Educational Week Program

Everyone Will Have A Chance To Take Part In Some Phase Of School Work.

In working out educational week, the Public Schools found that there were plenty of opportunities to provide programs for each day in the week. Monday is Constitutional Day and will be observed throughout the schools, each teacher laying special emphasis on the constitution as the bulwark of democracy.

In the evening as very special entertainment, the second number of the Lyceum Course takes place, the Gerhardt Duo, a very fine program of music and comedy. Both are musicians, comedians, entertainers, impersonators. It is said either could put on an evening's program. They have worked together for years and their programs are well nigh perfect.

If the number is anything like the last number of the Lyceum Course, no one can afford to miss it. It gives a little special feature to our Educational Week. For this reason the seniors have made special rates for this one number, 35c and 50c, instead of 50c and 75c, the regular admission price.

Patriotism Day is Tuesday and similar stress will be placed on patriotism by the teachers. The real patriotic program comes, however, on Thursday according to program.

Wednesday is School and Teacher Day and it will be a full one for there will be regular school in the morning. A great patriotic picture will be shown at a matinee, Wednesday afternoon. The name of the picture is "America." The writer has personally seen the picture and recommend it unqualifiedly as a high class clean picture, along the same line of pictures as "Birth of a Nation," "Lincoln," and others, thus the boys and girls will have something to do throughout the day, the picture giving a variety and, therefore, rest, for the regular school program in the evening.

In the grades the name of the grade will be found on each door. As you enter, at the head of the stairs, a complete program of classes will be found and the different times they begin and end. If the parents will notice this information, it will make a better program all the way around.

After the grades are out, before the High School program on Wednesday evening, a chapel largely made up of community singing, will take place in the sixth grade for the children who want to see the rest of the High School program with their parents. All other grade children are asked to leave the building for home, as it is impossible to take care of the overflow to the high school building after the grades are dismissed.

The High School program will include the first, fifth, and seventh hour classes. You will note that on the program the time is given, making it possible for parents to know when a class begins and ends. This, along with the information bureau at the door, will make it easier to know just what classes to attend and where, eliminating a good deal of confusion.

After the third class recites, the High School band will play a number of selections, followed by a play put on by Miss Gardel and a cast of High School people, entitled "A Little Fowl Play." During the whole evening, the Home Economics Club will serve sandwiches, coffee, sherbet, and possibly one or two other refreshments.

Thursday the grades will give an historical and patriotic Chapel in the auditorium at 1:30 standard time. In the West Side School a similar program will be given at 12:30 standard time. This ought to be one of the most interesting features of the whole week, both for the Central Building and the West Side Schools.

Friday evening Charlevoix comes to debate the local High School team in the first of the State Debating Series. The week ends by educational talks in the churches.

Jenkins--Weisler

Oscar J. Weisler, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Weisler of this city, was united in marriage to Miss Eleanor Jenkins, on Wednesday, Nov. 4th, at Indianapolis, Ind. The ceremony took place at nine o'clock a. m., at St. Philip Neri Church. They were attended by Miss Elizabeth Hirschauer and Edgar Bockweg.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Samuel Harrington.

The bride wore a dress of dark blue crepe and carried yellow roses, and the bridesmaid wore brown satin and carried pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Weisler returned to East Jordan last Saturday and will make their home on Bowen's Addition. Mr. Weisler's many friends here extend sincere congratulations.

Mrs. George Hayes Passes Away

Mrs. George Hayes passed away at her home on the West Side, this city, Sunday morning, Nov. 8th, following an illness from dropsy and heart trouble.

Lillian Allen was born March 5th, 1872, at Waddington, St. Lawrence Co., New York, her parents being Mr. and Mrs. George Allen.

On Jan'y 31st, 1887, she was united in marriage to George Hayes at Morrisburg, Ontario. They made their home there for a couple of years and then came to East Jordan where they have resided for the past 36 years.

She leaves, besides the husband, one son and two daughters—Cort Hayes, Mrs. Earl Gee and Mrs. Ray Gee, of East Jordan. Also her father, George Allen, Sr., of East Jordan; and one brother and three sisters—Geo. Allen, Jr., and Mrs. Wm. Tillotson of East Jordan; Mrs. Wm. Dougherty of Detroit; Mrs. Stephen Schell of Vanderbilt.

Funeral services were held from the M. E. Church, Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 11th, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Henry Hiles. Interment at Sunset Hill.

Debating Team Is Organized

After four years of inactivity in debate, this season finds East Jordan again preparing to enter the debate contests of the Michigan High School Debating League. The first debate is with Charlevoix here on Thursday evening, Nov. 19th, at 7:30 standard time. The question being debated by the schools of the league this year is: Resolved, that the proposed Child, Labor Amendment to the National Constitution should be adopted by the United States. East Jordan will uphold the affirmative and Charlevoix the negative.

The squad consisting of Chester Amburgey, Edward Carr, Dorothy Clark, Dorotoy Hager, Betty Kitsman, George Secord, and Margaret Staley are preparing zealously for the first clash of the season. The team for each debate will be picked from among this number.

It is hoped that the citizens of East Jordan will show the same spirit of enthusiasm and loyalty toward the forensic activities of the High School this year as they have in the past. An admission of 15 cents for students and 25 cents for adults will be charged.

A friend of ours says there is a lot of money in the raising of pedigreed stock. He knows; he put a lot of it there himself.

Rushing Things

Recreation Program High School Gym

City and Public Schools Co-operating in Winter Athletic Program.

Tuesday night, Nov. 17th, there will be a meeting in the High School Gym for all persons interested in organizing an athletic program for the winter season.

It is planned, if it meets with approval of those interested, that Basketball, Volley Ball, and Indoor Baseball will be included in this program on different nights. It is proposed to open the gymnasium from seven to nine Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights, in charge of an athletic director. Here is an opportunity to bring back the old rivalry and good times to a few years ago when indoor held sway, and everybody had a good time when the snow was piling high.

It is planned to have an Indoor Baseball League made up of teams of equal strength from different organizations in this city, similar to the League of two or three years ago. The more the merrier. At least six teams are necessary to make a successful organization, eight would be better, at least four teams in Volley Ball, thus a Volley Ball League for those who would like a little weekly exercise not quite as strenuous as Indoor Baseball, thereby giving everybody a chance for some form of athletic exercise.

The Basketball program will be worked out in connection with the Scouts. A number of teams will be organized according to age, thereby giving all boys both in school and out a chance to get in on a clean, athletic program.

The general idea now is that Tuesday night will be the Indoor Baseball night, Wednesday will be Basketball, and Thursday night Volley Ball. There will be a small fee of perhaps five or ten cents to the general public, to attend some of these contests, especially Indoor Baseball and Basketball, this money is to be used for purchasing equipment for the different sports.

Mayor Porter and Council discussed the matter of opening the High School gymnasium as a community center and giving financial aid for such a program in co-operation with the public schools, thereby giving the boys and men of the city a place for some wholesome entertainment and physical exercise.

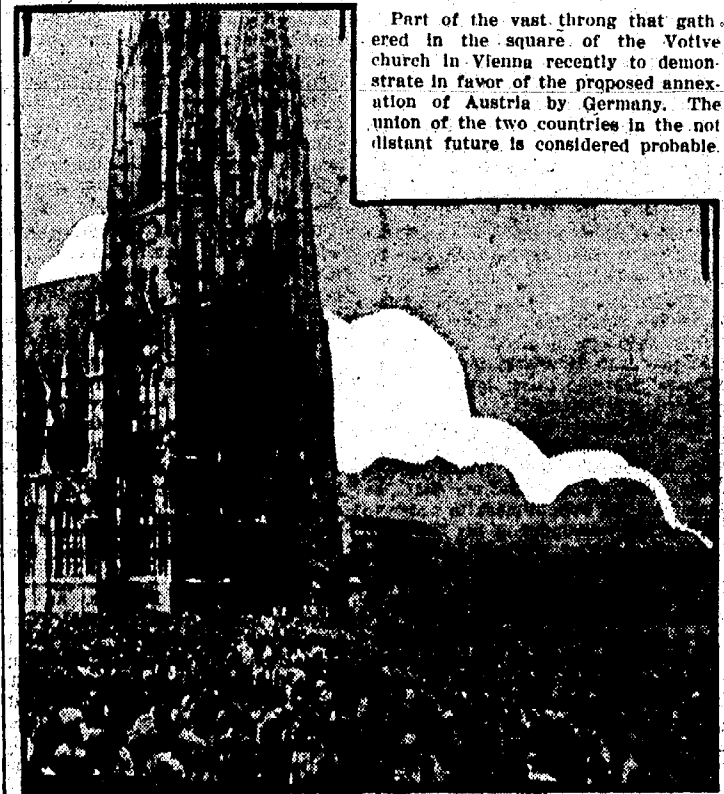

It is hoped that all parties interested will make plans to attend this meeting, Tuesday, Nov. 17th. Be personally responsible for the action that may be taken on this particular night, for if you stay away, maybe somebody else will. Tuesday night, Nov. 17th is your opportunity to express your desire whether or not you want such a program carried out in the city this coming winter.

