The Celebration Went Big

Fine Program and Ideal Weather Brought Thousands.

East Jordan's Fourth of July Celebration went big in every sense of the word. Our business man had put forth every effort to provide a worth-while day's entertainment and ideal weather brought thousands of visitors to our city that day.

The entire day's program from sunrise salute to the fireworks display went through without a hitch. The three bands furnished delightful music throughout the day and evening. The parade was all that could be desired. The dinner committee were busy hosts at the high school grounds providing free coffee, sugar and cream. The street sports furnished amusement to the crowds after the dinner hour, and "The Great Floreins" presented one of the finest open air acts ever shown in this region. The Boyne City-East Jordan base ball game at the Fair grounds drew a large crowd.

In the evening, at the High School park, a crowd of several thousand viewed our city's offering in fireworks display and the favorable comments among the large audience showed that our fireworks committee had made an excellent selection.

Probably the greatest surprise of the day was the fact that the Celebration developed into a Home-Coming Day. A large number of former citizens of East Jordan and surrounding region, now scattered over all parts of the country, were here to enjoy the day's events and renew old-time acquaintances.

The Street Parade

The street parade in the forenoon was one of the best ever put on in East Jordan and the business places and industries of our city were fairly well represented. Many of the floats showed considerable effort on the part of exhibitors.

Following was the order of the parade:—
Uncle Sam—Carlton Bowen
The Colors
Petoskey City Band
American Legion Float—"To The Unknown."
Peoples State Savings Bank float
East Jordan Fire Department
East Jordan Lumber Co.—Basket Weavers and Indians.
Northern Auto Co.—Sedan.
R. G. Watson—Furniture
East Jordan Lumber Co.—Mill B—Lumber and lath
East Jordan Concert Band
J. D. Frost—groceries
Northern Auto Co.—freak car—"rolls rottin"
John Ives—clock repairing
East Jordan Lumber Co.—log peeling exhibit
State Bank of East Jordan—float
Smith & Bronkema—hardware
East Jordan Co-operative Ass'n—Texaco oil
East Jordan Lumber Co. Store—float
Some 15 Studebaker and Overland autos
East Jordan Cabinet Co. float—building material
Standard Oil Co. float—Red Crown oil
East Jordan High School Band of 26 pieces
Cow Boys
East Jordan Lumber Co. Store.
Calithumpians
1910 and 1925 autos.

Among the outstanding features of the parade was the music by the three bands—East Jordan's young hopefuls; the High School Band, drawing generous applause. Carlton Bowen made an admirable Uncle Sam. The American Legion float—"To the Unknown," was excellent. The basket weavers consisting of the Wahsi, Compo, Pawnsing and Antoine families drew considerable attention as did the Northern Auto Co.'s "Rolls Rottin" car, and the wooden horse mounted on wheels of Smith & Bronkema. The Cabinet Co. exhibit of building material was also highly praised.

Freiberg-Overholt

Miss Martha Freiberg of East Jordan and Austin Overholt of Detroit were united in marriage, Saturday afternoon July 4th, at the summer cottage of the bride's brother—A. W. Freiberg—near Holy Island. Rev. C. W. Sidebotham performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends.

The bride is well-known in our city having served as kindergarten teacher in our public schools for a number of years, later going to Lansing, Mich., in the same work, and for the past four years serving as kindergarten teacher in Cleveland, Ohio, public schools.

Mr. Overholt returned to his work at Detroit first of the week and will return to East Jordan for his vacation Aug. 1st, after which Mr. and Mrs. Overholt will begin housekeeping in Detroit.

East Jordan Takes Two

Defeat Boyne 6 to 2, and Shut Out Harbor Springs.

East Jordan Base Ball Team took both the games scheduled for last Saturday and Sunday, taking Saturday's game from Boyne City by a 6 to 2 score and on Sunday defeating Harbor Springs with a shut-out, while our boys were busy rolling up a total of ten runs. In Saturday's game, Jack Gunderson, East Jordan's reliable south-paw, secured fifteen strike-outs.

Bay City—The $50,000 fire which destroyed the Visitation church here was of incendiary origin, it has been decided and $1,000 was offered for the apprehension of the responsible parties. The investigation of the fire was made by Lieutenant Joseph Kearney of the Michigan State Police.

Two Plays for Chautauqua

Other Fine Musical and Entertainment Attractions and Lecturers.

