Charles Locke Dies at Flint

Charles Locke of 709 Cornelia St., Flint, passed away at the hospital in that city, Sunday, June 14th. Mr. Locke was a resident of East Jordan for a number of years. The following article relative to his death is from a Flint newspaper.

Charles Locke, 59 years old, died at Hurley hospital Sunday from a complication of disease, after a three weeks' illness. He was born in Mecosta-co, Mich., Aug. 28, 1866, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Locke. He had lived in Flint two years, coming from East Jordan, Mich. On Nov. 16, 1899, he was married to Nettie Babbitt at Big Rapids. He leaves his wife and his daughter, Mrs. Ethel Jensen of Racine, Wis.; one son, Harold of Flint; two sisters, Mrs. Esther Vanderhoff of Grand Rapids; and Mrs. Flossie Chaffee of Weidman, Mich.; one brother, Thomas Lake of Grand Rapids and his father, Robert Locke of Port Orchard, Wash.

A Level Headed Statement

In a recent address which dealt with various problems affecting the lumber industry, the perpetuation of our timber supply and conservation of our natural resources, John W. Blodgett, of Grand Rapids, made a keynote statement inseparable from our whole governmental and industrial structure when he said:

"The urgent need today is for a unified, comprehensive and consistent public policy toward our natural resources. Such a policy must represent both the Federal government and the States, and should be formulated in accord and in co-operation with the best thought of the industries engaged in their utilization. These industries should not be prevented or hampered by unsound interpretation or by unwise application of the laws governing business organizations. The trouble today is that in the application of these laws to an industry, the investigation is usually made by men of no knowledge of the general conditions which make monopoly in that industry an utter impossibility.

Beg Your Pardon

The item in last week's Herald stating that Miss Hazel Burns died at the Charlevoix hospital was erroneous. She was operated on at a Petoskey hospital and died at her home in Charlevoix.

We'll say this much for prohibition: it got rid of the barber shop quartette.

All things are well ordained. The terrific hot weather may be necessary to train some of us for the heat we shall undergo in the next world.

Chautauqua Program

Variety And Quality Attained By Program Builders.

The officers and committee chairmen of the East Jordan Community Chautauqua Association have announced a program for this year's Assembly which appears in every respect to be the best that we have ever had.

The attractions selected include the Community Players in the four act comedy "In Walked Jimmy;" the MacMurray-Kackley Players in the three act drama, "His Honor—Abe Potash," the best known play of the Potash-Perlmutter Series; the Imperial Synchopators, a group of instrumentalists, presenting unique programs of musical contrasts; the Lombard Entertainers; the Philippine Concert Co. in a program of tropical music; Arthur MacMurray in a dramatic recital; Arthur Holden in a literary lecture; Joel Eastman and Henry Black Burns in discussions of present day problems.

With such an array of attractions, several of which would alone be worth the price of a Chautauqua season ticket the Chautauqua officers feel confident that the public will heartily support them and take advantage of the season ticket plan to attend the Assembly. This splendid program is brought here purely as a civic or community enterprise, by the citizens sponsoring it and deserves the hearty support of everyone.

In addition to the regular Chautauqua program, special sessions and special attractions have been arranged for the children. Chautauqua week is a real joy time for the boys and girls and no child should be allowed to miss it.

The comfort and convenience of Chautauqua patrons this year will be greatly enhanced by the fact that complete new tent equipment will be used. The stage which is greatly enlarged, will be fitted with the most modern lighting equipment, which will add much to the effectiveness of the presentation of the various programs.

Dates for the East Jordan Chautauqua are July 21st to 25th inclusive.

Miss Beryl Whiteford United in Marriage To Theo Scott

Miss Beryl Whiteford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Whiteford, of this city, and Theo Scott, were united in marriage, Saturday, June 20th at 5 o'clock. The ceremony took place at the home of Rev. Allen Schreur at Gaylord.

The bride was becomingly gowned in pale pink crepe de chine with spanish lace and rosebuds, while the bridesmaid wore a dress of pale green crepe de chine.

The young couple were attended by Miss Adele Gorman and Harold Stueck of this city.

Following the ceremony, they motored to Grayling and visited friends there over Sunday.

Mr. Scott is Mail Carrier on R. F. D. No. 1, out of East Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott have the sincere congratulations of their many friends in this vicinity.

Adrian—This city is inviting all former residents to return to Adrian June 28 to July 4 for the centennial celebration. Mayor Herbert R. Clark signed a proclamation address to "all persons of Adrian blood living away from their mother city" to attend the exercises.

Monroe—The city commission has issued an order that all dogs must be vaccinated, muzzled or tied up until October 1, owing to the prevalence of rabies in the city and vicinity. Perry F. Warthen, 80 years old, the dog warden, says the order must be obeyed by all owners of dogs.

Lansing—A complete schedule of proposed increases and decreases in telephone rates which was filed with the State Public Utilities Commission by the commission's engineers, shows that aside from Detroit, Bay City and Saginaw only five Michigan communities have been listed for decreases.

Monroe—Twelve of the surviving 55 members of the famous old Seventh Michigan Volunteer Infantry held their thirty-ninth annual reunion here at the Park hotel. Major Robert C. Knags, 90 years old, Evanston, Ill., president, presided and Mrs. Creighton Crawford, Oxford, was the secretary.

Herbert Hart Dies at Petoskey

Herbert Hart of Boyne City passed away at a Petoskey hospital, Saturday night, June 20th, where he had gone for treatment.

Deceased was 33 years of age, a son of Moses Hart of East Jordan and grew to manhood in this city. In 1912 he was united in marriage to Miss Addie Coon of East Jordan and some eight years ago they moved to Boyne City where they have since made their home. Besides his father and wife, he is survived by eight children.

Funeral services were held from the Boyne City Catholic church Tuesday forenoon, June 23. Interment at the East Jordan Catholic cemetery.

Fr. Crumbly to Speak at St. Joseph's

The Rev. Peter Crumbly of St. Augustine's Church, Chicago, ex-chaplain of the Joliet Penitentiary, and lately a celebrated over-seas chaplain, will give a series of lectures in St. Joseph's Church, East Jordan, beginning Sunday, July 5th. A cordial invitation to attend these lectures is extended to any and all who wish to do so.

It's an ill wind, etc: The British corner on rubber may have the effect of doing away with those bow ties you snap around your neck.

What has become of the old-fashioned hired girl who used to get up at four o'clock on a Monday morn and start the family wash?

Civil Service Exam. Clerk, E. J. Postoffice

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination for clerk in the East Jordan Postoffice. Receipt of applications will close on July 8, 1925, the date of the examination will be on July 18th—the place of examination at East Jordan.