Secretary Weeks Resigns

John W. Weeks has retired as Secretary of War because of the necessity of trying to recover his health. His illness was due to his sense of duty and to the tremendous work he did as head of the War Department. Here is a man who could have retired to private life twenty years ago and lived comfortably with nothing to bother him. Instead, he gave himself to public life and devoted himself with all the vigor that was in him. He now retires, and how many are there who understand the sacrifices he made and the work that he did. While there are men of the Weeks type in the country, we shall not lack for leaders and workers. Perhaps, indeed, the people are more appreciative than they seem, but the great services of former Secretary Weeks should be recognized.

It has remained for Florida to make that old "California or Bust" movement way back yonder look like a modern delegation to a hairpin manufacturers' convention.

Austrians Want German Annexation

Alumni Beaten

High School Youngsters Prove Stumbling Block To Veterans

In the best football game of the entire season, the heavy and inexperienced alumni veterans encountered a bunch of tartars at the High School grounds Armistice Day. Some of the alumni, looking back on their former glory on the gridiron, imagined that because Coach Waggoner's men looked small and young, that football had deteriorated in the local high school. A number of thought, therefore, it would be a pleasant appetizer to take the youngsters into camp. Some of the alumni were even willing to wager that they would score a touchdown in less than five minutes. As the referee remarked before the game, both teams would likely play real football, more real football than they had played against outside teams. It is a well known fact that a family quarrel is the worst possible kind of a set to. This provided to be the case in this particular game. However, both teams are to be congratulated on their aggressive, hard, clean playing, not only hard, clean playing but the quality of football displayed, and some of the fans are willing to wager that there are mighty few football teams in northern Michigan that could have scored on either team in this game.

With the High School hand on the grounds to cheer the crowd, ideal weather prevailing, and a good sized crowd with a good deal of spirit, it was by far the best alumni game ever played on the local grounds.

The high School won the toss and chose to defend the west goal. The alumni kicked off on the 40 yd. line, Jackson caught it on the 20 yd. line, and returned it 10. Thomas and Taylor alternated at circling the end and plunging for two first downs. A beautiful end run by Taylor for 40 yds. put it on the 10 yd. line. The ball was on the alumni 40 yd. line at the end of the first quarter. Early in the second quarter, Waggoner heaved a 25 yd. line pass to Danforth and put the ball on the alumni 27 yd. line. Coach Waggoner threw a beautiful 25 yd. pass to Taylor for the touchdown. Score 6 to 0. Waggoner place kicked the goal, score 7 to 0, in favor of the high school.

The alumni received at the west goal and carried the ball back to the 30 yd. line. Swafford, Kling, and Malpass did some very good line plunging making one first down and almost another to the 50 yd. line when a pass for about 30yds. Malpass to Kling getting the ball on the high school 20 yd. line, where Malpass made about 7 yds. through high school left tackle where they were held and forced to pass to Benson. The pass was incomplete, losing the alumni their best chance to score. The ball was booted back to center of the field where it remained until the half was over.

Early in the third quarter, after holding the alumni soon after the kick off, the high school circled the ends for two first downs a pass, brought the ball to the alumni 30 yd. line where, principally on Thomas's aggressive line plunging, the ball was first down on the alumni's 7 yd. line. Thomas was called again and carried the ball to the alumni 3 yd. line where a costly fumble no doubt saved the alumni another touchdown. Benson booted the ball down to the center of the field. The high school were held for downs and forward pass, and the alumni intercepted a pass from Thomas, and a few moments later Coach Waggoner intercepted a pass to the alumni and made 25 yds. along the side line, getting the ball dangerously near the alumni goal. The alumni goal. The alumni held for downs and booted the ball back out of danger.

Beginning the fourth quarter, the alumni intercepted another high school pass and Kling made first down on the first play, a plunge off tackle. In fact Kling up to this time was the alumni's best ground gainer. Walker was back in the game and made it very dangerous, along with a penalty, for the high school by circling ends, one for 14 yds. around the high school's left end. One for 19 yds. around the high school's right end, putting the ball on the high school 15 yd. line where they were held for downs and forced to make an incomplete pass. This was the last chance the alumni had of scoring. From this on it was largely in the high school's favor, carrying the ball for two or three downs, leaving it somewhere near the center of the field as the fourth quarter ended.

For the alumni, Malpass played his usual aggressive, steady game. Kling and Walker were the real ground gain-

Find Use For Old Farm Straw Stack

Use of Michigan's straw stacks as valuable sources of fertilizer is promised as a result of work being done by the soils men at the Michigan State College.

During a visit to the famous Rothamsted experiment station in England last summer, Dr. M. M. McCool, head of the college soils division, learned the methods of procedure followed in Europe and saw the materials which were being produced. That the results there were very satisfactory was shown by doubled yields of potatoes and other crops where the artificial "straw stack" manure was used. Fine results were also reported on truck crops.

That these old world practices may find a place in Michigan Agriculture is indicated by the work being done at East Lansing.

"The soils sections of the college is making use of straw stacks by adding water, fertilizer, and lime and permitting the stack to material to form valuable fertilizer," says Dr. McCool, in discussing the practice. "When ammonium sulphate, phosphates, and carbonate of lime are added to the straw and the mass moistened, fermentation takes place rapidly.

"If the work is done properly, the resulting mass is brownish-black and finely divided, and is ready to use within three or four months. It appears to be very promising for use by vegetable growers, florists, and as a substitute for other top dressing materials on golf courses."

An Appreciation

We wish to sincerely thank the kind friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness during the illness and death of our wife and mother. Also for the beautiful floral offerings.

Lansing—Work of the research department of the college of engineering of the Michigan State college was described by Dean George Blaisell of the college, at a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club here. He declared the college planned to make an analysis of the sand and gravel of the various townships of the state with a view to aiding in improving the dirt and gravelled roads of the state.

Lansing—Secretary of State Charles J. Deland will favor substituting a gasoline tax for all other automobile taxes if it is necessary for the state to demand five cents a gallon. "Relatively low cost of collecting a gasoline tax and minimum of inconvenience to the public are the principal and unrefuted arguments for establishing a gasoline tax as the sole basis for raising state highway funds," Deland said.

Marshall—The last gap in Michigan avenue, known as trunk road M-17, will be built next spring at Parma. This stretch has been held up to avoid crossing the Michigan Central and Michigan Electric railway lines. The state highway department has made plans to reroute the road through Parma by purchasing private property and placing a concrete viaduct to separate the steam and electric lines.

Ann Arbor—Jazz, joy rides, "petting" and too much social life were attacked as deterrents to education by Dr. Clarence Cook Little in his address after inauguration as president of the University of Michigan. Expulsion of students who do not apply themselves in study was hinted by Dr. Little when he said: "For a student to insist that these matters be continually forced upon a university is a just cause for his or her dismissal on the ground of unintelligence."

Grand Rapids—Building activity in Grand Rapids since January 1, represents an investment of $10,356,000, according to a report by Building Inspector Ralph E. Seeger. This is $2,100,000 in excess of the amount represented by the permits written in a similar period in 1924. Permits for 1,148 new houses, costing $4,800,000, have been written during the last 10 months, an increase of 329 houses and an increase of $1,523,000 in valuation over a corresponding period a year ago.

Greenville—After bickering over what should be done to remedy a critical situation in the city water supply here, the city council has voted to submit a bond issue of $16,000 to the voters at a special election to be held December 1 for the purpose of putting down additional wells or property recently acquired by the city. It is estimated, as the result of tests which have been made during the last few weeks, that the new wells will bring in a flow of 1,000 gallons of water a minute. Agitation for a water storage tower so far have not been taken into consideration in the proposed bond issue.

Kalamazoo—Ray Burgess, an employe of a local printing office, is under arrest charged with slander in connection with a printed attack upon the character of City Commissioner Clarence A. Bradford, candidate for re-election. The alleged slanderous statements were embodied in a circular distributed about the city. Burgess is said by officers to have admitted accepting copy for the circular and to have caused its publication. It contained statements of a sensational nature regarding actions of Bradford.