Two of the best plays ever presented on the Chautauqua platform are included among the attractions scheduled for our Assembly, which is to be held soon. The fact that these plays are both "rip-roaring comedies," does not in any way detract from the fine philosophy that underlies the plot in each of them. In fact the very successful runs which these plays have had clearly demonstrate that the American people are tired of the inane and meaningless productions which have of recent years been forced upon them by dramatic producers. We want to be entertained, but we want also something more than mere entertainment and the crowded houses that have enthusiastically greeted these are dramatic productions that we are to have on the Chautauqua, are evidence of this fact.

The Imperial Syncopators, a group of accomplished musicians, specializing in modern American rhythmic music but including in their program also many of the old favorites and many novelty features, will provide the music for one day.

The Lombard Entertainers, the Mac Murray-Kackley Players, the Philippine Concert Co., employing special stage setting and elaborate lighting effects, and lectures that are entertaining as well as instructive, will be other features of this splendid Chautauqua program which deserves and undoubtedly will receive the support of the entire community.

East Jordan Chautauqua dates are July 21 to 25, inclusive.

Dairymen To Hold Picnic

At Whiting Park Next Thursday, July 16th.

Plans have been completed to have a big Dairy Picnic on the 16th of July at Whiting Park. This is sponsored by the Charlevoix Cow-testing Ass'n, and everyone interested in dairying is cordially invited to attend.

The Charlevoix County Cow-testing Ass'n. has been in operation for nearly three years and has proven itself to be the most important cog in the dairy wheel of progress. The results of the Ass'n. have been far reaching and have awakened the public as to the welfare of our most profitable industry in the county. More and more we are beginning to realize that it is not sufficient to just know a cow as a cow, but most important of all to know whether she is a money-maker or not. Moral: Join the Cow-testing Ass'n. and find out.

Efforts have been put forth to make this a Red Letter Day for Dairymen. We are fortunate in being able to schedule Mr. James Wells, Dairy Extension Specialist of M. S. C. to be with us on that day and discuss questions pertaining to Dairying. He will also give a judging demonstration at the Breezy Point Farm located on the East side of the Ironton Ferry beginning at 10:00 fast time.

Then at 11:30 the Caravan will journey forth to the County Park to enjoy a basket dinner furnished by those in attendance. After that has been thoroughly enjoyed, Mr. Wells will give a talk, followed by Clarence Mullett, cow tester, who will give some of the results accomplished during the past year in the Ass'n. The next act on the program will be a base ball game between members of the Ass'n. Also remember no finer bathing beach can be found anywhere, so bring bathing suits for all the family. A cordial invitation is extended to all the members of the Marketing Ass'n., Cashiers of all the banks, business men, and all the dairymen of the county. Members of the Charlevoix county Calf Club also will be there.

Don't forget to set aside the 16th of July and meet us at the Breezy Point Farm to spend a very profitable as well as pleasurable day.

Fair Book Now Ready

For the Charlevoix County Fair, Sept. 8-9-10-11, 1925

Secretary Frank F. Bird is distributing this week the annual Fair Book for the Forty-first annual exhibit of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society to be held at East Jordan Sept. 8-9-10-11 1925.

The book contains a list of the officers and committees of the Association, the rules and regulations, and a complete list of the premiums offered for the 1925 exhibit. The edition also carries a fine line of advertisements, showing that the business men of Charlevoix County are interested in the development of the County Fair.

Anyone interested in preparing an exhibit at the Fair can secure a copy of the Premium List by addressing Sec'y Frank Bird at Charlevoix. A number of copies have been left for distribution at various business places in East Jordan. Get your copy of book now and start planning your exhibit.

Warren—The village of Warren, known since last fall as "the muddiest town in Macomb Township," is going to get rid of it. mud. The County Highway Commission, at the request of Warren residents, promised a 36-foot concrete road would be built this summer through Warren. Next Spring, according to the commission, the pavement will be connected with Van Dyke avenue on the east and the Ryan road on the west, thus providing two all concrete routes to Detroit.

Pontiac—Manley D. Davis, Detroit attorney and resident of Bloomfield Hills, has offered Oakland County a 100-acre farm in Springfield township provided that the county lay out a golf course there and use it as a county park. The board of supervisors has appointed a special committee to investigate the offer and make a report. The land is near Davisburg, where ancestors of Davis were born and reared. He is the son of Daniel L. Davis, of Pontiac, one of the oldest members of the Oakland County Bar Association.