From the eligibles resulting from this examination it is expected that certification will be made to fill existing and future vacancies in the position of clerk. Should city delivery be established at the office for which this examination is held during the life of the register resulting from this examination, the register may be used for regular or substitute carrier appointments, in the discretion of the department, or a new examination may be held, in which latter event the register from the new examination will be combined with the existing clerk register, including those eligibles who may have declined appointment as substitute clerks.

800,000 Wild Horses

Frank R. Kent, of the Baltimore Sun, tells his readers that the State of Montana is taking measures to kill 800,000 outlaw horses now running wild in the prairie lands of that commonwealth. He says that three years ago the cattle business "blew up" and ranchers sold their cattle, turning horses loose on the range. It is now estimated that these wild horses number 800,000.

This condition will be hard to picture in many eyes. So vast is the United States that the average citizen has only a hazy idea of the different economic conditions existing. That 800,000 horses should be running wild in any state is a thing that most easterners will attribute to a good imagination.

Mrs. E. A. Lewis Passes Away

Was Well-Known Resident of our City for Many Years.

Mrs. E. A. Lewis passed away at her home in this city, Friday, June 19th, following an extended illness.

Mary Stevens was born at Orange, New Jersey, Sept. 9th, 1854, her parents being William and Caroline Stevens.

She moved with her parents to Adrian, Mich., and with them later located on a farm in Marion, township, Charlevoix county. On January 8th, 1877, she was united in marriage to Edwin A. Lewis at her home in Marion.

Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis located at Ironton where they resided until 1904 when they removed to East Jordan where they have since made their home.

She is survived by the husband and the following sons and daughters:—Misses Eva and Agnes Lewis and Mrs. Charles Malpass of East Jordan; Miss Pearl Lewis of Grand Rapids; E. A. Lewis, Jr., of Scranton, Pa.; M. F. Lewis of Arkon, Ohio.

Mrs. Lewis was a member of the First Presbyterian church of East Jordan. She was beloved by all who knew her and her passing is a matter of sincere sorrow to her many friends.

Funeral services were held from her late home Tuesday afternoon, June 23, conducted by her pastor, Rev. C. W. Sidebotham. Interment at Sunset Hill.

Holland—John Baird, director of the State Department of Conservation, is preparing to take action against three industrial concerns of Holland to compel them to cease the pollution of Black Lake, it was said here. The State Health Department, it was explained, has complained of the condition of the lake, which is surrounded by a large summer resort.

Jackson—George Burben and John Mason, prisoners working at the Cheli sea cement plant of the State Prison, escaped and were still at large. Burben was sentenced from Detroit March 22, 1924, to serve from five to 15 years for robbery unarmed, and Mason was sentenced from Detroit Dec. 16, 1924, to serve from five to 15 years for breaking and entering.

Lansing—The Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee Railroad, a Grand Trunk subsidiary paralleling the Wilder Woodward avenue project between Detroit and Pontiac, has answered the resolution adopted by the 1925 Legislature suggesting that the State purchase the road. A report was filed with the Attorney General, protesting that Legislature exceeded its powers.

Camp Custer—Camp Custer is in readiness for the opening of the military training season June 19. From that date until almost the end of the summer the camp once more will take on the appearance that it did during the war, when it was the training ground for thousands of Michigan and Wisconsin soldiers. The first units to arrive this year will be the Reserve Officers Training Corps. Men in this organization are expected June 18.

Ann Arbor—While an intermittent rain sprinkled the 15,000 spectators, John Huston Finley, editor of the New York Times, and well known educator and publicist, wrote the final chapter in the college career of the 1,703 graduates of the University of Michigan in the annual commencement exercises at Ferry Field. And, as the rain brought out several thousand umbrellas, Finley outlined, briefly, simply and stripped of the usual stiffness and formality of a commencement address, "The Mysteries of the Mind's Desire."

Flint—Frank Ayres, 63 years old, proprietor of a gasoline station here, was killed when a robber, who had waited until the station was closed for the night, shot him three times in a running fight on Cornelia street. According to residents of the vicinity, Ayres had closed his station and taken the money from the place, when the thug darted across the street and attempted to hold him up. Ayres resisted and the two men struggled along Cornelia street. The aged proprietor was dead before he could be taken to the hospital.

Lansing—The Security Trust Co., receivers for the Detroit United Railways and subsidiaries, has asked the Michigan public utilities commission for authority to increase all fares to 8 cents a mile. The petition maintains the company had suffered serious losses and is unable to operate under its present fares, the highest of which is 2 1/2 cents a mile. Coincident with filing the petition W. G. Fitzpatrick, counsel for the receivers, explained plans of the D. U. R. for establishing a rapid transit system in and out of Detroit.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

Detroit—A squadron of Detroit aviators headed by George W. Hopkins, president of the Detroit Flying Club, flew to Lansing recently to lunch with Adjutant General John S. Barsey. They hope to get Barsey's support in their effort to have the air squadron of the Michigan National Guard stationed in Detroit.

Detroit—In the most sensational bank robbery since the notorious "Campus Martius job" of 1921, the police captured four bandits red handed but not before the bandits had shot a patrolman to death and wounded a little boy spectator. The robbery occurred in a branch of the Central Savings Bank at 6000 Chene street, at the corner of Harper avenue.

Lansing—The school census here nearly completed indicates that the city's population is in the neighborhood of 70,000, and not 80,000 as had been hoped. A population of 80,000 would give Lansing four more representatives on the Ingham county board of supervisors. The count of children, which has been completed, shows that 1,533 of school age reside in the city.

White Cloud—Hopelessly deadlocked after 23 hours of deliberation, the jury that, since May 25, has been trying Mrs. Alice Duggan for the murder of Romie Hodell was discharged by Judge Harry J. Dingeman, without having agreed upon a verdict. The disagreement is regarded by Newaygo county authorities as meaning the end of the prosecution of the 64-year-old swamp county woman for the slaying of her son-in-law.

Ann Arbor—Regents of the University of Michigan have approved a budget of $6,762,274.30 for the institution during 1926 and 1928. Appointment of a president to succeed the late Marlon LeRoy Burton was postponed until the opening of the fall school semester with the request made of Acting President Alfred H. Lloyd, that he retain his present post "until October 1, 1925, or until further action by the board of regents."

Rochester—Fred M. Shinnick, wealthy Rochester man, connected with Briggs Manufacturing company, of Detroit, has turned over his recent $20,000 purchase of the historical Curry property here to the Women's club for a community house. At his own expense, Shinnick will put in a new heating plant and completely overhaul the building and will pay the up-keep and overhead. The changes will involve an expenditure of $40,000 or more.