New Style Appeal in Children's Coats

STEPHANE LAUSANNE

There is something engaging about distinctive garments that reflect the styles for grownups, and it is emphasized in children's coats. Between the ages of six and sixteen, little maids revel in coats that feature flares, godets, fur trimmings and other details borrowed from the modes worn by their elders and prettily adapted to childish wearers. Besides, they have details of finishing and other style points peculiar to themselves.

Stephane Lausanne, one of the most famous editors and political writers in France, accompanied the French debt mission to Washington in order to obtain first-hand information on the negotiations. He is well known in the United States, as many of his political articles have appeared here.

One style point stressed in children's modes is the matching of hat and coat; that is, a hat of material like the coat, or of felt or velvet in the color of the coat, often has some adornment that repeats the coat's embellishment. New models in coats of velveteen or broadcloth are made warm as toasty by means of linings and interlinings and their usual finish is a fur collar. Such a coat—of broadcloth—is pictured above.

Lansing—Acting with blue sky law officers in every state in the union to stop fraudulent sales of Florida real estate, H. N. Duff, executive officer of the state securities commission, is withholding approval from wholesale batches of real estate licenses sought from the commission in the last 10 days. Duff plans to investigate all properties offered and to prohibit all promotions not approved by Florida "Better Business" agencies. He was emphatic in his warning to investors to refrain from buying unknown properties until the commission has had a chance to get its investigating machinery into working order.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Sub Rosa
This term literally means "under the rose." Because a secret plot to betray Greece to Persia, but which did not materialize, was planned in a house having a rose roof, it was afterward referred to as the plot "under the rose." Since then various customs, such as displaying roses in banquet halls, were interpreted as meaning that whatever was said during the evening should be forgotten, or at least kept secret.

Grand Rapids—A city's appearance typifies the character of its residents and Grand Rapids has a continuous and important duty of upholding its reputation as a beauty spot, according to A. E. Davidson, director of the department of public welfare. This city, said Director Davidson, is recognized as one of the most beautiful municipalities in the United States and the reason, he added, is because the minds of more than half its householders are concerned with improvement of the aesthetic appearance of their own homes and consequently the city.

Some merchants spend a dollar on advertising with the expectation of selling ten dollars worth of junk. The live merchants advertise regularly and have fresh goods to sell.

The Australian cruise cost the navy about $500,000 more than the ordinary base expenditure. As a source of creating good will for our country in Australia it was cheap at this price.

Education Week

Next week has been proclaimed as American Education Week by the President of the United States, scores of Governors, and hundreds of Mayors. This period is designed to promote public interest in the great business of education, upon which, it is generally agreed the future welfare of this country depends.

Considerable progress has been made in educational lines. Some of the high schools of today compare favorably with the colleges of a hundred years ago in respect to the subjects taught. Nevertheless, this past progress fades out in the picture of the present needs and future responsibilities. While it does not behoove us to believe that all things come with an education, it is a fact, nevertheless, that many more opportunities come within reach of the educated person than the uneducated one, regardless of whether these opportunities are of selfish purpose or of unselfish service.

A New Chain Scheme

The Clinton County Republican News published at Saint Johns, issued a warning last week against a chain system of selling women's hosiery that has recently infested that locality. It is the old scheme of something for nothing and in many instances have caught the unwary of guard. As the scheme is propounded there is certain to come a time when someone will be caught holding the sack, while there is also the possibility that those using the mails for furtherance of this scheme may be caught in the nest of Uncle Sam for violating the postal laws. The women of every community should investigate this scheme thoroughly before being caught in the enticing web that has been spun for the benefit of the promoters.

Time To Act

How much longer shall this nation be allowed to be at the mercy of either the coal miners or the mine owners? Because there has always been a desire to allow a man to labor or not, as he choose, or a man to manage his property as he saw fit so long as neither are violently opposed to public policy, strikes and their consequential economical losses have been permitted to flourish without government interference.

On the other hand, the refusal of either the miners or the owners to reach a rational and substantial agreement has led many to believe the time has come when steps should be taken to prevent this annual gouge of the American people. It is not a socialistic step to argue that this mulcting of the people shall cease. This nation is too big, its progress too necessary to our happiness and prosperity to further allow this ever recurring blow against our industrial growth and stability.

Barring Indecent Magazines

We observe that a county in the state of New Jersey has barred a dozen magazines from the news stands on account of their being obscene and indecent.

We think this is about due and deserves commendation generally. As a matter of fact, it will be well for every community to follow suit and prosecute news stands handling any number of disreputable, salacious and dirty purveyors of obscenity and filth. The present vogue of certain periodicals is to feature in a disgusting manner certain indecent experiences of social life. The readers of these objectionable periodicals include many boys and girls whose parents little suspect the immoral nature of the mental dynamite being stored in the youthful minds.

The present age, with its looseness as to conventional things, has enough to do without poisoning the minds of the coming generation. Some protection should be given to the inexperienced who do not have the constitutional balance to wisely select the quality of what they read.

The trouble with the numerous cuts in taxes is that they seem to miss the ultimate consumer.

European Liquor Interests Active In The U. S.

That the American anti-prohibition demonstration announced for Washington, D. C., January 15, will be engineered from Europe and finances for it will be provided chiefly by European distillers and brewers, is the belief of the World League Against Alcoholism. It will not be an actual American movement at all, the World League thinks. This statement is based on a declaration by Pussfoot Johnson, who is in Europe for the World League Against Alcoholism, which is as follows:

"Made desperate by the threats that the new American service for the elimination of Rum Row have made on European bootlegging enterprises, German brewery and distillery interests flanked by the liquor interests of Belgium, France and Czechoslovakia, are preparing to launch a far-reaching effort to break down and discredit American prohibition laws. This movement is being led by the International Verein zur Hebung der freien Alkoholerzeugung (International Society for the Liberty to Make Alcohol in every Country.)"

"This drive was launched on September 23, in a general meeting of the Society held in the parlors of the Weisses Schwan hotel at Lortmund, Germany, on the above date. At this meeting was a curious gathering of bootleggers, smugglers, distillers, brewers and many people of importance with a great thirst," Johnson says. "The meeting was presided over by Frederic Garnot, a wealthy distiller of Brussels and there preparations were made to 'carry the war into Africa' by launching an American anti-prohibition demonstration in the city of Washington, January 15, 1926. This Washington gathering will be held ostensibly under the direction of American organizations opposed to prohibition, but the real movement will be engineered from Europe and the finances will be provided chiefly by European distillers and brewers, it seems evident.

A finance committee is now at work gathering funds for this purpose. This committee is made up of Wilhelm Rosenkranz, Franz Braum and Wilhelm Kieseche of Berlin, but the liquor dealers of all of the central European countries will combine their funds for this great drive into the 'heart of the enemy's country,' America.

The leading brewery interest behind the scenes in this movement is centered around the Schultheiss Brewery concern of Berlin. Fritz Schuleiss, director of the concern and his nephew Otto, have engineered several bootlegging enterprises in America, some of which have come to grief recently. Otto has made frequent trips to America in these enterprises. Otto never gets farther than the Atlantic coast, though his real disposing agents are chiefly in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

His goods have been mostly landed along the Delaware Bay and thence sent to Minnesota. Otto is a foxy individual. While he speaks English, German and French fluently, while in America he speaks only English and pretends to know nothing of the German language.

"The Dortmund meeting is the fourth general gathering of the Internationaler Verein. In opening the meeting Chairman Garnot launched a protest against the dry laws of America and Iceland. He declared that these countries had forbidden the sale of liquor and were all the time talking about liberty when there was no liberty. In order to prove to the world that alcohol was not bad for human consumption, he would introduce to the gathering a medical man who knew all about it and who would explain what good stuff alcohol was. He then introduced the chief orator of the occasion, Medicinal-Rat Dr. Richard Jacobson said:

"You can depend on it that, on the 15th of January, 1926, at Washington when we will have our next meeting, I hope that I will have the pleasure of meeting you again and that the American people will be free. And for that reason, I raise my glass, and ask you to do the same and drink to the toast that the American people may be free."

"A resolution was passed unanimously declaring that 'it will be a shame if America does not enjoy its freedom in a short time,' and pledging aid to the Americans."

"Rome wasn't built in a day, and they didn't have unions either" observed the bricklayer's wife this morning as she rolled down to the town depot in her Packard to take the train on her way to spend the winter season on the Riviera.

