Schools Open Aug. 31st.

First General Teachers Meeting The Saturday Before.

East Jordan Public Schools will open the Fall Term on Monday morning, August 31st. Classification will take place at the usual time in the forenoon session, and the classes will meet in the afternoon for a period long enough for the teachers to give out their lessons.

Supt. A. J. Duncanson, who is completing his degree work at the University of Michigan this summer, completes his work there this week and will return to East Jordan the first of the coming week.

A complete list of the East Jordan teachers for the coming year will be published in the next issue of The Herald.

East Jordan Detroit Picnic July 26th

The East Jordan Detroit annual picnic was celebrated at Bob Lo Sunday, July 26th, by the old East Jordanites again. On account of threatening weather the attendance was not quite as large as in previous years, but all seemed to enjoy themselves, especially the Rowley and Cuson baseball teams. Both played fast ball, and the score was close—Cuson 10, Rowley 7. Quite a few new faces were there this year, and we all look forward to the big 1926 Get-Together East Jordanites. Leave Gloomy Gus behind, and bring Sunshine Mary. Lets go. The following is the list of those who attended.

C. Rowley and wife, W. D. Muma and wife; M. C. Hurlbert and wife; H. R. Nachazel and wife; Anthony Nachazel and wife; A. B. Nicholas and wife; C. E. Lovett and wife; Jos. Wiesman and wife; J. M. Cuson and wife; Jos. LaValley and wife; Jos. Hyatt and wife; Donald D. Brown and wife; E. E. Hall and wife; Meyer Cohen and wife; Clinton Rowen and wife; Jas. Steenburg and wife; Ezra Moore and wife; Nat Burney and wife.

Mrs. A. F. Bartlett, Mrs. Samuel B. Winans, Mrs. Oscar Reitzel, Mrs. Joe Amburger.

Miss Anna Fitzgerald, Miss Helen Nachazel, Miss Jessie Rowley, Miss Laura York.

Zeldon Cohen, Perry Hill, Claude Bowen, Thomas Whiteford, Elmer Jensen, John Disbrow.

J. M. Cuson was appointed chairman for the coming year.

Protecting House Peddlers

The United States Supreme Court, in a recent decision, has denied the right of municipalities to regulate itinerant agents. The City of Portland, Oregon, passed an ordinance requiring agents, "going from place to place, taking orders for goods for future delivery," who received a payment of cash in advance, to secure a license and file a bond. The highest court of the nation has decided that this is an interference with interstate commerce and therefore unconstitutional.

This means that the people of this community will be flooded with a flock of out of town salesmen, who will unhesitatingly seek them out in their homes and attempt to persuade them to buy wares of every conceivable kind and description. Frequently, it happens that a housekeeper is called to her door four and five times in the day in order to inform a casual solicitor that she does not wish to purchase any of his merchandise.

The business man of the community will perhaps fail to enjoy the efforts of the solicitor who will blandly inform his wife that he is able to sell goods much cheaper than the lady's husband and that his wares are much better than those her husband sells for many and sundry reasons. These house-to-house salesmen will contribute very little to the support of the institutions of the communities where they operate and the chances are that many people will be tricked by the humbuggery of the passing peddler.

This practice under the protection of the court will probably degenerate into an absolute nuisance. About the only remedy left to the people of the community is to form the habit of saying "No" to all peddlers.

Your town will be a good town if you insist on doing your buying at home.

Will Open Camp Saturday, Aug. 22

Boy Scout Troop No. 2 will open camp at their new camping grounds near Monroe Creek on Saturday, Aug. 22nd and continue their outing to Aug. 29th inclusive.

J. H. Jacklin will be the Assistant Scout Master.

All scouts who wish to attend camp please hand your name and dues to Scout Master, Rev. Hiles, Ass't Scout Master Jacklin, or Secretary James Gidley. Dues, which are $3.00 for each, can be paid in instalments as suitable to the boys.

This troop in the future will specialize in lines that will be of great interest to the older boys as well as the younger.

The new Camp is located near Monroe Creek and has been named "Camp Fortune."

Two Fast B. B. Games

Postum Cereals Take Both By Narrow Margins.

Two of the best games played on the local diamond this year were witnessed last Saturday and Sunday when the Postum Cereals of Battle Creek played East Jordan. Both games were close, Saturday's contest going to the visitors by a 4 to 2 score and Sunday's game going into the tenth inning—Postum Cereals winning by a 2 to 1 score. Both Tolles and Gunderson pitched good ball keeping the hits well scattered of Battle Creek's fast aggregation of ball tossers.

And Still Growing

Quiet Wedding At Pickel Home

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pickel on the West Side, Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 12, when their daughter, Miss June, was united in marriage to Henry Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Orchard Heights.

Arthur Zipp Commits Suicide

Arthur Zipp of Charlevoix, a former Central Lake and Petoskey resident, committed suicide by shooting himself through the abdomen at the noon hour last Saturday. Mr. Zipp used a double barreled shotgun, both charges entering his body. Financial trouble is believed to have prompted him in the act.

Will Make the Flight to Hawaii

Lieut. Commander James H. Strong has been selected as one of the navy officers who will fly from the Pacific coast to Hawaii in the fall. He entered aviation in 1920, was an inspector at various aircraft factories, and then served with the aircraft squadrons of the battle fleet. Below is one of the new planes built for the flight being tested above the waters of Lake Washington at Seattle.

Which Shall It Be?

Taxing industry as an excuse for greater extravagance in public expenditures is an economic folly that should be discouraged. The imposition of excessive taxes has always resulted in driving capital into tax exempt securities and a consequent lessening of productivity in lines of industrial development. The old idea that higher taxes raised a greater amount of income has been exploded and more and more the small taxpayer is coming to realize that the general prosperity of the country depends upon an equitable distribution of the burdens of government. It is time that we insisted upon strict economy in public places and less of the plan to place extra loads upon industry through new forms of taxation. What we want in Michigan is full factory payrolls and prosperous communities, not silent smokestacks and men looking for work.

Jackson—Circuit Judge James A. Parkinson has announced he would call a grand jury of 24 persons, at a later date to inquire into alleged criminal acts and mis-carriages of justice within the county. The decision of Judge Parkinson followed several weeks of study of allegations contained in numerous affidavits.

Lansing—Arrests in Lansing for the month of July showed a large increase over the same month last year, the monthly report revealed. During the month just closed 567 arrests were made, as against only 382 last year. More than 200 of the arrests were for traffic violations, and of these 159 were made in one night, when a surprise drive was launched.

Mrs. Ella Sutton Passes Away

Mrs. Ella Sutton passed away at her home in this city Saturday, Aug. 8th, aged 75 years. She had been ill for some time with heart trouble.