Albion—The inauguration of Dr. John Lawrence Seaton, following one year of active work here, as the seventh president of Albion college, and the dedication of the Stanley E. Kresge gymnasium were outstanding events of the sixty-fourth commencement of the Methodist state college. A distinguished company of educators, added to the crowd of alumni and former student and townspeople, attended the inaugural ceremonies at the first Methodist church.

Calumet—Edward Erickson, 40 years old, fell 5,300 feet to his death down No. 5 Tamarack Shaft of the Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Copper Co. mine here. This is the world's deepest vertical shaft. According to old time miners this is the first time that a man's body has ever fallen the full length of No. 5 shaft, which is 20 feet more than a mile. Erickson was at work testing, staging at the mouth of the pit and was standing on timber when his supports gave way suddenly and he dropped into the shaft.

Greenville—Following a week of investigation subsequent a coroner's inquest, Albert Beck, local resident, a under arrest, charged with assault with intent to murder, in connection with the death of Henry VanHorn, 79 years old, who died in a local hospital June 3. Death of the aged man was at first attributed to heart failure, but rumors of a fight between Beck and VanHorn just prior to the latter's death caused Deputy Sheriff Frank Sutherland to halt the burial of VanHorn June 6, and a coroner's jury was ordered by County Prosecutor John B. Lewis.

Alma—Announcement of a gift of $45,000 to Alma college, by Mrs. John F. Dodge, of Detroit, for a memorial to John F. Dodge, by President H. M. Crooks, was a prominent feature of the commencement exercises, as the largest class in the history of Alma college completed its college work. President Harry M. Gage, of Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia., gave the address, "The Responsibilities of Leadership," to the graduates, calling attention to those factors, intelligence, morality, great purpose, profound convictions, patience and personality, he said were needed.

Pontiac—The Butterfield theatrical interests have announced that they have purchased the Oakland theater building in Pontiac, the city's largest amusement house, and would take over the property July 1. The house is now operated by the Kleist Amusement Enterprise, Inc., which holds a lease. The building was sold by the Oakland Theater company, of Detroit, subject to the lease. The Butterfields announce that at the expiration of the lease they will remodel the building and put in a movie and Keith vaudeville houses.

Correctly Garbed for Summer Outings

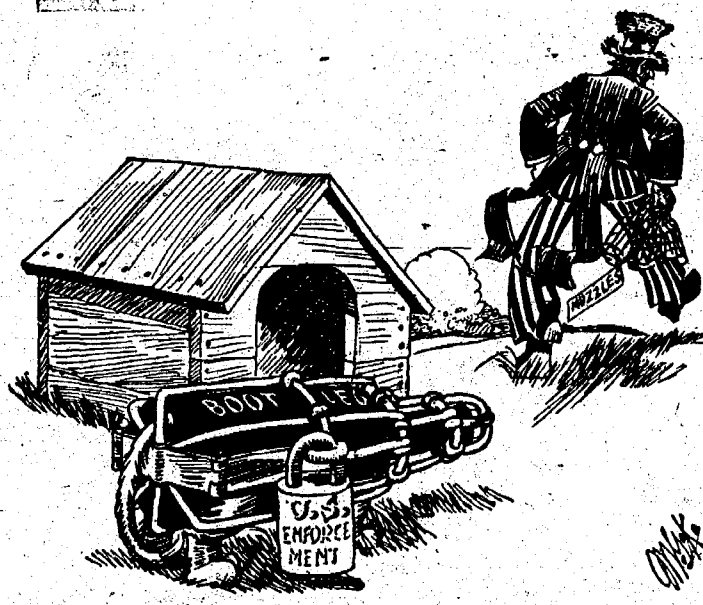

The long vacation is here and many lads and lassies are going to spend much of the summer out of doors. After long months in school they are entitled to freedom and all most of them ask—if they live in the country—is liberty to do as they please. They can always find plenty of amusement. City children are going to the country for the summer or to the summer camps that are becoming so popular. These camps, under the supervision of competent leaders, are fine for the children and for their parents—who need a little respite from responsibility occasionally.

A practical and good-looking outfit for vacation in the country is pictured here. It includes knickers and a blouse that may be made of either woolen or cotton goods—or both. Heavy cotton twill, denim or khaki will serve for the blouses, or they may be made of tweed or homespun. English broadcloth, sateen or other substantial weaves will serve for the blouse—or the whole outfit may be made of serge. A soft felt or fabric hat, strong hosiery and sport shoes will see the most athletic of little maids through her vacation.

 Your Conversation  "HUMBLE PIE"

Even Battle Creek enthusiasts would hate to be confined to a diet of "humble pie." Eating humble pie means going through the motions, at least, of humility. When the English nobility bring down a deer the lord and his friends dine from the choice steaks of venison. The huntsman and retainers are served a pie made of the "humbles," or less desirable portions.

Minor characters like Benjamin Franklin, Robert Lee, Daniel Webster, U. S. Grant, etc., fail to measure up to the professor's requirements.

U. S. Rubber Co. Advertiser

Celebrates Ten Years Of Use Of "Home Town" Newspapers.

In 1915 there were 2,445,606 automobiles in this country.

It seemed a tremendous number. Some people were already talking about "the saturation point" being not far ahead.

But, if there were some men who couldn't see the woods for the trees, there were others whose faith never faltered.

It took a lot of vision for them to see that the true market for the automobile had hardly been touched.

It took a lot of courage for them to bank on the ultimate success of the automobile in that market. They had both.

Back in 1915, the United States Rubber Company said, "The real future of the automobile is not in the big cities but away from them."

It is not in short runs on city streets, but in mile after mile on country roads.

So back in 1915 the United States Rubber company began to prepare for this movement—and to help it.

In 1915—ten years ago—the first U. S. Tire advertising began to appear in the "home town" papers.

Few people saw these papers in their true dimension.

Few realized the influence they had on what the people thought and did and wore and bought. Because few people realized the place they filled in the minds and lives of their readers.

The United States Rubber company saw.

As clearly as it saw that the development of the automobile would be in the smaller communities, it saw that the people in these communities would have to have tires to measure up to service and tire merchants to sell them.

And it saw that in the "home town" newspapers it had, ready to hand, the medium to help it put tire merchandising where it would have to be in the new era of the automobile.

So ten years ago people began to read the first U. S. Tire Advertising in their "home town" paper—over the name of their "home town" dealer.

They have been reading it ever since. They have seen these home dealers develop their little "side line of tires" into real business—always with the support "U. S." advertising in these local papers.