W. C. T. U. Column THE WHITE RIBBON DOLLAR

An interesting meeting was held at the Library, Oct. 15, at which the following was read by Mrs. J. J. Sellar. Mrs. Sellar was elected delegate to the District Convention at Alba Oct. 21-22. Come out to the meeting Nov. 19 and hear the report of the Convention.

"The White Ribbon Dollar" was written by Mrs. August Burghard, of Macon, at the close of eleven years service as treasurer of the Georgia W. C. T. U. and published in the October, 1920 Bulletin.

It has been brought up-to-date and is again published by special request, as follows:

"I am the White Ribbon Dollar. I am the sine qua non of extensive W. C. T. U. operations.

"I oil the splendid W. C. T. U. machinery so that it runs constantly. I am the 'sinews of war' in great moral battles, and the world-wide war against alcohol, opium, ignorance and vice.

"I work For God and Home and Every land.

"I can only start on by benign mission by the W. C. T. U. treasury route. It is your duty as well as privilege to see that I reach the W. C. T. U. treasury.

"I have heard of White Ribbon Dollars eager to do temperance work, but lying helpless, idle, wasted, because somebody had shut them tight in a bag, or bank. Was that somebody you?"

"In the White Ribbon treasury I am baptized with prayer, consecrated to a high and holy cause, and sent forth to labor for the protection of the home, the abolition of the liquor traffic and the triumph of Christ's Golden Rule in custom and in law.

"I sow beside all waters. I am persistent—precept upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little, for I have a vision and an aim.

"I am busy agitating, educating and organizing, looking toward world prohibition of the trade in intoxicants.

"I create total abstinence sentiment. I create prohibition sentiment. I create law observance sentiment. I furnish information, then inspiration.

"I prepare, publish and distribute temperance periodicals, papers, books, leaflets, posters, etc.

"I untie the hands of general officers so that they can devote their time and talent to carrying forward the many lines of W. C. T. U. work.

"I send lecturers, organizers, evangelists, missionaries and members, to teach and to preach the gospel of the Golden Rule, and that each one's habits of life should be an example safe and beneficent for every other one to follow.

"I am a patriot and prove it as my every act tends toward making my country a safer, healthier, happier place.

"I build living monuments. My objective is health of body, power of mind and strength of soul—maximum human efficiency.

"I open doors of opportunity and enter.

"I have closed many doors of iniquity.

"I am happy to make the woman a member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union who pays me as dues and signs this pledge:

"I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled fermented and malt liquors, including wine, beer and cider, and to employ all proper means to secure the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution."

"When I am placed in the local treasury as dues I am divided so as to constitute local, county, state, national and world W. C. T. U. dues, also a year's subscription to The Georgia W. C. T. U. Bulletin. Can one dollar do more?"

"Ten thousand Georgia women MUST pay me as dues to reach the membership goal set for our state.

"I invite EVERY Christian woman to pay me as dues, for there is a place in the W. C. T. U. to fit every woman, no matter what her limitations or accomplishments may be.

"Of course I may be paid to treasurer as State Work Pledge and other important funds, but I am proudest to be dues—to be counted for a White Ribbon member.

"Through me the W. C. T. U. 'Do Everything Policy' is made possible, and departments maintained with superintendents in charge.

"I make liberal use of Uncle Sam's mail service, of railroads, steamboats, automobiles, telephones and telegraph. I establish Americanization and child-welfare centers, homes, hospitals, schools and missions.

"Because legal evasion was found to be as necessary as moral evasion I have helped out-law the liquor traffic in the United States.

"I worked early and late to place the Eighteenth Amendment in the Constitution of our great country, and am busy about its enforcement.

"I am helping to enroll the finest women in the nation, who pledge Allegiance to the Constitution, in the Capitol at Washington.

"I go into school-rooms all over the land, through the scientific temperance instruction laws for which I took the initiative, and teach the pupils what alcohol is and what it does, thus making intelligent total abstainers and prohibitionists.

"I go on missions of love, hope, mercy and cheer into jails, prisons and reformatories.

"I carry the temperance message, in some form to affairs, social meetings and mother's meetings.

"I believe in the use of the Bible in public schools as the recognized standard of morals.

"I endeavor to instill into the minds of youth a knowledge of the injurious effects of tobacco, opium and other narcotics.

"I call attention in the Sunday School to the principles of total abstinence for the individual and prohibition for the nations because of the 'Thus saith the Lord' revealed in the Bible.

"I teach the foreign-born mother to speak and read and write the English language, to understand and to obey the laws of the land of her adoption and its God.

"I go with flowers, delicacies and outings to the sick and shut-ins and with sympathy to the needy and with sympathy to the sorrowing.

"I teach mothers the proper care of their babies.

"I have saved multitudes of little children from humiliation and mistreatment.

"I have brought untold happiness to families.

"I have carried relief to the fatherless children of France, Belgium, Syria, Armenia and to others.

"Long, long before the world war I began to make comfort bags and do numberless kindness for sailors and soldiers.

"I strive for a better observance of the Sabbath. I have prevented Sunday baseball and movies and other 'desecrations' of the Lord's Day.

"I call attention to the interdependence of temperance and missions.

"I have a good deal to do with the scientific research which has resulted in the condemnation of alcohol as a medicine by leaders of the medical profession, until hospitals use very little, many none at all, and alcoholic liquor as a medicine has been stricken from all the pharmacopoeias of the world except Greece, and reputable physicians refuse to become substitutes for the saloon.

"I urge the paying of the tithe as the minimum basis of Christian giving.

"I teach the principles of Christ as they relate to Government and urge upon all women the necessity of participating in political campaigns and elections for sober, honest officials and the just administration of laws.

"Pay me, give me, send me, carry me—see that I am placed in the White Ribbon treasury where I belong, that I may 'increase the common joy'."

"I cannot function in your bag, no matter how beautifully beaded, embroidered or otherwise ornamented it may be.

"Be liberal, I have seen the W. C. T. U. change bills into blessings; gold into goodness, checks into cheer and silver into salvation.

"My work is not finished.

"I am needed.

"I am the White Ribbon Dollar."

SANTA APPROVES A CHRISTMAS GIFT

Santa Claus has been down a great many chimneys since he started business, and he is intimately acquainted with a large number of people. He knows that the best kind of gifts are those which please the whole family, and which bring the excitement and enjoyment of Christmas every week. That is why he looks so jolly when he receives hundreds of subscriptions to The Youth's Companion with which to fill his pack. And, being wise from long experience, he knows that people are likely to overdo things around Christmas, so he chuckles when he sticks a Companion into the top of a stocking. "Be as greedy as you like," he thinks, "the more, the better for you."

The 52 issues of The Youth's Companion for 1926 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts, and fun. Just send your order to the address below and Santa will take care of delivering the paper to your home or to the home of a friend. Subscribers will receive:

1. The Youth's Companion—52 issues in 1926, and
2. The remaining issues of 1925. All for only $2.00.
3. Or include McCall's Magazine, the monthly authority on fashions, both publications, only $2.50.

Green Peas and Rye Flavor Milk

Both Feeds May Be Given Dairy Cows After Milking With Little Effect.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When for any reason silage is unavailable as a succulent feed for dairy cows a common feeding practice is to apply the succulence with soiling crops. Many of these crops fed green to dairy cows impart a disagreeable or abnormal odor to the milk, depending to some extent on the amount consumed and the time that elapses between feeding and milking time.

Green Rye and Cowpeas.

Tests by the United States Department of Agriculture to determine the effect of feeding green rye and green cowpeas on the flavor and odor of milk have been made. These tests showed that when dairy cows consumed as much as 15 pounds of green rye one hour before milking only slightly abnormal flavors and odors were produced in the milk. Increasing the amount to 30 pounds, however, increased the abnormal flavors and odors to a slight extent, but not enough to be objectionable to the majority of consumers. Feeding as much as 30 pounds immediately after milking had practically no undesirable effect on the milk.

When green cowpeas were consumed in amounts of from 15 to 30 pounds an hour before milking there was a slight increase in the abnormal flavors and odors in the milk. A like amount immediately after milking, however, had but little effect on the milk.

Avoid Flavors and Odors.

While the abnormal odors and flavors produced by these two feeds were slight in both cases they were more pronounced in the case of green cowpeas than in that of rye. These experiments show that to avoid all disagreeable flavors and odors caused by the feeding of green rye or green cowpeas they should be consumed in amounts not exceeding 15 pounds if fed within an hour before milking. Both feeds may be consumed after milking with but little unfavorable effect.

Profitable to Hog Off Green Corn if Done Early

That green corn can be marketed profitably through lard or bacon hogs has repeatedly been shown by experiments at the North Dakota Agricultural college the past few years.