Mrs. Sutton was born in Illinois, May 12th, 1850, and has been a resident of East Jordan for the past forty years. Mr. Sutton died in June, 1917.

Deceased was a member of the Methodist church, the Woman's Relief Corps and the Rebekah's. She leaves one brother in Flint and one in Florida. Funeral services were held from the Methodist Church Tuesday forenoon conducted by the pastor, Rev. Hiles. Interment at Sunset Hill.

Man Drowns At Walloon Lake

Harry Angus Has Heart Attack While Bathing, Sunday.

Harry Angus, of Petoskey, was drowned at about 10 o'clock Sunday forenoon while swimming in Walloon Lake. The young man is believed to have been seized with a heart attack while bathing and drowned before help could reach him. The body was recovered.

Mr. Angus has been employed on the West arm of the lake for some time and was enjoying a swim during the forenoon. Although he had been in quite good health he had not fully recovered from a hard attack of pneumonia which he suffered last winter. Physicians believe that the illness weakened his heart.

He was born in Bear Creek township May 14, 1892, and had always resided in and near Petoskey. Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Angus, his wife and two children.

The funeral was held Tuesday at 2 o'clock from Henika's chapel with Rev. A. M. Hootman, pastor of the First Christian Church in charge.—Petoskey News.

Punishment For Speeders

Mayor Gwaltney, of Cleves, Ohio, has initiated a new treatment for automobile speeders which it seems to us, should produce results. He recently fined four speeders $10.00 and costs and further provided that the town Marshall lock the machines of the offenders and remove the keys. At the end of fifteen days the owners could obtain the keys.

It is doubtful if there is a more cruel punishment for the convicted motorist than to have a car and not be able to use it. We advise other municipalities to inaugurate the new sentence.

Iron Mountain—Deer are so plentiful in this section of the state this year that farmers of the upper peninsula have complained of damage to crops.

L'Anse—The village treasury is richer by $36,000 following payment of that amount in taxes by the Ford Motor Company. A portion of the amount was for a sewer tax levy. Ford pays two-thirds of the tax here.

Bay City—Theodore VanWert, 18, was killed instantly, his brother Arthur, 15, was paralyzed and sister, Loretta, 17, was temporarily blinded by a bolt of lightning that struck them while they were working in a potato field.

Kalamazoo—A robber who held a revolver against her side while he attempted to take her purse was routed by the screams of Miss Terva Hope. The police were unable to find a trace of the young man, apparently about 20 years old and fashionably dressed.

Lawton—Grape prices will be higher this year than at any time since 1920. It is announced at the local plant of the Welch Grape Juice Co. With the crop estimated at only about 25 per cent of normal, growers expect the quotation will rise to $100 a ton, almost double the price paid last fall.

Benton Harbor—Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer and counsel for the defense in the recent Scopes evolution case at Dayton, Tenn., was elected president of the Michigan Field Club at a meeting of the directors here. The Michigan Field Club is a golf club organized by Benton Harbor and Chicago men.

Between airplanes and prohibition, isn't it about time that somebody started an agitation for better landing places?

Two Drowned at Harbor Springs

Waves Upset Canoe Boys Were In, Sunday Night.

The mystery of a report of two girls drowned in the bay off Harbor Point near Harbor Springs sometime Sunday, despite the fact that no young women had been reported missing after a careful survey of this entire resort region, was solved late Monday. Then it was learned for the first time that two 14-year old local lads have not been seen since Sunday and renewed efforts were made to locate the bodies near the reported scene of the capsizing of a canoe.

Early Tuesday morning the body of Gerald Lancot, aged 13 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lancot of Harbor Springs, was recovered.

The body of Harry Chaney, aged 14 years, grappled and nearly brought to the surface Tuesday morning, but slipped off the hook and again is hidden in the sea weed and cannot be located. The Charlevoix coast guard crew has been asked to assist, and an effort is being made to secure a diver to go down and recover the body.

Legion Meets First Of Sept.

State Will Help Pay Expense—Officials To Take Part.

Plans are progressing nicely for the state Legion convention in Bay City, Monday (Labor Day) and Tuesday, September 6, 7, and 8. This will be the first time Bay City has entertained the World War veterans of Michigan. Carl O. Weaver Post of this city will probably be represented.

Col. A. B. Gansser appeared before the state administrative board at Lansing, as the representative of the Bay City Legion post and the Legion of Michigan recently, and requested official recognition and support. As a result, the state administrative board instructed its finance committee to appropriate $3,000 for the Bay City Legion convention. Hon. Chas. J. Leland, secretary of state, is chairman of the finance committee, and he will have the $3,000 set to Edwin O. List, treasurer of the convention committee. Bay City is matching dollars with the state for the entertainment fund.

Governor Grosbeck will be one of the guests of honor at the convention, together with members of the state administrative board. Every day brings word of special Legion attractions coming to Bay City for Labor Day. Jackson Post plans bring its famous company of zouaves, Sault Ste. Marie, through its chamber of commerce and Legion post, will invite the Legion of Michigan to come there in 1926, according to Max Harris, post adjutant. The "Soo" delegation will come to Bay City September 5, prepared to make a real fight for next year's convention.

Employment Falls Off Slightly.

Employment in a number of the industries fell off slightly in June and early July, according to the report of the Employment Service of the Department of Labor. There was no serious recession, however. The building program stood at high levels and there was a growing demand for farm labor. The report shows that part-time operations were started in many plants in June, the heat wave and inventory taking being given as among the causes. But the decrease in the volume of industrial employment was small. The major industries reporting part-time operations and slightly curtailed employment were the textile mills, which showed reduced working forces as compared with May, shoe factories in the New England states, and the steel plants, where employment was irregular. Employment in the coal mines, excepting those of West Virginia, showed a further decline.

Has anybody that to inquire lately what has become of the suit against the House of David colony?

In case of war with China we might try sending the hired girl over to break it up.

Evolution is no mystery to the man who persists in making a monkey of himself.

MINERS PREPARE TO STRIKE SEPT. 1

Operators Refuse to Concede Wage Raise—Workers Won't Arbitrate

Atlantic City, N. J.—Authority to call out 158,000 anthracite miners if no agreement with the operators is reached by midnight, August 31, was voted in the subcommittee which failed to negotiate an agreement with the operators at sessions terminating here.

The action was taken by the full scale committee, composed of 40 members.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Refusal of the anthracite operators to concede a wage increase and the check-off caused the coal miners to break off negotiations for a new contract.

This action was taken in advance of the operators' submission of their formal reply to the demands of the miners, who had not quite finished presenting their case.