Co-incident with tenth anniversary of "home town" advertising by the United States Rubber company. This company announces another long step forward in the perfection of automobile tires—the greatest since the introduction of the cord itself—in its perfected Latex treated—Web Cord Royal Balloon Tire with the flat low pressure tread.

Today there are 16,000,000 automobiles in this country.

Eighty percent of them are owned by men and women on the farms and in the smaller communities.

Where there was one U. S. tire dealer in the small towns then there are hundreds today—real merchants.

What was only a vision in 1915 has come true in 1925.

Opportunity

No other country in the world represents such wonderful opportunities to the ambitious boy or girl, man or woman, as the United States of America. Pessimistic newspapers and followers of the red soviets are in the habit of proclaiming that the door of opportunity is forever closed against the poor and the unfortunate. Soap-box orators continually preach class prejudice, that the rich have stolen the birthright of the poor and doomed them to class servitude. No well-thinking man will be misled by any such statements. We have only to look about us to find scores in our own community who have their feet firmly planted upon the highway of success, yet a short while ago their only asset was an ambition to move upward in the industrial and financial world. Today this country is alive with countless golden opportunities for those who will search them out; at no other time in the world's history has there been such a demand for men and women with vision to look into the future and see written there the success that comes from honest efforts. Put doubt, fear and prejudice behind you and go forward to the best of your ability—success is just around the corner.

When the government makes public the list of big income tax payers for the past year our gentle subscribers can save much time and worry with the knowledge that our name is not written there.

Eighteen months after the Senate investigations revealed the rottenness of the oil scandal a court declares two leases "contra bonos mores." Mr. Doherty will appeal, and in a year or two more the matter will be decided, unless the big court decides that the little court made a mistake and grants a new trial. This illustrates the advantages of a dictatorship.

City Streets vs. Country Lanes

During the recent hot spell hundreds of city dwellers succumbed in the stifling heat of the crowded centers, while out in the country heat prostrations were practically unheard of. While thousands of families sweated there were at the same time thousands of empty farm homes in Michigan that would afford grateful shelter to the sufferers, presenting at the same time a greater opportunity for every member of the family to share in the things that make for prosperity, health and happiness. The country is calling for its lost sons and daughters—there is a wonderful work to be done in restoring the rural sections of the state to their former greatness. If you are a discouraged city dweller and your eye happens to rest for a moment on these lines, we want you to know that the wide open spaces are calling as they have never called before you to COME BACK HOME.

Crowd Stops Tax Sale

A newspaper dispatch from Arkansas tells a crowd of several hundred persons gathered before a court house for the purpose of preventing the sale of lands, levied upon for unpaid assessments for road improvement. According to the farmers the assessments are confiscatory and they cannot pay them. The sale was postponed.

We are of course unfamiliar with the whole situation in Arkansas, although the highway improvement squabble has been given national publicity. We call your attention to this incident as a straw pointing where the wind blows. The forced sale of much land for taxes in any county is a first class evidence of mismanagement and misgovernment.

The men and women charged with governing a community have the power to tax, and that implies the power to destroy, but when taxation destroys it shows very plainly that the governing power has been misplaced and misused. You will find in many sections of the United States today numbers of unpaid tax executions. They are on the books because the governing power failed to properly govern.

The idea of many legislators is that their main function is to spend money and tighten up the tax screws to get it from the people. That is a minor burden of legislators. Their real duty is to lighten the burden of taxation, trimming expenditures in times of stress, and adjusting the system of taxation so that it will be borne by those able to bear it best.

The Arkansas incident should arrest the attention of lawmakers everywhere. If should call them to the task of economizing public expense so that the man who is forced to pay a tax can at least have the realization that he is getting some return for it. Unless the local and state authorities do this throughout the United States there will be other tax sales stopped by a "crowd."

Beware of the smooth-tongued gent who drives up in front of the old homestead and proceeds to try and sell you a lot of worthless securities, which he claims will yield a high percentage of interest.

One reason why farmers have a hard time to get profits on their crops is the idea that when a thing grows out of the ground it is a gift of nature.

The average farmer's conception of golf is a fat man, weighing about 250 pounds, hitting a little ball long distance and walking slowly to where it lands, in order to hit it again.

Buy Your Studebaker—Now!
You may buy a Studebaker today—or on any day of the year—with the confident assurance that no act of ours will stigmatize it as a "last year's model"

STUDEBAKER has discontinued the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources.

Improvements and refinements, of course, will be made from time to time. New features will be added. As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer all vital betterments. But Studebaker will have no yearly models to make your July car obsolete in August.

A dramatic story
There is a dramatic story behind this new Studebaker policy that vitally concerns every one who expects to buy an automobile this year.

Amazing records of Studebaker performance and endurance prove beyond question that the present line of Studebaker cars is so soundly engineered and manufactured and so satisfactory in the hands of owners that drastic annual changes are not required.

Authentic reports show that hundreds of Studebaker cars have given from 125,000 to 400,000 miles of sturdy, dependable service. One Studebaker Big Six, used as a mail car, traveled almost 500,000 miles in 5½ years, giving 24-hour round trip service between Bakersfield and Los Angeles, California.

Stupendous mileage! But the same stamina and rugged dependability is built into every Studebaker that leaves the factory.

A Studebaker taxi in Jewett City, Conn., has traveled 31,008 miles without even having the valves ground or the carbon removed.

In Stockton, Calif., a Studebaker Big Six has piled up 138,000 miles over steep mountain grades and rough country roads with negligible upkeep—not a single major part has been purchased or repaired by reason of wear or accident.

It is a significant fact that wherever travel conditions are most severe, Studebaker by far outsells its normal proportion of cars.

Bus Operators, Rent-a-Car Companies, Police and Fire Departments—all turn to Studebaker year after year for their transportation equipment, because they have found that it always yields scores of thousands of miles of reserve transportation, and has low upkeep costs.

At the mileage when other cars are breaking up—Studebaker cars are breaking in. It's the second and third fifteen thousand miles that prove Studebaker superiority. It's this reserve mileage—even though you may never use it—that greatly increases Studebaker resale value.

Stamina is in-built—inherent—a vital and indispensable part of the Studebaker formula for building fine motor cars.

Buy this "One Profit" car now
Remember—under this new Studebaker policy—there is no need to delay the purchase of your new automobile until annual changes have been made. Come in and see these sturdy, dependable, "one-profit" automobiles. Today Studebaker offers greater values than ever before. It is sound judgment to buy now.

CHAPTER I

In Which Things Happen Near Barking Creek

The wind howled dully round a house standing by itself almost on the shores of Barking Creek.