Two Games With Traverse

Locals Play There Next Sunday; Here, July 19.

(From Traverse City Record-Eagle)

Next on the schedule of the Traverse City Independents is their old and honored adversary, East Jordan, come to life at last when "Doc" Parks, who vowed last year he was through with the diamond game, couldn't stand the pressure a few weeks ago, and consented once more to guide the destinies of his ball players, as long as they wouldn't let him rest. Home and home games have been arranged, with East Jordan, the first to take place here next Sunday afternoon, July 12, and the second at East Jordan the following Sunday, July 19.

It isn't necessary to take much for granted when we say that Traverse City Independents have their work cut out for them the next two weeks. East Jordan and its immediate vicinity has some ball players that are matches for any competition in this part of Michigan. Moreover, Traverse City is the one team they enjoy walloping most. Good friendly rivalry it is, but with every game fought to the limit and the last man. Dr. William Parks is a square shooter in Northern Michigan semi-pro athletics, and he demands that his team pursue that course.

We will make an attempt during the week to ascertain the northern's lineup, but "Doc" has been keeping pretty mum about that part of it so far. There's no limit on what an opponent of East Jordan's team can use in the way of players, and at the same time "Doc" always reserves the right to enlist what strength he thinks he needs.

No doubt a good many of the old familiar faces will be seen up at the fairgrounds diamond next Sunday afternoon, however. There could hardly be an East Jordan baseball team without the Kamradt brothers, Sam and Hank, both good ball players and excellent hitters. They've been batting in third and fourth positions for East Jordan several seasons. Mully DeLuff won't be there because he has graduated to league lineups, but there'll probably be Ed. LaLonde, Ward, Steve Covey, and maybe Johnny Gunderson. Tolles, the left-hander developed at East Jordan right out of high school last season, is regarded as one of their best pitching bets this year, it is understood. He held the Illinois Giants to a 3 to 0 victory the day after they played here two weeks ago, and at that rate is plenty good enough for Manager Foster and his men.

The Traverse club, however, has its hitting togs on, in the light of recent performance, and this, coupled with the fact that the club appears to be the strongest in years, guarantees some stellar baseball when the lads from the south arm of Pine Lake move into town next Sunday.—By Lew A. Holliday.

Michigan Seed Shows Well In Potato Test

That potato seed stock from Michigan is holding its own among the best of the country in competition in several eastern states which are running seed source tests is shown by a survey just completed by J. W. Weston, specialist with the Michigan State College extension division.

Certified tubers furnished by the Michigan Certified Seed Potato Growers Ass'n, through the Potato Growers Exchange, are now growing in the comparative tests in Virginia, Maryland and New Jersey. Mr. Weston has just finished a swing through these States and reports the local tubers as showing well in the demonstrations.

The best seed stocks from Maine, Vermont, New York, Minnesota, Wisconsin, South Dakota, and various Canadian provinces were growing in the same plots, and while some were said to show as much promise as the Wolverine strains, the Michigan seed ranks with the best.

The varieties from Michigan include the Irish Cobbler, Russet Rural, Green Mountain, and White Rurals, showing to advantage in about the order named. There were many strains of the same varieties among the long list being grown.

Some idea of the possibilities for future markets for Michigan certified seed potatoes is shown by the fact that Virginia and Long Island, New York, alone use more than 1,000,000 bushels each of outside seed each year. New Jersey is said to use about 1,500 cars of imported seed stock.

Fire Arms Bill Being Delayed

Although the Condon firearms bill designed to restrict carrying concealed weapons provides that all guns less than 30 inches long be registered with the Secretary of State before July 1, the bill does not become effective until August 27 and no action will be taken until that date, it was announced at Lansing.

Confusion consulted because the measure was given immediate effect in the Senate where it originated but failed to get the two-thirds vote necessary for immediate effect in the house.

Under the law, blanks are prepared by the clerk of each county, who becomes ex-officio clerk of the examining board issuing permits to carry arms. The blanks are filled out by the dealers selling guns or gun owners. Blank forms have been approved for almost all counties, according to E. V. Chilson, deputy secretary of state and it will be possible to put the law into operation as soon as it goes into effect.

Costs a Million

The common superstition that the two dollar bill is the cause of bad luck, is said to cost the United States government a lot of money every year. In Canada for each one hundred $1 bills, there are thirty-six $2 bills in circulation, while in this country there are only eight.