This method of fattening pigs has met with much opposition principally because the method of procedure in most cases has been wrong. A few years ago some eastern states argued against this system of feeding on the grounds that it produced hog cholera. It is now a well established fact that this is not true. The trouble as it existed at that time was due to pigs becoming sick by turning in on green corn without their being hardened in to its feeding gradually. In some cases cholera developed but was not due to the green corn. It got a foothold because the pigs were sick as a result of improper management.

Some breeders argue that it does not produce heavy gains. This is because green corn must be hogged off early and as a rule pigs do not weigh over 100 pounds at that time. It is a difficult problem, as most breeders know, to fatten 100-pound pigs. To successfully hog off green corn, pigs must be fattened early in March so that they weigh 155 to 175 pounds when turned in on the corn since it is a fattening feed as is matured corn.

Where flint varieties of corn have been used at the North Dakota Agricultural college, heavier gains have been realized by hogging off soft rather than to wait until it is matured. It seems that matured flint is hard to chew and the hogs do not consume sufficient to make heavy gains.

Layers Do Better With Well Furnished House

"For the comfort of the flock and the convenience of the caretaker the poultry house should be completely furnished," says N. E. Chapman, poultry specialist of Minnesota university. "Dropping boards and removable roosts are essential to health," he says. "One nest, easy of access, should be provided for every four hens. Hoppers for mash and minerals, manger and troughs for green feeds and molat mash are needed."

"Water tables or shelves, with sanitary pans or pails for water and crocks for milk should be provided. A broody coop and a dust box are needed at certain seasons of the year. Burlap curtains before the roost chamber may be required in some sections of the state. "Proper furnishings for the poultry house will save on the labor bill which, in instances, is about as large as the feed bill."

Wet or Dry Mash

The merits of wetting all or a portion of the feed for chicks, as compared with feeding all of it dry, is a question upon which all poultrymen do not agree. The practice of the majority of poultrymen points to the increased use of dry feed. One of the big advantages of dry-mash feeding is the fact that it may be hopped. Aside from lessening the amount of labor, there is the additional advantage of avoiding mopping.

Home

Boys and girls away at school or out in the world making their own way, surely will appreciate an occasional telephone call from Mother or Dad, telling all the home news. And of course Mother and Dad will appreciate hearing the voices of the absent loved ones.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Oliver October Baxter, Jr., was born on a wild October day. His parents were prominent in the commercial, social and spiritual life of the town of Rumley. His father was proprietor of the hardware store. The night that Oliver October was born a gypsy queen reads his father's fortune and tells him what a wonderful future his son has before him, but after the reading, the gypsy becomes angry and leaves the house in a rage after telling Mr. Baxter that his son will never reach the age of thirty, that he will be hanged for a crime of which he is not guilty.

CHAPTER II.—Ten years elapse and Oliver's father is the owner of a business block in the town. Mrs. Baxter died when Oliver was nearing seven. Josephine Sage, wife of the minister, causes a sensation when she leaves Rumley to go on the stage. She becomes a "star" and later goes to London, where she scores a hit. Her daughter Jane and young Oliver become greatly attached to one another. After finishing college, young Oliver accepts a position in Chicago with an engineering company. He goes to China on an important mission for his firm. Upon his return he enlists in the Canadian army.

CHAPTER III.—The war over Oliver returns to Chicago and is told by his employers that his services are no longer required. He returns home. He hears Jane is in love with Doctor Lansing. Jane and Oliver meet again. Oliver is reprimanded by his father for not getting another position. Oliver threatens to leave home.

CHAPTER IV

A Mysterious Disappearance
Shortly before 8 o'clock on the afternoon of June 28, the day before Oliver October was to leave for Chicago and a new position, old Oliver Baxter stepped into the bank at the corner of Clay and Pershing streets and drew out $3,500 in currency. He gave no reason to the teller or to the cashier for the withdrawal of so large an amount in cash.

Oliver October, 10 or 15 minutes late for supper that evening, found his father in a surprisingly amiable frame of mind, but Mr. Baxter's good humor did not endure. He revived a dispute they had had in the store earlier in the day. The old man had that day offered him an interest in the business if he would remain in Rumley. Oliver was grateful, but he declined the offer, saying he had a profession in which he wanted to make good.

Mr. Baxter's reversion to the subject came when Oliver, looking at his watch, announced that he must be running along, as he was due over at the Sages to say good-by to Jane and her father.

"Well, I'll walk part of the way with you," said his father crossly. "I'd like to see if I can't coax you to change your mind about coming into the store. If you don't mind, we'll take the lower road along the swamp. It's a short cut for you—saves you a quarter of a mile or more."

A few minutes before 9 o'clock Oliver October appeared at the home of Rev. Mr. Sage, somewhat out of breath and visibly agitated.

"I'm awfully sorry to be so late," he apologized. "Father and I had a long and trying confab and I—I couldn't get away. God knows I hate to say it, but I'm glad I'm going tomorrow."

"No, you shouldn't say it, Oliver," said Mr. Sage. "Poor man, he is really not responsible these days. You see, Oliver, for nearly 30 years he has lived in dread of—well, of the absurd thing that gypsy woman said."

"And that is why he wants me to stay here, so that he can watch over and protect me?"

"Exactly."

"If I really believed that to be the case, Uncle Herbert, I—I would stay."

Jane, who had been silent during the brief colloquy between her father and Oliver, was studying the young man's

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache, no hacking, sniffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly. It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

face intently. She was puzzled by his manner and by his expression.

"I came over by the back road, along the swamp," he explained, catching her in the act of starting at his muddy shoes. "Father walked part of the way with me. Gee, what a panning he gave me! It was terrible, Mr. Sage. I saw red. I—I had to run—I couldn't stand it. G—d, how miserable I am!"

Jane and her father listened, speechless, and presently Mr. Sage arose and went into the house.

The clock on the town hall struck 12 before Oliver reluctantly bade Jane good-night and started homeward. On his way home, through the heart of town, he passed the rather pretentious house in which the Lansings lived. There were people on the broad veranda. He longed for the companionship of friends—merry friends. He turned in at the stone gate and walked swiftly up to the house.

"Hello, Ollie," called out Sammy Parr.

Young Lansing came to the top of the steps to greet him.

"I've been up saying good-by to Mr. Sage and Jane. And the funny part of it is that I may not go away tomorrow after all," said Oliver. "The Sages think I ought not to leave my father." He spoke in lowered tones, for Lansing's ear alone.

"I quite agree with them," said the other stiffly.

"Have a highball, Baxter?" called Sammy.

"Not tonight, thanks. I've got to be running along. Father may be waiting up for me. Night, everybody."

And he was off. The group watched him stride swiftly down the cement walk. Sammy was the first to speak. "Well, I call that sociability, don't you? What the dickens is the matter with him? First time I've ever seen Ollie Baxter with a grouch."

Early the next morning, Serepta Grimes called Joseph Sikes on the telephone.

"Did Oliver Baxter stay all night with you?" she inquired. "I mean old Oliver."

"No."

"Have you seen anything of him this morning?"

"No. What's the matter, Serepta?"

"Well, he didn't sleep here last night, and there ain't a sign of him around the place. I—I guess maybe you'd better come up, Joe."

"No. What's the matter, Serepta?"

The long and the short of it was, Oliver Baxter had vanished as completely as if swallowed by the earth—and it was the general opinion that that was exactly what happened to him. There was not the slightest doubt in the minds of his horrified friends that he had wandered out upon the swamp and had met a ghastly fate in one of the countless pits of mire whose depths no man knew or cared to fathom even in speculation.

Notwithstanding the almost universal belief that poor old Oliver Baxter was buried in the black mire of the swamp a state-wide search was at once instituted by his distracted son, who, for one, did not believe that the missing man had gone to his death in the loathsome tract.

The bank's prompt announcement that Mr. Baxter had withdrawn thirty-five hundred dollars convinced Oliver October and a few sound-headed individuals that he had deliberately planned his departure from Rumley.

No one could be found who saw him after he took leave of his son on the swamp road. Oliver October related all that transpired between them on that moonlit byway. He did not spare himself in the recital. No one blamed him, however.

An inspection of Mr. Baxter's closet the following morning led to a puzzling discovery. A comparatively new suit of dark gray material—rather too heavy for summer wear—was missing, while the wrinkled, well-worn garments that he wore daily at the store were found hanging in the closet.

The excitement in Rumley was intense. The Baxter home became a magnet that drew practically the entire population of the town to that section, and there was not an hour of the day that did not see scores of people trudging through the safer portions of the swamp or tramping along the uplands that bordered it.

