Primary Money To Be Increased

East Jordan Will Benefit Under New Apportionment.

East Jordan's share of the primary school money under the terms of the Bohn primary school fund law will be increased when the next primary money apportionment is made, according to Thomas E. Johnson, superintendent of public instruction. Had the 1923 legislature passed the law East Jordan's share of the increase would have been $5,161.80. East Jordan's increase will be in the neighborhood of the figure unless the population materially decreases.

Work of compiling the 1925 census under which the new apportionment will be made is now under way in Johnson's office. Private and parochial school enrollment figures are considered in the rearrangement of the fund.

The new census for Charlevoix county shows a total of 5,029 pupils in that county. The total primary school money available for Charlevoix county this year is $69,009.10.

The primary school fund this year reached the total of $15,440,000 which is greater by $40,000 than last year. The primary school fund represents the tax money paid into the state treasury by telephone and telegraph companies, railroads, express companies, car owning and car loaning companies, including refrigerator and pullman car concerns, also insurance and inheritance taxes and all funds from escheated estates. The per capita distribution of primary school money this year is $13.70 per child, according to Mr. Johnson. Mr. Johnson says that the total number of children included in the apportionment this year is 1,122,983 while the total sum to be apportioned is $15,395,688.12. Last year's primary apportionment for Charlevoix county was based on a school census of 4,971.

The Gospel of Success

A Western financier, who has accumulated several million dollars, recently said in reply to a question, "Have all your earnings in one place where you can see it every afternoon." The advice is pretty good, even though you never accumulate as much as a million dollars. What the man really means is that if you have a surplus dollar to invest, invest it in your home community where you can look after it and largely control it. In other words, don't fritter your accumulations away in wild-cat ventures. There is not a county in Michigan where the people have not squandered enough money in wild-cat propositions to have built dozens of successful enterprises that would have brought untold prosperity and still had enough left to fill the bank vaults to overflowing.

The next time a stock salesman calls at your door, take him over to the bank and find out how much the banker will loan you on the nicely engraved stock certificate he is trying to sell you. If the banker says he will take it at its face value on a loan, then you can consider it a good investment, otherwise, it will be well for you to beware. There is always plenty of legitimate use for the idle dollar in the spot where you reside.

Col. Coolidge Weds Pair

Where His Son Took Oath

Plymouth, Vt.—Col. John C. Coolidge, father of the President, who administered the oath of office to his son in the sitting room of his farmhouse home here two years ago, performed a wedding. In the same room and almost on the spot where the historic scene of August 8, 1923, took place, Colonel Coolidge, a justice of the peace, united in marriage Miss Doris Keith of Ludlow and Hollis Holt of Bellow Falls. A friendly crowd showered the young couple with rice after the ceremony.

It is a pretty good idea to so live that you won't have to ask the editor to keep it out of the paper.

Girl Wed On Mother's Wedding Anniversary

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mathew's church, Flint, Michigan, Saturday, Sept. 12 at 9:00 High Mass, when Miss Rose Josephine Coates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Coates became the bride of Marcus L. Sutter.

The groomsmen were Lewis Sutter, brother of the groom, and George Coates, brother of the bride. Miss Ann Coates, sister of the bride assisted as maid of honor. Miss Coates gown was made of orchid georgette, over yellow, with a picture hat to match. Her bouquet was composed of yellow roses and orchid asters. Miss Mary Sutter, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid. She wore a dress of blue georgette over pink, with a picture hat to match. Her bouquet was made up of pink roses and blue asters.

The bride's gown was a charming creation of white embroidered georgette over satin. Her veil was beautifully embroidered in white silk and was held in place by a wreath of lilies of the valley. Her bouquet was a combination of valley lilies, brides roses, and forget-me-nots. The bride also carried a beautiful silver rosary blessed by the Pope, given her by her cousin, Rev. Jos. N. Trainor of Ohio, who just returned from a visit to Rome.

Following the wedding at the church a dinner was served to the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents, 331 Eorest St.

After a honeymoon through the East, Mr. and Mrs. Sutter will be at home at Flushing, Mich., after Oct. 20, where Mr. Sutter is engaged in business.

The parents of the bride were married in St. John's Church of the Bohemian Settlement. Mrs. Coates will be remembered among the East Jordan people as Christina Rebec. Mrs. Coates was born and raised in East Jordan.

Meet A Democrat

As an aftermath of elections come the evolutions of freak bets, most of which are not paid. Last year in West Virginia, a Democrat and a Republican wagered on the result of the election, with the understanding that the supporter of the candidate losing should hike to New York, a journey of at least 400 miles, barefoot, without baggage and without taking any money with him. As a penalty for non-performance, it was agreed that the loser would have to vote for the nominee of his opponent's party in the election of 1928.

According to press reports, Robert A. Loar, an attorney of Morgantown, paid his election bet by completing last week the journey prescribed including the 400 miles of barefoot travel, arriving in New York where he was welcomed by Governor Smith and other Democrats. Mr. Loar suggests that everyone go without shoes for a while and see how much better it feels. He declared that he could jump on glass and tacks now. But what is the advantage of stepping on glass and tacks is not disclosed. We are frank to admit that the West Virginia attorney has established his democracy and is entitled to a large slice of democratic pie upon the next occasion of its triumph.

Prohibition As Seen By A Business Man

By R. H. Scott

R. H. Scott, president of the Reo Motor Company, considers "Prohibition as Seen by a Business Man," and gives the views of a capitalist and large employer of labor. "Prohibition can be seen by a business man and it looks good to him.

We must revise the old saying "Business is business," to read "Prohibition is business." The better the observance of prohibition, the better business we have. There is no fanaticism about a balance sheet. No prejudices sway a cost chart. We can estimate the quality of prohibition almost as accurately today as any other of the significant factors in business. Prohibition arrived at the exact time in our history when it was most needed. From the peak of war-time production given over largely to the manufacture of instruments of destruction, we had to return to peace-time conditions and constructive production.

"The business man sees prohibition's results, not in terms of moral issues or personal appetites, but in the dual terms of business; production and distribution. Especially noteworthy have been the effects upon production. The efficiency of the average worker was increased. Factories were more nearly able to work up to the reasonable expectation of their machine power. Instead of dulled minds, unsteady muscles and jumping nerves after the holiday of Saturday afternoon and Sunday, the workers began the week on Monday with full power. From being one of the poorest production days of the week, Monday became as good a day as any on the calendar.

"Fewer machines were idle because of the absence of workers through illness due to drink. The labor turnover a costly factor in manufacture, dropped and has remained comparatively low.

"Prohibition has created new markets for our products. New standards of living were set 19 per cent higher than when prohibition arrived, according to Secretary Hoover. Instead of a pail of beer, the worker bought oil and gasoline. Better homes, better furniture, better clothes, more amusement were demanded. The wage-check that once went into the bartender's till, began to travel to the local merchant. The increased production made possible by sober workers was consumed steadily by a sober nation. We made and bought more goods than we had believed this country could absorb.

"The credit business done in the past five years has been one of the most significant and interesting developments to a business man. Automobiles, houses, clothes, anything and everything can be bought on credit.