It is said that the superstition began because the colonies based their currency on the Spanish system in which pieces of eight were found. The Spanish also had a silver coin of thirteen reales which was equivalent to the English ten-shilling piece or $2.00. The jinx is said to have attached itself to the coin because of the unlucky thirteen.

If the United States government could bring about the circulation of $2 bills in the proportion obtaining in Canada, it would mean sixty-five million fewer bills. As a bill in circulation wears out in eight months, the government would be saved the manufacture of more than one hundred million bills. It is said that it costs the government a penny each to make the bills and therefore the popular superstition costs the government one million dollars per year.

Your Important Duty

The average life of man is approaching sixty-five years, which is about fifteen additional years over that of twenty years ago. This shows that the general health of mankind is better, but whether it is due to the excellent work of doctors and surgeons, or to more sensible practices by the average citizen, is to be decided in favor of the latter supposition.

Every once in a while a doctor comes along with a theory of disease origin. Some great primal cause exists for all bodily ills, although the medical profession is divided upon the subject. Lately, we observe an eminent doctor declaring that it is improper food. Other causes have been assigned.

Most people prefer to have as little to do with disease as possible, and hence we find many keenly alive to the need of proper habits. The individual is taking better care of himself, or herself, today than ever before, and if the spread of information continues we look to see the average span of life advance another ten or twenty years.

Fish That Climbs

Scientific investigation into the habits of fishes has shown that many of them are by no means helpless when out of water. There is, for instance, a tropical fish known as the climbing perch, which has the very curious habit of scrambling by means of its fins, up stones, roots, and even the trunks of trees, in search of the insects on which it feeds.

Jade Is Deceptive Gem

Pearls and jade are two precious gems widely worn by women today, and one cause of their popularity is the difficulty of telling at a glance the real from the artificial. This is especially true of jade, even when laid side by side. There is no perceptible difference, even to an expert, between one piece that costs a few dollars and one that costs hundreds.

The Black Gang

By CYRIL McNEILE
SAFFER

GEORGE H. DORAN CO.

"One of the men inside the room was an interesting fellow known as Flash Jim. He is a burglar of no mean repute, though he is quite ready to tackle any sort of job which carries money with it. And when McIver, having recovered himself in the morning, ran Flash Jim to ground in one of his haunts he was quite under the impression that the men who had doped him and the other officers were pals of Flash Jim. But after he'd talked to him he changed his mind. All Flash Jim could tell him was that on the previous night he and some friends had been discussing business at this house. He didn't attempt to deny that. He went on to say that suddenly the room had been filled with a number of masked men, and that he'd had a clip over the back of the head which knocked him out. After that presumably he was given a whiff of chloroform to keep him quiet, and the next thing he remembers is being kicked back into activity by the policeman at—" Sir Bryan paused a moment to emphasize the point—"at Piccadilly circus."

"Good Lord!" said Hugh dazedly. "Then that bird I saw last night sleeping it off on the pavement was Flash Jim."

"Precisely," answered Sir Bryan. "But what is far more to the point, old man, is that the two birds you think you would be able to recognize and who were in the car, are two of the masked men who first of all laid out McIver and subsequently surrounded Flash Jim and his pals inside."

"But what did they want to do that for?" asked Hugh in bewilderment.

"That is just what we want to find out," replied Sir Bryan. "As far as we can see at the moment they are not criminals in the accepted sense of the word. They flogged two of the men who were there last night, and there are no two men in England who more richly deserved it. They kidnaped two others, one of whom was the man we particularly wanted. Then to wind up, they planted Flash Jim as I've told you, let the others go, and brought McIver and all his men back to McIver's house, where they left them to cool on the pavement. And what I want to know is this. If we give you warning would you care to go with McIver the next time he has any job on, where he thinks it is likely this gang may turn up? We have a pretty shrewd idea as to the type of thing they specialize in."

"My Business Won't Take You a Minute," Sir Bryan.

Hugh passed his hand dazedly over his forehead.

"Sort of mother's help you mean," and McIver frowned horribly. "While the bird biffs McIver, I biff the bird. Is that the notion?"

"That is the notion," agreed Sir Bryan. "Of course you'll have to do exactly what McIver tells you, and the whole thing is most unusual. But in view of the special features of the case."

"What is it, Miss Forbes?" He glanced up at his secretary, who was standing in the doorway, with a slight frown.

"He insists on seeing you at once, Sir Bryan."