With federal intervention, as reported from Swampscott, out of the question until after the present agreement expires on September 1, and with a reluctance on both sides to submit their case to Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, a strike of 158,000 anthracite mine workers appears certain.

Persistent rumors here link a walk-out in the bituminous fields to be timed simultaneously with the expected anthracite strike on September 1.

Basis of the break in negotiations over the anthracite scale, which began on July 9, was the demand by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, on July 31, that Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, and W. B. Richards, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal company, take part in the conferences. Lewis alleged that the operators' subcommittee is composed of minor heads and that it was without power.

The operators asked two questions, the first was whether, in view of the operators' opposition to a wage increase and the check-off, the miners refused to continue negotiations. This evoked an affirmative reply.

The second question was a request to submit matters in dispute to arbitration. In reply the miners pointed to Mr. Lewis' letter, alleging that in a previous arbitration the mine workers lost $60,000,000 in the two years to acquire the knowledge that they now possess concerning the anthracite operators' well-known policy of "keeping close to an arbitrator."

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

Flint—Although she drank a pint of gasoline 20-months-old Helen Parthra will recover, it was predicted. A stomach pump was used to save her life.

Grand Rapids—Dr. F. M. Olin, state health commissioner, has notified city officials he will object to any delay in completion of the municipal sewage disposal project now under way.

Cadillac—A woman's auxiliary to the Michigan Rural Carriers' Association, with Mrs. Fannie Coons, of Lowell, as president, was formed here during the carriers' annual convention.

Houghton—The village of Hubbell, with its principal street almost on the banks of Portage Lake, has an acute water shortage. The village gets its drinking water from wells which were discovered to be almost dry.

Kalamazoo—It took nearly five years for the Postoffice Department to deliver to William Tisdale, now county clerk of Allegan county, a letter that was mailed from this city to his home in Saugatuck, Dec. 21, 1921.

Jackson—Aug. 13, 14, and 15 will mark the passing of the teachers' examinations in Michigan, as the last examinations will be held on these dates, under a law passed some time ago, which does away with such examinations Sept. 1 of this year and requires a year of professional training instead.

Port Huron—J. A. MacTaggart and Newton company, accountants and auditors, who just have completed the audit of the city accounts, report that there would have been a deficit in the city's general fund at the close of the fiscal year if current bills and temporary loans amounting to more than $60,000 had been paid.

Grand Rapids—Reports of 21 automobile accidents in Grand Rapids in one day, together with the fact that there have been 18 fatalities in automobile accidents since Jan. 1, and more than 3,000 accidents recorded during that time, caused City Manager Fred H. Locke, to issue orders to Superintendent of Police A. A. Carroll to strictly enforce the speed laws in the loop district.

Jackson—Police have arrested 18 boys ranging in age from 11 to 15 years, alleging that in the last several months the boys have caused damage amounting to hundreds of dollars to the property of the New York Central Railway and the Cincinnati Northern. It is alleged that the boys have been shooting insulators from telegraph and telephone poles, breaking lights, and attempting to wreck trains by placing ties, chains and iron bars on the tracks.

Jackson—J. N. Hemphill, of Kansas City, Mo., who had been driving continuously for 60 hours on his way to attend a convention in Detroit, accompanied by his wife and baby, went to sleep at the wheel of his car on M-17, east of Jackson, and the car plunged through a guard rail and into a six-foot ditch. Mrs. Hemphill and the baby were hurled through the windshield and were cut and bruised, but were not seriously injured and the driver escaped injury entirely.

Grand Rapids—Department of Justice investigations in the district of Western Michigan now are being handled entirely out of Chicago, it was disclosed by District Attorney Edward J. Bowman. So far as local government authorities are aware this means the abolition of the bureau of the Department of Justice maintained in this city for years. Under the new arrangements Bowman is obliged to appeal to the Chicago office each time he desires an investigation in connection with a Federal case.

Jackson—Affidavits said to contain damaging evidence against several local city officials were in possession of James Frank, former newspaper publisher, for presentation to the grand jury. Prosecuting Attorney John Simpson demanded the affidavits from Frank. He says he is the proper person to present them, but Frank refused to surrender them. Malfeasance and misconduct in office and several other serious charges are to be brought against officials and private individuals, it was reported.

Jackson—The purchase by the Jackson county board of supervisors of five parcels of land as lake sites for parks, adds to the chain of county parks planned, a total area of 311.2 acres with a shore line of more than 2,000 feet. A site at Clark lake, purchased several weeks ago, was the first step made in the plan for a chain of lake parks. A 12-acre tract on Vipeyard lake, six acres at Clear lake, eight acres at Pleasant lake, two and one-half acres on Big Wolf lake, and three acres on Gillett's lake will be the new park sites.

Detroit—The purchase of the Stout Metal Airplane company by the Ford Motor company has been officially announced. The action is in harmony with the company's policy of playing a lone hand. The way is now opened for the Fords to push their aeronautical research as they see fit, without being retarded by a variety of opinions on the necessity of explaining their point of view to committees or stockholders. The financial consideration was not made known, but it is estimated that the amount involved will reach $1,000,000.

Reduce Loss in Poultry Flocks

Great Importance of Maintaining Fowls in Healthful Condition.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The losses sustained recently by the poultry industry of the United States because of infectious bronchitis and European fowl pest, and the consequent state embargoes, quarantines and shipping regulations, have emphasized the supreme importance of maintaining the flocks on the farms and in commercial poultry plants in as healthful a condition as possible, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The unhampered shipment of birds from state to state is dependent upon healthy fowls. The prevalence of infectious bronchitis and European fowl pest in certain centers necessitated restrictive measures to protect the flocks in other centers.

The question of immediate and it might be said, constant concern, is how to maintain the flocks in a condition of good health. Factors that stand out as being of equal vital importance, says the department, are: (1) Stock of sound constitutional vigor; (2) the maintenance of sanitary surroundings.

Stock to Keep.
Laying and breeding stock that is not only healthy, but also possesses abundance of constitutional vigor is the only kind that should be kept. The removal of birds from the flock at the first indication of a debilitated condition or sickness is a necessary precaution against loss. In case of an apparent outbreak of disease, consult a qualified veterinarian or pathologist or send affected specimens with a complete description of the symptoms to your state agricultural college or the state sanitary authorities.

Since the welfare of the healthy members of the flock is of far greater importance than that of a few sick birds, it is important to look after the healthy birds first. The thing to do after the sick birds are culled out of the flock is to clean out and disinfect the poultry house, spray with disinfecting solution any possibly contaminated parts of the poultry establishment and cleanse thoroughly all feeding and drinking utensils.