No other era or country ever saw the parallel of the present American extension of credit to practically everybody who desires it. Men who could not have 'hung up' the bartender for a drink, in the old days, are now considered good risks for a motor car. Prohibition raised the credit rating of practically every human being in America. Defaulters are comparatively few. Families are able to pay their current bills and meet their installments because the liquor bill is gone. Any credit man knows that a sober man is better to risk than a drinker.

"As one concerned with the automobile industry, I have found prohibition and the automobile are as closely related as the auto and gasoline. A drinking American could not have bought 2,427,000 motor vehicles purchased in 1924."

Now that Henry Ford has started to take advertising for his weekly newspaper we wonder if any of the boys will ask him to take part of it in trade?

WAGER-WEST

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wager Boyne ave., when their daughter, Audrey was united in marriage to Mr. Chas. West of East Jordan on Sunday Sept. 27th by the Rev. Mellot, pastor of the Free Methodist church. The home was prettily decorated in gold and green, consisting of evergreens and interspersed with a profusion of marigolds, an arch being composed of the same under which the ceremony was performed.

The bride was attired in a gown of violet georgette carrying a shower bouquet of roses, while her attendant, Miss Mildred West, niece of the groom wore a pretty robe of Nile green crepe, with a bouquet of snapdragons. The groom was assisted by his nephew, Mr. William West.

A delightful luncheon was served at high-noon for the immediate relatives and delicious ice cream and cake was passed to the guests of which there were about thirty, after the ceremony. The newlyweds received many beautiful and useful gifts. Mr. West presenting his bride with a new Ford Sedan. Mr. and Mrs. West drove immediately to their residence in East Jordan where they will make their future home.—Boyne Citizen.

OPPOSED FLIGHT OF SHENANDOAH

Lansdowne Protested in Vain to Admiral Eberle, Files Reveals

Lakehurst, N. J.—The confidential files of the Navy department containing almost all of the correspondence relative to the last trip of the giant dirigible Shenandoah were placed in evidence before the court of inquiry investigating the airship disaster and an amazing series of disagreements between Admiral E. W. Eberle, chief of naval operations, and Lieut. Com. Zachary Lansdowne, who died in the disaster, was revealed.

The confidential files showed that orders had been modified in several instances after protests by Lansdowne, that he had been overruled in other instances, and that the chief of naval operations had held that airships of the Shenandoah type were useless and a waste of money if Lansdowne and other flying officers were correct in their estimate of weather hazards.

The interchange of letters, telegrams and orders between the chief of naval operations, Admiral Eberle, and Lieutenant Commander Lansdowne showed that almost to the time the Shenandoah had soared from the Lakehurst field on her fatal trip, Lansdowne had attempted to have the trip delayed until the second week in September, citing weather perils and the condition of landing fields in support of his contentions, and that he had finally been overruled.

Pittsburgh Team Wins National League Flag

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The National league pennant, emblematic of supremacy in the senior baseball circuit, was clinched by the Pittsburgh Pirates when they won from the Phillies, 2 to 1.

The fans swarmed on the playing field to congratulate the men who fought so consistently and who brought to the fans the realization of their dream of 10 long years.

Their enthusiasm unbounded, the Pirates crowded about Bill McKechnie, their manager and the veteran pilot, Fred Clarke, singing the praise of the men who led them to the victory. They danced about and hugged each other, refusing to settle down until John A. Heydler, president of the league, stepped into the clubhouse, sinking hands with Clarke and McKechnie, the league executive said.

"There never was a team that showed such fine deportment at all times. Now I want you to go out and win the world's series."

What has become of the muck-rakers?

Petoskey Wins Good Game

East Jordan's Inexperience Tells Against Them. Score 13 to 0.

Contrary to the articles spread about northern Michigan, East Jordan's team is inexperienced. Principal Waggoner made a mistake of one year in his eligibility list for only five East Jordan men are back who even played any part of game in the past and none were in the line up, who played the same position as a year ago. Petoskey had nine veterans from their last year's team, and an advantage in weight of perhaps ten pounds.

All things considered, Capt. Thomas and his men are to be congratulated on their showing against Petoskey last Saturday. Nevertheless, this takes nothing from Petoskey's team, for they played a good clean aggressive game and overcame a team of hard trainers and good fighters. Petoskey was supported by a large delegation of fans who displayed a very fine spirit of sportsmanship, as did the local fans. Such contests are a credit to the sport and the towns taking part. No kick was registered against the officials. Petoskey's end running baffled the green local line and resulted Petoskey's first touchdown. The other came largely through a matter of judgment in pulling in a man to kick who had never been under fire, a full kick to one side of the field, uncovered by the kicker, allowed a Petoskey runner to scoop up the ball and run for a touchdown which would indicate at the best a 7 to 0 score which is anybody's game until the last whistle blows.

East Jordan was led by the fine aggressive playing of Thomas and Leu at tackles and Somerville in the back field. Somerville and Thomas are the only locals with real regular experience. The rest of the boys were playing their first full game of football and showed a spirit that will be an asset in the coming games.

Menzil and Pearson were the best offensive players for Petoskey and in the defense each man of the eleven deserves his share of credit.

Predicts Senate Will Ratify Protocol for World Court

Washington.—Increased confidence that the senate will ratify the world court protocol at the next session was expressed by Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania following a conference with President Coolidge. The senator said he expected the senate to cooperate with the administration in working out a plan of ratification along lines proposed by the President and predicted that little difficulty would be encountered in formulating a basis upon which two-thirds of the senators could agree.

Why Corporate Investments Fail

There is scarcely a community in Michigan that has not at one time or another suffered a heartbreaking loss in the failure of some corporate enterprise; that promised glittering returns to the investors as well as community prosperity. Actuated through the inspiration of shrewd promoters, business men and private citizens have put their hard-earned dollars into some pet scheme that proved in the end was for the benefit of somebody that had something to unload. Canning factories, milk condenseries, manufacturing enterprises, all of these have come under the head of the idea that a home-owned, home-controlled project was bound to revolutionize industry and survive in spite of every managerial mistake that might be made.

After such projects are floated and the company is ready for business, the question of a manager arises. Usually there is in every community some fellow that is popular with a certain few with influence, and while he has never made a success with his own affairs, yet somehow the idea prevails that when it comes to handling the collective investments of a large number he is going to be instantly transformed into a financial wizard and startle the universe with his managerial ability.

But in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the same old story is written: The company starts out with brilliant prospects, there can be no doubt about its ultimate success. Things seem going good for a period and then something happens. Industrial or economic problems have crept in somewhere and the stockholders are asked to kick in a little more money to help ease things over until there is a turn of the tide. This goes on for a while and then one day they are called in and the bitter truth made known, the company is busted. There is a receiver's sale, the proceeds of which are just about enough to pay current bills, and the original investors have some pretty stock certificates to remind them of the incident.

One Michigan city, that has succeeded in locating several successful enterprises during the last few years, makes it a positive rule to encourage no project whose promoters cannot produce a satisfactory record of business ability, and who are unable to bring with them capable of managing the enterprise once it is established. It is a rule that has brought excellent returns.