The house seemed deserted. Every window was shuttered; the garden was uncared for and a mass of weeds; the gate leading on to the road, apparently feeling the need of a deficient top hinge, propped itself drunkenly on what once had been a flower-bed. A few gloomy trees swaying dully in the wind surrounded the house and completed the picture—one that would have caused even the least imaginative of men to draw his coat a little tighter round him, and feel thankful that it was not his fate to live in such a place.

But then few people ever came near enough to the house to realize its sinister appearance. The road—it was little better than a cart track—which passed the gate, was out of the beaten way; only an occasional fisherman or farm laborer ever used it, and that generally by day when things assumed their proper proportion, and it was merely an empty house gradually falling to pieces through lack of attention. At night they avoided it if possible; folks did say that twelve years ago some prying explorer had found the bones of a skeleton lying on the floor in one of the upstairs rooms with a mildewed rope fixed to one of the beams in the ceiling. And then it had been empty for twenty years.

Even now when the wind lay in the east or northeast and the tide was setting in, there were those who said that you could see a light shining through the cracks in the shutters in that room upstairs, and that, should a man climb up and look in, he'd see no skeleton, but a body with purple face and staring eyes swinging gently to and fro, and tied by the neck to a beam with a rope which showed no trace of mildew. Ridiculous, of course; but then so many of these local superstitions are. Useful, too, in some cases; they afford a privacy from the prying attentions of local gossips far more cheaply and effectively than high walls and bolts and bars.

So, at any rate, one of the two men who were walking briskly along the rough track seemed to think.

"Admirable," he remarked, as he paused for a moment at the entrance of the weed-grown drive. "Quite admirable, my friend. A house situated as this one is, an acquisition, and when it is haunted in addition it becomes a godsend."

He spoke English perfectly with a slight foreign accent, and his companion nodded abruptly.

"From what I heard about it I thought it would do," he answered. "Personally I think it's a damnable spot, but since you were so set against coming to London, I had to find somewhere in this neighborhood."

"I will explain my reasons in due course," said the first speaker shortly. "You may take it from me that they were good. What's that?"

He swung round with a little gasp, clutching his companion's arm.

"Nothing," cried the other irritably. For a moment or two they stood still, peering into the dark undergrowth. "What did you think it was?"

"I thought I heard a bush creaking as if—as if someone was moving," he said, relaxing his grip. "It must have been the wind, I suppose."

Back Lame and Achy?

The Advice of This East Jordan Resident Should Help You to Get Well.

Do you suffer nagging backache? Feel dizzy, nervous and depressed? Are the kidney secretions irregular; breaking your rest? Likely your kidneys are at fault. Weak kidneys give warning. You have backache; rheumatic twinges. You feel weak, tired, all worn out. Heed the warning. Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Here is an East Jordan case. Fred Nelson, prop. shoe repair shop, Bridge St., says: "I had attacks of kidney trouble that had me feeling mighty miserable. My back was lame and sore and when I stooped sharp twinges darted across my kidneys. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. After using Doan's Pills the trouble was driven away."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mr. Nelson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

held a tremor of excitement, while the others leaned forward eagerly. "Is he, then, in Holland?"

"He was at six o'clock yesterday evening," answered Zaboleff with a faint smile. "Today—now—I know no more than you where he is."

"Who is he—this man we're always hearing about and never seeing?" demanded one of the three clerks aggressively.

"He is—the Chief," replied the other, while his eyes seemed to bore into the speaker's brain. "Just that—and no more. And that is quite enough for you." His glance traveled round the room, and his audience relaxed. "By the way, is not that a chink in the shutter there?"

"All the safer," grunted Flash Jim. "Anyone passing will think the ghost is walking."

"Nevertheless, kindly cover it up, ordered Zaboleff, and one of the Jews rose and wedged his pocket handkerchief into the crack. There was silence in the room while he did so, a silence broken only by the mournful hooting of an owl outside.

"Owls is the only things wot comes to this d—n museum," said Flash Jim morosely. "Owls and blinkin' fools like us."

"Stow it, Jim," snarled Waldoek furiously. "Anyone would think you wanted a nurse."

"Gentlemen—please," Zaboleff held up a protesting hand. "We do not want to prolong matters, but one or two explanations are necessary. To return, then, to these things that have happened recently, and which necessitated a fresh rendezvous for this evening—one which our friend Mr. Waldoek so obligingly found. Three messengers sent over during the last three weeks bearing instructions and—what is more important—money, have disappeared."

"Disappeared?" echoed Waldoek stupidly.

"Absolutely and completely. Money and all. Two more have been abominably ill-treated and had their money taken from them; but for some reason they were allowed to go free themselves. It is from them that we have obtained our information."

"Blimey!" muttered Flash Jim; "is it the police?"

"It is not the police, which is what makes it so much more serious," answered Zaboleff quietly, and Flash Jim breathed a sigh of relief. "It is easy to keep within the law, but if our information is correct we are up against a body of men who are not within the law themselves. A body of men who are absolutely unscrupulous and utterly ruthless; a body of men who appear to know our secret plans as well as we do ourselves. And the difficulty of it is, gentlemen, that though, legally speaking, on account of the absurd legislation in this country we may keep within the law ourselves, we are hardly in a position to appeal to the police for protection. Our activities, though allowed officially, are hardly such as would appeal even to the English authorities. And on this occasion particularly that is the case. You may remember that the part I played in stirring up bloodshed at Cowdenheath, a few months ago, under the name of MacTavish, caused me to be deported. So though our cause is legal—my presence in this country is not. Which was why tonight it was particularly essential that we should not be disturbed. Not only are we all up against this unknown gang of men, but I, in addition, am up against the police."

"Have you any information with regard to this gang?" It was the Jew who had closed the chink in the shutters speaking for the first time.

"None of any use—save that they are masked in black, and cloaked in long black cloaks." He paused a moment as if to collect his thoughts. "They are all armed, and Petrovitch—who escaped from them—was very insistent on one point. It concerned the leader of the gang, who he affirmed was a man of the most gigantic physical strength; a giant powerful as two ordinary strong men. He said—"

"Ah! Mein Gott!" His voice rose to a scream as he covered back, while the others, with terror on their faces, rose hurriedly and huddled together in the corners of the room.

In the doorway stood a huge man covered from head to foot in black.

moment as if to collect his thoughts. "They are all armed, and Petrovitch—who escaped from them—was very insistent on one point. It concerned the leader of the gang, who he affirmed was a man of the most gigantic physical strength; a giant powerful as two ordinary strong men. He said—"

"Ah! Mein Gott!" His voice rose to a scream as he covered back, while the others, with terror on their faces, rose hurriedly and huddled together in the corners of the room.