Detectives from Chicago, brought down by Oliver October, agreed with the young man that his father had "skipped out," to use the expression of Michael O'Rourke. It was Mr. O'Rourke who advanced the theory that the old man had taken this amazing means of forcing his son to remain in Rumley.

"Why," said he, "it's as plain as the nose on your face. He is dead set on having you stick to this town. You say 'nix.' Well, what's the smartest thing he can do? The only way to make you stay in this town is for him to leave it. He sneaks off without letting anybody know where he's going. Why does he do that? If you or anybody else knew where he was you'd have him back here in no time, and all his trouble for nothing. He thought it all out before hand. Now he has his own way. You've got to stay here until he gets good and ready to come back. Somebody's got to be in charge of his affairs. There is a chance, of course, that he wandered out in the swamp, but I don't believe it. If you want us to go ahead and rake the country for him, we'll do it."

"I want to find him," said Oliver, grimly. "You may be right in your surmise—I hope you are. But just the same, I don't intend to leave a stone unturned. Mr. O'Rourke."

But the days ran into weeks and the weeks into months, with the mystery no nearer solution than in the beginning—no word, no sign from the old man who had vanished, no clue that led to anything save disappointment. There was something grim, uncanny about the silence of old man Baxter—it was indeed the silence of the dead. "He might as well be dead," was a remark that became common in Rumley whenever his case was discussed. Strangely enough, no one now believed him to be dead. Everybody agreed with the detective that the cantankerous old man had "skipped out" with the sole idea of frustrating his son's plan to return to Chicago.

Oliver October took charge of the store and, as self-appointed manager, conducted the business to the best of his ability. There was nothing in the young man's manner to indicate that he rebelled against the turn in his affairs. On the contrary, he took hold with an enthusiasm that left nothing to be desired by those who at first shook their heads dubiously over the situation.

"I am to blame for all this," he protested firmly. "If my father is dead, I am accountable for his death. Whatever his present condition may be, I am responsible for it. Don't put all the blame on that gypsy fortune-teller. I should have realized the state of mind he was in and I should have given up everything else in the world to help him weather the next year or so of doubt and distress."

The winter wore away, spring came and quickly melted into summer; the first anniversary of the unexplained disappearance of Oliver Baxter passed. Three months remained of the last year allotted to Oliver October by the gypsy "queen" on that wild, shrieking night in '90. But by this time practically everybody in Rumley was counting the days and jokingly reminding Oliver that his chances got better every day!

"I see by the paper this evening that your Uncle Horace has announced himself as a candidate for state senator," said Mr. Sage one evening as he sat enjoying his customary half hour on Sage's porch with Jane and Oliver. "Well, I know one vote he will not get," said Oliver, "even if he is my uncle."

"I know of another," said the minister dryly. "Why, daddy, I am really beginning to take quite a fancy to you," cried Jane delightedly. "Only last week you said he ought to be tarred and feathered for turning those two old Bannister women out of their house over at Pleasant Ridge."

"But he didn't turn them out," said Oliver quickly. "Somebody came along at the last minute and lent them the money to redeem their little house and farm."

"You don't really mean it, Oliver?" cried Mr. Sage. "That is good news—splendid news."

"I hate that old Gooch man," cried Jane.

"Jane, my dear, you really are becoming quite a vixen," remonstrated her father.

An automobile came to a sudden stop in front of the house, and an agile young man leaped out, leaving his engine running. He came up the walk with long strides.

"Say, Oliver, you old skate, I've been looking all over town for you," shouted Sammy Parr. "This isn't your night to call on Jane—don't you know that? Good evening, Jane. Evening, Mr. Sage. Say, the Bannisters told me all about you, you blamed old skate—I mean Ollie, not you, Mr. Sage. Gee whiz, Ollie you certainly did throw the hooks into Uncle Horace this time, didn't you? You certainly—"

"Shut up!" growled Oliver, scowling fiercely at the excited Sammy.

"What on earth are you talking about, Sammy?" cried Jane.

"Out with it, Sammy, out with it," counseled Mr. Sage, coming down the steps.

"Well, what do you think, Mr. Sage—what do you think? Why, this chump here is the guy that lent Mrs. Bannister the money to redeem her house."

"Oh, Oliver!" cried Jane. "Did you really do it? I could squeeze you to death for it. And you never told me you never breathed a word—"

"It was only about a thousand dollars," mumbled Oliver.

"Sure it was," agreed Sam cheerfully. "But right there and then the destiny of the great American nation was shaped along new lines. The words were no sooner out of the mouth of old Mrs. Bannister when the boom was born! Yes, sir, at that very moment—"

"Oh, for the Lord's sake, Sammy, slow down! What the dickens are you driving at, anyhow? Boom? What boom?"

"Your boom, you idiot! The boom's been started for you as candidate for state senator against old man Gooch."

"Why, you darned chump," roared Oliver, "I'm not going to run for state senator or anything else. You must be crazy. I'll head it off tomorrow. I'll telephone—"

"Won't do you a darned bit of good," cried Sammy exultingly. "They'll nominate you, anyhow. Why, you're the only man in this county that would stand a ghost of a show, Ollie. And the best of all—popular nephew running against Shylock uncle! Gee whiz! I'm going down to see Al Wilson at the Despatch office. Put him wise and warn him not to let a word of it leak out in the paper till he gets the word. Night, Mr. Sage—so long, Jane."

"Wait a minute!" called out Oliver, springing to his feet as Sammy started down the walk.

"Nix!" shouted Sammy over his shoulder.

The three of them watched him in silence as he leaped into his car and began his swift, reckless turn in the narrow street.

"What are you going to do about it?" inquired the minister, the first to speak.

Jane did not give Oliver a chance to reply.

"Do about it?" she cried. "Why, he's going to run against old Gooch and beat the life out of him!"

Oliver looked up at her. She stood at the top of the steps, the light from the open door falling athwart her radiant face, half in shadow, half in the warm, soft glow. Suddenly his heart began to pound—heavy, smothering blows against his ribs that had the effect of making him dizzy, as with vertigo. He continued to stare, possessed of a strange wonder, as she turned to her tall, gray-haired parent and laid both hands on his shoulders.

"I wish I could say 'gee whiz' as Sammy says it," she cried. "I feel all over just like one great big 'gee whiz.' Don't you, daddy?"

The man of God took his daughter's firm, round chin between his thumb and forefinger and shook it lovingly. "One 'gee whiz' in the family is enough," said he. "I am glad you feel like one, however. You take me back 25 years, my dear. Your mother used to say 'gee whiz' when she felt like it. It is, after all, a rather harmless way of exploding."

Presently he left them and Jane spoke softly.

"Did you notice, Oliver, that he spoke of mother a little while ago? It was the first time in years. I wonder if I remind him of her in lots of ways."

Oliver's thoughts leaped backward a score of years and more. "I used to think she was the most wonderful person in all the world," he said. "I was very desperately in love with your mother when I was six or seven, Jane." He hesitated and then went on clumsily, almost fatuously: "I am beginning to think that you are like her in a lot of ways."

She gave him a quick, startled look. His face was turned away, and so he did not see the tender, wistful little smile that flickered on her lips, nor was he aware of the long, deep breath she took. From that moment a queer, uneasy restraint fell upon them. There were long silences, dreamy on her part, moody, on his. He left shortly after 10; his "good-night" was strangely gruff and unnatural.

He was jealous. He knew it for a fact, he confessed it to himself for the first time openly and unreservedly. He was jealous of young Lansing. There was no use trying to deny it. He did not go so far as to think of himself as being in love with Jane—that would be ridiculous, after all these years they had known each other—but he bitterly resented the thought that she might be in love with some one else. Especially with the superior, supercilious, cocksure Lansing!

What My Neighbor Says

Is of Interest to East Jordan Folks.

When one has had the misfortune to suffer from backache, headaches, dizziness, urinary disorders and other kidney ills—and has found relief from all this sickness and suffering, that person's advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following case is only one of many thousands, but it is that of an East Jordan resident. Who could ask for a better example?

Mrs. Maurice Gorman says: "My back was so weak and lame I found it hard to go on with my work. I often felt depressed and irritable, too. Dizzy spells came over me, and black spots floated before my eyes. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. Three boxes of Doan's Pills rid me of the trouble." (Statement given April 23, 1920.)

On Oct. 11, 1924, Mrs. Gorman said: "I never had any sign of kidney trouble since Doan's Pills cured me."