Duties Of Citizenship

The average American citizen evidently believes he is doing his full duty to this country if he remains law-abiding, minds his own business and pays his just obligations, occasionally reaching the high water mark of patriotism by casting an occasional vote. It is rather difficult to find fault with a man who has all of these homely attributes, but the time has come when every patriotic citizen should interest himself in all forms of government activity. Not only should he do the things required of him as a citizen, but he should go still further and seek out some of the things that threaten a republican form of government. It is impossible to learn the exact extent that bolshevism is being preached in this country, but it is safe to say the propaganda of the "red soviet" is being daily dinned into thousands of listening ears. It is not enough for us to abide by the common practices of society, we should go to greater length and seek to stamp into oblivion the slimy serpent of socialism that is slowly, but surely, poisoning the minds of the unthinking.

Fire Prevention Week

The week of Oct. 7-10 has been set aside for the observance of Fire Prevention Week. The campaign is being fostered by the National Board of Underwriters of New York City, who are seeking to co-operate with fire chiefs, local agents, municipal officials, school authorities, members of business organizations, and all others who will participate in the event. Everybody loses when fire rages. The annual fire loss in this country mounts into figures that are actually appalling. Statistics reveal that $66,000,000 worth of dwelling places alone were destroyed last year in the United States, and that on an average of every three minutes fire attacked somebody's home. It is coming the season of the year when the householder will be kindling the furnace fire, and it is hoped that through a campaign of education during Fire Prevention Week homeowners will be brought to realize the necessity of looking after faulty chimneys, flues and other defective parts in the family heating plant. A few preventive measures at the right time will cut down the fire loss to a surprising extent.

LIKING WORK

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

MY NEIGHBOR Warner down the street is always busy. During the spring and summer I can see him at almost any hour of the day pottering about the yard. His lawn is always carefully mowed. His borders are in order. The little garden back of his house is carefully cared for. When snow falls during the late autumn or winter he is the first man in the street to have his walk cleaned. He is not satisfied with just pushing a reluctant shovel down the middle of the path to the street. He cleans the whole expanse neatly and painstakingly, and extends his labors to walk along the front of his lot.

"Why do you work so constantly?" I asked him one day when he seemed more than ordinarily aggressive. "I don't know any better," he answered. "But, anyway, I'd rather work than eat."

There are not many like him. Few people, whom I have known, would work if they did not have to, or if through early necessity they had not cultivated the habit with such persistence that it is easier for them to continue the practice than to give it up.

Every autumn I am besieged by a crowd of young fellows who want a job, who are without adequate resources and who need to earn money. They go to their tasks like a boy to a licking. They have no enthusiasm for what they are doing. When an old acquaintance or a football game comes along, they fail to show up, confident that they will not be missed or that someone else will take care of their tasks.

My father used to tell of a man who was regularly looking for work and hoping all the time that he would not find it. "There are many like him, I am convinced, yet such men can hardly hope to make much advancement or to get much pleasure out of life.

"One ought to like his work; he should go to it with pleasure and leave it with regret. The man who cannot bring himself to like work is due for a great many disagreeable moments if he lives long, for the majority of us will have a good deal of it to do before we go to our eternal rest, and possibly afterward.

The most unhappy people I know are the people who have no work to do, who spend their time as they like, and grumble because there is no variety in life. Work seems to me one of the greatest blessings that our Creator devised for us. When, for his disobedience, man was condemned to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow, I have always figured out that if he were not actually found "not guilty," he at least received the minimum penalty.

Calf Club Exhibit At Fair

Boys Of Charlevoix County Make Good And Receive Honors.

The three outstanding events in the Calf Club Work in Charlevoix county were the exhibit at the County Fair, the trip to Detroit, and the awarding of the County Championship.

Although this phase of Extension Service in the county is only one year old, it has proven to be of untold value to the members, and is rapidly making its presence felt throughout this section. There is nothing quite so satisfying and pleasing to a young boy or girl as the pride of ownership and the knowledge of how to properly care, feed, and maintain that which he or she owns. These boys and girls are directly responsible for the paying for the calf and this means they are doing work of a constructive nature to earn the money. Space does not permit a discussion of the many benefits Calf Club Members are receiving.

The climax of the entire year was reached during Fair Week when each boy and girl had their calf on exhibition and in competition for prize money. You never saw a more proud bunch of youngsters in your life than these members when they had their calves in the judging ring and hopefully waiting for the judges' decision. These 16 purebred and high grade calves with their highly interested and enthusiastic owners made an exhibit that will not be forgotten and again causes us to realize the merit of this particular work in that it is directly reaching the greatest asset that America possesses today: her boys and girls.

The following are the results of the judging:

- JERSEYS
1st. place—$5.00, Rex Supernaw, Charlevoix
2nd. place—$3.00, Eddie Omland, East Jordan
3rd. place—$2.00, Ernest Brown, Ironton
- HOLSTEINS
1st. place—$5.00, Frank Severance, East Jordan
2nd. place—$3.00, Clarence Trojanek, East Jordan
- GUFERNSEYS
1st. place—$5.00, Arthur Elliot, Charlevoix
2nd. place—$3.00, Albert Elliott, Charlevoix
- Grand Champion Calf on exhibit—

Premium, $10.00, won by Rex Supernaw.

The several banks in the county that have so willingly contributed the finances making this exhibit possible are to be commended for their co-operation and assistance.

The free trip to the Detroit State Fair awarded to 3 members of the Calf Club and their leader was still another of the many opportunities in this kind of work to the members meriting this recognition. Charlevoix and Alpena counties were selected by the State Calf Club Leader to send a judging team to compete for State honors at Detroit.

In this county it was a difficult task to select the three as we have a great difference in the ages of the members and the work coming as it did previous to the County Picnic and County Fair, only made it possible for your Agent to spend three days in the judging work. The oldest seven boys were given instruction and out of this crew three boys were selected. The first days work was on Jerseys owned by Geo. Meggison, next on the Traverse City Hospital Herd of Holsteins, and third day in Guernseys owned by Chas. Fox, Kewadin, and at this time the three fortunate boys chosen were Ernest Brown of Ironton, Rex Supernaw of Charlevoix, and Eddie Omland of East Jordan. All the expenses of the three boys and Co. Agent, Mellencamp were paid by this State Fair. When one stops to consider that none of the boys has even seen Detroit, two had never seen a street car, and one had never ridden on a train, one can begin to realize what a treat it was. The group left Gaylord Thursday afternoon, arrived in Detroit that evening and spent the night at the Fair Grounds in a tent furnished for the Boy's and Girl's by Fair Association.

Friday was the day that Charlevoix county had to judge against the other county teams selected to represent the other sections. There was a total of 16 teams in the contest and Charlevoix ranked 9th, which is fine considering this was our first attempt. Rex Supernaw led Charlevoix Team in judging landing 16th place out of 47 places, while the other two boys were tied for 35th place.

The boys spent all day Friday at the Fair and Saturday on a site seeing tour of the city. Sunday morning found all the party back to their respective homes a tired bunch to be sure, but having spent the best time in their career.

As a result of winning the Championship at the Fair Exhibit with his Jersey Calf, of placing highest in the judging at Detroit, and the great interest and enthusiasm that he displayed with his Calf Club Work, Rex Supernaw of Charlevoix was chosen as Calf Club Champion of the County for 1926. Next spring this makes him eligible to attend a State Boy's and Girl's camp with expenses paid by the State.