If treatment of sick birds is advisable, keep them confined while being treated. Quarantine birds suffering from contagious disease until all danger of contaminating the rest of the flock is passed. In many cases in an outbreak of disease it is better to kill the affected birds at once and burn them or bury them deeply. In no case should diseased or exposed birds be sold.

One factor contributing to the somewhat aggravated disease conditions prevalent in poultry fattening stations, live-poultry cars and live-poultry receiving centers, appears to be the raising of late-hatched chicks. Last season the early hatches in many parts of the country were poor and chick mortality was heavy; resort was made to hatching late and this situation undoubtedly had some influence on the general vitality of much of the young stock raised because late-hatched chicks rarely do as well as early-hatched chicks.

Culling Laying Flocks.
The culling of laying flocks has been practiced for a number of years in practically all parts of the country and, as a result, the laying qualities of the flocks have been greatly improved. Culling also has led to a better distribution of marketing of the surplus hens. Formerly almost all of the old hens were marketed late in the fall and early in the winter, whereas now culling permits of marketing the poorer layers over a longer season. While the practice of culling the laying stock is based on eliminating the poor layers, it is possible that sometimes there is a tendency to market hens in unthrifty condition and sometimes hens in poor health, a practice which cannot be too emphatically condemned. Only the slipshod farmer will market hens in poor flesh.

Sanitation is a very important factor in keeping down disease in poultry flocks. The land used for poultry should be kept free from contamination by regular cultivation and the growing of grass, clover or some other kind of crop will keep land used by the flock free from contamination. Some poultrymen lime their soil annually. It is, of course, necessary to keep poultry houses clean at all times and well littered with clean, dry straw. Houses to be kept free from dampness, need good ventilation, but drafts are to be avoided. Overcrowding tends to weaken the vitality of the stock, and careful poultrymen allow three or four square feet of floor space per bird. The poultry house requires thorough disinfection at frequent intervals with a 3 per cent solution of cresol compound, U. S. P., or a 5 per cent carbolic acid solution. Where these disinfectants are used the fowls should not be marketed until the odor of the disinfectant has completely disappeared.

If the poultrymen will take proper precautions to keep only vigorous laying and breeding stock and in maintaining sanitary surroundings it will tend to keep their stock healthy and this will, to a considerable degree, decrease the losses from disease.

Finally, it is of the utmost importance, from a monetary standpoint, to keep fattening stations, poultry cars and live-poultry receiving centers in a reasonably sanitary condition, and to remove sick birds from the healthy ones.

Holland—Holland's new state armory will be completed and ready for the local company of guards by July 22. The building is two stories and contains a shooting range, basketball court, billiard room, veteran's room, two office rooms and two lounge rooms. Henry Geerds, commander of the local company, was instrumental in securing the building.

Alpena—"An attempt at piracy," was the expression used by Captain E.C. Rattray, of the package freighter Raleigh, when he docked in Alpena to describe a brush which took place off Harbor Beach when the crew of the big lake tug Favorite attempted to take away from the Raleigh a salvage prize, the scow Niagara, which the Raleigh found adrift and unmanned, menacing navigation off Port Huron.

Coming Home to Roost

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I AM convinced that we pay for most of our experiences in life—good or bad. Sometimes it is possible to "get away with things," but not often. Chickens do come home to roost; we are paid in kind in the majority of cases for whatever products, physical or spiritual, we dispose of.

"With what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again," the Good Book says, and very often the Good Book is right.

When I first knew Mrs. Herman she was a sprightly old lady living in her own comfortable little house on Church street. She had an interest in the store which her two married sons were conducting, her husband having been dead for some years. She was active and interested in everything, and especially in her two daughters-in-law.

Misfortune came upon her finally. Her two sons died one after the other, the widow of the younger remarried shortly, the estate was not so large as had been supposed, and the old lady was left in not very comfortable circumstances. She was getting pretty feeble by this time; she needed attention and sympathy and daily care. It was not safe, or feasible for her to live alone.

Angie, the wife of her older son, could have furnished all these things, but it would have meant some sacrifice, and this she did not care to make. There was an old ladies' home twenty miles away. She could be sent there. The arrangements were all made without consulting Grandmother Herman, who knew nothing of the proceeding until the carriage came to take her away.

It was a very sad and disappointed old lady who left the house to which she had gone when she was married, in which her children had been born, in which her husband and her little girl had died, and in which she had been surrounded by all the cherished treasures of her married life.

She lived only a little while; the atmosphere and the surroundings in the home oppressed her and made her unhappy. Possibly she would have gone just as soon if she had been able to stay in her own house, but she would at least have died happy.

Angie might have looked after her, the neighbors said, but Angie was selfish and felt that she was doing very well if she took care of herself.

That was a good many years ago, when I was a young boy, and a good many things have happened during the intervening years.

"Do you remember Angie Herman?" Nancy said to me a few days ago. "She's getting pretty feeble, the neighbors say, and her son's wife is getting rather tired of looking after her. They are going to put her in the old ladies' home. It's the same one, in fact, that Grandmother Herman was in when she died."

"DAISY"

Poets and lovers know quite a bit about daisies. The simple little flower is the subject of song and the oracle in uncertain love affairs. The name of this flower is an appropriate one. Originally it was called the "day's eye" because of the fringed, open way in which it turns its face to greet the morning sun.

Blouses Listen In on New Fall Styles

The smart blouse pictured has a summery look, but, with a single change, it might pass, without criticism, in a procession of fall styles. If its sleeves were long it would embody several earmarks of the new modes. These may be summed up in the plain color of crepe chosen for it and by the embroidered, cross-bar pattern, which contributes an all-over design in two colors. The neck treatment and the tie are also "among those present" in the fall modes. As pictured, it is made of buff-colored crepe, cross-bars in brown and white silk, brown crepe tie with white monogram, and is a charming affair for late summer wear. Developed in flannel or crepe, with long sleeves, it will take its responsible place in the winter wardrobe. Striped and plain flannels might be combined in this model and there are many color combinations to choose from.