In the doorway stood a huge man covered from head to foot in black in each hand he held a revolver, with which he covered the slight occupants of the second or two which it took for half a dozen similarly disguised men to file past him, and take up their positions round the walls. And Waldoek, a little more educated than the remainder of his friends, found himself thinking of old tales of the Spanish Inquisition and the doges of Venice even as he huddled a little nearer to the table.

"Stand by the table, all of you." It was the man at the door who spoke in a curiously deep voice, and like sheep they obeyed him—all save Flash Jim. For that worthy, crouching though he was, was not without physical courage. The police he knew better than to play the fool with, but these were not the police.

"Wot the—" he snarled, and got no farther. Something hit him behind the head, a thousand stars danced before his eyes, and with a strangled grunt he crashed forward on his face.

For a moment or two, there was silence, and then once again the man at the door spoke.

"Arrange the specimens in a row." In a second the seven remaining men were marshaled in a line, while behind them stood six motionless black figures. And then the big man walked slowly down in front of them, peering into each man's face. He spoke no word until he reached the end of the line, and then, his inspection concluded, he stepped back and leaned against the wall facing them.

"A nauseating collection," he remarked thoughtfully. "A loathsome brood. What are the three undersized and shivering insects on the right?"

"Those are three of my clerks," said Waldoek with an assumption of angry bravado. "And I would like to know—"

"In good time you will," answered the deep voice. "Three of your clerks, are they; imbued with your rotten ideas, I suppose, and yearning to follow in father's footsteps? Have we anything particular against them?"

There was no answer from the masked men, and the leader made a sign. Instantly the three terrified clerks were seized from behind and brought up to him, where they stood trembling and shaking in every limb.

"Listen to me, you three little worms." With an effort they pulled themselves together; a ray of hope was dawning in their minds—perhaps they were going to be let off easy. "My friends and I do not like you or your type. You meet in secret places and in your slimy minds you concoct foul schemes which, incredible though it may seem, have so far had more than a fair measure of success in this country. But your main idea is not the schemes, but the money you are paid to carry them out. This is your first and last warning. Another time you will be treated differently. Get out of here. And see you don't stop."

The door closed behind them and two of the masked men; there was the sound as of a boot being used with skill and strength, and cries of pain; then the door reopened and the masked men returned.

"They have gone," announced one of them. "We helped them on their way."

"Good," said the leader. "Let us continue the inspection. What are these two?"

A man from behind stepped forward and examined them slowly; then he came up to the leader and whispered in his ear.

"Is that so?" A new and terrible note had crept into the deep voice. "My friends and I do not like your trade, you swine. It is well that we have come provided with the necessary implement for such a case. Fetch the cat."

In silence one of the men left the room, and as his full meaning came home to the two Jews they flung themselves groveling on the floor, screaming for mercy.

"Gag them!" The order came out sharp and clear, and in an instant the two writhing men were seized and gagged. Only their rolling eyes and trembling hands showed the terror they felt as they dragged themselves on their knees towards the impassive leader.

He had forestalled us. Popular house, this, tonight."

"The police!" muttered Waldoek dully.

"Even so—led by no less a personage than Inspector McIver. They had completely surrounded the house, and necessitated a slight change in my plans."

"Where are they now?" cried Waldoek.

"Ah! Where indeed. Let us trust at any rate in comfort."

"By heaven!" said Zaboleff, taking a step forward. "As I asked you before—who are you?"

"And as I told you before, Zaboleff, a collector of specimens. Some I keep; some I let go—as you have already seen."

"And what are you going to do with me?"

"Keep you. Up to date you are the cream of my collection."

"Are you working with the police?" said the other dazedly.

"Until tonight we have not clashed. Even tonight, well, I think we are working towards the same end. And do you know what that end is, Zaboleff?" The deep voice grew a little sterner. "It is the utter, final overthrow of you and all that you stand for. To achieve that object we shall show no mercy. Even as you are working in the dark—so are we. Already you are frightened; already we have proved that you fear the unknown more than you fear the police; already the first few tricks are ours. But you still hold the ace, Zaboleff—or shall we say the king of trumps? And when we catch him you will cease to be the cream of my collection. This leader of yours—it was what Petrovitch told me, I suppose, that made him send you over."

"I refuse to say," said the other.

"You needn't; it is obvious. And now that you are caught—he will come himself. Perhaps not at once—but he will come. And then . . . But we waste time. The money, Zaboleff."

"I have no money," he snarled.

"You lie, Zaboleff. You lie dully. You have quite a lot of money brought over for Waldoek so that he might carry on the good work after you had sailed tomorrow. Quick, please; time passes."

With a curse Zaboleff produced a small canvas bag and held it out. The other took it and glanced inside.

"I see," he said gravely. "Pearls and precious stones. Belonging once, I suppose, to a murdered gentleman whose only crime was that she, through no action of her own, was born in a different sphere to you. And, you reptile—his voice rose a little—"you would do that here."

Zaboleff shrank back, and the other laughed contemptuously.

"Search him—and Waldoek too." Two men stepped forward quickly. "Nothing more," they said after a while. "Except this piece of paper."

There was a sudden movement on Zaboleff's part—instinctively suppressed, but not quite soon enough.

"Injudicious," said the leader quietly. "Memory is better. An address, I see—No. 5 Green street, Hoxton. A salubrious neighborhood, with which I am but indifferently acquainted. Ah! I see my violent friend has recovered."

He glanced at Flash Jim, who was sitting up dazedly, rubbing the back of his head. "Number 4—the usual."

There was a slight struggle, and Flash Jim lay back peacefully unconscious, while a faint smell of chloroform filled the room.

"And now I think we will go. A most successful evening."

"What are you going to do with me, you scoundrel?" spluttered Waldoek.

"I warn you that I have influential friends, who—who will ask questions in—parliament if you do anything to me; who will go to Scotland Yard."

"I can assure you, Mr. Waldoek, that I will make it my personal business to see that their natural curiosity is gratified," answered the leader suavely. "But for the present I fear the three filthy rags you edit will have to be content with the office boy as their guiding light. And I venture to think they will not suffer."

He made a sudden sign, and before they realized what was happening the two men were caught from behind and gagged. The next instant they were rushed through the door, followed by Flash Jim. For a moment or two the eyes of the leader wandered round the now empty room taking in every detail; then he stepped forward and blew out the two candles. The door closed gently behind him, and a couple of minutes later two cars stole quietly away from the broken-down gate along the cart track.

It was not until the leading car turned carefully into the main road that anyone spoke.