Honorary mention is given to Arthur and Albert Elliott for their conscientious endeavor and the fine appearance of their calves at the Fair, reflecting the care and attention they were given.

We are very pleased to state that the Calf Club Work thus far has been 100 per cent, meaning that all members have completed the work set out for them and exhibited all calves at Fair.

We are glad to doff our hats to you boys and girls—stay with the work.

SCHOOL DAYS

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
By F. A. WALKER

WE NEED MORE THINKERS

THROWN with others, the young man or young woman very soon finds that he or she is affected in various ways by their actions. It is in this association, this daily encounter with various minds, wits and ideas that we gain experience of the effect of good and bad actions which go toward the development of good or bad character. "Right" and "wrong" acquire a somewhat different significance in each individual mind, but fundamentally the underlying principle is the same. In a little while, through this association there is developed an intelligent being who begins to think and reason for himself or herself, who steps boldly out from the masses and approves or condemns in his or her own way. In this manner every human in the world began the formation of character, building it up piece by piece pretty much as a mason erects a brick wall, until it becomes a formidable structure against which the storms of the years beat until the last grain of life drops down into the unfathomable sea of the beyond. In this way the feeling of attachment to a duty, or the disregard of obligation becomes stronger and more tenacious with the passing years. In each of us the finer moral distinctions are recognized, the real nature of right and wrong is intelligently comprehended, yet it often happens that we move on doubtfully and shape our course until the end, not so much in accordance with our acquired knowledge as in harmony with the impressions received in early life. We become so deeply engrossed in our routine task of "making a living and getting on in the world," that in the vitally important affairs which have to do with our future, we fail to think for ourselves, and fall into the habit of following blind leaders. This brings us to the thought that the world needs more thinkers who will ask the "reason why" and make an effort to find it out for themselves, the inspiring to greater endeavor for good the straggling, disgruntled armies of mankind still groping in the dark, complaining of their inability to find the way, or approaching anywhere near the realization of their youthful dreams.

WHO SAID
"A falling drop at last will carve a stone."

WHEN Titus Lucretius Carus uttered these words, he expressed a wealth of philosophy and displayed a discernment of vision that today makes his name remembered. Though his death occurred before the birth of Christ, a time when superstition and ignorance were on all sides apparent, this man seems to have had the vision to see that ultimately the tiny germs of truth and science would triumph and, like the falling drop at last carves the stone, so the truth would carve its shining pathway through the blackness of ignorance. Lucretius is the name by which this famous Latin philosopher and writer is known. His birth is supposed to have occurred about 98 B. C., and he died in the year 55 B. C. Little is recorded of his life, but a fairly authentic rumor has it that he died a suicide to escape the persecution of the authorities. The works of Lucretius are best known for their descriptive beauty and elevated sentiment. He was one of those old Roman philosophers whose teachings much resemble in their gentleness and goodness, the religion that Jesus Christ taught. Lucretius is well known as a believer in the general application of the teachings of the renowned Greek sage, Epicure. This ancient teacher followed a personal philosophy that one should be temperate in all things and should cull from the diversions and pleasures about him only those which were of the best and highest. Epicure died after a long and painful illness which he bore with the greatest fortitude. Lucretius taught a cosmic or universal application of these principles, whereas Epicure was concerned only with their personal application.—Wayne D. McMurray.

YOUR Last Name IS IT JEWELL?

IT IS usually agreed that this name, Jewell, has no connection whatever with jewel, but that it is derived from the first name Jules or Julius—a Roman name of great antiquity that was used more frequently as a baptismal name a few centuries ago than it is today. The first of the name in this country was Thomas Jewell, who was born in England, about 1600. He was granted land in Wollaston, Mass., and had settled at Mount Miller, Boston, by 1630. The Jewells took their share of responsibilities in the early colony, and most of them followed the trade of tanner. A direct descendant of this Thomas Jewell was Marshall Jewell of Hartford, Conn., born in 1825, who was governor of Connecticut, postmaster general of the United States and United States minister to Russia. In the American Jewell family the names Pliny, Asahel and Archibald occur frequently. This name is sometimes spelled Jewel and in England there was a John Jewel, born in 1522, who was bishop of Salisbury and a leader of English Protestants. Burgess—In old England a burgess was a freeman of a corporate town or borough. A man holding this office took his official title for his surname. Innman—This means innman or innkeeper. Some authorities say that the Innman was really the caretaker for the inn or town house of a nobleman rather than the proprietor of a tavern. Remington—This name comes from Remington, a town in Yorkshire, which gave rise to the surname Rimington as well.

Your Health
By ANDREW F. CURRIER, M.D.

URIC ACID CONDITION
THE uric acid condition is a perverse and obstinate one, and often visits those who have lived a perfectly abstemious and correct life, and seemingly overlooks others who have recklessly disregarded the laws of health. But that would not justify disregarding sanitary precautions and throwing scientific rules overboard. We are surely safer, as a rule, in being particular about our habits and modes of living. An eminent physician and dietitian of New York, Professor Porter, says that uric acid results from the chemical changes which take place in the albuminoid foods—fish, meat, milk and eggs principally; but that it is never found in these foods nor appears anywhere during the digestive process, nor in the blood under normal conditions, but is manufactured only in the cells of the kidneys and is a waste, or final product of food-changes. It is discharged with the urine, and when there is too much of it oxidation is not going on properly in the body. When oxidation proceeds as it should uric acid combines with other substances in the kidneys or bladder and is discharged from the body as such compounds. One of these compounds, for example, is sodium urate, which is formed by combination of uric acid with sodium chloride (or table salt) which circulates in solution in the blood. Too much uric acid also means improper chemical changes in the albuminoid food, and that the uric acid has produced disease. The tendency to excessive formation of uric acid is common in middle life and old age. It may come from worry and want of sleep, overexertion, improper diet and free use of alcoholic beverages. It is seen in such joint diseases as rheumatism, gout, joint diseases, and various forms of indigestion. It may lead to the formation of hard stones in the kidney or bladder, which are very much more troublesome than those which are soft and easily broken. It may be absorbed from the kidneys into the blood and deposited in the joints and other tissues. When it is present or suspected the bowels and kidneys must be kept moving freely, water and milk drunk in abundance, and simple, laxative food eaten, such as bran, oils, prunes, figs and baked apples. Albuminoid foods must be eaten sparingly, especially meat, fish and eggs. As these substances are responsible for uric acid, the less they are eaten the less, as a rule, will there be of uric acid.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Fountain Pens Are Old
A writer in 1876 referred to a "fountain pen," the description of which fits very much the pen of today—at least in principle. An early dictionary—before 1800—contained a definition of such a pen. A certain amount of trouble was experienced in using the early pens, the writer relates.

Many a good old farmer of our boyhood days, who toted it the height of extravagance to get a 25 cent dinner at the town hotel when he brot in a load of grain, now has a son who thinks a little filler in the wheat pit is about the most useful thing in modern agriculture. Now that the church has started to investigate prohibition maybe we can locate that warehouse of bonded liquor the state police lost in Detroit that time.

The million or more tourists that toured the state this summer left many times that number of dollar certificates. One crop that should always be well cultivated. Hotels and private homes are so crowded down in some sections of Florida that latecomers are gladly paying as high as two dollars for the privilege of slumbering in a porch chair all night. Probably the same fellows who ust to kick about the big grocery bills back home.