Same Fine Studebaker Coach --but at a new low One-Profit price

BECAUSE all Studebaker cars are manufactured on the one-profit basis, we have been able to reduce the price of the Standard Six Coach without sacrificing any of the equipment or quality which made it a big seller at a higher price. Scientific design, better materials, and finer workmanship distinguish it. And the following self-evident superiorities make it more up-to-date than the newest "yearly models": Excess Power—According to the rating of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce this is the most powerful car of its size and weight. Abundant Room—Room to stretch your legs—room to enter or leave without disturbing occupant of folding seat. Sturdy Body Construction—Fine northern ash and hard maple are used. We pay a premium to get the best quality steel. Full-size Balloon Tires—for which the steering gear, fenders and even the body lines are specially designed. Automatic Spark Control—eliminating the usual spark lever on steering wheel. Safety Lighting Control—on the steering wheel. Instruments—including 8-day clock, gasoline gauge, speedometer, oil-pressure gauge and ammeter, in single grouping under glass, on beautiful silver-faced dial. Improved One-piece Windshield—automatic windshield cleaner, weather-proof visor, rear-view mirror, cowl lights and cowl ventilator. Coincidental Lock—to ignition and steering wheel, which serves to reduce the theft insurance rate on Studebaker cars. New-type Cowl Ventilator—foot operated. There are only two cars manufactured on the one-profit basis—the Studebaker in the fine-car field, and the Ford in the low-price field. Only in these two cases does one company in its own plants and with its own centralized organization make all bodies, all engines, all clutches, steering gears, differentials, springs, gear sets, gray iron castings, and drop forgings. Studebaker has no "yearly models," but instead keeps its cars constantly up to date. Therefore this Standard Six Coach is ahead of the newest "yearly model," yet owners are protected from the artificial depreciation which has cut millions of dollars from the resale value of many makes during the past 30 days.

"Why, that his church isn't the only place where dry-rot has set in. It's prevalent amongst his pals as well. Must you go? Straight down the stairs, and the card tray in the hall is only electro-plate—so you might leave it."

With a great effort Mr. Atkinson pulled himself together.

"Can we come to an understanding, Captain Drummond?" he remarked quietly. "I can assure you, of course, that you have made a terrible mistake in thinking that it was I who threw that bomb at you last night."

"At me?" Drummond laughed shortly. "Who said you'd thrown it at me? That wasn't the game at all, Snooks. You threw it at the leader of the Black Gang."

"Can't we put our cards on the table?" returned the other with studied moderation. "I know that you are that leader, you know it—though it is possible that no one else would believe it. I was wrong to threaten you—I should have known better; I apologize. But if I may say so I have had my punishment. Now as man to man—can we come to terms?"

"I am waiting," said Hugh briefly. "Kindly be as concise as possible."

"Those diamonds, Captain Drummond. Rightly or wrongly I feel tolerably certain that you either have them in your possession, or that you know where they are. Now, those diamonds were not mine—did you speak? No. Well—to resume. The diamonds were not mine; they had been deposited in the desk in my office unknown to me. Then this fool—whom you foolishly think was myself—threw the bomb into the office to kill you. I admit it; he told me all about it. He did not kill you, for which fact, if I may say so, I am very glad. You're a sportsman, and you've fought like a sportsman—but our fight, Captain Drummond, has been over other matters. The diamonds are a side-show and hardly concern you and me. I'll be frank with you; they are the sole wealth saved by a Russian nobleman from the Bolshevik outrages. He deposited them in my office during my absence, with the idea of my selling them for him—and now he and his family must starve. And so what I propose is—"

"I don't think I want to hear your proposal, Snooks," said Drummond kindly. "Doubtless I look a fool; doubtless I am a fool, but I like to think that I'm not a congenital idiot. I'm glad you have discovered that it's not much use threatening me; but to tell you the strict truth, I prefer threats to nauseating hypocrisy. So much so in fact that the thought of that starving nobleman impels me to take more exercise. Ever read "Alice in Wonderland," Snooks? A charming book—a masterpiece of English literature. And there is one singularly touching, not to say fruity, bit which concerns Father William—and a gentle young man."

With a look of complete bewilderment on his face Mr. Atkinson felt himself propelled through the door, until he came to a halt at the top of the stairs.

"It's a little poem, Snooks, and some day I will recite it to you. Just now I can only remember the one singularly beautiful line which has suggested my new form of exercise."

Mr. Atkinson became aware of a boot in the lower portion of his back, and then the stairs seemed to rise up and hit him. He finally came to rest in the hall against an old oak chest of the pointed-corner type, and for a mo-

RESULTS THAT LAST!

Proven by East Jordan People.

Thousands of kidney sufferers have tried remedy after remedy with only temporary benefit. That's mighty discouraging! But one kidney remedy has earned a reputation for lasting results and there's plenty of proof right here in East Jordan.

Read the experience of one who used Doan's Pills years ago and now makes her endorsement even stronger.

Mrs. Henry Ribble, Bridge St., East Jordan, says: "I had a lameness in my back and when I stooped, knife-like pains took me across my kidneys. I felt nervous and depressed and headaches and dizzy spells were frequent, too. I saw Doan's Pills advertised and I used a few boxes from Gidley & Mac's Drug Store. They cured me." (Statement given April 23, 1920.)

On Oct. 11, 1924, Mrs. Ribble said: "The cure Doan's Pills made for me has stood the test of years. It is a pleasure to recommend them."

ment or two he lay there dazed. Then he scrambled to his feet to find three young men, who had emerged from a lower room during his flight, gazing at him impassively; while standing at the top of the stairs down which he had just descended and outlined against a window was the huge, motionless figure of Drummond. Half cursing, half sobbing, he staggered to the front door and opened it. Once more he looked back—not one of the four men had moved. They were just staring at him in absolute silence, and with a sudden feeling of pure terror, Count Zadowa, alias Mr. Atkinson, shut the door behind him and staggered into the sunlit street.

CHAPTER X

In Which Hugh Drummond and the Reverend Theodosius Have a Little Chat

"Come up, boys," laughed Hugh. "The fog of war is lifting slowly."

He led the way back into the study and the other three followed him.

"That object, Ted, you will be pleased to hear, is the humorist who threw the bomb at us last night."

"The devil it was," cried Jerningham. "I hope you gave him something for me. Incidentally, how did he run you to earth here?"

"Things have moved within the last two or three hours," answered Drummond slowly. "Who do you think I stopping at the Ritz at the present moment? Who do you think lunched with Peter and me today? Why—Peter, my bukoo—no more and no less."

"Rot!" said Toby Sinclair incredulously.

"No more and no less. Peterson himself—disguised as a clergyman called Longmoor. And with him is dear Irma encased in woolen garments. Of course, they're mixed up with that swab I've just kicked down the stairs—in fact, we've bolted the fox. The nuisance of it is that by putting two and two together they've spotted me as the leader of our bunch. How I don't quite know, but they indubitably have. They also think I've got those diamonds; hence the visit of the hunchback, who did not know they were in the desk when he bunged the bomb. In fact, things are becoming clearer all the way round. Hello! What's this?"

He had opened his desk as he spoke, and was now staring fixedly at the lock.

"It's been forced," he said grimly. "Forced since this morning. They've been over this desk while I've been out. Push the bell, Ted."