She came forward with a card, which Sir Bryan took.

"Charles Latter." The frown deepened. "What the deuce does he want?"

The answer was supplied by the gentleman himself, who appeared at that moment in the doorway. He was evidently in a state of great agition, and Sir Bryan rose.

"I am engaged at the moment, Mr. Latter," he said coldly.

"My business won't take you a minute, Sir Bryan," he cried. "But what I want to know is this. In this country civilized or is it not? Look at what I received by the afternoon post."

He handed a sheet of paper to the other, who glanced at it casually. Then suddenly the casual look vanished and Sir Bryan sat down at his desk, his eyes grim and stern.

"By the afternoon post, you say?"

"Yes. And there have been too many disappearances lately!"

"How did you know that?" snapped the chief, staring at him.

For a moment Latter hesitated and changed color.

"Oh! everyone knows it," he answered, trying to speak casually.

"Everyone does not know it," remarked Sir Bryan quietly. "However, you did quite right to come to me. What are your plans during the next few days?"

"I am going out of London tomorrow to stay with Lady Manton near Sheffield," answered Latter. "A semi-political house party. Good heavens! What's that?"

With a snort Hugh sat up blinking. "So sorry, old lad," he burbled, "I snored; I know I did. Late hours are the devil, aren't they?"

He heaved himself out of his chair, and grinned pleasantly at Latter, who frowned disapprovingly.

"I don't go in for them myself, Well, Sir Bryan."

"This matter shall be attended to, Mr. Latter. I will see to it. Good afternoon. I will keep this note."

"And who was that little funny-face?" said Hugh as the door closed behind Mr. Latter.

"Member of parliament for a north country constituency," answered Sir Bryan, still staring at the piece of paper in his hand. "Lives above his income. Keenly ambitious. But I thought he was all right."

The other two stared at him in surprise.

"What do you mean, sir?" asked McIver at length.

"Our unknown friends do not think so, Mac," answered the chief, handing his subordinate the note left by Latter. "They are beginning to interest me, these gentlemen."

"You need a rest, Charles Latter," read McIver slowly. "We have established a home for people like you where several of your friends await you. In a few days you will join them."

"There are two things which strike me, McIver," remarked Sir Bryan thoughtfully lighting a cigarette. "First and most important: that message and the one you found this morning were written on the same typewriter—the letter 's' is distorted in each case. And, secondly, Mr. Charles Latter appears to have inside information concerning the recent activities of our masked friends which it is difficult to see how he came by. Unless—he paused and stared out of the window, with a slight frown—"unless they are far more conversant with his visiting list than I am."

McIver's great jaw stuck out as if made of granite.

"It proves my theory, sir," he grunted. "but if those jokers try that game on with Mr. Latter they won't catch me a second time."

A terrific blow on the back made him gasp and splutter.

"There speaks my hero-boy," cried Hugh. "Together we will outwit the knaves."

Hugh Drummond strolled slowly along Whitehall, in the direction of Trafalgar square. His face wore its habitual look of vacuous good humor, and at intervals he hummed a little tune under his breath. It was outside the Carlton that he paused as a car drew up by his side, and a man and a girl got out.

"Algy, my dear old boy," he murmured, taking off his hat, "are we in health today?"

"Passable, old son," returned Algy Longworth, adjusting his quite unnecessary eyeglass. "The oysters willed a bit this morning, but I'm trying again tonight. By the way, do you know Miss Farreydale?"

"Hugh bowed.

"You know the risk you run, I suppose, going about with him?"

The girl laughed. "He seems harmless," she answered lightly.

"That's his gulle. After the second cup of tea he's a perfect devil. Keep the table between you after the second cup, Miss Farreydale."

She passed into the Carlton, and for a moment the two men were together on the pavement.

"Don't fix up anything in the near future," said Hugh. "We shall be busy. I've joined the police and shall require help."

With a cheery nod he strolled off, and after a moment's hesitation Algy Longworth followed the girl into the Carlton.

"Mad, isn't he—your friend?" she remarked as he came up.

"Absolutely," he answered. "Let's masticate an éclair."

CHAPTER III
In Which Count Zadowa Gets a Shock

Number 5, Green street, Hoxton, was not a prepossessing abode. A notice on one of the dingy downstairs windows announced that Mr. William Atkinson was prepared to advance money on suitable security; a visit during business hours revealed that this was no more than the truth.