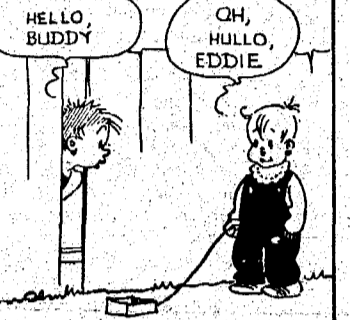

IF THEY COULD STOP AND REST
Do you know that your kidneys have worked without ceasing from the hour of your birth? They filter and remove from the blood stream waste matter which if permitted to remain and re-enter the system, may cause serious diseases. If overworked you can help them by taking FOLEY PILLS, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, which gently flush the kidneys and increase the elimination of waste matter from your system. Try them today. Sold by all good drug stores.—Hite's Drug Store. adv.

Fire from an unknown origin caused a short but nasty blaze at the Temple Theatre Wednesday evening.

The second show was just starting at 9:00 p. m., when the operator, Alvin Ward, discovered some of the films ablaze. He immediately closed the fire-proof operating booth and that structure held up well under the intense heat.

The flames destroyed about $450 worth of reels and the projecting machine was damaged. The loss falls on Manager Olson as no insurance can be carried.

A good-sized audience was present but there was no uneasiness, some of the patrons not knowing that a fire existed.

Owing to the fire, the Theatre will be closed until Saturday when it will be opened with "Flames of Desire."

Manager Olson left Thursday for Detroit to effect a settlement for the films destroyed.

TOWN TALK

Vol. 1

October 2, 1926

No. 6.

MR. HOUSEHOLDER:—

My wife's been after me a couple of months to put a shelf up in the dining room to stand the telephone on.

Night before last I got at it. She gave me a "nice smooth board" she'd been saving for the job and I took it down cellar to do a little plan and fancy sawing on it. Well, it was a piece of basswood, but I'd be burned if that saw of mine would cut through it. I don't believe it would have cut through a carton of butter.

So I had to go to the neighbors to borrow a saw. Finally I got one that wasn't much better but I managed to true the board up with it, although the edges looked like a kid's work.

I gave the shelf a coat of stain, and last night started to finish the job. I got the screws started after a struggle—I didn't have a drill—but when I tried to use my screw driver the pesky thing kept turning around in the handle. I was ashamed to borrow a screw driver next door; besides I didn't expect it would be much better than mine, so I decided to use nails.

And then, I'll be hypnotized and turned into a buttercup, if the head of my hammer wasn't so loose I had to stop about every third crack and jar it back on the handle.

When I got through—after hitting my thumb twice and saying all those bible words you're supposed to reserve for Sunday School—I said to myself, "SMITH & BRONKEMA HDWE. CO., you're a heck of a hardware man. Here you're selling other people tools and you haven't got a decent one yourself."

So the first thing I did this morning was to pick out a good hammer, a saw, a screw driver, and a drill. Then I got to thinking of that wood rasp my neighbor called a saw, and it occurred to me that probably most of the other men in East Jordan were in the same fix and I'd better suggest they come in and get some real tools.

So consider this your official invite. Better come.

Yours very truly,

SMITH & BRONKEMA HARDWARE CO.

FRENCH TANKS ROUT
10,000 TRIBESMEN

Smash Through the Walls of Suedia and Relieve Garrison.

Suedia, Palestine.—The French have completely defeated Druse tribesmen and Suedia, capital of Jebel Drus, has been relieved after its French garrison had been penned up for sixty-six days. Ten thousand Druse tribesmen were scattered by the attack of the French column, aided by air bombers and tanks.

The tanks, advancing in a triangular formation, reached the walls of Suedia and made themselves into a battering ram, beating down the walls and blockading houses and allowing the infantry to enter the city. All the Druse forces were engaged in a battle which lasted five hours before they were scattered.

There is a human interest side to the attack and relief of the French garrison of 700. Commandant Tomny Martin, previously rumored to be sick, wounded and dead, was found alive and well. Major Martin joined the attack the moment the French tanks reached the old Turkish citadel, thereby forming his first liaison with the French army for sixty-six days. During these days they were fed by airplanes and communicated with by radio. When the tanks knocked against the gates of the citadel, the heroic garrison streamed out, joining the infantry and tanks in fighting the Druses until they were driven out of the city.

Paris.—News of the defeat of Druse tribesmen, received here, led to the prediction that it meant the beginning of the end of French troubles in Syria.

Washington Wins Second Consecutive League Flag

Washington.—Washington captured its second American league pennant, and will face Pittsburgh, which clinched the National league title, in the world series, starting at the latter city October 7.

The American league race ended suddenly, as the champions won two games from Cleveland, while St. Louis came from behind to nose out Philadelphia, sole remaining contender, in an 11-inning contest. The Senators won the first game 4 to 3 in ten innings, and the second, 6 to 2.

It happened so quickly that apparently none but the rabid fans, who had figured out the mathematical chances of Washington and Philadelphia, were aware that the Senators had won the pennant.

Maharajah of Kashmir Dies;
Hari Singh to Get Throne

London.—News reached London of the death in Kashmir of Sir Pratap Singh, maharajah of Kashmir, and of the probable succession to the throne of his nephew, Sir Hari Singh, central figure of the "Mr. A" case in the London courts last year. Sir Hari was blackmailed by a gang who used as a decoy Mrs. Robinson, pretty wife of a broken racetrack gambler, and obtained £100,000 ($500,000) from the young Indian prince.

It is virtually certain that Sir Hari will succeed to the throne.

The throne of Kashmir is one of the wealthiest and the country one of the most romantic regions in India. The income of the ruler is more than $5,000,000 yearly.

Robert Goelet Makes Third Plunge Into Matrimony

New York.—In his marriage to Miss Roberta Willard at her parents' home at Fairhaven, near Newport, R. I., Robert Goelet, multimillionaire son of the late Ogden Goelet, is making his third plunge into matrimony.

His first wife was Miss Elsie Whelan, noted society beauty of Philadelphia, whom he married in 1904. After a decade of happy life temperamental differences arose, and in March, 1914, Mrs. Goelet was granted a divorce in Newport, R. I.

In 1919 Goelet married in Paris Mme. Fernand Rjabouchinsky, the former wife of Prince Nicholas Rjabouchinsky of Russia.

Goelet is said to be worth about $40,000,000.

Washington.—In the midst of the important French war-debt negotiations Secretary of the Treasury Mellon paused long enough to sign a war-debt funding agreement reached with the Republic of Latvia. The indebtedness represents obligations received in connection with the sale of war supplies by the secretary of war and obligations received from the American relief administration on account of relief supplies furnished on credit.

Hoover and New Give Views to Coolidge Board.

Washington.—We, here in the United States, are right on the threshold of the development of the greatest commercial air transport system in the world—provided the United States government does its part in paving the way.

At least this is the opinion of two members of President Coolidge's cabinet—Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Postmaster General New, both of whom gave their views at length to the President's special aircraft investigating board.

Mr. Hoover told the board that commercial aviation can be established on a vast scale in this country without the payment of the large government subsidies to private enterprise.