"Deuced awkward, the police being there."

The big man who was driving grunted thoughtfully.

"Perhaps," he returned. "Perhaps not. Anyway, the more the merrier. Flash Jim all right?"

"Sleeping like a child," answered the other, peering into the body of the car.

For about ten miles they drove on in silence, then at a main cross-roads the car pulled up and the big man got out. The second car was just behind, and for a few moments there was a whispered conversation between him and the other driver. He glanced at Zaboleff and Waldoek, who appeared to be peacefully sleeping on the back seat, and snarled grimly.

"Good night, old man. Report as usual."

"Right," answered the driver. "So long."

The second car swung right-handed and started northwards, while the leader stood watching the vanishing light lamp. Then he returned to his own seat, and soon the first beginnings of outer London were reached. And it was as they reached White-chapel that the leader spoke again with a note of suppressed excitement in his voice.

"We're worrying 'em; we're worrying 'em badly. Otherwise, they'd never have sent Zaboleff. He was top big a man to risk, considering the police."

"It's the police that I am considering," said his companion.

"The big man laughed. "Leave that to me, old man; leave that entirely to me."

CHAPTER II

In Which Scotland Yard Sits Up and Takes Notice

Sir Bryan Johnstone, director of criminal investigation, leaned back in his chair and stared at the ceiling with a frown. His hands were thrust deep into his trousers pockets; his long legs were stretched out to their full extent under the big roll-top desk in front of him. He was puzzled, and the report lying on the desk in front of him was the reason.

For perhaps ten minutes he remained motionless, then he leaned forward and touched an electric bell. A girl secretary came quickly into the room.

"Miss Forbes," said Sir Bryan, "I wish you would find out if Chief Inspector McIver is in the building. If so I would like to see him at once; if not, see that he gets the message as soon as he comes in."

The door closed behind the girl, and after a moment or two the man rose from his desk and began to pace up and down the room with long, even strides. Every now and then he would stop and stare at some print on the wall, but it was the blank stare of a man whose mind is engrossed in other matters.

His eyes came round to the desk once more, the desk on which the report was lying. It was Inspector McIver's report—hence his instructions to the secretary. It was the report on a very strange matter which had taken place the previous night, and after a while Sir Bryan picked up the typed sheets and glanced through them again. And he was still standing by the desk, idly turning over the pages when the secretary came into the room.

"Chief Inspector McIver is here, Sir Bryan," she announced.

"Tell him to come in, Miss Forbes." A square-jawed, rugged Scotsman, McIver looked the type to whom Holy Writ was Holy Writ only in so far as it could be proved. He was short and thick-set, and his physical strength was proverbial.

"What the dickens is all this about, McIver?" said Sir Bryan with a smile, when the door had shut behind the secretary.

"I wish I knew myself, sir," returned the other seriously. "I've never been so completely defeated in my life."

Sir Bryan waved him to a chair and sat down at the desk.

In the Doorway Stood a Huge Man Covered From Head to Foot in Black.

moment as if to collect his thoughts. "They are all armed, and Petrovitch—who escaped from them—was very insistent on one point. It concerned the leader of the gang, who he affirmed was a man of the most gigantic physical strength; a giant powerful as two ordinary strong men. He said—"

"Ah! Mein Gott!" His voice rose to a scream as he covered back, while the others, with terror on their faces, rose hurriedly and huddled together in the corners of the room.

In the doorway stood a huge man covered from head to foot in black in each hand he held a revolver, with which he covered the slight occupants of the second or two which it took for half a dozen similarly disguised men to file past him, and take up their positions round the walls. And Waldoek, a little more educated than the remainder of his friends, found himself thinking of old tales of the Spanish Inquisition and the doges of Venice even as he huddled a little nearer to the table.

"Stand by the table, all of you." It was the man at the door who spoke in a curiously deep voice, and like sheep they obeyed him—all save Flash Jim. For that worthy, crouching though he was, was not without physical courage. The police he knew better than to play the fool with, but these were not the police.

"Wot the—" he snarled, and got no farther. Something hit him behind the head, a thousand stars danced before his eyes, and with a strangled grunt he crashed forward on his face.

BRIEF NEWS OF WORLD EVENTS

Amundsen Fails to Reach Pole But Returns Safely to Civilization

Oslo—Roald Amundsen has come safely out of the merciless grip of the Arctic where he went with five companions in the endeavor to reach the North Pole by airplane.
An abandoned seaplane frozen in the ice 100 miles from the Pole remains as his "farthest north" marker, but the great Norwegian explorer and his five intrepid companions finally freed the one remaining plane and flew back to Spitzbergen.
Amundsen failed to realize his dream of reaching the pole by air, but the failure was magnificent and is almost entirely lost sight of in the great popular wave of relief at the news of his return and admiration at his heroic accomplishment.
Amundsen's two planes, one commanded by himself and the other by his American fellow adventurer and financial backer, Lincoln Ellsworth, disappeared over the northern horizon from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, on May 21.
The planes carried no wireless, and as the days passed without the fliers' return hopes began to fade that even Amundsen, with all his Arctic lore, would survive in the event of an accident to his machines.
As the hopes faded preparations were under way for relief expeditions, although it was realized that looking for a small party of men in the great northern waste of ice and water was an almost hopeless task.

Mexico Resents Insult
Washington—Secretary Frank B. Kellogg's statement concerning conditions in Mexico has drawn an equally plain-worded reply from President P. Elias Calles, who regards as an insult the implication that Mexico is on trial before the world in the guise of a defendant. President Calles' answer issued through the Mexican embassy here declared Mr. Kellogg's pronouncement embodied a "threat against the sovereignty of Mexico, and deemed it a duty for my government to rectify said statements as required by truth and justice."

Wheat Speculation Curbed
Washington—Administration officials have come to the conclusion that speculation in grain has attained such proportions that it will be necessary to enact government regulation unless the Chicago board of trade voluntarily establishes restrictions. This became known when it was learned that the government's investigation into grain speculation last spring had disclosed "bear" trading of alarming proportions—sufficient to upset for long periods the normal law of supply and demand.

Britain Blames Peking
London—Great Britain's declaration that she will hold the Peking government responsible for injuries to British nationals and damage to British property was the outstanding development in the situation arising from the strenuous anti-foreign campaign in China.
Solemn pronouncement of the British determination was made by Foreign Secretary Austen Chamberlain, who declared the government's stand was necessitated "by the outrages that have taken place."

Railway Enters Motor Field
Boston—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company has definitely entered the field of motor transportation on a large scale by incorporating here a million dollar subsidiary, formed for this purpose. The organization, the New England Transportation company, will transport passengers and goods by motor in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New York, both in interstate and intrastate commerce.