They waited in silence till Denny appeared in answer to the ring.

"Someone has been in this room, Denny," said Drummond. "Someone—"

"Someone Has Been in This Room, Denny," said Drummond.

has forced this desk since half-past eleven this morning."

"There's been no one in the house, sir," answered Denny, "except the man who came about the electric light."

"Electric grandmother," snapped his master. "You paralytic idiot, why did you leave him alone?"

"Well, sir, Mrs. Drummond was in the house at the time—and the servants were all round the place." Denny looked and felt aggrieved, and after a while Drummond smiled.

"What sort of a man was it, you old fatted?"

"A very respectable sort of man," returned Denny with dignity. "I remarked to Mrs. Denny how respectable he was, sir. Why, he actually went some distance down the street to call a taxi for Mrs. Drummond to go to the Ritz."

His words died away, as he stared in amazement at the expression on his master's face.

"What the devil is it, Hugh?" cried Ted Jerningham.

"He called a taxi, you say?" muttered Drummond. "The man who came here called a taxi?"

"Yes, sir," answered Denny. "He was leaving the house at the same time, and as there was none in sight he said he'd send one along at once."

"It's all right, Denny," he said hoarsely. "It's not your fault; you couldn't have known. But—what a fool I've been! And this time wasted, when I might have been doing something."

"But what on earth's happened?" cried Algy.

"She never turned up at the Ritz, Algy. Phyllis never turned up for lunch. At first I thought she was late, and we waited. Then I thought she'd run into some pal and had gone to feed somewhere else. And then, what with talking to Peterson, and later that hunchback, I forgot all about her."

"But, good heavens, Hugh, what do you mean?" said Ted. "You don't think that—"

"Of course I think it. I know it. They've got her; they've kidnaped her. Right under my nose." He rose and began to pace up and down the room with long, uneven strides, while the others watched him anxiously.

"That d-d girl heard me say that she was coming to lunch, and just after that she went upstairs. And Peterson, being Peterson, took a chance—and he's pulled it off."

Algy Longworth stood up, serious for once in a way.

"There's no time now to beat about the bush, Hugh. If they've got Phyllis there's only one possible thing that you can do. Go straight to Bryan Johnstone and put all the your cards on the table. Tell him the whole thing from A to Z—conceal nothing. And then leave the matter in his hands. He won't let you down."

For a moment or two Hugh faced them undecided. The sudden danger to Phyllis seemed to have robbed him temporarily of his power of initiative; for the time he had ceased to be the leader.

"Algy's right," said Jerningham quietly. "It doesn't matter what happens to us, you've got to think about Phyllis. We'll get it in the neck—but there was always that risk."

"I believe you're right," muttered Hugh, looking round for his hat. "My brain's all buzzing, I can't think—"

And at that moment the telephone bell rang on his desk.

"Answer it, Ted," said Hugh. Jerningham picked up the receiver.

"Yes—this is Captain Drummond's house. No—it's not him speaking. Yes—I'll give him any message you like. Who are you? Who? Mr. Longmoor at the Ritz. I see. Yes—he told me you had lunched with him today. Oh! yes, certainly."

For a while Ted Jerningham stood holding the receiver to his ear, and only the thin, metallic voice of the speaker at the other end broke the silence of the room. It went on, maddeningly indistinct to the three men crowding round the instrument, broken only by an occasional monosyllable from Jerningham. Then with a final—"I will certainly tell him," Ted laid down the instrument.

"What did he say, Ted?" demanded Hugh agitatedly.

"He sent a message to you, old man. It was approximately to this effect—that he was feeling very uneasy because your wife had not turned up at lunch, and that he hoped there had been no accident. He further went on to say that since he had parted from you a most peculiar piece of information had come to his knowledge, which, incredible though it might appear, seemed to bear on her failure to turn up at the Ritz. He most earnestly begged that you should go round and see him at once—because if his information was correct any delay might prove most dangerous for her. And lastly, on no account were you to go to the police until you had seen him."

For a while, there was silence in the room. Drummond, frowning heavily, was staring out of the window; the others, not knowing what to say, were waiting for him to speak. And after a while he swung round, and they saw that the air of indecision had gone.

"That simplifies matters considerably," he said quietly. "It reduces it to the old odds of Peterson and me."

"But you'll go to the police, old man," cried Algy. "You won't pay any attention to that message. He'll never know that you haven't come straight to him."

Drummond laughed shortly.

"Have you forgotten the rules so much, Algy, that you think that? Look out of the window, man, only don't be seen. There's a fellow watching the house now—I couldn't go a yard without Peterson knowing. Moreover I'm open to a small bet that he knew I was in the house when he was talking to Ted. Good heavens! No. Peterson is not the sort of man to play those monkey-tricks with. He's got Phyllis, the whole thing is his show. And if I went to the police, long before they could bring it home to him, or get her back—she'd be why?—and once again the veins stood out on his forehead—"Lord knows what the swine wouldn't have done to her. It's just a barter at the present moment—the diamonds against her. And there's going to be no haggling. They win the first round—but there are a few more on the horizon."

"What are you going to do?" said Ted.

"Exactly what he suggests," answered Hugh. "Go round and see him at the Ritz—now, at once. I shan't take the diamonds, with me, but there will be no worry over the exchange as far as I'm concerned. It's just like his dirty method of fighting to go for a girl," he finished savagely.

He crossed to the door and opened it.

"In case I don't come back by six, the diamonds are in my sponge bag in the bathroom—and go straight to Scotland Yard. Tell 'Tum-tum' the whole yarn."

At the Ritz he was shown into the sitting-room where the Reverend Theodosius Longmoor was busily working on Austrian famine accounts. He rose as Hugh entered, and his daughter, still knitting busily, gave him a charming girlish smile.

"Ah! my dear young friend," began Mr. Longmoor, "I see you've had my message."

"Yes," answered Hugh affably, "I was standing next door to the fellow you were talking to. But before we come to business, so to speak—I must really ask you not to send Snooks round again. I don't like him. Why, my dear Carl, I preferred our late lamented Henry Lakington."

There was a moment of dead silence; during which the Reverend Theodosius stared at him speechlessly and the busy knitter ceased to knit. The shock was so complete and sudden that even Carl Peterson seemed at a loss, and Drummond laughed gently as he took a chair.

"I'm tired of this dressing-up business, Carl," he remarked in the same affable voice. "And it's so stupid to go on pretending when everybody knows. So I thought we might as well have all the cards on the table. Makes the game much easier."

The clergyman found his voice.

"Are you mad, sir?" he spluttered. "Are you insane? How dare you come into this room and insult me? I shall ring the bell, sir, and have you removed."