But it will be necessary for congress to enact air transport legislation analogous to the merchant marine laws, he said, and to provide for air navigation service by the government such as is afforded water navigation.

Postmaster General New stated as fast as private enterprise qualifies to carry the mails by airplane the government will withdraw from the operation of mail planes and let contracts for the service.

After Secretary of the Navy Wilbur had told the President's aircraft board that the divorce of the aeronautics arm from the navy arm would be a "well nigh irreparable mistake," and Admiral Eberle, chief of naval operations, had asserted that William Mitchell's aviation proposals, if adopted, would "bring disaster to national defense interests," Admiral Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, showed how aircraft are destined to become one of the principal, if not the foremost, weapons of navies in the sea fighting of the future.

Wood Campaign Cost
Is Placed at $1,750,000

Chicago.—The campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood in 1920 cost $1,750,000 up to May, a month before the Republican convention met, according to testimony produced in Federal Judge Thomas W. Slicks' court in the suit of Col. William Cooper Procter, Cincinnati millionaire, against Col. A. A. Sprague, Chicagoan commissioner of public works. Procter is seeking to make Sprague pay half of a $100,000 note given for campaign expenses during the fight.

It was brought out that the Wood campaign collapsed in May, 1920, because funds ran out. Colonel Procter was chairman and Colonel Sprague treasurer of the Wood campaign.

Trains Collide Head-On;
One Killed, Fifty Injured

Chattanooga, Tenn.—One woman was killed and fifty others injured, several seriously, when the Dixie Flyer, northbound for Chicago on the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad, and the Dixie Limited met in head-on collision at Worley, near here.

Both trains rolled over an embankment; the Dixie Limited landing bottom side up.

Mrs. H. C. Byers of Cloquet, Minn., was killed instantly.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

- 1 All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.
If a car is suitable only for a mechanic who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months' rough usage on a camping trip, it must be sold on that basis. Each car must be sold for just what it is.
- 2 All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly/reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.
This is possible because tremendous reserve mileage has been built into every Studebaker, which it is impossible to exhaust in years.
- 3 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.
The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only—the same price to all." For, to sell cars on this basis, every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.
- 4 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used.
It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision or other accident in the meantime.

Not only to the public, but also to The Studebaker Corporation of America, whose cars we sell, we pledge adherence to the above policy in selling used cars.

It is a formal declaration of the fair and square attitude of Studebaker dealers toward the public.
It is an assurance of honest dealing in a line of merchandising which in some times and places has fallen into ill repute.

It is an assertion of confidence in the reserve mileage built into the sturdy "one-profit" Studebaker automobiles.

Beware Of Them

Fake solicitors are now touring the rural districts of Michigan, where they gather up, produce either with the promise that the check will come from "the office" or taking in poultry and other merchantable articles in payment of "subscriptions" to magazines that never come. People in the country, just like people in town, should make short work of the peddling agent.

The Shenandoah cost $2,000,000 but twenty of them might be a better buy than a battle cruiser.

BE PRETTY! TURN
GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite
Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you damaged your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

It is estimated that there are 25,000,000 boys and girls going to school in this country. So far it is not recorded that any of them has ever entered a protest over an extra holiday.

Your Health

ADENOIDS

THE number of children afflicted with this disease is so great that I have no doubt the question is often asked by anxious mothers: "Is there any child that is free from them?"

Yes, there are those who haven't got them, and others who have very little trouble from them and who will get over them if they are properly brought up and have good food and good surroundings.

But other children are so handicapped by them and made so ill, that their removal is the only proper course, and this may be very easily done in most cases.

What are adenoids?

The mucous membrane of the throat and nose normally contains what is called "lymphoid tissue," which means tissue resembling lymph glands and lymph tubes.

When this is increased and forms lumps which project into the nostrils or the cavity of the throat, such lumps are called adenoids.

They may be no larger than a pea, or they may be of greater size and in bunches, like small grapes.

The larger they are, the more they will obstruct the air passage in the nose and throat, one who has them being compelled to breathe through his mouth instead of his nose, as he ought to.

The result will be that the mucous membrane will constantly be dry; dust and germs will find easy entrance to the mouth; and the development of the child thus afflicted will be hindered.

Nobody has any monopoly of adenoids; they occur at all ages, to the infant and the old man or woman, but they are most common and troublesome in children from eight to twelve.

In children, they are soft; they absorb poisons readily and furnish an excellent medium for the culture and development of disease germs. In adults, they are harder, and bacteria cannot grow so readily upon them.

Remember that children suffer most frequently from infectious diseases, and then you can understand how easy it is to catch them by means of adenoids and through the constantly open mouth.

When a baby has adenoids, he cannot breathe freely and has to stop nursing, frequently, in order to catch his breath.

So it often happens that such babies do not get air enough and their blood is not properly aerated.

Very likely they do not get food enough, either—hence their digestion suffers, their sleep is disturbed, and their entire nutrition is affected.

Older children with adenoids are also unable to breathe properly while eating; their food is not thoroughly masticated and they, too, will suffer with imperfect digestion and poor nutrition.

Waking and sleeping, they are mouth breathers, they snore, they have bad dreams, and they have no control over the bladder.

Frequently there is a nasal catarrh, in such cases, the discharge running down upon the lips and into the throat and stomach; the appetite disappears, and anybody can see that the children are unhealthy and in bad condition.

In the JUNGLE

With Cheerups and the Quixies
by Grace Bliss Stewart

MR. LION'S VISIT

"MY DEAR," growled Mr. Lion softly to Mrs. Lion, one warm evening just before dark. "I have something on my mind. I am worried."

"I've noticed that you weren't quite yourself lately," purred Mrs. Lion kindly, "and if it's a problem you can't solve, why don't you go to this famous Cheerups that Gray Ears the Elephant is so excited about?"

"Now, Mother Lion, have you been talking to Gray Ears?" said Mr. Lion with his most severe frown. "Didn't I tell you never to do that? He's about the only animal in the Jungle that we have reason to fear, and then you run right into danger. I am really vexed with you."

When He Saw Mr. Lion's Shiny Eyes, He Was Astonished.

"Goodness, no, Father, I'm not so foolish as that," replied Mrs. Lion. "I was safely hidden in the tall grasses and overheard what Gray Ears was saying to Lizzie Lizard. He talks so loud that nobody can help hearing, and we have very good ears in the Lion family, you know. They talked a long time about this Cheerups person, and both agreed that he had told them some wonderful things. Maybe he could help you, too."

"It's worth trying, my dear," said Mr. Lion. "Your advice is often good. I'll set out now to find this wise one."

"Good luck," called Mother Lion, as she turned back to the cave and gave her sleepy little babies, Tawny and Fuzzy, a pat with her big soft paw.

Down the Winding Way went Mr.

Lion, along by the Yellow River and through the Twisty Vines, until he came to the little clear place where Cheerups lived. Mr. Lion's eyes are made so that he can see as well at night as in the daytime, and he discovered the little palm-leaf house which the Quixies had built for Cheerups even though it had grown quite dark and the first Twinkly Star was out.