King Opens Radio Station
Madrid—King Alfonso has opened the Union Radio Broadcasting Station with a speech delivered into the microphone. Praising the new method of communication, the King said that he was glad to be able to speak words of peace and fraternity to an unseen audience, comprising persons from the highest to the humblest ranks of life, for all of whom the radio had established a spiritual bond.

Wife Slain With Gas
Los Angeles, Cal.—An indictment charging murder of his wife, Grace Grogan Young, former widow of Patrick Grogan, millionaire, was returned by the county grand jury here against Dr. Thomas W. Young, dentist, who confessed slaying her with lethal gas. At the same time authorities were investigating Young's reported connection with deaths of two other women.

Mexican State Grants Suffrage
Tuxtla Gutierrez, Chiapas, Mexico—Supported by Provisional Governor Cesar Cordova, a bill has been passed by the state legislature, granting women equal political rights with men in state affairs. Chiapas is the first state of the Mexican federation to grant woman suffrage.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE LOSES LAST BATTLE

ROBERT MARION LA FOLLETTE

Washington—Senator LaFollette, one of the greatest political insurgents in American history and candidate for president at the last general election, is dead. He had just passed his seventieth birthday. The immediate cause of his death was heart failure superinduced by a general breakdown and an attack of bronchial asthma. Surrounding the warrior of the forum as he fought his last fight and laid down his life, were Mrs. LaFollette, their two sons, Philip and Robert, Jr., and their two daughters, Mrs. George Middleton, of New York, and Mrs. Ralph Sucher, of Washington.
The funeral was held at Madison, Wis., the LaFollette home and scene of the first challenge the young statesman flung at the reactionaries of the last generation.
LaFollette could have amassed a fortune had he desired, but his devotion to public duty overshadowed his personal ambitions, and he died in comparative poverty. During the latter years he turned down offers for speaking engagements and business that would have netted him more in a year than he made in a lifetime.

Swimmer Saves Six Lives
Santa Ana, Calif.—Duke Kahanamoku, famous Hawaiian swimmer, was the hero of a sea tragedy off Newport Beach, in which five persons were drowned and 12 others narrowly escaped. Kahanamoku, single-handed, rescued six passengers when the 40-foot fishing yacht, Thelma, capsized, dumping its human cargo into a heavy sea. Life guards rescued the same number but were unable to reach five of the passengers in time.

Time Off for Church
Madrid—One hour off to attend church must be given to all persons who are compelled to work on Sundays, in accordance with a royal decree just published in the official Gazette. It is stipulated that there can be no deduction from wages because of this time off. Employers who do not comply with the decree will be fined, the money being applied to the workmen's pension fund.

Train Wreck Kills 44
Hackettstown, N. J.—The death toll of the wreck of the special excursion train of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad at Rockport, Pa., definitely set at 44 by railroad officials of the railroad.
The wreck was caused when the locomotive left the rails after striking a switch covered with sand and dirt washed down by the violent electrical storm.

Commission Becomes Effective
Washington—Despite the failure of Salvador to satisfy it, the Central American treaty creating international commissions of inquiry to handle disputes has been declared effective as of June 13.
The proclamation was issued by the State Department where the ratifications of Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua have been placed on file.

Robison New Navy Head
Washington—Admiral S. S. Robison, commander in chief of the battle fleet, has been selected to succeed Admiral Robert E. Coontz, as commander in chief of the United States fleet. Secretary Wilbur announced the selection in making public a list of changes in high fleet commands to take place this fall after completion of the fleet's cruise to Australia.

Employment on Upgrade
Washington—A continued upward trend in employment conditions throughout the country was noted in an announcement of results of a survey made by the employment service of the Labor Department. "It is gratifying to note," the statement said, "that there is no great amount of unemployment apparent in any section of the country."

Weeks Leaves Hospital
Boston—Almost completely recovered from his recent illness, Secretary of War John W. Weeks, has left the Phillips House, Massachusetts General hospital. Secretary Weeks has gone to Gloucester, Massachusetts.

Montreal—Rubin Cohen, Philadelphia canoeist, and Peter Mill, local sportsman, have successfully "shot" the Lachine Rapids in the former's canoe. This is the first time the feat has ever been accomplished by white men.

Fall Gives Bond
El Paso, Tex.—Former Secretary of Interior A. B. Fall gave bond before United States Commissioner Schmid, here for his appearance in the Supreme Court, of the District of Columbia, Oct. 5 to answer to charges growing out of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hill oil leases.

Italy Demands Indemnity
Rome—Italy has delivered an ultimatum to Afghanistan, demanding $35,000 indemnity for the alleged unjustified execution of an Italian citizen, Darlo Pipperno, demanding also an apology from the Afghanistans foreign minister and the Afghanistans soldiers salute the Italian flag in token of an apology.

Guggenheim Gives Aero School
New York—The gift of $500,000 by Daniel Guggenheim to New York University for the establishment of a school of aeronautics, is announced by Chancellor Brown. Extensive laboratories will be constructed, equipped with the most modern available machinery for experiments in the field of aeronautics, and an initial staff of four experts will be added to the university's instructors.

MacMillan Expedition Starts
Boston—The Arctic expedition of Lieut. Commander Donald B. MacMillan has sailed from the navy yard at Charleston in the steamer Peary, bound for Wiscasset, Me. From Wiscasset the Peary and the schooner Bowdoin will sail on MacMillan's ninth voyage into the north. The big guns on the navy craft thundered farewell as the little steamer slipped away on the first leg of the trip beyond the Arctic circle.

Women's Colony Planned
Calgary, Alta.—Establishment of a farming colony of well-to-do English women in Southern Alberta may soon be undertaken, according to Miss Patricia Carlisle, an English authoress, who operates a ranch near Calgary. Miss Carlisle plans to bring out to her ranch a small number of English, women of education, each year. These women will receive a thorough agricultural education. After they are sufficiently trained they will take up establishments of their own.

Some people's idea of a vacation is our idea of a long, dull spell.

SECURED RELIEF THRU FOLEY PILLS
John R. Jordan, Danville, Ill., writes "I have suffered with kidney trouble five years; could not sleep at night and was always tired. I was not strong and hard work made my back ache. I got some FOLEY PILLS and after a few treatments I felt better and could work with more ease, became stronger and could sleep better." FOLEY PILLS are a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys—make them more active. Get a bottle today.—Hile's Drug Co. adv.

Drink Water If Kidneys Bother

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts If Back Pains or Bladder is Irritated

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home, is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.
Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look young again.