He strode across the room, and Drummond watched him calmly.

"I've just called one bluff this afternoon, Carl," he said lazily. "Now I'll call another. Go on, push the bell. Send for the police and say I've insulted you. Go and see dear old Tum-tum yourself; he'll be most awfully braced at meeting you."

The other's hand fell slowly to his side, and he looked at his daughter with a resigned expression in his face.

"Really, my dear, I think that the heat—or perhaps—" He paused expressively, and Drummond laughed.

"You were always a good actor, Carl, but is it worth while? There are no witnesses here, and I'm rather pressed for time. Through a series of accidents you have become aware of the fact that I am the leader of the Black Gang. You can go and tell the police if you like—in fact, that horrible little man who came round to see me threatened to do so. But, if you do, I shall tell them who you are, and I shall also inform them of the secret history of the bomb. So that, though it will be awkward for me, Carl, it will be far more awkward for you and Mademoiselle Irma; and it will be positively unhealthy for Snooks. You take me so far, don't you? Up to date I have been dealing in certainties; now we come to contingencies. It strikes me that there are two doubtful points, old friend of my youth—just two. And those two points are the whereabouts respectively of my wife and our diamonds. Now, Carl, do we talk business or not?"

"My dear young man," said the other resignedly, "I intended to talk business with you when you arrived if you had given me a chance. But as you've done nothing but talk the most unmitigated drivel since you've come into the room I haven't had a chance. You appear obsessed with this absurd delusion that I am some person called 'Carl,' and— But where are you going?"

Drummond paused at the door.

"I am going straight to Scotland Yard. I shall there tell Sir Bryan Johnstone the whole story from A to Z, at the same time handing him a little bag containing diamonds which has recently come into my possession."

"What did he say, Ted?" demanded Hugh agitatedly.

"He sent a message to you, old man. It was approximately to this effect—that he was feeling very uneasy because your wife had not turned up at lunch, and that he hoped there had been no accident. LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED BY THIS SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious—a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take occasionally, says a noted authority, tells us that too much rich food acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish; weaken; then you may suffer with dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Coyotes Trapped In Grand Traverse

Coyotes, drifting in from the Northern Peninsula, have invaded the Grand Traverse Region. Two of them were caught this week near Honor.

The Indian Hills orchards, near Honor, have been systematically robbed of turkeys and other fowls for the past few weeks and in discussing the matter at Honor recently one hunter said it looked like the work of coyotes.

Neil Conklin, fire town man at Honor, said he'd give ten dollars to see one.

Leon Hart and John Peckins of Honor, set traps near the Indian Hills and early this week they found a coyote in one of them. He was caught by the foot and was taken alive to Honor, where he was turned over to Conklin, who now has him in a pen. Yesterday Hart and Peckins found another in their traps but this time it was caught by the jaw and so severely injured it had to be killed.

This is the first time that coyotes have ever been reported in the Grand Traverse Region. The animals are not native to Michigan but for the last few years have been drifting into the Upper Peninsula from the western states.

Sportsmen are at a loss, however, to figure out how they crossed the Straits and came down into the lower peninsula. The coyote is half way between a fox and wolf in size and is a distinctly destructive animal. It not only preys on farm fowls but is one of the greatest known enemies of the partridge, and the proof that they are now in the Grand Traverse Region will be bad news for sportsmen.—Traverse City Record-Eagle.

Four stores, those of the Co-operative association, Martinek's jewelry store, Andrews Hardware and Wilson's grocery, were all burglarized on the night of July 26. In each the burglars left behind them a trail of red pepper, a peculiar sort of a pepper, much coarser than the average variety. This proved their undoing.

Harry Woolcott of the National Secret Service Bureau went to work on the case. In the investigation he was unable to find where the red pepper was either purchased or stolen, but his trail crossed that of an Elk Rapids youth who confessed to breaking and entering the Co-operative store a year ago. He implicated Tom Andrews in the previous robbery, so Woolcott started looking up Andrews. He found the Indian had worked for Martinek in the basement previous to this year's robbery, and knew the layout of the store. He traced Andrews to a farm on the Peninsula, where he visited Bird and Kimball, who had been picking cherries there.

On the floor of the garage where these two young men had been working, was discovered a ring of coarse red pepper, as though someone had emptied the pepper from a sack into a can and some had sifted to the floor. Warrants were sworn out for the three and they are now in the Antrim county jail at Bellaire, awaiting arraignment. Andrews has confessed to the robbery a year ago. In his work Mr. Woolcott was assisted by Asa Maxwell, deputy sheriff of Elk Rapids.—Traverse City Record-Eagle.

Jackson—Having discovered some of the property of her late husband, as well as $1,500 which he had deposited in a Pittsburgh, Pa., bank, Mrs. Christian Nelson of this city awaited information from Iowa, where she believes her husband had vast estates. According to stories that her husband told her, he had property valued at from $300,000 to $500,000 in Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota.

Flint—Immediately after having been informed that a Port Huron relative had bequeathed him a gasoline station as a legacy, Earl Brooks, a Flint traffic policeman, drove his machine to police headquarters and there left a note to Inspector John MacDonald, head of the traffic bureau, informing the latter he had resigned. The ex-officer then hurried from the station to go to Port Huron to take charge of his new business.

Ottaville—The Ottaville State Bank which was closed by the State Banking Commission following a discovery of a shortage of $52,000 in the accounts of Arthur Frouser, cashier, has re-opened its doors for business again. G. Knickerbocker, state bank examiner, and W. W. Lyons, of Armada, a stockholder, were in charge when the bank re-opened. No successor has yet been named to succeed Frouser, who is now serving a term in Jackson prison.

Land Suspects For Elk Rapids' Recent Crimes

Bloodhounds refused to take up the red pepper trail left by robbers who entered four stores in Elk Rapids on the night of July 26, but detectives didn't and, as a result, Tom Andrews and Julius Bird, Indians, and Lester Kimball, white, are in jail at Bellaire awaiting trial on a breaking and entering charge.

Four stores, those of the Co-operative association, Martinek's jewelry store, Andrews Hardware and Wilson's grocery, were all burglarized on the night of July 26. In each the burglars left behind them a trail of red pepper, a peculiar sort of a pepper, much coarser than the average variety. This proved their undoing.

Harry Woolcott of the National Secret Service Bureau went to work on the case. In the investigation he was unable to find where the red pepper was either purchased or stolen, but his trail crossed that of an Elk Rapids youth who confessed to breaking and entering the Co-operative store a year ago. He implicated Tom Andrews in the previous robbery, so Woolcott started looking up Andrews. He found the Indian had worked for Martinek in the basement previous to this year's robbery, and knew the layout of the store. He traced Andrews to a farm on the Peninsula, where he visited Bird and Kimball, who had been picking cherries there.