But Cheerups couldn't see so clearly as that, and Brighteyes was sound asleep on his spiderweb. So when he saw only Mr. Lion's two shiny eyes like balls of fire coming toward him he was most astonished. "Had the moon dropped out of the sky and broken in two from the fall?" thought he. "Maybe there was going to be a garden party in the Jungle, and the lanterns were just being lighted. Or could it be possible that the animals had automobiles, and these two bright spots were headlights?"

"Goodness, but they are getting close! I guess I'd better play policeman and stop the traffic. That will be fun," said Cheerups to himself. "Stop!" he shouted as loud as he could. "You are running into some one!"

"And begging your pardon, sir, that's just what I want to do," came a low rumbling purr. "I don't mean exactly run into you, of course, the voice went on, for Mr. Lion is the politest animal in the world, but just up to your front door, so to speak. Are you by any chance a very famous and kind person named Cheerups?"

"That is what I am called," replied Cheerups, who was rather bewildered by this voice out of the dark. "But I should like very much to know who is my visitor. Oh, Brighteyes, did you happen to bring the Magic Spectacles with you? There, that's better," sighed Cheerups, as he put on the spectacles which sleepy Brighteyes took from his pocket. They made him look so wise that Mr. Lion's confidence grew.

"Now I see that it's Mr. Lion with whom I have the honor to speak. I have always wanted to meet His Majesty, the King of the Beasts. If I weren't too small, I should like to shake your paw, sir. Being small is a great drawback, Mr. Lion, unless you are in a tight place," said Cheerups.

"And speaking of tight places," cried Mr. Lion, "now that you have started the subject, that's the very thing I came to see you about."

Marquette—in an effort to prevent further escapes from the State Branch Prison here, officials of the institution have employed Merritt B. Wilson, of Menominee, as rifle inspector in charge of the prison guards. Wilson, a former army lieutenant, will train the guards in the use of the rifle.

Bay City—James R. Davis, former head of Federal prohibition activities in Michigan, operated upon here a few days ago for chronic appendicitis and gall stones, is making a good recovery according to his physicians. It is believed he will be able to leave the hospital within the next few days.

Jackson—The old familiar clubs police officers here have carried on their beats for many years have been discarded. Officers now are equipped with blackjacks. It is the belief of Chief of Police Charles Phelps that carrying a club hinders an officer in the use of his hands in an emergency. It also appears as if he were looking for trouble, the chief stated.

Lincoln Park—Voters here have refused to ratify bond issues of $290,000 for city improvements. George Shanley, president of the city council, expressed disappointment over the result of the vote. A $140,000 bond issue to finance construction of new sewers was defeated by 12 votes. The small margin of two votes beat a $150,000 issue for extension of water mains.

Ishpeming—Two calves, seeing a young deer near a farm at Three Lakes and evidently thinking it was of the same species as themselves, became its companions and wandered away to the woods with it. Owners of the calves started a search a few days later and saw the calves with the deer. It seems the calves have become as wild as the deer, for efforts of farmers to catch them have failed.

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

THE MAGIC ELDER

THE elder figures prominently in Europe and this country in folklore. In Canada and the United States its use in folk-medicine is universal. Elder wood carried in the pocket wards off certain physical afflictions; "frumity" made of elderberry pulp worn in a little bag hung round the neck keeps off rheumatism; the inner bark, boiled to a tar-like consistency, is recommended for plasters; the elder blooms allow tea infusions; the virtues of elder blow tea are known to everybody and a tea made from the bark acts in one way when the bark is scraped down and in the opposite manner when the bark is scraped up. When New England housewives have trouble with their soft-soap they set matters right by stirring it with a stick of elder and the elder leaves keep flies out of the house. To beat a boy with an elder rod stunts his growth. Formerly the elder was considered as a protection against witches though, strange to say, witches used to gather at night under elders and in some sections, even now, it is considered unlucky to touch the elder after dark.

All these and many more superstitions regarding the elder are but a survival of the tree worship of our barbarian ancestors; as is evident from the fact that to this day in a Saxon or Danish peasant is about to cut elder he prays with folded arms three times as follows: "Oh, Frau Elder, give me of your wood and I will give you of mine when it grows in the woods."

In Germany wreaths of elder are hung up as protection against lightning.

Oldtime Stamps

Curious revenue stamps which had their origin in Civil war time were the private proprietary stamps affixed by manufacturers to their product and bearing advertisement of that product. In that class were patent medicines, matches, perfumes, playing cards and so on. Thus was paid the tax on "parlor matches," on such preparations as "galvanic horse salve," on "magic pain extractors," and on hair restorers with trade-marks showing girls of the pre-bob period. At that time was engraved the plate of a stamp of a denomination of $5,000, but it was never issued. Of highest value today is the $1,000 stamp for documentary purposes.—Exchange.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name: its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

TILLIE

TILLIE, which has long been regarded as one of the contractions formed from Mathilda, has really the right to independent existence, so frequently does it occur in nomenclature since the time of Henry the Fowler. It signifies "mighty battle maid" and is one of the old Teutonic names indicative of power. By rights it should be spelled Tille.

It comes, of course, from the old German word for main or might. Its first form was Maghilda, which very naturally became Mathild, meaning "main heroine" or "might heroine." The name was first borne by the wife of Emperor Henry the Fowler, who afterward became the abbess of Quedlinbourg. As Mechtild it appeared as the title of the abbess of Adlstedten and straightway received great vogue at the hands of all French maidens.

In Italy there appears the Countess Matilda, the friend of Gregory VII, and it is from this name, which was adopted by the English, that the contraction Tilly was formed. For the sake of endearment Tilda came to be adopted as a separate name from the stately Mathilda and Tilly was the natural outgrowth of the evolution.

The turquoise is Tillie's talismanic stone. It is said to protect its wearer from accidents and evil influence. To see the reflection of the new moon in its surface is a sign of great good fortune. Wednesday is Tillie's lucky day and 6 her lucky number.

SOFT WORDS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"A SOFT answer turneth away wrath," the wise man wrote centuries ago, "but grievous words stir up anger."

It is true with animals as it is with men. They respond quickly to the soft kind word; they recognize compulsion and self-control in human beings and come under its spell; as we ourselves do, while bluster and loud angry talking stir them up instantly.

Gregg had a deadly fear of dogs. The most harmless, inoffensive cur that crossed his path threw him into a state of terror at once, and even if the animal had at first had sinister intentions, when Gregg began to shout angrily at him and to brandish his cane or whatever missile he could possess himself of, the cur was more likely than not to leap upon Gregg in self-defense, and bite him. If he could have brought himself to speak gently to the innocent brute Gregg could have had him licking his hand and fawning about his feet in an ecstasy of joy and friendliness.

Horses yield to soft pleasant words more readily than any other animals with which I have been associated. I owned a high strung temperamental little mare once who could be calmed instantly by a soft encouraging word or a gentle pat on the neck, but who would tear herself loose from whatever she was attached to if she were scolded or spoken to roughly or angrily. She was as sensitive as a child. Strength had nothing like the power of control over her that kindness had.

I read a story not long ago of a young fellow who ran away from home and became a cowboy down in Texas. He had a number of interesting experiences before he reached success, and one of these he told about very appealingly, and since it illustrates my point I shall quote from it here.