STABILITY

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

THEY were tearing down the old stone mill when I last visited the village near which I lived when I was a boy and putting up a brick garage upon its former site. They are nothing if not up to date in that town. The next time I go there I shall probably find that they are constructing apartment houses, though there is no lack of available land upon which to build.

The old mill was built a long time ago, or at least so it seemed to me, for it looked weather beaten when I was a boy and that is longer ago than yesterday. It must have dated back to 1850 at least, and that is almost as remote as the Stone age in middle west building.

"The old thing should have been taken down twenty-five years ago," I heard one of the boys of the town saying. "Isn't it wonderful how long some of these buildings will stand?"

"We've got to have a new house before many years," I heard some college fraternity boys saying not long ago. "This old shack in which we are living won't be any good very much longer. Why, the house must be at least twenty-five years old."

It was, indeed, almost that old and it was of brick and stone, quite substantially built, and with proper care should have done service for a century or two.

We do some things very well in our country which is, of course, the greatest country in the world, but in few instances do we build with the idea of stability and permanency. If a house or a business block is fifty years old we usually look upon it as a back number, an architectural antique which should either go into a museum or be torn down and replaced by something more modern and of a newer type of architecture.

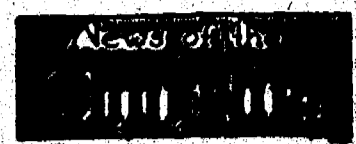

The farmhouse in which I lived the first time I was in England had been built more than two hundred years, and it was as solid and well kept as if it had been put up twenty years ago.

The aqueduct at Segovia was built by Augustus Caesar, built without mortar, too, and rises in some places to a height of ninety feet, and it is doing business today as it did then and seems likely to be good for a thousand years more.

There are parts of the Abbey of Mont Saint Michel that look as solid and as substantial as when they were built more than a thousand years ago.

I have seen buildings constructed before Columbus discovered America that look better, are better designed, and are in better repair than others in our American cities that were erected in 1803, and the difference does not lie in the materials used.

Perhaps the reason lies in the fact that we build for today to satisfy a present need; we build hastily and without a sufficiently well-considered plan, and so there is little permanency or stability in our buildings. (© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Hill Seeks a Toga

Representative John Phillip Hill of Baltimore has filed his certificate of candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States senator from Maryland to succeed Senator O. E. Weller. Hill, who is an avowed "wet," has had a picturesque career because of his defiance of the prohibition unit in the manufacture of cider which he allowed to ferment. He is an attorney, formerly a member of the faculty of Harvard and Johns Hopkins, and served with the American forces in France.

Greenville—All the farmer wants is a square deal in legislation, in business, in marketing, in fixing a fair return upon the products of his labor and in enjoying the same standards of living as his city cousins, Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, declared here at the farmers' banquet opening the first annual West Michigan Potato Show.

Grand Rapids—The sixty-ninth congress will be the dryest of all, United States Representative John C. Ketchem, of Hastings, declared in an address here while discussing the prohibition act. There is no possibility that the Volstead act will be modified or that the prohibition amendment will be repealed, he contended. Efforts in that direction are futile.

Flint—A program of public works, including pavements, sewers, sidewalks and water mains, for a period of five years in advance, has been laid before the city's finance board and the council by the mayor. The program would provide more uniform development and put the city on a pay-as-you-go basis instead of issuing bonds frequently, the mayor said.

What else has the old fashioned man saved who used to spend his time saving coupons.

Founded on Security Built by Service

The All Important Thing

After you have worked years to accumulate a sum of money, it is not a high rate of interest you are after but safety.

The all important thing is to know that you can have your money—every dollar of it—the minute you need it.

It is because of the absolute safety offered by this bank that so many people deposit here their accumulated savings of a life-time.

You too will like the service and safety found here.

Machinery in History

Civilization and progress are closely allied with the increased application of power, but engineers are inclined to believe that the prehistoric builders were not without mechanical devices. It seems almost impossible that those massive blocks of stone which face the pyramids could have been placed entirely by hand.

Liberal Mr. Total

The missionary meeting was over and the various amounts contributed by the members of the church had been, as usual, one of the most popular features. On the way home little Jane said to her mother: "What a kind man Mr. Total must be. He gave ever so much more than anybody else!"

I. J. WALKER ELECTED MAYOR OF NEW YORK

Tammany Candidate's Plurality Over Waterman Put at 400,000.

New York.—Gov. Al. Smith and Tammany Hall won a big victory when the Democratic candidate for mayor of New York City, State Senator Jimmy Walker, was elected by an overwhelming vote and virtually the entire city government passed into Tammany control.

Walker won by a large majority over the combined vote of all opponents and by a plurality over the Republican candidate, Frank D. Waterman, the millionaire fountain pen manufacturer, exceeding 400,000.

To complete the triumph of Smith, the state voted in favor of all of the four proposed amendments to the constitution which the governor advocated.

The Republicans retain control of the state legislature, but in New York City few Republican candidates survived the Democratic landslide. Most prominent of these few is Mrs. John F. Pratt, silk stocking candidate for alderman in a Fifth avenue district. Mrs. Pratt, who is the daughter-in-law of a Standard Oil magnate, defeated the son of former United States Senator James A. O'Gorman by a plurality of 2,900. She will be the first woman to sit in the board of aldermen.

With Walker, there were swept into office the entire Democratic city ticket and the Democratic borough and judicial tickets.

District Attorney Joab Banton of New York county, Democrat, defeated former Gov. Charles S. Whitman, whom Republicans nominated for the office of public prosecutor, which he once held and in which he made the reputation that sent him to the executive mansion in Albany a decade ago.

G. O. P. Wins Municipal Elections in Indiana

Indianapolis.—Republicans won sweeping victories in municipal elections in Indiana at the climax of a campaign regarded as a trial heat for state elections next year at which two United States senators will be chosen.

Their candidates for mayor were successful in Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Lafayette, Crawfordsville, Peru, Elkhart, Frankfort and Jeffersonville, and in all of these cities but Indianapolis the Republican victory ousted Democratic administrations which have governed the city for four years.

In Indianapolis John R. Duvall, Republican, won the mayoralty which will be vacated by Mayor Lew Shank, but his margin of victory was a bare seven or eight thousand votes over Walter Myers, Democrat.

Wet Democrat Elected Governor of New Jersey

Trenton, N. J.—Commissioner A. Harry Moore of Jersey City, Democratic and wet, defeated State Senator Arthur Whitney of Mendham, Republican and dry, for governor of New Jersey by a plurality that may exceed 80,000.

The successful candidate waged his campaign chiefly on the prohibition issue, urging the repeal of the Volstead law and the New Jersey state prohibition enforcement law.

Commissioner Moore announced that immediately after his inauguration as governor he would begin a movement to have congress modify the Volstead law so as to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beers.

Chile O. K.'s Pershing Terms on Tacna-Arica

Santiago, Chile.—An official communication issued at the foreign minister's office says that Chile has accepted the motion made by Gen. John J. Pershing regarding guarantees for the holding of the plebiscite on President Coolidge's Tacna-Arica award. The object of the guarantees is to insure a fair plebiscite. They include the removal of several officials, suppression of censorship, reduction of the number of troops in the provinces of Tacna and Arica, and removal of restrictions for entering and traveling within the plebiscite zone.

Three Soldiers Killed While Flying in Hawaii

Honolulu.—Three enlisted men were killed when an airplane crashed. Their names follow: Technical Sergeant Aaron Porter, Henrietta, Okla.; Staff Sergeant Henry McCracken, Wilmington, Del.; Private Fred Smith, Graham, Va. The airplane spun at an elevation of 1,000 feet and nose-dived into a group of trees on the peninsula opposite the naval hospital at Pearl Harbor.

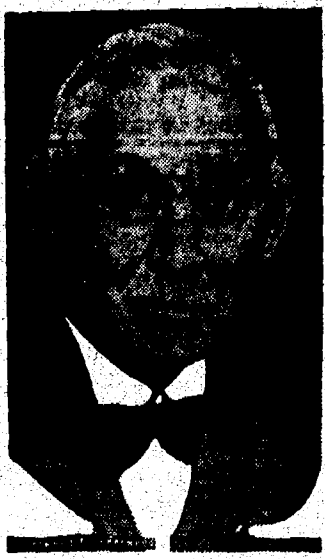

Cross-Country Air Record

San Antonio, Texas.—Lieut. R. J. Williams of Kelly field set a new cross-country airplane speed record, when he flew the 205 miles between San Antonio and Dallas in eighty minutes.

Taxes Christmas Trees

Ottawa.—Christmas trees entering the United States from Canada this year will pay a 10 per cent tax. They were admitted free last year as rough goods.