The second and third floors were apparently occupied by his staff, which seemed unduly large considering the locality of his business. Hoxton is hardly in that part of London where large sums of money might be expected to change hands, and yet there was no doubt that Mr. William Atkinson's staff was both large and busy. So busy indeed were his clerks that frequently ten and eleven o'clock at night found them still working hard, though the actual business of the day downstairs concluded at six o'clock—eight, Saturdays.

It was just before closing time on the day after the strange affair down at Barking that a large, unkempt-looking individual presented himself at Mr. Atkinson's office. His most pressing need would have seemed to the casual observer to be soap and water, but his appearance apparently excited no surprise in the assistant downstairs. Possibly Hoxton is tolerant of such trifles.

The clerk—a pale, anemic-looking man with an unhealthy skin and a hook nose—rose wearily from his seat.

"What do you want?" he demanded morosely.

"Wot d'yer think!" retorted the other. "Cat's meat!"

The clerk recoiled, and the blood mounted angrily to his sallow face.

"Don't you use that tone with me, my man," he said angrily. "I'd have you to know that this is my office."

"Yus," answered the other. "Same as it's your nose sitting there like a lump o' putty stuck onto a suet pudding. And if I ave any o' your lip, I'll pull it off—see. Throw it outside, I will, and you after it—you parboiled lump of bad tripe. Nah then—business." With a blow that shook the office he thumped the desk with a huge fist. "I ain't got no time to waste—even if you ave. 'Ow much?"

He threw a pair of thick hob-nailed boots onto the counter, and stood glaring at the other.

"Two bob," said the clerk indifferently, throwing down a coin and picking up the boots.

EAGLE PENCIL CO., NEW YORK, U.S.A.

(STUDEBAKER)
Special Six Coach
$865.00 down and 12 monthly payments of $77.00 each.

Why Call It a Coach?

THEY couldn't understand! "Why call it a coach—why confuse it with cheap closed cars?" asked the dealers at a recent Studebaker meeting. "Surely it would be better to name it the Special Six Coupe."

To be sure, the Special Six Coach is upholstered in fine quality of material—with high-grade carpeting—and heavy decorative door pulls to assist passengers in alighting.

To be sure, it is lacquer finished in two styles—beautiful Studebaker blue or a rich duotone finish of Wyandotte green-gray above and Ponca green-gray below.

And, furthermore, to get a coach as large and roomy you must pay more than $1,000 above the price of this car.

But the fact remains—that it carries the lowest price at which a fine closed car has ever been sold on the world-famous Special Six chassis.

It is a coach—in price alone. But in quality—a fine type of five-passenger coupe.

From the very beginning, the coach has been an effort towards economy on the part of automobile manufacturers. But, unlike other manufacturers, Studebaker has been able to build a coach without sacrifice in essential quality—and offer it to you at an accepted coach price.

The reason for sedan quality at coach price

Studebaker builds all of its own closed bodies—builds finer coaches than have been built before—and builds them at a lower cost—because there is no outside body-maker's profit to be included in the purchase price to you.

This Special Six Coach is built complete—both body and chassis—in Studebaker plants. It is a "one-profit" automobile.

In buying a closed car, do not underestimate the importance of engine and chassis. With extra weight to carry, these units become increasingly vital.

Plus—the Special Six Chassis

This fine coach body is especially designed for and mounted on the Special Six chassis which has contributed to the splendid reputation of Studebaker cars for dependability, endurance and reserve mileage.

Definite records show that many Studebakers have delivered from 125,000 to 200,000 miles of service. Up in the rugged country around Three Rivers, Quebec, there are eight Studebaker cars that have each traveled 100,000 miles or more.

In Stockton, Calif., one Studebaker car has piled up 138,000 miles over steep mountain grades and rough country roads with negligible upkeep—not a single major part has been purchased or repaired by reason of wear or accident.

So do not buy this Special Six Coach with the expectation that you'll have to trade it in at the end of a year or so. Instead, consider this your permanent investment in transportation. At the mileage when other cars are breaking up, this Studebaker Special Six Coach will just be breaking in.

Buy now—no need to delay

You may buy this Studebaker Special Six Coach today—or on any day of the year—with the confident assurance that no act of ours will stigmatize it as a "last year's model."

For Studebaker has discontinued the custom of presenting a new line of cars each year. Instead Studebaker will keep up-to-date all of the time—introducing new improvements and refinements as their merit is proved through practical use.
