as a whole have paid the taxes. We should, therefore, have a system of taxation under which the people as a whole are most likely to be prosperous. Our country will be better off if, disregarding those who appeal to jealousy and envy, it follows in taxation and all else the straight path of justice.

For Economical Campaign.

"Economy should be practiced scrupulously in the conduct of a national campaign. I know it is difficult to distinguish between real service to the people and mere wastefulness. Costs have increased by doubling of the electorate, rendering close calculation impossible.

"Nevertheless, I can perceive no reason why the budget system should not be beneficial in a campaign, as it has proved to be in government. It is to be tested by our committee.

"I would make clearly and definitely one other requirement, that no individual, or group of individuals, may expect any governmental favors in return for party assistance. Whatever anyone gives must be given for the common good, or not at all. Contributions can be received on no other basis. "For the first time after having opportunity fully to organize, the women of the nation are bringing the new force which they represent directly to bear on our political affairs. I know that the influence of womanhood will guard the home, which is the citadel of the nation. I know it will be a protector of childhood. I know it will be on the side of humanity. I welcome it as a great instrument of mercy and a mighty agency of peace. I want every woman to vote.

"The Constitution is the sole source and guaranty of national freedom. We believe that the safest place to declare and interpret the Constitution which the people have made is in the Supreme court of the United States.

"Under our institutions there is no limitation on the aspirations a mother may have for her children. That system I pray to continue. This country would not be a land of opportunity, America would not be America, if the people were shackled with government monopolies.

"Our country has adopted prohibition and provided by legislation for its enforcement. It is the duty of the citizen to observe the law, and the duty of the Executive to enforce. I propose to do my duty as best I can.

For Child Labor Amendment.

"Our different states have had different standards, or no standards at all, for child labor. The congress should have authority to provide a uniform law applicable to the whole nation which will protect childhood. Our country cannot afford to let anyone live off the earnings of its youth of tender years. Their places are not in the factory, but in the school, that the men and women of tomorrow may reach a higher state of existence and the nation a higher standard of citizenship.

"I am in favor of national defense, not merely as an abstract state of mind, but as a concrete mode of action. I favor not merely talking about it, but doing something about it. I do not want the safety of my country to be imperiled in its domestic or foreign relations by any failure to be ready to preserve order or repel attack. But I propose to work for voluntary observance of law and mutual covenants of peace.

Common Sense Greatest Asset.

"We are likely to hear a great deal of discussion about liberal thought and progressive action. It is well for the country to have liberality in thought and progress in action, but its greatest asset is common sense. In the commonplace things of life lies the strength of the nation. It is not in brilliant conceptions and strokes of genius that we shall find the chief reliance of our country, but in the home, in the school, and in religion. America will continue to defend these shrines. Every evil force that seeks to desecrate or destroy them will find that a Higher Power has endowed the people with an inherent spirit of resistance. The people know the difference between pretense and reality. They want to be told the truth. They want to be trusted. They want a chance to work out their own material and spiritual salvation. The people want a government of common sense.

"These, Mr. Chairman, are some of the beliefs which I hold, some of the principles which I propose to support. Because I am convinced that they are true, because I am satisfied that they are sound, I submit them with abiding faith to the judgment of the American people."

JUSTICES MUST RESIGN TO RUN

Candidates for Other Political Offices Cannot Retain City Jobs.

Detroit—Justices of the peace cannot legally become candidates for another office without first resigning from the justices court, James H. Lee, assistant corporation counsel, held, in an opinion which was approved by his chief, George A. Kelly.

Since the adoption of the city charter in 1918, this question has been raised on numerous occasions, and it has been admitted that the provision of the charter which requires any official of the city government who seeks an office other than the one he holds to resign applied to all officers excepting justices of the peace. It has been the contention that they are state officers and not city officers.

Lee's opinion is to the contrary. It holds that they are purely city officers, although they perform state functions.

FREIGHT ON SUGAR BEETS CUT

Commission Rules Inter-State Rate Has Been Discriminatory.

Washington, D. C.—The interstate commerce commission has announced a decision finding interstate rates on sugar beets, in carloads, between points in Michigan and Ohio unreasonable and discriminatory and prescribed a scale about 20 per cent lower than that which has been in effect. The complaint on which the interstate commerce commission acted was filed by the Continental Sugar company, which has factories at Blissfield, Michigan, and at Fremont and Findlay, Ohio. The rate of Michigan and the Ohio public utilities commission intervened, as did also the Michigan Farm Bureau and eight sugar concerns with plants in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.