"Sometimes when I was watching the cattle at night there would begin an uneasy movement among them which I knew might spread and grow till it culminated in a stampede. I had learned that it always steadied them if they heard the sound of the human voice. I could have sworn or shouted at them as we usually did, and it would have had the calming effect. But I thought if I had got to make my voice heard through the night it might as well be heard in something pleasant as something unpleasant. So, many a night, listeners might have heard the strange sound of a cowboy singing the solos from the Messiah and Tannhauser and all the other fine music which I had learned at home. It satisfied my sense of beauty, and it calmed the cattle just as effectively as shouting abuse at them."

IS EVERY DAY A BACKACHE DAY?

East Jordan Folks Have Found the Cause and Corrected It.

Is your back lame and aching? Are you tortured with sharp, rheumatic pains; miserable with headaches, dizzy spells and kidney irregularities? No wonder, then, you feel worn-out and discouraged. But have you given any thought to your kidneys? You should! Weak kidneys cause just such troubles. Don't risk neglect! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Here's an East Jordan case:

Harry Carpenter, stationary fireman, says: "I had a severe lameness across my back and when I first got up in the morning I could hardly straighten. My kidneys acted irregularly and I felt all out of sorts. One box of Doan's Pills from Gidley & Mac's Drug Store was all that was needed to cure me."

Bordered Flannels for Simple Day Frocks

As a successor to the wash silks and cotton broadcloths that made such a sweeping success in simple summer frocks nothing looks more promising than the bordered flannels—now offered for fall. New shades of strong blues, warm browns, Russian and other greens, in addition to dark, staple colors, make a fine background for striped borders. In gay colors, that are used as a decoration on these simple flannel frocks. Everything about them spells success, especially for schoolgirls' dresses, of which an example is pictured. The border is used to outline a shirt-bosom front and in bands on collar and cuffs on a straight-line model with girde of the material.

Clean Kidneys By Drinking Lots of Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP BY THIS SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings case from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

Caution fails to relieve the torment and discomfort. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good drug store.

THE FAITH AT HOME

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I WANT the folks at home to know, Whatever others say about me, That, what I do or where I go, The home-folks have no cause to doubt me.

I want the folks at home to feel Tonight, when down to pray they kneel, Though father may be far away There is no stain upon this day.

I want the folks at home to trust; I want it not for my sake only; For some stay home, for some folks must.

And children want, and wives are lonely.

I want the folks at home to keep One joy when they lie down to sleep, The peace of knowing that the name They bear has not a mark of shame.

I want the folks at home to say, Whatever others say about me, That here or there or far away There is no need for them to doubt me.

However separations grieve, Or slander hurt, if they believe, A fellow still can do his best And not care much about the rest.

Mother's Cook Book

And this for comfort you must know Times that are ill won't still be so; Clouds will not ever pour down rain A sullen day will clear again.

SOMETHING TO EAT

SOMETHING new is hard to find; something different will depend largely upon the ingenuity of the cook. When we are thinking about foods new combinations will suggest themselves.

Pineapple Salad.

Arrange slices of pineapple in nests of head lettuce, sprinkle with cream cheese which has been put through a ricer, fill the centers of the pineapple slices with large yellow cherries and serve with:

Golden Dressing.

Take one-fourth of a cupful each of pineapple juice, orange or cherry juice, heat in a double boiler, beat two eggs lightly, add one-half cupful of sugar, pour over the hot juice and cook until smooth; remove to a dish to cool.

Virginia Baked Ham.

Soak six or eight pounds of smoked ham over night, drain and bring to the boiling point. Remove the skin, dot over with peanut butter and stick in a dozen cloves. Place the fat side up in a roasting pan. Put a little peanut butter with some celery or celery seed in the pan with four bay leaves, add a little water, baste occasionally, and roast three hours. Use half a pound of peanut butter; this gives the flavor so well liked in peanut-fed hogs.

Cymlings or Summer Squash.

Cook, mash and season them generously with butter, salt and pepper. Place in a baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and slices of bacon. Bake until the crumbs and bacon are brown. Serve from the baking dish.

Among the NOTABLES

ANTOINE LAVOISIER

ANTOINE LAVOISIER was one of the greatest of the French scientists, a man who aided the rapidly progressing civilization of his time in a hundred small but important ways.

He was born in Paris August 26, 1748, and, like most unusually brilliant men, showed his genius at an early age. The trend his early thoughts took is shown by the school essay for which he won a prize, the subject being the best lighting system for a large town. There was a belief then that by repeated distillation water could be converted into earth, and in his early experiments Lavoisier showed this belief to be false.

He made several improvements in the manufacture of gunpowder, then started a model farm along the lines followed now by our most up-to-date farmers—and which was a revelation to the peasant farmers of his time. Holding one public office after another, he used his genius in building canals, organizing insurance companies, savings banks, starting a new and better system of accounts for the nation and perfecting the weights and measures systems. He discovered, with Laplace, that gases could be reduced to liquids and solids. But political troubles were brewing, which finally culminated in the revolution in 1792. At first it seemed that Lavoisier would not be touched; but in 1794 some fanatics, the Bolsheviks of the French revolution, declared the new republic had no need of savants, and Lavoisier, too, was beheaded on the guillotine.

TALKING TO NO EFFECT

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

THERE is, it will be admitted without controversy, at one time and another a good deal of talking done in the world, and it goes without saying, also, that much of this talking is done when silence would save one's breath and relieve one's nervous system and be more effective, possibly, than speech.

Collins and I are members of a deliberative body in which matters are discussed, both sides of a question are presented, and finally a vote is taken. Often the course that these matters will take are predetermined. It is quite certain, even before the discussion is entered into, what the decision will be.

This fact does not deter Collins however. He always talks at length, and, more often than otherwise, he is on the side of the minority. Even though he sees from the outset that his talking will be of no avail, and will, perhaps, only tend to make the case go more overwhelmingly against him, he must have his say. We should, I think, feel a little strange and not a little disappointed if, after the question is before us for discussion, Collins did not get on his feet and talk. But we are seldom disappointed.

Tomkins is very different. When he gets on his feet we know he has something to say, and we are pretty sure that he will be able to turn the decision in his own direction. Sometimes I feel that Tomkins talks too little.

"Why didn't you say something this afternoon?" I asked him last week following a discussion in which he took no part.

"I wanted to save my influence and my strength for something else," he answered me, "when I could have some effect. The thing was settled anyway before we began, and though not settled as I would have wished I saw it was useless to talk, and I hate to talk when talking does no good."

That is the secret of talking well, I believe—to talk when to speak will have some effect; when talking is useless to keep still, and it must be said that Tomkins, when he did speak, was listened to with more interest than any other man in our group. No one was likely to consider Collins seriously because he never did anything unexpectedly. He talked when talking was quite apparently useless.

Brown and Mrs. Brown were waiting out together when he discovered a gaping hole in the stocking of his better half showing a considerable area of white flesh. He said nothing about it, for to do so would have disturbed Mrs. Brown, would have spoiled their walk, and all for no effect. She carried neither a sewing kit nor an extra pair of stockings with her when they went on walks; there was no place to have mended or to have exchanged the stocking, even if she had had the materials. She would discover the hole when she took off the stocking and comfort herself no doubt with the thought that very likely no one had noticed it anyway.

Why talk to no effect?