Muskegon—The Grand Rapids, Grand Haven & Muskegon Railway Co., the one interurban line in Michigan not in the hands of a receiver, is carrying the fight to the bus lines. In an effort to compete with the bus lines, which the company officials say is driving the interurban out of business, rates have been slashed and special inducements made to obtain patrons.

Port Huron—The city of Port Huron has protested officially to the federal sanitary authorities at Chicago against the government dredges, at work in the channel near the lighthouse, of lumping earth into the river channel above the intake pipe of the city water works. The practice has rolled the city water and has made it necessary to use an unusual amount of chlorine, it is claimed.

FRENCH FIND FOE IN ANCIENT FORT

Stronghold Used by Rifis as Base for Raids.

Fes, French Morocco.—A gigantic fortress from which the minions of Abd-el-Krim, rebel chieftain, issued forth to murder and lay waste hostile villages has been discovered by French troops.

This stronghold is midway between Fes and Ouezzan. It is approximately 800 feet high and the walls are extremely thick and in a wonderful state of preservation. The interior is about 800x600 feet. The fortification has sheltered as many as 800 Rifian warriors, who organize there for raids. It was built in the Seventeenth century by the Portuguese when that nation was a power in North Africa. Small artillery would be useless against it and to take it by assault would prove a costly operation.

The French army threw a squadron of tanks into the battle area in the north and northwest sections and in the Asejen range completely routed the Rifian enemy from a strongly fortified position.

At Asejen the enemy were completely taken aback by the sight of the tanks and after a brief resistance fled, leaving sixty of their dead upon the ground.

Several planes are reported to be operating from the Rifian bases, which makes good the threat of Abd-el-Krim that he would soon be in possession of aircraft.

Krim sent two envoys from Tangier to the Spanish headquarters to receive the peace terms, and these terms were sent from Tangier to Krim's capital, Adjir.

THE SANDMAN STORY

MR. AND MRS. SPARROW

MR. AND MRS. SPARROW lived in a comfortable nest behind a blind on a house and they had never thought about living in a tree until one day Mrs. Sparrow, who never missed seeing anything that went on with her sharp black eyes, spied Mrs. Robin on her nest in the midst of the green leafy tree.

The wind was swaying the leaves and branches gently and as Mrs. Sparrow looked she thought how nice it must be to live in such a cool place. "It is just like a cradle for their children," she told Mr. Sparrow, "and I think I will take that nest next year and live in the tree."

So when Mr. and Mrs. Robin had raised their family Mrs. Sparrow began to bustle about and talk of moving, but her husband told her she had better wait until spring.

"We are all nice and comfortable behind this blind," he said. "Why not stay here, and if you still care to live in a tree in the spring we can move then."

"Why, how you talk," said Mrs. Sparrow. "Of course, I shall want to live in a tree. It is much more genteel than living behind an old blind. Some one may close it any minute and let your nest tumble."

"I shall keep my wits about me, for if we don't watch out those robins will come flying back early and take that tree again for their home."

So early in the spring while Mr. Sparrow still shivered with the cold every time he flew from behind the blind, Mrs. Sparrow insisted that they move into the robins' nest.

"I would just like to see that pair get me out of this," she said as she nestled down into the nest, but I must say it will need quite a bit of repairing, but I shall stay right here, because if Mrs. Robin comes along she may take it instead of building a new one."

Mrs. Sparrow was right. In a few days Mr. and Mrs. Robin flew up and went straight to the tree where they had lived the summer before and there on their old nest sat Mrs. Sparrow, her black eyes snapping defiance at them.

"You fly right up there, Robin, and tell them that nest belongs to us. We built it last year," said Mrs. Robin, as she and her husband sat on a lower limb of the tree.

"No need to come up here," chirped Mrs. Sparrow. "You can't expect to have a home kept vacant for you, gallivanting all about the country as you do."

"We live in this part of the country all the year and why shouldn't we have first choice, I should like to know; so you can fly right along and find another place, for I am going to stay right here. Possession is nine points of the law, you know, and I have possession."

Just then Mrs. Robin whispered something to her husband and he replied: "You are right," and off they flew without another word to Mrs. Sparrow.

"Now I wonder what she told him," said Mrs. Sparrow, leaning out of the nest and looking around. "Something she saw that sent them off in such a hurry, I'll be bound."

Suddenly Mrs. Sparrow's eyes opened wide, for there was a big puss coming straight for the tree and looking up at it with her tail switching back and forth over her neck.

"My goodness, me!" exclaimed Mrs. Sparrow getting her wings spread for flight, "I do believe it is the cat that was a kitten last summer. I can't bring up my children in this tree. She would be certain to climb up here and—"

Mrs. Sparrow did not finish what she was saying. She flew straight away from that tree to her old home and when her husband came to take one more look at the nest he liked so well he found his wife sitting there blinking at him.

"Changed your mind?" he asked.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Sparrow. "Wide people do, why not birds? That nest needed too much repairing for one thing and the other is there is a big cat prowling around."

And that was just what Mrs. Robin whispered to her mate, that the kitten which lived in the house last year had grown to be a big cat and she would not think of risking the lives of her children by living in that tree.

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL
Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

JOYCE

IN ONE particular era in feminine nomenclature, names of gladness figured prominently. Joyce is one of those. It is not extraordinarily popular and it is not nearly so pretty as its French equivalent, Jocelyn. It signifies—sportive or merry.

Etymologists tell us that it comes from the French Jolie, which was meant to express an inarticulate shout of ecstasy. The original cry is preserved in the Swiss Jodel or shout of the mountaineers. A number of feminine names have come from this happy source; among them the well-known Joy, Jadaoa, which is frequent in Wales, and Jacosa still in common usage among the English.

Joyce came directly from this latter name. France took it but found it too British and evolved the musical Jocelyn.

The emerald is Joyce's talismanic stone. It is the gem of youth and springtime and hope. It is said to preserve for her the joyful legacy which her name implies. Thursday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

Other Lansing pastors assisted. Church work in the district was started in a school house four years ago. Later the Methodists incorporated and a result just completed their $5,000 structure.

Grand Rapids.—Mrs. Benjamin St. Clair, balloonist at Ramona Amusement Park here, owed her life and freedom from injury to her pluck and tenacity, and the agility of a member of her troupe. Iron Mountain.—After eight hours of battling with flames raging in log and chemical plant wood piles one-half mile west of the Ford Motor company's plant here, men directing the fire fighting forces believed that, with the change in the direction of the wind, they had the flames under control.