FOUGHT THE ALABAMA

John Young of Washington, sole survivor of the historic naval battle between the U. S. S. Kearsarge and the Confederate ship Alabama off the French coast in 1864, has just celebrated his eighty-second birthday. He was one of the three men on board the Kearsarge wounded during the engagement but is still hale and hearty despite his years.

MUSSOLINI HALTS MOB SEEKING VENGEANCE

Three Held in Plot to Assassinate Premier.

Rome.—Premier Mussolini, who had a narrow escape from assassination, subdued a vast crowd of his followers who were determined on summary vengeance.

"You must obey. I wish it!" cried the premier when there were insistent shouts for revenge.

And the crowd, which gave Mussolini the greatest demonstration in his career, became quiet.

Following the discovery of a plot to slay the premier on the day which Italy was joining in the celebration of the allied victory in the World War, it became known that the police had arrested Tito Zaniboni, former Socialist deputy; Gen. Luigi Capello, a Mason, and Giuseppe Quaglia, former secretary to Zaniboni and now editor of Popolo, organ of Don Sturzo, leader of the Catholic Democratic party. The latter is known as one of the bitterest foes of Fascism.

The newspaper organs of the anti-Fascist bloc have been suppressed and all Masonic lodges have been sealed until further orders. Other important arrests are expected soon.

Efforts to place responsibility for the plot on the Masons failed when it was learned that the attempt was the outgrowth of a secret meeting of Socialists, Catholic Democrats, Garibaldians and Masons all in a bloc opposing Mussolini.

The police declare that Zaniboni had selected a room on the level with the balcony from which the premier would speak. The police followed Zaniboni and when they seized him they said they found in his possession a sharp-shooter rifle.

French Franc Is Lowest Since Big Break in 1924

New York.—Pounded down by the efforts of Frenchmen to convert their wealth into reliable currencies, the French franc sold for 3.98½ cents, which brought it slightly below the value of the Italian lira and to the lowest point it has touched since speculators drove it to 3.39 cents in March, 1924.

The bulk of the selling of francs, which is taking place in Paris and London rather than New York, comes from French interests distrustful of the franc's future.

Dr. S. Dickie, President Emeritus of Albion, Dies

Albion, Mich.—Dr. Samuel Dickie, president emeritus and connected for almost a half century with Albion college, died suddenly at his East Erie street home here. No person has had a larger part in shaping the destinies of Albion college than Doctor Dickie. In 1888 he became the national chairman of the Prohibition party and served in that capacity for 12 years during which he stumped the country for the dry cause.

Lawyer Must Pay 6 Cents to the House of David

Chicago.—By direction of Judge C. E. White a jury in the Circuit court at Benton Harbor, Mich., returned a verdict of 6 cents in the suit of the House of David against Attorney Jerome Robbins of Chicago. The plaintiffs sued for $100,000, alleging that the attorney blackmailed them.

New Zealand Dries Beaten

Wellington, N. Z.—Prohibition is becoming more unpopular in New Zealand. In the referendum on the question the Prohibitionists have been defeated by 29,000 votes, a majority 11,000 greater than that of 1922.

U. S. Diplomat Weds

Paris.—Hoffman Philip of Claverack, N. Y., United States minister to Persia, was married to Miss Josephine Roberts, daughter of Eugene C. Roberts of Buffalo, N. Y., in Paris.

TAX CUTS WILL TAKE MILLION OFF ROLLS

House Body Approves of Increased Personal Exemptions From Income Tax.

Washington.—Increased personal exemptions from income tax were approved by the house ways and means committee. A sweeping reduction in rates also was agreed upon. The exemption increase will remove 1,000,000 persons from the tax rolls, it is estimated.

The present $1,000 exemption for single persons was increased to $1,500 and the $2,500 exemption for heads of families was raised to $3,500.

The 400 exemption for dependents remains the same, but the age limit was lifted from eighteen to twenty-one when the children are still in school.

The committee, acting in executive session, also approved a reduction in the maximum surtax rate from 40 to 20 per cent, as recommended by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, and cut normal rates. The 20 per cent surtax will apply on income above $100,000, with the lower brackets still to be worked out.

The new normal tax rates, as approved by the committee, are 1½ per cent on the first $4,000 of net income, instead of 2 per cent, as it present; 8 per cent on the next $4,000, instead of 4 per cent as at present, and 5 per cent on amounts about $8,000 in place of the existing 6 per cent.

Instead of repealing the present 25 per cent credit on earned income, as had been contemplated in the treasury suggestion for a reduction of the lowest normal tax to 1 per cent, the committee voted to retain it.

The committee agreed tentatively to limit the aggregate tax reduction to approximately $300,000,000, which was the maximum suggested by Secretary Mellon.

It is believed that the committee will favor repeal of the taxes on automobile trucks and on tires and accessories, involving a loss of $35,000,000 in revenue.

Two Florida Land Firms Are Charged With Fraud

Chicago.—Two Florida land development schemes in which Chicagoans are said to have invested were attacked from different angles by dissatisfied purchasers. Fraud and misrepresentation were charged against officials of both companies.

Promoters of Gardendale, a 77,000-acre tract in De Soto county, Florida, were made defendants in a suit filed in the Circuit court by Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Bradford, 19 South Central avenue. The Bradfords bought 50 lots in Gardendale for $1,000, they charged, and then found that the land was unfit to live on and many miles from civilization, contrary to advertisements.

At the same time United States deputy marshals began seeking five of the principals in the Florida Lloyds organization and the International Lloyds on warrants charging use of the mails to defraud by the sale of lots near Gainesville, Fla. Federal action was taken following complaints by purchasers of the land.

Olcott, Seriously Ill, Moves to "Lucky House"

New York.—Chauncey Olcott, desperately ill, is coming back to his "Lucky house," bought by his devoted wife, Rita, who clings to the hope that in that house, 17 Sutton place, her husband's life may be saved.

Mrs. Olcott wired friends in this city from Ann Arbor:

"He is very ill, indeed, and the doctors say there is no hope, but I shall start back home with him as soon as possible and take him to the lucky house, where, God willing, he will recover."

Wine on King Tut's Coffin Gives Workers Hard Task

Cairo, Egypt.—Careless priests spilled funeral libations in King Tut Ankh-Amen's tomb, leaving a glutinous deposit, and the 35 centuries of interment makes it a difficult task for workers to extricate the successive sarcophagi and coffins, which, originally close fitting, are now tightly stuck together by the layer of congealed wine. The final step is so likely to be undertaken for weeks.

Plenty of Turkeys for Thanksgiving This Year

Washington.—There will be plenty of turkeys for Thanksgiving, the Department of Agriculture said, reporting the crop only 4 per cent smaller than last year. Increased production was reported in all states except Texas, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma and California, with the crop in most sections hatched earlier than usual.

Army and Navy Cut Personnel

Washington.—Curtailments of personnel because of "lack of funds" were announced by both the army and navy. The navy cuts its strength from 84,289 to 81,700 and the army is eliminating various motor units.

Fort Dodge Cars Quit

Fort Dodge, Iowa.—Failure to meet operating expenses, which have increased each year while earnings have decreased, has resulted in an order to abandon street car service.

EFF-An-DEE VARIETY
EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN

Fraudulent Advertising

Mr. Robert S. Regar, an assistant post master general, in a recent speech before the National Direct Selling Conference, uttered a warning against unscrupulous advertising and solicitation of business by mail that misled the public. He said that complaints to the Post Office department occasionally developed evidence indicating "fraudulent use of the mails." He stressed the fact that solicitations by mail and verbal statements of salesmen may be equally as objectionable as published advertisements along the same line.

This is timely in a day when practically every citizen is receiving countless offers of mail order "bargains." The out of town firms can freely indulge in what is known to the trade as "puffing" and adroit writers can dexterously feel their words so as to impress a weak upon the unsophisticated mind without saying so in certain words. This is quite an advantage over the local merchants who advertise their goods. Our merchants have to be careful because they know that each customer can come into the store and inspect the articles advertised. The purchaser at the local stores does not depend upon a written statement as to what the article is because a visit to the store makes easy an inspection.

A pair of silk hose in the hands of a doorbell ringer never look as pretty as the kind sold by the home merchant we see every day on the avenue.

Most of us folks wouldn't mind a job where they allow you half the time off to investigate what you did during the other half.

You may dream of success, but it takes wide-awake efforts to achieve it.

When science reaches the point where it can tell what kind of a fly is in our ointment we'll begin to believe that at last civilization is beginning to get somewhere.

It is a poor form of religion that damns every other kind.
